PANHANDLE GIRL DROWNS IN LAKE

COUNTY WIDE BOND ISSUE DEFEATED BY LARGE MARGIN

MA AND STERLING ARE ENDORSED AT PARTISAN CONVENTIONS

Taking a summer vacation seems to be an old American custom—at least folks here have been doing it as long as The Pampa can remember. It therefore behooves the writer to absent himself a couple of weeks, and by the time this is in print he will be on his way. If this column appears, it will be most unusual, and the chances are that this space will be otherwise used during the absence of the regular word merchant.

The Pampa regrets to leave at this time, since important matters are before the people, but he must get those two weeks off at once or fail to return for the second primary, the opening of the football training camp, and the coming of the Redpath Chautauqua sponsored by the Pampa Library association. Interesting events are in store for this community in the fall.

Cessation of this column for two weeks will do no damage to anyone or any institution we can think of at this moment. Columnists are notoriously erratic, for instance, there is Erasmus Tuck of Amarillo who is a regular "off again back again" writer.

One reason for this vacation, is that the writer needs it. He has been "enduring" reading hundreds of letters from politicians, columns of printed much from the same crowd, and lately adding columns of election returns without regard for such a thing as sleep. Frankly, he needed a summer tonic, but he so confused by the conflicting claims of patent medicine advertisements that he could not make up his mind. He has recommended restful vacations for everyone else and now it is up to him to follow his own teachings if he can remember them.

This writer surely needs to get rested up and to restore his once impervious digestion to normalcy. He was an original Clint Small supporter. But now, he, like other Texans, must "swallow" the candidacy job even if he holds his nose. Right now, without a vacation, he doesn't believe he could accomplish the feat. He would probably pass up the governor's section of the ballot and write Clint Small's name in the margin.

Every reader of this column knows what the writer thinks of Ross Sterling's policies and we wish to add that everything we have said about Ross goes for Ma too. Ma is a good old girl as they say down in East Texas where Jim plans to "open up," but Ma is so crooked they have to get all his rottenness swept up down Austin-way yet. Ross and the federal road engineers are hide-bound on highway routing, while Jim would like to cut the cost of building roads from $30,000 to $10,000 and waste the difference. If you don't believe that, look up the record's in the Ferguson highway department which caused the federal government to withdraw aid from this state.

If there were some way to let the principals in the second primary go at each other like the proverbial gingham dog and calico cat, the state would profit thereby. It is a sad state of affairs when the people of Texas have to choose between two evils in filling the highest office in this fine old state.... Texas is going back into the headlines of the nation, and the snickers will be like those we have been making at Oklahoma and Louisiana. It's dogged, shameful, but it's politics—and "we the people," the voters, who will not recognize merit when we have a chance. Sterling, rich already, would buy the governorship; Ferguson would barter its powers to the highest bidder.

FORT WORTH AND DALLAS DEMOS BOLT

Sterling Is Approved At Many County Meetings

WEST TEXAS NOT BACKING ANYONE

Moody Bunch Holds Austin; Jim's Gang Holds Belton

BEAUMONT, Aug. 2. (P)—By a large majority the Jefferson county Democratic convention endorsed the candidacy of R. S. Sterling for governor in regular session here this afternoon. Mild opposition to the move in the form of another motion to table the Sterling motion was voted down.

AUSTIN, Aug. 2. (P)—Supporters of Governor Dan Moody ruled the Travis County Democratic convention today, electing the Governor and Mrs. Moody delegates to the state convention and Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, chairman of the convention.

SNYDER, Aug. 2. (P)—The Scurry county Democratic convention today went on record against a state bond issue of any kind and favored a pay-as-you-go highway policy. Delegates elected to the state convention were J. H. Allen, Fritz R. Smith, Lee Stinson and J. T. Biggs.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 2. (P)—Supporters of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, runoff candidate for governor, bolted the County Democratic convention shortly after it had opened today in seventh district court room and set in operation their own convention at the opposite end of the hall in ninety sixth court room.

"Good-bye Ku Kluxers," was a parting shot from the Fergusonians. The Ferguson convention adopted a resolution against a state road bond and urged that a plank to that effect be in the state Democratic platform.

EL PASO, Aug. 2. (P)—The El Paso county Democratic convention today unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Ross Sterling for governor but agreed to back the party nominee regardless of who won in the August 23 run-off.

BROWNSVILLE, Aug. 2. (P)—The Cameron County Democratic convention today went on record as supporting Ross S. Sterling for Governor. Senators Morris Heppard and Tom Connally and Representative John N. Garner.

DALLAS, Aug. 2. (P)—A group of delegates led by Maury Hughes, state executive committeeman, today bolted the Dallas County Democratic convention.

The action came after Cullen F. Thomas, chairman, had ruled out of order a report by Hughes which would have made all delegates pledge themselves to support the Democratic nominee of the primary August 23. Thomas held that the delegates had to take that pledge in the first primary.

The first open feeling of discord was shown when some of the delegates took exception to the speech by Thomas attacking "Fergusonism" and favorable to Ross S. Sterling, candidate against Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson in the Democratic gubernatorial run-off. Pleading again for harmony, Thomas ceased his talk out of the deference to the wishes of the Ferguson followers.

