

No Word Is Heard From Two Ocean Flights in 33 Hours

NEFT TALE ANSWERED

ANXIETY FELT BY AIRMEN OF WORLD TODAY

Both Ships Carry Fuel for Many More Hours and May Be Safely Moving Over Courses.

All Reports Proved False in Ireland, Where Watchers Expect First Sight of Ocean Crossers.

By the Associated Press. At 1 o'clock, central standard time this afternoon, the two transatlantic planes—that of Boardman and Polando and Herndon and Pangborn—had been out of New York 33 hours.

Absence of any word of their progress was beginning to cause some uneasiness among airmen. Neither plane, however, was in danger of being forced down by lack of fuel.

Herndon and Pangborn's red monoplane carried 850 gallons of gasoline, enough to carry them 5,500 miles without a halt. At an average speed of 100 miles an hour, they could travel another 22 hours without landing. The plane, however, was capable of somewhat greater speed, which would cut down the time in the air by a few hours.

The Boardman-Polando plane had 718 gallons of gasoline, sufficient to carry them, they believed, 7,000 miles. At 100 miles an hour—their average speed—this would enable them to stay aloft 70 hours, or until 2 a. m. Friday morning. Their object was to beat the long distance record set by Coste and Le Brix who flew 4,912 miles without stop.

LONDON, July 29. (AP)—More than 30 hours after America's two transatlantic planes had taken off from New York no authentic news of their progress had been received in Europe.

In Ireland, where a close watch was being kept for them, the press association reported that a red monoplane which flew over Dublin was stated to be a private machine. The two planes, the blue and yellow "Cape Cod," piloted by Russell Boardman and John Polando, and the red and orange Bellanca piloted by Hugh Herndon Jr. and Clyde Pangborn, were believed to have been the ones sighted within 40 minutes of each other yesterday high over Southeastern Newfoundland.

The "Cape Cod" left Floyd Bennett airport at 4 a. m. central standard time, and the Herndon-Pangborn craft 18 minutes later. In Newfoundland one plane was sighted over Cape Race at 2 p. m. central standard time. Another plane was sighted at Ramea at 2:36 and over Bay L'Argent a few minutes later. At 2:30 p. m. one plane

Bilbo Suit Has Maze of Motions

An attempt to smooth out certain complicated mazes of the International Supply company's suit against Bilbo and others is being made by attorneys in 114th district court today.

Judge Clifford Braly was considering a plea of abatement which one lawyer charged "included everything except the Declaration of Independence."

The suit has now developed to a point where it is a battle among intervenors. The list of defendants covers a page and the list of plaintiffs is just as long.

May Compromise Oil

Majors May Suggest Crude Price of 85 Cents

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 29. (AP)—Reports were heard in Oklahoma oil circles today that a compromise on a higher crude oil price is being attempted as an answer to Governor Murray's "dollar-a-barrel" ultimatum.

Major purchasers with headquarters in Tulsa have indicated they would meet today and later arrange conferences with producers in various fields with a view to establishing a price around 75 or 85 cents a barrel.

The governor said he would give purchasers until Saturday night to bring crude oil to $1 per barrel from its present price of 50 cents. If the price does not reach that level, he said he would order all but stripper wells shut down and if necessary enforce the order with military force.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 29. (AP)—A period of watchful waiting, with Saturday night the zero hour, was in store for producers of Oklahoma crude oil today, while major purchasers guardedly viewed latest proceedings in the embattled mid-continent area.

The price of oil at the well, now 40 to 50 cents a barrel after a recent climb from a low of 10 cents, must be $1 a barrel or a complete shutdown of all but stripper wells will be ordered, Governor W. H. Murray declared yesterday.

What is more, if the oil producers do not swing into line peaceably with the proposed shutdown of wells the same "military" that was used during the week-end on the Red river bridge-front will be brought into the fields to enforce the shutdown order, the governor threatened.

Must Protect Wells. Stripper wells would be left producing because a shutdown probably would mean their destruction from salt water, the governor explained when saying they would be exempted.

He termed the partial shutdown as now in effect in Oklahoma City's great oil field unsuccessful because those operators not complying with the shutdown agreement were taking oil from their neighbors' property.

The price of oil at the well should be the vicinity of $2 a barrel rather than $1, but he believed the climb upward would follow natural channels after once getting a firm footing, the governor said.

Schools Robbed. Under present conditions the governor pointed out that oil reserves under state school land were being depleted rapidly and neither the state nor the children the revenue kept in schools were being aided.

A possibility that federal court aid to keep wells flowing, in event a statewide shutdown order is issued, would be sought by producers was put forward yesterday.

Interstate commerce would not be interfered with, the governor asserted, because the oil is produced on private land and can be sold to any state until the oil is produced.

The stripper wells, totaling about 15,000, produce only an average of

KILGORE MAN KILLS ROBBER

KILGORE, July 29. (AP)—An unidentified man was shot to death early this morning when he and two companions came to the window of a confectionery and ordered John B. Jenkins, proprietor, to put his hands up.

Jenkins said he fired five times at the man with a pistol, one shot striking him in the chest. The other men fled.

The man died at a Kilgore hospital without making a statement. An automatic pistol and a flashlight were found where he fell.

Officers had been unable to identify the man. He was about 25 years old.

Forced to relinquish his presidential dictatorship, General Carlos Ibanez, above, of Chile, went into hiding after a wild popular uprising in which 30 were killed and scores hurt during two weeks of disorders. He is the fourth of South America's five powerful dictators to be forced out of power in the last year.

OIL VALUES IN COUNTY STATIC

Totals Not Available Until Royalties Calculated by County Officials.

Final figures on the valuation of oil property in Gray county cannot be ascertained until royalty values are fixed. This will be done by the board of equalization at a hearing during the first part of August.

Valuation of production and equipment of the various oil companies is now being set by county commissioners, but final estimates are not being made for any of the companies. Adjustments remain to be made on a number of items in each case.

Yesterday major valuations were fixed for the Magnolia Petroleum company, Humble Oil and Refining company, Gulf Production company, Stanolind, Property of Ducinger Oil and Refining company is being evaluated today. The companies were represented by tax experts and attorneys.

A comparison of this year's and last year's valuation figures of the Magnolia indicates that the total value of petroleum property for 1931, exclusive of royalties, will be about the same as last year. Assuming that the Magnolia's increase and decrease of property has been about the average of other companies, the total valuation would be approximately the same as last year.

Harlee Cafe Is Damaged by Fire

Damage caused by fire early this morning at Harlee Brothers' cafe at 108 South Cuyler amounted to several hundred dollars.

The blaze which started between two refrigerators in the kitchen was completely extinguished 15 minutes after the fire department arrived. Origin of the fire has not been definitely determined, Chief Clyde Gold said.

Flames did not spread to the front of the building and the most damage was done in the kitchen. Equipment and walls were damaged by heat and smoke. The blaze did not reach the ceiling. The alarm was turned in at 2:50 a. m. This made the third time the cafe had been damaged by fire in the last one and one-half years.

Driver Fails to Notice Highway Turn Necessary at Hobart Street

While en route to Pampa last night to visit a sick grandson, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Meskemin of Big Spring, and Mrs. Jim Lovelass of Coahoma, were painfully injured when their car overturned at the intersection of the Amarillo road and Hobart street.

The condition of both Mrs. Meskemin and Mrs. Lovelass was considered serious by attendants at Worley hospital this morning. Mrs. Meskemin suffered a broken collar bone, bruises, and internal injuries. Mrs. Lovelass' arm and hip were fractured. She also suffered painful bruises and lacerations.

Clarence Meskemin, who was driving the car, was uninjured. He said he failed to see the turn in time to slow down. The car, which overturned in the ditch, was demolished. The grandson is the son of F. S. Meskemin Jr., manager of the Radford Grocery company here. The boy underwent an operation at Pampa hospital for appendicitis yesterday.

Policeman Kills Houston Negro

HOUSTON, July 29. (AP)—As he struggled for possession of a policeman's gun after he had been arrested, James Walton, 26, Angleton negro, was shot and killed by an express company special agent shortly before midnight last night.

The shooting took place in an automobile in which Patrolman J. N. Sebes and Dave Crowe, express company special agent, and Homer Laws, railroad special agent, were carrying the negro to police headquarters.

Crowe was charged with murder in connection with the shooting and released on $300 bond.

C. V. TERRELL TELLS HOUSE ABOUT WORK

Claims Legislature Struck Out Commission Authority and Moody Vetoed Bill to Provide Helpers.

