FINAL VOTE ON SCHEDULE NEAR

Measure to Be Sent to Conference With House

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—Completing the revision of the tariff bill, the senate tonight recessed until Monday for a few parting tributes and exhortations before taking a final vote.

Passage of the measure, which will send it to conference with the house for adjustment of several hundred differences, appears certain, although there are some rumblings of discontent tonight with the final handiwork of the legislators. The work was finished at 8:30 p. m.

The last day of the revision saw no important changes in the rate structure or administrative sections. A last attempt to gain a tariff on oil and gasoline, now on the free list, failed to do so.

Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, who proposed rates of ten per cent on crude oil and 20 per cent on petroleum by-products and lost, served notice he would move before the final vote is taken that the bill be recommitted with instructions to strike out all rate changes except those on agricultural products.

Curtis, Ruling Unfavorable
A similar motion plained by Thomas to limit the revision to agriculture without sending the measure back to the finance committee was ruled out of order by Vice President Curtis.

Two previous attempts to restrict the revision to farm products failed. One by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, last June was defeated by a single vote. Thomas lost a similar move later by a more decisive margin.

After being turned down the sixth time on an oil tariff, the tall gray-haired Oklahoman obtained approval of an amendment instructing the tariff commission to investigate and report to congress on costs of oil to refiners on the Atlantic seaboard of crude oil from domestic fields during the last three years and the present approximate average cost per barrel delivered to the same points from Lake Maracaibo, Venezuela.

New information reached him today, Thomas said, to the effect that the Royal-Dutch Shell was advertising an issue of stock of $40,000,000 to the people of the United States to work wells in other lands. He listed the profits of this concern at $40,000,000 in 1928.

He blamed Senate
"Yesterday the senate sent the oil industry of America to its death," Thomas asserted, referring to the defeat of an oil tariff proposal by Senator Fine, Republican, also of Oklahoma.

Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, absented in having approved an amendment to make January 1, 1932, the effective date for barring the importation of merchandise produced or manufactured abroad by forced or involuntary labor.

Wagner also had restored to the bill the right of appeal to the courts by custom brokers whose licenses had been revoked by the secretary of the treasury.

CENTRAL HIGH IS FIRST IN ONE ACT PLAY

Central high school's one-act team by sustained excellence of performance last night won first place in the Interscholastic League tournament at Canyon.

The Pampa team defeated Amarillo in the final competition after having eliminated Canyon high school at 4 p. m. and Miami high school on Friday evening. The play used was "The Valiant."

The cast was as follows: Doyle Roundtree, the "Valiant"; Charles Barrett, the warden; LeRoy Price, the chaplain; Dorothy Doucette, sister of the "Valiant"; and Curtis Stark attendant. Miss Velora Reed coached the team.

Legion Service Club to Change Meeting Place

Beginning next Friday, luncheons of the Legion Service club will be held at the Legion hall, with the ladies of the Eight and Forty organization serving the meal.

A vote of thanks was given the Rev. Tom W. Brabham and the First Methodist church for the use of the church basement for such a purpose in the past.

The Legion plans to make immediate efforts to increase its membership to the official quota, which is 275 members. Talks were made at the last luncheon by Tom Rose, Judge Ivy E. Duncan, and John Studer. Dr. R. A. Webb presided in the absence of Commander Paul Hill, who was ill.

Mrs. R. A. Webb and Mrs. W. H. Lang sang "When It's Springtime in the Rockies" and "I'm Following You." The program was in charge of Edwin Vicars.

Minnesota Man to Talk Monday at C. of C. Meeting

The regular monthly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce will be held Monday at the First Methodist church, and will be unusually interesting, members believe.

The principal speaker will be George E. Bagan of Albert Lea, Minn. Mr. Bagan, a merchant of that city, is making a speaking tour under the auspices of the Interstate Power & Light corporation.

His subject will be "Better Merchandising Service." Mr. Bagan has delivered addresses in many states, and is regarded as an authority in his subject. His talks are made for the good they do communities to which he goes.

CAPONE CANNOT BE MOLESTED AT FLORIDA HOME

MIAMI, Fla., March 22. (AP)—Federal Judge Halsted E. Ritter tonight signed a temporary restraining order prohibiting twenty North Florida and East Coast sheriffs from molesting Alphonse Capone, Chicago gang chief, expected at his Palm Island home early next week.

The injunction was asked by attorneys for Capone after Governor Doyle E. Carlton had issued telegraphic instructions to each of the 67 sheriffs in the state to arrest Capone and escort him to the state's border should he attempt to return to his residence here.

Mrs. N. A. Cobb, who recently underwent a major operation at St. Anthony's hospital, Amarillo, has returned home much improved.

MARTINDALE IS HIGH SCORING MAN OF EVENT

Lard, Harvester Star, Out of Line-Up With Injury

PANHANDLE GETS THIRD POSITION

High Wind Both Helps and Hinders the Athletes

Largely through the not too easy system of winning points in every event except the hurdles and discus throw, the Amarillo Sandies took the Pampa invitation track meet Saturday afternoon.

Amarillo scored 57 points and Pampa 50, with Panhandle amassing 24 points, Memphis 15, and White Deer four. Martindale, versatile star of the Harvester squad, was high point man of the meet with 18 points.

The Sandies did not need to win first place in the final relay to take the meet, but they led just before the last even by only 5 points and the finale was easily the high point of the day. By a fine burst of speed, James, third man in the Pampa relay team, overcame a short handicap and handed Sausbury a lead of several yards. Sausbury, however, had drawn Buffkin, who previously had won the 440-yd. dash, and the Amarillo flyer overcame the gap and won the relay easily.

Some of the marks, aided by the wind, were good for high school athletes in their first spring meet, while other times and distances were shortened by that same wind. With Albert Lard on crutches owing to strained knee ligaments, the Pampa squad came near winning the meet, and with Lard would have done so readily. A new performer in the list of Harvester stars now is Albert Doucette, smallest boy in the meet, who won the 220-yd. low hurdles, finishing strongly against the wind. Jim Ayres lived up to advance performances by taking three second places.

Summary, winners in order of placing:

- Track Events
- 120-yd. hurdles—Martindale, Pampa; J. Ayres, Pampa; time, 15.7 seconds. Only men to qualify.
- 100-yd. dash—Stith, Amarillo; Van Noy, Amarillo; Womac, Memphis; Martindale, Pampa; time, 10 seconds.
- 1-mile run—Buntin, Amarillo; Bourland, Memphis; Hargrave, Amarillo; Weedman, Pampa; time, 5 minutes 52.4 seconds.
- 220-yd. low hurdles—Doucette, Pampa.

CLUE FOUND IN DISAPPEARANCE OF LAREDO MAN

LAREDO, March 22. (AP)—The search for J. S. Cross, Corpus Christi business man who has been missing more than four weeks, centered in Laredo today with the finding of a hotel registration in the name of J. Cross on Feb. 21.

Registered with J. Cross was M. Green, both registered from Corpus Christi. They secured rooms and remained until Feb. 24. The operator of the hotel described Cross as a dark man, about 40 years old, while Green appeared about 35 years old. She said they were frequently in Nuevo Laredo, across the border.

When they left the apartment Feb. 24, they told the landlady they were going to Louisiana, but did not name the city.

Detectives working on the case believed they paid a final visit to Nuevo Laredo on leaving the apartment.

Mrs. J. D. Merriman and son, J. D. Jr., are week-end guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Turner.

Canadian Man Shoots Wife and Then Kills Self

CANADIAN, March 22. (AP)—In ill health and suffering financial reverses, Thomas Virge Humphrey, 52, grocery clerk, today shot and wounded his wife, Inez, 46, and then shot and killed himself. The shooting occurred in the dining room of their home here. Mrs. Humphrey was taken to a hospital where physicians said she had a chance to recover. She was shot in the right breast. Humphrey was shot through the head. A revolver was used. The couple had resided in this section for a number of years.

Two Candidates in Campaign for Municipal Posts

When the time limit for filing for places on the city election ballots expired Friday night, only two names had been entered for each of the three offices.

The ballots will include the following names:

- For mayor, D. W. Osborne, incumbent, and R. C. Campbell.
- For commissioner No. 1, Clyde Fathereed and J. C. Grant.
- For commissioner No. 2, Lynn Boyd, incumbent, and Chas. Kentling.

The election will be held April 1.

Booze Smugglers Fight by Mistake

EL PASO, March 22. (AP)—Liquor smugglers working half a mile north of the El Paso-Juarez bridge got their signals mixed tonight and fought among themselves for an hour while border patrolmen watched the battle from a nearby vantage point. No fatalities were reported.

After officers had arrested Aristeo Macias, 16, and Guadalupe Hernandez, a 26-year-old woman who had waded the Rio Grande with about 50 gallons of liquor, snipers stationed on the American side to protect the waters opened fire.

Another band of snipers on the Mexican side, believing United States officers were firing on the youth and young woman, answered the fire. The battle waged between the snipers within half a mile of downtown El Paso for nearly an hour before the smugglers learned they were firing on each other.

GRAY COUNTY AND PANHANDLE PRODUCTION RISES—WELLS OF SOME COMPANIES AT CAPACITY

Every day during the last week, the oil production of Gray county increased 1,821 barrels over that of the previous week, while the production of the Panhandle area gained 2,056 barrels daily. This new increase is due to the fact that a number of companies have abandoned operation and are now running 100 per cent of their oil.

Also, the big wells brought in during the last six weeks have now reached a settled production and are not likely to decline. The Humble company's Combs-Worley No. 1, section 36, is still being operated at full capacity and is producing about 5,000 barrels daily. Curtailment of drilling was forsaken by operators months ago and it was revealed at the hearing Friday that most independent companies have abandoned proration.

Some of the major companies are still promoting their production but most independents are bringing in wells as soon as they can make arrangements to dispose of their oil. The information given at the hearing that there are now 122 drilling wells in the Panhandle was amazing to most independent operators. Each week sees from six to a dozen locations made in Gray county alone.

In the last week, McIlroy's No. 1 Archer, section 139, block 3, reached a total depth of 3,225 feet. Pay was struck at 3,180 feet and 3,215 feet. It swabbed for 126 barrels a day when completed.

South Petroleum company's No. 1 Noel, section 138, block 3, made an initial production of 240 barrels a day. Pay was struck at 3,128-63 feet and at 3,178-98 feet.

Locations made the last week follow:

- Empire, No. 1-B Archer, SW quarter of section 139, block 3; Gulf Production company, No. 6-A Worley, SW quarter section 36, block 3; Humble Oil and Refining company, No. 2 Combs-Worley, SE quarter section 36, block 3; McMann Oil and Gas company, No. 8 Palmer, section 31, block B-2, and the same company's No. 9 Palmer in the same section; Shamrock Oil and Gas company, No. 4-C Clayton, section 50, block 25; Prairie Oil and Gas company, No. 3 Leycomb, NW quarter, section 36, block 3.

Daily production of counties compared with the previous week:

- Carson—197 wells, producing 9,337 barrels, a gain of 148 barrels.
- Gray—324 wells, producing 59,629 barrels, an increase of 1,821 barrels.
- Hutchinson—959 wells, producing 23,461 barrels, an increase of 117 barrels.

- Moore—19 wells producing 579 barrels.
- Potter—One well producing 59 barrels.
- Wheeler—38 wells, producing 583 barrels, an increase of 38 barrels.
- Total—1730 wells, producing 93,009 barrels, a gain of 2,056 barrels.

DECISION UPON PRORATION WILL BE MADE SOON

The state railroad commission will probably announce within three weeks whether evidence submitted in a hearing here Friday was sufficient to show that there is a waste of oil and gas in the Panhandle, according to Commissioner C. V. Terrell, who heard the testimony.

The mass of testimony heard Friday will be studied by the three commissioners, and if they decide there is a waste of oil and gas in the Panhandle, the operators of the area will be asked to agree on a proration plan. The commission would then enforce proration of production and curtailment of drilling in the interest of conservation.

Waste Expert Testifies

The most notable testimony given Friday afternoon was by E. V. Foran, petroleum engineer of Wichita Falls, who stated that investigations he has made in hundreds of wells in Carson, Gray, and Hutchinson counties proved that there is a great underground waste of oil in those areas. The substance of his testimony was that where there is an unequal amount of oil removed from some leases there is a premature depletion of gas. This results in a waste of oil because when the gas in the area of an oil well is dissipated much oil is wasted underground, and it is never recovered due to lack of gas to bring it to the top.

In his testimony, Mr. Foran cited three wells in the Berger area which the owners thought were "dead." He said the wells were brought back to former production by special methods but that much of the oil underground was wasted. The waste could have been prevented if the wells had been pruned or pinched in, he said. It was his belief that proration would eliminate underground waste in the flush areas.

Mr. Foran stated that he had appeared before the railroad commission several times, that he had been in the employ of the U. S. Bureau of

NOT GUILTY IS VERDICT GIVEN ON FIRST VOTE

Cloud Hanging for Six Years Over Oil Man Removed

HE WISHES FALL HAD SAME LUCK

Former Secretary Sees "Truth Finally Triumph"

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—Edward L. Doheny was acquitted today in District of Columbia supreme court of having bribed Albert B. Fall for the Elk Hills oil lease.

The verdict came on the first ballot. The 73-year-old multi-millionaire stood still, staring ahead, awaiting announcement of the verdict by the jury foreman, Chelsey H. Ray.

With the words "not guilty," some of the spectators who crowded the courtroom cheered, to be silenced immediately by bailiffs.

Doheny still stood, but there were rushing down his wrinkled cheeks. For minutes they came but he did not weep. For seven years his name had been clouded, but for the second time a jury had held him an honest man. His first acquittal was on a charge of having conspired with Fall for the Elk Hills lease. The former secretary of interior also was adjudged not guilty of that charge, but only five months ago was convicted of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Doheny.

