Davis Case Suddenly Ends In Mistrial

Dallam county, the center of a big agricultural and ranching section, is well boosted in a pictorial edition of the Dalhart TEXAN. Of significance in the pictures are products which, though currently low-priced in the markets, look good on the tables of the folks at home. The Panaman is reminded that John Garner is the author of a recipe for hot rolls which are very edible. Anyone interested should consult Mrs. Pampan. We have plenty of wheat for flour in this section, and the Farm Board has another surplus which is being made into flour and distributed here and elsewhere.

Floydada has a new flour mill in operation on a 24-hour basis. Its first task is to make excellent flour; the second to secure home town patronage. Of these, the second is the most difficult.

Chief of Police John Andrews is doing a good bit of worrying about the way pedestrians ignore the signal light at the Foster-Cuyler intersection. Now that left turns on the green are permitted motorists, it behooves pedestrians to be more than ordinarily careful. Warnings, however, appear to do little good. The Junior police at the schools are organizing and doing good work, the chief said.

The Dalhart TEXAN quotes federal postal authorities as trying to expedite construction of a post office building in that city. The TEXAN will learn, in the course of its investigation, what the government means by "expedite."

The weather prophets are predicting a hard winter, which if it arrives will make the Roosevelt-Garner regime all the more welcome next spring. The law of averages, however, calls for more snow, weather and more snow than we have had in recent years.

Says Editor T. A. Landers in the McLean NEWS: "No work, no help" is a mighty good rule to follow in dispensing help to the needy, providing these are members of the family who are able to work, and this is generally true. Our present times have already made beggars of a number of people who, in ordinary times, would be self-supporting. Community chest officials report that the first time a man asks for charity it is embarrassing, but some of them soon come to demand help as their due. There should be no thought of letting anyone starve to death this winter, but any plan which allows the one needing help to keep his self-respect is worth more to him and the community than outright charity.

Swisher county is mighty proud of 16-year-old J. T. McDaniell, who took first place in the pork production contest of the Panhandle. J. T. was born in Swisher county and has lived there all his life. Right now he is a senior in Kress high school. He began his 4-H club work

Get three new weekly subscriptions to THE NEWS at 15 cents a week, delivered by carrier, and bring the colored animal set, and the 45 cents to THE NEWS and you will get a free ticket to the circus. Bring them in not later than Thursday noon, October 6.

Do not send in individual animals, just the complete set and subscriptions, and be sure these are in THE NEWS office on time.

JURY BEING SELECTED

PAIR CLAIMS DEAD BOY TOOK HIS OWN LIFE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 3. (P)—Fifteen convicts wearing prison stripes and flanked by guards filed into court here today to testify in the trial of two former prison guards charged with murdering Arthur Mallifort of Westfield, N. J., in a penal camp sweat box.

They were taken to a room over the court chamber pending summons to the witness stand.

Selection of the jury to try George W. Courson, a former captain of the guards, and former guard Solomon Higginbotham dragged through the opening session of court.

Mallifort, 22, serving a nine-year-term for robbery, was strangled to death in the sweat box at the Sunbeam camp with his neck chained to a rafter and his feet encased in heavy stocks.

Completion of the jury probably will not be finished until late today or tomorrow.

Courson and Higginbotham sat beside their counsel during the proceedings and took only a passive interest.

Outside the courtroom in a hallway were placed a barrel, the heavy chain and wooden stocks in which

Mr. Hunkapillar is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters.

THREE GROUPS WILL PLAN FOR NEEDY TONIGHT

Emergency Is Caused By Financial Shortage

A coordinated effort to care for the needy this winter may grow out of a session of city commissioners, county commissioners, and the Welfare Board tonight.

Each of these agencies has been doing welfare work, but their efforts have never been divided or correlated as many communities have found necessary. Because of the acute needs in sight, and on account of the Welfare Board's depleted funds, the problem has reached emergency proportions here.

The Board will be compelled to close its office unless financial assistance can be made. This would not only mean the end of grocery allowances for jobless homes and many widows, but cessation of emergency health work as well. The Welfare Board has been furnishing medicines, linens, food, and obtaining medical care in instances of births in destitute homes. Often Mrs. W. H. Davis has been called late at night to homes not previously visited.

There are many citizens who believe that this welfare work must be continued without a halt, but the plan must be devised at tonight's session or very soon. The Board has funds to last only until October 15.

Tonight's session will begin at 8 o'clock in the commissioners room at the city hall. Among those present will be C. H. Walker, who is chairman of the group which will seek a portion of the federal unemployment relief expected to be available in November. It is believed that the sum received cannot be used for administrative purposes, and that some means of finding employment in distributing the "work relief" must be found.

SOLDIER DROWNED

TYLER, Oct. 3 (P)—The drowning in the Rio Grande flood of Sandy H. Brown, 36, soldier on duty with the regular army at Fort Brown, was reported today by his parents who live at Pine Springs, near Tyler. They were advised he lost his life Saturday near Brownsville. Details of the accident were lacking but he was believed to have drowned while trying to rescue persons marooned by the flood.

Military Activities Of Japanese Found Unjustified

GENEVA, Oct. 3 (P)—The league of Nations was definitely at grips today with the Manchurian problem—perhaps the greatest test it has faced in its history—following publication of the report of the Lytton investigating commission which infamously condemned Japan's military occupation and turned thumbs down on the Japanese-advised regime of Henry Pu-Yi.

The commission, in an exhaustive analysis of the situation which began with the opening of the Japanese army's drive in September of last year, found that the military campaign was unjustified and that the new state of Manchukuo is not supported by the Manchurian people.

It proposed a special autonomous regime for the territory, with China retaining full sovereignty over the three provinces, and suggested a special Sino-Japanese conference to work out the basis of a permanent settlement, with the provision that the league council take a hand if the Chinese and Japanese themselves fail to agree.

Generally speaking, it was halfed in all quarters here today, except by the Japanese, with satisfaction. The report scouted Japan's contention, so often repeated while the military campaign was at its height last winter, that her soldiers were fighting in self-defense.

After giving the conflicting Chinese and Japanese versions of the events which provoked the outbreak of hostilities at Mukden September 18, 1931, the committee said "The military operations of Japanese troops cannot be regarded as measures of legitimate self-defense."

The commissioners also condemned the bombing of Chinchow by Japanese airplanes near the close of the campaign. "Bombing of a civil administration by military forces cannot be justified," the report said.

The government of the new state of Manchukuo under Henry Pu-Yi was frankly characterized as one formed and supported artificially by Japanese military and civil officials, without genuine support from the local Manchurian population.

The commission did not hold China blameless for the situation in the east, however, and it sharply indicted the Chinese government for its weakness and for administrative disorders. It also insisted China must have regard for Japanese economic interests in Manchuria.

Japan, however, has denounced the report as biased and hostile. In a statement by the war office, Japan threatened to withdraw from the league of nations and to oppose vigorously any attempt by the league to enforce recommendations of the commission.

Health Report Made to City

Report of Dr. T. J. Worrell of the city health department was made to City Manager C. L. Stine today.

