ROAD BOND ISSUE DEFEATED YESTERDAY; PAMPA VOTE LIGHT

RURAL VOTES ARE MOSTLY AGAINST IT

Plans Being Made to Call Another Election

MAY REVISE THE PROGRAM

City Vote Not Heavy Enough to Overcome Opposition

Just one week after Gray county voters turned down a plan to pave county roads at a cost of $3,500,000, they set the stamp of disapproval upon a $2,000,000 road bond issue by a vote of 868 for and 610 against in an election held yesterday in road district No. 5, or precincts Nos. 1, 2, and 3.

Although the proposal carried by a plurality of 248 votes it lacked 116 votes of polling the necessary two-thirds majority. A total of 1,478 votes was cast. The vote in the Pampa precinct was about 500 smaller than was expected would be cast.

Plans are already being made by paved road enthusiasts to petition the commissioners court to call another election after 30 days, the statutory limit after an issue has been defeated. Proponents are also considering revising the paving program and reducing the amount of the bond.

Vote at the various boxes follows:

	For	Against
Kingsmill	27	13
Chamber Commerce	480	77
South Pampa	103	92
Planters Mutual Hall
Insurance Co.	157	82
LeFors	23	150
Farrington	8	23
Knorpp	48	76
Laketown	7	66
Hopkins	15	31
Total	868	610

Local business men and others who supported the issue expressed disappointment at the size of the Pampa vote, but not in the manner in which Pampans voted. There was a total of 991 votes cast in the three voting places in Pampa. Of these, 740 voted for the issuance of the bonds while only 251 voted against. This lacked a few votes of being a 3 to 1 majority. Members of the Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development who conducted an active campaign to secure the passage of the bonds had estimated that the Pampa precinct would poll a total of 1,000 votes, and if that many had voted and the ratio had remained the same, the issue would have carried easily.

That the issue had aroused more interest in the rural districts than in Pampa was indicated in the final returns which show that almost the full voting strength was polled at

Permits For Week Amount to $9,400

"I wrote just one-third as many permits this week as I had teeth pulled which might be the explanation why building activity, as far as I was concerned, was rather quiet this week," F. E. Townsend, city building inspector, said.

Building permits numbered five and totaled $9,400 for the week. This boosted the year's total to $725,000. Construction projects started this week follow:

Ella Stanard, residence, 422 North Grace street, $2,500; J. N. Duncane, residence, original addition, $1,000; Jack McKay, 214 West Bond street, $900; C. C. Matheny, residence, Park Hill avenue, $3,000; George Woodhouse, contractor; Mr. Nance, residence, Ayers addition, $2,500, contractors, Prichard and Wier.

New Orleans High School Girl Crowned World's Beauty Queen

"Miss Universe," Dorothy Dell Goff, 17, of New Orleans, grand prize.

Now that you've seen their pictures, you'll have to agree that those judges at Galveston's annual beauty pageant knew their business when they selected these two as the world's most beautiful maidens. Dorothy Dell Goff, a New Orleans high school girl—17, blond and blue-eyed—not only triumphed over beauties from many cities to win the title of "Miss America" but she also entered the finals with foreign beauties and emerged as "Miss Universe." As grand prize, Dorothy received $2,000 in cash and a silver placard, attesting to the fact that she cut quite a figure at the pageant. Second honors in the international competition were won by "Miss Roumania," otherwise Mariane Mivica.

PAYNE WILL GO ON TRIAL FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER WEDNESDAY AT AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Aug. 9. (AP)—According to plans announced tonight by E. W. Thompson, district attorney, A. D. Payne will go on trial for first degree murder next Wednesday, in the district court in Amarillo before Judge Henry Bishop.

Payne, Amarillo attorney, confessed in a lengthy statement that he placed three sticks of dynamite in his automobile which demolished the car June 27, killing his wife and maiming their son, A. D. Payne, Jr., 11.

It was planned to bring Payne back to Amarillo Monday, to be indicted by a special grand jury and to face trial Wednesday.

Officers said Payne would be kept under heavy guard, and for this purpose, machine guns and tear gas bombs already have been assembled in Amarillo.

Payne late yesterday, assured Thompson, Sheriff Bill Thompson and Mayor Ernest O. Thompson that his one wish was to be electrocuted as speedily as possible. He declared he was not feigning insanity and felt embittered against newspaper writers who had questioned his statement that he killed his wife because he "loved her."

Payne said he would hire his own attorney and declined the offer of the district attorney to ask the court to provide him with an attorney.

"I will pay for my own attorney out of my own pocket," he said. "All that I ask is that I be tried and convicted according to law. I will plead guilty and will not permit my

FORD PREDICTS 10-MONTH YEAR FOR INDUSTRY

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 9. (AP)—A 10-months working year in the motor car industry was predicted by Henry Ford in a copyrighted interview printed today in the Border Cities Star.

"The problem challenging us most today is how to control industry so that workmen will have steady employment," he said. "What it will come to in the motor car industry is a 10 months industrial year. The summer months are not good months to be working in factories. People need a change."

"Such an adjustment will take time, of course, because the workers as well as the manufacturers will have to adapt themselves to such a schedule. But we have accomplished bigger things, notably the eight hour day and the five day week."

"Unemployment," he continued, "is not a natural phenomenon, but the visible result of ignorance of economic health laws."

Referring to the prospects for increased tariff duties under the new Canadian government, he said he could see no reason for objecting to such an increase.

"I am not a tariff advocate in the United States," he explained, "but the situation is different here. United States industries are in their maturity. In Canada they are in the formative stage. If a higher tariff will foster industrial development, who can object?"

Through increased production, as the industry grows, he said, automobile prices could be reduced in Canada. At present, he said, it costs more to make cars in Canada than in United States because the same degree of mass production has not been attained.

Two Children Drown Trying To Save Woman

Idabel, Okla., Aug. 9. (AP)—Robert, 13, and Marie, 11, children of Rev. and Mrs. Robert Merry, were drowned today in Red river 12 miles south of here in an attempt to rescue a woman who had fallen in from the bank.

The woman, Mrs. W. N. Bailey, clung to a snag and was rescued. When she fell into the water, the Merry girl leaped in after her and her brother followed. Neither could swim.

SMALL SAYS HE WILL CAST HIS VOTE FOR STERLING; CANDIDATES ARE DATED FOR MANY SPEECHES

By The Associated Press
Former Gov. James Ferguson, campaigning for his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, spoke at Whitesboro Saturday night and not so far away, at Cooper, Gov. Dan Moody championed the cause of Ross S. Sterling of Houston, Mrs. Ferguson's run-off opponent. Sterling himself rested preparatory to an arduous week of stumping in West Texas beginning Monday in a bid for the votes that went to State Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington in the first primary.

Senator Small, who previously had said he would not be "so presumptuous" as to tell his friends whom to vote for, Saturday said he

FREIGHT RATES REDUCTION TO AID FARMERS

Livestock, Feeds and Water May Move Cheaper

RED CROSS IS HELPING

Chapters Ordered to Stand by Ready For Action

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—The helping hand of the federal government and the nation's railroads reached out today to assist the drought-stricken farmers with reduced freight rates as President Hoover and the American Red Cross kept constant tabs on the situation with a view to extending further relief.

The first concrete step to aid the million farm families in the most seriously affected areas in a dozen states was taken by the Interstate Commerce Commission. In a special order it notified railroads they could place in effect immediately reduced rates on livestock, feeds and water without observing the provisions of the transportation act.

President Hoover late in the day conferred at his Rapidan river lodge in Virginia, with Secretary Hyde and James C. Stone, vice chairman of the federal farm board, and was in constant touch with the White House by telephone.

The agriculture secretary and Mr. Stone were called to the camp by Mr. Hoover for a discussion of latest developments. Hyde took with him latest reports on the situation from county agents in the drought regions, while Stone was prepared to give Indiana and Southern Ohio. Both were expected to remain overnight at the Hoover lodge or one nearby maintained by cabinet officers.

The American Red Cross took cognizance of the long dry spell by sending a message to its 3,500 chapters to "stand by and be ready to act" on call from the chief executive.

The message said continuance of the abnormally high temperatures might mean conditions of disaster proportions in a restricted area and authorized the chapter chairmen to act on their own initiative in supply relief.

Meanwhile, messages of acceptance of President Hoover's invitation to a conference of governors of the drought-stricken states here next Thursday began reaching the White House. Three of the 12 governors invited—Reed, Kansas; Parrnell, Arkansas, and Cooper, Ohio—

OIL PRODUCTION INCREASED BY GUSHERS COMPLETED IN GRAY COUNTY DURING WEEK

As if to prove the falsity of propaganda circulated here during the last two weeks that gushers are a thing of the past and that the daily production of Gray county has reached its peak, two oil companies completed two gushers which averaged 2,325 barrels daily.

The production made a big comeback, gaining 1,729 barrels over the previous week. Average initial production of 10 wells brought in during the week was 943 barrels. One well was completed for 1,980 barrels and another for 1,000 barrels.

Further evidence that activity is still zooming in the fields was submitted in drilling reports of oil companies which made eight locations during the week. One of these locations was Continental's in the Talley addition. Rig is being built just north of the Cary well and east of the Castleberry well in the middle of a street. The Cary well in the addition is swabbing 120 barrels per day through 180 feet of cavings. The hole will be cleaned out before the well is put on the pump.

The 645 wells in Gray county produced 66,968 barrels daily, raising the total for the Panhandle area to 97,610, a gain of 1,218 over that of the previous week.

