LIFE-LONG REPUBLICAN ANNOUNCES FOR ROOSEVELT

By R. H. HIPPELHEUSER
Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Oct. 15. (AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the man he termed the "happy warrior"—Alfred E. Smith—will share the platform in democracy's closing campaign rallies in New York.

This became a certainty today as democratic chiefs, desirous of further campaigning by Speaker John N. Garner, awaited a decision from the vice-presidential nominee on a proposed tour of the west.

The standard bearer of the democracy and his predecessor at Albany—who effected a reconciliation at the state convention two weeks ago—will headline programs at the Brooklyn Academy of Music November 4 and at Madison Square Garden November 5.

Aside from the Roosevelt rallies, former Governor Smith, his office announced late today, will make the following tour after an address October 19 at Tammany Hall:

October 24, Newark, N. J.; October 27, Boston and Providence; October 29, Buffalo; November 2, Troy.

The Newark and Boston addresses Smith's office said, will be broadcast over a nationwide radio hookup. The former, it was indicated, would be in the nature of a reply to Calvin Coolidge's recent New York address.

"TRAITORS"

Branded as "traitors to the working class," these two Russian leaders were expelled from the Communist party for "trying to re-establish capitalism in the U. S. S. R." They are Gregory Zinovieff (above), long a holder of high Soviet offices, and Leo Kamenev (below), brother-in-law of Leon Trotsky. Twenty-two other Communists, accused of being co-conspirators in "a counter-revolutionary organization," were expelled with them.

Lions Directors To Meet Today

Members of the Lions club board of directors will meet this afternoon in the office of John Sturgeon, the president of the organization.

The session, to start promptly at 2 p. m., will take up the problem of helping to finance the school cafeteria. The Kiwanis directors already have passed favorably upon this project. The clubs propose to pay part of the cost of furnishing lunches to needy children, and to ask the public to pay the remainder.

'GALLOPIN' GHOST' IS WOUNDED BY BANDIT PAIR IN STORE

JUST BACK FROM REAR

NEARBY VICTIM WARNS OF APPROACHING ROBBERS

LUBBOCK, Oct. 15. (AP)—Robert Tharp, 24, former McMurry college football player, was gravely wounded by a hijacker at a grocery store here tonight.

Two men entered the store a few minutes after Tharp, assistant manager, had been tipped by employees of a grocery store nine blocks away, that two men had held them up.

Tharp was returning to the front of the building after placing the cash in the back.

When an empty cash register was displayed, the bandit shot Tharp through the abdomen with a gun described as of foreign make. Police tonight were searching for the bandit pair who ran from the store and presumably escaped in an automobile.

Tharp, known as the "Gallopin' Ghost" when he played football on the McMurry Indian team, had been an employee of the store three years.

HALF OF GOAL COLLECTED IN WELFARE DRIVE

Much Confidence Is Placed in Many Promises

More promises than cash were received by solicitors in the welfare drive yesterday, but workers placed much confidence in those promises.

Slightly more than half of $5,500 goal had been collected. Solicitors had begun to re-trace their steps to see those who had been absent when the first calls were made.

Committees working in the oil fields expected to obtain substantial contributions, although considerable time will be needed to communicate with headquarters. Similarly, a number of local firms will announce their contributions for a few days.

It is emphasized by Jack Cunningham, chairman of the solicitor, should finish their districts as soon as possible and report daily on their progress.

FLORIDA GUARD CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

ACQUIT HIGGINBOTHAM IN SWEAT-BOX DRAMA

ASKS FOR A NEW TRIAL

JURY GIVES MINIMUM PUNISHMENT TO COURSON

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 15. (AP)—George W. Courson, who testified in the "sweat box murder trial" that his attitude toward Arthur Mallefert, young prisoner, was that of a benign father, was convicted of manslaughter today. The jury accepted Solomon Higginbotham's story that he applied the golden rule in handling Mallefert and acquitted him.

The two former guards were charged with first degree murder for the death of the Westfield, N. J. youth, strangled to death in a sweat box at Sunbeam prison camp last June 3, his feet in stocks and hanging by his neck on a chain locked around a rafter overhead.

The jury deliberated two hours and 16 minutes. The verdict was received with no demonstration in the court room and even without visible effect on Mrs. Julia Mallefert, mourning-clad mother of the dead youth.

Counsel for Courson filed notice of an application for new trial as soon as the verdict was read. The 285-pound former captain of the camp where Mallefert died said he "hoped for better luck at the next trial."

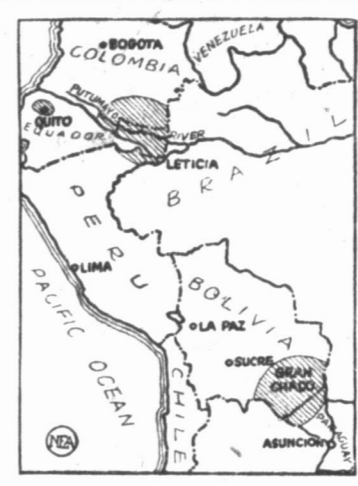

Higginbotham, younger and much smaller, was released automatically by the verdict.

Throughout the trial, in which most of the testimony was presented by convicts who served with Mallefert, the defense contended the youth, despondent over repeated failures to escape, had killed himself. Repeatedly he was quoted as announcing determination to escape, threatening to commit suicide rather than serve his nine-year sentence for robbery, and telling Courson he was going "to hell if I can't go home."

The state held that he had been so weakened by torture and short rations that he was unable to hold up his own weight in the sweat box and sagged to his death on the chain.

