

FLOW OF WILD GUSHER IS BIGGER INDEPENDENT PETROLEUM HEAD SPEAKS HERE TONIGHT NEW CURTAILMENT BASIS OF 59 PER CENT ANNOUNCED HERE

Citizens interested in the subject should not forget the oil meeting scheduled for this evening at the district courtroom. The independent oil men are facing a problem with a worldwide hearing. To study their dilemma, they have to look far beyond the borders of this state and this nation. The discussion of proration has a bearing on the farmers' problems and reducing of crops. The relationship is not parallel, but close enough to be interesting to farmers and business men as well as oil producers.

And we must recognize that oil and wheat and land are so closely associated in Gray county as to be indistinguishable. The land owners have or hope to strike oil and many others hope to attain riches from royalties. However, the oil business is not one primarily in which to attain great wealth. Of the thousands who are allied with the business, a relatively small number become very wealthy. Many individuals are in it for their salaries and many companies are satisfied to make no greater profit than the corner merchants.

But the independent oil men have a different problem. They are fighting for their lives. They are fighting the battles which directly and vitally touch the lives of the average citizen far from flowing wells. Tonight's meeting will unveil many little known and very imperfectly understood facts.

A few words to motorists: Driving slowly past school buildings should be automatic. The children have gathered literally "for miles around" to secure their class training. They are exuberant and full of fun. Sometimes that leaves no room for caution. But the motorist is not so affected. He should watch for the little tots all through the blocks. Ordinary traffic observations are not sufficient when the youngsters are sitting through the streets. Further, a few words occasionally from teachers on traffic regulations and rules would lessen the danger.

We voters should not feel too important. Sometimes the elections are completed in the courts. And when the investigations are complete, wonder if there will be an investigation of the investigators?

Sheriff Graves is probably pondering deeply over an invitation extended his prisoners by "Brownie" Akers to visit The Rex and see "The Big House" Thursday. It is a prison riot picture and the moral might be of some interest to the boys behind the local bars. At any rate, the sheriff can take any prisoners he desires to see the picture, and he may or may not do so after seeing the pre-view. And although the new Gray county jail is supposed to be free from cooties, it is not likely that the prisoners would be allowed at anything but a special and exclusive performance. The movies have a new code which is supposed to prohibit making of pictures which tend to encourage crime.

We trust that the patrons of the schools will not take offense at the "high" and "low" system of classification. This is not a system to separate the bright from the dull, but it does enable the more informed pupils to make faster progress and the less trained to receive more individualized instruction. Class assignments matter little—but what the pupil does over several months' time is important and indicative. It is useless to place the spellers in circles to have no "fool" Pupils, like grown-ups, need to have a goal toward which to move.

Mrs. W. J. Foster visited her parents in McLean during the week-end.

PRORATION TO REACH LOWER MARK IN AREA

Pipeline Outlet Is Smaller Than Expected

POTENTIAL TOTAL ALSO IS BIGGER

Gray County to Be Cut to 43,401 Barrels

Curtailments made on a basis of 59 per cent of the proratable production, and restriction of the total outlet of the Panhandle district to 70,000 barrels of oil by the pipeline companies were prominent features of the new proration schedule which was issued by H. J. Corcoran, proration engineer.

The new schedule went into effect at 7 a. m. this morning and will continue until 7 a. m., Oct. 1. The schedule sent to producers contains a list of every well producing over 25 barrels and how much the well is to be prorated.

Mr. Corcoran was forced to raise the curtailment percentage from 37.17, size of the cut which was in effect until this morning to 59 per cent when the pipeline companies announced that the outlet during the next 15 days would be 70,000 barrels, instead of the 80,000 barrel maximum set by the advisory committee in the tentative schedule.

T. D. Hobart has decided to recognize the pre-emption of a swarm of bees which lived a year or so ago in an old cook stove located in a small cabin on Fred Hobart's ranch on the Washita in Hemphill county. The cabin is in the center of a grove of locust and other trees which Mr. Hobart planted over 20 years ago. An alfalfa field near the cabin obviously attracted the bees to the locality.

NEW JEWISH TEMPLE HAS BEEN FORMED

A. Gordon Is Head of Local Hebrews in Move

PLAN TO BUILD AT LATER DATE

Noted Rabbi Coming on Two Holy Days

Hebrew residents of Pampa met last night and formed what will be known as the B'Nai Israel temple, the first organization of the kind to be started here.

Officers elected were A. A. Gordon, president; Sam Fenberg, vice-president; Joe Lazarus, secretary-treasurer; and Frank Soodhalter, S. C. Clayman, Joe Brown, and Murray Freundlich, trustees.

Those present raised $1,500 to start activities. Today they announced the organization of Dr. Joseph Goodman of Los Angeles, noted rabbi and spokesman, for services here on approaching high holidays. The first will start on the evening of Sept. 22 and will last through the following day. This is known as Rosh Hashonah or the Jewish New Year.

