Bridge Burns as Oil on River Ignites

POWER PLANT IS MENACED BY FLAMES

Similar Blaze Does Damage in Kansas City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 3. (AP)—Flames which broke out on the city surface of the North Canadian river, both east of Harrah, and west of Spencer, destroyed a small bridge this morning, spread upstream and threatened the plant of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric company which furnishes most of the power for Oklahoma City.

The fire was fed by the thick coat of oil that has covered the river surface since last Friday as a result of the wild flow of the C. E. Stout gusher which was brought under control yesterday afternoon. As the river makes a bend and traverses the countryside in both directions of Spencer, residents of that town were perturbed by the outbreak as there is a large abandoned flour mill not far from the blaze. A report came that fire had broken out in the river east of Spencer also, adding to the anxiety.

One Fire Burns Out
A fire which broke out on the river a few miles closer to the capitol yesterday afternoon burned itself out late last night. It was confined to a small area of the water's surface and the swift current flow prevented it from spreading back toward the wild gusher. As the eddies of oil reached the confluence the crude was consumed, thus preventing spread of the blaze down stream, observers said today's fire was burning in the same manner.

The two towns are several miles apart and fire broke out at two points, near each town. The river flows through the northwest section of Oklahoma City, where residents watched the flames encroach at noon, less than two miles away.

Citizens of Harrah, attracted to the second blaze, east of their town, saw the bridge burn. Little fear was felt, however, until the flames began to spread up stream and approach the power plant.

From Stout Gusher
The oil film on the river resulted from the wild flow of the C. E. Stout gusher, which was shut in yesterday afternoon after three days of relentless gushing.

Company officials put a crew of men at work this afternoon to fight the flames should they get closer to the power plant. The flames have about three miles to travel, following the winding route of the river, to reach Spencer.

Should the blaze reach Spencer, a serious conflagration threatens, Bob Hendricks, garage owner of that town, said in a telephone message to the Associated Press. The abandoned Canadian River mill stands on the river, with a line of

Bad Saturday Night
"Saturday night whiskey" landed 15 persons in the city jail and eight in the county jail, it was learned this morning when a total of 23 pleas guilty to charges of intoxication, disturbing the peace and affray were entered by county officials at the Riverside cafe in the South field during the height of a free-for-all fight. Four men were nursing lacerated scalps, black eyes and swollen, bruised faces. Several pleaded guilty to charges of affray in city court.

Thursday Dollar Day to Be Large

"Thursday will be our biggest Dollar Day," say Pampa merchants, who are now making extensive preparations for the event. Items which every family needs and which have never been offered before will be on sale Thursday. New fall merchandise, just what is being needed for cold weather, is being reduced for Thursday selling.

Dollar Day, which was originated by the Daily News this spring, has proven one of the most popular buying days of the month. The wide range of items and the low prices made by merchants for that day have brought buyers from all over the trade territory.

Come to Pampa Thursday. Pampa is always a good shopping town but will be even better Thursday.

PAMPA—CITY OF OIL AND WHEAT—CITY OF GOOD HOMES

PAMPA, GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS, MONDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 3, 1930.

WURZBACH IS IN HARD RACE

Congressional Contest Is One of Hottest in Texas

By The Associated Press
Tomorrow's election in Texas is generally considered devoid of close races except in the fourteenth congressional district where Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach, Republican, is opposed by Henry B. Diekmann, Democratic nominee.

In other congressional districts and in the statewide race, election or the Democratic nominee was considered a certainty. The only contest apparently was in the state of the state Republican vote, which many Democrats claim will not carry 100,000, the number necessary for the Republicans to be able to hold a primary two years hence.

The outcome of the vote on five proposed constitutional amendments will be regarded with interest. Two of the changes would double the length of legislative sessions and double the pay of legislators with a 50 per cent decrease in mileage allowances.

A third would eliminate the enforced three-month vacation for the state supreme court. The other two deal with the oil property of the University of Texas. One would enable counties to tax the state on this land within their boundaries. The other would widen the investment field on the returns from these holdings.

The apparent harmony in the ranks of the Democratic party, has been a surprise regarding tomorrow's voting. Most observers predict that not more than a half million persons will go to the polls.

This year's active campaign on behalf of Col. William E. Talbot of Dallas, Republican nominee for governor, has been ignored by his opponent, Ross S. Sterling of Houston, who has not made a campaign.

Both Republicans and Socialists have a complete state ticket and the Communists have three entrants. Several Republicans are running for congress.

The Republican campaign for Col. Talbot, which has been carried on by more than 90 speakers was still in progress today.

Wurzbach, the lone Texas Republican in congress, has represented his district since 1920 notwithstanding troubles with the state O. P. organization. Many Democrats have aided him. This year the Democrats worried with a state campaign have given outside help to his opponent, United States Senator Morris Sheppard, who is up for re-election tomorrow, and Tom Connally have spoken for Diekmann in his district.

New Feeble Burglars
CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Feeble burglars have made their first appearance in Chicago.

The tower town miniature golf course was their victim. They took the Saturday night receipts and left nothing in their place but some fingerprints which the police hope will lead to their arrest.

Delayed a War

History shows that beautiful women have started plenty of wars, but Miss Beatrice Lee, above, and other contestants in the international beauty contest at Rio de Janeiro probably were the first ever to postpone one. Miss Lee, 17, who was "Miss United States" and finished third in the contest, declared when she arrived in New York that the Brazilian revolution was delayed so that the fair visitors might not be endangered.

NEW WELLS TOPPING PAY

Wilcox Completes Test on the Combs-Worley Tract

Swabbing in a half dozen wells, preparatory to completion, was reported this morning by various oil companies. One producer was reported completed.

Wilcox Oil and Gas company's No. 33 Combs-Worley, section 84, block 3, produced 170 barrels in a 24-hour period which ended yesterday. A total depth of 3,032 feet has been reached. Swabbing was being continued this morning. The hole may be drilled deeper. Some gas is coming with the oil and decision to flow the well may be made. Pay was encountered from 3,049-52 feet.

Skelly Oil company's No. 1 Vickers, section 127, block 3, was shot with 180 quarts, and the well swabbed 260 barrels in 12 hours. It is still on the swab. Total depth of the hole is 3,290 feet. The same company's No. 2 Vickers is drilling at 3,300 feet. Pay was struck at 3,168 feet. The well is spraying this morning.

Denson's No. 1 Cobb in section 184, block 3, just over the line in Carson county is drilling ahead at 3,110 feet. An increase of gas was reported yesterday. What was estimated as a 200-barrel a day pay was struck last week.

English-American-Gibbs's No. 2 Phillips, section 127, block 3, is drilling in the line. Gulf Production company's No. 3 Thompson, section 126, block 3, was completed for about 200 barrels. Texas company's No. 3 Brown is drilling at 2,890 feet. The same company's No. 5-Harrah is drilling in the line at 2,825 feet. The first well is located in section 127, block 3, and the second in section 126, block 3. Empire Gas and Fuel company's No. 2 and No. 3 Saller, section 126,

MARY GARDEN CALMS DOWN

But She May Throw Brick or Two Tonight

AMARILLO, Nov. 3. (AP)—The last word of an argument, proverbially a feminine syllable, was a part of Mary Garden's program for her concert here tonight.

The singer who was described last year by Gene Howe, Amarillo editor, as being "so old she uttered," announced she would preface her concert with a brief discussion tonight of Howe and his knowledge of opera.

Miss Garden and Howe had tea together yesterday and as an occasion for passing the calumet, the event was a success. But Miss Garden said afterward Howe was "the queerest person I have ever encountered."