GULF IS HEARD

Geologist Declares No Wastage Underground in East Texas Pool Other Than That Inevitable.

AUSTIN, July 29. (AP)—C. V. Terrell, chairman of the Texas railroad commission, testified before the house today in its investigation of the oil industry that statements made by Pat M. Neft, another commissioner, that the commission had made no intelligent effort to enforce conservation, were untrue.

Terrell testified over the protest of several members of the house who argued it would be legislative sanction for a political debate, one member stating it was the "first political campaign he ever had seen conducted under oath."

Ben Bell, chief geologist for the Gulf Production company, told the senate investigation committee there had not been any underground waste in East Texas and no unnecessary waste of oil. If the legislature intends to pass any laws it should be to set up rules for each individual well and not for operation of a pool or field, he said. Underwood Nazro, Texas executive for the Gulf companies, told the senate yesterday he did not favor any additional oil legislation.

Denies Authority. Terrell denied Neft's charges the railroad commission had authority to prevent gas wastage by setting the oil and gas ratio, claiming the 41st legislature struck this provision out of a bill. The department has been seriously handicapped through action of former Governor Moody in vetoing the appropriation for conservation enforcement officers, he said.

Neft was chairman of the railroad commission 18 months of the last two years and if the commission has been derelict he is responsible for two-thirds of it, Terrell stated.

Enforcement of its orders relative to gas wastage has been enjoined by a suit filed in December, 1930, that has never been tried although the commission has urged the attorney general to pass for a decision in the case, Terrell said.

Terrell was questioned closely by Representative Walter Beck of Fort Worth concerning a statement issued following Neft's testimony by Leon A. Smith, third member of the commission, in which Smith charged "insidious propaganda" was being spread about the capitol to prejudice the legislature against the railroad commission to further creation of a conservation commission, Terrell said he did not know if it was "insidious" but that remarks had been

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—"Big" Teed, described as a bookmaker, was hunted by police today as the man marked for assassination by the gang guns that killed a child and wounded four others last night. Teed recently attempted to "muscle in" on other bookmakers of the Harlem neighborhood in which the attack occurred, police said.

FORMER CONVICT HELD IN SLAYING OF TEXAS SHERIFF

Herbert Day Jailed and Brother Sam is Hunted as Actual Killer of Harris.

TEXARKANA, Ark., July 29. (AP)—Officers today arrested Herbert Day, 30, as a suspect and disclosed they are seeking his brother, Sam Day, 20, as the actual slayer of Sheriff Walter Harris of Miller county during a liquor still raid late yesterday. Sam Day, told them federal prohibition agents during a raid last November.

Herber also has been involved in conflicts with the law. He was one of 13 men tried and acquitted of conspiracy to murder federal prohibition agents two years ago and since then has served a penitentiary term for a prohibition violation.

The shooting of Sam Day last November by two federal prohibition agents occurred about a mile from the scene of yesterday's slaying.

Herbert was arrested today at the home of his father, three miles south of here. An officer had watched the house all night. He drove up in an automobile this morning and dashed into the barn, locking the door. The officer summoned others and when they arrived, Herbert's father, W. M. Day, told them federal prohibition agents during a raid last November.

As the others withdrew, Herbert ran from the barn and started to flee, officers said, but was quickly captured. He was lodged in the city jail.

Officers did not disclose what evidence they had that Sam Day was the slayer.

The shots which killed Sheriff Harris were fired from behind heavy foliage in which the still was hidden, as he and other officers approached. The sheriff had first shot and wounded an 18-year-old negro, Joe Watson, as he fled from the scene. The negro was found later some distance from the still. He is in a hospital in a critical condition.

Bloodhounds were brought by automobile from Hot Springs last night and others were to have been sent by airplane from Cummins state prison farm but the plane bogged in a wet field in landing at the prison farm.

LAWN FETE ONE OF FEW EVENTS OF TYPE IN PAMPA

Few informal gatherings for the entire community have been given in Pampa this summer.

For this reason it is believed that the lawn fete to be sponsored Friday evening by the Music Week committee will be a popular event. It will take place on the large, lighted lawn at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Purviance, 802 West Francis avenue, at 8:30 o'clock.

Boy Scouts and Camp Fire girls will sell confections during the evening. The program will include home talent in music, dancing, and reading, and the Collegians orchestra is to be featured. There will be no admission charge, and the audience may come and go as it likes.

MOTORING HISTORY RE-ENACTED

A one-cylinder automobile built more than 26 years ago is engaged right now in crossing the continent under its own power. It is retracing a route it covered in 1905 when it went from New York to Portland, Ore., in the record-breaking time of 44 days; and the man who is driving it, Dwight B. Huss, is the same man who drove it on its earlier trip.

Mr. Huss ought to have a good deal of fun out of his trip, especially if he has a contemplative streak in him. The contrast between this trip and the one of 1905 is striking. Auto and driver are the same, but everything else connected with the affair is as different as if two centuries had elapsed instead of a mere 26 years.

When that first trip was made Mr. Huss had to take his roads as he found them, and most of them were pretty bad. For hundreds of miles, in fact, they were little better than wheel tracks. Filling stations and garages were almost non-existent. Except when he was in the cities he saw no pavement.

To be a cross-country motorist in those days one had to be adventurous, resourceful, and a first-rate mechanic.

And today? Macadam and concrete from coast to coast; garages, service stations, camping grounds and lunchrooms every few miles, all the way from New York to Portland; plenty of company all the way and nothing to make the trip an unusual event except the extreme age of Mr. Huss' auto.

Yet that contrast hardly so much as hints at the change that has come over the country as a whole since that first trip.

Nothing since the revolution has altered America more profoundly than the automobile. Social customs, economic conditions, intellectual outlooks, circumstances under which people live and travel and perform their work—all have changed almost beyond recognition in less than three decades. The trip of this ancient one-cylinder car symbolizes the change.—NEA.

OUR OWN OIL EMBARGO

Mr. Hoover's Attorney General Thursday delivered to the President an opinion that the extraordinary powers of the tariff act do not extend to oil and its products. The opinion was produced by the requests of independent producers for an embargo on foreign imports of these products in order to aid the domestic petroleum industry, which is widely advertised as facing complete demoralization due to overproduction. Mr. Mitchell expressed the belief that the tariff act does not relate to the oil situation and that accordingly oil is not in the list of products concerning which congress has given powers to the President under the tariff law to limit or prohibit imports when an American industry is injured.

The ruling is easily understood. It is true that petroleum production in this country is under pressure of overproduction and that imports of petroleum and its products from abroad contribute to this overproduction. But since the existing tariff law has not included oil among the protected commodities, oil may not be consistently protected by an auxiliary device of the tariff law which is intended only to supplement the operation of direct protection by means of duties levied on imports. The effect of the Attorney General's ruling is, therefore, to emphasize, in the minds of those who sought a tariff on oil in the last congress, the need for such a tariff.

As a matter of fact, we already have or soon will have what is in effect an embargo on foreign oil without any presidential action. News dispatches from Venezuela report most of the large American companies engaged in marketing Venezuelan oil in the United States have joined in a movement for an agreement with the government there for a sharp reduction in the takings for export. It is pointed out that these companies can buy as much oil as they want in Texas at much lower cost than they can turn over Venezuelan oil at American points.

Obviously enough, such an "embargo" would cease to operate should prices in this country be increased to any considerable extent.—Star-Telegram.

Promoting Pulchritude

Starr, a Columbia university man, ascended from an obscure corner of a tabloid editorial room to the ranks of pulchritude promoters.

He is back in town looking after the interests of the three beauties rated highest in the 1931 Galveston spectacle, now in a glittering Broadway show.

The appearance of the girls in Earl Carroll's "Vanities" first was promised verbally. But Starr says when he learned the "Vanities" would not open before August, he refused to sign a written contract with Carroll and the girls were delivered to his rival.

One reason was because Netta Deuschateau of Belgium, "Miss Universe," was ordered by immigration authorities to go home temporarily by July 18. Starr wanted Broadway to see her before her departure.

Carroll, who formerly gave such prize beauties a big splurge, was hurried over this deprivation and, to quote Starr, "Carroll told me I was out of his life forever."

Weather reports from Newfoundland indicated the plane would encounter clear weather, a medium wind, and a full moon.

Both planes were undistinguishable because of the speed and great height at which they were flying. It appeared that both were following identical courses, but one was 40 miles behind the other.

Although the Cape Cod took off first, it was only a 300-horsepower motor as compared to the 500-horsepower motor in the Herndon and Pangborn plane.

