BORGER WOMAN DIES IN CRASH

U. S. Foreign Policies Are Condemned and Defended

INTERVENTION IS TOPIC FOR MUCH DEBATE

Havana Conference Is Divided on Special Report

CUBAN SPEAKER ATTACKS CRITICS

Calls Attention to Fact Rumania Wanted Protection

(By The Associated Press.)
HAVANA, Feb. 4.—Cuba's ambassador to Washington, Dr. Orestes Ferrara, in an eleventh hour attack tonight on critics of the Martia report on fundamental principles of international law and the definition of rights of states, defended the right of intervention.

He flayed critics of United States policies who had maintained a continuous barrage of oratory today condemning any intervention by one state in the affairs of another.

Dr. Ferrara declared that the question of intervention or non-intervention has no place in the present discussion and added that Cuba cannot join other nations in expressions on intervention because: "In the case of Cuba the word intervention has been one meaning honor, glory and goodness."

He told colleagues there is no use intervention has been asked by all oppressed peoples and even in modern times the cases of the Syrians and Armenians are eloquent examples.

Intervention Was Safety

"For the Syrians and Armenians the word intervention has been a promise of life itself and of a future," he said.

The real issue, Dr. Ferrara continued is not concerned with intervention but whether there should or should not exist an international paternalism which eventually will be eliminated just as it works out in private life.

HAVANA, Feb. 4.—A series of international principles proclaimed by the United States as forming the basis of its policy in the western hemisphere were criticized, attacked and denounced at the Pan-American conference today by the delegates of a half score countries.

Attack Is Sudden

The attack which has been brewing ever since a report on the fundamental rights and duties of nations, prepared by Dr. Victor Maurtua of Peru, talking against history, asserting that was published Thursday, broken with stunning suddenness today as soon as Charles Evans Hughes, head of the American delegation, had finished a speech giving the Maurtua report the full and unconditional support of the American government.

Following each other without delay in short speeches remarkable for lack of oratorical flourishes, speaker after speaker arose to pour a greater or lesser measure of censure on the Maurtua proposal.

Gustavo Guerrero of Salvador, chairman of the committee on public international law where the discussion took place, abandoned the chairmanship so as to be able to participate in the debate. Sounding the keynote of the remainder of the debate he was on his feet hardly before Mr. Hughes was through speaking and delivered a speech in which he finally proposed that the recommendations of the jurists conference at Rio de Janeiro be substituted for the Martia proposal.

The jurist's report unconditionally condemns the intervention of one state in the internal affairs of another, while the Martia report expounds the principle that the independence of countries is correlated with their duty not to "interfere with or violate the rights of other states."

In presenting his report Dr. Maurtua asserted that the principles included in it contained the fundamental rights of all states which are above

Gray County Production Goes to 23,045 Barrels Daily for the First Time

Spurred by production from a quartet of gushers recently brought in Gray county this week has for the first time in its oil history gone above 20,000 barrels daily.

Other wells near the big pay in the Bowers pool are expected to hold production to around this figure, or send it still higher. And if the predicted rise in Panhandle high grade crude comes, the Pampa field may climb well toward Hutchinson county's total.

Production by counties:
Carson—7,535 barrels last week, 7,370 this week, a loss of 165 barrels.
Gray—17,460 barrels last week, 23,045 this week, a gain of 5,585 barrels.
Hutchinson—49,410 barrels last week, 49,995 this week, a loss of 305 barrels.
Moore—No production.
Potter—30 barrels.

Wheeler—1,275 barrels last week, 1,065 this week, a loss of 210 barrels.
Panhandle total—75,710 barrels last week, 80,695 barrels this week, a gain of 4,985 barrels.

Frank Dillard, well known oil operator, plans to drill two wildcat tests in the South Pampa pool. The area he plans to drill his tests in has never been fully tested and as a result these locations will be watched with interest by the oil fraternity.

Southwest Gray county is also getting some new locations and an extensive drilling campaign is expected. The Dillard tests, one in Gray county and the other in Carson county, are situated south between White Deer and Pampa.

The Dillard No. 1 Wilson is located in the northeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 202, block B-2 Gray county, which is more than seven miles southwest of production in the Bowers pool.

The other Dillard test is the No. 1 Powers in the northeast corner of the southeast quarter of section 248, block B-2, Carson county, three miles west of the No. 1 Wilson, in Gray county.

The three new Texas company locations in Southwest Gray county are: The Texas company's No. 1 Williams in section 7, block 1; The Texas company's No. 1 Davis, in section 8, block 1 and the Texas company's No. 1 Cobb in section 64, block 25.

Federal Aviator Says Pampa Needs Good Airport Now

Parker D. Cramer, representing the aeronautic branch of the Department of Commerce, with offices in Dallas, landed here yesterday morning to investigate the accident which resulted in the plane crash Thursday afternoon. He left for Dallas at 3 o'clock and planned to land at Love Field in time for a 6 o'clock dinner.

He is of the opinion that Pampa should have a landing field immediately, as many of the oil companies plan to purchase planes or use planes for transporting their officers and representatives to the oil fields.

"Pampa has an excellent location for a field and a capable man who desires to open a field here; L. F. Lawson is an A-1 pilot and mechanic and would put over a field," Mr. Cramer stated to a News reporter.

L. F. "Lee" Lawson, who learned flying under Claud Ryan, the man who built the "Spirit of St. Louis," has a Curtiss standard training plane here now and plans to bring other passenger planes to Pampa. He has maintained a field in Arkansas City for the last two years, and sees a great future in Pampa as an aeronautic center.

An application to install a field here has been received from M. Moore of Tulsa by the Chamber of Commerce.

POOL HALLS ENJOINED

(By The Associated Press.)
HOUSTON, Feb. 4.—Injunction suits to restrain twenty clubs from operating as pool halls in Houston were filed in district courts Saturday afternoon by District Attorney Horace Soule. Temporary orders closing the places will be asked by district judges Monday. In seeking the injunctions the district attorney asserted that the clubs were organized as a blind to evade state penal laws which forbid operation of pool halls.