R. A. Wiggins of Roswell, N. M., is visiting here over the week-end.

FEVER SPOTS OF WAR

A new fever spot on the war map of South America has broken out. The new threat to peace is the jungle lying along the Peruvian-Colombian border. Both nations rushed troops there after Peru had seized the city of Leticia, inside Colombia's frontier. President Enrique Olaya Herrera, right, of Colombia, contributed a wedding ring to a $10,000,000 defense fund. Peru has asked the Pan-American Conciliation Commission to settle the dispute. Ecuador, which has been reported threatened by a revolt near Quito, has sent soldiers to guard its neutrality in case of open war between Peru of Colombia. The other danger spot shown on the map above is the Gran Chaco region, where Bolivia and Paraguay again are preparing to resume their struggle.

DISTRICT SHIFT BEING PLANNED IN PANHANDLE

Gray County Would Be In 84th Area

Gray county would be located in the 84th judicial district under a bill likely to be presented to the next legislature. Hemphill and Wheeler would be in the same district.

Judge E. J. Pickens of the 84th district now lives at Canadian and Judge W. R. Ewing of the 31st, is a new resident of Pampa. The 114th district court would be abolished. A bill abolishing 23 of the present 129 district courts, revising districts of many others, and extending the jurisdiction of all criminal district courts to civil matters has been prepared by the joint legislative committee on court districts.

Another bill would abolish all district attorneys and confer their powers on county attorneys.

The purpose of the proposed legislation is to lower the state's judicial expense and to prevent overlapping. The courts proposed for this territory:

31st—Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hutchinson, Roberts, Carson.

47th—Potter, Randall, Armstrong.

54th—Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe.

65th—Civil only, for Potter.

69th—Dallas, Sherman, Hartley, Moore, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Parmer.

72nd—Lubbock, Hooker, Cochran.

84th—Hemphill, Wheeler, Gray.

10th—Donley, Collingsworth, Hall, Childress, Briscoe.

10th—Floyd, Motley, Crosby, Dickens, King, Kent.

SCHOOL ZONE SAFETY RULES WILL BE USED

Temporary Signs to Halt Traffic Here

The serious business of making safe the lives of hundreds of Pampa school children will take new forms Monday when additional regulations will be enforced by the Junior police and city officers.

At noon tomorrow, portable stop signs will be placed in every traffic lane leading to the south side of the high school campus. Motorists will be required to stop and proceed slowly. Pupils will be kept in pedestrian lanes. Officers and junior police hope to discourage traffic in the high school area during the periods that the children are assembling—morning, noon, and at the close of school. Stop signs will be placed daily just before the students leave the grounds.

In addition to these regulations, parking on Francis avenue between Frost and Cuyler streets will be prohibited. Students who have been parking south of the high school must leave their cars elsewhere, although stopping temporarily to take on or discharge passengers will be permitted.

The regulations, sponsored by the Kiwanis club's safety committee, will be extended to all ward school zones through placing of slow signs three times daily before the pupils leave the buildings under direction of Junior police.

Stennis Attorney In Rogers Trial

Judge S. D. Dennis will be defense attorney in the murder trial of Robert Rogers, opening tomorrow at Canadian.

Rogers is charged with the slaying of Vic Smith, ranchman, about a year ago. A change of venue has been asked, but not ruled on by Judge E. J. Pickens.

Many Professions Are Represented in Registration List

Registration of Pampa's unemployed was progressing slowly Saturday, but the work classifications were especially numerous.

About one hundred persons had given their names, addresses, and professions. The registration books are at the Welfare Board office in the basement of the city hall. The total is still far short of the records already in use by the Beard, but many of those registering are applying for work, not groceries.

The applicants include laborers, bricklayers, carpenters, electricians, bookkeepers, and many other skilled and unskilled workmen. It is desired that everyone wishing work-aid register at once.

DEMOCRATS SPONSORED 'THOSE LIES' HE PROCLAIMS

ROOSEVELT ACTIVITIES ARE 'CONTEMPTIBLE' PRESIDENT SAYS

Public Hall, CLEVELAND, Oct. 15. (AP)—President Hoover asserted tonight, while a police-estimated throng of thirty thousand people listened, that democratic leaders had circulated "absolutely untrue" reports as to the origin of the nation's economic strain and had issued "contemptible statements" concerning his personal career.

Given a 2 minute ovation as he entered the auditorium—the same hall where Calvin Coolidge was nominated in 1924—the president time and again launched out in his lengthy address against statements he quoted from speeches by "the democratic candidate."

He asserted that the democratic nominee had sought wrongly to give the impression that the stock market crash was "the prime cause of this disaster."

He characterized as "amazing statements" quotations from "the democratic candidate" that the Smoot-Hawley tariff was "one of the most important factors in the present world-wide depression."

Interrupting time and again by applause, the choice of executive's speech came as the climax of a day in which he spoke from the rear platform of his special train as it crossed four states to throngs estimated by police to total more than 100,000.

The president's audience tonight was divided into four parts, three of the sections listening through loud speakers in other sections of the auditorium and outside. He was introduced by David S. Ingalls, Ohio republican gubernatorial nominee.

"Those Lies!"

Then turning to his own personal record, he described as "calumnious" a statement from a "copy of instructions issued by the democratic national committee" to its speakers. He said the statement implied "a statement under oath, humbly and abjectly withdrawing them."

"Such contemptible statements in a political campaign would be ignored were it not that they were issued by the authority of the democratic national committee, and they would be of no interest to the American people except that it is proposed that a political party shall be placed in power over one hundred and twenty millions of people on the basis of votes secured in this manner."

