 PAMPA — Prior to the annual Christmas parade in downtown Pampa, the local chapter of the American Red Cross will host a "Christmas Open House" from 3-5 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 29 at its headquarters at 108 N. Raging river imperils kayakers
 SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Recent heavy rains have turned the Guadalupe River below Canyon Dam into a torrent, drawing kayakers who may not be experienced enough to handle the raging rapids.
 Outfitters say kayakers are flocking to the area this week, many without the knowledge, equipment or skill to tackle the river safely.
 Kayakers usually have to travel to New Mexico or Colorado to find such fast-moving water. The flood releases are expected to last at least another week.
 On Saturday, Juliet Garcia, 33, of San Antonio drowned while trying to kayak past a small bridge along River Road.

In-town coyote number to rise as temps drop

By KATE B. DICKSON
 Associate Publisher

With the advent of colder weather, more coyotes in search of food are making their way to the edges of Pampa and, in some cases, into the city itself, said Pampa Animal Control Director Sandy Burns.
 Burns has had recent reports from people who live just outside the northeastern edge of the city limits who say they hear the animals at night.
 "I think one of them may have lost a couple of pets to coyotes," Burns said.
 "It's really important for people to bear in mind that coyotes will prey upon any small animal ... dogs, cats, too," she said.
 "That's why we have more foxes living in town," Burns said. "They are trying to get away from the coyotes."
 Joe Zotter, wildlife biologist with the Texas Wildlife Damage Management Services office in Canyon, says coyotes "as an urban problem" exist all over the panhandle.
 Making the problem worse is the fact that "some coyotes are raising litters close to town where the pups grow up not being as afraid ... it's a way of life for them," the wildlife biologist said.
 Zotter and a wildlife technician in his office are working on a plan for Pampa to "give residents some relief" from coyotes by "removing" some of them. He said they will find corridors the animals are using to come into town and he expects to take action this winter.
 "We can selectively remove some coyotes but we can't get them all," Zotter said.

Library trees may be felled, replaced

A proposal that, if approved, will lead to the cutting down of the five large trees at Lovett Memorial Library will go before the City Commission during its work session at 5 p.m. today at City Hall.
 The regular meeting begins at 6 p.m. and both meetings are open to the public.
 Representatives from the Friends of the Library will be present at the work session to discuss the tree plan in which they'll propose replacing the trees with other large trees.
 The reason the Friends want to remove the large trees are because the trees produce bean pods which are "messy," a Friends spokesman said at last commission work session.
 In other business, the commission will:
 • Consider declaring the drug dog as surplus property and authorizing its sale. The police department no longer has a handler for the canine because the officer who had that duty has been called to active duty in the armed forces.

Where's Barbie?

The Pampa Police Department issued a missing persons report today for Barbie.
 Actually, police officers are looking for 24 Barbie dolls.
 Ina Mae Johnson, 76, 2728 Cherokee, an Avon distributor, told police that about 3:15 p.m. Monday, her husband placed two cases of Barbie dolls on the top of his car while he loaded it with other merchandise. He apparently drove off with the cases still on top of the car.
 Officers said that when he realized what he had done, he retraced his steps but was unable to find the two cases, each holding 12 Barbie dolls.

Much has been made of dashing young pilots and their war birds, but Earl Bullick says if it weren't for men like him, the pilots wouldn't have had anything to throw at their enemies.
 Bullick, a corporal with the Army Air Corps during World War II, was in ordnance. He and his buddies were the ones who loaded the bombs aboard the planes that flew over North Africa, Italy, Germany and Japan.
 Born in Oklahoma, Bullick's father brought the family to Pampa in the Dust Bowl of the 1930s.
 "Pampa was an oil boom town," Bullick said, sitting in his chair at home on Malone Street.
 The south and west sides of Pampa were lined with oil rigs. "It was quite a town, sure enough," Bullick said.

School budget tops agenda

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
 Staff Writer

School board members here will begin the 2002-2003 budgeting process by setting guidelines at the regular meeting Thursday, Nov. 29, in Carver Center. The meeting opens at 6 p.m. in the board conference room at 321 W. Albert.
 Pampa Independent School District's Board of Education met in special session three weeks ago to hammer out specifics as members work to fit next year's budget with the current uncertainty of public school finances.
 School officials are considering several revenue scenarios for the coming year. Business Manager Mark McVay told the board at the Nov. 8 meeting that the "most likely" projection is that the district will see a 50-student decrease in student enrollments and a $20 million decrease in property values, leading to a total revenue of slightly more than $18 million. PISD's 2001-2002 budget is based on revenues of $18.4 million.

 Big increases in insurance premiums, especially for school-owned property will add to expenses for the district, as well as the uncertainty of revenue the district can expect from the state, officials said.

Infighting part of reason Pantex Citizens Advisory Board disbanded

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Infighting, trouble getting unanimous votes and Department of Energy frustrations led to the demise of the Pantex Plant Citizens Advisory Board, officials and board members said.
 The board was created in 1994 by the DOE to provide community input on the environment and other issues at the Pantex Plant, a nuclear weapons facility.
 But last week, DOE Amarillo Area Office

Manager Dan Glenn disbanded the board, saying the group was unable to provide effective advice to the agency.
 "The primary message I want to get across is that I want public input, and unfortunately, I am as disappointed as everyone else that this mechanism failed to do that for us," Glenn said.
 Glenn said board bylaws hampered its work and the board had little to show for their annual (See INFIGHTING, Page 3)

Texas round up ...

Texans prepare for season's first big chill

DALLAS (AP) — Texans unpacked their winter gear and bundled up Tuesday for an arctic blast that promised plunging temperatures, rain, sleet and some snow in places not accustomed to it.

City crews in Dallas and Fort Worth prepared to put sand trucks on the roads at a moment's notice after a winter storm watch was issued by the National Weather Service for Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Residents, meanwhile, took their own first-of-the-season measures.

"They've especially been buying a lot of antifreeze. We had a full shelf; now, it's empty," said Eric Valdez, parts sales manager at an AutoZone in Dallas.

By Tuesday night, rain was expected to turn to sleet and eventually to snow in Dallas-Fort Worth, according to the Weather Service. Temperatures were predicted to drop into the 20s at night and not get above the low 30s on Wednesday. An ice accumulation of a half-inch was possible.

"There's going to be a significant, hard freeze — a killer freeze," said Michael Mach, a meteorologist with the weather service in Fort Worth.

The brunt of the wintry weather was expected to hit the western Red River Valley, including Bowie, Jacksboro and Gainesville, where an accumulation of 1-3 inches of snow was predicted by Wednesday.

A chance of the white stuff during the holiday season sounded nice to Cindy Ketchum, a worker at a Dairy Queen in Bowie. Other parts of the forecast weren't as enticing.

Texas prisons report due this week

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge has issued a Saturday deadline for a report detailing the treatment of mentally ill state prison inmates in solitary confinement.

The management of mentally ill inmates in what is also called administrative segregation is one of the final issues to be scrutinized in a civil rights lawsuit filed on behalf of inmate David Ruiz and other prisoners in 1972.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, who has monitored the state's prisons for more than 20 years, also said that by Dec. 15, prison officials are to file a plan to ensure that seriously mentally ill prisoners whose conditions are worsened by solitary confinement be housed in more appropriate facilities.

In an order entered last month, Justice also raised concerns about the use of force by correctional officers, and the victimization of inmates who become targets of extortion and violence by other inmates.

Justice first ruled that the Texas prison system was unconstitutional in 1980 in the Ruiz case and ordered sweeping improvements. The suit fueled an unprecedented prison construction boom in Texas, as well as numerous other reforms.

Earlier this year, a panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed a 1999 ruling by Judge Justice that he retain federal jurisdiction over the prisons, but sent the case back to him for review.

Report: Enron, Dynegy deal back on

HOUSTON (AP) — Executives of Dynegy Inc. plan to announce new terms for their $9 billion buyout offer for Enron Corp. as shares in Enron continue to fall, according to the Houston Chronicle.

Sources familiar with talks between the two companies told the newspaper that the announcement could come as soon as Tuesday.

The sources said officials of the two Houston-based energy traders spent the weekend and Monday discussing a lower exchange rate for rival Dynegy's stock deal to buy Enron, among other issues.

But as of Monday evening, no exchange rate had been agreed to and discussions were continuing, the sources said, cautioning that the situation continued to change.

The sources said Enron and Dynegy were working to finalize terms for an equity infusion into Enron of around $500 million that's expected to come from J.P. Morgan Chase & Co. and Citigroup. Another equity infusion from other parties was also possible later, the sources said.

Layoffs by Enron were expected to begin sometime this week, according to the report. Enron spokeswoman Karen Denne said any action the company would take concerning job cuts would be communicated first to employees.

Enron shares fell another 15 percent Monday, and briefly traded below their all-time low, as investors continued to doubt that a $9 billion buyout offer from Dynegy would be completed under the current terms.

