

PAMPA WILL GET NEW RAILROAD

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM WILL OPEN CHAUTAUQUA MONDAY

INTEREST IN STATE RACES IS KEEN WITH VOTING TIME NEAR

Pampa never knows when she is defeated. Nor does Childress. Nor the Burlington.

How should one act in great victories. We do not know. Nor care. The rail permit is ours. Childress is to be drawn nearer by virtue of steel rails—also Shamrock and Wellington. Amarillo won't be the only gateway to the Gulf. The Upper Plains has been put back in Texas, from a transportation standpoint. We thrive on opposition, especially that on the west.

As Lubbock says, "Cities Do Not Happen; They Are Built." Pampa worked hard for the railroad; she must work hard for paved highways and other assets. The Panpan arrived simultaneously with the news of the reconsidered rail decision; indeed, we were boastful in true communist style we might claim we feigned in the victory. When the news "broke," the Panpan first called and congratulated the fighting Pampa Board of City Development. Then he called and congratulated Chas. C. Cook, attorney for the B. C. D., who represented this city in Washington. Later he delivered an "extra" to both. Many others in the business and professional circles had a part in the rail fight. Let's not slack up, but keep on the alert until a Burlington train steams into the Panhandle Oil Capital.

Home Again. Back to Pampa after two weeks, that seemed much longer. Two weeks of rest, mainly; and visiting, partly, and driving on hot, dry days, slightly. Driving in suspended duty, or through burning hot winds makes one wish for paving, wheat fields of cool green, and refreshing Panhandle nights.

Two weeks of bragging about Pampa, and answering affirmatively the inevitable question: "Pampa is the best town in West Texas, isn't it?" Listening to tales of drought confirm of repeated statements of this city should be happy. World travelers will tell you how fortunate you are to live in the United States. National travelers will tell you Texas is a land of opportunity. Well informed Texans will admit that the Upper Panhandle little knows what real hardships are. And we live in Pampa, we fortunate of the fortunate.

Of course, every city has a drawback or two. The most widely known and discussed Pampa detriment is high rent. Many would move here were this impediment removed. Building of residences is impeded through lack of financing capital; keen demand inflates rents. It is deplorable, but those who control the rents alone can be reasonable, for only through the most thorough socialism could rents be arbitrarily fixed.

People speak of depressed business, and there is no doubt that a depression exists. It is partly mental. Restricted purchases on account of fear are just as real as restrictions based on inability to pay. Many hundreds of thousands of persons are in debt—installment buying. They are paying up. Many are leaving. Bankers of various cities testify that the business structure is sound. There is less than 15 per cent difference between "prosperity" and "depression." Prosperity is based on an endless chain of purchasing. A closed factory in New England re-opens, a thousand men start drawing checks. Pay checks mean ability to buy more

BALLOTING IS LIKELY TO BE VERY STRONG

Five-Day Drive Will End in Fiery Climax

ABSENTEE VOTE IS VERY HEAVY

Many Speakers Will Beat Political Bushes

BY E. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer
Within five days of the end of the long, winding trail—and the "pot of gold"—two weary but confident candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination had reached another breath-catching Sabbath preparatory to the final drive this week for the votes that will go into the ballot boxes next Saturday.

Ferguson wound up the week "out west" in Breckenridge, and Sterling drew up Saturday night at Breckenridge, after visiting Abilene, Cisco and Eastland during the day. Both candidates were to move to other sectors for the final week, leaving the West Texas, Panhandle and plains country in the hands of their friends.

Both were claiming a majority of the votes of that section cast in overwhelming numbers for Sen. Clint C. Small of Wellington, who was third in the first primary free-for-all.

Sterling to East Texas
Sterling was to touch East Texas, Central Texas and South Texas in his final rounds. His itinerary for the new week:

Monday, Gainesville and Paris; Tuesday, Terrell and Ennis; Wednesday, Marlin and Cameron; Thursday, Georgetown and San Marcos; Friday, La Grange and Galveston.

SMALL WELLS IN PRORATION NOT CUT

AUSTIN, Aug. 16. (AP)—The first complaint filed under the law making pipe line companies common carriers and requiring them to extend their facilities was set for hearing for Sept. 3, in an order today by the oil and gas division of the state railroad commission.

The complainants were Young Brothers and Alexander, Inc., and Primrose Refining company, operating in the Newcastle field in Young county, who alleged that the Continental Oil company had refused to extend its pipeline connection to their leases.

AUSTIN, Aug. 16. (AP)—Proposing to save thousands of small operators from the possible ill effects of effective Aug. 27, the state railroad commission today gave notice of a hearing here Aug. 25 on an order to exempt marginal wells from proration.

L. D. Parker, chief of the oil and gas division of the commission, drew up the order, which provides marginal wells into three classifications, all three based principally on the expense of obtaining the oil from the ground.

The order proposes that the following wells be classed as marginal producers:

Wells producing six barrels or less per day from 2,000 feet or less. Producing properties which have wells producing an average of 12 barrels a day or less from 2,500 to 3,000 feet. It was also proposed that marginal wells be exempt from any curtailment necessary under the common purchaser law, by which a pipeline company is required to purchase in pro rata quantities from all producers in a field.

LIBRARY WILL PRESENT FINE STAGE EVENT

Play, 'Other People's Business,' Is Offering

TENT THEATRE WILL BE USED

Children Will Have Own Interests Daily

The first of nine exceptionally attractive programs to be given here this week by the Redpath Chautauqua, under the auspices of the Pampa Library association, is "Other People's Business," a play that has enjoyed immense success both on Broadway and in the sticks because of its clever comedy, dramatic situation, and its original plot.

