PRISON CONFERENCE COMMITTEE STILL IS UNABLE TO AGREE—END OF WORK SEEMS TO BE NEAR AS YOUNG BILL IS TURNED DOWN

Wellington Man Tries to Get Temporary Relief

SULPHUR GROUP ALSO AT ODDS

Objections to Pipeline Tax Are Stated in Hearing

AUSTIN, March 14.—(AP)—The penitentiary reformation conference committee was plainly at the end of its rope today, after it had rejected a plan of Representative Dewey Young of Wellington of the house conferees to spend $600,000 in supplying emergency needs of the system.

The proposal was turned down by the same 3-2 majority of the senate conferees, standing for at least a small new unit to be devoted to industrial activities.

Representative Young explained that the money he proposed voting—$150,000 for improvements at Huntsville and $450,000 for the farms—was merely to tide the system over until the proposition of centralizing near Austin could be considered by the next legislature.

He maintained the existing properties would doubtless be retained for a number of years and the money could be advantageously spent in renovating them.

The senate conferees were called on for a report on progress, and the question as to whether they should be discharged and new ones named caused prolonged debate.

The sulphur conferees were deadlocked, and the sine die resolution as amended to fix final quitting date March 20 remained on the table with indications Senator C. C. Small of Wellington, whose resolution to reconsider and spread on the journal placed it there, would not disturb it.

AUSTIN, March 14.—(AP)—The disadvantage which it would place upon Texas companies in competition with those from the outside in world markets was the principal objection offered to the bill to tax oil transported by pipelines in this state one cent per barrel, before the house committee on revenue and taxation last night.

A continuance of the hearing before Representatives Mike Hog of Houston, Phil Sanders of Nacogdoches and T. N. Mauritz of Ganado, was set for tonight.

After the committee had voted down his motion to approve the bill, Sanders said he would attempt to present it on minority report to the house on grounds it had been "smothered" in committee. He acknowledged he would probably fall in this and agreed the vote to table his motion to report favorably would probably give the bill the status of still being in committee.

Sanders declared that, according to railroad commission reports, 300,784,424 barrels of oil were transported in Texas pipelines during 1929. He estimated that approximately $3,000,000 per year would come from this tax, based on these figures.

Bishop Seaman to Talk Here Sunday

The Rt. Rev. E. Cecil Seaman, Amarillo, bishop of the Northwest Texas Episcopal diocese, will preach here Sunday evening at the music cottage on Central high school campus, where services of the Episcopal church regularly are held.

The bishop is well known in Pampa, having spoken here on various occasions. The Rev. John Leacher, local pastor, and members of the Pampa mission invite the public to hear Bishop Seaman, who is an outstanding speaker among the clergymen of the Panhandle.

Supporters of Municipal Ticket Call Mass Meeting for Tonight

A mass meeting to be held tonight at the Board of City Development auditorium at 8 o'clock was announced today by those supporting one city ticket.

The candidates supported are R. C. Campbell for mayor and J. G. Gantz and Charles Kentling for commissioners. It was said that the candidates would probably speak, and that an address would be delivered by Judge C. S. Wortman.

Municipal issues will be "fearlessly discussed," according to spokesmen for the ticket. All voters, including women in particular, were invited to attend.

HORNADAY BILL IS CHANGED TO INCLUDE ALL STORES—HOPING TO PREVENT UNCONSTITUTIONALITY

AUSTIN, March 14.—(AP)—Changing the entire complexion of the chain store tax bill passed by the house, an amendment was offered last night by the state affairs committee of the senate which would put aside the proposed tax on chains of five or more stores and place a graduated tax on every store in the state falling under the original classification of the bill.

The amendment and the bill were referred to a sub-committee for consideration and report.

Representative Folk Hornaday of Harlingen, author of the original bill, offered the amendment. The amendment proposed a tax of one twentieth of gross receipts of $100,000 and proceeds on a graduated scale until the tax reaches one per cent on gross sales of one million dollars or over.

In offering the amendment, Representative Hornaday stated it was aimed at overcoming the features of bills passed in others which had been held unconstitutional by state and federal courts. He pointed out that it did not legislate against any class and at the same time would hit the chain stores harder than the independent merchant because of their great volume of business.

The sub-committee to consider the bill was composed of Senators Eugene Miller of Weatherford, Archie Parr of Benavides and Carl Hardin of Stephenville.

Hornaday stated the amendment was one method of allowing Texas merchants credit for the ad valorem taxes paid to the state and county.

The amendment was presented near the end of the hearing and came at a time when the committee was preparing to vote on the original house bill. Sentiment apparently was against the bill, and a majority of the members of the committee had implied their intention of not voting it out favorably.

Lloyd Price of Fort Worth, former state senator, argued against the original bill on the ground it was unconstitutional and violated the fundamental law of both the state and nation in that it was discriminatory and did not grant all citizens equal rights.

He cited rulings of the federal court in Indiana and of the state supreme court of South Carolina on bills of this nature and termed it a damnable sort of paternal legislation.

Several other representatives of chain stores, most of them domestically owned, voiced protests against the bill on the ground it would practically put the independent chains out of business and would not affect the foreign-owned chain stores.

Life Termer Killed Attempting to Escape

TRENTON, N. J., March 14.—(AP)—The attempt of Charles Evans, 20, a double life termer, to shoot his way out of the state prison here last night ended in his death after he had killed one guard and wounded two others.

Frank Butcher, guard, died in a hospital from bullet wounds. Charles Soren, guard, was slugged with a blackjack, and Ernest L. Gordon, guard, suffered a bullet wound in the shoulder.

Prison attaches said Evans opened his attack about 5:30 p. m., by felling Soren with a blackjack and seizing his pistol. Butcher and Gordon went to Soren's aid.

