

MRS. T. D. RAGSDALE NAMED PRESIDENT OF W. C. T. U.

Election Follows Address by Mrs. L. L. Brewer; Plans Made to Attend Law Observance Rally in Amarillo

Mrs. T. D. Ragsdale was elected president of the Pampa W. C. T. U. at a meeting held here yesterday afternoon at the First Methodist church.

The election of officers followed an address on "Present Dangers" by Mrs. L. L. Brewer, national W. C. T. U. representative.

Plans are being made by the local organization to go to Amarillo on October 27, where an all day Panhandle law observance rally will be held, and a W. C. T. U. of the eighteenth district formed at the close of the rally. More than a dozen Panhandle cities will be represented.

Recipes Are Given

Discussion of prohibition cocktails occurred at Thursday's meeting. Recipes included those contributed by Mable Walker Willebrandt and other prominent women of Washington.

The local organization will meet again on November 13. The regular meeting day of the W. C. T. U. has been designated as the second Thursday of each month. Plans for a big birthday celebration in January were considered. This will be the eleventh birthday of "prohibition" and each of the more than ten thousand local units is expected to have a genuine birthday party with cake and candies and all the party "fixings."

A motion prevailed to request Mrs. F. A. Hill to be medal contest director, the contest being delectatory with silver, gold, grand gold, and diamonds series.

Other Officers Elected

Other officers elected yesterday were Mrs. Z. H. Mundy, vice-president; Mrs. R. E. Lantz, recording secretary; Mrs. J. C. Fairbanks, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Fannie Hardin, treasurer. It is planned to have key women appointed from each local church. Mrs. Joe M. Smith is publicity chairman, Mrs. D. W. Carey, White Bow chairman, Mrs. E. F. Brake, White Ribbon Republics chairman, Mrs. D. B. Mape, music chairman.

Mrs. Brewer in her address on "Present Dangers" said, "We should finish the job NOW, and not permit the enemy by subtle misstatements to continue to deceive even some of the very elect. It is the outlawed, infamous, determined, defiant liquor traffic that is responsible for present conditions. It broke every law made to control. Prohibition is the best method yet tried for dealing with the liquor traffic. It is the purpose of the W. C. T. U. to continue its educational program, teaching the evil effects on body and soul of the narcotic drug alcohol until yet more and more of the citizens give a willing observance."

Mrs. Brewer's speech was an impassioned plea that friends of the cause know the truth and be up and doing in the plans and program of the W. C. T. U.

A vote of appreciation was given to the News-Post for the handling of the news stories concerning the local organization.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY HOLLYCEE SELLERS

Can you keep your nose up, your lip from showing, your finger nails from looking as though they were in mourning? If so, you have three qualifications of a good wife. Rather trivial things, aren't they? But according to a "still searching bachelor" writing for Physical Culture, trifles make perfection, and perfection is no trifle.

Among the more serious qualifications of a wife demanded by this writer are the following: "Is she loyal, and enduring, tender, sacrificing, and trustful? Has she stability of character that will not flinch and turn yellow at adversity? Is she wholesome of mind and body, with good health and an even disposition, and are her habits and instincts such as to inspire worship and not repugnance? The author promises in return for these qualities exactly the same things on his own part."

Do men demand too much of the girls they expect to marry? I think not, for the one who demands most usually is willing to give most. The careless woman can get married, but what does she get? Usually a careless man. There will be unmade beds, unwashed supper dishes, and unpolished furniture. There will be a carelessly run business with an uncertain income. And, what is worse, the carelessness may extend even farther and influence the attitudes of the husband and wife toward each other. There will be thoughtless words and actions that may end in disaster.

Furthermore, it is evident that carelessness on the part of one person would bring dissatisfaction on the part of the other, and the outcome might be even worse than in the case in which the characteristic is common to both.

So why shouldn't a man demand the best of the girl he wishes to make his wife?

The writer also makes several demands which may not appeal to the average woman, but, nevertheless, are worthy of consideration.

One of these requirements he expresses in the following words: "I believe the ideal woman in every man's innermost heart is a listener. It is she to whom he brings the work of his heart and head and hand for her inspection and approval. And that's what I want to find in the girl I am to marry. I want to find the qualities of sensitive appreciation, of gentle, intelligent, humorous understanding that will make for a wonderful companionship."

And though I be drawn and quartered for saying it, I want a mind in this girl I am to marry that is a wise mind but one that does not consider itself all-wise. She will appreciate my good points and lovingly fall to see most of my bad ones; and she will never, at least, hardly ever, argue."

Then, the bachelor stated that he preferred that a woman refrain from smoking and drinking.

The writer also prefers the woman who finds her amusement in natural things, in paddling a canoe, in swimming, in cooking bacon over a driftwood fire, in sleeping in blankets upon a pile of balsam boughs under an autumn night of stars.

To Editor, News-Post:

The Real Estate "Barons" tell us that because we do not own real estate we are in honor bound not to vote in the road bond election—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

It is true that they sign checks for taxes—but the exorbitant rent we pay more than repays them. But the "Barons" say we should not vote—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

It is true that, according to the constitution of the state of Texas, we are qualified voters in a bond election. But the "Barons" say we should not vote—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

It is true that we pay gasoline tax, which tax has so far been used in building roads in other parts of the state. But the "Barons" say that we should not vote to bring part of this gasoline tax to Gray county—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

It is true that the voting of these bonds will give employment to many men for a long time. But the "Barons" tell us we should not vote—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

It is true that the employment of many men is responsible for a great part of the prosperity of these same "Barons." But the "Barons" tell us that we should not vote—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

It is true that adjoining counties have voted road bonds and that if the election fails Gray county will be the only mud hole in this section. But the "Barons" say that we should not vote—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

It is true that the state and federal governments will pay nearly a million and a half dollars on the cost of the proposed roads. But the "Barons" say we should not vote—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

It is true that the oil companies, who pay 80 per cent of the taxes of the county, are for the bonds. But the "Barons" say we should not vote—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

It is true that we use these dirt roads and that our repair bills because of such roads are more than the roads would cost some of the "Barons." But the "Barons" say we should not vote—and the "Barons" are honorable men.

The "Barons" tell us to wait for a more conservative issue. Shall we wait until THEY promote a more conservative issue? And if so, what shall we do for a living while we are waiting?

Are we serfs going to bow to the will of the "Barons" or are we going to assert our rights as citizens of the state of Texas—even though the "Barons" are honorable men?

Even though we are serfs we have contributed and are contributing our part in developing Pampa from a small wheat town to a thriving little city.

Gray county is at least second in the Panhandle in the number of automobiles registered. These other counties have or will soon have many miles of paved roads. Why should not Gray county?

We also are honorable men even though only serfs.

Are we going to contribute our gasoline tax and license fees to Bowie, Jefferson, El Paso and other counties far from us and stay in the mud ourselves?

Are we going to continue to be the laughing stock of tourists from Maine to California?

NO, MEN, WE ARE ALL HONORABLE MEN AND WE ARE GOING TO VOTE FOR THE BEST INTERESTS OF GRAY COUNTY AND THE PANHANDLE IN GENERAL.

TWO DANES STAGE DANISH CELEBRATION

EXCELSIOR, Minn., Oct. 24. (AP)—This is the story of two Danes, George J. Dane and his great Dane. George went out with his shotgun and the dog in search of ducks. The great Dane started a dash across the thin ice sheet on a small lake. It broke and the dog dropped in.

The master dropped his gun and plunged in to rescue his big friend. Soon two Danes were thrashing around in the water, but the would-be rescuer turned out to be the rescued, for a few minutes later the great Dane swished to shore, its teeth firmly grasping George Dane's collar. Today was declared a Danish holiday at the Dane farmstead near here.