Mrs. G. C. Malone was an Amarillo visitor Friday.

Paving Question Before Commission

To pave or not to pave—that is the question to come before the city commission in its regular meeting tomorrow evening.

Recently presented requests for paving in the residential district have been taken under advisement by the commission, pending budgeting of its financial program. Last week it was stated that this budget likely would be near enough to completion to decide on the paving question Monday.

Paving now would have to be by warrant issue, followed by competitive bidding for the contract.

Pleasing Program Features Mrs. Banks at Central High

A large audience Friday night enjoyed a pleasing concert by Mrs. Eva Munster Banks, soprano, at the high school auditorium. She appeared under the auspices of the Presbyterian music department.

Mrs. Banks, well known in Texas music circles, combined popular numbers with several classics, and added Southern melodies and negro folk songs as request numbers. Her voice, a great organ, has ample power and range, and is especially pleasing in its perfectly controlled light tones.

Perhaps the feature song of the evening was "Baby," dedicated to her own 6-month-old daughter who, in the care of its nurse, was in the audience.

Margaret Harris of Amarillo, at the piano, ably assisted as accompanist and she played from Bach and Bordin in solo numbers.

Ruth Abramson of Amarillo, reader, received much applause for her excellent presentation of "Bathing the Baby" and "The Aviant."

Local people were especially charmed by Mrs. Banks' interpretation of "Sweetheart of Mine," and "Morning-Glories Bloom for You," the latter songs by Prof. Otto Schick of Pampa Sung with violin obligation by Prof. Schick, these were rendered in their full beauty.

Before the concert, Prof. Schick's high school orchestra played several selections.

School Taxes Must Be Paid Before the Middle of March

February 15 has been the day set when all school taxes must have been paid. The extension was made at a meeting of the school board held this week. All taxes not paid by that time will be increased 10 per cent.

More than 90 per cent of the school taxes have been collected, Manager Joe Smith states, which is exceptionally good and is the reason for the extra time granted.

The board also decided to co-operate with the city and the United Charities association with regard to employing of the Red Cross nurse here, with the understanding that the city would pay one-third of the expenses and that the nurse should devote one-third of her time to school nursing.

A special meeting has been called for next Thursday night.

Dead Bandit Rewards May Not Be Paid

(By The Associated Press.)
FORT WORTH, Feb. 4.—Rewards totaling $15,000 for dead Texas bank bandits remain unpaid.

Whether these will ever be paid is problematical, for before the Texas bankers will pay the rewards for dead bank robbers they must first be furnished conclusive evidence that the payee held the gun and fired the shot that ended the career of the robber. The unpaid rewards are held up because of disputes and unproven evidence that the claimants actually ended the lives of the bandits in question according to W. M. Massie, president of the Texas Bankers' association.

It is this factor that may cause the withdrawal of the bankers reward in the future, and not any public sentiment against the "sordid head price," Texas bankers point out.

She Won't Wed at Eleventh Hour

What was to have been the second honeymoon of Franklin S. Harwings, 61-year-old Chicago millionaire and Miss Anne Livingstone, 30, Tulsa, Okla., divorcee (above) seems to have been called off. A prenuptial dinner was given by Harding, the minister engaged, the wedding supper arranged, and all that. There seemed to be no hitch. Yet when Miss Livingstone was asked to sign a paper waiving claim to the wealth of her prospective husband for $100,000 to be paid upon his death, she refused. Thus ends this chapter.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN ENDORSE PAMPA'S LIBRARY PROPOSAL

Local Clubs to Devise the Best Method of Establishment

More than 75 university women and a number of men representing local organizations yesterday went on record as favoring the establishment of a public library here, after hearing a talk by Mrs. J. M. Delzell, librarian at the Potter County library in Amarillo.

The occasion was the luncheon of the University club of local women in the dining room of the New Schneider hotel.

"Don't be patient!" exhorted Mrs. Delzell in speaking of ways and means to obtain a library in Pampa. She asserted that it "is a crime" not to have a public library in a city of this size, and declared that if the court house is located here a county library could be logically placed in it at a cost of not more than $1 per family per year. It was also pointed out that under the new city charter a small tax may be levied for a city library if re-sired.

Much Bad Literature
"Fight salacious literature with good books," said the speaker in declaring that the news stands are filled with material that children should not read. She recalled that Amarillo was the first city to have a separate library building on a county basis, and told how, under difficulties, the library has built up a large patronage for good books.

Some books, she said, should be laid up the minds of the young, while others are "Coca Colas"—more or less harmless but unworthy. For adults, she said a good library provides the only access to modern, high priced fiction, much of which, especially in biography, is exceedingly worthwhile.

The possibility of having a merged county-city library also was suggested. In responding to the address, Mrs. James Todd, Jr., told how the Civic club and others have been working out a solution to the library problem.

All the other clubs of the city have

THROAT GASHED BY WINDSHIELD IN AUTO SMASH

Loss of Blood Fatal to New Resident Saturday

HAD COME FROM SAN ANTONIO

Signals Confused When Woman Driver Turns

(Special to the News)
BORGER, Feb. 4.—Three hours after her throat was gashed by a windshield through which she was thrown in a car accident, Conchita Richards, 29 years old, died in a local hospital here Saturday night.

The young woman, evidently of Spanish descent, arrived here Saturday from San Antonio and was to have become housekeeper for W. W. Wagner. Mr. Wagner met her at the train and the two drove down Main Street in his car. At the corner of Jefferson at Main, Wagner misinterpreted the signals of Mrs. Sincilar Ligon, who was turning her car at the intersection, and his vehicle struck the turning car head-on.

Miss Richards was thrown through the windshield, and broken glass severed the external and internal jugular veins from the trachea. Bleeding profusely, she was carried to the hospital for emergency treatment. A pint of corpuscles solution was administered to sustain heart action, but despite all efforts to save her life, she died at 8:35 p. m.

While both cars were damaged, the drivers were not seriously hurt.

Judge Wolfe Is Candidate Again, News Is Told

County Judge T. M. Wolfe authorized The News to announce his candidacy for re-election, subject to the July Democratic primary.

