Proration Umpire Raises Allowable Production

TEN THOUSAND BARRELS MORE NOW SPECIFIED

New Schedule For Panhandle Is Released

Allowable production for the Panhandle district during the 15-day period beginning Oct. 1 was increased 10,000 barrels over the outlet for the preceding two weeks, according to the new proration schedule which was released this morning by H. J. Corcoran, proration umpire. The 1944 wells in the six Panhandle oil-producing counties will be allowed to produce 79,888 barrels.

Allowable production for Gray county's 685 wells will be 22,069 barrels, an increase of approximately 9,000 barrels. The new order went into effect today. Total potential production for the Panhandle is 126,732 barrels. Total proration production was 91,834 barrels, while 34,898 barrels were exempt.

Curtailments for the ensuing period were made on a basis of 45 per cent of the proratable production, as compared with 56 per cent of the last fortnight. Thus, the 891 wells in the Panhandle producing over 25 barrels of oil will be allowed to flow 51 per cent of their proratable production, as compared with 41 per cent of the preceding period.

Potential production of Gray county was set at 80,853 barrels, an increase of almost 7,000 barrels in the last two weeks. Total number of wells on leases under a 25-barrel average is 200. Their production is 2,977 barrels. There are 405 wells on leases with over a 20-barrel average. Total production of these wells is 87,076 barrels. Exempt oil on leases averaging over 25 barrels is 12,558 barrels. The proratable production for Gray county is 74,419 barrels.

Allowable production and proratable production respectively of the various counties follow:

Carson—7,948 barrels, 6,581 barrels; Gray—22,069 barrels, 14,419 barrels; Hutchinson—18,497 barrels, 10,774 barrels; Moore—847 barrels, 716 barrels; Wheeler—935 barrels, 231 barrels.

The schedule shows that 1,053 wells in the Panhandle are averaging less than 25 barrels each per day, and producing a total of 12,558 barrels. A total of 119 wells, each averaging more than 25 barrels daily, have a potential production of 114,120 barrels. Since the first 25 barrels in such wells are not subject to proration, the total amount of exempt oil was 22,948 barrels.

The number of tests for potential that will be taken for the next period will be somewhat reduced. These will be taken, beginning Oct. 6 and will be completed by Oct. 12. Operators are urged not to open wells until advised to do so by the test gauger. The next proration schedule will not repeat on unprorated leases, and will refer to prorated properties only.

Pipeline companies running oil in the Panhandle are as follows:

- Bartok, Bell Oil and Gas, Champion, Cockrell-McElroy, Continental, Empire Gas and Fuel, Gulf, Humble, MacMillan, Magnolia, Midwest, Pampa, Shamrock, Shell, Prairie, Prairie Oil and Gas, Texas and Toronto.

Lee-Cady of Tulsa is in Pampa today.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Smith of Plainview are visitors in Pampa today.

H. J. Hunter of Monroe, La., is in Pampa today.

Henry Wilkerson of Amarillo is a visitor here today.

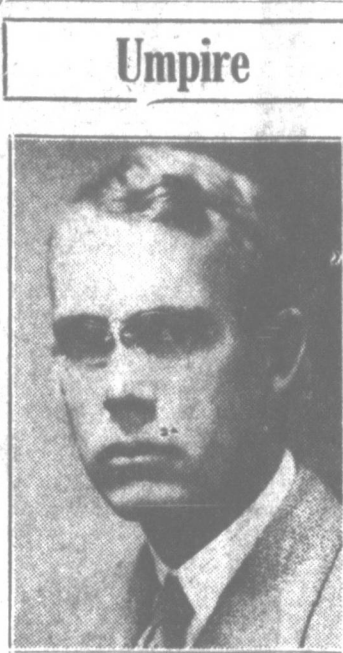

Charles Morrison of Electra was in Pampa today.

News and Post Go Forward

Another forward step was made today with the establishment of the Pampa Morning Post, companion newspaper to the Pampa Daily News.

One hundred per cent service to the people of Pampa and surrounding territory is now given by The News-Post with morning and afternoon dailies, commercial printing and office supply departments.

Labor forms the greatest percentage of expense of this organization. The News-Post is largely a manufacturing business, and as it grows, Pampa will benefit through additional workers employed.

H. J. Corcoran, proration umpire of the Texas Railroad Commission, who is in charge of the curtailment program in the Panhandle, was an oil operator for years before he became connected with the commission. His office is in the Chamber of Commerce hall.

AIR MAIL TO TOUCH PLAINS VIA AMARILLO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (AP)—Contract for carrying the mails by air from New York to Los Angeles was awarded today to the Western Air Express, Inc., of Los Angeles, and the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., of Delaware.

The post office department announced Postmaster General Brown accepted a joint bid by these companies because it was the only qualified one under terms of the McNary-Wates act, and in conformity with specification in the advertisement.

Service is to begin within 30 days. For the present it will be maintained by daylight flying only. The schedule over the route has not been arranged.

In addition to the terminal cities, the following will be served:

Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Ohio, Indianapolis, St. Louis, and Kansas City, Mo., Amarillo, Tex., and Albuquerque, N. M. The government may choose an alternative route from St. Louis via Tulsa, Okla., to Amarillo, operating either or both routes.

Nursery Need Is Keenly Felt

The need of a children's day nursery in Pampa was further emphasized today by members of the nursery committee who reported that applications to place children in the nursery have averaged one a day since the announcement was made that the institution would be established. All of the applications have come from parents who work during the day.

The nursery will be opened next Monday, according to present plans. More funds to operate the nursery during the first month are needed. Mrs. DeLoe Vicens, treasurer, announced. More beds and bedding are also needed. The committee has enough money to open the nursery but must have financial assistance to pay expenses of the first and succeeding months. It is estimated that the cost of operating will be $185 per month.

