Chapter X

"David, I simply can't understand it," Coral said as they sat drinking their after-dinner coffee at the Tea Kettle. "That process has been missing two weeks, and not a single sign of it has appeared. It disappeared from the concealed drawer in your desk and vanished into thin air! You'd think that if the thief had sold it, we would have seen an announcement by some company of their discovery. They'd want to make the announcement before President Norton makes the loss public."

David lit a cigarette and puffed on it moodily. "I've stopped hazarding even guesses as to what happened to it, Coral. All I think of is that it was my fault that it was stolen and that Bendorff, Dean Mathews and most of the other faculty members think I stole it. It was inexcusable for me to leave that drawer containing the only copy of the process unlocked. I know that I was the one to know that someone would sneak into the lab while I was gone, find the drawer that I thought no one but Maxwell, Bendorff and I knew about, and make off with the process as completely as if black magic were practiced."

He drew deeply on his cigarette. "Sometimes I think it must have been black magic! I tell you, Coral, it was impossible for anyone to get into that lab Thursday afternoon, and the process was obviously stolen then. My two superiors were out of town at a meeting, I was in my rooms, and since there were no classes the laboratory was locked. Even the janitor took the afternoon off! Even though I did leave the drawer open the room itself was tight shut."

Coral reached across the table and took his free hand. "Don't worry about it too much, darling. I'm sure everything will come out all right eventually." Her brow clouded with worry. "I do wish the thing could be straightened out right away, though."

laughed, and then became serious once more. "Now that we're here together with no one to interrupt, I want to go over the events of Thursday, Friday and Saturday with you. We've an obligation to Elton as well as to ourselves to solve this mystery. We know that someone took that process from a concealed drawer in your desk in the lab. We think it was taken on Thursday afternoon when the lab was deserted. But the lab was locked even though the drawer wasn't. First of all, who besides the janitor and yourself could have gotten into the lab? Second, who, outside of Bendorff, Maxwell and yourself knew about that drawer? When we answer those questions we'll have the thief!"

"Well," David pondered, "let's see. The janitor and I had the only sets of keys to the chemistry lab that afternoon. I kept mine with me and the janitor swears he did, too. The windows were locked. It seems to me quite impossible for anyone to have entered the room. Yet someone did. How, I don't know. As for the drawer, I suppose anyone who had much time in the lab would have an opportunity to find out about it. That takes in about one-fourth of the student body. There were no classes Friday because that was Class Day and the Prom was that night. I worked in the lab myself all afternoon, and it was locked all morning. The theft was discovered by Professor Maxwell on Saturday morning." He sighed. "There's the setup. If you can find a loophole in it, you're cleverer than I am!"

How, I don't know, David. Coral had grown more and more excited. When he finished she spoke slowly, yet with excitement brimming in her voice. "David, I believe I can find 'that loophole!'"

"What? How so?"

"I know she is," Coral replied. "Who could have told the story around the campus, David? Nobody that I've asked about it seems to know just how it got started."

He shrugged. "I give up. Half the time I'm convinced that I have an evil genius wandering around the campus, concentrating all his energies on harming me and my wife."

Coral squeezed his hand. "David, I love to hear you say 'my wife'! But this is no time for romance." She

'COOL PAPA' BELL TO BRING NEGROES HERE 2 NIGHTS THIS WEEK

"Cool Papa" Bell and the Wichita, Kas. Monroviens, negro traveling baseball team, will be in Pampa for games on Tuesday and Wednesday nights with the Pampa Oilers. Game time each night will be 8:30 o'clock with admission 40 cents.

The ball player with the strange moniker is recognized as one of the fastest base runners in the game today. He was the sensation of the Denver Post tournament last year when he would call where he would place bunts and then beat the throw to first.

Also with the team will be Jock McMeans, one of the greatest second basemen in the country. Many others on the team are well known in negro baseball circles and the Oilers are looking for a tough battle.

The hurling corps includes Tenike, Raglin, Williams and Thurman. Others on the team are Flenor, Billingsley, Carbit, Jordan, Robertson, Green and Carter.

