Drys Claiming Congressional Gains With Liquor as Leading Issue

PAMPA TOPICS OF OUR CITY By O.E.H.

Judge Ivy E. Duncan, chairman of the Lions crippled children's committee, has issued a call for funds which the community should not ignore. His committee has constant need of funds with which to carry on this humanitarian work. Little cripples are examined and sent to hospitals for corrective treatment. After they are there, the bills begin to pile up even though many of the doctors are very, very reasonable. It is not possible to cease treatment before it is completed. Debts incurred by the committee total several hundred dollars. Contributions are welcomed, since the scope of the work is limited only by the size of the fund raised.

Pampa is a city of many organizations. Now cometh the Hayfever club. We thought the drought had killed the weeds and the hayfever, but maybe not. Anyhow, George Briggs proposes formation of one. Ah, kerchew! The member sneezing the most times in succession will be president—or treasurer if he prefers.

Contributed, kind words—not original, but nevertheless appreciated: "The follies, vices, and congenial miseries of multitudes, displayed in a newspaper, are so many admonitions and warnings, so many besoms, continually burning, to turn others from the rocks on which they have been shipwrecked."—Bishop Horne.

This column is asked for dope on the Lubbock game a week hence. Answer: Pampa has a good fighting chance, which is all any Pampa group ever asks. The Harvesters are good, and getting better rapidly. They have not been tested against metal such as Lubbock is reputed to possess. Unless Lubbock has her machine well oiled, her expected championship will get a severe jolt. To hope too much is foolish; to hope not enough is treason. Let's go to Lubbock to win!

Have you a little peptic ulcer in your tummy? This isn't a senseless question. Dr. George Crile of Cleveland says that worry is a source of stomach ulcers. Worry discharges millions of tiny electric batteries lining the stomach walls and assisting in digestion. Animals don't, and so they don't have ulcers. The smartest men have the most ulcers, the good doctor avers. The Pampian, he said, is not troubled with them.

Trips over the city reveal that while the drought has left many farms brown and sere, the vacant lots are prolific in weeds. Instead of shipping livestock out of the county, why not bring it over to our vacant lots?

The Pampian calls attention to the news cooking school which is to start soon. There are a lot of Pampa husbands who are very poor cooks and he trusts that they will take advantage of this school and learn to cook their breakfasts. We trust that wives who depend upon their husbands for kitchen skill will insist upon the latters' attending without further urging in this column.

The cooking school also should be interesting to those young ladies who wish to advertise the fact that they are learning culinary tricks. We promise to run the list of all who register.

There is no race suicide in the oil belt.

WETS SPEND MUCH MORE IN CAMPAIGNS

Methodist Declares Booze Showing Is Poor

McBRIDE SAYS FIGHT IS TENSE

Wobbling Candidates Have Bad Luck In Elections.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Dees Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church's board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, issued a statement today saying "it is astonishing that the wets have made such a poor showing" in recent primaries.

"The wets have apparently made a gain of eleven votes in the house of representatives in contrast to their claims of 37," he said.

Pickett assured some candidates "who have not for years been listed as dries by the prohibition organizations are claimed as though their return to congress marked a wet victory."

"In several cases where a wet comes to congress the dry formerly occupying the seat did not offer for re-election," Pickett said, adding that while the wets might gain "four or five additional seats" in the house the "gubernatorial situation is distinctly favorable to the dries."

Cites Expenditures

"When consideration is given to the enormous amounts of money spent—$425,370 by the wets as opposed to $9,622 by the dries—it is astonishing that the wets have made such a poor showing," Pickett continued.

"The dries have realized for two years that enormous majority which came in with the Hoover landslide could not be maintained in its entirety and they have not felt that a reduction of twenty votes in the house would mark any real change in sentiment."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—The intense wet drive for congressional gains this year was acknowledged today by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the anti-saloon league to have caused the prohibition issue to be "more clearly drawn than at any time since the coming of prohibition."

At the same time the scope of the wet campaign was revealed to some extent in reports of political expenditures filed with the clerk of the house which showed that so far in 1930 wet organizations have spent $425,370 while dry forces reported spending only $9,622.

"The wets have forced the issue in this campaign," McBride said. "It is a poor year for a wobbler."

Expect Dry Additions

In the face of the anti-prohibition drive, however, the anti-saloon leader expressed confidence dry forces would be strengthened in the senate and would continue to hold 70 per cent of the house of representatives.

Against the wet outlays collections were listed totaling $363,188. The association against the prohibition amendment handled the bulk of the wet funds, collecting $332,839 and spending $385,392. Among the disbursements was listed $100,000 spent in Pennsylvania for the wet ticket headed by Thomas W. Phillips and Francis S. Bohlen in the Republican primary.

The dries reported more funds collected than spent. They took in $11,621. The principal activities reported took place in New Jersey and Missouri. In the eastern state the anti-saloon league and its state campaign committee spent up to September 3, $5,511, collecting $5,739. In Missouri the prohibition national committee reported spending and collecting $4,065. The anti-saloon league's national campaign committee reported no expenditures up to September 10.

R. I. Graves of Amarillo, district manager of the Southland Life Insurance company, was in Pampa yesterday.

Bossie Sets Bovine Record in Tree Sitting

CUERO, Sept. 19.—(P)—Tree sitters may rise and fall and other endurance records may be chalked up in endless numbers, but Dewitt county claims the most unusual achievement of them all in the tree sitting cow that set up a mark of three days in the air.

Bossie, none the worse for her record sitting activities, is back on the job on the S. J. Parker farm near Cuero.

Parker missed the cow, a favorite in his herd, and after three days gave up the search in adjoining pastures and charged the loss of Bossie to theft.

On the afternoon of the third day Parker spied a strange object in a tree some 350 yards from the house. Investigation revealed Bossie calmly chewing her cud and viewing the landscape from the topmost branches of the tree.

The tree leaned at such an angle that the cow, tiring of dry pasture and the drying grass afforded, proceeded to walk up the trunk in search of the greener and more inviting foliage.

Unable to back down or turn around, there she remained, complacently setting herself the task of establishing a brand new sort of tree sitting record. Her three day stand atop the tree is expected to go unchallenged by the balance of the bovine world.

Parker obtained the aid of friends, backed a truck under the low hanging tree, clearing the branches with an axe, lowered Bossie into the bed of the truck.

This test is located three miles north of Pampa in the northwest corner of the northwest quarter of section 93, A Fort Worth oil company who made the location claim that the formation from which oil in the Graham-Cree-Hoover gusher is coming extends north and that the Duncan test is located above this strata.

Football Ticket Sale Is Begun; 200 Necessary

The list of those who plan to attend the Lubbock-Pampa football game next Friday is headed by Mel Davis, Harvester "daddy," who bought five tickets yesterday. It was announced today at the B. C. D. which is receiving orders for round-trip tickets.

L. W. Klein, Santa Fe agent, has received 400 tickets to be used especially for the trip this morning. To obtain a ticket, the buyer deposits $3.55 at the B. C. D. and receives an order. This may be exchanged for a ticket at the Santa Fe station any time between now and the date of the game.

Mr. Klein said that he intends to accompany the boosters and the team to Lubbock. The train will be in charge of the Santa Fe. The train will be ordered as soon as 200 tickets are sold.

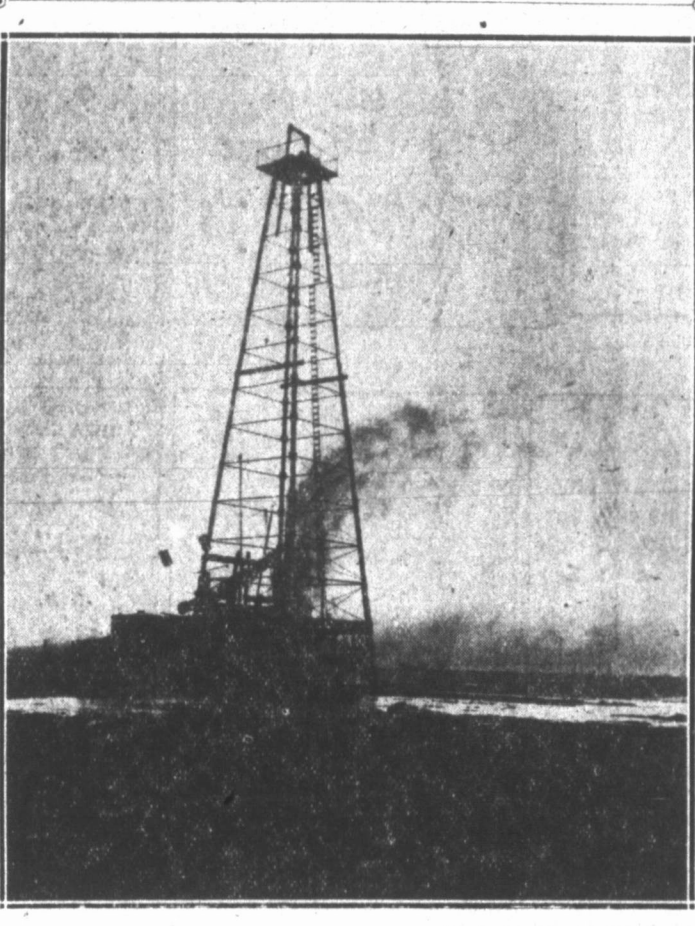

A committee headed by Sam Fenberg will start an intensive ticket drive Monday. It must be completed by Wednesday night.

