PAMPA TOPICS OF OUR CITY By O.E.H.

"That's gold in these here prairies."

Things are seldom as bad as they seem; for instance, there is the wheat crop, which is of fine quality and better than expected. The price is admittedly disappointing, but it should improve.

You can mark it down as an axiom that the Panhandle crop average is above that of most any section of this state you care to name. Development of markets for diversified products where diversification is adopted is one of the leading problems. We have no preference in favor of the one-crop system, but we are far from condemning wheat.

Smile. Remember that secret judges for The News "summer smiles" contest are making the rounds daily and that in about a fortnight an award will be given the person adjudged to have the happiest summer expression despite the heat.

Our boasts about cool nights are being challenged. The Pampian will not plead the usual "never saw sleep" because of the heat. He has a calloused conscience and is not troubled by calorific superfluity. And as for those who think this is hot weather—well, you haven't seen "nothin' yit" if you haven't tried some of the humidity in other parts of the Southwest.

Speaking of smiles again—the Summer Smiles contest is based on spontaneity, and not the professional smiles of politicians. Also, not the smiles of the "let me sell you this" sort. You can recognize a genuine smile a block away, if your eyesight isn't impaired.

Of course, the Pampa is a Small-for-Governor club. He is for Small not because of the Wellington man's "common sense" qualifications. He thinks Small has uncommonly good sense. With every other candidate claiming "common sense" platforms, the term no longer has any appeal.

It may be hot, but those of us who do not have to ride the hot seats of dust enveloped tractors or orate to political audiences while our collars melt down should not complain.

The Federal census bureau informs that Texas and South Dakota are the only states not included in the Federal Registration area. The bureau gave these states time in which to improve their vital statistics registration work, and now it is checking on the results by taking a test by mail. It is urged that each family receiving one of the test cards mail it back promptly after entering information requested.

TWINKLES

Come to think of it, Mrs. Lindbergh probably would outrank her husband in excellence of work during the last year. We'll bet several hundred sermons eulogizing the couple have been preached lately.

It is dangerous to cuss the Farm Board for failure to help the price of wheat, for wheat may jump sensationally soon. However, we'll risk the jump and say that Mr. Legge—who is coming to the Panhandle soon—will have to do some tall explaining unless Chicago and Liverpool come to his rescue.

Maybe if folks would quit reaching for a certain brand of cigaret and would call for more wheat bread the market would be more stimulating. However, it is our observation that those who reach for cigarets also do not have the will power to keep from reaching for tasty edibles.

NEW CLUB IS POPULAR ONE WILLIS SAYS

Secretary Davis Is Predicting Total of Thousand

NO ONE FAILS TO AFFIX NAME

Open Headquarters at Hotel This Morning

Pledging their loyalty and full support, 500 local citizens enthusiastically joined the Small-for-Governor club this morning, according to Mel Davis, secretary, who predicted that the total membership would reach 1,000. Mr. Davis declared he was confident that Pampa would have the largest club in the state.

"Everybody seems anxious to join the club," Mr. Davis said. "not a single person has yet refused to sign pledges to vote and work for Small, which are being circulated by four members of the organization. It appears that the citizenship of the town is backing Clint Small 100 per cent."

Headquarters for the club which was organized at the courthouse yesterday afternoon were established this morning at the Schneider hotel and a stenographer was employed. Hundreds of letters will be written to citizens in North, Central and East Texas regarding the candidacy of Mr. Small, and copies of his platform will be widely distributed throughout this section. Small's political slogan, "Let's adjourn politics in Texas," will be printed on stickers and these distributed. Adequate expense funds have been raised.

At the organization meeting yesterday, Judge Newton P. Willis was elected president and Mel Davis secretary. Directors named were C. Herbert Walker, Jim Williams and W. A. Bratton. Talks were made by Judge Willis, Judge Ivy E. Duncan, Mr. Walker and Mr. Davis. Judge Willis described the kind of a man whose vote Mr. Small does not want. "This man will tell you, 'Yes, I am for Small; I'm going to vote for him but I don't believe he is going to be elected. Such a man will do Small more harm than good."

Mr. Walker declared that the other candidates believe Small has as good a chance to be elected as any of them or they would not be predicting he would run last.

Mr. Davis said today that the local organization was enthusiastic over the announcement that Senator Grady Woodward of Coleman county is going to support Small. Lynch Davidson is expected to throw his influence and vote to Mr. Small this week, he said.

In reviewing Senator Small's record, Mr. Walker pointed out that Senator Small had more influence in the legislature than Governor Moody, and that he became the leader of the senate almost immediately after the session began.

Love Comes Out for Sheppard

SAN ANGELO, June 26. (AP)—Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, candidate for governor, today was publicly on record for the reelection of United States Senator Morris Sheppard, after a speech here last night, when he advised "Anti-Tammanites" to forget the political differences of 1928 and return the senator to a fourth term at Washington.

As Movie Cowboy Lassoed Sally

Sally Eilers doesn't care a hoot about a lot of things, but she's head over heels in love with Hoot Gibson, with whom she is pictured here as they appeared at the Los Angeles courthouse for a marriage license. Sally is one of movieland's most popular actresses, while Hoot is the famous film cowboy.

TOWN OF "TALLEY" WILL BE FORMED IF ELECTION CALLED TO INCORPORATE IS CARRIED

A petition to call an election to incorporate the Talley addition west of the city was filed yesterday afternoon in the county clerk's office by J. G. Christy. Fifty-three names were attached to the petition which was addressed to the county commissioners.

Action on the petition will be taken at the regular meeting of the commissioners court in July, Judge Ivy E. Duncan said. However, Mr. Christy through his attorney is making an effort to have the matter taken up before the regular meeting.

Calling of the election is almost mandatory, as the Texas statutes provide that a town to be incorporated must have a population of at least 600, and that the petition must be signed by 50 tax-payers. According to the 1930 federal census, the population of the Talley addition is 800.

The petition states that the name of the town, if residents approve the incorporation plan, would be "Talley."

Citizens of the addition have been discussing incorporation for the last month. The petition calling the election was circulated during the last week, following meetings of the Talley residents at various homes of the addition.