It is highly probable that many of the winners will be residents with new yards on unpaved streets. The purpose of the contest is to foster beautification of residential grounds here, and the yards which show continuous improvement will win. Every person who takes his yard seriously has a chance to win.

Names and addresses of the entrants will be published later.

They were accompanied to sites of proposed lakes in Gray Township, Potter, Deaf Smith, and other counties by Carl Hinton of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

The three engineers, one a water engineer, another a lake engineer and the third a soil conservation expert, came to the Panhandle direct from Washington.

Site Praised

With C. H. Walker, Garnet Reeves, H. DePue, Sherman White and Ivy Duncan, they inspected the Beaver Dam site Thursday. It was their opinion that a dam at that narrow point on McClellan creek would create a large, beautiful lake and that such a body of water would be of great value to this section both as a flood control measure and as a recreation spot. They declared the site was certainly as good as any they had seen in the Panhandle.

Mark Denson, engineer who made preliminary engineer's plans for the dam, is making further soundings. Meanwhile, it is not expected that steps to provide approximately $100,000 for building the dam will be taken by advocates of the reservoir until fall, due to the fact that the dam could not be constructed during the rainy season. Proponents also hope to obtain state or Federal aid, or share in the government's lake-building program in the Panhandle if it is approved by congress. They would advocate voting a county bond issue as a last resort, and would not urge that an election be called until all hope for government assistance is gone.

TWENTY ENROLLED IN LIFE-SAVING SCHOOL

Tommy Atkins, life-saving instructor at the swimming pool, announced yesterday that instruction which he began Thursday would be continued every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. More than 20 children and adults enrolled in the course, and more are expected to enter the class. It will not be too late to enter on either of those three days.

All Boy Scouts in the city are urged to take the course.

Mr. Atkins, experienced in swimming and life-saving and former instructor at lakes and pools in Oklahoma, will leave next Saturday to attend a Red Cross life-saving school for a week at Brownwood.

Mr. Atkins expects to qualify as an instructor, examiner and as an examiner of instructors at the school. He formerly has held those qualifications, and expects to renew his cards at the school.

FIRST DAM FATALITY

A Good Commercial Loan

—has distinct hallmarks which warrant its rating as sound business for your bank.

THESE hallmarks are:—the good name of the borrower; the sound purpose for which the money is to be used; and the self-liquidating character of the underlying transaction which assures repayment of the loan in accordance with its terms.

These are the essential features of commercial loans made by this bank. They help our customers carry on useful, profitable business activities. Bankers call them "short-term, self-liquidating loans" for they finance industrial, agricultural and merchandising operations which are normally completed within sixty or ninety days or seasonal periods, and bring in funds to repay the loan.

HEALTHY STUDY OF OUR NATION'S YESTERYEARS

If the literary signposts are worth anything, we seem to be moving in the direction of a sane and helpful reappraisal of our national past.

For a number of years our novelists hardly other lands have occupied decades in America. They did know it, they seemed to look on it as a dreary and confining period from which, by grace of the passage of time, we had luckily managed to make an escape.

But things are different now. The two most fabulous fiction successes of recent years have been "Anthony Adverse" and "Gone With the Wind," which go back to themes our novelists had been ignoring almost unanimously.

Now the point is that very few of these books have been written uncritically. Most of them have sought to show either that some fabled and glamorous era was really less romantic than distance makes it seem, or that in the process of coming of age we have somehow put aside ways of living that were of genuine value.

All of this has made for a good deal of confusion. We need a breathing spell, so that we can examine this past of ours dispassionately and see just how we became what we are today.

This doesn't mean that every novelist must immediately get out his reference books and fall to on a historical romance. We need light on the present as well as on the past. But it does mean that this fictional preoccupation with bygone days is a healthy thing.

The anti feed-the-frivolous campaign was started by one hard-headed American ambassador who became tired of endless entertaining for do-nothing Yankees abroad and decided instead he was going to spend his meat and fish money on native figures who really counted.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—We have it on reliable authority from the culinary department that the pickings are going to be mighty lean in certain foreign capitals for those Americans who live abroad because they like the flavor of the alien social whirl.