Fire on British Port

ICHANG, China, Oct. 24. (AP)—The British gunboat Gannett arrived here from Hankow today and reported it was attacked six times by Communist shore batteries during the 300-mile voyage up the Yangtze river. The warship suffered no damage, however. Officers of the Gannett said Communist activity along the Yangtze in Hupeh province was decidedly on the increase.

Methodists to Defend Pro Law

GREENVILLE, Oct. 24. (AP)—Outspoken with a challenge to defend prohibition and the 18th amendment, the North Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, continued its business today at the annual conference.

The conference adopted by a rising vote yesterday a paper read by Dr. Bradford of Dallas, chairman of the temperance and social service committee, which asserted that "prohibition is the most vital issue before the American people" and that "the Christian masses of the country are ready to meet the attack with a crusade for preservation of the 18th amendment." Dr. Bradford and other speakers criticized the press of the nation, which they declared "largely given over to wet propaganda."

EXCELSIOR, Minn., Oct. 24. (AP)—This is the story of two Danes, George J. Dane and his great Dane. George went out with his shotgun and the dog in search of ducks. The great Dane started a dash across the thin ice sheet on a small lake. It broke and the dog dropped in.

The master dropped his gun and plunged in to rescue his big friend. Soon two Danes were thrashing around in the water, but the would-be rescuer turned out to be the rescued, for a few minutes later the great Dane swished to shore, its teeth firmly grasping George Dane's collar. Today was declared a Danish holiday at the Dane farmstead near here.

Fire on British Post

ICHANG, China, Oct. 24. (AP)—The British gunboat Gannett arrived here from Hankow today and reported it was attacked six times by Communist shore batteries during the 300-mile voyage up the Yangtze river. The warship suffered no damage, however. Officers of the Gannett said Communist activity along the Yangtze in Hupeh province was decidedly on the increase.

Methodists to Defend Pro Law

GREENVILLE, Oct. 24. (AP)—Outspoken with a challenge to defend prohibition and the 18th amendment, the North Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, continued its business today at the annual conference.

The conference adopted by a rising vote yesterday a paper read by Dr. Bradford of Dallas, chairman of the temperance and social service committee, which asserted that "prohibition is the most vital issue before the American people" and that "the Christian masses of the country are ready to meet the attack with a crusade for preservation of the 18th amendment."

Dr. Bradford and other speakers criticized the press of the nation, which they declared "largely given over to wet propaganda."

Talks To Parents

When a child is sick his sickness is the most important thing about him. In concentrating upon it we are likely to forget about him.

At least part of the care of a sick child is mental. We must make things pleasant and comfortable for him for the sake of his illness, but for his own sake we must not make his illness so pleasant that the life of an invalid offers him too many gratifications.

We must guard against making him feel that being sick is a source of importance or in any sense an achievement. We should make him more interested in getting well than in prolonging his status as a patient.

If there is an unusual show of affection, if brothers and sisters are made to give in to his whims, if he is receiving the entire attention of the household, it is not to be wondered at that he is reluctant to relinquish privileges that under no other circumstances can be his.

As he gets better we should find ways of reminding him of all the pleasant things he can do as soon as he gets well.

Our attentions and solicitude can gradually diminish as he recovers so his invalidism will become less and less satisfactory and the thought of being just himself again more and more alluring.

It is likely that at least one reason that some children frequently enjoy ill health is that their mothers take such pleasure in having them sick.

To those women who have little other outlet for their energy or emotions, such a situation has sufficient compensation to cause them unconsciously to cultivate invalidism in their children.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CELIA ROGERS, 17 and just out of high school, suddenly learns that the father she has believed dead is actually living, and a wealthy New York lawyer. The revelation is made when JOHN MITCHELL, the father calls at the humble apartment in Baltimore, where Celia lives with her mother, who tells the girl for the first time that Celia is the daughter of a first marriage.

The second husband, BOB ROGERS, has been dead for years. Mrs. Rogers and Celia have had no income but the mother's earnings as a seamstress, though the girl has just secured a position as stenographer.

BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with Celia and swears they will be married some day. Mitchell proposes to take Celia to New York to make her home, offering to shower her with luxuries. The girl refuses, but later her mother persuades her to accept. Barney Shields calls at the apartment next evening and is told that Celia is not there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

Barney Shields looked disappointed.

"You mean Celia's away for the evening?" he asked, hoping the answer might be in the negative.

Mrs. Rogers nodded.

"Yes, come in, Barney. I might as well tell you all that's happened."

The perplexed young man followed her into the shabby living room. For the first time he wondered if Celia's mother might really be seriously ill. She looked to-night as though she were sick. Mrs. Rogers took a chair and Barney eased down on the davenport.

"Celia's father is here," the woman said abruptly. "She didn't even know he was living. You see I'd—well, I'd put off telling her. He was my first husband, and we were divorced. Celia was such a baby then. She grew up thinking Bob Rogers was her own father."

"Well—that must have been a shock!"

Shields' laugh was forced but he was trying to appear at ease.

"She's—with him now," Margaret Rogers went on explaining. "They're having dinner down town. He's a rich man, Barney. He wants to take her to New York."

"What? Take Celia?"

Again Margaret nodded. "He can give her so much. It wouldn't be fair to 'keep' her here—Barney, you understand a little how it is for me, don't you?"

"But—say, Mrs. Rogers—is Celia leaving? Why, that changes everything! When's she going? Does she want to go?"

Mrs. Rogers nodded her head affirmatively.

"I think she does now. Of course she was upset last evening. I didn't realize what a shock it was going to be. Oh, but they'll be here for a day or two. She wouldn't go without saying good-by to you, Barney. You've been such friends—"

The young man seemed completely at a loss for words. He was still staring at the woman. Margaret Rogers was moved by his helplessness.

"I'll always appreciate what you've done for Celia," she told him. "She's had a few good times compared with other girls and she's enjoyed the drives and evenings you've spent together so much."

Barney had found his voice now. His cheeks flushed darkly.

"Mrs. Rogers, I wasn't going to say anything for a while but I—well, I think a lot of Celia. I know she's awfully young and I'm not nearly good enough for her, but just the same I care more for her than any girl I ever met. I've been hoping some day she'd marry me. I had it sort of figured out that after I got a better job and was earning more money I could ask her to be my wife."

He stopped abruptly. In his gray eyes was such appeal that Margaret Rogers stifled the exclamation on her lips.

"Oh but—you're both so young!" she said gently.

"Celia is, I'm 23." The youth paused and then went on aggressively. "Did you say she's really—rich?"

"Celia's father is a rich man," Mrs. Rogers agreed. "I believe he means to do a great deal for her. It's not all decided yet. There have been so many things—"

"Going to live in New York, you said?"

Margaret nodded her head. "Yes, for a time. You see, she'll have to grow used to the idea of having these relatives she's never heard of before. I'm glad you told me how you feel about my daughter, Barney. I—well, you know I like you very much. Of course I hadn't dreamed of had such serious thoughts. As you say, Celia's a child. I think it's best for both of you to put marriage out of your minds for some time. You have so many years ahead of you!"

Barney smiled sardonically.

"If she goes off to meet a lot of rich folks I guess she'll put me out of her mind all right."

"But my dear young man—"

Shields interrupted. "I know,

"Open it," Mitchell repeated. "It's something I hoped you might like."

Mrs. Rogers. I shouldn't have said that. Only you see this thing's a shock to me too. I'd better be going. I suppose you have lots of things to do. Packing and everything. Tell Celia, will you, that I'll stop in tomorrow evening—that is, if she can see me."

"I'll tell her," Mrs. Rogers agreed. "She'll want to see you I'm sure. Good night, Barney."

"Good night."

