Outdoor Living Room Is Made By Mrs. Springer

Describes Method of Meeting Each Difficulty

Editors note: Printed here is the first of a series of articles written by prize winners in the Gray county home demonstration yard improvement contest. Mrs. G. C. Springer, winner of first place, today describes how she did it.

By Mrs. G. C. Springer

I hardly know when plans for my yard demonstration started. It had been a dream of mine to have an outdoor living room, but on account of our Texas wind, I had let myself think I would not get to sit out there very much.

But, when my club selected me as their yard improvement demonstrator, I said "now or never." With the help and counsel of my son, I undertook what to some would seem a useless task. But now we enjoy it.

First, we made our yard plan. It was a solid one, so I with the aid of my husband, we made a plan. There was a maining plan for starting us in the back and drove up to the front gate, and a close line around full length of the yard, as in sight. There were only a few sprigs of grass and weeds to be chopped from the bare spots. It looked barren, but we had a few trees to start with.

One mistake I made in my yard plan was a lily pool, so it was one of the first things we planned. My husband donated a lily pond, and I had it set in the ground with rocks placed around the edge and violets, iris, and a few other things it was very pretty. A friend donated half a sack of cement to put a bottom in the lily tank, and with 8 inches of dirt in it we were ready to fill and rock it.

Another friend gave me a water lily. What a thrill it was when the first bloom opened. We were so glad to see it. The lily tank was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center. The fountain was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center. The fountain was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center.

The next thing was to attend to the garden. We went to work to build a trellis to climb the vines and to plant a garden and hide the door from the front drive. With 81 plants for frame work, and some old lilies given to us, we made a lovely trellis with a gate. Climbing vines were planted on each side. The trellis was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center. The fountain was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center.

With Shasta daisies, blue jarkspur, a red geranium, and many other plants, we made a lovely garden. The garden was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center. The fountain was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center.

Next, a stepping stone walk was added. The stones being sunk in the ground so that a lawn mower could pass over them. A stone seat was placed in a corner in front of the trellis with lilies for a background. The seat was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center. The fountain was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center.

To help break the wind, Rosemary hedges were planted in the garden. The hedges were made of concrete and had a fountain in the center. The fountain was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center.

Finally, a row of dahlias which stuck their heads over the back of the trellis. The dahlias were made of concrete and had a fountain in the center. The fountain was made of concrete and had a fountain in the center.

Mussolini Gets Kiss and Pocket Full of Candies

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 26, (AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini has the kiss of a girl he never saw before as a symbol of the good-will he found in Turin, known heretofore as a hotbed of Anti-Fascism.

The kiss was not on the leader's program—a program which began Sunday night and ended late today—but it was accepted nevertheless along with several pockets full of candy.

The incident occurred in a chocolate factory, one of several industrial projects visited by the premier during a busy day yesterday. As the guest of honor strode through the plant, a group of the girl workers suddenly left their machines and surrounded him.

A plump brunette stepped forward, and grabbing the premier's left arm for support, reached up and planted a kiss firmly on his cheek. Then the other girls pushed around him and stuffed his pockets full of chocolates.

A few minutes later, the premier was addressing the several thousand employees of the plant, and he spoke he drew forth chocolate after chocolate, eating them, as it were, between paragraphs.

It was Mussolini's first visit in nine years to Turin, the industrial center of the north. His program called for departure late in the afternoon by automobile to Milan to inaugurate the latest Italian "Kautotrada."

The leader's special train will trail the automobile party, and will be boarded at Novara, and will be in Milan in the huge railway station completed last year.

Last night's important function was what was called the "family dinner" given to Mussolini by the Crown Prince Humbert and his bride at the royal summer estate nearby.

My Beauty Hint

By PEGGY MONTGOMERY

The very young girl need not use rouge to give her cheeks color. Drinking lots of water, I find, not only brightens my skin, but helps keep my skin clear and my eyes bright.

Every morning the first thing on arising, I take a glass of warm water with the juice of half a lemon. This is an excellent beginning for any girl's day.

No water with meals, but seven or eight glasses during the day and evening, is my drinking rule.

