ORDER PROHIBITS GAS SHUT-DOWN

Death Comes Gently For John Garner's Aged, Pioneer Mother

Oldtime celebrations are getting so numerous that the pioneers ought to feel magnificently honored.

The small son of B. W. Kelly, noting the manner of obtaining milk on a farm near Matador the other day, remarked that he would wait until he returned to Pampa before resuming his milk drinking. He prefers clean bottles to cows as sources of his daily beverage.

An army of discontent! Millions, milling about restlessly, some jobless, some working but fretting. All demanding changes.

Fortunately, this is not an accurate description. There is discontent. There is deplorable unemployment in the midst of plenty.

Yes, what do we find impending? We have a national election. We have the same political parties. One is in power; the other is out.

Schools have opened. Teachers are being called upon, before, to instruct in "political membership" as well as in political theories.

"The army of discontent"—who shall lead it? The democratic party this year is strangely called strangely in its unique responsibility to restore if possible enough common sense and common opportunity to encourage Americans to carry on the progress which has made this the greatest material nation of all time.

Americans are not ready to renounce democracy. They are not ready to repudiate Washington and Jefferson and Franklin. They are not ready to try the dangerous experiment of godless communism in this land of boasted individual opportunity.

CONFIDENT SON WOULD BE ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT

DETROIT, Tex., Sept. 20. (P)—Mrs. Sarah Jane Garner, 81-year-old mother of John Nance Garner democratic vice-presidential nominee, died at her home here at 12:25 p. m. today.

Mrs. Garner had been in ill health for some time but her condition only became critical several days ago when she was forced to bed with what her physician described as a general toxic poisoning.

Her eldest son, John Nance, hurried home from Washington, where he had gone to complete plans for his participation in the democratic presidential campaign, when her critical condition became known.

The pioneer mother of the Texas congressman passed away just a few hours after he had received a telegram from his running mate, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, the presidential nominee, in which he expressed hope

Vaccination Has Been Successful In Pampa Schools

Vaccination of pupils of the Pampa Independent School district for smallpox has met with gratifying success, according to Supt. R. E. Fisher.

Only 12 per cent of the students have not been vaccinated, of those not having vaccination certificates, and this number is expected to be reduced to 4 per cent when the supply of vaccine is replenished. The high school now has the best record, only 5 per cent of the students not having met the requirement.

School Enrollment Passes Last Year's

Enrollments in Pampa high school and in the entire independent district have surpassed the totals for last year, it was revealed today. There were 761 students in high school and 2,729 in the district. Despite this increase, however, the number of teachers is considerably smaller than last year.

ACTORS WANTED!

Any person who wants to appear in the famous play The Little Theater is to produce Nov. 2, was urged by Mrs. Julian Barrett, chairman of the casting committee, to call at the city library and read the drama, and then to compete in the try-outs Thursday evening at the district courtroom in the courthouse. A number of people read the play yesterday and today. The cast contains 50 characters and there is no "mob scene."

HOLD A SMILE

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Peas with a strange pedigree are the proud boast of a gentleman at Ronneby. A Danish professor who helped excavate the tomb of King Tutankhamen brought home a few peas which rested 3,000 years in the tomb. They were planted, and their possessor said they yielded a crop of 202 peas.

JURY SERVICE HAS ITS GOOD POINTS—DRAMA OF COURTS BEST IN AMERICA

By OLIN E. HINKLE "Gentlemen of the jury..." There is a widespread disposition on the part of citizens to avoid being thus complacently addressed. Jury service is not popular. "They've caught me on the jury," is a remark often heard, "but may-be I can get out of it somehow."

As a matter of truth, jury duty is not an irksome task, if approached in the right frame of mind. Jury service, as Judge W. R. Ewing pointed out to grand jurors yesterday, is a public necessity. The law precludes that a defendant shall have his case reviewed by a committee (grand jury) of representative citizens, a custom growing out of the desire to protect individuals from despotic authorities. The excuse of being "too busy" has no standing in selection of grand jurors, Judge Ewing holding that "men of affairs" are needed and that such men are usually busy.

Conditions Change

At one time Gray and Hutchinson counties were attached to Robertson county for judicial purposes. Holding court involved all-day travels, or longer, and it was not uncommon for the "boys from round-about" to make something of a celebration of the event. But verdicts in the early days of Gray county were more easily obtained than now. The pioneer folk who had strong opinions on the law and thought much alike, rather easily made up their minds. Today the county's population has divergent opinions, occupations, and beliefs, making agreements more difficult. Despite this fact, Gray county juries are believed to be better qualified than those of any

PAY SHELF IN LIBRARY WILL MAKE AVAILABLE TO READERS BEST AND MORE COSTLY BOOKS

New Volumes Are To Be Bought Each Month Twenty new books, mostly fiction, have been added to the Pampa Public library recently, and nineteen current novels have been ordered.

The reading facilities of the library will be increased next month by the addition of a pay shelf. The more expensive and best books of each month will be placed on this shelf for nominal rental.

Last month the librarian, Mrs. James Todd, Jr., checked out 3,570 books, catalogue 34, and mended 27. Two lost books were replaced. Thirty-five were over-due and fines collected. Judge and Mrs. W. R. Ewing donated two volumes and Mrs. Ida Watson two.

Members of the library board which attended a monthly session yesterday were Mrs. C. P. Buckler, president, Mrs. B. E. Finley, Mrs. A. A. Hyde, Mrs. F. E. Leech, and Olin E. Hinkle. Mrs. Leech was recently appointed to the board by the city commission to replace Miss Bernice Whiteley, resigned.

NOT A J. McALLISTER

An Associated Press story concerning a charge against a former Pampa chiropractor at Oklahoma City carried the name of C. V. McAllister. It is pointed by a local chiropractor, John V. McAllister, that the two men are in no way associated and that the two names should not be confused.

Jail-Break Plot Nipped

'CAN-OPENERS' FOUND; ALSO LACERATED STEEL Jordan moved the prisoners and made a thorough search of the tanks. In an old boxing glove thrown on top of a bunk was found half a pair of scissors, broken and pointed until it was an ideal tool for scraping steel.

When ordinarily boisterous prisoners show a tendency to enjoy sleep during daytime, jailers look for trouble. Yesterday was no exception at the Gray county jail. The fifteen prisoners in the two "tanks"—including burglars, hijackers, and other tough characters—were so quiet as to arouse the suspicions of Rufus Jordan, young jailer. With the aid of Siler Hopkins,

SOLONS PASS OIL THEFT BILL

FIELD CUSTOM COMES UNDER NEW STATUTE PRACTICE IS COMMON; CAN BE CALLED THEFT AMENDMENTS DEFEATED RESTRICTIONS ON PIPE LINES NOT ADDED TO LAW

AUSTIN, Sept. 20 (P)—The legislature today passed a bill designed to curb oil theft in the giant East Texas field. The senate voted 25 to 1 to concur in house amendments after a motion to refer to committee failed.

