THANKSGIVING IN PAMPA SHOULD BE A DAY TO REMEMBER. HERE FORD WILL BRING A SPECIAL TRAIN AND HER WHITE FACES TO DETERMINE WHY THE CHAMPIONSHIP OF DISTRICT ONE SHOULD NOT GO TO DEAF SMITH COUNTY.

The presence of possibly as many as a thousand visitors in the city affords Pampa a chance to play host in great style. It should be a gala occasion, dedicated to youth.

If at all possible, the Legion band should greet the Hereford special train. Representatives of the city will be on hand. Football lovers from many cities will be present.

THE CHRISTMAS SEAL DRIVE CONDUCTED ANNUALLY BY THE TEXAS PUBLIC HEALTH ASSOCIATION WILL BEGIN ON THANKSGIVING DAY.

Drives are numerous, and the public is called upon to give to many causes, yet here is one that ought not to be overlooked. But it costs little to buy a few Christmas seals.

The Christmas seal is an investment in the ever-present campaign against tuberculosis. It is expended under the direction of some of the best known men and women in Texas.

OVER IN OKLAHOMA THE REPUBLICANS ARE ATTEMPTING TO "DRAFT" LEW WENTZ, STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION CHAIRMAN, AS THEIR GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE.

The plan is so popular, in fact, that the Tulsa Tribune is advocating that the Democrats do the same thing at once.

The Tribune suggests that Frank R. Buttram of Oklahoma City, president of the Oklahoma university board of regents, be drafted by the Democrats. Says the Tribune: "Mr. Buttram has not been given the publicity that other possibilities have received."

"But if the Democrats should show some of the spirit that is back of the movement to draft Mr. Wentz, they could bring out a candidate like Mr. Buttram. Unless they do show it, their nominee is likely to go into the general election a beaten candidate, if not actually one that should be beaten."

Drafting of honest, capable office holders is a highly commendable practice. It is the opposite of campaigning for office for the small salaries involved, for hope of either honest or corrupt power, or for other selfish purposes.

TWINKLES

We have drawn a picture of Percy, the office mouse, and along about Christmas time we plan to run this picture in The News.

It won't be long now until we have been in this city three years. We came here early in 1927, B. B. What do the B's stand for? We'll answer that in this column tomorrow.

Don't forget to start the new serial in this issue. "The Avenging Parrot" is quite a bird. Frankly, we prefer lots of birds to parrots, but at least they are better than the long-lived English sparrow--the only bird who likes our town whether they have plenty of trees or not.

The office force is too mischievous of late, and we are in a mood to start throwing things. Let a peddler come in, and he is sure to be shoved our way. Still, you've got to get rid of the pests some way. The last 7 days have been Crossing Accident week, and not even the aviation enthusiasts could have planned a better one. And be it remembered that the crossings do not move an inch, either.

Sinclair is a skilled pharmacist, and he brews a nifty alibi too, by the way.

Hundred and dashes are exciting, but we prefer ours on the fingers instead of through the harvesters. That Martin of Memphis does go place when he starts!

AMUSEMENTS

It is worthy of note that it was her ability as a violinist which launched Miss Compton on a theatrical career when she was a school girl in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Supporting Miss Compton in "Street Girl," a tuneful romance of New York's "Little Hungary," are John Harron, Jack Okie, Ned Sparks, Joseph Caythorn, Ivan Lebedeff and Guy Buccola.

The main entertaining features of "Street Girl" include the tuneful rendition of Gus Arnheim's Coconut Grove Ambassadors; the vocal numbers of Raymond Maurel, operatic baritone; the dance numbers of Doris Eaton, musical comedy star, and a Hollywood beauty chorus; and four original songs by Oscar Levant and Sydney Clare, famous Broadway song writing team.

Lon Chaney, Here: An old railroad engineer--crusty, gruff, his engine and the traditions of the road his religion--this is the new character Lon Chaney gives his audiences in his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, "Thunder," epic of the railway now playing at the Crescent theatre.

It affords a startling variation of the usual bizarre and macabre roles assigned to "The Man of a Thousand Faces." Chaney's characterization is an intensely human one, and will live long in the memory of those who see it, for he veritably lives the part of the veteran railroad man. He even wears a moustache--the first in years--to make his part convincing, and his make-up is a marvel illusion.