At the outset, the president said his address would be devoted largely to employment and wage questions. He outlined in detail 12 policies and measures which he described as the record of his administration on this score.

MISS SHEARER AND MARCH IN A NORA FILM

"SMILIN' THROUGH" TO BE SEEN THREE DAYS

"Smilin' Through," the famous Jane Cowl stage play which Hollywood's feminine stars have long been yearning to bring to the talking screen, came to the LaNora theater today with Norma Shearer in the starring role.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which produced this hauntingly beautiful drama, has boasted that it would reveal the finest array of acting talent the screen yet has seen. It is no idle boast. The combination of Norma Shearer with Fredric March, Leslie Howard, O. P. Heggie and Ralph Forbes represents as brilliant an assemblage of artists as could be wished for. Add to this the sparkle which Sidney Franklin brings as a director, and the effort to attain the "perfectly acted" picture comes close to realization.

Reveals Fresh Talent. Norma Shearer in this picture turns away from the sophistication of her past roles. In her dual characters of Moonveen and Kathleen she attains an ethereal charm as the one and touches new dramatic heights as the other. In going back to pure romance she brings freshness, and the mellow tenderness that arises from the revisiting of memorable places. It is the Norma Shearer of old in a refreshed mood, and the result is delightful. Fredric March also has two roles. In both he is the suitor for Norma's hand. His is a finely sensitive characterization, and he proves again that he is one of the screen's most versatile actors. Leslie Howard, too, carries a dramatic burden, he retains the same character throughout the story, and makes a transition from youth to old age. In this he gains new laurels, as do O. P. Heggie, Ralph Forbes, Beryl Mercer, David Torrence, Margaret Seddon and Forrester Harvey.

"Smilin' Through" is the sentimental story of a man who, unable to forget a tragedy which happened fifty years earlier in his life, seeks to gain vengeance by thwarting the son of the man who destroyed his happiness. In each instance Norma Shearer is the girl involved.

Everybody Will Be Crazy About Horses at Panhandle This Week

PANHANDLE, Oct. 15 (SP)—Reliable information received here today indicated that at least 300 horses would be entered in the Southwest Race Meet and Stock Show which will be held here from Tuesday to Friday, inclusive. Prospects are that the meet would be the best ever held.

During the summer, a good track was completed. Sixteen stalls were built in the early summer. Thirty-six more stalls were finished early this week. Ten more will be built this week. Sixty-two stalls are on the grounds now and a number will be available nearby. B. B. Davidson and C. E. Deahl, superintendents, expected that the entries would take up every stall.

In connection with the race meet, there will be a saddle show at 1:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m., Wednesday. Already some of the best horses of the southwest have been brought here. Mrs. Hazel Millican has brought Cabin Champ, winner at the Oklahoma City fair.

PYTHON AND TIGER BATTLE IN THIS FILM

WILD ANIMAL PICTURE TO OPEN NEXT WEDNESDAY

How would you like to see a hungry man-eating tiger battle to the death with a twenty-five foot bone-crushing python?

How would you like to see this same embattled tiger step into a pool to slake his thirst and come face to face with the jaws of a fifteen-foot crocodile just waiting for tiger meat?

How would you like to see what happens when the crocodile gets himself wrapped in the coils of a twenty-five foot python?

How would you like to see a lone white man in the heart of the tropic jungle entrap this snake with his bare hands . . . and alive?

These are some of the superior thrills in the Van Beuren corporation's feature film, "Bring 'Em Back Alive" the authentic camera record of Frank Buck's famous book of the same name.

There's no love interest—no built-up drama—no sobbing sisters or hero-man lovers in this release. Radio Pictures, directed by Clyde E. Elliott. But there is such excitement as no Hollywood brain-child could ever give. There's real heart-action, for example, when the hunted tiger charges right into a native village and then into a camouflaged trap. There's the heart-stopping moment when Frank Buck jockeys the trapped man-eater into the home-made cage at the risk of his life. As for the other big moments, there are combats between age-old jungle enemies that pale into insignificance anything civilized ever threw into a prize ring. There's the quest for dollars, the wide-shouldered, ruddy-faced, stocky man merely throws off the garments of the metropolis to trek six thousand miles by land and sea in search of a Royal Bengal tiger. His weapons . . . his two hard hands. His props, a couple of native boys. His cages are hand-made, right down in the heart of the tiger country. No nails to hold the bars in place . . . no forged steel bars wedged in cement . . . but rough-hewn poles tied together with thongs made from the dried bark of native trees. A mounting stampede of intensely interesting action follows the inaugural of this quest as shown in "Bring 'Em Back Alive" the premiere of which is set for the LaNora theater next Wednesday.

An array of talent, seldom seen scupped in one picture, supports Miss Dunne and Cortez. Among these other players . . . all of whom give interesting performances are Myrtle Fox, Mary Duncan, Jill Esmond, Kay Johnson, Harriet Esmond, Julie Hayden, Peg Entwistle and Marjorie Gateson.

A bar meeting will be held in Earl Godwin's home Tuesday night. Those present were John King, Steve Goodwin, Roger Townsend, Freeman Sullivan, Junior Barrett, Mickey Ledrick, Chris Martin, Jr., Junior Goodwin, Warren Jowers, Harlan Martin and Meredith Wilson, and J. C. Walker, visitors.

Country May Get Much Bond Relief

Gray county, according to the best estimates available, is eligible to place $283,000 in outstanding road paving bonds in the hands of the state board of county and district indebtedness under the relief provision passed by the called session of the legislature.

This sum is computed on the basis of outstanding bonds representing paving on Highways 33, 66, and the old route of 33 north. Only engineering and construction costs can be computed. The county spent more than $283,000 on the state construction, but part of the bonds have already been retired.