Next will be Yom Kippur on the evening of October 1, and continuing through the next day. Jewish merchants will close their stores on both days, Sept. 23 and October 2. Yom Kippur is the Jewish Christmas.

In speaking of the new organization, members said that it would be permanent and that next year a temple would be constructed. There are twenty-one Jewish families in the city, many of whose members have been visiting neighboring cities on holy days. Visitors will be welcomed at the local temple and no charge will be made for visits from other temples.

The local congregation last night started a charity fund for its own people, but it was emphasized that this would in no way interfere with liberal giving to the Salvation Army and other relief agencies.

Another meeting will be held Thursday evening at the B. C. D. rooms, where organization of a women's auxiliary will be discussed.

Methodists Give Liberally When Drive Is Held

An aggregate sum of $24,802 was subscribed by members of the First Methodist church in twelve minutes last Sunday when the Rev. Tom W. Brabham, pastor, called for gifts to pay off a building debt of $27,000 and another church obligation of $1,750. It was learned today after all gifts had been tabulated.

Many of the members of the church were out of town last Sunday and these upon their return to the city have subscribed, Rev. Brabham said. "There is no question about the drive going over the top," he declared. "The church members responded loyally. Those who were not present are bringing in their gifts."

During the service, 40 persons joined the church, raising the total membership to 760. Lunch was served to about 250 persons in the basement of the church after the close of the morning services.

The gifts ranged from $5,000, subscribed by a woman, to nominal sums. Two persons donated $2,500 each, one, $1,500; three, $1,000; eight $4.00. Many fifty and hundred dollar gifts were received.

Hobbs Man Is Alleged Victim of 'Circumstances'

HOBBES, N. M., Sept. 16. (AP)—One W. Allen, Oklahoma City oil field worker, is a victim of circumstances. He said so himself today from the Hobbs jail. He only wanted donations, he said, to aid in defraying the burial expenses of his friend, Johnny Burns, reputed victim of hijackers' bullets near Seminole, Texas.

One of the donors telephoned the sheriff at Seminole. That officer disclaimed knowledge of the death of Johnny Burns. Allen was arrested on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Allen told authorities here that Burns and another oil field worker named Everett left Hobbs last Sunday night for Oklahoma City. Everett returned here yesterday, according to Allen, with news of Burns' untimely end. Everett also said, Allen told police, that a Seminole undertaker refused to embalm Burns' body until paid for the task.

Allen started out to collect money. Everett is missing. The status of Burns is still undetermined.

Officials at the Graham-Cree & Hoover No. 1 Sullivan, three and one-half miles west of the city, had increased the crew to about 50 men. At noon they were replacing a defective collar and preparing to gradually shut in the roaring flow. While no test had been made, it was estimated that the gas had decreased to 40,000,000 cubic feet and the oil increased to 1,200 barrels daily more. The spray was noticeably darker today.

Meanwhile, traffic is barricaded off and re-routed to prevent danger of fire from exhausts. The spray began yesterday to fall across the highway and railroad tracks. Now it is necessary to stop passing trains and exit to the highway.

The well is about a quarter of a mile south of the tracks. Wheat land north and south of the well for a mile is oil-soaked.

One motorist told The News at noon that oil spray had fallen on his car three miles north of the well.

Observers were much interested in tests of the new producer, which is bottomed at 2900 feet, or more than 100 feet higher than the anticipated pay. With the bit still in the hole and deeper pays expected, the potential production of the well is believed to be second only to the Bowers and Marland-Finley pools in size.

AN ALERT COMMISSION

State public utilities commissions are not, ordinarily, famous for their intelligent zeal to see to it that the consumer gets a 100 per cent square break from utilities companies.

Consequently it is more than usually gratifying to record, a recent action taken by the public utilities commission in Georgia.

The people of Crisp county, Georgia, got tired of paying what they considered high rates for electricity. So, after long public discussion, the county went to work and built its own power plant.

As soon as this was done the Georgia Power and Light Company announced a reduction of 35 per cent in rates to consumers in Crisp county.

Now that sort of thing isn't unusual. It has happened in pretty nearly every other state in the union. What is unusual, decidedly, is the way the Georgia public utilities commission acted.

It promptly summoned the Georgia Power and Light Company to show some reason why it should not cut its rates 35 per cent in all the rest of the counties in the state.

There is one utilities commission that remembers that its prime duty is to look out for the interests of the consumers.

To be sure, in commending this action of the commission there is no desire to prejudge the case. It may develop that there are perfectly sound reasons to prevent this 35 per cent reduction from being put into effect in other Georgia counties. That isn't the point.

The point is that the commission has proved itself both alert and sensible. In the common phrase it is on its toes to see that no utility gets away with anything. Would that state commissions were equally energetic!—NEA.

