Highest Officials, However, Are Not Alarmed At Colonel Finally Lands at Nemuro After Five Days.

GLAD WELCOME

Flying Vacationists Likely Will Resume Journey to Tokyo Tomorrow; Tricky Fog Described by Them.

TOKYO, Aug. 24.—Rengo, semi-official Japanese news agency, said today "suspicions" had been aroused because of the course followed by Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh along a certain portion of the Kurile Island route in their much interrupted flight from Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, to Nemuro, Japan.

The news agency said Japanese authorities concluded that the famous aviator and his wife had flown over prohibited areas and had descended twice on akes where landings were prohibited.

Rengo said it understood authorities who had been watching Lindbergh's progress down the Kurile Island contended the fliers had landed not only on prohibited lakes, but also on other waters not specified by the aviation bureau in the emergency descent permit which it issued at the request of the American Embassy prior to Lindbergh's departure from Petropavlovsk.

Not Taken Seriously High government officials, however, apparently did not take seriously the report that suspicions of certain authorities had been aroused. They pointed out that the matter quite naturally might have been discussed in some circles but nothing more.

NUMERO, Japan, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Cooms and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh finally reached Nemuro today after having spent five days and made four forced landings in negotiating the 897 miles from Petropavlovsk, via the foggy Kurile Island route.

Leaving Lake Annoro, Kunashiri Island, 50 miles north of here, where they were forced to descend yesterday, at 7:20 a. m. (4:23 p. m. Sunday C. S. T.) the Lindberghs landed here at 7:51 (4:51 E. S. T.) while the shout of "Banjai" went up from a great crowd which had assembled to welcome them.

The fliers were hurried ashore in a launch, escorted by city officials. They raised their hands in acknowledgement of the tremendous ovation. Mrs. Lindbergh bowed and smiled as hundreds of school children waved Japanese and American flags and chorused a welcome.

The Colonel smiled and said: "We are a bit late."

Hurried to their hotel for a moment's rest, the Lindberghs were soon forced to come to their balcony and acknowledge the tribute of immense throngs that gathered in the adjacent street. Again the Colonel spoke.

"We are glad to be in Nemuro," he said. "Thank you, thank you."

The Lindberghs then withdrew to their rooms where hot baths had been prepared in the vat-like Japanese tubs.

Colonel Lindbergh said the worst experience of the much interrupted flight from Petropavlovsk were the while trying to land here Sunday, forcing them back to Annoro Bay, and the transfer of the plane from Ketoi Island, in the central Kuriles, to Muroto Bay, Shimushu Island, at the end of a low line attached to a Japanese government steamer.

When the couple will take off from the Kasumigaura Naval Base, near Tokyo, the official finish of their flight, was not immediately learned. However, they probably will leave early Tuesday.

Hugh Cooper, Amarillo attorney, attended court here today.

Gotham Gangsters in War

Three Men Are Lined Up And Shot Down—One Is Killed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The city of New York today declared war on gangsters and promised definite and drastic action against them.

Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee made the announcement following a conference attended by representatives of the police department and the prosecuting staffs of the district attorney's offices. The conference was brought about by Friday's bandit chase which cost six lives, including those of two policemen and a four-year-old child.

This is warfare against a dangerous enemy who gives no quarter," the acting mayor said.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Another gangster outbreak caused city leaders, federal representatives, and indignant citizens to intensify plans today to clamp the lid on crime.

In the Williams section of Brooklyn last night, five gunmen lined three men against a lumber yard fence and peppered them with bullets. One dropped dead; the other two were critically wounded. The gunmen escaped.

Anthony Ferrari, 25, a paroled convict, was killed. Angelo Currianni, 23, and Murry Leonard, 21, were wounded.

Currianni told detectives he and his two companions were taken for a "ride" from a dance hall by five men. He would give no motive for the attack. The eight went to the lumber yard in an automobile.

Two policemen killed in a payroll robbery chase Friday were being buried today. Twelve persons wounded in the police and robber gunfire were in hospitals with one in a critical condition. Four others killed in the shooting.

Federal agents have been sent to New York to help stamp out the gangster racket. Income taxes will be scrutinized.

Thousands of citizens are expected to attend an anti-crime mass meeting tonight in Central park arranged by the New York American.

The board of aldermen is planning a special session appropriate $100,000 to equip patrol squad cars with radios.

Laketon Crowd Is to Hear of Fair

Members of the Gray county fair committee expect to address their biggest crowd of the summer at Laketon tonight when M. R. Bentley, extension agricultural engineer, and A. K. Short will lecture on terracing and soil conservation.

Over 100 farmers from the east part of the county and from Roberts county are expected to be present. Talks on the fair will be made by C. H. Walker, general superintendent, Geo. W. Briggs, secretary, County Agent Ralph R. Thomas and Miss Myrtle Miller, home demonstration agent. Irvin Cole, superintendent of agriculture, and John B. Hessey, superintendent community exhibits will also attend. Laketon farmers are planning to have a booth at the fair.

Tomorrow, beginning at 9 o'clock, Mr. Bentley and Mr. Short will assist the county agent in conducting a terracing demonstration at the farm of Wheeler Paris, three miles west of Laketon.

Mr. Short is soil conservation director for the Federal Farm Land bank. All farmers who have negotiated loans through the bank are expected to be present. The bank requires farmers to whom loans are made to do everything possible to conserve the soil.

RETURN TO TULIA Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Dyer of Tulia, returned to their home yesterday. Mrs. Dyer has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Floyd McConnell and Mr. McConnell for the last ten days, and Mr. Dyer was here during Sunday.

Hall County Has Cows to Exchange For Gray Wheat

And now Hall county farmers want to barter with Gray county wheat growers.

Their proposal was outlined in a letter from J. H. Read, secretary-manager of the Memphis chamber of commerce to Geo. W. Briggs.

According to Mr. Read, Hall county farmers want to plant fall wheat "for pasture" and they have no seed. They are willing to trade some of their Jersey milk cows for seed wheat. Mr. Read indicated that Hall county has many, in fact too many, Jersey cows. Any local farmers who want to trade wheat for cows are requested to communicate either with Mr. Read or Mr. Briggs.

Brunow Leaves for Washington on Postal Mission

Dr. V. E. von Brunow left this afternoon on what he described as a "business trip" to Washington, D. C.

He did not affirm nor deny a report that he was going to the national capitol to use his influence in hastening construction of the Pampa post office, and to urge the immediate selection of a site for the federal building. It is well-known that Dr. Brunow has important connections and is well acquainted with officials of the treasury and post office departments, also with many Republican leaders.

The pioneer Pampa physician left this afternoon for Amarillo, where he will leave on the Rock Island tonight with an Amarillo Republican leader whose name he did not divulge.

Delay of the post office department in selecting the site for the post office and in announcing the date when construction of the building is to begin has proved a source of disappointment and irritation to local citizens in the last two months.

Citizens remembering President Hoover's promise that "red tape" in starting building of post offices would be dispensed with in order to relieve unemployment, have reached the conclusion that the government is unnecessarily delaying construction of the local building. Last winter Pampans were assured that the building would be started by now. A number of sites for the post office were submitted to the post office department three months ago.

In the last issue of the BUSINESS WEEK, it was announced by a reliable statistician that construction of only 10 per cent of the federal buildings which the government said would be built this year had been started.

Dr. Brunow said he would return to Pampa in a week.

It is locally believed that immediate construction of the Pampa building can be best obtained through the influence of Dr. Brunow and other prominent citizens of the Panhandle at Washington.

WOMAN SHOT, MAN WOUNDED

Estranged Husband Jailed After Midnight Affair at Seminole.

SEMINOLE, Okla., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Alice Menick, 18, was shot to death and Andy Shores, 28, was critically wounded at midnight in an automobile in front of the home of Mrs. Mary Pemberton, Claude Menick, the young woman's estranged husband, was arrested and was taken of the county jail at Wewoka.

Mrs. Menick leaves two children, one 21 months, and another 3 years old. She had been living at the Pemberton home.

Shores was unconscious in a Seminole hospital with three bullets in his body.

The shooting occurred when Menick, who had waited in front of the Pemberton home, saw his wife and Shores together.

High Score Is Made in Shoot

The Pampa Rifle club scored 1902 points out of a possible 3000 in a postal match with the Tulsa, Okla., rifle club yesterday afternoon. Score of the Tulsa club will be received some time this week.

Spencer E. Pipes and F. E. Smith, tied for first place in the match held at the local club's range. Each scored a total of 390 points out of a possible 400. Distances were 20 shots at 50 yards and 20 shots at 100 yards. Rifles of 22 caliber with iron sights were used.

Mrs. F. E. Smith shot the best target of the three women contestants, scoring 376 points out of a possible 400. Other total score were as follows:

Mrs. S. E. Pipes, 375; J. F. Barnett, 371; Mr. Hankhouse, 351; Dr. T. J. Worrell, 340; Mrs. J. F. Barnett, 334; Jimmie Wheeler 157 (unfinished); Spencer Pipes shot the only perfect target of the afternoon, scoring 100 points out of a possible 100, with 10 shots on the 50 yard range, Mr. Smith was next with 99 in the same range.