The City Steam Laundry and Your Laundry and Dry Cleaners have agreed to furnish all laundry work free of charge.

Citizens and business firms asked to contribute monthly to the upkeep of the nursery. Contributions and furnishings will be received by Mrs. Vicens, Mrs. O. H. Booth and Mrs. W. H. Davis.

JEWISH STORES ARE TO CLOSE THIS EVENING

Jewish merchants of the city will close their stores at 8 p. m. today and will not open until Friday morning.

The merchants will be observing Yom Kippur, the Jewish day of atonement, at the B'Nai Israel temple. Services will be held in the auditorium on the second floor of the Colburn-Smaling building. Visitors are invited to attend the services.

GRID TRAIN WILL BE OF MANY CARS

Agent Klein Asserts Interest Very Keen

L. W. Klein is enthusiastic about the special train to Amarillo on October 11, when Pampa's Harvesters will battle Amarillo's Sandies. Mr. Klein said that it would possibly require 20, or 25 coaches to take the crowd to the game, and that traveling by train would have many advantages over going to the game by motor. He pointed out the fact that parking space would be difficult to obtain within any reasonable distance of the field.

"The $1.10 fare would be about the only expense with the exception, of course, of admission to the game, since the train would leave here at one o'clock, after dinner, arriving at Amarillo about 2:30 just in time for everyone to get settled before the game started."

Mr. Klein said. The train would leave for Pampa at 6:30.

Mr. Klein said that of course he was basing his estimate of the number of coaches from what he had heard concerning the trip, and he estimated that between 1,000 and 2,000 Pampa citizens would see the game. He stated that the special train to Lubbock left here with seven coaches and a baggage car and came into Lubbock with nine coaches and the baggage car.

Business is good at the local depot. Gasoline and oils are the principal things being shipped now, he said. The addition to the station will be completed by the fifteenth. The work is now principally on the east end of the building. The floor for the express office has been laid.

R. W. Prentice is succeeding P. A. Baker of Amarillo as trainmaster of the plains division, Mr. Baker being transferred to the St. Louis division.

J. B. Briscoe of Amarillo, Santa Fe superintendent who makes frequent trips to Pampa in the course of business, with his family is now attending the world's series, Mr. Klein said.

Harlan Will Plead Guilty At Abilene Trial

ABILENE, Oct. 1. (AP)—P. Harlan, of Lubbock, scheduled to go to trial this afternoon in United States district court here on an indictment charging irregularities in his conduct of his Stamford Farm Loan Association, will enter a plea of guilty, his attorneys have announced.

A statement by the attorneys said: "We shall submit the case directly to the court, and Mr. Harlan will accept whatever penalty that Judge James C. Wilson may elect to impose. He has requested that such a plea be entered for him, stating that since the indictment against him was returned upon records which he himself furnished the inspector, he now realizes that certain of his actions, while involving no financial gain to himself, were in violation of federal statutes. In view of this, and of his determination to lay before the court his whole procedure as secretary-treasurer of the Stamford association, and in view of his reduced circumstances financially, he feels that nothing would be gained by a plea of guilty and a long—and probably losing—court fight."

"We will show that in the transactions complained of, instead of profiting financially, Mr. Harlan lost everything that he had."

Hungry Young Men Rob Salina, Okla. Bank of $1,500 And Make Escape

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 1. (AP)—Three young men who said they had not eaten for several days and were desperate, robbed the bank at Salina, Mayes county, of about $1,500 in cash today, and escaped in a Pontiac roadster bearing an Arizona license.

The robbers, unmasked, held up Tom Walkinshaw, cashier, and Hugh Walkinshaw, bookkeeper, and the cashier's father. They forced Miss Louise Griffith, clerk, the only other person in the bank, to show them the cash. They took only cash, leaving the checks. The robbers

Pampa Daily News

PAMPA, GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 1, 1930.

MORNING POST BEGINS

Companion Paper to The News Is Started

At the hour of 1 a. m. today newspaper history in Pampa was made as the Pampa Morning Post, companion paper to the Pampa Daily News, came off the big press at the plant on West Foster avenue.

Several months ago this proposed new paper was admitted to full membership in the Associated Press, which is the only press service available covering Texas with a morning wire. Thus, Pampa, located at one end of the longest press wires in the Nation, was brought into 24-hour touch with the ends of the earth.

Congratulations from hundreds of sources were pouring into the News-Post as the new paper went into nearly every home in the community.

The Pampa Morning Post is the result of many months of thought by the publishers of the Pampa Daily News. The first issue is started with the full service of the Associated Press, the world's greatest news service, which has also been carried in the Pampa Daily News since it was established March 10, 1927.

The publishers of The News and Post believe that they are keeping step with Pampa in the establishment of a morning edition, thereby enabling people of this section to depend on Pampa newspapers alone for complete coverage of local and world news.

The Nunn-Warren Publishing company purchased the Pampa News, a weekly, March 1, 1926, from J. M. Smith and son, Joe Smith. By the end of the year a semi-weekly newspaper had been established and the following March the daily was started. The present home of The News was opened April 1, 1928.

Further development took place in August, 1929, with the opening of an office supply department, making it unnecessary for Pampa firms to purchase office equipment and supplies out of the city. The commercial printing department has been enlarged from time to time and is enabled to serve the city and region in a competent manner.

The addition to the present building was completed in April, and a new press was installed. These improvements were made in preparation for the rendering of better service by The News and the establishment of the Morning Post.

With exclusive Associated Press and NEA features, the two greatest organizations of their kind, readers may be assured of the high quality of The News and Post.

The Post will have a thorough distribution in this section just as The News has enjoyed these past few years. Advertisers will be given attractive combination rates, which will be quoted upon request. Savings from having one over-head cost.

