PAMPA

TOPICS OF OUR CITY

By O.E.H.

"That's gold in these here prairies."

Thought: Too many who "have the earmarks" of greatness have not earned those marks by listening when they should have been, instead of talking.

It is remarkable how a dollar kept at home will make business conditions easy. Suppose a laboring man, who owes the merchant money, finds employment on local construction and is able to pay his account. The merchant is encouraged and builds a new home upon his business stable. The laborer gets the dollar again, completing the circle. The working man re-spends the dollar, this time perhaps buying a radio. The radio dealer pays his rent to a landlord who in turn plans another building. A local man told The Pampa of a true incident in which a $10 bill passed through more than half a dozen hands in one gathering, paying off as many debts and leaving all concerned feeling better about it.

The point is that money kept in home circulation pays off debts amounting to many times the value of the coin or currency, and produces normal prosperity. There are working men here who owe merchants, who owe landlords, who owe material yards. If every $100 man were to find work tomorrow, conditions would be even better than they are now. Patronize home folks first—and that means the working man, too.

Prosperity depends much upon the stability of the farmer and the working man. Farmers have huge debts, taken collectively, and unless they can liquidate these debts and also buy the product of the factory workers, purchasing power is greatly decreased and "hard" times result. Business is choked at its source—which is the body of consumers.

Demand for a thing is easily created, if you mean desire. A national or local advertising campaign whets the desire of the American readers. But demand is only preliminary to purchase. In economics, demand is commonly termed "effective desire," that is, desire coupled with ability (or funds) to buy. This ability depends upon labor conditions. Unemployment strikes at prosperity. Low wages mean low ability to buy. That is why such financial giants as Henry Ford encourage good wages. Ford's cars are bought by those who can have the margin of a monthly payment above living cost.

TWINKLES
Times are hard in many places, yet we note that it cost New York $22,000 to clean up the ticker tape used in welcoming Byrd. It is not surprising that foreigners get the idea that Americans are rich.

Honeymoons in the jungles are becoming popular. Maybe the jungle folk can give some tips on domestic happiness that civilized folk have lost.

Speaking of education, Dr. Benedict of the University of Texas says that one-third of the college graduates will "go to the devil." Maybe that is where the Republicans have chased prosperity to, the gods will not be so bad off after all.

Yes, we admit our days have been rather hot of late. But returning vacationers tell us that hot, clammy nights at some of the "summer resorts" are not so wonderful, either. So we are not sure of the good will of some of those who send us "wish you were here" postcards.

FOUR MEN IN CREW OF BIG FAST PLANE

Famous Adventurer Hopes to Break Record

HAZARDS ARE VERY MENACING

New York Should Be Reached Early Tomorrow

S. S. INGOMA, June 24. (AP)—The westward bound airplane Southern Cross reported her position at 990 miles from Cape Race, Newfoundland, in a message to the steamship Ingoma at 3 p. m. Greenwich time (10 a. m. Eastern Standard Time).

PORT MARNOK, Irish Free State, June 24. (AP)—The airplane Southern Cross, victor over the Pacific, sought today to conquer the Atlantic in the first westward flight from Europe to New York. Aboard it were four men, headed by Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, pilot, who successfully steered it on the first airplane flight from America to Hawaii and Australia. The others were J. W. Stannag, radio operator, M. E. Van Dyk, assistant pilot, and Captain J. T. Saul, navigator.

The take-off was at 4:27 a. m. (10:27 p. m. E. S. T. Monday). Although loaded to capacity with gasoline the big ship raced 1,000 yards down the runway and then rose gracefully. It circled Port Marnock, which is seven miles northeast of Dublin, once, and then turned westward toward Galway and the open ocean.

Ten thousand spectators witnessed the departure, cheering as the plane left the ground. Among those present were governor General MacNeill, the American minister Frederick A. Sterling, and Mrs. Sterling.

Ahead of the ship at its departure lay a course of 3,564 miles to New York, due westward across toward Galway and then westward and somewhat to the south to the coast of Newfoundland, where it was to turn southwest and follow the seaboard to New York.

The airman expected a trip of about 34 hours, which would bring them to New York about 8:27 a. m. (E. S. T.) Wednesday. The ships tanks were loaded with 1,298 gallons of gasoline—two gallons less than capacity in order to escape the unlucky 13—which would be sufficient for 38 hours flight. Captain Kingsford-Smith considered the margin sufficient for most contingencies.

The westward flight never before has been made, although tried frequently from various parts of Europe. In the spring of 1928 the airplane Bremen did complete a westward North-Atlantic cross, from Baldonnel airfield, near here, to Greencree Island, a lonely spot on the coast of Labrador, but fell short of its goal, New York. Aboard the Bremen was Colonel James Fitzmaurice, an Irishman, and two Germans, Captain Hermann Koehl and Baron Von Huenefeld.

Stocks Hit New Low Levels Today

NEW YORK, June 24. (AP)—Share prices again sent skidding during the latter part of today's session on the stock exchange. A long list of important rails and industries dropped $3 to $6, while losses in a few of the erratic issues ran to a maximum of $20 a share. Most of yesterday's gains were cancelled, and a long list of issues dropped to new lows for 1930, while several broke through last November's bottom levels.

End of "The Ride" in Chicago

Police are shown above loading the bullet-riddled body of Lorenzo Juliano into a patrol wagon after the "alky king" of Chicago's South Side had been "taken for a ride" by gangsters, just as the reorganized police department was mulling for a renewed war on crime. Juliano's body, wrapped in gunny sack, was left in the death car, which had been fitted into a blue sedan, as shown below.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT AGENT ASSERTS FEDERAL WITNESSES THREATENED—SAFETY PROMISED

Declaring that witnesses in a federal case involving conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act had been threatened, Col. Howard B. Oursler, special agent of the U. S. treasury department in charge of the investigation here, said that the government "had made necessary arrangements to assure their protection."