"Houses are one-story and are divided by means of sliding partitions. There are a few American-type houses, but it takes about $15,000 to build a four room modern house like those in America.

Wear Native Costumes

"American dress is used a great deal for street and business, but at home the native costumes are still preferred. The consist of bright silk underwear, several kimonos, and sashes.

"Men sleep on soft pillows but women sleep on blocks of wood, cut in the shape of their heads, and tiny pillows, not caring to muss their hair while sleeping.

"There are but few social events at night.

Unique Customs

"To compare some of the Japanese customs with American customs: Books begin 'at the back' and are read forward, the writing is up and down, 'foot notes' are at the top of the page; horses are backed into stables, keys turn the opposite way from those in America; at the theater Japanese check their sandals instead of hats; sweets are served first at a meal; a child is deemed 'to be one year old at birth.

Japanese industries were capably discussed by Mrs. John T. Glover. She began by discussing those industries of special benefit to the traveler, such as the Japanese Bureau of Information, which will suggest various contacts to the visitor in line with the visitor's interests, and the Japanese, European, and American style hotels.

Many Women Workers

Mrs. Glover pointed out that there were one and one-fourth million women factory workers, including many girls under 19 years of age, and that working conditions, on the whole, were very bad.

She stated that agriculture was the principal industry, but also mentioned in her discussion silk production, coal and copper mining, the pearl farms, camphor making, and rubber footwear industry, and others. The pearl farms, she said, were most interesting among industries. The pearl divers are women between the ages of 18 and 35. Women are preferred to men because they can stay under water longer.

Mrs. H. D. Keys then presented the almost miraculous internal development of Japan since the contact made by Perry in 1854. She discussed at length the fact that centuries of non-intercourse with the rest of the world, became in the short space of an ordinary lifetime one of the leading modern commercial powers.

Addition of funds to the penny banks was made before the social half-hour, when Mrs. Lawrence served coffee and individual cakes.

LOVE STILL DEFIES 'MODERNISM'

The New York woman who killed herself and her two children in order to clear her husband's path toward another woman seems to have provided a singularly tragic commentary on the ultra-modern attitude toward love.

The wife knew that her husband wanted the other woman. The three of them had sat down together, a number of times, to talk it all over. As the husband explained, they had "talked it over calmly, in the modern manner," and the root of the whole tragedy, perhaps, lay in just that assumption that "the modern manner" in an affair of this kind is really very much different than the manner of our grandparents.

Modern fiction, of course, is full of sage comment on the triangle. A great many books and plays have been written to prove that love conquers all, to prove that no domestic obligations or pledges stand in the way when two people conceive an extra-marital attachment for each other.

A lot of people have tried to shape their conduct on that thesis. Since many folk are superficial in their emotions as in their thinking, this has very frequently worked out fairly well. But every so often something like this New York catastrophe happens, and we discover that for all their talk some people cannot help acting and feeling just as they would have in the old days.

These people, you see, talked things over "in the modern manner," and according to the canons of modern fiction, the discarded wife should have retired gracefully, consoling herself with the reflection that it just wouldn't do to stand in the way of a great and holy love.

But underneath this "modern manner," human hearts act about as they always did. They break, occasionally, just as painfully as in the old days. Loneliness and disillusion are just as hard to bear as ever.

So a woman and two children are dead. The diving right to live your own life and go your own way may be quite as glorious as modern fiction asserts. But innocent bystanders, now as formerly, have to pay for it.

there, and took it to Dan Singletary, a Mexican. Singletary had testified he "hoaxed" the alleged conspirators.

MACHINE--

would render more than 20,000,000 of them useless so far as absolutely necessary work is concerned, the research estimates, without even considering the 11,000,000 now jobless.

Lower Cost Production. Scott says that while such methods are not fully in use now, there must be an accelerating trend toward their adoption since all business activity is directed toward lower production cost—machines mean fewer men, lower costs.

When it is considered, Scott says, that most of the gain in the last century—there has been no gain up to the last century—has occurred in the last 30 years. It can be seen what the potentiality is for the future toward the rapid extension of better methods.