Trustee Election Is to Be Held in Pampa on April 5

An election for the purpose of naming three members of the board of trustees of the Pampa Independent School district has been called for April 5, to be held at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Applications of candidates must be filed at the general office of the school district, in the Smith building, or with C. P. Buckler, secretary of the board, according to the announcement made by Mr. Buckler in calling the election.

The three trustees whose terms of office expire at the time of the election are J. M. Dodson, C. P. Buckler, and R. S. McConnell, who are completing two year terms. The two remaining in office another year are C. T. Hunkapillar, president of the board, and J. M. Daugherty.

Carbon Black Tax Hearing Again Is Granted Delay

AUSTIN, March 14.—(AP)—Consideration of the bill to tax carbon black one quarter cent per pound was indefinitely postponed by the house committee of revenue and taxation last night when the bill was tabled on motion of Representative Homer DeWolfe of Goldthwaite.

Hearing on the bill by Representatives Mike Hog of Houston and Phil Sanders of Nacogdoches, was set aside to allow consideration of a bill by these same men to place a tax of one cent per barrel on oil transported in Texas pipelines.

Fort Worth Boy Admits His Part in Quanah Death

QUANAH, March 14.—(AP)—Having voluntarily admitted his participation in the affair, Clarence May, 20, Fort Worth, was free on $2,500 bond on a charge of murder today in connection with the death of Frank Beavers, Quanah bus driver.

Knocked to the pavement, Beavers was fatally injured when his head struck the brick. He had been fighting with L. O. Page, Quanah, on the station platform, and May interfered. The youth boarded a train before he knew of Beavers' death, but returned when he learned of it.

Baptist Men to Meet This Evening

A mass meeting of the men of the congregation of the First Baptist church, similar to the one held two weeks ago, will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the church auditorium. The Rev. John Lee Harris, active minister of the church, asked that all men of the body be present. Important matters will be discussed, he said.

WACO MAN IS NOW IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Fred B. Robinson Puts Coat "In Middle of Road"

HIGHWAYS TO BE HIS ISSUE

He Approves Any Kind of Bonds

WACO, March 14.—(AP)—Fred B. Robinson, veteran newspaper publisher and advocate of more and better state highways without extravagance, threw his "coat in the middle of the road" in Texas' gubernatorial race today.

Announcing his candidacy for governor on the Democratic ticket, Mr. Robinson reiterated his well-known stand for good roads and lower taxes, opposed the proposed state highway bond issue and favored reduction of motor vehicle license fees and cutting of the gasoline tax from four to two cents per gallon.

He would advocate rebuilding of the prison system on the Wynne Farm near Huntsville at an expense of about $1,000,000, he said, "instead of buying more land and rebuilding elsewhere at an ultimate expense of around $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 or even $5,000,000, the lowest estimate." He would oppose selling prison farm lands at this time at a probable sacrifice.

Other issues will be discussed when the campaign opens, said Mr. Robinson, who is the eighth announced candidate for the office, subject to the Democratic primaries in July. The text of his announcement follows, in part:

"The suggestion of my name as the 'good roads' candidate for governor and the many assurances of support which have come to me from every section of the state have been highly gratifying.

"As Mark Twain said about the weather, 'Much has been said about it, but so far nothing has been done about it,' so there has been a great deal said about the proposed $200,000,000 to $350,000,000 bond issue and the enormous taxes paid by the people for roads and other purposes, yet so far the people have had no real chance to express themselves, and as my name was brought forward without solicitation on my part by friends who feel I would prove a real champion of the people, I have decided to throw my coat in the middle of the road and enter the contest.

Claims Right to Differ "The record will bear me out that I have never offered a word of personal criticism of our highway commissioners, yet they are our servants, not our masters, or should not be, and any citizen has the right to differ with them as to their public acts and policies, according to my view.

"At least, three of the larger chambers of commerce of the state have announced in favor of the big bond issue, and of course, will make a candidate in the race which will make same a direct issue, hence it will be necessary for those voters who will be the beneficiary of a candidate. I am unqualifiedly opposed to any state bond issue.

"Then the matter of the present policy of rebuilding the highways, whereby the smaller towns are left off, also needs a champion to oppose, and all will admit I have been in the forefront on this question.

"I am for the home man against the out-of-state tourist every time, and claim that if the present highway commission had gone ahead with the $100,000,000 they are credited with having spent of the people's money in the past three years, and used same judiciously in finishing up present roads, shortening and straightening between towns, wherever possible, instead of almost invariably going out and starting new ones, there would not be a mile of poor road on any important highway in Texas today.

Would Reserve Fund "And in practically every instance old established towns and communities have been left off the new highways, or are slated to be, to the financial injury of the inhabitants thereof, while they must continue to pay road bond taxes, voted in many instances without the actual or implied assurance the

DEFENSE IN DOHENY TRIAL WINS POINT WHEN FALL'S EXPLANATION OF $100,000 LOAN IS RULED OUT

Oil Man's Story Before Investigating Committee in 1924 Is Read Into Testimony—Denby's Denial of Having Knowledge of Lease Also Presented.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—The defense scored in the bribery trial of Edward L. Doheny today when Justice Hitz upheld its contention that the untrue explanation made by Albert B. Fall to the senate oil committee as to where he received $100,000 in 1921 could not be introduced against Doheny.

The testimony continued, but in 1924, after the committee pressed him about differences in testimony about the note that Fall gave him in return for the $100,000 which the government contends was a bribe, he had burst out: "Are you trying to get me to admit I lied about it?"

The prosecution also placed before the jury today the testimony before the senate oil committee of the late Edwin Denby, former secretary of the navy, in which he said he knew nothing of the details of the Elk Hills lease which he signed.

The government planned also to read today Fall's explanation that he got the $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, an explanation later proved to be untrue.

Fall admitted he got the money from Doheny, but insisted it was a loan.