New Trial Refused

MOUNT VERNON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Judge R. T. Wilkinson today overruled a motion for a new trial filed by attorneys for Cader Barfield, sentenced to five years in the penitentiary last week for murder in connection with the slaying of Ray Palmer in Texarkana two years ago.

Notice of appeal to the court of criminal appeals was given.

When Sullivan Well Began Flowing

The above photo shows No. 1 Sullivan well 3 1/2 miles west of Pampa soon after it began spraying oil. It is making over 5,000 barrels daily now. The soil is saturated over a wide area.

INDEPENDENT PRODUCERS FIND MARKET OUTLET MUCH LOWER AS PIPELINE COMPANIES CUT RUNS

Complaints that pipe line companies were not taking their scheduled prorata of oil from certain leases in Gray county were made today. These operators, all independents, declared that the pipeline companies were not conforming to the prorata schedule released on Monday, in which they limited their daily runs to 70,000 barrels.

While it is true that many pipeline connections have been made since the curtailing order went into effect and oil is being taken from many wells which had no production due to lack of connections, owners of these properties said that the pipelines are not taking as much oil as the schedule provides.

The attitude of the independent operator is that although the pipeline was designed to help the independents dispose of their oil, the pipeline companies are taking less oil than ever before. The independents point out that the pipeline companies set the maximum output at 70,000 barrels, and that the pipeline law as it now stands is really an aid to the major companies to cut the production of independent operators to a minimum.

Major operators reply that since they must take some of everybody's oil they must cut the runs, and that to set the maximum higher would result in drilling orgies and over production.

To Attend Convention

J. D. Pearson and Dr. W. Purviance will attend the American Legion twelfth national convention at Boston, October 6-9.

Ted Frazier of Hollis, Okla., was in Pampa Thursday.

Eight Locations Are Made Near Sullivan Gusher West of Pampa

Locations for eight wells, all off-sets to the Graham-Cree-Hoover gusher, were reported this morning. The Phillips Petroleum company is due to drill three wells on the Barrett lease in the northwest corner of the northwest quarter of section 136, Magnolia has staked locations for two wells in section 153, northeast quarter. If these wells are drilled in, owners of the discovery well will be forced to drill an off-set on their 40 acre lease. The Rapid Oil company is completing plans to drill on the Sam McCullough property in section 153.

The other location has been made on the Osborne lease, section 136, which adjoins the Graham lease. In the first 34 hours, the Graham gusher tested 5,400 barrels of oil. The owners have been unable to secure a pipe line connection and the oil is being placed in steel and earthen storage. Belief that if drilled deeper, the well would produce 20,000 barrels of oil daily was expressed by several operators.

"FRIDAY" IS VERY IMPORTANT IN COURT

"Friday is indispensable to this court," said Judge Clifford Braly of the 114th district court this morning.

In fact, Gray county officers and those who have consistent dealings at the courthouse will tell you that "Friday" (A. G. Brandon) is an indispensable at the courthouse as the original Friday of Robinson Crusoe fame was to Robin. But of course, that's why everybody calls him "Friday."

Does Sheriff Graves or his deputies need someone to answer the phone or to remain in the office while the officers are out? Friday answers all questions that are put to him. Adequately. When John Hessey visits a school in the county "Friday" sets up headquarters in the county superintendent's office. Suppose eleven men have been selected for a jury and the venire is exhausted, a frequent happening in the last term of court. Friday is summoned and he serves his state, and he must serve it well because no lawyer has ever objected to "Friday."

When Judge Braly or Judge Ewing needs a bucket of water for his jury—and himself, "Friday" is detailed to perform the service. Just recently he consented to act as bailiff for the 114th court.

Sometimes the reporter has no time to sit in on a civil suit or a criminal case. Does he go to the court reporter, the lawyers, the judge or spectators for a brief resume of the case in progress? It seems that Friday is the only one who can remember without referring to papers, initials, ages, dates, numbers—and infinitum—quickly and accurately. But who is "Friday?"

He has lived in Gray county longer than most children born in 1910 can remember. The courthouse interests, intrigues him. He expects nothing for his services. He doesn't have to for he is "pretty well hooked-up."

Friday is indispensable.

Urging Pick and Shovel to Replace Modern Machines

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 19.—(P)—Abandonment of modern machinery for a return to the use of picks and shovels in municipal construction work was recommended to the Tulsa City Commission by a committee representing the city's unemployed.

The committee's appearance before the commission was a result of a meeting of the City's Jobless Wednesday, at which ways and means of providing work were discussed.

S. W. Hales, Tulsa contractor, acting as spokesman for the committee, asserted he believed the commission did not realize the "seriousness of the situation."

"Take these big machines out of the ditches, let rust have them, if it will, and put men in there with picks and shovels," he appealed. "We can afford to sacrifice some of our modern progress for the sake of the thousands who are begging for work."

TWO MEN MISSING SHAMROCK, Sept. 19.

Fear that foul play had befallen Lee Bailey, 24, and Elmer Winget 35, who left Paducah Sept. 5 for Shamrock, was expressed last night by relatives. Nothing has been heard from them since that time.

LE MARS, Iowa.—If the wishes of T. M. Zink, misogynist, are carried out, there will be a womanless library 75 years hence in Le Mars. His estate of some $40,000 or more is left in trust. Zink, a lawyer, died at 73. The will left his daughter $5 and stipulated that the widow could use the house for $40 a month rent.

KANSAS AND OKLAHOMA IN NEWS OF DAY

Unmasked Pair Get Two Thousand Dollars

ONE ATTEMPT IS THWARTED

Iowa Is Especially Hard Hit By Raids

RIPLEY, Okla., Sept. 19.—(P)—Two unmasked young men robbed the First State bank of Ripley, Payne county, of about $2,000 today and escaped in a gray sedan after locking the cashier and assistant cashier in the vault.

Residents of Ripley say the robbers leave the bank, but were unaware of the robbery until Austin Goom, the cashier, and his assistant released themselves from the vault ten minutes later and gave the alarm. Poses from Ripley, Stillwater and other nearby towns immediately were formed.

The Ripley bank was the seventh Oklahoma institution robbed in four weeks.

FURLEY, Kans., Sept. 19.—(P)—An attempt to rob the Furley State bank here failed today when E. B. Merrill, cashier, engaged in a fist fight with the lone robber. Mr. Merrill disarmed the man, who after a scuffle, obtained the gun again, fired three times and fled without loot. No one was injured.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(P)—An epidemic of bank robberies is sweeping like a September storm across the American prairies.

Sixteen farm belt banks have been looted at the point of guns, since September 3. Sums totalling more than $130,000 have been taken. There were four bank holdups yesterday alone.

The robber bands have moved by motorcar over the same territory as that "worked" by the James boys half a century ago. From Missouri to the Canadian line they have drawn guns on bank cashiers and roared away with their loot.

Yesterday's bank robberies were at Wesley and Hardy, Iowa; Gifford, Mo., and Hay Springs, Neb. Mostly the bank robbers have had to content themselves with small sums. Except for the Lincoln, Neb., robbery, the loot has not exceeded $15,000, and mostly it has been greatly below that. The Gifford, Mo., bank robbers yesterday only got $800.

The State of Iowa, dotted with small towns, each with its bank or banks, has been the chief sufferer from the lawless forays. Five bank robberies have occurred in that state within a fortnight.

Investigation of the Verdi, Minn., state bank robbery September 3 has brought the arrest of two men, and three are held in connection with the holdup of the Kramer, N.D., First National bank September 13. One man is under arrest for the Central City, Neb., robbery, which took place the same day as the Kramer, N.D., holdup.

The Iowa bank robbery loss since January 1, is $94,000 taken in 14 holdups. None of the robbers has been captured. One man was shot down after robbing the Winterset, Iowa bank.

GREAT BEND, Kans., Sept. 19.—(P)—Robert Staab, 19, of Hays, said to have confessed to A. P. Burdick, sheriff at Hays, that he and a companion stole a plane here on Sunday was in jail today to await action by the Barton county attorney.