Mrs. Doheny pushed her way to the side of her husband after hearing the verdict today, and clasped him in her arms while she wept.

Jury Members Weep
After Justice William Hitz had left the bench, friends and relatives followed her within the fenced enclosure. They surrounded the Dohenys as they thanked members of the jury for their verdict.

Some jury members wept and one, Emory H. English, who walked on crutches due to the loss of his right leg, sat in his chair and cried when Doheny came over and shook his hand. Leaving the court room, Doheny posed for photographers and sound pictures. "Of course I am happy," he said. "I am only sorry that the same verdict could not have gone to my friend, Mr. Fall, who deserved it as much as I do."

Fall was tried in the same court, he is free on bond pending appeal.

The jurors refused to discuss what took place in the jury room today other than to say that the verdict had been reached 15 minutes after the jury retired. He said the indictment was read, to be followed with a brief discussion of its terms and no difference of opinion, the jury rested for little more than half an hour before returning to the court room. It was locked up during the trial.

Charge Was Believable
The government charged that the $100,000 which Doheny sent Fall November 30, 1921, was a bribe prior to the negotiation of a contract for construction of a naval oil storage plant at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. That contract contained a clause which gave the successful bidder, Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, a preference to the Elk Hills lease.

Doheny insisted the money was a loan to an old friend in need and testified it was given to Fall without any thought of influencing his official actions regarding the leases.

Justice Hitz, in his charge to the jury, told it that the only thing they had to decide was whether Doheny intended to bribe Fall when he sent him the $100,000. He said unless they determined that it was Doheny's intent

LEE'S GREATNESS

The comparative greatness of Grant and Lee as generals is being debated as the result of a declaration by an English military authority that the former was the better.

A clipping was recently sent to The News, and this contains a letter written by the Confederate leader to his son. Yellow with age, but still plainly legible, the clipping states the letter was dated Arlington House, April 5, 1862.

"My Dear Son: Your letter breathes a spirit of freshness. They have given myself and your mother great pleasure. You must study to be frank with the world; frankness is the child of honesty and courage."

"Never do a wrong thing to make a friend or to keep one. The man who requires you to do so is dearly purchased at a sacrifice. Deal kindly but firmly with your classmates; you will find it the policy that will wear best."

"Above all, do not appear to others what you are not. If you have any fault to find with any one, tell him, not others, of that you complain. There is no more dangerous experiment than that of undertaking to be one thing before a man's face and another behind his back."

"In regard to duty, let me, in conclusion of this hasty letter, inform you that nearly one hundred years ago there was a day of gloom and darkness, still known as 'the dark day'—a day when the light of the sun was slowly extinguished as an eclipse. The Legislature of Connecticut was in session and, as the members saw the unexpected darkness coming on, they shared in the general awe and terror. It was supposed, by many that the last day—the Day of Judgment—had come."

"Some one, in the consternation of the hour, moved an adjournment. Then there arose an old Puritan legislator, Davenport Stanford, who said that if the last day had come he desired to be found at his place of duty, and therefore he moved that andles be kept in session."

could proceed with its duty. "There was quietness in the man's mind—the quietness of heavenly wisdom—an inflexible willingness to obey present duty. Duty, then, is the sublimest word in our language. Do your duty in all things, like the old Puritan. You cannot do more. You should never wish to do less. You should never let me and your mother wear one gray hair for any lack of duty on your part. "Your affectionate father, "R. E. LEE."

TWINKLES

As much as we would like to explore the rugged portions of Mexico, we think we will wait until Gringos are not all regarded as wealthy. Our friends might raise a large ransom, but we understand that the way to keep beautiful friendships is to NOT make such tests.

Strange it is, but the churches—some churches—are about the only remaining strongholds of the males. And now the ladies want even to ruin the perfect abandon with which hen-pecked husbands sit in the amen-corners and applaud the preacher.

They are trying to depose King Cotton and elect a president of the reduction board. But few kings are ousted without a struggle.

Kite flying is fine, but the wee lads should stay off the streets. Motorists who try to watch the kites should keep one eye on the tots that run into the streets with their eyes and thoughts glued on the boy-made "birds".

A lot of Pampa folk miss much enjoyment by not going to church. We would not attempt to argue that the churchmen have no faults, but we do know that worship, music, and making of acquaintances will prove worthwhile to anyone who goes in the right spirit.

P. (Pure) Hokum admits that he favors a Minnesota law making a politician guilty of bribery if he as much as passes out penny boxes of matches.

Two Million New Cars Registered in Country in 1929

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—The number of automobiles in the United States increased by more than 2,000,000 or eight per cent, during 1929 over the previous year, bringing the total number of motor vehicles registered during the past year to 26,500,443.

The states and the District of Columbia collected $347,843,543 during 1929 in license fees, registration fees, permit fees, and fines.

Mehlhorn Wins Golf Tourney

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 22.—(AP)—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, Pensacola, Fla., won the $15,000 La Gorce open golf tournament here today with a 72 hole score of 285, beating out Horton Smith, Cragston, N. Y., who scored 286. Mehlhorn and Smith, playing together, staged a nip and tuck battle for first money all the way in and the winner was not decided until the 72nd hole, when Wild Bill's last putt dropped. At the 68th Horton had 268, two strokes under Mehlhorn. Wild Bill put on a burst of speed to finish one stroke under his youthful opponent. Mehlhorn picked up a stroke on the 69th and another on the 70th to square things. He scored a birdie four on the 71st for a one stroke lead as Smith took a par five. They halved the last hole.

Mehlhorn collected $5,000 first money and Smith's 286 won $2,500 for him. Tommy Armour won third money, $1,000, with 290. Billie Burke, Westport, N. Y., and Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., split fourth and fifth money between them as they tied at 291 each winning $675.

Doheny Will Face Huge Civil Action

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—Edward L. Doheny, his wife, their daughter-in-law and five grandchildren will board their yacht, Casiana, this summer and "go places, mostly on the ocean, particularly down the Pacific Coast to the South Seas," Mrs. Doheny revealed today, a few hours after her husband was acquitted of a charge of bribery. Between them and the cruise, they saw what they hope will be the last court action they must face as a result of oil scandals of the Harding administration—a civil suit for $18,000,000 damages brought by one of the stockholders of Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum company, scheduled in a federal court of California for April 29.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS TO BE PAID EACH MONTH

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—Pensions of Confederate veterans will be paid monthly instead of by quarters after the next 90 days, Senator Thomas B. Dove of Dallas stated today following a conference with the attorney general's office. A conflicting provision with respect to the time of payment of pensions crept into the bill, and it was taken to the attorney general for interpretation. The bill gives each Confederate veteran who has lived with his wife continuously since 1900, $50 per month and single veterans and widows $25 per month.

A Japanese motif, developed in charming detail, lent added interest to a party given by Mrs. Ernest Sanders on Thursday afternoon, for members of the J. A. O. bridge club and a number of additional guests.
The tea tables, laid with paper covers in the Japanese design, were especially attractive. Each refreshment plate carried a tiny paper parasol of gay color.
The favors of the occasion were Japanese vases, which were given Mrs. G. G. Brashears, high for club; Mrs. Frank C. Allison, high for guests; and Mrs. Harold Kelly, consolation.
Other players were as follows: Mrs. G. Murphy, Mrs. A. Halsey, Mrs. John Haggard, Mrs. Roy Bourland, Mrs. W. E. Coffee, Mrs. Clyde H. Garner, Mrs. John D. Peake, Mrs. E. Hooks, Mrs. C. H. Todd, Mrs. E. B. Gober, Mrs. W. A. Wilson, and Miss Jones.

Lord Balfour Is Buried Saturday

LONDON, March 22. (AP)—The Earl of Balfour, last of Great Britain's Victorian statesmen, was buried with simple services at his ancestral home in Whittinghams, Scotland, today.

Relatives, villagers and farm folk assembled at the little church for the last moments with the man who had brought fame to the district.
The small gathering sang Lord Balfour's favorite hymn "Oh, God, Our Hope in Ages Past." The village dominie played Handel's funeral march on a tiny harmonica. Six servers from the Laird's estate placed the coffin on a farm cart and began the procession to the graveside. A brief committal service was read by the Rev. Marshall Lang, brother of the archbishop of Canterbury, then the Earl of Balfour was placed beside his fathers.

Standing on a banister on a porch, Roy threw the loose end of the rope around a post of a porch above. He then apparently lost balance and slipped from the banister, the loop tightening around his neck as he fell.

Europa Is Trying For Ocean Record

NEW YORK, March 22. (AP)—Unperturbed by "antagonistic" elements, the North German Lloyd liner Europa today nonchalantly nibbled at miles that stretched ahead on its maiden voyage to America.
The prow cutting smoothly through a heavy swell and sending spray a hundred feet into the air, the ship, despite strong headwinds, covered 703 miles in the full day ending at noon (ship's time) an average speed of 28.15 knots.
A sister ship, the Bremen, which holds the record of four days, 17 hours and 24 minutes for the crossing from Cherbourg, made only 687 miles on the first full day's run of its maiden voyage last July, when the weather was much more favorable.
Although the Europa will break the Bremen's record if it continues the present speed, officials of the line said the ship was "merely doing her best" on the maiden voyage and not attempting to establish a new speed mark.

Embezzler Must Find Job Before He Is Released

ST. PAUL, March 22. (AP)—Although granted a parole today, Ransome (Cy) Thomson, who has served eight and a half years in prison for embezzling more than $1,000,000 remained in his cell tonight, awaiting a job before he can be released.
Warden J. J. Sullivan of Stillwater prison declared tonight the report that Thomson had been released was erroneous.
Warden Sullivan explained that rules provide against a release until the paroled prisoner has obtained promise of employment. Until his embezzlement from the Hornell company was discovered he was hailed as a financial genius, a civic leader and a whirlwind of business action. A palatial home and model stock and poultry farms that gained country-wide fame were his, and were known as two of the leading show places in Minnesota.

Farmer Sleeps With Shotguns

HOUSTON, March 22. (AP)—The strange goings on at the isolated home of R. S. Montgomery near Humble have led the farmer to sleep among shotguns and pistols and to have his house wired with electrical devices which sound when a gate or door is opened. Montgomery awoke one morning recently to find that a huge white cross had been marked out with lime in one corner of his tract. Later, he received this note, pencilled on cheap white paper: "Why create so much mystery? You mentioned about the cross. Why didn't you mention about the chickens?"

Once the farmer was awakened at night by one of his buzzers. He ran outside and fired at two running figures, but without effect. Deputy Sheriff Frank Neville has begun an investigation. Meanwhile, Montgomery sits with his weapons and fingers them longingly.

Cotton Group Avoids Criticism of Farm Board

GALVESTON, March 22. (AP)—The Texas Cotton association steered clear of any direct criticism of the federal farm relief program this afternoon in its final convention session, adopting a resolution which in effect put the matter up to the American cotton shippers meeting in Memphis next month. The Texas cotton men discussed the farm board matter behind closed doors today, decided that there is no cause for "effective complaint," and at the same time implied that the agricultural market act discriminates against 95 percent of the country's farmers who do not belong to cooperative marketing associations. Adherents of the waiting policy were led by T. F. Bush of Waco, was named president today to succeed J. K. Dorrance of Houston. In his annual address at the opening of the convention Friday, Dorrance criticized the farm relief act and its administration as "socialistic and iniquitous." The nineteenth annual meeting of the association concluded this afternoon with adoption of the farm board resolution and election of officers. J. L. Goldman of Dallas was elected by the new directors as vice president. L. T. Murray of Waco, was re-elected secretary, and W. J. Neale of Waco was chosen treasurer. The new directors are Neale, A. F. Pugh of Waco; E. D. McCall, of Houston; H. Lamke of Fort Worth; J. L. Goldman, of Dallas; H. Renter, of Galveston; Lamar Fleming, of Houston, and R. O. Harvey, of Wichita Falls.

LEADING CONTENDERS FOR BIG WRESTLING TITLE TO GRAPPLE HERE THURSDAY AT PLA-MOR

The two leading contenders for the belt now worn by Jack Reynolds, welterweight wrestling champion of the world, will wrestle in the main event at the Pla-Mor Thursday night. They are Cal Farley, leading exponent of wrestling in the Panhandle, and Eddie Walsh who is in Kansas City what Farley is in Amarillo. Reynolds has promised he will take on the winner of the match. This probably will be the outstanding wrestling event of the season.

The semi-final event is almost as auspicious as the first and is likely to be more interesting to the fans. In it, the Pampa favorite, Otis Clingman, and Tex Watkins will meet again, this time in a 30-minute match. The terrible defeat that Tex took from Otis three weeks ago has so devastated Watkins' morale that he pleaded for another chance at Clingman. Otis is the only middleweight in the Panhandle that Tex has not wiped up the floor with in the vicious and humiliating manner of wrestling of which he is master.

Even Gus Sonnenberg agreed when he was in Amarillo recently that Cal Farley is master of more holds than any wrestler in the U. S. Also he vies with Clingman in clean tactics. He has been the favorite wrestler of Amarillo for years and is largely responsible for the huge number of wrestling fans in the Panhandle. In the first preliminary event, Jelly Colby and Tommy Thomas of LeFors will go for twenty minutes unless one throws the other. Thomas was the wrestling champion of Texas A. & A. last year, having lost to Colby, who has never forgot the defeat. In fact, the two wrestlers asked the management for permission to appear on the card. "We've been wrestling at LeFors but neither one has been sat-isled with the decision," one said. By Thursday night, Jack Rogers will have the Pla-Mor rejuvenated. He will place the ring on wheels and move it to the middle of the auditorium. In addition to ringside seats, bleachers will be erected that the fans might get a better view. The entire hall will be re-decorated and re-arranged. A new floor has been installed and new dressing rooms with showers have been built for the wrestlers.

