WASHINGTON—Another election possibility has smitten Washington with both delight and consternation the former emotion being that of the wets and the latter that of the dries.

The possibility is that in the next Congress the three congressional districts which surround the District of Columbia will each have a wet representative in the House.

Of course that would not be any body blow to prohibition, but it would not look very nice. The high prohibition enforcement officials of the nation and the chiefs of the big dry organizations here simply wouldn't be able to leave Washington without riding through or passing over wet territory, and the psychological effect of that might come to have an unfortunate influence.

The eighth Virginia district, one of the three, is the home congressional district of the late George Washington. The other two are the fifth and sixth Maryland.

Washington is always interested in these nearby counties. Thousands of folks who work here live in the counties adjacent. Most other Washingtonians either have summer shacks in the three bordering congressional districts or spend their Sundays on motor jaunts over Maryland and Virginia roads and get to know the country as well as the streets of this city.

The fifth Maryland district, which includes Montgomery, St. Mary's, Prince Georges and Anne Arundel counties, will be represented by a wet in any event. That seems appropriate. St. Mary's county produces the famous product known as "S. M. R." The initials stand for "St. Mary's rye" or "Southern Maryland rye," as you will. When a good citizen goes to jail in St. Mary's county he is allowed out during the day, but forced to come in at night. If he happens to be a newly-married man who is still in love with his wife he is given the option of spending his days in jail and nights at home.

Anyway, that district is now represented by Congressman Stephen W. Gambrill, and his opponent for November, A. K. Love—the Republican leader of St. Mary's county—recently joined Gambrill in the wet ranks.

Congressman Frederick N. Zihlman of the sixth Maryland is a dry, and he will be opposed in November by former Congressman David J. Lewis, one-time member of the tariff commission, who used to be a dry, but lately announced his conviction that prohibition was a failure and must either be thoroughly revamped or abandoned.

One hears that Zihlman may reconsider his views on prohibition, too, but in any event Lewis will be giving him a strong contest in the fall campaign. His district includes Montgomery and Frederick counties.

In the eighth Virginia, bordering the capital on the south, with Arlington and Fairfax counties nearest, two dries and three wets are running for the Democratic nomination, which ordinarily is equivalent to election. The large supply of wet candidates is at least indicative of the fact that some persons see an increase of wet sentiment. They are all after the seat of Congressman R. Walton Moore, who is retiring voluntarily.

Judge Howard W. Smith and State Senator Frank L. Ball are the dry candidates. Thomas R. Keith, prominent Fairfax lawyer, and Crandall Mackey and E. H. Dejarnette are the wets.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General topic—Hannah, A Godly Mother.

Scripture lesson—1 Sam. 1:9-18, 24-28; 2:19.

1 Sam. 1:9. So Hannah rose up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk. Now Eli the priest was sitting upon his seat by the door-post of the temple of Jehovah.

10. And she was in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto Jehovah, and wept sore.

11. And she vowed a vow, and said, O Jehovah of hosts, if Thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of Thy handmaid, and remember me, and not forget Thy handmaid, but wilt give unto Thy handmaid a man-child, then I will give him unto Jehovah all the days of his life, and there shall no razor come upon his head.

12. And it came to pass, as she continued praying before Jehovah, that Eli marked her mouth.

13. Now Hannah she spake in her heart; only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard; therefore Eli thought she had been drunken.

14. And Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee.

15. And Hannah answered and said, No, my lord, I am a woman of a sorrowful spirit; I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink, but I have poured out my soul before Jehovah.

16. Count not thy handmaid for a wicked woman; for out of the abundance of my complaint, and my provocation have I spoken hither to.

17. Then Eli answered and said, Go in peace, and the God of Israel grant thy petition that thou hast asked of Him.

18. And she said, Let thy handmaid find favor in thy sight. So the woman went her way, and did eat; and her countenance was no more sad.

19. And when she had weaned him, she took him up with her, with three bullocks and one ephah of meal, and a bottle of wine, and brought him unto the house of Jehovah in Shiloh; and the child was young.