Col. Oursler issued the following statement: "In connection with certain threats and gun-play made on the streets of Pampa, I will state that I have made the necessary arrangements to assure protection to government witnesses and other citizens who have been threatened."

Col. Oursler has been here for the last six weeks investigating alleged violations of the national prohibition laws. Friday he and five federal officers raided a South Pampa drug store, seized 141 bottles of liquor and arrested Roy Albritton and A. H. Cornett. Albritton was charged with conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law. He was released yesterday on a $20,000 bond.

Cotton Exchange Member in Failure

NEW ORLEANS, June 24. (AP)—The failure of C. E. Moritz of Natchez, Miss., a member of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, to meet his obligations, was announced today from the exchange rostrum. The announcement apparently had no effect on the market.

Mr. Moritz has been a member of the cotton exchange for 30 years. He has carried on a cotton business in Natchez for many years and was well known in that section. His telegram to the exchange announcing that his affairs in the Mississippi city were being liquidated.

A $10 golf club will be awarded as prize to the person who shoots the best score at the miniature golf course across the street from the Rose Motor company, Noel Woodbury, manager, announced. The contest closes next Monday night. A new set of balls purchased this week are now in use at the course. Glen Bowden shot 42 yesterday, the lowest made since the contest began Monday, although a number of persons previously shot below 40.

SUPPORTERS OF SENATOR TO ASSEMBLE

Political Meeting Will Be Held Tomorrow

SESSION TO BE AT COURTHOUSE

Candidate Will Need Evidence of Gray Approval

All friends and supporters of Senator Clint C. Small, Democratic candidate for governor of Texas, are requested to meet in the 31st district courtroom Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock to organize a Small-for-Governor club and to establish Small headquarters in Pampa.

This announcement was released today by Judge Newton P. Willis of Pampa and Vaughn Biggs of McLean on behalf of a number of local citizens who decided that the most opportune moment to organize such a club has arrived. "The courtroom should be crowded to capacity," Judge Willis declared.

In making the announcement, Judge Willis said that practically every town in the Panhandle, especially in this section has a functioning Small-for-Governor club. "In no uncertain terms," Pampa citizens owe it to the Panhandle candidate to declare themselves for him. Pampa and Gray county citizens have profited most from Senator Small's activities in the senate, and they should fill the courtroom tomorrow," Judge Willis said.

"The largest Small-for-Governor club in Texas should be organized in Pampa. An enthusiastic organization here would be of immeasurable benefit to Mr. Small in other parts of the state. On Thursday the press of Texas should carry a story that Pampa is solidly behind the candidacy of Senator Small. All that citizens need to remember before joining the club is that Mr. Small obtained passage of a land bill the primary object of which was to benefit Gray county land owners and that he was largely responsible for creation of the 114th district court to take care of a docket that was hopelessly congested."

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 24. (AP)—Harm Boroene, a bystander, was shot and probably fatally wounded by three bandits who robbed the B. Street branch of the Grand Rapids Savings bank of approximately $10,000 today.

The robbers, who were described as youths, entered the bank brandishing pistols and compelled six employees and the branch manager to lie on the floor. The victims systematically began their work of looting the place.

Boroene was standing in the doorway of a hardware store adjacent to the bank when the robbers ran out of the bank. Dazed, he did not comply with a demand to go inside and was shot down by the bandits' leader.

The robbers escaped in an automobile.

Chicago Plane Is Going Well

CHICAGO, June 24. (AP)—At 6:40 a. m. (C.D.T.) today, Kenneth and John Hunter, pilots of the refueling airplane "City of Chicago," had been aloft 302 hours in their attempt to break the world record of 420 hours plus held by the "St. Louis Robins."

It was the thirteenth day in the air. At the 300-hour mark, 109 refueling contacts with the ground crew had been made. To escape the blistering heat, the fliers yesterday and last night hovered around an altitude of 3,000 feet.

Elderly Man Dies Here on Saturday

The body of Andrew Michael, 78, who died of paralysis and apoplexy Saturday afternoon in a local hospital, was sent by train yesterday to Parkersburg, West Va., for burial. Arrangements were in charge of Stephenson Mortuary.

Mr. Michael had been visiting his son, A. L. Michael, employee of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, for several months. He is survived by numerous other relatives in West Virginia. His wife preceded him in death.

"Shorts" Become Popular—Coeds Wearing 'Em

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 24. (AP)—Shorts have come to the Marshall college campus—but the fair young coeds, not the men, are wearing them. What the men will do about it has not yet become evident.

The new outfit consists of dark blue silk shorts, reaching to a few inches above the knee, and low necked sport shirts. Whether socks are worn or not appears to be a matter of preference.

No official statement was forthcoming from college officials on the matter but the belief seems to prevail that authorities would not interfere.

SMALL TO TALK OVER RADIO ON NEXT THURSDAY

STEPHENVILLE, June 24.—The radio will lend its influence to the candidacy of Senator Clint C. Small Thursday when the Stephenville address of the gubernatorial aspirant is carried over the air through station WBAP from 8 to 9 p. m.

A special hookup between the Fort Worth studios of the station and the speakers stand here has been arranged and the radio audience will be able to hear the candidate's address as clearly as if seated before the rostrum. A musical program will precede the main address, according to Senator Carl Hardin, who is in charge of the arrangements.