THREE MEN INJURED AS THEIR CAR OVERTURNS ON MIAMI ROAD LAST NIGHT—SENT TO HOSPITAL

Two Berger men and Ray Maddox of LeFlore were injured when their automobile overturned about seven miles north of Pampa on the Miami road at 9 o'clock last night.

The Berger men, Frank Roush and James Hunnell, suffered scalp wounds. Roush sustained a dislocated arm. The three were taken to Pampa hospital in a G. C. Malone ambulance. Maddox was released from the hospital last night and Roush and Hunnell will be discharged today.

When the accident was discovered, the car was in the middle of the road a short distance from a corner. The men said the car had turned over twice. It was badly wrecked. The men were headed for Pampa.

Amarillo Lions to Present Play as Benefit Event

Lions C. D. Rittenberry and E. M. Blackburn of Amarillo were present at the local club's luncheon yesterday to urge attendance of a crippled children's benefit play in Amarillo March 20.

The play, "Julius Caesar," will be presented by the Amarillo Lions club to help finance a crippled children's program. The play was described as unusually good, and one which would make a trip to the neighboring city worthwhile.

Tickets were left with Carson Loftus, local secretary, for sale to Pampa citizens. These tickets, which cost $1 each, may be exchanged for reserved seats tickets at no extra cost at Blackburn's funeral home in Amarillo, or by mailing them to E. M. Blackburn, box 1741, Amarillo. Tickets must be bought by Monday.

The club enjoyed extemporaneous speeches by Miss Lenice Chaffin on the Canadian liquor question and by Miss Fay Wynter on the evils of high school athletics. These girls, who are training for Interscholastic league contests, were introduced by Principal L. L. Sone.

Judge Ewing was principal speaker. Recalling the rigorous life of pioneer days and noting the marvelous development of recent years, he said his attitude toward Pampa was like that of the man who, viewing an elephant for the first time, said "There ain't no such animal!" He recalled that Gray county was organized in 1902, and that the first district court was held in December. He said that he believed he had not missed a single session of the 31st district court in Gray county since that time. He is now in his fourteenth year on the bench.

Judge Ewing congratulated Pampa on its "discontentment," saying that progress had resulted because residents desired better things.

District Attorney Clifford Braly announced that the bill creating a new civil district court had passed the House at Austin, and that evidently would be approved by the governor. He briefly explained the need for the proposed court in Gray, Carson and Hutchinson counties.

Visitors, besides those already mentioned, were the Gray county grand jurors, Frank Lowther, and R. L. Champion.

The Rev. John Leacher, pastor of the local Episcopal mission and of missions at Shamrock and Borger, returned yesterday from Shamrock, where he held a series of Lenten services.

STATE CALLS UPON INDUSTRY TO GIVE PLAN

Committee of Five Will Make Report Tomorrow

HEATED DEBATE IS HELD TODAY

Desirability of Action Questioned by Speaker

A hearing to show cause why the state railroad commission should administer a proration plan in this area will be held here Friday, March 21, it was announced this morning by Ed Daly, umpire, at a meeting of operators at the Chamber of Commerce this morning. Mr. Daly returned yesterday from Austin, where he presented the petition for a hearing before the commission.

The meeting which is being held today for the purpose of choosing a proration plan to submit to the commission was almost disrupted by charges of "broken faith" preferred against "the big companies" by various operators.

A hot argument between Joe Danciger of the Danciger Oil and Refining company and A. C. Smith of the Texas company began early in the session when Mr. Danciger charged the Texas company with "drilling useless wells" and lasted an hour. Mr. Danciger accused the Texas company of drilling seven offsets. Mr. Smith declared it was necessary for his company to drill the well, and counter-charged that the Danciger company was responsible.

"How many wells is Danciger drilling now?" Smith asked.

"One, and we had a time extension on that one," Danciger replied.

"Fine! Well, for the information of this group I'll announce that the Texas company is drilling only three wells in Gray county," Smith said.

This afternoon the operators are discussing adoption of a proration plan submitted by F. E. Heath of the Sun Oil company. It proposes to prorate production, limit drilling of wells to one on each 20-acre lease, and to penalize all new wells.

H. M. Stalcup, vice president of the Skelly Production company who is presiding at the meeting, stated that at the coming hearing the companies must show that waste of oil and gas exists in this area. The commissioner advised Mr. Daly that the operators

A committee of five operators to draft a complete proration plan was announced just before the session closed this afternoon. The measure will be submitted to the operators for their approval at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Chamber of Commerce. The committee includes the following: F. E. Heath, Sun Oil company; Joe Danciger, Danciger Oil and Refining company; J. H. Clark, Mid-west; A. C. Smith, Texas company, and G. S. Bays, McMan Oil and Gas company.

Another committee to present evidence to the commission that physical and economic waste exists in this field was named as follows: Jammie Thompson, chairman; Ed Warren, John R. Evans, Midwest; H. E. Rogers, Phillips Petroleum company; H. E. Schwartz, Texas company.

must present an equitable and legal plan. Mr. Danciger, and Glen Garfield of the Gulf Production company, said that there are enough facts and reasons to warrant the operators to ask the commission to take charge of this area. Mr. Danciger said he did not know of any waste "going on" in Gray county.

A motion was passed authorizing the chairman to appoint a committee of five engineers and geologists and a committee of operators to make a showing that physical and economic waste of oil and gas exists. Mr. Stalcup was to appoint the committees this afternoon.

Mr. Smith of the Texas company declared that placing proration in the hands of the commission would fulfill the demands of the smaller operators. "Neither the commission nor anybody else can stop the companies

JURY CASES

If the new civil district court goes into effect as seems inevitable at this writing, Pampa will have about fifty weeks of court each year.

This will mean that Pampa and Gray county must furnish many jurors, both for civil and criminal cases, regular and special panels.