Nine programs of wide variety, featuring some of the country's best platform talent, will be offered this week, and in addition, a junior Chautauqua for the children, with a program at 9:30 o'clock each morning, beginning with Tuesday. The series will continue through Friday.

Tuesday's matinee will be a concert by Blason's Filipino Collegians, a five-piece orchestra. These five young men, each of whom has attended an American college or university, will play their native island music and popular American numbers. They will give a brief concert again in the evening, as a prelude to the main number.

Smith Dameron is an unique entertainer appearing on this season's chautauqua. He is a potter craftsman of the hand school, one of the few young men now engaged in the art of moulding with the potter's wheel, and so far as known, the only master coupling the ancient art with platform entertaining.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Phillips and children, James Jr., and Ruth Courtney, will leave today for a ten-day tour of New Mexico. Mr. Phillips is general auditor of the Nunn-Warren Publishing company.

Orphan Girls Are Injured As Bus Overturns

LUBBOCK, Aug. 16. (AP)—Three girls were injured this afternoon six miles south of Post when a bus occupied by 23 children of the Boles Orphan home, Greenville, overturned on a curve.

The driver, Z. D. Barber, attributed the accident to locked brakes, which he said had given difficulty after the bus left Snyder.

The orphan group was touring West Texas presenting musical concerts. It included six boys, and 17 girls, ages from 9 to 17. The most painfully injured were Miss Cleo Pencergras, head and back injuries, Miss Arenda Smith, body bruises and a sprained ankle, and Miss Perceles Mooney, severe head bruises and gashes on the forehead and mouth.

The Post Church of Christ assumed care of the children. The bus, was owned by the orphans home, was wrecked.

Burlington Given Permit to Build From Childress

City Is Jubilant As Victory Crowns Long Fight for Connection South Into Texas

Even red-hot politics failed to attract much interest in Pampa Saturday after citizens learned that the lengthy battle for a north-south railroad had been crowned with perhaps the greatest victory in the city's history.

Reversing its former denial of the Burlington's Childress-Pampa petition, the Interstate Commerce Commission announced that the re-hearing of Pampa claims had convinced it of the public necessity of the desired line, and that it had decided to grant the additional permit provided joint trackage would be used between Wellington and Shamrock.

History of Campaign
The history of the railroad fight is one of conquering difficulties which have aroused despair in less persistent bodies than the Pampa Board of City Development.

Looking about for a new railroad, after the Clinton & Oklahoma Western had been completed, the B. C. D. called upon the Burlington system to build from the south into Pampa. The reply was favorable, but no immediate action followed, although investigations were begun along the line pursued by the Denver several years ago.

Before the Denver, or Burlington, petition was perfected, the watchful Rock Island road asked the right to construct from near Quanah to Shamrock. Then the rehabilitation of the G. T. & W. road was brought up, and the road problem became one of providing a better network into Fort Worth. By the time the Burlington petition was launched, attention was turned away from Pampa and toward Fort Worth.

Examiner Gives Set-Back
In a week's hearing at Fort Worth beginning July 29, 1929, before Examiner Chas. D. Mahaffey of the I. C. C., Pampa, Childress, and the Burlington road presented testimony of citizens and through briefs showed why Pampa should have a north-south connection to Central Texas. Other hearings involving Texas rail construction were heard by Examiner Thos. F. Sullivan, who later studied all data and recommended the Rock Island project while denying the Denver's claims and affirming those of the Clinton & Oklahoma Western for a spur from Heaton to Central Gray county. Early this year the Interstate Commerce Commission's division 4, composed of three members, affirmed Sullivan's conclusions by a vote of 2 to 1.

In looking over the two gubernatorial pills, the Pampans must peer into the past because the candidates are so covered with the whitewash of their friends and political bedfellows that one cannot be distinguished from the other.

Pills ordinarily are sugar-coated, but Proxy Jim and Houston Ross are whitewashed until they look as pure as the "driven snow." Sterling once was a poor man, an independent oil operator, and an ignorant "country boy."

There are those who, while admitting Sterling's faults, will tell you that he is a "Christian gentleman," a loyal Texan, and a prohibitionist. In ordinary times this would mean sure election under the present alignment, but unless there is a general rain the cotton farmers are going to support rather heavily the boastfully downtrodden Proxy Jim.

The choice of many, including the writer, goes to Sterling on an anti-Ferguson basis. Fergusonism is so well known in this country that the state cannot afford to re-invent it. Jim's own brother, A. M. Ferguson of Sherman, states that Jim is merely pulling the wool over the eyes of the "common people," and that he is lamentably insincere.

Why does Clint Small support Sterling? Small is the same champion of West Texas today that he was in the river bed fight. He believes that his program would be safer in the hands of a Sterling administration than in the clutches of Proxy Jim.

Lee Satterwhite, Clint Small, Pink Parrish, Clyde Warwick, Walter Woodward—these stalwart Texans have not changed one iota since the election. They are choosing what they regard as the lesser of two evils. They are choosing to place in the governor's chair a governor, and not a figure head which would deal out executive favors at the bidding and profit of a proxy.

road contractors and friends of those who have been legally and justly placed in the state penitentiary.

There is the alternative of scratching both names, and this will be exercised by more than a few persons. Party loyalty is going to be a joke in this state unless the preferential primary or some system of picking the desired candidate is adopted.

Mr. Shanklin, longtime resident of Spanish-speaking countries, takes his politics seriously. When Mrs. Ferguson was running before, he said that if she were elected he would return to Old Mexico. Came her election and Mr. Shanklin headed for the country below the Rio Grande.