Customs reports record amount of drug seizures in fiscal 2001

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — A record 159 tons of drugs were seized by U.S. Customs Service agents who credited better staffing, equipment and government coordination in the yearlong effort along the border.

There were 1,602 seizures at 10 points of entry in Texas during the 2001 fiscal year. That was an increase of 33 percent from the previous year.

About 310,000 pounds of marijuana, 213 pounds of heroin, 6,682 pounds of cocaine and 133 pounds of methamphetamine were recovered.

Marijuana seizures increased by 34 percent compared to fiscal year 2000, while heroin seizures increased a dramatic 933 percent. Cocaine seizures were up slightly and methamphetamine seizures were slightly down.

"This is really a trophy for all the inspectors and canine officers for U.S. Customs and also Immigration and Naturalization inspectors that are there with us on the front lines," said Gurdit Dhillon, U.S. Customs director of field operations for South Texas in Laredo.

Customs officials also seized $6.7 million in unreported currency.

Roads program being criticized

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — A colonia roads improvement program approved by Texas voters in November has come under scrutiny by critics who say 90 percent of the roads may not get paved if stringent new rules proposed by state transportation officials are adopted.

The issue of which roads the Texas Department of Transportation repairs and what design standards are chosen was expected to be debated at a meeting of the state Senate interim subcommittee on border affairs in Austin on Tuesday.

According to TxDOT, the Border Colonia Access Program underwritten by a $175 million bond package approved by voters in November's constitutional amendment election can only help projects that have adopted the state's "model rules" for subdivision development.

The agency's preliminary rules will prevent 90 percent of colonia roads from being repaired, said Hidalgo County Commissioner Sylvia Handy, whose Precinct 1 includes 342 colonias.

State Sen. Eddie Lucio, who chairs the border affairs sub-committee and who authored the legislation that put the colonia roads program on the ballot, said he will ask tough questions of TxDOT at today's meeting.

Air Tran sues man over security breach

ATLANTA (AP) — AirTran Airways has sued the man accused of breaching security at Hartsfield Atlanta International Airport, leading to a temporary shutdown of the nation's busiest airport.

AirTran, which operates an Atlanta hub, filed the federal complaint Monday against Michael Shane Lasseter of Gainesville, Ga.

The airline, which said the Nov. 16 cancellations and diversions of flights cost it more than $1 million, will seek at least $100,000 in damages, general counsel Richard Magurno said.

"We think people have to be responsible for what they do," Magurno said.

Lasseter, 32, was charged with disorderly conduct for running past security guards and down an up escalator. He said he did not see any guards and was not aware that he had caused the security alert.

Lasseter's lawyer, Robert Lipman, called the lawsuit a "dastardly, exploitive, irresponsible and senseless action."

"They don't have the facts," Lipman said.

ROME (AP) — Sophia Loren paid tribute to Italian director Vittorio De Sica as she and a cast of Italian movie greats gathered at the presidential palace to receive achievement awards named in De Sica's honor.

Loren recalled the first time she met De Sica, director of 1948's "The Bicycle Thief," at Rome's Cinecittà studios.

"I was 15 1/2, and we were in Cinecittà; I was doing a small part in a film, he saw me, looked at me, and said, 'We'll see each other very soon.'"

"Perhaps he was thinking of 'The Gold of Naples,'" Loren recalled, referring to her role as a pizza maker in De Sica's 1954 film.

Also receiving honors Monday at the Quirinale palace were directors Bernardo Bertolucci, Franco Zeffirelli and Michelangelo Antonioni, and other masters of Italian cinema.

The awards were presented in a ceremony to honor the 100th anniversary of De Sica's birth. He died in 1974.

"To receive this award has been very moving," Loren, 67, said. "I would have wanted Vittorio by my side."

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Sept. 11 terrorist attacks have prompted Peter Frampton, now a resident of suburban Cincinnati, to sponsor a benefit concert.

The 51-year-old singer will headline the "Cincinnati USA for Relief" concert on Dec. 9 at the Taft Theatre.

Frampton, a native of England, also said he intends to become a U.S. citizen.

"Because of what's happened, everyone feels a little more American since Sept. 11," he said. "I've got the forms to start the process to become an American citizen. I will become one as soon as I can."

Frampton's hits include 1976's "Frampton Comes Alive!" He began his musical career with the British rock band Humble Pie in the late 1960s. Married to Tina Elfers of suburban Cincinnati, he's spent most of his time in the United States in recent years.

"I know we won't raise as much money as some of those other concerts," Frampton said. "That's not the idea. It's just to get together as many people who have ties in Cincinnati and want to come and help."

LONDON (AP) — Richard Harris didn't want to play the part of Headmaster Dumbledore in "Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone" — but his young granddaughter changed his mind.

"I didn't like the commitment; the idea that if I do the one, you gotta do the other four or five," Harris told reporters recently. "So, some newspaper printed the fact I wasn't going to do it, or didn't want to do it, and all of a sudden my granddaughter panicked and said, 'You're going to do it,' and I said, 'OK.'"

Weather focus

PAMPA — Today, cloudy with a 60 percent chance of snow. Much colder with highs around 29. North to northeast winds 10 to 20 mph. Snow accumulations up to 2 inches possible.

STATEWIDE — Many Texans on Tuesday faced their first winter storm watch of the season, with a hard freeze predicted in northern and western sections of the state and freezing precipitation extending into southeastern parts of the state.

Two cold fronts pushed into the region, with the first extending from near Lufkin to Cotulla and another, stronger system extending from near Texarkana through Waco to Midland.

South of the fronts, temperatures were in the 70s along the Coastal Plains. Readings slipped into the 40s to 60s north of the systems.

Light snow was developing across the western Panhandle.

Numerous showers and thunderstorms extended in a 50-mile-wide band from northeast of Lufkin to south of College Station.

Extremes ranged from 17 degrees at Dalhart to 50 at Fort Stockton.

Winds were mostly northeasterly at 15 mph.

Skies were clear over the northern Texas Panhandle.

In North Texas, an upper-air disturbance was expected to combine with gulf moisture racing north above the cold fronts to set off showers and a few thunderstorms. The precipitation will become a mixture of rain, freezing rain, sleet and some snow through Wednesday.

A snow advisory was posted for the southern Panhandle, with winter weather advisories through Wednesday in the South Plains, the National Weather Service said.

A winter storm watch was issued through Wednesday for the Concho Valley and Edwards Plateau, with a freeze warning in the Permian Basin, Trans Pecos and Big Bend.

Daytime highs should range from the 20s in the north to 50s in the far south and far west.

Lows overnight were expected in the teens for mountain areas and 20s and 30s elsewhere.

He went first to Fort Sill, Okla., where he narrowly missed getting struck by a tornado.

"The tents were all blown down," he said, "and the trees pulled up."

Initially trained as a stretcher carrier, he was eventually transferred to the 340th Bomb Group and sent to Augusta, Ga., for more training. Then it was on to Columbia, S.C., for training in ordinance.

Upon his arrival, Bullick was walking down the dirt street through the tent city set up for the men when a flap opened on one of the tents and the soldier inside told him, "You're in the wrong place. This outfit is going overseas."

That was fine with Bullick, he said. He didn't care for the shined boots and polished brass of stateside duty.

"I didn't want to take orders," he said.

Bullick said he got what he deserved.

"When I went overseas, I was a private," he grinned.

From the East Coast, his unit headed west, departing San Francisco on a troop transport that had once been a luxury liner. They sailed to New Zealand, Australia, India and up the Red Sea to Egypt. From there they traveled by train into the desert.

"Was I scared," Bullick said. "There was nothing but sand, sand, sand."

They later moved into the Libyan desert to support the British 8th Army in their push against the Germans in Tunisia.

"When we got over there, we didn't have anything to work with," Bullick said.

Loading bombs onto twin-engine B-25 Mitchell bombers, they used British-made ordnance for which Bullick has little use.

"They were faulty," he said. "They would go off from the heat in the desert."

After the Axis Powers were defeated in North Africa, Bullick's group went to Sicily, again supporting the British 8th Army.

From Sicily to Italy, he was sent first to Salerno, then to Naples.

Mt. Vesuvius, an active volcano overlooking Naples, decided at that time to erupt.

While the red hot lava flowed down one side of the mountain, ash and rocks showered the side where Bullick was stationed.

He said they had four squadrons, the 486th, 487th, 488th and 489th. Each squadron had 40 planes on the airfield.

"We lost every plane we had," he said.

Vesuvius had taken its toll.

From Naples, it was back to Salerno, then to the island of Corsica.

The B-25s of the 340th Bomb Group pounded German emplacements in Southern France and Northern Italy around the clock.

"We were working day and night," Bullick said.

He has nothing but praise for the men with whom he worked.

"They were the swellest bunch of men I ever served with," Bullick said.

He said he would watch the bombers line up and take off two abreast, and wait and watch for them to return.

But it wasn't only the B-25s returning from their missions that flew over Corsica.

Bullick vividly remembers being bombed and strafed by German aircraft.

"I was on the ground," he said. "Flat on the ground."