M. V. Wilkins, Shamrock Oil and Gas employe, was seriously injured in a cellar cave-in nine miles south-east of LeFors Friday afternoon. He was rushed to the McKean and Connor hospital in a Stephenson's ambulance.

STORE IS BOOST TO BUILDING PERMITS

A permit to erect a store building at a cost of $13,000 on North Cuyler where the Panhandle Lumber consumed yesterday. Actual construction of the building was started Thursday. John T. Glover was awarded the contract.

Total amount of permits for this week was $18,900. Other building projects started were as follows: O. L. Park, residence, Park Hill, $1,000; Clyde Fatheree, garage and servants quarters, $400; H. P. Larsh, $1,000.

Building permits for the first eight months of 1930 aggregated $716,125.

Credit Bureau Extends Scope

Recent extensions of the activities of the Pampa Business Men's Association to include McLean, was announced by Carson Loftus, secretary today.

"We now have several members in McLean, as well as in Skellytown, White Deer, LeFors, and the oil field stores. The purpose of the organization is to cover every town and every business tributary to the oil fields, as what affects Pampa also affects every town and business in this section of the country. Our interests are common and our customers are exactly the same.

"There are still a few firms who have not affiliated themselves with the association, but they are falling in line one by one and soon they will all see the light and get in step."

Revival Meeting Called Success—To End Tonight

"A success in spite of many difficulties" is the way Rev. D. H. Truhitte, pastor of the Central Baptist church, characterized the revival meetings conducted at the high school gymnasium by Congress man-Evangelist Wm. D'Ushaw for two weeks, the closing services of which are to be held tonight.

"Pampa is a better community ever more because this remarkable statesman-evangelist has spent two weeks in our midst, said, Pastor Truhitte. "It has been a rare inspiration to come in daily contact with such consecrated versatility in the pulpit and before our civic clubs. To see an acknowledged national leader stirred Congress and the nation by his fearless eloquence on the side of righteousness preaching the gospel of Christ with impressive earnestness has been a sight which all friends of better homes and better citizens will never forget."

"About twenty conversions and additions to the church have crowned these meetings in the face of many local conflicts," Mr. Truhitte said. Mr. D'Ushaw's Sunday morning subject will be "Personal Evidence of Christianity," and at his closing service Sunday night he will speak on "Building a Bigger and Better Pampa."

J. W. Christian, Amarillo, salesman for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, was in Pampa Friday. Mr. Christian said that the Adkisson & Gunn Tire company have moved from ninth to fourth place in the "Zeppelin race" being conducted by the Goodyear company, and if the local company continued to gain, they would have a good chance of winning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reader are leaving Monday on a two weeks vacation trip to Carlisle, N. M., accompanied by Mrs. Reader's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boyer of Eureka, Kans., and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stover of Eldorado, Kans.

Little Interest Seen In First Of Two Elections

NEXT VOTE TO HAVE FRIENDS

Pampa Is Sponsoring Smaller Plan For Paving

Voters of Gray county Saturday frowned upon a proposed road bond issue of $3,500,000, defeating the proposition by 573 votes to 176 in boxes from which returns were available.

A two-thirds majority was necessary for approval.

The vote by precincts:

- LeFors: 50 for, 1 against.
- Pampa: 15 for, 66 against.
- Knoorr: not available.
- Alanreed: 1 for, 71 against.
- McLean: 4 for, 218 against.
- Laketon: not available.
- Farrington: not available.
- Hopkins: not available.
- Pampa: 7 for, 75 against.
- Pampa: 48 for, 130 against.
- Pampa: 6 for, 12 against.

Totals, 176 for, 573 against. Opposition to the issue was based largely on the cost of building proposed concrete roads in the south portion of the county where valuations are light and distances long. McLean folk who were invited to assist in planning a feasible road paving program withdrew from the session when they ascertained what the cost would be.

When the county wide plan was abandoned, a three-precinct plan omitting precinct 4 was drafted, and the total sum fixed at $2,000,000. However, only $1,600,000 would be voted since the present road bond issue of $400,000 in precinct 2 would be absorbed. This $2,000,000 issue, sponsored by Pampa paving enthusiasts, will be voted upon next Saturday, August 9.

The pending road plan would provide paving on principal state roads, 33, 33A, and 88 and part of 66, and would complete the slabs to LeFors and several miles beyond, to the Roberts county line and the Carson county line on the Borger road. Oil companies and associated interests would pay approximately 85 per cent of the cost, and the tax rate would be less than that of last year's levy for the $400,000 issue. The reason is that valuations have

Visitor Wins Wrestling Match With Texas Cow

Frank Van Ping of Monroe, La., on Thursday morning engaged in a wrestling bout with a cow in an effort to regain possession of his pocketbook, upon which the animal was complacently chewing.

Mr. Van Ping had gone with some friends to a picnic on a ranch near Pampa the evening before. He did not discover the loss of his pocketbook until the next morning, when he returned to the scene of the party and found the cow testing the sweetness of plains weeds out of one corner of its mouth and the flavor of the pocketbook out of the other corner.

Losing no time in crossing the space that intervened, Mr. Van Ping seized the animal by the neck. Resenting such treatment, the cow flung him into his car, but the Louisianaan recovered the pocketbook, and left the cow to search for other sources of substance.

