funds. The challenge is to Pampa citizens to do their part. It is possible that the system used can be made more efficient, with more work and fewer doles.

unnecessary works, but there was not a major item in that bill that had not been recommended by the administration.

"He recently boasted that public construction was being initiated under the terms of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, but does not mention the fact that this provision of the bill was included despite opposition of the administration and administration leaders.

"Mr. Hoover is president of the United States and as such the utmost respect is due him. But at this juncture he is a candidate to succeed himself and his acts of omission as well as commission are subjects for legitimate criticism.

"The loans he states that he is now endeavoring to induce those who have secured the millions of government credit to be lenient with the farmers and home owners whose mortgages they hold.

which to rear another structure of pledges calculated to help re-elect a president whose lack of fitness for the office has been conclusively demonstrated—and demonstrated by himself.

"The president's Des Moines speech indicates that he still cherishes these same obsessions that characterized his acceptance speech. Like the famous Mr. Dooley who 'marched them up the hill and marched them down again' he is battling every enemy and winning a victory every time he counter-marches.

"He still is using those long range glasses which reveal nothing except what occurs in foreign lands. It seems impossible for him to focus them upon his own country in an effort to ascertain the real cause and effect of the depression.

JURISDICTION--

pleas in abatement and dismissed the petition. Judge Robertson ruled his temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, from certifying Mrs. Ferguson as the nominee necessarily falls with his decision that he did not have jurisdiction.

Mrs. McCallum conferred briefly with the governor and then left her office. She returned about two hours later but refused to discuss what her action would be. She had said previously she would confer with attorneys attached to her office and possibly others before doing anything regarding Mrs. Ferguson's certification.

"The right to try a contested election under the laws of the state is given to the district courts in section eight of article five of the constitution and the legislature has attempted to enact a law carrying that provision into effect; but we hold that the act does not extend to and include contests for the office of governor. That contest is left entirely in all its branches with the legislature."

"The governor's attorney had contended the constitutional provision giving the legislature authority to try contested elections referred solely to contests of the results of the general and not the primary election. They argued that the governor would not be a party at interest after the general election because he would not have been a candidate. Judge Robertson held the primary election was a part of the whole election and that it would not be complete until after the November election. The decision stated Governor Sterling had pleaded the district court had jurisdiction under a general provision of the constitution and stated that the general provision would not hold good in view of a direct provision of the constitution. The decision stated on this point:

"By express language the right and power to hear a contest for the office of governor is lodged exclusively in the joint houses of the legislature. The express terms of the constitution will certainly prevail over a general provision."

Mandamus Plea Pending There is pending in the Texas supreme court a petition of Mrs. Ferguson for leave to file a petition for mandamus Mrs. McCallum to certify Mrs. Ferguson as the nominee. Mrs. McCallum had sent the ballots to the county clerk minus the name of a democratic candidate for governor.

"The primary election law is a part of the 'process' of electing a governor and must necessarily fall within the law as laid down by the supreme court of this state in the case of Dickson against Strickland. The recent ruling in the Dickson case, whether we like it or not, is the very latest expression on the primary law of this state."

Light Helps Sell Merchandise! Not so many years ago merchants made a practice of taking customers to the window or door where there was sufficient light to display the true quality of the merchandise in question. Nowadays "Eye Appeal" is an even stronger factor in making a sale. Buyers are more careful, more exacting than ever before. They have less time for shopping and will consequently buy more quickly if they are sure that what you offer is what they want. They can't be sure in a poorly lighted salesroom. Local merchants must realize that it is their responsibility to keep their stores as modern and as attractive as possible. Light is one factor in selling which cannot be disregarded. Make this test. Examine the merchandise and displays in the darker portion of your store. See for yourself if the illumination is sufficient to show off the merchandise to good advantage. Does it look as good as you know it is? Would you buy it if all you knew about it was what your eyes told you? Remember — seeing is believing! If your merchandise does not look good it will not sell. # Mrs. Worley Celebrates Her Seventy-Fifth Birthday Here

Mrs. Phoebe A. Worley yesterday celebrated her 75th birthday as a patient in the hospital which she financed and which was named for her.

Mrs. Phoebe A. Worley, above, herself known as a true giver, received scores of gifts and congratulations yesterday. The occasion was her 75th birthday, which she celebrated as a patient in the Worley hospital, named for her.

Friends and well-wishers visited her throughout the day, showering her with lovely gifts. There were two birthday cakes, one of them, topped with a single candle, being a gift from the hospital. To view the scene one would think December 25 had arrived, the nurses declared.

Mrs. Worley is recuperating satisfactorily following a recent automobile accident. She greeted every visitor with a smile, and her outlook regarding every subject was both cheerful and optimistic. "We had the time of our life," visitors said.

Mrs. Inez Carter, daughter of Mrs. Worley, who was injured in the same accident, has left the hospital, and attendants said the older woman might also leave in a short time if she so desired. She prefers, however, to remain until her business partner, Albert Combs, and the third victim in the accident, is able to leave.