The report shows the following inspections: 12 dairy plants, 3 dairy farms, 12 soda fountains, 15 restaurants, 35 meat markets and slaughter houses, 12 private premises, 47 milk analyses, 14 water analyses, 50 T. B. tests (bovine), 3 quarantines, blood analyses, 5 bakeries, and 2 bottling works.

Dr. Worrell delayed his vaccination pending the outcome of a vocation quarantine at a camp here. It is believed the disease is under control. One death resulted from typhoid was similarly handled earlier in the month.

JURORS TALK TO ATTORNEYS FRIDAY NIGHT

CASE IS NOT DISCUSSED

PURPORTED STATEMENT OF JUROR NO. 13 REPEATED

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (P)—Trial of United States Senator James J. Davis came to an abrupt end today, Judge Frank J. Coleman declaring a mistrial because two of the jurors communicated with defense attorneys over the weekend.

Senator Davis was charged with violation of federal lottery laws in the conduct of charity balls by the Loyal Order of Moose, of which he is director general.

Announcement of the mistrial was made as Judge Coleman opened court for what would have been the third week of the trial.

Report of the acts by the jurors were reported to the court by defense counsel Charles J. Margiotti. The court commended Margiotti and also lauded Senator Davis "for participating in the action of his counsel" in reporting the incident.

Judge Coleman said he would suspend immediately judgment insofar as the two jurors were concerned.

The jurors said to have approached Margiotti were juror number seven and the second of the two alternates selected when the trial began to prevent possibility of a mistrial because of sickness.

Margiotti said he received a telephone call at his hotel Friday night. A man who said he was a "brother knight" said he wanted to tell him something about a juror.

Immediately after the mistrial was declared, Margiotti was sworn and placed on the stand for an investigation into the matter.

The man came to his room and Margiotti saw that he was juror No. 7, Henry J. Moore, a photo engraver. He told him, Margiotti said, that juror No. 13 is "putting in against your case."

"Every day in the corridor," Margiotti quoted the juror, "he tells the others that all your witnesses are lying."

Margiotti said Moore had been drinking.

"This is the first time in my life anything like this happened to me," said Margiotti, "and I didn't know what to do."

He said the juror didn't attempt to discuss the merits of the case. Judge Coleman held a formal investigation, as a result of which he completely exonerated No. 13 and severely reprimanded Moore. Moore was paroled in his own custody until tomorrow morning.

MILLS STUMPS FOR HOOVER

Ogden Livingston Mills, secretary of the treasury, has become the chief campaigner for President Hoover. Here he is as he spoke to Michigan Republicans at Detroit. He said Hoover's measures had averted an economic calamity.

DODSONVILLE MAN HAS LIVED IN THREE COUNTIES AND TWO STATES AND HAS NEVER MOVED

He Doesn't Know Now Whether He Owns His Home

WELLINGTON, Oct. 3 (P)—"After all there is no place like home—no matter where it is," affirms Jim Scott, local farmer, who probably has had more trouble deciding where he does live than any man in the United States.

Forty years ago Scott filed in the Oklahoma Indian territory near the present location of Dodsonville community. Since then he has lived in three counties and two states, other than the Indian territory, but never has moved his home from its original location—and now he may not have any home at all through a legal technicality.

In 1892, Scott, with his father and two brothers, filed in the Indian territory through the federal government. Oklahoma was admitted to the Union in 1907, with the 100th meridian as a dividing line between Texas and Oklahoma. Scott then became a resident of Greer county, Oklahoma. In 1908, Greer county was divided into Harmon and Jackson counties, making him a resident of Harmon county, Oklahoma.

When the Small land bill was passed in 1929, it was proved that the strip on which he lived never was in Oklahoma at all and that he had been a resident of Childress county, Texas, because of a mistake in the first survey.

At the present, Scott thinks he lives in Texas, but what is worse, he does not know whether he even owns his place or not, because John Wortham filed on the land thru the Texas land commission after passage of the Small land bill, and since the land was in Texas and not Oklahoma, contends that a man cannot file on Texas land through the state of Oklahoma. The case now rests on the decision of the supreme court of Texas.

Fifty-two years ago, Scott erected a two-story, seven room house on his place and was one of the proudest home owners in the state of Oklahoma or Texas. As one of the leading residents of the community, his home always was a gathering place for Sunday afternoon singings in the pioneer days.

"Home is home, as the old saying goes, and there is no place like it," Scott said, "whether it is in Oklahoma or Texas, but it does seem a little odd to live in so many different places and then find out all of a sudden that you never had any home at all. About the only thing that would startle me now is to wake up some morning and be told that I lived in the Gulf of Mexico."

JURISDICTION AUSTIN COURT IS CHALLENGED

JUDGE LOATH TO HEAR CASE UNTIL HIGH BODY ACTS

ABATEMENT PLEA MADE

ROBERTSON SAYS TRIAL WOULD WASTE TIME AND MONEY

AUSTIN, Oct. 3 (P)—Presentation of defense plea in abatement, challenging jurisdiction of the Travis county district court to try the suit filed by Governor R. S. Sterling, contesting legality of the nomination of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson as the democratic gubernatorial nominee, was started before District Judge W. F. Robertson today.

Presentation was started by Luther Nickels, counsel for Mrs. Ferguson, despite an announced inclination of Judge Robertson to delay the trial until the supreme court had taken action on Mrs. Ferguson's motion for leave to file a petition to mandamus Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, to certify her as the democratic nominee.

In a statement from the bench Judge Robertson called attention to the supreme court proceedings, in which he took exception to the action of Ocle Speer, another Ferguson attorney, and Nickels in criticizing the district court for granting an injunction at 12:30 a. m. Thursday restraining Mrs. McCallum from certifying Mrs. Ferguson as the nominee.

"This court does not deem it advisable to proceed with this case until the supreme court has acted in the matter in the mandamus," Judge Robertson stated.

Objection to any delay whatever was made by M. M. Crane, counsel for the governor, while Speer asked the court what its purpose was in reading its lecture from the bench and "what he was going to do about it."

Judge Robertson expressed belief that the supreme court's decision might obviate necessity of proceeding further with the contest and that should trial be started now it would cause an unnecessary waste of time and expense.

Speer stated that "while he was not advising delay and was ready to proceed, that the supreme court did not have the power to nullify the district court to proceed and its power to make this district court do it."

Speer said the district court's actions could not be governed by the supreme court since the lower court had exclusive jurisdiction over trial of the contest and could proceed as it deemed best.

Although Crane objected to taking up the plea challenging jurisdiction of the court, Nickels was presenting his argument on it at the noon recess. He presented the plea as a contest for the governorship was the Holden and senate of the Texas legislature in joint session, claimed the governor's attorneys were proceeding on the wrong theory and that statutes under which they sought relief applied only to officers other than governor.

Should Nickels be permitted to proceed with his argument and present the special pleas, it likely would require several days and should counsel for Governor Sterling offer only brief arguments against them.

Court was recessed to 2 p. m. today.