WASHINGTON—The two Germans in Siberia who learned just the other day that the World War was over haven't anything on a lot of the participants in the celebrated struggle between capital and labor which is also supposed to have become a matter of history.

There are still labor leaders who believe certain capitalists are out to destroy unionism and there are still employers who believe that labor unions are the principal national menace. And both are likely to act accordingly.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which might be described as one of the more wide-awake unions, is undertaking to expose an employers' organization known as the League for Industrial Rights, which it accuses of waging class warfare against labor.

The brotherhood estimates that the league spends up to a million dollars a year of employers' money in pressing cases against labor unions which it has been doing since it was founded as the Anti-Boycott Association in 1902.

"The co-operating employers are of the old-fashioned type—men without the scientific or social point of view—men filled with the lust for power," says the brotherhood in its expose issued here.

"Co-operation in meeting the common peril," is said to be one of the league's slogans and it is quoted as proclaiming:

"In Great Britain there is no League for Industrial Rights and none of this protection exists, the closed shop and property during industrial strife is an outstanding prevails. The collapse of government in protecting liberty menace in our country."

The Brotherhood says: "Finding after 25 years of test cases, that it can not completely tie up labor activities with legal knots, the league is now seeking to pass bills thru state legislatures. These bills will forbid picketing absolutely. They will forbid make strikes illegal. They will make labor unions liable on any pretext."

League literature is quoted in an attempt to prove that this is the nature of the employer organization's legislative program. The league has also gone into the colleges with propaganda, it appears, for it says:

"The League for Industrial Rights has undertaken to counteract this influence by furnishing speakers who will overcome this radical propaganda and will endeavor to inculcate sound principles of industry and government. Departments of economics and sociology, and sometimes student bodies of the entire university have been addressed upon this most important subject. Our speakers have met with cordian co-operation of college faculties and students and in many cases they have aroused great interest on the part of the students. The experiment has brought to the attention of the officers of the league an amazing ignorance of those phases of the industrial problem to which the league has devoted its attention."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN RORIMER, temperamental young man of Hollywood, can't get along with the studio manager at Continental Pictures and fears up his contract as scenario writer and asks to be fired. But he isn't. Dan has become keenly interested in ANNE WINTER, a young girl from Tulsa, Okla., who is working as an extra girl. She has had stage experience, and she knows enough to warrant a screen test at Grand United studios.

Rorimer, former newspaper man from New York, lives with PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column for a string of newspapers. Anne lives with MONO MORRISON, and EVA HARLEY, two extra girls. Eva is rather bitter. She does not get enough work to make a living, and Dan suspects that there may be some sort of tragedy in her life.

GARRY SLOAN, famous Hollywood director, has shown some interest in Anne Winter, although hardly enough for her to warrant any high hopes. Dan does not care much for Sloan; he is an admirer, however, of MARTIN COLLINS, formerly of Continental, now with Amalgamated. Collins invites him to a housewarming at his home, and he brings Anne along.

There Dan meets a charming young actress named MARIS FARRELL, who takes a liking to him, and Anne meets and is annoyed by FRANK MAURY, a conceited charmer of the screen.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

The pool lay in the middle of the lawn in the rear, fringed by tall palms. And it was here that Anne and Collins found Dan Rorimer. He had drawn off to himself from the noisy group that was ranging the grounds, and he was standing with one hand thrust deep into a trousers pocket, while he smoked a cigarette and gazed at the sky.

Collins approached noiselessly, said, "What do the stars foretell?" in a deep bass, and Rorimer swung around half guiltily.

"This young lady," Collins said, taking Dan's arm, "has been looking all over for you. She asked me," he added, unheeding of Anne's laughing protest, "if I wouldn't take her by the hand and find you."

"Where's Maris?"

"Over there." Dan nodded his head toward the little stucco building that housed the dressing rooms. "She's picking out a bathing suit; said she wanted to get a green one."

Collins grunted. "Maris," he said, "would be particular about the color. Think I'll go over and speak to her."

He wandered off, singing, leaving Anne and Rorimer alone.

Dan said, "Well, how do you like the party? Having a good time?" And Anne nodded. "Just perfect. I adore Mr. and Mrs. Collins, don't you?"

He grinned and shook his head, and told her he was saving his admiration for somebody else. "But I like them fine. They're great guys—both of them. . . . What do you feel like doing, Anne? Want to walk around a bit, or sit down and wish at the moon, or shall we dance? Gee, I haven't had a dance with you yet," he reminded her.

"Whose fault is that?" Anne asked, moving toward the brink of the pool.

"Not mine," Dan said, ranging beside her again and holding her arm. Don't fall in, now, you'll spoil your dress." And he wanted to know how she could expect him to get a word in, with Maury forever at her heels. "I thought that guy never would let you go."

