Clapp, who was 49 years old, left note reading: "Goodby Sue. I have killed myself. Nobody is to blame but me. I am crazy."

Clapp was a Yale graduate and in 1915 was a member of the Olympic hurdling team. He was author of "The Port of Boston" and several books on economic and financial subjects. Until two years ago he was a financial writer on the New York American. Since then, an official of Durant Motors said, he had been employed by Durant and gave some of his time to William Randolph Hearst.

The "Sue" to whom Clapp's suicide not was addressed was identified as Mrs. Susan Clapp, his wife, who arrived from the south today in response to a letter he wrote several days ago asking her to come to discuss domestic matters. She said they had been separated for some

Mrs. Clapp said that her husband had suffered finanicial reverses.

Archer and Sailor Farms Getting Big Play

Three oil wells being completed today in the area just west of Pampa give some indication of the big drilling activity that is now underway in that section.

While none of the wells are gushers, due to lack of gas to flow the oil, they are rated as exceptionally long-lived wells which will produce oil for several years.

The No. 1 Horner of the Cockrell-McIlroy oil company in the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of section 139, block 3, is swabbing about 150 barrels per day from a total depth of 3,225 feet. WE NEED LOTS OF LAWS

It is a common complaint in this country that we have too many laws; and there is little doubt that our legislatures and congress have been over-busy in some directions, passing some laws that are meddlesome and some that are downright foolish. Yet a little study of our current civilization ought to convince anyone that would be quite impossible for us to get along at all without a very large, ever-increasing number of petty laws.

Life has grown more complex than it was a generation or so ago, and many new laws are needed, in consequence. For one thing, there are more of us. We are crowded closer together. To keep friction at a minimum we have to have a regular network of regulations.

In the day when there were no automobiles it made no difference how long a man left his carriage standing at the curb. Today, with autos clogging the streets, it is imperative to have very strict, complicated rules governing the length of time and the places a man may park. Similarly, in the pre-automobile days other traffic laws were few. Now they have to be very numerous. We could not get along without many restrictions and officers to enforce them.

Then there is the field of public health. In the ight of the medical knowledge of our grandfathers, few laws were needed in that field. Today we have a host of them. We have to, for our own protection; and as medical science progresses we shall have more laws of the same kind.

Experience has proved that a city permitted to grow haphazard gets in the way of its own progress. Today we have complicated zoning laws in the way of its own we have complicated zoning laws-not because we have passion for law-making, but because we have found that such laws are necessary.

You could follow out parallels in a dozen different fields. The plain fact is that we need more laws than our forefathers did. Those critics who insist that we are legislating ourselves to death generally fail to understand that fact .- NEA.

WASHINGTON.—The identity of President Hoover's political adviser at this time is a matter of specu publican primary contests with his indorsement of Repcredit here for any stroke of political genius.

The quality of the political advice Mr. oHover seems to have had since his nomination has been a subject of continuous comment and the comment at the moment concerns its conspicuous failure to improve.

Nevertheless; some of the newspaper boys who every few weeks predict the emergence of the "real Hoover" have been saying that his intervention on behalf of Reece is only on of various attempts which the President will make to reward his friends or punish his enemies by similar methods. That doesn't sound very convincing, even though it seems difficult to explain the indorsement of Reece and its implications as an solated incident. Mr. Hoover is not notorious for his propensity to bite off large chunks of trouble wittingly.

One of the best things a president does in campaign years is to keep his fingers out of his own party's primaries. Ordinarily he won't even intervene in an attempt to save his best friend from defeat or to place an obstacle before his worst political enemy. If he does such a thing the voters more often than not seem to take delight in telling him to go chase himself while they vote for the other fellow. On comparatively rare occasions when a candidate is directly indorsed by the president for an elective nomination the support sometimes seems to do him more harm than good.