PIANO PRODIGY IS VISITOR HERE

Miss Elizabeth Rose Jameson, piano prodigy of Amarillo, was in Pampa Sunday visiting friends. She was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jameson.

Miss Jameson is considered one of the most talented pianists the Panhandle section has ever had. The three music clubs of Amarillo, Philharmonic, Harmony and McDowell, are sponsoring a piano concert, which she will give at 8:15 o'clock Friday night, August 28, at the Amarillo High School auditorium.

The young pianist was graduated from Amarillo High school a year ago and the past year was a student in Cottey College, Nevada, Mo. She plans to continue her studies this winter.

During the year she was at Cottey, she played before several of the nation's leading pianists when they were in Kansas City and other cities nearby. Leading artists and critics agree that she has a great future in the realm of music.

Miss Jameson is native of the Panhandle, and her grandfather was one of the first physicians to practice in this region.

STERLING HAS FEELERS OUT OVER STATE

Many Cotton Farmers Approve of Plan for Legislation to Reduce Acreage; Session Awaits New Poll.

MUCH SPEAKING

J. E. McDonald Will Take Stump Tonight to Urge Measures Like Those Which Died Recently.

By The Associated Press Texas' war with supply and demand threatened to assume greater proportions today.

While the state's military forces waged their "economic war" in the East Texas oil field, cotton farmers throughout the state contemplated action to solve their twin problems—flush supply, light demand.

Pressed on all sides with pleas for a special session of the legislature during which the problems of the beleaguered cotton farmers would be considered, Governor Ross S. Sterling assured citizens he would call the legislators back to Austin if farmers and their representatives in government demanded it.

Meeting Scheduled Meantime meetings in which curtailment of production will be the topic of discussion are to be held at Mart, Mexia, Corsicana, Waxahachie and Lockhart. J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, will be the principal speaker at four of the meetings.

New Boston was a mecca for the farmers of Bowie county Saturday. More than 1,000 stood in the street and endorsed a plan which would have Governor Sterling shut down the gins to effect complete curtailment of cotton production.

AUSTIN, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A personal tour of the cotton area of Texas to make the interests of farmers and business men in cotton acreage reduction will be made this week by J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture.

McDonald will urge those interested in cotton acreage control to make their wishes known to Governor Ross S. Sterling who has announced he would call a special session of the legislature if it was demanded by the people and if assured a constructive law would be passed to aid the conditions of the industry.

Governor Sterling sent a questionnaire to members of the legislature and to the public through the newspapers Saturday asking for expression on the proposal to call a special session.

Governor Sterling pointed out that the cotton acreage control bill was killed in the senate at the recent special session. It would have prohibited the planting of the same land to cotton in successive years. Another bill aimed at the same purpose died on the house calendar in the regular session after being almost defeated when up for endorsement.

McDonald said he would address mass meetings at Mart tonight. Other meetings scheduled were at Mexia at 10 a. m. tomorrow, Corsicana at 2:30 p. m., and Waxahachie at 8 p. m. He will speak at Greenville Wednesday night.

Funeral Held for Accident Victim

The body of John Leslie Harrison, 33, who was fatally injured when he fell to the rig floor from the top of a derrick, 12 miles south of Dumas, Saturday, was taken overland to Gainesville for burial today. Funeral services were held last night at the Stephenson mortuary.

He is survived by his wife, a brother, J. L. Harrison of Pampa, his parents, four brothers and six sisters of Coog county.

Mr. Harrison was an employee of Paul Kasahke, rig contractor, and was dismantling the derrick on the Texas company's J. E. Jester No. 1 when the accident occurred.

Borger Game Is Halted by Rain

A baseball game that had all the earmarks of developing into a good one was rained out yesterday at Borger where the Pampa Phillips club went to play Borger's "66" outfit.

The game lasted three innings and in that time, the Borger team scored four runs to none for the Pampans but the local club had the bases loaded and no outs when a heavy shower started falling. Pampa had collected three hits compared with Borger's four.

Stewart and Pulliam comprised the Pampa battery. Haddock pitched for Borger.

The Borger team will return the game here, Sept. 6.

BUYING OF RIGHT-OF-WAY NOW COMMITTEE'S GOAL

Condemnation Suits Likely to Develop Where High Prices Are Asked.

Negotiations to acquire right-of-way in the city were started this morning by the railroad committee.

For several weeks, property owners along the line from Pampa to the Wheeler county line have been interviewed.

Options have been obtained on most of the right-of-way in the rural districts, except in isolated cases. Several land-owners in "the breaks" section are holding out for an outrageous price, a member of the committee said today.

One would think they have sold mines on the land, judging by the prices they have put on it," he continued.

Where it is not possible to negotiate for the right-of-way at reasonable terms, to be fixed by a jury of view, condemnation proceedings will be instituted.

H. H. Durston, executive general agent for the Fort Worth & Denver, is expected to arrive here tonight or tomorrow to complete arrangements for establishing a construction camp.

GUARDSMEN FIRED ON AT KILGORE CAMP

Militia Capture Raider's Car But He Escapes Into Brush; Wolters Blames Red Propaganda.

GRAY OIL IS UP

Phillips Company Posts Price of 72 Cents a Barrel Rather Than Draw From Costly Storage.

KILGORE, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A further attempt at incendiarism was "discovered" in the East Texas oil field this afternoon when a bundle of gasoline soaked rags was found burning in an old vacant house about a mile from General Headquarters of national guardsmen enforcing martial law in this area.

KILGORE, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Sentries at brigade headquarters of the East Texas oil field army of occupation were issued sawed-off shotguns today by command of Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters.

"If anybody else tries to run past the sentinels and enter this camp it is going to be too bad," the general said in connection with arming his guards.

He referred to an incident early today when an unidentified man sped past sentries in an automobile and drove through camp firing wildly. One of his shots nearly hit Col. Lawrence McGee of Dallas.

Officers and militiamen returned the fire, sending several bullets into the automobile, which they captured. The driver escaped into the underbrush. It was believed he was wounded.

The shotgun order appeals only to headquarters and not to any of the other camps in the 600-square-mile oil field where production is shut down under martial law.

"Red Proposition" Gen. Wolters announced that last night's incendiary acts and the shooting incident at camp were a "red proposition."

"It is clearly a matter of red agitation encouraged by public statements against martial law outside the zone and flaring headlines," he declared.

Amplifying his statement regarding adoption of shotguns at headquarters, he said he would "rather kill every drunken fool in East Texas if it became necessary, than have one of my lads harmed."

He said he might have something interesting to say later concerning plans to hold a mass meeting at Tyler to protest martial law, in defiance of the general order forbidding such gatherings in military zone.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Crude oil prices have risen again to $1 a barrel in two states of the mid-continent area as the result of a gubernatorial campaign which include the establishment of martial law.

The Phillips Petroleum company, a major purchaser, announced the posting of top prices of $1 in Oklahoma and Kansas, and 72 cents in Gray county, Texas, effective at 7 a. m. yesterday.

The action came 19 days after Governor W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, expressing concern over the plight of small producers, called out Oklahoma national guardsmen to enforce a shutdown order in which the general order forbidding such gatherings in military zone.

Offer in Kansas Governor Harry H. Woodring of Kansas, who declared himself in complete accord with the program, reported that a major purchasing company, which he declined to identify, had offered to raise its price to $1 a barrel in Kansas.

As a result he said, it was possible an order of the Kansas public service commission declaring a shutdown of the Ritz-Canton pool wells might be withdrawn.

The Phillips company, pointing out in a statement that supplies for its refineries in Kansas City, Okmulgee, Okla., and Borger, Tex., were diminishing, said it was increasing its rates "rather than take oil out of storage which cost us in excess of $1 a barrel."

For Hutchinson, 60 cents per barrel were Prices of 60 cents per barrel were (See GUARDSMEN, Page 2)

CORDIAL RELATIONS ARE ESSENTIAL

Business can be greatly improved through maintenance of cordial relations between creditors and debtors. The man who owes a bill should do everything possible to pay it. Better business depends in a measure upon payment of bills. Failure to pay slows up all payments. But the man who cannot pay all can pay some. If he cannot pay some now, he can reassure his creditors. A propos of this is the following editorial from the Dail-Hart TEXAN

Be Honest and Fair About It

It is generally accepted that it is harder to do business now than ever before because of the falling down of the moral fiber of the country. In other words think that his credit has either been strained too far or in that his credit has either been strained too far or in many instances is no good at all.

We leave the truth of this statement up to your own experience and judgment. It may or may not be true. However there is no doubt a tremendous amount of credit business done in recent years on anticipated earnings has been costly. Almost every family and every business firm has incurred obligations and made investments during times of easy money and higher wage and commodity price levels that are now being met with difficulty.

There is only one upright, fair and honorable thing to do on any debt or obligation and that is to pay it in full. Many have a feeling of resentment at the man or firm they owe because of the debt. This is unfair if the transaction was made in good faith and in thorough understanding. There should be a feeling of kindness between the two parties yet often a person that owes another individual or firm takes a negative and finally an antagonistic attitude toward that individual or firm.