There are thrills galore--thundering rides over frozen rails in a great locomotive--weird scenes in the great Chicago railroad yards with their strange lights and blinking signals, and a wild dash to the rescue in the Mississippi floods, a disaster that furnishes the dramatic climax of the vivid story. Through it all runs an entrancing romance--the love story of a young fireman, son of the old engineer, and a pretty actress. James Murray plays the fireman son and Phyllis Haver the actress.

Teachers End Drive

Teachers of the East Ward school are the first to subscribe 100 per cent to the annual roll call of the American Red Cross, according to Supt. R. B. Fisher. The nine teachers and the laitor announced full membership in the Red Cross this morning. Miss Annie Daniels is principal of the school.

ABOUT FOLKS

A "fan" letter addressed to Miss Otta Lee Studer by a bold masculine hand was read by our eminent attorney Saturday. The writer declared it was a case of "love at first sight" and mentioned that "I am certain you were meant for me and I was meant for you." There were rhapsodical references to "your divine form, the soulful expression shining from your sea-blue eyes whose lashes are like gold grass."

In addition to this fan letter, coming in the wake of the Lions Follies, Charles Botes, prize winning beauty of the pony chorus, announced that one of the chorines has left in his possession a pink rayon ladies' vest, worn twice, which cost 98 cents and which he will sell for exactly 28 cents. Mr. Botes' telephone number is 358.

The Rev. Tom Brabham and Clarence Kennedy and three other men are talking of challenging the high school teachers to a basketball game to start off the cage season in Pampa. The preacher and Clarence demonstrated their skill with the ball in a practice game last week and Brabham appeared as effective as Clarence who has not forgotten so very much about the game since he played on the national champion basketball team from El Reno, Okla., in 1924.

Is there an unoccupied horse stable in Pampa for rent? Chief J. L. Downs wants to know. He has a person in mind who will buy one of the eight horses now in the pound if a stable can be found. The other day Chief sold at auction on Albert Square a handsome, white saddle horse, 6 years old, for $8. Others just as pretty and young sold for similar prices. Chief will conduct another auction in a few days. "It's a shame to sell that kind of horse flesh at that price," he said. He deplores the passing of the horse.

Bud Weiser and L. N. Brashears of Panhandle were in Pampa Friday night bragging about the new Vitaphone and talking pictures that will be shown in Panhandle beginning today. "The Virginian" is on today, then "Rio Rita," "The Cockeyed World," "They Had to See Paris."

W. R. Campbell says the telephone operator who gives you the wrong number has a twin in the postoffice who puts some other Campbell's mail in your box and vice-versa.

Creamery Will Be Housed in $18,000 Building

Excavation of the foundation for the new building that when completed will house the Gray County Creamery was begun last week. It will be constructed of tile and brick at a cost of $18,000. Definite time for completion has not been set, since inclement weather will likely delay the work.

Erection of the new building is part of a construction plan to make the plant the most modern and complete in the Panhandle. According to a survey of 50 cities in Texas now operating under standard milk ordinance, the general rating of Pampa's retail raw milk supply is already 98. This rating surpasses every other city in the upper Panhandle and is less than only one city in Texas. The survey was made by Milton M. Miller, milk specialists of the U. S. Public health service.

Third Games Benefit Cancelled Because of Conflict in Dates

In deference to the plans of the music department of the public school, which is to give an ensemble concert presenting more than 100 pupils at Central high school auditorium, on Friday evening, Dec. 6, the Pampa branch of the American Association of University Women and College club has canceled its own plans for a games tournament on that evening.

The tournament scheduled for that evening was to have been the third of a series benefiting the club's scholarship fund, and was arranged by the reservations committee after ticket demands for the two originally planned had apparently made a third necessary. Members of the committee explained that they were unaware when forming their plans of conflicting with a date for a school performance.

Changing its plans for the tournament, the committee has arranged to accommodate all players at two tournaments—one on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 5, and the other on the evening of that date. Alex Schneider, who had donated the use of the Schneider hotel dining room for the three affairs, has offered to accommodate all tables above the number that can be comfortably placed there in other parts of the hotel. Moreover, the new tea room to be opened today at Pampa Drug store No. 2 is available for a large group of players, by courtesy of C. T. Hunkapillar.

Other merchants also are cooperating to make the scholarship benefit profitable, and society is showing a gratifying interest. Hostesses who had been designated for Friday evening's tournament will assist those detailed to Thursday evening.

SIDELIGHTS

By WILLIAM E. KUHN

Financial Editor
(Associated Press Feature Service)
NEW YORK (AP)—In these times of wrinkled stock values it is interesting to learn that almost two million orphan dollars lie alone and forgotten in the vaults of New York state banks.