The yawning juror always will be the stoppage of any proposed court reform. The public which imposes on comedians by asking them to be funny outside working hours is doing it just for a joke.

The fan is so popular in China that the Orientals have different fans suited to the different classes of people and various festival occasions. Temperatures often drop 10 to 20 degrees during a total eclipse.

Then came the example of the hard-headed diplomat who decided he was not going to be ambassador to the American colony, but to the country to which he was assigned.

Not all Americans will be cut off his guest list. Some have important connections and cannot be snubbed. But there are lists full of such Americans who failed to make Newport yet find that their supplies of candy make them so enough to get along in some foreign colony.

Screams of indignation from the "parasites" echoed back to Washington. But the state department, very covertly of course, was overjoyed. It recognizes the necessity of constant and expensive entertaining by its ambassadors and ministers.

Hint to careerists: Cut more Americans, court more foreigners. Ambassadors get $17,500 a year, which seems very pointed to most of us, but doesn't stack up very high diplomatically. It costs more than

HM—IT'S NOT LIKE JACK TO DO THAT

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Among the regrettable aspects of life in New York is the Gas House conduct permitted audiences in the more expensive hotels and nightclubs.

And, unfortunately, there isn't much that can be done about it. The managements, as much as they may privately rue it, have adopted a do-nothing attitude.

I have in mind an incident of a recent evening in the Persian Room which, apparently, has been adopted by the debutantes and the pedigreed drosses of society as a playground of their own.

A new personality was introduced by the management, Nella Goodelle, and she must have thought it was the Fourth of July, by the confusion, when she attempted to sing.

"I," said the trailer proudly, "am a home, People live in me. And what manner of creature are you?"

"Won't you buy some of my bachelor buttons?" Well, anyway, the thing to do now is buy these tiny blue flowers, instead of gardenias, if you are a male in New York.

"You are a home," mused the mule, with a twinkle in his eye, "while I—I am a horse!"

So They Say:

We are not merely passing through an economic crisis. We are victims of a wrong philosophy of life—the philosophy of physical comfort.

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

By ROBBIN (WHERE-AM-I) COONS

SOMEWHERE-IN-CALIFORNIA—Seems to me the solution ought to lie in a nutshell. This Culver City, Hollywood name-changing feud, I mean.

It's a long story, but a good deal can be left on the cutting-room floor. Hollywood is only a dateline, not a city.

The proposition has both places in a ditch, if you can call a dateline a place.

Once upon a time Hollywood was a place. The earliest settler called it "Hollywood"—the story goes—after certain natural beauties.

It's a headache-fraght situation. Until this thing blows over, address me at Little Rock, Ark. The folks down there have made up their minds.

How's Your Health?

Edited by DR. IAGO GALDSTON for the New York Academy of Medicine

Ten Dietary Essentials Dr. Mary Swartz Rose, professor of nutrition at Teachers college, Columbia University, recently listed 10 dietary essentials.

These are not all the essentials of an adequate diet, but under most circumstances, by selecting natural foods known to furnish these 10, the other essentials will be provided when the requirements of the 10 are met.

The average American diet is not lacking in calories. It is quite likely, however, to be deficient in protein, and even more so in calcium, phosphorus and iron.

These deficiencies could be appreciably corrected by adding to the common diet milk and milk foods, tomatoes, cod liver oil, green vegetables and the whole grain cereals.

The science of nutrition is highly complicated. To acquire a thorough knowledge of the caloric requirements of the body, of its protein needs, of the different vitamins, etc., calls for years of close study.

But one can plan a good diet with less knowledge, provided one fully appreciates the "function of eating."

But there are complications, as if the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce hadn't thought of plenty already. I'm thinking of us date-line users. We'd be the ones to suffer.

It would play hob with our pattern language too. We say an actor "goes Hollywood" and that covers it. But then—has he gone "Culver City-Hollywood" or just "Hollywood-Hollywood"?