"Anne sighed, "I thought so myself," she said. "Martin Collins saved me; I think he read the distress signals in my eyes. . . . But you," she added, "didn't seem to be fishing on the vine exactly."

"Oh, you mean Maris Farrell?"

Anne Winter nodded, and Dan laughed and started to say something about Maris Farrell, but Anne interrupted him. She had glanced toward the house and beheld Frank Maury walking toward them with another man and a girl. She could hear Maury's voice; it was loud and slightly thick.

So she asked Dan to take her inside and dance, and Dan complied and started off with her.

But Maury had seen them. He detached himself from his companion and headed them off, and Dan saw that he stood erect with some difficulty.

Maury said, "Hello, Anne; where have you been? I've been looking everywhere. Let's you and I dance this dance."

He ignored Rorimer. Anne said she was sorry. "I've promised this one, Mr. Maury."

"To him?" Maury indicated Rorimer with a gesture of his thumb, without even turning his head.

Dan thought, "The arrogant pup!" He said, "Yes, to me," and at his tone Anne's fingers tightened on his arm.

Maury was disposed to argue. He now looked at Dan for the first time, and he said, "Well, why don't you be big-hearted and give it to me?"

"You've no idea," Dan said, smiling, "how stony-hearted I am. You couldn't even buy it."

Maury regarded him rather stupidly for a moment and then he thrust a hand into the inside pocket of his dinner jacket, and Dan suspected he was about to pull out his billfold. So he said to Maury:

"I think Martin Collins wants you. He's over at the dressing room, passing out bathing suits, and he's got a nice pink one picked out for you."

And then he took Anne away.

Anne said, "You've made an enemy for life now, and all on my account. I think that was simply awful, what you told him." But she laughed at recollection of it.

"That suits me fine," Rorimer said. "I hope he never speaks to me again. He's just another one of these movie actors with a pretty face and a swelled head, and they rattle about a dime a dozen with me."

He was just a belligerent little boy, Anne thought.

They had one whole dance together, and part of another; but then someone cut in again. But Rorimer didn't mind now; the crowd was congenial; only Maury irritated him.

He lost Anne for a while then, and presently finding himself without a partner, he wandered into the patio, where he found Anne listening to the earnest conversation of a small, gray-haired man whose name he could not remember.

He waved carelessly and strolled away. Outside he almost ran into Maris Farrell and Frank Maury standing on the lawn. He murmured an apology and started on, but Maris said something in a low voice that held him, and he stood still.

When caught up with Maris Farrell the girl gave him a grateful smile and took his arm and they continued toward the dressing room.

"Thank you," she said. "I knew I could count on you." And she added that Frank Maury, while he was nice enough ordinarily, at times could be very objectionable. "He doesn't know when to stop drinking," she said.

"Did he get nasty?" she wanted to know, and Dan shook his head. "I don't think he's very crazy about me, though," he laughed, and he told her of his earlier run-in with the actor.

Maris said, "Poor Frank!" They came to the edge of the pool, and she stopped and looked at the water, and then at the moon it reflected, and observed that it was no night to be indoors.

"Frank wanted to dance," she said. "He had been looking all over for someone to dance with him, but no one wants to now. Martin Collins tried to get him into a bathing suit, but Frank wouldn't hear of it. You just can't argue with him when he's that way."

She continued to chat pleasantly and Dan found occasion to study her. She was small and lovely, and he thought her eyes surprisingly dark for such light hair. And her eyebrows were black, or nearly so. He thought: "Another Hollywood bleached blond," and he recollected some of the things that Paul Collier had told him the girls out here did to enhance their photographic beauty.

Looking at Maris, he told himself that it couldn't have improved her actual beauty. He thought that Maris might have been prettier and less artificial looking with her hair the dark shade that it probably had been originally.

She began to question him about his work, and he made reply and questioned her in turn and learned that she had come to Hollywood from the Broadway stage. Maris, he thought, was a rather nice person. No airs about her; just a friendly, conversational young lady who seemed to be interested in everything and everybody.

She inquired after Paul Collier, told him that Paul had written one or two things about her that she appreciated greatly. "Everything helps, you know," she said with a frank smile. And presently she asked him a question about Anne Winter.

Rorimer suspected that she had been leading up to this. Maris, he felt, was a little curious about Anne and he was somehow glad that this was so.

So he informed her about the forthcoming picture at Grand United and the screen test that Anne had had; and Maris showed real interest and questioned him further.

"Was she a dancer on the stage?" she wanted to know, and when Dan enlightened her she said:

"That's very interesting. They

Dan jerked his hand from the other's grip, and for a moment he stood there and waited to see what Maury might do. But his anger quickly passed; the man was drunk and he felt it would be childish to quarrel with him.

So he said, "I'm sorry," and he turned away abruptly and left him.