Judge Wolfe, a resident of Gray county since the spring of 1909, is one of the best known men in this district and during his long residence has seen and participated in most of the events of this organized county. He is now in his second consecutive term but his tenure of public office dates back to the early days. He was county judge from 1905 to 1919 and from 1919 to 1920.

Onetime school teacher, he has given much time to the rural schools, and is ex-officio county superintendent. He taught last in the county during the 1901-1902 term. He lives at LeFors.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD.

(By The Associated Press.)
DEL RIO, Feb. 4.—An unidentified woman was found dead today three miles west of Comstock. She apparently had been dead several days, and there was a bullet hole in the right cheek, ranging upward toward the brain. She appeared to be about 40 years old.

Hickman's Sanity "Written on Skin" in Test by Prosecution Expert in Dramatic Procedure

(By The Associated Press.)
HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—An expert's attempt today to literally write on the skin of William Edward Hickman proof of the sanity of the confessed killer of Marian Parker, provided the prisoner's defense with the claim that by this test, at least, his sanity, had been established.

Dr. Paul E. Bowers, state alienist, stated on the witness stand that "dermatographia" or skin-writing, would show whether Hickman's skin was in the condition which would necessarily be present if his mind was accepted as claimed by the defense.

Standing in the middle of the courtroom, Hickman, evidently embarrassed, was stripped to the waist and the experiment tried. On the prisoner's back and chest, Dr. Bowers drew with his thumb nail the letter "H." If the skin condition of insanity were present, said the doctor, it would remain after three minutes; if not, they would disappear.

Watches were produced, three minutes were ticked off and the defense contended that the letters were visible at the end of the 180 seconds. The doctor himself admitted there was present a slight indication of a diffused skin-writing condition but asserted that the diffused condition was not proof of a diseased condition.

Prior to the dramatic skin-writing experiment, Dr. Bowers had repeated in court a statement which he said was William Edward Hickman's own denial of the "Divine Guidance" insanity plea set up by the defense in the sanity trial of the confessed killer of Marian Parker.

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case was most baffling to Vance. It had been opened with a steel chisel after unsuccessfully being pried with a poker, and it was found in the room with the murdered Margaret Odell. Spotswood had gone out with her the evening of the murder. When he left her he told Jessup, at the switchboard, to call a cab. They heard a stream from her room, but when they reached the door were told everything was all right. The next morning she had been found strangled. Vance believes another man was in the apartment beside the murderer and that he hid in the clothes closet. Investigation discloses that Cleaver had been seen with her a lot and he is brought in for questioning.

CHAPTER XVI

"I can eliminate myself easily enough," Cleaver proclaimed, with easy confidence. "There's a speeding summons from Boonton, New Jersey. Note the date and the time; September the 10th—last night—at half past eleven. Was driving down to Hopatcong, and I was ticketed by a motorcycle cop just as I had passed Boonton and was heading for Mountain Lakes. Got to appear in court there tomorrow morning. Damn nuisance, these country constables."

He gave Markham a long, calculating look. "You couldn't square it for me, could you? It's a rotten ride to Jersey, and I've got a lot to do tomorrow."

Markham who had inspected the summons casually, put it in his pocket.

"I'll attend to it for you," he promised, smiling amiably. "Now tell me what you know."

Cleaver puffed meditatively on his cigar. Then, leaning back and crossing his knees, he spoke with apparent candor.

"I doubt if I know much that'll help you. . . I liked the Canary, as she was called—in fact, was pretty much attached to her at one time. Did a number of foolish things; wrote her a lot of damn fool letters when I went to Cuba last year. Even had my picture taken with her down at Atlantic City."

He made a self-condemnatory grimace. "Then she began to get cool and distant; broke several appointments with me. I raised the devil with her, but the only answer I got was a demand for money."

He stopped and looked down at his cigar ash. A venomous hatred gleamed from his narrowed eyes, and the muscles of his jaws hardened.

"I use lying about it. She had those letters and things, and she touched me for a neat little sum before I got 'em back."

"When was this?"

"There was a momentary hesitation. "Last June," Cleaver replied. Then he hurried on: "Mr. Markham—his voice was bitter—"I don't want to throw mud on a dead person; but that woman was the shrewdest, coldest-blooded blackmailer it's ever been my misfortune to meet. And I'll say this, too; I wasn't the only easy mark she squeezed. She had others on her string. . . I happen to know she once dug into old Louey Mannix for a plenty—he told me about it."

"Could you give me the names of any of these other men?" asked Markham, attempting to dissemble his eagerness. "I've already heard of the Mannix episode."

"No, I couldn't," Cleaver spoke regretfully. "I've seen the Canary here and there with different men; and there's one in particular I've noticed lately. But they were all strangers to me."

"I suppose the Mannix affair is dead and buried by this time?"

"Yes—ancient history. You won't get any line on the situation from that angle. But there are others—more recent than Mannix—who might bear looking into, if you could find them. I'm easy-going myself; take things as they come. But there's a lot of men who'd go red-headed if she did the things to them that she did to me."

Cleaver, despite his confession, did not strike me as easy-going, but rather as a cold, self-contained, nerveless person whose immobility was at all times dictated by policy and expediency.

Markham studied him closely. "You think, then, her death may have been due to vengeance on the part of some disillusioned admirer?"

Cleaver carefully considered this answer.

"Seems reasonable," he said finally. "She was riding for a fall."

There was a short silence; then Markham asked:

"Do you happen to know of a young man she was interested in—good-looking, small, blond mustache, light blue eyes—named Skeel?"

Cleaver snorted derisively. "That wasn't the Canary's specialty—she let the young ones alone, as far as I know."

At this moment a page-boy approached Cleaver, and bowed.

"Sorry to disturb you, sir, but there's a phone call for your brother. Party said it was important and, as your brother isn't in the club now, the operator thought you might know where he'd gone."

"How would I know?" fumed Cleaver. "Don't ever bother me with his calls."

"Your brother in the city?" asked Markham casually. "I met him year ago. He's a San Franciscan, said he?"