Now remember, dear, you promised not to introduce any of those people you invited to my friends.

SIDE GLANCES

This, That and Everything

BY WILLIAM HUSLEY CLARE

In his book, "How to Live," Arnold Bennett has much to say about success. He states that success may be divided into four branches: (1) distinction in pure or applied science;

Unless these various branches mentioned by the author cover much more territory than we might reasonably assume, his suggested success has been confined within too narrow limits. There is nothing about either of these possible forms of success mentioned that would necessarily make one a success.

To say one is successful just because he has been able to get hold of money and placing the standard of success rather low. For one to be successful in making money, he must use ethical methods in getting it.

BOOK A DAY

By BRUCE CATTON

Mr. H. G. Wells continues to contemplate sadly the dismal contrast between the world as it is and the world as it ought to be.

This book — "Star-Begotten" (Viking: $1.75) — expounds Mr. Wells' conviction that the world cannot be saved unless it somehow contrives to put the direction of affairs into the hands of the scientists and the intellectuals.

He tells about a little group of curious Englishmen who discover that the people of Mars, or some other remote planet, are bombarding the earth with a steady stream of cosmic rays.

But it also poses a problem: how to get the direction of affairs into the hands of these brilliant ones—so that, as Mr. Wells puts it, apes will not be flying our airplanes. And here Mr. Wells indulges in a somewhat cloudy lecture which may not tell you how that is to be done but which will at least impress upon you his conviction that it ought to be done.

Trained technicians that are on the spot of action with remote control equipment on a moment's notice—that's the reason KPDN enjoys the reputation of being "ON THE SPOT FIRST" with news and entertainment. Celebrations, Good-Will Tours, Parades, On The Street Comment, Performances—these are only a few of the outstanding features brought to you through its remote control facilities.

When C. R. Anthony and Co. opens its doors at 7:30 Monday night to bring you its Open House feature, you will find Cullum & Son's Tune Teasers there for part of the entertainment to be offered.

Another Entertaining Feature

... for Anthony's Open House will be Smoky and Bashful, The Range Ramblers, rendering musical numbers in their own individual way.

This open house is another outstanding feature for Pampa, and KPDN is again THERE to bring the program to those of you who are unable to attend the first half hour of the event.

Infantry moved in from Begonia from the east and down the hills west of the city taken after smashing the famed "iron ring" of defenses.

Sections most badly battered in Bilbao were along the water front where terrific charges of dynamite used to flow up bridges shattered windows and showered debris for blocks. A dock and old steamer burned.

Hospitals were jammed with wounded. The Basques were estimated to have used 75,000 men in defense of the city and to have lost 10,000 killed and wounded.

Death Toll Boosted

Insurgents said last-minute executions and street killings boosted the death toll.

It was estimated that Bilbao's population, normally about 200,000, had been swelled over the half-million mark by thousands of hungry refugees who poured into the city. Many lived in cellars and railway tunnels during the long siege.

There was no bread, meat, potatoes or milk in the city for 48 hours. Air bombs smashed conduits four days ago, cutting off water supplies.

A Basque committee of four fled the city at dawn today after the battalion of militiamen took charge.

Insurgents predicted Santander would be the next objective of Franco's forces and that city would surrender "by telephone." They said fall of Bilbao made further resistance in northern Spain impossible.

FATHER'S DAY, LIKE DAD HIMSELF, HAS HAD ITS UPS AND DOWNS, BUT NOW IT SEEMS TO BE HERE TO STAY

Father can claim his just dues, today, practically assured that the day first set aside for him 21 years ago is here to stay.

Public indifference has been weathered, the sales resistance of a nation broken down. The idea, once abandoned, has caught on and Father's Day now joins the parade of U. S. holidays, it appears for all time.

Out in Spokane, Wash., a quiet-voiced little woman is proud of that. She is Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, honorary president of the International Father's Day Association, Inc. Before Mrs. Dodd had her happy thought, first back in 1910, father wasn't even officially recognized by the masses, to say nothing of an association in his behalf.