Salesman-Slayer to Be Tried Monday
NEWCASTLE, Pa., March 22. (AP)—With Irene Schroeder convicted, W. Glenn Dague, former Wheeling, West Virginia, automobile salesman accused with her in the slaying of highway Patrolman Brady Paul, will go to trial Monday.
The same attorneys who sought to save the life of the "trigger woman" will be arrayed against the same legal forces which defeated them.
In his cell today, Dague showed little concern over his prospects. He read newspapers carrying glaring headlines which told how calmly "the lady" as he calls her listened while the jury announced it found her guilty and recommended the death penalty.
In another cell, the "gun girl" read, "did a washing," conversed with other prisoners and received visitors.
Meanwhile her attorneys went ahead with plans to move Monday for a new trial.
Great Britain has $10,000,000,000 owed her by other countries.

Sixth Attempt to Obtain Tariff on Oil Defeated

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—The senate late today defeated the sixth attempt to obtain a tariff on oil and gasoline.

It rejected a proposal of Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, calling for a duty of 10 per cent on crude oil and 20 per cent on petroleum by-products, all now on the free list.

On five previous occasions the senate had turned down amendments providing for higher rates than Thomas proposed in a final effort to give tariff protection to the independent oil producers.

Thirteen Millions Voted at Houston

HOUSTON, March 22.—(AP)—Voters of Houston and Harris county today voted $13,270,000 in bonds to finance municipal and county improvements.

Of the total voted, $5,650,000 is for city improvements, including paving, sanitary and storm sewers, parks and improvements to the city-county hospital.

A special county road bond issue of $4,197,000 will finance additions to Harris county's system of concrete highways.

Another county bond issue of $500,000 will provide the county's portion of a proposed $1,500,000 city-county hospital.

The Harris county navigation district, which operates Port Houston jointly with the city, voted $2,923,000 for improvement of Houston's harbor. Some of this money will be spent for improvement and enlargement of the municipal grain elevator, which now has a capacity of 1,000,000 bushels. The capacity will be raised to 3,000,000.

Retrial of Liquor Case Is Necessary

In Friday's issue of the News it was erroneously reported that Bud Youkam was given a two-year term in the penitentiary on a charge of forgery.

Youkam was charged with possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale. A jury that heard his case Wednesday was dismissed by Judge W. R. Ewing after they had failed to reach a verdict in 18 hours. They stood seven to five, the foreman told the judge.

Markets

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, March 22.—(AP)—Pursuing a general downward course, wheat today closed at the lowest. This action of the market was looked upon as a natural swing of the pendulum succeding recent sharp upturns. Weakness of Liverpool and Winnipeg wheat, with word of cheaper export offerings from Argentina, and from Australia as well, did a good deal to weigh upon values here.

Chicago closing prices for wheat were heavy, 1 3-8 to 2 1-4 to a bushel beneath yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-2 to 1 1-8 cents down, oats 1-4 to 1-2 cents off, and provisions varying from 2 cent decline to 5 cent advance.

Corn and oats eased down with wheat, despite likelihood of some reduction of the corn visible supply total on Monday.

Provisions were firm because of steadiness in the hog market.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, March 22.—(AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Curtailed of cattle receipts around the eleven market circuit this week was not sufficient to offset the depressing influence of a sluggish dressed beef trade. Fed steers and yearlings are off 25c to mostly 50c with spots 75c lower on the better grades as compared with a week ago.

Stocker and feeder steers at several markets received a price setback of 25c to 50c. Receipts 161,000, a decrease of 23,500 from last week and 18,500 short of the corresponding period a year ago.

Lighter weights of butcher hogs are closing somewhat uneven, some points showing a 10 to 15c decline while at other centers weight averages of 210 pounds weight averages are 5 to 15c higher. Strong weight butchers show an advance of 10 to 20c. Chicago had a late top of $10.80. Offerings 384,000 against 500,927 last week and 567,612 a year ago.

Fat lamb prices during the week under review cashed 25 to 75c, but values on aged stock for the most part were little changed. Choice light weight fed woolled lambs on the close at Chicago cashed up to $10.65. The week's supply approximated 334,500, a decrease of 13,500 from last week and $2,000 heavier than a year ago.

Judge W. W. McCoy of the district court, before whom the hearing was held, went home as the jury did not return to the court.

FALL IS PUZZLED

EL PASO, March 22.—(AP)—Advised of the acquittal today of Edward L. Doheny on a bribery charge, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, said the people of the United States were to be congratulated and that "truth and innocence finally have triumphed."

"It now remains for the people to answer the puzzle," said Mr. Fall, white-haired and showing the inroads of advancing age, "as to the position of these two verdicts have left the cases. I think it is for the newspapers, as leading or voicing public sentiment, to ponder the matter for themselves and answer the puzzle, if they can."

"A jury found me guilty of accepting a bribe; a jury which heard identical evidence, acquitted Mr. Doheny. Of course I rejoice with the Doheny's and their friends."

PRORATION—

Mines, assigned to special oil and gas conservation work in the Salt Creek area of Wyoming. He also testified that he brought about the recovery of oil in supposedly dead wells in the Jorger area. He said he spent seven months studying the causes of underground waste in the Panhandle.

Testimony is Technical

The witness' testimony was highly technical and he kept it on a scientific plane. Efforts of R. E. Underwood of Amarillo and Senator H. E. Parnell of Wichita Falls, attorneys for opponents of proration, to induce Mr. Foran to testify in unscientific language were futile and brought much laughter from the audience. Judge Terrell was compelled to rap for order several times. Cross-examination of the witness lasted two hours but did not produce any contradictions in Mr. Foran's opening remark that unequal drainage of gas from adjoining leases results in the underground waste of oil.

Mr. Foran and Jack Davis were the only witnesses put on the stand by the advocates of proration. Mr. Davis, scout for the Humble Oil and Refining company, cited three instances wherein operators were compelled to use earthen storage. Cross-examination of Mr. Davis was lengthy and brought out the fact that there is no waste above the ground in the three flush areas that the proponents of proration want curtailed.

No Above-Ground Waste

Proof of underground waste of oil or gas is sufficient reason for the commission to take steps for conservation. Mr. Terrell said. In none of the areas now being prorated by the commission, have instances of above-ground waste been cited. Every witness at the hearing testified that there is now no waste of oil due to earthen storage. If the commission decides there is waste it will be underground, as the proration opponents attempted to show in the testimony of Mr. Foran.

The opponents of proration comprised many independents and a few major companies, notably the Gulf and Magnolia. Companies that introduced evidence to show that there is enough waste in the areas to justify the commission in placing the flush pools under proration were made up of both independents and major companies. They were represented by A. C. Smith, attorney for the Texas company.

The proration opponents were represented by Underwood, Johnson, Dooley and Simpson of Amarillo, and Senator H. F. Parnell of Wichita Falls. In cross-examination, Mr. Davis said that no preference had been given to their own wells by pipeline companies. He said he did not know of any small companies unable to get pipeline connections. It was his belief that the violators of the drilling and proration agreements include every operator in Gray county. He said that Danciger Oil and Refining company, one of the proration opponents, is now running all of its oil. He said the Humble had not started a well in the Panhandle unless forced to. The Gulf, Texas and McMann forced the Humble to drill, he said.

Independents Testify

Operators who testified that there is no above-ground waste of either oil or gas were Harry McGee, John McGee, Ed. R. Mayer, W. H. Holmes, and W. D. McIntyre, all of Amarillo, and Mel Davis of Pampa. Mr. John McGee who said he was a practical geologist declared that there is no definite information available on the question of underground waste. He said very few geologists or petroleum engineers would pass on the question of underground waste. In cross-examination, Mr. McGee said that he knew very little about petroleum engineering and that he studied Latin and Trigonometry when he went to college.

The proceedings of the hearing were taken down in shorthand by W. M. Holmes, stenographer of the 31st district court.

Chevrolet announces

A NEW SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its nation-wide dealer organization are pleased to announce a new and broader service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written and signed agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

- 1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate with maximum efficiency from the very first mile of ownership.
- 2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.
- 3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.
- 4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.
- 5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes definite proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

As a result, Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations.

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as an increased economy.

E. C. Sams Talks on Retailing—Says Facts Misstated

Declares Independents Not Run Out of Business

Speaking before the Retail Merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce at Providence, R. I., on March 15th, Earl C. Sams, president of the J. C. Penney company, said:

"The impression frequently is set up that chain stores and independent retailers are antagonistic in their purposes and methods and radically opposed in their aims. We hear, from time to time, that the chains are going to drive the independents out of business or that the independents are going to be equally destructive of the chains. Neither idea is based on fact nor supported by sound economic or social reasoning.

"There is a valid place in distribution for the mass economies of the chain store. The wide acceptance of the chains by the buying public is evidence of their underlying soundness.

"There is and will continue to be a place for the efficient, alert independent merchant. If he uses good judgment, he can do many things that a highly organized, which an extensive organization cannot do.

"The retailer has nothing to fear from anybody but himself. The chain has nothing to fear from the retailer. If both conduct a clean, efficient business; if they are honest in their intentions, interested in the town that supports them, and are members in good standing of the commercial family of the town.

"Both the chain store and the independent have a legitimate place in distribution and both will continue. Their aims are identical—to operate a profitable store and to serve the community.

"First in a retailer's responsibilities is a man's responsibility to himself. All self-respecting men are interested in making a success of life. Whether a man is a merchant or engaged in another profession, he expects that his efforts will win success.

"Yet individuals often drift into retailing with no clear conception of the requirements of the job.

"Dr. Julius Klein has said: 'It seems, in considering the retail store failures, that the original setting up of some retail businesses was decidedly ill advised. They represent hope, ambition, and poor judgment.'

"Every retailer has a definite responsibility to all who are financially interested with him. These include the banks with which he does business, the manufacturer or wholesaler from whom he buys, the landlord and others who depend on him for the payment of their accounts.

"The banker has always been an interested party in both production and distribution. He has financed the local merchant and in recent years has found an increasing business with the chain stores.

"Chains are sometimes criticized for leaving inadequate balances in local banks. No doubt there are some instances where local banker and chain store operator should sit down together for mutual understanding and adjustment. Chains certainly do promptly send a portion of their money out of town. So likewise do the railroads, the utility companies, and every retail establishment. Where do the chains send their money? Not to Wall Street—but to factories, mills, and wholesalers. Their purpose is to keep the stream of merchandise in constant circulation. Chains should constantly make effort to perfect a system of transfer of credit so as to shorten the period that the consuming public pays interest on the cost of merchandise, between date of production at the factories and delivery of the ultimate consumer.

"The Harvard Bureau of Research has found that the individual drygoods store requires 281 days on the average to bring merchandise from the factory to the wholesaler, and the store to the customer. Interest to cover this time is tremendous. The chain store takes only 85 days on the average to bring the same character of merchandise from the factory direct to the consumer. Our system a year ago had an average inventory through the year of $20,042,940. Interest at 5 per cent on that amount for 85 days is $290,045. Based upon the same inventory in the average individual stores examined by the Harvard Bureau of Research, interest must be charged their consumers for 281 days, or a total interest charge of $926,796 for the same inventory.

"The independent merchant transfers his funds out of town to replenish his merchandise stocks. In addition he requires more funds to be sent out of town because of the slower rate at which his merchandise moves from producer to consumer.

"It is obvious that the local banker and the chain store have much in common—more money is in the bank because of the chain—more prosperity is in evidence because of its contribution in the form of savings, and there should follow on the part of the local banks and the chains a cooperation that would make for the continued improvement in machinery for reducing the cost of distribution.

"Because chain stores pay their bills promptly the buying departments of chain stores are besieged by salesmen looking for business. During the history of chains, the percentage of losses sustained by their creditors has been remarkably small. As compared with the huge losses sustained by wholesalers and jobbers thru the general run of retail failure, the record is most unusual and is distinctly an economic gain to distribution.

"Chains are occasionally charged with beating down the prices paid for merchandise. The fairest answer to the question of how widespread this condition may be, is the increasing interest shown by reputable manufacturers in chain store orders and their very active desire for such business.

"The J. C. Penney company has among its sources of supply a group of manufacturers with whom it has done business practically since its beginning in 1902.

"The interest of store property owners in the retailer is direct. The ability of chain stores to secure turnover and to develop large volume has enhanced real estate values in thousands of cities and towns. At the same time it has resulted in the rebuilding of main streets everywhere with splendid retail plants that are financially justified by the increased business. Not only the real estate owner has been the gainer, but the entire community has shared because of the additional taxes paid by the improved property.

"The banker, the manufacturer, the property owner—all these are actual partners with the retailer, whether chain or not. The way the retailer handles these obligations to his partners, is likely to be the measure of the length of his business life.

"False statements are circulated about chain stores' relations with their employees.

"In our relations with associates, we have tried to do three things: select carefully, train thoroughly, reward liberally.

"In the selection of woman associates our stores attempt to use the same care as our employment department uses in picking men.

"Successful retailers today recognize that their merchandise, their store equipment and their advertising are all useless without properly trained personnel. Our company has made it a practice never to hire managers for stores. Men have been sought who were willing to go thru a training course of several years to equip them for store management. The character of our managers has shown itself thru the training years and not a single one of the 1400 managers or any company associate is, or ever has been, under a bond.

"There is no particular reason why a man or woman should work for smaller wages for a chain store when the competitor across the street will pay more. Chain store managers as a class have lived well when the retail business, on the whole, has been a small profit or non-profit producing business.

"Each proved store manager in the J. C. Penney company has a salary determined by his sales and net profit, and a contract for a share of the earnings in the store he manages. This compensation plan has been so satisfactory that we have not lost a single active store manager because of a desire for greater opportunity in another connection.