The accident was not the first to be experienced by Mrs. Worley. Four years ago, it too by two pieces of metal, crashed through the windshield of a car, lacerating her face. She recovered quickly from the injuries and the shock, and declared, "I am thankful I didn't lose my sight, which is so precious to me."

Nor does Mrs. Worley worry over business. "For one thing, I'm too old," she said on a previous occasion. She can remember only one time when she had the "blues," that being years ago in Clay county.

Frost had killed the fruit crop in two preceding years, and the crop of the third year was promising. Then came the killing frost. "The destruction of so much beauty gave me the only case of blues I ever had, but after a while I braced up and vowed I'd never worry again."

And I haven't," she said. "I don't think I'll ever get that again."

Mrs. Worley has been a pioneer on three frontiers. When at the age of 15 she moved from Sterling City, Brown county, Ill. to Montague county, Texas, in 1871, the Indians were still making raids and gathering scalps in North Texas. She was married in the same county.

In 1891 the Worleys and A. B. Combs filed on three sections each in what is now Deaf Smith county when Mr. Worley was fatally injured when a horse he was riding fell on him. Then began the business partnership between Mrs. Worley and Mr. Combs which still exists.

When the Combs and Worleys moved to the Panhandle the buffalo hunters and Indians had just left. The first time they went to Amarillo, that city had only one store.

In 1913 Mr. Combs and Mrs. Worley sold their Deaf Smith county holdings and bought a 9,000 acre ranch near Pampa. They have financed and helped to finance some of the finest buildings in Pampa.

WINTER DINNER FROCK COVERS ARMS; ANKLES ARE REVEALED

By DIANA MERWIN.

(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

FASHION—A new sleeved dinner gown—willow and worldly—has made its debut with the winter fashions of 1932.

While arms are covered, however, ankles often are revealed, and silk skirts slashed in six or eight places are sometimes part of the design. Hemlines vary from floor-length to five inches from the ground, waists are slender, and the simplicity of the silhouette is more sophisticated than the most elaborately trimmed frock.

The sleeves in these new evening models vary widely in design. Sometimes they are elbow length puffed affairs, again they sweep to the wrist and again they are only abbreviated capes. Their general effect, however, is to offer contrast to the décolleté of the evening mode.

Velvets are among the favorite fabrics for the new dinner frocks. A violet velvet gown is designed with a dropped shoulder line, elbow length puffed sleeves and a back drape that falls twice to the waist, while a blue and black stripe velvet is fashioned on the princess silhouette with a broadened shoulder line.

Lace and pebbled crepes have stepped into the limelight, too. One designer offers a black crepe (waxed) with a v-neck and upper sleeves of shell pink chiffon topped by a little black lace bolero as the essence of sophistication in dinner wear, while another shows a henna toned pebbled crepe, the slender silhouette of which is topped by a brief, matching jacket with elbow length puffed sleeves.

For the woman who wants something different there are scores of interesting designs. A geranium tinted crepe concentrates its interest on a swooping bishop sleeves, a black chiffon is finished with short sleeves edged in black coq feathers, while a turquoise, artificial silk has a back drape laced with dark brown velvet.

Mrs. Miller Is London Bridge Club's Hostess

Games in the home of Mrs. L. R. Miller made Tuesday afternoon hours pleasant ones for members of the London Bridge club.

Mrs. John Studer scored high among club members, Mrs. J. M. Lybrand was high among guests, and Mrs. W. J. Smith was low.

The hostess served a salad course at the close of the playing to Mesdames Clarence Barrett, Julian Barrett, Bert Curry, William T. Frasier, W. M. Lewright, J. C. Low, Otto Studer, John Studer John Sturgeon Arthur S. Swanson, Roy Wight, J. M. Lybrand, Henry Charles, W. J. Smith, Howard Buckingham and Miss Margaret Buckler and Miss Virginia Faulkner.

WOOL NECKLACES ADOPT NEW FROKS

PARIS (AP)—Wool necklaces are the next novelty. They are waist length hoops made of three strands of twisted wool, all of different colors and finished with a large silver clasp. One of these necklaces made of dark blue yellow and blue-green stands in worn with a frock of blue green wool.

WHITE CORDUROY VELVET FAVORED BY FASHION

PARIS (AP)—White corduroy velvet is stepping to the fore as a fashion fabric. One of the smartest costumes seen at a recent polo match was a suit of fine white corduroy velvet designed with a short bolero jacket having very wide cuffs on the three-quarter length sleeves.

Automobile license tag A-1 of the 1933 series in Alabama has been reserved for Governor B. M. Miller.

RELAXATION

Relaxing from her labor of designing Hollywood styles, Mme. Lisbeth Krauss, Viennese designer, gave the movie capital something to talk about when she calmly took out her favorite pipe and started puffing. Mme. Krauss will remain in Hollywood about two weeks, so by that time your favorite unrelaxed movie queen may be puffing her own corncob.

SUNTAN SEEN AGAIN AT MONTE CARLO

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Suntanned skins are in again. At a recent fashionable party here many of the smartest continentals appeared with arms and shoulders richly tanned in striking contrast to their white evening frocks.