The meeting Thursday will be the first time Senator Small will use the radio since the opening of his campaign in Amarillo May 2. It will mark the beginning of a series of radio talks in behalf of the Stephenville senator's rate for governor. The meeting in Stephenville will be the longest broadcast of the entire series, it was announced.

"We realize," Senator Hardin said, "that people don't want to spend their entire evening listening to political speeches, but believing that Senator Small's Stephenville address will be exceptionally important to voters, we have made his first radio program long enough to cover his entire meeting."

"There will be several selections on the musical program and the remainder of the hours will be turned over to the main speaker. I earnestly urge everyone who can to tune in on WBAP Thursday evening and hear this address. Senator Small makes an unusually fine address and his views on the political situation in Texas with its serious and humorous aspects are worth listening to."

Mrs. Eugene Johnson, who underwent an operation for appendicitis two weeks ago, was removed from McKean and Connor hospital yesterday to her home in the city. Her sister, Alma Sullivan of Childress, is with her.

Founder of Rotary Is Acclaimed by Thousands at Chicago Meeting

CHICAGO, June 24. (AP)—After a leisurely round of acclamation, Rotary international today speeded up the business of their silver anniversary convention. An address by M. Eugene Newsum, international president, and a message from President Hoover topped the first plenary program at the Chicago stadium.

President Hoover's greeting read: "The impressive attendance from so many countries is renewed evidence of the spirit of international good will which also is significant of a development of our times and in the encouragement of which Rotary has played such a useful part."

Paul P. Harris, founder of Rotary, ignored an illness of several months to attend last night's pageant portraying the growth of Rotary, and his entrance into the stadium was the signal for a riotous demonstration from the thousands of Rotarians and their wives—the Rotary Anns.

HEAVY VOTING BEING DONE IN HOT ELECTION TO DECIDE FORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT

New Administration May Replace One Set Up During Martial Law—Calhoun Opposes Change

BORGER, June 24 (Special)—Voting was heavy today in Borger's "hottest election," in which citizens were called to vote for or against a new city charter and to choose five commissioners to serve should the charter be approved. More than 400 votes had been cast before noon, and it was believed that the total number would amount to twice that number. Usually in such elections the total of ballots has been less than 200.

It was rumored today that a committee of lawyers had gone to Pampa to seek an injunction from Judge Pickens to stop the voting, on the grounds that ineligible persons were being taken to the polls. Such action had not developed at noon, however.

Entering the campaign for the first time last night, District Attorney Clem Calhoun pleaded for his audience "not to put the old gang back in power." He opposed the charter as a plan to replace former administrators.

Calhoun's name is on the ballots for district attorney of the 44th judicial district. Should the charter be defeated, he said that he might withdraw his candidacy, but approval of a new administration would, he intimated, mean that he would attempt to hold his position as district attorney.

An organization of merchants and other citizens was functioning in opposition to the faction to which Calhoun spoke.

Candidates for commissioner were A. R. Avery, J. C. Carroll, D. B. Doughrte, A. C. Keith, John R. Miller, Henry Knight, J. E. Barnett, and Dr. J. W. Head.

Election clerks were M. E. Card, Perry Powell, Carl McCaslin, and H. H. Davis. E. D. Hammond was judge.

The charter commission was composed of Don C. Dilley, E. C. Carver, J. C. Carroll, John R. Miller, John T. Buckley, G. C. Harney, Dr. J. H. Walker, D. B. Doughrte, Searcy Ritch, E. M. Caudill, Claude Ruby, W. R. White, J. D. Miller, Bill Orrick, and A. J. Fogaley.

BORGER, June 24. (AP)—After listening to a plea from Clem Calhoun, district attorney, in an open air political speech last night, not to put "the old gang" back in power, Borger voters went to the polls today to write another chapter in its hectic political history.

Propositions to be decided are whether a new city charter, deposing the city administration set up during martial law under direction of Calhoun, will be adopted, and whether John R. Miller, first mayor, who resigned after Rangers came here in 1927, will be one of the five city commissioners elected to serve under the new government. Miller and seven others were running for office under the proposed charter calling for a city manager form of government and initiative and referendum features.

Three men were fined on charges of affray in justice court this morning as a result of a free-for-all fight at west Pampa tourist camp in which men, women and children of three families participated yesterday afternoon. Members of the families and other witnesses were questioned.

A jury heard the evidence. The trouble started among children of the families and the elders were drawn into the affray. County officers arrested six yesterday afternoon in connection with the affair.

Officers Are Without Clues in Bank Robbery

CLARENDON, June 24. (AP)—Officers today were hunting for two men who yesterday robbed the Donley County State bank of more than $7,500. The robbers left in an automobile driven by a woman and officers had few clues.

The men, without masks, entered the bank during the noon hour and locked the employees in the vault, after which they went methodically about gathering up available cash. Hiding their guns on Holman Kennedy, cashier, the men got what loose money there was in his cage and then ordered him to open the vault and bring out the gold and other money there. Obeying commands, Kennedy brought out a sack containing $3,000, and left a larger one with $5,000 on a shelf in the vault.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miller returned Sunday from a honeymoon trip of two weeks to Tennessee and other southern states. The couple was married here just before they left for Tennessee, native state of Mrs. Miller. Before her marriage, Mrs. Miller was Miss Hortense Allison, a teacher in the public schools here last year. Mr. Miller is employed at the Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber as bookkeeper. They are making their home in Pampa.

THE FRUITS OF CRIME ARE LOGICAL

Disrespect for law begets violence just as naturally as respect for law and order brings about wholesome patriotism.

You cannot expect lawbreakers, growing rich off their illicit traffic, to give up without a struggle when they are molested. A community which allows criminals to congregate and to ply their trade while they are quiet about it will sooner or later see a period when conditions will not be so peaceable.