"Yes—rabid Californian. He's visiting New York for a couple of weeks, he'll appreciate Frisco more when he gets back."

It seems to me that this information was given reluctantly; and I got the impression that Cleaver, for some reason, was annoyed. But Markham, apparently, was too absorbed in the problem before him to take notice of the other's disgruntled air, for he reverted at once to the subject of the murder.

"I happen to know one man who has been interested in the Odell woman recently; he may be the same one you've seen her with—tall about forty-five and wears a gray close-cropped mustache."

(He was, I knew, describing Spotswood.)

"That's the man," averred Cleaver. "Saw them together only last week at Mouquin's."

Markham was disappointed. "Unfortunately, he's checked, off the list. . . But there must be somebody who was in the girl's confidence. You're sure you couldn't cudgel your brains to any advantage?"

Cleaver appeared to think.

"If it's merely a question of some one who had her confidence," he said "I might suggest Doctor Lindquist—first name's Ambrose, I think; and he lives somewhere in the Forties near Lexington Avenue. But I don't know that he'd be of any value to you. Still he was pretty close to her at one time."

"You mean that this Doctor Lindquist might have been interested in her otherwise than professionally?"

"I wouldn't like to say," Cleaver smoked for a while as if inwardly debating the situation. "Anyway, here are the facts; Lindquist is one of these exclusive society specialists—a neurologist he calls himself—and I believe he's the head of a private sanitarium of some kind for nervous women. He must have money, and, of course, his social standing is a vital asset to him—just the sort of man the Canary might have selected as a source of income. And I know this; he came to see her a good deal often than a doctor of his type would be apt to. I ran into him one night at her apartment, and when she introduced us, he wasn't even civil."

"It will at least bear looking into," replied Markham unenthusiastically. "You've no one else in mind who might know something helpful?"

Cleaver, shook his head. "No—no one."

"And she never mentioned anything to you that indicated she was in fear of any one, or anticipated trouble?"

"Not a word. Fact is, I was bowled over by the news. I never read any paper but the morning Herald—except, of course, The Daily Racing Forum at night. And as there was no account of the murder in this morning's paper, I didn't hear about it until just before dinner. The boys in the billiard-room were talking about it, and I went out and looked at an afternoon paper. If it hadn't been for that, I might not have known of it till tomorrow morning."

Markham discussed the case with him until half past eight, but could elicit no further suggestions. Finally Cleaver rose to go.

"Sorry I couldn't give you more help," he said. His rubicund face was beaming now and he shook hands with Markham in the friendliest fashion.

"You wangled that viscid old sport rather cleverly don't y' know," remarked Vance, when Cleaver had gone. "But there's something deuced queer about him. The transition from his gambler's glassy stare to his garrulous confidence was too sudden—suspiciously sudden, in fact. I may be evil-minded, but he didn't impress me as a luminous pillar of truth. Maybe it's because I don't like those cold, boiled eyes of his—somehow they didn't harmonize with his gushing imitation of open-hearted frankness."

"We can allow him something for his embarrassing position," suggested Markham charitably. "It isn't exactly pleasant to admit having been taken in and blackmailed by a charmer."

"Still, if he got his letters back in June, why did he continue paying court to the lady? Heath reported he was active in that sector right up to the end."

"He may be the complete amoralist," smiled Markham. "At any rate, he gave us, in Doctor Lindquist, a possible source of information."

Quite so," agreed Vance. "And that's about the only point of his whole passionate unfoldment that I particularly put any decent reticence. . . My advice is that you interview this doctor without further delay."

Record-Maker

Here's Arthur Newton, of South Africa, at the finish of his recent 100-mile jaunt from Somerset to Hyde Park, London. He made it in 14 hours 22 minutes and 10 seconds, beating the former record by more than 20 minutes.

"I'm dog-tired," objected Markham. "Let us wait till tomorrow."

Vance glanced at the great clock over the stone mantel.

"It's latish, I'll admit, but why not as Pittacus advised, seize time by the forelock?"

"Who lets slip fortune, her shall never find; Occasion once past by, is bald behind."

But the elder Cato anticipated Cowley. In his "Disticha de Moribus" he wrote—

"Come!" pleaded Markham, rising. "Anything to dam this flow of erudition."

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Jesus Misunderstood and Opposed.

Scripture Lesson: Mark 3:19-27, 6:1-6.

Mark 3:19b. And he cometh into a house.

20. And the multitude cometh together again, so that they could not so much as eat bread.

21. And when his friends heard it they went out to lay hold on him; for they said, He is beside himself.

22. And the scribes that came down from Jerusalem said, He hath Beelzebub, and, by the prince of the demons casteth he out the demons.

23. And he called them unto him, and said unto them in parables, How can Satan cast out Satan?

24. And if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand.

25. And if a house be divided against itself, that house will not be able to stand.

26. And if Satan hath risen up against himself, and is divided, he cannot stand, but hath an end.

27. But no one can enter into the house of the strong man, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man; and then he will spoil his house.

Mark 6:1. And he went out from thence; and he cometh into his own country; and his disciples follow him.

2. And when the sabbath was come he began to teach in the synagogue; and many hearing him were astonished, saying, Whence hath this man these things? and, what is the wisdom that is given unto this man, and what mean such mighty works wrought by his hands?

3. Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary, and brother of James, and Jesus, and Judas, and Simon? and are not his sisters here with us? And they were offended in him.

4. And Jesus said unto them, A Prophet is not without honor, save in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house.

5. And he could there do no mighty work, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and healed them.

6. And he marveled because of their unbelief. And he went round about the villages teaching.

Time: Calling of the Twelve, mid-summer of A. D. 28, the second year of Christ's ministry. Second tour of Galilee, autumn of the same year. Second rejection at Nazareth, winter of the following year.

Place: Capernaum, Nazareth.

Golden Text: He came unto his own, and they that were his own received him not. But as many as receive him, to them gave he the right to become children of God, even to them that believe on his name—John 1:11, 12.