Pampa friends have received announcements of the birth of a baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Eaton. Mrs. Eaton, before her marriage, was Miss Marguerite Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Davis. Mr. and Mrs. Davis are former Pampans but now are living in Scottsdale, Ariz.

CHILD HELPED BY METHODIST CLASS GROUP

THREE ARE HOSTESSES FOR FIDELITY MEETING

A little girl will be made happy as the result of a meeting held yesterday afternoon by the Fidelity class of the Methodist church.

The session was in the home of Miss Naomi Owen, who was assisted by Miss Lorene Nicholson and Mrs. C. M. Whittle.

The dinner, with bloomers and party hats made, and socks were bought.

Games were played, and refreshments of hot tea, doughnuts and sandwiches were served. Those attending were Miss Lillian Mullinar, Miss LaVerne Ballard, Miss Clarice Fuller, Miss Charlotte Embry, Miss Beulah Lane, Miss Germaine Ragsdale, Miss Ila Poole, Miss Mary Idelle Cox, Miss Evelyn Zimmerman, Miss Ruth Siddons, Miss Mary Burch, Mrs. Waldo Fisher, Miss Novelle Hassel, Mrs. C. A. Long, and the three hostesses.

COLORED HAIR NEW PARIS NOVELTY

PARIS (AP)—Colored hair is a new novelty here. A widely known Parisian appeared at a recent evening party with her short hair streaked close to her head with blue-green lacquer. An actress has chosen a shade of violet-blue to harmonize with her newest evening frock of dull velvet.

Many white haired Parisians are using a soft blue-lavender tint which gives a mauve sheen to their carefully coiffed hair.

DISEASE IS MENACE

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 5 (AP)—Disease, stalking in the path of the recent hurricane, has raised a new menace to Puerto Rico.

My Beauty Hint

SHEILA TERRY

How many times have we seen an otherwise well-groomed woman whose smartness is marred by a sprinkling of dust under her eyelashes, where the mascara has brushed off?
To prevent this I dust liberally over my cheeks and around my eyes with powder before applying mascara. Then after the mascara has dried on, I brush the powder off with a small, soft brush, and the surplus mascara, which has fallen off into the powder, comes off with it.

ATTACKER SOUGHT

HARLINGEN, Oct. 5 (AP)—Officers today sought a man who entered two homes here early yesterday and attempted to choke two girls as they slept. In each case he fled before seriously injuring the girls. Neither could give a clear description of the man. The girls were Miss Lucille Waters and Miss Mildred Yates.

COAL MINERS JAILED

MCLESTER, Okla., Oct. 5 (AP)—Twenty-two striking coal miners were held in jail today for alleged violation of a temporary injunction regulating picketing.

CLUB ATTENDS EVENING PARTY HERE TUESDAY

BUFFET SUPPER SERVED BY MRS. BOSTON; BRIDGE PLAYED

Halloween was the theme emphasized in a cleverly planned supper-bridge party given by Mrs. Carl S. Boston last evening as a courtesy to members of the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge club and their husbands.

Supper was served buffet style at 7:30 o'clock to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bourland, special guests, and to the following club members and husbands: Mrs. F. M. Culbertson, Mrs. T. C. Ledrick, and Messrs. and Mesdames Seth Beauchamp, Bill Harlan, Roger McConnell, Floyd McConnell, Skeet Roberts, Jim White, Newman White, Felix Stalls C. L. Craig and Carl Boston.

In the games Mrs. Roberts scored high among the women and Mr. Carl high among the men.

Mr. Harlan, White Deer, will be hostess at the next meeting, October 18.

These tiny tender leaves of "spicy" Turkish tobaccos

—and just enough of them!

Turkish tobacco sometimes runs hundreds of little leaves to the pound. In cigarettes it is used much as seasoning is in food, for flavor and better taste.

You know that seasoning has to be used right... just enough of it, not too much.

Chesterfield puts in just the right amount of Turkish tobacco—the best kinds—Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun. These are not merely blended, but cross-blended with ripe, mellow Domestic tobaccos.

Enough Turkish, not too much—that's one reason why Chesterfields taste better—why they have a delicacy of aroma you do not find in other cigarettes.

ENOUGH TURKISH BUT NOT TOO MUCH

WRAPS ARE CUT SHORTER FOR WINTER WEAR; CAPES POPULAR

By DIANA MERVIN. (Associated Press Fashion Editor.) PARIS (AP)—Three-quarter length wraps—a radical departure from the full length coat—have been launched by one Paris designer, as the last word in chic. Both capes and coats slightly shorter than knee-length are designed by Heim to wear with the wool street frocks now in vogue. The capes, fitting smoothly about the shoulders, swing into fullness near the hemline. While the coats either flare or fit closely to the figure.

Wraps Match Frocks. Both are designed of fabrics to match the frocks and richly trimmed with furs. A frock of rust colored wool is worn with a three-quarter length cape of the same material colored and banded in brown astrakhan. A princess dress of purple diaphanous wool appears with a knee-length coat colored, cuffed and hemmed in black fox, and a gray wool frock is topped with simple semi-fitted three-quarter length wrap of grey astrakhan.