The bill would broaden the definition of theft to make it certain that an operator who took oil belonging to a land owner, royalty owner or other partner in the lease was guilty of theft. Many attorneys contended that under existing statutes such a practice did not constitute theft.

District attorney John E. Taylor of Longview and private attorneys for East Texas land owners asked for passage of the bill. They said they need the law to keep operators from running more oil than they reported to the land and royalty owners.

The house had stricken out certain amendments which proposed to place additional restrictions on pipe lines. Authors of the bill asked Senate to concur in the house action, pointing out that the legislature would adjourn tomorrow night and that the proposal might die if sent to a free conference committee. As passed, the bill was substantially like it was originally drawn.

Finest Electric Playerboard To Be Seen Here

The finest electric scoreboard in the Panhandle is being built by The NEWS and the American Legion to show the world series baseball games play by play.

Dozens of designs were drawn and discarded before the final one was adopted and the contract for the board let. The board will be complete in every detail and will show points of the games that no ordinary play board can handle.

The NEWS has arranged to handle the instant play by play report of the Associated Press daily and Sunday. When the game starts, all other news items will be dropped and the electric board with its many electric lamps and indicators will flash into action.

The board will be placed on top of The NEWS building facing Somerville street. Enjoy the world series by watching the game actually played on this NEWS-Legion board.

WILL VISIT CLUBS

C. H. Walker, district governor of Lions, will go to Herford and Dimmitt tomorrow to visit clubs in his district.

CAR USED BY NARA VISA BANK ROBBERS WAS TAKEN BY FORCE FROM TWO YOUTHS AT BORGER

Pair Left In Breaks 16 Miles From Highway FOREMAN

J. L. STROOPE

BORGER, Sept. 20 (P)—Borger officers have received information that the car which was driven by bank robbers at Nara Visa, N. M., Saturday, was taken by force at a dance here Friday night after the robbers had driven two young Borger men into the Canadian river brakes and released them 16 miles from a highway.

Tom Stewart and Eldin Sechrist told officers that three men seized their car as they started to leave a dance at Dixon creek, the robbers forcing Stewart and Sechrist to accompany them. In the breaks east of Oil City they said the robbers met a woman, and probably another man. At that point Stewart and Sechrist were set aside.

They said a description of the car used by the robbers at Nara Visa corresponded with that of the car taken from them. Three men robbed the Nara Visa bank of $1,600 at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Jaysees Are To Help In Staging Of PAMPA DAY

Members of the Junior chamber of commerce at today's luncheon were assigned duties in connection with the holding of the PAMPA DAY events September 27.

Gilmore N. Nunn addressed the chamber, outlining the new program for the day and emphasizing the occasion is a permanent monthly feature. It is sponsored by The NEWS, business men, and theaters. One of the features of the day will be an athletic show on the lot east of the courthouse.

The Jaysees also will arrange transportation for the high school band to Amarillo next Friday, which has been designated as Pampa day at the Tri-State fair. Anyone who can take members of the band to Amarillo Friday at 9 a. m. is asked to call the B. C. D. at once. The party will leave the central campus on the east side. A committee in charge of this project is made up of Frank Hill, Dr. R. M. Johnson, and G. C. Hubbard.

A program feature today was the showing of x-ray pictures, with description, by Harry Walker, local laboratory expert. Music was furnished by Sid Merton, pianist; James McKee, saxophone and clarinet; Bob Daugherty, trumpet; and Jimmie Drake, tenor. Next week A. J. Thomas will speak on the supply house business.

Police Hunting Untagged Dogs

The Pampa police department opened war on untagged dogs and wandering livestock this morning. Chief of Police John V. Andrews has appointed G. D. Holmes as pound man and instructed him to call on any other member of the city police force in his battle to clear Pampa of unlicensed dogs and stray cattle, horses, and mules that are roaming the streets.

"There will be no quarter now that the clean-up is under way," Chief Andrews said this morning. "It is not right that a few dog owners should pay for tags and have their pets vaccinated while others get off free."

The chief said that dog owners who have owned their dogs all year and have had them vaccinated or tagged will pay for a full year but persons just acquiring dogs will only pay for four months. He urges persons to call the police department, phone 555, when they find dogs or other animals destroying their property or running loose on the streets.

"It takes the co-operation of the citizens to rid the city of stray dogs and roaming livestock," the chief said.

INJUNCTION IS GIVEN TEXOMA GAS COMPANY

RAILROAD COMMISSION RESTRAINING FROM ENFORCEMENT ISSUED IN U. S. COURT

AUSTIN, Sept. 20. (P)—The federal district court today issued an order restraining the Texas Railroad Commission from enforcing its shut down of the eastern part of the west Panhandle gas field. The restraining order was granted by federal District Judge Duval West at San Antonio on application of the Cities Service Gas company and the Texoma Gas company.

The commission had ordered the field shut in until such time as owners of the wells "have a market which will insure ratable production and outlet." The commission's order followed a lengthy controversy between small independent producers in the field and operators classified as majors.

Hearing on application of the two companies to make the restraining order permanent was set for September 28 at San Antonio. The application of the companies attacked the constitutionality of the law on which the commission based its authority to issue the order and claimed the commission was attempting to exercise both legislative and judicial powers. The petition also contended the order interfered with and was a burden on interstate traffic in natural gas. The restraining order directed that the commission not interfere with wells of the companies so long as they produced without waste and in accordance with the rules of the

CAFETERIA AT SCHOOL NEEDS MORE PATRONS

More patrons are needed for the cafeteria operated in the red building on the central high school campus. An average of 35 meals has proved too small to make expenses for the eating place. For a limited time, perhaps, the cafeteria will be open to the public as well as to students. It is possible to obtain an appetizing meal for as little as 20 cents.

The cafeteria has been re-modeled and improved until it is a very desirable place in which to eat. The managers are able to serve banquets on demand.

Investigations by school authorities have revealed that money given many students for cafeteria meals is being spent for candies and foods not suited to their needs. The purpose of the cafeteria is to provide appetizing and nourishing food at nominal expense. All profits are turned back into the cafeteria. Parents are urged to buy meal tickets for their children.

Knights of Pythias Hold Rally Tonight

Knights of Pythias members from many Panhandle cities will gather in the north room on the second floor of the city hall at 8 o'clock tonight for a district meeting. Speakers from Lubbock, Amarillo and Fort Worth will be in attendance.

I SAW

A string of truck filled with workers leaving North Cuyler this morning and it looked like old times. The men are working for Floyd Erard who three years ago set aside a large ditching machine in order to give more men employment. He says he will not go back to machinery until wide-spread unemployment ceases. Mr. Erard is working over 200 men in laying a pipe line for the Wilcox refinery. He uses manual labor, exclusively. Here's to Mr. Erard! Keen anticipation in Eddie Winfield's and Art Pavey's eyes this morning. They are starting on a barnstorming tour the latter part of this week. Eddie, 18-year-old boy, will make his last jump in Pampa for several weeks at the airport this afternoon at 6 o'clock. The jump, Eddie said, will be made regardless of atmospheric conditions. He will close his parachute during the descent. A barnstorming tour, to a person who lives tamely on the ground, should be an exciting adventure.