Introduction

The very people who might have been expected to give Jesus' teaching and ministry the readiest welcome misunderstood and opposed him: the scribes and Pharisees, who were interested in religion, who were learned in the Scriptures that told beforehand so plainly of him; his own townsfolk who should have been proud of the prophet and teacher who had gone forth from their midst; and his kindred.

The Eager Multitude, v. 20

"And the multitude cometh together again, so that they could not so much as eat bread." Christ and his disciples were doubtless weary with their journey, and Peter's mother-in-law, grateful because Christ had healed her of the fever, was eager to place before them the best meals the house could afford, but the crowd would not even give them leisure for eating. Christ's tour had evidently been remarkably successful in arousing popular enthusiasm, and he returned to Capernaum with a vast reputation, so that the entire city was eager to see and hear the wonderful new leader.

Jesus Versus Beelzebub, v. 22

"And the scribes that came down from Jerusalem said, He hath Beelzebub." Christ had just healed one of the most desperate cases ever brought to him, a demoniac who was both blind and dumb. Our Lord caused him to speak and see (Matt. 12:22), and the cure was so amazing as to suggest the blasphemous charge that Jesus had this authority over demons because he was himself under the control of the demon Beelzebub. "And, by the prince of the demons casteth he out the demons." One mark of a man of an evil spirit is that he attributes an evil spirit to every one else. His eyes are jaundiced and he sees all the world yellow. If we note in ourselves a tendency to find fault with others, and suspect them of all kinds of wickedness, we should see in that tendency a proof of our own spiritual danger.

"Can Satan Cast Out Satan," v. 23

"How can Satan cast out Satan?" How can one even think of Satan, after he has gained control of a man, voluntarily relinquishing that control? Can we imagine Satan, the arch-enemy of man, becoming his own enemy? Satan is the common Jewish name for "the prince of the demons," the fallen angel, who, after leaving heaven, became the ruler of hell. Here, and in many other passages, it is made perfectly clear that our Lord believed in a personal devil.

Jesus can "Bind the Strong Man," Satan, v. 27

"But no one can enter into the house of the strong man, and spoil his goods." Satan is the strong man, not strong in himself, but rendered powerful by humanity's weak yielding to temptations. His house is this world, his goods are the souls of men, their peace, happiness, purity and power. By conquering temptation in his own life, and by exercising evil spirits from the lives of others, our Lord took spoil of Satan, and left him only an empty house. "Except he first bind the strong man; and then he will spoil his house." The servile attitude of the demons whom Christ exercised shows how Christ "bound" Satan. They begged to be let alone. On one occasion they begged to be sent into a herd of swine. They knew that Christ was Master and could do with them what he would.

The Eternal Sin

Our Lord declared that there was such a thing, as an eternal sin, a sin that God could not forgive because man would not desire or ask forgiveness, the sin of blasphemy against God's Holy Spirit. "Those who go mourning because they think they have committed this sin, prove by their very broken-heartedness that they have not committed it. When a man gets into the grip of 'eternal sin' he does not care—he is past feeling. The fact that men feel, is proof they are not in it. As Bishop Chadwick says: 'No penitent has ever been rejected for this guilt, for no penitent has ever been thus guilty!'"

Jesus in Nazareth; Chap. 6:1

"And he went out from thence." From Capernaum, where he had just raised from the dead the daughter of Jairus, a ruler of the synagogue. "And he cometh into his own country." The news of the stupendous miracle he had just worked caused Jesus to be pressed upon by great throngs, to escape which he retired to Nazareth, the village of his peaceful childhood, whose unbelieving townsfolk had already driven him out once, and forced him to make Capernaum his headquarters. But Christ would give them one more chance.

Jesus the Carpenter; v. 3

"Is not this the carpenter?" In the beginning God had set the stamp of his approval on human labor, and all along had chosen as the chief tollers for the highest and spiritual welfare of the world those who were devoted to useful handicrafts or pastoral pursuits.

"The Son of Mary," v. 3

Joseph was evidently much older than Mary and was dead long before this time. He does not appear after the journey to Jerusalem, when Christ was 12 years old, which was 20 years earlier than this event. "And brother of James, and Joses, and Judas and Simon?" These four brothers did not believe on Christ (John 7:5) before his resurrection, but after that great event they were counted among his disciples (Acts 1:14), James especially became the head of the church in Jerusalem, the author of our Epistle of James, "the Gospel of Common Epistle of Jude."

A Prophet Without Home, v. 4

Girls, Marry a Doctor

How fatherly! The men are student physician internes at the General Hospital, Cincinnati, and are required to feed the babies as part of their education. On the left is F. F. Boys; right, H. G. Kendall.

"And Jesus said unto them, a prophet is not without honor, save in his own country." Christ had uttered the same saying before in the same synagogue (Luke 4:24) and was often on his tongue. Over and over in the history of the world the wisest and noblest of men and women have been despised by those closest to them, just because familiarity is allowed to breed contempt. "And he could there do no mighty work, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and healed them." The healing even of a few by the laying of hands would have been regarded with amazement at the beginning of Christ's ministry; but he had fed five thousand with a lad's lunch, he had quieted a storm at a word he had driven out demons, and he had even raised the dead, so that these cases of healing did not amaze the people as once would have been the case. "Fling yourself into the Christian life with abandon, and you will find the highest happiness. The youth who enters upon the Christian life finds unanticipated rewards: He is like a man who buys a field of wheat, but, digging, finds coal, and mining for coal, strikes iron, and surprised as he digs for iron, discovers silver and below that, suddenly gold appears. Therefore, I call you to the Christian life. I call you to the dedication of mind and heart to the Master and Saviour of the world."—Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, D. D.

STUDEBAKER

The Great Independent

Behind every Studebaker and Erskine car are $105,000,000 in actual net assets and great modern research and engineering facilities.

Behind Studebaker Performance Records —engineering genius!

As a result of the engineering genius in Studebaker motor cars, Studebaker now holds all the highest endurance and speed records (from 1 mile to 25,000 miles) for fully equipped stock cars, regardless of power or price. Headed by D. G. Roos, Studebaker's engineering staff leads the industry in point of actual achievement.