These funds represent unclaimed accounts.

The total for the entire country is many times this figure. Most of this money has ceased to bear interest and much of it has been removed forever from circulation.

State banking laws usually stipulate a period of years after which if an account remains idle, it is listed as dormant.

Finally, after another period of years, it ceases to draw interest and is officially labeled unclaimed. Even then a bank bank faces the unwelcome prospect of carrying this dead money forever on its books.

In some great banks with many thousands of accounts the fraction of depositors who sink without a trace is so small as to be a source of wonder. The Guaranty Trust company has only 53 dormant accounts. Seven of them date back to the 90's.

Banks have found it pays to operate a detective service of their own to run down careless depositors or heirs of careless depositors and make them take their money back whether they like it or not.

Their researches often lead them through a maze of legal tangles, prisons, asylums, cemeteries, deaths without heirs and ordinary forgetfulness.

CLASS PIANO PUPILS WILL GIVE PROGRAM

Miss Orene Hudgins, instructor of class piano in the public schools of the city, has announced a recital for tomorrow afternoon at the Central high school auditorium. Sixty members of her Melody Way classes, representing all schools, will be presented in an interesting and unusual program. The program will be given at 4:15 o'clock. The public is invited.

CONSTRUCTION WORK ON BELL'S REFINERY BEGINS HERE—WILL BE COMPLETED ABOUT NEXT MARCH 1

Construction of a 4,000 barrel refinery by the Bell Oil and Gas company began here last week with the installation of tube still and towers. The plant will be in operation about March 1, according to officials of the company.

The plant will probably be operated under the name of the Standard Petroleum Refractionating company, officials said. It will be operated with high gravity crude from the Gray county field. The owners expect to secure a yield of 41 per cent gasoline, 9 per cent kerosene, and 20 per cent gas oil from the operation of the plant in a skimming operation. A cracking still probably will be installed later.

The Bell company at present operates a refinery at Grandfield, Okla. During the last two years it has operated a pipeline gathering system in Gray county. The line at present, has capacity of 6,000 barrels daily and this is to be increased to 12,000 barrels daily thus affording some relief to the congested pipelines and storage facilities that have necessitated a three-month shut down in drilling. Rex Young of the Grandfield plant is here this week superintending the construction work.

The company has been selling crude to several refiners, shipments being made from the field in tank cars. With the increased gathering capacity the company will be able to continue deliveries to these companies in addition to supplying the requirements of its own refinery.

Bishop's Sermon Is Criticized Here by Rev. Truhitte

Criticizing statements made by Bishop John M. Moore in a sermon, "The Providence of God," before the Methodist conference Sunday, Nov. 17, Rev. D. H. Truhitte declared yesterday morning at the First Baptist church that such remarks "are the greatest hindrances to the progress of the church and to soul-winning."

The Rev. Truhitte said his sermon was an answer to an expression of Bishop Moore that "I don't have any confidence in the belief that God is going to burn up this world or that some day He will ride across the sky in a flaming chariot to declare the end of time."

Rev. Truhitte's sermon comprised Scripture citations with comments on them. He quoted Peter I, Chapter 3, verse 7: "But the heavens that now are and the earth, by the same word have been stored up for fire, being reserved against that day of judgment and destruction of ungodly men. Other scriptures quoted were Peter, third chapter, 10-13 verses; Matthew, 13th chapter, verse 30; Revelations, 21st chapter, verse 8x.

Quoting Dr. J. B. Tidwell, Rev. Truhitte said, "The Bible was not written to tell how the heavens go, but how to go to heaven."

The Baptist pastor emphasized that his answer was no attack or reflection on the local Methodists, their church or their pastor, for whom, he said he has the highest regard and with whom he is in "sweetest accord."

Rock Island to Spend Millions If Given Right

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 (AP)—President Hoover's business program found support today in the announcement that the 1930 improvement budget of the Rock Island lines will total about $50,000,000, the largest in the history of the company.

This amount, J. E. Gorman, president of the road, announced, will exceed by slightly more than $10,000,000 the improvement budget for 1929 and will be expended for new equipment, new lines, general improvements and miscellaneous construction.

The expenditure will be further increased, Mr. Gorman said, in the Interstate Commerce Commission allows the petition of the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf railroad, a part of the Rock Island lines, for permission to build a new line in Texas at an estimated cost of $5,500,000.