"There are hundreds of applicants for each picture—chorus girls from the stage, and extras that have picked up dancing at schools—and they're generally just sixty-dollar-a-week jobs at best. So they must have something unusual in mind for Miss Winter, to go to all that trouble, and especially to give her a screen test."

Dan said he hadn't given that angle much thought. "You're very encouraging," he told her. "I'll be sure to tell her what you said." And Maris, smiling at him, asked if Anne Winter was an especial friend of his.

Production Has Sharp Decline in Mid-Continent

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 16. (AP)—Curtailment in the midcontinent area was responsible for a decline of 20,705 barrels in the daily average production of crude oil in the United States for the week ended Sept. 13, as estimated by the Oil and Gas

Journal. The country's daily average for the week, included both light and heavy gravity oils, was computed at 2,417,007 barrels, compared with 2,437,712 for the preceding week. Light oil production dropped 27,774 barrels, but an increase in the heavy oil yield cut into that figure.

Oklahoma led the downward movement with a decrease of 15,840 barrels, the state's total being estimated at 548,705 barrels. A decline of 12,157 was registered in the Texas Parhandle with an output of 84,384 barrels. West Texas production was estimated at 278,010 barrels, an increase of 973; North Central Texas production at 116,147, a decline of 6,285 barrels; East Central Texas production at 41,192 barrels, an increase of 434. Kansas production at 118,335, an increase of 4,850 barrels. The total for the midcontinent area was 1,280,168 barrels, or 28,570 barrels under the preceding week's average.

Eastern production was unchanged at 120,000 barrels, according to

ROBINS TAKE LEAD; TO FACE GIANTS NEXT

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Once more the pace setters, the Brooklyn Robins today faced the difficult task of turning back the threatening St. Louis Cardinals, as they did the Chicago Cubs last week. If they are to be the first team under the wire in the boiling National league pennant race.

The Robins, boasting a season's record winning streak of 11 games, today held a one-game margin over the Cards and one and one-half game advantage over the third place Cubs.

While the Robins and Cardinals are battling in a three-game series, the Cubs will be called upon to meet the Giants, all but eliminated from the race but still clinging to that mathematical possibility.

The leaders:

Brooklyn—won 84; lost 60; pct. 583; games behind 0; games to play 10.

St. Louis—won 82; lost 60; pct. 577; games behind 1; games to play 12.

Chicago—won 82; lost 61; pct. 569; games behind 1 1/2; games to play 11.

New York—won 78; lost 65; pct. 543; games behind 5 1/2; games to play 11.

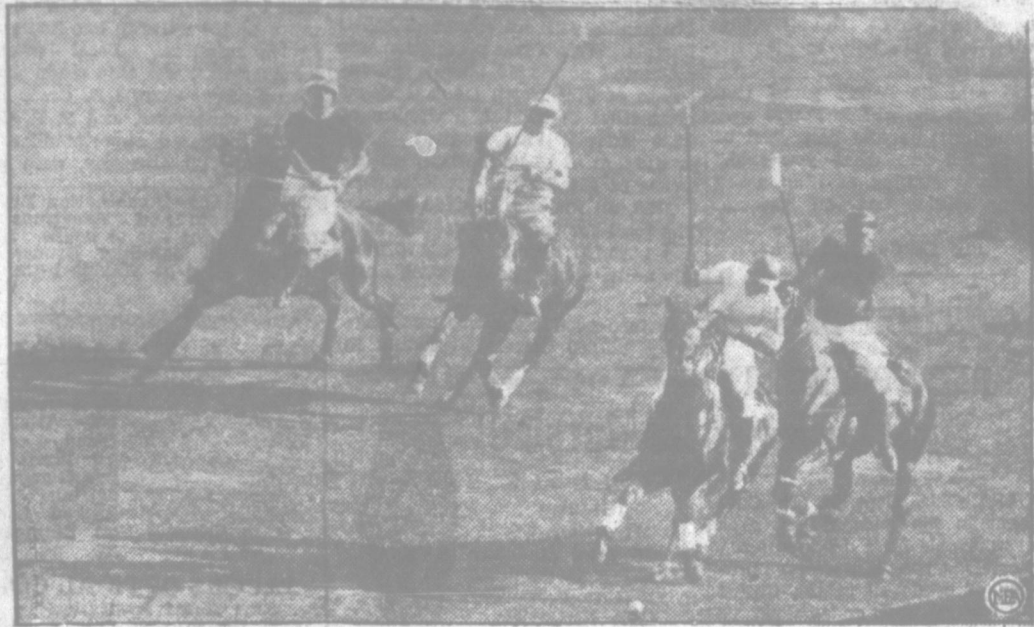

In turning back the Cincinnati Reds, 13 to 5, yesterday, the Robins won their eleventh consecutive game, beating the Athletics' former record of 10 straight. The Reds started out like they were going to be tough, scoring three runs in the first inning and driving Ray Moss from the mound, but the Robins were out after the game and a chance to increase their lead over the idle Cardinals, a few of whom were in the stands.