It was about 2:30 a.m. on a moonlit night. Between the light of the moon and the light of flares in the sky, Bullick said he saw a tree nearby that he thought would offer good cover. He made his way through the tall weeds and hid next to the tree while bombs fell on the parked B-25s parked at the airfield.

The next morning as Bullick made his way back down to his unit, his comrades were surprised to see him. They thought he'd been killed in the bombing raid.

When he explained that he had used the nearby tree for safety, they pointed out that next to the tree was row after row of 1,000 bombs waiting to be loaded on the B-25s.

"Maybe scrambling up to that tree wasn't such a good idea," Bullick says.

Out of 140 planes that had been at the airfield the night before, only six were able to take off on their missions the day following the raid.

From Corsica, it was back to Italy where he and other members of the 489 squadron of the 340 Bomb Group would stay in luxury hotels until the war ended.

"It was interesting over there," he said, "but too many men lost their lives there."

SCHOOL

Superintendent Dawson Orr predicts that overall the district will receive a revenue decrease of $650,000. He's urging the board to begin preparing now by analyzing the school system and determining where cuts can be made while still maintaining optimum services.

Other items to be considered at the board meeting Thursday include consideration of bids for concrete work at Pampa High School, adoption of a Texas Association of School Board Policy Update.

The 2001-2002 Textbook Selection Committee is to be approved at the meeting as well as the current tax roll. Financial matters before the school board include October cash receipts and expenditures and the monthly financial report.

Administrative reports are to be presented on the Nov. 8 budget workshop and options for the sale of school district real property. A period has been set aside at the beginning of the meeting for the Academic Spotlight and public comments.

INFIGHTING

$250,000 budget, paid for by the DOE with tax dollars.

"I do sincerely appreciate the individual efforts that people put into it, but the group as an organization was dysfunctional," he said.

For example, Glenn said a recent board meeting was canceled after the board's co-chairs said it would not have a quorum.

Board members said they were disappointed, but not surprised, with the decision to disband.

"We weren't given the opportunity to see if we could make changes to our bylaws, but at the same time I was not ever optimistic that the board would make those changes," said board co-chair Walt Kelley.

Board member and Carson County Judge Lewis Powers said rules requiring unanimous consensus votes often got in the way of doing business.

"I really felt frustrated that we never could move forward on anything," Powers said.

Former co-chair Sidney Blankenship said the board should have had more direction from DOE headquarters instead of relying on the Amarillo office.

"I think all of us feel like we could have done better, and we strove to meet the objectives as we knew them," he said. "We weren't properly informed, I think."

The power of the group already had been diminished once before. In July, members of the board learned that the DOE would not allow them to continue making recommendations on Pantex operational matters.

Glenn said he would review public input at meetings and other gatherings during the next year and then decide if they are effective enough, or whether a new advisory board is warranted.

Meanwhile, the plant will continue holding groundwater meetings, briefings and sessions with elected officials, Glenn said.

Consumer confidence numbers fall unexpectedly to a 7.5-year low

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumer confidence unexpectedly fell to a 7 1/2-year low in November, suggesting a less-than-rosy holiday shopping season as Americans continue to worry about layoffs and their buying power.

The New York-based Conference Board said Tuesday that its Consumer Confidence Index fell for the fifth consecutive month in November to 82.2 from a revised 85.3 in October. Analysts were expecting an increase to 86.5.

"Consumers are still depressed by the struggling job market, the rise in unemployment and lost income they're facing," said Mark Zandi, chief economist at

Economy.com. "But I think the worst of the slide in confidence may be over."

He and other analysts said the dip in confidence could translate into lackluster retail sales in the coming weeks. Holiday sales account for about 24 percent of retailers' annual revenue.

Lynn Franco, director of the Conference Board's Consumer Research Center, said a turnaround in confidence was unlikely before year's end.

The index, based on a monthly survey of some 5,000 U.S. households, is closely watched because consumer confidence drives spending, which accounts for about two-thirds of the nation's economic activity.

The index compares results to its base year, 1985, when it stood at 100. The November figure is the lowest since February 1994, when it reached 79.9.

Retailers offered deep discounts and other specials to lure customers over Thanksgiving weekend, the traditional start of the holiday buying season. Early results barely met merchants' modest expectations — except for Wal-Mart and some other discount chains.

Employers have slashed hundreds of thousands of jobs since hijackers plowed commercial jets into the World Trade Center and the Pentagon on Sept. 11, and companies had started eliminating jobs well before the attacks in response to the slowing U.S. economy.

In recent weeks, stock prices had started to make a comeback following U.S. military victories in Afghanistan and an optimism that the U.S. recession — officially confirmed Monday by the National Bureau of Economic Research — would be short-lived.

The Conference Board said consumers' assessment of the current economic climate is more pessimistic than last month. Consumers rating current business conditions as bad rose to 21.4 percent in November from 20.7 percent in October, while those who thought conditions were good declined to 16.4 percent from 18.6 percent.

The board said consumers were slightly more optimistic about economic prospects for the next six months.

The National Association of Realtors said sales of previously owned homes increased 5.5 percent in October, reflecting the housing market's continued strong demand. The group said the results may reflect a number of transactions that were postponed in September, when existing-home sales plunged 11.6 percent.

The Conference Board is a non-profit research and business group, with more than 2,700 corporate and other members around the world.

Ford recalls 2000, 2001 Focus cars

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said Tuesday it is recalling 279,646 of its 2000 and 2001 model year Focus compact cars because of a problem that could cause the rear wheels to wobble.

Road salt could corrode rear-wheel bearings causing them to wear prematurely, Ford spokesman Mike Vaughn said.

"It's not a safety issue. This is a high-corrosion issue," he said.

The recall covers cars sold in or currently registered in 21 northern U.S. states and six Canadian provinces where road salt is used to melt snow and ice.

The cars were built between July 1999 and June 19, 2001, Vaughn said.

No accidents or injuries have been reported as a result of such damage, he said. Notices will be sent to all affected customers early next month, Vaughn said.

The Focus has been hit by a string of quality glitches during the past two years.

Texas Editorials

By The Associated Press

A sampling of editorial opinion around Texas: Houston Chronicle on U.S. energy outlook: Alan Greenspan, who spoke recently at Rice University, said market prices and new technology will provide the United States with an adequate energy supply in the coming years. The history of the last three decades provides evidence to support his thesis, but threats to the flow of oil from the Persian Gulf and the need to reduce pollution will severely test it.

Even as the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board spoke, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries was proving his point that the power of markets now overwhelms attempts to control markets. OPEC's pleas to non-OPEC exporters to reduce production caused oil prices to plunge instead of rise.

Greenspan points to how recent shortages and bottlenecks in the supply of natural gas and electricity were overcome when higher prices went into effect. But he admitted that power shortages were averted in large part because of the economic downturn, a restraint on energy use that is as undesirable as it is uncertain. Must Americans choose between a return to robust economic growth and reliable supplies of energy?

Only last spring, the Bush administration declared an energy crisis necessitating bold steps by government: research to make coal burn cleaner, inducements for new nuclear power plants and expanded oil drilling on government lands, including the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in Alaska. To the extent that the administration is right, reliance on markets and unsubsidized technology alone won't avert energy shortfalls.

All the technology in the world will not return the United States to its position as dominant oil producer. New technology, Greenspan said, was actually hastening the depletion of new natural gas fields.

Greenspan acknowledged national security concerns, saying much of the world's oil reserves, concentrated in the Persian Gulf, were subject to the latent threat of turmoil. American troops under fire in the Middle East now and in times past would argue that there is nothing latent about the threat. The present struggle against Osama bin Laden and his terrorist gang could turn out to be less about religious extremism and more about who controls the oil wealth that sustains and consolidates power in the Arab world.

Because of the long lead time that even the most rapidly developing energy technologies require (many of them needing huge national commitments of money and talent), Greenspan expressed the realistic assessment that coal and nuclear plants will provide a significant and irreplaceable portion of U.S. power needs, at least for the next decade or two. But the expansion of the nuclear power industry, as sought by the Bush administration, faces steep hurdles: It has yet to dispose of its waste, its costs remain uneconomical, it can't exist without government limits on civil liability and its plants are now prime targets for terrorists bent on mass destruction.

Appropriate for a man whose words can mean death to irrational exuberance, bull markets and full employment, Greenspan chose to dwell on the causes for optimism. Fuel cells, hybrid cars and other technologies, he said, hold the promise of clean energy production and use. Many energy-efficient technologies already developed go unused and require only capital and business managers' patience to be exploited.

Greenspan was awarded the Baker Institute for Public Policy's Enron Prize for distinguished public service. Moments before accepting it, Greenspan advised those who will graduate next spring that a commitment to sound ethical principles will nourish business success more surely than rapaciousness. In these unsettled times, that advice might prove even more valuable than his astute assessment of the world's energy markets.

We must face our fears to move ahead

It was a normal evening. The stars were out. The wind was calm. The only thing unusual was the moderate climate for early November in Washington, D.C. But on this beautiful early fall evening, I had an opportunity before me. It was a chance to travel — to go to England.