Judge W. R. Ewing, in speaking to the Lions club, told of those pioneer days when jury service meant riding far by horseback.

Criminal and civil court work in those days was a serious affair, and many incidents of justice and honor did not reach that far.

Mrs. R. K. Douglas entertained yesterday afternoon with a party for her little daughter, Mary Lou. The occasion celebrated the little girl's seventh birthday. Many attractive gifts were presented the honoree.

Games and contests were enjoyed in a setting featuring the St. Patrick's day color scheme of green and white. Decorations of the refreshment table repeated the colors, with each cover marked by a small green basket filled with candy. The birthday cake was white, topped with pink candies.

The guests were as follows: Elga and Clovis Higginbotham, Lucille Johnson, Ora Lee and Mary Lou Kennedy, Emma Doris Smith, Betty Lou Lee Ehmer and Donald Gray, Joan Hawkins, Stella, Myrtle and Donna Lou Doty, Roland Allen and Bobby Sullivan.

Work of Foreign Women in Church Being Improved

AMARILLO, March 14.—(P)—A gradual expansion of education and promotion work to take in foreign women as well as members of woman's missionary societies in the United States, was described by Mrs. B. W. Lipscomb of Nashville, Tenn., secretary of that work, in a report prepared for submission today to the convention of the Woman's Missionary Council, Methodist Episcopal church, South.

Mrs. Lipscomb said that her department, known as the "Home Base," serving societies in the 38 conferences of the United States, had been enlarged to reach women in Central and South Brazil, China, Congo Belge, Cuba, Czecho-Slovakia, Japan, Korea, Mexico, Poland and the Siberia-Korean Mission.

Since 1910, membership in the Methodist woman's missionary societies has grown from 107,347 in the United States alone to 325,000 at home and abroad, and the foreign enrollment totals nearly 15,000, Mrs. Lipscomb said. Foreign women have organized societies of their own in their native lands, she revealed.

Mrs. Lipscomb cited missionary education, with its women's classes in pastors' and leadership schools in nine cities summer schools at Mt. Sequoyia and Lake Junaluska and foreign missionary courses; retreats for conference officers, with summer meetings of two-days duration in various conferences for the purpose of intensive study of conference missionary problems; and furnishing of supplies to many conference home mission and foreign institutions as high lights of education and promotion during the past year. Her survey of foreign groups ranged from the Chinese society, with 94 auxiliaries and 3,774 members, to the tiny Polish organization with only six auxiliaries and 121 members.

Local Party to Attend San Angelo Legion Programs

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. de Cordova, J. A. Pearson, and Lewis O. Cox left at noon today to attend the annual convention of the Fifth division of the American Legion, which is to open tomorrow in San Angelo. Dr. A. R. Webb and Frank Thomas also will attend, leaving for San Angelo early tomorrow morning.

Dr. Webb is to attend as a district committeeman, while Thomas, de Cordova and Pearson will act as delegates of the Kerley-Crossman Legion post. A feature of the convention is to be a "Forty and Eight wreck," celebrating the formation of a new volume at San Angelo. Sweetwater will furnish the wrecking crew.

Miss Myrtle Miller, Gray county home demonstration agent, and Miss Leah Amend, instructor in the home economics department of Central high school, are in McLean this afternoon to act as judges in a clothing contest conducted by the public school, preparatory to the state clothing contest.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson for March 16, 1930.

General Topic: Parables of the Kingdom.

Scripture Lesson: Matt. 13:31-33, 44-52.

31. Another parable set He before them, saying, The Kingdom of heaven is like unto a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field:

32. Which indeed is less than all seeds: but when it is grown, it is greater than the herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of heaven come and lodge in the branches thereof.

33. Another parable spake He unto them: The Kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till it was all leavened.

34. The Kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hidden in the field, which a man found and hid, and in his joy he goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

35. Again, the Kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is a merchant seeking goodly pearls:

36. And having found one pearl of great price, he went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

37. Again, the Kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind:

38. Which when it is filled, they draw up on the beach; and they sit down, and gathered the good into vessels, but the bad they cast away.

39. I shall it be in the end of the world; the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the righteous.

40. And shall cast them into the furnace of fire; there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth.

41. Have ye understood all these things? They say unto Him, Yea.

42. And He said unto them, Therefore every scribe who hath been made a disciple to the Kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is a householder, who bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old.

Golden Text: The Kingdom of God is not eating and drinking, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit.—Rom. 14:17.

Time: Autumn of A. R. 28, in the second year of Christ's ministry.

Place: By the Sea of Galilee, perhaps at Capernaum.

Introduction

The parable seems to have been a favorite form of discourse with Jesus when He wanted to convey impressively some important teaching; and shall we say, to fasten it in His hearers' memories. The people whom He addressed, moreover, were accustomed to parabolic teaching; it was an easy way of "getting at them." Jesus' parables never fail to adorn the lessons they convey; even when they carry hard truth they still are beautiful from a literary point of view. The parable, with its single great moral, was peculiarly adapted to His purposes. Some of His bare words escape us, but when once we have seen the truth in one of these vivid language-pictures, of this divinely masterful story-teller-teacher, we see that truth forever. "Earthy stories with heavenly means," Jesus' parables have been called.

Parable of the Tares

This parable, like that of the four kinds of soil, our Lord explained in response to his disciples' request. He was Himself the farmer, the field being the members of the Kingdom of heaven. The enemy was the devil, sowing as tares the members of his own Kingdom of evil. The harvest was the end of the world, the judgment, and the reapers were the angels, who alone would have discernment to separate the tares from the wheat. Then the members of Satan's Kingdom would go to their own place of woe and torment, and the members of the Kingdom of heaven would go to the home of the Father, there to shine forth as the sun forever and ever. Such was this marvelous little story, so full of solemn warning for the wicked and of radiant hope for those who are trying to follow the Lord Jesus.