The sound of the young man's footsteps on the stairs died away and still Margaret Rogers sat where she was, struggling with her thoughts.

Celia had never seen such a room. She was sitting across from John Mitchell at a table for two in the great green and gold dining room and she was trying very hard not to seem self-conscious.

She wore the rose dress which was her "best" and kept her small black hat on her head just as her mother had told her.

All of the other diners appeared elegant to Celia. She wondered how they could seem so casual in such expensive surroundings.

A solicitous dark-skinned waiter offered her a silver tray of rolls. Celia helped herself to a muffin.

"How's the roast? Tender?" Mitchell asked.

"Oh, yes. It's very nice."

"That's good. Mine isn't!" Mitchell grumbled. "Might have known it would be tough. Can't understand what's happening to all the hotel cooks. All over the country they get worse every year!"

"But I think the food is delicious." "Glad you can eat it."

They had finished their fruit and were in the midst of the meat course. Celia was beginning to feel a little less embarrassed. Mitchell seemed really the one for whom the dinner was an ordeal. He spoke in short sentences and remained stiffly formal, but if the girl had been skillful enough she could have seen that formality was a mask for diffidence.

"You—hm—think you'll be ready to leave Saturday?"

"Yes. Mother said I was to go then."

Perhaps her placidity was disconcerting after the night before. Silence came between them until Mitchell said brusquely:

"You look like your mother."

"Do you think so? Lots of people tell me that. I'm glad too. Don't you think mother's eyes are beautiful? Mine are the same color but they aren't as big."

Immediately she knew she shouldn't have said that. Mitchell looked across the room. His reply if he made one, was inaudible.

Celia bit her lip. She could not understand why but she knew from that moment that she must never make remarks about her mother to John Mitchell. It frightened her and then after a moment the fright turned to slow anger. She could not yet think of Mitchell as her father. He was an interloper with whom, for her mother's sake, she must be patient.

When the waiter had cleared away the dishes Mitchell reached into a pocket of his vest and drew forth a small white packet.

Celia lifted startled eyes.

"Open it," Mitchell repeated. "It's—It's something I hoped you might like."

"Oh—how beautiful!"

The little cry was involuntary. Cushioned on white satin within the box lay a white gold circlet with a tiny watch on one side. Surrounding the watch was an elaborate setting of diamonds and rubies. The gems were exquisite.

"Try it on," Mitchell suggested. "If the size isn't right we'll have it altered."

"It's lovely!" Celia said softly. "I've never seen anything so pretty in my whole life." She gazed at the jewels, fascinated.

"Put it on!" the man urged.

The girl raised her head.

"You mean—it's for me?"

"Of course."

"But I couldn't take it—"

"Nonsense. Of course you can take it. It's yours. Every girl needs a watch. I want you to have it so that you won't miss that train Saturday."

It was a heavy effort at humor but for John Mitchell it was an impressive one.

Still Celia shook her head.

"No," she said. "I can't take it."

"But why not? I bought it for you. I want you to wear it. Celia—couldn't you do that much for your father?"

For an instant their eyes met. Then, with conflicting emotions, Celia lifted the wrist watch from the box and slipped it over her slender wrist. The flashing stones nearly took her breath as she fastened the clasp.

"It fits perfectly."

Gravely Mitchell inspected the arm she extended. He fingered the clasp to be sure it was tight enough.

"Sure it's all right?"

"Oh, it's beautiful! I think it's lovely—and I don't know how to thank you for it!"

"Hm! Never mind. I hope it will keep time all right!" Mitchell's voice was careless again.

Celia could not keep her eyes from the gleaming bracelet. Diamonds and rubies! They sparkled and danced, caught reflected rays from one another, gaining doubled brightness.

Impulsively the girl raised her arm and laid the bracelet caressingly against her cheek.

She heard Mitchell speaking in a strained voice.

"Celia," he said slowly, "there's something I want to ask you to do."

New Working Together
AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP)—Usually at sword points concerning the relative merits of their schools and athletic teams, the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. now are working together in the campaign for the passage of an amendment to the state constitution to permit the wider latitude in the investment of the permanent endowment fund.

A. and M. recently was granted a share in the income from the fund. Under the present constitution, only state or federal bonds may be purchased and the amendment would permit investment in bonds yielding a higher rate of interest. Owing to the low rate at which the government can borrow money, it was estimated that by 1933 the federal securities would not yield more than two and one-half per cent interest.

MUSTANGS NOT SO GAY FOR GAME WITH INDIANA TEAM

BAYLOR TIE WAS BLOW TO METHODISTS

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, Oct. 24. (P)—Chastened somewhat by their 14-14 tie with Baylor university last week, the Southern Methodist university Mustangs hope to regain some of their lost prestige when they engage Indiana university in an intersectional tilt at Dallas tomorrow.

It will mark the first time a member of the Big Ten has played a Southwest conference team in this state, and advance sales indicate upward of 35,000 spectators will witness the clash. The Methodists already have met one Hoosier eleven this year, losing a close struggle to Notre Dame at South Bend, Indiana's 100-piece band will help enliven tomorrow's spectacle.

With Weldon Mason, star half-back, and Malcolm Powell, regular center, still out with knee injuries received against the Ramblers, Southern Methodist will be without its full strength, while it is reported the invaders will present their strongest front for the first time this year. The Mustangs' mastery of the passing game, however, has served to establish them favorites over the Hoosiers, who dropped to Minnesota last week.

The battle here will share interest for the day with a pair of conference games, the powerful University of Texas Longhorns opening their campaign for the championship against Rice institute at Houston, and the Texas Aggies vs Razorbacks on neutral ground meeting the University of Arkansas at Little Rock.

The two remaining conference teams, Baylor and Texas Christian, have non-title bouts scheduled tomorrow. The Bears, who surprised even their staunchest supporters by last week's heroic stand against Southern Methodist, meet a worthy foe in the Centenary college gentlemen at Shreveport. The Frogs should have it easier in their tilt with Texas Tech at Fort Worth. Coach Schmidt announced he would start a second or third team against the Matadors, saving his regulars as much as possible.

Young Heavy Defeats Risko In Boston Bout

BOSTON, Oct. 24. (P)—A new young heavyweight from out of the west has hurled that dangerous stumbling block to all fighters' ambitions to reach the inner circle of championship contenders — Johnny Risko of Cleveland. Dick Daniels of Minneapolis knocked the Cleveland baker down for the count of nine in the second round of a 10-round match here last night, then withstood Johnny's terrific comeback and finally won on a foul in the seventh.

The Minneapolis batter, who was outwheeled almost 13 pounds as he entered the ring at 185 1/2, first surprised the crowd by scoring a brief knockdown in the first round. Risko seemed dazed as he started the second round and took a terrific right hook to the head. The referee reached nine in his count before Risko got to his feet.

At the start of the third, however, Johnny gave Daniels a heavy beating with blows to the body and kept the barrage up until the end of the contest, although Daniels rallied to win the fifth round and was exchanging punches on even terms when Risko landed a clear low blow after having previously been warned.

Risko forfeited his share of the gate receipts under the Massachusetts rules.

Pittsburgh May Keep Jewel Ens

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24. (P)—There were indications at Pirate headquarters today that Jewel Ens will be retained as manager of the Pittsburgh National league baseball club.

Ens, who arrived yesterday from Cuba, was called into conference by owner Barney Dreyfuss who had as his guests President Sidney Weil and Manager Dan Howley of the Cincinnati Reds, here to see if something could be done in the way of a trade.

Following a long conference behind closed doors, it was announced there was "nothing to report," but it was learned Weil and Howley will stay here until the end of the week.

Six Freshmen Football Players Are Dismissed When They Demand Money

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (P)—George Washington university today was minus six of its best freshman football players, who were left out yesterday for demanding free room and board so the earnings from their jobs could be kept as spending money. Six more are under investigation.