"For the women associates there is a bonus system that involved the payment of nearly half a million dollars last year to approximately 5,000 women.

"A letter received from one of our western stores signed by the five girls in that store says: 'Our total wages for the year exceed, with few exceptions, those of other girls in town, in like occupations.'

"In addition to a fair salary rate and a bonus plan, the company provides free death benefit protection and ample sick benefits.

"Any agitation against chain stores will not affect their growth if they get and hold customers' appreciation and patronage. All the fears of the independent will prove well-founded or groundless in so far as he adapts his service to the same customers.

"The public appreciates values, and their patronage follows closely this appreciation. The merchant who offers clean, up-to-the-minute merchandise and keeps his stocks in that condition by rapid turnover, will draw customers regardless of the sign over the door.

"Customers seek a pleasing store atmosphere. This implies a well-equipped store, a clean, attractive place of business and friendly service. The day is past when your wife and daughter, or mine, will buy dresses or groceries in a store because the owner has been a friend of the family.

"The store that sells reliable merchandise will grow, if it makes buying pleasant thru the store's physical set-up and the attention of the store personnel.

"Advertising is effective in attracting a customer the first time. The J. C. Penney company spent over $2,000,000 in local newspaper advertising last year. We believe it was money well invested.

"One community obligation has been convincingly met by chains, as a class, in the type of stores furnished to even small communities. We have been told frequently that the opening of one of our stores in a community has been followed by a general grading up in the entire retail district.

"Chambers of Commerce, Service Clubs, and all similar bodies are the expression of civic leadership. Over 93 per cent of the managers of the J. C. Penney company belong to service clubs. Practically all our store managers are members of local chambers of commerce.

"The community has every right to expect such participation. The retailer who does not play his part must expect to find a lasting place in the community's regard for him.

"The retailer of today or of tomorrow has certain definite functions and responsibilities. These responsibilities affect alike every retail merchant. The thoroughness with which he performs these and the manner in which he meets them, will determine his success or failure.

"This public will reward liberally the business that is soundly conceived, that is operated by an interested, intelligent personnel, and that serves worthily thru value-giving and thru cheerful community endeavor.—Adv.

Houston Man Runs on Repeal of Pro Statute

HOUSTON, March 22.—(AP)—Advocating repeal or modification of the prohibition amendment, former Congressman R. L. Henry of Houston today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the U. S. senate. He served in congress 29 years and will oppose Senator Morris Sheppard, author of the 18th amendment. Henry's statement in part said:

"The national prohibition amendment should be repealed or amended. The time has come for action by the American people. The dismal farce of prohibition as it now exists should be terminated.

"The Volstead law should be repealed or modified by congress. I shall stand squarely for such action.

"Touching the tariff question, my views coincide with the report of Robert J. Walker, the great secretary of the treasury, as he stated the correct principles on the tariff issue in his memorable document of 1845, addressed to congress.

"Congress should levy a duty on hides, wool, crude petroleum, mohair and such products of the farm and ranch as would be just to the producer.

"My constant and diligent attention will be given to securing adequate appropriations for our rivers and harbors and ports to develop them as the needs of this great state require.

"Hoover's farm relief board has done some good; but there is room for achievement of better results in that direction; and I shall devote my energies to constructive improvements of such legislation to aid the farmer and stock raiser."

Blackmail Plot Is Uncovered by State Officials

FAIRFIELD, March 22.—(AP)—While Miss Wilma Jones, 23, who claimed some one attempted to burn her to death Wednesday night, was locked in an upstairs room of the courthouse, forgery charges were filed today against Mrs. Sarah Jane Dodd, 50, and her son, Tommie, 30, at whose home in Buffalo Miss Jones stayed.

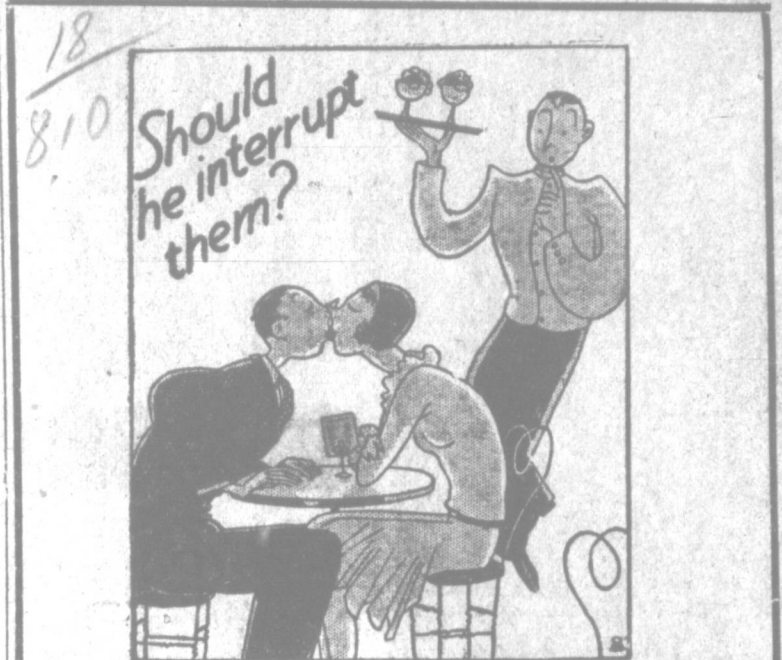

The charges were preferred in connection with alleged forgery of a $250 check on G. S. Moore, Oakwood business man. A like charge already had been placed against Miss Jones, who admitted signing the check. Moore was charged with arson after the fire Wednesday night.

Although officers sought verification of their belief that blackmail played a part, Miss Jones had not changed her story—that someone entered her hotel room, bound and gagged her and fired the mattress of her bed, and that she saved herself by rolling off the bed and bumping her head against the wall to attract attention.

The state contended that Mrs. Dodd shared the proceeds from the check, and that Tommie Dodd planned the transaction. A number of persons were questioned today including Mrs. Wilburn Jones, the girls' sister-in-law.

Civil Cases Are Called for Fill-in Purposes Only

"Shorty" Brown was given a one-year term in the state penitentiary Friday by a jury that found him guilty of possessing intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale. His attorney, Curtis Douglass, announced that he would file a motion for a new trial.

Judge W. R. Ewing thus far has not deviated from his purpose to try only criminal cases during the present court term, except when waiting for witnesses in a case on trial, or for the verdict of a jury. During these intervals or "breathing spells" as he calls them, he will hear civil and divorce cases. In this way, no time is lost in court. The first week was devoted exclusively to civil cases.

Since Judge Ewing set the trial of R. E. Wade for Monday of the second week of criminal court, it is expected that that case will come up for trial Monday. Wade is under indictment for the possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale. At the last term of court when Wade's case was called, his attorney, Curtis Douglass, said that Wade was ill in a Wichita Falls hospital. Judge Ewing ordered the bond forfeited and set the case for tomorrow.

petit jurors for next week are as follows:

E. Gubelman, W. G. Swing, Hermann Gantz, J. F. Temple, M. L. Gibson, Ashby Bell, L. Culpeper, J. O. Banks, Jims Shaw, G. L. Holmes, C. T. Mullin, R. C. Ritter, O. C. Prock, C. W. Dowers, J. E. Rum Smuggler Hurt at El Paso

EL PASO, March 22.—(AP)—Bullets whizzed a race of border last night in the fifteenth skirmish of the year between border runners and United States border patrolmen. Today the federal officers discovered that they had wounded a member of the gang which was attempting to run its contraband into Texas.

The patrolmen today returned to the scene of the gun fight west of El Paso, where they were ordered to shoot their way out of ambush, and took possession of whiskey valued at $400 which was abandoned by the smugglers. They also found evidence indicating that at least one of the rum runners had been wounded.

When two border patrolmen last night ordered the smugglers to halt, they replied with a rapid succession of shots. The odds were against the officers, only two being on guard on the line in the same hills while at least six rum runners carrying liquor in their backs, fired upon them. Other members of the gang were believed concealed in an arroyo.

Despite the fact that the patrolmen with guns, and the smugglers to cover and the abandoned in their flight.

Naval Session Is Suspended Pending Japan's Decision

BY FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
LONDON, March 22. (AP)—With tomorrow's meeting at Chequers between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Tardieu definitely cancelled, the five-power naval conference has reached the point where it is a conference in name only.

The deadlock of France and Italy over parity and the delay in obtaining Japanese approval for the American-British-Japanese tri-party agreement have resulted in a complete suspension of the London meeting.

Japan's favorable reply will save the conference as far as three-power treaty is concerned and will enable material contribution to be made to the cause of disarmament. An unfavorable reply from Tokyo—which neither the British nor the American delegations apprehend for a moment—would present an alarming prospect of the conference either blowing up or frizzling out completely unless a naval pact between the United States and Great Britain could be salvaged from the wreckage.

The influential London Observer will say tomorrow that "an Anglo-American agreement by itself would maintain the peace of the world." This is the first time that such a prospective termination of the conference has ever been suggested in the British press.

It was learned today that the moment a Japanese reply is received the work of drafting a London treaty will be started—a task which will require at least two weeks. The plan is to write a five-power treaty, the principal sections of which will concern Great Britain, Japan and the United States only, with provisions made for France and Italy agreeing to a battleship holiday, humanization of the submarine and technical agreements which have been reached here.

No Opposition to Judge Thacher Is Believed Pending

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Organization of the high personnel of the federal judiciary neared completion today with confirmation by the senate of Judge Thomas Day Thacher of New York as solicitor general.

Monday, the nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Dakota to fill the vacancy on the supreme court will be taken up by the senate judiciary committee with every prospect of his confirmation within ten days.

So far no opposition has developed to Judge Parker.

His nomination will be referred to a committee Monday and the whole judiciary committee will not get a report then until a week hence.

Judge Thacher, who has been a federal judge for the southern district of New York, received confirmation without debate or a record vote.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, asked consideration of the executive calendar which carried his name. The Idahoan also introduced a letter from Thacher replying to complaints that he had favored Communist aliens by his decisions in New York.

Previously the senate judiciary committee, through Chairman Norris, had asked Judge Thacher to dispose of stock he held in four power companies. The nominee quickly complied with this request.

Senator Overman, Democrat, North Carolina, who had objected previously to consideration of the Thacher nomination, accepted the letter of explanation sent to Senator Borah.

In this letter Thacher said his decision on a deportation case had been sustained by the attorney general and an appeal had been withdrawn as a result of the attitude of the government.

DALLAS, March 22. (AP)—Enrollment in Dallas public schools this year totaled 53,517, an increase of 3,059 over the previous term, official figures reveal.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Crosby, social celebrity of New York, is engaged to CLORINDA BERKELEY, who is not in love with him. Her father is bitterly opposed to the marriage, but her mother is determined upon it. Dinner is an unpleasant ordeal. Gigi, the 15-year-old daughter, freely criticizes her family to Dundee.

After dinner Crosby presents Mrs. Berkeley with a large flask of perfume, which Gigi snatches from her mother, dashing madly from guest to guest, sprinkling them all. Incensed, Mrs. Berkeley slaps Gigi's face, and the child runs from the room, soon followed by DICK BERKELEY. On his way to telephone police headquarters for full information on Crosby, Dundee sees Dick Berkeley forcing his attentions upon pretty DORIS MATTHEWS, lady's maid, who is forced to agree to meet him later.

At 10:45 Clorinda abruptly goes upstairs, and the party breaks up. Mr. Berkeley, however, detaining Mrs. Berkeley for a "conference" in the library.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. CHAPTER V

The room to which Dundee had been assigned was on the third floor of the Berkeley mansion. Dick Berkeley, ushering him into it upon his arrival that Friday evening, had explained:

"Nobody but the servants and me up here. I chose my quarters for privacy. Sorry, but you'll have to use my bath, old man. Your room is really what Mother calls my 'den,' but the couch is comfortable. Mother wanted you to have one of the lovely guest chambers on the second floor, but I thought you might enjoy a little bachelor peace and quiet. The bathroom's on the east, extending the length of the house; otherwise there's nothing clear across the front but my rooms. I don't think you'll mind the servants. They turn in fairly early, all except old Wickett, the butler, and use the backstairs."

Now, as Dundee plodded rather wearily up the winding marble staircase, his mind was a jumble of half-formed forebodings of he knew not what, snatches of strange conversations, distorted pictures. A queer, mad evening. A nightmare reaching its crescendo in that terrible moment when Mrs. Berkeley's broad palm left its mark upon Gigi's cheek. Funny, brazen, impudent little Gigi! But she had not deserved that!

His hand, slipping along the cold marble balustrade, suddenly encountered something soft and living and warm. Startled, he looked down at little brown fingers curled about his. "Gigi!" he whispered and bent over to stare at the forlorn little figure in incongruously gay pajamas, crouching against the stairhead.

"I've been waiting for you to come up," she whispered, her voice catching on a sob. "Dick's not in his room, and I wanted somebody to pet me and tell me what an awful little beast I am. I couldn't sleep," she confessed miserably.

Dundee rounded the stairhead and, protected from the sight of anyone below by the high marble balustrade, crouched beside her, cuddling the twisting little brown hands against his dinner coat.

"You do smell sickly-sweet!" she giggled faintly. "Did you think I was terrible, wasting Abbie's perfume like that? Well, I wasn't! I was just— She broke off the confidence abruptly however; began on a new tack, her topaz eyes glowing like a cat's in the dim light from the third-floor hall bracket. "I wasn't just being mean then, but afterwards—after Abbie—slapped me— Oh, I did something perfectly dreadful! And now I'm so frightened I can't sleep!"

"Poor little, dear little Gigi!" he said tenderly, and lifted the small hands to his lips. "You can't have done anything perfectly dreadful, and of course you're going to trot off to bed right now."