Four men, one of whom has a bullet wound in his leg, and one woman were placed in the Gray county jail last night pending investigation of a shooting which took place at a local cottage court about 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

A hearing is scheduled to be held this morning to determine whether charges will be filed. The entire party was said to have come here from Kansas City.

The wounded man was said to have been taken to Shamrock after the shooting, and all were held there upon request of the Gray county sheriff's department.

BABY GIVEN INTO CUSTODY OF MISSOURI

Judge Braly Finds Woman's Claim Weak

PARENTAGE WAS UNDER CLOUD

Babe Is Claimed By Agent Of Juvenile Court

The custody of eight-month-old James Worley was returned to the Kansas City juvenile court yesterday afternoon by Judge Clifford Braly after Mrs. Lillian Moore-Higgins, or Mrs. Lillian Prince, as she styled herself in an alimony suit and claimed Tuesday she was his natural mother, failed to appear at a habeas corpus hearing in 114th district court.

The court postponed the custody hearing until yesterday after Mrs. Higgins declared that she could introduce testimony which would prove that the boy was her natural child and that the baby she adopted last December at a Kansas City maternity hospital was in the custody of a sister.

Later, if Mrs. Higgins produces evidence, proving that the baby is her natural child, he will be returned to her, Judge Braly said. Miss Elizabeth Woodson, Kansas City juvenile officer, promised the court that the baby will be given back to Mrs. Higgins if she should be able to prove that the baby is not the same who was adopted by Mrs. Higgins.

The smiling youngster, whose blue eyes, shapely head, and friendly disposition led many persons to believe, "Let me adopt him," left yesterday afternoon for Kansas City in the custody of Miss Woodson and Miss Ruth Vance, nurse who testified she was present when he was born.

In the hearing yesterday Ralph T. Harding, Kansas City lawyer, who was called to the witness stand, testified that Mrs. Higgins adopted a baby from the juvenile court, which handles all adoptions, and that he had recommended her to the court. He said that when he first knew her she went by the name of Mrs. Lillian Moore, but that after she adopted the baby she began to call herself, Mrs. Lillian Prince.

Mr. Harding testified that it was not until after she adopted the baby that he learned that she claimed to be the common-law wife of H. C. Prince, drilling contractor, of whom she was asking in the alimony suit $1,000 per month to support the child. Judge Braly in returning the custody of the baby to the juvenile court, revealed that part of the testimony introduced earlier in the week in which a Kansas City physician stated in an affidavit that Mrs. Higgins had asked him to help her adopt a baby.

Miss Woodson also introduced the birth certificate of the baby, and Mrs. Higgins' original application to adopt a child, which she filed at the juvenile court, Mr. Harding also testified Mrs. Higgins had told him when she secured his assistance in adopting the boy, that she was unable to give birth to a child, due to physical defects, and wanted to adopt a boy.

Judge Braly said that he had been requested by Mrs. Higgins through her attorneys, to postpone the case until Monday or Tuesday, but that since all the circumstances pointed to the fact that the child which Mrs. Higgins claims was the one adopted at the hospital, he had decided to return him to the custody of that institution.

DAVIS RANCH IS SCENE OF TRAGIC DEATH

Miss June Purvines Of Panhandle Is Victim

RESCUE WORK ENDS FUTILELY

Body Is Recovered By Uncle After 2 Hours

A swimming party at a lake on the Mel Davis ranch near LeFors came to a tragic end about dark Friday night when Miss June Purvines, 18, of Panhandle, was drowned in the mossy waters of the lake after futile efforts had been made to save her by her cousin, John Purvines, and Joe Cook, a friend.

The body was recovered two hours later by Dr. Walter Purviance, her uncle, who fished it to the surface of the water with a common fishing pole, topped by a fish hook. The water in which Miss Purvines finally sank, after being brought to the lake surface many times by the young men, was 10 feet deep. The form of the young woman, still warm when it was laid on the bank of the lake, was found several yards from the place Miss Purvines was last seen.

Miss Purvines with her cousin, Miss Helen Stewart Purvines of Pleasant Plains, Ill., came to Pampa Thursday to spend the week-end at the home of their uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Purviance. Honoring the two young women, Mr. Purviance entertained with a swimming party at the lake Friday night. About twenty guests were in attendance at the party when the tragedy occurred, but only Miss Purvines and the two young men were in the water at the time.

They had docked the boat at the dam and had started to the other side of the lake, but after reaching the middle of the lake they decided to swim back to shore, as they were swimming against a strong south wind which rippled the water, dashing it in the swimmers' faces. Miss Purvines could swim very little it was said. She was swimming between her cousin and Mr. Cook with her hands on their shoulders.

When they turned back, Miss Purvines became excited and called for help. They had swum a few yards when she grasped Mr. Cook around the shoulders and both were drawn under the water. For about 15 yards, the two men tried frantically to keep her above the water and bring her to shore. Both were drawn under the water a number of times and rapidly became exhausted, but they continued their efforts to rescue her until she finally sank. Mr. Cook swam a few yards to the shore for the boat while Mr. Purviance searched for her. A number of men had reached the boat when Mr. Cook arrived, and they rowed it to the place where the unfortunate girl sank.