The boys were dismissed from the squad by James W. Pixlee, director of athletics. Later, after failing to obtain honorable dismissal from President Cloyd H. Marvin, they announced they had withdrawn from the university. They included John Hcfess, Mexico, Missouri; August Newcamp, Erie, Pennsylvania; Charles Ribinson, Newark, New Jersey; Vance Jovick, Butte, Montana, and George Venerosa, Pittsburgh. The other half dozen, understood to be in sympathy with the students who demanded money, were not named by the school authorities.

A game which was to have been played tonight with the Georgetown freshmen—the high spot of the first year team's season—was cancelled. Pixlee said the boys had intended presenting their demands just before this game but he had been forewarned and had brought matters to an earlier climax.

Up to last Thanksgiving, room and board as well as athletic scholarships and other concessions were given at George Washington. Then the university announced it was "cleaning house," and such privileges were cancelled.

Pixlee said the players this year came "with the definite understanding that he would do nothing for them except see that they got a job."

Acting as spokesman for the dismissed players, Robinson last night issued a statement saying they had come to the university "on scholarships with the understanding that if we played football they would take care of us."

"It's always understood," he continued, "that if you go away to play football you will be well taken care of."

"When we arrived they made us sign a bond for our tuition, board and room. It was sort of arranged that we would help out in instruction at high schools for our tuition, board and room. It was also understood that if we left at the end of the year they would hold up our credits at other schools because of the bond."

"We got wind of a rumor several days ago that we were all going to be dropped to shift for ourselves after the football season, or about December 1, and in that we would have been caught penniless if that happened, decided to have an understanding whereby we might pick up some spending change between now and December 1."

Home Runs in Baseball Tourney Very Plentiful

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24. (P)—The battle of home runs, officially known as the playoff for the Pacific coast baseball pennant, goes into its third struggle today with Los Angeles still seeking its first victory over the Hollywood defending champions.

Thirteen circuit clouts in 19 innings is the count to date, with the stars victorious in a 19-inning struggle the first day, 9 to 8, and triumphant yesterday, 12 to 1. Two more wins and the 60 per cent out of $10,000, victors' spoils will be theirs.

Winter Golf Tourney Opens

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 24. (P)—The first of a long series of winter golf tournaments open over the course of the Salt Lake Country club today with a strong field of contenders seeking first prize money of the $5,000 purse.

Although a few of the nation's outstanding professionals failed to make their appearance as expected, a dozen ranking players were here for the opening round. They include Harry Cooper, Los Angeles; Craig Wood, New York; Mel Smith, Portland, Ore.; Olin Dutra, Del Monte, Cal.; Abe Espinosa, Chicago; Fred Morrison, Los Angeles; George Von Elm, Detroit; Al Espinosa, Chicago; Jimmy Thomson, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Harold McSpadden, New York, and numerous others.

Eighteen holes were on the program today, the second 18 tomorrow and the final 36 Sunday.

Control Disease

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 24. (P)—There is not a single case of sheep scabies in Texas except 14 head at the Ranch Experiment Station where the disease is being studied and the product of 19 years of research and work is now happily finished. This announcement was made here by Judge J. A. Whitten of Eldorado, chairman of the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas. Judge Whitten says the health of the livestock of the state is the best in history. Contagious abortion, tuberculosis have all been brought within 90 per cent of control, he said.

Mrs. Herzberg, severely burned, was carried from the building by a nearby barber, who heard her screams and dashed through the flames to aid her.

MISSOURI IS IN CENTER OF GRID STORM

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 24. (P)—Fresh accusations of unethical practices and fresh recriminations were hurled as faculty representatives of the Big Six met here today to weigh charges of proselyting and recruiting of athletes which have reverberated throughout the conference.

Affidavits by three University of Kansas freshmen last night charging that representatives of the University of Missouri had "approached" them stole some of the interest which had centered about Missouri's question as the eligibility of big Jim Bausch, Jayhawk half-back, which precipitated the investigation today.

The statements were filed at the University of Kansas athletic office after Prof. W. A. Tarr, Missouri's faculty representative said he had been conducting a personal investigation to obtain evidence for test cases and named Bausch, an outstanding conference star, and Phil Borello, a Kansas freshman, as the principals.

Borello's affidavit, one of the three on file, stated that after he had obtained a job at Lawrence before enrolling in the university last fall, he was approached by Byron Spencer, a Missouri alumnus, who sought to have him attend the rival university. He said Spencer had offered him a job which would pay more than the one he had with room, books and tuition. Borello is a former Notre Dame student.

The affidavit of Ross Marshall, who is not engaging in freshman athletics, said Walton Holmes, Jr., a former University of Missouri student, had promised him $300 in cash if he would attend the Missouri school and pledge a certain fraternity. The statement added that Holmes had displayed 15 or 20 such contracts.

Jewell Campbell, the other freshman, said that while a high school student he was invited to Columbia, the seat of the university and had received promises of a job if he enrolled there.

Fast Field Is Expected In Game With Plainview

Belief that if the present sunny weather continues, there will be a fast field much to the liking of the Harvesters when they play the Plainview Bulldogs here Saturday, was expressed by an athletics authority last night.

By moving the old bleachers to the east and building new ones on the west side of the field, with a backdrop to ward off the wind, better seating arrangements have been made possible for the fans. The capacity of the stands is now 2,500.

First team men that will be missing in the lineup are Pafford, the 190-pound guard, Reno, the tackle whose playing caused much favorable comment during the games with Amarillo and Lubbock, Dick Benton, versatile gridder who can play either as end or halfback and Albert Lard, quarterback.

"Big Joe" Freeman replaces Reno at right guard, who is out of the lineup on account of illness, Schmidt having been transferred to tackle.

The Bulldogs coach is a former T. C. U. player and has been rated as being a star. If he has taught his team the T. C. U. methods and they are able to execute them on the field, the Harvesters may have a harder fight than they anticipate.

Rose Is Winner In Waters Bout

Teddy Waters failed to throw Jack Rose in a return match at the Pla-Mor last night, but he took the middle fall 1 and gave the Shreveporter one of the hardest tussles of the season.

Rose won the first fall with a pin hold, a combination split and cradle. Waters literally knocked Rose out for the second fall, of the pin variety after a body slam. The deciding fall was through another of Rose's famous hair and toe holds.

In the semi-final, Rob Roy slammed Ernest Kopecky for a pin fall in 14 minutes. Kopeck looked strong, but very awkward.

Declares Football Not Overstressed

Football creates a mental and moral ruggedness which far surpasses physical ruggedness. It also exemplifies true loyal college spirit. Give me a team composed of players with mental and moral courage on the two yard line and 75 per cent of the time it will hold another team with physical ruggedness, speed, ability on a goal line stand."

A CHINESE PRESIDENT TURNED CHRISTIAN

President Chiang Kai-Shek of China was converted to Christianity this week, according to wire dispatches. He went to the home of his mother-in-law, Madam K. T. Soong, and was baptized into the Christian faith by sprinkling, according to the rites of the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

This notable Chinaman said, "I feel the need of a God such as Jesus Christ." The Chinese people was surprised when they learned the news of their leader forsaking the pagan gods they had worshipped for centuries.

With the conversion of the chief of the republic, it may change the course of the entire nation. The people will probably either follow his leadership or rebel against him for breaking their faith. We hope for the best.

The bloody massacres of the Communists raging on the frontier of that country has probably impressed upon his mind the need of guidance to rid his people of the terrible acts against humanity.