Howe, however, capitulated completely and declared he was her "devoted admirer for life."

"I was advised at the Howe home to 50 invited guests, which several hundred uninvited guests, surged outside the house."

"I think I was the only one there who really had tea," Miss Garden said afterward. "I learned that a Texas tea party is really a coffee party."

The traditional Texas vaquero costume of boots, chape, six-shooter and 10-gallon sombrero were left at home for the occasion and Howe wore a frock coat, while Mayor Ernest O. Thompson appeared in a dinner jacket.

In a speech of greeting, Howe told the singer he was "never so embarrassed in my life. Please do not question me as to my knowledge of music. I did spend three months in Europe studying grand opera when I was a boy but that was a long time ago."

While here, she is occupying the bungalow of May Peterson, grand opera singer, atop a large hotel. Miss Peterson, who is the wife of Mayor Thompson, is away on a concert tour.

Entertainers for Broadcast Needed

Equipping of the remote control studio by which Pampa will go on the air Wednesday evening was going forward rapidly today.

Sam Fenberg, chairman of the arrangements committee, said he still had some time available to local entertainers. He urged that anyone desiring to contribute to the program get in touch with him at once at the Diamond shop.

Tryouts will be held Wednesday afternoon to ascertain length of program units and to allow testing of equipment.

A gospel meeting is now being conducted at the Holiness chapel, 808 E. Ballard, by Mrs. Arna L. Forbes, evangelist from Jefferson City, Missouri. Mrs. T. E. Johnson is local pastor.

EMPIRE WELL LOOKS GOOD AS IT DRILLS

Sullivan Area Will Be Tested by It Soon

Interest of Gray county operators was centered this morning upon Empire Gas and Fuel company's No. 1 Sullivan, section 126, block 3, which yesterday encountered a million feet of gas from 2,975-30 feet. The well is drilling at 2,994 feet with a strong showing.

This depth is 206 feet short of the total depth reached in the Graham-Cree-Boover's No. 1 Sullivan, to which the Empire well is an offset. At 2,990 feet the Graham well came in for a production of 10,000 barrels and 40 million feet of gas. It had a showing of gas at the depth where the Empire offset is now drilling. When the Graham well came in there was much speculation and discussion as to whether the producer was a freak or whether a new pool had been tapped. The Empire well is scheduled to be completed the latter part of this week. The Graham well is the largest ever brought in on the plains proper, most of the big producers in the Panhandle being located in river "breaks."

Status of other offsets to the Graham well, and of other wells in the same area is as follows:

Skelly's No. 1 Heitholt, section 153, block 3, drilling at 2,520 feet.

Mid-Gray Oil company's No. 1 McCullough, section 153, block 3, drilling at 2,110 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 2 Latham, section 153, block 3, drilling at 2,050 feet.

Same company's No. 1 Heitholt is rigging up a rotary and its No. 2 Heitholt is building a rig.

Judge Saunders Unable to Appear in Court Today

Illness of Judge Will Saunders prevented his clients, H. J. Shadwick, A. C. Dale and Walter Moon from going to trial today on charges of illegally taking 28,000 gallons of gasoline from the Phillips Petroleum company and Phillips Refining company. The cases were set for today.

Clash Calhoun, attorney in the Shadwick case on the docket, also was ill. He telephoned Judge Ewing that he underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday.

"Dutch" Payne is being tried this afternoon on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale. Henry Atkins who was arrested and indicted jointly with Payne on the same charge last week, drew a one-year sentence in the penitentiary.

Graduation on Program
CANYON, Nov. 3. (Special)—Dr. Alvin Lynch of Houston and Miss Lillian Cash of Bonham, both graduates of the West Texas State Teachers college, will appear upon the program of the mathematics section of the Texas State Teachers association.

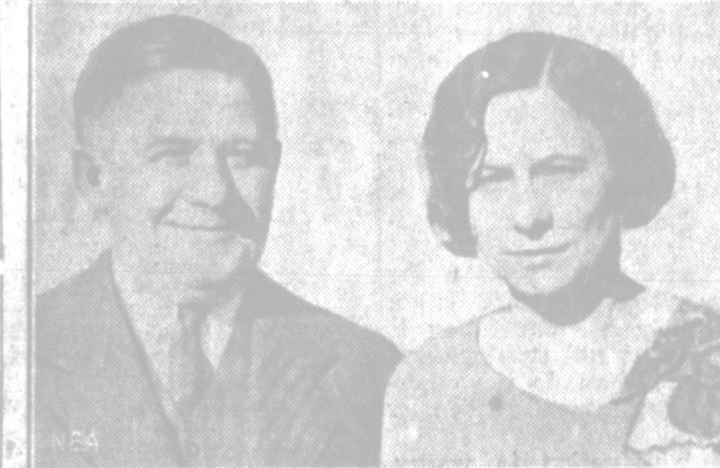

The meeting of the association will be held Nov. 27-28-29 at Houston. Doctor Lynch received his degree from the Canyon college in 1923 and Miss Cash in 1925.

Banker's Kidnapers Is Caught

While Earl L. Yocum, wealthy bank president, returned to his home at Gales, Ill., and let people think that his family had paid the $50,000 ransom demanded by his kidnapers, all of the evidence he had was in the hands of the Illinois authorities, who got busy, seized two of the gang of four and wrung a confession from one of them. This picture shows Police Chief J. D. Krumtinger, of Wewanee, Ill. (left), with Verne Ahlgren, prisoner who has confessed.

Here are Mr. and Mrs. Yocum, photographed together after the banker's return. She directed the negotiations for his release and duped the kidnapers.

ATTORNEY FOR LANDOWNERS IS CONFIDENT SUPREME COURT TO RULE FOR CLIENTS IN CONTEST

That the writ of error granted in the case of the State of Texas vs. C. W. Bradford and others, involving the title question in the river bed litigation, was made in response to pleas of both sides was revealed here today by Judge S. D. Stennis, attorney for the landowners.

The application of Mr. Bradford and others was on the basis of the appellate court decision that the river bed was navigable but that the Small bill validated titles thereto. The state's application was on the claim that the Small bill did not validate the titles.

The case is now wide open before the Supreme Court, and Mr. Stennis is of the opinion that the Supreme Court should show no prejudice in deciding to review all angles of the case. The importance of the case and the fact that the state is a party caused the writ to be granted. Unless the case is moved forward on the docket, it may be a year before the Supreme Court announces its decision.

NO LOOT IS OBTAINED IN NIGHT RAID

Ward Packing Co. Is Victim of New Burglary

The end of a week of hold-ups, burglaries, and thefts was featured by the daring theft and subsequent demolition of Ward Packing company's safe some time Saturday night.

The safe which contained no money, was rolled through the front door and across the Berger highway to a point 150 yards southwest of the wholesale house in West Pampa, where it was forced open and looted of valuable papers. Most of these, including notes, were found a mile from the store yesterday.

The burglars used a long, heavy combination chisel and sledge hammer to open the front door and the safe. This tool of solid iron was found in the safe yesterday morning. Sheriff E. B. Graves expressed the opinion that the robbers forgot to take it with them when they saw someone approaching.

Tracks leading from the safe across the field, indicated that the burglars left in haste, it was pointed out.

The sheriff said the tool was the same used when burglars stole and looted the safe at the Magnolia filling station recently, and that the packing company safe was opened in the same manner as the Magnolia safe.

Officers considered the burglary the boldest made here in months since the thieves had to roll the safe across the Berger highway over which an almost constant stream of traffic passes on Saturday night. Workers in the West Pampa oil field pass along this road every few minutes after midnight. Scratches on the pavement was considered positive proof that the safe was dragged across the highway.