Completions
Danciger Oil and Gas company's No. 8 Beck, section 28, block B-2, total depth 2,893 feet, initial production 400 barrels, pay 2,884-93 feet.
Derosa's No. 2 Saunders, section 40, block 3, total depth 3,035 feet, initial production 428 barrels, pay 2,920-25, 2,958-90-95 feet.

Humble Oil and Gas company's No. 4 Combs-Worley, section 36, block 3, total depth, 2,865 feet, initial production 400 barrels, pay 2,784-94-95, 2,815 feet. Same company's No. 6 Combs-Worley, section 36, block 3, total depth, 2,841 feet, initial production 2,165 feet, 13 million feet gas; pay 2,731-45, 2,785-2,800 feet.

McAuley et al's No. 4, section 2, block 26, total depth, 2,596 feet, initial production 40 barrels; pay 2,540-55-85-90 feet. Prairie Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Moody, section 36, block 3, total depth 2,857 feet, initial production 100 barrels.

Prairie's No. 2 Moody, section 36, block 3, total depth, 2,855 feet, initial production 2,480 barrels and 12 million feet of gas. Texas company's No. 3 Harrah, section 50, block 3, total depth 3,235 feet, initial production 441 barrels; shot with 100 quarts from 3,145 to 3,226 feet.

Wilson No. 1 Heaton, section 169, block B-2, total depth, 3,259 feet, dry and abandoned. Phillips No. 3 Fox, section 36, block 3, total depth 2,865 feet, initial production 1,981 feet. Same company's No. 5 Wood, section 13, block 3, total depth 2,875 feet, initial production 1,000 barrels, and six million feet of gas.

Daily production of the various counties compared with that of the previous week follows:
Carson—221 wells, producing 9,200 barrels, an increase of 560 barrels
Gray—643 wells, producing 66,968 barrels, an increase of 1,729 barrels.
Hutchinson—962 wells, producing 20,489 barrels, a loss of 873 barrels.
Moore—20 wells, producing 360 barrels, a decrease of 44 barrels.
Wheeler—40 wells, producing 503 barrels, a loss of 242 barrels.

Total—1,887 wells, producing 97,610 barrels, an increase of 1,218 barrels.

Mrs. M. E. Harrell and Paul Durant of Kansas City, who were guests last week of Mrs. Harrell's daughter, Mrs. J. H. Lutz, left yesterday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Harrell's little grand-daughter, Betty Jane Duffy of Kansas City. They were to spend the week-end in Tulsa, going from there home.

J. L. Fletcher, Howard McKinley and J. T. Morrow are in Amarillo today.
Miss Juanita Lankford of Sherman is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller and Miss Louise Miller. R. F. Williams made a business trip to LeFors Saturday.

KILLS CASHIER AND MAN WHO DEMANDS CASH

Vice-President Dead and Two Others Injured

BUILDING IS TOTAL WRECK

Nitro Is Thrown to Floor As Police Arrive

FORT WORTH, Aug. 9. (AP)—A nitroglycerin bomb dropped on the floor of the Stockyards National bank by a man who demanded a $10,000 loan, killed F. L. Pelton, vice-president and cashier of the bank and the man who sought the money today.

The man was identified by a brother as Nathan M. Martin of Fort Worth.

The bank situated on Exchange avenue in the packing house district was wrecked. L. W. Marshall, assistant cashier, was seriously hurt, and Clifton Magers, 38, was cut by flying glass. About 30 other employees and customers escaped injury.

Martin entered the bank carrying a satchel and approaching the desk of W. L. Pier, president of the bank. "I need $10,000," he told Pier. "I am desperate. I want the money quick. There is a price on my head and I do not care what happens to me. There is nitroglycerin in this satchel."

He warned Pier not to call the police.

Pelton had engaged Martin in conversation while Pier went into a money cage and told a teller to count out $10,000 in currency. While he was trying to get police headquarters on the telephone to advise them of what was going on the explosion occurred.

Pier said he planned to give the money to the man as a ruse after tipping police to take him when he left the bank.

The man's body was torn to parts and the torso was blown to the ceiling by the force. Pelton's body was badly mutilated the arms and legs having been torn from the torso.

Office fixtures were strewn about the room as though a tornado had struck and money and checks were scattered.

Marshall's leg was badly cut and the Magers boy was cut on his head and body.

Pelton had been with the bank a little over a year, coming from Alliance, Neb.

The bank had a picturesque background, having been the gathering place for many years of Texas cattlemen who brought their steers to Fort Worth to market. Many of them exchanged their beef for gold at this bank. About a year ago a fire when sheds of the fat stock show plant, near the bank were burned.

Emergency police officers Benson and Leahy, who answered Pier's summons, said they walked into the bank and Benson declared when he loosened his pistol in his holster he saw the man take from his satchel a two ounce bottle and throw it on the floor.

While Pier was having the money counted a few minutes before the explosion the stranger wrote a note on a deposit slip. It said: "I have

AID TO THE COMMUNIST

Rodney Dutcher points out from Washington that the net result, to date, of the outpourings of Hamilton Fish, Seymour Lowman and Matthew Woll about the "red menace" has been the encouragement and strengthening of the Communist agitators in this country!

As Dutcher remarks, the Communist movement in this country is neither numerous nor powerful. But Messrs. Fish, Lowman and Woll have said so much about it, have displayed such alarm and have called for such drastic measures to suppress it that the agitators have taken heart, redoubled their efforts and found new ammunition for their propaganda broadsides.

That is usually the result of going off half cocked. Those who get scared too easily often wind up by helping to create the thing of which they are afraid.

When you look at the matter dispassionately, it seems strange that anyone should get worried over Communism in this country. It is only necessary to contrast Russia and America to see how little basis there is for that kind of alarm.

Communism in Russia grew to flower because the average man in Russia lived under almost unspeakable conditions of poverty, want and oppression. Those conditions are the only soil in which Communism can grow. No man gets enthusiastic about the abolition of private property unless he not only has no private property himself but knows that he never can have any.

But in America? Well, we have been having a business depression lately, and it hasn't been very pleasant; but we are several million miles removed from general misery and want. As long as we have anything like the prosperity of the past decade, it will simply be impossible for Communism in this country to become anything of a menace. Getting scared over it is nonsensical.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—This does not seem like the best of all possible worlds to Senator Hiram Johnson of California. In fact, it must appear to him a rather terrible place where all kinds of bad things happen and never anything nice.

Most lately Hiram has been bothered about the frightful peril in which his country has been placed by the London naval treaty and even after the thing was signed he was still growling loudly about it.

Then there's the Mooney-Billings case in California. Just about everyone has an opinion on the justice or injustice of the continued imprisonment of the two labor leaders—except Hiram. All these long years he hasn't had a thing to say about this world-famous case in his own state and of course at a time when everyone else is getting excited about it silence is rather embarrassing.

But these little irritations are only the latest in the series of large or petty griefs which have been afflicting Johnson for the past decade. Since the League of Nations fight, when Johnson acquitted himself well, nearly everything has gone wrong in one way or another and he has often sunk into the depths of resentful misery.

Fondly and confidently, Johnson anticipated the presidential nomination in 1920, which everyone knew was equivalent to election. His failure to land it after the Wood-Lowden deadlock was broken seemed to be a crushing blow. They offered him the vice-presidential nomination during his rage and he spurned it, not knowing that he was spurring the presidency itself.

He had been an able, progressive, liberal leader, nationally popular. But after that he was just a California senator and his only big piece of work these last 10 years has been his able, successful championship of Boulder Dam in the interests of his home state.

After 1920, La Follette, Borah, Norris and Kenyon kept fighting progressive causes with more vigor than ever, but Johnson never got back into the front ranks. He made futile onslaughts on the Colombian treaty and the Four-Power naval pact, but when a real hot progressive fight came in the Newberry case Hiram wasn't there to cast a vote.

He had been the only progressive since 1921 to come within striking distance of a major party nomination, but when in 1924 he decided to oppose Coolidge for the nomination he failed miserably even to carry California in the primaries. It was never quite clear just what Hiram was campaigning about, although he attacked the League of Nations quite bitterly. The only result of his candidacy was to cut down his patronage to nothing or next to nothing during the Coolidge reign.

Hiram and Herbert Hoover had been old political enemies. The former had sniped the present president under in the California primaries of 1920 and each disliked the other. But it was Johnson who, in the period of his decline, had to watch the steady rise of his enemy. By 1928 Johnson was in no position to oppose Hoover in California or elsewhere. An agreement was reached whereby Johnson would go along for Hoover if the Hoover forces would not oppose him for the senatorial renomination. Hiram gritted his teeth and bore it, but he did not grin.

Steyne and Chummy, therefore, are engaged. Judith is studying dancing, and rich BRUCE GIDEON, wants to star her in a musical show, although Steyne warns her that Gideon's intentions are not honorable. Steyne and Judith meet by chance in the girls' apartment, and Chummy, unobserved, sees them in each other's arms; so Chummy, on the eve of her wedding, tells Steyne that she cannot marry him as she wants to follow her career as a painter. Judith gets a letter from one RICHARD WYON, who asks her to call at his office, and discuss her dancing with him. She goes, as Wyon, whom she does not know, writes that he was an associate of her former teacher, GUARVENIUS, recently killed in an auto accident.

CHAPTER XXVIII

A small, slenderly built man of about 60 rose from a huge desk and came toward her. Judy's general impression was that he was good looking in a rather effeminate way, and exceedingly well dressed. He had small hands and feet, sleek gray hair, and a thin, well-shaped mouth which, when opened revealed a particularly white and full set of teeth. He wore a certain amount of very discreet jewelry, such as platinum cuff links set with small pearls.