Hoover and Britisher to Express Nations' Amity at Battle Scene

On the old battlefield at Kings Mountain, South Carolina where American colonists routed British redcoats in the Revolutionary War, President Hoover and an official representative of the British government will express present-day Anglo-American peace and amity on Oct. 7. Mr. Hoover shown above, will be the principal speaker at a gigantic celebration marking the 150th anniversary of the historic battle while Ronald Ian Campbell (below), counselor of the British embassy at Washington, will attend as the British government's representative. The map shows the location.

Fine New Fire Station Occupied By Firemen of Volunteer Group

At a meeting of the city commissioners yesterday afternoon, an ordinance was passed condemning fronts of property on South Cuyler between Brown and Tuke. This ordinance was in answer to a petition of the residents of the area who desired that the streets be widened from its present width of 60 feet to 100 feet.

The new fire station has been completed and the department is occupying the building this week. The station is a two-story brick structure, representing an investment of more than $60,000, and was built by the Plains Construction company. W. E. Kaufman was the architect. The size of the building is 50 by 65 feet. A representative of the American LaFrance company told City Manager Gwin that it was the finest station he had seen in his territory. In the station, there are nine rooms, a large assembly room in the center with a large skylight, chief's office, assistant chief's room, and shower baths. Each one of the bedrooms is equipped with Simmons steel furniture.

Young Man Held In Slaying Of School Girl

CHICAGO, Oct. 1. (AP)—Henry Siwinski, 22, was arrested at his home here by a squad of eight police including officers from South Bend, Ind., who have been investigating the slaying of Alice Wolman, South Bend school girl.

Siwinski offered no resistance. Police said a friend of the slain girl, whose throat was cut during her sleep, identified Siwinski as the man who stood over the coffin of the girl and said, "next time you will know better."

Siwinski admitted that he had been in South Bend at the time of the slaying but denied that he knew the girl. He signed an extradition waiver.

PRISONERS AT ABILENE NEARLY ESCAPE JAIL

ABILENE, Oct. 1. (AP)—Four men, one of them in jail charged with introducing the saws used by five men in a successful jail break earlier this week, almost escaped from the county stout house early today. T. A. Hackney, assistant chief, was driving down the alley by the jail, looking for two vagrants, when he saw a blanket rope drop from a second story window. He waked Sheriff H. T. O'Bar, and the men were put in other cells. Half a saw blade was taken from them, bars had been sawed out and the men were ready to go. One of the quartet, Bill Cox was a convicted forger who escaped Tuesday night but was recaptured in a farm house near here Wednesday.

Milk Will Be Graded in October

Milk-grading tests will be made this month at all the dairies supplying the city with milk, Dr. T. J. Worrell, assistant city health officer, announced today.

H. E. Harris, state health inspector, was here recently, after making a complete survey of conditions reported that the dairies conform to the highest standards, Dr. Worrell said.

Pampans use nine-tenths of a pint of milk per capita daily, Dr. Hargis computed. This is considered a high average. Eighty per cent of the milk is pasteurized, it was said.

LAST OF THE SCHOONERS

The news that the last of the Great Lakes fleet of schooners has floundered in a gale on Lake Michigan comes as one more of those melancholy reminders that the nation has left its youth behind. That, of course, is not particularly news; yet, like the middle-aged man whose figure thickens while his hair thins, we don't always like to be reminded of it.

The old lake schooner used to be one of the mainstays of trade in the interior of the country; and the difference between the service it rendered and the service rendered today by the great steel steamers that plow the Great Lakes is the difference between the era of our grandfathers and the era of today.

There are still living men who can remember the day when any Great Lakes harbor—like any salt water harbor—presented the picture of a forest of masts, arising from the hulls of dozens and scores of schooners brigs and full-rigged ships. The sailing vessels on the lakes helped to build the foundations of the great steel districts of the mid-west. They toiled northward to Lake Superior, to bring back iron ore for the Ohio ports, and on them the mills of Pittsburgh, the Mahoning Valley and Cleveland came into existence.

These schooners, judged by modern standards, were inefficient. The trip took a long time. Loading and unloading them took even longer. The cargoes they could carry were small.

Today the mighty ore steamers do in a week what the old schooner fleet could not do in a year. If the old sailing ships laid the foundations for the mid-west manufacturing districts, the modern steamers made it possible for the mid-west to become one of the world's greatest industrial territories. They beat the schooners at their own game.

Yet—so perverse is human nature—it is impossible to read of the foundering of the last of the schooners without a sigh of regret. For those old schooners, if they were slow and inefficient, were nevertheless picturesque. They took the thrill of romance into countless inland harbors. They made a great picture. In discarding them we have lost something valuable.

Talks To Parents

Father's Moments
BY ALICE JUDSON FEALE
The average American father sees little of his children. His work usually takes him out of the house before nine in the morning, and does not allow him to come home before six at night. He literally sees his family for only a few moments each day and unfortunately they are not his best. Breakfast in most homes is likely to be a silent, hurried meal with father at the head of the table preoccupied with thoughts of the coming day. His mood is such that he is quick to be irritated at a bit of misbehavior of a slip in manners. When he comes home at night he often is too tired to be properly responsive and companionable until after the children have been sent to bed. If father is to know anything of his children save their effect upon the family budget, he must learn to make the most of these few moments at the beginning and end of each day.

Because he sees so little of his children he must be sure that such contact as he has is the sort which strengthens the bonds of confidence and affection. He cannot afford to be irritable or unfriendly.

If he undertakes to discipline them he must be sure to clear the atmosphere of all unpleasantness before going away. He may well leave details to their mother who has time to deal with them.

He must see to it at all costs that he does not leave his child to feel for long hours, even days perhaps, the weight of his disapproval.

The child may readily dismiss any one incident from his thoughts but such experiences frequently repeated remain to color his emotional attitude toward his father, making it less happy, less loving than it otherwise would be.