It is understood that the incorporators are contemplating issuing a franchise to furnish gas to consumers in the addition, but no negotiations have been completed. Water used in the district is furnished by the City of Pampa to Mr. Christy and the promoters of the addition at what amount to industrial rates. It is then sold to the consumers through a system owned by the development company.

Mr. Christy also stated that should the addition be incorporated, extensive improvements would be considered, especially of the streets. At the last session of commissioners court, Mr. Christy asked them to improve streets in the addition. Commissioner Lewis Cox, in whose precinct the addition is located, said that he could not possibly improve the streets at that time because 2,000 miles of highways in precinct No. 2 demand constant service of his road crews and maintainers.

Raymond Allred, candidate for district attorney, has gone to Wichita Falls to attend a homecoming rally for his brother, James V. Allred, candidate for attorney general. Mr. Allred will return to Pampa shortly.

MEASURE TO BE CHANGED IN NEW VOTE

President Sharp in Disapproving Plan

DANGER SEEN IN INEQUALITY

Would Help Many in Service Few Days Only

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP)—Steps were taken in the house today to guarantee immediate consideration of a bill to substitute for the world war veterans relief measure to be vetoed by President Hoover.

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP)—The house sustained President Hoover today in vetoing the world war veterans' relief bill.

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP)—President Hoover today vetoed the world war veterans' relief bill.

In an emphatic message to the house, he repeated his protests that the act was unjust. He said it added but little to aid wounded or disabled war veterans.

"I want a square deal between veterans," he wrote, "not unjust discriminating between special groups, and I do not want wasteful or unnecessary expenditures."

Regrets Opposition
"I am returning herewith house bill 10381 without approval."

"One of the most repugnant tasks which can fall to this office is to disapprove of measures intended to benefit our sick or disabled men who have served our country in war. Perhaps as much as any other person, I have full realization of the task, the hardships, and the dangers which the nation ordered its sons.

"In sentiment and in sympathy I should desire no greater satisfaction than to support just measures which are proposed for their benefit. But I want a square deal between veterans—not unjust discriminations between special groups, and I do not want wasteful or unnecessary expenditures."

"The country already generously provides for the 280,000 men whose health or earning power is shown

"Southern Cross" Makes Speed on Trip to Gotham

NEW YORK, June 26. (AP)—Droning through skies which cleared as it approached the coastline of the United States, the Southern Cross was almost half way to New York today in about seven hours of flying.

Squadron leader Kingsford-Smith and his comrades were over Halifax at 11 a. m. (EST), having covered in five hours and fifty-five minutes a distance of a little more than 550 miles as the crow flies. This indicated that they would traverse the approximate 1,200-mile distance from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, where they took off at 3:05 this morning, to Roosevelt field, N. Y., in about 15 hours, landing at their New York goal soon after 6 o'clock tonight.

The plane was sighted clearly as it hurried over Halifax an hour before noon, and the markings on its fuselage could be discerned plainly. It had been seen at several points along the way.

Kingsford-Smith planned to stop only for a few days, perhaps two or three, in New York before resuming his journey to San Francisco and continuing a virtual round-the-world flight for the plane which is conqueror of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Where 3 Died In Bridge Collapse

Three men were killed and six hurt when this steel bridge over the Monocacy river on the Washington highway near Frederick, Md., collapsed and hurled workmen and trucks 20 feet into the swollen waters. The men were repairing the structure when a heavy truck drove onto the bridge causing the collapse.

TWO RANGERS HERE PROBING RUMORS OF THREATS AGAINST WITNESSES IN LIQUOR CASE

Sent here to investigate threats said to have been made against federal operatives and witnesses in the liquor conspiracy case, two Texas Rangers who arrived yesterday had found little to do, but today had issued a warning that intimidation by threats or any other means would not be tolerated.

Ranger Sergeant M. T. Gonzales and Ranger W. H. Kirby were sent here on an indefinite stay by Adjutant General Robertson. They will remain, they said, while citizens or anyone connected with the conspiracy investigation feel any lack of security. Sergeant Gonzales added that intimidation of a federal witness constituted a very serious offense, and that offenders would be quickly prosecuted. He said that the Rangers were not here to assist in the federal probe, but to preserve order and to prevent any violence that would reflect adversely upon the community.

Col. Howard B. Oursler, agent of the federal treasury department in charge of the local investigation, on Tuesday announced that threats had been made and that he had made "necessary arrangements" for the protection of witnesses.

"The Model", New Men's Store, Is Opened Today

J. J. (Doc) Deneheim today opened for business his store located at 104 1-2 West Foster, known as The Model, handling a stock of men's suits, hats, caps, shirts, ties, underwear, and women's dresses, millinery, and lingerie.

Up-to-date Grand Rapids store fixtures have been installed. "Doc" Deneheim was former owner of the Pla-Mor, and has issued a cordial invitation to all his friends to meet him in his new establishment. While the store is open for business now, a formal opening will be made at a later date. A feature of the new business is the cash or credit policy.

THIRD TIME HE HAS BEEN IN THIS JOB

W. Henson Davis Will Be Temporary Manager

POLICE STILL ARE UNCHANGED

New Administration Sworn in This Morning

BORGER, June 26. (AP)—For the third time in the four years of Borger's history, John R. Miller, who, with A. P. Borger founded the town in 1926, took the oath of office as mayor today.

Miller was elected mayor by the newly-chosen city commissioners, after the old administration appointed under direction of General Jacob F. Wolters and District Attorney Clem Calhoun, during martial law, had relinquished office to the new officials elected Tuesday.

W. Henson Davis of Borger was named temporary city manager.

Miller was elected Borger's mayor when the town was first incorporated in 1926 and was re-elected in 1927. He resigned early in 1927 when Rangers were sent here by Governor Moody and threats of martial law at that time were made. He was succeeded by Glenn A. Pace, who resigned when martial law was declared last October.

Mayor W. A. Henderson and Commissioners Moe Steinsberg and Dyke Cullum, who were appointed during martial law, turned the city's books and affairs over to the new administration.

Proposed changes in the police department personnel had not been made.