He had a very kind smile, Judy noticed, as he held out his hand. "This is indeed charming of you, Miss Grant," he said. "I hardly expected you to come so promptly."

"I'd go anywhere to see a friend of M. Guarvenius," Judy said. "Did you really know him very well?"

"This was the only subject that interested her."

"I did not know him very intimately," Mr. Wyon replied. He had a very pleasant, refined voice, and spoke with great emphasis and something of a dramatic effect. Later on, Judy noticed that he used his hands a great deal, like a forger. There was altogether something of the stage about the little man.

"But," he went on, "I had a great admiration for Vladimir Guarvenius, and the most complete confidence in his judgment. That is why I asked you to come here, my dear young lady. I wanted to talk to you about your future."

Judy started. Somehow this was the last thing she had expected. She had come with the idea in her generous heart of talking about her late master with a friend of his, of telling all his goodness to her, and then going away again. She would have poured out her soul to the very best of her ability.

"Oh!" she said rather sharply. "I don't think there's much to talk about; but how did you hear about me? Was it from M. Guarvenius?"

"He did mention you, of course," answered Mr. Wyon; "but I have heard more about you from Madame Flomena, who is also a friend of mine."

"Oh, she's been awfully kind!" exclaimed the girl, understanding now that this funny, rather dried-up little man was the kind of person who likes to mix with the artistic world.

"She thinks very highly of you, Miss Grant," he said emphatically. "And now let me come to the point. I understand that you have no private means, and that Guarvenius was going to arrange for your debut. His sad death must have made a difference to you."

"Of course it did—all the difference in the world!"

"Though I am convinced that your own prospects were the last thing you thought of, Miss Grant."

Now, I am a business man, and this is a business proposition—"

"Stop a moment!" She interrupted. "Who gave you my address? Your letter was forwarded from my old address, where I used to live."

"A Miss Graham procured your address for me," Mr. Wyon explained. "She was also a pupil of Guarvenius, and she got it, I think from a lady named Miss Jenks."

Judy was on her guard to a certain extent, although the man inspired her with confidence.

"As I say, it is purely a business proposition," said Mr. Wyon, regarding her with his ingratiating smile. "I have a theater, Miss Grant—the Monopole. I do not exactly own it, but I have a large interest in it—a controlling interest I may say. Now, I am prepared to undertake what my friend Guarvenius was going to do—to arrange for your debut at my theater, and to provide you with everything that is necessary, exactly as he would have done."

"But you don't know anything about me!" she cried.

"I have perfect confidence in Guarvenius' judgment."

"Are you very rich? And what is your business?"

Mr. Wyon smiled his delicate smile.

"I am interested in several things," he answered. "Diamonds, for one, and oil and coal. I don't call myself rich, exactly; but you can trust me to carry out what I propose."

"I suppose I'm rude," Judy said; "but this is a surprise. I don't know you from Adam. Why should you want to do this for me?"

"I have told you, my dear young lady," he said. "The conditions will be exactly the same. When you are well launched in your career, we will adjust our business relations. I shall be amply repaid. There is plenty of room for a dancer of genius. I will engage as your manager a man of the highest reputation—Gaston North. You can trust me to advertise adequately. My theater is a suitable setting for such art as yours, and we shall have a good orchestra. When I do such things, I believe in doing it well."

"I don't know what to say," Judy said.

"Think it over," Miss Grant. Take a few days. When had poor Guarvenius planned your debut?"

"In October."

"Well, we could manage it by then. You could start rehearsing at once. The theater is empty, as it happens. I will get the electricians and the scene painters at work at once."

"It's not time I want," she said, with a laugh that sounded a little wild, for the delirium of ambition was creeping into her blood again. "I suppose we should have a contract. I should probably have to sign something."

"Not at all necessary, Miss Grant. I am not afraid that you'll cheat me. When you are well established you will give me back the money I have spent. That's all I want."

"But—I might fail."

"Then I'll bear the loss, just as Guarvenius would have done."

"You must have thought a lot of him," she said with a deep sigh.

Mr. Wyon repeated what he had said before.

"I have the most complete faith in his judgment! Then you accept?"

"Yes, rather! And I'm greatly obliged to you, Mr. Wyon. But for this I'd have had to take whatever I could get."

"It would have been a shame," he said emphatically. "I'm very glad you have consented to my proposal. You must meet Gaston North at once, and arrange with him about the music, and your costumes, and all that you need. We must have the most expert advice. Perhaps you will give me the pleasure of luncheon with me tomorrow—at the theater. I have a little room there, and we can have food sent in from a restaurant near by. I shall expect you, then—at half-past one."

Judy shook hands with the little man like a person in a dream. When she had gone, Mr. Wyon stood gazing at the door, with a look of enlightenment on his face.

"The description suits her down to the ground," he told himself. "A thorny little person! A very thorny little person indeed!"

Judy spent the following 10 days in a whirl, and met more people than she had ever met in her life before. She was what she called "completely dotty"—that is to say, confused and wildly excited, keeping only a clear grip on the essentials of her work. In that respect like all true artists, little Judy Grant was eminently, almost savagely, practical. At any rate, other people sometimes found her savage when they tried to interfere with her work.

She received a post card and a letter from Chummy, who was still at the seacoast. She answered neither of the communications. She heard nothing from Alan Steyne. She would not allow herself to think about him at all.

"Why, Bastien, I supposed you thought I was dead!" she cried.

"Nothing of the sort," he answered roughly. "Don't I hear you talked about every minute of the day? I can't open a newspaper without seeing your name. You're in for a boom, Judy—and a real one this time! Who is it that's taken you up—that Gideon fellow?"

Judy looked at him with supreme scorn.

"Thank you, Bastien—I'm not taking any insults," she said. "I have not seen Mr. Gideon for weeks. I don't know where he is."

"Then who's backing you?"

"A friend of M. Guarvenius. It is purely a business proposition," she added with immense dignity.

"The Monopole—that's where you're coming out. But who's doing it all?"

"Mr. Wyon—the gentleman who owns the theater."

"Oh, that crank!" cried Dumont, in evident relief.

"Why do you call Mr. Wyon a crank?" she asked.

"Oh, everybody knows he is! Always up to some extraordinary game!"

"Thank you, Bastien!"

"Judy, don't be cross! I know you're going to make a terrific hit. Nobody knows it better than I do. I say, you never come to the cafe now."

"I never have time."

"Come along now."

"I'll come and have some food at Gino's, if you like," she answered.

"I'm ravenous."

He assented eagerly.

Judy was shabbier even than usual, and there was an unnatural light in her eyes. She ate silently and voraciously. Dumont had had his dinner, and watched her drinking Chianti diluted with mineral water and lemon juice. It was suffocatingly hot in the restaurant.

When Judy began to talk, she told him everything with perfect frankness. He was still her best friend, the one person on whom she could always rely. She made that quite clear. She had made no new friends among the people she was now associated with. Mr. Wyon was very kind, but old. He was just a business man. He believed in her because Guarvenius had believed in her. She had only seen him three times in all.

Her manager, Gaston North, was net Bastien Dumont. She gave him a brilliant smile.

"Why, Bastien, I supposed you thought I was dead!" she cried.

"Nothing of the sort," he answered roughly. "Don't I hear you talked about every minute of the day? I can't open a newspaper without seeing your name. You're in for a boom, Judy—and a real one this time! Who is it that's taken you up—that Gideon fellow?"

bed with his pipe in his mouth.

"He was wonderful at his job, however. He knew everything about scene painting and almost everything about music. The conductor of the orchestra was a young Hungarian, blind in one eye. He made his men play the most heavenly music."

"Not that its really any better than yours," Bastien," she added generously. "I did enjoy dancing to your fiddle that night at Mr. Steyne's."

"This brought Bastien back to personal matters. While he watched her animated face, all the old misery throbbed in his heart and hammered in his brain.

"Judy, is everybody mad?" he asked. "Of course you know that Chummy didn't marry Steyne?"

"Of course I do."

"What did you make of it? Where is he now?"

"He went to Paris—so Chummy told me. She is at the seacoast."

"Yes, I knew that."

"Darling Chummy, she's written to me and I've never answered her. What a pig I am! I must write tonight."

"What do you make of it, Judy?"

"Oh, Bastien, I don't know. Chummy always tells the truth—you know that. She said she found out that she liked her work better than she did Mr. Steyne."

"Well, I don't believe it, Judy. There must have been something else."

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday school, 9:45 a. m. G. C. Stark is superintendent.

Sermon by the pastor, 11 a. m. Subject: "The World's Greatest Things." Hear the pastor on this subject.

Here is the need of the hour: To move out of the spectacular of living to the quietness of truth, get away from the crude, dolled up, cock-sure style of living to humility and prayer.

In this mad hustle, the ministry has turned aside from soul-winning and soul-saving, afraid to stand against sin. Why not come back and tarry in the upper room? Why not lift up the Christ? Why not take the New Testament orders, and ways? Our preaching ought to have a war cry in it. Our preaching ought to have a fighting note in it.

We will have an old-fashioned baptizing Sunday afternoon. We will meet at the church about 5 p. m. and will drive out about eight miles south of Pampa. Plans are now to have our B. Y. P. U.'s and preaching services out at the place where we have the baptizing. Announcements will be made Sunday morning.