Georgia Negro Is Lynched By Band of Men

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Oct. 1. (AP)—A mob of 45 or 50 masked men took John Will Clark, negro, from the county jail here early today and hanged him to the cross-beam of a telephone pole on the fair grounds a mile away. Clark, charged with murder of Chief of Police Jenkins, was removed from the custody of the three deputies sheriff on duty at about one o'clock and taken on his death ride in one of the automobiles of the mob. At dawn police reported ed finding the body hanging by a rope from the pole.

A previous effort to lynch Clark was made two weeks ago. National guardsmen were called out and he was then removed to Atlanta for safe keeping, but returned yesterday for trial.

The lynching party came to the jail in nine or ten automobiles. Ten of the men entered the jail office where the deputies were on duty, took the keys to Clark's cell from Deputy A. J. McCoy, unlocked the cell, seized their prey, and departed. "It was all over in five minutes," McCoy said. "We had no time to draw our guns, the men overpowering us as soon as they entered the office."

Clark was taken a few hours after his attorneys had appealed to the higher courts for a change of venue on the grounds he could not obtain a fair trial here.

Man Who Wounds Sweetheart Finally Taken in Battle

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 1. (AP)—A man who had barricaded himself in his home after shooting his sweetheart five times, was shot down here today by policemen who broke through the barricade and advanced under fire.

The man, Tony de Rose, 38, took the young woman, Miss Anne Kwass, into a taxicab after they had walked together a short distance as she was going to work. She screamed, attracting the attention of a filling station attendant who called police. A squad of officers arrived at the De Rose home in time to hear five shots inside. De Rose's shots at the officers after they broke up the barricaded door were wild and one of the officers put three bullets in his body. Both De Rose and Miss Kwass were in a critical condition.

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DAN RORIMER, former New York newspaperman and now a free lance scenario writer in Hollywood, is in love with ANNE WINTER, who, beginning as an extra, has progressed rapidly and is now under contract to GRAND UNITED, one of the largest studios.

Dan formerly was under contract himself at CONTINENTAL PICTURES, but he is now free, because of his inability to get along with a studio executive whose methods irritated and disgusted the sensitive and stubborn Rorimer.

PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column for a string of papers, shares Dan's apartment with him. He has great faith in Dan's ability, despite the latter's apparent failure as a free lance. Dan has become somewhat despondent over this, and over what he considers his rather hopeless regard for Anne Winter whose every step upward seems to remove her all the farther from him.

Anne lives with two other girls, MONA MORRISON and EVA HARLEY. Mona and Eva are extra, but Mona works only occasionally and Eva but rarely. She is bitter over this, and over a rather tragic love experience. While in New York Rorimer had written among other things a play for the legitimate stage. His agent thought highly of it and kept it for a long time, trying to sell it to various producers. But it comes back to Dan at a time when he is disappointed because of the rejection of his latest screen story.

Anne Winter is enthusiastic about his play. So is Collier. Both of them think it could be slightly altered and made into a great picture. Collier outlines a plan by which he thinks Dan's chances of selling it will be enhanced.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI
Rorimer had some slight objections at first but these were overcome by the persuasive Collier, and the next morning Dan presented himself at the offices of Grand United and asked for Mr. Phillips.

There was some difficulty in getting word to him at once, for Mr. Phillips was well protected as befitted one of his importance; but Paul Collier's card, on which he had scribbled a few words, turned the trick.

"So, you're a friend of Paul Collier's," the scenario chief commented, shaking hands. "Have a chair." "We live together," Dan said.

"Pauls a great fellow. He's been pretty nice to us," Phillips settled back in his chair and looked expectant, and Dan stated his mission.

"I've been writing for pictures since the first of the year. I was over at Continental for a while; now I'm free lance. I've got a play in my pocket that I wrote when I was still in New York, before I had any idea that I'd ever do anything for the movies. I feel pretty sure that if you read it you'll agree that it has possibilities for a great picture."

Dan paused, and Phillips, with a wan smile, nodded.

"I know you've heard that before," Dan said, and he grinned, and the other's smile broadened.

"Yes," he confessed, "it's not a new story. But go ahead."

"Thanks. I'll have to tell you that I'd almost forgotten about this play, it's been kicking around in New York for so long; and it took Collier and—somebody else to see its possibilities as a picture. I'd never thought of it that way; know what I mean? You see, when I came out here and gave up trying to crash the magazines I sort of started all over."

"I see," Phillips nodded as though he understood. He said, "What did you do over at Continental—any original stories?" Rorimer named a couple of pictures. "They weren't especially good," he apologized.

"They weren't bad. Do you want me to read your play? I'd be glad to do it and let you know what I think of it."

And Dan smiled. "There's something else. I've got a special reason for wanting to interest the Grand United and I want to do a little bit more than just leave it here and walk out. Have you got a vacant office with a typewriter in it, where I can lock myself up for a few hours? I'd like to turn out a rough treatment for the screen and leave that with you along with the play manuscript."

He rose and picked up his hat. "I'm not much of a salesman, I guess, but if you'll take that much of a chance on me I don't think you'll be sorry."

"Wait a minute," Phillips said. "Sit down." He frowned for a moment. "Why," he asked, "do you want to do that here? Why didn't you do it at home?"

And Dan confessed that he hardly knew. He grinned cheerfully and said, "Perhaps it's because I wanted to try to sell a little personality along with it."

"You win," Phillips told him with a laugh. He bit off a cigar and passed the box to Rorimer, who declined. Phillips said:

"I've heard stories about fellows rushing into a studio and demanding a hot idea and selling it on the spot. But I've always been skeptical. I've always had the sneaking notion that they had their ideas tucked away in their pockets before they came in."

But Dan's proposal, he admitted, was somewhat different.