A Chicago reporter is killed because he "knew too much" about organized crime. A racketeer is killed almost daily in leading cities. A Houston aviator is shot down by paid gunmen. And only a few days ago the Beckham county sheriff at Sayre, Okla., just a few hours drive from Pampa, was murdered at his office in a cold-blooded, premeditated assassination.

The public becomes alarmed at murder, but it ignores conditions out of which murders and other violations grow. Organized crime makes little noise unless it is broken up by internal warfare or by legal authority.

Chicago raises $55,000 in rewards for the capture of Lingle's killer. And Chicago racketeers collect ten times that much in a single week. Sad it is that prohibition violations place huge profits in the hands of criminals. It has long been said that a rich man need not fear the law. But the rich men are no longer wholly of the "respectable" class—they include racketeers, bootleggers, and narcotic smugglers of the new criminal order.

The oldtime bandits, burglars, and vice promoters were held in disrepute and harassed continually, but the bootlegger deals with so-called "best citizens," hires expert legal counsel, fights his cases through appeals, and seeks to achieve status as a "sporting gentleman." His activities are made safer by jumbled laws, legal loopholes, and long delays.

When pressed too hard, the criminal resorts to violence as he might logically be expected to do. First he tries bribery. Sometimes, due to congestion of courts, this is wasted money. And when all else fails smoking pistols leave a trail from the halls of justice.

It is a revolt against authority that is doubly dangerous because of divided public sentiment. There are few citizens, however, who do not become aroused at bloodshed. Maudlin sentiment, inert public opinion, and ineffective law enforcement today create a serious national problem.

The public is reaping the fruits of the crops of crime that it is allowing to be sown.

AIDING UNFORTUNATES

There is a great deal of patient bravery in the world today. It isn't so glamorous, to be sure, as the kind that meets a sudden flaming danger while hands strike up a martial air, flags wave and sun shines down on steel-blue armor.

The heroes are never given medals or page one stories.

But their bravery is infinitely more heartbreaking because of its very anonymity.

A man fainted in a factory the other day, due to malnutrition. This isn't unusual. Men and women and children have done that often.

But his story is a little more pathetic than the usual tales. Someone looked into the man's pail to see what he had brought for lunch. Instead of the expected—or maybe not expected—thick meat sandwiches, fruit, eggs and coffee, the searcher found the skins of the potatoes which the man's children had eaten for supper the night before.

He had gone without food quite cheerfully until his strength gave way. He hadn't wanted to ask for aid. He had too much pride. If a man had a family it was his duty to support that family, he reasoned.

The other employees in this man's department immediately took a collection and bought food for him and his family. In most instances it was a case of sharing, not giving, for they, too, were counting calories. To share is infinitely more blessed than to give, we have been told, but it likewise is a harder strain.

Human nature is very kind at bottom and most people are willing to help those in trouble when the cases are called to their attention.

However, a great many people have too much pride to let anyone witness their little tragedies unless the curtain inadvertently swings open, as it did in the factory story.

That is why an impersonal machine which will render assistance without lowering a man or woman's self-respect is a splendid agency through which help may be given to those who have earned the right to appeal, by carrying on when there were only skins of cold boiled potatoes in their tin lunch pails.

The Family Welfare Association of America, a federation of 234 societies in as much cities, recently held a banquet in Boston in honor of its fiftieth year of service. The keynote of every speech centered around a desire to help poverty-stricken and disorganized families get back on the road to self-respect and self-support.

This organization is ceaselessly busy caring for the thousands whose stories of bravery are pitifully shabby and pitifully gallant. We are all willing to help when a direct case meets our attention. It would be infinitely wiser to take such cases for granted and let an agency serve those of whom we never hear. Helpless valor very frequently can run parallel to our paths without crossing it.—NEA.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—thief of both health and beauty. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination. Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets. ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty. A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Ends Piles Quick
NO SALVES OR CUTTING
Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal medicine can remove the cause. That's why salves and cuttings fail. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, removes this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. HEM-ROID is now sold by druggists everywhere, and has such a wonderful record of success even in chronic and stubborn cases that Fatheree Drug Company invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantees money-back if it does not end all Pile misery.—Adv. EXPERT OPINION DIFFERS AS PRIMO CARNERA CLAIMS FOUL

CROWD AGAIN DISGUSTED IN POOR BATTLE

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA, June 24. (AP) — Another foul has caused a stir to heavyweight prize fighting. George Godfrey, giant negro, committed the foul. This time the fallen gladiator, writhing in anguish on the floor of the battle pit, was Primo Carnera, the Italian colossus, and again the faithful, came to see a fight against "fake"—and went home disgusted.

The battle of the behemoths, the two largest men ever to face each other in a ring, missed duplicating the facial ending of Jack Sharkey's duel with Max Schmeling for the heavyweight crown by less than two minutes. Whereas Sharkey felled his man in the last few seconds of the fourth round, Godfrey struggled past the first minute of the fifth before he drove an apparently incapacitating left hook into Carnera's groin.

From that second on, however, the situation looked exactly like the rubber-stamp ending that has been plastered on three out of four of the last important heavyweight struggles. Carnera writhed and moaned in the manner of all fouled fighters, finally was eased from his agony by merciful unconsciousness, and was dragged out of there, winner on a foul.

In four of the most recent important heavyweight bouts, Otto Von Porat has fouled Phil Scott; Scott has failed to have a claim of foul sustained against Jack Sharkey; Sharkey lost on a foul to Schmeling; and Godfrey belted Carnera low. For this display of submarine twisting and grimacing, the fans have paid an attendance bill of approximately $1,300,000.