Mexican State in Rebel Hands Following Coup

MEXICO CITY, June 26. (AP)—Dispatches from Chihuahua today said insurgents still were in control of the state palace and had elected Manuel J. Estrada governor.

Estrada sent messages to the president and minister of the interior announcing the coup.

President Ortiz Rubio gave orders to the military to restore order at once. It is expected that Governor Almada will return from Juarez today or tomorrow.

EL PASO, June 26. (AP)—Francisco Almada, one of the claimants to the governorship of Chihuahua, Mexico, today announced at Juarez, where he set up temporarily his state's seat of government yesterday following an attack on the palace, that he was preparing to return to the capital.

He said he would return as soon as he received word from Riva Palacio, secretary of the interior, in the City of Mexico.

Almada said he wished to restore the capital to Chihuahua City as

Brick Company Opens Office

Pampa Brick company, a branch of the Amarillo Brick company, has opened an office and display room at No. 33 Smith building. Mrs. E. Gillespie is manager.

Lines displayed are Humbolt and Buffalo hollow tile, and Hope common and face brick. Hope brick is made at Hope, Ark., and is burned at a temperature of 2250 degrees, a temperature that prevents light-colored bricks from turning green.

Funeral This Afternoon

Funeral services for Joe Louis Graham, 16, will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Church of Christ with Rev. Jesse F. Wiegman in charge. The boy died in a local hospital Tuesday after an illness of two days. He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Graham. G. C. Malone funeral home has charge of arrangements.

Scott Barcus returned Wednesday from a trip to Borger.

SIR HENRI TALKS ON TARIFF

An interesting discussion of the American tariff is contained in a current issue of Collier's. It is in the form of an interview with Sir Henri Deterding, the amazing Dutchman who is head of the Royal Dutch Shell Petroleum company—the world's largest producers of crude oil.

After commending America's high wage scale, Sir Henri talks as follows:

"You have tried to raise wages by artificially dealing with the labor supply. You have tried to make labor scarce, and therefore high. You have done this by means of the immigration law, which keeps European labor out of your country. But you have had to supplement the process with the machine. For you cannot have high wages without reducing production costs in other ways. This means the machine; and in its turn mass production."

"Mass production means the recurrence of periods of overproduction and hence unemployment. You have overproduced because your whole vast industrial organization is so immense that, unless it is controlled by some central force, it gets out of hand. You cannot curtail production, therefore, through central control because of your anti-trust laws, and you produce a surplus because your markets are not sufficiently large to absorb all you make."

The oil genius denies vehemently that immigration laws remove the foreign labor from competition with the home laborer. "You want to get rid of the immigrant as a laborer, but you want to keep him as a customer," Sir Henri observes. "You thought you could keep him out of your factories by keeping him out of your country. You shut your door on the immigrant. He remains in Europe. He cannot come into your factories, but your factories can go to him. See how immutable the laws of trade are."

"You have taught the European producer how to use the tariff. So now he is experimenting with it—adding little tricks of his own. You will let in only a small number of Czechoslovakian laborers? Very well, Czechoslovakia will let in only a small number of your automobiles. In other words, all the European countries are building walls around their countries. The American manufacturer cannot lift the goods your laborers produce over these walls, particularly the goods manufactured in your high-grade factories in America. But there is nothing to prevent this American manufacturer from building his factory within these walls. The result is that all over Europe you see American factories—hundreds of them. And who is working in them? Why, those very European laborers you thought you could keep out of your factories. . . . You have gotten rid of them as customers and have them in competition as laborers."

This discussion is presented herewith to show that the unemployment problem is not local, not state, not even national, but international in scope. With American manufacturing genius being taken to Europe, where cheap labor is combined with American machines and efficiency, the foreign trade competition becomes a very serious matter.

The tariff will not solve the problem, restriction of immigration will not solve it, trust-busting has only one relation to it, and the fact remains that with European governments aiding their industries America must use extraordinary skill and enterprise to prevent serious periods of depression.

John D., Jr., Congratulates Son

"Like father, like son" is borne out in this exclusive Pampa Daily News NEA Service photo of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his son, Nelson. It was taken as the oil magnate congratulated his son upon his graduation from Dartmouth College at Hanover, N. H., the other day. Note the strong resemblance between the two. Young Rockefeller will be married to Miss Mary Todhunter Clarke of Philadelphia.

County Agent Says Worms Cause of Poultry Trouble

In response to numerous inquiries regarding poultry diseases, Ralph R. Thomas, county agent, says:

"There is more loss to the poultry raisers through worms than most of us realize. Many of the diseases of poultry, such as colds, roup, etc., are brought on by worms lowering the vitality of the fowls to such an extent that they cannot throw off the disease germs.

"There are few flocks that are entirely free of one or other kinds of worms. The worm most commonly found is the round worm, a worm from one to four inches long which can easily be found in the small intestine.

"Heavy infestations are more common with young chickens than with older chickens, and are more fatal to the younger chickens. However, old hens may be infected and cause heavy losses in egg production.

"Chickens infected with worms have an unthrifty appearance, look dull, have pale colored wattles, and comb, and the wings are inclined to droop. Infested chickens may either eat heartily or lose their appetites. In either case they lose weight and become very light.

"A flock treatment that has given good results consists in using two pounds of fresh tobacco dust to one hundred pounds of mash. Feed the mixture to the flock for three weeks, stop three weeks, and repeat. Nicotine sulphate capsules may be bought ready-prepared, and one capsule given to each chicken. However, these capsules must not be given to chickens under eight weeks old; the flock method should be used. Either method of worm treatment should be followed by a thorough cleaning of the poultry house and yards."

N. Y. Woman Lost 14 Pounds of Fat

One 85 Cent Bottle of Kruschen Salts Did It

"I am starting on my second bottle of Kruschen Salts and am real pleased with results. I take it for reducing and so far have lost 14 pounds and I think it is doing wonders for me. I do not feel so tired evenings when I get home from work."

"A generous bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Fatheree Drug stores or any drug store in America—take one half-teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on starches and walk a little each day.

"Before the bottle is empty surplus fat is leaving you—indolence changes to activity—you'll feel younger—eyes will brighten—step grows spry. Millions know this—you ought to know it. Kruschen Salts is the ideal treatment for constipation, indigestion, headaches, nervousness and acidity.—Adv.