UNDESIRABLE IMPORTS

Pampa News: The Supreme Court's interpretation of our immigration laws recently has been that a foreigner may not be admitted to this country if the Consul abroad is convinced that he is "liable to become a public charge at any time, even during a considerable period subsequent to his arrival." Many officials of more or less importance have been opposed to this ruling because they say it creates a dislike for the United States in the foreign nations. However, there are others who approve of the ruling.

The United States is said to be held in dislike by some, or all, the European nations. But their nationals are still very eager to come among us. The dislike does not extend to a reluctance to get across our borders. There used to be a shibboleth to the effect that the shores of America offered release and harbor to the oppressed peoples of the world. This was the refuge of those hard-used in their own country. It is no longer. We probably did not raise the bars quite soon enough, for while the opening was left unguarded some rather undesirable citizens came in. Every country raises a few of that sort, but when one country invites other countries to send their unfits to be added to its own it is inviting trouble. The United States left that invitation on file a hundred years, and while it did attract millions who contributed enormously to American welfare and prestige, it also attracted thousands whose only service was to discredit their new home. Practically all the gangsters of Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City and New York, the leading gang cities, are aliens themselves or sprung from aliens of one generation back. This is not saying we have not produced some bad citizens from old native stock. It is saying that the majority, and the most incorrigible, of the gangsters now fretting our greater cities are imports, or scions of recently imported stock.—State Press in Dallas News.

Proration Is Attacked

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 24. (AP)—Attacks on proration and a proposed order curtailing oil production in Oklahoma until December 31 ended today before the state corporation commission after small operators whose wells would be affected for the first time voiced their objections.

Stephens, Grady and Carter county operators with wells producing more than five barrels began their fight against the proposed order Monday after the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties company and the Champlin Oil and Refining company ended their efforts to break proration. Immediately after Stephens county witnesses ended testimony today that small wells, most of them making water, would be ruined by proration, applicants for the order presented rebuttal witnesses. Charles Jacobson, production engineer for the Barnsdall Oil and Refining company, testified he had experimented with pinching in and shutting in small wells with the result that he found curtailment would increase the ultimate oil produced. Jacobson said his company for several months had been shutting down on Sunday and had not ruined the small wells. Instead, the production was greater when the wells were opened Monday. Thus, he said, overhead expense was lower; recovery of oil greater, and employees were given a day of rest.

Slowing up the pump is preferable to shutting in wells making water, he testified.

The county clerk of Galveston county recently asked the attorney general if a long distance telephone marriage ceremony would be legal. The attorney general's department expressed doubt of its genuineness in the eyes of the law, especially where one of the parties to the contract was in another state.

SMALL COUNTY HEARD

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—The small East Texas county of Trinity monopolized the morning session of the Interstate Commerce Commission's hearing on application of the Southern Pacific railway to buy control of the St. Louis Southwestern.

Trinity county residents were witnesses for the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine railroad, which desires to be included in the proposed new system. However, they spoke not only for that road, but also for the Groveton, Lufkin and Northern, which also passes thru Groveton, the county seat.

Witnesses pointed out that Trinity county, with its developing agriculture and industries would be in a precarious position if both short lines should be abandoned since the only other Trinity county railroad barely passes through a corner of the county.

W. T. Thagard, president of the Groveton Chamber of Commerce, W. Hooks, mayor of Groveton, Royall Browder, Trinity county tax collector, and L. P. Atmar Groveton banker and landowner, were among the witnesses.

Atmar cited the new truck crop movement which had been started and said that would have to be abandoned if the short lines ceased to operate. Thagard told of the silica sand, lignite and clay deposits which had not been developed.

He said the population of Groveton was increasing and there had been a number of recent public improvements.

Hooks testified that men with money were afraid to place industries on weak railroads and expressed the opinion that Trinity county would obtain a number of industries if the Southern Pacific Cotton Belt should take over one or both of the short lines.

Browder admitted the W. B. T. & S. had not paid its taxes for four years but said the county was not pressing the road because it believed the road was more valuable than the taxes.

Cotton Advances

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—Cotton opened firm at an advance of 11 to 19 points in response to relatively steady cables and reports of further cold rains in the south. There was further trade buying, as well as covering and a scattering commission house demand, but the advance seemed to be meeting rather increased offerings around the 11 cent level for December and 11.59 for May contracts. This supplied the early buyers and caused reactions of several points with new December ruling around 10.92 and May 10.48 at the end of the first half hour or about 6 to 12 points higher on the active months.

Wheat Average Drops

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—With southern hemisphere crop reports showing improvement, and with Argentine wheat acreage officially announced as larger, wheat prices here average lower early today. Upturns in security quotations, however tended to check grain market declines, and so likewise did predictions of increased European demands for wheat as the season advances.

Opening 1-8 to 5-8c off, Chicago wheat future deliveries held near afterword to the initial range. Corn also started 1-8 to 3-8c lower, and paralleled the action of wheat.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Robber To Pay For His Crime On Monthly Basis

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 21. (AP)—The installment idea appealed to Andrew Drew, investment and real estate broker.

Meeting in a hotel lobby the young gunman who held him up last September 4, Drew demanded return of $1,125 he had handed over, on threat of informing the police.

The recent robber was eager to return the money but it was all spent and he had no job.

Drew thought it could be arranged so, he said, relating the incident, "we made a deal whereby he is to pay me back at a dollar a day, $30 per month." In return Drew had to find the youth a job.

Payments start this week and if the installment stop—police will get the robber's name.

Lindy Completes Survey

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24. (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Port Columbus at 10:29 a. m. (EST) today, completing a survey flight over the route of the new Transcontinental air mail line which will be inaugurated tomorrow. He was forced back to Bettis field, McKeesport, Pa., yesterday after reaching Cambridge, Ohio, because of heavy fog and clouds.

Commutes Sentence

AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (AP)—Monty Jackson, negro, sentenced to death in the electric chair, was recipient of executive clemency from Governor Dan Moody last night a few hours before the condemned man was to die. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Jackson had been convicted of the slaying of E. C. Cornelius, night watchman in Simonton, Fort Bend county, in 1929.

Changes Conduct

HONDO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Conduct of Luz Arcos suddenly changed from that of a friendly sane prisoner to that of a morose eccentric on the night of September 31, when he was granted a reprieve for a sanity hearing, according to the testimony of state witnesses in the sanity hearing in district court here today.

HAS NEW SECRET

MIDLAND, Oct. 24. (AP)—A new secret for making holes-in-one was discovered here when Billy Moran purchased a ball from Allen Tolbert, who had one time sunk a tee shot.

"Always buy a ball from one who has done the feat," Tolbert laughingly said as he handed Moran a ball.

And on the seventh hole, a distance of 170 yards, it happened. Using the new ball for the first time, Moran saw the ball go high in the air from a midiron shot and trickle in the hole.

Pershing Warns That Nation Is Not Prepared

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—A warning to the United States that it will be caught unprepared in event of another war is sounded by General John J. Pershing in an interview published in the Country Home.

"People say we should disarm," the leader of the American armies in the world war is quoted as saying. "America already is disarmed. Good men and women tell us that we should throw away our armaments. We have very little to throw away. Declaring no one hates war more than he does, he says:

"I pray fervently that there will be no more war. With all my soul I hate it. I have seen it in all its horrors. The great war was called a war to end war. Yet, in these dozen years, think how many disastrous wars have been fought and how many others seem to be in the process of making.

"We know that we will not provoke war. But what is there in history which authorizes us to conclude that someone else will not provoke one some of these days? It is not a question of whether or not we believe in war. It is a question whether we shall defend this wonderful country of ours if some other nation, which does believe in war, should attack us."

War Memories Are Soft Pedaled

LONDON, Oct. 24. (AP)—With the hope of soft-pedaling war memories, the British government has asked other foreign governments to eliminate ceremonies at the tombs of the unknown soldier and cenotaphs in future official receptions.