It is the work of genius to produce such a car as The Studebaker Commander—the car that went 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes. Nothing else on earth ever ran so far so fast. Studebaker engineering genius is reflected, too, in the increase of the power of The Studebaker Dictator from 45 to 70 h. p.—with greater economy of operation—and with no increase in price.

Constantly kept up-to-date

During the past three years Studebaker engineers have adopted such advancements as the magazine lubricating system; thermostatic cooling system; no-draft ventilating windshield; engine thermometer on dash; full-vision welded steel bodies; coincidental lock to steering and ignition, etc. Some of these improvements were pioneered by Studebaker and are still exclusive Studebaker features.

Studebaker engineers have provided such an ingenious lubricating system that you need change oil but once every 2500 miles.

And now, as a result of advanced engineering, Studebaker and Erskine cars may be driven 40-miles-per-hour the day they are delivered. No more tedious "breaking-in" at 20-mile speed.

Studebaker spends millions to make sure

Engineering and laboratory facilities for experimentation and research are of the utmost importance. Studebaker provides its brilliant staff of research men headed by W. S. James, former section chief of the U. S. Bureau of Standards, with the most complete facilities that money can buy.

In Studebaker's laboratories technicians test all raw materials. Over the diversified roads and grades of Studebaker's million-dollar Proving Ground, Studebaker and Erskine models are driven in extended tests of speed and mechanical endurance.

Studebaker gives more; costs less

Because Studebaker builds bodies, engines and chassis for Studebaker cars, profits of outside manufacturers are reduced to a minimum. These savings are passed on to you in the form of higher quality materials and the highest type of precision workmanship—at a low One-Profit price.

Before you buy a car, take the wheel of one of the new Studebakers. It will reveal the most advanced engineering of 1928 combined with Studebaker's 76-year-old traditions of quality.

Slugging Expected to Feature Monday Bouts at Club

When Russel Beckwith and Bucky Harris meet at the Pampa Athletic club tomorrow night, Pampa fight fans expect to see two boys who stand and slug until the best man wins which is usually by a knockout. Beckwith, known as the "Oklahoma killer," has an abnormal reach of 78 inches which he uses to advantage. He is a hard hitter as his record of 37 knockouts in the past 53 fights shows. He will meet a boy who is as hard a hitter as he is when he stands up to Bucky Harris. He has won decisions over such good boys as Cliff Gamble, Red Wing Moreland and a dother good man.

What Harris lacks in reach he makes up in footwork and hitting ability. He is fast, clean and a puncher above all. He has won recent victories over Tommy O'Brien, Hoots Berger, who recently shaded Beckwith, Nels Nelson, and a bunch of other big time boxers.

Country Boy Lantz and Rusty Cahill will provide the entertainment in the 8-round semi-final and a real battle is expected. The Pampa boy has been training hard and is all set to beat the boy who gave Doggie Lawhead such a battle two weeks ago here.

The extra event will introduce a new boxer in Pampa. He is a Mexican named Vallaton and is said to be fast and a clever boxer. He will meet Guy Beard, who has been working hard for the bout.

The midgets will feature the early bouts on the evening's card.

Helen Payson Wins Bermuda Golf Title

HAMILTON Bermuda, Feb. 4—(AP)—Miss Helen Payson of Portland, Me., won the Women's annual Bermuda golf championship here today by vanquishing Miss Ada MacKenzie of Toronto, former Canadian title-holder, by 3 and 2 in the 36-hole final round.

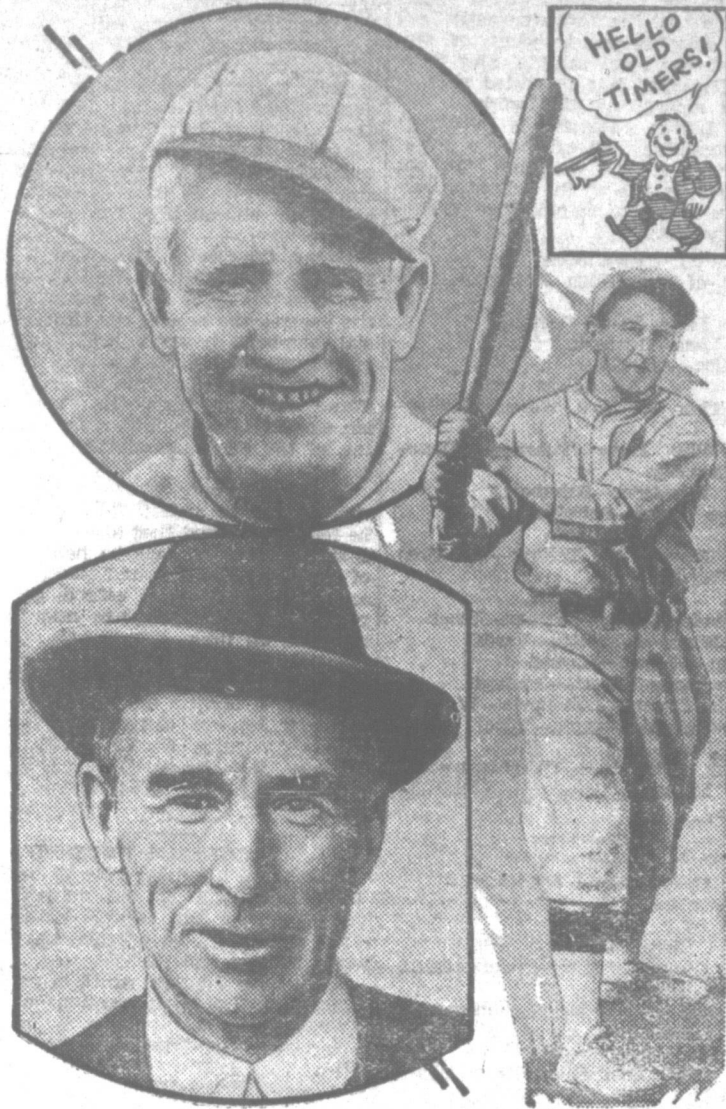

Miss MacKenzie started unsteadily putting badly with the hooking irons and won only two holes in the morning round. She played better during the final 18 holes but Miss Payson steadily clung to her advantage.