Amendments To Depend On Total Vote In State

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Only apathy of Texas voters can defeat the amendments tomorrow, declared Rep. Penrose B. Metcalfe here today after conducting a statewide campaign in behalf of the university land amendment. Rep. Metcalfe urged voters to go to the polls throughout Texas Tuesday to give 17 counties a square deal on the university's 2,000,320 acres of tax-exempt lands.

He advances these reasons for a vote: It will not cost the university one cent, it is so phrased that it protects the state from excess valuations in the counties in question, it will cost the tax payers less than two cents per thousand dollar valuation, it will remove a discriminatory practice and render justice to the counties who have been giving more to and getting less from the university proportionally than any other, and it has precedent in that penitentiary lands and county owned school lands pay taxes for county purposes.

They Saved the Dog
CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Three weeks ago the family of George Randall took in a stray dog. Neighbors, aroused last night by the dog's barking called police, who found Randall and a roofer, Louis Hasky, 31, in time to prevent asphyxiation by gas. Mrs. Randall, however, was dead.

Gas from a heater which had been accidentally extinguished, was the cause.

DAILY WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Aside from the political aspects of Mr. John J. Raskob's radio speech the other night the most significant phase of the Democratic national chairman's utterances was that which found him lining up with Senator James Eli Watson of Indiana, the Senate's Republican floor leader, in favor of the five-day week.

The fact that a hard-headed capitalist of Raskob's type and a politician who admits he is a hard-boiled "reactionary" should come together on this important question might seem to indicate that the proposal of a five-day working week for American wage-earners need no longer be considered either radical or difficult of acceptance by industry.

Watson and Raskob each gave strong reasons for general adoption of the five-day week and each had a different reason, although primarily recommending it for the maintenance of prosperity and full employment.

"The five-day week, without reduction in wages, must become universal and permanent in America in order to prevent future business depressions and resulting unemployment," said Senator Watson.

Watson pointed to the displacement of 2,000,000 men by machines "within six years" and predicted that even after recovery from the present depression there would still be a great army of unemployed unless working hours were shortened.

Then along came Raskob with a national radio speech designed to meet the Republican contention that the Democrats had suggested no constructive program of their own to carry out in case they obtained control of Congress.

As his very first point he urged "the five-day week for workmen, which means for all of us." Instead of dwelling on Watson's suggestion that shorter hours meant a wider distribution of jobs he developed the theory of consumption of leisure which received considerable attention in the important report of the Committee on Recent Economic Changes.

"The only way to increase production and provide work is to increase consumption," Raskob said. "Given high wages and such facilities as installment selling, he explained, people had demonstrated that they would take advantage of opportunities to consume.

Leisure means recreation, he continued, and recreation means consumption. Recreational parties of all kinds would be organized as soon as the week's work was finished Friday afternoon.

Many persons have been down and out but have come out of the slump and have made good and prosperous citizens. There is not a city in the nation that will not help out the needy if they only would apply for assistance.

We have charitable institutions for this reason. These institutions are rendering aid to hundreds and will aid many more before the winter is over.

Besides the fiendish slayings, there is an increasing number of petty thefts. We know a lot of these are done by people who need money but there is no excuse for them.

There are a few persons and families in this city who are hard pressed and are out of work. They should not give up but apply at the charitable organizations for aid until they can get located in some position that will set them on their feet.—C. G.

Intermediate Groups, First Baptist Church, Are Entertained at Parties

Intermediate groups of the First Baptist Sunday school were guests for three gala parties on Friday and Saturday. Teachers and officers of the department and their guests were entertained by their superintendent, Mrs. T. F. Morton on Friday evening, and on the same evening the class taught by Mrs. W. D. Benton was complimented. On Saturday evening, girls of Miss Mabel Davis' class entertained boys in Mrs. Earl O'Keefe's class.

Teachers and officers gathered at 8 o'clock Friday in the Morton home, 417 Yeager. Gay costumes were worn, and in a paper sack was tied on the hand of each person, a prize being offered to the one who could shake hands the greatest number of times before the sack burst.

Fortunes were told, and several other lively games and contests were enjoyed before an hour of forty-two. Pumpkin pie and whipped cream was served with coffee.

John In Entertaining

Jack and Erdine Benton joined in entertaining the members of their mother's Sunday school class Friday evening. As guests arrived, they were invited by ghosts into gaily decorated rooms, where lively games were enjoyed and refreshments of fruit salad with whipped cream, cake, and cocoa were served.

T. E. L. Members Are Entertained by Berger Group

Members of the T. E. L. Sunday school class, First Baptist church, were entertained by the T. E. L. class of the First Baptist church of Berger Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Collins, Berger.

Halloween costumes and puns were enjoyed and dainty refreshments were served.

Those attending from Pampa were Mrs. Fred Thompson, Mrs. Charles Gilmore, Mrs. E. A. Sharp, Mrs. Bob Malone, Mrs. F. E. Hoffman, Mrs. T. F. Jameson, Mrs. J. H. Ayres, Mrs. J. E. McKamy, Mrs. C. L. McKinney, Mrs. James McKee, Mrs. Will Brown, Mrs. John Anderson, Mrs. H. M. Stokes, Mrs. Charles Kentling, Mrs. E. S. Walker, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Montgomery, and Miss Olive Montgomery.

Light Are Low

Lights were turned low and rooms were decorated in "spooky" Halloween symbols for the party given members of the classes taught by Miss Mabel Davis and Mrs. Earl O'Keefe in Miss Davis' home on Friday, Mrs. George E. Wolfe, Miss Leola Brown, and Miss Warren.

Tradition Topples At Opera Opening As Cameras Invade Glittering Halls; Famous Folk Are Present

For the first time in 46 years, the red velvet corridors and galleries of the Metropolitan opera house—used to the feet of the town's first families—were overrun with pho-

NEW YORK (AP)—Staid old tradition at the opera this year took another blow—look it like a man.

Photographers, snapping scenes and celebrities for the outside world.

A new lamp, which eliminated flashlight smoke and boom, gave the news photographers entire and they made the most of the opportunity. It was estimated that more than 30 were in a brilliant opening night crowd of more than 4,000 social lights, music lovers and curious spectators.

They called out the women in jewels and ermine, and their escorts in tails and toppers, to pose for close ups. Said one cameraman: "They seemed to like it."

Flashlights have always been barred from the Metropolitan. The first interior photographs of any kind were those made at the debut of Marian Talley and they were time exposures.

For their flashlight shots, the camera clickers had to be content with catching arriving or departing parties between doorway and limousine while the ever-staring sidewalk spectators shoved and pushed.

The Vanderbilts, the Belmonts and the Astors, opera-goers since gay days when the audience danced on a platform after the performance, were absent at the opening of the 1930 season.

CELIA MITCHELL, IV, faces a new life when she leaves the home in Baltimore where she has lived with her senseless mother, MARGARET ROGERS, for her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her grandmother in a stately New York dwelling.

The girl had not even known her father was living until the day he came to the Baltimore apartment. Celia had supposed BOB ROGERS, her mother's second husband, to be her father. Mitchell offers Celia a life of wealth, and immediately everything changes. She leaves her mother, unaware that Margaret Rogers is seriously ill, and she leaves BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, who swears that some day he and Celia will be married.