"It is," said Dan. "Here's the play right here. It would take considerably more than a few hours to turn that out."

The scenario chief nodded and pressed a button. When his secretary entered he said, "Will you see if any of the offices in the department are not being used today? I want Mr. Rorimer to have a typewriter where he can work undisturbed."

And when she had gone he turned to Dan once more. "What's the play about?" he asked. "You've got me curious now."

Dan hesitated. "I'd rather not try to give you any more than the idea," he said. "I think the most effective thing in it is the dialogue. But he roughly sketched the plot. Phillips himself admitted that it might have possibilities.

His secretary returned then, and Phillips himself accompanied Dan to the little office. It belonged to one of the staff who was taking a few days off.

"There's your typewriter," said Phillips, smiling, "and there's plenty of paper. Now help yourself; if there's anything else you want, just ask for it; everything's furnished but running water."

Dan laughed and thanked him, and when Phillips had closed the door and departed he sat down at once and thrust paper into the typewriter and began to write.

It was not difficult once he had started. He knew very clearly just what he wanted to say, just where the screen treatment would deviate from the script; and he wrote swiftly, with a keen zest for the task.

At one o'clock there was a rap on the door and Phillips entered.

"Have to knock off for lunch," he ordered amiably; "this is a union shop. Come on out and we'll have a bite together. How's it coming?"

"Pretty fair," Dan said. "I had no idea it was lunch time already. I've been at it more than three hours."

Phillips laughed. "You've been doing something, too, haven't you?" He moved over to the little desk and estimated the number of sheets that had emerged from the typewriter, and he turned to look at Dan with something like respect in his eyes.

On their way to the restaurant he confided that Collier had dropped in during the morning. "I told him you were upstairs working and he grinned all over himself. Paul thinks pretty well of you, it seems."

"He's the greatest guy in the world," Dan said warmly, and he thought, too, that Collier had appraised Phillips pretty accurately in referring to him as "a good egg."

Collier was kind of curious to know how you had made out with me," Phillips said. He chuckled. "I'm a pretty tough sort, you know." And he added: "Paul sure is hopped up over your play. If it's half as good as he says it is, maybe we ought to feel lucky to get it. What's the title of it, by the way? I never asked you that."

"Traitor," Dan said, and he confessed the title might lack something as the name for a picture. "It was all right—or it seemed all right, anyway—for the stage." He said, "I'm sorry if Paul piled it on thick. I didn't expect him to do that."

He seemed so apologetic that Phillips gave him a curious look. "Well, I wouldn't let it worry me if I were you," he said. "Collier wouldn't say it if he didn't mean it."

They had lunch together then. Dan glanced idly around the restaurant, half expecting that he might see Anne Winter, but she was not there. He did see Garry Sloan. The director was lunching with two other men and a girl with brown hair whose back was toward Rorimer; and Sloan chanced to look his way just then, and Dan nodded, Sloan smiled faintly, but without recognition, and turned back to his companions.

Phillips saw it. He said, "Do you know Garry Sloan?"

"I've met him," Dan admitted. "On the way back Phillips asked whether Dan expected to finish that afternoon. "If you don't, you're welcome to use the place tomorrow if you like."

"Oh, I'll have it done," Dan assured him, and the other smiled pleasantly and said he was glad, because he had the evening free and would be glad to read it.

"I didn't expect action like that,"

Dan admitted. "You're very decent." "Not at all. We're always looking for good screen material. You can't make pictures without the stories."

It was late afternoon when Dan finished and gathered up the typewritten sheets and placed them in order and read them over. He was surprised at the amount he had written, for he had not numbered his pages; the job was much more elaborate than he had planned.

Phillips was still in his office, and Dan said, as he placed his work on the other's desk:

"There you are, and many thanks for your patience. If you like it I'll tell you why I particularly wanted to sell it to Grand United."

"And if we don't want it?" the scenario editor asked.

"Then you'll never know," Dan said, holding out his hand.

Phillips laughed. "I've got a terrible curiosity, but it seems that I'm going to have to pay quite a price to satisfy it. . . . Well, I hope I do have to. So long—and good luck."

Collier was waiting in the apartment when Rorimer got there. "I just got in and shook one up," he said, "and you look as though you need one. It's in the refrigerator."

He got up from his chair and stretched lazily. "Well, how did you like Phillips?" he asked.

"He's a great guy," Dan said warmly.

"Didn't I tell you? Did you put it over? What did he say? Tell me all about it."

"He's going to take it home and read it tonight."

"I nodded. "What do you think of the idea now? Chances are if you'd just walked in there and dumped it on his desk he might not have got at it for a week or two. He's a pretty busy person, but now that he's had a chance to size you up he's more apt to give you a break. Did you tell him that it would be a good bet for Lester Moore? They're on the lookout for a story for Moore."

"No," Dan said. "I didn't. I wrote Moore into it, though, so you could hardly miss, but I thought it would be best to let Phillips discover it. You spoke your two cents worth, too, didn't you?" he accused.

"Oh, that?" Paul grinned. "Sure I told him the same thing I told you. Where's the harm in that?"

"Well, you were pretty swell to do it. I'll owe you a lot if it goes over."

"Don't be silly. They shouldn't let talent like yours run around loose. The trouble with you is you need a manager."

Conservation in Oklahoma to Be Kept in Force

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 1. (AP)—An oil conservation program calling for continuation of the present 500,000 barrel limit on the state's daily production through the rest of the month, a 545,000 barrel maximum in December, was ready today for approval by Oklahoma producers.

The program, completed last night by the state proration committee of the mid continent oil and gas association, after several weeks of study, was to be considered by Oklahoma City field operators at a meeting in the capital city at 2 p. m. today. Other operator groups will meet here at 10 o'clock Friday to act on the recommendations. An order from the state corporation commission to make the program effective will be sought if it is endorsed by the two meetings.