The Pampans has no criticism for those who disagree with him. Every one should have the privilege of choice, without ridicule, of the candidate believed to offer the best for this state.

Dr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Wallace and son, Bob, will leave today for a two-week vacation trip to Mexico City. Dr. Goulston of New Orleans will be in Dr. Wallace's office during this interval.

Jim Moore is Sold DALLAS, Aug. 16. (AP)—Officials of the Dallas, Tex., league baseball club today announced the sale of Jim Moore, an outfielder, to the Philadelphia Athletics for approximately $15,000 in cash and a player.

Mr. Lillian Murphy was in Amarillo Saturday. Barney Kane, Jr., El Paso, was transacting business in Pampa Saturday.

Frank Lard made a business trip to LeFors Friday.

Biggest Airship Back at Home

CARDINGTON, Eng., Aug. 16. (AP)—The R-100, largest airship in the world, tonight swung in her home berth after successfully completing a 57-hour crossing of the Atlantic ocean from Canada.

The airship arrived over Cardington airport at 10:40 a. m. today (4:20 a. m. EST), and was safely moored one hour and 20 minutes later.

Eighteen days ago the great craft left for St. Hubert airport, Montreal. The outward crossing was made without incident except for a tear in one of the fins. After 13 days in Canada the R-100 started for home and made excellent time until she reached the mid-Atlantic.

There she encountered heavy wind and rain which slowed the speed at one time to 15 miles an hour, but later the weather cleared and the big ship, with a tall wind boosting her along, sped over the ocean at 92 miles an hour. The delay was enough to spoil the hope of a record crossing but the time was considered good at that.

The dirigible left Montreal at 8:28 p. m. EST, Wednesday night and completed the 3,287 mile crossing in 57 hours, 12 minutes of flying time as shown by the log.

PAMPA DAILY NEWS

GULF GUNS, PANHANDLE CHAMPS, AND PHILLIPS PLAY TODAY

SECOND GAME HERE WILL BE HARD FOUGHT

Phillips' sixty-six men will take another crack at the Pampa Guns this afternoon at Gulf park three miles south of Pampa—if it doesn't rain. The game will start promptly at 3:30. The two teams are rated as being about equal.

The Guns had a game matched with the Gulf Dial team at Borger this afternoon, but cancelled it when local fans who have not seen the Guns in action since they won the tournament, petitioned them to play here today. It will be the first Sunday game the Guns have played here in six weeks. The team is expecting a hard game and a big crowd. As the tilt was arranged especially for those who supported the Guns at the Amarillo and Denver tournaments, the Gullsmen are determined not to disappoint the fans this afternoon. "We hope to play the game that fans have been wanting to see all season," Manager Edelen said.

A game scheduled to be played between the two clubs last Sunday was rained out, but the teams met Wednesday afternoon at Gulf park in a seven-inning affair which was finally won by the Guns, 5 to 4. The tilt turned out to be a thriller in the last inning when the Guns made all of their five runs after the Phillips third baseman threw wild twice. Three of the runs were made on errors.

Until the last inning, the Gun batters were at the mercy of L. Marcum, Phillips pitcher. The Gun fielders, also failed to function and allowed two runs on errors. A good crowd witnessed the game which was one of the best seen here this year. Both teams have promised to stage a real thriller this afternoon.

The line-ups, subject to change for this afternoon, were announced as follows:

Guns—Roberts 2b, Wilson cf, Hickey rf, Phillips ss, Weathered M, Sullivan c, Cox 1b, Williamson 3b, Coop p.

Phillips—Lawrence 2b, Cahill lf, Baccus ss, Magnus rf, Chandler 1b, Beeson cf, C. Marcum 3b, Pullman c, and L. Marcum.

Magnus was formerly a member of the Gulf squad while Chandler played with the Amarillo Cats during the recent Amarillo tournament which was won by the Guns. Every one of the Guns who won the final game in the tourney will play this afternoon with the exception of the pitcher. Manager Edelen of the Guns has always contended that Lefty Coop was the best southpaw of his pitching staff. Haddock of the Dial team, Borger, will be over this afternoon, ready to hurl if the Phillips stickmen hit too freely.

Lipton in New York
NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (AP)—Out of a fog as thick as those that traditionally cloak his native British Isles, Doughty Sir Thomas Lipton sailed into New York harbor today on his fifth quest of the America's cup, historic emblem of international yachting supremacy.

Tony Manero Leads In Golf

ST. PAUL, Aug. 11. (AP)—Two par fracturing rounds of golf today sent Tony Manero, wiry, Italian professional, of New York one shot ahead of a closely bunched field in the 72-hole rush for gold and fame in St. Paul's $10,000 open championship over the wind-blown Keeler course.

Wind that stopped most of the leaders, Manero today circled the course in 70 strokes, which added to his smart 69 of yesterday, gave him a great total of 139, five strokes under par for the 36-hole stretch. An eagle three on the 516-yard 12th was the bright spot on Manero's bright card today. A 30-yard pitch shot that sailed right into the cup was responsible for the piece of luck.

One shot behind him as the result of the best round of the day's play came "Stimpy" Rose, young Chicago professional. Rose toured the course today in 68 strokes, four under perfect figures, for a 140 total.

GIANTS GAIN HALF POINT ON ROBIN FLOCK

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16. (AP)—The New York Giants cleaned up their final series in Cincinnati today by defeating the Reds in both games of a double header, 9 to 1 and 4 to 2. The double victory enabled the Giants to gain a half game on the Brooklyn Robins, who divided their twin bill with Pittsburgh, and placed them only one game behind the second place club. The first game was settled in the opening inning when eleven men went to bat, eight of them hit and seven scored.