Last night almost 40,000 customers paid close to $200,000 for the bout that was billed as the real test of Carnera as a fighting man. His fiasco hitting against ninth and tenth raters in a tour throughout the country was ended. The charges of "fake" in his fight with the negro Leon Chevalier in Oakland, Calif., were to be forgotten in the glory on a huge but genuine fighting man overcoming his first real opposition.

But unfortunately for boxing it failed to turn out that way. Godfrey, contributing an even 250 pounds to the quarter of a ton of struggling humanity in the park at the National league ball park, belted the vast Venetian daisy in the first round, socked him solidly in the second, eased up in the third, and went ahead again in the fourth. Carnera showed genuine ability to balance his 282 pounds on his amazing feet despite the leather that bounced freely off his chin and buried deep in his body. He was fast on his feet for such a tremendous fellow. He was cool, but he damaged the negro giant but little. Godfrey was obviously tiring badly when he let loose the low left hook after one minute, 13 seconds of the fifth.

While the crowd boomed and cries of "fake" rolled down the ringside, critics up close were mixed in their opinions. Several believed that the match had been talked over before it was put on. Others could see nothing wrong. Dr. J. Webb Vaughn, of the Pennsylvania State Athletic commission, said Carnera had been fouled and incapacitated. Referee Tommy Riley, who was the third man in the ring the night Gene Tunney won the heavyweight title from Jack Dempsey, called the foul without hesitation. Frank Scherer, chairman of the athletic commission, said there would be an investigation before the fighters were paid. It was reported that Carnera was to receive 60 per cent of the gate receipts, and Godfrey $10,000 flat, although there seemed to be some doubt as to who would pay the negro.

Boxer Is Killed During Battle

WHEELING, W. Va., June 24. (AP) — Injured in a six-round boxing bout last night, Bruno Morasky, 23, of Moundsville, fighting under the name of "Young Bruno," died today in a hospital. Physicians said concussion of the brain caused his death.

Morasky was knocked down by Perry Bridges, of Warwood, his opponent, in the final round. Twice before in the round, Morasky had felled his opponent. Bridges got on his feet after the second blow, and swung wildly at Morasky's head. The blow knocked Morasky to the floor. The final bell rang as the referee counted four. Morasky was awarded the decision. Bridges was arrested and held in jail. John Ritz, promoter of the fight, was released on $1,000 bail.

Fred Tepe of Canadian has taken employment with the White House Lumber company.

At Dallas last night several thousand wrestling fans were scheduled to see Silent Rattan in a finish match with Jack Reynolds, welterweight champion of the world who last Friday night retained the belt in a battle with Cal Farley at Amarillo. Rattan will meet Otis Clingman at the Pla-Mor Thursday night in the main event. He ranks higher than any middleweight who has ever been brought to Pampa.

Rattan was victor over both Joe Kopecky and Yagui Joe, and Clingman earned the right to take on Rattan when he defeated Kopecky last Friday night. Rattan, who is the most popular wrestler in Dallas, is a deaf mute. He is a graduate of a deaf and dumb school and later attended Oklahoma A. & M. college, where he was on the No. 1 wrestling team of the U. S. Rattan weighs both as a welterweight and a middleweight wrestler. He announced that he will weigh 155 pounds when he steps on the mat here Thursday night. Clingman weighs 158 pounds.

No report of the Rattan-Reynolds match at Dallas last night had been received here today, but it is believed that the champion was hard-pressed to hold his belt. In a previous match with the champion, Rattan won one of the three falls. Rattan is oblivious to everything when wrestling. A crowd does not exist as far as he is concerned. He wrestles cleanly and conscientiously in the manner of the Japanese. Sport writers declare that his tenacity, dogged persistence, and concentration, make him the most remarkable man in the game today. Clingman is working out every afternoon for the deaf mute. He expects to rush him from the start and probably wind up with his famous flying Dutchman or airplane spin.

LIVELY BALL TAKEN FOR 20 RIDES MONDAY

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Modern day baseball, with its lively ball, home runs, and two-figured scores, was exhibited to Mr. John Public in large quantities by the major league ball teams yesterday.

A total of 256 hits, in which were interspersed 20 home runs, rang off the bat of the players, scoring 159 runs to furnish an example of the great American sport as played in 1930. The American leaguers outscores their National league rivals 61 to 78 and outthrew them 137 to 119 but seven games were played in the junior circuit as compared to four in the Heydler circuit. The American league also led in home runs 11 to 9 as Babe Ruth connected with his twenty-fourth of the season.

The Chicago Cubs led the parade in both leagues, defeating the Phillies 21 to 8 as they found the Philadelphia pitchers for 24 hits including Hack Wilson's twenty-second home run. Davis, Phillie catcher, drove the ball over the fence twice.

Not far behind the Cubs trailed the Brooklyn Robins as they downed the Pirates 19 to 6 in the greatest array of hitting in either circuit. The Robins hit safely 28 times and in doing so tied two league records. Their ten consecutive hits in the sixth equalled the one-inning successive hit record held by the Cubs and Cardinals while the two added at the start of the seventh ran the consecutive string to 12 and tied the mark made by the Cardinals against the Phillies on Sept. 17, 1920. The out that retired the Robins in the sixth was made by catching Lopez at the plate, thus allowing the unbroken string of hits to extend into the next inning.

Even the Boston Braves cut loose, winning a slugging match from the St. Louis Cardinals, 12 to 9. Wally Berger hit his twenty-first home run to retain runner-up honors in the circuit.