A REMEMBERED OBLIGATION

The NEWS has been one of the most severe critics of legislators for not re-districting Texas as the law provides. The recent primaries bore out our original predictions to the letter.

Our discontent is not with the persons elected but with the injustice done West Texas. No matter who is elected governor, the January legislature should dispose of the congressional re-districting obligation.

As a result of the recent election for congressmen-at-large, three members of Congress will be from the city of Dallas, the member from the district and two of the congressmen-at-large.

Mr. Garner's mother "may be spared to you for many years." Mr. Garner and other members of his family, however, had known for several days there was no hope for his mother's recovery.

She recognized him only after he had arrived home after a hurried trip from Washington. On Sunday, a short time after his arrival, he stepped into her bedroom and, stooping over her, asked, "Do you know me, Ma?"

"Yes," was the faint reply of recognition. After that she dozed off into a slumber from which she did not arouse sufficiently again to know those about her.

Native Texan Mrs. Sarah Jane Garner, mother of John Nance Garner, prominent in national politics many years, spent her whole life close to the northeast section of Texas in which she was born.

Her birth occurred in a rough-hewn log cabin in Red River county, May 20, 1851, after her pioneer parents had settled on the prairie lands of that area.

Her father was Mark Guest, who came with his father from Tennessee in 1821, traveling up the Red River by steamboat. They lived for a time at little village on the river bank.

Young Guest married a pioneer girl by the name of Dickson, whose family had settled at Clarksville. They established their home at what was known as Blossom Prairie.

There on a farm, Mrs. Garner grew to womanhood, and like her mother, married a frontiersman, John Garner, Sr. The couple made their home in a log cabin near the present town of Blossom.

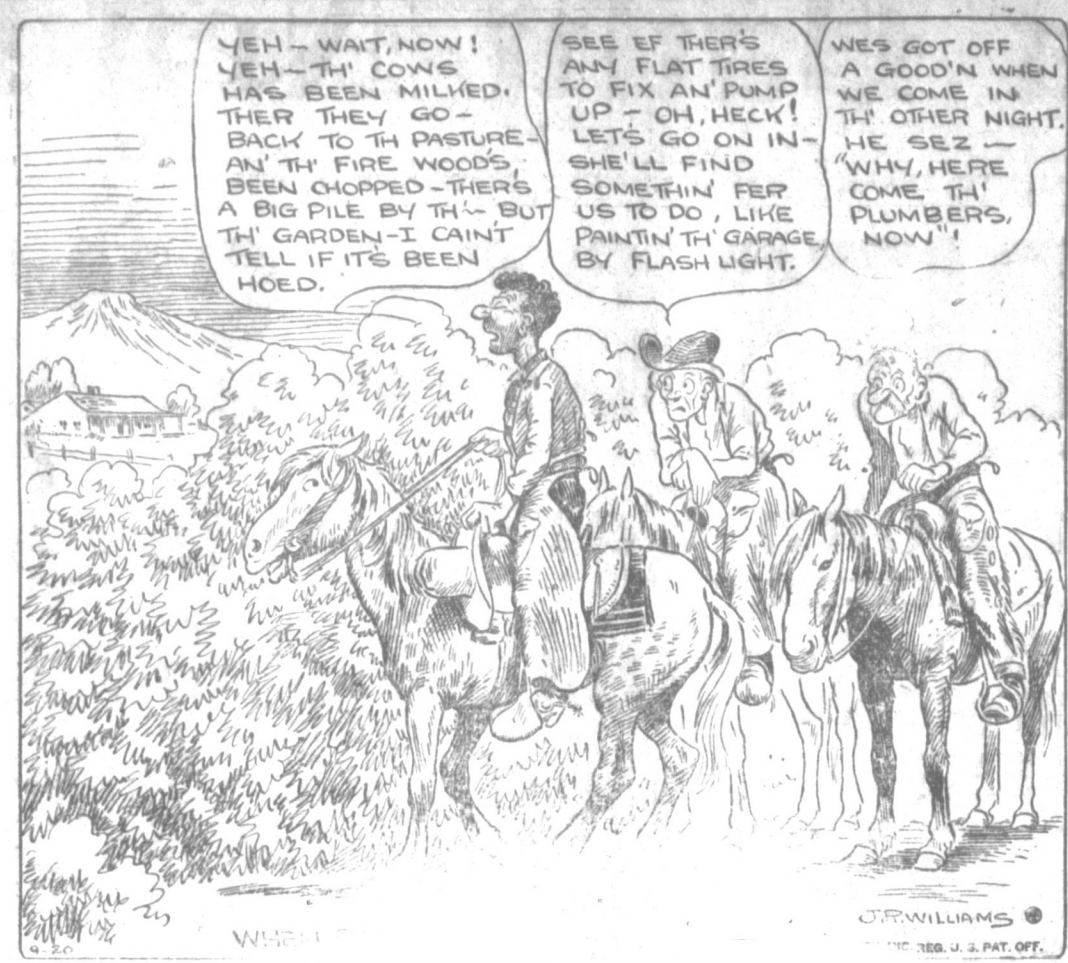

It was in this cabin that their distinguished son, John Nance, was born. Six other children were born to the couple, two of whom have died.

The four others living are, Jesse L. Garner, Jolly Garner, Mrs. John R. Wright and Mrs. Maud Blair, all of whom live in Detroit, Tex., where their mother has made her home the past 40 years.

In addition to rearing her own children, Mrs. Garner brought up five orphan children of her kinship.

Perhaps the greatest joy in Mrs. Garner's declining years was to watch her eldest son's steady rise to other Texas oil county. The petitioners take the following oath:

commission allowing 25 per cent of production. If addition to closing down the eastern part of the field, the commission ordered that each well in the east of the field, from which gas was being used for light or fuel, be restricted to a flow of not more than four per cent of its potential.

Exception had been made for wells that were producing gas for light and fuel in nearby towns, the exception being predicated on grounds of "public necessity."

The order had pointed out that certain pipe line companies, which had control of the market outlet for gas, had refused to purchase ratably or take gas except from their own wells. This condition amounted to "confiscation" of the property of well owners who did not have pipe line outlets, the order states.

Hearings had been held by the commission at Pampa and Amarillo, at which the Panhandle gas situation was discussed.

The order stated 31 wells in the area had been closed in for some time because there was no market outlet but that many wells were producing gas since the owners had a market outlet.