Staab is said to have implicated J. R. Purdom, 18, also of Hays. Purdom was said to have had sufficient flying instruction to operate a plane. A desire to make a pleasure trip to Mexico was said to have prompted the theft.

The plane was forced down near Ness City, the boys then made their way into Norton. The sheriff said Staab told him, in a motor car which they found on a roadside.

J. B. Rutland of Austin was in Pampa yesterday.

The ever-rising total of traffic accidents is causing safety organizations and traffic experts to rack their brains for some new legal formula that will make our use of the automobile a safer proposition than it is now. Occasionally, however, one is compelled to wonder if this is a situation where mere police regulations can do the trick. Sometimes it seems more likely that an entire change of attitude on the part of motorists will be necessary.

Here is an illustration. Detailed examination has been made of 100,000 accidents which took place on American highways last year. It has been found that most of these accidents were due to "road hogging"; furthermore, that a full third of them were due to a theft of the right-of-way by some too eager driver.

Now those two faults are not things that can be corrected by legislation. To root them out by force, patrolling every road in America night and day. No city and no state can hope to compel people to discard those failings by fear of arrest.

What is needed is a change of attitude—a change of heart, one might say—on the part of motorists generally.

The matter isn't quite as difficult as it sounds. If each driver would remember to exercise the old-fashioned courtesy that prevailed in the day of the horse and buggy the whole problem would be solved. Courteous driving, in 99 cases out of 100, is safe driving.

Consider it for a minute. A courteous driver will not jog along in the center lane of a wide, well-traveled road at 20 miles an hour. He will pull over to let faster cars pass, and not force them to swing for to one side or the other.

Similarly, a courteous driver will not steal the right-of-way from someone else. He will not cut over quickly in front of another car. He will not try to sneak down a traffic lane reserved for traffic coming from the opposite direction. He will not try to push himself in ahead of everybody else at all costs.

Unless we can get back that old-fashioned courtesy, our efforts to cut down our accident toll will be futile.—NEA.

A STUDY IN SELFISHNESS

Queer and revealing sidelights on human nature are occasionally given by lawsuits filed in the courts.

In an Ohio town a farmer is suing to compel the return of his 17-year-old daughter; and the story behind the lawsuit is worth a bit of study.

More than a year ago this farmer owed a debt of some kind to a neighbor couple. In payment of this debt he "leased" his daughter, then 15 years old, to the couple. After a time all hands agreed that the debt, whatever it was, had been satisfied. The farmer asked for the return of his daughter, but the people who had her refused to give her up.

The farmer then went to court, but the local authorities held that his action in bonding out the girl constituted adoption by the couple to whom he owed the debt, and ruled that this couple were now the girl's legal guardians.

More trouble followed. Once the father went to get the girl by force and had a scuffle with her guardians. Once the courts ruled in his favor but the girl and her guardians disappeared when the farmer went to get her. Now the farmer is filing suit for a writ of habeas corpus to compel the girl to return to him.

Now the most interesting part of it all is that wire dispatches say that the farmer realizes there is no hope of getting the girl to come back to him of her own free will, and is seeking the writ of habeas corpus in a last, desperate effort to force her to come back.

What sort of father is it, one wonders, who would want to compel a child that did not love him to return to him? The answer, probably, is—the same sort of father who could lease his daughter out to pay a debt in the first place. The whole thing indicates a complete reversal of all ordinary paternal feelings. Selfishness sometimes leads people to do queer things. In this case, evidently, one man's callous insistence on his own wishes has brought a good deal of unhappiness to several innocent parties.—NEA.

Letters Show Girl Flier Had Fear of Death

SAN DIEGO (A.P.), Sept. 18.—(AP)—Farewell letters indicate that forebodings of disaster rode with Ruth Alexander, a secret bride, when she met death on a fog-shrouded hillside yesterday at the outset of a projected one-stop transcontinental flight. One was addressed to her parents requesting a quiet funeral in case of death.

The other was to her husband Robert A. Elliot, reserve naval pilot and her former flying instructor. Together with the letters found in her hotel room was a marriage certificate which showed they were married at Yuma, Ariz., June 21.

She wrote: "To my husband, Bob: "Life is strange, honey. If I have preceded you do not grieve for me but be content. Finish your work down here and make me proud of you, as I ever will be at your side. "And when you come I will welcome you. Always I will love and wait for you. And, Sweetheart, keep my pretty wedding ring always with you, Ruth."

A wedding ring, a tiny silver circle set with small diamonds, was in the flier's jewel box in her hotel room here. Nearby were the notes to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Blaney, of Irving, Kans.

The fatal flight began at the Agua Caliente, Mexico, airport at 1 a.m. yesterday. Some after Miss Alexander landed at the Lindbergh field here for checking reporters gathered around the 24-year old aviatrix, and to them she remarked: "If I should crack up, please send me purple panties, as I like them best."

IDENTIFICATION FAILS Claude Scott, who was being held at Los Angeles, Calif., for the sheriff's department of Gray county, was released yesterday when officers there failed to identify him as a young man being sought in connection with the theft of gasoline from the Phillips Petroleum company.

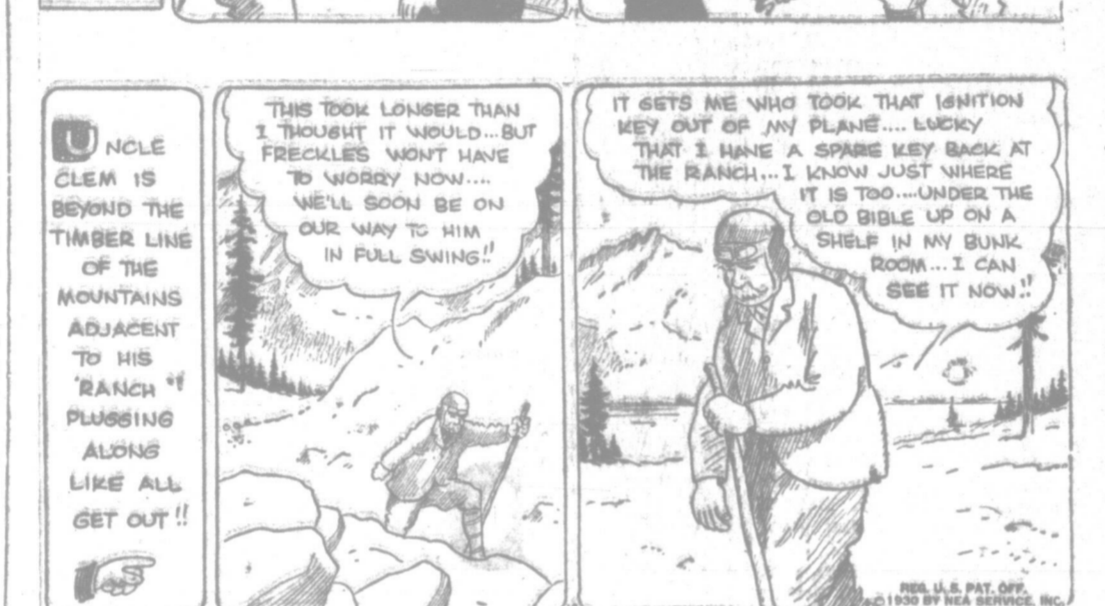

A full description was telegraphed and Los Angeles officers replied they were satisfied that Scott is not the man wanted at Pampa. Search for the missing man is being continued in various parts of the United States.

Ulysses Thorn will leave Saturday for Lubbock where he will be enrolled in the sophomore class of the Texas Technological college. Mrs. Gladys Weaver of Texas A. and M. college extension was in Pampa Thursday. Dandy Hollis, Ivy Duncan, and Mervin Burks, all of Memphis, were business visitors in Pampa yesterday.

Old Man Admits 46-Year-Old Crime

ATLANTA, Sept. 19. (AP)—James Neeley, 70, who had been dodging the law for 46 years, today breathed a sigh of relief and said he was glad of an opportunity to face the bar of justice, after he had been arrested on a charge of murder in connection with a homicide that occurred in Alabama in 1884.

A. C. Cooley, son of Hiram Cooley who was killed in Marshall county, Alabama, in the fall of 1884, learned recently that Neeley, wanted for his father's slaying, resided not many miles from him. He notified Alabama officers and the arrest was effected.

Neeley readily admitted his identity. "I have been running for nearly 50 years and was never able to get it off my mind; I'm glad it's over," he said.