Bill Walker and the Giants managed to put on an old-fashioned ball game, the former holding the Reds to six hits and the latter winning 3 to 0. Ray Kops held New York to eight safeties. As if to give Mr. Public a variety,

Gulf Guns Are Scheduled to Play Memphis in Hall County Sunday—Team Enters Amarillo Tournament

The Athletics and White Sox hooked up in a 2 to 1 game in the opener of a double header in the American league and then closed with a 17 to 9 affair. The world champions were on the long end of the score in both games. Mave Grove outpitched old Red Faber in the first encounter but home runs came thick and fast in the nightcap. Five were divided between the Athletics, Al Simmons getting two and Fox, Haas, and Cochrane one each while Jolley connected twice for the Sox.

The Yankees lost ground as they blanked the Browns in the first game of a double bill 15 to 0 and then dropped the second 10 to 6. Henry Johnson pitched four-hit ball in the first while Ruth got No. 24 in his home run campaign. The defeat dropped the Yanks to third place.

A double killing over the Indians by the Senators sent Washington into second place. The scores were 4 to 5 and 3 to 2. Alvin Crowder,

The Gulf Guns will play Memphis Sunday afternoon at the Hall county seat. Manager Terrell announced today. Memphis has the strongest team in that section of the Panhandle, having already defeated Estelline, Wellington, Turkey, and other towns. Memphis has entered the Amarillo tournament. Manager Terrell entered the Gulf Guns last night.

When Memphis beat Estelline, several players of that town, among them the Markum boys who played on the Pampa Gray team last year, asked permission to play with the Guns in the tournament. If they Heinie Manush and Art Shires were the stars of the opener while Fred Marberry outpitched Hudlin in the closing contest.

Behind Danny MacFayden's three-hit pitching the Red Sox defeated the Tigers 2 to 0. Sullivan pitched almost as well, holding the Sox to four hits. It was MacFayden's second three-hit performance in a week.

still want to play with the Pampa team, it's all right with the Guns, and in the game with Memphis Sunday, Gulf expects to have Wethered, Joe Markum, and Whitey Baccus in the Gulf line-up. The Guns are also negotiating for the services of Spec Roberts, who pitched for Pampa last year. Shattuck of the Berger Gun team will help pitch for the Guns during the tournament.

Due to a schedule arranged some time ago, it will be impossible for the Guns to play the Magnolias, but they will play them in due time when they "get around to it." It was said today. The Gun schedule calls for one game at home and another out of town.

The Guns have counted their chances at the tournament and they don't count up much at present but they have plans laid for developing a real baseball club. Just now the Skellytown nine stands highest to cop the championship trophy. Since the Guns' emerged victorious after two encounters with Skellytown, the Skelly manager has combed the country for high-powered material, and he has collected a formidable club. Skellytown showed the color of its horse Sunday when it gave Emmer Guber's Tactless Texans a humiliating defeat.

Coltoso Defeats Magic City at LeFors Sunday

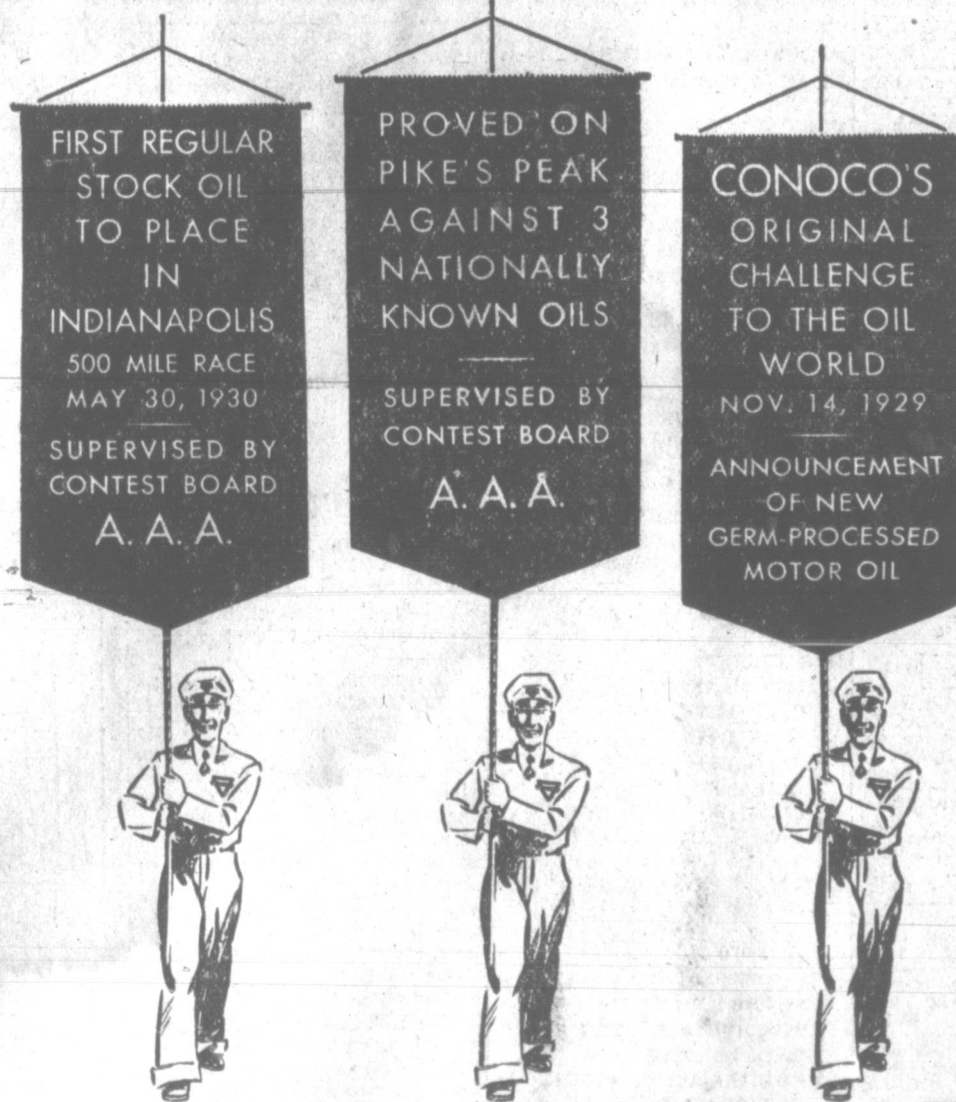

Eleven hits, and a new southpaw pitcher, "Lefty" Thomas, formerly of John Tarleton college, enabled the Coltoso nine to win over the Magic City team in a game Sunday at LeFors.