No formal statement of transmission of the request has been made by the government, but foreign office officials confirm that the step has been taken with the intention of discouraging perpetuation of war memories and the bitterness engendered by them.

The conclusion is drawn that henceforth no official visitors in England will be taken to the Cenotaph, or unknown warrior's tomb, to deposit a wreath, and that British delegates to foreign countries will not participate in such ceremonies.

Will See Prisoner

CARTHAGE, Mo., Oct. 23. (AP)—Officers announced Mrs. Alma Wilson McKinley, Greenfield heiress, will come to Carthage today to view Bill Prater, 41, and Mrs. Emory Hill, held here in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. McKinley last week.

Sheriff O. E. Killingsworth, an automobile salesman, and Mrs. Hill, a divorcee, to Greenfield.

Diamond Hold-Up Fails

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23. (AP)—Two men attempted to hold up a jewelry salesman in the heart of the shopping district today and in a running pistol fire one of them was killed.

The salesman was Walter Hayman, who was about to enter the jewelry store of J. E. Caldwell and company. Two men backed him against the wall of the building. Hayman shouted and attracted the attention of Joseph McCabe, jewelry store guard, who attacked the men with his fists.

The holdup men broke away and ran into the arcade of the Widener building in which the jewelry store is located. Policemen joined the chase and the fleeing men fired at their pursuers as they ran. Policemen opened fire and the two men fell. They were removed to a hospital where one died.

PRACTICAL TO RAISE FEED DAIRYMEN FIND

BRYAN, Oct. 24.—Told that he couldn't produce his own dairy feed in Brazos county, Frank Merka, dairy herd-demonstrator has lately harvested 60 tons of hegari, corn and other feed stuffs, and has reduced his feed bill on 26 cows from $240 cash outlay per month to $70. In addition to this home-grown feed he finds four pounds of cottonseed meal per cow per day makes up a balanced ration as outlined by his county agent, C. L. Beason. Improved machinery in the form of a tractor, row binder, disc harrows and feed mill account for the efficient feed production Mr. Merka declares.

FINDS CHEESE GOOD SELLER

COLORADO, Oct. 24.—Cottage cheese has been found a profitable source of "pin money" by Mrs. J. R. Johnson who sold $55.00 worth of it in about six months. She gets 25 cents per pound for it at the stores and has several customers who buy directly from her in her home in Mitchell county.

Newly Released Federal Statistics Will Give Experts Plenty of Work

BY PAUL BOLTON
Associated Press Staff Writer
AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (AP)—Statistics enough to keep the tax experts busy for several weeks were contained in a little pamphlet recently sent out by the U. S. department of commerce, entitled, "Financial Statistics of State Governments: 1928."

Regarding Texas, the report shows one out of every four dollars of state revenue was obtained from a general property tax; that the property tax increased 100 per cent in the decade from 1917 to 1927; and that the motorist in reality pays more tax money to the state than does the property owner.

In 1928 the Texas per capita property levy was $4.58. All revenues totaled $16.70 for every tax payer, and the Texas per capita property tax was about 70 cents greater than the average per capita property levy for all states.

In this respect Texas was about "middle" when compared to other states having a comparable assessed valuation of taxable property. The Texas assessed valuation was slightly under $4,000,000,000. Other states in the class from $3,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 showed per capita property levies as follows: Indiana, $2.71; Minnesota, $6.03; Missouri, $1.78; Nebraska, $8.74; Kansas, $5.38; and Kentucky, $4.21. There were some states in this class which did not assess a property tax.

The gasoline fuel tax ranked next as a source of income, bringing in $19,211,000 as compared to $25,442,000 income from the property tax; and auto licenses was the third largest source, netting $13,004,000. The auto owner, adding to that a city license and other miscellaneous taxes, might well consider himself a heavily burdened taxpayer.

Only four states in the union had a debt of less than one dollar per capita, and Texas was one of the four. They were: Wisconsin 54 cents; Indiana 65 cents; Texas 76 cents; and Kentucky 91 cents.

Now that the ruling has been passed by the attorney general's department questioning the validity of marriages where both parties are not present in body—that is, marriage by telephone—sponsors for the ruling are watching the mail apprehensively.

They feared that there may have been marriages consummated in this manner prior to the ruling, and that parties to these hypothetical unions may descend on the attorney general's office in a body to protest. For the benefit of these couples, it was made clear that the ruling only expressed "doubt" as to the validity of such a wedding, and there are several other things beside the book and the ring which make a marriage valid.

More than two years at the desk of assistant secretary of state have convinced Watt L. Saunders that few Texans appreciate the extent of the state's resources.

Across Judge Saunders' desk passed a veritable record of the state's industrial and business activities, in the forms of applications for state papers of incorporation. Before taking the job, Saunders had the average conception of his state—a large state with varied industries—but he admits that he had no conception of how large it was or how varied was its industries.

A list of the industries granted state charters is indicative of what brought about Saunders' changed viewpoint. Here are some of them, jotted down offhand—lead mining, sheep raising, oil, cotton, timber in hardwood, pine and furniture, shipping, oyster fisheries, citrus fruit, truck gardening, wheat, small grain such as kafir and maize, cattle, potash and other valuable minerals, potash being one of the newest developments of the Davis mountains; quarrying of red granite, cotton mills, sulphur, and aviation.

In several of these—and the list is by no means complete—the state excels. Judge Saunders commented that from the list of corporations chartered to engage in aviation, he believes the state is destined to be one of the outstandingly "air-minded" in the nation.

Because of these varied industries, Texas had not been so hard hit as other states in the current business depression, in Saunders' opinion.

Publicity agent her being elected as one of the few women clerks of a legislative house in the United States brought Mrs. Louise Snow Phinney, clerk of the Texas house of representatives, four proposals from as many states. One of the proposals was from a young lawyer, newly graduated, who said that it was mighty hard pickings for a beginning lawyer, and if she could support both of them, to "hurry on over to Alabama."

Mrs. Phinney is running for another term as clerk. She has served as clerk during two regular and eight special sessions of the legislature.

ON TEXAS FARMS
Another triumph for experiment station varieties of seed is recorded in Collin county where W. H. Clark of Frisco harvested 26 bushels of Denton wheat per acre against a yield of 20 bushels on near-by land, and 85 bushels of Nortex oats per acre compared with 55 bushels per acre on neighboring farms using ordinary varieties.

Hegari growing in East Texas is off to a good start with county agents reporting satisfactory yields in most places. B. F. Despain in Newton county cut 1000 pounds of heads from one acre and has another crop ready from the suckers. In Colorado county Everett Bros. of Alletton reported a yield of 4032 pounds of hegari heads from an acre which the county agent compared with corn on the same land. The corn made 44.6 bushels per acre.

Out in Young county Herbert Wheat has found that he made more money in producing cane hay this year than on any other crop. He baled 557 bales on seven acres, sold the crop for $306.35, and with costs of $97.90 shows a net profit per acre of $208.45. It is fitting that he lives in Red Top county.

Texas supremacy in grain sorgo-hum production depends in no small degree on her seed breeders, particularly those who multiply the pure line strains developed by the experiment stations. In this connection a 4-H club boy must be mentioned. Alvis Dunn of Dawson county got his inspiration to produce pedigreed seed at a state short course and this year bagged 2000 heads on a 50-acre tract. He has 5000 pounds of state certified seed to help increase milo maize yields in West Texas next year.

FALSE REPORT GIVEN
MIDLAND, Oct. 24. (AP)—Midland and surrounding towns were thrown into excitement recently when officers sped out of town upon a report that the state bank of Seminole had been robbed and two men shot by bandits.