The second game was a close struggle between Jim Chaplin and Benny Frey.

Harvesters Called to Meet For Conference About Camp, Which Is To Open Wednesday Near LeFors

Brooklyn Robins failed to gain at Pittsburgh's expense in the National league pennant struggle as they divided the double header which opened their series here today. Brooklyn won the first game, 7 to 5, but the Pirates reversed the decision in the second by a 6 to 2 count.

The wildness of Charley "Spades" Wood, recruit left hander, kept the Robins in trouble all through the first game. Hollis Thurston opened Ray Kremer in the second game and gave eight hits in the six innings he worked while the Robins were unable to solve the Pirate hurler's delivery until the ninth.

Panthers Finally Win
PORT WORTH, Aug. 16. (AP)—

Interest In Horse Show Grows As Additional Entries are Announced

Thirty-one horses have already been entered in the horse show which will be held here Sept. 1, according to John F. Studer, chairman. Ten of these entries are from Amarillo and 21 are from Pampa and Panhandle.

The show is being sponsored by the American Legion and Commander Paul D. Hill requests every person in the county owning a good horse or mare to enter it, at once. A special effort will be made to have a large number of entries in the children's riding class. In this class the horse is not judged as the three best riders between the ages of 10 and 15 will be selected. The Legion is planning to make the horse show one of the social events of the season.

Exceptional horsemanship will be demonstrated in the opening event. This is the relay race in which nine have already entered. A potato race will follow. In this the riders will race a quarter of a mile to a bucket for a potato.

In the third event, the jumping class, each horse will jump four hurdles and will be judged on their performance. Six hunters have already been entered in this event. Any information regarding the show may be secured from John Studer or Mr. Hill.

After suffering three losses at the hands of the Houston Buffs, the Fort Worth Panthers returned to their winning ways to trounce San Antonio 11 to 1 in the series opener here today. Lil Stoner, hurling for the Cats held the Indians well in hand, allowing only seven hits.

IT'S WISE TO CHOOSE A SIX

Announcing a new production record

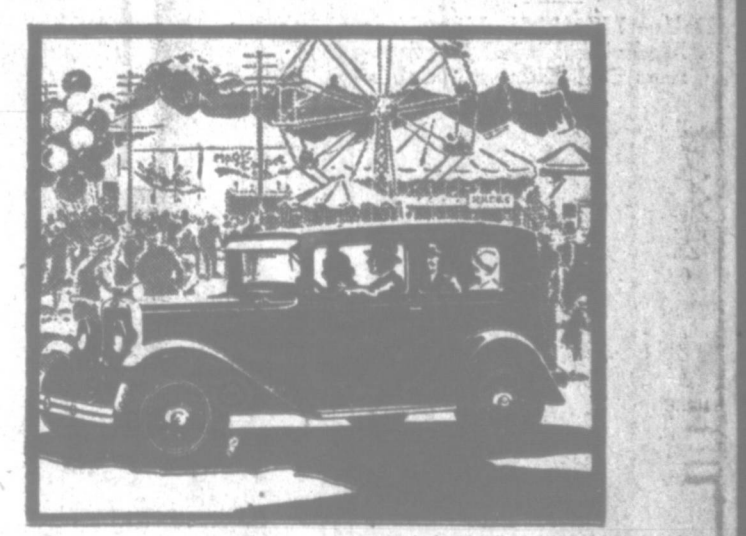

2,000,000 Chevrolet Sixes now on the road

Since January, 1927, Chevrolet has produced and sold over 2,000,000 six-cylinder automobiles—nearly five times as many as any other manufacturer has ever built in an equal length of time.

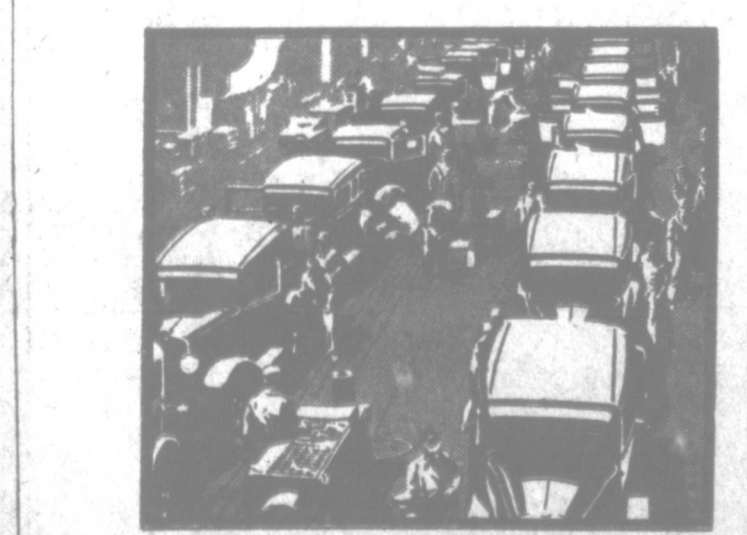

These 2,000,000 buyers have chosen Chevrolet because it offers many desirable qualities not obtainable in any other car so low in price—

—the smoothness, silence and flexibility of a modern six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—the greater comfort and roadability of a modern, full-length chassis—and the style, safety and distinction of bodies by Fisher.

Yet, despite these fine car advantages, the Chevrolet Six is unusually economical. Its gas, oil,

Many Laughs in Oakie Picture

Jack Oakie, Paramount's sure-bet laugh-maker, will be seen and heard today at the Rex theatre in his first starring vehicle, "The Social Lion."

The picture is based upon the Octavius Roy Cohen story, "Marco Himself."