Thomas struck out nine men, and allowed only one hit. Final score of the game was: Coltoso, 10; Magic City, 1. Coltoso team made four errors and 11 hits, Magic City, five errors and one hit.

Batting order of the Coltoso team: Baldwin, second base; Baldwin, third base; D. Ross, shortstop; Flinn, first base; Newsome, centerfield; W. Ross, rightfield; Culwell, leftfield; Coffee, catcher; Thomas, pitcher.

Next Sunday, June 28, they play the Prairie Oil and Gas company team at LeFors. On July 4, the Coltosos will play a double-header with the Magnolias, also at LeFors.

CONOCO MARCHES ON TO NEW VICTORIES!

CONOCO'S recent victories with the celebrated new Germ-Processed oil have all been sensational in their theory-blasting results. . . . And what is even more important, every fact about these victories has been verified and attested to by that great impartial body, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association.

So, when you read that Germ-Processed oil is the first really stock oil to "place" in the Indianapolis Speedway Race . . . when you learn the remarkably good condition of this oil after that motor-punishing grind . . . when you are advised that you can buy this same oil at your own near-by CONOCO Station, you know it's true! The AAA Contest Board says so!

You remember, too, how the Pike's Peak Tests disclosed such startling facts about CONOCO'S superiority as to literally upset many preconceived ideas about motor lubrication. Germ-Processed excelled three nationally known oils in the Pike's Peak Test on many vital points, particularly reducing motor wear 76.4% over the average of the three other oils! After the Pike's Peak Tests, the AAA Contest Board issued their official Test Certificate No. 2268 verifying every result which we made public.

In both the Pike's Peak Tests and the Indianapolis Speedway Races, observers of the AAA Contest Board checked the absolute honesty of CONOCO'S claims. Every statement regarding either of these events is therefore guaranteed by impartial authority.

CONOCO'S chief competition at Indianapolis was specially blended castor oils unsuited for every-day driving. . . . oils made for racing motors. While the Indianapolis achievement was made with regular "stock" CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil, the kind you buy at the sign of the CONOCO Red Triangle.

So CONOCO is marching on to new victories. A march which began November 14, 1929, when the now famous CONOCO challenge was issued coincident with the announcement of the new Germ-Processed oil as "the first really new oil of the century". . . . This claim was based on the utilization of the CONOCO-owned Germ Process patents, which endow this new oil with that sensational metal-penetrating safety factor, which has since been termed: "Penetrating Lubricity".

Only CONOCO has the Germ Process . . . only CONOCO has Penetrative Lubricity . . . only CONOCO has proved to you, by certified tests like these, that this is the best oil for you to use. Drive in at the sign of the Red Triangle and ask for:

CHAPTER XXXVII

Alan did not call at Phillipa's apartment that night. She waited up until long past midnight, thinking that he might at least telephone her. She grew feverish with fear that he had gone to Natalie.

She thought about what she would do if he had. She would let the faked order to buy stock for Bernardine go through just the same. There would be trouble. It might be possible to convict Natalie of the guilt even if she had effected a reconciliation with Alan.

When Phillipa reached this point in her summing up of the situation, she became less worried, and soon went to bed—to fall promptly asleep.

Alan was, at that time, up in Hillshire, pacing up and down before his residence, torn between a desire to enter and an equally strong determination to stay out.

He was glad that it was a dark, moonless night, and that his house stood well away from the nearest street light. He did not wish to be observed by friend or neighbor in his foolishness—he called it foolishness. And anyone else seeing him there so suspiciously going nowhere and doing nothing, might have notified the police, he told himself.

He was glad, too, that Natalie had not lighted the door lamps, although the black void where they usually shone so goldenly, gave him a feeling of facing an abyss.

For relief from the feeling—he could not long keep his eyes away from the house—he stared at the windows of Natalie's room. She was at home—someone was at home, in her room—or she had left the lights burning. The rest of the house was in darkness.

When he saw the light there, he was reassured. He knew he had been afraid that Natalie might have gone back to her parents. And he had been too stubborn to give in to his fear and try to stop her until the idea had driven him desperate.

He walked until he was tired, but he did not leave until he saw the light go out.

Natalie had pressed the button near the head of her bed, because the light, soft as it was, had grown intolerable. Her temples throbbed like trip hammers and a myriad of pinpoints of dazzling brightness jiggled and danced before her burning eyes.

They remained there when the light was out. Natalie knew she was ill. But self-pity found no break in her armor of humble pride. She would ask Alan to forgive her. If he would come to her. She knew she could not go to him; not soon. She would send for him—perhaps she shouldn't wait until morning—but then she didn't know where to find him—unless he had gone back to the hotel where he lived while she was away.

She reached out a hot hand for the extension telephone on a stand by the bed. She was lifting it toward her, when suddenly she put it back. She mustn't sent for Alan now. He would think she had used her illness as an appeal to his pity.