BERLIN, July 29 (AP)—Germany's air police are keeping a watch on the progress of the two teams of American trans-Atlantic fliers, but up to 2 p. m. today there had been no word from them to the Tempelhof airfield.

The marine weather station at Staburg said the fliers should have tail winds practically the whole time during which they are in the air.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 29 (AP)—Dull weather conditions with poor visibility on the south and west coast awaited the trans-Atlantic fliers today.

Considerable rain fell during the night, according to reports from most points in the south and west.

Italy." The child was murdered by gang killers in an automobile; killers whose machine guns and shotguns poured between 50 and 60 slugs into the midst of playing children last night.

Four other tots, one in a baby carriage, were critically wounded by the gunmen in a reckless attempt to assassinate a man who had been lolling about the street in which the youngsters had been at play. The man, believed to be Joe Rao or his cousin, Vincent Rao, fell to the pavement and was unhurt. Slugs, however, found little Michael Vengali in a vital spot, and they dropped four of his companions.

Salvatore Vengali, 7-year-old brother of the dead boy, was wounded five times. He may die. Michael Bevilacqua, only three years old, who was in a baby carriage, was struck twice in the back by the slayers' slugs. He, too, may not survive. Florence D'Amelio, 12, was wounded in the shoulder, and Samuel Defino, 6, was shot in the left leg.

Orders were issued today for the arrest of Vincent Coll, leader of one of two gangs fighting for control of the beer business in Harlem and the Bronx. Police said they doubted their earlier theory that the attempted assassination was in connection in any way with the beer war, but they offered no other possible explanation.

Detectives, who were ordered into the territory by the score last night and early today, got little help from those who witnessed the shooting. None of the parents, stricken by terror, would offer any help.

also stated "they have turned loose Pat Neff on us." He did not state why "they" were. Terrell said he did not know whether the governor liked him or not, but rather thought he did. Who Smith meant by "they" Terrell said he was not informed. He denied any knowledge of the statement before it was issued. Only two weeks remain after today and no work has been done on new laws strengthening the oil conservation powers of the regulatory commission. Investigating is the only thing the legislature has done, but information gleaned from the separate inquiries in the house and senate may expedite the enactment of new laws. This was the tenth day of the house inquiry while the senate examination began a week ago.

Brachfield Questioned

C. L. Brachfield of Henderson, president of the East Texas Lease, Royalty and Producers association, was one of the house witnesses yesterday. He was questioned closely concerning the whereabouts of Carl Estes of Tyler, secretary of the association. Estes was a leader in the East Texas fight against prorations. Brachfield said he understood Estes was ill. He stated he did not believe Estes would hide to keep from testifying. Governor Ross S. Sterling yesterday reappeared before the senate at his own request to explain a business transaction between himself and the Humble Oil company. He said the Humble gave him $175,000 as a bonus on a lease he owned. The company was slow in continuing development and advanced to him $225,000 on royalties, he testified. If the Humble does not get its money back in the development that is its concern as a matter of business and not his, the governor said. The transaction occurred in January, 1930. It had been brought into the testimony previously.

PLANS CONTINUED FOR LAWN FETE OF FRIDAY EVENING

MISS VINCENT TO ENTERTAIN WITH DANCES

Plans are practically complete for the community lawn fete to be held Friday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. Purviance under the direction of the Music Week committee.

An attractive feature of the entertainment will be a group of interpretative dances by Miss Catherine Vincent, local dancing teacher and entertainer, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. May Foreman Carr.

Miss Vincent will give a scari dance, a Spanish number, and Bolero, all in costume. Selections which she is to interpret include Bolero (Ravel), Caro Nome from Rigoletto (Verdi) and popular waltzes.

Mrs. Carr will direct the women's chorus in the absence of Mrs. W. S. Wetman, who has been called away because of the illness of her father. Mrs. Ramon Wilson and Mrs. Thelma Perkins will assist at the piano.

Other numbers will be given by the Collegians, a group of ten musicians organized this summer, an instrumental trio composed of Joe Kahl, Albert Doucette, and Charles Thomas; John Sturgeon, popular baritone and pianist, a quartet composed of Mr. Sturgeon, DeLena Vicars, Mrs. W. A. Bratton, and Lorena Bastion, and expression pupils of Mrs. Helen Turner.

There will be no admission charge, but refreshments will be sold with Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts assisting.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Hollye Sellers Hinkle

"I can't swim, I just paddle around and have a good time," apologized a young visitor, Miss June Jones of Chickasha, Okla., when she went with a local group to Miami on a swimming party last night.

But what stories members of that swimming party are telling this morning! "Our eyes nearly popped out. When we were still on the bank trying to get our toes warm in the water, she jumped right in, cold as it was. And she swam the length of the pool five times without resting and without being tired when she finally stopped."

How did she get such skill? "When I was a little girl," she said, "my father threw me into deep water and told me to swim out. I did. And I have been swimming ever since."

Yes, she is an Indian girl, tall and slender, with black hair (bobbed) and dark eyes and complexion. She was a guest at the swimming party attended by Mary Patton, Bonnie Patton, Georgia Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chastain, Lloyd Moore, Russell Kennedy, and Ralph Poe.

Are you going on a highway vacation this summer? If so, Carrie Kittell in the Household Magazine gives you some valuable suggestions.

Miss Kittell is a booster of cabin camps. A desirable cabin, she describes as follows:

"Furnishings will be scanty but sufficient: a bed, chairs, a dresser with mirror, electric lights, shelves cupboard, a table, a stove, and a sink. Crockery or some wash drapery will be at the windows, matching the bedspread. In a room like this, dirt and germs cannot hide. . . . You are always welcome to use the bath-house and the cool, restful grounds. The camp proprietor will let you use his telephone and will give you ice cubes from his electric refrigerator to cool your drinking water."

"A reduction in price is made if you have your own bedding. A couple of army blankets, a cotton bed blanket, and some comfortable soft pillows, (which may be slipped into white cases at night) take up little room on the car's back seat."

"Few cabins are equipped with dishes and cooking utensils, but you can prepare and serve good, simple meals with a limited outfit. . . . Do not forget your can opener."

GOOD RECORDS MADE BY GRAY COUNTY GIRLS

Numerous outstanding records have been made by Gray county 4-H club girls, according to Miss Myrtle Miller, home demonstration agent. The girls are now at work on articles to be exhibited in the Gray County Free fair of September.

Jewel Fay McCormick, 18, of Pampa, has been especially successful in poultry raising. Her sale of hens, pullets, and eggs between January and June range from $22.56 to $31.41 per month. Her feed record shows expenditures of from $5 to $9.50 per month. At the beginning of the year she had 230 pullets and 31 hens.

Miss McCormick has canned 36 glasses of cherries and seven glasses of jelly this year. Her food preparation has included a number of complete meals as well as interesting dishes of various types.

As for sewing, she has made three slips, four dresses, one bonnet, a suit of pajamas, two pants, a hat, six house dresses and other articles. She has placed new curtains in her bedroom, has hung new pictures, and has finished the woodwork.

Joe Iva Clemmons, 17, of Alanreed, is one of the most outstanding girl gardeners of the county. She has raised cabbage, pepper, tomatoes, English peas, black eyed peas, mustard, lettuce, turnips, beans, spinach, sage, okra, cucumbers, strawberries, and flowers. She has canned two quarts of preserves and three quarts of pickles.

Her food preparation has included yeast bread, sour cream dressing, salad, french dressing, and sandwiches.

She has made curtains, a pillow slip, and a cup towel.

Exterior improvements include caring for two vines, four shrubs, two trees, and flowers.

At the beginning of this year Ruby Lee Jones, 12, of Pampa, had 18 chickens, English white leghorns and Rhode Island reds, which she valued at $78. Five of the hens have died since that time. There have been 58 chicks hatched.

Ruby Lee's sale of pullets and eggs each month ranged from $11.10 to $7.50.

Her food preparation includes carrot salads, cooked salad dressings, bread twice a day, cheese and spinach loaves, nine cakes, 16 pies, bread puddings, cottage cheese dishes and spinach cream. She prepared two meals a day since the close of school and has made complete menus for a week.

In addition to these things, she has completed work on a dressing table and has made one towel, one pillow slip, one curtain, two slips, three dresses, and one slip.

Exterior improvements made by Ruby Lee include setting out five kinds of flowers, planting a screen of vines, and caring for shrubbery.