The girl is lonely and ill at ease in her new home. Mitchell finds her in tears and is worried. He calls on MRS. EVELYN PARSONS, a beautiful widow whose husband was Mitchell's close friend. Mrs. Parsons agrees to introduce Celia to the right set of young people. It is obvious she is interested in the girl, as it means to gain Mitchell's affection. To this end she invites Celia to spend a week-end at her Long Island home. Just as they are leaving a servant (press something into Celia's hand.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

The motor car turned into a wood of lane and ahead, set well back from the road, Celia saw a large white house. Mrs. Parsons waved a hand toward it.

"That's the place," she said. Then glancing at a wrist watch she added, "we've made good time driving."

"It looks lovely!" Celia murmured.

"I'm fond of it. This is where all my happiest hours have been spent. Evelyn Parsons' voice seemed so sweet, so sweetly brave that sympathy welled in the girl's heart. She had been told that Mrs. Parsons was a recent widow. And she had up to that practically every visitor to Larchwood had heard the same speech about Evelyn's "happiest hours."

"The house was named for this double row of trees" Mrs. Parsons explained. "It was built by Dwight's father years ago."

Celia, feeling she was in the presence of grief, remained silent.

The car swung into the driveway. Close-cut rolling lawn stretched to either side, and beyond, shading the rambling colonial house were more of the Larch trees. There were hollyhocks, larkspurs and other old-fashioned flowers at each side of the entrance. Green and white strip of awnings covering the windows. Larchwood appeared delightfully hospitable.

"What a beautiful home!" Celia Mitchell exclaimed. She was contrasting it mentally with the Mitchell's rambling town home.

Mrs. Parsons smiled. The chauffeur was holding the door of the car back for the two to descend. Mrs. Parsons gave him instructions about the baggage and then let the way to the house.

A maid in becoming green uniform opened the door.

"Good morning, Hilda. Have there been any telephone messages this morning?"

"No, ma'am."

"Good! Celia, Hilda will show you to your room and whenever you're ready, my dear, we'll have luncheon. There are one or two housekeeping tasks I must attend to. Shall we say luncheon at 1:30?"

"Oh, yes—any time. You mustn't bother about us."

"Not the slightest bother! Take Miss Mitchell upstairs, Hilda."

Celia followed the maid. She was conducted to a cool and airy bedroom on the second floor. The room was brightly furnished in early American style with an old-fashioned four-posted bed, small, colorful rugs, chairs and a high chest of walnut. There were ruffled white tie-back curtains at the windows and a blue patterned bowl of daisies and snap dragons stood on a small table.

Hilda departed and Celia made sure that the door had closed securely behind her. Now that she was alone she felt a little excited. For an instant she listened at the door, then sitting herself on the bed, drawing from her jacket a crumpled object. It was a letter.

"Miss Celia Mitchell, East 21st street, New York," the address read. The handwriting appeared to be familiar. Celia surveyed it a moment. Then she pressed the envelope to her heart. She flung her head back, smiling ecstatically.

Quickly Celia ripped the envelope open and drew forth the folded sheets. The smile vanished. Celia read feverishly:

Quickly Celia ripped the envelope open and drew forth the folded sheets. The smile vanished. Celia read feverishly:

"Dear Celia: This was certainly a lough break that was isanded to me Saturday. Do you know where I was when your train pulled out? Half way to Glen Burnie chasing Joe Park, the guy who escaped from the penitentiary last week. No, we didn't get him, but it was an exciting afternoon."

"You see, I had everything lined up so I could finish early Saturday. Bradford was supposed to take my assignments after three o'clock. I was just about ready to beat it when the tip came in. Morgan yelled at me and said, 'You take this, Shields.' Well, of course there wasn't any use arguing. I didn't even have time to bluff.

"Casey went with me. It was a private tip to the city editor that Park could be found at a house out there, where a girl lives he used to be seen with before, he was sent up. All the papers in town have been playing the Park story all week. It seemed like a hot lead, and we surely burned up the road. Well—that's about all there is to tell. It turned out there wasn't any such house number, and after two hours we decided there wasn't any such girl either. Finally when we called the office Morgan decided the whole thing was phoney. There was my afternoon gone—and you gone, too!

"I called up your mother that evening, but I guess she didn't get my message. Anyhow, I wasn't able to see her until last night, and that's why I couldn't write before." She gave me the address. I hope you've been having a fine time in New York, and that your new relatives improve on acquaintance. I haven't got the rate yet. If it isn't on this week's pay check guess I'll have to have another session with the M. E.

"There isn't anything else to tell you except that it seems about a million years since you were here. It isn't any fun driving alone evenings. Looks like a long summer ahead. I certainly was sorry not to be able to say goodby at the station. Hope you'll write soon and tell me you haven't forgotten a certain evening have in mind. Believe me, I haven't. It's awfully lonesome here, Honey.

Lots of love,
BARNEY."

There was a rustle of motion in the hallway. Celia Mitchell, intent on the letter, did not hear it. The sound was repeated; then there came a knock at the door.

The glow faded from Celia's cheeks. She stood up, backing away from the door and jamming the pages into her pocket.

"Who's there, she demanded.

"You're luggage, ma'am!"

She recognized the chauffeur's voice. Celia brushed a sigh of relief and then said: "Bring the bags in."

They're not really much older than the rest of the crowd, though they've been married three years. Eve used to be Eve Carpenter. Gossiping dabbles at being an artist, and they spent as much time abroad as they do here. By the way, I understand you and your grandmother are going to France in September."

"Yes," Celia said. "I can hardly believe it, though."

"How I'd love to be the one to show you Paris!"

"Oh, Mrs. Parsons—that would be wonderful."

The older woman smiled.

"I'm glad you think so. We ARE going to be friends, aren't we, Celia dear? Good friends!"

Celia felt she should proclaim loudly that this was true. The situation called for it. And yet infrequently—but at this particular moment—Celia Mitchell was aware of a sharp, uneasy distrust of Evelyn Parsons. It was almost as though the lovely widow was too sweet, too eager to befriend her. After such moods passed Celia was always ashamed of them.

"I appreciate everything you've done for me," she answered now. "I want to be friends, Mrs. Parsons."

Evelyn Parsons patted the girl's hand.

"Sweet child!" she said. "Isn't it fine your father is going to be able to come down tomorrow? He's such a slave to his work, poor man! I suppose that's the price of brilliance."

Again Celia felt that twinge of doubt. She gazed up at her hostess and encountered serenely blue eyes, smiling lips surely incapable of deceit. Celia banished her fears and branded them evil.

But though Mrs. Parsons had insisted the girl should choose her own entertainment, she kept her young guest beside her through the afternoon. There was no opportunity for Celia to slip away and write the letter she was so eager to send. Instead she inspected the garden with Mrs. Parsons, drove to the village with Mrs. Parsons and finally welcomed guests with Mrs. Parsons. A good share of this time (though Celia did not notice it) was devoted to conversation concerning John Mitchell.

The Duncan girls and Walter Carr came late. It developed they had stopped to see some tennis matches. Eve and Courtney Brooks drove up at four o'clock in a handsome car of foreign make. Jimmy Webster who looked a great deal about his career as a young bond salesman, did not arrive until just before dinner.

There was one other guest. Celia noticed his dark hair and erect shoulders the minute he appeared. She was sitting at the far side of the living room. She saw Evelyn go forward to meet him with outstretched hand, but she could not hear Evelyn's words.

The tall youth with the dark hair bent his head. He had understood perfectly.

"Which one is she?" he asked.

TEXAS CHRISTIANS ARE TO FACE OWLS NEXT SATURDAY

Harvesters Doped to Finish Second in First Year as Class A

LONGHORNS WILL TACKLE BEAR OUTFIT

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, Nov. 3. (AP)—Texas Christian university, with seven victories and a tie to show for its efforts so far, will get down to business this week in defense of its Southwest conference football crown.