For two hours, Dr. Purviance used artificial respiration methods to resuscitate her. She was brought to Pampa in a G. C. Malone ambulance. The body was taken to Panhandle last night. Funeral services will be held at Panhandle Monday, it was announced yesterday.

Miss Purvines was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Purvines, pioneer of Carson county. Mr. Purvines, a brother of Dr. Purviance, is a prominent rancher of the Panhandle community. Miss Purvines was graduated last May from Panhandle high school. She was well-known here. She played guard on Panhandle girls' basketball team which met the local several times this year and last. She was born and raised at Panhandle.

Mr. and Mrs. Purvines, Mrs. Wilma friends of the girl, came to Pampa last night when they heard of the accident.

STERLING vs. FERGUSON

Although eliminated from the gubernatorial runoff, Senator Small and those who supported him have no occasion for chagrin over the outcome. The Senator on his own account should cherish the magnificent support given him in West Texas—a support greater relatively than any other candidate received in any territory or in his home section—as a fine tribute to his character and recognition of his public service. The rest of the state can take it as one of the best recommendations, coming from Senator Small's home people who have known him longest and best, that has been accorded a candidate seeking high office.

And when one considers the factors that operated against the success of Senator Small's candidacy, there can be but one verdict: he ran a magnificent race. The wonder is not that he missed the runoff, but that he polled as big a vote as he did. On his own account, Senator Small had the handicap of being comparatively unknown outside of West Texas. His "river" bed legislation, his victory in carrying it over the veto of the Governor and his activity generally in behalf of progressive legislation in the senate, had stamped him as an outstanding member of that body, it is true. But because oil development had not spread to other sections of the state at that time and land titles were not affected in other areas as they were in West Texas, the people of the rest of the State failed to appreciate the service he had rendered to them. In addition, Senator Small offered for office upon a platform that few candidates would dare to have enter the race a few years ago, a platform designed to appeal to commonsense instead of prejudice. Directed to the intelligent voter, interested in clean politics, good government and state progress it was absolutely free to the usual empty promises, the insincere appeals and the vote-catching phrases.

On the side of the opposition, Senator Small faced a number of factional candidates, each with his own block and votes, each a figure in state politics for 20 years or more; and Mr. Sterling with the great political power of the highway department and its 5,400 employes the influence pending highway projects can exert in every county in the state and a campaign that for organization and expenditure of money outranked anything that the state has seen for a decade or more.

And against such a combination of unfavorable circumstances, Senator Small ran third in a field of eleven, easily defeating Young, Miller, Love and Mayfield and would have won, too, had these three polled anywhere near the vote that was generally expected of them. But the mere fact that Senator Small defeated such seasoned politicians as Miller, Love and Mayfield, is in itself refreshing. If it means that at last the public has become tired of political wrangles and wishes to rid itself of the factional politician, it is evidence of the dawning of a new day in Texas politics. And to the extent that Senator Small contributed toward bringing it about by arousing the public against these petty quarrels, that have hindered development, he has rendered a real service, and though defeated himself has achieved a victory.

As for its own part in the campaign. The Star-Telegram finds only pride in having supported Senator Small and the natural regret that we feel over his defeat is far outweighed by the satisfaction of having supported to the best of our ability the candidate we sincerely believed the best qualified. That satisfaction, in defeat, we do not hesitate to say, is greater than it would have been had we supported either of the leading candidates and won. Were we faced with the same situation again, our course would be unchanged.

But having opposed the nomination of both candidates who now enter the runoff and having taken the position that neither would make this state a good governor, The Star-Telegram naturally sees no reason why it should right-about face and support either. Support of Mrs. Ferguson is, of course, out of the question. Our long and well known opposition to the policies of her husband and our most recent fight against the highway practices during her own regime would make that impossible.

Mr. Sterling we do not regard as equipped, temperamentally, by his knowledge of public affairs or by experience in such, to make this state a good governor. He sought the nomination upon but one issue—the highway bonds; he discussed none of the other pressing state problems; he showed no ideas as to their solution; he gave the public nothing by which to judge his capabilities or answer the question of whether he would or would not make a good governor. He merely talked highway bonds, and now with the runoff approaching, there are indications that he intends to discard even that issue. Mr. Sterling has made a lot of money in business, it is true, but it takes other qualifications than the ability to make money in business to make this state a good governor.

In the campaign just closed, The Star-Telegram opposed his highway bond issue, believing it a matter that should be settled upon economic merit, free of politics and the political ambitions of any man. We opposed his attempt to ride into office upon it. We opposed his retaining the office of chairman of the highway commission while seeking the nomination for governor; of his supporters going about the state and using pending highway projects as clubs over the voters; and lastly, we disapproved of the use of huge campaign funds in his behalf. And having taken this position with respect to Mr. Sterling only last week, we would feel hypocritical to change this week and enthusiastically support him, merely because the candidate we supported in the first primary has been eliminated.

Mr. Sterling as a candidate for governor is just as objectionable in our opinion this week as he was last. He has done nothing since the primary of Saturday to indicates that he would make any better governor than he showed when making speeches from the stump.

But in a situation such as now exists; where the voters must choose between a return of the Fergusons and the election of Mr. Sterling, the preference, of course, must be given Mr. Sterling.