The Secret of Slenderness Is Given Here--In Only Three Lessons

FIRST--GO BICYCLING A FEW MILES

NEXT--TRY TO DO THIS FIFTY TIMES

THEN--TOUCH YOUR TOES (BUT DON'T BEND YOUR KNEES)

Here's the secret of a movie actress' slender figure: First, lying on your back, go through the motions of pedaling a bicycle, to reduce both ankles and thighs. Then, standing, bend to the floor 50 times.

Third, seated, touch toes with fingers (without bending the knees) to straighten line from knee to thigh. And that, on the word of Frances Dee, ought to give you a figure as trim as hers.

FUNCTION ON LAWN TO BE GIVEN HERE

Several members of the First Methodist church will be honored at a lawn party to be attended tomorrow evening by members of the Friendship class, the Brotherhood class, the class taught by Mrs. Philip Wolfe, and their families. The lawn of the Sherman White home will be the place of entertainment.

Honor guests for the occasion will be Springer, his daughter, Verna, and Smith, and Mrs. J. W. Ferguson, all of whom are leaving Pampa, and Mrs. Carson Loftus, former teacher of the Friendship class.

Guests are asked to be at the White home at 8:15 o'clock.

The total property investment in steam railroads of the United States exceeds $26,000,000,000.

B. & P. W. CLUB IS ENTERTAINED TUESDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Frank Allison was winner of high score and Mrs. Audrey Fowler high relations banquet and a members of the Pampa Business and Professional Women's club Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. F. M. Foster. The new president, Miss Clara Lee Shewmaker, was co-hostess.

Miss Aurelia Miller, delegate to the recent national convention of Business and Professional Women's clubs in Richmond, gave an interesting account of her trip. A public relations and banquet and a pageant, she said, were outstanding entertainment features of the convention.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Davis Will Set Railroad Meeting

Vacation trips being made by several members of the railroad right-of-way committee caused postponement of a meeting scheduled for yesterday afternoon.

Return of Mel Davis, general chairman, is expected today or tomorrow and date for the meeting will be set after he arrives. Mr. Davis and family have been vacationing in New Mexico and Colorado. Other members of the committee are absent from the city.

Before the right-of-way can be purchased for the Fort Worth and Denver line from Childress to Pampa half of the amount needed to buy it must be raised. The plans for raising the remainder of the fund as soon as possible.

Better Business Is Seen by Speakers

That business conditions are on a definite upturn was the substance of talks made before the Rotary club today by Dan Gribbon and Julian Barrett. The low mark has been reached in general conditions and there has been a slow but steady climbing of stocks, production, and car loadings and shipping since the first of 1931.

Mr. Gribbon discussed the oil situation, expressing the belief that something would be done by the legislature or some other agency in the near future to cut down the oil production in the big producing areas. This, he said, would bring the price back to a paying basis.

In the stock market, values hit their lowest level in December, and though they have fluctuated considerably since, they have not been so low. Manufacturing has taken on an increased activity, which will help business conditions.

Visitors today included W. H. Curry, Gerald Walker, of Holdenville, Ark., and Bob Brashers.

When a German policeman attempted to stop a Communist brass band, two of them were killed by blows with trombones.

FOUR HUNDRED TROUT CAUGHT

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Waller, Mrs. R. H. Waller and Dr. J. W. Head returned Monday from New Mexico where they spent the past week fishing. Manuel Lucera of Taos, N. M., guided the party across the mountains to a lake where few people ever go, according to Dr. Waller.

More than 400 trout were caught during the trip. Some of the fish were packed in ice and brought back to Pampa.

Mrs. R. H. Waller is a sister of Mrs. C. E. Waller.

Dr. Head lives in Borger.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Douglass Return

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Douglass and daughter, Mary Lou, have returned after a two-week vacation trip in Arkansas and Oklahoma. In Broken Arrow, Okla., they were guests of Mrs. Douglas's sister, Mrs. Roy Wood, and family, and in Van Buren, Ark., they visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Roark. They also visited friends in Drumright and Bristow, Okla.

MEASURE TO PROTECT BUFFALOES IS PASSED

AUSTIN, July 29. (AP)—The Texas senate turned today momentarily from its investigation of the oil industry to permit the submission of a bill designed to protect the few surviving buffaloes in the state.

The bill, by Sen. Charles S. Gainer of Bryan, would make it unlawful to "kill, sell, or transport" buffaloes and would give the state game, fish, and oyster commission regulatory authority.

Plans to Sponsor Picture Will Be Made at Meeting

Plans for sponsoring "The Southerner," picture to appear at La Nora theater August 6 and 7, were made by the woman's auxiliary of the Episcopal church at a meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. William M. Craven. Proceeds will be used for the church building fund. Ticket sales will begin this afternoon.

"The Southerner" stars Lawrence Tibbett, metropolitan opera singer. Mr. Tibbett, in the picture, leads a chorus of 100 voices in singing.

The beautiful Esther Ralston has the leading feminine role.

Written by Bees Meredith and Wells Root, the story portrays the life of an aristocratic old southern family.

Family differences cause the hero, who takes the part of a prodigal son, to leave his home and become a wanderer. A longing to see his mother prompts him to return home for a glimpse of her. He meets Antonio, his brother, and the brother's disillusioned and unhappy wife, and falls in love with the girl. Still more complications follow.

The cast includes, besides the hero and heroine, Hedda Hopper, Roland Young, Cliff Edwards, and some well-known negro characters.

Many songs and choruses are introduced, based on situations arising naturally.

E. B. Stephenson and son Lester Stephenson, were (mis)led from Pampa hospital yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Roupe of Kingsmill are the proud parents of a son born at Pampa hospital yesterday.

WEATHERFORD GIRL BECOMES BRIDE OF PRINCE TODAY; MARRIAGE IS SOLEMNIZED IN LONDON

LONDON, July 29. (AP)—Miss Aleene McFarland, daughter of Mrs. Charles McFarland of New York and Weatherford, Texas, was married at noon today to Prince Johann von und zu Lichtenstein, a member of the reigning house of the principality of Lichtenstein.

The ceremony was performed at the church of Our Lady of Assumption, in London's west end.

It was a quiet service, with no flowers, no organ music and no choir. Father Waterkeyn, rector of the church, officiated.

The ceremony was witnessed by only a few friends of the bride and bridegroom, but outside the church a considerable crowd gathered, hoping to catch a glimpse of the prince and his pretty young American bride.

A number of newspaper photographers were in the crowd, but the couple escaped them by slipping through the presbytery at the back of the church, and the arrival became known to those outside.

The prince and his bride related, however, and were persuaded to leave by the front entrance.

Miss McFarland wore a green ensemble, with close fitting hat to match, and a silver fox fur. The bridegroom was in morning attire.

DALLAS OPENS LONG HOME STAY IN WIN OVER BEAUMONT

BATTLE FOR SECOND BERTH NOT SO HOT

'Insiders' Declare Steers to Be Playing Best Ball of Texas Circuit.

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The up and going Dallas Steers, alleged by the "insiders" to be playing the best pennant-winning baseball in the Texas circuit today, took up where the Houston Buffaloes left off by defeating the Beaumont crew Tuesday night 11 to 3. It was the opening of a 16-game home stay for the Steers, and put plenty of daylight between the Steers and Exporters in their battle for second place.

George "Tarheel" Murray got off to a bad start when a couple of unfortunate breaks allowed the Exporters to score twice in the first inning, but after getting over this frame, the husky Dallas right hander settled down and chalked up his 14th victory of the year. Like Hamilton started for the Exporters but gave it up as a bad job after allowing nine hits and eight runs in four and one-third innings. Green worked as relief man, giving up six hits and five runs the remainder of the game.

FIRST FOALS MAKE POOR HORSES? LOOK AT THE MATE!

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Race horse breeders around here are not as certain as they once were that first foals seldom develop into first class racing machines.

The season is the great triumph this year of A. C. Bostwick's Mate, the twice-conqueror of Twenty Grand.

Mate is the first foal of Killashandra, brood mare quartered near Lexington. When Mate was born three years ago, it is admitted he was an ungainly, feeble foal found among theseobreds.

Yet this same ungainly first colt developed into a sleek three-year-old which this year dashed through to three brilliant victories, and is likely to become one of the great money-winners of all time.

Already Mate is in the list, and stands a fine chance of moving up to third or fourth place before the end of the 1931 season.

Mate's purse of $73,650 from the Arlington classic brought his earnings for the year up to $173,650, and his total winnings as a two-year-old and a three-year-old to $232,775.

He had previously won the Preckness and the American derby and took third money in the Kentucky derby.