If you are not in church elsewhere, we invite you to attend the Central Baptist church. We have some very interesting facts to discuss from time to time. Services will be held today in the high school gymnasium, and so far as we know now, will be our tabernacle will be ready by next Sunday. Welcome to all.

H. H. TRUITTE, Pastor.

Six Owens, proprietor of the Courthouse cafe, left Saturday for Childress in response to a message from his wife who overturned the car she was driving in a sandbank near Childress. The message stated that Mrs. Owens was unhurt, but that the car was wrecked. Mrs. Owens left Pampa the early part of this week to visit a sister who lives at Childress.

Sunday school opens at 9:45 o'clock. J. O. Gillham is superintendent. We have had a very remarkable Sunday school during the summer months. We are anxious to make this Sunday one of the best of the entire summer session. Come and join us in the study of God's word.

The pastor will speak at both the morning and evening hours. The morning theme is "The Church for the Present Day." Great demands are being made upon the church of today. Should we reorganize the church or change her creed and doctrines to meet the demands of a large group of people who trying to overthrow the forces of righteousness? This, with many other questions, will be answered in the message of the morning hour.

The evening theme is "Two Bergars." A message taken from the parable of the rich man and Lazarus. It has often been said that "it is better to beg bread for a little while on earth than to beg water in hell forever." There will be great congregational singing under the personal direction of the pastor at the evening hour.

For Patrolmen

TEXARKANA, Ark., Aug. 9. (AP)—Texarkana's snail derbyists must recognize with the highway law.

Several highway patrolmen sent here today to try to untangle the traffic congestion created by hundreds of motorists viewing the "crawl" marathon to Texarkana's discovery oil well, 16 miles east of here, announced tonight that the crawlers must equip themselves with tail-lights when they resumed their trek.

The highway patrolmen promised to make numerous arrests unless the highway was kept open to traffic.

Gus Kennedy, pioneer crawler in the marathon, was humming strains of "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding" tonight, after a week of plodding in his hands and knees along the dusty road toward the Lenz-Johnson No. 1 oil well.

Guss retained his modesty and gave credit for success to J. B. Browne, his barrow-pushing companion. The grand final celebrating completion of their trek was set for Sunday.

Clyde Ethridge and Gene Elam, two youths from Fouke, planned to take up their crawling trek eight miles from the goal tonight.

Violette Grigson, 21, crawling, and her sister, Mrs. Edith Crowson, 23, pushing a baby buggy also expected to continue their journey tonight.

The trio of crawlers agreed to display tail lights as they started tonight and told highway patrolmen they didn't care how many automobiles were barred from the road, as the traffic was keeping them in a cloud of dust.

Cooler Weather Prevailing Over Several States

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. (AP)—High temperatures prevailed in a large portion of the heat ridden United States today, but some sections experienced sudden relief when the mercury nose dived from ten to fifteen degrees.

The temperature drop came early in the day at some points in the Great Lakes region. A 15 degree drop within two hours was reported this morning at Milwaukee, bringing the mercury down to 74. In Chicago, the mercury receded from 89 to 79 within thirty minutes shortly before noon.

States in the far Southwest also were soothed by cooler breezes and during the last 24 hours showers mitigated the extreme heat in portions in the Middle Missouri Valley, the Southeastern states, the plateau and Southern Rocky Mountain regions with weather forecasts for cooler weather for most of the Middle Western states and the forecast for the ensuing week also indicated that much of the country will shake itself free at least temporarily from the unusual heat and humidity of the last week.

High temperatures were reported in the east, including an official 100 at Washington. There was no prospect for relief tomorrow at the capital, according to forecasts.

The heat wave retained its grasp on states bordering the Missouri river. Lincoln, capital of Nebraska, reported 98 at 2 p. m.

Kansas City sweltered when the thermometer stood at 102. St. Louis reported 101. It was 104 before noon at Independence, Kans., Mexico, Mo., reported 110; Jefferson City 107; Fulton, Mo., 108. Lexington, Ky., experienced 101 degrees and the mercury stood at 100 generally around the state of Kentucky.

"Ole Man River" Is Barely Able To Role Along

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9. (AP)—Drained by heat and drought, "Ole Man River" is barely rolling along.

The normally broad expanse of the thundering Mississippi, oft times treacherous and destructive, has narrowed down to a comparatively small channel through which the tamed waters gently move. Contrasted with its usual murkiness, the river has become almost clear in places.

The Father of Waters and nearly all its tributaries are at their lowest stages in years, many of the smaller streams and springs that feed them have been entirely dried up. The Mississippi in July set a 70-year low water mark for that month.

The effects on navigation have become serious, causing much curtailment in bulk shipments, but a survey today showed the low stages have led to total abandonment of river traffic in but few cases.

River men and shippers see little in the situation to cause alarm since government observers say navigable streams in the drought area now have reached almost stationary low levels and will drop but little more regardless of whether the drought is broken soon.

For the last few weeks government dredges have fought desperately to keep channels open in the Mississippi, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri rivers, and to a great degree have succeeded.

Governor Is Favored to Beat Millionaire

"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, Who Now Seems Sure Of Victory "Bummed" Rides, Dined On Cheese And Crackers and Says He'll Rent Executive Mansion and Live In Garage

BY CARL VICTOR LITTLE
NEA Service Special Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 10.—"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, Oklahoma's pre-nial frontiersman, who hitch-hiked his way to leadership in the Democratic primary for governor, is going to follow the same methods in the run-off primary and is quite confident that he will hitch-hike his way into the executive mansion.

Political observers here believe he will, too, since he had a lead of 70,000 votes over his nearest opponent in the first primary. In the run-off primary, Aug. 12 he will oppose this man, Frank Buttram, millionaire oil magnate, and it seems only a political miracle can keep him from winning; and the Democratic gubernatorial nomination here means election.

Lunched on Cheese and Crackers
"I spent $71 during the first four weeks of my campaign," Murray says. "It was the cheapest campaigning I ever did and I am proud to say that during the campaign I often ate cheese and crackers to cut expenses. I am glad that I was able to beat a millionaire."

Murray, whose real name is William H. Murray, but who is called "Alfalfa Bill" because he was the first farmer to grow alfalfa in Oklahoma, made one of the cheapest tours of the state of any candidate in history.

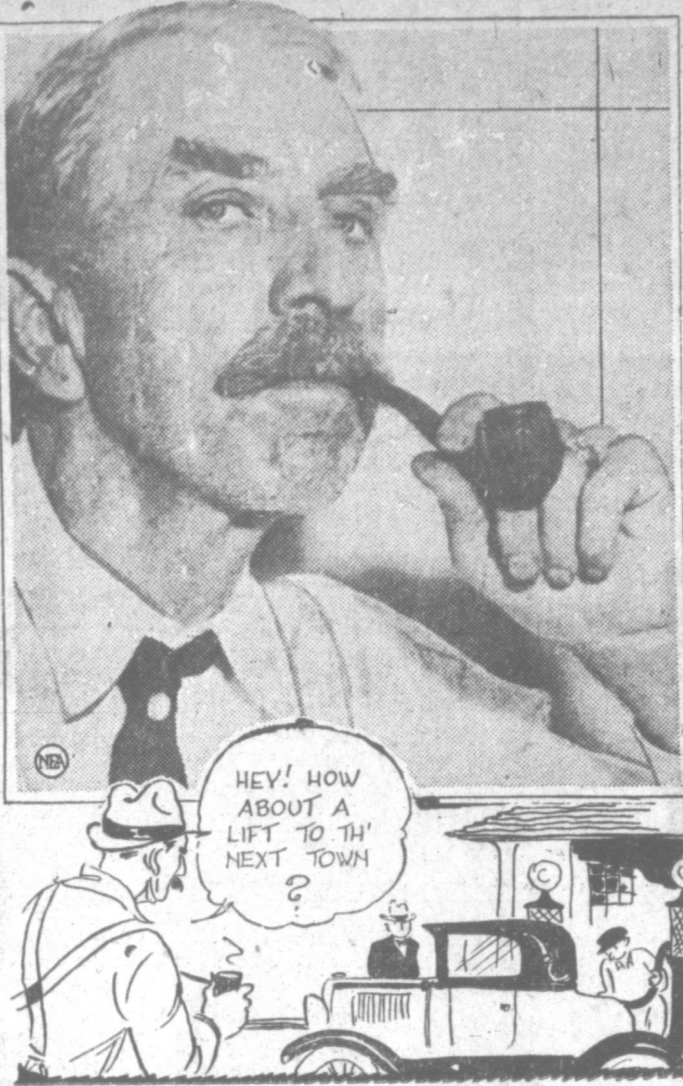

"I'll win in the run-off without trouble and when I am governor my door will be open to absolutely everybody. A caller won't even have to show a card."

He had to, because he is said to be virtually penniless.

Asks Strangers for "a Lift."
His method was simple. He would saunter into some small-town filling station, dressed in his familiar dusty and baggy clothes. A motorist would drive in, and Alfalfa Bill would go up to him and say:

"Hello, stranger, I'm Alfalfa Bill. I guess you've heard of me. I'm going to be the next governor, you know. The boys over in the next town want me to give 'em a little talk tonight. Would you mind driving me over?"

After the meeting "Alfalfa Bill" would ask the welcoming committee if "one of you boys could put me up for the night." The request was always granted, and next day he would hitch-hike his way to another town. In this way he hitch-hiked all over the state, speaking in countless agricultural communities, rolling up a huge farmer vote despite the fact that the city voters were against him.

If he is elected, "Alfalfa Bill" says he will live in the garage back of the executive mansion and rent the mansion himself, as he isn't used to living in such a big house. He also says he will fire the gardener and raise his own vegetables. "A governor ought to raise his own potatoes, or else buy 'em," he says.