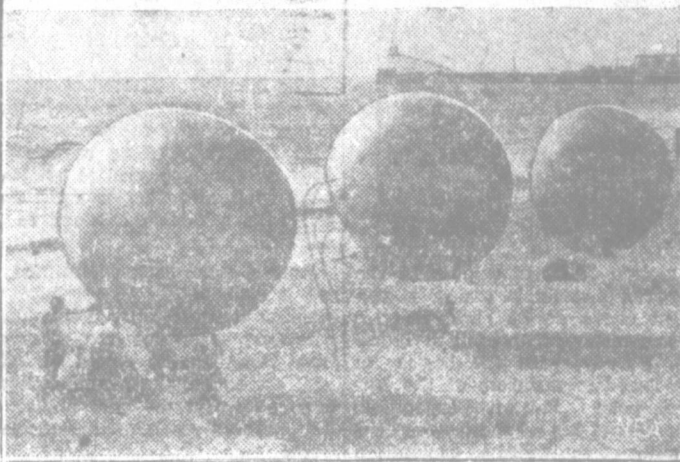

He said he would gladly waive extradition to Alabama to stand trial.

Hit Governor

Because Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana called him an unprintable name, William G. Wiegand, former Princeton student and now a reporter for the New Orleans Item struck the governor in the mouth. Long's armed guards then seized Wiegand and while they were holding him Long struck him in return. The governor, since nominated for the U. S. Senate, later apologized as did Wiegand.

Stuart claimed that he suffered the loss of one eye, partial loss of vision in the other, and numerous lacerations on his body in the explosion which occurred where workmen were blasting away a bridge structure to make way for a new bridge.

The petition for damages claimed that Gillilan, as employer, was negligent in "furnishing to his employes an unsafe instrument with which to work, resulting in a premature explosion."

HOLLIS IS GIVEN FOOTBALL LESSON AS HARVESTERS WIN

LOCAL MACHINE RUNS UP 73-0 VICTORY THURSDAY -GORILLAS CLOSE GAME

BY OLIN E. HINKLE

With two of the crippled stars back in action, the Pampa Harvesters staged a carnival of touchdowns here Thursday afternoon to defeat the over-touted Hollis, Okla., eleven by the surprising score of 73 to 0.

The scoring by periods:

Pampa 27 0 27 19-73

Captain Don Saulsbury, incapacitated by reason of a rib injury in the early part of last week's game with Perryton, played as brilliantly as he ever did, accounting for four of his team's eleven touchdowns. Albert Lard, inserted to see if the ribs Spur players cracked for him would permit a little cavorting, smilingly darted away from Hollis pursuers for two touchdowns and otherwise showed himself on the way to recovery.

Martindale and Chastain played at their usually steady gaits, punctuated by occasional brilliant runs for touchdowns. Chastain, twisting in the wind, found an open field and ran nearly the length of the field for a touchdown. The only man who kept up with him was Clarence Barrett, former Harvester who was headlinesman. Benton, moved from end to half, continued to look as if he will rank with the big four in the backfield. He got a touchdown by fast stepping. The fans like his fighting face.

Pampa Line Improves

Against a heralded heavy line, the Pampa forward wall looked like the well known million dollars. It opened holes which blind man could have found. From end to end, golden-jeried huskies were flipping through to down Hollis backs for losses. Poe at center showed some deadly tackling, and backed up the prediction of this writer several weeks ago that he was the center for which Coach Mitchell was looking.

The Pampa mentor let his first string loose in the first quarter, but inserted the reserves in the second, which was scoreless. There was slaughter in the third and fourth, although the game ended with the Gorilla second string boys on the field. Towering, big-jawed Clovis Green, erstwhile newsboy, surrounded by little lads in every sort of garb, fought the Sooners to a standstill in the closing moments.

Teamwork Is Good

The key word in this Harvester victory was INTERFERENCE. Whether in executing a double criss-cross play, lateral pass, or protecting the running back of punts for touchdowns, the Pampa youths showed football instinct. Often the credit for feats of the gridiron went as much to heady blockers as to the one carrying the ball.

Statistics, which lean to Pampa by a 7 to 1 ratio in every department except punting, mean nothing because the locals' figures were contributed to by four line-ups and part of Hollis' gains were against the subs. But in punting Fullback Sims of Hollis had no rival. He kicked them 40 yards and spiraled many of them in the process. He and Whorton, Sooner left half-back, did most of the ground gaining for the visitors. Chapman, left guard, and Newberry, right tackle, stood out on defensive work in the Hollis line.

Hollis, last year a fine team, was at a decided disadvantage. Her boys started practice September 1 and only last Thursday received their first plays. It was their first game, and they had not memorized fully many of their signals. They offered no alibi however. Coach Joe Metcalf saying they expected no such opposition.

Locals Score Quickly.

Pampa scored within three minutes after the first whistle when Martindale carried the ball 28 yards to the 4-yard line and Chastain plunged over. Saulsbury added the point. Two minutes later the Hollis center passed wildly and Pampa recovered the fumble on the 3-yard line, from where Saulsbury shouldered through but kicked low for point. Not long thereafter Saulsbury circled right end and went across and Chastain converted. Benton completed the scoring for the quarter by circling right end for 70 yards. Chastain kicked the extra point. Score, Hollis 0, Pampa 27.

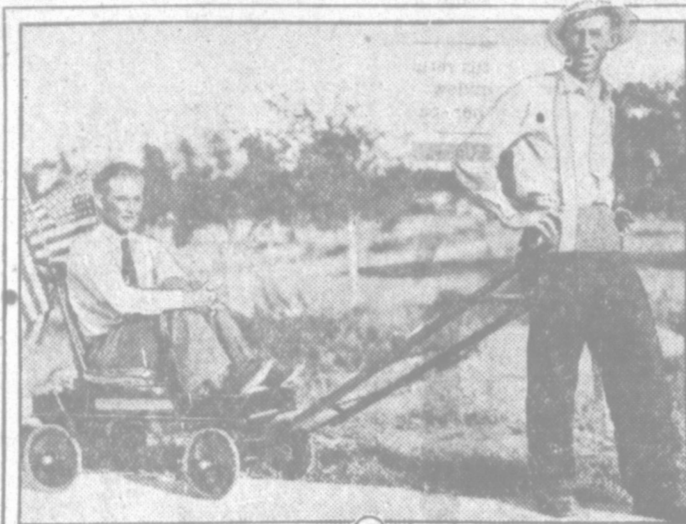

A brand new line-up started the second period and while it ended the half on Hollis 29-yard line, it was unable to score.

Martindale started the fireworks in the third quarter with a 31-yard advance. Lard and Saulsbury and Chastain contributed liberally then Lard joyously dodged, everything and went over, with Chastain again converting for the added point. The next score was by Martindale after a 43-yard well protected exhibition of track work. Lard's kick for point was low. It was Martindale again who intercepted a Hollis pass and sailed to goal. Lard place kicked for extra point. The last score of this eventful third quarter was through Chastain's 95-yard dash, which Hollis players failed to penetrate interference and overtake. Lard converted. Score, Hollis 0, Pampa 54.

Those Fatal Runs

Captain Don Saulsbury initiated the fourth period offensive by stiff-arming his way 41 yards to the goal. Lard's place-kick was good. Lard took the very next kick-off and

Note Bet Wins Ride Across Texas

Here we have the result of an unusual election bet made in the Texas Democratic run-off primary. Hubert C. Stinson, who is riding, bet that Ross S. Sterling would win; Lloyd Hayes, who is doing the pulling, bet on "Ma" Ferguson. Now Hayes has to pull Stinson all the way from Fort Worth to El Paso. This picture was made as they passed through Abilene, with 465 miles yet to go.

sidestepped every tackler, speeding 80 yards to score. Don's kick for extra point was low. Saulsbury added insult to injury by taking a pass a few minutes later and skirting left end to the goal, Martindale's kick was too low.

This ended the scoring, but with smaller and smaller gridgers being inserted, the crowd was moved to hilarity to the final play.

AUSTIN, Sept. 19—(P)—T. M. (Cotton) Mobley of Houston, who had been counted on by coaches at the University of Texas to fill a place in the Longhorn forward wall, announced today that he had abandoned athletics because of a heavy scholastic schedule. Mobley was a letterman in 1928 and played a prominent part in the Longhorn victory that year.

CATSCOMING TO FT. WORTH IN GAY MOOD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 19—(P)—The Fort Worth Panthers and the Memphis Chickasaws moved today to the lair of the Panther to renew tomorrow the Southern baseball war of 1930—the Panthers will two of the four victories needed to proclaim them champions of all the south stowed away and the Chicks nursing the wounds of two battles lost but still full of fight.

The Texas league champions made it two in a row over the Chicks, the Southern Association pennant winners, yesterday by taking the second game of the Dixie series, 4 to 1. The initial game went to Fort Worth, 4 to 3.

"We haven't quit by a long shot," was the parting words of "Doc" Prothro, Memphis manager, before he marshalled his team aboard a train for Texas last night. Three victories in Texas he held within the realm of possibility. "At any rate, we'll be in there battling," he said.