First excitement over, however, it was learned that no robbery had been perpetrated, nor had any one been shot. An oil field worker had gone into the bank to cash a check and had left precipitously upon being informed the check had been forged. As he leaped into a high-powered automobile and started speeding out of the small place a resident, believing the bank had been robbed, shot several times into the air and other residents joined pursuit.

 the remainder average around 4,000 hours or better.

Checking through the applications of the pilots, it is learned that they are fitted for practically any undertaking where flying is concerned—from carrying nitroglycerine and dove letters to ferrying Uncle Sam's air mail, not to mention the performing of hair raising stunts which only a veteran would attempt.

The demands of commercial aviation, however, have wrought havoc with the days of sporting chances and all have become family men of aviation, wedded to their jobs.

Many of the pilots, it is revealed, are graduates of the old school.
 Some are products of the late war and saw service over the battle fronts of France. Others served as instructors behind the lines of battle.

If one is looking for color, he need search no further than Joe Glass. Although only 31 years old, Glass might be considered an old man in flying circles. Born in Granite, Okla., he received his schooling there and entered the army in 1918, learning to fly a few months later.

Upon his discharge in 1921, Glass drifted into Mexico and flew for the La Huerta rebel forces during the revolution at that time. His job for the most part consisted of carrying ammunition and news dispatches.

At the conclusion of one such trip, he counted 11 bullet holes in the fabric of his plane, shot there by the opposing forces over whose lines he had to fly. On another occasion, while flying for a Mexican mining company, he carried 1000 quarts of nitro-glycerine in 13 trips on 13 successive days.

Charles Pedley, who at one time was recognized as the "barn-stormingest" pilot that ever flew a ship, won his spurs in the northern states years ago. For nearly three years, when aviation was first gaining a foothold, Pedley traveled with an aerial circus and one of his difficult stunts was to drive his plane about 2500 feet to swoop through an arch built up from the ground.

H. J. Kelsey, who comes to Southern Air Fast Express from Western Air Express, has the distinction of having flown the first passenger plane out of El Paso for Los Angeles when Standard Air Lines began that service. Later, he flew the first plane over the same route for Western Air Express when Western Air absorbed Standard Air Lines.
 So it was only right that he be named to pilot the plane bearing the official party out of El Paso for Los Angeles over the new Southern transcontinental air mail and passenger route.

The complete roster of pilots and co-pilots is as follows: Charles Pedley, Embree Hunt, Homer Rader, Dick Fagin, H. J. Kelsey, C. D.
 Page, Lee Wallace, E. R. Stotts, Joe
 Glass, Glen Loomis, Ray Fortner, Russell Arden, Bledsoe Payne, Stan-cill Gilley, Howard Woodall, C. J.
 Haire, J. W. Martin Jr., Paul Carpenter, Ted Howe, W. J. Frye, Russell and Brete Young.

THEY CAN EVERYTHING
 WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 24—The problem of living at home has been solved by Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Thomas on their 10-acre farm in Wichita county. Mrs. Thomas is a 4-H pantry demonstrator and has more than 800 containers of food on her shelves for winter use. Thirteen varieties of vegetables and four kinds of fruit all raised on their own farm protect them against a monotonous diet. The meat cans have been filled with a baby beef fattened for the purpose, and will culls from the poultry flock. For a change in meat diet, Mrs. Thomas has canned some rabbit.

In the cellar potatoes, onions, and pumpkins have been stored, and 24 12 quarts of honey from their own bee hives will supplement the jellies and preserves in providing the sweets needed in an adequate diet.

Cows Appreciate Good Rations
 BASTROP, Oct. 24—Cows fed a monthly return of $5.05 for dairy herd demonstrations in Bastrop county, whereas those not fed such a ration have brought their owners only $1.58 per month.
 From the record of five herds Winfred S. Millington, county agent has shown that it took about 40 percent of the total dairy products return in late summer to pay the grain and pasture bill. Three-fourth of the dairy products from these herds was sold for cash and the remainder used in the homes or fed to poultry and livestock.

Indians Believe
"White Captive" Found at Last

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 24. (AP)—Many Indians of the Kiowa tribe believe they have again located Tahan, the "White Captive" in J. K. Griffis of Vergennes, Vt., preacher, platform lecturer, author and historian, says Dan Perry, secretary of the state historical society.

History, Peery said, asserts that according to the Indians, Tahan, taken from his white parents by the Kiowas when a small child, was killed by one of the Indians after he had reached early manhood. Many of the Kiowa Indians now living believe that Tahan was not killed, but that he is Griffis who appeared at the historical society offices here recently.

Upon entering the historical society, Griffis, who stopped here on his way from California to Vermont, handed Peery his business card, writing after his name the word "Tahan." Peery immediately began questioning the visitor and found he knew much of the language and habits of the Kiowa tribe.

"His story ran that although he is a resident of New England now and was for many years, Presbyterian minister and chatauqua lecturer, his youth and early life was that of an uncivilization," Peery said.

"He claimed his father had been a government scout before the Civil War and was operating with the U. S. Troops along the Oklahoma-Texas border while his mother, with some other white women, were in a temporary settlement on Elm Creek near where Gainesville, Tex., now is located."

Griffis told him, he continued, that the wild Kiowas and Comanches raided the settlement, killing his mother and carrying him into captivity. For the next 20 years, he told Peery, he was a warrior and participating in battles against white soldiers and other Indian tribes.

The book "Andele or the Mexican-Kiowa Captive" stated, Peery continued, that Tahan was captured by soldiers. The Kiowas attempted to recapture him, fighting for three days. Tahan eventually escaped and returned to the tribe. Zo-Ko-Yea, an Indian, later killed Tahan with bow and arrow, the book related.

Griffis asserted that he left the tribe and went eastward to learn the ways of those of his race.

After conversing with Griffis, Peery said he learned that Hoodie-Tau-Quodde, foster aunt of the Tahan of the Kiowas resided in Oklahoma. When she heard that Griffis visited here, she came to Oklahoma City for additional information from Peery.

"The aged Indian woman, after writing Griffis in Vermont and receiving an answer, seemed convinced that he was the real Tahan of the Kiowa Indians," Peery said.

"She stated that she had been to an Indian council since she learned that Tahan was yet alive and the older members all were talking about Tahan. The old Comanche people told her they had known for a long time that Tahan was not dead and that Ka-Ka-Yea had not killed him as was told in the Andele book. She said that she herself knew that he had not killed Tahan. She laughed and said that he was 'right there in our camp at the time he had told other Indians he was away with Tahan and had killed him."

Peery, in relating the story in the current issue of the historical society "Chronicles" said that "The writer will concede he was a little skeptical of this man's story, but all of the others to whom he has told his experience had no doubt that it was true."

Tahan, in a letter to the Indian foster aunt told her he expected to make another visit to the Kiowa tribe soon.

Turkeys Destroy Leaf Worms

MT. VERNON, Oct. 24.—Jeff Farchman has a flock of 70 turkeys that got fat cleaning the leaf worms out of 30 acres of cotton on his Franklin county farm. "It worked fine," he told the county agent, "and the turkeys even got a fair control on the boll worms present. You couldn't find a worm or moth anywhere in the field, but I either had too many turkeys or too few worms in spite of the fact that my turkeys have made a good growth."

Pasture Pays Handsomely

DENISON, Oct. 24.—From a five-acre pasture demonstration, G. O. Peterson, Grayson county farmer, has made $36 per acre from vetch seed besides getting a lot of valuable grazing and building up the soil. Austrian field peas, hairy vetch, oats, barley and sweet clover were seeded a year ago under county agent supervision. The plot, pastured three cows, five mules and 15 to 20 hogs throughout most of the winter, with the vetch lasting until late spring and the sweet clover coming on good in early summer. The vetch was raked in July to make 1600 pounds of re-cleaned seed worth 12 cents per pound.