Murray's triumph in the primary brings back to Oklahoma politics one of the state's most colorful figures.

As a boy of 12 he ran away from home with a capital of less than 50 cents and wandered down into Texas. He worked on a farm there, cut cordwood for $7.50 a month, chopped cotton, punched cattle, educated himself—he could not read when he left home—put himself through high school, taught school, established a rural newspaper, studied law and finally was admitted to the bar. Then he moved to Indian territory and opened a law office, later abandoning his practice to buy a ranch and start farming. His early crops of alfalfa gave him his nickname.

When Oklahoma entered the union he helped write the state constitution. On the front porch of his three-room log cabin home he studied the constitution of every state in existence. Next he became speaker of the state legislature. Later he went to congress.

Led Colonists to Bolivia
Six years ago he found Oklahoma too civilized. He liked the frontier, and not finding any frontier in the United States any more he took a party of colonists down to Bolivia, seeking to establish a group of farms there on rich land in the tropics. After a year of this his colonists got discouraged and came home; Murray came back, recruited a new set and went down to repeat the venture.

This second attempt was little more successful. Murray returned not long ago with little baggage and almost no money. He promptly announced his candidacy for governor, and began his famous hitch-hike campaign.

Newspapers throughout the state opposed him. He was called "a monumental liar," and his unique schemes of taxation were branded as "fantastic." But "Alfalfa Bill" gave back as good as he got, calling the opposition editors everything under the hot Oklahoma sun. He and his friends organized a paper of their own and circulated it among the state's farmers.

Opponent Appeals to Business
Murray's opponent in the run-off primary, Buttram, is a typical modern business man, suave, prosperous and successful. He is campaigning for a business administration; Murray is appealing almost exclusively to the farmers.

"Alfalfa Bill," with his baggy clothes and waxed yellow mustache, is just as odd intellectually as he is in appearance. Although when he ran away from home at the age of 12, he did not know his alphabet, in his speeches he now quotes Talleyrand, Buddha, Solon, Adam Smith, Karl Marx, Herbert Spencer and James Bryce. His memory for dates and figures is amazing. He seems to have read everything and to have remembered everything he ever read.

Unemployment Is More Serious In Old World Now

LONDON, Aug. 9. (AP)—Unemployment reached a new high record in the Old World with the announcement today by Germany that her total number of persons out of work is 2,757,900.

Great Britain's unemployed officially passed the 2,000,000 mark last month. It is estimated that in six European countries there are today at least 5,949,287 persons listed as out of work.

In Great Britain, Germany, Austria Hungary, Italy and France, the workers dependent for their livelihood on private charity or public doles now exceed the population of any European capital except London.

Reports from some other countries indicated conditions were improving, but this was not true of either Germany or England.

Italy, with 322,287 officially reported jobless, 114,094 of them women; France with upwards of 1,000,000 out of work and 20,000 out of work involuntarily; Hungary with 400,000 mostly agriculturists, idle today, and Germany and England accounted for about 5,949,287 officially tabulated while Austria added 450,000 to the roll.

Everywhere throughout Europe determined efforts have been made to check the lengthening lists of jobless but the "dole" or government insurance remittances to hundreds of thousands has been necessary, costing the several governments far into the millions to meet the emergency.

The London Herald, on March 3, claimed the total employed in the entire world was 16,000,000.

THREE PLUNGE TO DEATH IN PLANE CRASH

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. (AP)—The bodies of two girls taken from the wreckage of an airplane which plunged into a gas tank today were identified late tonight by their father as those of Mary and Eugenie Laws, 25 and 22 years old, of Chicago. Mary worked in a bank and Eugenie in an electrical supply shop.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. (AP)—Two women passengers and a pilot plunged to a terrifying death today when a sight-seeing airplane cleft through the thin metal top of a huge illuminating gas tank on Chicago's West Side.

Lost in the darkness of a sudden rain squall, the ship shot toward the earth and screeched through the steel hulk, hurling the occupants through released clouds of the life-snuffing gas and on into a 40-foot well of water on which the tank rested.

The pilot was identified as Orville Suchy and his ship as a monoplane belonging to the R. D. Caffarelli company. It had taken off a short time previously from the municipal airport for a $5 ride over the city, according to attendants there. Names of the girls were not known.

Bandit Armies March Toward Valley Cities

SHANGHAI, Aug. 9. (AP)—While bandit Communist armies are marching toward several Yangtze valley cities in which foreigners were congregated, Foreign Minister C. T. Wang announced tonight the government disclaimed responsibility for Red depredations upon foreigners in the recent sacking of Changsha.

Discussing the Changsha attack which resulted in large loss of foreign property Mr. Wang said:

"No government can be held responsible for mob violence against foreigners on their party within its domains. It is possible the Changsha affair will fall in this category, in which event the Nationalist government will not feel obligated to indemnify losers."

Meanwhile, disregarding the government's assurance it would protect foreigners in Hankow, threatened by nearby Red armies, the British dispatched the 10,000 ton cruiser Berwick to join the dozen others off Hankow and its neighboring cities Wuchang and Han-yang. These vessels were prepared to land bluejackets and marines if necessary.

Says Churches Should Stay Out of Politics

UNIVERSITY, Va., Aug. 9. (AP)—Dr. Walter A. Maier, editor of the Waltham League Messenger, speaking to the Virginia Institute of Public Affairs tonight said if Jefferson were living he would insist that the prohibition amendment should not be assailed or championed by any church or denomination group.

"There are too many crusading pastors who are political imposters," said Dr. Maier, "too many scriptural texts are mere partisan pretexts; too many militant clergymen are really virulent policemen."

Here at this institution founded by Thomas Jefferson himself, the editor discussed "the Jeffersonian ideals of religious liberty and Jefferson the American, the author of the Declaration of Independence, and the author of the Statute of Religious Freedom." If Jefferson were of all establish the fact that the constitutional amendment for prohibition is in every sense of the term, as we have it, part and parcel of our civil legislation."

Heavy Losses

DUNCAN, Okla., Aug. 9. (AP)—Eldores Taylor, nine-year-old Duncan boy, confessed tonight to getting six fires that destroyed a lumber yard an estimated loss of $75,000 and for a time threatened the downtown business district.

The six fires broke out between 3:30 and 8 p. m. The youth was caught going down an alley in the main part of town touching lighted matches to buildings. The Long Bell lumber yard was the only place where the blaze gained any headway, however. The boy had a pocket full of matches when caught, officers said.

He was placed for investigation. He said he was told by some one to start fires, but was unable to locate the person who had asked him to fire the buildings.

Officers were of the opinion that the youth started the blazes for excitement.

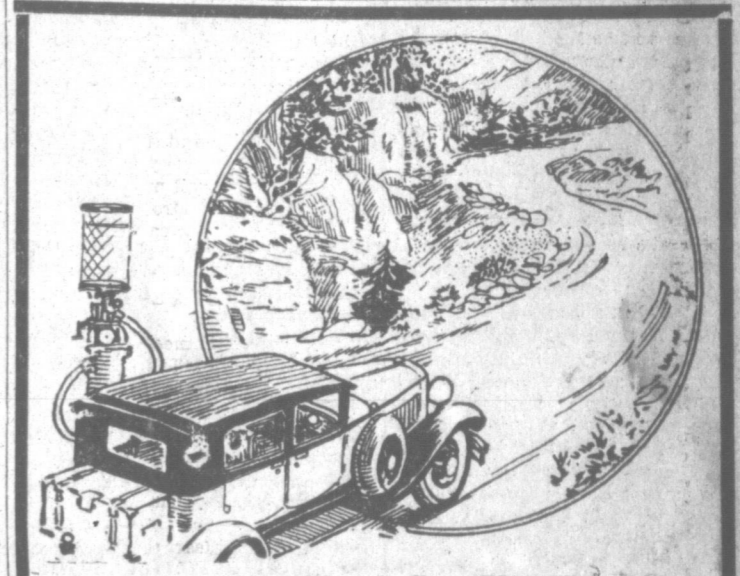

DUNCAN, Okla., Aug. 9. (AP)—A spectacular fire of unknown origin tonight destroyed the Long-Bell company's lumber yard here with an estimated loss of $75,000. Officers were investigating rumors that the blaze was of incendiary origin. For a time an entire business and residential block was threatened as the flames leaped a hundred feet into the sky.

Driven Very Little By this Company
Culberson-Smalling Chevrolet Co. (Inc.)
"The Home of Used Car Bargains"

Here is a house of modern design that can be built in any part of the country.

It is a long house, planned to need very little ground space at the ends.

It can also be placed the long way of the land without materially destroying the value of the plan, although it is recommended that it be placed across the front.

The garage, off the kitchen, is exceptional in its arrangement. It has a storeroom above which can be reached from the bedroom.

Another feature, pleasing to the housewife, is that the front door may be answered without a trip through the dining room, a help for busy households that many plans neglect.

The three bedrooms and two main rooms on the first floor all have a splendid view of the garden and all are arranged to have cross ventilation.

The house is designed to face west, the garage end toward the north, thus allowing sunlight to flood into all the rooms.

The material is hollow tile or brick wall covered with stucco. There is a glass hood over the door, divided with metal strips. A light in this hood makes the entrance attractive at night.

There is a band of buff, green and brown colored tile above the second story windows. Sash is green metal and the mullions and entrance door are weatherstained.