First observer of Father's Day in America, Mrs. Dodd conceived the idea as a tribute to her own father, William Jackson Smart, veteran of the G. A. R. He had reared his own motherless girl in six, alone. And so, when his task was done and Mrs. Dodd looked back on the magnitude of it, she chose to honor him privately.

Always Bright and Fresh. From that inspiration the idea grew. At first, ministerial associations took up the lunch, introduced constructive teaching on the subject of father, honored the day in Spokane. Then other cities followed.

That was through the years of 1910-11-12. The Y. M. C. A., in several chapters, boosted the plan. Mrs. Dodd came to the fore with her day on a nation-wide basis. A few were actually consummated. At Wilkesburg, Pa., for instance, a Father's Day club was organized, choosing the dandelion as the proper symbol. This was because "the dandelion always springs up bright and fresh again when stepped on."

Other clubs chose the rose as a symbol; deep red if the father were still living and white, if dead. So the movement grew. And then suddenly, for no particular reason, the idea lost ground, failed to capture further the popular imagination. Ten years later, 1920, Dad's Day was dead!

Fathers Too Modest. It was still dead, as a matter of fact, as late as 1926. Facetiously, a columnist wrote: "It has been suggested that it was father's natural modesty which caused the plan to fail. For he was to be taken to church to hear sermons devoted to his excellent qualities and at dinner songs were to be sung about him. These songs would for the most part have to be written, for it is mother rather than father who has been celebrated in rhyme. No other specific reason has been cited for the failure of the plan."

That is, it would have failed, doubtless, were it not for the National Greeting Card Association and the tobacco dealers of America. Stepping in with a sweeping advertising program, dedicated to father, they saved the day at the crucial moment. That was around 1928.

Two years later and the count y was thoroughly father-conscious again. Dads in some cities organized parades, donned gingham aprons, bore rolling pins and pushed perambulators down Main street to typify the domestic thralldom from which they had been liberated—for one day.

Day Becomes Legalized. The greeting card sales and the tobacco sales went up. The florists, candy manufacturers and the haberdashery salesmen got in the swim, too, without further delay. Delaware moved, as the first state, to legalize the day, issuing a charter for its observance.

Subsequently, resolutions were introduced in Congress to make Father's Day a national holiday. These failed of passage, but the day is now recognized by proclamation of popular acclaim in every state, and is recognized in some foreign countries. The day falls automatically on the third Sunday in June.

This year the observance is dedicated to Gold Star Fathers of the country. A Gold Star father will be acting mayor of Spokane for the day, home of the founder, Mrs. Dodd will participate in the programs.

So, 20 years later, the gratitude of a daughter, to her G. A. R. father who reared his motherless family alone still blossoms, and for one day, at least, father comes into his own.

NEWS - COMEDY - SHORTS

LEGISLATURE WILL ADJOURN FRIDAY NIGHT

AUSTIN, June 19 (AP)—The legislature will come to the end of the anti-gambling trail next week.

The special session called by Governor James V. Allred to repeal the law authorizing horse racing under the certificate system of betting and strike at other forms of gaming must end by Friday night.

Both houses had passed bills prohibiting dog track betting and tightening statutes against horse race bookmaking with majorities sufficient to make them effective when signed by the governor.

Some believed these would complete the state of major legislation. There still was a chance, however, for bills disposing of blooded jacks and stallions purchased and distributed with horse racing proceeds.

The Senate killed a jack and stallion bill this week but advocates intended to seek reconsideration.

Pending in the House was a resolution asking appointment of a committee to investigate a purported "order" by state authorities to cut 30,000 recipients from the old age assistance rolls.

Board of control officials denied issuance of such an order but said social security authorities had expressed dissatisfaction at the size of the Texas roll which exceeded that of New York by 38,000.

The governor said he would submit several local bills Monday and prohibit state and federal dove hunting regulations.

The legislature had been here almost continuously since Jan. 12. The summer recess began May 27, four days after the regular session ended, for the primary purpose of repealing the horse racing law.