Although they have two conference wins, scored over Arkansas and the Texas Aggies, the Frogs will face what promises to be their first serious test when they engage Rice Institute Saturday at Houston. The Owls, fresh from victories over the Texas Longhorns and Sewanee Tigers on successive week ends, are calculated to prove conclusively whether the Frogs, Cy Leland and all, are the team they were last year, when they were undefeated.

As a warm-up for Saturday's conflict, the Schmidmen walloped Abilene Christian college, 62 to 0, Leland leading the way with an 81-yard romp for one of his two touchdowns. The Owls scored two touchdowns with a slashing running attack to down Sewanee, 12 to 0.

Violating with the Frog-Owl melee in popular interest will be another conference bout at Waco, between the Longhorns and Baylor Bears. The Longhorns boosted themselves into the thick of the title fight Saturday by trouncing a favored Southern Methodist eleven, 25 to 7. Baylor enjoyed a "breather" in trimming the Oklahoma Baptists, 31 to 0, at Shawnee. The meeting of the Bear and the Longhorn promises to have an important bearing on the title, with the winner automatically assuming a favorite's position.

A third conference tilt will be played at Dallas, with nothing in particular at stake. Southern Methodists, out of the running after Saturday's loss to Texas and a previous tie with Baylor, will entertain the rejuvenated Texas Aggies, who came back to nose out Centenary college, 7 to 6, at College Station.

The Aggies tickled their supporters pink by their improved showing against the Gentlemen and may be fired to give the Mustangs a real run for their money unless the Methodists display more punch than they did against the Steers.

Arkansas will be the "odd" team of the conference group for the week, meeting the Oklahoma Aggies in a non-championship affair at Fayetteville. The Razorbacks helped the conference's inter-sectional record for the season not at all by losing to Louisiana State, 27 to 12, at Shreveport.

Easily the most significant event of the past week-end was the pow-

Rose Challenges Otis Clingman

Pampa Daily News,
Sports Editor:
I understand that Mr. Clingman is returning to the rink this week. I have been six weeks wanting to get another crack at that gob and I think I am due a bout with him. It is true he beat me the last time we met but I don't think the referee gave me a square deal. And besides I think I can beat Mr. Clingman twice in 30 minutes for I never saw a sailor that could do anything. He might be a good wrestler on water but he can't do much on land.

I will appreciate it if you will print this in the newspaper. Just let Mr. Clingman and the Pampa fans know just how I feel and if Mr. Clingman isn't yellow I think he will accept my challenge.

Yours for clean sport,

FORDHAM IS LEADING ON EAST FRONT

By the Associated Press
East—Fordham remains ahead of the few unbeaten teams with six straight victories. Army and Dartmouth have not been defeated but have been tied. Fordham meets Detroit this week. Army plays Illinois and Dartmouth meets another unbeaten team, Allegheny. Elimination of Cornell from eastern championship contenders by Columbia led the week's upsets.

Big Ten—Northwestern is tied with Michigan for the lead after a 27-6 victory over Minnesota. Each has won three, and has two conference games left. Northwestern meets Indiana this week, Michigan plays Harvard.

Southern Conference—Alabama is far ahead in the race with four victories. Tulane, Florida and Georgia also are unbeaten in the conference but last two tied Saturday. Alabama-Florida heads this week's schedule. Tulane plays Auburn.

Big Six—Oklahoma leads with three victories after beating Iowa State, 19-13, but Kansas has a chance to make up ground this week and tie by beating Nebraska.

Pacific Coast—Washington State has strengthened its championship prospects by beating Oregon State, 14-7. It has a letup this week against Iowa. Oregon, idle Saturday is the only other unbeaten team. Southern California-Cal-

Barnard Ends First Season

CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American League, has finished his first term as head of the junior major baseball circuit.

Barnard, who succeeded Ban Johnson in 1927, when the league was rocked by questions of policy, ended his three year term yesterday, but will carry over until Dec. 9, when he undoubtedly will be re-elected for a similar term.

The American league, under his regime, has won three world championships.

N. Y. University Volunteers Aid Of Benefit Game

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. (AP)—New York university today volunteered the services of its football team for a post-season game for the benefit of the unemployed, the opponent, date and place of the game to be chosen by a committee of city officials and newspaper men.

After a conference with head coach "Chick" Meehan and members of the athletic committee, Albert B. Nixon, graduate manager of athletics at N. Y. U., issued the following statement:

"In view of the unemployment situation, New York university gladly volunteers the services of its football team to play a game for the benefit of the unemployed and suggests that a committee be formed by city officials and representative newspaper men to make the necessary arrangements such as selection of the opponent, date and place of the game."

N. Y. U., represented by one of the strongest teams in the east, ends its regular season Nov. 22 against Rutgers and would be in a position to play the benefit game on Thanksgiving day or on the following Saturday, Nov. 29.

CHILDRESS TO PROVIDE HARD TILT NOV. 11

Virtually assured of second place in their first year of Class A football competition the Pampa Harvesters this week will journey to Electra to defend their record in the last game away from the home field.

The Electra team lost much of its reputation in a 6-0 defeat by Plainview last week. It will be remembered that Pampa defeated Plainview 77-6 here the previous week.

Cocher Mitchell will be prepared for any onslaught at Electra, however, remembering that upsets often rise the underdogs to superhuman feats.

The Electra game has been moved forward to Friday in order to give the Harvesters time to rest up for the important Childress contest here, which will be played on November 11. Mitchell will use his reserves in the Electra game, giving the regulars only enough play to show what they can do.

The Childress game gives every indication of being the one most likely to trouble the locals. The Childress team last week defeated the luckless Wichita Falls eleven, and has only Pampa and Plainview to meet in the rest of the season.

Assuming that the Bulldogs can be whipped, Childress would finish in fourth place, with Amarillo, Pampa, and Lubbock leading the parade.

The Amarillo Sandies are leading Pampa by half a game following their tie with Lubbock Saturday. They are favored to have an easy finish with Vernon, Electra, and Wichita Falls. Coach Henry Frnka of Lubbock is quoted as denying that he agreed with Coach Cherry of the Sandies to award the game, in case of a tie, on the penetration basis. The only motive in making such an award would be to prevent a district tie with Pampa in the event that the Sandies should be held to another tie game.

The Harvesters, rated as having surprised Lubbock with that famous 12-9 victory, are now given the reputation they have won. Nothing since that victory has lent weight to the idea of an upset. The team got off to a slow start at Vernon, but finished in typical harvestier style.

THREAT

Here is Teddy Waters, who will be the first opponent of Otis Clingman in the latter's come-back wrestling match at the Pla-Mor Thursday night. Clingman's injured eye is still troubling him somewhat, and the bout will be in the nature of an experiment to see how he can stand punishment.

Chocolate Is To Meet Former Fly Champion

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. (AP)—In Madison Square Garden tonight, Kid Chocolate, Cuba's flashy negro featherweight, and Fidel LaBarba of California, who once gave up the flyweight title in favor of a college education and shortly afterward changed his mind, engage in a ten-round bout. The vague prospect of a chance at Bat Battalino's featherweight title is the lure which brings promise of a lot of action.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

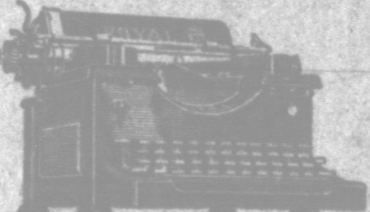

The lesson-sermon subject was "Everlasting Punishment" in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Nov. 2.