Red Lucas, ace of the Reds' hurling staff, went the way of Moss as Brooklyn talked six times in their half of the first session. There would have been one more run if Glenn Wright, who bounced a home run into the bleachers, had not over run Babe Herman on the base paths. As it was Wright was declared out and got credit for only a single. After the first inning, the Brooklyn sluggers kept peppering away, rolling up a decided advantage while Watson Clark, Moss' successor, was holding the Reds in check.

The Cubs lost a chance to gain valuable ground, when they split a doubleheader with Philadelphia, the Phillies taking the opening slugfest 12 to 11 and Chicago accounting for the nightcap 6 to 4 after Mack Wilson had pounded out his fifteenth home run of the season. Lefty O'Doul's home run with one out in the ninth and the score knotted at 11 all decided the exciting opener. Guy Bush performed brilliantly on the mound to give the Cubs the second. He held the Phillies at his mercy until the ninth, when they rallied and scored three runs. Heathcote hit a home run in each game for the Cubs while English and O'Doul also connected with homers.

With Fred Fitzsimmons giving out only three hits, the Giants stayed in the race with a 6 to 1 triumph over the Pirates. Steve Swencio was equally as brilliant after the first two innings, but in those two frames, the Giants scored five of their six runs. The victory broke the Giants' five-game losing streak. Washington managed to pick up a half game on the idle Athletics in the American league as they trimmed Ted Lyons and the Chicago White Sox 14 to 9. Lyons was not hit as hard as his three successors, but was given poor support. Each team got 15 hits but the Senators were able to couple their blows with White Sox misplays.

As U. S. Triumphed Over Britain for Polo Supremacy

Riding hard, pony to pony, mallets flashing, America and Britain's greatest polo stars here are pictured in action in the bitterly fought international match which clinched world supremacy for the United States team, 14 to 9, at Meadow Brook, Long Island. Seen pulling up short at the left are Captain Thomas Hitchcock (in white shirt) of the American four and Lewis Lacey, British No. 2.

If it hadn't been for one bad inning Vic Sorrel would have pitched the Tigers to a triumph over the Yankees. As it was New York defeated Detroit 5 to 3, scoring four of their runs in the second. Thereafter Sorrel had the New Yorkers at his mercy.

The St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox divided a doubleheader, the Browns winning the opener 3 to 1 and the Red Sox taking the second 2 to 1 in 11 innings.

Boat Race Is Postponed When Fog Develops

U. S. S. KANE, Newport Harbor, Sept. 16. (AP)—The third race of the series for the America's Cup, scheduled for today, was called off.

A pea soup fog, which had given signs of lifting, settled down again shortly after 10 o'clock and the committee decided that a race today was impossible.

Neither the Enterprise, American defender, nor the Shamrock had left port.

The fog made navigation difficult, two large yachts, identity of which was not learned, collided in the harbor but with little approximate damage to either.

around to third with two out. Stoner pitched to the dangerous Kloss and fanned him, swinging. Except for a walk to Crouch in the eighth, Stoner set the Spuds down in order in the last two frames.

Harvester Cripples Recovering and Most of Them Will Be Seen Thursday in Game With Hollis, Okla., Team

Thursday's game here between the Pampa Harvesters and the Hollis, Okla., eleven will likely find the locals nearing their top form of the season. By playing early in the week, the Pampa boys will have an opportunity to see some of their rivals in action later in the week.

The injury to Captain Don Saulsbury proved to be nothing more serious than a bruise, and he will be available for at least part of the game. Jim Ayres is recovering from the strain which kept him out of the last game.

Albert Lara is suiting out daily, although he is saving himself for the Lubbock game. Three cracked ribs suffered in the Spur game are knitting satisfactorily. How to get the most practice out of the Hollis game without risking injuries is the problem the Harvesters face.

There will be a lot of substitutions, as usual. With little to lose and a lot of prestige to gain, the Oklahomans will be fighting for a scalp to take back home.

Practically every Class A team in this district is hoping for a Pampa victory at Lubbock Sept. 26. The reason is that the Westerners are rated as the No. 1 team of the area and unless they crack there will be no chance for any other squad. The strong Harvesters, rounding into form although the season is yet young, are given the best chance to topple Coach Frank's charges. Amarillo, rated third in Power, is given little chance to beat Lubbock at the South Plains gridiron.

Amarillo is hoping for a Pampa victory, even though the Sanders will have only an outside chance.

to beat the locals at Amarillo two weeks after the Lubbock-Pampa game. Injuries might make that possible however, and a big crowd of Amarillo fans are planning to accompany the Pampa delegation to Lubbock.