20. And they slew the bullock, and brought the child to Eli.

21. And she said, Oh, my lord, as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto Jehovah.

22. For this child I prayed; and Jehovah hath given me my petition which I asked of Him.

23. Therefore also I have granted him to Jehovah; as long as he liveth he is granted to Jehovah. And he worshipped Jehovah there.

24. And he worshipped Jehovah there. 1 Sam. 2:19. Moreover his mother made him a little robe, and brought it to him from year to year, when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice.

Golden Text—My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother.—Prov. 1:8.

Time—Earth of Samuel, B. C. 1171. Call of Samuel, B. C. 1160.

Place—Ramah, Samuel's birthplace. Shiloh, the location of the tabernacle. Both were in Ephraim, in central Palestine, the Samaria of Christ's day.

Introduction—Samuel stands next to Moses in the early history of Israel. He has been well called the second founder of the Jewish nation. He was the last and greatest of the judges and the first of the great Hebrew prophets after Moses. The subject of our lesson, Hannah, is the mother of this majestic historical character.

Samuel was born, lived, and was buried in the town of Ramah, which means "height." In a hilly region, such as was Palestine, this was a common name, and this Ramah is distinguished from others by adding "in the land of Zuph," but we do not know the boundaries of that district. The father of Samuel was Elkanah, a member of the tribe of Levites who had charge of the tabernacle and assisted in the sacrifices. Polygamy was common in that day, the custom having come down from the great leaders of the Jewish race. It was an evil custom, resulting in many sorrows, and especially in family dissensions such as were illustrated in the household of Elkanah; for he had two wives, one of whom, Hannah, was his favorite, but she had no children, while the other, Peninnah, who had children, that greatest of all blessings in the eyes of Hebrew women, took every opportunity to taunt Hannah with her childlessness, the more so Elkanah was unwise enough to show his preference in unmistakable fashion. When Peninnah was especially bitter in these attacks Elkanah strove to comfort the weeping Hannah, asking her, "Why is thy heart grieved? Am I not better to thee than ten sons?" But the hurt still rankled in Hannah's heart.

Family At Shiloh
The matter came to a climax on one of the annual visits to the sanctuary at Shiloh, where the ark and the tabernacle were at this time. Elkanah went thither to sacrifice, taking his wives and children with him. "According to early Hebrew custom, after Jehovah's portion of the sacrifice had been burned on the altar, and the priests had received their share, the worshippers, if of one family, used the flesh of the victim to provide a family meal within the sanctuary precincts." At this meal Elkanah honored Hannah by giving her twice as large a portion as he gave to any one else which provoked Peninnah to such a furious tirade that Hannah wept bitterly and could not eat. It was a thanksgiving feast, but she felt in her heart nothing but sorrow. Prayer in God's House

"So Hannah rose up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk." She had no heart for the festivity, and left the feast as soon as she could, that she might go by herself into the sanctuary and lay her burden before God. "Now Eli the priest." He was the high priest, though descended from the younger son of Aaron and not the elder, probably his great ability and profound piety made his selection for the post inevitable. "Was sitting upon his seat by the door-post of the temple of Jehovah." Eli was judge as well as high priest, and sat on his throne of office in the porch or entrance of the tabernacle court, to judge the cases brought before him by the people.

"And she was in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto Jehovah, and wept sore." Her prayer was earnest; it came from the depth of her soul. Many of our prayers come only from the surface of our lives, and their shallowness deserves no reply from God. We are not heard for our "much speaking," but we are heard for our fervent speaking.

The Consecration
"Aid when she had weaned him." Weaning in modern Palestine is sometimes postponed to the age of five or six years, and this may have been the case with Samuel, as he seems (1 Sam. 2:11) to have helped Eli as soon as he went to Shiloh. "She took him up with her." It must have been a sad journey for the loving mother, knowing that it was to be her last journey with her boy; but she did not falter in keeping her vow. "And brought the child to Eli, and she said, Oh, my Lord, as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto Jehovah."