The golden text was from Proverbs 23:15. "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy."

Included in the service were the following passages from the Bible: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." Galatians 6:7-8.

Among correlative citations read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were the following: "Escape from punishment is not in accordance with God's government, since justice is the handmaid of mercy. 'Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.' Error excludes itself from harmony. Sin is its own punishment. The sinner makes his own hell by doing evil, and the saint his own heaven by doing right. The way to escape the misery of sin is to cease sinning. There is no other way."

LOOKING TOWARD CASTLE HARBOR

A Coral Cameo, Ocean Etched, Crowning a Submerged Mountain Peak—Is it the Remnant of the "Lost Continent" Atlantis?

By H. WOOD-BRUCE

Nearly six hundred miles out in the Atlantic Ocean there stands a mountain as high, almost as Mount Blanc. It is a submerged peak, of fifteen thousand feet altitude, but rising above the sea level only a few hundred feet at its highest point. Probably of volcanic origin and possibly a remnant of the "lost continent" of Atlantis.

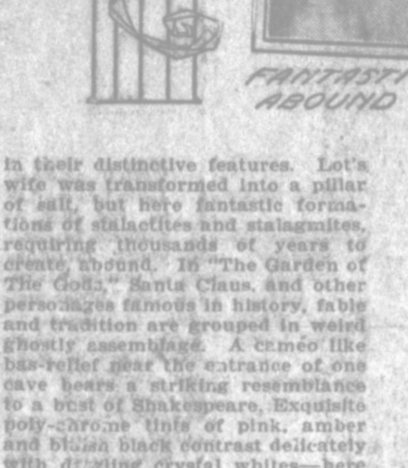

Viewed from an airplane the outline of the island resembles the half head of a giant bird. From the back of the coming steamer an excellent view of the island is obtained. It is a crown of coral upon this vast area.

ernor and Council, members of the House of Assembly are elected. In the old days of "Iron men and Wooden ships," the dense forests of cedar provided excellent material and was largely used for building boats used in whaling. Later the salt industry became important, and still later the growing of tobacco upon so large a scale that it was accepted as a medium of exchange during a money shortage. The extremely rich soil, created by decomposing red earth, very similar to the soil of the famous Pinar del Rio district of Cuba, produced a very fine tobacco. They came the various arrowroot and the Bermuda Onion—indigenous to Tenerife—the excellent small potatoes, and the glorious Easter Lily.

An Independent Group
While Bermuda is not a part of the Bahamas nor the West Indies, there is a similarity in topography, soil, climate, flora and fauna. The country-wide is very like rural England, particularly in the care that is given their walled gardens, and the English desire for exclusive aloofness and privacy, that they afford.

The homes are built rather for solid comfort than architectural effect, creating an aspect of stability and established community life. The native speech is throaty and as English as their coinage. "Thank You" is pronounced "Thank Yeh" and in some quarters a dialect "Cockney" is encountered. Like the English they are great tea drinkers and the "Five O'Clock Tea" is almost a ritual. Cricket is the popular outdoor game and "Boots and Saddles" much in vogue.

The Caves
Dame Nature has been such a Lady Bountiful in her bestowal of gifts of beauty upon this Eden Isle, that it would seem the surface of less than twenty square miles, or twenty thousand acres—proved too small an area so she was obliged to go under ground to complete her beneficent work.

FANTASTIC CAVERNS BEHIND

In their distinctive features. Let's who was transformed into a pillar of salt, but here fantastic formations of stalactites and stalagmites, requiring thousands of years to create around. In "The Garden of The Gods," Santa Claus, and other personages famous in history, fable and tradition are grouped in weird, ghostly assemblage. A cameo like bas-relief over the entrance of one cave bears a striking resemblance to a bust of Shakespeare. Exquisite poly-carbonate tints of pink, amber and bluish black contrast delicately with drabbing crystal whites—here resembling a great snow bank—there a lace work vacance of icicle-like stalactites suggesting the glories of Niagara Falls in winter. Beautiful Cathedral Caves with its domed ceiling, "Pulpit," and huge stalactite and stalagmite columns in absolute case there is a crystal clear lake, the various chambers of which may be visited in a few boat.

STREET SCENE, ST. GEORGES

domain in uncovered. Graceful waving branches of aqueous flowering plants, with here and there great creations of brain coral, fan coral, coral reefs, and specimens of those more primitive forms of animal life, the sea cucumber, and the sea anemone. The graceful angel fish, in this Fairy's Grotto, seem almost a wealth.

A Tin-Tyde Town
Hamilton, the largest city in the group of islands—situated on the way from 100 to 155 miles—is sometimes called "The Tin-Tyde Town," because of the great quantities of canned goods "tinners" vegetables and fruits, consumed there—and this condition in a climate where fresh fruits and vegetables can be raised almost the entire year round.

NATURE-MADE ARCHES ON SHORE LINE

St. George, historically, is far and away the most interesting. Home-Made Homes
The method of home building in Bermuda is unique. Notwithstanding the luxuriant vegetation, coral rock and limestone are only a few inches under the surface, and the owner can usually find material for his home right upon his land. It is not an uncommon sight to see workmen also from a limestone hill, great blocks of stone with enormous saws. Floors, walls, roofs and even partitions are constructed from this stone and coral rock. And always there must be a cistern, since the islanders are entirely dependent upon rain water for domestic purposes. Several attempts to obtain a more uniform supply by drilling artesian wells have not been rewarded with success.

CATHEDRAL CAVE

many exquisite verses upon its beauties. Also our Mark Twain and William Dean Howells and Charles Dudley Warner found it worthy of their rhapsodies.

The "Hundred Miles" of narrow winding roads unfold a kaleidoscope of ever changing views. Along one stretch a pastoral scene—a tiny farm house, fields and lush meadows with "contented" cows and barn yards—like a New England settlement—then a strange contrast a spot densely wooded and distinctively tropical with royal palms and rank growth of vines and shrubs with their gay blossoms of vivid coloring.

How a Modern Museum Stirs Up Public Interest in the Creations of Sculptors and Painters

By MALCOLM MACDONALD

BEFORE the show window of an art store stood two striking types—a poorly clad man with white beard and a small boy whose clothing betokened the utmost poverty. A passing pedestrian lingered to hear what this odd couple might be discussing in the earnest fashion indicated by their attitudes. Standing alongside she heard the words:

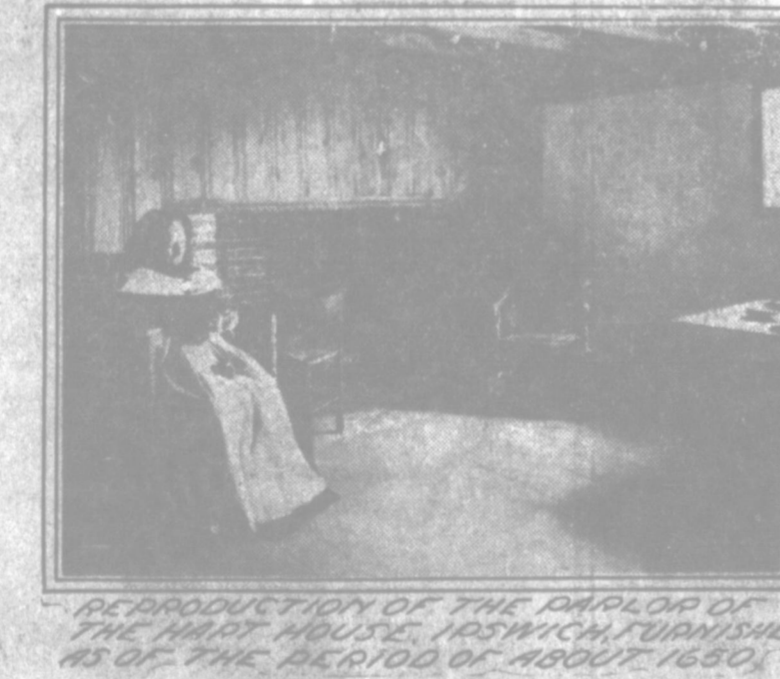

"No, that's not right. Look again!"