PANTHER SPECIAL WILL LEAVE FORT WORTH FOR MEMPHIS THIS EVENING

FORT WORTH, Sept. 16. (AP)—Victorious over Wichita Falls in a bitterly-contested five-game play-off for the Texas league flag, Fort Worth's fighting Cats prepared today to engage the Memphis Chicks, Southern Association champs, in the Dixie series, annual post-season classic.

The Panther special, carrying the triumphant Cats and several thousand fans, was scheduled to leave late this afternoon for the southern city, where the first two games of the series will be played Wednesday and Thursday. A pennant fund which already had passed the $5,000 mark was being swelled hourly. It served to rejuvenate Manager Frank Snyder's warriors, who were pretty well whipped down after their family quarrel with the Spudders.

Great pitching by Lil Stoner, ace righthander of the Cat staff, featured the decisive battle of the play off yesterday. In winning his second game of the series, 3 to 2, Stoner limited the Spudders to six scattered hits, and fanned seven. A skinned thumb on his throwing hand hurt him on every pitch and he almost was jerked on two occasions when he lost control, but he stuck it out to win. He was struck on the wrist by a pitched ball in the second inning and the member was badly swollen at the finish.

Jack Kloss's long smash over the right field stands accounted for the first of Wichita Falls' two runs in the sixth. It was his third homer of the series. Betencourt scored another before the inning was out. After blazing a single thru the box, he took third on Crouch's single and raced home as Fuller bounced one to Fowler on third. Fowler could have cut the run off at the plate but chose to try for a double play. His throw to second was high, and Crouch reached the bag safely, only to be run down when he tried to continue on to third.

The Spudders made their last, desperate effort in the seventh when Storti walked and made his way

A CROSS-SECTION OF CURRENT CONVERSATIONS IN CONOCOLAND

"I'M GOING TO TRY SOME OF THIS GERM-PROCESSED OIL AND FIND OUT FOR MYSELF"

Talk... talk... talk... was there ever so much talk about a motor oil before? And small wonder, for the introduction of Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil marked such an advance in lubricating laws that the whole oil world was set agog. Motorists like you and I, who have always felt that motors wore out too soon, learned that the metal-penetrating features of this new oil meant many more useful miles for our car and a dollar saving that amounted to real money.

The Pike's Peak Tests proved that Germ-Processed lengthens motor life. The achievement at Indianapolis and Altoona, where Conoco Germ-Processed oil successfully lubricated racing motors that finished "in the money" at speeds from 92 to 120 miles per hour, means that fast driving in summer heat of regular motors can be done with confidence. That's why Conoco Germ-Processed oil has excited so much comment and conversation. That's why you should change now to this first really new oil in 25 years. Drive in at the Sign of the Red Triangle and begin now to use this remarkable oil.

Following the Pike's Peak Tests, where Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil was tested side by side with three other popular, nationally known oils, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association issued Certificate of Performance number 2268, comprising 14 points, of which the point below is one.

POINT NO. 10
"That during these tests the subject oil showed improved compression pressure, decreased rate of crankcase dilution and decreased gasoline consumption, indicating an improved ring seal."

FEMINE FANCIES

BY HOLLYCE SELLERS

A Parent-Teacher association meeting had been held and a teacher had pleaded for the cooperation of parents in school activities.

Then one Friday evening the teacher sent Johnny's mother a note urging the removal of his tonsils. Bright and early Monday morning Johnny appeared at school again carrying with him an answer to the note. It read, "I received your note, so I took the scissors and whacked out Johnny's tonsils. Now he's all ready for school again."

The above is a little story told before the teachers institute last week. Just a humorous illustration of the cooperation that is necessary for the executing of the slogan in the Pampa schools this year, "Equal educational opportunities for all children."

P. T. A. work is the only way at present by which equal opportunities can be insured, since it is largely home life that makes for the differences. A child who has had plenty of sleep is better prepared for learning than the child whose sleep has been inadequate. The same applies to nutrition, exercise, and play. It also applies to the mental, moral, and spiritual life of the child. Without parental education received through the P. T. A., one child will have an advantage that will be denied another, thus making the chances for succeeding in school greater for the first child.

Individual needs are to receive more attention in the local schools this year than ever before. If the child has a physical defect, an effort will be made to correct it, while if he is physically normal, it will be the duty of the teacher to help him remain normal and grow stronger.

If the child's mental age is above his chronological age, and if he progresses faster than the rest of the class, he will not be held back, but will be given additional work, and if he is capable of doing more advanced work, he will be promoted ahead of the rest of the group.

If the child is nervous or bashful, or if he has any other handicap socially speaking, it will be the duty of the teacher to help him overcome this handicap.

Yes, the old meaning of education—reading and writing and arithmetic—has passed.

R. B. Fisher, superintendent of the Pampa public schools, has asked for the full cooperation of parents in school activities, stating that suggestions or criticisms would be welcomed. The teacher should always be consulted first, he said, then the principal, and then the superintendent.