About New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

NEW YORK—The dinner ball has almost disappeared with the Irishman's nod, both converted into curious by the skyscraper age.

Four restaurants on the scene of their work feed the busy little army of 3,500 men who are putting up the world's tallest structure. Alfred E. Smith's Empire State building.

They are on the third, ninth, twenty-fourth and forty-seventh floors. Soon there will be a fifth restaurant at about the seventieth floor.

Only the Italians bring home-prepared lunches. The American mechanic eats a hot noon-day meal. In addition to lunches, the men are served with milk and bottled brew, delivered to them by water boys, who also peddle cigarettes.

Among the workmen on a modern skyscraper, few are of the unskilled class. Only the watchmen are unorganized. The excavators, who are the lowest paid, earn more than $1 an hour. The hoisting engineers are the highest paid. Their wage is $2.31 an hour.

And there are people who yearn to write for a living.

Boulevard Ike

Down on Henry street, in the heart of the humble east side, a mother is awaiting a visit from her son, who has become a familiar fixture of Paris, France.

The son is Ike Melzer and if you have been to Paris lately you probably saw him. He sells American newspapers in front of the Cafe de la Paix.

He is probably the best-known newsboy in the world. Kings know him, as well as the regular transatlantic commuters.

Six years ago Ike, then about 22 years old, was selling papers at Times Square, Manhattan. He lived with his mother and by considerable economy had saved $80.

One day, as Ike was standing over his pile of papers, he got to thinking about how dull a city New York could be at times. He decided to see some of the world beyond Broadway.

So Ike got a job on a Swedish steamer to Rouen. For three weeks he shoveled coal, for which he received his passage and $60 in wages. It doesn't take long to spend $60 in Paris, where Ike soon found himself stranded. He then took a job as dishwasher in a restaurant. One day he was standing in front of the Cafe de la Paix, wishing he had some money to spend, when a stranger told him he looked like a go-getting American and asked him if he would like to sell newspapers.

"That," said Ike, "is what I do best."

Newsboy To Kings

So Ike returned to his original occupation and prospered. Now he is married to a former English actress and speaks French fluently, with a New York east side accent.

Every winter he goes to Nice to supply the fashionables with his news from home. At Nice he met Prince Carol, now King Carol of Rumania. Carol was a regular customer, buying a New York newspaper and a certain popular American magazine.

Whenever Earl Carroll, the revue producer, is in Paris, Ike always looks him up. That Carroll once gave Ike a topcoat before the newsboy became a boulevardier.

Comedy Star Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Jack Donahue, musical comedy star, died at his home in central park west early today.

Death was ascribed to complications. He arrived in New York last Thursday from Cincinnati where he was forced to quit his show, "Sons O' Guns," because of illness.

Miss Killough Is Speaker Tuesday Before Teachers

Miss Bess Killough, who has just begun her duties as health supervisor in the public schools of Pampa was principal speaker at a North Ward teachers' meeting Tuesday evening. She gave plans for her work here, asking that a morning inspection of pupils be made by teachers. E. B. Fisher, superintendent of schools, also made a talk. Sixteen teachers were present.

Announcement was made this morning that the North Ward Parent-Teacher association, under the direction of Mrs. G. C. Malone and Mrs. Irvy Duncan, had raised more than $100 for playground equipment. A volley ball, a baseball, and bats have been purchased.

The federal customs house at New Orleans, work on which was started 80 years ago, never has been completed.

Fred Harris, Tulsa, Okla., deputy sheriff, has travelled 155,394 miles in 18 months to return 550 prisoners wanted in Tulsa.

Uniforms To Be Ready For Game

At least 85 pep squad girls of Pampa high school are expected to be in uniforms at the game next week with Amarillo, according to announcement of Miss Arless O'Keefe, dean of girls. The uniforms consist of solid green sweaters and skirts and green hats with "P. H. S." in yellow and with yellow chin straps. A uniform color will be observed in shoes and hose.

The new sponsors, Mrs. E. L. Wolfman and Mrs. B. W. Derrick, were appointed yesterday to assist Miss Angela Strnad in directing the activities of the pep squad.

The organization is open to all girls of the school, and about 130 made the trip to Lubbock for the game there recently.

Texas Is Charged

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Oct. 1. (AP)—Indictments charging interstate transportation of a stolen automobile were returned by a federal grand jury here yesterday against Raymond Hale and Joseph Zita, who fled Sept. 20 from the Texas penitentiary at Huntsville. Officers said the two men admitting driving here in an automobile stolen from a Texas prison guard. They attempted a jail break here Sunday, deafening the noise of hammering by singing loudly.

Pupils of First Grade in Charge of Chapel Today

First grade children under the direction of Mrs. Earl Smith, Mrs. J. P. Bradley, and Mrs. C. W. Stowell entertained with a varied program at the chapel service at North Ward school this morning. A number of the parents were present.

A song, "Good Morning," by the group of little folks opened the program, which was followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The Ribbon band then played a selection, and a group of children dramatized "Sing a Song of Six Pence." This was followed with a first grade stunt and dance and then with a reading by Fanoma Rudman.

Mrs. H. H. Hicles told the children a story, and Mrs. C. C. Boies entertained with a piano selection. The pupils marched out by the music of the violins which has just been bought by the school.

THREE SOUTHWESTERN TEAMS LEAVE TODAY ON INVASIONS

BEARS AND MUSTANGS ON SAME TRAIN

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Carrying the hopes and aspirations of the southwest, three football units tonight will slick northward in the most ambitious invasion ever undertaken by schools of this section.

Joining forces, so to speak, for the time being, the Southern Methodist university Mustangs and Baylor university Bears will ride the same special train out of Dallas at 6 p. m., the Bruins' pullman being hooked to the Mustang special.