"My," she breathed softly, solemnly. "You kissed my hands, Bonnie Dundee! Just as if I were a grown-up young lady like Clorinda! I listen!" she pleaded wistfully, "if you'll kiss my eyelids I bet I will go to sleep!" He kissed the ecstatically fluttering lids very gently, but he did not kiss the soft, childish little mouth that quivered expectantly. After all, she was only 15.

—It was Clorinda Berkeley. And she was going out, stealing out.

room was a heavy odor of whiskey and perfume.

"He can't have got far," Dundee said to himself, and frowned thoughtfully.

Suddenly his mind was made up. Regardless of the fact that Dick was his host, and that his host's love affairs were none of his concern, Dundee knew that if he could prevent it Dick Berkeley should not further annoy Doris Matthews that night. The girl feared him, despised him, and he was more than half drunk. There was his empty pocket flask . . .

Without forming any definite plan, Dundee hurried out into the hall. Yes, thank heaven, Gigi had gone too bed! He plunged down the stairs, his steps inaudible on the thick velvet runner.

In the 10 minutes or so since he had gone up the house had apparently settled down for the night. In all the big front hall there was only one dim light burning, but as Dundee was crossing noiselessly to the drawing room there came the faint sound of a door opening, immediately followed by an angry, implacable voice:

"And that's my last work on the subject, Abbie! There'll be no engagement announced here tomorrow night! I'll not have my daughter marrying a wife-murderer!"

"Shut that door, George Berkeley!" Dundee heard Mrs. Berkeley's voice shrilling in the library. "Do you want Wickett to hear you? Now you listen to my last word—"

The library door closed, and Dundee was temporarily saved from the charge of eavesdropping. He hesitated, his plan to interfere with Dick Berkeley's amorous pursuits forgotten for the moment.

So George Berkeley suspected, too! Or did he more than suspect? Had he ferreted out, with the aid of private detectives, something that had not appeared at that strangely perfumery inquest 18 months ago in London? But wait! Perhaps he had had no need of private detectives! Right here in the house was Doris Matthews, Mrs. Crosby's personal maid, whose testimony had figured so prominently in the inquest. Just what had she testified? Dundee knit his brows in an effort to remember clearly.

Then he shrugged. Tomorrow he would have the resume of the case which Strawn had promised to mail that night. The Dick matter was the more pressing now. And he stepped softly into the dark drawing room. His goal was the buffet in the dining room. If Dick wasn't there, he probably wasn't in the house at all. Halfway across the room a light from the dining room made the going easier.

Wickett, the butler, stood at the big sideboard, counting silver spoons into a velvet-lined chest. He wheeled at some faint sound the detective had made, and peered frowningly.

"I was looking for Mr. Dick Berkeley, Wickett," Dundee declared himself.

"He is not here, sir. The wine was returned to the cellar some time ago, sir."

"Right, Wickett!" Dundee grinned, then protested as the butler was advancing dutifully to turn on the drawing room lights. "Don't bother! I can see well enough. But if you do see Mr. Dick, I wish you would tell him I very much want to see him before I turn in."

The butler, with a "Very well, sir," returned to his work, and Dundee threaded his way through the overfurnished, dimly lit drawing room. He was just about to step out into the hall when a faint, muffled cough warned him that someone was descending the stairs. Not relishing the idea of again explaining his presence on the darkened lower floor, he shrank back against the heavy silk brocade hangings, then, because he was a detective, and because that active sixth sense of his warned him that the person stealing down the stairs was as anxious to be unobserved as he was himself, he quite shamelessly peeped.

It was Clorinda Berkeley. Even in the dim light her tall slender body was unmistakable. And she was going out, stealing out, for she was wearing, over the wine-red velvet evening dress a cape of gold metal cloth, trimmed with dark fur. His eyes quite accustomed by now to the dim light, Dundee could even distinguish the modernistic pattern of the batik silk scarf she was nervously pulling thru her fingers as she tiptoed down the last steps of the stairs.

He waited, scarcely breathing, for he thought she must pass very close to him on her way to the front door. But she did not leave by that door. She rounded the stairs, listened for a moment to the subdued clash of voices from within the library, then tiptoed down the hall toward the backstairs regions.

Dundee heard the door open very softly, but did not hear it close. Apparently Clorinda was guarding her return, that it might be as noiseless as possible. After a minute of hesitation, Dundee followed her to that door, and listened. Very faintly came the sound of a chain being rattled, then still more faintly the sound of a bolt being shot back. Clorinda had left the house by the back door, which Wickett had already made fast for the night.

So Dick Berkeley was not the only member of that family who stole out to keep secret appointments; Whom was Clorinda meeting? Seymour Crosby? After all, they were engaged to be married, and their first evening together after weeks of separation had not been a signal success. But—they had not looked upon each other as lovers ardently desiring to be alone.

Half an hour later—a quarter to 12—when Dundee had had a tepid bath to induce sleep, young Dick, at least, had not returned from his rendezvous. Dundee shrugged wearily as he got into bed. Apparently the lovely little Doris had been quite willing to meet her mistress' son clandestinely, in spite of her seeming reluctance. Still—she certainly hadn't look like "that kind of a girl." Hadn't Mrs. Lambert told Crosby that Doris was very happy in her engagement to Arnold, the chauffeur?

The next questions, Dundee asked were spoken aloud: "Who's there? What is it?" It was broad daylight and someone was pounding on his door and calling his name.

Konjola Seems at Its Best in Stubborn Cases

New And Different Medicine Goes to the Very Source of Many Ills

No wonder Konjola makes good, for all of its 32 ingredients work together in attacking the very causes of stomach, kidney, liver and bowel troubles, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. How strikingly this is illustrated in the case of Mr. A. A. Smithson, 117 North State street, Little Rock, Ark. Read his tribute to "this medicine of medicines."

"For a long time I was the victim of indigestion and kidney trouble, and no wonder neuritis set in. The pain in my shoulders and neck no words can describe, and I kept losing strength and weight at a most discouraging rate. Every night I had to get up several times, and the loss of sleep added to my misery and generally run down condition. I was deeply discouraged when Konjola was recommended, and I had little faith left in any medicine. But Konjola proved a complete surprise. The first bottle proved that at last I had found the medicine I needed, and in four weeks the neuritis was driven out and my stomach and kidneys were functioning as they should. To me there is no medicine to compare with Konjola. Konjola is sold in Pampa at City Drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

STYLE REVIEW TO BE HELD TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

WARDROBE IS TEST IN TASTE THIS SPRING

Woman of 1930 to Be Well Dressed at All Times

BY GRETCHEN THOMSON

This season the choice of the wardrobe is the test of a woman's taste. Never have there been so many opportunities to find the perfect costume to bring out individual charms—and never have there been so many opportunities for going hopelessly astray—for not only has fashion as a whole made a radical change, but each part of the day now has its style requirements, ranging from tweeds to the sheerest fabrics.

The woman who wears her morning costume to afternoon tea, as she has correctly worn it in recent seasons, will find herself as conspicuous as the one who walks the street on a rainy day with trailing wings of chiffon at her ankles. The wise woman's well-dressed at all times of the day or evening. In the morning when she saunters forth to business or a shopping tour; luncheon at noon, the afternoon bridge, matinee, club or tea; dinner, theatre or dancing in the evening—for each affair there is a particular ensemble which has been designed especially for the purpose. To be inappropriately gowned not only handicaps her chances of success, but marks her as a member of that class of women who are not style-conscious. To avoid pitfalls requires a real study of spring fashions, and we are giving here an outline that will be a guide in choosing the various items of a tasteful, fashion-correct wardrobe, with important highlights on what will be

New Chic in Spring Styles Is Material Fact

Varied fabrics distinguish elegant costumes in the spring mode. Left: A black and white floral crepe was used by Berthe for an afternoon ensemble; the coat has pleated tiers at the bottom. Inset, above: A daytime cape costume, from Martial and Armand, is one of the new black crepes, made with scalloped edges and embroidered linen and lace collar, cuffs and jabot. Center: One of the new tweeds, in lacy weave, fashions Chanel's youthful jacket suit with nipped-in waist and tie collar. Right: Maggy Rouff used an effective flowered mousseline for a bolero evening gown of Empire influence with draped bolero, high waistline, criss-cross strappings and a loose cape back.

The opium poppy first became known among the Greeks and the Romans.

SAMENESS IN MILLINERY VERY DEFINITELY ABANDONED TODAY

By Gretchen Thomson

Millinery has definitely abandoned the discouraging sameness which so long held sway and is going the limit in brims and colors. While this is good news inasmuch as it permits greater individuality and a better opportunity for choosing hats that are really becoming it will also most likely result in a good many ridiculous specialties. One thing to be said for the uniform type of small, fitted hat—it cooled the possibility of letting the imagination lead anyone very far astray in the matter of taste. Now with the picturesque new shapes there will probably be a good many attempts to look pretty and appealing at the wrong times and places. The thing to do to avoid this is to remember that the large, drooping type of hat with lace on the brim and flower trimming, while flattering and appropriate, belongs definitely to the garden party type of afternoon occasion—and the daytime hat will still retain the characteristics of the fitted, tailored hat. True, it may have a brim—it may have length at sides or back—it may have bows or other trimming but they are all so restrained—so tastefully arranged that they obviously fit the occasion.

Looking ahead toward spring and summer and reviewing the millinery mode as a whole, the impression registers that the two outstanding notes are brims and color, after, of course, admitting that straw is the favorite media—a media which is immediately recognized as having the light quality which puts it in tune with the gay array of colors endorsed for spring—and with the elaboration of the feminine theme.

The Wide Range of Straws and Fabrics

Fine weaves, dressed to a suppleness which permits the most intricate of brim silhouettes—rough straws that reflect the practical quality of tweeds—fine, lacy and transparent effects for afternoon hats, all catering to shapes which range from the close-fitting bonnet to the picturesque Gainsborough type. Add to these the continued favor of felt and the new use of sports fabrics such as linen and shantung and the millinery picture promises to be a pleasant one to wear and to view.

Panamalique—the new shiny straw that looks like lacquer is the "style leader" of the season for street wear and it does seem to give just the right "tone" to tailored suit or ensemble. It is seen in black, navy and brown, in small turban or cloche shapes, as naturally a little of this brilliant straw goes a long way.

The brim treatments generally employ bakou and novelty straws, many

Athletic Note in Men's Clothes Is Dominant Now

If Mr. Man isn't of the athletic type in physique the clothiers will attempt to make him such. At a meeting of the International Association of Clothing Designers, held in Chicago during the early part of January, it was decreed what the well-dressed man should wear this spring and summer. After scrutinizing what designers from all sections of the country had to offer in the way of clothes, ranging from golf suits, featuring plus 4s to formal clothes, the committee in charge of summarizing the style features broke forth with this report:

Broad, Square Shoulders

"This appearance (speaking of athletically styled models) is accentuated by a broad, square appearance of the shoulders and the slimness of the waist and hips. A shortening of the coat tends to promote an appearance of breadth. From the breadth of the shoulders there will be a gradual tapering of the silhouette, ending at the shoe, which means that there will be a gradual decrease in the size of the bottom of the trousers."

Frederick A. Kleff headed the "style forecast" committee, which included members from almost every section of the country—Cleveland, Chicago, New York, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Toronto, Montreal, Rochester and Louisville. While the above report may sound like a decided change in men's models for this season, the alterations—has been brought about by gradual stages. However, in some respects the suits and topsuits of a year ago, as compared to those of today, really belong to another era.

Two-Button Peak Favored

In all probability the leader in the style parade for spring and summer of this year will be the two-button, single-breasted model, featuring the peak lapels. Closely following will be the same model with the notch lapel. As for double-breasted models, there always will be a certain following, due largely to the desire of good dressers for a pleasing change from the single-breasted models. Most of these suits, however, will be in the plain colors.

Some of the highlights of the designers' report is given briefly below:

The coat (for young men) will have

TEN MERCHANTS ASSISTED BY CLUB WILL SHOW 1930 MERCHANDISE AT THEATER

Models Will Parade in Smartest Wearing Apparel of Season for Men, Women and Children of All Ages

Pampa's "coming out" party for spring fashions has been set for next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, when ten local business houses will show their smartest 1930 merchandise in a spring festival and style revue sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club.

This important debut is attracting much interest, and doubtless will be attended by capacity audiences on both evenings. The revue is to be held at the Crescent theatre, augmented on each occasion by a brief, cleverly planned program, and the theatre's scheduled feature picture, "One Hysterical Night."

What milady, the little miss and the smart young man will wear this season will be exemplified in a "round the clock parade." Dame Fashion's inspiration upon greater formality in the dress of both men and women, and her edict for stricter adherence to the rules of fitting costume to occasion will be noted in the more elegant, vastly more feminine lines of women's frocks and accessories, the distinctly more manly lines of men's coats, and the wide variance in types of clothes for different needs.

The correct and practical costume for each hour of the day and each function will be demonstrated. Frocks, hats, shoes and accessories are to be shown. Of particular interest will be the lengths—not the length—of skirts, for there are many. Color, too, will be given prominence, and having many distinct innovations, will be a high point of interest.

The stores which will exhibit ready-to-wear in the revue are: Gordon's stores, Jarret's Fashion shop, the French Shoppe, Pampa Style Shoppe, L. T. Hill company, Montgomery Ward, Mitchell's, Murfee's Incorporated, Hayter Brothers, and the Diamond C. The Diamond Shop, owned by Sam Ferguson, will furnish jewelry and accessories. Coiffures of the models will be arranged by the Alladin Beauty shop, of which Mrs. E. E. Bechtelheimer is proprietor.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club, members of the staffs of the stores represented, and friends of the sponsors will act as models. They will be as follows:

Dorland C. Miss Cecelia Atteberry; Jarret's Fashion shop, Miss Ethel Mae Marcum, Miss Gertrude Atherton; L. T. Hill company, Mrs. Bobbie Butlerfield, Miss Louise Miller; Gordon's stores, Miss Mary Rodgers; Miss Virginia Hambrugh, Flora Marie Deneben, Christine Manning.