The lot size is 60x100 or 40x100 feet. The cost varying with local labor costs, will be from $8,000 to $10,000.

would not fail to notice two large beds of marigold with phlox in the center set in bull wheels painted white. Mexican fire bushes are symmetrical and perfect details on the landscape. The gravelled driveway at the rear of the houses is flanked by hedges of Amor River privet. Other trees and shrubbery include Tartarian honeysuckle, Russian olives, spirea thumbergi, American beauty climbing rose trailing on the fence in front of the plant. Other roses are Paul's scarlet climbing rose, Dr. Van Fleet's climbing rose, Simon's poplars growing here and there are very graceful.

There is a long hedge of althea now in blossom, red and purple. But dominating the whole scene are Mr. Hanna's magnificent beds of zinnias which he claims are better adapted to Panhandle winds than any other flower that blooms. Petunias are next in profusion and those also withstand strong winds, but of course their colors are more subdued. The zinnia is a close relation of the dahlia, and at a distance one easily imagines that the Empire zinnias are beds of bleeding dahlias.

Of New Record

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9. (AP)—With the motor of their endurance monoplane, Greater St. Louis, working better than ever, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine tonight entered the 20th night of their flight in an effort to regain the world's refueling record. At 6:11 p. m. CST, they had been in the air 467 hours.

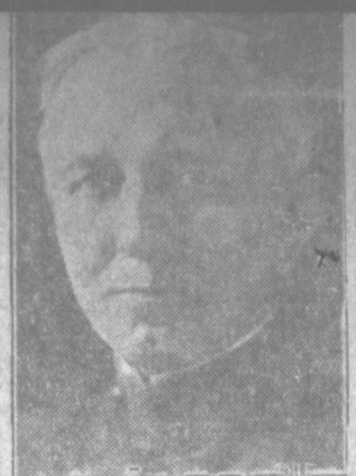

Saturday, and pay day for some folks, but just the 20th day for us, Jackson said today over the plane's radio. "The motor is running better than ever and it looks like we will make it 30 days and 30 nights."

Jackson complained about the intense heat, saying he believed he had lost 25 pounds since the start of the flight.

If still in the air Wednesday morning, Jackson and O'Brine will equal the record of the Hunter brothers, established at Chicago last month.

Following Flood

PHOENIX, ARIZ., Aug. 9. (AP)—Clearing skies over most of Arizona brought respite today from flood conditions that had disrupted rail and highway traffic for two days. Six persons lost their lives and 12 were missing as the result of rainfall of cloudburst proportions.

Four Mexicans were drowned in the floods which swept Nogales, Sonora, Thursday morning, leaving great damage and ten persons missing. Thursday night a Santa Fe passenger train fireman and engineer died in the plunge of their locomotive through a water-weakened bridge near Joseph City. Twenty-nine passengers suffered slight injuries.

Two oil truck drivers have been missing since their machines toppled from water soaked highways at Mayer last night.

Railway service over the Santa Fe line was resumed with the opening of the Joseph City bridge this morning.

Highways closed by washouts were reopened in most districts. At some points state highway tow cars hauled motorists through washed out roads and around broken bridges.

The seventh challenge to a bowling match hurled by the Lions on seven consecutive days was finally accepted yesterday by the Rotarians. The battle of the alleys will be held Monday night at 8:30 o'clock just across the street from the old county jail.

The six preceding challenges were hurled with such force and velocity that it was impossible for the Rotarians to catch them bare-handed, and they (the challenges) rolled down the streets and became miniature golf courses. (Linotype operator's note: That makes 17!)

The shock troops of the Junior Kings will be Clyde Fatheree, Sam Penberg (pressman's note: he's always bowling over something!), Clyde Stuckey, Russ Allen, Brownie Akers and John Peake.

Huge Circles of Bleeding Zinnias Dominate Green Lawns and Opulent Landscaped Grounds at Empire Plant

BY ARCHER FULLINGIM

To find beautiful lawns, flowers and shrubbery in this community, outside of Pampa, one should visit the Cities Service booster plant, what is commonly known as the "Empire camp," located a mile south and a mile east of Pampa. Oil companies in the southwest have long been noted for the grounds surrounding their camps. Most of all of them are well-landscaped and are colorful with flowers and green with shrubbery. Indeed, very few gardens and lawns in Pampa can be compared to those at the Empire and Cabot company plants.

Two years ago the Empire started improving and beautifying the grounds. The company landscape gardener, Mr. Merle Baird of Wichita, Kans., was sent down to lay out the grounds. That so much beauty was created in two years at the camp suggests the energy and skill of the plant residents.

A unique thing about the Empire company is that there are no back yards in it. The 10 houses of the employees are situated in a long row, two blocks long, east of the booster plant. There is no lawn in Pampa as wide and spacious as each lawn surrounding the Empire houses. It is hard to tell, by looking at the yard which is the front and which is the back of the house. However, it was necessary to beautify the space back of the houses as well as the front because the principal driveway skirts the rear of the residences. The lawns are all clover and are as green as only clover can be when well-watered.

Mr. Baird chose the shrubbery for the grounds, but Supt. M. W. Hanna chose the flowers. Since cannas are the standard flower of Empire plants, and as for that matter almost all other oil company plants, throughout the southwest, Mr. Baird suggested that cannas should be the dominant blossom on the grounds, but Mr. Hanna had observed the progress of Cannas under the Panhandle winds. The fragile leaves and blossoms were whipped into pieces by the winds.

And he planted zinnias instead. Zinnias have reached the peak of perfection at the Empire plant. There is one round bed of them in front of the plant. The zinnias form a perfect dome, the tall ones growing three feet high in the center and sloping down to the edge. The colors are multitudinous. The bed is a work of art in arrangement and cultivation. It is about 25 feet in diameter and there must be 2,000 zinnias blossoming now. Many have already gone to seed. There are other similar beds about the grounds.

At the front of each house is a rose of sharon which serves the double purpose of providing shrubbery and blossoms. Phlox, zinnias, petunias, marigolds, canterbury bells, nasturtiums, four o'clocks, a few cannas, cosmos, are the favored flowers the residents have nurtured and coax to blossom around the houses. The company employs care for the lawn and shrubbery around their houses, while a gardener takes care of the hedges, lawns and flowers of the plant.

Dreaming of Home?

MANY PAMPA WOMEN ARE LONGING FOR THE DAY

"When Dreams Come True"

Many Pampa housewives are sending in their suggestions of what they think is an ideal kitchen. Here is the one the committee selected as the most practical suggestion of the week: "The ideal kitchen in any home, whether the house is large or small, is that which effects the greatest economy of time, effort, and space for the housewife. It is, in reality, the combination of studio and workshop where the art and the science of cookery—for it is both—may be pursued at a minimum saving of hours and zest for 'the art of living.'"

"Every householder must be her own efficiency expert in the planning of her ideal kitchen, or, at least, must adapt the model arrangement to her own needs and habits of procedure; but I believe that each of us should demand these conveniences of our kitchen: first, ample storage room for foods and utensils; second, an arrangement to save steps; third, comfortable working conditions, as effected by light and ventilation; fourth, easily cleaned surfaces throughout; and fifth, beauty and color. "My ideal kitchen would be a veritable kitchen cabinet, for it would have cabinets from floor to ceiling, almost the length and the breadth of the room. There would be generous shelf and drawer space for kitchen linens, foods, utensils, tools, cook-books, brooms, and cleaning materials.

"While I prefer the stove with three sides exposed for use, I should like a recess between and beneath built-in cabinets for the refrigerator, and as an added time saver, I should like fold-away shelves on either side of the refrigerator, large enough for generous sized trays on which to carry food from the ice box to the work table. Cabinets on the sides of a large window would afford another recess for a window seat.

"A breakfast nook would separate the kitchen and the dining room in my ideal home, serving as a pantry and serving room for the more formal meals when the dining room was in use. The nook would contain a built-in bench at one end, with ample space for a moveable table, and at the other end, cabinets for china, silver, and table linen. The ironing board would be built into the wall of this service room, rather than in the kitchen."

GOLF GUNS, PANHANDLE CHAMPS, AND PHILLIPS PLAY TODAY

FIRST CLASH HERE WILL BE HARD FOUGHT

Playing their first game at home since they won the Amarillo baseball tournament, the Pampa Guns are expecting two things this afternoon: a close, hard game with Phillips' "66" team, and a big crowd to see it.

The game will start at 3:30 o'clock promptly. Gun park is located three and one-half miles south of Pampa, one-half mile off the pavement. Manager Kleth Edelen's directions are: "Take the first road to the left after passing the junction of the LeFors road. There is plenty of parking space and no one will be compelled to sit in the sun."

The Phillips line-up which was announced last night is formidable indeed. The batting order will include players from the Magnolia, Amarillo Cats and Tacks. The Guns are expecting a close shave—if they win at all.

Pampans who read about the remarkable fielding of the Guns at the Amarillo and Denver tournaments will have an opportunity to see the team in action that won fame for its double plays. The Guns are anxious to give the fans their money's worth this afternoon. "We have more gratitude than we can ever express for the loyal manner in which the business men, sportsmen and citizens gave us moral support and financial support at the tournaments," Manager Edelen said, "and we hope to play the game the fans have been wanting to see all season. The Guns are not going to disappoint the fans this afternoon. They are going to do their best to play good baseball."