Exclusive of the proposed new line in Texas, approximately $15,000,000 will be spent for new lines, second main tracks and roadway improvements. According to Mr. Gorman, this will include continuation of the St. Paul-Kansas City short line from Trenton, Mo., to Birmingham, Mo., and a new

Five Men Held for Old Crime

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Nov. 25 (AP)—Accused of torturing and burning alive a youth and attacking his 16-year-old fiancée as they were on their way to be married, five men were held in widely scattered jails today for crimes which authorities said were committed eight months ago.

Charges arising from the killing of Connie Franklin, 20, a farm hand, in the St. James community, 14 miles east of here last March 10, came to light yesterday with the arrest of the men, who previously had been indicted.

Those taken into custody were: Herman Greenway, 28, Alex Fulks, 26, Dill C. Younger, 24, Hubert Hester 23, and Joe White, 20.

Greenway, who is married, and Hester are charged with attacking the girl.

Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Williams, son said threats against the life of the girl and a deaf boy said to have witnessed the slaying to prevent them testifying caused the grand jury much difficulty in its investigation.

MANY TITLES TO BE DECIDED THANKSGIVING

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—The college gridiron campaign faces its double barreled climax this week, on Thanksgiving day and Saturday, with every prospect of a sensational finish to the championship races still undecided.

Fate of six of the seven major title contenders is involved. Purdue, champion of the Big Ten, has an impressive season's record of eight victories, but Pittsburgh in the east, Notre Dame in the Mid-West, Tennessee, and Tulane in the south, Texas Christian in the Southwest, and St. Mary's on the Pacific coast, all stake their title aspirations in important battles this week.

None of these teams has tasted defeat or tie, except St. Mary's which was held to a scoreless deadlock by California, but nevertheless remains as the outstanding team on the Pacific coast so far as the records are concerned, since Stanford's 21-6 defeat of California scrambled the big conference race in the Far West.

On Thanksgiving day, Pittsburgh will seek to clinch its claim to the eastern championship as well as the bid for national honors by conquering Penn State. In the South, Tennessee will take on Kentucky at Lexington and Tulane will oppose Louisiana State to determine perhaps the final Southern conference rating. Nebraska, by defeating Iowa State in another holiday tilt, can clinch the Big Six crown once more.

Notre Dame, on Saturday, will battle the Army at the Yankee stadium in the most colorful fray of the week, an eastern climax game that overshadows even such attractive contests as the Cornell-Penn and Navy-Dartmouth contests, both at Philadelphia.

The Southwest expects a sensational fight for its conference honors when the Texas Christian Horned Frogs tangle with the Southern Methodist Mustangs Saturday. The Frogs beat Baylor Saturday 34 to 7, more decisively than S. M. U. defeated the Bears previously, but there is not much to choose between this week's main rivals.

On the coast, St. Mary's must beat Oregon to keep at the top of the heap. Southern California, by defeating Washington State, can claim at least a percentage edge in the Pacific coast conference race. Victory would give the Trojans six triumphs out of seven conference games. Stanford has finished with five out of six and California with four out of five. It was a stand-off so far as the Big Three was concerned, California losing to Stanford, but beating Southern California which had previously trimmed Stanford.

For the second straight year, Harvard has closed an in-and-out season by downing its ancient rival, Yale. The Elis were favorites, on the strength of previous contests over Brown, the Army, Dartmouth, and Princeton, but when it came to the final show-down, the Crimson forwards outplayed their blue rivals, and Barry Wood gained the verdict over Albie Booth, 10 to 6.

The Big Ten season has closed with Purdue the titleholder for the first time in Western conference history. Illinois, put out of the race by Northwestern after winning the championship two years in succession, gained the runner-up position by overwhelming Ohio state, 27 to 0. Michigan atoned for a poor start by beating Minnesota and tying Iowa, besides conquering Harvard in the Wolverines' last three games. Chicago fared poorly in the Big Ten, but added the inter-sectional scalp of Washington Saturday to that of Princeton.

Detroit unexpectedly was knocked from its high perch by Oregon State's 14 to 7 victory. It was the first defeat in over two years for the Titans.

Forest Fire Is Menace to People

GRANTS PASS, Ore., Nov. 25. (AP)—A mountain trial through forests threatened by fire today was the sole avenue of escape for ranchers and residents of small towns between Gold Hill and Palmer Butte, Ore., where a forest blaze of incendiary origin resisted hundreds of fighters and seared its way toward the coast line.