County Supt. John B. Hesseley left this morning to visit schools in the east part of the county.

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—It's a strange business when a multimillionaire such as Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills is made the one big gun of the Hoover campaign.

Not many years ago it would have been considered virtually suicidal to hand such a job to anyone who symbolized great wealth, Wall Street and the ultra-conservative in politics as Mills does.

Today virtually all the members of the cabinet are millionaires and the administration is so frankly conservative that selection of Mills as its chief strategist and tower of strength in this campaign is appropriate.

Mills, however, does not owe his present position either to his wealth or the fact that he is a regular of regulars. He has been given this high trust and great power partly because Mr. Hoover's other close advisers and speakers obviously haven't the qualifications for the job and partly because Ogden has proved himself such an able citizen.

It will be interesting to see how it works out as Mills goes tearing around the circle in Roosevelt's wake, dissecting and scolding the governor's speeches, harpooning him from the rear.

Mills never has made any bones about his social-economic beliefs. He works in close contact with the nation's financial leaders and he holds that the country is best off when in the hands of men accustomed to handling millions.

Mills, more than any other man, is identified with the depression policy which has produced the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and which is based on the theory that the only real prosperity is the sort which has to "trickle down to the masses."

"Unless the country has already attached itself to that brand of conservatism and is largely sympathetic with the Hoover policies, Mills may get none too warm a reception out west.

He makes the best defenses of the administration that have yet been heard, but it is doubtful whether any speaker this year could sway a great number of votes one way or the other.

When Dean Carl W. Ackerman of the Columbia University School of Journalism remarked the other day that American newspapers have maintained exceptional high standards of service in spite of the depression during the last year, he touched on a point that is worth a little extended comment.

The last year has been a hard one for everybody, and the newspapers have felt it quite as painfully as any other group. But there is not a great deal that a newspaper can do in the way of retrenchment, when hard times come.

OUT OUR WAY By WILLIAMS

newspaper can do in the way of retrenchment, when hard times come. It can't suspend operations for a time, as a mine or a factory can; it can't reduce its service, as a railroad or steamship line can; it can't put all hands on half-time work.

For a newspaper exists, first, last and always, to tell people what is going on in the world; and the world wags along in bad times just as it does in good times, and people are just as anxious to know what is happening then as they are at other times.

All of his means that it can't relax for a moment. It is somewhat in the position of a manufacturer who finds his income shrinking but who must, by the necessities of his calling, keep everything going just about as extensively as he ever did.

So it is good to read Dean Ackerman's comment—that high reportorial standards have been maintained, that newspaper resources have been mobilized to give thorough coverage to all phases of the economic crisis, that outstanding examples of public service by newspapers are no less frequent this year than in former years, that there has been an increasingly authoritative and accurate reporting of scientific news.

A democracy could not function without an alert, honest, intelligent press. That the press of the nation has carried on so energetically and ably during the depression is one of the things for which the nation can be thankful.

HOOKS and SLIDES by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

It's Hard to Forget A Guy Like Howley. Dan Howley says he is going out of the big leagues this year. He has done time for three years as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and he figures that is enough. Dan is ready to go back to the minors.

More than enough! But our memories of Howley Dan will remain fresh and fragrant. Of all the major league managers within our ken, Dan was the most likable, the most human, the most approachable.

Dan has been in the majors since 1927. He came up from the International League, with way stops at Indianapolis, Portland, Detroit, Toronto and Montreal. These just seem like a lot of names, but when you figure each town is a year in a man's life—and a baseball year—they take on more significance.

Those Browns. Dan never did have a major league team to manage, though he has been a major league manager for six years. In 1928 he was easily the outstanding manager of the year. He took a team that had finished seventh two years straight and brought that club to third place, coming very close to winning the first pennant the Browns ever had attained.

The prospect Howley faced at St. Louis in 1928 was not to be envied. Stars had been traded or sold because of the lackadaisical showing the club had made in the fall end of the 1927 season. Howley took what he had—and made the most of it.

"We just made up our minds we were tough to beat," says Dan reminiscently. "That was our slogan. We said to ourselves, 'We'll take those guys!' and we meant it. That's the important thing. We did mean it. We had faith and confidence.

"And, by the way, don't let me talk you off that—confidence. It's a much misused word, I know, but when you really feel it in your heart, you're hard to beat. You know—you used to laugh at me myself when I said the Browns were the hardest team in the league to beat. I said that to a hundred guys. It turned out to be true. And you know why? My fellows believed it was true, and Howlin' Dan or no Howlin' Dan, that went. It was the goods.

Reds a Good Team. "We had a good ball club at Cincinnati this year, even if we did finish in the cellar. Hafey was out a lot. We lost a million games by one run. If we had had just enough punch to put over two runs

In those games, we would be knocking at the door. "And we didn't finish in the cellar because we didn't play ball. We did play—and plenty. Every guy I've got went out and hustled just like we were in the pennant race. Of course, we didn't have the punch. There is no use denying what had been seen and written a lot of times.

My Browns—they had it. When I looked at the club that April, I felt discouraged. But they fought. They were never out. At the last minute, with two out, they would come through with what they needed to win. It was not a great ball team, but the boys were a fine bunch of fighters.

"It sounds a little bit 'Y. M. C. A.' to say that the Reds this year could have gone the same route—with the breaks. This team just didn't have them. Why? Well, go and ask some smart manager. Maybe he can tell you.

"I know the Reds, with Hafey and Herman, were a ball club that should have finished in the first division. But, how are you going to prove it?" Cy Young, one of the great baseball pitchers of former times, had a record of 511 victories, an average of more than 23 games won per year for 22 years.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Diversity" was the subject of the lesson sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 2.

As a part of the service these verses from Isaiah were read: "Fear thou not, for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness. When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee; when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee."

Correlative citations from the textbook of Christian Science, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following: "As the children of Israel were judged triumphantly through the Red Sea, the dark ebbing and flowing tides of human fear—as they were led through the wilderness, walking wearily through the great heart of human hopes, and anticipating the promised joy—so shall the spiritual idea guide all right desires in their passage from sense to soul, from a material sense of existence to the spiritual, up to the glory prepared for them who love God."

Valuables Taken From Wooley House

Mrs. Charles Wooley, 1001 East Fisher street, reported to city officers yesterday the loss of a Bulova wrist watch, valuable ring, leather purse containing $5, and a brown hat and gloves. She has no idea when the articles were stolen. At no time Saturday was the house found unlocked or windows tampered with. Police believe one of the door locks was picked or opened with a duplicate key. The police made five arrests over the week-end.

FACES THIRD TRIAL

PLAINVIEW, Oct. 3 (AP)—Joe Hawkins, Crosby county farmer, today faced trial for the third time on a charge of murder for the slaying of his father-in-law, S. M. Walker. Hawkins received a 15-year sentence at his first trial, but the case was reversed on appeal. Later there was a mistrial. Testimony at the first trial showed that Walker was killed in a quarrel over a dog fight.