One of the first steps in cooperation is to attend P. T. A. meetings, for through these meetings it is possible to solve many problems which, if left unsolved, would lessen the child's opportunity for a well-rounded education. Try to go to the first P. T. A. meeting held at the school your child attends.

BABE HUNT IS NEARER GOAL - BEATS RISKO

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 16. (AP)—Babe Hunt, pugilistic pride of Pampa City, stood today one step nearer his goal of the heavyweight championship of the world as a result of his clean cut victory over Johnny Risko, Cleveland rubber man, here last night.

Hunt, rawboned giant, kept his long left continually jabbing and hooking to Risko's head and body and the roly-poly trial horse at times at times seemed puzzled by the steady tattoo on his nose.

After a cautious first round, in which he seemed wary of his widely known foe, Hunt cut loose with a two-fisted attack that gave him the decision of the two judges and Ed Cochran, Kansas City referee.

Towering a head taller than his opponent, Hunt found Risko a difficult target to hit, especially since Risko chose to clinch repeatedly.

The tenth round provided a rousing climax with both fighters struggling with both hands. Risko appeared battered and tired at the close. Hunt was unmarked.

Women's Club Building Started

HOUSTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—A dream of 16 years standing has come true with the award of a contract for a permanent headquarters building at Austin for the Texas Federation of Women's clubs. A constitutional pledge for such a home was made in 1914. The building, to cost $100,000, was approved and contract was awarded yesterday by the federation committee on permanent headquarters meeting here.

Mason Gellatly and Miss Imel Richeson attended the circuit at Amarillo yesterday.

PRORATION—

counties of the Panhandle, respectively, follows:

Carson—11,079 barrels, 7,263 barrels; Gray—83,751 barrels, 43,401 barrels; Hutchinson—23,586 barrels, 18,090 barrels; Moore—865 barrels, 584 barrels; Wheeler—778 barrels, 622 barrels.

Total number of barrels exempt from proration was 36,038 barrels, while the total prorable production was 85,130 barrels. A total of 1,945 wells in the Panhandle were gauged. Of these, 1,181 were on leases producing less than a 25-barrel average. Total production on leases under a 25-barrel average was 16,128 barrels, while the total production on leases over a 25-barrel average was 104,040 barrels. As each of the 784 wells on leases with over a 25-barrel average is allowed to produce 25 barrels which is exempt from proration, the exempt oil on such leases totaled 20,375 barrels.

Many Small Wells

The outlet was determined by adding the curtailment on the basis of 59 per cent and the amount of the exempt oil. This prorating process included taking 59 per cent of 85,130, leaving 50,701 barrels. The schedule shows that there are 220 wells in Gray county producing less than a 25-barrel average and that 465 wells produce more than a 25-barrel average. The total production of Gray county leases producing more than a 25-barrel average is 79,140 barrels. The exempt oil output was 12,300 barrels while the prorable production was 68,380 barrels. Curtailment on basis of 59 per cent left 40,350 barrels.

Umpire's general order No. 5, also issued this morning, established dates for test periods for potential production on all leases in the Panhandle, and set the final date for the completion of these tests. These tests will commence 10 days previous to the date of the next semi-monthly period of proration, and will close six days after the opening of each test period.

The potential production of the Panhandle district as found by the proration committee was 107,985 barrels, and Gray county's was 74,211 barrels, both of which figures are considerably less than the potentials found by the umpire.

The number of wells to be prorated is 784. In compiling the schedule, the umpire and his assistants gave the following facts about each of these wells: potential production, lease well average, total wells on lease, total production on lease over 25-barrel average, barrels of exempt oil, barrels of prorable production, curtailment on basis of 59 per cent, and allowable production per lease.

J. W. Garman, manager of the Central States Power and Light company, and C. L. Simmons of Tulsa, district auditor of the company, made a business trip to Panhandle Monday.

Lustrous Satin Stunning for Gowns

PARIS (AP)—Lustrous satin, as heavy as the fabric known as slipper satin, is one of the winter-time innovations.

Paris calls the new stuff dull satin and uses it for wraps, tunic blouses on afternoon costumes and for coats with fur trimmings.

In white, dull satin makes stunning evening dresses, particularly effective as a background for fine jewels.

Milton Sills Dies Suddenly on His Tennis Court

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16. (AP)—Milton Sills, who deserted a career as an educator for the stage and reached his zenith of fame as a motion picture actor, is dead.

The player of "two fisted" rolls was stricken last night while playing tennis with his wife, the former Doris Kenyon, film actress, at their suburban home, and 15 minutes later died of what was diagnosed as heart disease without regaining consciousness.

Sills' passing takes from the screen the second of its noted actors within a month. Lon Chaney, noted for his grotesque character roles, died here in August.

Tall and strapping, Sills was one of the films' best athletes. Although he had been ill in 1929 and last spring, he was thought to have been in perfect health this summer.