Every one of us that is in debt faces the prospect of a long haul before we are again out of the red. This is inevitable in view of commodity prices. Those who granted credit had no more to do with the fall of commodity prices than who received credit. The two must work out of it together. If one cannot pay now one should say so and try to work out some plan for payment in the future. If a person owes one store a bill he should not quite that store and begin paying cash somewhere else unless he is given some other reason for his actions.

Let's all work hard, pay what we can on our debts and by all means let's be fair, honest and honorable about them and in our relations to those we owe.

announced for Hutchinson, Carson and Moore counties, in Texas, for 40 gravity and above, with a 2-cent differential for each degree below that grade.

The company expressed the belief production now held back would be released. Statisticians estimated approximately 1,000,000 barrels of oil daily was withdrawn from the market in the area.

The effect of the price increase on the reign of martial law in Oklahoma was not determined immediately.

Cleora I. Murray, in charge of Oklahoma oil well shut down for his cousin, Governor Murray, said today that posting of the $1 price is but a step in the right direction, and that Oklahoma's fields will open when all other major purchasers meet the increase.

AUSTIN, Aug. 24 (AP)—The first mass meeting protesting martial law in the East Texas oil field will be held on the eve of a hearing before the railroad commission to issue new orders to govern production in the giant area.

The meeting will be addressed by Colonel Owsley planned to make representing the East Texas Refiners' association. Colonel Owsley's representative has here said the meeting would be the first of a series, and that Colonel Owsley planned to make a speech in Tyler Wednesday or Thursday despite the order of Brig. General Jacob F. Wolter commander in the martial law zone. Wolter has issued an order banning mass meetings.

To Be Long Session
 The meeting of the railroad commission will be the first under the new conservation law passed at the recent session of the legislature. It strengthened the conservation statutes and provided for expedited court procedure in cases involving the commission and its orders.

G. V. Terrell, chairman of the commission, said he expected the meeting to last two or three days and that the order would be issued as soon after the hearing as it could be drawn. It probably will be effective September 1, he said. Testimony bearing on physical waste of oil and gas will be admitted at the hearing, Terrell said. The law prohibits the commission from considering anything but physical waste.

The commission will act without the aid of the central production advisory committee, its chief advisors in production matters in the past. The advisory committee became obsolete with the enactment of the new law.

No Plan Decided
 The plan to be followed in controlling production in the field will be decided after the hearing. One faction will urge the allowable production for the field to be set on a well potential basis and another group will argue it should be on the acreage or unit plan. Captain J. F. Lucey, chairman of the East Texas arbitration committee, indicated he would recommend an allowable of 300,000 barrels for the field, based on a specified amount per well, regardless of potentials. Another was expected to contend for a higher allowable.

It was believed likely the commission would set an allowable between 300,000 and 350,000 barrels daily.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 24 (AP)—Two major oil companies today announced in a telegram to Governor W. H. Murray, that they are willing to pay $1 a barrel for top gravity oil in Kansas and Oklahoma and from 60 to 72 cents a barrel for Texas oil, R. D. McManus, aside to the governor, announced today. He did not disclose their names.

PEIPING, Aug. 24 (AP)—Dispatches to native newspapers from Tsinanfu today said 30 American missionaries were being held prisoners by bandits at Tamingfu, 250 miles south of Peiping. The dispatches said Chinese government troops besieging the gang, headed by the bandit leader Luuk-wang Tang, in an effort to free the prisoners. The missionaries were described as belonging to the Nazarene, Mennonite, and National Holiness churches.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24 (AP)—The cotton market had a very active and strong opening this morning, owing to much higher Liverpool cables and a report that the British ministry had resigned. First trades showed gains of 11 to 14 points. The market continued of advance after the start largely on shorts covering in advance of the census bureau's timing report. October traded up to 7.10, December to 7.32, and January to 7.44, or 24 to 25 points above Saturday's close. Near the end of the first hour the market was still very firm and at the highs.

They're All Set for Onslaught of Cleveland's Show

EXPERT FLIERS ARE LURED TO NATIONAL AIR RACES; DERBIES TO BE FOR MEN AND WOMEN

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24. (AP)—American aviation will thunder a song of speed at its annual classic, the national air races.

The big show to be held August 29-September 7 in Cleveland, will set a greater premium on speed than in any of the 10 years of previous competition.

Engineers and pilots, pondering the results of last year's races, have predicted speeds of 250 miles an hour and possibly beyond the American record of 226 miles an hour held by Lieut. Alford J. Williams.

Greatest interest has centered in the Thompson trophy race, the American speed classic for land planes, won last year by the late Charles "Speed" Holman at 201 miles an hour.

The race course has been increased to 10 laps of 10 miles each with a qualifying speed of 175 miles an hour.

Among the expected entrants in the race Labor Day are Lou Reichers, of Arlington, N. J., flying a low-wing monoplane for Bernard Padden, Robert Hall, Springfield, Mass., in a special Gee Bee racer, Harry Williams, millionaire Louisiana sportsman, with the "Wee Winc," a special ship and two racer built by E. M. "Matty" Laird, of Chicago.

One of Laird's ships is a new one, to be flown by Major James H. Doolittle, last American to win the Schneider cup, while the other is the same in which Holman won last year.

A new speed race for women will be flown for the first time. Five laps of a 10-mile course will be covered, a qualifying speed of 140 miles an hour being demanded.

Another speed innovation will be daily one-mile dashes for all displacement classes. Records will be established in each cubic-inch class and will be contested for annually.

Continental sweepstakes derbies for both men and women pilots will continue the custom previously set.

Additional interest has been maintained in the $10,000 derby for men starting from Los Angeles, with indications it may develop into an attack upon Captain Frank Hawks' transcontinental record. Six planes are unofficially ready to enter.

Ernest Udet has accepted an invitation to represent Germany. Udet was one of Germany's great war aces, with 62 planes credited to him. Flight Commander Atcherly will represent England. An Italian Schneider cup race will be commanded by Mario de Bernardi, who set the 1926 record of 218.57 miles an hour and won the 1926 Schneider cup race at Hampton Roads, Va., at 238.87 miles an hour.

Isaiah 26:3 furnished the golden text: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee because he trusteth in thee."

The reading embraced the following passages from the Bible (Romans 11:33, 34, 36): "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? Or who hath been his counsellor? For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things; to whom be glory for ever. Amen."

The lesson-sermon also included the following citation from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine metaphysics, as revealed to spiritual understanding, shows clearly that all is Mind, and that Mind is God, omnipotence, omnipresence, omniscience,—that is, all power, all presence, all Science. Hence all is in reality the manifestation of Mind"—p.275.

MOON OF DELIGHT by Margaret Bell Houston

Synopsis: When Juanita sees the marquisa trying to rob Kirk's home, she makes her return with her to Divitt's gambling parlors, sending no word to Kirk, their host, or to his grandmother, Nelly Belaine. But Divitt, having discovered that Juanita, whom Kirk knows as Senorita Flores, is really Beatriz Montega, wanted for a crime, defies her to report his and the marquisa's robbery scheme to the police. Juanita obeys, the doing request of Divitt's wife, Molly, to return to her cigarette girl's job in the resort. The marquisa, her love-making spurned by Divitt, flees with his night's receipts, writing the police where to look for their robbery could be found. Meanwhile Divitt's henchman, has been arrested trying to stage a robbery Divitt had planned.

Chapter 35 KIRK'S RETURN

Kirk had not wanted to come tonight. Nelly had pined for Divitt's and the news that the place was altered and done little to lessen her desire. She had seemed stronger of late. There was really no reason for not taking her.

Nelly had grieved keenly over Juanita's disappearance. Strange that Juanita had not sent them even a post card from the place to which she had gone. Strange that the marquisa had not written them again. But no stranger than that the marquisa should not have called Kirk the night Juanita was taken ill instead of spiriting her away like that.

Secretly, Nelly believed that the marquisa had discovered Juanita's engagement to Kirk and had taken this means of breaking it. The difficulty with this theory was that it was hard to imagine any one taking Juanita away unless she was ill, or willing. Nelly worried considerably about it, and about Kirk. Kirk was so changed.

Indeed, there were incidents connected with Juanita's visit that departed that Kirk had not communicated to Nelly. Incidents that puzzled and troubled him. Her strange behavior in Ledbetter's presence. Her relief when Ledbetter had gone. Her goodbye that night in the hall. . . . She must have known she was going. And yet she might indeed be ill. Very ill. Alone with the marquisa. And where. . . . Divitt's place looked pretty much the same, as far as Kirk could see. Fewer people there, and not the same crowd. But Divitt was in his place behind the wheel and yonder was the dwarf in his red clothes. Even the Moon was back, among the tables offering cigarettes and cigars.

Nelly wore her red and gold dress. No jewels. Kirk would not let her bring them home, but now that the thief was caught at the Cranshaws perhaps she could have them again. Nelly looked about her her pulse quickening. How excited she felt back at the magic place, she must have a flower for luck.

"The veiled lady," she said, "I wish she would bring me a flower."