The lawmakers passed a repeal bill eight days after the special session started. It did not get a two-thirds vote in the Senate, however, and therefore would not become effective until 90 days after the end of the session, or late in September.

Talk persisted that operators of one or more of the major tracks might go to the courts in an effort to invalidate the act or hold late summer meetings or both. The racing commission had refused to grant dates past September 1 on grounds it would not be in existence after that date.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—Stocks moved unevenly within a narrow compass and got nowhere today in the slowest Saturday trading in two and a half years.

Among the 60 most active shares, the widest price change was 3/4 of a point. Rails and copper were mostly a little lower, utilities worked up for a while but interest died and they finished about unchanged. Steels, motors and oils were mixed.

Keepers of the records had to go back to Oct. 27, 1931, to find a day in which transactions were fewer than the 229,850 shares traded today. At the finish the Associated press average of 60 stocks was down 2 of a point to 614.

Traders were obviously waiting for some sort of break in the steel strike situation. The greatest activity appeared in the oils but they moved very closely in line with yesterday's closing level.

Shares selling up a little included consolidated Edison at 33 1/2, Public Service of New Jersey, 37, Columbia Gas, 13 1/2, North American 25 1/2, American Can, 9 1/2, Briggs Mfg., 4 1/2, and General Electric, 37 1/2.

CHICAGO, June 19 (AP)—Greatly improved domestic harvest conditions southwest pitted wheat values downward 2 1/2 cents a bushel maximum today. Ideal harvest weather prevailed. MADRID'S RAGTAIL SUPPORTERS TURN INTO A POWERFUL ARMY

By ALEXANDER H. UHL

MADRID (AP)—Out of 11 months of bitter warfare has come a strong loyalist army, well disciplined, well equipped.

It is a far cry from the ragged, poorly equipped peasant and workers' militia that faced Franco's professionalists last July.

The government proudly cites the new army as its principal accomplishment to date—and to anyone who saw the ragtail band it started with it is readily apparent that a tremendous task in organization has been accomplished.

Armed Mob at First

In the beginning the "people's army" was little better than an armed mob and not too well armed at that.

On the road to Toledo I drove up to a disorganized mass of troops re-treating from Bergas, Ky. to the Toledo position. A dozen men rushed up, gesticulating wildly, and in broken sentences, demanded the car.

Pointing to the American flag fluttering from the windshield I refused to surrender it and demanded to see an officer.

reported $1,054,000 in sales for 1934, and $1,168,000 for 1935.

In the apparel group, which includes women's and men's clothing, hats, tailors, and millinery, 5 Gray county stores had an increase in sales from $122,000 to $129,000.

Other business groups for which increases were reported include: 9 furniture, household goods and radio goods, from $260,000 to $320,000; 15 lumber and hardware dealers, from $649,000 to $784,000, and 14 drug stores, from $370,000 to $397,000.

Texas' increase was from $948,486,000 to $1,058,277,000, or 12 per cent, with reports received for both 1934 and 1935 from 45,313 stores representing 82 per cent of the state's total business.

The Bank of Japan, the country's central bank, was established in 1882 as a joint-stock company.

It is estimated that one-seventh of all federal income is gained from taxes on tobacco.

TAX PAYMENT DEADLINE WILL FALL ON JUNE 11. Deadline for second-half tax payments falls on June 30, Tax Collector Ewing Leech warned Gray county property owners Saturday.

Under the law, there is a nine per cent penalty plus a $1 redemption cost if taxes are not paid by that date.

The same penalty and deadline applies to independent school district taxes, with the exception of the $1 redemption assessments.

Doug Wilson, deputy collector for the county, stated Saturday that approximately 300 taxpayers, who took advantage of the spill payment system this year, still have not paid their last half assessments.

In Essex Market court, Stalito said, "I must have made a mistake."

JUDGMENT IN CITY BUS CASE GIVEN CULLUM

Final act in the demise of the Pampa city bus line was written in Gray county district court yesterday when a $1,799.75 judgment was handed down by Judge W. R. Ewing in favor of Fred Cullum and others in a lawsuit against L. C. Gomillion former operator of the buses.