Both the Marcum brothers will be in the game today, but Joe Marcum will be with the Guns, at his old position at center field, while the other brother will play for Phillips. Marcum and Dickey, the latter of whom was formerly with the Amarillo Cats, will hurl for Phillips. Browning will catch their balls, and will do it well. Chandler will be stationed at first base, Beeson at second, Baccus at third, Lawrence at short-stop, Wight at left field, Rusty Cahill at right field and Reynolds at center field. Baccus played with the Magnolias during the tournament. Lawrence was a member of the Tack team which lost to the Guns in the finals.

Either Wethered or Lefty Coop will pitch for the Guns. Spec Roberts, the Gun who never fails to hit, will play second. The lanky and sure-catching Cox who made only one error during the two tournaments will be at first. Phillips, author of many a double play and the member who holds the home run record, will be at short stop. Joe Marcum, circus catcher and contortionist when there are flies to be go in the well, will be at center. George Sullivan, whose home run won the Amarillo tournament for the Guns, will catch. Morgan will be at right field, Williamson at third base. Hickey will probably be at left field.

The Guns are negotiating for games in the near future with the bloomer girls of Wichita, Kans., and Shreveport.

Konjola Ends Neuritis And Stomach Pains

Grateful Man Eager To Endorse Famed Medicine That Did So Much For Him.

MR. W. T. BRYANT

"Konjola is the best medicine ever made," said Mr. W. T. Bryant, 1009 Morrell street, Oak Cliff, near Dallas. "Neuritis became so severe in my legs that I could scarcely walk. There was a constant aching in my legs that I could scarcely tolerate back and shoulders. I could never get a perfect night's rest. My bowels were irregular and I was constantly taking cathartics. I always had a sour stomach, frequent accumulations of gas and severe headaches. My vitality was at a low ebb, and I felt miserable."

"After giving Konjola a trial I am like a different man. Konjola restored my organs to normal condition and they now function perfectly. I am no longer bothered with indigestion or constipation. The neuritis pains have completely left, and my entire system is in good condition. Konjola deserves all the praise it gets—and more."

"When taken for six to eight weeks Konjola the new and different medicine, will work wonders that will astonish those who suffer from the stubborn ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and of rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness."

Konjola is sold in Pampa at the City Drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

Aspirants For Harvester Team To Meet Monday

Another meeting of the 1930 Harvester football aspirants will be held Monday night, Aug. 18, according to Coach Odus Mitchell. It is his opinion that every boy who expects to come out for football this autumn be out for the meeting, Mitchell said.

"It is now less than one month until we play our first game of football," Coach Mitchell said. "That game, at Spur, Sept. 6 is going to be hard to win, because Spur is doped to win the championship of her district."

"It is clear as it can be that our boys should start preparing for the game now. We want every boy who is eligible to play on our team to get ready for the football camp which opens off the Mel Davis ranch Aug. 20. Every boy who is planning to attend camp should be at the meeting Monday night, Aug. 18. Sixty good men should be present to get instructions. All new men are particularly urged to be on hand."

One of the new prospects is Richard Connally, a back from Ranger. He is 16 and weighs 170. He looks to be one of the best men in this part of the county, Mitchell said. Ranger thinks highly of him.

"We are hoping some other good men show up before the whistle blows for camp," the coach said.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals cut Brooklyn's lead over the Cubs in the National League race to three games today as they defeated the Robins 4 to 3. CINCINNATI, Aug. 9. (AP)—The Reds came out of a five-game losing streak today and defeated Philadelphia 3 to 1, behind Red Lucas' steady pitching. Smythe and Hanson held the Rhinelanders to six hits, one less than the losers obtained, but singles by Ford and Cooch and Walker's second triple accounted for two runs and the game in the fourth inning.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9. (AP)—A ninth-inning rally that netted four runs enabled the New York Giants to hand the Pittsburgh Pirates their second straight setback today, 10 to 6. The Pirates managed to tie the count in the eighth but Kremer, the fourth of the Pittsburgh hurlers, was roughly handled. Five hits, featuring Bill Terry's double, were good for four runs.

ATHLETICS GO AHEAD AFTER WINNING TWO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—The Senators dropped further behind Philadelphia today losing both ends of a double header to Cleveland.

The second game was a pitcher's battle between Ferrell and Hadley with Cleveland taking better advantage of their hits.

BOSTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—Stone's double to the fence in left center field in the sixth inning scored two men and was the big punch in Detroit's 3 to 0 win over the Red Sox here today. In the ninth Stone walked and scored on Aker's triple. Stone has now hit safely in 27 consecutive games. The game was a pitching duel between Lisenbee and Sorrell, with fortune favoring the Tiger hurler.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9. (AP)—The world's champion Athletics increased their pennant lead today by taking both ends of a double header from the Chicago White Sox for the second day in succession. The Mackmen won 9 to 2 and 3 to 0.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP)—In a hectic game that exhibited both good and bad baseball, the New York Yankees again triumphed over the St. Louis Browns today, winning 9 to 8. Lazzeri's double scoring Cooke, who ran for Ruth, gave the Yanks the winning run in the last half of the ninth after the Browns had tied the score in the eighth and threatened in their half of the final session.

Rev. C. B. Ingram Travels Cover Four Counties

The Rev. C. B. Ingram, of Clarendon, itinerant minister, who covers four counties in his rounds among the rural communities, is to hold three services today at the Hoover school house in this county.

The elderly Methodist minister, who for many years has spent the greater part of his time in driving from one community to another to hold services, arrived in Pampa late yesterday, after leaving his horse, "who is old enough to vote," he said, a few miles from here, and riding in an automobile with friends.

He announced that he would preach at Hoover at 11 o'clock, again at 3 o'clock, and in the evening, at 8:30 o'clock. The Rev. Ingram said that since the conference session last fall, he has had 141 confessions of faith in his services and personal interviews. He has determined to make the number 200 before the convening of the conference next fall, he said.

Other communities of Gray county in which he holds services are Grandview school, where he preaches on the Saturday evening preceding the fourth Sunday. Hopkins school, where he preaches at 11 o'clock on the fourth Sunday; and Hopkins school No. 2, where he preaches on the evening of the fourth Sunday.

Willbur Shaw was a business visitor in White Deer Friday.

LeFors, Knorr, Laketon, Farrington and Hopkins at each of which places the issue was decisively defeated.

The overwhelming endorsement of the issue by Pampanos who did vote was a source of satisfaction to supporters of the bonds last night.

LeFors and Laketon expressed their dissatisfaction to the bonds in no uncertain terms, the vote at LeFors being 23 for and 150 against, and at Laketon 7 for and 66 against. The attitude at Kingsmill was pronounced but rather lethargic as the vote was 27 for and 13 against.

Reason for opposing the issue were varied. Some were dissatisfied with the proposed routing of the highways; some thought that the issue was too large. Others believed that certain roads should not have been included in the issue. In the last two weeks many argued that the valuation of the county had passed the peak and that in years to come the valuation would be considerably lower than it is now, throwing the tax burden upon owners of real estate. Then, those who have formed the habit of voting against all bonds cast ballots in the usual manner.

Negroes Charged After Obtaining Lawyer's Money

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 9. (AP)—Accused of duping T. W. McCarty, Eastland, Texas, lawyer, out of $900, two negroes, Napoleon Scott and Allen Marshall, pleaded not guilty when arraigned today on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. Their bonds were set at $2,000 each.

McCarty said the negroes represented to him that Raymond Jackson, heir to rich Seminole county oil lands, was recovering in a Utica New York hospital from a serious illness and could be returned to Oklahoma to claim the estate if they could raise money for his hospital and traveling expenses.

Several Oklahoma lawyers have been victimized in similar fashion.

would cast his ballot for Sterling. "Friends of mine over the state have wired me asking for whom I would vote for governor," he said. "Without attempting to persuade Dallas Ferguson headquarters were anyone how to vote, I answered that making elaborate plans for a rally I would vote for Mr. Sterling."

Monday night, when both former governors were to make addresses Joe Morris, North Texas campaign manager for Mrs. Ferguson, announced that Col. Alvin M. Owsley, who, he said, supported Sterling in the first primary, would introduce the speakers. John Davis, former State Senator of Dallas, will preside and other speakers announced were W. A. Thomas, Young supporter; Larry Mills, Love supporter; and R. B. Humphrey of Dallas and Mrs. Earl Coddell of Granbury, Mayfield supporters.

Sweetwater was planning a West Texas rally for Sterling Friday night, when the candidate will appear. A Nolan county Sterling club has been formed there with a large membership and A. S. Mauney, president of the club, said arrangements were being made to hold one of that section's biggest political meetings.

Sterling headquarters at Amarillo announced that R. M. Kleberg of Corpus Christi, former president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association, and Lee Satterwhite, former speaker of the house of representatives, will take the stump for Sterling.

There were many speakers on the stump for both candidates. Ferguson speakers Saturday were Luther Nickels of Dallas at Hillsboro, A. J. Martin of Hillsboro at Aquilla, C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls at Tyler and John W. Pope of Dallas at McKinney.

Gov. Moody was booked to speak at Bonham Monday night and Sterling headquarters said he would appear at least once daily the next two weeks. Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman was to tour West Texas for Sterling.

Sterling will open his West Texas tour at Wichita Falls Monday night, Ferguson having addressed a large crowd there Friday night.

The executive committees of the parties were to meet Monday, the Democrats in Dallas and the Republicans in Brownsville, to canvass the returns of the first primary and prepare the ballots for the run-off. Republican leaders predicted a run-off for their candidates, would not be necessary. Incomplete returns had indicated Dr. George Butte of Austin, now an assistant United States attorney general in Washington, would be the party nominee for governor. He was the nominee in 1924 when Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson was the Democratic nominee.