A man with a spade in 1830 could till only one-eighth acre of land in a 12-hour day. Other crude devices, the wooden plow for instance, bettered this speed somewhat. In 1855 with the advent of the earlier tilling machines, he could till between 12 and 15 acres a day. Today, with most modern machinery and methods, he can till about 96 acres in an eight-hour day.

It took him 5,760 minutes or 96 hours to till an acre in 1830 with spades, and somewhat less time with the wooden plow. It had taken him at least that long in all history up to about 1830. Today with the most modern methods he can till an acre in five minutes.

If the wheat acreage in 1929 had been tilled with spades it would have required 4,900,000 men. The 1929 tillage actually required between 75,000 and 100,000 men, but had most efficient methods been used, 4,000 men could have done the job.

The tendency, Scott says, will be inevitably toward this possible efficiency, with consequent reduction in the need for farm labor. All farm crops can be tilled about as efficiently. A few more men, with modern methods, can accomplish the whole farm process.

Efficiency The Goal.

In 1830 a man could make 45 bricks in 60 minutes. Today he can make 40,000 bricks in the same time. About 87 men using modern methods could have produced all the bricks the United States used in 1929.

Man used 60 minutes to make 45 bricks in 1830; today he needs but four seconds for the same 45 bricks—from raw clay to burned bricks. Here again the tendency toward greater efficiency and smaller employment is seen, Scott says.

In 1904, the beginning of the automobile industry, one man needed 1.291 hours to fabricate an automobile; by 1914 he needed 400 hours; in 1929, 92 hours; and today only 73 hours. The rapid gains in this modern industry, Scott says, show how rapid displacement of men with machines will be in new industries, as well as the potentiality of machine methods in as yet relatively simple industries.

To produce the 1920 output of automobiles with methods but 25 years old—1904 methods—the industry would have needed 2,940,000 men; it actually required 21,000 men.

This is to say, Scott explains, that had it not been for better methods, the automobile industry alone would have afforded employment for more than 2,500,000 of the 4,000,000 seeking gainful employment that were added by population growth after 1904.

Thus one industry could have absorbed more than half of the new stock of workers had it not been for the machine. As it happened, Scott says, they were absorbed in new industries and other occupations up to 1927 when the maximum of all employment in the country was reached despite greater production in 1928 and 1929. Maximum industrial employment was reached in 1918. The examples cited above hold for other industries.

"The only way this almost certainly increasing burden of the unemployed can be cared for will be through the adoption of social measures designed to reduce the necessity for human drudgery," Scott says.

"Technocracy presents the problem; society must solve it."

Kane Murder Trial At Floydada Short

FLOYDADA, Oct. 26 (AP)—Arguments were in order today at the trial here of Mrs. Ruth Kane of Graham on charges of murder for the slaying of J. A. Cunningham, 74-year-old ranchman.

Testimony was concluded abruptly yesterday after the defense closed without putting a witness on the stand and a short time later the state rested.

In the state's evidence was Cunningham's will, made a few days before he was killed April 23. The will left his property to Mrs. Kane, his housekeeper, cutting off his daughter, Mrs. Nettie Weatherholt of Los Angeles with $10.

Carroll Evans, tenant on the ranch, testified Mrs. Kane told him on the morning of the killing that her 15-year-old daughter had "killed a man." In a subsequent statement to officers, Mrs. Kane admitted, officers said, that she had killed the rancher in defending the daughter.

Dealer Confirms That Rumor of Plymouth Six

Persistent rumors that a new Plymouth car shortly to be announced would be a six cylinder automobile of lower price than that of current Plymouth models, was confirmed here today by Fred Cullum of Blair Motor company.

Although no definite announcement date was named, he stated that the new cars would make their appearance here within a few weeks.

"The new Plymouth Six," said Mr. Cullum, "is the product of a new era of automobile manufacture. The recent economic stress has stimulated the progress of automotive design far ahead of the amount of advance usually achieved in any three year period. Machine tool manufacturers have volunteered more new designs recently than usual. Machine tool design has kept pace with the demand for finer but more economical manufacturing methods. Intricate machines that operate at almost unbelievable dimensions are now available. Amplifying gauges that literally split hairs not once but many times, are a part of the general production scheme.