A. C. Bostwick's Mate did more than startle the spectators when he ran away from Twenty Grand in the Arlington classic. He costumed race horse breeders who claim the first foals seldom are top-notch performers. Mate is the first son of Killashandra, Kentucky brood mare.

Player Is Injured

Elton "Slam" Sam Langford, Dallas left fielder, continued his consecutive game hitting streak, getting a brace of bingles to make the twenty-first game in which he has hit consecutively. In the eighth inning, Holley, Beaumont second baseman, was hit on the head by a pitched ball and was out for five minutes. He was carried from the field, but his injury was not serious and he is expected to play in Wednesday night's game.

While the Steers were making their mad drive for the second half pennant, the Houston Buffaloes, who tied for the first half and are leading the final heat, continued on their merry way, plastering a 6 to 0 defeat on the Shreveport Sports.

The Sports, opening a new home clay, sent Lee to the mound, and while the Buffaloes did not hit him hard, they kept pecking at his mound offerings until they had collected ten hits for six runs.

Pistol Pete Fowler had one of his good nights—so good that he unwillingly gave Shreveport five scattered hits. Bud Radloff, who is making a determined drive to out-Buck Stanton as the Sports's leading hitter, got two of the five hits. It was Fowler's eighth triumph this season.

Castoff Is Loser
For once in the history of baseball, cast-off players did not get their revenge when the Fort Worth Cats whipped Galveston 9 to 2. Andy Bednar, former Fort Worth hurler, pitched for Galveston and was pounded for 16 hits, which allowed the Cats to score in all but three innings. Larry Cox, another Fort Worth player, had his troubles in left field, where most of the Cats' hits fell.

Dick "Control" McCabe went the route for Fort Worth, and not once was he in trouble. He cashed in on his sixteenth victory this year.

In an eleven-inning battle at Wichita Falls, the San Antonio Indians defeated the Spudders 9 to 8 when Pinky Higgins singled, stole second and scored on Edwars' single in the eleventh. The Spudders had tied the score with a three-run rally in the ninth. Bob Samuinet, San Antonio center fielder, hit a pair of home runs.

Joe Shield Not to Obtain Clemency From Governor

AUSTIN, July 29. (AP)—Execution of Joe Shield just after midnight tomorrow night will not be stopped by executive action unless Gov. Ross S. Sterling changes his mind. The governor said late yesterday he did not plan to commute the Brown county killer's sentence to life imprisonment.

Shield killed his estranged wife and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Shield. He pleaded insanity. Half of the jurors who sentenced Shield to death asked the governor for commutation, stating considerable evidence of insanity had been offered.

The killing occurred in the Brooksmith community. Feeling there was high and Shield was spirited to another county. Shield was convicted of the murder of his wife. He had not been tried on the other two charges.

Lloyd George Has Survived Operation

LONDON, July 29. (AP)—David Lloyd George, leader of the liberal party and former prime minister, was operated on today for a kidney ailment.

It was understood that the operation, which was performed in his London home, was successful.

All members of the family arrived at the house over night, and during the operation they sat in a room adjoining the bedroom in which the surgeon worked.

The former prime minister's son, Major Lloyd George, said the patient had a good night. "The condition before the operation was satisfactory," the major explained, "and in the circumstances he was quite cheery."

Storms to Lessen Tremendous Heat

By The Associated Press.

Beginning its day by sweltering under a summer wave which has held some localities in its deadly grip for almost a week, the nation looked forward eagerly today for promises of general relief to materialize.

In most sections storms and cooler winds were predicted for today or tomorrow.

The southwest and certain sections of the east and northeast seemed doomed to bake beneath unseasonably high temperatures until at least another day.

As in few summers, the upper half of the North American continent was suffering more than its share of summer troubles. In the state of Washington disastrous forest fires are raging. Grasshoppers are bringing terrible destruction to the middle northwest, their hordes moving up into Manitoba and Alberta.

As though grasshoppers were not enough, the wheat rust was severely infecting Manitoba crops. Around Aberdeen, S. D., where no rain has fallen for some time, the corn is practically dried up and the crop is almost a total loss.

Abnormal temperatures and freakish weather conditions have also weakened havoc with human life. More than 75 have died because of the heat. Most of these fatalities were in the Imperial valley where mercury has soared as high as 126.

GAS FRANCHISE RENEWED
MORRIS, Okla., July 29. (AP)—The municipality renewed its gas franchise with the Oklahoma National Gas corporation in an election yesterday. The vote was 288 to 45 in favor of the proposal, which provides a rate of 48 cents a thousand cubic feet, the same as that paid under the old contract which became obsolete a year ago when the supreme court held unconstitutional the revocable permit law.

'GIRL OF HIS DREAMS' Actress Starts 9-Year-Old Toward Fame

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Many nine-year-old boys are admirers of Norma Talmadge, and so is Richard Weiss, but for a different reason.

To Miss Talmadge and Joe Turnesa, Richard owes his classification as a golf prodigy at nine.

For young Richard shoots less than 100 about every third trip around 18 holes, and is satisfied with his game. He drives 150 yards regularly, with a smooth, easy stroke, and seldom gets into the rough.

When he was five years old, Richard was given his first clubs by the actress, while Turnesa tailored them to fit and gave the lad his first instructions.

The boy's father, Harry H. Weiss, was running a movie house in Mount Vernon, N. Y., where Miss Talmadge made a personal appearance in connection with one of her pictures. When she returned to her dressing room she found young Richard had pulled one of her clubs from the bag and was taking hefty swings at an imaginary ball.

The following day Richard watched Miss Talmadge, his father and some friends play a mixed foursome. The actress allowed the boy to hit several balls and gave him her clubs after a poor round. Turnesa, a spectator, offered to cut the clubs down for Richard.

Playing over a strange course in Miami, where he now lives, young Weiss earned 104 for 18 holes. Once during the round he got into the rough, twice his ball fell into traps near the greens, but both times made beautiful mashie shots onto the green. A pair of sevens were his worst holes.

Airplanes Used in 'Hopper' Fight

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 29. (AP)—Aerial warfare, with airplanes spreading poison mash over cornfields threatened by an army of grasshoppers, was in prospect for Western Iowa farmers today.

The horde which leveled fields in Nebraska and South Dakota has also done great damage to Western Iowa crops and constitutes a growing menace to the entire state, entomologists asserted here.

State officials have adopted a tentative plan for combating the plague, but agricultural experts will work out details. The state will furnish poison bran to be spread on waste lands and highways, and the poison will be sold at wholesale prices to farmers in the infected areas.

Arrangements were being made today to secure bids for use of airplanes to "dust" fields with the poison mash. County agents and specialists from Iowa State college at Ames announced that a meeting will be held tomorrow at Missouri Valley or Mondakinn and that similar conferences will follow at other points in the hopper areas.

Sheriff's Slayer Is Widely Sought

TEXARKANA, Ark., July 29. (AP)—Sheriff Walter Harris of Miller county was dead, victim of a liquor still attendant's bullet, and one or more men were being sought today by police in connection with the shooting.

Sheriff Harris was shot as he led a party of officers toward a liquor still at Eoyd, eight miles southeast of Texarkana.

An 18-year-old negro youth who, a deputy said, was shot by Sheriff Harris when he disobeyed orders to stop and then made a lunge as if for a gun was in a critical condition at a Texarkana hospital.

The youth denied he was employed at the still, saying he had gone there for a drink.

Ben Branch, deputy sheriff walking with Harris at the time of the shooting, said he was fired upon by an unidentified person in hiding.

Incensed citizens began a thorough search of the whole section shortly after the shooting.

MANY CHINESE DROWN

SHANGHAI, July 29. (AP)—Vast areas of Central China were under water today, hundreds, perhaps thousands, were dead and the prices of foodstuffs soared thirty per cent in many cities as the result of one of the worst floods in 60 years. Crops were severely damaged, preying a terrible famine during the coming fall and winter.

Miss June Jones of Chickasha, Okla., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Ernest McDuffie.

LIQUOR CASE SET
CORPUS CHRISTI, July 29. (AP)—Trial of Royal Goodwin, Gus Jessup, and Joe Jackson on liquor charges was to begin in Judge T. M. Kennedy's federal court here today. The defendants were alleged to have been the custodians of an unusually large cache of smuggled liquor seized by customs officers near Beville last spring. Efforts were being made to extradite Marvin J. "Big Jim" Clark from Canada for prosecution in connection with the same case.