The two Southwest conference rivals will work out together at St. Louis Thursday, splitting up only when the Fones continue over to South Bend, for Saturday's heralded engagement with Notre Dame, and the Golden Bears continue on to Lafayette, Ind., and their bout with Purdue.

Thirty Texas Aggie grid warriors, accompanied by their 60-piece band and some 300 supporters, will make their independent way to Lincoln for Saturday's clash with the Nebraska university. Cornhuskers, leaving College Station in mid-afternoon today, the Farmers will halt at Corsicana for a brief workout and to collect additional fans making the trip. They will reach Lincoln Friday.

All three squads were reported in excellent shape today, without an injury to mar their chances.

Right of Baby To Cry Is Issue In Brooklyn Now

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—The question before the courts, be it known, is whether a baby on entering this world has a right to cry.

Residents in a Brooklyn apartment house, separated by only 10 feet from the Hebrew Maternity hospital, have petitioned Magistrate Hirschfeld that the hospital be adjudged a public nuisance.

"Babies," replied the hospital, "have rights, and the right to cry is inherent in every baby's heart and lungs."

A summons on the hospital setting Oct. 15 as the day for argument was issued, and meanwhile, presumably, babies will be permitted to continue to cry if they so desire.

"LEGS" DIAMOND BACK AGAIN IN U. S.

One tourist that Europe wasn't glad to see, Jack "Legs" Diamond, alleged New York gang leader, is pictured above as he arrived in Philadelphia aboard a freighter after his deportation from Germany. He was arrested by Philadelphia detectives, booked and photographed, and then released on bond pending arraignment in a police court.

Street Thinks Cardinals Will Match 1914 Braves

Gaby Street, pilot of the Cardinal pennant winners thru an uphill battle, figures his club will climax the season with a world's series victory over the Athletics, as the Braves did in 1914.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Cards look better to Manager Gaby Street than did the Braves of 1914, hence he's not worried about the world's series with the champion Athletics.

The Cards this season staged an uphill race much like that of the 1914 Braves, who went on to trounce the great Athletics machine in four straight games.

"Our work in the past month has been superior to that of the old Braves," Street said. Street should know because he's been in baseball since the first of the century. Most of the time he has managed minor league teams, though from 1908 to 1913 he caught his great Walter Johnson.

Street rates his outfield as equal to the A's, his infield as better, and his pitching staff as more nicely rounded out. He concedes the A's a little the best of it in catching.

Gabby is now 50. One of the chief factors back of the Cardinals' drive was due to the players' desire to pull him out of a tough hole in his first year as manager after the club's mid-summer flop.

The Cards figure he knows the game thoroughly and is in addition a "good guy." And they are right.

CLINGMAN QUILTS JOB TO GIVE FULL TIME TRYING FOR MIDDLEWEIGHT TITLE

Texas Pros To Have Tourney

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 1. (AP)—Forty of Texas' leading professional golfers practiced here this morning for the annual tournament of the Texas Professional Golfers' association to be held Thursday and Friday at the San Angelo Country club.

The championship 72-hole medal competition will be preceded by amateur-professional low ball, medal play this afternoon.

The professionals will compete for prizes totaling $700.

Jack Burke of Houston, in defending his title, is expected to be hard pressed by John Bredemus of San Antonio, secretary of the state association, who laid out the country club's 18-hole course here; by Ralph Gulda of Dallas, Tom Lally of San Antonio and other.

The visiting professionals will be guests of the country club at a banquet on the roof garden of a local hotel tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Clay and children have returned from a month's vacation trip in California.

Petroleum Is Taken From 328,200 Wells of Country During Year

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (AP)—Petroleum was extracted during 1929 from 328,200 wells in the United States which gave an average daily yield per well of 8.4 barrels. These figures announced by the United States bureau of mines compared with a production of 7.6 barrels in 1928 from 327,800 wells.

The 1929 output rate varied from as little as a fifth of a barrel per day extracted from certain Ohio and Indiana borings to the top record of 161 barrels per day made by the average well in West Texas.

Pennsylvania, the state which fostered petroleum production, was still the possessor of the largest number of oil wells last year, credited with 90,320 bore. However, Oklahoma's far fewer wells, numbering 41,130, were responsible for a gross petroleum production during the year valued at $364,650,000, or about nine times the Pennsylvania output. Texas with but 36,280 wells, was credited with a total petroleum output of $322,520,000; California's bare 10,520 wells operating during 1929 had an output worth $231,567,000. Californian production worked out to an average of 75 barrels per day per well; Oklahoma's to 11.3 barrels, and the Texas figure was slightly under 23. These three states represented four-fifths of the national production of crude, which the bureau announced was worth $1,280,000,000.

EAST MEETING WEST NOW IN NET MATCHES

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 1. (AP)—Tennis stars of the east opposed those of the far west today in the third round matches of the Pacific coast tennis championships here.

Heading the list were Johnny Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., fifth seeded player, and Edward Chandler, ranking Californian. Van Ryn reached the third round by easily winning from Ray Johnson, Berkeley 6-0, 6-1, and from Joe Coughlin, San Francisco, 7-5, 6-3. Chandler was idle yesterday after winning a second match Monday.

Mrs. Helen Willis Moody was pitted against Ethel Burkardt, San Francisco in the top match of the quarter final round of women's singles.

Eastern stars for the most part came through without great difficulty yesterday. George Lott, Chicago Davis cup star and top seeded player among the easterners, who faced Lester Skiffen, Los Angeles, in another feature match today, downed George Greene, San Francisco, 6-4, 8-4. Wilmer Allison, second seeded player, defeated Verne Neville, Berkeley, 7-5, 6-2.