It is the hilariously funny story of a young garage mechanic and would-be pugilist who gets a place on a ricky country club's Polo team because he is the town's most proficient mallet-wielder, having learned polo when he was serving an enlistment in the army.

But his hobnobbing with the "400" of the town gives him high ideas and he tries to crash into the "inner circle" by means of the entire he has gained through his polo-playing. This provides a number of very amusing situations and rib-roking dialog.

The finale is a happy one, for our hero finally realizes that the plain little girl and the plain life are the girl and the life for him.

Jack Oakie, of course, is the pugilist-polit social lion aspirant. He never had a fummier role. Skeets Gallagher is the partner and pal of Oakie; Mary Brian is the plain little girl, and Olive Borden is the ritzy daughter of society who tries to make a sap out of Jack, but fails.

Others in the excellent supporting cast are Charles Sellon, Cyril Ring, E. H. Calvert, James Gibson, William Bechtel, Henry Roquemore, Richard Cummings, and Jack Byron.

General Electric Equipment Placed in Apartments Here

The first apartment house in Pampa to be equipped with General Electric refrigerators is the Wild Apartments, 412 North Somerville, it was announced by E. T. Wood, General Electric salesman with the Macion Furniture company, Saturday.

Ten General Electric refrigerators of the model S-42 are being installed in the Wild Apartments. The model S-42 is a type that is particularly made for apartment houses and has been installed in many of the apartment houses in the principal cities of the United States.

Pampa has high rank in General Electric sales in the state, Mr. Wood being in fifth place as salesman for the General Electric refrigerators in the state of Texas.

Dallas Man Tells How New Medicine Ended Nervousness and Kidney Trouble.

MR. ANDREW LORTON

"My system was in a very rundown condition due to nervousness and kidney trouble," said Mr. Andrew Lorton, 2420 1-2 Elm street, Dallas. "My nerves were in such a condition that I could not sleep at night. My kidneys were very weak and I had dull pains across my back. I was forced to rise several times a night."

"A friend urged me to take Konjola. I am thankful I took his advice because Konjola drove all pains from my back. I feel much better and am entirely out of misery, which I had for the past year. Konjola put my kidneys in a healthy condition and they are functioning properly. I am only too glad to praise this famed Konjola to other people who suffer as I did."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such hazardous ingredients /its seeming wonders to perform.

Konjola is sold in Pampa at City drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Markets

Grain Is Weaker

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Corn traders fizzled in attempts made today to hoist the corn market regardless of moisture downpours in various parts of the drought region. Furthermore, something of a rout for friends of higher prices followed an official forecast indicating that corn belt weather next week promised to be damp and rather warm, conditions helpful to the crop damage was not irreparable. Wheat followed the setbacks of corn values, and also was influenced by bullish reports of fiction between the Canadian growers pool and the Canadian banks.

Closing quotations on corn were nervous 1-2 cents a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Wheat closed 1 5/8-2 1/4 cents down, oats 1/2-7/8 cents off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents decline.

Lowest prices of the day in the corn market and in wheat as well were reached just before the close. The bottom level for corn was 2 5/8 cents under the top point registered early during an aggressive buying movement which believers in high prices undertook upon finding that sellers were scarce during declines that resulted from news of rain in sections of Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Missouri and Illinois. On the other hand selling became much increased volume when prices bulged.

Penney Sales of Year Go Beyond Hundred Million

Sales of the J. C. Penney company reached the $100,000,000 mark before August, for the first time in the history of the company, according to a sales report just issued.

Gross sales for the seven months, ending July 31, were $100,059,648.37, as compared with gross sales for the same period last year of $97,642,705.58. The gain is $2,416,942.79, equivalent to 2.46 per cent.

Sales for July, 1930, were $13,602,419.10, as compared with sales for the same period a of last year, of $14,566,471.88, showing a comparative loss for the month of $964,052.78, equivalent to 6.62 per cent. Adv.

Jim Dandy Is Derby Victor In Great Sensation

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—In the most sensational upset the turf has witnessed since the days of Man O'War, Earl's Jim Dandy, a 100 to 1 shot, galloped through the mud today to administer a sound beating to the twin contenders for three-year-old championship honors, the previously undefeated Gallant Fox, winner of six consecutive races, and the almost equally famous Whicohone.

While a crowd of 40,000 spectators, including Governor Roosevelt, stood stunned by the astonishing spectacle, the California owned three-year-old, smartly ridden by Jockey F. Baker, whipped the Fox and Earl Sande by six good lengths and Whicohone and Sonny Workman by twelve lengths in the Travers stakes.

DANCING JUDITH by CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN. COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH GRANT, artist's model loves ALAN STEYNE, painter, who is also loved by CHUMMY MORLEY, Judith's best friend. Chummy had loved Steyne years ago, and had lost her memory when he went away; so, although Steyne loves Judith, Judith insists it is his duty to marry Chummy, whose memory comes back when she sees him again. Judith studies dancing and makes a sensation in a musical show backed by RICHARD WYON, Chummy, on the eve of her marriage, learns that Judith and Steyne love each other and breaks her engagement; but Judith refuses to marry Steyne, insisting he belongs to Chummy. Then Judith learns that Wyon is really the gent for rich BRUCE GIDEON, a financier who has been pursuing her with his attentions for some time. She goes to Gideon's house and reproaches him for his deceit, telling him that the whole city now thinks she is his property.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIV

Judy struggled with swelling tears that she would rather die than shed. Gideon allowed a moment to elapse. Then he said, without looking at her: "All the same, you must admit I have had the honor and the good fortune to give a great dancer to the world."