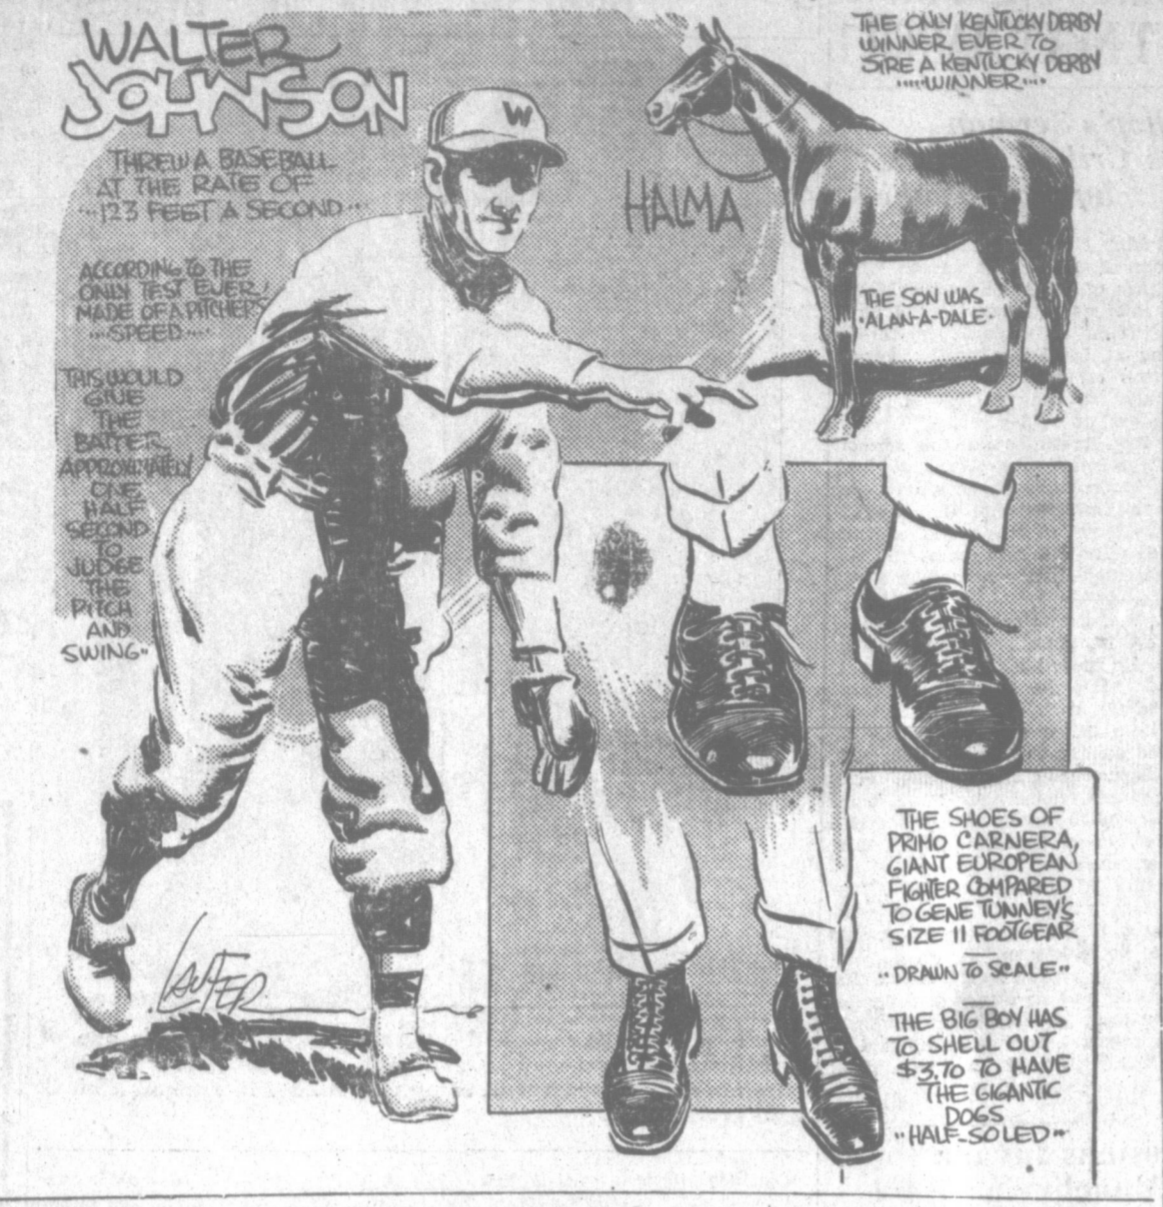

United States forestry service officials here expressed apprehension over the position of families in the narrow valley leading into Gold Hill, and broadcast a general alarm.