This season YOU CERTAINLY CAN AFFORD GOODYEARS

THERE never has been a time when the tire-buyer's money could buy as much as right now.

Rubber's cheap — and consequently tire prices are the lowest they've ever been.

People with an eye to values are seizing this chance and making the most of it.

They're buying Goodyear Tires — because right now they can buy them for as little as they used to pay for inferior or unknown tires.

Why are they singling out Goodyear Tires with especial insistence as against all others? Because Goodyear Tires are definitely superior in tread and carcass, the two main parts of a tire.

Now is the time to get YOURS

The Goodyear All-Weather Tread is superior in traction.

The Goodyear Supertwist Carcass is superior in vitality and long life.

You are not asked to accept these statements without inquiry.

Any Goodyear Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the facts. The facts certainly are: Goodyear Tires do give greater value. As far back as 1916, it became a fact that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Every year since that time it has been increasingly true that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Today this preference for Goodyears runs into millions: millions more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

More Goodyear Tires than any other kind annually leave motor car factories on new cars—more Goodyear Tires go into service through the great Goodyear dealer organization — more Goodyear Tires are used by transcontinental, urban and interurban buses.

There can be only one conclusion: Goodyear Tires must be better—and at present prices they are a matchless bargain.

Now is the time to get yours.

The Husband Hunter

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC. BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Natalie Converse, jealous of her husband's friendship with Bernadine Lamont, leaves him. Alan seeks consolation with his secretary, Phillipa West, who has cleverly managed to become engaged to him.

Natalie returns, but because of Alan's entanglement with Phillipa he dares not propose a reconciliation to her. He goes to Phillipa and asks her to release him but she refuses and makes an effective appeal to his pity.

Natalie's sister, Florence, fakes an illness to bring him back to his home, but Phillipa still stands between them. Florence departs, hoping they will get along better if left to themselves. Natalie makes a visit to Alan's office and there meets Bernadine, who is seeking business advice. Natalie's old jealousy flares up again and she quarrels bitterly with Alan.

Alan goes to Phillipa's apartment for dinner, afterward spending the night at a hotel. The next day Natalie comes to the office to plead for forgiveness, but Alan is out. He telephones and Phillipa does not tell him that Natalie is there.

Phillipa is fearful Alan's anger will not endure. Natalie leaves in despair. Phillipa uses a letter from Bernadine in a plot to discredit Natalie by changing the name of a stock Bernadine wants to buy to one that is worthless. Bernadine comes to the office after the order has gone through and learns that, instead of having won a tidy little fortune, she has lost a sum she could ill afford to part with. Alan is aghast when she tells him he has bought the wrong stock and sends for her letter to prove that he had followed her instructions.

Bernadine discovers the change that was made in the letter and Alan starts an investigation to learn who had made it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIX

Phillipa pointedly hesitated to reply to Alan's question. He repeated it with a sharper edge on his voice.

"Was anyone in here, in this room, while that letter was here?" he said.

She glanced doubtfully from him to Bernadine and back again. It was plain to them now that she did not wish to answer.

"Well?" Alan insisted, and his voice was steely.

Phillipa appeared to give in, to his insistence. "There was no one in here—excepting Mrs. Converse," she said slowly, reluctantly.

"Natalie!" Alan pronounced the name aloud in surprise. But he recovered himself quickly, for he knew that Bernadine was looking at him searchingly.

"Yes, she was waiting for you," Phillipa explained, rather heedlessly.

"Didn't you tell her I would not be in?" Alan asked. He had been instantly elevated in spirit. Natalie here, waiting for him! It must have meant that she too regretted their quarrel. Phillipa's next words were like a dash of cold water in his face.

"She said she would wait. She was not, if I may say it, in a pleasant mood."

Suddenly Bernadine got to her feet. "I'm sure I can't be of any use to you here, Alan," she exclaimed; "and I have an appointment at home, with Dr. Wagman. I must get back. There's just time to catch a train. You can telephone the house in about an hour."

Alan understood that the bringing of Natalie's name into the affair was the cause of her abrupt departure. He was deeply grateful for her delicate consideration.

"Please leave the letter," he said to her, for she had it in her hand. "Don't worry too much about it," she said, putting it down on his desk.

She could have said nothing more dismaying to Alan. He thought before that she must know that he and Natalie were having trouble; now he was certain of it.

His surprise over Natalie's visit to his office, and Phillipa's remark about her mood of temper must have given her added proof that their matrimonial bark was traveling in a rough sea.

Worse than that, he suspected she had connected Natalie with the letter tampering.

The idea was shockingly, repellent to him. Preposterous! But if she didn't think so, why had she so impulsively decided to let the matter rest in his hands, and escape hearing what more there was to learn from Phillipa regarding his wife's presence in the office?

On the way home, Bernadine worried over the fear that she had betrayed her suspicions of Natalie to Alan. She tried to tell herself that she was wrong—that it couldn't have been Natalie—but she knew that deep in her heart she believed it was.

Natalie was insanely jealous. Everyone knew it. And who was more likely to do a thing like that—she was thinking of the letter—than a jealous woman?

Still she tried to reason against charging Natalie with it. But it was too difficult. Alan's secretary, Miss West, had said no one else had been in the office. Natalie alone had had the opportunity to get hold of the letter.

"Oh, how terrible!" she thought in a flood of pity for Alan.

He well deserved her pity, for at that moment his spirit was just about crushed.

Naturally he had doubted Natalie's guilt—he had never known her to do an underhanded thing in her life—but there were facts that could not be denied.

Their quarrel—she had made reckless statements during it—she had not seemed mentally responsible. Perhaps her temper had endured and she had returned to the office to make a new scene, and finding him absent, had been driven by her passion to seek to do him some injury.

And what greater injury was there within her power to inflict upon him than this? She wasn't the killer type of woman, nor would she, feeling herself wronged, revenge herself in like manner; no, that was not Natalie.

Formerly, her greatest power had lain in threatening to leave him; that power had been dissipated. What was there left for her, but to hurt him through his business?