It is uncertain how much of the eligible portion of county indebtedness the diversions of the gasoline tax will retire. Some counties are claiming more than is eligible under the relief measure.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The presidential campaign is warming up—and so are the whispering campaigns.

The only pleasant aspect to this ancient phase of politics is that it doesn't seem very effective. Whispering campaigns probably do not change many votes, and there is no good evidence that one ever affected the result in a presidential election.

Origin of the subterranean campaign canards is usually hard to trace, but there is frequently a suspicion that they emanate from a source close up toward the party's high command.

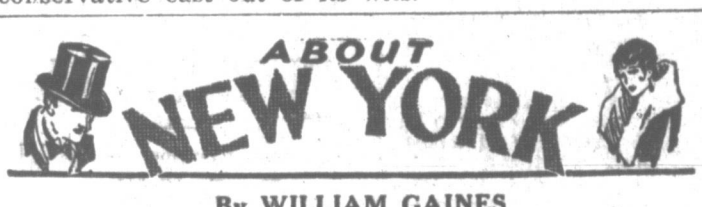

Sometimes they even take official notice and issue substantiated denials.

Perhaps the chief rumor circulated against Hoover this year has been the allegation that he was a British citizen and had voted in England.

Al Smith suffered far worse than Hoover from whispered attacks in 1928, but no one supposes they cost him the election, even though they were as vicious and absurd as any barrage of false gossip ever laid down at an individual.

Democratic headquarters also puts in the whispering campaign category the yarn from the west that Roosevelt promised certain farmer leaders to support free silver and abandonment of the gold standard.

"THE GODS ARRIVE" Edith Wharton is the chronicler supreme of the old social regime of New York.

"THE GODS ARRIVE" deals with the people of the conservative aristocratic New York set—or at least with people who are permitted to enter those expensive and imposing houses, with their brown or white stone fronts, in which youth and age still dress for dinner and enjoy an ostensibly ordered life.

THE GODS ARRIVE reveals himself in many charming letters. "I am," he concludes, "a Reformer heart and soul."

MISS SHEARER AND MARCH IN LA NORA FILM

"SMILIN' THROUGH" TO BE SEEN THREE DAYS

"Smilin' Through," the famous Jane Cowl stage play which Hollywood's feminine stars have long been yearning to bring to the talking screen, came to the LaNora theater today with Norma Shearer in the starring role.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which produced this hauntingly beautiful drama, has boasted that it would reveal the finest array of acting talent the screen yet has seen. It is no idle boast. The combination of Norma Shearer with Fredric March, Leslie Howard, O. P. Heggie and Ralph Forbes represents as brilliant an assemblage of artists as could be wished for. Add to this the sparkle which Sidney Franklin brings as a director, and the effort to attain the "perfectly acted" picture comes close to realization.

Reveals Fresh Talent. Norma Shearer in this picture turns away from the sophistication of her past roles. In her dual characters of Mooney and Kathleen she attains an ethereal charm as the one and touches new dramatic heights as the other. In going back to pure romance she brings freshness, and the mellow tenderness that arises from the revisiting of memorable places. It is the Norma Shearer of old in a refreshed mood, and the result is delightful.

Fredric March also has two roles. In both he is the suitor for Norma's hand. His is a finely sensitive characterization, and he proves again that he is one of the screen's most versatile actors. Leslie Howard, too, carries a dramatic burden, he retains the same character throughout the story, and makes a transition from youth to old age. In this he gains new laurels, as do O. P. Heggie, Ralph Forbes, Bert Mervin, David Torrance, Margaret Seddon and Forrester Harvey.

"Smilin' Through" is the sentimental story of a man who, unable to forget a tragedy which happened fifty years earlier in his life, seeks to gain vengeance by thwarting the son of the man who destroyed his happiness. In each instance Norma Shearer is the girl involved.

PYTHON AND TIGER BATTLE IN THIS FILM

WILD ANIMAL PICTURE TO OPEN NEXT WEDNESDAY

How would you like to see a hungry man-eating tiger battle to the death with a twenty-five foot bone-crushing python?

How would you like to see this same embattled tiger step into a pool to slake his thirst and come face to face with the jaws of a fifteen-foot crocodile just waiting for tiger meat?

How would you like to see what happens when the crocodile gets himself wrapped in the coils of a twenty-five foot python?

How would you like to see a lone white man in the heart of the tropic jungle entrap this snake with his bare hands... and alive?

These are some of the superior thrills in the Van Beuren corporation's feature film, "Bring 'Em Back Alive" the authentic camera record of Frank Buck's famous book of the same name.

There's no love interest—no bullfight—no sobbing sisters or he-man lovers in this release by Radio Pictures, directed by Clyde E. Elliott. But there is such excitement as no Hollywood brain-child could ever give. There's real heart-action, for example, when the hunted tiger charges right into a native village and then into a camouflaged trap. There's the heart-stopping moment when Frank Buck jockeys the trapped man-eater into the home-made cage at the risk of his life. As for the other big moments, there are combats between age-old jungle enemies that pale into insignificance anything civilization ever threw into a prize ring dominated by electric lights.

Lallyho and the quest for dollars. A wide-shouldered, ruddy-faced, sticky man merely throws off the garments of the metropolis to trek six thousand miles by land and sea in search of a Royal Bengal tiger.

His props... his two hard bands. His cages are hand-made right down in the heart of the tiger country. No nails to hold the bars in place... no forged steel bars wedged in cement... but rough-hewn poles tied together with thongs made from the dried bark of native trees. A mounting stampee of intensely interesting action follows the inaugural of this quest as shown in "Bring 'Em Back Alive" the premiere of which is set for the LaNora theater next Wednesday.