Evening Gowns to Glitter This Winter

Fabrics that glitter and stand out for their richness, fashion this winter's evening costumes. Laquered black satin makes this shimmering frock designed by Maggy Rouff. The white water lily which finishes the décolleté, and the fullness at the front of the skirt are the outstanding points in its design.

By DIANA MERWIN.

(Associated Press Fashion Editor) PARIS (AP)—Rich regal robes drawing their inspiration all the way from the Middle Ages to the present day will parade across the evening fashion stage this winter when formal entertainments begin.

Their distinction and similarity lie in the richness of their materials—ribbed, double-faced, shiny and dull velvets; pebbled and heavy cre satins, clinging silk jerseys and cre laces being included in the universally elegant fabric mode.

There the resemblance ends, however. Waistlines vary from Mainbocher's Directorate, touching the bust to Patou's low demarcation at the hipbones.

Skirts Are Varied. Skirts range from Schiaparelli's slim sheath to Chanel's mode which billow into fullness from the kneecaps and décolletés are about "as you please."

Many designers make them low in the back and fairly high in front; others reverse the process, while still others use a back cut with intricate strappings.

Ruches, feathers and flowers are seen often. One designer shows a Pierrot ruche of velvet loops, another trails a garland of fabric flowers across the corsage and a third accents shoulder straps with a band of coque feathers.

Velvets Favored. Velvets and velveteens are seen everywhere. There are pale blue and chartreuse green shiny velvets reflecting the light like jewels as they fall in soft folds. Then there are lime green and rose velveteens standing in crisp lines and worn with velveteen slippers and gloves, and rich wine red velvets caught at the hipline with glittering clips.

One of the outstanding models of the season is a frock of purple cre satin fashioned with a draped décolleté and a skirt with fullness clustered in front. It is designed without ornament, relying on the richness of the fabric for its distinction.

By RUTH BRYAN OWEN.

No aspect of the democratic platform is more impressive than the completeness and soundness of the foreign policy which it enunciates. Republican statesmen have repeatedly asserted that the depression has its roots in world-wide conditions but they do not follow this diagnosis with a remedy. The democratic platform recognizes the international nature of commerce and finance and submits a definite program to the American people.

To relieve the stagnation of trade which has followed the erection of high tariff barriers it proposes reciprocal tariff agreements with other nations and an international economic conference at which equitable adjustments may be reached. It not only recognizes the need of a sound currency but advocates an international monetary conference to consider the rehabilitation of silver and related questions. Going on record for the maintenance of the spirit of the Monroe doctrine the democratic platform proposes continued co-operation with nations of the western hemisphere.

It advocates adherence to the World Court conditioned however upon the acceptance of appending reservations and declares in favor of the Pact of Paris abolishing war as an instrument of national policy and affirms the sanctity of treaties and the maintenance of good faith and good will in international financial obligations.

The democratic platform while opposing the cancellation of the debts owing the United States by foreign nations approves those international agreements for the reduction of armaments which would relieve all the nations of the exorbitant financial burden which competitive armaments represent. In short, the democratic party enunciates a foreign policy which, while specifically safeguarding American interests and preserving national defense takes definite steps to remove the causes of international friction and builds constructively toward the ultimate substitution of arbitration for war.

Jim Seems to Know More About It Than Pampans

If there were 468 illegal votes cast for Governor Ross Sterling in Gray county, as alleged by Jim Ferguson, it is news to election officials here.

Sharp skepticism was evidenced as the Ferguson charges were read. It was assumed that he went to the same extremes in answering the Sterling petition as Sterling's lawyers went in making their allegations as to illegal Ferguson votes.

Ferguson picked out counties which voted heavily for his wife's opponent and in a lengthy answer included the following nearby counties: Donley, 456 votes; Carson, 214; Deaf Smith, 735; Lipscomb, 364; Potter, 1116; Roberts, 349; Ochiltree, 674. So far as it is known here, no investigation has been made in Gray county on which to allege illegal voting for Governor Sterling or Mrs. Ferguson.

Merton Orchestra Praised at Borger

Merton's Texans, Pampa's newest dance orchestra, appeared in the American Legion hall in Borger Saturday night for its first professional appearance, playing for 120 couples. The orchestra was applauded and congratulated. The orchestra is composed of piano, three saxophones doubling on the clarinet, two trumpets, drum and banjo.

The oldest member is Sid Merton, pianist, well known locally. The orchestra has been organizing for some time. Every member reads music. Their slogan is "Harmony and Rhythm."

The Texans will play at a big dance in the Legion hall after the Pampa Harvester-Borger Bulldog football game in Borger Friday night. The orchestra has been booked for several future engagements here.

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF SUNSHINE AFTER RAINY DAYS

Some wore their new fall bonnets—either had no bonnets at all. But that mattered little at Pampa's metropolitan Sunday schools yesterday. Attendance was large at all churches. Everyone seemed anxious to take advantage of the sunshine following rainy weather by attending religious services.

Following are some of the attendance figures: Salvation Army, 39; Central Baptist, 140; Church of Christ, 132; Episcopal, 46; Methodist, 574; Christian, 350; Presbyterian, 134; First Baptist, 744. Many of those attending the church schools were Pampa teachers.

Mrs. Felix Urbanczyk was brought to her home north of White Deer from St. Anthony hospital in a Stephenson Mortuary ambulance this morning. She had been in the hospital for the past three weeks.

My Beauty Hint

Beauty as seen outwardly is the expression of the inward feeling. If you "feel good" physically and mentally you will have little worry concerning your outward appearance. To have this inner good feeling I resort to the dance both as exercise and as a means of forgetting troubles. The dance also gives a person poise and rhythm, and they in turn make for beauty.

Dorothy Harris Is Surprised at Party

Following a trip to LaNora theater to enjoy the picture "Doctor X," refreshments were served at the Crystal Palace. A few fire works held interest later in the evening.

Many beautiful gifts were received by the honoree. Those present were Nina Fisher, Burton Tolbert, Martha Jones, Florence Sue Dodson, Virginia Jeffries, Buck Mundy, Frank Henry Cullum, Paul Schneider, Warren Finley, Tom Rose, Clinton Evans, Ervin Henderson, and the guest of honor.

"A more pleasing Taste and Aroma"

Enough Turkish... but not too much

You can smoke pack after pack of Chesterfields...and never grow tired of the taste. That's partly because Chesterfield uses just the right amount of Turkish tobacco to "season" the mild, sweet Domestic tobacco.

TONY LAZZERI BELTS 2 HOME RUNS SUNDAY

YANKEES WIN FOURTH IN ROW AND WORLD SERIES

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Oct. 3. (AP)—The world series of 1932 trailed off today toward its final resting place among baseball's legends, leaving the realm of the national pastime once more under the absolute rule of the American league, and one of the greatest champions in all sports history—the New York Yankees.

Never before has any ball club approached the amazing record of the belting behemoths from Broadway, conquerors of the Chicago Cubs in four straight game, possessors of a streak of 12 successive world series triumphs.