They Can Cooperatively

Groveton, Oct. 24. A community canning plant that charges the customer 20 per cent of the finished product has been built by Mrs. H. K. Thompson of Trinity county for the use of the home demonstration club members of Woodlake community, and according to E. L. Meyers, the county agent who designed the outfit, the plans had been a complete success thus far. Half of the charge made for service goes for canning expenses and the other half into the treasury of the club. Help is paid 15 cents per hour. The output of all kinds of home-grown food products has been entirely contracted for by a large industrial company with an East Texas branch.

Thinks Hundreds Drowned

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24. (AP)—Dispatches to the newspaper Excelsior from Tampico today quoted the commander of the Federal garrison at Alamo, state of Vera Cruz, as saying that many persons, possibly hundreds, had died during the floods there Tuesday.

Captain Alvaro Barraza, who managed to escape from the town with his troops as the inundation licked at their heels, said he had observed the disaster from high ground nearby and had seen "possibly hundreds" of persons caught in the sudden onrush of water and swept away by the river currents.

An Open Letter

The Mineral Wells Clinic,

City,

Pampa, Texas
October 23d, 1930.

ATTENTION

C. V. McCallister, D. C., owner.
Arch Meadow, M. D., medical director

Gentlemen:

A word to express my sincere appreciation of the service tendered me in your clinic. It is rare when I am availed the opportunity of a complete physical examination where every details are checked and re-checked however, in your institution I received a most careful and concise diagnosis. I was a revelation and I cannot help but pass the good word on to any who suffer.

In keeping with good-fellowship I shall be more than pleased to answer any inquiries concerning my case and the part that Chiropractic and the other healing arts played in the restoration of my sight and memory back in the dark days of 1922. We mutually agree that had it not been for Chiropractic I would not be here to write this letter however; tell your friends and anyone interested that if they will address me in care of your office or the News-Post I shall be more than pleased to tell them my story.

The publicity my case has received, that is from the standpoint of my restoration, is a little over-drawn because, the man who restored me to normal did no more than he should have done yet; I shall be ever grateful for his work and shall continue to pass the word on to others who may suffer any ailment human kind is heir to.

The equipment featuring physio-therapy; mineral baths; Chiropractic; X-ray; medicine and surgery, leaves nothing to be desired. Pray except my sincere good wishes and let it be known that I am not opposed to any art of healing that avails relief to suffering humanity.

Cordially and sincerely,

Signed HAYWARD THOMPSON

Cook Is Head of Blanscet Club

How to vote for Lon L. Blanscet for sheriff was explained in detail to 40 members of the Blanscet-for-Sheriff club which was organized Wednesday night in the building formerly occupied by McKean and Connor hospital.

Chas. C. Cook was elected president of the club. Committees were appointed to organize similar clubs in every voting precinct in the county. Representatives from most of the boxes in the county were present.

According to a Court of Civil Appeals ruling on a Nueces county case, voters may write Mr. Blanscet's name in any one of the five places on the sheriff's ticket, it was explained. The name of Jno. V. Andrews will appear in the Democratic column as the Democratic nominee.

The Appeals court ruling held that regardless of where the name is written, whether in the Democratic, Republican, Socialist or Communist ticket, the intention of the voter is clear and the ballot must be counted, it was said.

Members of the club also pointed out that many voters in Texas in 1928 voted for Mr. Hoover on the Democratic ticket and that their votes were counted.

The general election which will be held Nov. 4 will be financed by the county and state and not by the candidates as in the primaries. The county commissioners also appoint the election officials instead

Reserve Board Gives Cause for More Optimism

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—News of better industrial and construction activity in September came from the Federal Reserve Board today to add a measure of optimism to the difficult unemployment task.

Col. Arthur Wood, relief director, also moved ahead in preliminary efforts to gather with him experts he needs to compose the general board of strategy which is to lead government and business in finding jobs or aid for millions.

From every side, however, came news of steps being taken without awaiting the setup of a central organization. Not only business men and industrialists but great numbers of workers were registering their willingness to contribute aid.

Two government branches took steps to help in a small but substantial way, the post office ordering all overtime eliminated and the work given to substitutes while the shipping board announced it would "forget" for the time being the plan to cut down the merchant fleet corporation's staff in Washington and elsewhere.

The number affected by the post office order has not yet been determined but is to be made known shortly. At present a good many regular employees are making 65 cents an hour for time beyond the eight-hour period.

The reserve board's summary of business and financial conditions for September found that after the substantial decrease in factory output from May to August, September had shown an upward trend, which did not however, reach former production figures for the same month.

Employment in factories also increased, though less than the usual gain for this season of the year. Residential construction was said to have increased materially.

Chief gains in employment came from the fruit and vegetable canning and the clothing industries and from retail establishments and of the Democratic county committee.

How To Make Profits

SEMINOLE, Oct. 24.—It takes laying mash and skim milk to make hen profits go up. Gaines county poultrymen are learning by following the course of the demonstration supervised by R. E. McFarridge, county agent. Where the hens got two to three pounds of mash per month, and one-third to three-fourths gallons of skim milk, the profits per hen have gone better than 18 cents per month. In flocks shy on these important foods the profits dropped to 14 cents per bird per month, and probably would have gone lower had it not been that all other points of management were well observed.

In one flock of White Leghorns where the production dropped to 45 eggs daily from 138 hens, the egg basket was filled with 86 eggs per day within 10 days of the time the owner, J. Green, started feeding a wet mash at noon. "The hens wouldn't eat enough dry mash," he said.

Veteran Fireman Is Found Dead

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24. (AP)—Apparently dying from natural causes, according to the inquest verdict of Justice Walter Prichard, W. M. Rains, 70, fireman for the Rock Island railway for 20 years, who survived two railroad accidents in which five men met death, was found dead in bed at his home here yesterday.

He escaped serious injury in a head-on collision of two Rock Island freight trains here Sept. 12, when two men were killed, and several years ago, was hurled from the cab of a locomotive which exploded on the north side, killing three men. He was severely burned and injured but recovered.

PROP PICKS COTTON MIDLAND, Oct. 24. (AP)—Cotton picking machines are seen in West Texas infrequently, but T. J. Richards and Phillip Jenkins, Pecos and Colorado flyers, introduced one here recently that was different from all the rest.

The men had a series of forced landings, each of them in cotton patches. Richards, at the controls each time, estimated two more weeks of hard luck would result in the propeller picking a good portion of a bale from various farmers.

WILL MOVE TOWN

SPARENBERG, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Having failed in their efforts to bring the proposed Texas and Pacific Northern railway through this community, citizens are planning to "pick up the town, lock, stock and barrel," and move it over to the railroad, provided a permit for construction is granted by the interstate commerce commission.

The approved survey on the new line places it above two miles east of the community. The town, if moved, would be about 16 miles southeast of Lamesa and about 40 miles northwest of Big Spring. At this point a new electric highline and proposed paved highway would be available.

Several general stores, a gin, three churches, and several smaller villages appendages, would be involved in the move.

WANTS CHARITY TAX

TEMPLE, Oct. 24. (AP)—In a recent letter to Governor Moody, Rev. Charles F. Parker of Temple suggested that a state tax to provide funds for charity relief work be placed on circuses, carnivals, fairs, motion picture theaters and other amusements.

He said that even a 5-cent tax would provide a sufficient fund to take care of general relief calls.

Queen Is Mystery

WESLACO, Oct. 24. (AP)—Mystery will shroud the identity of the queen of the Lower Rio Grande Mid-Winter fair until the coronation on November 22, according to Mrs. Frances Beddoes in charge of the coronation program. Each valley town will be represented by a duchess in the pageant accompanying coronation ceremonies.