The eavesdropper followed the eager eyes of the pair and found them focused on a fine painting, and saw that both man and boy were too much absorbed to note the presence of a third person.

"Take another look now, and be careful," suggested the old gentleman after a brief comment from the boy.

After each admonition the lad would examine the painting anew, then close his eyes and undertake to give a detailed description of the picture in his own language. Again and again this was repeated until the self-appointed instructor seemed satisfied with the boy's reconstruction of the masterpiece. The old gentleman then clasped his companion on the shoulder in hearty approval and said:

"Good for you. You'll go on home now. From today on you own that picture as if it were your own property."

REPRODUCTION OF THE DARLOR OF THE HART HOUSE, IRISWICH, PURNISHED AS OF THE PERIOD OF ABOUT 1650.

experienced observer begins to grasp the beauty of composition and the suitability of setting in the individual creation, and learns to note these matters for himself with sharpened perception.

"There are those who hold that no amount of instruction can fit a man to enjoy art works," I was told by Huger Elliott, director of educational work at the Metropolitan. "These people insist that the individual himself must develop his capacity for enjoyment by looking again and again. I'll grant that we can not endow a person with the faculty of enjoying beautiful objects. On the other hand it is obvious that the susceptibilities of the normal person may be increased and stimulated. The word 'art' spoken may open his eyes to beauties of which he had not dreamed."

Childhood is the Time
"We begin with story hours for children and the correlation of school work with a study of man's artistic production is found in the collections belonging to the Museum. Under trained guidance, the children who visit the institution are led to derive inspiration from the objects in the galleries. In the end that school and home learning may be finer. In this respect the museum plays the role occupied by

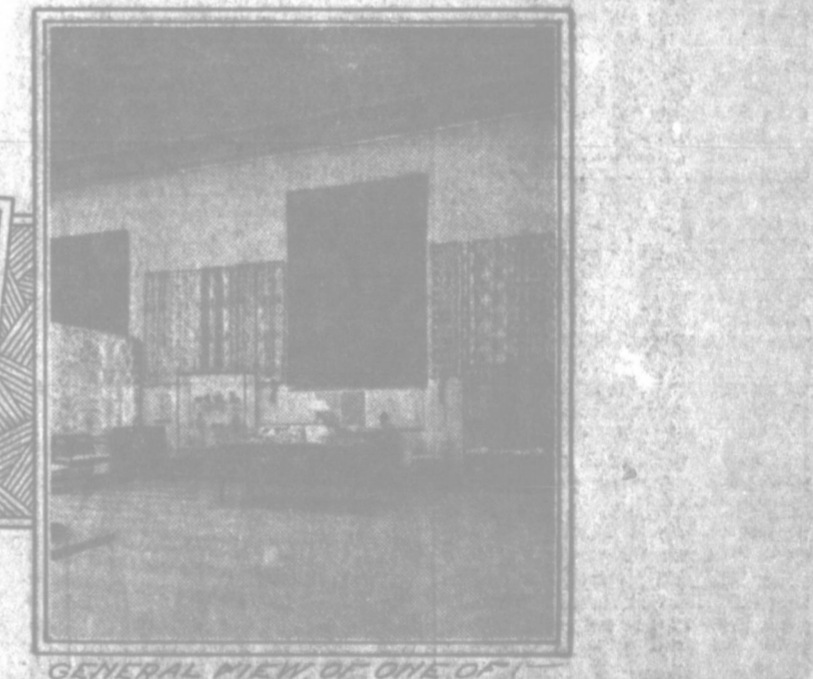

GETTING FAMILIAR WITH ART

of this work is the instructor's eager watch for signs which tell of the awakening of perceptions in the visitors—the kindling glances which come as an indication that listeners are beginning to look at an object with a seeing eye instead of being content to do nothing more than read the label. The appearance of such signs constitute the best reward for the work that is undertaken, and the instructor is well paid by the appreciation which testifies that the fit word has been spoken and that new worlds of enjoyment have been opened.

A Typical Example
Examples of what the pupils gain from their museum visits are abundant. The case of the high school student may be taken as typical. The freshman, making his first visit is apt to listen apprehensively and bewilderedly watching his teacher with bird-like attitude as it writhes to be fed. Before classical underpinnings the student school may be turned loose in the Museum, each pupil armed with written questions asking him or her to state a preference for an individual painting and explain the reasons for the choice. The treasure hunt fills the Museum with the all-pervasive sound of youthful voices, keen with the spirit of adventure as awakened by the voyage of discovery into a fascinating realm of artistic achievement.

Carrying the Work Outside
It is not alone within the four walls of the building that the educational influence of the Metropolitan is exercised for the message of art appreciation is carried throughout the eastern section of the United States. Much of his extension work is conducted through lantern slides which take the collections to those who can not visit the museum itself. The slides illustrate man's artistic achievements from prehistoric times to the present day, and they are constant use by teachers, clubs and organizations of varying kinds. Americans Die In Brave Feat

HAVANA, Nov. 3. (AP)—Bodies of two American vice consuls in Cuba and of the wife of one were sought today in Matanzas bay after a drowning tragedy in which the two men died in a futile attempt to save the woman.

The drowned were John Tillotson Wainwright, 32, of New York, American vice consul at Matanzas, and Mr. and Mrs. William I. Jackson of Madison, Ill. Mr. Jackson, who was 36, was vice consul at Havana.

A third vice consul, Sydney Gest of Havana, barely escaped with his life in a futile attempt to rescue the trio when his wife found a long pole and pulled him to shore.

The three vice consuls were spending Sunday with their wives at Matanzas. Mrs. Jackson climbed to the top of a high cliff overlooking the bay. A sudden swirl of wind caught her and blew her over the cliff into the bay.

Her husband, hearing her screams jumped in after her, but in a moment it appeared certain to those on the shore that his attempt would be futile in the rough water. Wainwright then dove into the bay, and for a moment all three could be seen on the crest of a wave.

"Let Us Spray," Say Bishops

Days of "sponge-sucking" among football players at Ohio Wesleyan University are gone forever, all because of an invention by Head Coach George Gauthier. The Battling Bishops now get water to drink and to bathe their faces from the compression spray shown above. Coach Gauthier declares the spray is not only more sanitary than a sponge but can be used more quickly, with less danger of a player getting too much water while overheated. The above photo shows Backfield Coach George Staten "watering his flowers," in this case, Tackles Bob Jones, center, and Gordon Kraft, right.

Democrats In Oklahoma Are Very Optimistic

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 3. (AP)—Oklahomans today heard last minute appeals from stump and loud-speaker and made up their minds how they will mark their ballots at tomorrow's election.

There were many utterances for them to sift for the campaign has seen a literal bombardment of printed and shouted charges and counter charges. Long ballots awaited the voters' decisions with contests for senator, governor, all eight congress seats, all but nine state posts, all district judgeships, and state representative positions and half the state senate, to say nothing of myriad county offices.