It was something to set down in the record books with a proper touch of awe and veneration when the Yankees of 1927 and 1928 swept through first the Pittsburgh Pirates and then the St. Louis Cardinals to win two world titles without a single defeat. Now the Cubs have been added to that amazing record, without having even extended the mighty cast of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Tony Lazzeri and the rest of the dynamites.

Cubs Without Confidence
For one day, the bats of Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth that boomed like 16-inch guns in the victory of the first game here Saturday lapsed into comparative silence, but there was no relief for the desperate cause of the shatterer. From new quarters the firing broke out with terrific effect and five pitchers, Guy Bush, Lon Warneke, Jackie May, Bud Tinning and even old Burleigh Grimes went down under a stunning 19-hit barrage.

The heaviest fire came from a gun that had previously had scattered as though the fuse was wet. Tony Lazzeri, and he belted two home runs in his anxiety to get his licks in before it was too late.

The Cubs might have done better had they introduced earlier young Bud Tinning, the only pitcher who troubled the Yankees during the series. It seems now as though the Bruins, though they waged the gamest fight they knew, never at any time had much belief in their own ability to conquer the human juggernaut that had been turned loose upon them.

Complexes Galore
A peculiar psychological factor, a superiority complex on one side, an inferiority complex on the other, pervaded the entire series. Only the Cardinals of last fall shook off the apparent instinctive admission of American league superiority.

Perhaps without realizing just what they were doing, they lined the front of their own dugout before each game to gaze in silent awe as Ruth and Gehrig, with easy indifference, smashed ball after ball into the stands in batting practice just for their benefit.

Certainly two more consciously unconscious gestures of superiority, two more demoralizing feats of showmanship, never have been displayed in world series conflict than one engineered by Ruth Saturday and another by Gehrig yesterday.

Taking an unmerciful "riding" from the Cub dugout gang that chanted in unison as the Babe saw Charlie Roth slip over two strikes in the fifth inning, the big hitter turned, and motioned it was only two, and the third, and big one, still was left. He indicated they should wait just a moment. Then he took a toehold and belted the pitch from the farthest confines of the park in center field, one of the most terrific drives he ever hit.

Yesterday, when Gehrig stood at the plate in the sixth inning with runners waiting on base to be driven home, he stopped the game momentarily in an effort to make umpire Bill Klem move from a spot near second base where Lou thought he might be in the way. Klem wouldn't budge, whereupon Gehrig smashed a single through that spot and missed the umpire by inches alone.

Four Playground Games Tomorrow
Four interesting scheduled games in the City Playground ball league will be played tomorrow afternoon. The standing will be changed when the Jays and the Danciger boys meet, both having lost one game. The game will be played at Danciger park.

CISCO RULING FOILS LEAGUE

Interscholastic League May Cease Sponsoring of Football.

By BILL PARKER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
Roy B. Henderson, secretary of the Texas interscholastic league, has warned that there is danger of the league turning the sport of football back to the public schools, leaving them without sponsorship. The warning is an echo from the Cisco situation of last year. Cisco was barred from organized league competition in football because of alleged breaking of a rule concerning the transfer of a star player from Corsicana to Tyler and then to Cisco.

The decision of District Judge George L. Davenport at Eastland ordering reinstatement of Cisco in the league football race this fall, means either the state board must win in high courts, if funds are found for an appeal, or the virtual end of league supervision of public school athletics, according to Henderson, following a meeting of the Oil Belt district executive meeting at Eastland.

He said his statement meant that his office and the balance of the University of Texas would check the sport of football back to the schools, leaving them without sponsorship. He interpreted the court decision to mean that the league would become too unruly, and the sponsor would step down and out of the picture before that occurred.

Henderson, Roy Bedichek and E. H. Shelby attended the meeting from league headquarters. Committee members from the Oil Belt district, of which Cisco is a member, are eager for a higher court ruling on the reinstatement decision handed down by Judge Davenport.

Henderson said the state group would decide the course of action after they returned to Austin. Lack of funds probably will hinder an appeal. Henderson said if the state committee can decide it has a virtual cinch to win, an appeal would be made, would require about six months if carried through the usual channels, but immediate action probably could be had through filing of a super-seedeas bond, a amount of which would be fixed by Judge Davenport.

In the meantime, Principal L. E. Draney of district two of the Texas interscholastic league, which is the oil belt, is busy with plans for the district race between Abilene, Breckenridge, Eastland, Ranger, Cisco and Brownwood, for if a routine appeal is filed, Cisco is eligible for the district race. Only a super-seedeas appeal will halt the Lobbes.

Supreme Court Of U. S. Convenes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. (AP)—Justices of the United States supreme court convened in black-robed austerity today after four months of mingled rest and work.

For all nine of the highest court's members, gathered to open the fall term, the annual recess had meant restful vacations abroad or at summer resorts. But for all too, there had been the task of receiving and studying petitions for review filed on an average of three a day.

Today's only business was receiving motions with a courtesy call to the White House also scheduled. The court next Monday will start in the new term by beginning to announce which cases accumulated during the recess will be reviewed.

Oral arguments in cases continued from last spring next are in order. Chief Justice Hughes returned to preside over the court from a vacation that included a motor trip to Canada and a sojourn at Saranach lake.

Little Series Are Squared at 2-All
MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 3. (AP)—If it shall come to pass that Col. Jacob Ruppert feels he is needed for Messrs. Ruffing, Pennock, Pipgras, Allen, et al, there's a burly hand on his farm ready and willing to abet the colonel's New York Yankees in tackling the job of winning another world's title.

He is barrel-chested Don Brennan who throws curves and stirs his coffee with a big right hand which yesterday put Ruppert's Newark farm club back in the running for the little world's series title.

For Brennan, it was victory No. 27 of the season. Besides 25 wins in the regular campaign when his club won the international league pennant, the potency of his pitching was accounted for both of Newark's victories in the series against Minneapolis, champions of the American association.

Coach Argus Fox will put the Harvesters through a long, hard workout this afternoon while Coach Odus Mitchell goes to Plainview to see the Bulldogs in action. The Bulldogs are reported to have a strong team this year and conference eyes are looking to them for plenty of trouble, along with Borger.

Harvester workouts this week will be stiff through Wednesday, with a light signal practice Thursday, preceding the night game with the Borger Bulldogs Friday night. Coaches may take their charges to Borger Wednesday night to work out under the lights. An attempt is being made to install some temporary floodlights at Harvester park to give the boys practice.

There will be several new plays in the Harvester bag Friday night in Borger. The boys already know the ground work for the plays and will be worked hard on them during this week. The Bulldogs are not being taken lightly despite the fact that they were held scoreless by the Spearman Class B Lynn Friday night. Coach Nobel Atkins was keeping his Bulldogs under wraps. The Bulldogs are light and ended by cheering the new world's champions.

There was only one solace left for the Cubs today as they tried to forget the past week. Twenty-four of them were assured of receiving a check of approximately $4,000 from the baseball commissioners office as their "cut" and that sum was only about $1,000 less than the individual plunder collected by the Yankees.