These thoughts intruded upon his mind while he listened to Phillipa, as she told him how angry Natalie had looked, how rudely she had spoken, when she came to the office.

"I'm sorry, Alan," Phillipa said gently, after a quarter hour of planting and feeding suspicion of Natalie, "but I think Natalie must have made the change in the letter."

Alan looked at her, and wished she would stop talking. Of course, Natalie had done it. He did not concede this openly, but he felt much longer she would sit up—she was so very tired—but if Alan came she did not want him to find her showing the weakness she felt.

Her heart gave a mad, glad leap when he rang the bell. She knew that ring. So many times he had seen her through the windows, waiting for him, and had rung to have her come rushing to let him in and give back the deluge of kisses he had been saving up for her all the day.

The shades were down tonight. She thought that might be why he rang again, so imperatively. She smiled. He must be impatient to be admitted, she thought, jumping up and hurrying out into the hall, forgetting the weariness of her flesh.

Alan's face, when she opened the door, shocked her. She drew back, the doorknob still grasped in her eager fingers, and stepped aside to let him enter.

He came in, without a word of greeting. They stared at each other speechlessly. Ethel had left a bright light in the hall, neglecting to turn it out as Natalie had asked her to do. The girl left burning many lights that she was asked to turn out. Because, as she said in her most frequent remark to the neighboring servants, the house gave her the "willies, all dark and deserted like."

Natalie was thankful for the light now. It showed her Alan's beloved face clearly. Something terrible was the matter, she perceived, but such was her joy in seeing him that she was glad to welcome him even though he had come in anger.

"There a fire in the living room," she said throatily. "It's cold, isn't it?"

"No," said Alan, annoyed that she greeted him with a commonplace expression. He felt that only words of vital meaning could serve them now.

She closed the door, as he strode toward the living room, and followed him with ever quickening steps. Inside the softly lighted, rather too warm room, he turned and faced her. He was too bitter to see that she was ill.

"I didn't come to discuss the weather with you," he said with cruel deliberation.

Natalie saw that his lips were curled into thin lines over his fine white teeth, but she could not guess how fierce was the scorn that shaped them so.

She stared at him, helpless. She had never seen him like this before. His expression, the intemperate hardness of his eyes, terrified her. No state of anger she had ever imagined him in had prepared her for this.

She put out a hand as though to defend herself. To Alan it was as though she understood that she had been found out; her gesture was to him an expression of her there was no argument against it. He thought he saw clearly what had happened. Natalie had come in, to resume their quarrel, and found Bernadine's letter in his desk. She was jealous of Bernadine. Perhaps Bernadine's letter, couched in terms of friendly familiarity, had enraged her. She probably thought of it—working herself up to a pitch of madness that would permit her to act dishonorably.

Phillipa, watching him as a cat watches a mouse, was tempted to suggest he investigate to see if Natalie had meddled with anything else in his desk, anticipating his discovery of the much-used eraser. But common sense warned her he was almost certain to do this of his own accord, and that it was best for her that he should.

She felt she had said enough, and got up to go. Alan, with his head bent, did not look up at her. At the door she paused, about to ask him if he wouldn't spend the evening with her, but changed her mind and went quietly out.

He was still in his office when she left for the day. She walked with a light, brisk step, highly pleased with herself. She had slipped a note just inside Alan's door, asking him to come up if he felt like it.

Alan never saw the note. It got kicked under the thick rug—the rug that Natalie had helped him choose—where it lay for weeks. Then it was tossed into the wastebasket by a careless scrubwoman. Not that it mattered. Alan did not want to go to Phillipa's. He wanted to go and see Natalie.

And he did, about seven o'clock. In the interim he had sat at his desk, thinking, brooding. His dejection and utter hopelessness had gradually given way to a cold fury.

All the minor criticisms he ever made of Natalie—criticisms dead in his mind these many weeks—returned in force. The whole situation, summed up, meant that she had killed his respect for her. And killing that, had killed his love. He had been faithful, loving, dependable. His reward should have been a happy home. He had earned peace and security. And he had none of these things.

His fury grew apace as he neared the house in Westchester, where Natalie, fast giving up hope that he would come to her that day, waited wearily in a chair before the fire.

The night was not cold, but she felt chilled. She didn't know how

Champions Will Be Featured at Canadian Rodeo

CANADIAN, June 25.—Spectators will have an opportunity to see a number of world's champions and noted stars at the 8th Annual Annual park rodeo to be held at Canadian on July 4 and 5. Leonard Stroud, his wife Mayme, his congress of cowboys and cowgirls consisting of Josephine Wicks, champion relay rider at Cheyenne one year ago, Gene Kreis, winner of the ladies' bronc riding last March at Fort Worth; Claire Belcher, winner of the ladies' bronc riding at Houston last month, will exhibit daily in front of the grandstand.

The major events will consist of bronc riding, calf roping, wild Brahma steer riding, and Mexican steer bulldogging. In the bronc riding, contestants compete for large purses, and to match their skill against each other. For the bronc riding, the worst outlawed horses that could be obtained in the North Panhandle country are used, a number of which are unrideable. These horses are not trained buckers as is commonly thought, but are animals that cannot be broken. They are old horses in excellent condition, made such by being used only a few times each year, and carefully grained and handled the remainder of the year, and whose spirit has never been subdued.

For the calf roping, a well trained horse is one of the essentials, as well as skill and ability of the rider. Men that enter this part of the program are men of experience gained by daily work in the vast cowherds of the great Southwest. The calf when caught, must be thrown by the roper, and then tied down by three feet. Calf roping is a difficult task as a small loop must be used to prevent the fast calf from running through the loop.

Other events on the program include girls bronc riding on real broncs, and not many have the courage or skill to undertake such a task. Trick and fancy roping, trick and fancy riding, and high school horses make the well rounded program perfect.

The rodeo would not be complete without the clowns. The Morris Brothers of Gainesville, Texas, will be here with their educated mules and they will add fun and hilarity to the program each day. The kiddies and older folk will get a deal of enjoyment out of their funny antics.

guilt. Defense before accusation; it was enough.

"Well," he said curtly, brutally, "why did you do it?"