While hundreds of men were fighting the Gold Hill and Jack Creek fires and scores of others were pushing through short cuts in the wilderness to augment forces, rangers, under direction of James H. Billingsley, supervisor of the Siskiyou National forest, were searching for unidentified persons believed guilty of starting the blaze.

The last line of communication was destroyed between Grants Pass and Brookings, village of two hundred persons which was swept by the advancing Rouge valley fire last night, and forestry officials dispatched runners to return with information.

FOUR BIG GAMES WILL END MOST SPECTACULAR SEASON OF SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS—Four games, two of them packed with all the elements that make the football fans thankful he is alive, will ring down with the curtain this week on the most spectacular campaign the Southwest conference has seen.

Headlining the closing week's bill of fare will be the championship fray Saturday at Fort Worth between Texas Christian university and Southern Methodist, youngest members of the conference. The Frogs will be seeking their first title, the Methodists, their third. Demand for tickets already has exceeded the 20,000 seating capacity of Clark field.

Some 32,000 fans will swarm into College Station Thanksgiving day for the annual bout between Texas university and the Texas Aggies. It will be the first time in many a day the Longhorns and Cadets have clashed without one or the other playing for the title. Tradition, however, says it is the game to attend, and they will have their audience from every corner of Texas.

Less color is attached to the week's other attractions. The Baylor Bears, heavy pre-season favorites, find themselves matched with the lowly Rice Institute Owls at Houston, out of the race and nothing to be done about it. After taking healthy beatings from T. C. U. and S. M. U. on successive week-ends, the Bears will be favored to wind up with a victory over the Owls. They play Saturday.

Arkansas university will close a fairly successful season against the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater. As the bout will count in the Razorbacks' standing, a victory would enable them to finish above 500 per cent. They play Thanksgiving day. The Porters have won six out of eight games played.

Few, if any, fans could have foreseen ed, losing only to Baylor and Texas. Two months ago the meeting between the Mustangs and Frogs for the championship. Fewer would have been willing to predict the Frogs would batter their way to nine straight victories in their path to the finals and the Methodists go through a program of ten games without meeting defeat. But there is little doubt now that the two "baby" members are among the most powerful and versatile eleven in conference history. Their meeting should be a classic.

The Frogs, as a result of their decisive win over Baylor, 34 to 7, will enter the championship melee slight favorites. As Southern Methodist has a tie with Texas university against its record, the Christians will need only to hold the Mustangs to a draw to capture the crown. There is no belief

Senator Warren of Wyoming Dies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (AP)—Death has taken Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, veteran of the rugged west, who came to the United States to serve longer in the United States senate than any man in history.

With his wife, his son Fred, and his son-in-law, General John J. Pershing, at his bedside, the elderly legislator died yesterday from pneumonia and proclititis. He was 85 years of age.

Cannons Boom For Clemenceau

PARIS, Nov. 25. (AP)—The cannon of the Armistice at noon today began the 101-gun salute, which was notification to the populace that the body of Georges Clemenceau, father of victory, had been lowered to its last resting place in the hills of its native Vendee, near Mouchamps.

The roar of the guns, located on the parade ground of Des Invalides, reverberated through the city, and good Frenchmen stopped and raised their hats in their own salute to the statesmen who died yesterday morning.

Paris could not hear, but every French battery throughout the republic and its possessions, and every French warship on the high seas joined in the same roaring salute of 101 guns.

The body of Clemenceau left the capital at 2 a. m., en route to its last resting place.

There was no muffled drum beat, no oratory, no acclamation to speed the body on its last journey. Instead the former premier's last behest was carried out to the letter with the simplicity he desired.

A hearse drove up before the light in front of the departed statesman's door, the only light kept thereabout in the dimly illuminated street. Four men dressed in black went inside the courtyard and in a few minutes emerged with the light oak coffin.

Only a little group, constituted of police chappe, the artist Gilbert Bellan and a few neighbors witnessed the removal.

After the hearse four automobiles drove up, and 30 guests, those invited by the dead man himself in his last hours, emerged from the house and, saluting the little group of spectators, found their places inside the cars. An automobile containing the special police commissary, Dupon de La Forcade, took the lead, and the cortege started on its 250-mile journey while an adjacent clock struck, tolling a knell.

Legion in Charge of Funeral Here for A. L. Hammett

The local American Legion post headed by Commander Paul T. Hill and Chaplain Lee Harrah held a recognition service at the funeral home of Albert L. Hammett Saturday afternoon. Hammett was fatally injured by a falling timber at a rig near Pampa last Friday.