An old wise philosopher once said, "In order to face fear, one must take action." The fear Americans have seen on T.V. about flying, the fear about traveling, the fear to live normally, is not commonplace in America. In fact, it is not America. It is not freedom. It is not liberty. But the "fear factor" is facing all of us. Therefore, we must take action.

When facing this opportunity to travel, I found myself flying from Washington Dulles International Airport across the Atlantic Ocean on a United Airlines flight. As the world knows, two United Airlines flights were used as weapons on September 11th, including flight 175 that crashed into the south tower of the World Trade Center. And as the world also knows, American Airlines flight 77 took off from Dulles International airport and crashed into the Pentagon on September 11th. Make no mistake, the terrorists targeted "United" Airlines and "American" Airlines because of their names. They do not like a "United America". But what they didn't know, was that their actions would cause Americans to unite even more.

Nevertheless, months after this terrible tragedy, the fear of flying (especially on a United Airline from Dulles International Airport) was in front of me. But I wanted to face this "fear" for myself. I also wanted to do my part to help in the recovery effort of the airline industry by simply buying a ticket. It is simple to help — just travel. Of course, that is the high road answer, another truth is that I just wanted to have fun. The prices were cheap, and it was an opportunity to visit friends that I haven't seen in years. I thought it was a win-win situation.

J.B. Horton

Of course, I would be lying if I didn't admit that I thought about the 'fear' of flying. But at some point, we must face whatever fear faces us, regardless of the fear. In the short term, it may be intimidating, it may even hurt, but in the long run, facing that fear moves you miles ahead. In my case, facing the "fear" took me to see some of the world's most amazing sights: Stonehenge, the Roman Baths, St. Albans, London. I even ate in a pub that was licensed to serve beer in 1362! I repeated to myself, "1362!?" And I thought Williamsburg Virginia was old!

The best part of "overcoming the fear," however, was laying my eyes on my English friends. It is so refreshing to visit an old friend — it brings about a new sense of happiness. All this came about, out of facing fear.

While I must admit, I never personally felt danger for my safety in flying, I am saddened that thoughts of danger entered my mind during this wonderful opportunity. We all know too well the famous quote that Franklin D. Roosevelt so eloquently stated, "We have nothing to fear, except fear itself." The world is different than it was in the 1940's when he said that, but fear is fear regardless of the year.

The enemy in this war is fear. The definition of a terrorist is: one that engages in acts to create fear. If we give into fear, our enemy wins.

When my return flight was grounded on the runway in London due to the precautions from the New York City plane crash killing 260 people, the captain of the plane told us the situation. Nightmare images of September 11th re-entered my mind, as I am sure they re-entered the minds of all of my fellow passengers. However, this was just another test of fear — it did not stop us, and we flew (very safely) all the way across the Atlantic Ocean back home.

When we arrived, the immigration officer said, "Welcome home." It was good to be home. But I had a feeling of peace that came from knowing that we still live in the freest country on earth. I just had to face the fear. The question we must ask ourselves now is, do we want to face our fears, or do we want to let fear win? I say we face it. Fear knocked on our doors. But faith answered. Let's keep answering.

God bless.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 27, the 331st day of 2001. There are 34 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

One hundred years ago, on Nov. 27, 1901, the U.S. Army War College was established in Washington, D.C.

On this date:

In 1910, New York's Pennsylvania Station opened.

In 1942, during World War II, the French navy at Toulon scuttled its ships and submarines to keep them out of the hands of the Nazis.

In 1945, Gen. George C. Marshall was named special U.S. envoy to China to try to end hostilities between the Nationalists and the Communists.

In 1953, playwright Eugene O'Neill died in Boston at age 65.

In 1970, Pope Paul VI, visiting the Philippines, was slightly wounded at the Manila airport by a dagger-wielding Bolivian painter disguised as a priest.

In 1973, the Senate voted 92-to-3 to confirm Gerald R. Ford as vice president, succeeding Spiro T. Agnew, who had resigned.

In 1978, San Francisco Mayor George Moscone and City Supervisor Harvey Milk, a gay-rights activist, were shot to death inside City Hall by former supervisor Dan White.

In 1983, 183 people were killed when a Colombian Avianca Airlines Boeing 747 crashed near Madrid's Barajas airport.

In 1989, 107 people were killed when a bomb blamed by police on drug traffickers destroyed a Colombian jetliner.

Ten years ago: Israel signalled its anger with what it regarded as the high-handedness of the United States by rejecting an invitation to attend Mideast peace talks in Washington on Dec. 4. The U.N. Security Council unanimously adopted a resolution paving the way for the establishment of a U.N. peacekeeping operation in war-ravaged Yugoslavia.

Air-ground attack is very hard to resist

I don't much blame the Taliban for high-tailing it. If B-52s were after me, I'd shave my beard and head for hills.

Friends who fought in Vietnam and had an occasion to go into an area after B-52s carpet-bombed it describe a scene like Dante's worst nightmares: An ugly, scarred terrain resembling a combination of the moon and no-man's land during World War I. Only stumps of trees left amidst crater after crater. Bits and pieces of human flesh scattered about. No life at all.

If we look at the bombing of Kosovo and the bombing of the Taliban, a military axiom becomes evident. In Kosovo, there was no threat of ground attack. The bombing ceased because the Russians negotiated a settlement with Slobodan Milosevic. When the Serb army came out of hiding, it was virtually intact. Our bombs had had little effect on it.

In Afghanistan, after we hooked up with the Northern Alliance and got enough American spotters on the ground, the outcome has been different. The Taliban fighters had to show themselves to hold off the ground attack. When they did, our planes pestered them. It became a no-win situation, just as it had been for the Iraqi forces in Kuwait. Infantry without air cover that is forced to prepare for a ground attack doesn't have much chance at all.

Who knows how long it will take to flush out Osama bin Laden and his crew and the Taliban leadership? It should be easier now that there are prisoners to interrogate and with people apparently changing sides in a hurry. I understand that is a custom in Afghanistan. That's probably a good idea, given that whatever compassion might have existed in the Afghan soul probably has been scoured out by 20 years of warfare.

Charley Reese

Putting together a government won't be easy. The Northern Alliance will not tolerate interference by Pakistan. After all, the Northern Alliance was the government of the country until the Pakistani-sponsored Taliban forced it out. Pakistan will be nervous without a friendly government in Kabul, but it really has no right to expect one. This is one problem the American military cannot solve. The Bush administration will have to rely on diplomacy.

We can hope, of course, that countries outside of Afghanistan will allow the people to shape their own government rather instigating a new civil war. I suspect that is a slim hope.

We should do our own business, which is destroying bin Laden and his crew, and then move on. Regardless of what people say, Afghanistan is not our problem. I seriously doubt that any government that does take shape will want to go into the business of sponsoring terrorism aimed at the United States. What a high-tech superpower can do to a poor country isn't pretty.

I do not believe that propaganda and food packages dropped with bombs can negate the effect of killing people. I don't think Americans can count on having any friends in Afghanistan, so we shouldn't hang around trying to be a Mr. Nice Guy. There are some things that can't be undone, and bombing a country is one of them. What we call collateral damage is somebody's children or wife or husband or grandfather. Such deaths are hard to forgive. Though they are good at hiding it, there are Germans and Japanese who survived our bombing in the 1940s and still hate us for it.

It should be obvious that I cannot generate much enthusiasm for the war on terrorism. I fear that in the long run, the major casualty will be liberty here in the United States. I don't like this talk of secret trials by military tribunals or the zeal with which the feds are pursuing more and more power. I don't like the effect it seems to be having on George Bush. I don't believe that national interests should be pursued with religious fervor. Of course, our likes or dislikes don't count.

Quality dry cleaning is the specialty of Bob Clements, Inc. located at 1437 N. Hobart. Owners Neil and Mary Fulton credit the expertise of their employees for the success of their dry cleaning business. "Our greatest asset is our employees," said Neil. The Fultons know how important employees are to their business. Mary began working at the business in 1984 - 14 years before she and her husband bought the business. Beginning as a front desk clerk, she learned the business from the ground up. In time, she began working in the back cleaning as well, and learned all facets of the business.

Neil commented on the long tenure of the employees at Bob Clements, Inc. "Most of our employees have been here for 15 years or longer," he said.

"Two employees, Cleo Spencer and Lottie Cary, have been here for 37 years," said Neil. "Our seamstress, Linda Ford, have been with us for 17 years."

A unique feature at the business is a men's suit bar. The suit bar is possibly the only business in Pampa which sells men's suits.

Just in time for Christmas, Bob Clements, Inc. has gift certificates available for shoppers who would like to purchase a suit for that special someone on their Christmas List, but doesn't know the size or is uncertain about the color. Purchase of gift certificates will assure the recipient of getting just the suit he wants.

An experience staff is available to assist customers with their selection of a suit of their choice at the local business during regular business hours.

Men's suits ranging between sizes 40-60 are found in stock at the local store.