The frocks which appear with these new wraps generally are designed on princess or semi-high waisted lines with skirts, slightly longer than last year, falling in gradually increasing fullness.

Wools And Velvets Used. Ribbed and diagonal wools, velvets and velveteens are the fabrics most often chosen, while the colors stress chestnut brown, rust, gray and purple. Overall frocks, taking the inspiration for their design from the workman's uniform, are one of the outstanding features of the collection. One of them has a plain skirt of black wool with suspender straps of the same fabric and a little knitted wool blouse of brilliant geranium red.

Portrait of Billy Dixon Copied in Oils by Jenkins

AMARILLO, Oct. 5 (AP)—An old photograph of Billy Dixon, famous scout and Indian fighter, who died in 1914, has been copied in oil by John Elliot Jenkins, widely known for his portraits of famous western characters.

Efforts are being made to have the portrait hung in the Panhandle-Plains historical society museum at Canyon, which will be completed about January 1. The photograph, from which Jenkins made his copy, was taken when Dixon was about 30 years old. The brush of the artist has brought out the ruddiness of Dixon's complexion, and evidence of the vitality he possessed, as described to Jenkins by Dixon's widow and children. Dixon, at the time the photograph was taken, was a scout for the United States army at Old Fort Elliott.

Charges of Fraud In Election Probed

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5 (AP)—A senate sub-committee investigation of Senator Edwin S. Broussard's charges of fraud in the Sept. 13 democratic primary in which he was defeated for renomination by Representative John H. Overton, friend of Senator Huey P. Long, was ordered started here today. The preliminary inquiry will be conducted by Senator Samuel G. Bratton of New Mexico and Thomas Connolly of Texas, both democrats. Bratton said judicial procedure would govern the hearing and that a transcript of testimony would be submitted to the full committee and to the United States senator.

He said Senator Broussard was entitled to place witnesses on the stand and offer evidence bearing on the allegations in his complaint while Congressman Overton or his counsel could cross-examine the witnesses.

Jaysee Officers To Be Named Soon

A secret nominating committee to nominate officers for 1932 in the Pampa Junior chamber of commerce was selected last night at a meeting of directors and committee chairmen in the B. C. D. rooms. President Jim Collins presided.

PAMPA DAY was discussed at length and the group voted to support the idea in every way possible. It was agreed that the idea was one of the best possible to put Pampa before the Pampa trade territory. Other routine business was transacted.

Proration Body Refuses to Change Van Field Methods

AUSTIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Texas Railroad commission today refused to grant an application changing the method of prorating oil production in the Van field.

The application was made by L. T. Davis and others and was heard at Fort Worth Sept. 24. Order refusing the application stated there was insufficient evidence to warrant a change.

The commission today revoked its order allowing wells offsetting wells of the Alpha Petroleum in the Comoros field to produce in excess of the allowable. The Alpha wells are producing in excess of the allowable under a court injunction. Revocation was ordered following an opinion of the attorney general that held offset wells had a proper remedy at law and that it was unnecessary for the commission to grant them authority to produce in excess of the prescribed allowable.

Smith 'Certain' To Speak for Demos

BRODGEPART Conn., Oct. 5 (AP)—National committeeman Archibald McNeil quoted Robert Jackson, chairman of the democratic speakers' bureau, as saying today that a speaking campaign by Alfred E. Smith in behalf of the presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt "appeared certain." Jackson said it appeared certain Smith will speak in behalf of Governor Roosevelt's candidacy and that he will come to Connecticut, McNeil said.

MUDDY WATER SPREADS BROWNSVILLE, Oct. 5 (AP)—The swollen Rio Grande spread over a large area of farm land in Mexico today but danger of further levee breaks appeared to be past on the American side of the river.

Paleface and Indian Observe Treaty Birthday

MEDICINE LODGE, Kan., Oct. 5 (AP)—The second observance of the signing of the Medicine Lodge peace treaty between the southern plains Indians, now living in southwestern Oklahoma, and the United States government, Oct. 18, 1865, drew thousands of visitors to this city today.

The first of the celebrations, to be held every five years, was held in October, 1927. The observance this year will last three days and will be held in a natural amphitheater on the outskirts of Medicine Lodge.

A pageant depicting the purchase and settlement of Louisiana territory, including the bloody strife between the red men and whites for control of the area, will be presented by Oklahoma plains Indians, here as guests of the city. Some of these Indians are the sons and daughters of signers of the famed treaty.

Among Kiowa Indian signers were Aantata and Satank who five years later left their Oklahoma reservation and made lurid history on the Texas plains. Location of the exact treaty signing spot was made by Sergeant I-See-O, who died about seven years ago at Fort Sill, Okla.

Among civilians present at the treaty signing was Henry M. Stanley, newspaper correspondent for James Gordon Bennett's New York Tribune.

The Medicine Lodge treaty did much to end the struggle for control of the plains and was followed by treaties with northern plains Indians. The treaty was the direct result of the founding of the city of Denver, Colo. Southern plains Indians, distracted by the slaughter of buffalo by immigrants, retaliated by attacking supply trains en route to Denver, and the population of Denver faced starvation. J. M. Chivington, in command of the first Colorado cavalry, all but exterminated Black Kettle's band of Cheyennes, who were friendly to the whites, in November, 1864. Other clashes followed.