Pampa Style shop, Miss Joyce Darrell, Miss Edna Clemens; French Shoppe, Mrs. Grover Morris, Miss Joanne Ruth Williams; Montgomery Ward, Miss Wilma Singleterry, Mrs. Vishti Ball, Miss Clara Riggin; Murfee's Incorporated, Mrs. K. G. Manning, Miss Aurelia Miller; Mitchell's, Miss Marie Britt, Miss Helen Hurst; Hayter Brothers, Kenneth Dunn, A. E. Hickman.

Boyhood Dream of Richard Dix Is Now a Reality

Thirteen years ago a boy saw the stage play "The Boomerang" ten times. Then an ambition was born to play the lead in that play. That boy was Richard Dix, the place was New York. That boy's dream has now materialized, in Hollywood, where he has just completed the all-talking Paramount picture "The Love Doctor," the screen name of the stage play.

"The Love Doctor," like its stage predecessor, is a farce comedy of a promising young society doctor who is a very confirmed bachelor yet gives all his friends advice on their love affairs. His first patient is a young social sejour whose love left him as soon as their engagement was announced. His mother, fearing for his health, brought him to "The Love Doctor" who decided that some good advice and a rest was all he needed. The young chap was bundled off to the country with a beautiful nurse, who was secretly in love with the doctor.

Applying the three rules the doctor had given her, guaranteed to "bring any man to your feet," she succeeds in getting the doctor madly in love with her. Enter the young lady who had jilted the patient and decided that the doctor is likely prey. From thence on things take on life in the merry race to see who will be the doctor's bride.

June Collyer, Morgan Farley and Gale Henry are in the cast of "The Love Doctor," now showing at the Crescent theatre.

All in all, the spring festival and style revue promises to be highly entertaining and instructive to that 99 per cent of the public which is interested in clothes.

It is being sponsored by the local Business and Professional Women's club as an observance of national Business Women's week. Under the national plan, each B. & P. W. club was to have one major activity for the week, bringing the club to the attention of the public, and at the same time performing a service for the community. Choosing the style show as its activity, the local club postponed the exhibition from the special Business Women's week in order to meet local needs.

Mrs. Charles I. Hughes is general chairman, and cooperating with her are the following special chairmen: Models, Mrs. R. J. Kiser; contracts, Mrs. Frank C. Allison; stage decorations, Mrs. Ernest Gee; program, Miss Madeline Tarpley. Miss Marie Batal, professional dancing teacher, is assisting in arranging the program and is to coach the models at their rehearsals at 6 o'clock this evening at the Crescent, and tomorrow evening at place and hour to be announced tonight.

Many business houses and merchants not represented by the style show itself, have cooperated with the B. & P. W. club and its program. Mrs. Grace Higgins, in bringing the show to the public, through advertising in the special newspaper section and other courtesies.

Browns Feature Men's Shoes—Not of Wide Range

When the national shoe style committee made its report early in January those men largely responsible for "what's what" in men's footwear during the forthcoming season announced that the custom last and browns will be the feature for spring.

At the national convention the manufacturers came forth with a greater display of browns than heretofore. Each exhibit showed at least 60 per cent or more shoes of this popular color.

Finer Appeal in Browns
But the browns to be presented this spring no doubt will possess greater appeal than ever. In other years, colored footwear ranged from light orange or even lemon to the deep reddish brown used with cordovan leather.

Today the shades of brown are much more pleasing and do not range so extensively. Furthermore, the present browns are easily cleaned and retain their luster for a greater length of time.

The custom last, first brought to this country from England, has been universally adapted. The American makers have taken kindly to this last and so has the public. Through its use the average man gets the style he desires, at the same time also is given the coveted comfort, particularly from new shoes.

Jazz Models Are Gone
There are other styles, to be sure. Some of these are modifications of the custom last, but the jazz models of years past has been cast aside. Some toes are a bit more blunt than the present custom last, built for the man who considers foot comfort the first consideration.

Black shoes, of course, will get its proper reception, being worn alternately with the brown footwear. The latter is expected for day wear and the former for night service.

Wing tips will be shown very largely in both blacks and browns. Some models will introduce novelty stitching.

Combination of Leathers
Summer footwear is given its greatest breadth of designing treatment. The various color combinations, which have been increasing from season to season, are presented in greater numbers than ever. Suede and calfskin combinations are shown in a variety of color tones. The suedes are shown in various shades of grays and tan, with the other leather trimmings to match.

For formal wear the lightweight oxford or pump will continue in vogue. These are shown with plain toes in either medium or narrow lasts.

The cost of gasoline for running a light car is about 22 per cent of the total cost per mile. In a heavy car it is about 15 per cent.

YOUNG BRIDE KILLED
SHREVEPORT, La., March 21.—(AP)—Authorities today conducted a rigid examination into the death last night of pretty Elizabeth Bowen Delotte, 21, a few hours after her marriage to Roy Delotte. ATHLETIC—a length of 28 1-2 inches and the front will close with two buttons. The body lines will be shapely at the waist with a close, straight hip effect. The shoulders are moderately broad with a decided squareness. The buttons and pockets and general waist effect are high.

Suit for Extreme Dresser
There is a sort of crowding everything upward into the chest and shoulders. The front is moderately demanded by the still more extreme dressers.

"This garment will be only 27 1-2 inches long have broad square shoulders. Wide extremely peaked lapels. The front will close with either one or two buttons and will cut well back from the lower button. The sleeve which may be of the roll top variety will be slender.

"The vest for the first garment will be single-breasted with a moderately long opening. The entire length is fairly short, ending with long open points. The vest for the last described coat will be quite short, having a high opening. The front will have five buttons.

Trousers Bottoms Varied
As for the trousers those used with the first suit described will have a high rise to care for the shortness of the vest and for the second a slightly narrower bottom, about 18 3-4 inches, while the knees will be wide. On extreme models the rise will be even higher, requiring double plaits and wider bottoms, some of them from 20 to 21 inches.

The extreme double sack coat will show the same body lines as the single-breasted model, with two buttons widely spaced. Medium width peaked lapels go with this style. The gorge will be of medium depth.

For the young fellow with college inclinations, the three-button style still holds good. The coat will be 29 inches long, with the body slightly shaped, with a medium close skirt effect. The lapel will be an open notch. Normal length and five buttons feature the vest design, while the bottoms of the trousers will be about 19 inches.

Range of Sport Clothes
In sport clothes the designers have had almost a free hand. In the coat the variety will range all the way from the plain loose type to the plaited or belted type. If plaited the belt will be stitched down, whereas if the back is plain the belt should be loose. In this type of garment you will find many innovations introduced this season. Plus four knickers accompany all such suits.
In topcoats the single-breasted, three-button model, 46 inches promises to have the greatest call. Here you will note shoulders that are slightly squared, with the open notch lapels and straight easy lines in the back.

Another type of topcoat will be the dress coat about 45 inches in length with three buttons. Here the body lines are slightly shaped, the lapels are peaked. And among a certain group of men you will find favor for the double-breasted model, back belt-still holds good. The coat will be 29 or two or three buttons with two to button. The arrangement of buttons gives a panel effect.

Raglan Coat for Motoring
The raglan topcoat, either plain or belted, is suggested for motor wear. This style presents a maximum of freedom and also an opportunity to use rough textures in shades that do not soil easily.

As for color, grays will come to the front stronger than ever in suit models. This shade also has been a popular spring color due to the fact that it offers a most pleasant change from the sombre tones worn during the fall and winter season.

Manufacturers, however, are attempting to push with considerable energy the powder blue shades or tones of blue-grays. This color scheme went over with a degree of success several seasons ago and it is hoped that there will be a demand which may even surpass that of the first introduction of this color.

Variety in Color Effects
Of course, there will be tans, browns and mixtures, with patterns featuring pin stripes, chalk stripes, herringbones, an other novelty weaves.

In fabrics there is a wide scope for selection—in fact, so wide that every man should find the woolsens to his liking. The range includes finished and unfinished woads, Shetlands, flannels, tweeds, serges, chevots, twists and novelty weaves.

Silks and Cottons Used in Presenting Long Silhouette

By Gretchen Thomson
Nineteen thirty silks and cottons are presenting smart new designs created especially for the longer silhouettes, with pattern and spacing arranged in proportion to give the most flattering effect to the 1930 figure.

For afternoon and evening they are printed in flowing patterns and soft tones which the new femininity demands—for daytime they display smaller patterns usually with black or dark backgrounds and brilliantly colored designs. In both types striking new effects are achieved by the combination of print with plain color—the dress of print having bands, bows, cuffs and godets of plain color to match the predominating tone of the print.

A whole new group of prints is reserved for beach costumes—brilliant in color and striking in design. Novelty sports weaves made entirely or partly of silk are coming back into fashion and will be important in the sports mode while stripes are seen in every manner from the shirtwaist frock to the jacket, ensemble, with stripes running up or down or diagonally. Some of the most striking effects are accomplished.

Even in jersey the stripe is recognized, more subtly introduced in self-color in diagonal effects that have been the result of the favor accorded the moussa cloth of similar type.

The feminine and romantic trend in dress has inspired the revival of embroidered bastiste. This crisp cotton is sponsored in all-over eyelet effects of allover florals or many prefer the conventional patterns of leaves and dots, while others are favored in solid but delicately done embroidery. It is identified not only with the more formal mode, but also in blouses to complete the dressy silk suit.

Cotton meshes promise to develop into an important cotton fashion and are enjoying popularity in both the weave simulating the knitted and the jute version. Both types are much featured in blouses which in many instances are made more feminine by purged sleeves. The woven mesh has already made a name for itself in tailored suits and is approved in such dark colors as black and red brown and to some extent in navy.

In the tailored suits and sports coats, tweeds win as the leading fabric—heavy weaves combining multi-colored effects with white are favored for coats while sheer, loosely woven tweeds and lacy weaves interpret suits. Covert, appears repeatedly in suits and coats—while wool crepes in pastel and high shades, heavier than dress crepes, are seen in both dressy suits and coats. Suede-like fabrics and solid color basket weaves are first in fashion for the more formal type where fur trimming is sanctioned.

worn—when it will be worn and how it will be worn.

Correct Morning Costume
For morning wear, clever frocks of knitted fabrics or tweeds in fascinating patterns and color combinations would be an inducement for even the most indolent person to get up early and go some place. Tweed frocks made with the new swaggar flares and fitted lines, and sweater ensembles suggestive of the Southland, also are smart for the early morning wayfarer. Among the newest versions in the realm of morning apparel is the silk frock with lumber jacket of the same kind of material in contrasting color.

The Tailored Fashion
It is easy to see that the suit will be the most important fashion of spring. While the ensemble of coat and dress is smart—the newer idea of the tailored jacket and skirt is the favorite, and if you haven't a suit this spring your wardrobe will be a total loss. A new suit material which promises to be very popular this year has silk woven with the woolen threads and is usually a dark color flecked with a lighter tone. Soft flannel-like woolen suits, and those of nubbed tweeds, with or without fur trimmings, also are in the fashion parade, and many chic versions are offered. The tuck-in blouse and yoked skirt are so smart looking and youthful that they refuse to be discarded. The newest skirts, however, have longer yokes and a more decided flare. Heather mixtures for the tweeds, and black, blue or tones of brown for the plain variety are the correct choice. Fitted waistlines, cape treatments, belts and up-in-front cut are points upon which practically all jackets agree and, as in every 1930 fashion, there are types of suits for various occasions—the short tailored jacket for morning—the three-quarter jacket suit for general wear and the fur-trimmed suit for formal daytime wear.

Spring Coats
Decorative effects achieved through seaming appears to be the dominant note of spring coat fashions. Detailed seaming mark semi-fitted lines—to arrange the hem flare—to create back interest—these and numerous variations indicate the importance of this form of decoration. Many interpretations of the flaring contour are noted in godelts as well as full circular skirts and circular cut floups placed low to accent the flaring hemline. On the dressy types novelty arrangements in fur are insistent—draped pouch contours, standing collars with insets of fur, deep shawl lines and tuxedos, jabot effects and bows using galyak, butter mole, lapin, dyed squirrel or broadtail.

Prints Much in Vogue
Last year's prints won't do for the order of prints is reversed this year and those with large, brilliant designs are now chosen for chiffon evening and formal frocks and small, dainty flower designs of crepe for afternoon and informal wear. Quaintly charming are the afternoon printed frocks with the capped sleeves, peplums, circular skirts edged with ruffles and bows. Plain colored crepe frocks in the most fascinating colors imaginable add a bright touch to spring fashion. The new tones are soft and subdued in lovely rose, blue, green, purple or brown, and self-trimmed or adorned with a bit of lace at the neck and sleeves. While daytime frocks are longer and adhere closely to the lines of the new silhouette, they are usually of even length.

For After Five O'Clock
Dinner dresses are among the most charming of the season's collection. Chiffon in black or pastel shades (and by the way, pastel colors are staging a dramatic return to fashion), with the new deep U-neck and quaint little puffed sleeves and skirts or ankle length, or touching the floor in some places, as these frocks boast of the uneven hemline. Capes are also an integral part of the informal and formal evening costume. Chanel started the idea as a smart spring revival, and now all the other famous designers (and some which are not so famous) are using the idea—entire capes which encircle the bodice, onesided capes and cape effects. Printed chiffons, the hem and the cape decorated with a wide tulle border are colorful and chic for dinner and informal evening affairs. Many of these capes are detachable and thus can be made into a formal evening frock quickly.