The Growth of the Kingdom
The disciples and other Jews, clinging to the notion of a vast and splendid Kingdom, would think it very strange that Messiah's reign should begin so quietly and on so small a scale; and in this parable, that of the mustard seed, and that of the leaven, our Lord wished to impress it upon them that though small in its beginnings, the Messianic Kingdom was destined to attain a vast extent. We see the original circumstances under which the parable was spoken well reproduced now, at the first of Christianity into some great heathen nations. Not only the heathen themselves, but irreligious sailors, merchants, and travelers from our own country, often sneer at the idea that a few insignificant men, by means of so feeble a thing as preaching, should expect to from drilling wells but it can stop them from running oil. We are giving the so-called "small companies" an opportunity to prorate our pipeline capacity at a rate that amounts to the curtailment of drilling," Mr. Smith said.

 G. S. Park of the McMan Oil and Gas company, a proration expert, will explain the five plans that are now being considered in Texas. He said that he thought Mr. Heath's plan combined the favorable features of all of them.

 road would not be changed. I believe in carrying out pre-election promises in road matters, as well as integrity in all things.

"Then I also favor taking $5,000,000 out of the over $10,000,000 (average) on hand the first of every month in the highway fund since January, 1928, according to the state treasurer's reports, and by adding thereto $2,500,000 from the federal aid, close every important road in Texas in one year, without increase of taxes.

"There are claimed to be 4,000 miles of hard surface roads in Texas which are practically valueless in rainy weather, due to about 400 miles of intervening poor road. My plan would give 4,000 miles of connected 'good' roads right now, not 30 years hence, a slogan I adopted more than ten years ago.

"The present plan of waiting on counties and outlying road districts to vote will take 50 years more to get a connected system of good roads, in my opinion.

"To obviate the claim it would be unfair to the counties already voting bonds, I say let property values be raised adjoining these 400 miles of improved roads, and thus the money would come back indirectly to the state. It is the only way under high heaven for the present generation to secure any real good road benefits, according to my view.

"The bond proponents admit it would take 12 years to complete the road system, and as it will take about three years to get same in operation, even if adopted, it will mean another 15 years to secure connected good roads. Those of us who have passed the half century mark want good roads in 15 months at the farthest instead of 15 years.

"When I favor reducing license fees to $3 for cars costing under $1,000 with $5 maximum, and reduce the gas tax from four to two cents, as with federal aid and other income this would give about $24,000,000 a year which, I think, is as much as the highway commission can judiciously spend in a two-day session a month, as same would be a million dollars a day of the people's money. In 'Brewster's Millions' it takes an entire year to spend one million.

"I also favor a highway commission of three members, elective preferred, at a salary of $5,000 a year, each, who will devote their entire time to the work. Then taxpayers will not have to secure permission to go to Austin to present their road matters. And the people could express themselves on road results, the same as with the railroad commission. I have always favored the election of every officer possible, as a believer in Jeffersonian Democracy—a government of, for and by the people. This is a minor issue, though, the main thing now being to get good roads 365 days in a year."

WRESTLING MATCHES TAKING RANK WITH BEST COMEDIES—CHASE BEATS TIGER TAYLOR

Tiger Taylor had a glorious time of it losing to Leo Chase last night. The audience had a glorious time too. For in addition to being one of the best wrestlers that has ever visited these parts, Tiger is a perfect clown. The theatrical Arkansawyer needs no make-up but his hairy chest and his trunk.

He kept his audience 'ga-ga' with laughter throughout the match. So the fans who watched him strut, puff out his chest, stick out his six-inch tongue and out-wrestle Leo during the first fall were not irritated when Leo clumsily picked him up, hurled him to the floor and then sat down on him. One couldn't have made that crowd angry; they'd already laughed too much. The two wrestlers entertained 25 minutes before Leo took the fall.

But Tiger was easily the star of last night's performance. As a comedian, he is a first-class wrestler. There was nothing serious about the act last night, it was one of the so-called rip-roaring comedies. Leo won the second act in less than ten minutes; nobody kept count. Also, we believe we heard the referee say that Leo won the second fall with a series of body slams.

It didn't matter very much who won the falls. They were anti-climaxes. In the first fall, Tiger clamped head-locks, toe-holds body splits, body scissors and many other holds in quick succession upon Leo. But Chase broke them easily enough and was forced to crawl off the mat once. Taylor had demonstrated such a superior quality and quantity of wrestling that it surprised many when Leo won the match. Tiger was never in a tight place previously.

In the semi-final event, the Bulgarian Demon and Billy London's choked, bit, gouged and pulled hair for 20 minutes. According to Referee Sam Fenberg, the Demon was brought up on butter-milk and he couldn't speak English. The fans were inclined to believe this when the Demon time and again roared out his indignation in some foreign language that could have been Bulgarian.

The Demon might prove to be as good an entertainer as Tiger in a three-fall match because he added to the gaiety of the occasion last night. Before the match, Sam (who speaks Bulgarian fluently) had told the Demon that the match would be wrestled under Police Gazette's rules, barring unnecessary roughness, the strangle and one-finger-holds. So when the reckless Billy clamped his teeth down on the Demon's big toe, or tried to tear off the Demon's little finger, the Bulgarian was beginning to think that nothing was barred. Then he started choking London. Sam took several blows from the Bulgarian before he could force the Demon's fingers from London's throat. The Demon broke the finger-hold by pulling off his own shoe and pounding Billy over the head. Despite the rough stuff, there was some good wrestling taking place every now and then.

For the first time, probably, London had some rooters in the audience and he was plainly surprised and flattered.

The two matches convinced the audience of one fact: that the perfect match would be a finish affair between Taylor and the Demon. We want Taylor and the Demon—What a circus it would be!