Kirk had assisted Nelly to her chair at the roulette wheel. He turned, signaled to the Moon. After a moment the Moon came, held out her tray. Nelly's fluttering hand chose a Cape jessamine.

"Pin it on me," she said.

The Moon obeyed, her fingers shaking. She wondered if Kirk saw. It was agony to be near him like this. How could he help knowing her? She stayed in the far end of the room, not venturing near the roulette wheel again.

Gabraut came back to her with excited tidings.

"De old lady win! De old lady brek de band!"

Juanita glancing in that direction, saw Nelly playing intensely with flushed cheeks. Saw Kirk begging her to leave. But Nelly would not leave.

The telephone rang back in Molly's cage. Gabraut stepped in and answered it.

"If'er Meester Stannard," he told Juanita, and went to call him.

Juanita moved away with her tray, up toward the roulette wheel. Kirk passed her, not looking at her, going toward the telephone. Juanita heard his voice. "Hello! . . . This is Stannard."

Then something happened at the roulette wheel. Nelly was sweeping her winnings, laughing. Suddenly her face grew gray and fixed, and she dropped quietly from the high chair to the floor.

"Get back! Get back, everybody! Divitt's shout.

Some one started to open a window, but Divitt stopped him. He hated things like this. They got in the papers. . . . No open windows here.

"Get back!" he ordered again, gathering up the money Nelly had let fall, herding the crowd like a bunch of sheep.

Only Juanita was there now, kneeling with Nelly in her arms. Gabraut had brought water. Juanita bathed the small white face, went out.

"Call a physician," she said to Gabraut. "There now. . . . There, now, Nelly. You'll be all right."

Juanita was in her room. Nelly was gone. Kirk had carried Nelly from the parlors to their car. The physician had come quickly, was with them. Kirk's eyes. . . . Kirk's eyes, meeting hers.

Where her veil was she could not remember, nor when she had snatched it off. . . . Perhaps when she had bent over Nelly thinking she was dying. That was all she could remember, the thought that Nelly was dying. . . . Kirk was lifting Nelly. Nelly looked like a baby in Kirk's arms. . . . That was all she had thought then meeting Kirk's eyes. She felt as if he had always known. No, not that. As if he must inevitably know—some time.

He had spoken. "Juanita." Not as Nelly had said it—blindly, gladly—but as one who cannot or will not believe. . . . And then the doctor had come, and presently Kirk lifted Nelly in his arms. . . . Juanita met his eyes again.

It had not mattered then. But now—yet it had to be. Inevitably it had to be. Life moved on a current, strong, unceasing. Human hands could not stem it. Better to move with it. . . .

Music was filtering into the court from the Tjion. The Mexican band played La Paloma. They had had danced with Kirk in the Tjion patio. . . . Dimly she thought of this as she lit the lamp. Dimly she thought of what Kirk had said when she sang it for him once. "Paloma—the piece has wings in it. You too have wings, Juanita. Will you fly away some day—beyond my reach?" And then that night at Tarpon Point, while the rain streamed around them. . . . "Not wings maybe, but a stormy petrel's."

Beyond his reach! . . . She took off the chiffon trousers, the red slippers, knowing it was the last time. She dressed herself in the first dress that came to her hand, pulled on the small black hat.

Music filtered into the court. La Paloma. "Wings, Juanita. Maybe a stormy petrel's. . . . Will you fly away beyond my reach?" They were playing again as she passed the parlors, thought it was not an hour since Nelly had fallen from the high chair to the floor—not half an hour since Kirk had carried her like a baby in his arms.

Divitt was in his place, raking in the money with the gestures of an automaton. . . . Gabraut stood with his back to the door.

Juanita bathed the small white face, went out.

As she entered the Royal street two automobiles drew to the curb in front of Divitt's place. Men in uniform got out. The gates opened again, and they went in.

Juanita crossed Royal street. "There was the look of a sleep walker on her face."

It was toward morning that Kirk Stannard came back to Divitt's place and rang the bell. There was a padlock on the gate, but he rang

HARVESTERS LOOK STRONG BUT RAGGED IN SCRIMMAGE

COOK SOUNDS DEMAND FOR MORE "EATS"

Coach Mitchell Loses His Appetite When Green Boys Do Poorly.

By OLIN E. HINKLE
NEWS-POST STAFF WRITER
Football "bear" stories of coaching woes are common at this time of year, but the one that Coach Odu Mitchell tells has the ring of truth in it. The Harvester coach lost his appetite yesterday afternoon after watching the big squad of sun tanned youths go through their initial scrimmages. "They looked ragged, they ran over each other, and they did everything wrong," Mitchell said gloomily. "Green, I should say they are green."

The coach was comparing them with last season's brilliant outfit which had played together for three seasons. Mitchell still believes he had the best backfield in the state, and he will not be cheerful about the 1931 back until they go places like the Four Horsemen did. Meanwhile eating irregularly, he is losing weight, and his keen eyes look rather haggardly over a thick growth of brownish whiskers.

Some Sunshine
Mitchell admitted that Martindale and Chastain were looking good in the backfield. Joe Kahl, who objects to being called "Little Joe" this season, is expected to be a valuable back, and Paul Hill, the camp humorist, aspires to make the dear fans forget Don Sausbury. Hill tears them up on offense, but Sausbury could teach him volumes about blocking and tackling.

"I'm the only all-round man in camp," Hill told us. "I can plow it, hoe it, and pick it."

But why talk cotton in this of all years, and in a wheat belt of all places? Bill Hill said he weighed 202 pounds when he was 12 years of age. Then he quit growing and has been "stunted" ever since.

Pity The Cook
Camp routine is composed of eating, taking setting up exercises, eating, dummy scrimmage, eating, blocking, eating, tackling, eating, swimming, sleeping an eating. The eating habit explains why the cook told the writer to ask the fans today for the following:

Case of eggs, case of sauerkraut, some gallon fruit, a side or two of bacon, 20 pounds of salt pork, sack of Irish potatoes, some sweet potatoes, case of peas, four packages of seedless raisins, and a case of corn.

Anyone willing to help the boys to the extent of filling part of this order may call the NEWS-POST and the contribution will be delivered to the camp by the writer.

Many Visitors
Fans were numerous at the camp yesterday. Probably the total of the visitors for the day reached 150.

Some New Boys
The new athletes include Wayne Kelly, Paul Hill, James Groom, and Carl Boss. The latter pair moved here from Coleman with their families. Boss, a 170-pound end, was captain of the Coe team last year. Groom was a tackle. Paul Sharp, who moved here from Berger, is a good youngster.

Gerdis Schmidt was about the only smooth-shaven man in camp among those who have sprouted the vegetation. He reported for the first time Sunday afternoon and jumped right into a hard scrimmage. He had been working regularly and was not fagged much by the pounding.

May Show Them Up
Ex-Harvesters wish to show up the 1931 machine and give them something to work for in an exhibition game at Harvester park here Friday afternoon. The game probably will be about 2 o'clock. The cocky has-beens—who claim they are better now than the current crop of athletes will be at the end of this season—will include such notables as Don Sausbury, Bob Mullen, Troy Stalls, Albert Lard, Archie Lee Walsad, Jim and Henry Ayres, Jones Setz, Dick Benton, and McFarland. These former high school gridlers, now either in college elevens or aspiring to be, are calculated to remove any conceit the campers may have.

Who Is What?
The fans are expected to swarm out to the park to see the argument settled in a serious clash of has-beens and what-ams. It is not yet clear who is who and what is what, although both sides have convincing arguments. Fans are asked by the boys to remember that they can't play that game Friday on empty stomachs. After the game they will take up training in more secret style on the home gridiron, deserting

Helen Moody May Win Only Honor Not Yet Attained

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 24. (AP)—Only a matter of time and her willingness to compete apparently stands between Mrs. Helen Wells Moody and the one feminine tennis honor she has not been able to win. "Queen Helen" assumed the throne of American tennis for the seventh time yesterday when she defeated Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittinghall, British star, in the final of the women's national championship. She still has to win the title once more before she can equal the record of eight championships set by Mrs. Molla Malory.

Earnshaw "Steals" Stuff In Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 24. (AP)—George Earnshaw is a young man of unimpeachable social standing who moves in the best circles of the east. He also throws baseballs for Cornelius McGillicuddy of the Philadelphia American league team.

Imagine then how he would have felt if he had been at the Chicago detective bureau yesterday when a woman, who said she was Mrs. Edward Wilson, rushed in with a published picture of George and several of his fellow athletes, and said:

"I want to see this man. He robbed one of my tenants." It all happened because George thought it would be amusing to attend the mid-week "show-up" at the detective bureau last Wednesday. With him went catcher Mickey Cochrane, centerfielder Riger Cromer and Earl Mack, son of McGillicuddy, who is known to the baseball world as Blair Mack.

Everybody got a laugh when a policeman questioned the ball players as a joke and a photographer snapped the scene.

Mrs. Wilson was told that pitchers can't even steal bases in a ball game much less anything else, and she went for the back home.