"For this child I prayed; and Jehovah hath given me my petition which I asked of Him." Like Xianah, let us keep a reckoning of our prayers. Let us note how many are answered. "Therefore also I have granted him to Jehovah." We shall rise to Hannah's height if we dedicate to God's service all that God gives us; thus we most effectively put it to our own use. "As long as he liveth he is granted to Jehovah." Often men are willing to give the Lord some transient use of what He gives them; but they must have it back again, and soon.

Such giving to the Lord returns no blessing to us, but only the giving that is complete and forever. "And he worshipped Jehovah there."
Thy Servant Heareth
There is no lovelier scene in the entire Bible than the call of God to the blind Samuel. We see the darkened tabernacle, and the young boy lying near the half-blind old priest, ready to answer Eli's faint call, taking the place which Hphai and Phinehas should have taken. We hear the thrice-repeated call of Jehovah and Samuel's quick response. We honor Eli for his willing perception of the fact that Samuel now has the close touch with God that once was his own. And we rejoice in the lad's prompt response to God, "Speak, for Thy servant heareth."

"Our Mothers' Lot"
An anonymous writer thus pictures "Our Mothers' Lot."
"She has stood by father from the day she married him, helping to fight the wolf from the door with her naked hands, as a mother must fight."
"She worked not the eight, or ten-hour day of the union, but the twenty-four hours of the poor wife and mother."
"She cooked and cleaned and scrubbed and patched and nursed from dawn until bedtime, and in the night was up and down getting drinks for thirty lips, covering restless little sleepers and listening for croupy coughs."
"She did without the dress she needed that you might not be ashamed of your clothes before your fellows."
"Remember this now while there is time, while she is living, to pay back the debt you owe her. You can never pay it all; but pay down something out of account. Pay today. If your mother lives and is near enough, visit her. If she lives, but far away, write her a love letter if she does not live, think of her, and desires and sacrifices for you. Stop and think, whether mother is living or dead, is your life the one that would comfort and delight her? Honor thy mother and father, that thy days may be long in the land of the living."

Five Divisions of Christian Council Convene Wednesday

Five divisions of the Woman's Council of the First Christian church were in session Wednesday afternoon, dividing the meeting, in most cases, between business and devotional programs.

"A Building Fitly Framed Together" was the theme of the study for the day and the basis of an interesting lesson.

Division One met in the home of Mrs. Mel Davis, with Mrs. F. W. McEwen in charge of the program. Mrs. B. C. Fahy and the hostesses assisted in presenting the topics, and Mrs. Fahy, chairman, presided.

Other members in attendance were: Mrs. T. F. Smalling, Mrs. H. H. Heiskell, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. H. D. Madero, Mrs. O. D. Patton, Mrs. G. A. Chilton, and Mrs. E. R. Turman.

Mrs. W. A. Willson, Strickland apartments, was hostess to Division Two. Mrs. H. D. Lewis, chairman of the group, conducted the devotionals and presided during business discussions. Mrs. Ivy E. Duncan, program leader, was assisted by Mrs. Joe Berry, Mrs. Lee Ledrick and Mrs. Lewis.

Members present, other than those named, were: Mrs. C. E. Cary, Mrs. Harrison Cobb, Mrs. J. F. Meers, Mrs. John Tate, Mrs. W. R. Richman, Mrs. Robert Gilchrist, Mrs. W. C. Hogue, Mrs. Hugh Isbell, Mrs. C. F. Pauley and Mrs. Homer Blankenship.

Division Three, convening in Mrs. R. C. Wilson's home, elected Mrs. Billie Taylor chairman, to succeed Mrs. Robert Gilchrist. Mrs. E. R. Sunkel was made secretary-treasurer. Reorganization, following slight changes in areas of the divisions, necessitated these changes in the staff.

Mrs. Paul Kaschke was chosen as the division's hostess for the forthcoming convention of the Christian churches of the Panhandle.