"Follow Through" Goes Into Court

CHICAGO, Oct. 1. (AP)—The "follow through" of Mrs. Alice Barber's golf club had swept all the way into court today. Mrs. Barber is being sued by Mrs. Marie Finn for $25,000.

The trial opened yesterday. Mrs. Finn charges that Mrs. Barber in "following through" struck her in the eye with the club, causing much physical discomfort and damage. She was confined to a hospital for two weeks. Mrs. Finn set forth, and hasn't been on a golf course since the day it happened.

Sitting on the jury are six golfers, five non-golfers and a twelfth who plays "miniature."

The foreman of the jury is Elliott Wortham, a golfer, who lives at Golf, Ill.

Hoover Turns To Three Sectors On Speaking Tour

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (AP)—President Hoover turned today to his long contemplated speaking tour which, in the next six days, will take him more than 3,000 miles into three states of the midwest, east and south for four addresses on current national questions.

Reversing the old adage, "business before pleasure," the president arranged first to throw out the first ball and witness the opening world's series baseball game at Philadelphia, after which his speaking engagements will come in quick order, the first before the American bankers' association convention in Cleveland tomorrow night.

Arrangements called for departure of the presidential party by special train in the forenoon. The tour, the most extensive for the president this year, will be made in two jumps.

Returning to Washington Friday morning from Cleveland, Mr. Hoover will get under way again Sunday night for Boston where on Monday he will make two day-time speeches, in the morning before the national convention of the American Legion and in the afternoon before the American Federation of labor.

Immediately after the second Boston speech, he will make a 21-hour swing back to King's Mountain battlefield in South Carolina, just over the North Carolina border, where on Tuesday afternoon he will wind up his tour with an address at a celebration of the sesqui-centennial of the battle of King's Mountain in the Revolutionary war.

Coming as they do only a month before the congressional elections, the presidential pronouncements will be scanned eagerly by candidates and their supporters throughout the country. White house officials, however, insist the speeches will be non-political. The King's Mountain address, they point out, was arranged nearly a year ago.

In three of the speeches the president will be heard over nationwide radio chains. Since the one before the Federation of Labor will be delivered during broadcast of a world series ball game, it has been arranged for William Green, president of the federation to read it to the radio audience later.

E. B. Stephenson made a trip to LeFors today.

Mrs. John McCamey and Mrs. L. G. Greene have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Green of Henrietta.

As Jones Conquered Veteran Sweetser

SPORT SLANTS Alan J. Gould

Among the younger crop of golfers who sprouted up from nowhere in the late and very chaotic National Amateur Golf championship at Merion, none has developed so consistent a penchant for the spectacular as Maurice J. McCarthy Jr., of the Green Meadow Country club, Harrison, New York.

Block-browed, pug-nosed with a nose dented like that of a retired professional boxer, McCarthy inserted himself into more dramatic situations on one day at Merion than most of the others combined.

On the second qualifying day, the former intercollegiate and present metropolitan champion holed out a spoon shot for an ace on the 215-yard 17th hole to cause almost as much excitement as the elimination of the defending champion, "Jimmy" Johnson.

Late that evening, McCarthy became embroiled in the playoff among all players seeking the eight remaining qualifying places. Darkness stopped the melee and early the next morning he qualified and then the fun began.

As a pipe-opener, McCarthy went 19 holes to beat Watts Gunn, the former playmate of Bobby Jones. Thus warmed up, the New Yorker took on George Von Elm, next to Jones the tournament's outstanding favorite and runner-up for qualifying honors, and beat the coast star at the 28th, after 10 extra holes of the most dramatic golf any championship has ever seen.

This stunt not only broke the old record, but doubled it, for the longest previous extra hole match went only five holes.

Some day McCarthy may bowl 'em all over and win the championship. He is only 23 now, but he has a world of experience and he isn't apprehensive about tackling any shot or any opponent. His game has been soundly taught and developed by his father, a professional.

He beat Max Marston, an ex-national champion, in a 22-hole match in 1926 and the following year, at Minikahda, McCarthy carried the Great Jones to the home hole. He was only 19 then and he captained the Georgetown university team two years, capturing the intercollegiate title in 1928.

George Rotan, the Texas veteran, attempted a come-back at Merion but failed to qualify by a stroke, because his perfectly played second shot to the 16th green on the second round metal hit a spectator on the head and bounded back 40 yards into an old stone quarry. Instead of a four which he has every reason to expect scoring, Rotan barely escaped this hazard with a six and finished with a total of 158. Two strokes less would have put him in the match play without dispute, 155 would have put him in the playoff.

WEATHER TO BE FAIR BUT COOL AT TILT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1. (AP)—With the weatherman's forecast fair and continued cool—indicating a temperature of about 62 degrees, baseball fans prepared to wear top-coats to the opening game of the world's series here today.

A brilliant autumn sun this morning helped warm the enthusiastic crowd that waited throughout the night for bleacher seats. The temperature at 7 a. m. was 55, and there was a crisp chill in the wind that swept around the ball park.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1. (AP)—World's series ground rules, made public today for the first time by baseball Commissioner Landis, limit the prospect of freak home runs playing any part in the battle between the Athletics and Cardinals.

Balls striking fair and mounding into the stands on foul ground will be held to two base hits but if they hop into the stands on fair ground they will be home runs.

Balls hitting the cluster of amplifying horns atop the right center-field fence at Shibe park must stick in one of the horns to be a homer. If they merely strike the loud-speaker apparatus and bounce back, the ball will still be in play.

At Sportsman's park, St. Louis, balls dropping between the screen and wall will be ruled two base hits. They must go through or strike in the screen above the wall to be home runs.

Quick pitches are barred under the series regulations, which also specify the following:

All balls to be dirted before put in play.

Rosin bag to be provided for each game.

One base on passed ball or wild pitch.

Ball striking wall of upper tier (at Shibe Park) and bounding back in field: home run.