As the pegs were pulled up last night and the players packed their bags for hurried departure, one of the biggest topics of conversation centered about Ruth and reports that he was going to Boston as manager of the Red Sox next season. Rumors floated about without substantiation although everyone knew that a big move was on to strengthen the weak spots, notably Boston and Chicago, in the American league for a more even race.

Rumor Ruth Is To Manage Red Sox of Boston

CHICAGO, Oct. 3. (AP)—Happy days are here again for the Cub pitchers. They don't have to worry about Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig for a long, long time, if ever.

As the Cubs broke up baseball housekeeping today and turned their thoughts to putting in a winner's supply of groceries, all admitted they were glad the world series was over.

"Sure we're disappointed at our showing," remarked Manager Charlie Grimm, "but those guys just were unbeatable. Any one who says Ruth is through is crazier than a dove hooking up with a grizzly bear. How that guy and Gehrig can clout 'em, well, it's back to St. Louis and home for me."

Cub fans, who first heard of the Yankee long distance bombings at Yankee stadium and then saw it with their own eyes at Wrigley field, where the Ruppert brigade made their heroes look like a fourth place club in a Class B league, were more amazed than downhearted about the 1932 world series show. As they watched the Yanks mop up in the final game yesterday, 13 to 6, with a shower of 19 hits, they first felt sorry for the Cubs and ended by cheering the new world's champions.

There was only one solace left for the Cubs today as they tried to forget the past week. Twenty-four of them were assured of receiving a check of approximately $4,000 from the baseball commissioners office as their "cut" and that sum was only about $1,000 less than the individual plunder collected by the Yankees.

Dutch Mantell broadcasting from the ring of the Pla-Mor auditorium: "Ladies and gentlemen, who hat wit us the van und only, Russian George Ligosky, the whiskered mauler of der ring, play pall." At last George "Whiskers" Ligosky has been cornered and will meet Rob Roy, local favorite, Wednesday night at the Pla-Mor auditorium.

Ligosky was scheduled to meet the local three weeks ago but disappeared suddenly and has just returned. Rob cornered the Russian in Amarillo the other night and put a challenge to him that he couldn't turn down. Ligosky wears long whiskers and is as stout as gentle as a Russian Bolshevik. He uses everything allowed and barred in the wrestling game and fans will see something new in the way of grappling Wednesday night.

One way to get even with the Russian is to grab a handful of sidewhiskers in each hand, place a foot under his jaw, and then push and pull at the same time. The effect is startling and beneficial. Rob is looking for a local subject to work on but at noon today couldn't find one. He wishes now that he had waited a few weeks to take on the Russian bomb thrower, for a couple of his mates could have had a chance to let their whiskers grow.

A supporting match is being arranged. Reserve seat tickets went on sale this morning at City Drug store. It has been stated among local wrestling fans that they would like to see Henry Clausen in a main event show. Clausen made a nice showing here last Wednesday night when took on Red Michael in a preliminary event.

Qualifying Play To Close Thursday

Qualifying for match play in the Country Club invitation golf tournament will close Thursday afternoon and play will start Sunday morning. There will be no more delays for bad weather or any other reason. Drawing for opponents in each flight will take place Thursday night by a disinterested party.

Play will be over 18 holes and will close October 16 when prizes will be awarded winner and runner-up in each flight and special prize winners. A valuable prize list has been secured.

Only three golfers qualified Saturday and yesterday. They were Mark Heath and Don Donovan, both with 74, to be low qualifying scores to date, and Tom Rose with an 87.

The course is in the best condition of the year following the recent rains.

Babe's All-Time Series Average, .305
CHICAGO, Oct. 3. (AP)—Babe Ruth, participating in ten world's series in 17 years, has batted the pitching of national league champions for an all-time series average of .305.

The Babe did not begin to figure as a batting star in the baseball classic until he joined the Yankees in 1921. While a member of the Boston Red Sox, he served only as a pinch hitter or as a pitcher.

Ruth's greatest year in the world series was in 1928 when he wound up with an average of .625.

GAMES BEGIN IN SOUTHWEST ON SATURDAY

RICE GOES TO DALLAS AND ARKANSAS TO FORT WORTH

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Humiliated by four defeats and three ties in their first fourteen non-conference combats against allegedly weaker competition, Southwest conference football gladiators start their championship race next Saturday with two conference melees.

Tied by Hendrix college, 0 to 0, and defeated by the Missouri school of Mines, 20 to 19, the sophomores from the University of Arkansas will invade Fort Worth Saturday to play the senior Texas Christian Frogs who trimmed North Texas Teachers, 14 to 0, to start their season, then hit a 3-all snag against Louisiana State, but came back Saturday to smother Daniel Baker, 55 to 0.

Having smashed Texas A. and I., 20 to 0, and nosed out Louisiana State, 10 to 8, Rice will invade Dallas Saturday to battle Southern Methodist in the other conference setto. The Mustangs, last year's conference champions have been held to a scoreless tie by the North Texas Teachers, and Saturday were defeated, 6 to 0, by Texas Tech.

The other three conference aggregations will play non-conference teams. The University of Texas invades Columbia to battle Missouri. Baylor goes to New Orleans Friday to play Loyola. Texas A. and M. will play Texas A. and I. at College Station.

Critics say Texas Christian will beat Arkansas, the Frogs were impressive Saturday in beating Daniel Baker. They offered a powerful defense, and their offense was sensational. Spearman, scoring three touchdowns and "Red" Oliver, with two touchdowns, led the attack.

Rice is favored over Southern Methodist. Displaying the courage and ability to come through in the pinches, the Owls established themselves as a probable conference championship unit Saturday by taking the powerful Louisiana Sisters. Trailing, 7 to 7, in the last quarter, the Owls won when Tom Driscoll, fullback, stepped back to the 12-yard line and booted a field goal.

Southern Methodist made Coach Ray Morrison's forecast of a defeat good by losing to Texas Tech in a mud-battle. The Mustangs had no chance to unshrink their aerial circus because of the slippery ball and uncertain footing. They lacked a scoring punch.

Texas suffered a 13 to 6 defeat Saturday at Austin by Centenary college. Although the Longhorns walloped Missouri, 31 to 0, last year at Austin, they anticipate a stiffer battle Saturday at Columbia.

Badly crippled with injuries to Malone, Lord, Domingue and Spencer, the Aggies fell before Tulane's slashing offense, 26 to 14, but the A. and M. boys should not have much trouble beating Texas A. and I. Saturday.

The Baylor Bears, who played their first 1932 game Saturday at Waco and walloped St. Edwards, 32 to 0, are stumbling into powerful competition Friday when they invade New Orleans for a whack at Loyola.

Nick Porreca and Howard Andrews, sophomores, are making strong bids for regular berths on the Duke football team.

Penney's 100% values

"QUALITY FIRST!" No more doubtful values! That's the ultimatum of today's wise shoppers. Penney's endorses this movement.

We put Quality first because it's good, common sense. Our success is built on it. And because we intend to operate for years and years to come—we've no intention now of abandoning our rigid standards. Low prices appeal to us, of course.

Penney's is diligently searching them out and presenting them to you daily. But—ALWAYS—quality is the distinguishing factor. One hundred per cent is our ideal—and Penney's Values must never fail to measure up to it!