ROUGHAGE IN DIET NEEDED IN REDUCING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Eliminates Danger

Are you one of those who are reducing by diet? If so, there is one important thing you should know—diets that do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences. Guard against it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. It is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. But it does add valuable iron to the blood which helps prevent anemia (another dieting danger) and bring a glowing, healthy color to the complexion.

You can enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk, honey, sprinkled over cereals and salads, in soups and soaked in fruit juices. It is appetizing in cooked food. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CHAPTER XXVII
Two mornings later Steyne received a little note from Clarissa, asking him to come to see her at her home. She did not name any time, and Steyne waited until noon, thinking she might want him to take her out to lunch.
He found her dressed for the street, her fair hair escaping picturesquely from under a soft black hat. Her high-bred, sensitive face was very pale, but her eyes lit up her features with the amazing vitality that she had acquired since her recovery.
"Alan," she began at once, "I asked you here because I want to talk to you alone. I'm afraid I shall sound very silly and as if I didn't know my own mind, but I've—well I've come to the conclusion that I don't want to be married."
The young man, caught at the suggestion as a drowning man catches at a straw.
"You mean you want to postpone it again, Clarissa? I suppose it's on account of Judy. You're not quite happy about her, are you?"
"No, Alan," she answered slowly, "I don't mean that. I mean that I don't want to be married at all."
"You don't want—" He broke off in sheer amazement.

"Yes, I know it sounds perfectly ridiculous. I quite expect you to think I'm mad."
"But, Clarissa, is there any reason?" he asked.
"Not any reason that sounds good enough," the girl said, forcing herself to smile. "The fact is, Alan, I'm awfully afraid I'm still a little queer at times. It's been unreal to me for a long time, the thought that I was going to be your wife."
"That was true enough. It had seemed too good, too wonderful, too blessed, even to imagine. I ought to have told you this before," she added.
"Clarissa, I don't understand. Is it anything lacking in me? Have I done anything to hurt you?"
"Please, Alan, don't be angry with me," she went on gently. "I'm awfully sick with myself, but I really want to settle down to work more than I want everything else in the world."
"You care for your career more than you do for me?"
Her lips trembled a little. He believed that she had changed her mind. He was glad, oh but she knew how glad he was! He loved Judy. He must have learned to love Judy while she was out of her senses; and when she recovered, he felt himself in honor bound to her.

It was such a simple story. They were both loyal to her—he and Judy. They would have remained loyal to the end.

She read Steyne aright. He thought she was speaking the simple truth. He was too much overjoyed to question what she said.
He was free—that was his paramount thought. He was not to be asked to enter into an unnatural union that would have destroyed

GUNS PLAY ESPECIALLY FOR TOURNAMENT SUPPORTERS IN GAME WITH PHILLIPS SUNDAY

Phillips and Magnolia will combine their baseball talent in an effort to wrest victory from the Pampa Guns at 3:30 Sunday afternoon at Gun park. The "66" team has been weakened by several losses in the last month, but these will be replaced by men from the Magnolia camp, and possibly the Col-tex.

It is especially for those business men and citizens who supported the team that the game Sunday has been arranged. In this and succeeding games, the citizens will have an opportunity "to get their money's worth" out of the Guns, so to speak. The team is anxious for those men who have never seen them play but who have given them moral and financial support to be at Gun park Sunday afternoon.

He was led away to the "tank" of the jail on top of the courthouse. Officers, many of them veterans of the plains and West Texas whose memory of criminals was good, remained to marvel at the tall, stooped man who revealed so many plans to commit murder. They wondered why he had laughed so heartily over certain incidents he detailed in dictating his statement of death. They recalled it was a tedious task to get the confession because he wanted to digress to talk about minute, technical details of the internal they give aid, say where the road shall go. We are sending many, many thousands of dollars out of Gray county to help build roads for others. The state now offers to put a $1,300,000.00 into Gray county. If we will do our share. If we vote these bonds now, we can assess the county this year and save at least $150,000.00 for the roads.