"That you haven't!" Judy's voice sounded as if her frail body were about to burst with rage. The rich man smiled with tolerance. "You cannot pretend that you can't dance. That would be rather too much of a joke!"

"I don't pretend anything," she flashed, "but I'll tell you one thing—I'm never going to dance again. Not likely—after this!"

It was useless for Gideon to argue or plead. Judy was adamant. She would give up her career as a dancer rather than owe anything to him. He had cheated her; he had behaved like a cad. She would cancel her contract with Matthew Tannary and return to her model work. She flung herself out of Gideon's apartment, and went at once to see Matthew Tannary.

He was a little, dark, bullet-headed Scotsman, with an iron-gray mustache. He was a man of few words, and his eyes were very keen, but "I couldn't quite say, but I can easily find out. I should think it might take ye about six months—living very carefully yourself in the meanwhile. He spent a ton of money, there's no doubting that."

"I'll do it," she said. "Thanks, Mr. Tannary, for the idea. I hadn't thought of it. I'll do it! I'll make all the money I can, and when I pay Mr. Gideon back I'll advertise in all the papers that I've done it—that the girl he cheated and lied to doesn't owe him a cent, and that she paid it back all on her own, by her own work. Nobody can think any the less of me for that. All the world shall know how he cheated me!"

Tannary gave her another grim little smile. "Miss Grant, ye'd be making a bad enemy."

"I dare say," she answered; "but I've never cheated anybody in my life. He deserves it. I said nobody could think the less of me; but, you see, I shall always think less of myself. I've been deceived—very badly deceived, Mr. Tannary; and Mr. Gideon is going to pay for that!"

In her face was the violent purity which, with her loyalty, was the very basis of her nature. The hard-headed little Scotsman apprehended sometimes they twinkled with fun. He listened to all that she had to say. Then he kept silent for a few moments, while he regarded her with a certain friendly admiration at which even, fiery little Judy could not take offense. What he finally said was very characteristic. "I wonder why Wyon couldn't have kept his counsel better!"

This made Judy wild with anger. "That's not the point, Mr. Tannary!" she cried. "I've been shamefully deceived, and I won't stand it! Nothing would have induced me to appear at the Monopole if I'd known that Mr. Gideon was paying for everything. Nothing would have induced me to sign this contract with you."

"Why is that, Miss Grant?" "Don't you see?" she asked impatiently. "I owe all my success to him, and I just won't have it!" "Ye can't throw your success away," he said dryly. "I can stop dancing."

"Then ye mean to break your contract with me?" "Yes—of course I do."

"Ye can't do that, Miss Grant. The law will bind ye; and I've spent a good deal on advertising ye and all that kind of thing."

"I'll pay you back. I've got plenty of money."

"It must be enough. You can't have spent such an awful lot."

"Ye'll lose me a ton of money. Ye were going to set the place on fire. The Swedish people will be at me like blazes. Ye can't do it, Miss Grant!"

"I'm going to."

He regarded her with a grim little smile. "Why wouldn't ye be keeping to your contract and going on dancing and making more money, and then paying Mr. Gideon back all he spent on ye, Miss Grant?"

Judy stared at him. The idea had not occurred to her. There was something in it, too. "How soon could I do it?" she asked.

"I couldn't quite say, but I can easily find out. I should think it might take ye about six months—living very carefully yourself in the meanwhile. He spent a ton of money, there's no doubting that."

"I'll do it," she said. "Thanks, Mr. Tannary, for the idea. I hadn't thought of it. I'll do it! I'll make all the money I can, and when I pay Mr. Gideon back I'll advertise in all the papers that I've done it—that the girl he cheated and lied to doesn't owe him a cent, and that she paid it back all on her own, by her own work. Nobody can think any the less of me for that. All the world shall know how he cheated me!"

Tannary gave her another grim little smile. "Miss Grant, ye'd be making a bad enemy."

"I dare say," she answered; "but I've never cheated anybody in my life. He deserves it. I said nobody could think the less of me; but, you see, I shall always think less of myself. I've been deceived—very badly deceived, Mr. Tannary; and Mr. Gideon is going to pay for that!"

Neighborly SERVICE

The cold impersonality often associated with business has no place in the Pampa National bank. Here, you will find the officers to be experienced and authoritative financial counselors, and at the same time neighbors who have your individual interests at heart.

came to her, just as definite. In some way she had so to order her life that Alan Steyne must know that she could never have any part in his. How to do this better than by resuming her friendship with Mr. Punch? It would get to Alan's ears however far off he was—she was sure of that. He would despise her. He would think that what had been said about her was true. Well, all the better! That was what she wanted.

Then, on the top of this thought, came still another. The purpose that had been lying dormant stirred again—that curious plan born out of the vision of a beautiful girl and a dissipated-looking man in a big motor car; or born, more strictly speaking, in Vincent Stornaway's studio, as she sat on the bearskin behind a screen. Those hateful words sounded again in her ears: "Not the sort of girl one could marry. If one did marry, it wouldn't be a little Judy Grant!"

So, instead of cutting Bruce Gideon dead, she smiled at him. "I hear you are going to Paris after all, Miss Judy," he said. "Yes, I changed my mind," Judy said.

"I am more than glad," he answered very politely. "You may walk with me to my diggings," she said. "I'll tell you all about it. I'm going to pay you back."

"I have been paid back," he replied. "Wyon and I went through everything yesterday." "Oh, no—there's a lot more to come!" "As you like," he said. "Anything, as long as you don't punish the world at large for what I did."

"Rubbish! The world could do without me well enough; but I decided I was a fool. I was mad when I saw you. Guarventus would have wanted me to go on."