"Beyond question the wells producing gas are draining gas from the properties upon which wells have been completed but have no market outlet, and will continue to so drain such properties, as well as others upon which no wells have been drilled and are not being drilled because no market exists for the gas," the commission's order stated.

Soon Know These Then there are jurors whose minds are inflexible, who will not bend to any argument. These soon become known to attorneys, who refuse to use them. Some attorneys, who do not appeal to certain types of juries, advise their clients to avail themselves of the newly granted right to waive trial by jury. Jury panels are drawn by jury commissions of three men appointed by the county judge. Women, although given the right to vote, are denied jury service. Negro men have the right, but seldom the privilege in this state. The persons who are chosen to hear major criminal cases see court drama at its best—arrogant, wit, pathos, triumph, defeat, passions, prejudices, human nature in all its variations. Don't think jury service isn't fun, especially in criminal cases!

Some of the original democratic principles which, in application, have been abandoned in modern times... The American system of government demands more education, less greed, more individual opportunity, fewer individual tax burdens. Give America a chance. America is going forward. Prophets of better times are coming out of their storm cellars. And as to progress, more uniformly spread over the nation, "you ain't seen nothing yet!"

We say these things not unmindful of the fact that the charitable spirit of America will be severely tested this winter. Before any system of government can succeed, individual citizens must respond to the cries of the distressed. There is too much criticism of business men as makers of their troubles and those of the public. Business men as a class are long-suffering, generous, safe. They are not the makers of conditions which engulf them and force them to struggle with a declining market. The most deplorable part of the present economic set-up is that individual merchants can do nothing to stem a mass movement. Once started, a depression gains momentum like a rolling snow-ball. But there is a re-bound—business is definitely improving. Don't "sell America short!"

Funeral Services For Negro Woman To Be At Detroit A negro woman, Mrs. Surmatie Tinnin, 46, who had many times seen and spoken to Mrs. Sarah Jane Garner, mother of John Nance Garner, democratic vice-presidential candidate, died in Pampa today.

Her body will be sent to the town of her birth, Detroit, Tex., for burial and funeral services. Mrs. Garner died at noon today and funeral services will be held for her tomorrow at Detroit.

Mrs. Tinnin is survived by her husband, Gus Tinnin, three children, Jimmie Fisher, Leona Mims, and Dewey Fisher. Mrs. Tinnin was an employee of the Bowers family in Pampa.

School To Handle Pillows, Programs Having decided to handle the pillows and programs used at football games, officials of Pampa high school have appointed Mrs. J. B. Massa and Miss Alma Ruth Schukkey to have charge of them.

A close check will be kept on the pillows to prevent the losses which have been vexing in the past.

Jobless—Loses Mind Sheriff and Mrs. Lon Blansett left for the Wichita Falls state hospital for the insane today with a man whose condition dates back to an old athletic injury. Loss of his job aggravated his worries until he believed he was dealing in high finance. He left here under the impression he was going to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Immon are the parents of a 7½-pound daughter.

IMPROVING

Worley hospital attendants reported today that Albert Combs, pioneer rancher, who was injured in an automobile accident near Sayre, Okla., Sunday was improving. Examination revealed that Mrs. Combs was not injured internally. He suffered several bone fractures.

Funeral services for Winnie Pauline Quillen, 5, will be conducted at the chapel at the Stephenson Mortuary at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with the Rev. W. O. Cooley, pastor of the Central Baptist church, officiating. Burial will follow in Fairview cemetery.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Quillen died at the home of her parents on the Dixon Creek lease early this morning following an illness of 12 days. The family moved here from Borger two years ago. Mr. Quillen is connected with the Dixon Creek Oil & Refining company. Besides her parents she is survived by two sisters, Jewel Evelyn and Nina Pearl.

Pallbearers will be Bert Curry, Ed Dean, C. C. Butler and Bill Cole.

OPENS NEW SHOP S. J. Spears, with Malone Furniture company for the past several years, is remodeling the building at 219 East Francis and will open a used furniture and repair shop in the near future.

WOMEN FINALLY MEET THEIR WATERLOO IN LIONS GAME

ROARING GENTS BURY GIRLS IN 21-9 DEBACLE

CLUB LOSES WITHOUT SERVICES OF HARRY DRAIN

Pampa's roaring Lions are strolling about the streets with heads high and chests protruding today. Yesterday afternoon at Magnolia park the Lions accomplished what the Kiwanians and Rotarians had previously attempted—a defeat of the Business & Professional Women's playground ball team. The final score was 21 to 9.

Without the services of Harry Drain, speedball pitcher, the clubwoman were lost. Also they failed to get to Dr. H. H. Hicks, the Lions' darkhorse hurler, who had been working behind closed doors and on top of buildings for the past week.

First String Will Probably Be Selected by Friday Afternoon

If Pampa Harvesters thought they worked hard the first three weeks of practice, they got a big shock yesterday afternoon at Harvester park when Coach Mitchell and Fox put them through three hours of the toughest work they have seen this season, or in fact any season.

The coaches, who saw glaring weak spots in the team Friday afternoon when the Harvesters "skinned" the exes, yesterday started out to correct the defects. Drills from now on will be of the make or break variety and there will be no quarter asked or given. From now until Friday afternoon will be all work and no play and the first string will probably be selected by that time.

Not a position on the team has been filled and no one wants the coaches' job when picking the team comes around. Even the town coaches are in a dilemma. Several of last year's Gorillas are superior of old material and may get the call unless the veterans snap out of a slump this week.

The season will open one week from Friday with Clovis high school furnishing the opposition. In the following week the team will go to Berger for the first conference game of the season and the Bulldogs are the dark horses of District 1.

Wayne Kelley apparently has the kicking assignment sewed up in a basket unless Marbaugh shows improvement in booting while being rushed. The big fellow can outboot Kelley when not rushed. Jim Pool and Don Tate are improving in their booting work.

Coaches are working various combinations hard and substituting players this week to get complete changes of backfields for different types of play.

Bowling League Organized Here

The Pampa Commercial Bowling association was organized last night at a meeting in the Schneider hotel. Alex Schneider was named president of the league. Gordon Moore was selected secretary and F. A. Peek treasurer. The captain of each team with the elected officers will constitute the board of directors.

Teams in the Commercial league will bowl in Class A competition. There will be 81 games in the schedule. Four teams have entered and others are expected before the season opens the night of Sept. 27. Teams and captains are: Schneider hotel, Gordon Moore, captain; Country Club, Art Swanson, captain; Cullum Motor, Fred Cullum, captain; Thirty Footers, J. M. Powell, captain.

The Schneider hotel team for the league last year by a comfortable margin. Other teams desiring to enter Class A competition are to get in touch with Gordon Moore at the Schneider hotel before opening night.

HOOKS and SLIDES by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

"Them Base Hits" The Cubs will win the world series because they are an inspired ball team. They are traveling in the same high gear in which the Cardinals rushed along last year. The Cards were inspired by Pepper Martin and Burleigh Grimes. The Cubs are hopped up by Charley Grimm.