In the morning round, Miss Payson took a 38 going out and returned in 44 while Miss MacKenzie had a 40 out and came in with a 47.

For the afternoon course, Miss Payson was out in 38 and came home with two over fours. Miss MacKenzie scored a 37 on the outward journey and had two over 4's returning.

OLDEST STRATEGIST IN GAME DIRECTS ATHLETICS' CAMPAIGN

Old heads will be guiding the destinies of the Philadelphia Athletics in the coming American league pennant fight. Connie Mack (lower left), who is 65 and the oldest manager in big league baseball, will have as his chief aides "Kid" Gleason (upper left), 62 and captain Eddie Collins (right), still an active second baseman at 40.

PHILADELPHIA—Connie Mack's Athletics may not win the American pennant this year, but if they miss it won't be through lack of grizzled heads and baseball brains.

The oldest board of strategy in baseball will guide the A's with the 65-year-old Mack still directing the show from the bench with the aid of a lead pencil and a bit of paper and with the veteran Billy Gleason, whom they still call "Kid" despite his 62 years again his right man. Out on the playing field some of outlining the duties of his board of strategy, Mack said Collins when not playing will control traffic at third base. This year Mack is going to keep idle pitchers and reservists off the coaching lines and put the corners in charge of two old heads at the game who think quickly and quite often accurately. Thomas, an old time member of the Athletics, retains his job of preening the pitchers into top form, while the younger Mack will shepherd the first flock of battery men to the Florida training grounds about February 20. The venerable head of this array of talent and experience will be starting south even sooner.

(By the Associated Press)
BOSTON, Feb. 4.—As Dr. Otto Peltzer, famous German runner, looked on with 6,000 other spectators, Lloyd Hahn, the Boston A. A.'s crack miler, won his eighth consecutive victory of the present track season here tonight in the Hunter mile, the outstanding event on the Boston A. A.'s 39th annual track program. Hahn had about a half lap lead on Ray Conger of the Illinois A. C., the second man. J. A. Sivak, of the Illinois A. C., was third. Hahn's time of four minutes 22.4 seconds was two seconds slower than last year, when he won the same event.

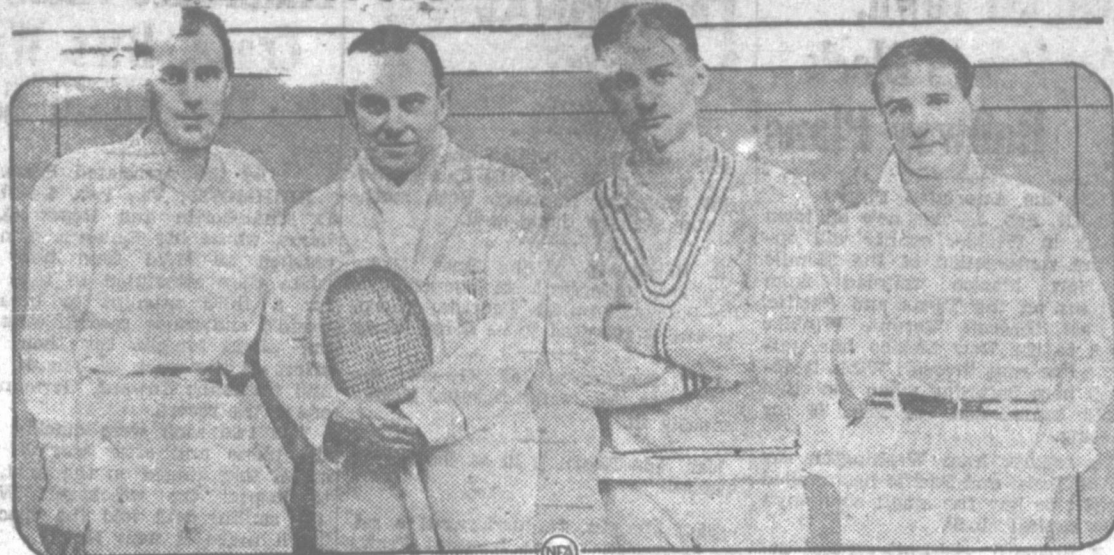

(By the Associated Press)
BOSTON, Feb. 4.—Leo Lermond, Boston A. A. flier, gained his second on the Gardner B. Williams cup by repeating his last year's win the three mile race tonight at the Boston Athletic association's annual track games. Lermond led an impressive field by a half lap at the finish line in 14:45.2-4. "Blondy" Romig, the old Penn star and intercollegiate three mile champion, finished second and Edward Kirby, of the Newark A. C., was third. James Daley, Holy Cross sprinter, led a fast field to the tape in the 40-yard final. Phil Edwards, New York university's negro marvel, had but little competition in the 1,000 yards run, although the field was an impressive one.

Harvesters Crowd Miami in Fast Game, Losing 19 to 18 Friday on Neighbor School's Indoor Court

Miami stepped into the lead in the Pampa-Miami-Canadian basketball race last night by defeating the fast traveling Pampa Harvesters 19-18, on the Miami floor.

Playing the same class of basketball as when they defeated the Amarillo Sandies Tuesday, the Harvesters were outlucked last night. They led at the end of the first half 12-9, and it was only in the dying minutes of the game that the Warriors were able to break loose.

Troy Maness, the Harvesters' flashy captain, was easily the fastest man on the floor. He scored 12 of Pampa's points, the remainder going to Stalls and Moore who played exceptional games at center.

Roberts, Salsbury, and Kahl also played excellent basketball for the Harvesters.

Getlin, star of the Miami team, left the game early due to personal fouls and was missed thereafter.

The Harvesters will play the return game in Miami Monday night and also will play Canadian Wednesday night in Miami.

The Harvester Six, girls' basketball team, lost to the Miami Squaws in the in the opening game, 17-15. Playing the best basketball of the season, the Pampa team led by Avis Stone and Adel Frost have developed into a fast team.