Athens Team to Compete Although Beaten by Denton

CHICAGO, March 14. (AP)—Athens, Texas, high school, winner of the 1929 national interscholastic basketball tournament at the University of Chicago, will defend its title April 1-5.

Athens was eliminated from the Texas championships in the semi-final round by Denton, which finally won the title, but as defending champion was invited to compete.

Mandus school of New York, runner-up in the University of Pennsylvania tournament, has declined to compete because of University of Chicago eligibility rules which would keep a star forward out of the line-up.

Texas Boy Will Battle Belgian

CHICAGO, March 14. (AP)—Rene de Vos, veteran Belgian middleweight title contender, and Clyde Chastain, Dallas, Texas, youngster, will meet in the 10-round, feature of the Chicago stadium's boxing program tonight.

De Vos today was an 8 to 5 favorite, but the hard-hitting youth from Texas was accorded better than an outside chance to upset the Belgian, following decisive victories over Haakon Hanson, and Harry Ebbetts, in his last two starts.

For the first time in the University of Tulsa's history no Indians are enrolled.

Corner of Francis and Warren
 What does Jesus Christ mean to you? Not what He could mean or what He should mean; not what He wants to be, or what He is able to be, but what does Jesus the Christ mean to your soul? Some could answer this question rather readily, "He is everything to me." While there are multiplied thousands who would have to say, "He is nothing to me."
 Sinner, Jesus wants to be something to you. He wants to be your Saviour and He is knocking at your heart's door now, wanting a place in your life. But He will not force Himself on you; He only comes into the hearts of those who welcome Him.

Fifteen Hundred Prohibition Ballots Are Sent to City

For the past week citizens of Gray county have been receiving prohibition ballots sent out by the Literary Digest. It is estimated that approximately 1,500 were sent to Pampa, and that about one-third of these have been returned.

The person who expresses an opinion on the prohibition law may check "yes" to one of these questions: (1) Do you favor continuance and strict enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment? (2) Do you favor modification to permit light wines and beer? (3) Do you favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment?

Baby Chicks Are Refused—Carrier Finally Buys Them

Yesterday it was necessary for the postoffice to become a society for the prevention of cruelty to chickens.

Postmaster W. A. Crawford was wondering what would be the fate of 500 baby chicks that arrived at the postoffice Tuesday and were refused by the person who ordered them.

They peeped and peeped a day and by night and their frantic peeping nearly drove the clerks in a hysterics. It looked as if they'd die of peeping, hunger, starvation or something. Finally Ernest Roberts, carrier on Route No. 4, couldn't stand it any longer. He bought the chickens himself.

Rash Romance

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JUDITH CAMERON, New York typist, marries ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the publishing house in which she is employed. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 18, and son, JUNIOR, 16. Tony denounces Judith as a gold digger. Her father makes her apologize. When Junior comes home for Christmas holidays he is equally unfriendly.
ANDY CRAIG, a young man Knight has aided, takes a position with the publishing house. He is in love with Tony and calls on her frequently. Tony tries to convince her father that Judith and Andy are carrying on an affair and when she fails, tricks the pair into a compromising situation.

 Tony is carrying on a flirtation with MICKEY MORTIMER, wealthy and married. This is revealed when they are arrested at 3 a. m. for reckless driving. Tony and her father quarrel over this but the girl is finally forgiven. Knight becomes ill with pneumonia. Junior comes home and before he leaves admits to Judith he has mis-judged her.

 Tony intercepts a letter intended for Judith and later follows her into the city where she sees her meet a young man. With this information Tony forces Judith to leave the house for two weeks. Judith goes into New York, and finds a room in an inconspicuous hotel. After days of misery she decides to return and tell Arthur the truth. She arrives at the house. Arthur asks coldly why she has come. He refuses to listen to explanations and says their marriage was a mistake. Judith rushes from the house and goes to a young man named DAN. She tells him she has come to stay.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVI
 The man's arm tightened about the

"Don't, Judy," he begged. "Please don't cry!" He stroked her hair gently. Judith clung to him. "Oh," she murmured between sobs. "It's all been so—dreadful, Dan. I had to come to you. I couldn't stand it any longer!"
 "Here—let's sit down. Everything's going to be all right again. You mustn't cry this way, Honey. Please—!"
 There was a dubious-looking, faded divan across the room. Dan led her toward this, seated himself beside the girl and slipped an arm around her. All the while he was comforting her with soft, endearing phrases.
 The strain had snapped and with it had gone Judith's reserve strength. For several minutes she verged on hysteria. Gradually she became quieter. She lay still in Dan's arms and her sobs ceased slowly. Finally she raised her head and looked at the young man. "Dan—you're so good to me!"

 He procured a large white handkerchief and handed it to the girl. Judith wiped away the teardrops which still stained her cheeks.
 "Now then—cold water and you'll feel better."
 Dan disappeared behind a screen at the end of the room where there was a lavatory. He came back with a cloth moistened in cold water. Judith held this to her eyes.
 "I'll be all right now," she murmured. "Please don't bother—"
 Then she stood up and let him help her off with her coat. The felt hat she tossed aside on the divan.
 "It's all over!" she told him brokenly. "I'm never going back again. Arthur said—he said our marriage was a failure!"

 "Listen, Judy, don't try to tell me about it now. Wait until you feel better. Had anything to eat?"
 Judith shook her head.
 "But I'm not hungry," she added quickly. "I couldn't eat. Really I couldn't."
 "Well—you're going to just the same! Listen, you'll get some powder on your nose and put your hat back on and out we go to Louie's."
 "No, Dan—really I couldn't possibly—!"
 He clapped a hand on her shoulder. "See here, young woman, who do you think is boss here?"
 "Well, I can go, but I won't eat anything."