Several of the methods Payne described as considered by him to destroy not only Mrs. Payne but himself were regarded them as far-fetched and in several instances uncanny. He said he planned to place dynamite under his pillow and let a long fuse dangle out of his bedroom window. "I intended to rush outside, light the fuse and then hurry to bed so it would appear someone murdered me," he said.

The farmer's added tax on his wheat land around Pampa will amount to 4 cents an acre. The average farmer uses enough added gas, oil and tires to pay this several times.

White preparations were made to repulse the attack, Sheriff Campbell called for assistance from surrounding cities, and a large posse of officers responded, but arrived too late to prevent the lynchings. For a short time the maddened throng was driven back by tear gas but using water to counteract the gas's effects, they successfully stormed the jail.

Authorities said last night they had learned the crowd assembled at Fairmount, Deeter's home town. Shortly after dark, they left for the county seat, 600 strong, and their automobiles surrounded the jail building.

Attention is focused on Gray county, and should the bonds fail to carry there must be some fall explaining. But the folks of this territory are unprepared for a negative response. Let's do the best thing by them and by ourselves—VOTE FOR THE BONDS.

been 24 lynchings in Indiana since 1880. Ten of the victims were white and 14 negroes. Harry Hardin, Grant county prosecutor, told the Associated Press that no charges would be filed against leaders of last night's mob. On the other hand, Chief of Police Lewis Lindenmuth said some action "might be taken."

Shortly after the height of the violence at the courthouse square a crowd of 500 negroes gathered in the negro section of the city, but no action resulted beyond objections voiced by several speakers who charged the sheriff's force with failure properly to protect the lives of the prisoners.

Somebody had to take the lead in planning the bond issue, drawing the necessary papers, and organizing the campaign. We have heard a few persons say that it looked like the bond project was being cooked up and dished out to them. But somebody must be the cook, some group must take the lead. Every voter's business is nobody's business. The growers had a chance to help plan the bond issue. They were invited to numerous mass meetings at which the road bonds were discussed. They were implored to contribute their suggestions and to study the data compiled by the state highway engineers. Did they do so? Of course not, although they now pose as authorities and spread misinformation concerning a plan which has been drawn as carefully as men working for the best interests of those affected could make it. Attention is focused on Gray county, and should the bonds fail to carry there must be some fall explaining. But the folks of this territory are unprepared for a negative response. Let's do the best thing by them and by ourselves—VOTE FOR THE BONDS.

Prof. Schick Has New Composition Ready For Press

Prof. Otto Schick's forty-eighth composition, entitled "I'm Waiting for the Sunrise," with the publishing address of Pampa, will be released within the next month.

The melody is well adapted to the words of the song, and each note is clear and distinct. The song has no basis in any other composition of a similar title, and is entirely the work of Professor Schick. Professor Schick says that when he is writing a song, he can hear in his mind every sound of the music he is composing; he composes his music entirely without the aid of any musical instrument, forming the song out of his mind directly upon the paper.

The chorus of the song "I'm Waiting for the Sunrise":
I'm waiting for the sunrise, for you,
When the skies are blue,
I love your dreamy eyes
My love-dreams are of you
I'm waiting for the sunrise
Thru the day I want you, alone,
To hold you in my arms
My own, I'm waiting for the sunrise.

While waiting for this composition to come off the press, Professor Schick is energetically at work composing his fourteenth instrumental number, "Romanza," which is dedicated to the Pampa violin quartet.

Copies of the song "I'm Waiting for the Sunrise," will be sent to all parts of the United States and Canada to listed orchestras, singers and broadcasting stations.

Wide distribution of the song will be of advantage to the advertising of Pampa.

Other compositions of Professor Schick's include: "Smile, Baby"; "Sweetheart of Mine," "Morning Glories Bloom for You," "I Wish I Could Be a Baby Again."