Besides the stereotyped claims of victory from both parties—the Democrats adding their confidence in taking back the first and fifth district congressional seats lost two years ago, last minute developments included the contention of Ira Hill, Republican gubernatorial nominee, that a "wave of resentment" had split opposing forces because "democratic machine" workings kept his $15,000,000 road bond-employment plan off the ballot, through an eleventh hour protest. Hill added that, if elected, he would call a special election on the project.

His opponent, W. H. Murray, replied he regretted the absence of the proposition from the ballot because, he said, he wanted Hill to see its defeat.

The attacks of United States Sen. W. B. Pine, Republican, against his opponent, blind T. P. Gore, himself a senator for 13 years, mainly have centered about Gore's record during the world war, when he opposed President Wilson's policies. Gore has flaunted Pine's wealth in campaign speeches and hurled broadsides at his campaign expenditures, besides raising the "Hoover depression" cry.

MYRNA LOY IS FASCINATING IN REX MOVIE

That Myrna Loy is the most fascinating temptress on the screen was the version of millions of screen fans after seeing her role of "Yasmin" in "The Black Watch," but in Warner Baxter's newest vehicle for Fox Movietone, "Renegades," the exotic actress is said to win new laurels for her portrayal of an alluring woman spy.

Born in Helena, Montana, Miss Loy came to Los Angeles when still a young girl and received her education at the exclusive Westlake School for Girls. Endowed with a figure of natural grace, she also took up dancing under the famous Ruth St. Denis. On graduating from the Westlake school she began her professional career as a dancer in the productions of the Los Angeles showings of "The Ten Commandments," "The Thief of Bagdad," and "Ramona."

She attracted the attention of Mrs. Rudolph Valentino, who gave her a featured role in her first production, "What Price Beauty."

This role brought her to the attention of screen producers, and she appeared in "The Black Watch," "The Great Divide," and "Cameo Kirby," among other pictures.

In "Renegades" she has probably the most vital and dramatic role of her career. The picture opened at the Rex theatre Sunday, Victor Fleming directed the film for Fox Movietone, with Noah Berry, Geo. Cooper, Gregory Gaye and C. Henry Gordon in prominent roles.

Airplane parts and accessories will be admitted to China free of duty for a period of five years, says a new order of the Chinese department of customs.

adjoining wooden structures extending to the heart of the town.

Hendricks said the town would have no water with which to fight as it depends upon the river for its supply.

The river blaze started Sunday, attracting thousands of motorists to view the spectacle. Farmers, taking occasions to capitalize on the scene, charged spectators small sums for crossing their lands for a closer view.

Report Is Denied

Reports that the river had been fired purposely to get rid of the oil film were denied by operators. Officials of the state fire marshal's office and city firemen said they did not know how it started.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3. (AP)—A spectacular oil fire punctuated by a series of explosions caused damage estimated at $30,000 at the White Eagle Oil corporation tank lot and shattered windows and shook passengers on a passing northbound Missouri-Kansas-Texas train here today.

A three-inch stream of gasoline flowed about the plant for more than two hours while firemen and plant workers protected several large storage tanks of gasoline, oil and naphtha from igniting.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3. (AP)—A gasoline storage tank exploded at the White Eagle Oil corporation plant here today, showering flames over a business building, several garages and shattering windows of a northbound Missouri-Kansas-Texas passenger train.

Firemen and workers at the plant attempted to prevent the flames from spreading to five other tanks containing between 15,000 and 70,000 gallons of oil and gasoline. The fire was out of control late this morning.

Passengers on the train, which was a combination of the Texas and Sooner specials from the southwest, were thrown from their seats but none was believed at first to have been injured dangerously.

Joe Myers, a dock hand at the plant, was burned dangerously. His condition at a hospital was reported critical.

Witnesses said a truck backed up to the tank. It was believed, a spark resulting from contact of the metal truck and part of the tank ignited the gasoline. The driver of the truck was not found immediately.

Flames shot more than 100 feet in the air and smoke enveloped the downtown district. The plant is located between 32nd and 33rd streets on Roanoke road, near the Missouri-Kansas state line.

Manhole covers in the vicinity were hurled into the air in a series of explosions from ignition of gasoline pouring into storm sewers.

The drier and two pullman cars near the end of the train, which was combined at Parsons, Kans., were the only coaches damaged severely by the blast.

Among the passengers on the pullmans were H. C. Smith, Jr., of Dallas; Miss Fern Renner, registered-nurse from Dallas; Mrs. J. E. Tyson, Dallas, and George F. Herold, Waco, Texas. There were 17 passengers in one pullman, 14 in the other and about 20 in the diner.

W. P. McConnell of Fort Worth, conductor on the last car, which was shaken but not damaged said that he jarred the entire train and that he rushed into the other cars believing many had been killed. The passengers, however, were thrown to the left side of the cars, away from the side on which the windows were broken.

McConnell believed none of the passengers was injured severely.

W. M. White, negro porter of San Antonio, said he had attempted to jump out a window after the explosion. J. S. Shirley of Dallas, another negro, described the blast as resembling an earthquake.

TWO MEN INJURED IN AFTERNOON FRAY

Two men are in city hospitals suffering from lacerations and bruises sustained in an affray which took place in front of a south Pampa drug store at one o'clock today.

One at Worley hospital has severe scalp wounds which he claimed were inflicted when he was pistol-whipped. Dean was brought to the hospital in a Malone ambulance.

The other has a six-inch laceration on his neck, another deep cut on his cheek, and one on his chin. He claimed that his assailant attacked him with a knife.

Medical attendants said that neither of the two men was seriously wounded.

MARKETS

Grains Improve

CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Grain values tended downward early today influenced by correct belief that all the monthly crop estimates would forecast corn production larger than 2,000,000,000 bushels. Starting unchanged to 3-4 cent off, corn prices later showed an all around sag. Wheat opened 1-4 to 3-4 cent down, and subsequently declined further.

MAKE YOUR OWN CHOICE

If you elect me Sheriff of Gray County, I merely promise and pledge my very, very best efforts to make a good officer. No SPECIAL bids to favor—no enemies to job I will be bound by new tied to no clan, clique or organization, as such. No political enemies and no ward-healers. If you vote for me, it will be YOUR choice and you will not be bowing to the dictates of some organized band. When you go into the booth to cast your ballot, think first of your own interests. Stand as a free American vote just as you were employing some one to perform personal services for YOU. Private concerns operate on a profit-paying basis, because perhaps they choose their help with a view to service-ability. Local government may be operated the same way. YOU are part of the GOVERNMENT. It is up to you.

If you believe that my qualifications are such as to enable me to render efficient services, and if you can convince yourself that I will do this, and therefore, want to cast your vote for me, just write my name, JEFF GUTHRIE, in the extreme right-hand column on your ballot, under the title "For Sheriff." Drawing a line through the names of political nominees in the usual manner, I shall appreciate your good help.

Respectfully,

(Pol. Adv.) JEFF GUTHRIE

The Malone Furniture Co. has a solution as to mother's gift this Christmas. Haven't you heard her say, "I wish I had a General Electric Refrigerator."

It's hard to find a gift for Mother at Christmas time, one that is appropriate and expresses your sentiments.

Malone's have two plans whereby you can get mother the gift she wants. One plan is for you to make a small deposit of $10 or $15 now and starting February 1 you begin with a small monthly payment of $10.45.

The other plan is for you to trade in your old ice box which we will take as the down payment, then start your monthly payments on February 1.

On either plan the new General Electric Refrigerator will be delivered to your mother's home on Christmas Eve. Remember, no owner has ever paid one cent for service on a General Electric Refrigerator.—(Adv.)