An array of talent, seldom seen grouped in one picture, supports Miss Dunne and Cortez. Among these other players, all of whom give interesting performances are Myrna Loy, Mary Duncan, Jill Esmond, Kay Johnson, Harriet Esmond, Julie Hayden, Peg Entwistle and Marjorie Gateson.

A bar meeting will be held in Earl Goodwin's home Tuesday night.

Those present were John King, Steve Goodwin, Roger Townsend, Freeman Sullivan, Junior Barrett, Mickey Ledick, Chris Martin, Jr., Junior Goodwin, Warren Jowers, Harlan Martin and Meredith Wilson, and J. C. Walker, visitors.

W. D. Fisher of Canadian attended the football game yesterday afternoon.

COLOR THIS ANIMAL, CHILDREN

Children, get out your paint box or crayons—here's an entertaining and instructive exercise in art for you. This animal is No. 3 about you. This animal is No. 1 about the thrilling jungle film, "Bring 'Em Back Alive," which will come to the LaNora theater next Wednesday. There will be six sketches in all. Clip out each, color all six, group them on a single large sheet, and bring them down to THE NEWS Thursday morning with one NEW weekly subscription costing fifteen cents. All children who do this will receive a free ticket to this great animal picture. IN ADDITION the 25 children who have the best and neatest colored layouts will receive two extra tickets, and the next best ten drawings will entitle the winners to one extra ticket. But be sure to clip and paint the sketches, get the subscription, and bring them to THE NEWS next Thursday morning, the second day of the showing of "Bring 'Em Back Alive." Put your name, address, and age on your layout.

Eddie Will Make Last Jump Today

This afternoon at the Pampa airport, Eddie Winfield, the young daredevil who has been making his headquarters here for the past few months will give his last performance here this afternoon. Tomorrow, Winfield will leave for Enid, Okla., where he will give a performance and will go from there to Galveston, where he will make his headquarters for the winter. In his show here this afternoon, Eddie will make at least one parachute drop some time during the afternoon when the crowd is sufficient and the weather calm enough to permit it. He will also give several exhibitions of wingwalking and under-carriage acrobatic stunts. Eddie regrets leaving very much, but he insists that, "this Panhandle weather" is too much for him and that if he wants to keep on jumping he will have to go where he won't land so hard and bounce so far.

County May Get Much Bond Relief

Gray county, according to the best estimates available, is eligible to place $283,000 in outstanding road paving bonds in the hands of the state board of county and district indebtedness under the relief provisions passed by the called session of the legislature.

This sum is computed on the basis of outstanding bonds representing paving on highways 33.66, and the old route of 33 north. Only engineering and construction costs can be computed. The county spent more than $283,000 on the state construction, but part of the bonds have already been retired. It is uncertain how much of the eligible portion of county indebtedness the diverted one cent of the gasoline tax will retire. Some counties are claiming more than is eligible under the relief measure.

NEW THEME ON ASTROLOGY SEEN IN MOVIE

OCCULT REALM MAY BE EXPLORED IN MANY FILMS

In "Thirteen Women" which opens Sunday at the Rex theater, Hollywood has dared to tackle a heretofore unproduced theme.

Perhaps this film, co-featuring Irene Dunne and Ricardo Cortez, will be the forerunner of a new cycle of pictures that will care to invade unexplored and interesting occult territories.

In dynamic, startling fashion, "Thirteen Women" rips into the guarded secrets and mental machinations of fake astrologers and exposes the injury they can do in the lives of women.

No need to tell the story here—why rob you of the thrills and suspense that is crammed into the picture based on the best selling novel by Tiffany Thayer?

Miss Dunne, in the role of a young American mother, gives her best and sincerest performance to date. Cortez, as a suave detective bent on solving the eerie influence which has engulfed the lives of Miss Dunne, her small son and a group of women, has performed a noble service in behalf of policemen throughout America.

They should give him a vote of thank for portraying a policeman in a straightforward, dignified manner.

An array of talent, seldom seen grouped in one picture, supports Miss Dunne and Cortez. Among these other players, all of whom give interesting performances are Myrna Loy, Mary Duncan, Jill Esmond, Kay Johnson, Harriet Esmond, Julie Hayden, Peg Entwistle and Marjorie Gateson.

Will Read at Midnight, Plot Of 'Ghost House'

The mystery of Brown Manor will be cleared when "Ghost House" is presented in the city hall auditorium Monday and Tuesday nights, October 24 and 25, under the auspices of the A. A. U. W.

The play deals with the reading of the will of Augustus Brown, who has requested that it be read at midnight two months after his death. The heirs find themselves in an uncomfortable position, especially since the servants have been seeing ghosts and hearing strange sounds. The play is a mystery drama, but with plenty of comedy relief.

Mrs. H. H. Hicks takes the role of Paulette, the maid, who has a new sweetheart, the butler (C. W. Stowell), who has been with the family for 30 years. Maudie, the colored cook, played by Mrs. Earl Powell, has had experience with "haints."

Miss Florida Freeman as Barbara Brown is the niece of Augustus Brown, and Mrs. E. C. Will has been given the role of Barbara's dignified, rather reserved Aunt Martha. I. A. Freeman is the lawyer, Benton Thompson, who is appointed executor of the will. Donald Keith, man-about-town, nephew of Brown, is ably played by Tom Herrod. Mrs. Bates, who cannot be squealed even by the hard-boiled inspector, is Mrs. A. N. Dille Jr., while A. L. Patrick has been assigned the role as her husband Elmer Pike who portrays the role of Ted Wilson, the breezy newspaper reporter who helps to clear the mystery. The hard-boiled inspector from headquarters is played by Dick Hughes, which, in itself, is to say the least, a specialty.