Not content with having a song already in process of publication, and with working on another composition, Professor Schick is also working on a song based on the theme of the kindly spirit of the people of the south. Title of the new song will be "Way Down in Dixie." Professor Schick said that when the members of the Pampa violin quartet returned from their vacations, "Romanza," the song that is especially dedicated to them, will be played in Pampa by the quartet.

Vote For The Good Road Bonds SATURDAY

What are you going to do Gray Co?

Are you going to allow a few dollars additional tax money blind you to the future growth of your city? Of your business? There is much in the old saying, "Penny Wise and Pound Foolish."

Pampa's trade territory is gradually being extended until men and women come to this city to trade from many miles around.

Don't you think that if we had paved roads extending for many miles around, that your business would reach out that much farther?

Last December the business men reported a very heavy trade. It didn't rain much in December, the dirt roads allowed people to come from over a 100 miles away. Suppose it had been a rainy month like November, how much would the business been cut?

Did you ever sit down and figure out how much of your business comes from a distance?

Wouldn't good paved roads help that business?

And when the business men are prosperous, it affects everyone in the entire community.

The voters of the Pampa community cannot afford to let this bond issue fail. For our future development depends upon it! We've the lead. Let's keep it!

Let's Pave Gray County

his soul. He would not have to perjure himself every day to a woman who loved him.

"I suppose I do put my career first," Clarissa said.

Then Alan Steyne made a very masculine remark.

"You're making me look very foolish, Clarissa!"

At that she laughed. She wondered that her laughter did not sound wild to him.

"I'm sorry, Alan; but I hope we shall still stay friends."

Something in her voice and glance seemed to pierce his denseness.

"Are you perfectly sure?" he asked with feverish earnestness. "I can't help thinking that I've done something."

"You've done nothing, Alan, nothing—believe me."

He looked into her clear eyes, which were smiling in order to hide her broken heart; and he believed her because he wanted to believe.

Two days later was to have been Chummy's wedding day.

On the afternoon of the day before, she met Judy as she was going out of her door, on her way to seek another lodging. The time had come when she must get some kind of a studio, where she could work.

When she had found it, she was going to move her few belongings into it and then go away for two or three weeks. She had written to a tiny fishing hamlet on the seacoast. She wanted to be near the ocean. Then she was coming back to work—to work harder than any woman had ever worked before.

Her work must justify what she had said to Alan. Her work was her sheet anchor now. It was all she had.

Judy held out a great bunch of flowers wrapped in tissue paper.

"I was just bringing these to you," she said. "I want to kiss you and say goodbye! Tomorrow's the great day—and you're off into the big world! And little Judy will be all alone."

"No, Judy—it's all off," said Chummy cheerfully.

She felt uneasy. This was not like talking to a man.

"Off!" gasped Judy. "You mean you've been so silly—you've put it off again because of me?" Chummy, you make me angry. Didn't I tell you I was perfectly well able to look after myself?"

"No—off for good, Judy dear, I found that I didn't want to marry Alan after all."

"Rubbish!" cried Judy tempestuously. "Where is he?"

"Alan has gone away. You see I left it so late. He said he couldn't help feeling a little foolish. Men are like that, I think. I expect he thought he'd get laughed at."

Judy suddenly laughed uproariously.

"Oh, Chummy, how ridiculous you are! I suppose it means that you and Alan have had a tiff?"

"No, Judy—no." Chummy was desperate. "I don't care for Alan enough to marry him. I find I care more for my work. We're going to be great friends, of course, all the same. He quite understands. He doesn't want a—wife who puts her painting first. He's gone to Paris, and I'm going to the sea, and when we come back we'll all be jolly again together, just as we used to be."

Judy stared at Clarissa very hard.

"Well, I'm blown!" she said.

Chummy must have been a wonderful actress. For the moment she quite deceived her friend. Judy was thunderstruck. She lost the power of speech. She left her flowers in Chummy's hands and went away.

But Judy was not really convinced.

"There's something in this!" she said to herself an hour or so later.

"What can it be? If Chummy didn't worship the ground he trod on, then I ought to be in bedlam!"