"Thus the engineering laboratory model may be reproduced in the commercial product with absolute accuracy. The Plymouth Six is a product of these new conditions. Only these recent developments permit the production of a car of so low a price and the quality of past Plymouths with many new features. The mammoth Plymouth plant in Detroit has been completely re-tooled. Millions of dollars have been spent for new machinery.

At the request of factory officials, the local dealer is not yet announcing the specific features of this new Plymouth. However, he stated the new Plymouth Six is a full-size, full-tread car and it retains the features which distinguished its predecessor—namely, floating power, automatic clutch free wheeling, easy-shift silent second transmission, all-steel body, rigid frame and a six-cylinder engine of Chrysler motors' exclusive design and build.

By O. W. "RED" SEVERENCE
 (Written for The Associated Press)

It takes a great coach like Brady Cowell, veteran freshman mentor at the University of Florida, to see the humor in a play that probably prevented the 1925 Baby Gators from finishing the season undefeated and untied.

After sweeping through their schedule, the Florida freshmen met the Georgia Bulldogs at Bainbridge, Ga., for the big game of the season.

Georgia scored early on an intercepted pass and kicked goal to tie a lead they held until the last five minutes of the game. Here Florida started an attack that carried them down the field for a touchdown and "Bunny" Newlands, place-kick wizard, calmly booted the ball between the uprights to tie the score.

Finding new life in the tied score, the Baby Gators kicked off, held Georgia for downs and took the ball on Georgia's 28-yard line. Three plays gained five yards and jockeyed the ball into position directly in front of the goal posts.

Calling time to prevent the game from ending before another play could be called, the Baby Gators went into a huddle and planned the next and last play of the game in which Newlands was to place-kick Florida to a 10-7 victory.

Newlands was down inside the 40-yard line, and here was Florida with the ball on the 23-yard line directly before the goal.

The huddle broke up, and the last play of the game was called—a play almost certain to bring victory to Florida. Then the impossible happened.

As quarterback Truby knifed down to smooth off a spot for the kick, a shout from Newlands warned him something had gone wrong. He glanced up to receive the pigskin directly in his eye.

Georgia linesmen swarmed in and smothered the play. The game ended: Florida 7; Georgia 7.

Scobed Center Dee Harris to his teammates. "I thought I'd seen a ball before signals were called and catch Georgia off its guard."

Beware the Cough or Cold that Hangs On

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

The Schneider hotel and the Thirty Footers continue to lead the Commercial bowling league, while the Country club have slipped into second place as the result of games rolled last night at the Pampa Bowling alleys.

Cullum Motor stayed on the bottom. The hotelmen took two out of three games from the Country club, while the long fellows were taking the same number from the motormen.

Wayne Bower of the Schneider men rolled high series with 589 pins to lead Bill Holmes of the same team by five pins. Art Swanson of the Country club rolled high game with 219 pins, one pin ahead of Tom Darby of the Thirty Footers. Bill Holmes rolled two 205 games in a row while Wayne Bower was rolling a 205 game at the same time as Holmes' last big game.

CLINGMAN IN SUPERB FORM FOR BROCK MATCH TONIGHT

FAVORITE IS COMING BACK AFTER A YEAR

BOTH MEN EXPONENTS OF CLEAN TYPE OF WRESTLING

Two clean-cut gentlemen are scheduled to take the mat at the Pla-Mor auditorium tonight when Sailer Otis Clingman meets Eddie Brock of Centralia, Wash., in the main event. Rob Roy will probably be the third man in the ring.

Clingman will have an edge on experience, while the former football star will have the weight advantage. Clingman will be appearing on the local mat for the first time in more than a year. He has been wrestling through the east and has reached the peak of his class.

Brock is a well developed young man and takes his wrestling seriously. He is first of all a clean wrestler, and that fact will please the crowd. Clingman has always been known as the same type Brock was bewildered in wrestling Kopecky's type of mauling when the two met here two weeks ago. The Washington man gave a good account of himself and showed fans that he would be hard to beat wrestling according to rules.

Fans are buying tickets in a rush to see their favorite again. Michael, local redhead, and Delmar Michael, local redhead, and Delmar Quinby, Borger strong man, together. The two wrestled to a draw here some time ago, but the red-head was not satisfied.