What James Todd Jr. does as a specialty will be revealed the night of the play.

Between acts, waits will be taken care of by two girls' choruses and a business men's chorus. The girls will present a black and white chorus and a ghost dance, the latter being quite unique.

Supt. R. B. Fisher and Harry Kelley will instruct the "Dicks" (detectives) vocally in "Duties of Dick."

The Treble Clef club also will be presented between acts.

The little folks have a play all their own as the curtain rises. They will interpret Bobby and Betty's dream of Ghostland. In it Betty Jo Thurman will be a witch, Lella Pearl Baldwin and Frankie Lou Keelin will be little red imps, and Neva Lou Woodhouse will be the good fairy.

Tickets can be secured from members of the A. A. U. W. the organization sponsoring the event. They will also be placed on sale Saturday at Pampa Drug No. 1. There will be no extra charge for reserve seats.

Hollywood Pass! Goal-to-Goal Toss Hurlled by Trojan

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 15 (AP)—The kind of forward pass you see in the movies—one that carried the ball from goal to goal while the timer's gun was signalling the end of the game—gave the University of California at Los Angeles a 12 to 7 victory over the University of Oregon in their annual Pacific coast conference battle here today.

With northern webfooters leading 7 to 6, Mitchell Frankovich, passing quarterback, dropped behind his goal line and whipped an aerial shot to Ransome Livesay, substitute half.

Livesay hauled down the ball on his 31 yard line. As he crossed the 50-yard stripe, the gun sounded but it was too late, for the Webfooters, for he was far out of their reach and he scampered unmolested to the goal line.

by party leaders to give a complete endorsement of Gov. Roosevelt's candidacy.

Arriving last night from Paris aboard the Berengaria, another democratic campaigner, Gene Tunney, prepared a second tour in behalf of the Roosevelt ticket.

"The whole world is looking to Roosevelt," said the former heavyweight champion, "and I think Hoover will be the worst defeated man in the history of republican party except Taft, who carried only two states in 1912."

"The Hoover myth has completely exploded."

As Senator George W. Norris, independent republican of Nebraska, headed for Philadelphia for an address Monday night in behalf of Roosevelt, Senator Huey Long, in Washington, announced he would tour the north-west.

The Louisiana "Kingfish," a leader in the nomination of Roosevelt at Chicago, will take along his sound truck—now famous in his native state and in Arkansas—where he stumped the state for the renomination of Mrs. Hattie Carde and a life-long republican, tonight announced he will vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt for president.

Characterizing President Hoover as "seriously dry," and Vice President Curtis as "vociferously dry," Church said a statement that he switched to the democratic nominee is based on his opposition to the national prohibition.

Scott Rob Roy to Wrestle O'Brien

When heading Irish meets canny Scott it will be like that old brooding of irresistible force meeting immoveable object. That theory will be tested at the Pampa auditorium Wednesday night, when Pat O'Brien, Dallas grappler, will meet Pampa's braw laddie, Rob Roy. The Irishman has been stacking up a nice record recently in these parts, and Rob Roy is blebe to wish that he had Doc Musler as his opponent instead of the Dallas grappler.

Red Michaels exchanges his role of referee for that of participant in a match with Tex Thrower of Borger, in the semi-final.

The preliminaries will start at 8:30 o'clock, Wednesday night.

Gray Potential Is Raised by 8,670 Barrels in Week

Gray county's oil potential was increased by 8,670 barrels last week when the Skelly Oil company and the Texas company completed two wells in the LeFors area. The Skelly company completed the biggest producer of the year with its No. 6 Saunders in section 4, block 1, which is capable of making 6,800 barrels a day.

The Texas company brought in a 1,876 barrel offset on the Williams in section 4, block 1. Two new locations have been made offsetting the new producer.

Dancier's flush production was not shut off when that company obtained a temporary injunction restraining the railroad commission from forcing their wells, and offsetting wells, to be shut in to protect regulations. The commission's order was signed last Monday.

Attorneys for Dancier told the court that when the company attacked the proration laws and lost in the lower courts, then appealed, that it had signed a special stipulation with the state keeping the temporary restraining order in effect as a supersedeas bond would have done. The railroad commission's latest orders disregarded this stipulation and ordered the Dancier wells closed in.

The Dancier wells have been produced above proration allowances throughout the two years this case has been in the courts. It is attacking the old law, repeated when the present law was put into effect last summer.

However, eventual decision of the case may have a bearing lawyers say, on whether penalties can be collected for the long overproduction of proration allowances, and possibly on whether properties of non-bearing producers have been damaged by overproduction of the wells.

If Mrs. Housewife will call at our store we will show her one of the newest lines of furniture just received direct from the factory.

Gray Potential Is Raised by 8,670 Barrels in Week

Dancier wells. These questions may come up at final decision of this case, and hinge on the final court outcome.

The Dancier company lost its case both in the district and appeals courts and a review is now pending before the Texas supreme court.

MANY VARIETIES SOWED

The varieties, on half acre tracts, were Kanter, Tenmar, certified turkey, Vaughn's turkey, black hull, and Kelhor's Russian.

Suspended Term Granted by Court

A 2-year suspended sentence was given G. C. Dunlap, charged with possessing intoxicating liquor, Friday on his plea of guilty.

An instructed verdict of acquittal was given Earl Durham, charged with burglary, after the state had completed its testimony and found it inadequate to support the indictment.