Mrs. Raymond Eveslove and daughter, Sue Lynn, are visiting Mrs. Eveslove's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Nance.

CHAPMAN AND WEBB MAKE FINE MARKS

Base Thief Breaks Record of Last 5 Years; Doubles Goal in Sight.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

A couple of "rising stars" of the American league may or may not surpass the records they seem to be aiming at, but while Earl Webb of the Boston Red Sox and Ben Chapman of the New York Yankees are shooting for new marks in two-base hits and in stolen bases they are proving very helpful to their teams.

Webb clouted two doubles yesterday to bring his total for the season up to 47. He is only 17, short of the major league record of 64 set by George Burns of Cleveland in 1926 and has 60 games left on the schedule in which to get them. To the "rising star" Webb added two singles for a "perfect" day at bat which made him one of the big factors in Boston's 6 to 1 triumph over the Detroit Tigers. The other was the pitching of Horace Lisenbee, who held his rivals to three hits.

Yanks Are Beaten
Stolen base No. 41 by Chapman was of little assistance to the Yanks yesterday when the Chicago White Sox staged an eighth-inning uprising that drove three Yankee pitchers to cover, netted 11 runs and won the game 14 to 12 after the Yanks had gained a 12-3 lead. Chappie still is far short of Ty Cobb's modern base stealing mark of 96 but he already has completed more thefts than any American league player in the past five years.

Al Simmons was the big part of the show at Philadelphia, where the Athletics maintained their 11-game lead over Washington by downing St. Louis, 6 to 3. Simmons started the winning rally in the eighth with his 15th homer of the season and gave Bob Grove, who had relieved Earnshaw, his 21st pitching victory. In a like manner, Joe Cronin of Washington came to the aid of Sad Sam Jones, who Jones pitched a six-hit game against Cleveland. Cronin helped bring the count up to 8 to 1 by clearing the bases with a triple in the fifth inning, in which the Senators scored five runs.

Braves Need Out
The Boston Braves put up another great battle against the St. Louis Cardinals, leaders of the National league, but lost by a 1 to 0 count. Tom Zachary was the hero although he gave only six hits to eight off Jess Haines.

Aided by home runs by Blair and Kempie, the Chicago Cubs held second place by beating the Phillies 6 to 3. The New York Giants clung to their place a half game behind by downing the Pittsburgh Pirates 6 to 2.

Brooklyn dropped a game behind its three rivals as the Cincinnati Reds took a 5 to 4 decision with a ninth-inning rally.

Merchant Given Story in Magazine

How a Texas Store "Cashed In" on Unusual Advertising, is the title of an interview with Joseph Lazarus, owner of the Pampa Brown-bills shoe store, published in this week's issue of the RECORDER, national shoe weekly.

The article is the leading one in the magazine and covers seven columns. A photograph of Mr. Lazarus accompanies the story. The interview was obtained about a month ago by a representative of the magazine. It is based on Mr. Lazarus' advertising theory that "the public is most interested in what people are doing than in what merchants are saying," and that advertising "should play up what others are doing instead of what merchants are saying."

Mr. Lazarus established his store here Sept. 5, 1930. He has advertised almost exclusively in the NEWS-POST since then, and, he says, with gratifying results. One "unusual" series of ads was carried in connection with the NEWS-POST's cooking school. Last winter when the Welfare Board, of which Mr. Lazarus is a member, needed shoes for charity cases, he gave 10 per cent discount on a new pair of shoes to persons who would leave their old shoes for the Board.

Mr. Lazarus came from a family of shoe merchants back to his great grandfather. He worked in his father's shoe store in Omaha when a boy. His greatest ambition ever since he can remember, he said, was to own a shoe store.

DYKES' GRIP IS ALL WRONG— BUT CAN HE PEG THAT BALL!

Here's a lesson to the kids on how not to become a big league baseball player: That is, to try to peg the ball across the infield with the grip illustrated above by Jimmy Dykes, versatile infielder of the champion Philadelphia Athletics. However, it is precisely the hold used by Jimmy for his bullet-like throws. It's just one of those natural wonders like the heavy slugging of "Water Bulker" Al Simmons.

MOON OF DELIGHT

by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: Juanita Basara hides her past, selling cigars in Divitt's gambling place. The veil of her costume gives her security, and Divitt, his wife, Moly, Conchita and her sons, Corbato, treat her kindly. As for Umberto, Gabriela protects her from him. Eric Leckner, at the resort with Adrian Fouche, Mrs. Belaise and Kirk Stamass, her grandmother, tries to fear off Juanita's veil. She evades him, trembling because she has just seen Sister Basara of Mexico join the party. Through a trick Divitt secures Mrs. Belaise's necklace and next day sends Juanita, introduced as Señora Flores, to return it, saying she had found it. The delighted Mrs. Belaise is disappointed when the girl refuses a reward. Kirk asks Juanita to allow him to call on her. When he sees her at the hotel, he brings a ring belonging to his late mother, Mrs. Belaise, said to resemble Juanita's.

Chapter 13
A TARNISHED TITLE.
The Marquesa Carlota de Lutz y Cabrera took the seat that Divitt mentioned her to and accepted a chair.
"Well, Spike, I get your note," Divitt opened the door, turned to the Marquesa. "Must I tell you again not to call me that," he asked. "Do I call you 'Craps'?"
The Marquesa shook her head, a head that would have been ironed and her hair dyed to more than his pristine blackness. Her roguish face with its heavy nose and fine black eyes lit with a smile, not without charm, not without irony.
"Excuse, I will remember. When we say 'Spike' so long, the tongue makes the word itself. Four notes say to come. I hope you are going to pay me the money I lose on your roulette wheel."
"It was not my fault that you came here to play," said Divitt. "I hadn't even known you were in New Orleans."
"I didn't come to play roulette. I came to talk to you. When you see me you act like you don't know me. Oh, I understand— with a slight dismissing gesture. "But when you will not talk, I play roulette and lose. I have to have some to take me back to Spain."
"I'll talk to you now," said Divitt. "But cut out that 'Spike' business. What did you do after they raided us in Philadelphia? Soon as I knew what was up I gave you all the money and you went shinning up the fire escape. What did you do after that?"
"I go over to Jersey. I become a Gypsy and tell fortunes. I make money—enough to take me back to Spain."
"You didn't care what happened to me, did you?"
"Yes, I ask about you all round. At last I am old you are in New Orleans, so I say to myself, 'I can sail for Spain from there, and see him too.' . . . Was that your wife, that curly head? . . . I never would marry, Mister Divitt, I pass before any woman can make you forget yourself enough."
"She is pretty like a curly doll. And she fix up this place, they say. Ver' different from our place in Philadelphia. Yes, I know. But I would not have come here to sail for Spain. And eef you need me I would not have sail for Spain. I did anyhow, like I must have, like I less my money to you. I ought know better than play roulette. But I tell myself I know the trick."
"Tricks are not the same," said Divitt, watching her.
"It was not protestations of devotion that he wished from the Marquesa, but merely to remind her of certain cards he held. . . . Now she was now—? 49? . . . She had changed somewhat since that evening five years ago when he had watched her vanish up the fire-escape.
In her role of enchantress, she had always been partial to red. He had rather liked it—bulbous, but days, Moly had given him a subtler sense—in decoration and in women's clothes.
"Perhaps it was with this sense that he now saw the Marquesa. Perhaps she had not really changed. Yes, she was fatter—bulbous, but the word. And tobacco was making her teeth ugly, and her fingers. Yet she was not alone in these disfigurements, would not be impaired for the thing he had in mind.
The Marquesa was talking. She had a pretty blurring accent, like Juanita's.
"When you say that night you do not need me and will not talk, I go back to palm reading. It is not so good here as in New Jersey. There are too many."
"So you've been reading palms the month you've been here."
"Odd, that. She had been reading palms that first time he had seen her in the little back-street hotel in Philadelphia, reading them in the lobby for fun, telling people all sorts of things about the future, their wives, husbands and affluities.
Divitt had not had his hand read, but he had stood watching the Marquesa in her wine-colored dress and great Moorish earrings, waiting until the crowd withdrew to the dining room. He had talked with her then, discovering that her powers of divination had not served to avert calamities in her own case. The small fortune she had brought to America was gone. She had pawned everything she had except her heavy crescent-shaped earrings with dull red stones. . . . Divitt wondered now if she had pawned the earrings since. She had not pawned them then.
When he knew her better his newly laid plans for their work together appeared to her. Stressing its possibilities of wealth, he had learned in time that the Marquesa loved danger as well. It was of this that he was thinking when he had written her to come.
The Marquesa leaned toward him. "You need me here?"
"Perhaps. But if people know you already as a fortune-teller."
"They will not remember. I am so dismal. Like a Gypsy."
"This is ticklish business," said Divitt. "High society, and all that."