The opening match will start at 8:30 o'clock.

GORILLAS TO PLAY CLAUDE

Mustangs Coming to Pampa On Friday Afternoon for Game.

Pampa football fans will see a game at home Friday afternoon before going to Amarillo for the big game Saturday afternoon.

Coch Warren Moore's Gorillas will play the Claude Mustangs at Harvester park starting at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. The big Mustangs have been going strong from the opening of the season, losing only to the Panhandle Panthers and Clarendon.

The Gorillas also lost a tilt to the Panthers, which should make the teams almost even. Claude is the bigger and more experienced team, but the Gorillas are a bunch of fighters as demonstrated last Friday in holding of the fast Canadian Wildcats to a scoreless tie.

Coch Moore has not decided on his starting line but his backfield will probably be composed of Evans, quarterback, Tenare and Gregory, halves, and McAuley, fullback. The coach is training McOuley to be a plunger. His defensive play needs no improvement but the big fellow has been weak on hitting the line.

The other three members of the backfield are light but fast and tricky.

The Gorilla line has been leaking badly, especially on punts, and the coach is working hard on a defense. The little fellows scrimmaged the Harvesters yesterday afternoon and showed much improvement.

A small charge will be made to defray expenses.

Boston's Rabbit May Take Count

BOSTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—It seems that baseball is about to kick Boston's beloved rabbit Maranville upstairs again.

Reports have it that the Cincinnati Reds want the Braves' colorful second-baseball as their manager next season. President Emil Fuchs has been approached on that proposition.

"Yes," said Fuchs, "the Reds have inquired about their chances of getting the rabbit to manage their club next season."

"President Well talked only recently with Manager Bill McKechnie on that subject. We'd like to keep the rabbit with us, because he is a valuable influence and still a great defensive player. But those managerial chances are the dreams of all veteran players and the Braves would not stand in his way if he has a chance to better himself."

Maranville, who will be 40 years old next month, has played 21 years of major league baseball. Until recently, as time is recorded in the long career of baseball's Peter Pan, he was the game's perennial freshman.

NEW PASS RECORD. BIWAH, Minn., Oct. 26 (AP)—Football statisticians will have to make a place in the records for this one. Halfback Saari of the high school football team, has intercepted at least one forward pass in the last five games his team has played, each time scoring a touchdown. He runs for counters in such cases have averaged 75 yards.

Lionel Weimbert of Baltimore, Md., is looking after business interests here.

PIGSKIN DOINGS

TODAY'S HARVESTER.

A little quarterback who has come to the front this season is Earnest McDuffie. He weighs only 135 pounds but can hit the line hard and is also shifty. He has a good football head and calls signals well. Earnest is 17 years old and a junior. He is playing his third year of football, having had two years experience with the Gorillas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. McDuffie and has lived here several years.

Rob Roy, local wrestler, handed us one of the finest football poems ever written. He got it from Frank Aldridge, district attorney at Meridian, Miss., while wrestling there last year. Rob looked it up now that he has gotten the football fever. The author is unknown.

Here is it and I hope you like it:

ALUMNUS FOOTBALL

Bill Jones had been the shining star upon his college team. His tackling was ferocious and his tucking was a dream.

When husky William took the ball beneath his brawny arm. They had two extra men to ring the ambulance alarm.

Bill hit the line and ran the ends like some mad bull amuck. The other team would shiver when they saw him start to buck.

And when some rival tackle tried to block his dashing pace. On waking up, he'd ask, "Who drove that truck across my face?"

Bill had the speed—Bill had the weight, Bill never bucked in vain; From goal to goal he whizzed along while fragments strewed the plain.

And there had been a standing bet, which no one tried to call. That he could make his distance through a 10-foot granite wall.

When he wound up his college course each student's heart was sore. They wept to think bull-throated Bill would buck the line no more.

Not so with William in his dreams he saw the field of fame. Where he would buck to glory in the swirl of life's game.

Sweet are the dreams of college life, before our faith is nicked—The world is but a cherry tree that's waiting to be picked. The world is but an open road—until we find one day.

How far away the goal posts are that called us to the play.