The law firm of Willis, Studer and Studer represented both defendants.

A divorce has been asked in the suit of A. H. McPeak vs. Bertha Nelson McPeak.

DORCOS BEAT FACULTY 3-0

Patrick Absent But Teachers Unable to Hit Drain's Fire Ball.

The Dancier Dorcos won a 3 to 0 game from the Faculty at Dancier park Wednesday afternoon. The teachers were without the services of Patrick, star hurler, who was unaware that the game had been scheduled until too late to arrive on the field in time to participate.

Selby pitched stellar ball, however, and but for a home run by Riley and some good base running would have had a tied score. Drain pitched practically air tight ball for the Dorcos. Only two members of the Faculty team reached third base. Riley added another run which sent Kennett in ahead of him, thus accounting for all three runs.

Jones of the Dorcos and E. Roeder of the Faculty caught errorless games and were instrumental in saving several scores. Hits were scarce, the Faculty getting six and the clinen eight.

The win gave Dancier six wins and one loss during the second half. The Faculty and the league leading Phillips teams have yet to meet. Should the Faculty win it will throw the game into a three-way tie but if Phillips wins they will take the second half of the schedule and met the Faculty in the play-off.

The game may be played tomorrow afternoon on the Phillips diamond 10 miles south of the city.

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: For the second time Nan dreams her missing husband, Jervis Weare, is lying on wet stones. She braves a fierce storm to look for him in the sinister house of Robert Leonard. In a cave almost beneath her feet lies Jervis, weak from exposure, shattered by the knowledge that Rosamund Carow, to whom he once was engaged, has given him food and at the same time asked a huge ransom for him.

Chapter 48
FERDINAND RETURNS
The storm howling about her ears, Nan half walked, half was thrown around the house. She tried the latch of the kitchen door. It gave.

Standing in the black silence of the room, she was startled by the strident sound of a telephone bell. It was not in the kitchen; she groped toward the sound. She was in a passageway.

She looked behind her; the kitchen was in a yellow twilight that rapidly grew brighter. She found a door across the passage from the room on which the bell was ringing, and slipped through. Nan saw Robert Leonard turn into the room across the passage, carefully carrying a kerosene lamp. The ringing stopped. Through the crack left between the door and the jamb Nan heard an angry ejaculation from the room on which the bell was ringing, and slipped through.

Nan saw Robert Leonard turn into the room across the passage, carefully carrying a kerosene lamp. The ringing stopped. Through the crack left between the door and the jamb Nan heard an angry ejaculation from the room on which the bell was ringing, and slipped through.

Leonard said: "Don't be a fool, then 'Anything else?'" Nan waited for nothing more. She had seen a dim light in the kitchen—it came from an open door in a far corner. She slipped back down the passage, down the back steps into the cellar. In the middle of the cellar was a barrel upon which stood a lighted candle, and in the corner there was the raised lid of a trap door.

The inner conviction that had brought Nan to this cellar did not desert her now. She took her flashlight from her pocket, and without hesitation plunged through the trap door. She was so weary from her battle with the storm that her hand shook a little. She walked rapidly down the slight slope; the path grew steeper, and she came to feel the nearing presence of the sea.

A sharp turn to the right, and Nan saw about five yards away, Jervis lying as she had seen him lie in her dream.

At the same moment Jervis opened his eyes and, pulling on the bar, sat up. He saw, not Rosamund, but one of those dreams which come out of the darkness and the silence. His wrist was bound to the bar with a handkerchief. He fumbled at the knot, and Nan went down on her knees and put her hands on his and held them fast. He said, "Nan!" and she said, "Jervis!" and all at once it wasn't a dream any longer.

"Nan!" he said. "Nan!" And Nan put up her face, and he kissed her through the bars with a desperate straining towards life, and love, and happiness, and all those other everyday things which were in jeopardy.

Then the black swell lifted again and washed right over the sill. Nan crouched at the padlock with both hands. "It's not use," said Jervis—"he's taken the key." Then, quickly, "How did you come here?" "I don't know," said Nan. "I came. I saw you in a dream." She added after a moment, "There's a storm."

"It's driving the tide. What is it—thunder, or wind?" "Both."

"We must get out of here," said Jervis. "You must get out and get help. You're not shut in?" "No."

"Then you must get hold of the chauffeur, Leonard's armed. Is he in the house?" "Yes—telephoning. He came up out of the passage and left the door open."

"You must go." She leaned towards him, and they kissed again. He said, "I'll be all right—I can hold on to the bar." And then without a word she ran from him round the bend.

As she came to the steps which led to the straight paved end of the passage, she caught her breath in a gasp of relief. The trap was still open, and a faint candle-light showed. And then all at once there was something wrong. The light was brighter—it was too bright for candlelight. Nan stood stock still and stared at the open trap. It was about a dozen yards away. A broad yellow beam was coming through it, and suddenly there was a man's foot in a heavy boot on the top-most step. Robert Leonard was coming down.

Nan turned and ran wildly down the steps and along the black passage with her hands stretched out in front of her as if to ward the darkness from her face. She turned the bend, lighted her torch, and ran back to Jervis.

"He's coming!" she cried, and fearfully flashed the torch about the space. There was a cleft, wide enough for her to stand in. Leonard came up.

"You're spoiling my rest, you know," Leonard said to Jervis. "Rosamund just rang up—"

"Good of her," remarked Jervis. "Her wishes are my law. I've come to give you your last chance—" for a half million dollars." He dangled the key to the grill behind which Jervis lay. "With the tide like this it's cheap."