I can still hear Coach Jimmy Burke's rumbling laugh when we discussed the series the other day. "What are you going to do about them base hits, my boy?" was his comment.

The Cold Figures Jimmy Burke has the edge there. The Yanks are one of the most powerful run-producing outfits ever put together. Serious analysis shows the team also to have fine pitchers in Ruffing, Gomez and Allen.

But they had the same kind of fence-wrecking ball club in 1926, and Old Alex stopped them cold in the tough spots. Old Alex was a right-handed pitcher, too. Base hits are important, but there are emotional factors that mean a great deal in any game, and Jimmy Burke can laugh at that, too.

I can hear him say: "And do you, you believe in fairies?" But, pixies or no, the Cubs are going along at a pretty high emotional pitch. The release of Hornsby and the appointment of Grimm did that. There is no nothing where a team like that will go.

Chemically, Yes The Yankees are a greater ball club, if you put the two clubs into a chemical test tube and apply the acid. The Cubs are not a great team, not even an exceptionally good team. But Charley Grimm has brought a patched-up outfit steaming down the stretch, full of fight. In that last series with the Giants, you could hear Cub teeth grinding when Lindstrom cracked that homer off Malone in the tenth.

The Cubs have come on to win without a regular nine through most of the season. Cuyler was out for weeks with an injured ankle. Fans didn't know from day to day what kind of stuffed uniforms they were about to see stumbling around the Cub outfield. Grimm seems to have made up his mind now to play a rookie named Demaree in one of the outfield positions. Old Hoss Stevie has been the only regular outfielder.

One of the young Cub infielders, Bill Jurgens, stepped out into society and got himself shot. Grimes was on the shelf most of the season, recovering from a cold, and it was Grimes, you may remember, who was picked by the experts to win 20 games for the Cubs this year.

Two Technical Reasons At the intervals during the year, there were shifts in the catching staff. Hensley was banished and fined for general obstreperousness. Hartnett was out of the game with one indisposition or another several times during the season when the going was toughest.

BOTH SHIPPERS AND LOOKOUTS ARE CONFIDENT

FIRST GAME OF DIXIE SERIES INSPIRES BOASTS

BEAUBONT, Sept. 20 (AP)—Manager DeL Baker's seeping young Dallas Exporters, who beat Dallas last week for the league championship, were ready for their Dixie series opponents today.

And the Chattanooga Lookouts, the "show team" and perennial winner of the Southern association by two points, happened to be double ready. Both clubs are composed of "money" players, and one of the greatest Dixie classics of all time was expected.

Manager Baker said he probably would start Red Herring, a right hander, who has enjoyed a good rest. Manager Bill Neiffarth probably will start Clyde Barfoot, a veteran right hander. Alex McColl was Neiffarth's second choice.

"They can't beat us," fired Dusty Mills, huge southpaw pitcher of Chattanooga. Mills will be remembered as one time world series star with Cleveland.

"We whipped Dallas three straight. Chattanooga is next," was the opinion of the Exporters. Brilliant, daring baseball is in store for the fans. Both clubs are dominated by youngsters who are easily inspired to play super-ball in such a thing as the Dixie series.

The first two games will be here, today and tomorrow. The series will be resumed at Chattanooga Friday. Saturday will be an off day but there will be another game at Chattanooga Sunday. The fifth game will be at Chattanooga Monday. If remaining games are necessary, the site for them will be determined by the toss of a coin.

Beaumont officials attracted a crowd of 10,000 at the first game. The weather forecast was partly cloudy.

The probable lineups: Beaumont—Holley, 2b; Benton, 3b; Taub, cf; Frit, rf; Greenberg, lb; Easterling, 1b; Reiser, c; Wilburn, ss; Herring, or; Goldstein, p; McColl, p.

Chattanooga—Reese, rf; Cline, 3b; Gill, cf; Bonowitz, lf; Boss, lb; Bolton, c; Travis, 3b; Newsome, ss; Barfoot, or; Goldstein, p; McColl, p.

Umpires—Sears and Basil (Texas League); Johnson and Brennan, (Southern association).

By The Associated Press Smead Jolley, Red Sox—His homer with two an aided in defeat of Tigers. Bob Grove, Athletics—Beat White Sox, 9-6, for his 25th victory of season.

Chick Klein and Les Mallon, Phillies—Their home runs beat Dodgers. Ed Brandt, Braves—Pitched steadily to beat Giants.

Effie Causey of Clarendon was a visitor here Sunday. W. H. McKinney of Odessa is visiting friends here for a few days. G. C. Barrett of Odessa was a Pampa visitor Monday.

TUKE SAULSBURY

Another 1931 Harvester backfield substitute who will see plenty of service this season, his last, is Tuke Saulsbury, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baker Saulsbury. Tuke weighs 156 pounds but is a young power-horse. He is being worked at half and fullback positions. He played at both end and backfield last season, but toward the close of the year his ball carrying ability came to the front. He is a junior this year but will be ineligible next season because of the eight-semester rule. He is another Pampa boy and a brother of the one and only Don Saulsbury all-state fullback in 1930. Tuke has been handicapped by two crushed fingers but they have not kept him out of practice.

PURDIN AND MUELLER NOT FAVORITES IN PAMPA

Will the crowd be for Jack Purdin, the Florida hurricane, or for Doc Mueller, the Austin chiropractor, when those two worthies meet in the main event at the Pampa auditorium night? Roy Roy, Pampa boy who has beaten both, will be on the sidelines enjoying the sight.

The semi-final will bring Jack Michael, local boy, and Warren Belcher of Amarillo together and it should be a regular main event. The Pampa redhead has been going strong in and around San Antonio for the past two months and is a much improved wrestler. Belcher will be remembered as the boy who gave Sammy George the big battle here some weeks ago. Since then Belcher has been meeting top-notchers.

Purdin has completely recovered from the mauling given him by Rob Roy in their second meeting here. Roy almost tore Purdin's shoulder from its socket and he has been doing considerable resting since then. Purdin is about Mueller's weight and should give him everything in the game.

Mueller will naturally rely on his nerve pressing holds and his sleep special to combat Purdin's fists, and whatever he has in the sack. Fans are wondering if Purdin can stand the pressure. If he can it will be too bad for the Doc.

Tommy Thomas and Andy Camp will open the card with a 15-minute time limit match.

Cubs and Pirates Call Split Bill 'Sudden Death'

By GAYLE TALBOT Associated Press Sports Writer The Chicago Cubs, scenting world series money, moved today to put the finishing touches on Pittsburgh, their last surviving rival for the National league title.

They meet at Wrigley Field, home of the prospective champions, in a doubleheader labeled "sudden death" for the Pirates. A victory in either tussle was all the Cubs needed to make their triumph official.