So, with the sheepskin tucked beneath his arm in football style. Bill put on steam and dashed into the thicket of the pile;

With eyes ablaze he sprinted where the laureled highway led—When Bill woke up his scalp hung loose and knots adorned his head.

He tried to run the ends of life, but with rib crashing toss A rent collector tackled him and threw him for a loss.

And when he switched his course again and dashed into the line The massive guard named Failure did a toddle on his spine.

Bill tried to punt out of the rut, but ere he turned the trick. Right Tackle Competition scuttled through and blocked the kick.

And when he tackled at Success in one long vicious prod The Fullback Disappointment steered his features in the sod.

Bill was no quitter, so he tried a buck in higher gear. But Left Guard Envy broke it up and stuck him on his ear.

Whereat he aimed a forward pass, but in two vicious bounds Big Center Greed slipped through a

HARVESTERS RELISH IDEA OF BEING UNDERDOGS SATURDAY

Boys Will Fight Until They Fall in Most Important Game of Season.

The Harvesters scrimmaged the Gorillas yesterday afternoon and seemed a much improved aggregation. They worked with a vim and vigor that looked like old times. All the cripples were in uniform but watched the work-out from the sidelines.

The boys are determined to give the big Sandies the tussle of their life when they invade Butler field Saturday afternoon. They will be the underdogs, but that will make no difference to Captains Pool and Schmidt and company.

There will be diversion for the boys tonight after the toughest scrimmage of the week. About 7 o'clock there will be a big bonfire and pep rally north of the Cook addition. Immediately thereafter, the boys will be guests of local fans at a chicken dinner in the high school cafeteria. The evening will be closed with the boys attending the Cornsiana match at the Pla-Mor auditorium, where they will be the guests of Rob Roy, local wrestler.

Another tough practice is on schedule for tomorrow afternoon, with a light workout set for Friday.

The Sandies are going through light practice this week. Coach Blair Cherry believing that his boys have reached top form. The Harvesters have yet to reach the peak and coaches are working them at top speed. New plays, defense against the well known Amarillo aerial attack, and renewing of old plays are coming in for considerable attention.

Several new formations are likely to be uncovered Saturday on Butler field. The Harvesters have not uncovered their whole list of plays at any time this season. Orders will go out to break loose and Butler field is apt to be a hot place.

"Win, lose or draw, the Harvesters will fight as always" Superintendent Fisher said yesterday afternoon.

Pampans Entertain At McLean Event

Pampans contributed to the program at a ladies' night meeting of the Lions club in McLean yesterday.

John Sturgeon, president of the Pampa club, played and sang, besides making a talk and playing the piano, accompaniment for Miss Dorothy Doucette and Miss Jackie Downs.

Others attending from Pampa were Mrs. Sturgeon, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hessey and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thomas.

hole and rammed him out of bounds.

But one day when across the field of fame the goal seemed dim, The wise old coach, Experience, came up and spoke to him.

"Old Boy," he said, "the main point now before you win your bout, Is keep on bucking Failure till you've worn that piker out."

"And, kid, cut out this fancy stuff—go in there, low and hard. Just keep your eye upon the ball and plug on, yard by yard. And more than all, when you are thrown or tumbled with a crack, Don't sit there whining, hustle up, and keep on coming back."

"Keep on coming back with all you've got, without an alibi. If Competition trips you up or lands upon your eye, Until at least above the din you hear this sentence spilled; We might as well let this bird through before we are all killed."

"You'll find the road is long and rough, with soft spots far apart. Where only those can make the grade who have the uphill heart. And when they step upon a thud or halt you with a crack, Let Courage call the signals as you keep on coming back."

"Keep coming back, and though the world may romp across your spine, Let every Game's end find you still upon the battling line; For when the One Great Scorer comes to mark against your name, He writes—not that you won or lost—but how you played the game."

—Author Unknown.

SANDIE-PAMPA TILT IS STATE GRID CLASSIC

ATTENTION OF ENTIRE STATE FOCUSED ON GAME

By BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

The battle plan maneuver is over. There has been a flare signal for action, and the Texas Inter-scholastic league will fire a football broadside this week in its class 'A' division when four of the prominent state championship contenders combat against each other.