The recovery was given to the plaintiff for amounts due on two auto busses purchased by the defendants.

BIG BAD SHEEP BUTTS WOLF FROM HIS DOOR

CRESTON, Ia. (AP)—The sheep turned the tables at the Walter Vorhides farm—it killed a wolf. Vorhides had adopted a wolf cub left motherless and raised it on a bottle.

Romping in the haymow, the cub fell through a hole in the floor into a sheep pen beneath, where an angry buck sheep butted it to death against a wooden gate. Vorhides collected bounty on the pet.

SUMMARY OF WAGE-AND-HOUR LAW NOW PENDING DISCUSSED

The following is a practical summary of the proposed wages-and-hours law, discussed by the President in his recent message and now before Congress as S. 2475 and H. R. 7,200. The legislative verbiage is here condensed and only the significant proposals of the bill are given.

Hearings on this measure are scheduled to begin before the Senate committee on education and labor and the House committee on labor, jointly, Tuesday, June 1.

The bill proposes to set up a labor standard board of five members to administer the provisions of the law. The board is authorized to require the elimination of substandard labor conditions caused by any of the following practices: oppressive wage, oppressive work-week, oppressive labor practice, oppressive child labor.

After the first section of the bill sets forth conditions arising out of employment under substandard labor conditions and declares that correction of these conditions requires the exercise of congressional power to regulate commerce by prohibiting interstate shipment of goods produced under substandard labor conditions, the measure defines the terms used in the bill. Among these definitions are the following:

"Oppressive wages" or "oppressive work-week" means a wage lower or a work-week longer than the standards to be set by congress in this bill. The present bill has blank spaces for these, to be filled in later.

"Oppressive labor practice" means use of strikebreakers or espionage.

"Oppressive child labor" means employment of children under 16 in any occupation or between 16 and 18 in hazardous occupations.

"A fair wage" is one commensurate with the value or class of service rendered.

"Substandard wage" or "substandard work-week" is a wage lower or a work-week longer than the standing orders against intrastate employers as well as those engaged in interstate business.

Section 11 makes it unlawful to employ persons in violation of board orders or to transport in interstate commerce goods produced by employees in violation of any such order or to ship goods into any state in violation of a law of that state concerning labor standards.

Violation of the law would incur punishment varying from fines of $500 and imprisonment of not more than six months or both to a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for a year. The bill provides that no violator should be given a prison sentence unless for a second offense.

Civil liberties are also provided in the bill granting employees the right to bring an action against an employer should they receive less than the minimum wage or be required to work in excess of the maximum work-week.

While the bill is to take effect upon enactment no provision requiring the maintenance of fair labor standards can take effect until the one hundred and twentieth day after the law is enacted.

Widawake leaned. Southern went to the hospital with chest and shoulder bruises.

OIL COMPANY SUITS PUSHED

AUSTIN, June 19 (AP)—Attorney General William McCraw, seeking to speed up trial of the state's anti-trust suit against 15 major oil companies and two associations, said today a decree embodying the Supreme Court's judgment favoring the state would be submitted next week.

The high court last week upheld validity of the anti-trust statutes and ordered trial of the $17,000,000 penalty suit on its merits.

State's attorneys were given 15 days to prepare a decree. The attorney general said counsel would work over the week end perfecting the formal document in order to finish up every phase of the case before the court recessed for the summer.

He said appeal could not be taken to the United States Supreme Court and the mandate of the state Supreme Court could be returned to the Travis county trial court in time for a place on the fall-term docket.

When the case is called, the state will ask that it be advanced ahead of others on the docket, he said. There never has been a trial of the case on its merits.

"All questions of law have been settled and no further dilatory pleas can be raised to delay the trial," McCraw said.

"There is left only the trial of the case, and the purpose of the trial will be to determine whether the defendants are subject to penalties."
"The most important thing decided by the court was that Texas still has her anti-trust laws, a fact which should be borne in mind by every sober, sane business man who believes that free competition is the life of trade."