George was in St. Louis when all this happened.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24. (AP)—Mrs. Geo. W. Tyson of Kansas City, the defending champion, today headed a field of 160 or more women golfers over the Exmore country club course in quest of the women's western title.

D. 1931, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 2940, wherein Dove Arlene Winters is Plaintiff, and P. L. Winters is Defendant, and a brief statement of plaintiff's cause of action, being as follows:

Plaintiff alleges that she resides in Gray county, Texas, but that the residence of the defendant is unknown to her; that she has been a resident of the state of Texas for more than 12 months prior to the filing of her petition, and she has resided in Gray county, Texas six months prior to filing such petition; that she and the defendant were married in New Mexico on or about July 29th, 1930, and lived together as husband and wife until April 15th, 1931, when she was forced to leave the defendant since which time they have not lived together as husband and wife; that during the time she and the defendant lived together as husband and wife, she was kind and considerate of the defendant, managed the household affairs with prudence and at all times treated him with kindness and consideration; that shortly after their marriage the defendant began a course of unkind, harsh and tyrannical conduct toward her; that he cursed and abused her in the presence of her neighbors and friends; and that such conduct on his part continued without interruption until she was forced to leave the defendant, and on account of the conduct of defendant toward her their further living together as husband and wife has been rendered impracticable. Plaintiff prays for divorce and for all cost of suit.

Herein fail not but have before said court, at its next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

LESTER WHITE BEATS BUFFS WITH PITCHING

Allows Only Three Hits—Dallas Divides With San Antonio.

By WILLIAM A. (BILL) PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer
Houston may be first half champion, and well on their way to the second half title, but even the best must lose sometime. Yesterday the Buffaloes day 15 go down, and it was the three-hit pitching performance of Lester White, Wichita Falls right hander that beat Houston, 2 to 0. Stanton, Wichita Falls first baseman, clouted a double and two singles in three official times at bat.

Dallas completed a final southern road invasion by splitting a doubleheader with San Antonio. With George Murry pitching, the Steers won the first 9 to 4. The Steers blew a 5 to 1 lead in the second game which San Antonio won 7 to 6 in ten innings.

One of the classics of the season was staged at Beaumont where Fort Worth and the Exporters split a doubleheader. The superb game was the first, in which Leon Chagnon held Beaumont to four hits for a 1 to 0 verdict. Whitlow Wyatt won the second victory in three days and his ninth in his last ten starts when he won in the second game 3 to 1. Wyatt limited the Cats to three hits.

Galveston and Shreveport contributed a mound duel between Miller and Cromer with Galveston a 2 to 1 winner.

BROWNS ROB LEFTY GROVE OF HIS MARK

Cincinnati Is Eliminated When St. Louis Wins With Shower of Hits.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer
The St. Louis Browns, who have prived annoying opponents for Philadelphia's Athletics all season, have deprived Lefty Grove, the A's south-paw ace, of a chance to set a new American league record.

Grove won 16 successive games, tying the mark set in 1912 by Smoky Joe Wood and Walter Johnson, before being run into the Browns and Chick Coffman yesterday in the first game of a double header. He pitched another good game, giving only seven hits and one run, the result of a misjudged ball which went for a double in the third inning. Coffman was a little better. The St. Louisers held the champions to three hits and gave them their first shutout of the year. In the second game Hoyt held the Browns to four hits while the A's pounded out 17 to win 10 to 0.

New York made a slight gain by taking two games into the Chicago White Sox. The largest crowd that ever saw a ball game in Chicago 52,000, turned out to see the Yanks win 10 to 4 and 9 to 1. The defeat dropped the White Sox into a tie for last place with Detroit and left the Yanks only two games behind Washington despite the Senator's 6 to 5 triumph over the Tigers.

Cleveland likewise had a close call from a lower ranking team when the Boston Red Sox fought them to a standstill for eight innings only to go down 4 to 3 as Danny MacFadyen gave three hits and lost a duel with Sarge Connolly.

Cincinnati finally was eliminated from the National league pennant race when St. Louis took two games from the Boston Braves. An 18-hit attack, led by Chick Hafey, who batted two times into the Chicago White Sox, a double and two singles, won the first game for St. Louis 16 to 1. The second clash went eleven innings before Jim Bottomley dropped a home run into the bleachers to give St. Louis a 1 to 0 victory.

Brooklyn also won two games, staging two late rallies against Pittsburgh and winning by a 5-4 count each time.

The opening doubleheader of the New York-Chicago series was rained out.

Lott and Doeg Facing Threat in Title Defense

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 24. (AP)—George Lott of Philadelphia and John Doeg of Newark set out today in an attempt to win their third successive national doubles tennis championship.

The defending champions faced formidable opposition from a field that included the first nine ranking players of the country and a potentially dangerous English team, George Hughes and Fred Perry.

The most serious threat against their attempt for a third straight victory was the California team of Ellsworth Vines and Keith Glendhill who beat the Lott-Doeg combination in five sets at Newport last week.

MAN ESCAPES WHEN HELPED BY PLOTTERS

Anton Talbert Receives Note Instructing Him to Put $500 in Tin Can Near Flowing Well.

RUSE EFFECTED

Similar Demand Received by Another Landowner; No Trace of Offenders Is Found in Inquiry.

GRANDVIEW, Aug. 25. (P) — Thirteen shots were fired at an extortionist here last night by Anton Talbert, a farmer. It was believed several of the bullets took effect.

Talbert received a note Sunday ordering him to place $500 in a can near a flowing well. He and a negro employe hid themselves near the well and when the extortionist came for the money, opened fire.

The man fell to the ground. Talbert went to summon an officer, but when he returned the man was gone. Tracks indicated he had been carried away in an automobile.

Officers were checking hospitals in the Grandview section today in connection with their search for the man.

The note received by Talbert was similar to the one received recently by Henry Martin, another Grandview landowner, demanding money. Two of Martin's barns were burned when he refused to pay.

Texas Senator Begg Legion To Promote Peace

EL PASO, Aug. 25. (P) — United States Senator Tom Connally told American Legionnaires attending the state convention today that the greatest problem confronting statesmen is the maintenance of world peace.

"The misery and tragedy of the world," he said, "millions of men laid down their lives. Billions of dollars worth of property was destroyed. Untold numbers of persons were widowed and orphaned."

"The world should never again suffer such a nightmare of horror and misery. The American Legion could render its country and the human race a great service in promoting the desire for peace and supporting those movements seeking international action to preserve peace."

Connally pointed to the influence the legion could bring to bear in carrying out a pacific program. "The legion should always be right," he continued. "It should never make a demand or request of the government which is not moderate and reasonable."

"Having served civilization and preserved the honor of our country in war, the legion has a duty to do anything inconsistent with the welfare of its country and fellow citizens."

Cotton Session Is Unlikely

Sterling Says Legislators in Opposition to Long's Ban on Product.

AUSTIN, Aug. 25. (P) — Governor Ross S. Sterling said today he doubted if the plan of Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana to ban cotton planting in 1932 would be approved by the Texas legislature if called special session to enact cotton acreage control legislation.

The governor said that if the Texas legislature was called it would be to enact laws to reduce and not to ban cotton planting.

Governor Sterling said he had reached no decision on a special session. His office was being flooded with letters and telegrams in answer to his request for expressions of the special session plan.

"From the hundreds of wires and letters coming from the cotton farmers who oppose total restriction of cotton planting for one year, I am sure you should a session be called, it would not adopt Governor Long's plan," he said. The majority of those who have communicated with me want reduction of acreage either one-half or one-third.

MEXIA, Tex., Aug. 25. (P) — Several hundred farmers in mass meeting here today approved the proposal of J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, that a special session of the legislature be called to provide for cotton acreage control.

"If we allow this crop to go for five cents a pound, we are guilty of concentration of wealth and distribution of poverty," he told the farmers. "If the legislature won't do something you should scrap the whole bunch."

Oil Men Hear Expert

FORAN CITES MUCH WASTE IN NEW POOL

Technical Advisor Urges East Texas Allowable Be Limited to Not Over 250,000 Barrels

IS ONLY WITNESS

Terrell Says New Order Will Be Issued and Effective By September 1; 300 Operators Present.

AUSTIN, Aug. 25. (P) — E. V. Foran, technical advisor of the central proration committee, today recommended to the Texas Railroad commission that daily production in the East Texas field be held to between 225,000 and 250,000 barrels.

Foran testified that 325,000 barrels daily would be too much and would too rapidly deplete the reservoir pressure and other oil producing energies of the field.

The danger of water encroachment from an allowable above his figure was stressed by Foran, who testified that disorderly development and withdrawals had caused premature showing of water in numerous parts of the field.

He was the only witness at the hearing.

The hearing was the first held by the commission under the new conservation statute passed at the recent special session of the legislature.

Orders issued by the commission at its last hearing have been held illegal in the federal court.

Approximately 300 of men, a majority of them operators in the East Texas field, were present today.

The giant East Texas field, comprising approximately 120,000 acres, has been completely shut down by a martial law proclamation of Governor Ross S. Sterling. The governor indicated he would not withdraw National Guardsmen from the area until the new orders of the commission had been issued and made effective.