OIL INDUSTRY EXPECTED TO REGAIN STABILITY SLOWLY

Favorable Factors Pointed Out by A. P. Writer—Crude Stocks Diminished.

By BENNETT WOLFE
Associated Press Staff Writer
TULSA, Okla., July 29. (AP)—Striped of excess weight the oil industry may reasonably expect to pull itself from the bog of depression or at least make a good start in that direction before the year ends.
Such a view, inspired by recent encouraging developments, is gaining ground in midcontinent oil circles. The upswing of the crude petroleum market and improvement of the industry's statistical position have been the major notes of cheer.
Contributing to the more favorable outlook is the industry's physical condition. Operating expenses have been reduced, saner producing and marketing programs adopted, and many other economies effected, putting the industry in a position to forge forward when the turning point arrives.
Progress Expected
The Oil and Gas Journal will say this week, in a semi-annual review, that the industry "should be able at least to start on its way out of the woods during the coming half year."
"This is not a period of undue optimism," the Journal will continue, "but it would be unwise to overlook the constructive factors at work within the industry and what they have been accomplishing toward stabilizing production and demand particularly during the last six months in the face of the East Texas stampede."
The liquidation of excess stocks, the lesson learned by producers and refiners from the experience of reckless production in East Texas forcing prices down to a worthless level, and the indications of a better demand at a living price during the remainder of the season encourage the hope of substantial improvement from now on.
Rainbow Doctrine Dies
"It has taken the industry in general a long time to get away from the idea that production meant profit, hunting for the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. More progress was made, except in East Texas, toward actual stabilization of

Would Oust Lone Star Gas Company

WAURIKA, Okla., July 29. (AP)—A fight to oust the Lone Star Gas company of Texas and two of its distributing companies from the state of Oklahoma was launched here yesterday when Earl Pruet, Jefferson county attorney, filed a petition in district court alleging unfair and exorbitant rates were being charged by the concern in Waurika and other municipalities in the county.
The distributing companies named are the Guthrie Gas Service and the Community Natural Gas. The petition alleges that a rate of 20 cents a hundred cubic feet, a basis of $2 a thousand feet for the first 600 feet and 75 cents a thousand for the next 19,400 feet, was being charged in this county to offset a loss sustained by the Guthrie Gas Service at Guthrie, where the rate is 43 cents a thousand.
The Guthrie Gas Service recently lowered its rate at Guthrie to 49 cents in a franchise fight with the Western Service company, Oklahoma City, which was granted a franchise recently for 45 cents and voluntarily lowered the figure to 44 cents.
Mandamus action by the Guthrie company in the state supreme court is pending against Mayor H. T. Anderson of Guthrie and City Clerk Edna Austin in connection with the failure of city officials to call an election after filing of a franchise election petition.
South Dakota's game and fish commission is adding 13 artificial lakes, totaling 10,000 acres, to the state's water area.
Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs, one of the biggest disappointments of the 1931 baseball season, has no alibi to offer for his poor showing.

Texas and Pacific Railroad Is Sued

PALO PINTO, July 29. (AP)—W. A. Tunstall, of Fort Worth, filed a $1,548,000 damage suit against the Texas and Pacific railroad in district court here yesterday. The petition alleges $345,000 direct and $1,000,000 exemplary damages.
He claimed breach of contract wherein it was allegedly intended to develop oil and gas lands in Ward and Ector counties held by the railroad. The petition alleges that Tunstall and the railroad company entered into a contract providing for the acquisition by Tunstall from the state of Texas of the fee to the right-of-way land.
Subsequently the railroad asserted that it already owned the fee. Tunstall alleged that the claim and the ensuing litigation destroyed the value of his contract. He said that the litigation arose at a time when there was extensive development in West Texas for oil and gas on both sides of the land.

Amos 'n Andy Quoted at Tent

Blame Amos 'n Andy for this. A resident of "tent city" in southwest Pampa this morning decided the best way to prove to Chief J. I. Downs and Mrs. W. H. Davis, welfare worker, that he did not have the beer a neighbor said he had, was to invite them to examine the floor of his tent. Doesn't everybody know that beer vendors are under a "stash" in the floor?
"Come on," he said, "have a look under the magnolium!"
"The what?" demanded the chief.
"Oh, that's what Amos 'n Andy call it."
No beer was found.

Another Victory For Famous Herb Juice

"About four years ago I was in a pretty bad shape," reports Mr. J. E. Farline. "Unless I took a strong laxative every night my bowels would not move and the continued use of laxatives kept me up every day with headaches, dizziness, spots before my eyes, and my legs and arms felt as though they were asleep. Up on the recommendations of my friends, I used two bottles of Herb Extract, and to my surprise and relief all signs of my trouble passed away. Now I can eat anything at all hours and my stomach is in perfect condition."
Mr. Farline's case is typical of the amazing reports that come in daily to the headquarters of the Herb Juice Corporation, at Dallas. This company has hundreds of recent letters from men and women, old and young, who sing the praises of this medicine and recommend it to all sufferers. Get a bottle of your drug store. Thornton Blasts Out Oil Blaze

DUMAS, July 29. (AP)—The third attempt of Tex Thornton, oil fire fighter, was successful in snuffing out the blaze at the No. 1 Jones well, 12 miles northeast of Dumas which caught from an unknown source last Sunday afternoon.
After the twisted derrick and the machinery had been cleared away from the well, and workmen had constructed a mile of water line Thornton "shot" the burning well with explosives twice yesterday afternoon, but each time the well caught again within a few minutes.
Thornton and the owner, Sam Vanderweide were standing over the hole after the first shot when the well caught a second time from blowing embers. A strong wind blew the blaze away from them and they escaped injury.

TYLER, July 29. (AP)—The blazing Vitex Oil company well near Overton was extinguished today by B. F. DeLong and S. W. Benninger, oil well fire fighters. All available water facilities were turned on the well, which had been blazing for about three weeks, and the cap put into place, bringing the producer into complete control.
Mrs. J. R. Lee and sons, Clall and Dale, of Paradise, Ariz., and Mrs. W. H. Click and daughter, Nadine, of Rodeo, N. M., who have been visiting Mrs. Katie Vincent and family, returned to their homes yesterday. They have also been visiting friends in other parts of Texas.

Aerial View of Ruins Where Many Died

The fire-blackened ruins of the Home of the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor at Pittsburgh, Pa., where 26 inmates lost their lives and approximately 260 were injured when trapped in a raging fire that swept through the 55-year-old structure, are shown in this striking aerial picture. Many of the crippled and bed-ridden victims, all past 60 years of age, were burned to death in their cots.

Hoover and Red Cross Chairman Confer on Jobless

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—President Hoover today summoned Chairman Payne of the American Red Cross for a conference regarding relief for the unemployed.

After a long conference Payne said that in his opinion it was the beginning of a thorough study of the situation and the start of a cooperative movement among different agencies.

Reports on unemployment, he said, were not alarming but at the same time could not be described as bright.

"The burden of unemployment," he said, "falls on the local community first."

"It is the primary duty of the state, county and municipality to bear the burden of unemployment," he said.

All the agencies of the federal government, cities, counties and municipalities are now working to the same end, he said, and the movement which the president began today looks to having them cooperate more fully.

Questioned as to the part which he expected the federal government to play, the Red Cross chairman replied that there was no possible reason for the federal government being called upon now.

"The place for unemployment relief is in the local communities where everyone knows everyone else," he said.

LINDBERGH'S

ally to form a boat route from Aklavik to Point Barrow, there'll be landing places for their pontoon-equipped plane.

The journey to Nome will bring them to the start of the 900-mile jump to Karaginsk, Siberia, thence to Petropavlovsk on the eastern coast of the Kamchatka peninsula.

Many small villages dot the shore of Siberia south of East Cape and a probable supply of aviation gasoline is at Providence Bay, says R. L. Pollister, fur trading representative.

Sometimes the natives on the Siberian side come across the narrow stretch of water between the two continents to celebrate Fourth of July with the American eskimos, Pollister says, and thereby have learned English from the Alaskan natives.

The Kuriles, those islands their Japanese owners know as Chishima, or the thousand islands, lie along the Lindbergh trail from Petropavlovsk to Tokyo.