Today's games were not, strictly speaking, of the crucial variety. The Cubs could drop all four setouts with the Pirates and still win out by triumphing Cincinnati in their last two games.

While the main show was going on at Wrigley Field today, the Phillies and Brooklyn were engaged in a private feud that had Philadelphia fans pretty well worked up. The Phils, striving to knock the Dodgers out of third place, were within a half game of their goal, having beaten Max Carey's gang, 5 to 3, yesterday.

Boston jumped Waite Hoyt for four runs in the fifth inning to defeat the Giants, 6 to 3, in the National league's only other encounter.

Boston enlivened an otherwise dull program in the American league by trimming Detroit, 5 to 4. Lefty Grove marked up his 25th victory of the season as the Athletics defeated Chicago, 9 to 6.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD SET

Wood Drives Miss America Faster Than Kaye Don Drove His Ship

ALGONAC, Mich., Sept. 20 (AP)—Gar Wood, America's premier speedboat pilot, drove his Miss America X over a measured mile in the St. Clair river here today at a speed of 124.91 miles an hour to recapture from Kaye Don, British pilot, the world's hydro-plane speed record.

Don, who failed a fortnight ago in an attempt to take the Harmsworth trophy from Wood and his Miss America X, established the record at 119.75 on Loch Lomond, Scotland, July 18.

Wood went after the record this morning with little preliminary tuning up. He notified the timers he was ready and, despite a drizzle of rain, brought the big 46-cylinder, brown-bulld Miss America out to roar upstream on the first official trial against the record.

Swinging around, he shot the craft downstream even faster. The official timers announced that the average for the two trials had set the world's record at 124.91 miles an hour, exactly 5.16 miles an hour faster than the old mark.

In an official trial yesterday he was clocked at 126.92 miles an hour.

Vines Is Winning Without Trouble

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20 (AP)—Elworthy Vines, defending champion in three divisions of the Pacific-southwest tennis championships, took two easy steps forward yesterday, advancing without a struggle through the first rounds of the singles and mixed doubles. Today he continued his singles campaign against Dick Belote, who handily expected to put the world's champion to a test.

In the men's doubles, teamed with Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, he met up against a couple of Los Angeles youths, who play the game at a much slower tempo.

There were no upsets, with the foreign contingent from Japan, Great Britain, and Italy and Spain, coming through in expected style except for a few three set matches.

Twenty-Eight Professions at B. B. Crimm Revival; Service Declared To Be Best of Evangelist's Stay

There were 28 professions last evening at the B. B. Crimm revival, the fact branding it thus far. In spite of the fact that the meeting is entering its third week, the crowds are continuing large in the W. Kingsmill tabernacle.

The unpardonable sin was the subject last evening. The evangelist declared that this sin was attributing the work of the holy spirit to the devil. "Many people today," he said, "confuse the sinning away of the day of grace with the unpardonable sin. There is very little difference between the two. Some even deny the person and work of Jesus Christ. One can sin against God, the church, the Lord Jesus Christ and find forgiveness, but there is no forgiveness in this life or in the life eternal for the person who deliberately commits the unpardonable sin. There is a time in every person's life when God's spirit makes its appeal. To resist that appeal is most dangerous.

"There are two roads in life, one leading to hell, with God's warnings on every milepost. The other leads to heaven, with all of God's promises on the mileposts to encourage those on its way."

After exhorting the crowd to accept God's way, the evangelist made an earnest appeal. Young people's revival continued with interest, and will meet again this evening at 7 o'clock.

The prodigal son will be discussed by the evangelist tonight. It will be a typical Crimm message.

Britain Offers Hope To German Arms Demands

LONDON, Sept. 20. (AP)—The government of Great Britain today took a position very near that of France in opposition to Germany's method of demanding equality in armaments.

In an official memorandum issued from the foreign office yesterday, the government insisted, "the German problem must be solved by negotiation and declared Germany's threat to quit the disarmament conference was 'unfortunate' at a time when attention and energy should be directed to economic rehabilitation of the world.

"In view of Germany's economic difficulties," the note said, "the institution of an acute controversy in the political field at this moment must be accounted unwise, and, in view of the concessions so recently granted to Germany by her creditors, it must be accounted untimely."

The announcement of the British stand was met with general, though not unqualified, approval in London today.

Reports from Paris said French newspapers greeted it as a "pleasant surprise," revealing that French and British views were not far apart. They pointed out that the two countries circulated in various quarters last week.

"The note created a favorable impression in official circles at Washington."

BERLIN, Sept. 20. (AP)—A government spokesman took issue today with the "unfriendly form" of yesterday's British note opposing Germany's procedure in demanding arms equality.

"It goes without saying," he said, "that we can not accept the reasoning of the British memorandum, according to which Germany of her own accord and without compelling reason raised a political issue of vast implication."

"The unfriendly form which clothes the charge that we proceeded in a manner tactically wrong and calculated to disturb the harmony between nations does not establish the truthfulness of this charge."

Roosevelt Train Derailed; Huge Welcome Given

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL, Sept. 20. (AP)—Delayed four hours at Bonner, Mont., by the derailment of the crack North Coast limited of the Northern Pacific, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the democratic presidential nominee, today was in Washington for an all-day lay-over at Seattle.

The limited eastbound from Seattle for Chicago, went off the track yesterday when a driving axle of the locomotive broke and the engine and baggage and mail cars left the tracks. None was injured.

Despite the long delay and drizzling rain, a huge crowd swarmed about the station at Missoula where Roosevelt was introduced by J. Bruce Kremer, national committee man from Montana.

"It takes more than a mere derailment to stop our train," he said. "I appreciate your gathering here after an earlier disappointment. We just want to say 'howdy.'"

He added that he wanted to come back to the Bitter Root valley and learn how you pack apples. Roosevelt's own Ellicott valley home district of New York is an apple country.

The nominee wired his regrets to Spokane that the rail wreck forced him to cancel a stop in that city.

In Seattle, the New York governor was to confer with Washington party leaders, attend a luncheon in his honor and motor to the western Washington fair at Puyallup, near Tacoma, 25 miles from Seattle.

A night public meeting will be held at the Seattle civic auditorium and Mr. Roosevelt will make a brief speech. His train will leave for Portland, Ore., at midnight.

Moving northward from Salt Lake yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt stopped three hours at Butte, Mont., where he promised, if elected, to call an international money conference "without delay or evasion."

Today is the eighth of his 21-day swing through the west. He has traveled more than 3,500 miles of the 8,900 mile journey through 21 states.

Negroes Convicted On Murder Charge

LAKE CHARLES, La., Sept. 20. (AP)—Two negroes were found guilty as charged here last night by separate juries in connection with the slaying of Robert Vincent, who with his wife and three children were killed in their home south of Sulphur Sept. 1. Their convictions automatically carried the death penalty.