Talks To Parents
 PRAISE
 BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE
 So much has been said and written on the value of praise as a means of developing desirable conduct of applying it indiscriminately.

the child's growth toward that study, self dependence which it is every good parent's aim to foster.
 There is another sort of praise which few parents, few teachers even, know how to bestow—the praise which is an appreciation rather than a reward. Of this sort of praise there cannot be too much.
 It is given not because the child has pleased us, but because he has done something which marks a step in his own development or made some actual achievement which is in itself worth while and satisfying to him.

G. N. SUTTLE GROCERY, CITY'S PURE FOOD CENTER

Conveniently located in Pampa at 510 South Cuyler, is one of the prominent and progressive grocers, dealing extensively in extra standard groceries and pure food products. Phone 528.

This firm enjoys a large and well merited patronage from the city and surrounding territory, and by reason of their fair dealing with the public, their patronage has increased and today the firm is visited daily by hundreds, not only from the home city, but from the surrounding territory. Whenever in need of anything in their lines, you could do no better than visit this popular store and be convinced and see the products which they offer in abundance and at prices that are extremely reasonable.
 Few, if any, grocery dealers in this section have attained a prominence equal to that of this popular firm for the accommodation of the public.

They have an enviable record for cleanliness and sanitation.
 Insisting that everything about their place be in accordance with the most modern scientific ideas regarding sanitation, they have assured the public that grocery products coming from their store are pure and wholesome. Nor have they seen fit to take advantage of any tendency to raise prices needlessly, but on the other hand, have been most moderate in selling.
 The management of this well known concern is to be complimented for the policies adopted. Attention is particularly called to the fact that this is a local concern, operated by home people and merits your liberal patronage.

LESSON—

change a mighty people. Yet it is from similar small beginnings that there has gradually grown up the Christianity and the civilization of Europe and America at the present time.—John A. Broadus.

When Robert Morrison, the first Protestant missionary to China, was on his way to begin his work there, the ship owner asked him anxiously, "Do you really expect to make an impression on the idleness of the great Chinese Empire?" Then Morrison made his famous answer, "No, sir; I expect that God will."

Parable of the Leaven

Though very brief, this is one of the most interesting and significant of all Christ's parables. "The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven." The comparison is remarkable, for everywhere else leaven is used as a symbol for what is evil, probably because it was regarded as corruption, and because leavened bread was forbidden during the passover.

Both of these parables, that of the mustard seed and that of the leaven, illustrate the gradual growth from small beginnings of the kingdom of Christ. The contrast between the tiniest of garden seeds and the spreading plant in whose branches the birds dwell has its parallel in the development of His kingdom from a very insignificant beginning until it shall cover the earth. Doubtless that seemed an audacious prophecy to the contemporaries of our Lord, but how nearly has it already been fulfilled! There is scarcely a land anywhere that has not been touched by His spreading kingdom. Similarly the contrast between the small lump of leaven and the large quantity of meal in which it is inserted illustrates how the influence of the kingdom of Christ spreads thru human society, gradually, if slowly, transforming its life. Think of all the widespread movements for the betterment of the conditions of human life, both individual and social. Now the striking fact about all these things is that they are most in evidence in just those parts of the world where the authority of Christ has been most cordially accepted. The leaven of the kingdom is still working. Its action is not spectacular, but it is pervasive and powerful.

Value of the Kingdom

Again we have two parables to illustrate the same truth. They are found only in Matthew. In antiquity, where there were no banks and because the tenure of property was insecure, burying money and treasures, and hence the digging for and finding of them, were very common. Because this is a parable, and not an allegory, the honesty of the man who buys the field is not taken into account. In the parable of the pearl-merchant we are taken back into an age when wealth was largely in the form of jewels, and such precious objects. Cleopatra had two large pearls valued each at $400,000. In both parables there is a reflection of the joy that breaks upon many a man when first he gets a revelation of the redeeming mercy of God in Christ a hint, also, of the sacrifice, the price that one usually must pay to acquire this treasure of the kingdom (cp 19:21). Bunyan says that the Valley of Humiliation is a place where pearls are found. Notice that in the first of these parables a man stumbled upon his joy, "found"; the second man discovered his by unremitting search ("like a man seeking"). We do not all find Christ in the same way. The moral of both the parables is however the same. "The kingdom of God is the ultimate blessing whose glory makes all other riches 'of nothing worth.'" (G. A. Buttrick).

Treasures New and Old

"Have ye understood all these things?" No one is a teacher unless he teaches, i. e., makes his pupils understand; if he does not do that he is a mere lecturer. Every true teacher will make sure, before he leaves a subject, that his pupils understand it. The Mosala laws required scribes to teach them; so Christ implied, does the kingdom of heaven—a new set of scribes for a new set of laws. The Jewish scribes dealt only in the old, in precedents, examples, ancient laws. The scribes of the kingdom of heaven are to use both old and new. "They are to proclaim new truths concerning the kingdom which the world otherwise would never know, and they are to proclaim the truths in new forms even as Jesus taught in parables to make clear His message; and they are to teach old truths in new relations. The gospel is the same in every age, but each age demands special applications of this old gospel for its new needs."—Prof. Charles R. Erdman.

Rash Romance

By LAURA LON BROOKMAN

Judith very nearly kept her word. When they had reached the restaurant and were seated at a table she tried to chafe down food because she knew Dan wanted her to. It was a painful effort.

"Louise" was one of the innumerable Italian eating places where the bill of fare lists spaghetti dishes as well as steaks and chops and half a dozen varieties of American desserts.

They sat at a table for two and the young man addressed the waiter as though their acquaintance was of long standing. There was a haze of smoke in the room. The diners were beginning to thin away from the tables. Not half of the places were filled.

Judith tried to eat the soup. She tasted it, took another mouthful, then put down the spoon.

"Dan," she said, trying to keep her voice firm. "I don't know what I'm going to do. I tried—oh, I tried so hard!"

"Listen, kid, you know how I feel about this. Well—leave the worrying to me. Besides, you're in no condition to talk now."