GOOD TIDINGS FOR THE THRIFTY

"BARGAINS!" Yes, they're everywhere! But how many are genuine? Only too often, if you're not wary, you'll find that while you've paid LITTLE you've received LESS. Penney's doesn't scorn low prices. Every day we delight in quoting them—but only on Quality that we can certify to. Only on Quality that gives you 100% value for the money you spend.

All merchandise must pass muster here—must square to Penney's exacting standards . . . standards that have not been lowered one little bit during all this period of frenzied price shouting.

"Out!" That's the order to merchandise falling the least bit short of our 100% ideal. Nothing less than that satisfies us. And why? Because we're in business here to stay—and no business can survive that does not deliver a full measure of service and satisfaction!

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: A battle between her intuition and the known facts of Jervis Weare's disappearance sends the mind of his wife, Nan, into a state of grave danger. The fact that clothing and toilet articles are gone may indicate that he has left on a hurried trip. Nan can only wait in agony.

Chapter 37
F. F. TRIES TO HELP

There was no letter from Jervis next day. Nan did not know that she was counting on one until the mail had come and brought nothing. She looked at Ferdinand, and Ferdinand exercised some ingenuity.

"Buck up, Nan, here's a thing he might have done—a thing I've done myself when I've had my mind all taken up with something. He might have written a note to leave here, and have gone away with it in his pocket. If he finds it, he'll send a wire—but he mightn't find it till he gets back home. It's a thing that might happen to anyone."

"Why, in my own town there was the case of Reggie Lawson. Poor old Reg had got it bad. He was just a shadow—Cornelia Van Blen's shadow. And then all of a sudden he disappeared and everyone was sure Cornelia had given him the mail."

"By and bye Cornelia began to look shadowy, too. She'd never been robust, but she got so poetic-looking that she nearly wasn't there at all. And then one day she got a cable from Cape Town, South Africa. It said:

"Letter proposing marriage just found pocket winter suit can you forgive love to distraction. Cable reply or shall you cry Reg?"

Nan had been looking down at her plate. She had made a very fitful breakfast. She heard Ferdinand's voice, but she did not really hear what he was saying, because her own thoughts were speaking so loudly all the time. She felt suddenly as if she could not sit there and listen to them any longer. Her face changed, her mouth quivered. She pushed back her chair and got up.

"I must go and see Mrs. Mellish," she said.

She proceeded to the housekeeper's room, and there, as usual, Mrs. Mellish's usual austere respect—respect not in the least personal, but indicative of the fact that Mrs. Mellish knew her manners.

Today Nan approved the menu without so much as reading it. She stood, and Mrs. Mellish stood. She said, "Yes, that will do very well, and continued to stand looking past Mrs. Mellish in a manner which was secretly resentful.

"Was there anything further, ma'am?" she said in such a politely controlled voice that anyone less absorbed than Nan could scarcely have missed the offence behind it.

Nan did not start, but she came out of her abstraction and turned her eyes upon Mrs. Mellish's face.

"Yes," she said. "I wanted to ask you whether you or the maids heard anything on the night Mr. Weare went away. We think he has written, and that the letter has been mailed."

"Yes, ma'am?" Mrs. Mellish's tone was not really a very encouraging one.

"If anyone noticed anything," said Nan, "it would be a help. Someone may have heard him moving about. It would be a help if we knew what time it was when he went out. We are sure he pushed for a long time, and then said, 'anxious.'"

"Yes, ma'am," said Mrs. Mellish. Her plainly banded hair made the neatest possible frame to her plump, pale face. The hair was iron grey. In the morning Mrs. Mellish dressed to match her hair, in a strong iron grey, material which suggested in the most insistent manner reliability and moral worth.

"Will you ask if anyone noticed anything?"

"Certainly, ma'am," said Mrs. Mellish.

She left Nan to a feeling that she had been knocking imploringly upon a door that was not made to open. Then, as she stood waiting for Mrs. Mellish to return, it came to Nan that it was not so much that the door was not made to open, as that it had been deliberately slammed in her face.

She stood there and thought about this. Why do people slam doors? Either because they are angry, or else because they have something to hide. There wasn't any reason why Mrs. Mellish should be angry with her. Had Mrs. Mellish by any chance got something to hide?

Mrs. Mellish came back into the room with the slow walk of a comfortably covered woman who is concerned with her dignity. It appeared that nobody had noticed anything.

"And you, Mrs. Mellish? Your room is the nearest?"

"No, ma'am."

Her eyelids came down over her rather pale and prominent eyes. There was the effect of a blind being pulled down. First the door of the house had been slammed, and now the blinds were down.

Nan found Ferdinand in the study.

"I want to go and see Rosamund," she said.

"Why?"

Nan put her hand to her cheek.

"She talked too much on the telephone—I suppose it was yesterday."

"How do you mean, she talked too much?" Ferdinand's eyes darted questions.

Nan pushed back her hair.

"She doesn't talk—much—to me—as a rule. She wouldn't speak to me at all unless she simply had to. But when I telephoned to ask her if she had seen Jervis, she talked a lot."

"What did she say?"

"I think she was trying to make me angry. I can't remember what she said—it wasn't worth remembering. For chin lifted a little. 'I just wondered why she said so much.'"

Ferdinand frowned.

"Do you want me to drive you up there?"

Nan nodded.

They had a silent drive. When they came to the place where the wheel had come off Jervis' car two days before, Nan, on the seaward side, looked down over the cliff with a steady thoughtful gaze. She turned her eyes from the sea to the square ugliness of Robert Leonard's house.

"Leonard's been away," said Ferdinand.

GRAIN PRICES SAG
CHICAGO, Oct. 3. (AP)—Grain prices tended downward early today, influenced by more than 4,000,000 bushels increase of the amount of wheat afloat for Europe. Argentine was reported offering wheat cheaper abroad.

Opening unchanged to 1/4 lower, wheat afterward declined all around. Corn started unchanged to a shade off and subsequently sagged further.

Wheat closed unsettled, 3-8 to 5-8 under Saturday's finish, corn also 3-5 to 5-8 down, oats 1-8 to 3-8 off and provisions unchanged to 7 cents lower.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3. (AP)—Cotton opened quiet but steady today although Liverpool came in worse than due. First trades here showed losses of one to three points. Prices improved, however, after the start and December soon traded at 7.08 and March at 7.25, or 11 to 12 points above the opening figures. This improvement was attributed mainly to map showings for rains in the belt and an official forecast for generally cloudy and showery weather. The market also was helped by an agricultural department report stating that world cotton production this season would be much smaller than last season despite increased crops in one or two of the foreign producing countries.

Near the end of the first hour the market eased 3 to 5 points on hedge-selling.

The market revived very quiet all morning. Prices weakened gradually in sympathy with a decline in stocks and by the time offerings were absorbed, December had traded down to 6.92, January to 6.95 and March to 7.06, or 13 to 19 points under the early highs. Late in the morning, prices recovered 9 points on some recovery in stocks, December to map showings for rains in the belt and an unchanged to one point up compared with Saturday's close.