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the commission, said he expected the order to be issued and effective by September 1.

Foran said he believed it was necessary to set an allowable for the entire field rather than an allowable for each well since the producing energy of the field was vitally affected by each well's operations.

"The greatest ultimate recovery can be obtained from the field only by restricting the output from the entire area to conserve the energy and obtain a minimum of waste," Foran said.

He testified the pressure in the field when first discovered was approximately 1,600 pounds per square inch, with most of it hydrostatic pressure. Extreme caution should be observed, Foran testified, to guard against encroachment of water and the trapping off of oil in underground strata.

The water hazard has increased at an alarming rate, Foran testified, and if not effectively curbed will result in great waste underground.

Some Fail to Flow Foran said his observations had been that numerous wells recently completed had failed to flow due to pressure depletion and that water appeared earlier than it should.

Great waste has existed in the field to disorderly development and withdrawals, Foran said. He estimated there were approximately 1,600 wells in the field and that a majority of them had been drilled since April. Approximately 35 percent of the field has been drilled, he stated.

Foran was questioned briefly by other operators before the noon recess.

It was believed likely the hearing would extend through tomorrow and possibly through Thursday.

Use State Employes Terrell said the commission would waste no time in preparing and issuing its order and had made plans to start immediate enforcement using only employes of the railroad commission.

Umpires paid by assessment on the oil operator have been used in enforcing the commission's orders in the past.

Terrell stated that if necessary the governor would be asked for a deficiency appropriation to hire additional help in enforcing the order.

The order was expected to be issued by the commission the latter part of the week. Terrell said he hoped to have it effective by next Tuesday.

OPINION SOUGHT SHERMAN, Aug. 25. (P) — Senator Jake J. Loy planned to confer with Grayson county farmers here today in an effort to learn their opinions regarding the proposed special legislative session to consider cotton acreage reduction.

Amarillo Police Are Holding Her and Money

AMARILLO, Aug. 25. (P) — Miss Anna Nardes, living in "Stifling Manhattan," wanted "a breath of fresh air" and she came all the way to the Panhandle to get it.

Miss Nardes, 16 and pretty, had heard of Amarillo and the great open spaces. She arrived early today on an unheralded vacation, but was met by a reception committee from the police department. Officers said Miss Nardes had $3,000 in her possession that did not belong to her.

Chief Inspector John O'Brien of the New York police department explained the matter in a wire to police.

"Detain Anna Nardes, alias Doris Nelson, medium blonde, wearing new black satin dress. . . . Stole $3,000 from parents. . . . Hold all money. Wire."

"I meant to keep the money only until I could get out of Amarillo," Miss Nardes said, as she breathed her fresh air from the bureau of criminal identification, where she was held in custody of a matron.

Pilot and Girl Are Drowned at Dallas Resort

DALLAS, Aug. 25. (P) — Reuben D. Newton, 28, crack pilot for American Airways, and Miss Marian Louise Craig, 16, senior student at White-wright high school, were drowned last night while boating at White Rock lake, a Dallas resort.

Miss Craig's body was recovered before midnight, but searchers had been unable to locate Newton's body. Airplanes and motorboats were used today in the hunt.

The couple had been picnicking with relatives and went for a ride in a row boat. Apparently there were no witnesses to the accident.

Newton began flying for American Airways in 1928 and was regarded as one of their best pilots. He was survived by his widow and one daughter.

Amarillo Man Is Witness in Case

At noon, he was scheduled to examine Stephens at Worley hospital. He was to report his findings regarding Stephens' alleged deafness and blindness to the jury this afternoon.

Stevens was questioned briefly by other operators before the noon recess.

It was believed likely the hearing would extend through tomorrow and possibly through Thursday.

Use State Employes Terrell said the commission would waste no time in preparing and issuing its order and had made plans to start immediate enforcement using only employes of the railroad commission.

Umpires paid by assessment on the oil operator have been used in enforcing the commission's orders in the past.

Terrell stated that if necessary the governor would be asked for a deficiency appropriation to hire additional help in enforcing the order.

FORMER PACIFIC COAST STARS TURN IN FINE WINS

MAHAFFEY OF ATHLETICS IS GOING STRONG

Vernon Gomez of Yankees Also Effective When His Team Needs Him Most

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
A spindly left-hander and a tall right hand sharpshooter, both from the Pacific Coast League, are proving better and better arguments, as the season wears on, in favor of the fancy prices the West coast young-ster command in the major league baseball market.

Consider the left-hander, Vernon Gomez, late of the San Francisco Seals, polished a bit last season in St. Paul, and now one of the Yankee pitching staff. In a year when the Yank hurling eccentricities have sent peppery Joe McCarthy home to mope over his victims, Gomez has been the savior of many a good evening meal.

Yesterday he turned in his sixteenth victory of the season, and 3 to 5 conquest of Chicago that ran the Yankee winning streak to six, a new high for the team this season.

The right-hander, LeRoy Mahaffey of Connie Mack's staff, turned in an even more brilliant performance to win his fourteenth victory of the season against only two defeats. The 1929 graduate from Portland, Ore., limited the St. Louis Browns to five hits and won 5 to 1.

Detroit pulled up out of the American League cellar and the White Sox were plunger to the bottom of the list as the Tigers nosed out Washington in a free hitting struggle, 6 to 5. The Tigers reached the heights of sixth place when the Boston Red Sox crumbled under Cleveland's pounding, 11 to 7, and fell back a notch ahead of Chicago.

Rain obliterated all but the battle of the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs for second place in the National League. The Cubs piled on Clarence Mitchell for five runs in the fourth inning of the first game and picked up three more to win for Bob Smith, 8 to 4.

In the second game Bill Terry hit his second homer, this time in the ninth inning with the score tied one-one, and he broke up a pitching tussle between Guy Bush and Freddy Fitzsimmons to give the Giants a 2 to 1 victory.

MOON of DELIGHT by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: Scorned by her criminal confederate, Divitt, the marquis steals his money and in her flight writes police where they may find their robbery booty. That evening Kirk and his grandmother, Nelly, visit Divitt's gambling place, where Nelly faints in excitement over her winnings. Aiding her, Juanita, Divitt's cigarette girl, is recognized by Kirk as Senorita Flores, who had been a guest in his home and who, with the marquis, had left in the night without explanation. Knowing herself to be Beatriz Montega, wanted by Mexican police, she decides to surrender. Before Kirk returns from taking Nelly home, she has disappeared—just as a raid on the resort begins. Kirk, seeking the girl he loves, hears a scream echoing through the court of the padlocked place.

Chapter 36

IN THE RAID'S WAKE
Kirk stood for an instant as the cry broke the stillness that the raiders had left in Divitt's courtyard. Then, as the babble of broken words and weeping sounded in his ears, he found the stair leading to the room whence it came, and entered its open door.

The room was lit only by two candles, burning on a sort of shrine. A woman knelt by the bed, sobbing, moaning. On the bed lay the dwarf whom Kirk remembered the boy whom they called Gabreau. The woman did not lift her face as Kirk came in, but the boy lay staring at him by the light of the candles.

"She have gone," said Gabreau, and the woman raised her wet, distorted face.

"You have keel him!" she screamed. "You have keel my Gabreau."
"Hush, Maman," said Gabreau. "He is not de police. He have come to find Juanita."
"Where is she?" Kirk asked.

"How we know?" Conchita groaned. "De men have come and ron khoos de place. Dey hunt de hooch. And when dey come to Juanita's room Gabreau he will let dem go in. He stand in front de do, and when dey try git past he pull his gun. Dey shoot him. Dey shoot my Gabreau."
"Did they take Juanita?" demanded Kirk.

"Juanita, he is not dere. Juanita she have go befo' dey come. Dey keel my Gabreau—"
"Hush, Maman," faintly. "I am de blood of Napoleon."
"Dey git Divitt," said Conchita. "De police have tek Divitt and all de peoples what do not brek thoo de lit' gate. Dey kerry dem 'way'."

"But Juanita escaped?" Kirk spoke quickly, but not with relief. It would have been better had they taken her. He would know where to find her.

Gabreau was speaking—slowly. "I think I know where Juanita have go. When she see you know she is here I think I know where she go. But Juanita is good—like Madonna. She is here, but she is good."
"Where has she gone?" demanded Kirk, jealous of the shortening breath.

"He thank she have go to de police," Conchita took up the answer. "He thank she not heer now. De police dey hunt her for what she do—somewhere befo'. Always she is 'traid dey will git her. Now she not keer."
Conchita turned to the commoda, found an old paper amid the confusion of a drawer, handed it to Kirk. "I cannot read," she said. "And Gabreau, he cannot see mooch now."
"Molly point to where de paper is hide, but I think she mean de white shawl. I not find de paper till Juanita have go away."

Kirk, holding the paper near the candle, saw Juanita's picture. He put the paper in his pocket. God grant that Gabreau was right—that she had gone to the police—that he would find her. God grant—
"You'll be all right, old scout," he said to Gabreau.

A faint smile fitted across the gray-pale face.

"I am de blood—"
Conchita's shrill cry filled the court as Kirk went out the little gate.