And with this statement, we shall leave the Fergusons and Mr. Sterling to the tender mercies of the voters; giving to them the fullest information concerning the utterances of both and the progress of their campaigns. Any further suggestions, we believe would be useless. The voters who cast their ballots in the primary of Saturday for the Fergusons, Sterling, Miller, Mayfield, Young, Love and the minor candidates certainly did not do so upon any suggestion from this newspaper. They have shown that they are not apt to be influenced by anything it may say; and the 125,000 or more, which returns are certain to show voted for Senator Small, don't need it. To use the Senator's own words, these voters showed such "rare good judgment" that they trusted to go the rest of the way without further suggestion from us or anybody else. All they need is information as to both candidates, fully and fairly imparted. That we shall give them.—Star-Telegram.

LE4's FRESH MEATS DIRECT TO THE CONSUMER

I have fed a choice lot of young Hereford cattle on grain and cake that I am selling to the local markets. My meat is killed and cooled at the Ward Packing Plant and goes direct to the local markets fresh and tender with all the flavor of good beef. This saves myself and eliminates the middleman... the big packing houses, railroads, etc.

The next time you buy meats ask for some of this superior quality, young home-killed beef. I have sold this beef to the following markets.

A LETTER OF THANKS

Sayre, Oklahoma. August 1st., 1930.

To the Good People of Gray County, Texas:

Ever since last Sunday we have been trying to find words sufficient to express our thanks and appreciation to you for the overwhelming expression of confidence you gave our son, Lon L. Blanscet, in his race for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of your county.

Lon had many friends from here who visited him during the course of the campaign and all brought us back the assurance that our boy would win the race and it gives us great joy and happiness to know that in the four years he has lived among you that he has made so many friends.

With so many of you showing such steadfast friendship for Lon in the first primary I feel that his nomination is assured in the run-off.

Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Blanscet and Family

Many In Attendance At Reception Honoring Rev. and Mrs. Lancaster

The Rev. C. E. Lancaster, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Mrs. Lancaster, who came here from Coleman a few weeks ago to take up their work with the local congregation and to make their home in Pampa, were honored Friday evening with a delightfully planned reception given by the Women's Missionary society.

More than 150 members of the First Baptist church and friends from other congregations of the city assembled in the church parlors, where flowers and drawing room appointments created a pleasant setting for the occasion.

Mrs. C. L. McKinney, president of the missionary society, headed the receiving line, which included Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster, Mrs. Ernest Fletcher, and John Lee Harris, assistant pastor.

"Good Time to Get Acquainted" was a chorus in which hostesses, honored guests, and visitors joined at the beginning of the program, and "The More We Get Together the Happier Are We" was the chorus with which the function ended.

Dance For Members Of All Collegiate Social Fraternities Announced

Among the interesting social events scheduled for the week is a dance to be given by the Fraternity club of this city, to which all members of social fraternities of any college or university are invited. The affair will be given at the Schneider hotel next Thursday evening, with dancing from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Alfred Gilliland, president of the club, stressed that all fraternity men, whether affiliated with the local organization or not, are welcome to attend. Invitations have been mailed, and others will be sent as club members learn the names of fraternity men who have not been seen personally. It is emphasized, however, that those who are eligible are cordially invited, although they do not receive individual bids. The invitation is also extended to college men of the entire county and neighboring cities who are members of Greek-letter social organizations.

Plans are being perfected, Mr. Gilliland said, to make the dance an outstanding social function of the season, featured by the best of music from a new and lively orchestra.

Mrs. J. W. Johnson of Clovis, N. M., is spending the week-end with her sister, Mrs. R. G. Hughes, and Mr. Hughes.

Facts Concerning $2,000,000 Road Bond Issue For Precincts No. 1, 2 and 3

This map does not indicate the exact location of the highways as the location of all state highways is in the hands of the state highway engineers.

Precincts Can Afford to Pave

The present estimate of county officials for the three precincts as to value for this year ----- $24,000,000

MILES OF PROPOSED PAVED HIGHWAY IN EACH RECINCT

PRECINCT 1—HIGHWAY 33	8 Miles
Highway 33A	17 Miles
Lefors	3 Miles
Total	28 Miles
PRECINCT 2—HIGHWAY MIAMI	1/2 Miles
Highway Borger	4 1/2 Miles
Highway Lefors	9 Miles
Highway 33	8 1/2 Miles
Highway 33A	6 Miles
Highway 88	5 1/2 Miles
Already paved	17 Miles
Total	51 Miles
PRECINCT 3—HIGHWAY 88	15 Miles
Highway (66) 75	10 Miles
Total	25 Miles
Grand Total	104 Miles

Precinct 1 gets approximately 27% of the mileage, and pays approximately 12 1/2% of taxes
 Precinct 2 gets approximately 49% of the mileage, and pays approximately 84 1/2% of taxes
 Precinct 3 gets approximately 24% of the mileage, and pays a little less than 3% of taxes