But in the morning—in the morning—perhaps he would telephone. She closed her eyes, vainly trying to shut out the tortuous pinpoints that pricked at her brain with devilish persistency. Her thoughts grew confused, and she spent the remainder of the night in a mental state that bordered on delirium.

Ethel came the next morning to wake her, and wanted to call a doctor. But Natalie had recovered sufficiently to prevent it, and got up, though the maid had to assist her with her bath. The girl worried over her mistress' apparent weakness, but Natalie thought that a doctor could not help her.

She dressed, and waited, a prisoner in her heart that Alan would relent and come to her.

Ethel brought her a light breakfast and Natalie sipped the fruit juice to please her. The rest she left untouched.

Alan, about the same time, was breakfasting just as sparingly, though not leisurely, for he was concerned about his neglected business. He arrived at the office between nine and ten, and immediately called Phillipa into his room.

They first attended to some matters that were more pressing than Bernardine's, and then Phillipa brought it up. There had been no mention of anything other than business made between them.

Alan read the letter and frowned over it. "Funny," she heard him mutter.

"It isn't really a very good stock, is it?" she asked lightly.

"I wouldn't let her touch it without a hot tip," Alan replied, more as though he spoke to himself than addressed to Phillipa.

Phillipa's heart bounded. Apparently, he suspected nothing wrong with the letter. She was glad to have it so—to see the order go through—for she always had been a bit resentful of Alan's buying so many presents for little Bobby Lamont. This would cost Bernardine all of that, and more too.

But when Alan looked up at her and asked her to get Bernardine on the telephone, her elation vanished.

She tried to intervene. "Do you really think you ought to disturb her so early in the day?" she asked. "You know she has to go to the club even if she is ill."

"I think I'd better talk with her," Alan answered decisively.

Phillipa did not dare say more. Alan was showing good judgment in consulting Bernardine. It would be strange for her secretary to urge him to do otherwise. And what did it matter—except that Bernardine might not lose a goodly sum of money.

Her main object was to fix the crime of tampering with the letter upon Natalie. Alan's telephoning Bernardine now would reveal that it had been tampered with sooner than she had hoped, but Phillipa was satisfied.

Alan had to wait for Bernardine to answer his call. She was asleep and the faithful Nellie would not awaken her suddenly. Her voice was very sleepy when she spoke to him, and perhaps she was too drowsy to think, else she might have noticed that Alan did not mention the name of the stock she had asked him to buy for her.

He merely said "this stock," in a very doubtful tone. "I don't think it's worth the gamble," he added gratuitously.

"It's all right," Bernardine assured him. "You know, I told you, didn't I, who gave me the tip?"

"That's all that kept me from thinking your letter was a joke," Alan replied. "But did you get it straight from him?"

"Yes, and not too late in the evening, either," Bernardine answered. "Well, I hope not," Alan replied. And, "How are you feeling?" he added as an afterthought. How's Bobby?"

His unflinching interest in her boy pleased Bernardine. She answered happily that Bobby was in perfect health. Alan could not avoid being subconsciously influenced by the free-from-care tones of her voice.

He credited too much her certainty of winning on the market, without realizing that his mention of her young son was more responsible for her cheerful goodby and gay "see you soon."

Phillipa had listened to the conversation, with her heart palpitating up in her throat, waiting for Alan to make the momentous discovery regarding the letter. When he hung up the receiver, she could scarcely credit the fact that it had not yet been made.

He gave her the letter, with his O. K. on it to take out to Mr. Wellson's receiving the letter and Bernardine's late afternoon visit to the office. Alan looked at the stock-ticker with growing apprehension. Had Bernardine intended to buy on a falling market, or had something gone wrong? He had other details of his business to worry him, but his mind was chiefly on Bernardine's affairs. He knew she could not afford to lose any more money.

When she came in, he was overwhelmingly relieved to see her. Phillipa showed her into his private office without delay, knowing that he was alone. She, not Bernardine, wore an inscrutable smile. The one on Bernardine's countenance was frankly a happy one.

But it changed to an expression of complete dismay a few moments after she entered Alan's presence. He had told her he thought she was a fool to buy that particular stock at that time.

Bernardine listened to him with her eyes growing wider. Alan caught the meaning of her uncomprehending expression. Then it came out. Alan declared, when Bernardine told him the name of the stock she wanted him to buy for her, that she must have been mistaken. He read the letter, he said, several times. He couldn't have made such an error.

He said it with increasing consternation, his hand on the bell that summoned Phillipa to his room. Bernardine's insistence that she had not made a mistake, reiterated over and over, was intolerably convincing.

"Miss West, please get me Mrs. Lamont's latest letter," he snapped at Phillipa, when she came in.

"The one I took to Mr. Wellson this morning?" she asked innocently.

Alan glared at her. "Yes, of course," he answered impatiently.

Phillipa knew she was exasperating him and it delighted her. She felt she owed him many uneasy moments. She went out with a deliberation that made Alan want to shout after her to hurry.

Instead he turned to Bernardine. "We'll see in just a moment," he said, "but I'm sure I'm right."

"It's terrible," Bernardine cried; "but Alan, I know you're not!"

LIVERPOOL IGNORES RISE
CHICAGO, June 24. (P)—Influenced by relative scant response which the Liverpool market paid to yesterday's advance here, Chicago wheat underwent early setbacks today. Cheap offerings of United States wheat board were reported in Liverpool dispatches, and there were also advices of further timely rains benefiting crops in Canada.

Starting 1/2-1c off, Chicago wheat afterwards underwent additional declines. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, with corn opening unchanged to 1c down, and subsequently showing setbacks all around.