But for the time being, she could do nothing but wonder.

A few days later she received a note from Chummy, saying that she had found a convenient studio and another room near Bastien's. She had moved her things, and she was off to the seacoast the next day.

From Steyne Judy heard nothing at all.

A week later she received a letter that excited her very much, although she little guessed what bearing it was destined to have on the next few months of her life.

The letter was from a stranger to Judy. It was typewritten on plain, thick note paper, with the address "17 Linden Lane," stamped on it. She could not make out the signature. She could read "Richard S.," but of the last name she could only decipher the first letter, W.

The letter read thus:

Dear Madam: Having known the late Vladimir Guarvenius, and being aware of his interest in your career, I venture to ask whether you would be good enough to call on me here any afternoon between four and six o'clock, as I have a proposition to place before you.

Yours Respectfully,

There came the signature that Judy could not read.

She determined to go to Linden Lane on the very same day. The name of her dead master was an immediate passport to her implicit confidence. It entirely overcame the instinctive suspicion that torn-bred people harbor of all strangers.

She dressed herself in deep black, the outward sign of her loyalty to the man who had failed her only in his death, and who had taught her everything she knew.

She made the journey in a taxi, and found Linden Lane a broad and busy thoroughfare which entirely belied its name. The number she sought proved to be in a handsome arcade.

In the hall she met a liveried attendant, and showed him the letter. He informed her that the man from an inner room, who disappeared for a moment, and then ushered her through two smaller offices into a large, handsomely furnished apartment that might have been a library but for maps of South Africa and the United States that hung on one of the walls, and some letter-filing cabinets and a Stock Exchange ticker.

PUBLIC FORUM

BENEFIT FOR PAMPA

Too much has been said of the so-called "enormous" tax bill for roads, and not enough of the real benefits accruing from a system of good roads.

Suppose we study the road bond issue from the standpoint of the benefits.

First, Pampa's future growth will depend upon the extension of its trade territory. Pampa, today, is the trade mecca of the Panhandle for miles around. A fine system of stores, with an excellent line of merchandise, is attracting people from a distance. With all the other counties around, either paved or being paved, naturally this trade territory will be greatly extended.

When the merchants are busy and prosperous, other lines are affected. Rents can be kept up at a good height, and other values will be held up.

Second, with the other state highways paved to our borders, Gray county is in a bad position, unless we pave. Federal highway No. 60 is now routed from Virginia to the west coast, through Pampa. Oklahoma is planning to pave this road through the state. This highway is paved from Carson county west for a considerable distance. Surely, a large number of tourists will travel through this section. They want to see the oil fields. If they can travel on good paved roads, in addition to the money they spend, they will go away with a good impression of this section. And many a town has been benefited by the good word of the travelling public.

What is said of 33, can also be said of the other roads. Pampa has made a reputation to be proud of over the nation, but that reputation will be clouded, should we keep our dirt roads. Business comes to progressive cities, cities which have good churches and schools and streets and highways, and comfortable homes. Pampa has all these except the roads. Pave the roads, keep up the reputation for progressiveness, and Pampa will grow and prosper.

Why has Los Angeles developed? Simply because the people in that city would not say no. They have overcome obstacles, such as this country does not have. They have taken, almost a desert, and made it bloom. Pampa with many advantages, can grow and prosper, if it does not go to sleep at the switch.

So far, our prosperity has come with practically no effort. The oil was found, the oil men came and developed it, and the citizens of Pampa and surrounding territory have benefited thereby. With proration which, by the way, will simply extend the life of the field, conditions have slowed up to some extent. Isn't now the time for the business men and other citizens, to step out and complete the work that has been started so well by oil? In other words, won't it be better for the people of this city to step into the breach and say, "We won't go down, we won't have a slump, as most oil cities have. We'll get up and fight, and overcome the small handicaps that we face, and still go ahead and prosper."—August A. Gordon.

W. C. Mitchell returned Thursday from a trip to Chicago.