Juanita sat in her cell in the old jail. Kirk was beside her, her hands in his. Outside the guard paced up and down. Now and then he looked at them. The girl had spoken but once since she had entered head-quarters at midnight.

"I am Beatriz Montega," she had said then. "Wanted in Vera Cruz for murder."
They had communicated with Vera Cruz. Would hold her without bail till extradition papers could be procured.

She was talking now, softly, and at intervals.

"Nelly?"
"Nelly is better," Kirk answered.

DEMPSEY IS GOOD IN FOUR SHORT BOUTS

Knocks Out Two Men in Short Order and Then Boxes Two Others.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 25. (P)—A crowd of 17,864 fight fans paid $27,295.50 here last night to see Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, knock out two of four opponents in an exhibition appearance.

Still carrying a little extra flesh, Dempsey nevertheless showed speed and the power was not gone from his left.

He used his right to drop Big Bill Hartwell, Boston negro, for nine counts, and the left to the side of Hartwell's head to finish the first opponent in a total of a little more than one minute in the ring.

Denny Lenhart of Portland stayed two rounds with the Manassa Mauler.

Having disposed of but three opponents in four rounds, whereas four had been provided, Dempsey agreed to go two more rounds with Bob Mariels of Portland, the fourth. Mariels stayed for both stanzas, although Dempsey staggered him once.

Chapman Will Race Reynolds

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (P)—That 100-yard foot race between Ben Chapman of the New York Yankees, leading stealer of the major leagues, and Carl Reynolds, fleet White Sox outfielder was up for decision today.

Chapman, who got Babe Ruth "out of the barrel" several weeks ago after the Babe had lost several wags, or other Yankee players in sprint races, and Reynolds whom the White Sox believe is the fastest man in the American League, yesterday signed an agreement with Secretary Harry Grabiner of the Sox, to meet just before today's game at Comiskey park.

Ruth lost money betting on other Yanks but backed Chapman to beat Allen "Dusty" Cooke, until then regarded as the fastest man on the Yankee squad, and came away with a profit.

New Coaches to Take Up Jobs

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (P)—Fifteen new head football coaches take up their jobs in the eastern sector alone this year, faced with unusual difficulties accruing from a year of athletic unrest.

The turnover, representing approximately 20 per cent of the 71 colleges and universities canvassed by the Associated Press, is the largest on record in the east. It is conspicuous for the reason that the shifts involve such outstanding institutions as Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Navy, West Virginia and Rutgers. Thirteen head coaches, who took hold of their jobs in 1930, held over for a second term.

Only four of the 71 eastern head coaches for 1931 have served more than ten years.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Holly Sellers Hinkle
Everybody is getting the football "bug."

Who wouldn't with such inspirations? In the first place, a new section of bleachers has been completed at Harvester park, making an additional seating capacity of 1,000, or a total capacity of 4,000. "If the big crowds attend the first games it will be possible to provide still more seats before the Amarillo game," said Lynn Boyd, who is directing the construction.

All the seats have been painted a dark blue and the park is being put in first-class condition for the football season.

If a winning team is not produced, it will not be the fault of the fans. About 150 persons visited the boys in their training camp at Mel Davis ranch Sunday. And many Pampanas are providing treats in the form of good things to eat for the boys.

Speaking of eats, the boys never ate so many beans before in their lives. Not that they prefer beans to anything else, but they like to think of the added muscle that may result.

And to the mothers of all football boys: Your soaps can wash dishes. They have proved it. And they think the nice clean sand they use for soap is quite effective.

So far, no serious casualties have resulted—just a few fillings knocked out of teeth and a few arms in need of bandages.

In this process of toughening a few scratches are inevitable. But we wonder how those boys can sleep at night with their backs as scarlet as a red apple. There is sunshine in abundance. We suppose the blisters do not bother in the day time, for shirts are as scarce on that camp as hen's teeth.

Mrs. Coach Mitchell thinks the boys should keep more hair oil at the camp.

And this writer might add that a shave a day would contribute to the artistic features of the camp.

But the coach is not worried about anything artistic. He can't use a bit of that on the field. He is tearing his hair trying to teach the boys something about the good old American game of football.

Maybe the boys are green at the game—the coach declares they are—but at least visitors are impressed with the size of the players. There are potential stars, to say the least.

The camping spot has all advantages. There is plenty of water to swim in and there is a diving board and a row-boat. There is space for exercise and practice, and there are shade trees under which to sleep and rest.

Now it's up to the boys to work hard and to become winners.

Even the youngest of the younger generation is becoming interested in football.

Chester Hunkapillar, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar was allowed to go to the camp Friday but was told to come back to town in the first car that came. A crowd of people came to town, but young Hunkapillar was not along. "That was not a car, that was a truck," he explained.

And there is Shirley Mae Sone, tiny daughter of the high school principal. She will challenge anybody her size for a game. "It was a big time she was having with a football at the training camp Sunday afternoon."

"Oh, well," somebody remarked, "when she is old enough to play, girls will be playing too."

STORY OF PASSION PLAY THRILLS LOCAL GROUP

MRS. HICKS IS MAIN SPEAKER MONDAY NIGHT

A penetrating description of the Passion play which she witnessed in Oberammergau last year was given Monday evening by Mrs. H. H. Hicks for members of division 7 of the First Christian church. The group met in the home of Mrs. Ivy Duncan with Mrs. C. W. Stowell as hostess.

"Oberammergau has been accused of being commercialized," she said. "To me this does not seem true. Certainly the people have their wares to sell, but prices are not unreasonable. The play itself is $2.50. 'The people are deeply religious. The Passion play is taught children in the schools, and it is a high ambition of these children to become leading characters in the Passion play when they are older."

"The first Passion play was given to appease God during a plague in 1633. Mrs. Hicks gave a vivid description of the stage on which more than 700 persons can act at one time, and the picturesque mountain as a background. The audience when Mrs. Hicks attended numbered 7,500.

"Applause is out of order in Germany," said the speaker. "A group of Americans, when it began to applaud, was hissed until applause stopped."

Group Divided
Mrs. C. W. Stowell, leader of the group, presided during the evening, and Mrs. Duncan, president of the entire council, announced a division of the group, thus forming division 8. Mrs. H. D. Lewis will be leader of one group, and Mrs. Stowell will have charge of the other. Mrs. Duncan also spoke on finances of the organization.

Mrs. H. D. Lewis led the devotional, stating that the love of God, which she termed the "pearl of life," was worth the greatest price we could pay.

Mrs. Todd Leads
Mrs. James Todd Jr. was program leader for the evening. She introduced Mrs. May Foreman Carr and Mrs. Ramon Wilson, who entertained with a piano selection, "Spanish Dance."

The piano number was followed with a vocal duet, "Jesus Cares," by Misses Retha and Macie Lester, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Collins.

Miss Madeline Collins gave a reading, "Admiral's Ghost," with "Mother Weeds the Shingle," as an encore.

Mrs. Hick's talk followed. Under the direction of Mrs. Todd, Mrs. Naida Lewter, Mrs. Lillian McFut, and Mrs. John Beverly entertained with a clever one-act play, "God and the Census."

Many Flowers Used
Entertaining rooms were decorated with large clusters of flowers, raised by Mrs. Duncan. Exquisite corsages of sweet peas on the refreshment plate; also were from Mrs. Duncan's flower garden.

An ice course was served during the informal social hour, and Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Wilson entertained with piano music.

Those attending were Mesdames John Beverly, E. E. McNutt, J. T. Bullock, Naida C. Lewter, L. K. Stout, Ora Duenkel, Ethel West, Will E. Collins, H. H. Hicks, James Todd Jr., Ramon Wilson, May Foreman Carr, H. D. Lewis, Gerlie Arnold, Tom Morris, L. F. Porter, B. J. Renshaw, Billie Barrett, Ivy Duncan, C. W. Stowell, M. L. Sellers, Olla E. Hinkle, Misses Madeline Prater and Macie and Retha Lester, and Mrs. Collins.

HOME AFTER TRIP
Mrs. Florence Scott and children, Helen and Billie, have returned after a visit in Clovis.

CROWDS ATTEND REVIVAL AT METHODIST CHURCH; LEADER OF SONG SERVICES ARRIVES

Yesterday services were well attended at the First Methodist church. The morning service was attended by about a hundred persons and many more are planning to come to the services this week.

The pastor, Rev. Ray N. Johnson, preached yesterday's theme of "The Dynamo of power that it took to run a revival was prayer." Every Christian was urged to pray for a city-wide revival this week.

Rev. Lance Webb arrived yesterday afternoon and conducted his first song service of the evening.

His trumpet accompaniments were especially enjoyable. Rev. Johnson preached on "The Call of Christ to Us today." This text was Ephesians 5:14—Awake thou that sleepest and arise from the dead and Christ shall give thee light. "Christ calls us to awake and work for the Kingdom of Heaven. We must arise from the spiritual deadness of our sinful natures and walk in the pathway of service to our King. We must be filled with the spirit of Christ and emptied of self so that we can live the Christ-like life." These thoughts were the substance of the message.