The Silhouette
As always, simplicity is the test of true chic and the test of the new fashions manage to achieve an effect of subtle simplicity despite their elaborate details and picturesque lines. The silhouette of spring is the silhouette of good taste—a modification of extreme length and nipped-in waist. As to length there are four classifications—for sport, three inches below the knee—for daytime, four to six—for afternoon, six inches below the knee, except for the very formal costume. Ankle length all around, with perhaps a dip in the back, as accepted for evening.

The normal waistline is defined by a belt, shirring or tucking. Skirtfulness remains low, gored effects and pleats are prominent, but there is less flare in the smartest models.

Sleeves
Many things unexpected of sleeves have come to pass, and they attract considerable attention by their greater elaboration, their shorter than full-length or their complete absence. Many of the sports dresses have little cap sleeves and look much smarter than those that are sleeveless. Dresses for afternoon tea have three-quarter or bows-the-slow sleeves.

Capes and Collars
Fashions this season seem to have been designed with the special idea of adding capes or wide berthas which are of the sort to make even a debutante look younger. More than half of the dresses have a capelet in some form—attached to sleeves—a wide cape bertha or a shoulder cape that is detachable. The caps or capelet of course attain its smartest expression on coat or suit. On the daytime or sports model it is seldom more than shoulder-length, while for afternoon it may reach to elbow and be elaborated with band of fur.

Boleros
The bolero influence is seen in many directions—from suits and coats to sports, daytime and evening gowns—sometimes a separate jacket—often simulated by tucks, bands or ruffles.

New Color Tones
As fashionable colors are naturally designed to compliment fashionable complexions, the sartorial color chart of 1930 will favor the pearly feminine skin. Blue always accompanies feminine fashion epochs and is coming back strongly into the spring mode for morning, afternoon and evening. A great variety of gray tones will naturally follow. There will be several rich reds, the gamut of brown from negro to yellow. White for summer is as inevitable as black for winter, and white contrasted with black is one of the smartest spring fashion themes. Spring always launches new greens and we will have tones ranging from a color that approaches spring water to dark leaf shades. A fascinating group of pastels are featured for sports, in a variety which provides choice for dark girls and fair.

MILLINERY—

of them having lace or ribbon-like weaves.

The Silhouette
One of the interesting notes is the revival of the Gainsborough silhouette—not quite so wide as in former years but adapting the slanting, picturesque and flattering line—and as it is worn with the organdies and flowered chiffons of afternoon, feminine prettiness reaches its height.

The cloche of last year is far removed from the cloche of today. There is little a "kick-up" over one eye that shortens the line and gives the effect of an off-the-face shape, although there is still the protection of the brim.

The silhouette that Alphonse is stressing for spring, a silhouette which is definitely dressy in character, is important. This has the shorter front and back brim and the long side backs, one longer than the other, with the opposite eyeline raised just a bit to give the slanted look to the front.

Bows for Hats
"More bows for hats" follows naturally the popularity of new bow themes for dresses. With the soft lines that are being introduced in millinery for spring, it is not surprising that the softer and more feminine effects should appear for trimmings. The afternoon frock as it adopts the lengthened, rippled and formal aspect of the evening silhouette, induces consideration of more picturesque effects in millinery. Some of the bows are made of wide soft satin ribbon, tied on the brim, or under it when the shape inclines to the sweep of the Gainsborough.

Velvet ribbon of medium width is also employed for bow trims and favor is expected for velvet as the importance of straws will invite velvet ribbons to play their part in handings as well as bows.

Narrow ribbons are also employed to a large extent, sometimes three or four little bows are posed down a crown side maybe just one flat bow finishing the crown base at the back or the turn of the brim at the front. Bow trimmings are usually flat; whether they have the draped flatness of the type ribbon used for dress hats or the plain flat tailored type of the gros-grain ribbon, they are very much in the mode.

Concerning color in spring millinery

it seems that navy blue will have a vogue. They speak of the "brighter" navy as well as linen blue. On this latter color everyone seems agreed, and if this is to be so, there is little doubt but that navy will be good, for the two colors seem to go hand in hand. If one is good it will undoubtedly make the success of the other as well. Rosy reds and yellow reds are seen in the new models and there are quantities of light and bright greens. While some of the dark greens are used, it is true that there are many possibly because they are newer for the more of the light and bright colors of spring.

It is believed impossible to find a man over 40 years old who has perfect eyesight.

Low Price of Farm Products Is Deterrent Factor

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—Low prices are the chief depressing influences in the agricultural situation at present, according to Berward Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review.

"Farm prices started downward about the middle of last year and have about reached the low levels existing in previous business depressions. However, no immediate sustained rise is in prospect and even lower quotations are possible before improvement takes place," he stated.

Weather conditions during February were favorable to farm work and great progress was made. A large percentage of the spring plowing has been done and considerable cotton and corn planted in the southern parts of the state. Early planted cotton is up to a good stand in the lower Rio Grande Valley and chopping will begin shortly. Moisture is lacking in a few areas but good season is in the soil, generally. Winter wheat and oats are making excellent growth.

"Shipments of fruit and vegetables are about back to normal, indicating that effects of the winter frost have been overcome. Loadings should gain sharply from now until May or June. Unless for prices advance before harvest time agricultural purchasing power will be under that of 1929."

Imported Tweeds Best Fabric in Boys' Clothing

If that boy of yours wants to wear the better grades of fabrics for his suits this spring he must turn to imported tweeds.

If you do not care to pay the top prices that such quality material will demand you will get the same effect in the American imitations of these sturdy fabrics. In most cases these fabrics will stand the gaff of wear and hold their shapes as well as the imported woolsens.

Most of these suits are offered in two or three-button models, with the former leading the van. Since the notch lapels adapt itself to boys' wear much more gracefully than the peak lapel, the notch is naturally shown in the majority of suits.

Lighter Shades Are Favored
Most of the color tones will run to the lighter shades, with grays and tans in the foreground. There also will be shown some of the darker colors, with browns predominating, which color will ride along the popularity of this shade shown in great numbers in men's suits last fall and winter.

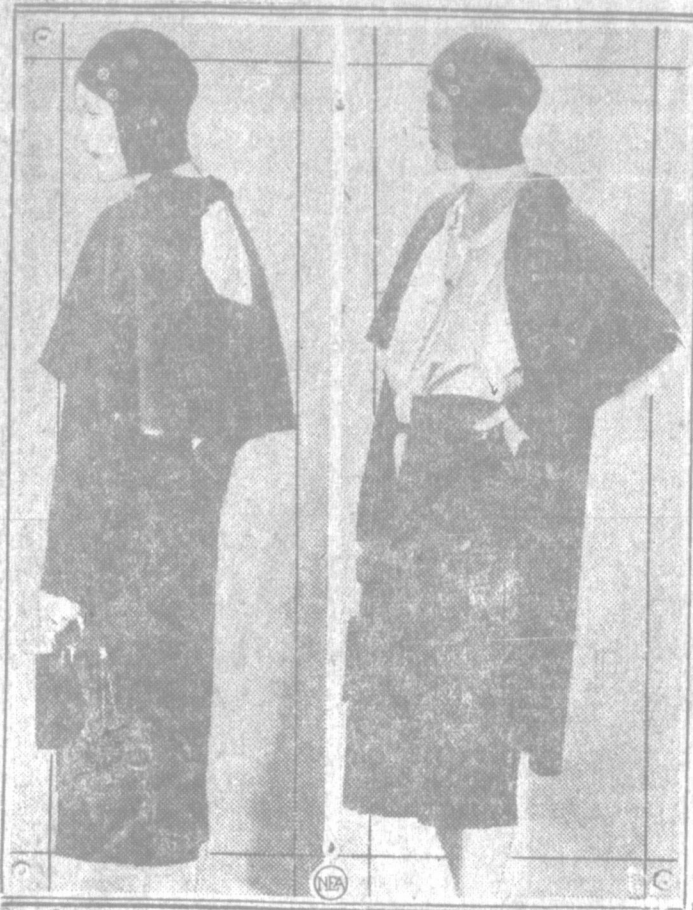

As for other models the double-breasted, while not so strong as last fall, will have its quota of followers this spring. These suits are offered largely in the darker colors, blues and browns leading the field.

Other fabrics, besides tweed, are worsted, chevrons and cassimers, offered mostly in subdued patterns or in mixtures.

Sports Model for Summer

For summer wear sports models are presented in various styles. Some belted back coats with the plus four knickers are now being shown for the first time. But many a boy who doesn't care to be "dressed" up will spend his vacation attired as lightly as possible. This will consist mainly of a lightweight sweater and regula-

Afternoon Ensemble in Black and White

The black-and-white vogue for spring is smartly illustrated in this afternoon ensemble by Lucile Parry. It is of black Lucile crepe, and the jaunty apricot at the left, in lined with white morocain. The blouse, too—shown at the right—is of white morocain. Note the original manner in which the skirt buttons onto the blouse. The hat is black felt with twin strass ornaments.

English Knickers

For the younger whose parents like the beret ensemble no doubt will meet with their approval. This consists of an English blazer coat and English shorts of imported flannels.

Extra Trousers Are Offered
In most instances—for the sake of economy—mothers will buy their youngster two-trouser suits. Some of these are offered with two pairs of knickers or one pair of knickers and one of long trousers. Those youngsters of the prep age, 14 to 16, will wear suits in either two or three-button styles and nearly all such suits are accompanied with an extra pair of trousers.

Topcoats for the older boys will show the three-button, box back effects. These are shown in a large variety of fabrics, with tweeds being featured. Topcoats for the younger lads are made along those same lines. For the juvenile both single and double-breasted effects are noted in coats which are either plain or belted. These are for youngsters of three to ten years of age.

Variety in Wash Suits

And when days are warm and no outer coat is needed you will find the little tiny fellows on the streets, the playgrounds and everywhere attired in wash suits. For them the makers offer numerous novelties in both the short sleeve and sleeveless suits, with the low neck. The latter garment will be in biggest demand.

Vessel of War Will Be Viewed at Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR, March 22. (P)—One and perhaps two vessels of war may be in Port Arthur during the annual convention of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, May 11, 12 and 13.

The British charge d'affaires in Washington has urged his government to allow the cruising program of H. M. S. Dumbar, now in South American waters, so that East Texas may be host to the ship and her crew on the convention dates.

An American man-of-war may bring Theodore Roosevelt, governor of Porto Rico, from San Juan. This is being urged on the Navy Department by many influences, and may be decided upon if Governor Roosevelt accepts East Texas' invitation to address the convention. The secretary of war has given consent for Mr. Roosevelt to leave the islands at that time and has urged the governor to accept the invitation.

Moody May Set Appointive Mark

AUSTIN, March 22. (P)—Governor Moody set a record never before equaled and which it not likely to be matched again, when he was called upon to appoint four elective officers of the state within six months.

Since the death of the late J. T. Robinson, commissioner of the general land office, on last September 6, he had appointed J. H. Walker to be land commissioner; R. L. Bobbitt to be attorney general to succeed Claude Polard, resigned; former Governor Pat M. Neff to the place of C. E. Gilmore, chairman of the railroad commission after Gilmore's death, and George E. Sheppard of Sweetwater to succeed S. H. Terrell as comptroller of public accounts upon Terrell's resignation.

There are only six other elective officers counting the two railroad commissioners. The others are commissioner of agriculture, superintendent of public instruction, treasurer and lieutenant governor.

It was Jacquard of Lyons, France, who invented the loom. His neighbors mobbed him because they feared it would throw them out of jobs.

The highest suspension bridge in the world has recently been put into operation across the famous Royal Gorge of the Arkansas river. The floor of the bridge is 1,053 feet above the stream.

Won Hoosier Net Award

Displaying the best mental attitude among more than 8,000 high school boys who played basketball on 760 Indiana prep teams in the recent state tournament, Kenneth Young, above, 125-pound forward on the LaPorte High quintet, was presented the Gimbel medal for 1930. Young was one of the smallest performers on the 16 teams participating in the finals at Indianapolis. He is the 14th Hoosier prep to wear the award, a medal having been given each year since 1917 by J. Gimbel, Vincennes (Ind.) sportsman.

Must File at Once
AUSTIN, March 22. (P)—April 6 will be the last date for filing for compensation under the World War Veterans' Act, Wynn S. Goode, department service officer of the American Legion of Texas, has announced.

He said evidence must be submitted prior to that date to show service connection for a disability other than nervous and mental disease, spinal meningitis, active tuberculosis, paralysis agitans, encephalitis lethargica, or amoebic dysentery, unless there is an official record of the injury during service or at the time of separation from active service.

Home Orchard Essays Are Good

LONGVIEW, March 22. (P)—Essays submitted in the third annual home orchard essay contest, disclosed a keen appreciation of the value of the home orchard and a thorough knowledge of its requirements, according to Roger Davis, agricultural director of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

School children of high school age were eligible and essays received represented practically the entire territory served by the regional commercial organization.

The first-prize was written by Elizabeth Roberts of the Ambia school, Lamar county and won for her a trip with expenses paid to the Farmers' Short Course at Cozge Station this summer.

Second prize, $15, was won by Ruth Miller of Newton, Newton county.

The third prize essay was written by Isabella Horne of Frankston, Anderson county. It was $7.50 in cash.

Improvement of Herds Is Subject of Proposed Course

CANYON, March 22. —On March 28 and 29 in Canyon will be held the first Herd Improvement school that has ever been held in Northwest Texas. The Senior agricultural council of the West Texas State Teachers college is sponsoring the school.

Among those who will be connected with the work of the school are: P. C. Bennett, who organized the first bull circle in Swisher county; Dr. Verns Scott, professor of the Veterinary Science, will discuss diseases; Professors T. M. Moore and Frank R. Phillips will also be on the program of the two-day school. Professor George P. Groat of Panhandle will give a discussion of linebreeding.

Students of the college who are majoring in agriculture will demonstrate the use of the Heridoscope, an instrument which has been added to the agricultural department of the Canyon college.