"We're not figuring this series won by any means," Frank Snyder, the Panther pilot, said. "Memphis has a rattling good ball club—an outfit hard to beat—and while we have a little edge now, the series isn't settled until one club takes four games."

Dick Whitworth held Memphis to seven scattered hits yesterday and spectacular fielding curbed several prospective Memphis runs. Harry

Headed Crew That Found Andree

Captain Ellassen, skipper of the Norwegian sealer Bratvaag, is pictured above as he brought his history-making ship back to Tromsø, Norway, with the bodies of the long-lost members of the Andree polar balloon expedition. Members of his crew discovered the remains of the vanished exploration party on White Island in the Arctic after the mystery of their disappearance had been unsolved for 33 years.

Fort Worth made one error, Memphis three. Kelly struck out five, Whitworth one. Whitworth walked one, Kelly four.

SILENT RATTAN WINS OVER CARR IN 3-FALL MATCH AT PLA-MOR-ROB ROY STICKS

Charlie Carr brought rough and over the mat, Rattan pinned his shoulders in 4 1-2 minutes.

In the semi-final, Otis Clingman failed to throw Rob Roy twice in 30 minutes. Clingman's usual following was rooting for him, but a number had gone over to Roy in the hopes the youngster could tough it out. Clingman took Roy for a ride in an airplane spin in 19 minutes, but barely failed to get the second fall. That he failed was due to Roy's gameness, for Clingman had a devastating drop Joe-hold on the boy—a hold to which many good men have succumbed. Another minute probably would have been sufficient, but Rob Roy used every resource in using up precious seconds at times showing considerable ability to inflict punishment himself.

Oscar Dotson, local heavyweight grappler, was referee in the main event.

Rattan came back determined to get a fall before Carr's superior stamina began to tell. At this juncture Carr began slugging, often six inch blows to the stomach. The deaf boy ended it in 7 minutes however, with a cradle hold similar to that he used on Otis Clingman last week.

The third fall was even shorter. Carr started in a frenzy, but missed several headlong plunges before Rattan caught him in a split hold. The Coloradoan went to the ropes repeatedly as Rattan headlocked him and finally, after slamming him

Legion Broadcast Heard
The pre-convention American Legion broadcast was enjoyed by the members of the local post last night. M. D. Oden donated the use of two radios to the post for the broadcast. This supplemented the one set the Legion already possessed, and when there was any difficulty in hearing over one set, the program was heard over the other sets. Governors from many states delivered congratulatory messages. The program was heard in Texas thru a cut in of radio stations at Dallas, Houston, and San Antonio. Paul D. Hill, past post commander, said the members of the Legion were grateful to Mr. Oden for his courtesy.

Rail Material Is Arriving Here

Material to build the Santa Fe spur line from Heaton to LeFors is being assembled at Hoover, it was learned today. Final survey of the eight-mile route the road will traverse has not been completed, but as soon as this work is finished construction of the grade will be started at both ends of the line.

The track will terminate about three miles southeast of LeFors at the Coltex gasoline and carbon black plants. Passenger service will not be available, according to present plans. Work is due to start soon, as the Santa Fe expects to have the road completed in three months.

Heads Allied Vets To Convene Here

International head of the FIDAC, an association of veterans of the Allied armies in the World War, is Lieut. Col. Fred W. Abbot, of England. He will preside at the convention of the organization in Washington, Sept. 18 to 21, the first time the annual meeting ever has been held in the United States.

REBEKAHS ARE TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY ON SUNDAY

Birthday of Pampa Lodge, General Organization is Occasion For Gala Picnic Arranged by Local Members

A double celebration, the anniversary of the local Rebekah lodge and that of the general organization, will be held by the Pampa members Sunday when they attend an all-day picnic. Although the anniversary date actually falls on Saturday, the group will celebrate on Sunday in order that a larger number of members may attend the outing.

Plans for the picnic were made at a regular meeting Thursday evening at the Odd Fellows hall. It was decided that the group should meet at the hall at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning, bringing basket lunches, and should go to Dripping Springs, 12 miles south of Claude, where the merriment will take place.

Organized In 1851

The Rebekah lodge was organized by Schurley Colfax in Maryland Sept. 20, 1851, while the local lodge was organized on the same day and month, 1920.

There were about 26 charter members of the local group, organized by Mrs. O. M. Anderson, who died in Sweetwater in the fall of last year. The first officers included Mrs. W. P. Those attending the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Olausen and Mrs. O. G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Peters, Mr. F. E. Paronto, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Foster.

Mrs. Tom Jackson, Mrs. Al Featherson, Mrs. Glen Clark, Mrs. Roy Clark, Mrs. Thad Johnson, Mrs. Lillie Noblit, Mrs. Howard, Miss Alma Walker, William J. Constitution Is Topic at Rotary

In commemoration of the 143rd anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States, W. J. Smith, of Cook, Smith and Teed, gave a thorough and interesting talk before the Rotary Club Wednesday on the formation and contents of the Constitution.

He dwelt at length upon the leading to its formation and the hardships through which the colonies went in perfecting a suitable governing document. He reviewed for those present the important parts of the Constitution as it now exists and urged that more interest be taken in its contents by citizens. "We should refresh our memories on this important document occasionally," he said. "After the efforts made for its perfection and the protection it gives to the individual, it deserves our best efforts to uphold it."

Will Sing Tonight

A colorer chorus of jubilee singers will present a program at the First Baptist church tonight. No admission fee is charged but a free will offering will be taken.

Evelyn Sells Rope To Sailing Men— Though She Hopes to Enter Movies

NEW YORK (AP)— Evelyn Laska spends her days on the water-front selling rope to ship chandlers and sailing men.

Nights she sings and dances in a night club.

When she has a little spare time she may fly a bit, or call on the Elizabeth, N. J., fire department, of which she is mascot.

She's only 21 and a trifle over five feet tall, but she's ridden horses in Montana, coasted down mountain sides on skis, learned to sail a boat, made phonograph records, sung on the radio and had five years on the stage—part of it with Eva Le Gallienne.

Evelyn's done a lot of things, and so thought the executives of a movie company when they sought a successor to Pearl White, of "Perils of Pauline" fame.

Evelyn was the first they considered and she is soon to have a screen test.

FEMININE FANCIES

"Good cooks are made, not born." That is the belief of Myra Oliver Dougan, who will conduct a cooking school in Pampa, Oct. 14, under the auspices of the Pampa Daily News. The school is a real opportunity for the woman interested in insuring the health and happiness of her family through attractive, delicious, and well-balanced meals. It is free to all who wish to attend.

Although skill in cooking requires considerable study, the well-known lecturer says: "I have yet to find a woman who, inspired by the true responsibility of her culinary activities, cannot prepare a tasty meal. However, some are more ingenious than others in the development of recipes of their own making."

"As I lecture annually in scores of cities over the United States, I gather from the women attending my cooking schools, original recipes, and after testing them, include them as part of the benefits which I shall bestow on future cooking enthusiasts who attend my schools."

Styles in food preparation and service change just as styles in fashions change, and "style" will not be lacking in Myra Oliver Dougan's series of four lectures.

But style is not all that demands change in food. Science plays an even greater part than style, and modern conveniences play no small part.

Not many years ago each family, assisted, perhaps, by a few friends, was forced to work out its own salvation, so far as food was concerned. But those days are past. Today specially trained home economists have studied diet to the most minute detail, thereby taking the heaviest burden off of the housewife. The specialists search among well-set tables of the nations, and select their choice, recipes, test them in well-equipped laboratories, establish balanced menus and develop through costly and elaborate checking, the most economical means of preparation of these items. And newspapers, magazines and food manufacturers have placed the findings of these experts before the people, making ignorance of them inexcusable in almost every instance.

To the woman of today, cooking should be a pleasure. With modern conveniences, it has lost its drudgery. There is no hot fire to be built, no need of grinding coffee or of churning or of performing any other routine duties that once made cooking a burden. Instead, there is a shining kitchen, fire to be had by merely turning a knob, fresh fruits and vegetables as near as the telephone, and pure canned foods to aid the busy housewife, to say nothing of the tested and interesting recipes at her disposal. The lecturer who is to be here on Oct. 14, will tell the Pampa women how to use these assets to the best advantage and how to add little touches of individuality that are always pleasing to husband and children. No woman can afford to miss these lectures!

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Myra Oliver Dougan, Who Will Be In Charge of Cooking School, Has Background of Study, Experience

Until recent years, the principles of cookery were handed down from mother to daughter, the inherited ways going along with the virtues. An obligation inspired the former—a resignation to forthcoming drudgery the latter. All arts and intriguing possibility embodied in the tasty preparation of appetizing dishes, were lost in the unhappy prospect of wearisome back-breaking hours from which would emerge the same indigestibles that had accursed their particular family for generations.