Congress authorized creation of a commission to treat with the plains Indians; it was the commission which signed the Medicine Lodge treaty, in the presence of probably the largest gathering of Indians in the history of the red race.

Courts Ponder While Operators Drill New Wells

HOUSTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Texas oil man is going right ahead with his pursuit of new production while a high court ponders whether the state's agency of conservation—the railroad commission—has authority to continue restriction of production already found.

In a short period since a three-judge federal court here took under advisement a broad, and perhaps final, attack on the validity of the commission's proration orders in the East Texas field, the biggest in the state, the restless wildcatter has found what promises to be at least one new field.

The territory, if it develops as all available signs currently promise, will be in southeast Texas in the Hardin county area where a wildcat test found pay, approximately 500 barrels a day under choke, in virgin territory. The test, near the town of Ariola, burst in as a gasser, but settled down soon to the steady production of oil.

Elsewhere in Texas progress was being made. The Conroe field, near Houston, completed its twentieth commercial producer; the Gulf coast reported 12 new completions; South Texas turned in four new producers, in Duval county; North Texas was busy with new completions and site for tests; East Texas led the list, as usual, with 109 producers within a week's time.

Judges and Mrs. E. F. Ritchie of Miami, and children, are visitors here today.

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Nan Weare, terror-stricken at the possibility that Jervis, her missing husband, has met foul play, begs help from his former fiancée Rosamund Carew. Rosamund contemptuously denies Nan. All trails have petered out, yet Jervis' friend Ferdinand Francis and Nan doggedly continue their investigation.

Chapter 35
MORE ABOUT ALIBIS
"Well," said Ferdinand as they turned out of the gate, "I don't know," said Nan. "Don't talk to me for a little."
They drove in silence along the cliff road. It was very hot, but there was a breeze from the sea. When they turned inland, they lost it.
"What don't you know?" said Ferdinand after a while. "In my opinion it's always better to tell what you know, because that's the sort of stuff that's likely to go sour on you."
"I'm going to tell you," said Nan. "I'm only sorting it out."
"Well, I like to know things—and when there isn't anything to know, I'm good at guessing. Did you get anything out of the beautiful lady? Is she still talking too much?"
"Yes, she is."
"Now that's very interesting. I'd like to know what she talked about."
"She tried to make me angry," said Nan. "She tried to make me jealous. And then she tried to frighten me."
"That's not very original. Will you tell me what she said?"
Nan looked at the dusty hedge-row sliding past. A little strach had caught on the lowest branch of an overhanging thorn-tree. The shining stalk held the sun as Rosamund's hair had held it.
"What she said doesn't matter. She wanted to make me think that there was someone Jervis might be with." She paused, and added, "Some woman. I told her she didn't believe what she was trying to make me believe."
"Then, I think, she was angry—but I'm not sure if she was really angry. She turned right round and tried to make me believe that Jervis was drowned."
"What did she say?" said Ferdinand quickly.
"Nan forced her voice."
"She said he'd had a cramp. She said he'd had it when he was bathing—with her. She said—she'd had to help him in."
"I wish she'd said it to me!"
"Why?"
"So I could tell whether she was lying. I've had a lot of practice telling whether people are lying."
"Oh, it wasn't true," said Nan. "Sure?"
"She gave a half impatient nod."
"Yes—quite sure. I'm not worried about that—I'm worried about why she said it—I'm worried about why she said any of it."
Ferdinand looked at her.
"You're frightened to death. Can't you tell me about it?"
He had slowed the car to a bare top miles an hour. She peered toward her cheek and pressed it there.
"If she knows anything—" She paused.
"Yes?" said Ferdinand encouragingly.
"She might—want—" She stopped, flung her hand down in her lap, and said in a choked voice, "I can't!"
"Try!"
"If they—if she—knew—where he was—" She broke off again. "They might want him to do something." They might let him go if he gave them enough money—but if he wouldn't—they could say—they had always thought—he was—drowned."
She faced round on Ferdinand and said passionately, "I'm wicked to think a thing like that! Tell me I'm wicked, F. F. Tell me it couldn't be true!"
"Now when you say 'they'?" said Ferdinand.
"Leonard," said Nan—"Robert Leonard and Rosamund."

BEST HIGH SCHOOL STARS OF 1931 ON TECH'S FISH SQUAD

Roster Includes Boys From Abilene, Sherman and Lubbock.

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
A NEW WRINKLE
Sport followers generally are familiar with the story about the substitute baseball player who went to sleep on the bench, slipped off and injured himself. Here's a new wrinkle on a similar story, only this time, it was a football player.
It occurred last Saturday at the Dallas Sunset high school and Corsicana State home game. Bill Bushman, Sunset coach, saw defeat for his aggregation because Corsicana was consistently gaining through one of the Sunset guard positions. Wishing to stop Corsicana, he called a husky Sunset warrior off the bench who had looked plenty powerful in practice and told him to go out there and stop the Corsicana rush.
Full of the old fighting vim and eager for a chance to show his coach the stuff he had in him, the lad hopped from the bench, made one leap toward the field and went down in a heap near the side-line. He struggled to rise but couldn't. Bushman (and was his face red) rushed to the reserve player, inquiring the trouble.
"Get coach," replied the reserve player with tears streaming down his cheeks, "but I've pulled a knee ligament and can't stand up."
He was carried from the side-line, crippled before he could even reach the playing field. Bushman, coach that he is, still blushes when the incident is mentioned to him.