Rev. E. E. White, presiding elder of the Abilene district and his wife attended the revival service last evening and Rev. White led in prayer.

Services are being conducted twice daily at 10 o'clock and at 8:15. The public is cordially invited.

The Bible gleaners class of the First Baptist church will be entertained Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Mrs. Preston P. Briggs, 133 S. Nelson street.

Rev. White Visits Johnson Home Here

The Rev. E. E. White, presiding elder of the Abilene district of the Methodist church, and Mrs. White spent yesterday and last night in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Ray N. Johnson. Today they will meet their daughter, Elizabeth Louise, who has been attending the Methodist girls' camp near Canyon. The three will visit in Lubbock, where Rev. White formerly was a pastor, before returning to their home in Abilene.

Friendship Class Will Have Picnic

The Friendship class of the Presbyterian church, Mrs. Geo. Briggs teacher, will picnic at the Prairie Pipeline camp at Kingsmill on Thursday at 6 p. m. Transportation is provided for those who wish it if they will be at the church at 5:30.

SUNBEAMS HEAR TALK OF AFRICA

Sunbeams of the Central Baptist church heard a program on Africa given under the direction of Mrs. J. M. White, leader, when they met at the church Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Those attending were Wanda Jean White, Emma Lee and Gayle Huns-gate, Doris Brown, Freddie Nell Beckham, Lillian Brown, Raymond Earl McAlister James Brown, Harold Beckham, Scotty Evans, and Mary Evelyn May.

Square this with what you hear

... what you read
... what you believe

NOWADAYS you read and hear every kind of thing about cigarettes. But when you try to square some of it with your own common-sense and experience, a lot of it just doesn't "square"!

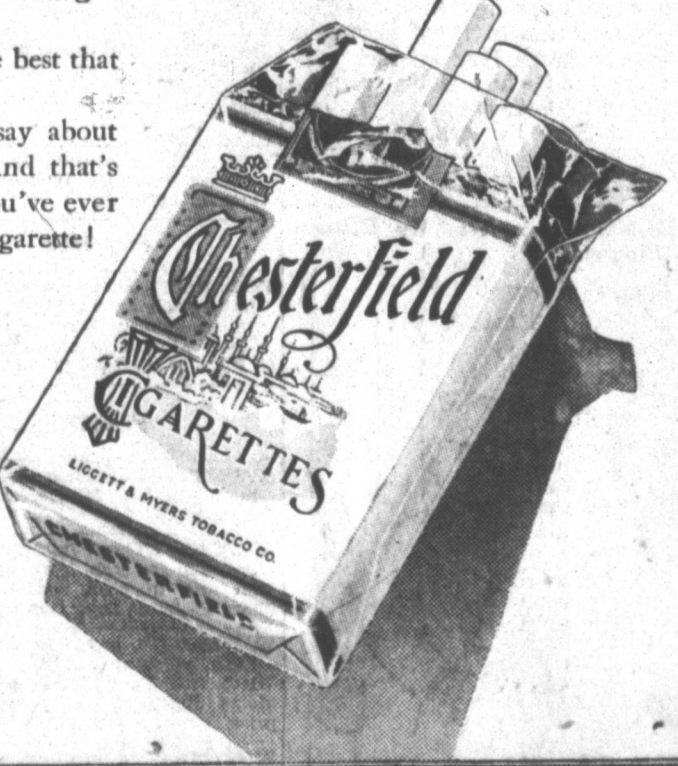

What smokers want to know about a cigarette is "How good is it?"

And when it comes to that, cigarettes are just as good and just as pure as the materials from which they're made.

In making Chesterfield, we use only riper, milder, sweeter-tasting tobaccos—the best that money can buy—and pure cigarette paper—the purest that can be made. Our chemists rigidly test for cleanliness and purity all materials used in the manufacture of Chesterfield. In our factories even the air is washed, and changed every 4½ minutes.

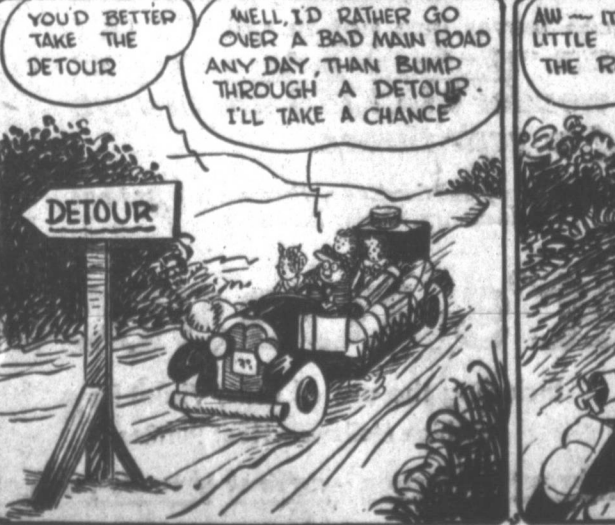

Everything that goes into Chesterfield is the best that money can buy or that science knows about.

"Good . . . they've got to be good," we say about CHESTERFIELD—and we mean it! And that's something you can square with everything you've ever read, or heard—or know—about this good cigarette!

RUSSIA AS OBSTACLE TO PEACE

It is a common practice to name every person who forments trouble as a "red." The term connotes various things to different persons, but it usually is connected with anti-governmental attitudes and destructiveness.

Little is actually known of the Soviet's activities in America. Many who claim to have Soviet affiliations are unknown to that regime. Russia's campaign is more economic than political, although it is recognized that the way to economic success is often through political channels.

But assuming that Russia is formenting hatred of "capitalism," what are the internal activities which should claim the attention of other countries? In that answer is the reason for the difficulties of disarmament conferences. Nationalism is stronger in Europe than in America. Frequent wars have laid out strict lines of likes and dislikes. There are neighbors who so distrust each other that their boundaries are highly fortified and fully manned at all times.

As to Russia, it is said on good authority that that nation is being taught to fear a "capitalistic" invasion. Russia has 600,000 trained men. The militia numbers 900,000. The country has compulsory military training and a reserve army of more than ten million men. The rabble army of 1920 has been replaced with well trained men armed with the most modern equipment.

Moreover, Russia has one of the world's largest air forces and her civilian aviation is under governmental control. The largest steel plant in the world is being erected in Russia. Russians are being half-starved in order to carry out industrialization under the frenzied five-year plan of national development. Foreign, imported engineers are being employed to use the forced labor.

Soviet propoganda is that "war is unavoidable between growing communism and decaying capitalism." Such a menage cannot be ignored. Unless other nations see fit to recognize Russia and tame her ambitions in diplomatic maneuvers, they may have to tame her with arms, which would be an easy matter. Her leaders may be shrewd enough to avoid conflict, but their warlike movements will greatly retard the cause of peace. The Russian problem cannot be solved by assuming that communism is doomed to fall. There are some who call it capable of success—for Russians, in Russia.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

LIVERPOOL, SAGS
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25. (AP)—The cotton market had rather a tame opening today. Liverpool cables were considerably lower than due and first trades here showed losses of 11 to 12 points. The market eased off a little further after the start on selling by recent buyers and October dropped to 6.93 and December to 7.15, or 13 points below yesterday's close. This early drop attracted some trade buying and covering and prices rallied three points from the lows.

The general impression of front yards will count 10 points and details, such as plantings to boundaries, framing house, foundation plantings, shade, all season bloom, maintenance, permanency, and the like will count 15 points. Rear grounds will be judged as to general impression, flower gardens, border plantings, and artistic composition. The alleys points will include service area, garage, and so forth.
Local people are urged to fill the entry blank and mail it at once to Carson Leffus, Box 207, city. He is secretary of the Lions club. It is pointed out that some persons' failure to enter the contest will enhance the chances of others, and that, since it costs nothing to enter, hundreds should do so. The purpose of the contest is to call attention to the many beautiful homes here and to reward those citizens who have developed their yards most successfully.

101 RANCH SHOW IS AT HOME AND BROKE

PONCA CITY, Okla., Aug. 25. (AP)—One hundred eighty seven troupers of the 101 Ranch Wild West show played a homecoming performance here late last night. The circus train and cowpunchers, Indians and animals who failed to find other trails arrived bedraggled, disgusted, and "broke." Stranded in Washington, the men and women of the show have been without pay several weeks, and pay still was the talk.

Chas. L. Thomas who was returned Saturday to Pampa hospital, is satisfactorily improving. Dr. A. Cole said this morning. Mr. Thomas underwent an appendectomy five weeks ago. He was taken back to the hospital when pleurisy developed.
Art Pavey left this morning in his American Eagle plane to visit his mother a week in Kansas. She lives north of Wichita about 30 miles.

"I believe everything you say about advertising in the NEWS and POST," said Mrs. John Henry this morning. Yesterday Mrs. Henry stated in the newspaper that she would give wood to any needy family who would haul it away. "There have already been about a dozen persons call for it," she said.

"TOASTING" expels SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally

(Black, biting, harsh irritant chemicals)

present in every tobacco leaf

"They're out—so they can't be in!"

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for trees, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.