The Following Roads Would Be Paved

Highway 75 (U. S. 66) Approximately	10 miles county's part	$109,083.00
Highway 88 Approximately	21 miles county's part	345,450.00
Highway 33, Approximately	16 1/2 miles county's part	184,066.00
Highway 33A, Approximately	23 miles county's part	363,000.00
Highway, Borger, Approximately	4 1/2 miles county's part	112,500.00
Highway, Miami, Approximately	1/2 mile county's part	12,500.00
Highway, Lefors, Approximately	12 miles county's part	360,000.00
Total	87 1/2 miles	$1,486,599.00
Precinct bonds to be retired		380,000.00
Total		$1,866,599.00
Amount remaining for right-of-way, engineer expenses		133,401.00
Grand total		$2,000,000.00

The above estimates were given by the State Highway Commission on the four state highways, the county highway estimate is based upon state figures. On straight 20-year serial bonds, the rate, based upon $24,000,000 valuation in the three precincts, would be approximately 70c. On a 20-year bond with a 10-year option, the rate would be about 7c higher. This bond, in case values increased during the first 10 years, would enable the district to pay off earlier and save interest. The above statements are given in order that the voters may understand the situation.

The $2,000,000 issue would pave every state highway in the country, as well as about seventeen miles of county roads. There is every possibility that if highway 33-A and 88 are not paved soon that the state will stop maintaining these highways. This would throw them back to the various precincts to maintain at county expense. Most of the counties in this section either have paved roads, or are preparing to pave. These precincts, with a heavy valuation, and prospects for their valuations going higher, should take advantage of the situation when both the state and federal commissions are now ready to assist all the way from one-half to two-thirds on the cost of the state roads.

DANCING JUDITH

By CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH GRANT, artist's model lives in Greenwich Village with CHUMMY MORLEY, a lovely girl who lost her memory seven years ago when ALAN STEYNE, her lover, disappeared. Steyne returns but Chummy does not recognize him and Judith falls in love, and he tells Judith he never loved Chummy and never knew Chummy loved him. However, Chummy regains her memory, and Steyne feels in honor bound to ask her to marry him. Judith goes to the teacher GUARVENIUS to study dancing, and accepts the offer of rich BRUCE GIDEON to star her in a musical show, despite Steyne's warnings. Chummy accidentally learns that she failed to recognize Steyne when he first came back to her, and it disturbs her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII
Judy and Clara Jenks came out of Guarvenius' house together. It was a very hot afternoon. Summer had suddenly descended on the land. The asphalt streets were soft, the reek of gas smoke was nauseous, and every city sound was intensified a hundredfold; and yet it was only the beginning of spring.

Clara Jenks was there because Guarvenius had been kind enough through Judy, to make her free to use his big rooms for practice. Her part in the theater dialogue required some acrobatic and gymnastic dancing, and she had evinced some screamingly funny steps.

She was almost a transformed being, these days. Prosperity spooks small-natured folk, but it makes big-natured ones bigger still. Clara was blossoming. Her blunt face, humorous eyes, and mouse-brown hair would never be beautiful, but she was not nearly so plain as she had been a few weeks ago.

As they turned into one of the busy streets, the traffic held up a large limousine in which sat a man and a woman. The man was handsome, well past his youth, with lines in his bronzed face that told of hard living. He had a grizzled moustache and dark hair. He was leaning toward the woman, gazing at her with absorbed interest, talking animatedly, obviously finding in her the one thing that mattered to him in life.

His companion was quite young. She had yellow-brown hair that grew around her pale face in rather fantastic curls. Her eyes were vivid turquoise blue. Judy's chief impression of her was that she was bored, and that she looked cool on this sultry day, swathed in transparent black, with a large lace hat, and that she wore a long string of pearls of fabulous size.

"That's Gertie Clarendon, that was," said Clara excitedly. "Do you remember her at the Victorian? She was only in the chorus."

"Poo! How cool she looked!" sighed Judy. "Yes, I remember her name."

"She is Mrs. Everglade now," Clara went on. "That's her husband with her."

"He looks swell."

"Sure! Don't you remember the wedding? They said he divorced his first wife to marry her."

"Lord! He must have been crazy! And she only a chorus girl!"

"Yes, a girl like you and me—no better," said Clara stoutly.

"Not an ounce of cleverness in her. I mean, you and I both could give her fits. And there she is, sailing about in a car as big as a bus and wearing pearls as big as marbles."

"He must have been crazy," repeated Judy absently.

"He was—dead crazy. You see, that's the way with girls when they're clever, Judy."

"But you said she wasn't clever."

"Not clever at her job, I meant; but clever as the devil when it came to hooking old Everglade, you bet! She wasn't the kind of girl a chap like that marries!"

"But he did marry her!" Judy said with a sudden snap, like a fish biting.

"Oh, yes, he married her all right!"

"Why, then?"

"You goose! Because he was mad about her and couldn't get her any other way."

"Oh!" said Judy.

It was a whispered exclamation, just a soft expelling of her breath. Thoughts were taking shape in her mind. Fury and hatred and revenge had been seething there for days, but never any coherent plan. There was none now—only the picture of that cool, white-faced, blue-eyed, yellow-haired girl in the big car, and the handsome man hanging over her, his eyes aight, his pleasure hers, his will and his life just a couple of toys in her hand.

been mad about Gertie Clarendon. "That was an idea! Everglade had and he had to marry her. Perhaps in the beginning he had thought that she was 'not the sort of girl one could marry.' Perhaps she had been to him only a 'little Judy Grant'; but Gertie Clarendon had been clever. Judy laughed as if something had amused her.