Palbearers were rig builders, friends of his, from Gary county oil fields, while the honorary palbearers were members of the American Legion. Taps were sounded at the ex-soldier's grave. The Legion firing squad fired a volley of shot in honor of the departed comrade.

The G. C. Malone Funeral home, where services were conducted by Rev. James Todd, Jr., was crowded to capacity by friends and acquaintances of Hammett.

Among those attending the service were the following from out of the city: Miss Violet Young of Borger, Mr. Hammett's stepdaughter; Harold Young, stepson from Clovis, N. M. Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hudson of Bell Plains, Mrs. R. A. Sines of Wayonka, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Crepps and daughter, Mrs. Robert Ellis, and Roy Roper of Borger.

The Avenging Parrot

©1929 by NEA Service, Inc. by Anne Austin, author of 'The Black Pigeon', 'Rival Wives', etc.

CHAPTER I "WELL, Bonnie," O'Brien challenged, when Dundee had finished reading the letter. "Looks like a big case, doesn't it?" and he winked again at Lieut. Strawn...

"I die by treachery: It burns my heart I must depart, And get avenged be." "Have you gone clean daff over the Hogarth woman?" his uncle demanded in genuine astonishment...

PARROT—

my time reading everything on criminology that I could lay my hands on, I don't think I'm overburdened with an education, sir."

"Hmm! A story-book detective," Lieut. Strawn commented, but there was a glint of not unkindly humor in his gray eyes. "I'm afraid you're going to be disappointed in Hamilton as a crime center, Dundee. Offhand, I can't recall a single case where a rich old man was found dead in his library, a carved dagger in his heart, and doors and windows barred. And so far as I know there's not a single house in all Hamilton with a secret passage."

O'Brien chuckled. "You're right, Jawn I'm ashamed of our murderers. Not an ounce of originality in a jailful of 'em! Just old-fashioned killers, the lot of 'em—shooting off 32's, carving their wives or sweethearts with razors or butcher knives. Sometimes the ladies serve arsenic sandwiches at their tea parties, but on the whole, my boy, they give us a pretty dull time of it, leaving so many clues lying around that sometimes Jawn Strawn here is almost ashamed to take the taxpayers' money."

"Excuse me, Mr. O'Brien," a girl's voice spoke from the doorway, "but here's a special delivery letter for you marked 'Personal.'"

"Eh?—Oh, all right—No, you needn't wait, Miss Crane," the police commissioner said rather pointedly, as he saw his secretary's eyes lingering upon the handsome face of his nephew.

As the girl—not a very pretty one, but striving by make-up arts to appear so—left the room, the police commissioner slit the envelope drew out three sheets of cheap, blue-lined tablet paper, and began to read.

"Another nut," he muttered as he finished, and tossed the letter across the desk to Strawn. "Poor old lady—bored—trying to kick up a little excitement," he added to Dundee, by way of explanation. "We get hundreds of nut letters in the course of a year. Some of the writers are plain crazy, some trying to cause trouble for their private enemies, some out to kid the police—"

"And which kind is this?" Bonnie Dundee asked interestedly.

"The commonest of all," O'Brien chuckled, shaking his head of frost-touched red hair at his eager nephew. "Nothing here to interest a rising young Sherlock Holmes. Just an old lady who's got a bug in her brain that all her fellow-boarders are plotting to kill her. What's that high-falutin' name you college boys have for it?"

"Persecution complex," Bonnie grinned. "Pardon—may I see the letter?"

Strawn, who had made no comment on the letter as he read it, beyond a disgusted snort, passed the sheets to the young man.

Dundee's bright blue eyes traveled swiftly down the first page of small, precise handwriting in green ink; then his audience of two saw him frown, as he began to re-read the sheet.

O'Brien winked at Strawn, and the police lieutenant returned the pleasantry with a great solemnity.