New Hobbs Has Heavy Investment of Supplies—Proration Is Unlikely

NEW HOBBS, N. M., June 26.—Wholesale supply and building houses in this area have a material investment of approximately $13,000,000 at this time with the prospects that $2,000,000 more in stocks will be added within the next thirty days. These figures include lumber yards which carry oil field supplies.

It has been necessary for firms of every kind desiring to do business in this area to move supply houses here because of the distance from New Hobbs to other centers. Many firms have moved their houses from West Texas and Oklahoma points.

With the Shell A-1 State and Shell No. 1 McKinley wells producing more than 20,000 barrels of oil per day and sufficient gas for a large city, the drilling race is on in this field.

Since the deep pay has proved it is a heavy producer the companies that have acreage in that area within three miles of the northwest corner of New Hobbs are making new locations and erecting new rigs as fast as physically possible. Friday four locations for new wells were working 200 men in their feverish haste to be first to the pay.

This field is proved now for a distance of 6 miles and wells at the north end of that extremity showing so strongly that oil men have hesitated to set the distance which the one pool will go on to the north. The prediction of prominent geologists that this is the greatest oil bearing structure in America, known today, seems destined to be fulfilled.

Work is progressing rapidly on the 200-room modern hotel being erected by the John J. Harden interests who are developing New Hobbs. Mr. Harden and associates are planning further developments which will bring their interests here far beyond the million dollar mark before the year is out. This is the largest individual development program ever staged in New Mexico and is causing much favorable comment among the investors of Texas and Oklahoma who are looking to the new liquid gold fields of Lea county.

Traffic has become so congested on the principal streets here that some form of traffic regulation is being considered. Traffic lights may be the solution of the problem according to authorities.

This area is producing an estimated 40,000 barrels of oil per day from 14 producing wells and several are nearing the pay sand so that oil men estimate that Lea county will be producing 200,000 barrels of oil per day before the first of January.

Governor R. C. Dillon has been quoted in the press as saying that proration would not start here until the state is producing 750,000 barrels of oil per day so that the companies here have been stimulated to a strenuous drilling campaign in their race to the pay sand.

an exact replica of a Willard battery is that of Long Battery & Auto Electric company. The battery is exact in every detail, measures 2x1 inches, and is made of lead with a bronze coating. It is the most practical of all advertising paper weights seen. Stamped on the end of the battery are the words, "Mark Long Elec". Many garages in Pampa have one of these paper weights.

While the hook, telephone, or the nearest seal or dictionary may serve as a paperweight on the desks of many Pampa business men, there have been observed a few unique paperweights on desks in Pampa. Of course, there is the usual number of advertising novelties, but they are all original, nevertheless. The most original one is perhaps the quartz rock on the desk of S. D. Stennis in his office in the Rose building. This rock was taken from the judge's mine, the "Miser's Chest" at Lordsburg, N. M. Siray briefs, lists of names, and other data, have small chance of being lost when placed under its weight.

F. M. Foster, of the Pampa Furniture company, made a hunting trip into Mexico in the autumn of 1929. He killed a deer in the locality of 200 miles from Brownsville. Two of the deer's feet now do sentry duty over the papers on his desk.

Two other paperweights are advertising novelties, but quite original. They are both seen on desks of various lumber companies in Pampa. One of these is a small brick, 2 1/2 inches by 1 1/2, stamped "Acme Erick"; to prevent marring of highly finished desk surfaces or glass tops, the brick has a green felt layer on the bottom.

Guines D. Whitsett, Amarillo lumber man, is advertised by a distinctive paper weight, also seen in offices of local lumber companies. It is a leather sack, filled with sand, and measures 2x4 inches.

Fish Plentiful in This Section

The biggest quail preserve in the world was established in Collingsworth county this spring, according to Mr. O'Neil. This includes a 7,500-acre tract of land which is not being grazed nor farmed. It contains small patches of maize for the birds. This was stocked with 2,000 quail this spring. It had many already on it. A quail club has been organized at Wellington with 64 members, each of whom bought a pair of quail to place on farms in the vicinity.

The choir of the First Baptist church will meet at 8 o'clock this evening for practice. The Rev. John Lee Harris urges the presence of every member of the organization.

Quick Pile Relief

No Salves or Cutting

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, succeeds, because it removes this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts.

HEM-ROID tablets as sold by druggists everywhere, have such a wonderful record for quick and lasting relief, that Fatheree Drug Co. always sell them with guarantee of money-back if they do not end all Pile suffering. Adv. 2

Hunters of this community will also be glad to learn that the Hay Hook ranch on White Deer creek, 20 miles south of Pampa, was stocked with 50 wild turkeys this spring. The fishing is quite good down there, Mr. O'Neil said.

Pampans need not go to New Mexico and Colorado for fishing when creeks and lakes in Hemphill and Wheeler county are full of fish, Mr. O'Neil advised. For instance there is Sweetwater creek and Graham creek in Wheeler county and the Washita river in Hemphill county.

The new station of the Gulf Refining company, located at the corner of South Cuyler and Tuke, is nearing completion, and is expected to be open for business by July 10.

Father Defeats Son

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 26. (AP)—Dr. W. D. (Pop) Sheldon, 60-year-old Rochester golfer, defeated his son, Hunter Sheldon, 2 and 1, at the Rochester Country club to annex the Southern Minnesota golf championship yesterday.

The physician turped in a card of 76, the best of the tournament to win from his son, who scored a 78.

The Rev. Tom W. Brabham, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, officiated in the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and Miss Julia Mae Barnhart were among the wedding guests.

Balloon Social Is Given for Baptist Young People's Union
A gay balloon motif was featured in details of a cleverly planned party given Tuesday evening by the J. O. Y. union of the First Baptist church for members and their friends. Vari colored balloons decorated the church basement, where the affair was held. Small, bright globes of paper, filled with sweets, were plucked from a tree as favors of the evening.
Every game and contest introduced the balloon theme or some other phase of aviation. An ice course was served. Miss Florence Bolan and Miss Claudine Haynes were in charge of the entertainment program, which was enjoyed by thirty members and guests.