These two games will mark the first really important big push toward the 1933 Texas schoolboy grid-iron crown.

A Central Texas classic will be held at Corsicana Friday where the Waco Tigers and Corsicana Tigers clash in a district eleven battle. Both teams are undefeated in district competition. Waco has held the state championship several times. Corsicana has knocked at the throne room door often but has never been admitted.

The mighty roar of other big football guns will be heard at Amarillo where the green and gold clad Pampa Harvesters take on the Amarillo Golden Sandstrom aggregation in a district one battle.

There will be 25 other district championship games scattered thru the 16 class 'A' districts, but the battles at Corsicana and Amarillo will high-hat the entire lot in that mere matter of being the most crucial.

The winner of the Corsicana combat will be established as the outstanding favorite for the district 11 crown, and to go far in the state race. Waco plans a special train to Corsicana. In their annual battles, Corsicana has whipped Waco three times the last four seasons. Pampa and Amarillo are tied for

PHILLIPS WILL PLAY DORCOS FOR RIGHT TO MEET FACULTY

Trojan Back Is On Injured List

Disputed Game Played Last Week at Phillips Given To Faculty.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26 (AP)—Orville Mohler, one of the greatest quarterbacks the University of Southern California ever had, was rudely pushed out of the football picture today by the injury jinx.

The slight but staunch signal shouter, who was so instrumental in the Trojans' climb to the mythical national championship a year ago, and the guiding hand in their string of five victories this season, was ordered off the gridiron by school officials to avoid possible paralysis, or even death.

McNier was knocked unconscious in Southern California's game against Stanford last Saturday while leading interference. In the play he hurt again the tissues which hold together the fifth and sixth vertebrae in his neck, pulling them slightly apart.

The original injury occurred a year ago when he was struck on the neck in the pile-up that followed a plunge with the ball against California. Mohler was out of competition two weeks.

Mrs. B. O. Bertrand of White Deer was a Pampa shopper yesterday.

The Danciger Dorcos and the Phillips Oilers will have a play-off for the right to meet the Faculty for the championship of the City Playground ball league. It was decided at a meeting of league officials and team managers in the chamber of commerce rooms last night.

The teachers won the first half of the league schedule with little difficulty, but dropped two games in the second half of the league race. Phillips lost a disputed game to the Faculty last week, according to the decisions of managers at last night's meeting.

Managers of the two teams are scheduled to arrange the play-off which will be a sudden death game at the Danciger diamond. Play for the title will go three games with the winner being the team taking two games first.

The game between the Dorcos and the Oilers should be the classic of the season. It will probably be a pitchers battle between Harry Drain, Danciger speedball artist, and Leon Cheung, the Borger Phillips fastball ace, who is on the Phillips roster.

Twelve-Man Team To Be Tried Out

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26 (AP)—If the fans happen to count 12 men on each team in the game November 4, between the elevens of Occidental college and Santa Barbara State, they need not be puzzled.

Twelve-man teams will be tried out by the schools in their game to test the feasibility of the plan.

The twelfth man, acting as a field general, will not enter the actual physical contest but will run around with the referee as an observer, advising his team in the huddle before each lineup where weaknesses appear to crop out in the opposing team. On defense he will stand with the head linesman, taking no active part in his team's functions.

O'Doul Gets By Japanese Ban on Picture Taking

TOKYO, Oct. 26 (AP)—The boys who put the facts in baseball, who's who can put down a couple or three more entries under the name of Lefty O'Doul.

With the ink hardly dry on his accomplishment as champion batsman of the National league, it will be necessary now to add, photographer, bicyclist, and all around fixer upper.

"Twas thus: Lefty and Ted Lyons, the Chicago White Sox pitcher, accompanied by Joseph Cohen, a San Francisco racing news man, embarked on a little amateur movie taking expedition along the Tsukiji. (Yes, it's Tokyo's waterfront.)

Along came a policeman and promptly arrested the picture takers under the photographic espionage laws, which are strict in Japan.

Lefty did the explaining at the stationhouse, and after everybody was identified all around, the policeman apologized to the baseball stars and gave the party permission to take all the pictures they wanted.