But Dundee's attention was concentrated on the letter:

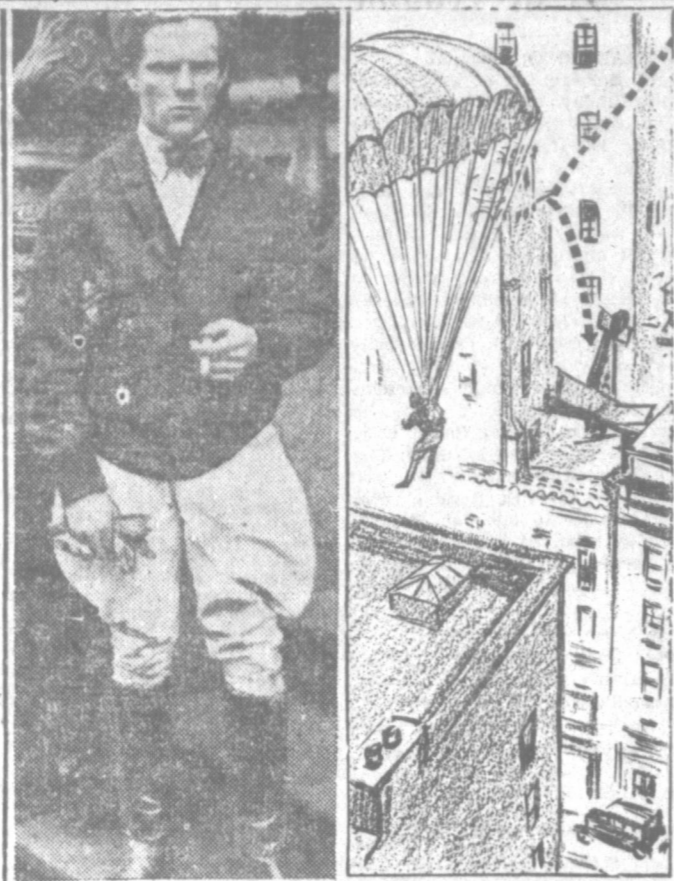

The Rhodes House,
511 Chestnut Ave.,
June 29, 1929.
Police Commissioner Patrick C. O'Brien
City Hall,
Hamilton.
Dear Sir:

I read one of your speeches in the paper when you were running for reelection. You said something like this: "My aim as police commissioner of Hamilton, has been and will be to decrease crime by sound and logical methods of prevention. In my opinion, crime prevention is of even greater importance than crime detection." There was a lot more to it, of course, but I thought then you were a mighty sensible man.

Well, Mr. Commissioner, I was glad you were re-elected, although I couldn't get out to vote for you, because I haven't been able to walk down a flight of stairs for more than two years. I weigh over 300 pounds, and I have what the doctors call fatty degeneration of the heart.

But now I want to remind you of what you said in those election speeches and ask you to prevent my murder. No, I'm not crazy, and I do not know for certain that my life is in danger. It's because of my money, though I haven't got as much as those who would like to get it, by fair means or foul, think I have. Everything I have in the world is in my room, on the second floor of the Rhodes House, which is a boarding house, as you probably know. First and last, and by one way or another, I've made a good many enemies during the five years I've lived here, and all because of the money.

Plane Crashes Among Skyscrapers

There's no use writing me a letter, telling me to put my money in a bank, so I won't be murdered for it. I have good cause to put no faith in banks, and my bad heart would keep me from going to the bank to get any of it out when I needed it.

What I want you to do is to send a plainclothes detective to talk to me, and to protect me from the fate that I am sure is hanging over me. I'll name no names now, but when your detective comes, I'll have plenty to tell him—enough to convince him that I'm not the silly old fool you're thinking me now.

If you want to prevent the robbery and probably the murder of an old woman who has never done anything worse in her life than to arouse in her fellow-boarders the passion of greed, you will do as I ask.

Respectively yours,
(MRS) EMMA HOGARTH
P. S.—Please tell your detective not to let on to anyone, not even to Mrs. Rhodes, my landlady, that he is a detective.
E. H.

BABY WINNER IN BOUT WITH THIS BURGLAR

CHICAGO, Nov. 25. (P)—A baby and burglar had a fight yesterday. The baby, after taking one on the head, came back strong to win the decision.

Lorraine Glauner is only eight months old. She was cooling in her carriage, parked in front of the Glauner home. All of a sudden she yelled. Mother looked out the window. She saw the baby and a great big man disputing possession of Mrs. Glauner's purse with which the baby had been playing. The big man wanted to take it, but Lorraine objected.

When baby yelled, the great big man gave her a push in the face. Baby let go the purse and turned on the lungs. Mrs. Glauner called the police. They arrived and began scouting around the neighborhood. Baby Lorraine was not particularly impressed and eventually went to sleep in her carriage.

The policeman returned. Baby had awakened. She was having the time of her life with her mama's purse.

The burglar had been back. He realized Lorraine had won the scrap and was willing to concede her purse. The original $15 was there, all except 75 cents which the burglar may have kept for training expenses.