Most casual observers would have said the young man across the table was good-looking. His hair and eyes were dark brown. The cast of his face was slender, something like Judith's. The mustache he wore added age to a distinctly youthful face. He had a straight nose, broad lip, which suggested humor, but his eyes were serious.

"You're not eating anything," he complained.

"I'm trying to eat."

"How about coffee? Wouldn't you like some coffee now?"

Judith agreed. She must bolster up her strength somehow. Perhaps coffee would help.

The young man ate heartily. He told Judith it was fortunate she had come just when she did.

"Ten minutes more and I'd have been gone!" he said. "You timed things just right, Judy."

Then he saw that this brought the troubled look back into Judith's eyes. Immediately he tried to turn her mind from herself. There was an interesting new smuggling case in the evening newspaper. Dan had read the story and related how several unnamed social celebrities were believed to be operating with underworld characters in bringing fabulously priced jewels into this country.

The girl tried to listen. Her head ached and the coffee did not relieve her nerves. She barely tasted the dessert. When she saw that Dan had finished she said:

"Can't we go now?"

"Yes, of course!" Dan arose and helped her with her coat. Ten minutes later they were back in the rooming house.

There was a faintly glimmering electric bulb to light the dark hallway. Dan led the way up the stairs and Judith followed.

When they were in the young man's room again he closed the door carefully.

"Make yourself at home," he told Judith.

The room was not large but there was the high ceiling to be found in all the old "brown stone fronts," degenerated nowadays into everything from laundries and rooming houses to professional offices.

The furniture was an incongruous assortment which had seen better days. The landlady's taste apparently ran to color. Black and white cretonne, vividly spotted with red roses, curtained the windows. The cot which apparently served as Dan's bed was covered with the same fabric.

Judith threw her hat and coat and sank into a chair.

"Well," she said drearily. "Arthur's going to get a divorce!"

The man eyed her without making a reply. Moments passed. Then he said huskily, "Judith—can't you forget about him?"

She had turned her head so that he could not see her eyes. Suddenly she faced about and flung her arms about the young man.

"Of course I can!" she cried. "I—I have forgotten about him. Dan, Darling, let's begin over again. Will you let me stay here?"

"You know I want you to."

Again in Dan's arms she found comfort.

Tony Knight had been mistress of her father's home for 10 days. She held complete sway and no one disputed her authority. Not even Knight, for he spent his mornings at the office and Tony seldom saw him before late afternoon.

Nevertheless, Tony Knight, on this particular April afternoon, looked anything but contented. It was nearly 3 o'clock and Tony was in her room. She had just jammed the French telephone down upon its stand and sat tapping one foot angrily on the floor.

She reached for the instrument, seemed about to pick it up again but left it. Tony's drawn lips and flashing eyes were ominous.

With a bound she was out of the chair and across the room.

"Oh! she cried, 'if I really believed it! If I could be sure—!'"

She stood perfectly still as though an idea had come to her. A crafty look entered the girl's eyes.

"Why not?" said Tony, addressing herself because there was no one else to hear. "Why not do it?"

The answer was a sudden scramble toward the closet which held her gowns. Off came the rose, brocade negligee, hurried over her head to land upon a chair. Mules were next. Tony pulled at a row of frocks, selected one of them and dumped it. She jammed her feet into pumps, searched for a hat and perched one on her head at an outlandish angle. With one arm in her coat sleeve and the rest of the garment trailing, she rushed from the room.

By the time she reached the downstairs hall she had the coat properly about her. Mumbling incoherently, Tony pulled open the front hall door and ran from the house to the garage.

"I want my car!" she demanded. "Get it out right away. I'm in a hurry!"

"Right away, Miss," Bert answered and disappeared.

The seconds which passed before the roadster stood in the driveway irritated the girl. As soon as the chauffeur stepped down she was in the seat, her hands on the wheel.

Bert Callahan, the chauffeur, watched the roadster plunge into the street and disappear. He gave a long, low whistle, then resumed his work.

It was a good 30-minute run from Arthur Knight's suburban home to the section of Manhattan Tony was headed for. Thirty minutes was a minimum, allowing for luck with the traffic signals. That afternoon Tony made the distance in 26 minutes. She was cautious where experience prompted caution. The rest of the trip she let the roadster out. Wind blew her hair and her cheeks were flushed when she finally slowed the car's speed through the city streets.

No place to park! The expressions that ripped glibly from Tony's tongue certainly have no place in the books of etiquette. A seaman would have listened and probably grinned.

At last she brought the roadster to the curb, halted and jumped out on the sidewalk. Tony faced about and walked rapidly down the block.

A stolid-eyed doorman glanced at her as she turned to enter an impressive gray stone apartment. She ignored him, hurried through the doors and across the lobby. At the end of a long corridor she stepped into an elevator.

"Fifteen," she told the uniformed operator.

She emerged into a carpeted hallway. Now Tony seemed to hesitate. She advanced, then paused. Impulsively she moved down the corridor and stopped before a doorway. After an instant she rang the bell.

There was no answer.

Tony rang a second time and waited. A small youth with Oriental features opened the door a few inches and looked at her doubtfully.

"I want to see Mr. Mortimer."

The boy shook his head. "Not here this afternoon."

"But I must see him!"

"Mr. Mortimer not here," the boy repeated.

The flash in Tony Knight's eyes should have warned him. All at once the girl rushed past the servant and through into a room beyond the first.

"Oh!" she cried shrilly, halting on the threshold, "this is your business engagement, is it? I thought so! This is why you can't keep appointments with me. How dare you lie like that? You—!"

It was Mickey Mortimer who interrupted. The blond young woman on the davenport from which he had arisen stared at Tony.

"Now that you've found out," said Mortimer coolly, "what do you think you can do about it?" He laughed ever so casually.