They reached her lodging. "When can I see you?" he asked. "Couldn't you arrange to give me an hour or so? Won't you lunch with me tomorrow?"

"I might if I had the time. I can't say."

"I'll be at the Mayfair at half past one. Don't disappoint me, Miss Judy."

She hardly answered him, and ran up the stairs. She was struggling with many emotions. To begin with, she was not overpleased with herself. Though the object was laudable, the carrying out of it was repugnant in the extreme. She hated Gideon's flabby face, his ridge of black hair, his huge nose, and his pale, covetous eyes. She had not brains enough to appreciate his remarkable knowledge and dominant personality. Her most definite feeling about him was repulsion.

It was June again in New York—a peerless, golden June, with blue, translucent days, and crimson-and-purple sunsets, and long lavender-gray twilight slipping into short fairly night of sapphire satin and silvery moonshine. It was New York at its very best. The doors of the Cafe Turc were swung wide open to the street. Dan sat on the steps, and played his guitar and sang his songs for the world to hear.

Inside, it was a reek of smoke and coffee and stock pot and wine dregs, as usual; and the usual crowd were there.

Bastien Dumont and Michael Stone sat at the table under the dead master's sketch of Clarissa Morley, with its faded laurel wreath and rusty crepe bow. Bastien was fulfilling himself. He need no longer go without food or necessity, although he still did so quite often from habit. He had the indefinable air of the man who is arriving.

A man's work improves with recognition and success as it does by the very fact of working. It is the man who has no work to do who works badly. Bastien's big canvas at the Belvoir Galleries, "Sewer Men at Breakfast," was making the whole city talk.

"Judy is back," said Michael Stone stirring his iced coffee in the long glass. "Yes," replied Dumont, in the depths of gloom. "So I hear."

"She's been at Monte Carlo and Nice, and all over Italy. Now she's back here for a week or two; and then she's going to Sweden and Norway and Denmark."

"Yes, I know."

"Wherever she's been, this chap Gideon's been there. He's her shadow."

"So I've heard."

"They say he's going to marry her."

"How can he?" Dumont's voice burst from his anguished heart. "He's engaged to some society girl."

"No—that's off. Stornaway told me. I met him at the Belvoir yesterday, absolutely green with envy in front of your 'Sewer Men.'"

"His engagement broken off! You are sure?"

"So Stornaway says, and he ought to know."

"Judy—marry—him!" "I shouldn't think it likely myself," said Michael, and his rugged face grew chivalrously tender. "What a little sport she was! What a spirit she had! Always merry and bright, with great holes in the soles of her shoes on a dreaching night! Always fussing around Clarissa Morley like a hen! And now—now she's the greatest dancer the world has ever known."

"By Jove! Dumont, do you remember her first night? And even more than that, the night in Steyne's studio when she danced for us and you fiddled for her? That reminds me—I meant to ask you, do you think Steyne and Clarissa have made it up?"

"What makes you ask?" said Dumont.

BUILDING BUILDERS are of noble lineage. They descend, through the centuries, from makers of the Egyptian pyramids and the Indian mounds, the Grecian Acropolis and Roman Forum, the Rheims cathedral and the St. Sophia mosque, to makers of the Manhattan skyscraper. Their craft is firmly rooted in tradition. They fashion the world's humble dwellings and magnificent palaces, the shrines and the amphitheatres. With complete mastery of their tools, they follow the creative urge that has been passed on from generation to generation, from race to race. They breathe form into matter. They crystalize dreams. Builders are the hands of humanity. Whether it is a magnificent business house, office building, mansion, small dwelling or remodeling job you have in mind any Pampa lumberman will cooperate with you to the end that your hopes may become realities. Payne to Explain To Children Why He Killed Wife STINNETT, Aug. 16. (P)—A. D. Payne, confessed murderer of his wife, is preparing a letter explaining to his three children why and how he committed the crime.

Mrs. Payne was killed in Amarillo recently by the explosion of a bomb in her automobile. A son was maimed.

Payne denied today he was preparing an "address to the jury." He said he had talked with half a dozen lawyers, and none had agreed to "be dictated to" in entering a plea of guilt for him.

He expects to be held here until Aug. 25 when the Amarillo grand jury convenes.

Speaks For Sterling
AUSTIN, Aug. 16. (P)—T. W. Davidson, former lieutenant governor, spoke here tonight in behalf of Ross S. Sterling for governor, painting a picture of the life of Sterling as reflected in his humanities.

He began with a thundering denunciation of James E. Ferguson, for his acts as advisor to his wife and attorney for railroads and others. Davidson also forecast that, should Mrs. Ferguson be nominated, another great Republican fight would be staged in this state in November.

As to Sterling, Davidson declared Sterling "is the poor man's friend." "If he is rich he made the money himself," he said. "He got it honestly and uses it charitably."

Texas Elf Carbon Company Camp Is Pleasing Sight—Flowers Give Color in Otherwise Barren Area

BY ARCHER FULLINGIM
Situated on the banks of a canyon "where the breaks begin," seven miles southeast of Pampa is the Texas Elf Carbon company camp, now a colorful oasis in a drought-stricken desert and that canyon may well be called a desert in August.

Rising out of the bare brown hills there is a little street, three blocks long, flanked by vine-clad cottages, flower filled yards and green lawns. When the plant was built two years ago, the Cabot company which owns the establishment instituted the yard contest which is held every year in August. An expensive prize is given to the housewife who has the prettiest yard. Judges declare that the yards are more beautiful this year than ever before.

The contests were held at the four Cabot plants at Kingsmill, Skellytown, Slinnett and the Texas Elf. The prize was a $67 wrist watch given to each winner.