Independent Oil Producers to Have Regional Meetings

FORT WORTH, March 21.—The first of a series of meetings to be held throughout the state in the interest of the Independent Petroleum association of Texas will be held next week, according to announcement by Tom Crantill, president of the association.

At these meetings independent operators and land owners will be urged to attend and hear discussions of the various subjects concerning the independent oil operator and producer. Fort Worth operators interested in the organization of the association will attend each meeting.

The state has been divided into 13 zones for the purpose of the organization, and meetings will be held in each zone. Several speakers from Fort Worth will attend each meeting. One address will be devoted to an explanation of the pipeline law which the association sponsored at this special session of the legislature. Another speaker will explain the association's attitude with reference to the tariff, and another will outline the plans for continuing the work of the association.

The pipeline bill, which promises great relief to the independent producer has become a law. It will be operative after ninety days. Hundreds of requests for copy of this law have been received from independent operators throughout Texas, at the association headquarters.

Spring Fabrics Very Important in Milady's Wardrobe

BY ALMA ARCHER
 Writer for NEA Service
 NEW YORK, March 22.—Materially speaking, the latest collections of the Paris Haute Couture have given the smart woman something to think about.

It does not mean the price tags of $500 or so on a gown. I am speaking about the gorgeous new fabrics from which these latest fashions are made. No one will dare spend her money for new frocks this spring without first planning in a material way, just what the total wardrobe will be.

The first fact of fabric fashion is that semi-sheer crepes are newest for everything from lunch time until the evening party is over. These include the gamut of lovely materials known as Elizabeth, Lesure, georgette, Roma, McCreary and others which represent twisted and straight weaves netting a result of semi-sheerness. Lanvin's No. 257 in mistletoe green was an extremely picturesque evening gown of semi-sheer crepe, which amusingly caught its skirt into a doughnut of rhinestones at the throat.

Frocks of Ribbed Silk Are Favorites

Vying with the semi-sheer crepes for the first honors of material importance are ribbed silks. Inasmuch as these two great classes of fabrics behave themselves in opposite manner, the clever shopper will need frocks of each. Silk or silk and wool ribs as well as spun silk ribs, take multitudinous forms such as twisted or straight ribs, little ribs, big ribs, ribs thin or fat, ribs pinched or bulging; ribs like faille, tulle and flamengo; ribs like the old-time cote de cheval.

These may be plain, printed or made with a silly little woven jacquard design in self color. Magry Rouff herself wore a charming day dress in gray pinched rib and almost every couturier in Paris showed plain or printed versions for the silk tulleur. Miller Socrates used a tiny dot-printed rib for a jacket suit with nipped waist. Lucille Paray featured a high-waisted pocket in a turtlet rib of biscuit color with a wide cote de cheval for the black skirt.

Third fact of importance in fabrics is the reassurance that prints are still good. But do not think last year's prints will do. They won't. Jaquered prints are very new. Understand the word "jaquered" for you will meet it often. It means designs woven into the material in the same manner as the material itself. Well-spaced designs are best for they prevent jumbled effects. Lelong used these siren prints exceptionally well. His "Shanghai" dinner dress in siren chiffon would be a lovely summer country club acquisition. His peplum suits in jacquered silks were adorable.

Silk Suits Take on Importance

It brings us to the important fashion of silk suits. Small spaced designs are newest, not too many colors. Dots, checks, little flowers are good. For tea-time frocks in two-color larger patterns appear in the new short sleeve and cape models.

Printed chiffons for country club dinner and evening wear reflect clear shades in large, graceful, spaced designs. Patou's use of rose pattern chiffons was quite outstanding and unusually charming. Often the plain or printed chiffon short wrap or a printed taffeta one in the same design.

Satins, soft as mokeskin and with considerable luster, are smart for the formal evening gown or evening ensemble. Patou, of course, introduced them in his rose opaline. Bruyere in pure white and Paray in a delicate light pistache coloring made real contributions.

Woolens Have Place in the Mode

As far as the woolens, the informal crepana and francilla, soft, twisted materials used by Jenny and Chanel, sparred with the silk and wool loosely woven dreyanna crepe which Lanvin used so extensively for suits. Chanel has some small linen weaves for her long coats, lined with printed crepe or chiffon. Vionnet's marvelous formal town coats stressed her smart one-sided fastenings, particularly furless. She prefers the smooth, firm, patrella type of rep-faced wools, drapable as fine silk.

Black is tremendously smart in Paris for all day long and blues for both daytime and evening run from the lightest of Chaniel's shades, through the bright-dark hyacinth of Ponglour and Lelong to the navy of Drecoll. Greens follow the silhouette trend and certainly the smartest are from the Empire Period. Lettuce heart, willow, palm and Napoleon are favorites. The best reds are Vionnet's like offshoots of crushed roses. And if one looks well in Patou's rose opaline for sports and evening, she probably will be lovely in a deeper crushed rose shade for day.

Smart for Day

The elegant chic that the new season's costumes attain by varied routes is apparent in this green and beige printed ensemble. Over the sleeveless frock a wide sleeved cape coat is worn. Green kid pumps complete the smart outfit.

The bill was sponsored by Representative A. P. Johnson of Carrizo Springs and was probably the only major appropriation bill ever put through minus opposition.

In the body of the bill was set out an invitation from the mayor of Carrizo Springs to legislators and state officials and their families to attend the festival, adding this:

"Any guest may visit any neighboring town or territory and may desire to perform the usual courtesy, quasi-governmental functions of our sister republic, just across the border, and per chance, who knows, may find a revival of good spirits and good fellowship."

State Will Pay For Celebration

AUSTIN, March 22.—(AP)—The legislature has passed without opposition a bill appropriating funds for 10,000 pounds of barbecue, 10,000 pints of strawberries, supplemented with pure cream, to feed 10,000 visitors at the Winter Garden District Strawberry festival at Carrizo Springs April 5.

Short Wraps in New Fashions Are Clever Mode

BY JEAN PATOU
 Written for NEA Service

PARIS, March 22.—The general lengthening of line in the new fashions is, of course, more noticeable in evening clothes than in those set aside for the daytime. The combination of fitted bodice and hips, marked waistline and accompanying short wrap, all tend to enhance this effect.

Fabric closely applied to the body helps to accentuate the supple lines of a gown. This fitted effect usually is extended well over the hips, where the skirt fullness breaks the line. Carried too far, this sheath would be unbefitting to most women, even the slimmest.

A moderately high waistline also is known to make lone lines appear still longer—besides adding to the softness and supple look of the gown. The fabric may be fitted close to the figure as far as the waistline, but here again, if the bodice is form-fitting, a bolero effect will invariably be used by the couturier to attenuate its rather too severe line. The bolero therefore plays the same part in the bodice as the fullness in the skirt.

Short Wrap Complements Mode

The short evening wrap is another logical solving of the problem of a perfect and fitting garment to accompany the long, sometimes trailing evening gown. It creates an impression of slim height, and does not hamper the movements as a long wrap would.

One of the characteristics of the new fashions is that every movement which may, at first sight, appear in the light of an exaggeration, carries a compensating feature within itself. Thus, a full-skirted dance frock might risk looking heavy and devoid of grace if it were worn with a long coat. Hence the logical side of the short coat. It lends height to the silhouette and creates a gesture full of grace and charm when the wearer draws it closely around her hips and allows full play to the soft draperies of her sometimes very wide skirt.

League Contests Attract Interest

AUSTIN, March 22.—(P)—Interest in the Texas Interscholastic League contests is higher now than ever before with 200 counties conducting meetings, league officials stated, in reporting a heavy demand for test sheets in the various classes. Requests for test sheets in the music memory and three-R and number sense matches are being received daily at league offices.

The regional tournaments will be held prior to April 19 while the state meeting will be held in Austin May 1, 2 and 3.

"STANDARD BRAND MERCHANDISE AT POPULAR PRICES"

RIGHT LINE OF NECK AND SHOULDER IMPORTANT

BY HENRI BENDEL
Written for NEA Service

NEW YORK, March 22.—The proportions created by longer skirts have necessitated careful consideration of a proper balance in other directions.

The lengthened skirt and the shorter waist make an urgent demand for just the right line in neck and shoulder treatment. The new proportions are inclined to accentuate the shoulder breadth. To obviate this, creators of fashion have conceived double capelets for coats, short single, or tiered, capelets for frocks, and a diversity of neck treatments which form just the right setting for lovely feminine heads.

There was never a time in the fashion history of the world when so much attention was paid to detail centering about the throat and hands. It is a season of dainty lingerie touches. In this the feminine heart finds keen delight, because it is a most becoming mode.

Smartness in Demand

Every woman feels she must be smart. If she can find a style which not only is chic but accentuates her feminine grace, charm, and beauty, she is doubly, and rightfully, satisfied.

Well, the new neck and shoulder treatments do just that. They are soft. They are distinctly feminine. They present many novelties. And they are, without ultra smart. Also they achieve that correct shoulder proportion demanded by the higher waistline and the lengthened skirt.

You have seen many different treatments of capes and capelets, but none more unusual or effective than that illustrated. It is a delightful side development created by Lucile Paray. The frock itself is a daytime ensemble in one piece with a generous cape rippling gracefully over one arm and the V neckline follows also only the right side. The material used is beige flat silk crepe, the side cape being the only trimming.

In one of my own daytime frocks, developed in estimate of Chinese lacquer red, the youthful round collar, while not a capelet, is of that family, and represents another delightful way of treating the neck and shoulders to achieve the new balance necessitated by the longer skirt and higher waistline. The soft white double flounce which circles the neck is hand-tucked and hand-scalloped. It is banded and tabbed by the red satin. The turned back cuffs carry out the same idea, and the belt is tabbed to match both neck and sleeve treatment. Germaine Lecomte offers a charming neck and hip detail in an interlacing motif of a daytime frock developed in soft gray jersey. A tiny yoke of white ticked georgette begins out between the band at the neck, and the cuff picks up the motif in interlacing bands.

Spring brings new turns and curves to chic neck-lines. Left: A double V white silk pique, with the inside V tying in a bow and the outside buttoning at the shoulder, adorns a black crepe frock. Right: A lacquer red etamine frock, is given a youthful touch in its rounded collar of double ruffles of white, with tabs of the silk buttoning over them, forming the belt and part of the cuff. Upper center: Two very original treatments are the half cape and the interlacing strap motif for both the neck and belt line. Lower center: Chanel festoons a natural shantung frock with hand-scalloped jabot and deep cuffs.

Using a Double V

Another soft and interesting neck-line is found in the drawing which illustrates a double V of silk pique, the outer part of the motif being formed with buttoned straps, and the inner V which finishes the neck tying in a graceful bow. Buttoned bands finish the sleeves in cuff effect, the combination being black and white, the one-piece frock being developed in black etamine.

Chanel is even more feminine in festooning a smart shantung frock with a hand-scalloped jabot and cuff, the combination here being again one of the popular spring reds and white silk pique.

In fact there is nothing to which the French couturier is this spring giving more earnest attention than to the treatment of the neck and shoulder, with what charming effects the illustrations but suggest.

Accessories for New Silhouette Include Jewelry

BY GRETCHEN THOMSON

The lengthening of women's skirts and the general feminizing of the new styles has its effect upon the accessories that accompany it. It is more important than ever that the ensemble harmonize in line as well as color and the accessories must supplement the effect.

One of the most important items noticed is the new costume jewelry as it adapts itself to the new silhouette—the pendant type with a touch of the 1830 feeling and about 32 inches long is demanded by smart women as being line. The color effect harmonizes with the color of the gown. Antique settings return to favor and many of the pendants have the cameo quality in harmony with the modern romantic feeling. The sports ensemble has its own special jewelry—gay and exotic in type, often in long strings of brightly colored beads.

Gloves Are Longer

One of the most conspicuous things about spring gloves is the way they are worn—pulled up high over the cuff of suit or frock. They all have decidedly longer wrists and many have bow decorations or novel cuff treatments to soften the tailored effect. With the short sleeve fashion, it was inevitable that gloves would be glorified and we have never seen more varied effects to complete the style picture. Lines, designs and colors have been made to harmonize with the new mode for sports, afternoon and evening.

The Spring Handbag

The handbag for morning and sports wear matches the costume not only in color, but often in material. It is comfortably large, sometimes resembling a small traveling bag. Trims may be of wood, indestructible crystal or metal. Antelope, pin seal and galuchat are the skins most used for afternoon. Evening bags are frequently of lame ornamented with rhinestones.

There are many indications that necklines will be closer to the throat. A recent cable from Paris states that "there is an infinite variety in neck finishes with the general tendency to raise collars close to the throat. The little schoolgirl collar is ubiquitous; scarf bows are tied close to the hollow of the neck at front; lingerie frills of the Chanel type are much seen, likewise the lingerie tabs that Paton uses; quite a few black dresses have been noticed with bateau neckline, not very wide, finished by a turnover of white satin."

skirt. At least gossamer sheer stockings are the vogue, and many are adorned with Paris clocks, simple or ornate as the character of the gown demands.

One of the newest things we have noticed is that women are having their hosiery dyed to match the dominating color of the ensemble. For evening wear only the lightest pastels. If used in the dress and shoe, have hosiery to match. For daytime—often the trimming on the dress is repeated in the hosiery, footwear and accessories. Where prints are concerned the hosiery is dyed to match the predominant shade which is also repeated in shoes. The deep suntan shades in hosiery accompany the beige and dark brown footwear.

Higher Heels Seen in Ladies' Shoes

A glimpse is much more interesting than a display—and so longer hemlines require closer attention to footwear and hosiery than the short

There are approximately 81,000,000 telephone conversations per day in the United States. In other words, each phone is used about three times a day. Poland's 22,100,000 acres of forests cover about 23 per cent of the country's area.