Only once have they been spanned successfully by airplane—and the American army fliers registered this exploit in 1924.

Islands Virtually Uninhabited Japanese aviators themselves know almost nothing of the Kuriles. Most of the year the islands are practically uninhabited, but in summer fishing boats frequent them.

There are no filling stations in the islands, and if the Lindberghs plan any stops along the 1,000-mile stretch of inhospitable islands, they must lay their fuel stores ahead.

Emperor Interested TOKYO, July 29. (AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh probably will be received by Emperor and Empress Hirohito when the American fliers arrive in Japan, authorities close to the imperial household said today.

Emperor Hirohito was taking the greatest interest in the Lindbergh's preparations for their vacation flight, and the vernacular newspapers were vying with each other in featuring the coming trip.

The Lindberghs during their stay here will be the guests of Ambassador Forbes who already has made preparations to receive the fliers.

The Japanese Aviation bureau also was making reception plans, which includes a greeting from a committee of aviators who will fly to Numero to meet the Lindberghs.

Three hundred gallons of gasoline will be sent to Numero for refueling Colonel Lindbergh's plane.

Paving Will Begin Tomorrow Morning

Paving of the Borger road from the end of the pavement to the Carson county line, a distance of four and one-half miles, will begin at 6 o'clock in the morning, it was announced today.

Employment will be given to approximately 70 men. Equipment was recently moved from highway No. 33 to the Borger road. Construction will be $18,500 per mile. Stucky Construction company has the contract.

Young Gives Neighbors' Children Their Chance

This model school, which he built for the children of his home village of Van Hornesville, N. Y., is the pet hobby of Owen D. Young (right) noted financier and possible presidential candidate. He likes to discuss the school's affairs in boiler-room chats with the principal, Maurice S. Hammond (center).

VAN HORNEVILLE, N. Y., July 29. (AP)—Over this little farming village of about 100 persons hovers the personality of a figure far-famed in finance—Owen D. Young.

But it is as a generous friend and kindly neighbor rather than as an international personage that residents of his home town view him.

Many of them have known him all their life. He is "Owen" to nearly everyone, and their first names come easily to his tongue.

It is here that the financier has centered shining hopes in a model school he has built, from which the youths of the community may fare forth into the world "without an inferiority complex."

Here are his chicken and dairy farms, his milk plant, grist mill and fish hatchery—places where most of the villagers find employment.

Here, too, is his modest white home, not unlike others of the community, where his mother lived—a home bright with flowers and green with shrubbery.

The chief hobby of the one-time agent general of world war reparations is the school that he built, rising in colonial beauty near the site of the tiny grammar school to which he went as a boy.

After leaving that little school, he began what he terms his "cheese box school days."

That was when he went to a high school not far away, provisioned with a week's food supply that his mother had cooked and stored in a cheese box. Each week he returned to his farm home to get a "refill."

At 15 he was ready for college, and on borrowed money he went through St. Lawrence university.

This present-day giant of finance says it took "10 or 15 years" for him to get over an inferiority complex, engendered by his early school days. Sometimes, he says, he "still feels that complex."

Largely from this materialized his model school—a place to give a child confidence to cope with the world. Built to accommodate 45 or 50 children the school was opened in 1929. The enrollment shot to 168, and work is now under way to give space for 400.

He supplements the minimum school taxes with whatever money is needed.

Last Word in Modernity To the school, more than 12 miles from the nearest railroad, has come modernity. Children from all parts of Herkimer county find here the latest in equipment—radios, talking pictures, and a library with the classics, leading magazines and daily newspapers.

In keeping with Mr. Young's plan, there is wide choice of studies, all calculated to give a practical education.

On the well-equipped play ground are two swimming pools, one for the tots, and the other for older children. As a boy, Mr. Young never realized, one of his most cherished ambitions—learning to swim.

Boiler Room Confabs This tall man with the alert brown eyes often visits the school and asks Maurice S. Hammond, the boyish-looking, earnest-eyed principal:

"Got a minute? Let's go down to the boiler room and talk things over."

And to the boiler room they go, where Mr. Young hauls forth an old pipe, lights it, and chats about the children and the school.

He likes to sit at the side of a swimming pool with a group of pupils about him and watch others play in the water.

Murray Has Many Admirers in Texas

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 29. (AP) Governor Murray's fight to rid Red river of toll bridges has won him many Texas admirers.

Don H. Biggers, Austin, today telegraphed the governor inquiring if there was any way in which Texas might attach itself to Oklahoma during Murray's administration.

AUSTIN, July 29. (AP)—Sidney Benbow, assistant attorney general, said today the hearing on dissolution of the federal court injunction against the use of the Red river free bridge between Denison and Durant, Okla., will be held at Corpus Christi Friday instead of at Houston Sunday.

The injunction was suspended Saturday by T. M. Kennerly of Houston, federal judge, after the legislature had hurriedly enacted a law giving the company operating a parallel toll span authority to sue the state on its contract with the highway commission.

Markets OIL PRICES

WHEAT STEADIES CHICAGO, July 29. (AP)—Down-turns in wheat prices early today accompanied weakness of securities. A steady influence, however, was strength shown by the Liverpool wheat market as a result of Canadian government crop report.

Opening unchanged to 1-2 cent off, wheat later held near the initial limits. Corn started at 1-4 cent decline to 3-4 cent advance and afterward tended to sag.

STEEL AFFECTS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, July 29. (AP)—Cotton had a weak opening today, mainly due to the cut in the U. S. Steel dividend. Cables were also unfavorable and first trades showed losses of 10 to 12 points and the market continued to ease off after the start on weakness in stocks, making new lows for the season at 8.48 for October and 8.90 for December, or 18 points under yesterday's close.

Towards the end of the first hour the market had a good rally on some recovery in stocks and owing to the understanding that the steel corporation would not cut wages.

Prices rallied 12 points to 8.60 for October and 8.82 for December.

"LOWEST IN HISTORY" KANSAS CITY, July 29. (AP)—Wheat prices were described as the lowest in history by the monthly review of tenth district agricultural, industrial, trade and financial conditions issued today by the Federal Reserve bank of Kansas City.

The tendency of the producer, the review stated, is to hold the wheat crop when financially able to do so. Ideal conditions permitted completion of the bulk of the wheat, oats, rye, and barley harvest by the third week in July.

"Timely and well distributed showers in July," says the report, "temporarily relieved threatened drought."

CORN PRICE JUMPS CHICAGO, July 29. (AP)—Drought, grasshoppers, and heat conspired with a shortage of grain to cause a sudden jump of 10 cents a bushel in the price of July corn on the board of trade today.

Word came from Northwestern Iowa and parts of other grain states that corn had started to fire and that the crop was in peril. Other places reported corn was in good condition. July corn touched 68 1-2 cents at the highest and closed 67 1-2 to 68.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE By the Associated Press NEW YORK Stocks weak, U. S. Steel slumps in dividend cut. Bonds heavy, fractional losses general. Curb heavy, dullness follows early break.

Foreign exchanges, irregular. French franc and Reichsmark strengthen. Cotton lower, favorable weather, foreign selling. Sugar, lower, easier spot situation. Coffee, lower, foreign selling.

CHICAGO Wheat, firm, bullish Canadian advices. Corn, strong, July 9 cents higher, high temperatures, active covering. Cattle, firm. Hogs, steady to higher.

Zeppelin Turning Back From Arctic

HAMBURG, July 29. (AP)—The Hamburg-American line today received a report from one of its steamers that the Graf Zeppelin was over Nova Zembla this morning.

The line did not state what steamer had picked up the Nova Zembla message.

The radio from the Graf, the steamship company reported, said the dirigible was returning to Leningrad.

Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the board of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, refused to comment on Governor Murray's ultimatum.

A statement issued in Chicago by E. G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, indicated his company would ignore Murray's demand.

"It so happens I don't smoke... BUT I've noticed recently that more of my girl friends are smoking CHESTERFIELD, and I asked why.

"One of them said that CHESTERFIELDS really are milder and taste better—that there is nothing strong or sharp or bitter about them.

"Another one spoke up and said that she too liked the taste of CHESTERFIELDS; but that she was especially pleased with the package—so neat and attractive. Chesterfields—she added—are made right—properly filled—and burn evenly; and she thought possibly they were using a better cigarette paper.

"Still another one agreed with all we'd said. She'd been smoking CHESTERFIELDS for a long, long time, and had always liked them; but she also liked the way they were advertised. The advertising seemed to her to be the truth and the whole truth—it wasn't always knocking somebody or something!"