Tables Were Loaded The famous loaded tables of our grand-parents, "groaning" beneath a wealth of food, were often loaded with abortive dishes that made for high life insurance premiums and increased sales for patent medicine specialties.

With the assistance in preparation extended by freed food manufacturers, added freedom from household drudgery provided by labor-saving devices modern American home cooking is experiencing a remarkable trend toward improvement. The American housewife has cast aside her mantle of martyrdom and with eager eyes and ears, lends every attention toward the development of her own cuisine to the highest possible degree. With the markets of the world available to her, she is able to select from her grocer's shelves the same items that grace the most expensive tables of the country, and from the kitchens made modern by the wonder wand of science, emerge nearly as fresh as when she entered.

No Innate Powers One of the most famous culinary experts in America today, is Myra Oliver Dougan, who carries with her no innate powers to cook, beyond those of her neighbor, but who does offer a background of years of intensive study of home economics and the combined experience of the most famous laboratories and kitchens of the nation. The Pampa Daily News is proud to announce that through negotiations entered into some months ago, they are going to be able to present this gifted lecturer in an actual demonstration of her cooking methods and recipes here from Oct. 14-17, inclusive. Attendance will be absolutely free, and in view of the remarkable crowds which have been thronging to Myra Oliver Dougan's lectures, it is believed that a new high water mark in total attendance will be set in Pampa. Pampa housewives are enjoined to follow the Pampa Daily News closely, since incidental data regarding the lecturer's schools will be published from day to day.

Abilene Farmer Is Found Dead

ABILENE, Sept. 19. (AP)—R. S. Rankin, 58-year-old farmer of Lawn this county, was found dead last night in the yard of his home, his head blown away by a rifle slug. The rifle was nearby. Officers said they found a note.

Discovery of Rankin's body was made several hours after he had been released on $1,000 bond on a statutory charge, filed against him after a 14-year girl, his niece by marriage, and the girl's mother, had made statements to Frank Smith, county attorney.

The girl had been keeping house for Rankin since the death of his wife, officers said. He had denied the charge and waived examining trial.

Marriage to Duke Stirs Hapsburgs

The marriage of the Archduke Albrecht of Austria, whose elopement with Mme. Louis de Rudnay, above, divorced wife of the Hungarian Minister to Sofia, was reminiscent of the Crown Prince Carol's renunciation of the Roumanian throne for love, won't be recognized by other members of Austria's dethroned royalty. The Archduke Friedrich, head of the Hapsburg family, has sought legal aid in dissolving his son's marriage. The Archduke Albrecht has been a claimant of the Austrian crown in recent years.

Poor Vision

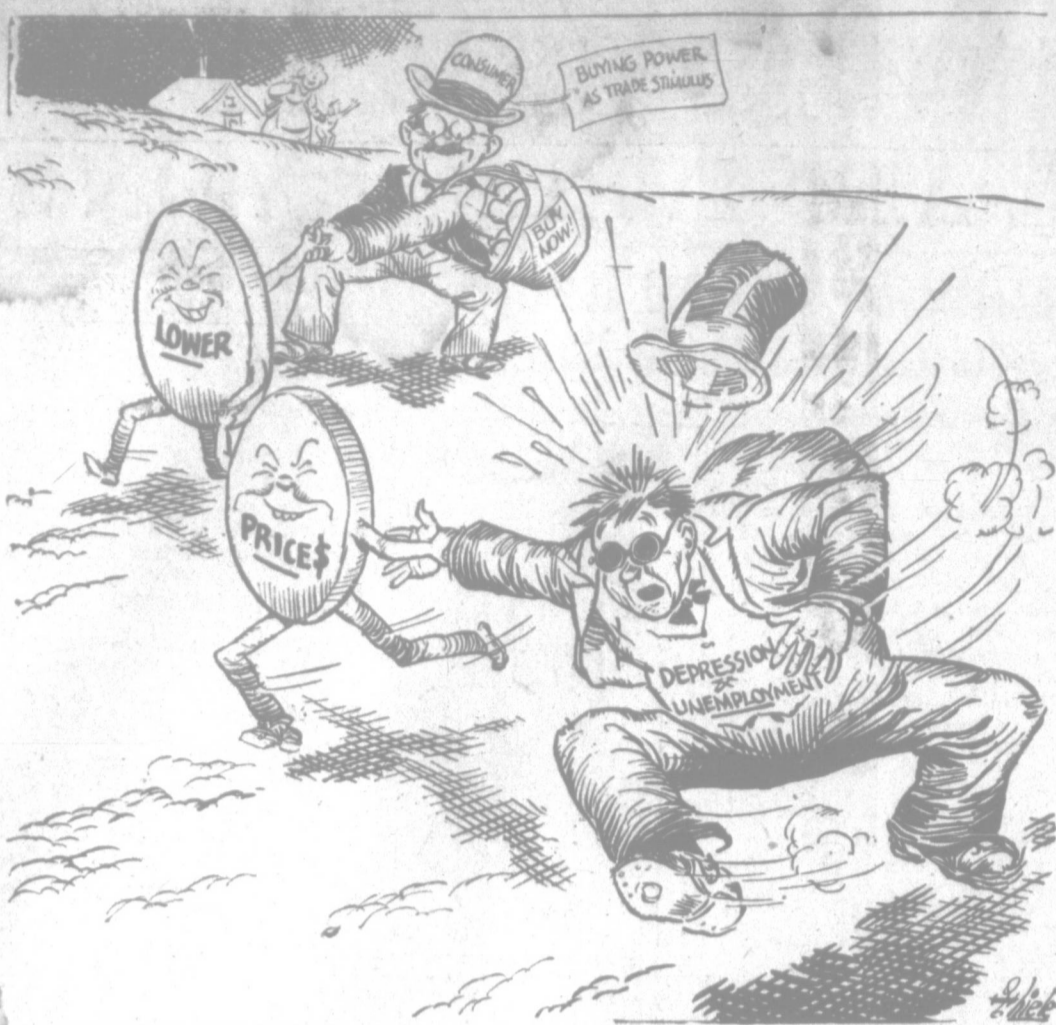

is often the cause of backwardness in school. If a child sees clearly, he or she will think clearly. If the vision is defective, the impression made and the idea received will be defective and the thoughts and opinions expressed will be distorted. Reliable figures, gathered from authoritative sources, state that three out of four slow children have an ocular defect. A school child should be given therefore, the first requisite of good study... faultless vision.

IF YOU DOUBT that your child's eyes are perfect... make certain by a proper and thorough EYE EXAMINATION.

DAN RORIMER, temperamental young man of Hollywood, can't get along with a studio executive at Continental Pictures and tears up his contract as scenario writer and asks to be fired. But he isn't. Dan is interested in ANNE WINTER, a girl from Tulsa, Okla., who has shown enough ability to warrant a screen test and a decent part in a picture.

Dan lives with PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column for a string of newspapers. Anne lives with two extra girls, EVA HARLEY, and MONA MORRISON.

A famous director named GARY SLOAN has shown some interest in Anne, hardly enough, however, to warrant any high hopes. Dan does not like Sloan; he is, however, an admirer of MARTIN COLLINS, formerly of Continental, now of Amalgamated.

LOUISE WATKINS, writer for movie "fan" magazines, informs Dan that she has heard rumors of the sale of Continental Pictures to Lawson Brothers. Louise is present, along with JOHNNY RIDDLE, free lance press agent, and others at "open house" at Dan's apartment.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXI
 "One of my clients," Riddle said, "is getting married." He paused impressively. "Grand United's biggest star," he added.

"Not Sylvia Patterson!" cried Louise.

"None other."

Dan said, "Who's she marrying?" and Riddle shook his head. "I'm not telling, but you can try to guess."

"Not Garry Sloan?"

"Not a chance."

"Probably some millionaire," Louise Watkins ventured. "Sylvia would."

Johnny Riddle chuckled and filled a plate with small sandwiches. "Not bad," he said. "The man's a broker and he's a millionaire. Now don't ask me any more questions, and keep it under your hat. . . . Got an apron, Dan? I'm about to serve tea."

The crowd lingered for another hour and then it broke up, but Johnny Riddle remained to loaf and chat and to propose a picture show. He said he was anxious to see the new George Arliss film. "Come on along; I can get passes."

"Why don't you take one of your girls?" Paul Collier drawled lazily. "Why don't you take a couple of them?"

"Why don't you go off some place and die?" Johnny retorted. He said, "I'm out of love anyway; I've just been thrown over again."

"You look broken-hearted," Collier said.

"I'm tired of it all," Johnny said with a grin.