AMPLE MATERIAL
Texas Tech's 6 to 0 victory over Southern Methodist was absolutely no surprise to those who had seen both teams in action. Tech played a smashing game against Texas A. and M. only to lose, 7 to 0.
Coach Pete Cawthon has a redoubtable football team that promises to be even better at mid-season. There is no danger of Pete running shy of material. The freshman recruits at Texas Tech reads like a roster of all-state high school stars.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC
This is to advise you that we will not be responsible for any accounts incurred by any of our employees on the construction of our contract on Highway 33, from Pampa to the Roberts county line, except upon our standard form of order signed by our superintendent, W. GRAY COUNTY CREAMERY

They came from all sections of West Texas, and even from central and eastern parts of the state. They numbered 81 on the first day of official practice, but have been whittled to 37, some dropping out because of competition and others going to other schools where the football camps were smaller.
Some of the stars remaining at Lubbock for next year's varsity include Gaines Davis and Sam Jones of Abilene, both members of last year's state championship team; Bert Williams and Mack Scoggins, members of the 1931 powerful Lubbock team; Brode Fickett of Spurbuck team; and Roy Brandon of Cleburne. Almost every strong high school team in West Texas last year is represented on this year's Texas Tech "Fish" squad.
It looks like football is on the up and up at Tech.

The State of Texas,
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Gray County—Greeting:

CONGRESSMAN ILL
BALTIMORE, Oct. 5 (AP)—Representative J. Charles Linthicum, senior member of the Maryland democratic congressional delegation, was in a serious condition today at the (Maryland) general hospital. Physicians held little hope for his recovery. He was taken to the hospital September 23 for treatment for a carbuncle on the neck. Dr. M. L. Slater said he improved after an operation to remove it but was held for observation because he had been afflicted with diabetes.

ALL ABOUT CONTEST AND BIG CIRCUS

Are you ready, boys and girls, for the great Hagenbeck-Wallace circus which will arrive early tomorrow?

Those children who clipped and "scrambled animals" and assembled and colored them (see correct arrangement above) should bring them to THE NEWS not later than Thursday noon, with three new weekly subscriptions obtained for 15 cents each or a total of 45 cents. A circus ticket is ready for those who followed these directions.

The circus trains will arrive early Thursday morning from Amarillo and will unload quickly and set up the tent city on West Brown avenue. The opening spectacle, "Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt," will be given at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. with hundreds of persons and animals taking part.

The unloading of a circus is always interesting. First will come the "lay-out" men who will drive steel spikes with red flags on them into the ground, where later, long wooden stakes will be driven for the acres of tents used by the big show.

Then will come the "cook-house" equipment—first of the wagons to arrive. Following will come wagon after wagon, while lumbering slowly along in ambling fashion the great herds of Hagenbeck-Wallace elephants, always on the lot early so they may be the first to enter the huge menagerie top and begin their task of devouring tons and tons of hay for their morning meal.

Soon, smoke will be noticed coming out of the great kitchen portable stoves and boilers, for meals for the hundreds of people with the show must be provided. Over the grounds, the men will be busy erecting the white-tents.

Within a few hours the great canvas city, looked forward to by youngsters and their elders for many days past, will be a reality. The big-top, slideshows, and the dozens of auxiliary tops will be up with banners flying—ready for the afternoon and night performances at 2 and 8 p. m. respectively, just as advertised.

John and Lionel Barrymore Both In 'Grand Hotel'

John and Lionel Barrymore are seen together on the screen for the second time in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Grand Hotel," coming Sunday to the LaNora theater. In "Arsene Lupin" they worked together for the first time since they played on the New York stage in "The Jest" more than ten years ago.

Although other famous brothers of the screen have "teamed" at various times, the Barrymores are believed to be the first to achieve outstanding success appearing together.

How It All Started. It all started when a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executive thought of the idea of producing "Arsene Lupin" with John as the debonair Parisian thief and Lionel as the implacable detective. So successful was the combination that when preparations were begun for casting the leading roles of "Grand Hotel," John was assigned the role of the romantic Baron, and Lionel was given that of Kringelein, the timid factory clerk.

Fast records show that Thespian brothers, while they may reach the pinnacle of success individually, have seldom scored working together in the same picture. Wallace and Noah Beery tried it once, some ten years ago, appearing in "The Trap" which Robert Thornby directed. It was an interesting sea picture but not particularly successful for the Beerys as a "brother act."

Wouldn't Steal Scenes. "I guess people wanted to see us try to steal scenes from each other and were disappointed," commented the redoubtable Wallace. "Anyhow, somehow it didn't get us very far. But, by himself, Noah has been successful in many fine characterizations, as in 'Beau Geste'."