The race for attorney general between R. L. Bobbitt of Laredo, incumbent, and James V. Alfred of Wichita Falls, was attracting considerable attention. Alfred was high man in the first primary. Bobbitt spoke Saturday in Rusk and Corsicana and over the radio from Dallas. Alfred made three speeches, at Jefferson, Marshall and Longview. Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller of Dallas and Jim Young of Kaufman, unsuccessful candidates for governor in the first primary, endorsed Bobbitt Saturday.

Senator Edgar E. Witt of Waco, candidate for lieutenant governor, opened his run-off campaign in Hico Saturday, and Sterling P. Strong of Dallas, his opponent, was making preparations to carry his candidacy to all parts of the state.

ROBBERY—

a sister in Phoenix, Ariz. The note was found sometime later.

Because of a missing left hand, identification of Martin was slow. Prints were taken of the left hand but would not match any in the police records.

Finally, G. H. Cathcart, a manager for a funeral chapel, where the body was taken, then recognized the body. Through this clue, police located a brother, Herbert Martin, also of this city who identified the body.

Until a short time ago Martin was in the battery business which was sold recently and since Martin had been without work.

The man had lived here practically all of his life, relatives said other survivors, beside the brother and wife, are a son, Otis, 13; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Martin of Grapevine; two sisters, Mrs. Lena Mayfield and Mrs. Rost Baker and another brother, Otto Martin, all of Fort Worth.

Martin did not have a police record here.

The motive for the crime and how and where Martin procured the nitroglycerin, were not known. A relative said several days ago Martin had a quantity of dynamite to blast fish from a nearby stream.

With implication of two more men, city detectives set out to find two alleged companions of Martin.

Police failed to locate his automobile. Later the officers were informed that two men were seen to drive away from the bank immediately after the blast in a car which fitted the description of Martin's machine.

It was practically established that

Martin used his car to go to the bank.

Mrs. Martin, almost prostrated with grief and shock, became calm enough tonight to tell of Martin's peculiar actions this morning.

"He was very nervous when he left home Saturday morning," Mrs. Martin said. "He kissed and hugged me repeatedly before he finally left. The night before he had complained of a terrific headache and seemed a little despondent. He kept saying that he was 'not afraid to die' and that he did not care if he did."

Between sobs, Mrs. Martin reiterated her belief that "some one else had something to do with this." It was recalled that Martin disappeared about a month ago and was not heard from for several days. Police aid was sought by relatives in an effort to find him.

Martin returned as quietly and mysteriously as he had gone. He told a story of having been kidnapped by two men who forced him to accompany them on a "journey of crime" that carried them to several East Texas towns and included the burglary of several filling stations.

had replied during the day and the others were expected to follow over the week-end.

Charlman Legge of the farm board notified Washington from Caldwell, Idaho, that he was hurrying here by train and airplane to attend the White House conference.

The usual relaxation at the Hoover lodge was conspicuously absent this week-end as the chief executive plunged into the details from which next week he expects to develop a relief program in cooperation with the states and local agencies.

Long a moving spirit in national and international relief steps, the president himself plotted the developments upon maps he took with him from the White House.

J. D. Cremer, Jr., assistant director of disaster relief from the Red Cross, said the organization's entire staff of field representatives already had been mobilized as a national drought inform bureau and were sending daily reports to headquarters here.

Murder Suspect Arrested As He Plans To Sail

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP)—Wanted in Detroit, as a suspect in the murder of Jerry Buckley, radio announcer, Ted Pezzoni, alleged gangland "trigger man," was arrested by police here today just a few hours before he planned to sail for his native Italy.

Pezzoni was captured as he walked into a Bronx bank, where police allege, he was to withdraw $15,000 sent him from Detroit to enable him to take a midnight liner for his homeland.

John Hoffman, detective lieutenant of Detroit, brought about Pezzoni's capture. Through underworld informants in Detroit, he said, he learned that Pezzoni had moved to New York and that his money had been withdrawn there and sent to a bank at the Bronx.

Hoffman left Detroit yesterday at midnight and flew here by airplane. When he reached the city early today he hurried to police headquarters to ask for aid and with two detectives went directly to the Bronx.

The bank had not opened when the detectives arrived. Hoffman knew Pezzoni by sight and the three men lingered at the corner near the bank entrance, scanning the faces that passed.

Pezzoni, walking carelessly down the street half an hour later unwittingly stepped into the trap. He offered no resistance and the detectives said he was unarmed. He was taken to the Highbridge station and held as a fugitive from justice from Detroit.

Pezzoni will be held over the week-end at headquarters and paraded in lineup Monday. Police said Pezzoni was arrested here in May, 1926, in connection with a Bronx burglary, but was released.

Pezzoni is 37. He gave his occupation as a ladies' tailor. Police said they found cartridge clips for three pistols in his home, but no pistol. He has a wife and two children.

Mrs. J. R. McSkimming was removed from Pampa hospital to her home yesterday. She was much improved.

Senator Witt Opens Campaign

HICO, Aug. 9. (AP)—Senator Edgar E. Witt of Waco opened his run-off campaign for the Democratic nomination of lieutenant-governor here today. He was introduced by V. G. Maerson, superintendent of the high school system.

He pointed out that the primary duty of the lieutenant governor is to preside over the senate, appointing the members of the various committees in this capacity.

"Since much of the important work of the senate is done by the committees, the selection of the members becomes a matter of great interest in the state Senator Witt said. "Fairness to all members and to all views on legislation is the necessary requisite for this duty. I cite as evidence of my qualifications in this respect, the support of my candidacy by my colleagues in the senate."

He said in his 12 years as a member of the senate he had been a member of every senate committee and chairman of every major committee.

ALLRED ENDS A BUSY WEEK OF CAMPAIGN

LONGVIEW, Aug. 9. (AP)—James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, who led by 30,000 votes in the first primary in the race for attorney general, closed a busy week of campaigning with three speeches in this section today. He spoke at Jefferson and Marshall in the afternoon and addressed a crowd here tonight.

"The opposition is resorting in desperation to abusive and insidious attacks," he declared, "that should have no place in a race for the high office of attorney general."

"I am confident these unfair methods employed by the present attorney general in an attempt to regain the office to which he was appointed will find no approval in the minds of the citizenship of Texas."

"Finding himself repudiated by the votes of the people in the very community where he was born and raised, he seeks to throw up a smoke screen in an attempt to divert the minds of the voters from the issue of merit and qualification. He will not succeed. It will prove a boomerang and will rout a bunch of politicians who are seeking to thwart the will of the people of Texas."

ORANGE, Aug. 9. (AP)—W. E. Lea, former president of the Texas Highway association and bitter foe of the proposed $350,000,000 highway bond issue, announced today he would take the stump supporting the candidacy of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson for governor, opening a 10-day speaking tour Monday at Rosenberg and covering 10 counties southwest of Houston.

have any idea as to whether either would accept.

AMARILLO, Aug. 9. (AP)—A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney who confessed he placed a bomb which killed his wife and maimed his 11-year-old son on June 27, has invited A. B. MacDonald, staff writer of the Kansas City Star, and Gene Howe, editor of the Amarillo News-Globe, to be his guests at his electrocution, if that should be the punishment assessed him. The two newspapermen unearthed the evidence that led to Payne's arrest.

MacDonald and Howe today received the following letter from Payne, written by him at the Hutchinson county jail at Stinnett, where he was held as a precaution against possible mob violence:

"Gentlemen: You have called me a liar. You may say my confession is a plea for sympathy and an effort to make the public believe that I am insane so that when I go to trial I can make a plea of insanity and get away with it.

"The only difference between you and me is that I used to be a liar when it served my purpose to lie but I have quit and am telling the truth.

"If there is any delay in my trip to the electric chair, it will be the fault of the state of Texas and will be over my protest, for I want to go to the electric chair just as soon as possible.

"I want to say further that I am a nervous man, if you two will come to Huntsville and see me electrocuted you will be more scared in watching me than I am in giving the party." The letter was signed, "A. D. Payne."

AMARILLO, Aug. 9. —If A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney, who confessed to placing a bomb that killed his wife and injured his son last June 27, was sincere when he requested a speedy trial and quick consummation of whatever punishment is imposed, he will get it, Potter county officials said today.

Officials went to Stinnett to get Payne to formally waive whatever legal privileges might stand in the way of speedy justice. They said if he did agree to brush aside certain legal rights in order to expedite matters a special session of the grand jury would be called and wheels of justice set in motion immediately.

When Payne signed his 63-page statement detailing his efforts to kill his wife over a long period, finally terminating in the blast that tore her body to parts, he told officers he asked no mercy and was ready to pay with his life as soon as possible.

While he declared he would not impose an insanity plea it was reported in Amarillo that he or his relatives might do so. Should this be the case, District Attorney Thomerson was inclined to await convening of the regular grand jury on August 23, without starting extraordinary procedure.

Convict Breaks From Guards In Auburn Prison

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 9. (AP)—Auburn prison, scene of rioting last year, was bedlam for a while today when a convict broke from guards and climbed a gridded window five stories above the ground. He broke the panes as he climbed and shouted repeatedly: "they're murdering us." His cries brought a crowd in the street outside while inside, the inmates raised a hue and cry that was suppressed only by the use of ammonia gas.

The climbing convict clung just under the roof while guards used tear gas and a fire hose in an effort to dislodge him. He finally climbed down on the promise given through the Rev. H. G. Straub, a priest, that he would not be beaten. He was taken to the prison hospital, his arms badly cut by the glass he broke.