And when a Republican is nominated and elected despite primary opposition from the White House he is sure to come here with a glint in his eye which bodes no good for anybody. The president has not only made an enemy among his own ranks in Congress but he has als antagonized the winner's friends back home. The strict neutrality of the Democratic party outside the states involved in contests for renomination by such Smith bolters as Senators Simmons of North Carolina and Heflin of Alabama indicates how completely this lesson has been learned by most politicians.

The President wrote Reece that he had heard Reece's opponents were charging him with opposing the interests of Tennessee in refusing to accept the Norris Muscle Shoals plan passed by the Senate and substitut. ing a private operation plan for it. Mr. Hoover said Reece was quite right and thereby came out definitely for private operation for the first time. The implicadon was that Reece had been representing the White House all the way through and was now reaping his re ward in the form of this unusual campaign letter. Reece's opponent, Samuel W. Price, had been attacking him hotly on the Muscle Shoals issue.

To me it is inconceivable that any thinking person living in Pampa, working here or owning property, could be so short-sighted as not to vote in favor of this bond issue, which means so much to your community.

It is a well-known fact that good highways leading into any city and through any district is as necessary as its very life's blood.

The building of these highways will make Pampa a bigger and better city, it will make it the easily reached trades center for many miles and will make Gray county a still more prosperous one, for everybody living here will participate either directly or indirectly in the future prosperity these good roads are certain to bring.

When you think of the hundreds of good men and fellow citizens who through no fault of theirs are out of work and wearily tramping from one plant to another looking for work while their families are actually suffering and you know good, even when all else tried has that you have it in your power to failed. "Of course I'll come," Judy answerd. "It sounds lovely. A whole day in the country, a motor car, a picnic lunch, and a dinner and a play to end up with! Why, sweet, I haven't done a single thing since deep old Guerry and deal." "Of course I'll come," Judy andear old Guarvenius died!'

> "Then it's tomorrow, if it's fine," said Chummy. "We'll call for you at 10 o'clock, if that isn't too early we want to go a long way, into the real country.'

"Splendid! And you're really to be married-when is it?" "A week from today," said Clarissa, blushing

"And I'm not asked to the wed Chummy went still redder.

"It's Alan, Judy darling. He somehow doesn't want to ask anybody-not a soul." "I quite understand," Judy said "If a thing's going to be quite, it had much better be dead quiet.

And you see all the boys would want Judy was decidedly more like herself, and Clarissa, now about to enter the very innermost circle of happiness, was elated and transfigured, so that she had no fears either for herself or for her beloved little friend. The future of Judy was as rosy as her own. She would have the world at her feet, and then in time she would find love, and she would know that it is the greatest thing

The day in the country was a great success. From Chummy's point of view, it was perfect.

They drove up to a far corner of Connecticut,, where there was a sweeping line of great hills. They climbed one of them, leaving the car at the bottom, and Alan carrying the luncheon basket On the top they were rewarded by a grand view and a sweet cool breeze. They ate and drank like school children Judy was entranced by the wide open spaces and danced about like child of ten.

Then they laid themselves down hard for her, and he was going to JUDITH GRANT, rtist's model, on the springy, scented turf, and marry Clarissa Morrley in a day or ves ALAN STEYNE, painter who smoked and talked—at least, Judy two. and Will Vote for the Road Bonds"

The above map shows what these percincts will look like, when we vote for paved roads. When these roads are paved, you can travel in almost every direction. You won't have to say, when we get a rainy week or month, "I wonder if I can make that business trip?" "I wonder if I'll get stuck if I go to see that man in Wheeler, Mobeetie, Miami, Canadian, Lefors, or elsewhere?"

Will the question mark remain on Gray county's may shown in upper right-hand corner? Will we, after next Saturday, say, "well, we'll stay in the mud for a while longer?

We don't believe so. We believe that the citizens of these three precincts are wide enough awake to know that it will not pay for us to let the other counties get into the lead over us.