Nan slipped, blundered horrified out of her narrow shelter. Leonard started, and the lamp fell from his hands. There was a sudden flare of burning oil, and the two of them were running back up the passage. Nan ran for her life—for Jervis' life. If she only could throw herself beneath the edge of the trap before he flung it down!

It was hopeless. The door slammed, the darkness reminded Nan that she still had her torch. Shoulders sagging, she made her way back to Jervis.

Jervis said, "He caught you?" "Yes—I fell."

"He hasn't hurt you?" "No, he's shut me in."

He held her close and kissed her. Nothing mattered. The water rose, and would have lifted them if they had not held to the bars. Strange and cold, to have bars between them.

"Why did you marry me, Nan?" said Jervis. "Didn't you know?" "No. I thought. . . . Why did you?"

Nan trembled. His arm was cold and stiff, but it held her close. "I loved you so much."

"Then? You loved me then?" "Yes. And then when you came in that day and said that Rosamund had thrown you over I could not bear it."

"Nan—Nan! I'm not worth it. I've been a beast to you. But I do love you now."

The cold wash of the water shook them. "Nan—" said Jervis. "You must not stay here."

Nan pressed closer. "Nan—darling—you mustn't. Go back up the passage. I may have to swim for it."

A sudden movement of the whole floor thru Jervis' hand against the bars and almost took Nan out of his arm. It dragged back again, and he was put to it to keep his feet.

"I can't go," said Nan. "I'm not afraid if you hold me."

That surging lift of the tide came again. They clung together, and felt the bars between them strain with the force of the water. And then with the backward pull something hard whipped about—Nan's left ankle and clung there. She pulled herself free of Jervis and stooped down into the water.

And then she felt a chain. Her fingers closed on it, and she came up laughing and crying, and thrust it into the beam of the torch for Jervis to see. Eighteen inches of bright chain, and a small bright key.

"He dropped it with the lamp," said Jervis. He turned the key in the lock. The surge of water flung them forward with the gate; they splashed precariously to shallow water, to the dry passage. Nan had lost her torch, but they did not miss it. Their minds were illumined by something brighter than electricity.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 15 (P)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade during the week under review was marked by further price declines on fed steers and long yearlings, several markets reporting losses of 25-50. Although the majority of the fed steers offered were of light weight, there was an increased movement of weighty short fed steers. Chicago early in the week scored 9.45 on finished heavy steers, but on the close 9.50 stepped back offered. Bulk of fed natives ranged from 6.50-8.25. Lighter weights from 7.00-8.00 showing the effects of considerable grain. Short fed western steers bulked at 5.00-5.50 with plain grass steers selling at 3.00 and below. Country demand for stockers and feeders was narrow at weak to unevenly lower rates. Heavy feeders took a decline of 25-50. Aggregate receipts at eleven markets totaled around 225,000 as compared with 221,485 last week and 233,373 the corresponding period a year ago. Hog prices after fluctuating up and down throughout the week are finishing unevenly steady to 25 lower as compared with last Saturday, most of the decline on the lighter weights. Chicago had a late top of 3.80. Total offerings were around 320,000, a decrease of 15,000 from last week and 110,000 short of a year ago. In the sheep market killing classes are steady to 25 or more higher for the week, while feeding lambs ruled steady to 25 higher. The supply approximated 462,000 against 453,879 last week and 645,233 a year ago.

Rice Ekes Out 14 to 7 Victory

HOUSTON, Oct. 15. (P)—A band of stout fellows from Loyola of the south at New Orleans held the Rice Institute eleven, one of the Southwest conference favorites, to a meager 14-7 victory here today.

Rice heavily favored to win, outdid the Wolves about rather vigorously in the first half, scoring in both the first and second periods, but found the going much heavier and was outplayed in the last.

Loyola came out in the fourth period with a thrilling passing attack and finally pushed over a touchdown, Dennis Miller, a reserve, taking it over. In the attempt to kick for the point the Rice tackles broke through, but Tom Caillouet snared a high, wavering pass that served the purpose.

Coach Jack Meagher of Rice used a wide variety of men, accounting probably, in part, for the closeness of the score. In the first two periods the Wolves seemed almost wholly unable to figure out the Rice running attack and were like wise unable to find material success offensively.

Earl Taylor of Wheeler was a visitor here Saturday.

F. C. Archer of Denworth visited in Pampa yesterday.

Club Boys Arrive Back from Dallas

Four Gray county 4-H club boys will spend the rest of the year talking about their trip to the Dallas fair, a journey made possible by local civic clubs and the Board of City development.

Ralph Thomas, county agent, accompanied the boys, who were Clay Johnson and J. H. Wetsel of the Alahreed community, Curtis Shafer of Jericho, and Winifred Quales of the southeast part of the county.

The party spent three days at the educational encampment as guests of the fair management, returning here Friday evening. All entertainments at the fair and at the Majestic theater were free. Much time was spent in studying the hundreds of exhibits.

C. P. Cortis of LeFors was a Pampa visitor yesterday.

Gentlemen:

Word has just reached me from General Executive Offices that Ward Week was the most gratifying sale of its kind ever held.

This sale, the greatest event of the year in the Ward organization, was held in 500 Ward stores reaching from coast to coast. This event is generally conceded to be the greatest sale of its kind and scope in America.

You will be interested in the success of the sale because of the fact that approximately 90 per cent of the advertising appropriation for Ward Week was spent in local newspapers.

The amazing total of almost 9,000,000 lines of space in about 600 newspapers carried the Ward Week message to 50,000,000 people.

We feel we owe you a word of appreciation for the splendid manner in which The Pampa Daily NEWS co-operated in making Ward Week a success. Your publication has again proven its value as an outstanding advertising medium.