Before she reached home Judy bought an evening paper. One of the first things she saw this announcement:

Jasmin sings and Gossteivitch plays at Mr. Bruce Gideon's big party on Park Avenue tonight.

Judy read the half column devoted to Gideon's entertainment very carefully. There was a description of the salon, which she learned for the first time was the most beautiful room in New York, and of the music room, where she had danced to Guarvenius. And Gregor Gossteivitch, who had played for her, was to play to the guests, and Carlo Jasmin, the greatest living tenor, was to sing, and the flowers were to cost so many hundreds, and the supper was to be served at separate tables in the picture gallery on the floor above.

She read that Madame de Toros, Mr. Gideon's sister, was acting hostess; that she was famous for her elegance and perfect taste in dress, and that she would probably wear the magnificent Albenza pearls.

Judy's thoughts went back to the girl in the car. She would probably be there—Gertie Clarendon. At any rate, she could be there; but little Judy Grant couldn't—oh, dear, no! She did not know a single person in Gideon's real world—only the two or three uninteresting men who had been to lunch with them, and who obviously belonged to his business life. For the first time she learned from the paper that he was interested in Trans-Atlantic Oil, from which he derived part of his enormous fortune. She really knew very little about the man.

She had not seen Gideon since the day when she had overheard the two men talking in Stornaway's studio. She had written to say that she could not lunch with him on the following day. He had answered also in writing, asking her for the day after, he had decided—that, too, saying—she was busy.

All the rest of the day she brooded. Frequently there rose before her mental vision the pale, curl-framed face of Gertie Clarendon, a chorus girl, no better than herself.

That night Judy was at the Lemon Grove, and her kindness lifted poor Dumont into the seventh heaven.

Two afternoons later she went to Stornaway's. She was in radiant spirits. He had had a wonderful lesson that morning. Guarvenius had actually praised her and called her "my bird" in Polish about a dozen times. He had also said that she would be ready in less than a year. He wanted her to go to Paris, and told her that she was not to worry about expenses. Was she not like a daughter to him, and would he not be repaid a thousandfold when she took the world by storm?

Judy really began to think that she must be going to be a great dancer. Somehow she did not mind what she took from Guarvenius. He was making plans, he told her, for her to live with a relative of his in Paris, a Polish lady married to a Frenchman. They would look after her. He wanted going to have Judy running about the Quartier Latin as she did about Greenwich Village. She might get into mischief and spoil all his beautiful plans.

Stornaway welcomed her eagerly. "I've been wondering what had become of you," he told her. "I stupidly tore up your letter and forgot your address."

"Fact is, I've been awfully busy," said Judy. "I didn't think you were so keen on the sittings, Mr. Stornaway; but I ought to have let you know when the week was up."

"I shall be very glad to have you back," he said in his urbane way, which always suggested that he lived in a world with which there was no fault to find.

"I haven't dared to touch that sketch of you. We must get to work!"

She laughed.

"Oh, but that is not work. Mr. Stornaway! You said you were only doing it for a joke."

"I didn't say for a joke, Miss Judy. I said 'for my pleasure,'" he corrected, smiling.

And she smiled back, having heard from his own lips that he was doing it for Bruce Gideon.

"But I do want you for some more serious work," he went on. "I've got to paint that Princess Elizabeth in again. I'm not satisfied with her. I'm booked to deliver that canvas in August."

"They got to work at once—Judy in all the panoply of Tudor royalty. She always felt more uncomfortable in the heavy skirts, the sweeping sleeves, and the close red wig."

When the sitting was over, Stornaway offered her tea; but she refused it and bade him goodby.

"I say, Miss Judy!" He detained her with a light and kindly touch on her shoulder. "Don't think me meddling about you. I know about your dancing and all the hard work it means, and model work can't pay you anything to speak of. Aren't you rather overdoing it? I should hate to think of your being overworked, when a little help—"

She knew he was not speaking for himself, as it were. Some infallible instinct told her that. She threw back her head and laughed at him, with mischief in her pearly eyes.

"Mr. Stornaway, you pay me about three times as much as anybody else," she said; "and your work is much easier. I'm much obliged to you, but I don't want any help."

The artist's eyes rested for a moment on her shabby clothes.

"Have you seen Gideon lately?" he asked irrelevantly.

"No—not for several days. Were you at that grand party of his?"

"Yes," Stornaway replied. "It was a great show. Would you like to have been there?"

"Rather not!" she snapped. "What would I be doing there?"

"Gideon thinks a lot of you, Miss Judy."

"Does he? I've got to learn why. He's been very decent to me about the dancing."

"He believes in you. A man like that can be a very good friend."

"No doubt, Mr. Stornaway. I'm very grateful to Mr. Gideon for what he has done."

She was not giving herself away, he was quite convinced that the artist was pumping her, trying to get at her real thoughts about the rich man. No doubt Gideon had told him to do so. Mr. Punch wanted to know whether she was plucked or alarmed by his sudden neglect. Well, he was not going to know. Her nebulous plan was revealing itself as a definite game.

Stornaway made an appointment for the following afternoon. She felt sure that Gideon had put him up to it, and she was pretty certain that the millionaire would turn up himself.