Church Council Makes Changes in Schedule at Meeting Last Night
The executive board of the Women's Council of the First Christian church, in a meeting last evening at the Pampa Tea room, reversed the schedule of the council and its six divisions, setting the first Wednesday in each month as the date for the unit meetings, and the third Wednesday as the date for the general assembly at the church. The new plan would make possible the completion of a month's work within the calendar month, it was thought.
Inasmuch as literature for the programs of the divisions would not be here by the time for the next unit meeting, the first Wednesday in July, that meeting was cancelled by the board. As planned by the board, the next regular meeting would be the assembly on the third Wednesday in July.

Mrs. C. W. Locke of Miami Addresses Local Missionary Society
Two complete programs, each of unusual interest, were presented yesterday at an all-day meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the Central Baptist church in the home of Mrs. G. C. Stark.
The society, itself, held a missionary lesson during the morning hours, discussing topics from Royal Service. Mrs. C. W. Locke of Miami president of the W. M. S. of the Canadian Baptist association, and honored guest of the local society, gave an excellent discourse on organization and activity with relation to local, state and Southwide work.
The subject of the mission study was "How to Help the Negro." Mrs. Ray R. Hungeate conducted the devotional after which the opening prayer was said by Mrs. Locke of Miami. "Development of Negro Baptist Work Under Negro Leadership" was discussed by Mrs. Hungeate.
Mrs. H. W. Hardcastle gave the topic, "Negro Women Realizing Ideals." There followed a prayer by Mrs. S. L. Anderson. Mrs. W. E. Cobb spoke on "Baptists Working Together." "The Negro and Catholicism" was discussed by Mrs. John H. Dalton. Mrs. S. L. Anderson read "The Mothers of Men" as the final number, and the morning session was brought to a close with a prayer by Mrs. Cobb.
Mrs. Locke followed the manual, "Things We Should Know," in her discourse. Defining the duties of the different officers of the Women's Missionary society to the local society, she stressed the importance of cooperation with associational, district, and state officers and the importance of every local officer's keeping informed of denominational work throughout the South.
Substituting for Mrs. J. I. Gregory of Miami, who was to have been a speaker at the meeting, Mrs. Locke presented some worthwhile suggestions for enlarging and properly conducting young people's work.
A buffet luncheon to which each member of the W. M. S. contributed was a pleasant event of the day. Following is the list of those present: Mrs. C. W. Locke of Miami, Mrs. Charles Weber, Mrs. D. L. Langford, Mrs. George Berlin, Mrs. Satterwhite, Mrs. W. E. Cobb, Mrs. John H. Dalton, Mrs. H. W. Hardcastle, Mrs. Ray R. Hungeate, Mrs. S. L. Anderson, Mrs. E. Basse Clay, Miss Blanche Anderson, Miss Esther

After a brief business session, a social meeting was held and dainty refreshments were served. The following were present: Mrs. H. E. Baird, Mrs. G. C. Springer, Mrs. Doc Pursely, visitors; Mrs. Charles Talley, Mrs. Wheeler Paris, Mrs. Fines Alford, Mrs. Leo Paris, Mrs. Tom Breeding, Mrs. Ennis Jones, Mrs. Jay Evans, Mrs. W. M. Close, Mrs. Clyde Bebe, Mrs. Clyde Gray, Mrs. Lawton Hoffer, Mrs. Hermon Jones, and Miss Miller.

A delightful lawn party was given Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Mitchell, North Gray street, for members and guests of the Business and Professional Women's club.
Music was enjoyed, and a delicious supper was served at small tables, prepared by the Canary Sandwich shop. Sixteen members and guests were present. The party marked the close of the year for the Business and Professional Women's club.

Called Meeting of First Baptist W. M. S. Is Held Saturday
Members of the Women's Missionary society of the First Baptist church, who have assumed the responsibility of serving the Lions club luncheon each Thursday, met yesterday in a called session to complete arrangements for the work. Working groups were appointed and each assigned one Thursday in each month for serving the luncheon. Table linens were finished by the women while discussions were held.

to have been impaired by their service in the war and for 91,000 dependents of the men who suffered or died. That is and should be the first charge upon the nation.

"Of Little Help"
This measure except for a small part adds nothing to the aid of veterans wounded or disabled in the war. It is a radical departure from our full commitment to provide compensation to men for war disability into the field of pension to men who have incurred disabilities as the incident of civil life since the war and having no valid relation to their military service.
It provides that in respect to veterans who between the years 1925 and 1930 shall have become afflicted with any one of the extensive category of diseases and thus disabled, there is established 'presumption' that these diseases originated from their service and that they should be 'compensated' or pensioned upon the basis of men who suffered as the result of actual military service.

This provision would give war disability benefits to from 75,000 to 100,000 men who were not disabled as the result of war. In other words, the bill purports to establish that men who have enjoyed good health for a minimum of seven years (from 1918 to 1925) since the war, or a maximum of 12 years (to 1930) and who have then become afflicted, having received such affliction from their war service.
Cities Doctors' Claims
I am informed by the director of the veterans bureau that the medical council of the bureau, consisting of most eminent physicians and surgeons, supported by the whole experience of the bureau, agree conclusively that this legal 'presumption' that affliction from diseases mentioned in the bill between 1925 and 1930, is not a physical possibility and that the presumption constitutes a wholly false and fictitious basis for legislation by a recent act. This is confirmed by a veteran resolution of so eminent a body as the American Medical association.
The spectacle of the government practicing subterfuge in order to say that what did not happen in the war did happen in the war, impairs the integrity of government, reduces the respect for government, and undermines the morale of all the people."

HE WON'T REPEAT
HANFORD, Calif., June 26. (AP)—Don't spank strange women, even those who drive automobiles, is the moral John Sorder, oil worker, gleaned from a 30-day jail sentence imposed upon him.
Sorder's car brushed fenders recently with one driven by Mrs. Merle Mitting of San Francisco. Sorder chased her, dragged her from her automobile, turned her over his knee and spanked her. After his arrest he said he had been shell shocked.
P. M. Sulter of Amarillo, with the Postal Telegraph company service man, is a business visitor in Pampa this week.