The negroes are Josh January and Phillip Morgan, alias "Shine." January was first convicted of murder. Several hours later Morgan was similarly convicted. The negroes, indicted on five counts of murder and two counts charging arson, were tried specifically for the slaying of the man.

After the family had been slain in their house at night the torch was applied evidently in an attempt to cover the crime. January said after his arrest that he recently had been discharged as a farm hand by Vincent.

Mrs. Clyde H. Walters has returned after a visit in Kansas City. She was accompanied home by her aunt, Miss Minnie Willard of Louisville, Tenn.

BONUS FIRE SCORCHES ARMY

Flames that destroyed Washington's bonus army camp flared anew around Secretary of War Patrick Hurley after his speech before the American Legion convention, denying the army had ordered the torch put to the bonus demonstrators' shacks.

The picture above, showing Private Thomas E. Davis applying the torch to one of the shacks during the B. E. F. rout, is evidence in the War Department's investigation. Private Davis has made affidavit that he was ordered to set fire to the shacks. An affidavit by Lieutenant George M. Kernan, below, said he ordered Davis and other soldiers to fire huts not already ablaze.

Harris King, McLean deputy, was here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Shair are the parents of a girl born Sunday. The baby weighed 6-3/4 pounds and has been named Sue Ellen.

Food Preservation To Be Considered

Food preservation will occupy the attention of Gray county home demonstration clubs this week, according to Miss Ruby M. Adams, home demonstration agent. Green tomato minicameat and chicken gumbo will be given special consideration.

Miss Adams was to meet with the Bluebonnet club this afternoon, the Grandview club Wednesday afternoon, and the Back club Friday afternoon.

The agent also is reorganizing work of the girls' clubs this week. Yesterday she met with the Laketon girls, and this morning she was to meet with the Bell girls. A meeting of the Grandview girls is scheduled for tomorrow morning; the Eldridge club, Thursday morning; the Back club, Friday morning.

Mr. Keyn Crosses The Famous Bridge

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 20. (AP)—Leo H. Heyn, hotel proprietor, has ordered 50 barrels of beer from Hofbrau Haus, of Wuerzburg, Germany, for delivery April 15, 1933.

By placing his order now, Heyn explains, he saves $2 a barrel and is assured prompt delivery. "In view of the promises made both by republicans and democrats, I feel safe in entering into this agreement," he says.

H. K. Coons of LeFors was in the city yesterday afternoon.

My Beauty Hint

By BEBE DANIELS

Since shapely legs are one of the most important adjuncts to human beauty, so too must be the sheer silk in which we clothe them.

I never think of putting on a pair of newly-purchased stockings which have not first been washed. That is because of the shine, giving unnatural highlights, that all new hosiery has, and because of the crease that results from packing.

Dull, very sheer, very smooth stockings, I think, are the best aid to setting off a pretty ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peake and son of Fort Worth are visiting here for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lewis and two daughters, Marjorie Ruth and Bernelle, spent the week-end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Medkief of Hereford.

LILI DAMITA

Her approach invariably signaled by arrival of her maid and Schnapps, her dog, Lili would arrive on the set of "The Match King" and almost immediately begin to talk about going home. The Garbo influence, perhaps.

From that set tales of the Damita temperament poured daily. A "vixen" actress to that studio, the regulars flocked around her. She made friends with everybody, and excitement generally.

She had an answer for every question, and sometimes different answers for similar questions. Her conquests of royalty? Certainly, she would talk of those—even of her friendship with Louis Ferdinand of Germany, grandson of the former Kaiser Wilhelm. She almost married Louis Ferdinand, she averred, but did not explain why she did not.

She Works, Too

She sang on the set, little snatches of song, in a very loud voice and that was good entertainment too. But when Lili Damita worked—for the waits between scenes gave her opportunity to play—she really worked, with intense energy. And nobody begrudged her fun, for the ordinary movie set can become painfully dull and humdrum without a Damita.

Add to that spirit of fun a large-sized portion of beauty, brains, and personality, and you have Lili Damita, actress—the same, strangely, who was introduced to the screen as the sedate Englishwoman of Ronald Colman's "The Rescue," four years ago.

Ears And Careers

Ears and funny things in screen careers. Clark Gable hasn't suffered a bit from his, even though if you watch fairly closely you'll notice that Clark has 'em.

IT'S A BOY

Add to your list of movie-dom's mothers Jane Collyer, above. A seven-pound son now graces the Hollywood home of the Stuart Erwins.

Second Blanscet Rodeo Watched By Large Crowd

A large crowd saw the second rodeo at the Blanscet ranch southwest of here Sunday. The grounds had been sprinkled to settle the dust.

Winners included the following:

Buildcagging—Jimmie Olsen, Gene Ross, John Lindsey.

Calf roping—Jonas de Armond, John Lindsey, Hayden Rooker.

Break-away steer roping—Lonnie Rooney, Gene Ross, Bob Price.

Steer riding—John Lindsey, Gene Martin, with Jimmie Olsen and Frank Gray tied for third.

The date of the next rodeo has not been set because the manager "have a hunch we are going to have some rain."

But Preston S. Foster was rejected—because of his ears—by the same studio that made Gable famous. Foster went to a plastic surgeon for an ear-trimming job before he landed with another studio.

By SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

If you know how to care for vegetables in order to prevent spoilage and waste you will find it a decided saving of both time and money if you buy in quantity and go to market only three times a week.

With the exception of sweet corn, most of the fall vegetables are less prone to loss of flavor than the summer vegetables. The root vegetables retain their original freshness for several days if the tops are left on until the roots are to be used. Proper care and thoughtful purchasing will go far toward preserving the tenderness and sweetness of the bargains to be found in the markets.

If lima beans are purchased in the pod, they can be kept for several days. Limas are so apt to be bruised in the shelling that the shelled beans are extremely perishable.

The custom of buying vegetables with their coarse outer leaves left on is worth while, too. Head lettuce, cabbage, celery and cauliflower all can be trimmed at home and every bit used to advantage.

The outside leaves of head lettuce are richest in vitamins. These leaves can be washed and crisped and used shredded for salads and soups.

Don't Discard Outside

The coarse blades and tops of celery are splendid for seasoning, and the blades can be cooked and served in a cream sauce if they are well flavoured and firm.

Large heads of cabbage usually are an economy and of better quality than small ones. Instead of cutting out wedge-shaped quarters or sections, trim out the tender top portion to use for salad. This leaves the coarse lower leaves attached to the natural moisture. Parsley will keep fresh many days if the stems are put into water, just as you would flowers. Never put parsley on ice or in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Cold affects the oil that yields the flavor and your parsley will be tasteless if it has been chilled. Sprinkle cucumbers with cold water to prevent them from wilting. Wrapping them in a damp cloth also keeps them fresh and crisp. Bruised and blemished vegetables will not keep as well as firm fair ones. Potatoes which have been marred in the digging are less desirable than those with unbroken spins. Squash can be kept for several weeks, but should be stored in a dry cold place. Broccoli should be lightly sprinkled with cold water and kept in a cool place. More succulent than many of the vegetables, it becomes wilted if not kept moist.