A private authority estimated the crop at 11,215,000 bales as compared with its own estimate of a month ago of 11,375,000 bales.

JOLLY GIRL—PLAYFUL BEAR

There's no jollier girl among the two hundred and fifty women arena performers with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus than Dorothy Johnson, and it's no wonder. "Bruin," one of the featured bears is Jules Jacso's big trained bear display, loves to romp and play with Dorothy, for she never forgets Bruin when she has choice things to eat. And, too, she both like pop and Bruin can drink it out of a bottle the same as a person. He like every last one of the 1,100 folks that troop under the banners of Hagenbeck-Wallace, which, by the way, come to Pampa on Thursday, Oct. 6, would do anything to boost her good cheer.

Miss Johnson, a manage rider and elephant trainer, heads the corps of noted women performers with the big show and will be seen in breath-taking feats in mid-air on high trapeze, also when the great heads of Hagenbeck-Wallace pachyderms come lumbering into the big top for their part in the performances.

Insull's Profit Reported Huge

CHICAGO, Oct. 3. (AP)—State's attorney John A. Swanson said today that Samuel Insull, Sr., reaped a profit of $374,000 through an over-valuation of securities in an exchange of stocks in his various companies Jan. 4, 1929.

Insull, he said, exchanged $9,765,008 worth of stocks in his companies for the preferred and common stocks of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and in doing so placed an excess valuation on 1,000 shares of Insull stock and company which he gave in the exchange.

Man Trapped for Ten Hours, Dies

SWEETWATER, Oct. 3. (AP)—Death Sunday morning ended more than ten hours of suffering for Robert Whitney, 25-year old orphan and German born employe of a cotton company here. His car plunged through a guard rail on Highway 70, south of Sweetwater, overturning in a deep ravine. From 11 o'clock Saturday night until 6:30 Sunday morning, when he was rescued by a truck driver, he lay trapped beneath the automobile. He died at 9:30 a. m. at a hospital here.

Whately supervised his removal and gave his recuer details of the accident, saying he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car on Nine-Mile mountain.

CONVICTS--

Malleferet was found dead in the prison camp sweat box last June 3. The state expects to introduce them as evidence.

The state contends the death of Malleferet was premeditated by Courson and Higginbotham when the youth was placed in the sweat box. Malleferet had made several attempts to escape.

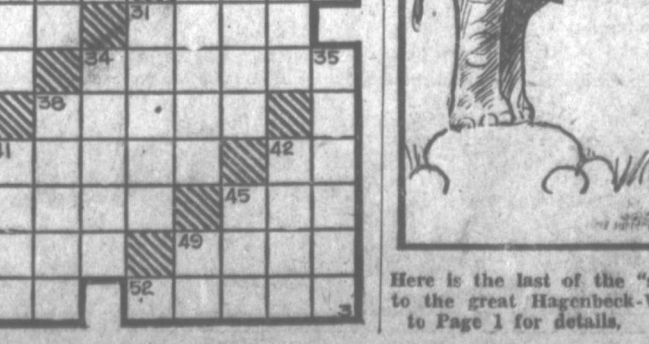

Courson and Higginbotham contended the youth committed suicide and declared on several occasions they told them he would rather die than finish serving his sentence.

TRIAL RESUMED

LUBBOCK, Oct. 3. (AP)—Selection of the remainder of a jury in the murder trial of Hugh Walker was under way in 99th district court this morning after a two day recess. The recess was called to permit summoning of an additional venire of fifty men, only four jurors having been named out of the first group of tamenmen. Walker is being tried for murder in connection with the shooting of F. V. (Leatherhat) Brown, pioneer county stockman, at Woodrow, near here on the night of May 30.

Minor Hoffman of Dallas spent the week-end in the city.

Trial in Bank

Burglary Case Is Begun in Collrt

Trial of Bob Betty on a charge of burglarizing the First State bank of Booker, Lipscomb county, last December was started in 31st district court here today after a severance was granted. Frank Roddy, also charged with the offense.

Roddy announced that he had no attorney and asked the court to appoint one, but disposition of his case was postponed when S. F. Rose of Amarillo, Betty's attorney, and District Attorney John Sturgeon agreed on trial of Betty first. At the noon adjournment the attorneys had completed examining the list of jurors, none of whom knew the defendant or his family.

Most of the state's witnesses will be members of the Amarillo police department.

Judge W. R. Ewing overruled a motion for continuance.

The following jury was seated: Z. H. Mundy, M. Heilin, R. E. Dauer, Floyd Reeves, N. J. Babcock, Homer Quales, H. T. Kirby, J. D. Paulik, Glen Ritter, J. B. Pettit, J. I. Bradley, and Walter Evans.

City Preparing To Supply Water To Talley Folk

Metering of the privately-owned water system in the Talley addition is under way as a preliminary to entry of the City of Pampa as water dispenser there.

The contract between the city and the owners of the line will likely be signed this week. Property owners are doing most of the work in connection with the metering. The addition has been without a dependable water supply for some time.

The citizens of Pampa used 20,830,000 gallons of water in September for all purposes, or an average of 694,333 gallons per day. This was much under the previous month, and bills will show a reduction of about one-third in many instances. The lawn rate for summer has expired.

Chicken Eaten by Pampan; Beans by Borger Contestants

Members of the Pampa Cal Farley Flying Dutchman service station ate chicken and all the trimmings while members of the Borger station ate beans in varying forms last night in Amarillo. The two stations have had a contest on for the past month and the Pampa boys were on the winning side.

Bugs Fincher, for the past two years manager of the Pampa station, said farewell to his assistants last night. He had been transferred to Amarillo. Gerald Gault will relieve him here. Other boys from Pampa on the winning side were Rob Roy, local wrestler, and "Duvy" Duvall.

Dutch Mantell and Rob Roy had a chicken eating contest which finished a draw. The high light of the banquet, served in the Cal Farley shop in Amarillo, was when the bean eaters cut into a wonderful looking pie only to find it filled with beans.

Blame the Negro, Not Dog, Says General Wolters

HOUSTON, Oct. 3. (AP)—A burglar got a duck and other accessories for a Sunday dinner from the home of Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters here early yesterday.

It wouldn't have been much of a story, though, had the burglar not taken Fritz, the Wolters' watch dog, as well.

General Wolters, however, said he thought, in justice to the dog, it ought to be recorded that the suspect, a negro, had been employed for 12 years at the Wolters home, until he was discharged recently.

Garbled Constantly. Bad Breath Still

He couldn't understand why nothing helped—until a friend suggested, "It might be your stomach!" And it was—clogged intestines that invariably spread poisonous wastes through the system and lead to upset stomach, colic, lack of energy, biliousness, etc. What a difference when he took Dr. Duke's Colic Remedy. Regular bowel action thereafter. He felt pepped up, renewed and breath became pure as spring air. That's because DR. DUKE stimulates the entire intestinal tract to normal functioning. Safe, dependable, all-vegetable. At drug stores—only 25c.