Mary said she can also obtain suits in smaller sizes for her customers upon request.

Gift certificates are also available for the wide selection of the latest styles in ties and blazers. Quality colognes for the significant male in your life are also available for purchase at the suit bar.

The only Ozone Room is Pampa is a distinctive feature offered by Bob Clements, Inc.

which will remove the smoke smell from clothing, blankets and other household items following a fire.

As smoke is extremely difficult to remove from clothing, The Ozone Room is a welcome feature to residents whose personal items have been saturated with the unwelcome odor.

"Removal of the smoke odor and stains is very hard work," said Mary Fulton. The Fultons said the oxidation procedure removes the odor usually in a 24-48 hour period.

"We don't do any cleaning until the process is complete," she said. "It is pure oxidation and gets the smoke smell out."

Neil and Mary enjoy working together with their 12 employees. The business provides a full range of cleaning services.

Alterations and repairs are provided by Linda Ford. She works full time keeping the garments in excellent condition.

The business performs all types of cleaning and dry cleaning. Among the services offered are heavy starched shirts and jeans.

Also, drapery cleaning, as well as bedspreads, blankets, table cloths and wedding dress preservation are among the many varied features offered by the local business.

Fur coats and stoles are also stored in Bob Clements, Inc. refrigerated fur vault.

The couple invites the public to "come by and get the laundry and dry cleaning service you deserve."

The Fultons are interested in all their customers. "We welcome all our customers, old and new alike, to come by and see us," said Mary.

Bob Clements, Inc. is available to clean all the family's Christmas attire ready for them to wear during the busy holiday season.

The couple encourage all customers to drop their clothing by the local business for repair, alteration and/or cleaning to have the needed clothing ready for the increased number of holiday functions.

The staff reminds all area residents to get their garments in to be cleaned early for that upcoming Christmas party.

Bob Clements, Inc. is located at 1437 N. Hobart. Information regarding the business's services or merchandise may be obtained by call the experienced staff of the local business at 665-5121.

Former pastor sentenced

DALLAS (AP) — A 38-year-old Dallas man was sentenced to nearly four years in prison Monday for having a sexual relationship with his teen-age stepdaughter, including while he was co-pastor of a Florida church.

Phillip Carpenter was sentenced to 46 months in prison after pleading guilty in August to a charge of enticing a minor to travel in interstate commerce to engage in illegal sexual activity.

U.S. District Judge Sam A. Lindsey, who called Carpenter a "sexual predator," also ordered him to serve three years of supervised release after the jail time, during which time he can have no access to minors.

Carpenter faced a maximum 10-year prison term and a $250,000 fine.

Prosecutors said Carpenter and his wife were co-pastors of a church in Pinellas County, Florida, when he started having sex with his step-daughter beginning when she was 15. She will be 17 next month. The church was not identified by the court.

Carpenter and the girl kept the sexual relationship secret, but Carpenter and his wife separated last year over the accusations of impropriety between him and the girl, officials said, and Carpenter moved to Dallas.

Prosecutors said Carpenter maintained contact with the girl by calling her at school and by relaying messages through a third party.

Rape Victim's Isolation Ends When She Finally Speaks Out

DEAR ABBY: "Scared and Alone in Britton, Mich." is not alone. Five years ago, I went through the exact same experience.

I, too, had been drinking heavily at a college party and was raped by a guy who had been my good friend for years. He was a close friend of my boyfriend's, and I didn't know to whom I could turn. So, like "Scared," I remained silent. I was afraid of what the guy might do to me and of what people would think. I thought if I told, I'd lose my friends.

Sadly, I lost my friends anyway. After the rape, I lost my ability to trust people or let anyone get close to me. I became unable to open up to people without thinking they had some hidden agenda. My friends didn't know what was wrong with me, and they didn't stick around to find out. I was lost and alone.

I want to tell "Scared" from personal experience: Tell someone what happened right away! Go to a support group. Share your experience. Call your friend and tell her. Call a hotline if you wish to remain anonymous. If you don't, you'll have difficulty making and keeping relationships for the rest of your life.

I finally received help, and now, five years later, I have found a wonderful, patient man I want to spend the rest of my life with. I couldn't have done it if I hadn't spent time talking with a counselor and meeting others who have gone through similar experiences. It's not your fault. You are not alone. The sooner you share your experience, the faster you'll heal.

LIVING AND LOVING AGAIN IN PENNSYLVANIA

Dear Abby

Is written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips

DEAR LIVING AND LOVING: Bless you for writing. A 1998 Centers for Disease Control Study revealed that one woman in six in the United States is a victim of rape or attempted rape. Eighty percent of rapes are acquaintance rapes.

Assault victims: Please don't be afraid to speak up. People are waiting to help you. If you wish to remain anonymous, go to the Internet and visit www.911rape.org to learn about your options. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: "Scared and Alone" has plenty of company. Five months ago, I got drunk at my graduation party and was raped by my friend's brother-in-law. He called me two days later, and my sister overheard my end of the conversation when he denied raping me. When she confronted me, I burst into tears and told her everything. She told our parents for me and we all went to the police.

"Scared" must understand that everyone makes mistakes. But that doesn't give anyone the right to take advantage of that mistake and commit a crime against you. There is no doubt in my mind that my attacker had done this before and would have done it again. Believe me, it is a wonderful feeling to know that because of my actions, he'll never put anyone else through what I endured.

NO LONGER ALONE IN MISSOURI: Bravo! The attacker has power over his victim only if that person remains silent. To paraphrase an old saying, "Speak the truth and the truth shall set you free."

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband, "Monty," and I divorced six years ago after 20 years of marriage. Monty had a history of being unfaithful. Two years ago he married one of his girlfriends.

I hear through the grapevine that Monty is unhappy in his marriage. He appears to be going out of his way to "run" into me. When I see him he's friendly and acts like we're still together.

I never wanted a divorce, Abby, and the truth is -- I never stopped loving him. What do I do now?

EX IN TEXAS: DEAR EX: The next time you run into Monty and he acts as if you're still together, remind him that you're not -- but you could be if he calls you when his divorce is final.

It remains to be seen whether the rumors on the grapevine are true. If they turn out to be true, and you really want a marriage with your former husband, make sure that you get to the root of the reason for his cheating and your breakup the first time around. Counseling would be a way to ensure it.

Texas Tech women hold off Oregon comeback

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Because the Red Raiders knew they would be tested by Oregon's guards, they pounded the ball inside and came away with Texas Tech's second straight victory.

No. 9 Texas Tech held off a second-half rally to beat Oregon 72-65 on Monday night.

Plenette Pierson had 22 points and 12 rebounds. "I was feeling confident coming in, and took the mentality that I and the rest of us post players would have to get it done tonight," said Pierson.

Jia Perkins added 10 points and a career-high 11 rebounds. Natalie Ritchie had 11 points for the Red Raiders (2-1). Jolee Ayers scored 10 points, including a pair of free throws with 9:31 left that put Texas Tech up for good at 49-48.

"We felt we could take advantage of them in the paint, and I believed we accomplished that," said Tech coach Marsha Sharp. "We felt like we could match up against their guards, and it would be a standoff. Oregon really puts a great attack on the floor, so this is a great road win for us."

Shaquala Williams had 18 points and eight rebounds to lead the Ducks (2-3).

"Our game plan, other than rebounding, went really well," Williams said. The Red Raiders outrebounded the Ducks 48-36 and had 20 offensive boards to offset a 38-percent shooting night from the field.

"Our rebounding is something we definitely need to work on," said Oregon coach Bev Smith. "We were a little undersized. We also need to work on our defensive discipline. We picked up quick, early and cheap fouls."

Cathrine Kraayeveld, after leading the entire first half, hit a jumper to put the Ducks up 48-47 with just under 10 minutes to play.

But that was the last basket the Ducks made until Kraayeveld tipped in a rebound eight minutes later as Texas Tech built a 64-57 lead aided by a 16-4 run.

The Ducks shot only 39 percent from the field, and were just 3-of-14 from 3-point range.

Larson scores 21 in WT victory

STEPHENVILLE — Pampa native Augie Larson scored 21 points, including 4 of 5 3-pointers, to lead West Texas A&M University past Texas College 82-55 last weekend in the Best Western Cross Timbers Basketball Classic.

The Buffs improved to 4-0, while Texas College fell to 6-4.

WT enjoyed a 37-28 halftime lead, before pulling away in the second half. The Buffs steadily increased their lead, and with just over 10 minutes remaining enjoyed a commanding 64-38 advantage.

Larson was 7 of 9 from the floor, including four treys, and hit all three free throws. Matt Madison added 13 points, including 11 in the second half, while Eddie Love chipped in 12 on 5 of 9 shooting from the field.

WT had opened the tournament with an 80-65 win over Mary Hardin-Baylor. Robert Moore led the Buffs with 18 points, while Larson, Cedric Mayberry and Chris Bracey added 11 each.

Larson is a 6-foot 2-inch junior guard. He's averaging 11 points a game.