The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes. "It's toasted" That package of mild Luckies. # Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: The dramatic mind of Ferdinand Francis grasps at once from Nan's story the possibility that Robert Leonard has made a third attempt on the life of Nan's husband, Jervis Weare, by weakening the bridge that almost plunged Nan and Jervis to death the day before. Ferdinand worms out of Nan the further fact that it was her self-sacrificing attempt to protect Jervis that put her in danger. Ferdinand inspects the bridge.

Chapter 26
F. F. MAKES A POINT
They lunched next day with the Tetterleys. Janet rang up and invited them in a casual, inconsequent manner. She said Brasher was dying to meet Nan.

She extended her original invitation to include Ferdinand, and finished up by hoping that they wouldn't be poisoned, because she had a new cook and Brasher said she had a Lucretia Borgis sort of look about her.

The heat, held after a time their road lay along the low cliffs. The blue of the sky and the blue of the sea swam together in a trembling haze. The car was an open one. The sun flooded down upon them, and there was no breeze but what they made themselves.

They skinned down a steep hill and tore up the other side. Nan felt exactly as if she were in an elevator; but there was something exhilarating about it, too. She laughed as they raced at the hill, and Jervis looked sideways at her and smiled.

"Nice view here."
The road was on the edge of the cliff. The sea was blue beneath them; the water sparkled in the sun. "Bad bit of road on that hill, F. F. Quite like old times! I can't get anyone to do anything about it, and what it'll be like after another winter. Lord knows." He turned to Nan. "That's your friend Leonard's chicken farm."

Nan sat up straight. She saw a green field dotted with hen-houses, and a neglected garden that had grown right up to the walls of an old stone house. The whole place looked unpeopled for.

"What a frightful place!" she said.
Jervis laughed. "A bit untidy! It's been empty for ever so long. I must say he doesn't seem in a hurry to get things straight."

"It's a hateful house," said Nan, looking at it. "I'm not surprised it was empty a long time—I shouldn't think anyone would want to live there ever."
Jervis slowed down as they went past.

"It belonged to a famous smuggler called Old Foxy Fixon. He lived about a hundred years ago, and after his grandson died people said the place was haunted, and nobody would live there. It's still called Old Foxy Fixon's house. It belongs to the Tetterleys, and I expect they were very glad to get it."

A bare quarter of a mile farther on they turned in at the Tetterleys' gate.

Brasher, alias George Tetterley, proved to be a massive, silent person. He had kind eyes, and a ridiculously soft voice which he used as little as possible. Janet Tetterley talked enough for half a dozen.

Rosamund did not appear until lunch had been announced, when she strolled in looking exquisitely cool.

"Robert's going to be late. Something's the matter with that car of his. It just got us here and no more. He's tinkering with it down at the garage. I say the junk-heap's the only cure. The brute nearly killed us yesterday, and I've told him I'm not going out in her again."

Leonard came in half way through lunch. He looked hot, and explained that he hadn't been able to get his car going. Nan had been placed between him and her host. She had, therefore, an empty chair one one side of her for the first twenty minutes or so.

George Tetterley made one remark about the weather, and another about the crops. Before, after, and between these remarks he ate his lunch. Oddly enough, Nan did not find this silence unpleasant. He looked at her kindly and seemed to take it for granted that they should both listen to the flow of conversation from the rest of the party. He smiled appreciatively once or twice, frowned when his wife produced a piece of unpleasant gossip about a neighbor, and did more than justice to the efforts of the new cook.

When Robert Leonard took the empty chair beside her, Nan would have preferred a more conversational neighbor on her other side. In desperation she leaned towards her host and said:

"Mrs. Tetterley said you used to know my father's people."
He nodded and said, "Long ago."
"Will you tell me about them? They quarreled with him about his marriage, and I've never seen any of them."

"Haven't seen them for years," said he. "Twenty years. Used to stay there when I was a young fellow—very kind to me and all that."
"My father had a sister," said Nan. "I'm called after her."
"Yes," said Mr. Tetterley, "that's why I thought you belonged to the family. She wasn't Anne, you know; she was Nan—christened Nan."
"So am I," said Nan. "Am I like her?"

"Yes," said George Tetterley. "Every." His face and his voice were quite expressionless.
"Do tell me about her. Is she alive?"
"Did she marry?"
"Yes—quite a good chap."
From the other side of the table came Ferdinand's voice:

"Where I was in Mexico in '24 . . . He proceeded to tell a lively story of an encounter with a guerilla band. The name of Pedro Ramirez emerged from it. It appeared that Ferdinand had been uncommonly lucky to have escaped the undesired role of providing entertainment for a temporarily idle band. "They'd got a really high class show all fixed up, with me for the star performer. There was a Mazepa turn, with me for Mazepa, and the worst-tempered broncho in the bunch for the Wild Horse of the Ukraine."
"Did you do Mazepa?" interrupted Janet Tetterley.
"Well," said Ferdinand, ignoring her, "this is a very instructive tale—one of the mother's-knee kind, on the text of 'If you do a good turn, it'll come back to roost.' I'd done my good turn eight years before and forgotten all about it. I'm not going to tell you what it was, because I've got a modest disposition, but just when those bright boys were going to get going with their quick-shooters, that good turn came home to roost."

"You're not telling us how you got away," said Mrs. Tetterley.
"Pardon me, Mrs. Tetterley, that is what I am doing." He paused and looked around the table.

George was smiling; Rosamund Carew lighting a cigarette with an air of calm detachment; Jervis, well, just Jervis; Janet Tetterley faintly bored at the digression; Robert Leonard in the act of lifting a tumbler to his lips; and Nan an eager child waiting for the end of the story.

"My 'good turn' was a man called Hermann Eisenthal."
Robert Leonard's glass continued its upward way. He drank as if he was thirsty and set it down.
Ferdinand was looking at Janet Tetterley. But those glancing eyes of his certainly had the faculty of being able to see two things at once. He had most certainly seen the knuckles written on Robert Leonard's broad red hand. Ferdinand judged that the glass it was holding had missed becoming a casualty by a fairly narrow margin. He finished his story.

"Hermann Eisenthal remembered the good turn which F. F. had forgotten. He had the guerilla chief in his pocket. And if you've ever been all trussed up and ready to take the floor as a high-class target you'll know just how glad I was to see Hermann. I tell you he'd got Pedro Ramirez eating out of his hand. Well, I've often thought it would be interesting to know what the bait was."
Ferdinand's bright brown eyes went past Robert Leonard to Nan. Perhaps they were looking for something as they passed. Perhaps they found what they were looking for. "Your husband wasn't with me that time, Mrs. Jervis," he said. "I'd have put the whole thing down to his luck. He's the sort that falls on his feet, you know."