"What you need," said Dan, "is a new client." He chuckled softly over his cigaret. Riddle, at any rate, had a heart that didn't bruise very easily. Johnny was able to shed his numerous rebuffs like a duck shedding rain drops; he was as philosophical about them as he was about the monthly statements he sent out. Some day, Dan thought with a smile, Johnny would get a pretty new publicity client who would fool him completely by marrying him, and then there would be the devil to pay unless she put a pair of blinkers on him.

Collier, now, was different; vastly so. Dan tried to imagine him getting crazy about a girl, but girls meant nothing in Paul's young life. Dan surmised that might be one of the reasons why women thought Collier so attractive, though there were sufficient other reasons why they should think so. And he remembered a story about Collier, how a beautiful young featured player had fallen for his nonchalant charms and had virtually trailed him all over Hollywood, and had her trouble for her pains.

He believed, too, that Mona Morrison was becoming interested in Paul. The night they had gone to the public dance hall in Los Angeles there had been evidence of this to a person who possessed sharp eyes. An occasional look from Mona, a word, a smile. . . . Remembering Eva Harley's fiercely protective feeling toward the little red-haired girl, Dan knew a moment or two of uneasiness; but he thought: "Paul's common sense."

Johnny Riddle's voice broke in on his reverie, demanding to know if they were going with him to the movies. Paul Collier yawned and stretched lazily and got up, and Dan said:

"Well, I'm for it. We haven't budgeted out of the house today except to get dinner."

"Call up and see what time the feature goes on," Paul told him.

"I'm for getting a bite first, and then going for a ride after the show."

Dan obeyed. And after he got the information he called up Anne Winter.

"Just checking in," he said when she came to the telephone. "Survive the party all right?"

"Absolutely."

"Get plenty of sleep?"

She had, Anne informed him, slept until noon. And she laughed. "Mona," she said, "wants you to know that I've had the best of care. She brought me my breakfast in bed."

"That's a lot more attention than I get," Dan informed her, and he complained about Collier.

Rorimer saw very little of her during the next few weeks. Anne was busy, and so was he. Rumors were flying around the Continental lot now, but despite them there was feverish activity. Among his associates it was whispered that Adamson was trying for some kind of production record with which to impress the prospective new owners of Continental Pictures.

"He wants to hang onto that job of his," Dan was told.

From another: "If Lawson Brothers are as smart as I think they are, Adamson hasn't got a chance."

The week-end following Collins' party Rorimer and Collier drove down to Agua Caliente. Dan had never been there, and he went out of curiosity and for the ride, for the tourist season was over.

"I might not be here next winter," he explained to Collier, who thought it queer that Dan should want to go to Caliente in June.

"Where do you think you'll be?"

"Oh, I don't know. Maybe back in New York. I'm not such a wow out here."

"You're eating regularly, aren't you?" Paul said. "Shut up."

Some days later, when Dan tried to interest Anne in a Sunday of swimming at Santa Monica Beach or Venice, she told him she already had been invited to a party at Malibu. About 10 or a dozen from the cast of the picture she was working in were week-ending at the beach, she said.

"I'm jealous, Anne."

"Yes, I know you are," her tone a little scornful.

"No fooling. Why don't you ever believe me?"

"I do, sometimes."

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
500 E. Kingsmill Ave.
Full attendance is urged for 9:45 Sunday morning at Bible school. Parents bring children—the whole family; children bring parents; all bring neighbors. Crowd the building.

Every member of the Christian church should be at the Lord's table at the 11 o'clock service. See that the young people also remain for the preaching of God's word. Pure Bible teaching only is heard from this pulpit; young and old need it; and we want them.

Leaders of the Christian Endeavor societies urge all to rally for the autumn and have the meetings crowded. Let us encourage these faithful consecrated leaders by the largest attendance and best interest possible.

The gospel meeting at night, 8 o'clock, should have the interest and cooperation of the entire membership as we try to win souls and build up God's church. God is blessing us richly; let each do his part in bringing others, and winning others. This is God's plan. He is depending on you.

The Hollywood Story

by ERNEST LYNN
© 1930 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

Anne had a gorgeous time. She spent wonderful hours in the sun and the water. She didn't burn, for which she always had been thankful, but she came back a shade darker. Fred Hurley, the director, was in the party, and he was very attentive to her in an easy, friendly way that Anne liked. She liked Hurley; he showed her as much consideration as the featured players, professed to be enthusiastic over the progress she was making.

And she was progressing. The picture was in production now. After endless days and days of monotonous drill the scenes were ready; Anne had lapped and kicked and tapped through difficult routines until she prayed for rest, had dozed off at the sudden rasped command of the dance director; and then over and over again, hour after hour of it. And Hurley had given her the song he had promised her. He was not sorry, he said, hearing her rehearse it; it was Anne Winter's song.

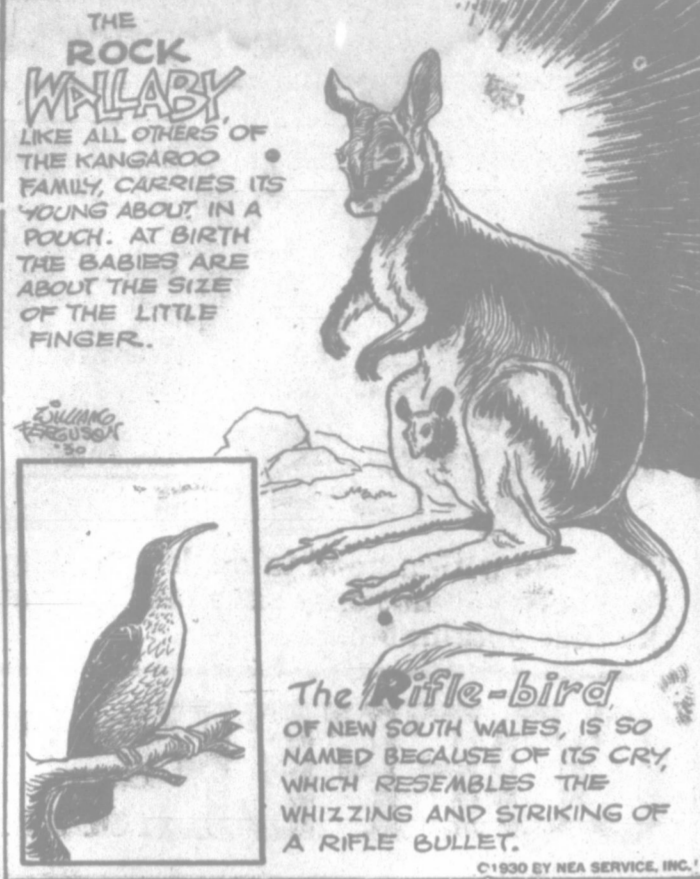

Anne danced as she sang it, danced with her hands on her hips and with her arms flinging wide in abandon, with a chorus behind her, following. She smiled as she sang, smiled with flashing teeth and curving lips and vivid, sparkling eyes, and she sang in a low, smooth mellow-sounding voice, with a microphone following her about overhead.

She went through it many times before Hurley was satisfied; there were difficulties with the chorus; an extra "mike" was needed, placed low to catch the rhythmic tapping of dancing feet; the sound chief had a new suggestion that Hurley thought would help. And once after going through the number, Anne swung away from the stage and found Garry Sloan watching her.

He was leaning against a step-ladder, one foot on the lower step, an arm resting on an upper one. He looked bigger and brawnier than ever with his white shirt open at the throat and the sleeves rolled up past the elbows, baring powerful forearms. He wore white flannel trousers, somewhat soiled, and his hair was a bushy wavy mop.

As Anne passed near him he put out his hand and she stopped. She had seen a whole stage cease activity at a gesture from Sloan and utter silence reign where, an instant before, there had been bedlam. When Garry Sloan held up a hand people stopped.

"Miss Winter," he said with a smile, and he straightened up from his lounging stance, spread his feet, thrust his hands in his pockets. "How are you?" he asked.

Anne smiled, too. "Very well, thanks Mr. Sloan."

Sloan jerked his yellow head toward the set she had just quitted. "I've been watching you," he said, and paused, and Anne waited for him to speak again.

"Very nice," he said.

"You mean—"

"I mean you." Sloan's smile broadened at Anne's momentary bewilderment. "I mean your voice is very nice. I like it. I've been listening to you sing."

A compliment from Garry Sloan! Anne Winter's hands closed and unclosed nervously. "Oh, do you really mean it? Thank you."

Sloan said, "I was just thinking, given pretty good voices to some of the people around here who never suspected they could sing a note."

His eyes inspected her critically in her scanty costume, and Anne stood, one hand on her hip, waiting for him to speak again, uncertain whether to go or to wait for his dismissal.

"Are you under contract now?" he asked presently, and Anne said, "Why, no; I'm just engaged" for this picture."

"Well, something ought to be done about that," said Sloan.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General topic—Jonah: The Narrow Nationalist Rebuked.—The Book of Jonah.