Philo Vance in Mystery Movie at Rex Theatre

Philo Vance (in the person of William Powell) assisted by his doubtful cohort, Sergeant Heath (portrayed by Eugene Pallette) will undertake to solve the third of the S. B. Van Dine "murder cases" at the Rex theatre, starting today for two days. "The Benson Murder Case" is the latest mystery to engage the attention of the film famous sleuth.

With the murder of Anthony Benson in his mountain hunting lodge, Philo Vance is presented with the most baffling crime of his career. And E. H. Calvert, as District Attorney Markham, is frantic as election nears without any apparent solution for the crime. Markham is suggested to accept the way out outlined by the blundering Heath, but Vance persists for time to uncover the correct clues.
Benson, the murdered man, was a stock broker and man-about-town. He was equally ruthless in his business and social dealings, selling out his friends on the market, holding his women friends by threats of exposing their secrets. He refused to release them from their tormenting positions, remaining unmoved to pleas or threats of death. Then he is mysteriously shot. Which of his victims had courage enough to perpetrate the deed which all of them desired?

Clingman to Meet Large Wrestler
A typical Nordic blond, almost six feet tall and weighing 170 pounds walked into The News office at noon and said his name was Jack Ross, the man who is going to wrestle Otis Clingman tonight.
"I've just looked Clingman over," said he, "and there's no doubt—I'll throw him. I may let him have one fall, but if I do it'll be because I feel sorry for him."
Rose has just returned from a tour of the east and south where he won coming and going. He celebrated a recent victory over Yaqui Joe and last Saturday night he won from Roy Reynolds, 190-pounder, at Dallas. Rose leaves a good impression on one, despite the fact that he declared his specialty was slug-fight.

Defense Closes In Shook Trial
EASTLAND, June 26. (AP)—The defense closed unexpectedly today in the trial here of Thomas Davis in the slaying of Lucian Shook Sept. 8, 1928.
This action came shortly after the defense had entered into the records an alleged confession by Clyde Thompson over the objection of the state.
Each side was allowed three hours for arguments, which indicated the case would go to the jury late today.

soon as possible. He claimed Palacios had already guaranteed federal protection there, but said he did not want to return until he could get in touch with the secretary by telephone.
Adherents of Manuel Prieto, leader of the group which deposed Almada as governor, insisted Almada would not return to Chihuahua City, claiming that Manuel Jesus Estrada, who was declared governor after Almada was deposed, had received a telegram of congratulations from Secretary Palacios.
It was understood President Ortiz Rubio would soon announce whether he would support Almada or approve his overthrow and appointment of Estrada.
Gustavo Flores, mayor of Juarez, claimed he would remain at the head of the municipal government there regardless of which becomes governor. It was reported, however, that if Estrada is retained as governor, Jose S. Gutierrez, alternate mayor of Juarez, will be declared mayor. Gutierrez was in Prieto headquarters last night. Flores said more than 500 citizens had called on him and pledged their support.

Library Patrons Americans Are Still Invincible in Tennis Play
WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 26. (AP)—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, American resident of England, gave the United States a flying start in today's play of the English tennis championships, when she defeated Miss Joane Sibart, Belgium's No. 1 women's ranking player, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4.

Big Bill Tilden and his Dutch partner, H. Timmer, Holland Davis cup player, came through with their first doubles match, defeating R. Deterding and J. R. Reddall of England, 6-4, 8-6, yammy.
George Lott and Johnny Doeg, the United States doubles champions and favorites to go far in the tournament, were forced to limit their first round match before eliminating the English team of V. A. Caszlet and J. C. Masterman, 8-6, 13-11, 7-5.
Miss Mary Greef, youthful Kansas City tennis sensation, found the experienced game of Miss S. Payot of Switzerland a puzzle and was eliminated in one of the few singles matches scheduled for today. The Swiss girl won in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.
Miss Helen Jacobs of California made short work of her match with Miss H. Stanley of Great Britain, winning 6-3, 6-0.
Racing through twelve straight games, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Elizabeth Ryan defeated Mrs. V. Burr and Miss G. N. Thompson of England, 6-0, 6-0, to become the favorites to win the English women's doubles championship.

Library Patrons Americans Are Still Invincible in Tennis Play

Regular patrons of Pampa public library have increased to 1,030, and the list continues to grow rapidly—much more rapidly than the institution's supply of books.
Many persons, including public school pupils of all ages, who have little time for books in the busier months of the year take the opportunity the summer vacation offers for catching up on their reading.
Hundreds of boys and girls visit in the library every week in search of books. Although recent gifts have appreciably benefited the children's division of the library, there still are not enough books to go around, according to Mrs. James Todd, librarian.
She and members of the library association would welcome a hundred books, or, for that matter, the donation of a book for a child of any age. She reiterated her suggestion that mothers collect the books their children have outgrown and place them in the library at the disposal of other little boys and girls.
A hundred books of fiction and other light works would be much appreciated by the librarian and patrons of the reading room. Since the library association has barely enough funds to maintain the reading room and nothing for expansion, at the present, the one possible means of securing more books for adults, as well as children, as Mrs. Todd sees it, is for patrons and friends of the library to donate the books they have finished. Some late fiction, much in demand, would be highly valued, she said.

Telephone Busy
Due to the harvest, business has been accelerated at the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, there having been an increase of 35 per cent in the number of local and long distance calls the past two weeks. No vacations are being granted operators until the harvest ends. Two circuits to Amarillo have been added.

CITIES SERVICE OILS and GREASES

Lubricate your car as its manufacturer intended it to be lubricated

CITIES Service Oils and Greases are the type of lubricants the manufacturer of your car had in mind when he recommended frequent and thorough lubrication with high quality products.

Every step in the careful manufacture of these products is carried on with a single purpose in mind—to make your car run smoothly and powerfully with protection against repair bills and replacement charges.

More than 4,000 motor vehicles operated daily by Cities Service subsidiaries prove that this purpose has been accomplished.

You can afford to use Cities Service Oils and Greases generously, because the cost of lubrication represents only three cents out of every dollar you spend for operation and maintenance.

Your nearest Cities Service station or dealer is prepared to give expert lubrication service.