The Buffs will play Thursday at Southwestern Oklahoma in Weatherford.

The next home game is Dec. 6 at National Christian University.

BOSTON (AP) — Former Sen. George Mitchell, who has spent his post-Senate life negotiating peace in the Middle East and Northern Ireland, is showing an interest in another unstable situation: the sale of the Boston Red Sox.

A group led by television producer Tom Werner and Maine ski resort mogul Les Otten announced Monday it has brought Mitchell, a long-time Red Sox fan, into its investment group.

"We are thrilled to welcome one of the most respected men in baseball circles to our team of investors," said Otten, the founding partner of the newly renamed New England Sports Ventures.

Meanwhile, The Boston Globe reported Tuesday that Charles Dolan, the billionaire founder of Cablevision Systems Corp., will be joined in his bid by John McMullen, the founder of a ship engineering company who is a former owner of the Houston Astros and was a limited partner in the New York Yankees.

Last year, McMullen, an 82-year-old Massachusetts Institute of Technology graduate, sold the New Jersey Devils hockey franchise for $175 million to YankeeNets, a sports group headed by Yankee owner George Steinbrenner.

Mitchell was part of a blue-ribbon commission that studied the economic future of baseball. He served in the Senate from 1980 to 1995.

The Yawkey Trust is expected to announce the winner of the bidding for its 53 percent stake by the end of the month, and several groups have been adding deep-pocketed partners to bolster their bids in recent weeks.

Werner's group has reportedly also brought in John Henry, the billionaire owner trying to sell the Florida Marlins.

Tickets gone for Big 12 title contest

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado's 8,245 allotted seats for the Big 12 championship game in Dallas have been sold, and eager fans are snapping up travel packages to get there.

The University of Colorado earned a berth at the title game against the Texas Longhorns with a convincing 62-36 win over Nebraska on Friday.

The tickets for the Dallas game were sold Monday.

Fans began calling travel agencies Friday to book trips to Dallas.

Barnett said more than 100 travel packages to Saturday's game had been sold.

Outland Trophy finalists named

DALLAS (AP) — Tennessee's John Henderson, the 2000 Outland Trophy winner, is a finalist for the award again this season, facing competition from Miami's Bryant McKinnie and Nebraska's Toniu Fonoti.

The award honors the best interior lineman in college football. The winner, chosen by the Football Writers Association of America, will be announced on Dec. 6 on the ESPN College Football Awards Show.

Henderson, a 6-foot-7, 290-pound senior defensive tackle, could become only the second repeat winner in the 56-year history of the award. Nebraska center Dave Rimington did it in 1981-82.

McKinnie, a 6-foot-9, 336-pound senior offensive right tackle, has never allowed a sack in his college career and keys an offense that averages 5.5 yards per rushing attempt.

Fonoti, a 6-foot-4, 340-pound junior offensive left guard, helped Nebraska average a nation's leading 311.1 rushing yards per game.

Three newcomers join College Basketball's Top 25

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Basketball Writer

Duke and Illinois stayed 1-2 in the AP college basketball poll Monday, while three teams that reached championship games of preseason tournaments moved into the rankings for the first time this season.

The Blue Devils (4-0), who opened defense of their national championship last week by winning the Maui Invitational and beating Portland, stayed No. 1 with 67 first-place votes and 1,747 points from the national media panel.

The Fighting Illini (5-0), who won four games last week in taking the Las Vegas Invitational, stayed second, receiving the other three No. 1 votes and 1,672 points.

The three new teams in the rankings were Ball State, which came in at No. 16 after its impressive run in the Maui Invitational; Marquette, which moved in as No. 23 after winning the Great Alaska Shootout; and Wake Forest, which held the 25th spot after reaching the finals of the Preseason NIT.

Missouri, which won the inaugural Guardians Classic, moved up two spots to No. 3, while Arizona, which didn't play last week, moved from eighth to No.

4. Maryland and Florida each moved up one place to fifth and sixth, while Iowa, Kansas, Virginia and UCLA rounded out the Top Ten.

Stanford was 11th, followed in the Second Ten by Syracuse, Kentucky, Oklahoma State, Boston College, Ball State, Western Kentucky, Georgetown, Saint Joseph's and Memphis.

The last five ranked teams were Alabama, Michigan State, Marquette, Fresno State and Wake Forest.

Ball State, which was last ranked in the 1988-89 season, opened the Maui Invitational with a win over then-No. 4

Kansas. The Cardinals (2-1) then beat then-No. 3 UCLA before losing 83-71 to Duke in the title game.

Marquette (5-0) beat Tennessee, Indiana and Gonzaga in winning the Great Alaska Shootout and moved into the Top 25 for the first time since a three-week run in 1997-98.

Wake Forest (4-1) beat Fresno State in the Preseason NIT semifinals, then lost 74-67 to Syracuse in the title game. The Demon Deacons were ranked all of last season, getting as high as No. 4.

Indiana (3-1) was the only team that played last week to fall out of the rankings. The Hoosiers, who were 20th last week, sandwiched wins over Alaska-Anchorage and Texas around the Great Alaska Shootout semifinal loss to Marquette.

Southern California (1-1) and Temple (0-2) were 24th and 25th last week and both fell out despite not playing. Southern California lost to Fresno State in the second round of the Preseason NIT, while Temple lost to Florida and Maryland in the season-opening Coaches vs. Cancer Classic.

Of the preseason Top Ten, only Duke, Illinois and Missouri managed to stay unbeaten through the Thanksgiving Weekend.

The Nachtigall twins, Chasity (second from left) and Charity (fourth from left) were in the stands instead of on the floor at a recent high school basketball game in McNeely Fieldhouse. Both Nachtigall sisters played basketball for the Lady Harvesters for four years. The Nachtigalls graduated in 2001, and both are now students at West Texas A&M in Canyon, but they are still loyal Pampa fans. They attend as many high school and middle school games as their schedule allows them. Their parents are Paul and Vicki Nachtigall of Pampa; maternal grandparents are Bob and Milly Smith of Medford, Okla.; paternal grandparents are Herman and Virginia Nachtigall of Wakita, Okla. Both twins hope to become basketball coaches.

Buccaneers shock Rams

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Once again, an avalanche of turnovers was to blame for a St. Louis Rams' loss.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers capitalized on five Rams giveaways and also blocked a punt in a 24-17 victory Monday night. Mike Alstott ran for two touchdowns, Warrick Dunn's 21-yard run broke a fourth-quarter tie and the Bucs also got away with a dubious fourth-down call in the fourth quarter to revive their playoff hopes.

"I feel like our best football is in front of us," Bucs quarterback Brad Johnson said. "We showed that we can play with anybody and beat anybody."

The Rams (8-2) had three fumbles and two interceptions, giving them an NFL-leading 32. That's what the Buccaneers (5-5) were counting on.

A potential sixth turnover was reversed when Kurt Warner's arm was ruled to be in forward motion in the second quarter.

"We just looked at what was realistic," said linebacker Derrick Brooks, who tipped a pass to set up the final interception. "Realistic is that they score a lot of points but they lead the league in turnovers."

The Buccaneers went 90 yards in nine plays on the winning drive, with Dunn skirting the sideline for the score. He appeared to step out of bounds at the 5, but the Rams had used their two instant replay challenges and were unable to contest the play.

A big game from defensive tackle Warren Sapp, who has been quiet much of the year, helped the Buccaneers' defense control the Rams. Sapp, who had just three sacks coming into the game, had two, forced a fumble, and spent much of the game in the St. Louis backfield.

"I've had a rough season," Sapp said. "But I had some opportunities tonight and I took advantage of them."

Warner has thrown 11 interceptions the last four games, and the Bucs picked him off twice in the waning minutes. Marshall Faulk also wasn't much of a factor, gaining 66 yards rushing and receiving.

The loss knocked the Rams into a tie for the NFC West lead with the surprising 49ers, who play at St. Louis in two weeks.

"We just made way too many mistakes today," said Warner, who was 19-for-39 for 291 yards. "It's tough to not go out and do your part."

Donnie Abraham intercepted a fourth-and-10 pass with 3:48 to go at the Tampa Bay 34. After a 28-yard punt return by Az-Zahir Hakim had given the Rams life, John Lynch intercepted Warner again with 2:26 left.

"We didn't play particularly well all the time," coach Tony Dungy said. "But we forced some turnovers defensively, which is something we wanted to do."

Dungy made the finish interesting after deciding against a chip-shot field goal that would have given his team a 10-point lead. Johnson's sneak got a first down on fourth-and-1 from the Rams 10, but three plays later Brian Young intercepted Johnson.

"You can't throw an interception in that situation," Dungy said. "Thank goodness for our defense. It got the ball back for us two times."

The Rams tied it on a 1-yard pass from Warner to rookie Brandon Manumaleuna and Faulk's 2-point conversion run with 1:41 to go in the third.

The Buccaneers led 10-9 at halftime despite being out-gained 210-95, holding the Rams to Jeff Wilkins' three field goals. The Rams had three turnovers in the half.