Scripture lesson—Jonah 3:1-5, 10; 4:1-11.

Jonah 3:1. And the word of Jehovah came unto Jonah the second time, saying,

2. Arise, go unto Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee.

3. So Jonah arose, and went unto Nineveh, according to the word of Jehovah. Now Nineveh was an exceeding great city, of three days' journey.

4. And Jonah began to enter into the city a day's journey, and he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.

5. And the people of Nineveh believed God; and they proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them.

10. And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil which He said He would do unto them; and He did it not.

Jonah 4:1. But it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was angry.

2. And he prayed unto Jehovah, and said, I pray thee, O Jehovah, do not do this thing, when I was yet in my country? Therefore I hasted to flee unto Tarshish; for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and merciful, slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness, and repentest the way of the evil.

3. Therefore now, O Jehovah, take, I beseech thee, my life from me; for it is better for me to die than to live.

4. An Jehovah said, Doest thou well to be angry?

5. Then Jonah went out of the city, and sat on the east side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shade, till

Lions Hear Story Of Constitution

A history of the United States constitution, with appreciation for its benefits, were included in a talk to Pampa Lions by Arthur Teed yesterday.

Lion Teed, before showing how most American institutions depend for their security upon the national constitution, recalled that few of those who affix their names to the document believed it to be of permanent value.

Musical entertainment was provided through brilliant piano solos by Mrs. Foreman Carr, dean of the Pampa College of Music.

R. R. Watson, manager of Western Union, was introduced as a new member.

The Lions pledged their support of the Harvesters and decided to raise funds for crippled children's work. A committee headed by Clyde Fatheree and of which R. C. Sowder, Frank Lowther, and Marvin Lewis are members will plan a benefit bridge tournament.

J. H. McCormack of Houston, representing the Seaboard Insurance company, was a visitor in Pampa Thursday.

W. G. Attaway of Amarillo of the construction department of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company was in Pampa Thursday.

A. L. Birge made a business trip to LeFors Thursday.

10. And Jehovah said, Thou hast regard for the gourd, for which thou hast not labored, neither madest it grow; which came up in a night, and perished in a night; 11. And should not I have regard for Nineveh, that great city, wherein are more than six-score thousand persons that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and also much cattle?

Introduction

"The Book of Jonah is a foreign missionary tract inserted in the heart of the Old Testament. It is a flashlight shot out over that ancient world revealing the universal brotherhood and love of God."—Snowden
The Book of Jonah is one of the most misunderstood Books of the Bible. The common treatment of it is to make some scoffing reference to "the whale that swallowed Jonah," as if that were all the book contained. But in the first place the Book says nothing whatever about a whale, but speaks of "a great fish" which the Infinite Creator "prepared to swallow Jonah" and in the second place all that is said about that episode of the Book is contained in three brief sentences. On the other hand, the Book is one of the most eloquent pleas for missions ever written, and is especially timely today because of the implied argument against false patriotism and narrow nationalism and in favor of world brotherhood. Let us study the great little Book with these thoughts in mind.

A Disobedient, Runaway Preacher Bidden by Jehovah to go east, the prophet went west. He went to Joppa the nearest seaport, 50 miles from Gath-hepher. Joppa (now Jaffa), one of the oldest cities in the world, sprang up around the very small and unsafe harbor, the only landing-place for ships on the coast of Palestine until Herod built the artificial seaport of Caesarea. At Joppa he took passage on a ship bound for Tarshish (Tartessus), an ancient mercantile city of the Phoenicians, in southern Spain.

Why Did Jonah Disobey?

Why did Jonah flee from his appointed task? We may acquit him of the charge of cowardice, for the prophet was evidently brave enough. The reason for his going toward Tarshish is given by Jonah 4:2. "Knowing well the loving kindness of God, he anticipated that He would spare the Ninevites on their repentance, and he could not bring himself to be the messenger of mercy to heathen, much less to heathen who had already made war against his own people, and who were destined to be their conquerors."—Archdeacon T. T. Perowne. Thus at the very outset of the Book of Jonah we meet its great theme, the wide mercy of God as opposed to the hardhearted narrowness of human sympathies.

The Great Storm

So violent was the tempest that the ship's timbers began to start, and there was fear of its foundering. In this scene of confusion the shipmaster (captain) bethought himself of Jonah, and woke him, in order that he might pray to his God on the chance that the God of the Hebrews might be the one who had control of this especial storm. The sailors had come to the conclusion that the storm had been sent to punish some one in the ship, and they proceeded to draw lots to determine who had fallen under the divine condemnation; and the lot fell upon Jonah. Hence we say, "He's the Jonah," when some one seems to be the cause of the failure of any enterprise. "Throw me into the sea," said the repentant prophet, "for the storm was sent upon you for my sake." Praying God not to lay the act upon them, the sailors did as Jonah commanded, threw him into the boiling waters, and at once the sea ceased from its raging.

The "Great Fish"

Now we come to the account of the great fish, specially "prepared" by God to receive Jonah, carry him for three days (which, according to Hebrew methods of reckoning, need not mean more than one complete day and part of the preceding and following days), and finally threw him out on the coast of Palestine, whereupon the prophet proceeded to the conversion of Nineveh.

As to the "great fish," Professor Eiselein, who believes that the Book of Jonah is didactic fiction, nevertheless says that "it may be readily admitted that any one of several kinds of fish might swallow a human being." If this were not the case, the Creator could certainly fashion such a fish, if he chose.

Testimony Regarding Jonah

The chief reason for belief in this story of Jonah and the great fish is our Lord's reference to it in Matt. 12:38-42, with which compare Matt. 15:4; Luke 11:30. "For as Jonah was a sign unto the Ninevites, so shall also the Son of man be to this generation." Christ rested His claims to deity on His resurrection after three days in the grave, and compared that experience with the experience of the prophet Jonah, for three days in the maw of the sea monster. "If these incidents recorded in the Book of Jonah are fabrications instead of facts, then this unqualified reference to them by our Lord imperil either his intelligence or his integrity. For if this story is a myth, Christ ought to have known it, and not have treated it as a fact. Such treatment would be dishonest. Or if he supposed the story to be a fact, when in reality it was only a myth, then he lacked the wisdom commonly attributed to him. Either horn of the dilemma would be perilous to our faith."—Prof. Luther Tracy Townsend.

Jonah's Second Chance

"And the word of Jehovah came unto Jonah the second time." It is always God's way to give men second chances; and indeed not only a second chance, but a second chance often renewed.—Rev. J. Stuart Holden. "Arise, go unto Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee." Jonah's call is repeated, except that it is taken for granted that he will remember the terms of his first call (Jonah 1:2), and cry against Nineveh's wickedness. The task has not been lessened in the interval of Jonah's disobedience. Jonah knows too much, this time, to parley with the Lord or question his orders.

Jonah in Nineveh

"And he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown." Probably this was His message, gaining a weird power by constant repetition. Jonah left it to each conscience to decide why the proud city should be destroyed; because of its wickedness, because of its cruelties, because of its licentiousness, because of its reeking idolatries. There were reasons enough, as every conscience must have acknowledged. "Never had he seen people sunken so low."

Nineveh's Repentance

"And the people of Nineveh believed God." They believed God's word of warning, spoken through Jonah. "And they proclaimed a fast." Fasting everywhere and at all times is a symbol of sorrow and repentance. "And put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them." Sackcloth is dark and coarse cloth, usually made of goat's hair, used for sackcloth, and for mourning garments. Even the king joined in this universal grief and repentance, covering himself with sackcloth and sitting in ashes. Christ compared the men of his generation unfavorably with the people of Nineveh (Matt. 12:41), for he was greater than Jonah and his hearers did not repent like the Ninevites.

The Message of Missions
How often the story of Nineveh has been repeated on the mission field. Whole communities have given up their idols, their cruelties, their shameful practices, and turned to the pure worship of a God of love. Study the missionary history of Hawaii, of the Fijis, of India of China, of Madagascar, and of many other lands, and you will see that the true religion, faithfully preached, has power always to turn men from sin to righteousness, from death to life. This is the great appeal of the Book of Jonah: Do what you can to promote Christian missions everywhere!

1. The sudden conclusion of the Book is very impressive. We are left with the great thought that God pitiless and God cares for the vast population of all heathen cities, and even for the dumb creatures which serve him.—Rev. R. F.

2. "These closing words, vs. 10, 11, to which Jonah attempted no reply, open up views of God's grace in Christ Jesus, which could scarcely be understood in the times of the Old Testament, as we may and ought to understand them now."—Principal George C. M. Douglas.
3. "What Israel's duty was to one nation, Nineveh, on a far larger scale is the Christian's duty to every nation. The Book of Jonah is the birthplace of foreign missions to the nations."—John E. Whitley.