Mary K. Martin, a new member of the team from California, showed up well while on the floor, and is expected to develop into the star of the team. The girls have been practicing hard under the coaching of Miss Gladys Carter and although handicapped by an outside court have showed up nicely this season.

Inside the contest interesting. Pickel was high point scorer for the Razorbacks, while Strickland played a sensational game for the Bears.

Fire Department Halts Blaze at Atlantic Plant

A fast run by the Pampa Volunteer Fire department Friday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock prevented what might have been a serious conflagration at the Atlantic Oil company's gasoline plant in the Wilcox pool of the South Pampa field.

Half the members of the department took the small truck and the Reo hose truck to the fire, while the remainder of the force remained in the city with the large pumper.

Fire which completely destroyed a large bunk house and damaged another, started in the bathroom when a gas heater exploded. A high wind, blowing from the south, threatened a large tank filled full of gasoline and other tank houses, but a line of hose soon had the blaze under control.

Five hundred feet of hose was strung from a water supply tank and the Reo truck given its first test since the arrival of the new American LaFrance. It treated 100-pound pressure pumping up-hill from the open tank.

Mrs. Aaron Meek told of the organizing of the Girl Scout movement here, and Mrs. I. B. Hughey, chairman of Americanization in this district of the Federation of Women's clubs, spoke of the need for instilling American ideals in the young.

The entertainment program included a piano solo by Miss Ruth Ann Mitchell and vocal solo by Mrs. L. N. McCullough.

Although organized but a short time, the University club has a large and enthusiastic membership.

POLICIES--

(Continued from Page One) treaties since they do not let in the power of states to contract away. He declared that this "is an age of interdependence and solidarity among nations."

Co-operation Stressed "Independence is not an absolute right, but is limited by the duties of international co-operation," he said.

"In the American continent especially," he continued, "international co-operation has a special physiognomy. It is more intense than in the rest of the world. It is based, however, on internal sovereignty and the external independence of nations."

Those countries which are most jealous of their independence, he added, should be keenest for international co-operation, solidarity and respect for law.

Record for Airplane Looping Is Broken

(By The Associated Press.) ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 4.—Gene Shank, the flying St. Paul law student, established a world record for airplane looping when he made 515 loops in 25 1/2 minutes over the St. Paul airport today.

This number exceeds by 200 loops the record of 315 aerial somersaults turned in France by Bevin W. Maynard, "the flying Parson."

AT THE REX.

Screen fans who prefer having their stories centered about a few characters of unusual talent will be particularly pleased with Warner Bros.' picture, "If I Were Single," written and adapted by Robert Lord and to be at the Rex theatre Monday.

May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel co-star in "If I Were Single," and it is about these two characters and Myrna Loy and Andre Beranger, who appear in their support, that the entire story revolves. According to Roy Del Ruth, who directed the picture, the success of the production rests largely upon the excellent portrayals of these four characters, and upon the happy choice of a story in which their talents readily lend themselves.

"Both Miss McAvoy and Nagel are known as 'sympathetic' characters, hence their ability to divert their talents into both the pathetic and the comic situations give their characterizations double appeal," said the director. "In both their distinct 'screen personalities' retain a sympathetic appeal which causes the spectator to unconsciously 'live' the parts portrayed."

Tragedy often is found not only in the roles the screen players play but in the lives of the players themselves.

Recently a visitor on the set where Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky were making the Henry King production of "The Magic Flame" for Samuel Goldwyn noticed a male manufacturer working in the scene. His name was David Mir.

Surely there was nothing tragic there? Yet this same David Mir, under the Russian name of Yousopoff, waited outside the palace of the Czars in Petrograd one winter night in 1917, while his cousin, Prince Lazaroff, went inside and with a small revolver ended the life of Rasputin, the "Black Monk" of Russia.

For his complicity in this crime, Yousopoff was forced to flee from Russia. Now he is trying to make a new start in Hollywood under the name of Mir. "I live in the present and future," he says, "old Russia is gone. Let her bury her own dead."

"The Magic Flame" comes to the Crescent theatre today and Monday.

Lindbergh Nearing Last Portion of His Good Will Tours

(By The Associated Press.) SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Feb. 4.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today celebrated his twenty-sixth birthday by a 250-mile air jaunt from San Juan, Porto Rico, to this city where fully 100,000 enthusiastic spectators witnessed his arrival.

The American air hero, now steadily drawing nearer to the end of his great good will argosy that has carried him to the Central American states and around the curve of the Antilles which border the Caribbean, came to earth at 2:25 o'clock this afternoon.

His next hop will carry him to port-au-Prince, Haiti, and thence he will fly to the Pan-American conference at Havana. Then he will make a bee line for home in a non-stop flight to St. Louis.

FIND CITY SHORTAGE

(By The Associated Press.) TEXARKANA, Feb. 4.—Suit was filed today against the bondsmen of W. W. Shaw, city clerk, asking recovery of $640, an alleged shortage, which an audit of the clerk's accounts was said to have revealed. Today's petition alleged proper account had not been made. Shaw was reported to be in San Antonio on leave of absence.

Wink, Oil Town, Aspires to Block Railway Plans

(By The Associated Press.) AUSTIN, Feb. 4.—The new oil town of Wink in Winkler county will oppose the construction of the 35-mile Texas-New Mexico railroad from Monahans on the Texas and Pacific, northwest through Kermit, Winkler county, to the New Mexico line, unless the line runs through Wink, it developed here Saturday when the state railroad commission set Feb. 28 for a hearing.

News reports from Washington say that the Texas and Pacific has applied for right to buy the small company's $35,000 capital stock.

R. S. Shepard, assistant general attorney for the Texas and Pacific, Dallas, is one of the Texas-New Mexico company incorporators.

The Chamber of Commerce at Wink has filed a plea of intervention and protest in the case, which the Interstate Commerce Commission has asked the Texas Commission to hear. Articles of incorporation for the company were filed with the secretary of state here some months ago. Whether New Mexico mileage is contemplated is not disclosed in official filings here.