"Once again, we shoot ourselves in the foot," Hakim said. "It was all us. Turnovers, mistakes, you can't win like that."

Hakim fumbled on a punt return in the first quarter, but it didn't hurt the Rams because Martin Gramatica missed a 25-yard field goal attempt. Wide receiver Isaac Bruce coughed up the ball on a reverse to set up Alstott's 7-yard score for a 7-3 Bucs lead and Sapp sacked Warner and forced a fumble to set up a 36-yard field goal by Gramatica.

Alstott's second touchdown run, an 8-yarder with 8:36 to go in the third, made it 17-9. Alstott set a franchise record with his 47th career touchdown, eclipsing James Wilder.

Name calling continues in Florida-Florida State football feud

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Another day brought another round of name calling in the Florida-Florida State feud that doesn't want to end.

On Monday, it was Florida State athletic director Dave Hart on the offensive, suggesting Steve Spurrier should be sanctioned for accusing Bobby Bowden of encouraging dirty play.

"It would probably be good if somebody just spanked him and put him to bed and hope he wakes up all grown up," Hart said at a news conference he called to address Spurrier's charges. "I believe strongly in the respect factor. I believe in professional behavior and ethical behavior."

Spurrier accused Seminoles tackle Darnell Dockett of intentionally trying to hurt two Gators, quarterback Rex Grossman and tailback Earnest Graham, in Florida's 37-13 victory Nov. 17. Graham, who has threatened a lawsuit, is out 3-to-5 weeks with an injured knee.

Spurrier wondered aloud if Bowden "instructs that kind of action," and was irritated because he says it "happens over and over when we play these guys."

Hart wants the American Football Coaches Association to sanction Spurrier, who has long been one of the nation's most outspoken coaches.

"You don't attack people's integrity," Hart said. "We're not going to put a player on the field who isn't playing fair."

He also suggested Spurrier might be complaining so loudly because he doesn't like playing Florida State late in the season — or may not want to play the Seminoles at all.

"I can't speak to any hidden agendas," Hart said. The schools have three years remaining on their contract.

Hart spoke with AFCA executive director Grant Teaff about his concerns. The athletic director took exception to the Florida coach failing to make his complaints through normal channels.

Hart said Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner John

Swofford and the league's supervisor of officials reviewed game tapes and did not find Dockett trying intentionally to hurt anyone.

"We have done our due diligence despite the very poor manner this was handled by the football coach in Gainesville," Hart said.

Florida is a member of the Southeastern Conference, whose officials have also received copies of the game tapes.

Hart also said he would never tolerate Florida State coaches publicly criticizing opposing schools.

"If the roles were reversed, Bobby would not coach Saturday," Hart said.

Graham accused Dockett of twisting his knee in the pile after he was already tackled.

Spurrier also said the game tape showed Dockett tried to stomp on Grossman's hand as the Florida quarterback was tackled out of bounds.

Thus added another chapter to the bitter history between these two schools.

After Florida State's 24-21 victory in 1996, Spurrier accused the Seminoles of a number of late hits on Gator quarterback Danny Wuerffel. It was the central topic during the week leading into the national championship game at the Sugar Bowl, where Florida won the rematch 52-20.

Hart and Bowden did their best to avoid being dragged into the controversy in 1996, but the athletic director said Monday he couldn't let it go by again with defending his coach and university.

"Bobby Bowden represents integrity and class," Hart said. "It was a very unfair, unfounded attack."

When told of Hart's statements Monday night, Spurrier quoted a Chinese philosopher, saying "It's better your enemies talk evil of you than not at all."

"Sometimes the truth hurts," Spurrier said, referring to his earlier comments about Florida State. "That's about all I can say about that. The truth really hurts."

No decision yet on fate of Twins, Expos

CHICAGO (AP) — While contraction remained on hold, waiting for judges and arbitrators decide its fate, Bud Selig's term as baseball commissioner was expected to grow when baseball owners met Tuesday.

Owners voted Nov. 6 to eliminate two teams before next season but didn't select them.

While the Minnesota Twins and Montreal Expos are the most likely candidates, according to many owners, contraction then ground to a halt 10 days later when a Minnesota judge issued a temporary injunction that forced the Twins to fulfill their lease next season at the Metrodome.

Selig did not want to ask owners to make any decisions on contraction at this meeting because the injunction was in place, a high-ranking baseball official said Monday on the condition he not be identified.

The Twins and baseball have asked the Minnesota Supreme Court for a speedy review of their request to lift the injunction, requesting a hearing no later than Dec. 7.

The Metropolitan Sports Facilities Commission, which operates the Metrodome, must file its response by Wednesday.

Owners want to eliminate the Expos, who averaged just 7,648 fans per game at Olympic Stadium this year.

Twins owner Carl Pohlad, frustrated at the Minnesota government's refusal to fund a new ballpark, is willing to have his team eliminated in exchange for a contraction payment, even though his team has been profitable in recent years and raised its average attendance from 13,083 in 2000 to 22,287 this year.

The move against the Twins has prompted the House Judiciary Committee to consider scheduling a meeting for next week on baseball's antitrust exemption, which has given the sport total power to control its markets since 1922.

Meanwhile, no decisions have been made on the possible sales of the Florida Marlins or Anaheim Angels. Expos owner Jeffrey Loria has talked to Florida owner John Henry about buying the Marlins, but has not reached an agreement, the baseball official said.

Henry has expressed interest in purchasing the Angels from The Walt Disney Co., but those talks haven't progressed and Henry has said he is willing to become a minority investor in Tom Werner's bid to buy control of the Boston Red Sox.

While the Twins and Expos await word on whether they'll be around next year, Selig is likely to stay in place for years.

Selig, whose family has controlled the Milwaukee Brewers since 1970, was elected to a five-year term as commissioner in July 1998, and owners will be asked to extend it for at least three additional years, according to a high-ranking team official who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

Selig, 67, is expected to gain the extension with little or no opposition is expected from owners, many indebted to him for his past assistance with individual team problems.

Meanwhile, the players and owners still were unable to agree on dates for arbitrator Shyam Das to hear the grievance the union filed to stop contraction.

Players claim the Nov. 6 decision violate the terms of their expired labor agreement, and that owners can't eliminate clubs without the union's consent.

Das probably will have to arbitrate the timing of the arbitration when he speaks with the sides Wednesday.

"Assuming we haven't reached an agreement, we're going to go to him and ask for some help," said Gene Orza, the union's No. 2 official.

Partly because of the contraction debate, there has been little negotiation between owners and players on a labor contract to replace the one that expired Nov. 7.

Some Twins fans planned to attend the meeting at O'Hare International Airport with the intent of giving Selig petitions with more than 110,000 signatures urging the team be saved.

Paul Ridgeway, one of the organizers, and former-Twin Frank Quilici said their caravan planned to stop in Selig's hometown of Milwaukee.

"Here's a message to you and the owners: Think twice about doing this to the Minnesota Twins," Quilici said.

Ridgeway said if Selig refused to meet them in Chicago, they'll park a motor home outside his office in Milwaukee on Wednesday.

Rainbow stocking to start on December 4

AUSTIN — Beginning Dec. 4 and continuing through March, Texas Parks & Wildlife will stock about a quarter-million rainbow trout at 90 sites across the state.

Many of the fish stockings will be conducted at small urban lakes, state park lakes and popular river tailraces offering easy angling access.

The popular trout-stocking program has been an annual offering in Texas for the past two decades, although limited funding resources have hampered hopes of expanding the effort in recent years. TPW will purchase 137,000 trout from commercial fish hatcheries and donations from city parks and recreation agencies and other groups will fund 114,343 additional fish.

The trout-stocking program is funded through the sale of Texas freshwater trout stamps.

The $7 stamps are required, in addition to a valid fishing license, for almost anyone fishing for freshwater trout in Texas waters. Kids under 17 do not have to purchase the stamp.

The daily bag limit is five trout, and possession limit is 10 in all Texas waters. There is no minimum length.

For more information about upcoming trout stockings, call Texas Parks & Wildlife at (800) 792-1112 and follow the menu options.

Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 28, 2001
BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive;
3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Expenses go out of control with the up-and-coming holiday. Support someone in finding a different approach or solution. Make a substantial difference in someone's life. Avoid pioneering new projects for now, stay with the tried-and-true. Tonight: Order in a favorite fast food.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Good intentions come through despite a foggy delivery. Something looks "good on paper." Try this great idea on the boss. Work with an associate singularly to gain the support and understanding you seek. Keep talking even if someone doesn't want to hear you! Tonight: At a favorite spot.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Information that you receive could be tainted. Think in terms of financial gains, and avoid wasting funds. You opt to do more at work and enhance your situation. Others work with you, certainly not against you. Don't take comments personally. Tonight: Do your own thing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Your friends support you more than you ever imagined on a creative project or work-related matter. Your smile wins friends left and right. Don't count on your charm working on a loved one who could be a bit flaky with a money matter. Tonight: Follow the gang. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Confusion surrounds a loved one or partner. Try as you might, you aren't going to make this person see clearly right now. Let your creativity flow into other realms. Your instincts lead you in the right direction with someone you put on a pedestal. Tonight: In the glorious limelight.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Reach out for another. Listen carefully to what someone else thinks about a situation. This person is unusually wise and direct. Feedback helps you sort through the chaos that surrounds work or a co-worker. Burn off frustration by doing something positive for yourself. Tonight: Join a friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
First, take off your rose-colored glasses. You gain a new perspective as a result. A discussion heads in another direction as a consequence. Someone might keep hammering at the same detail. Tackle it. Respond to this issue or question rather than ignoring this person. Tonight: Evaluate any needed expenditure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
If how many phone calls and requests you receive reflect your desirability, my, how very popular you are! Your feedback might fall on deaf ears unless you add some drama and inflection to your voice. Set the world on its ear with your strong personality. Tonight: Where your pals are.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
You could misunderstand someone in the morning. By asking questions when something or someone doesn't make sense, you clear out confusion before it becomes a major problem. A partner does his share in making your finances flow in and out. Tonight: Off to the gym.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
When you find yourself grumbling at money problems, stop. Know that you can handle it easily. Dig into your resources and discover how the mistake occurred. Make corrections accordingly. Your creativity and magnetism encourage others to go along with you. Tonight: Decide where you want to hang the mistletoe.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
You could confuse someone who is close to you. Don't worry too much about a personal matter. Keep expressing yourself, and handle a private matter directly. No one knows what you want better than you do. Make it your job to handle it. Tonight: Stop in and visit with a family member.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Speak your mind, and you get more feedback than you desire. Your intuition works overtime and sometimes gives you mixed messages. Your intensity manifests itself professionally, drawing others toward you. Brainstorm and sort through ideas. Tonight: Tiptoe out of work. Find a pal or loved one.

Israeli troops pull out of last West Bank town; Sharon meets U.S. envoys

AFULA, Israel (AP) — Palestinians opened fire in the center of a northern Israeli town, killing one Israeli and wounding at least 14 on Tuesday, police said. Just before noon, at least two Palestinian gunmen began spraying fire at Israelis at the central bus station of the town of Afula, police and witnesses said. The gunmen proceeded to the nearby open air market and continued firing before being cornered by Israeli police and an army reservist in a parking lot, where they were killed in a firefight, said police spokesman Gil Kleiman.

There was no claim of responsibility for the attack, which came as two U.S. mediators were holding a second day of meetings with Israeli officials in hopes of ending 14 months of Mideast violence.

Afula is close to the Israel-West Bank border and has been targeted by several such attacks over the past year.

It is also close to the West Bank town of Jenin, which Israeli forces pulled out of earlier Tuesday. Jenin had been the last of six West Bank towns that Israel seized part of last month in response to the assassination of an Israeli Cabinet minister. The pullout complied with a key U.S. demand.

Battle is on for northern fortress and southern stronghold in Afghanistan

MAZAR-E-SHARIF, Afghanistan (AP) — U.S. special forces aided northern alliance fighters battling captured loyalists of Osama bin Laden for a third day Tuesday in a sprawling mud-walled fortress in northern Afghanistan.

U.S. airplanes circled above the Qalai Janghi fortress, where Taliban prisoners captured by the alliance in the siege of Kunduz last weekend rained rocket-propelled grenades and mortars on alliance troops trying to suppress the uprising. Witnesses reported heavy airstrikes on the fortress overnight.

Five U.S. soldiers were seriously wounded Monday when a U.S. JDAM smart bomb called in by special forces went astray, exploding near the Americans.

The five were evacuated to nearby Uzbekistan and were being taken to Landstuhl Medical Center in Ramstein, Germany, Gen. Richard Myers, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, said in Washington. Their identities were not released.

One CIA operative was unaccounted for in the uprising, according to a U.S. official speaking on condition of anonymity.

Fighting continued at midday as the northern alliance sought to crush remaining Taliban fighters in the fort.

Swedish journalist killed in robbery in northern Afghanistan

TALOQAN, Afghanistan (AP) — A Swedish television journalist was killed early Tuesday in northern Afghanistan when armed men robbed the house where he was staying.

Ulf Stroemberg, a cameraman for Sweden's TV4, was the eighth journalist to die in Afghanistan since the start of the U.S.-led military campaign on Oct. 7.

Two young masked men armed with Kalashnikov rifles broke into the house where a group of Swedish journalists was staying and took cameras, computers, a satellite telephone and money from journalists working for Aftonbladet, the newspaper reported. They then moved to the next room, where Stroemberg was staying, and awoke Stroemberg and awoke Stroemberg, said Rolf Porseryd, the reporter with whom he was sharing the room.

"As soon as he opened the door there was a bang. Ulf fell over me. 'I'm hit, I'm shot,'" Porseryd said in a telephone interview with the broadcaster. Porseryd said he and the Aftonbladet journalists tried to revive Stroemberg and rushed him to a hospital, where a doctor pronounced him dead.

Stroemberg, 42, had worked for TV4 since 1998, the network said. He leaves behind a wife and three children, it said.

MS to sponsor special meeting

How many times have you wished your doctor had the same thing you had so he could "really" understand how you were feeling? Those people in the Pampa area who have multiple sclerosis or are wanting to learn more about the disease and the promising future research has to offer will get a chance to do just that at 6 p.m., Dec. 6 in Fellowship Hall of Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ, 1342 Mary Ellen. The keynote speaker will be Dr. Karl Gross.

Dr. Gross began his private practice of neurology in 1987, working mostly with non-Alzheimer dementias, behavior neurology, electro diagnostic studies and multiple sclerosis. In October of 1999, Dr. Gross was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis. Because of this, he discontinued clinical practice to devote his time to educating the world community on the disease.

The Panhandle Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society recently sent invitations to everyone registered with the Amarillo office to come and hear Dr. Gross, Thursday, Dec. 6 in Pampa or Dec. 7 in Amarillo in a special evening underwritten by an educational grant from Berlex Laboratories.

The Pampa dinner program will be catered by Rasco's and attendance needs to be RSVP. The east entrance on the parking lot (east) side of the building is accessible for those attending with special needs.

Dr. Gross gives a unique presentation starting with a question and answer session, taking questions from the audience. He is able to speak about the disease from the perspective both as a medical professional and a person with multiple sclerosis.

Who could benefit from the program? Anyone interested in learning more about living well with MS, anyone interested in learning more about MS because someone you love has MS, or anyone fearing the worse from a possible diagnosis.

For more information or to make reservations, call Sharon Strickland, after 5 p.m., at 669-9875 or Gail Lindsey at the Amarillo MS office, 806-468-7500. Reservation deadline for the catered dinner and program is Nov. 30.

For anyone who can't make the Pampa program the Amarillo program will be Friday, Dec. 7 at the Ambassador Hotel, Trinity Room off I-40 also beginning at 6 p.m. RSVP to the Amarillo office.

POWER POINTS OFFICIAL RULES

- Object of the game is to amass as many of the 136 possible points as you can. Simply review the week's schedule of games, listed on entry form, and decide which game you are SUREST of picking a winner in. Write the name of your projected winner on the 16-point line. If that team wins its game that week, you win 16 points. Write the name of your second-surest winner on the 15-point line, and so on down to the 1-point line, which game you figure to be a toss-up. Next, fill in Tiebreaker 1, the total points scored by both teams in the week's designated game. If this step fails to produce a winner, the judges will apply Tiebreaker 2, total offensive yardage from scrimmage in this game. If a winner still doesn't emerge, a drawing will be held among those contestants still tied. Decisions of the judges are final. The weekly Southwest winner of the contest will receive $1,000.
- Any entry form that does not contain a legible name, address, etc., will be disqualified.
- Entries that fail to forecast a winner from each and every game will be disqualified, as will entries that fail to distinguish between the Jets and Giants of New York and other similar teams.
- No points are awarded on tie games or in case any game is not played for any reason during its scheduled week.
- Entering POWER POINTS constitutes permission by contestant for his or her name and photograph to be used for news and reasonable promotional purposes at no charge.
- Employees of this newspaper and their immediate families are ineligible to participate.
- Any inquiry about or protest of weekly results must be made by noon on the Friday following the announcement of winners.
- No purchase necessary. Facsimile game entry forms will be accepted. Enter contest by dropping entry form into POWER POINTS container at participating co-sponsors.
- Weekly deadline for entry will be 2 p.m. Fridays except when noted otherwise on weekly entry form.
- Neither this newspaper nor any co-sponsor will be responsible for illegible entry forms or those lost, stolen or damaged in any way.
- Limit: one entry per person per week. Each entry must represent the original work of one entrant; "group" entries, "systems" or other attempts to represent multiple entries will be disqualified. Filing out extra forms and putting your friends' and relatives' names on them violates this rule. Any such entries are destroyed prior to grading.
- Contestants must have reached the age of eight (8) years by the Sunday of any week's play.