The prosperity of Gray county depends to a considerable extent upon good transportation. Your individual prosperity depends upon that of this country.

Hawks lowered by three hours and 52 minutes the recent eastwest record set by Roscoe Turner. Hawks made refueling stops at Columbus, Ohio, St. Louis, Wichita, Albuquerque, and Kingman, Ariz.

Hawks encountered stormy weather during most of the 2,600 miles. He flew through rains between Pittsburgh, Pa., and Terre Haute, Ind., and severe storms from Albuquerque to the Arizona-California border. Over Arizona, Hawks said, he was forced to fly high and off his course to avoid thundershow-

Subtracting the time taken from the five stops Hawks actually flew across the country in 13 hours, 35 minutes and 43 seconds.

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer Pudgy Gene Rye and the Waco Cubs jointed hands in the eighth inning of what had been a perfectly good ball game against Beaumont last night to stage a struction probably will never be equalled in the Texas league.

In one rousing round the Waco nightmares scored 18 runs to humble the Exporters, 20 to 7, and climb within a half game of the leading Wichita Falls Spudders. Rye, with three circuit drives that accounted for eight runs, was the individual hero of the onslaught that eclipsed anything seen in the modern history of the league. The stocky Cub outfielder opened the fireworks with a swat over the left field wall; his second, with two aboard, sailed over the right palisade, and his third, with the sacks loaded, followed in its wake.

Rye's record, so far as history discloses, has never been equalled in organized baseball. Only one team performing the feat against Detroit in 1883.

Mallett, Green and Newman were the three Shipper hurlers who suffered during the big round. Stuvengen and Piet also cracked homers, while Bischoff contributed a single and double. In all, the Cubs made 12 hits and were issued six walks during the inning.

The Prattmen's record-smashing performance served to bunch the leaders, as the Fort Worth Cats were downing Wichita Falls, 13 to 9, in the opener of their "crucial" series at Spudderville. Only one game separated the first place and the third place Cats with the Cubs wedged be-

Hank Thormahlen, for whom the Kittens refused to pay the second $5,000 due on his purchase from Waco, relieved Whitworth in the second and did a fine job of relief pitching against the leaders. Four of the Spudders' runs rode in on mers, including No. 36 for Larry Bettencourt.

Tony Kaufman, the reformed outfielder, hurled his third victory in as many starts for Houston, setting the San Antonio Indians down with four hits and licking them, 7 to 1. In addition to his great pitching, Mexican city slightly larger. Only the former big leaguer drove in five a barbed wire fence separates the runs. His homer in the second found the bases loaded. Leslie, slugging first baseman, was credited with half of the Redskins' hits off

Cy Cashion's triple in the eighth drove in Hutson with a run to break up a pitchers' battle between George Murray of the Steers and Tiny Owens of the Sports and give the Louisianans a 3 to 2 verdict in their opener. It was the fourth straight loss for Dallas. Hap Morse accounted for one of the losers' runs with a circuit wallop.

Huston, Leader of Republicans, Resigns Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (P)—Claudius H. Huston of Tennessee resigned today as chairman of the republican national committee and in a formal statement asserted "no a solid front when under the eneman in political life has ever been my fire, but as this has not been complained to Editor Howe that the subject to more unwarranted attacks."

Huston presented his resignation to a meeting of the party's executive committee and made public his statement before the meeting was over and his successor chosen.

He said his withdrawal would give the organization an opportunity of selecting a leader free from the present factional opposition, and will permit me without embarrassing others, to pursue a course that will insure in the minds of the republicans of the country my right to their continued esteem plosives in the automobile that killand confidence."

"Heretofore announced," Huston said, "I have determined to retire as chairman of the republican national committee.

"For a life time I have been a member and an active worker in the republican party. I have never sought office or reward in any form. It was with a desire to promote its success and that of the administration that, upon the urging of party leaders, I agreed to accept the chairmanship.