HOME BURNS

The country home of Chester Nicholson, six miles west of the city, burned to the ground yesterday afternoon while the family was in Pampa. They knew nothing of the fire until they reached home near dark. Everything was burned as the house was a mass of flames before neighbors noticed the flaming building. Mr. Nicholson has no idea how the fire started.

TWO TURKS IN A BOAT

ISTANBUL—Two young Turks, Mahfi and Nohar, are setting out for a 500 day sail around the entire coast of Africa and back. Their craft is a 16-foot rubber boat.

and little Wally hasn't done so badly either.

Ernest Torrence and his brother David, two sterling Scotch actors, were equally successful in their single appearance together in the early days of the silents. Separately each can boast of a notable picture career.

Charles and Cyd Chaplin appeared together in an early Keystone comedy, now lost in the mazes of the past. But alone, Syd played in "Charley's Aunt" and "The Better 'Ole" and Charlie has achieved classic in "The Gold Rush," "The Circus" and "City Lights."

One Other Hit Team. There is one other successful brother team in pictures but with four brothers in it. They are the Marx Brothers: Groucho, Zeppo, Harpo and Chico. But they never have appeared separately. In vaudeville and in plays they have always been an organization. One never thinks of them except as a unit.

Jackie Coogan and his small brother, Robert, have never appeared together, although when Jackie was making his last picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and Robert was on the set, there was talk of his doing a "bit." But the Coogan brothers are young yet.

Edmund Goulding directed "Grand Hotel" with an all-star cast which includes the Barrymores, Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford and Wallace Beery.

'Jewel Robbery' At Rex Today

A two-fold interest and importance attaches "Jewel Robbery," the brilliant Viennese romantic melodrama which opens at the Rex theatre today.

First and foremost, it marks the screen reunion of William Powell and Kay Francis, after a lapse of many months.

Secondly, because "Jewel Robbery" has fascinated and amused the theater-goers of two continents with its wit, its suave, subtle satire, and its gay, polished sarcasm.

In translating this unusual drama to the screen, have stopped at nothing to surround their two stars with a perfect cast.

William Powell and Kay Francis are each stars in their own right. Yet so enthusiastic were both, over the leading roles of "Jewel Robbery," that they fairly cheered the suggestion of the production heads of the studio that they co-star in the picture.

Powell is a polished, debonair bandit who gracefully eludes the smartest police agents of Europe.

Kay Francis is the spoiled wife of Vienna's richest banker, whose proud boast it is that no man can give her the thrill that a new jewel affords her. The afternoon that her doting husband is about to purchase for her a celebrated diamond, at Vienna's most exclusive jeweler's is the afternoon that "The Robber" has chosen to pay the same jeweler a professional visit.

Even while she is being robbed, the Baroness forgets her passion for precious stones in her admiration for the aristocratic outlaw who so gallantly relieves her of her jewels, as a mere incident to the looting of the shop.

Her heart, she finds to her horror and delight, is irreversibly gone. She finds she has been robbed of more than her jewels.

Done in a mood of romantic whimsicality and daring that lends to every situation pace and sparkle, the story never slows up for a second.

The picture with a suavely and a subtle humor that is in perfect harmony with the elements of the story.

The supporting cast of players reveals exceptional strength. Helen Vinson was brought especially from Broadway for the role of Marianne, after building a brilliant reputation for herself in such productions as "Death Takes a Holiday," "Berlin" and "The Fatal Alibi." Hardie Albright, as Paul, is another Broadway favorite whose outstanding work in "So Big," opposite Barbara Stanwyck led to his important role in this picture.

Henry Kolker, as Baron Franz, has been a familiar figure to metropolitan theater-goers for thirty years, besides having a long and successful screen record to his credit. Spencer Charters, whose comedy characterizations have won him a unique place on both stage and screen, is a typical police agent.

In brief but vivid roles are such experienced actors as Lee Kohlmar, Charles Coleman, Andre Luguet, Robert Greig, Clarence Wilson, Leo White, Lawrence Grant, Ivan Linow and Ruth Kennelly.

"Jewel Robbery" is an adaptation of the New York and Vienna success by Ladislav Fodor, done by Edwin Gelsey.

How to Produce Good Beef Told By County Agent

"You cannot get good beef out of a can if you do not put good beef into the can," says County Agent Ralph Thomas. "There is nothing about the canning process that will put a good flavor in poor quality meat. Tough meat may be made tender by cooking under the pressure but more than likely it will be stringy and lackluster in flavor. In the new methods of canning, much of the original flavor is retained in the beef good or bad." To have good quality beef for canning the animal should be grain fed from 60 to 80 days after taking it up off of the grass, and should be putting on fat at time of slaughter to get the most tender and palatable beef. In most cases, home grown feeds should be used with a supplement of 8 per cent cottonseed meal. The grains in order named are best suited for fattening beef animals are corn, grain sorghums, such as milo maize, kafir etc., barley, wheat, and oats. Mixtures of two or more grains make a better ration than just one feed. To get the best results grains should be ground so that all the grains are cracked and not too fine. It is well to grind the corn cob and all the grain sorghum heads; and, in the case of wheat or barley, ground bundles, wheat bran, or other bulky feeds should be added so the feed will not pack in the paunch.