She was right. He strolled in, as if by chance, toward the end of the sitting. Stornaway stopped painting at once, and Judy, released by a nod from her stiff pose, yawned and stretched her slender arms high above her head.

Mrs. Housewife Are You Interested?

Last Sunday we called upon the ladies of Pampa to write us about the kind of kitchen they preferred, and many responded with suggestions. Here is the one the committee selected as the most practical:

HOO-HOO Club, Pampa, Texas.

In response to your add in last Sunday's paper, I wish to submit the following suggestions for an ideal kitchen. The kitchen should be about 10 feet by 12 feet. It should be on the south east corner of the house. This gives you the sun in the morning, then it is pleasant in the afternoon. The ideal kitchen should contain many built-in features such as sabinets, ironing-board, and broom closet. These should be conveniently arranged so as to save the housewife many steps.

The windows should be placed to give good light and ventilation. Many people prefer linoleum on the floor, while I like a hardwood floor which has been varnished and waxed so as to use rag rugs.

A dome light may be used in the center with a light over the stove and the sink. This keeps a shadow from being cast when working at the sink or stove.

The wall may be painted or papered in a light, cool, color, that is easily kept clean.

The curtains should be of a material which is easily laundered and cheerful in color.

For the kitchen to be ideal, a breakfast room should be built just off the kitchen. The furniture in this room may be built in, as the pullman type, or movable.

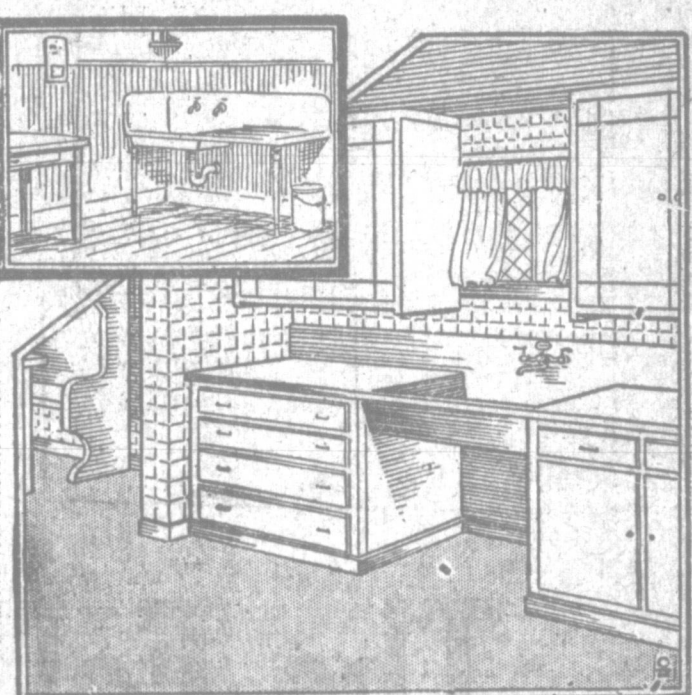

In a kitchen such as this it should be a pleasure for the housewife to prepare the meals for her family.

The Kind of Home
You Want

There will be a home built in Pampa according to the plans of local ladies; it will be an up-to-date home in every particular and at a moderate price; it will contain five rooms with basement and garage; each room designed by a different lady.

Give Us Your Ideas

Your ideas might be embraced in "Pampa's Ideal Home." We will accept letters all this week on "The Ideal Kitchen." It will not be necessary to submit a drawing, just write us a letter explaining the arrangements and dimensions. Address Box 878

A better idea in this weather is to find a nice gentle trout stream, slip up on it very carefully, with plenty of the right accessories, and spend the day in strict observance of the principles of Isaac Walton.

We'd take the "I" right of "Bill." If we had our way with Chicago's mayor we know what we'd do. We'd take the "I" right out of "Bill." And substitute a "U."

But we'd be completely lost trying to find a satisfactory substitute for Gulf Venom fly spray. It is indispensable to the dairy, and the most satisfactory spray for use in the home, because it is effective, and without the usual offensive odor.

Markets
CORN OR—WHEAT DOWN
CHICAGO, Aug. 2 — (P) — Both corn and wheat shattered price records today, but did so in exactly opposite directions. Corn smashed through previous top figures for the present season, whereas wheat dived under bottom levels not heretofore touched in many years.
Forecasts indicated that drought, damaging the corn crop would remain generally unbroken next week, and on the other hand that there would be a liberal increase of the United States visible wheat supply total on Monday.

Closing quotations on corn were irregular, varying from 3-4 cents decline to 1 3-8 cents advance compared with yesterday's finish. Wheat closed unsettled, 3-8 to 3-4 cents off, and provisions showing 17 to 45 cents gain.
Extreme nervousness showed itself throughout the day in the corn market and in the wheat pit as well. Reports that rains had fallen at various points in Iowa, the state which most often as a corn producer leads all others, did much to bring about a temporary rush to sell corn and start wheat into sympathetic weakness.

Provisions advanced readily to the highest point reached in some weeks. Commission house demand was large.
Closing indemnities: Wheat 83 318 to 5-8, 87 5-8; Dec. 88, 92 1-4 to 3-8; March 93, 96 to 3-4. Corn:

Sept. 84 12, 88 1-8; Dec. 81 to 1-4, 86 1-2; March 84 1-4, 90.