Names of the various winners follow: Mrs. E. R. Holloway, Texas Elf; Mrs. Ervin Fleming, Kingsmill; and Mrs. D. F. White, Slinnett. The yards have not been judged at Skellytown yet, due to a shortage in water during the last three weeks. With plenty of water, residents hope to bring their yards back to their usual beauty in two or three weeks.

Those who were given honorable mention are as follows: Texas Elf, Mrs. A. D. Hastings, Mrs. Chas. Mullican, Mrs. E. L. Hill, Mrs. O. E. Kleplinger; Kingsmill, Mrs. John Pascock, Mrs. J. W. Mooneyham, Mrs. Ted Carter and Mrs. W. A. Walker; Slinnett, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. George Youkum, Mrs. Henry Link, Mrs. Hal Talley, Mrs. H. Taylor. The Slinnett camp was adjudged to be the loveliest of the three competing. Oscar Dial, public relations director of the Cabot company plants, kept the competition spirit growing throughout the summer, and aroused enthusiasm for beautiful yards among the residents.

Ralph E. Thomas, Gray county agent, judged the yards. He awarded his decisions chiefly on the basis of arrangement of flowers, condition of the lawn and the quantity and vigor of the flowers.

While admitting that other yards in the Texas Elf camp had more lovely flowers and prettier vines than he found in Mrs. Holloway's yard, the latter was arranged with an artistic precision which gave a balance and beauty to the yard that was lacking in the others. In explaining why Mrs. Holloway's lawn was given first place, Mr. Thomas said, "the yard had a background, beginning at the rear of the house. All the flowers were not crowded in front. The space allotted to the lawn was ample. The flowers were grouped in a pattern around the porch, in another pattern in the center of the lawn and on the side of the lawn. A vegetable garden is in the back yard."

The flowers are zinnias, California poppies, petunias, cantebury bells, nasturtiums and four o'clocks. A morning glory vine on the front porch is trained on a lattice which leaves a diamond-shaped opening. The zinnia is the favorite flower in the Texas Elf camp. Phlox and morning glory vines are next in favor. The zinnias are everywhere. There is a bed in the yard of every house and they border most all of the walks. These zinnias are not monotonous reds either, but of every color.

The Hastings yard is a mass of flowers and the front porch is completely covered with morning glories. The flowers are castor beans, zinnias, petunias, marigolds. The Hill yard is like a garden and it is well-arranged. It also contains zinnias, cosmos, four o'clocks, marigolds, pinks and vines covering lattices set up at various places in the yard.

In this yard we saw our first bachelor buttons in years. The flower beds are well-shaped and contain many varieties of blossoms. The Kleplinger yard pleased the writer more than any of the others because he is inclined to be impressed by quality and quantity of flowers than by arrangement. However, the arrangement of the Kleplinger yard was satisfying. It has one of the loveliest flower beds in the camp. This is a circle of blossoming periwinkles at the base of an elm tree. The writer has never seen such phlox as Mrs. Kleplinger has bordering the walk from porch to sidewalk. The morning glory vine covering the porch is tastefully arranged. Other flowers are cosmos, zinnias, marigold and other garden flowers. There is a flower bed at the front and one on forces opposed to the Pampa-Childress line.

Throughout the campaign, the Pampa B. C. D. affirmed its satisfaction with the excellent Santa Fe lines, but maintained that they were built for east-west service and therefore not adequate for a north-south standpoint.

When Pampa Daily News "extras," numbering many hundreds, made their appearance on the streets, Pampa citizens left their tasks and made whoopee over the rail victory. A number of jubilant citizens boarded a fire truck and drove over the city. Many offices were closed Saturday afternoon, and red hot politics went on the shelf while every group talked about the railroad decision.

Meaning of Decision
Business felt the stimulus at once, and it was confidentially revealed that several substantial structures would be launched in the near future. The new road will give Pampa further status as a wholesale point. Better rail service will encourage industrial expansion, agricultural development, and population increase.

The cities of Pampa, Shamrock, Wellington, and Childress are expected to become populous and important cities along the route of the Upper Panhandle's first north-south railroad.

Those backing the Burlington project never opposed the Rock Island's proposal, but in fact en-each side of the house extending to the rear. The lawn is of grass.

Mrs. Mullican's yard is unique for the hedge of cottonwood trees, which screens it from street-view. She has many blooming flowers—cosmos, four o'clocks, petunias, and phlox. On the east side of the house is a gorgeous zinnia bed.

couraged it with the provision that both roads be favored and joint trackage provided from Wellington to Shamrock. Pampa in her position found it unnecessary to fear the ill will of other cities.

Pampa business men achieved a master stroke when they secured the signature of the Texas Railroad Commission to a petition urging approval of all the projects. The honor roll of Pampa citizens who worked on the project would be surprisingly large, and it is impossible to give a complete list at this time.

After the certificate of public necessity and convenience is officially issued, negotiations relating to securing of right-of-way will be opened, and in this, of course, the Pampa B. C. D. will lend assistance.

PRaise FOR PAMPA
The gratitude of the Fort Worth & Denver railroad for the assistance of the Pampa Board of City Development and citizens was expressed in the following telegram from Judge J. H. Barwise of Fort Worth, general counsel, to Chas. C. Cook:

"All of our officials are greatly appreciative of the great help our Pampa friends gave us in our fight for the permit for construction of our through north and south line of railroad into Pampa.

"This assistance was one of the biggest factors in our favor in this case. It will be our purpose to build such a good railroad and give such good service into Pampa as to merit the friendly help and cooperation of the Pampa territory."