Two Arrested In Death of Picket

CANBY, Minn., Oct. 5 (AP)—A father and his son were arrested today in connection with the slaying of Nordahl Peterson, 25, farmer-picket shot to death a mile west of here last night. They were placed in jail at Granite Falls. They are Ole Anderson, 47, and Leclard Anderson, 19, who lived near the site of the shooting. Peterson's death was the first fatality of the Minnesota farmers holiday movement, which has brought picketing of many highways in recent weeks by farmers hoping to raise prices by preventing marketing of nonperishable products. Deputy Sheriff O. C. Snortum said the son admitted driving past the roadside picket tent where Peterson was standing when a shot gun charge killed him instantly. Other pickets with Peterson obtained the license number of the car from which the shots were fired and gave it to Sheriff Martin F. Fitzner, who made the arrests.

PLANES TO VISIT TEXAS WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—At the request of Ambassador Clark, in Mexico City, the state department has made arrangements thru the war, treasury and labor departments for a squadron of three Mexican army planes to visit the Texas State fair at Dallas. Appropriate courtesies and facilities will be extended the Mexicans when their planes reach Brownsville.

COLD AT ABILENE ABILENE, Oct. 5 (AP)—A temperature of 30 degrees here this morning was the lowest on record this early in the season. It was accompanied by a light frost which did no known damage. The earliest frost on record was on Oct. 19, 1917.

Trial of Berl Walker Starts

Trial of Berl Walker on a charge of robbery as an accomplice in the hijacking of employees of the Danziger refinery a few weeks ago was started in district court today. Judge W. R. Ewing appointed Fred Cary to represent Walker. He overruled defense motions to quash the indictment and for continuance. Walker, indicted with J. W. Hawkins, alias Doc Holley, and Arnold Chamless, asked for a severance and the right to be tried last. A similar motion for Hawkins and Chamless asking that Walker be tried first was presented, leaving the matter discretionary with the judge. In the absence of Clem Calhoun, attorney for Hawkins and Chamless, on account of illness, Judge Ewing ruled that Walker be tried to avoid delays. The following jury was seated: E. C. Reese, J. I. Watson, R. E. Dauer, W. C. Carpenter, Curtis Lancaster, Boyd Reeves, Homer Quales, James A. Jackson, L. R. Bush, A. C. St. Clair, Frank Reeves, W. H. Floyd. As testimony opened before a full courtroom, defense attorneys objected to detailing of the hijacking because Walker was not seen by witnesses as a participant. The objection was, at least temporarily, overruled. WHAT'S UP NOW? BROWNSVILLE, Oct. 5 (AP)—Will Rogers, the humorist, and Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, have reserved passage from Brownsville to Mexico City on the Pan-American, plane which leaves here Friday morning.

WHEAT DROPS

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 (AP)—Grain values underwent a sharp quick setback early today. Despite the fact that in some quarters President Hoover's Des Moines speech was construed as bullish, selling orders overwhelmed the wheat pit and prices suffered an all around tumble. Opening 3/4% lower, wheat afterward dropped further. Corn started 1/2% off and continued to point downward. Wheat closed unsteady, 2-2 1/2 cts lower than yesterday's finish, corn 1/4% down, oats 1/2 off and provisions showing losses of 5 to 27 cents.

trades showed gains of 5 to 6 points and the market continued to improve after the start on an unfavorable weekly weather report and on predictions of frost in the northern portions of the central belt for tonight. December traded up to 7.30 and March to 7.35, or 10 points above the previous close. Later in the first hour, the market turned easier owing to hedge-selling and to an easier course in stocks. December dropped to 7.05 and March to 7.22, or 13 to 14 points down from the early highs and 3 to 4 points under yesterday's close. The market was a shade steadier near the end of the first hour and one to two points up from the lows. The market turned easier as the morning progressed owing to weakness in stocks and also considerable hedge-selling. There likewise was liquidation by longs in advance of the government crop report due Saturday. December finally traded down to 6.88 and March to 7.05, or 30 to 32 points under the early high and 20 to 22 points under yesterday's close.

COTTON STEADY

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5 (AP)—Cotton had a quiet but steady opening today. Liverpool cables were about as due and weather reports were generally unfavorable. First near mid-session, there was a fair rally due to covering by shorts and some little recovery in stocks. Prices advanced 10 to 14 points from the lows. At these levels prices were 8 to 10 points below the close of yesterday. Two additional private crop estimates this morning guessed the crop at 11,521,000 bales and 10,839,000 bales respectively. VOTES ILLEGAL. SAN ANGELO, Oct. 5 (AP)—Absence of the democratic pledge on Tom Green county ballots in the August 27 primary may void ballots affecting the gubernatorial contest, it developed today in speculation over the Ferguson allegation at 3-896 ballots here were illegal. Sterling carried the county 3,010 to 2,486 for Mrs. Ferguson.