This they proceeded to do on the way back to their hotel, but were nabbed again by another officer of the law. This officer took them to a strange stationhouse where explanations didn't come in so handy. But Lefty again rose to the occasion. Finally he was permitted to mount a police bicycle and ride back to station house No. 1.

Lefty found his way back, got policeman No. 1, and brought him to stationhouse No. 2. There were explanations again, and the party was freed with some more apologies.

Japan also likes its baseball.

The Campaign Puzzle

Study Past State-by-State Votes in Making Your Forecasts

Delaware's vote for president in 1928:

Hoover	68,986
Smith	35,359

Kentucky's vote for president in 1928:

Hoover	558,064
Smith	381,070

Texas vote for president in 1928:

Hoover	367,036

Delaware's record as a republican state is of 40 years' standing. Since voting for Cleveland in 1892, the state has given its vote to a democratic presidential candidate but once in 1912, when Theodore Roosevelt's candidacy on the progressive ticket split the republican vote.

Kentucky in the last half century has voted 11 times for democratic candidates for the presidency and three times for republicans. Its republican votes were recorded in 1896, 1924 and 1928.

Texas stepped out of the ranks of the democratic "solid South" in 1928 for the first time since the civil war, to vote for a republican candidate for president.

The campaign of that year was fought with unusual vigor in Texas. Alfred E. Smith's prohibition views were attacked by large groups within the democratic party, and prominent party leaders in the state openly opposed him in the campaign.

In 1912 and 1928, James M. Cox won the state in 1920 by 4,017 votes. Prohibition was an outstanding issue in the 1928 campaign. In the current campaign more emphasis has been placed on economic issues.

The year which saw Texas giving its presidential vote to Herbert Hoover witnessed the election of Tom Connally (D) to the United States senate by a vote of more than four to one over his republican opponent.

In the state elections of 1930, Morris Shepard (D) was re-elected to the senate with 286,550 votes, against 39,047 for his republican opponent. In the same year Ross S. Sterling (D) received 252,738 votes for governor against 62,224 for the republican candidate.

In the state elections of 1930, Marvel M. Logan (D) defeated John M. Robison (R) by a vote of 336,748 to 309,180. In the same year the state elected nine democrats and two republicans to congressional seats.

Ruby Laffoon (D) defeated W. B. Harrison (R) in the gubernatorial elections the following year. The vote was 436,513 to 368,982. Economy and highways formed the issues of this campaign.

Grain Drops to Lowest Price on Board of Trade

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (AP)—The lowest price for wheat in the history of the Chicago Board of Trade was chalked up on the board today.

December delivery contracts sold down to 44 1/2 cents a bushel shortly after the opening of the market, continuing the downward break that was started yesterday at Winnipeg when Canadian traders foresaw the abandonment of support by their government.

The figure was a fraction below the previous all time low record, established last fall when wheat futures touched 44 1/2 cents.

There was no panic, no excitement in the pit. Trading was orderly and light in volume. But sellers prevailed, the Chicago market reflecting the complexion of that at Winnipeg where record bottoms were reached yesterday and again today.

The withdrawal of dominion support at Winnipeg, anticipated before the market closed yesterday, was confined with the announcement of the Canadian premier that the government could no longer pay the 5-cent a bushel bonus to wheat producers of the prairie provinces.

Prices declined 3/4 to 1/2 cents at the opening here, rallied a trifle and then dropped away to the lowest in the board of trade annals, which began in Civil war times.

A PATH TO PARADISE

by Coningsby DAWSON

SYNOPSIS: Having crushed Olive's spirit by becoming engaged to Dicky, 14 years her senior, Santa rushes to the boat to bid Clive farewell as he sails to become European representative of his firm. There she promises Olive to break her engagement and meet him in Europe! Then, in the car, she tells Dicky. The tangle is worse because, long before, Clive's mother and Santa's father had been engaged, and Eric Dawn had been jilted. When his mother, on her deathbed, asked Dawn to care for Clive, Mrs. Dawn was furious, took Santa to Europe, permitted her to become an expert in provoking men's attentions.

Chapter 8
"WOMAN IS FICKLE"
Santa glanced up quickly. Dicky looked so strong. His protecting arm lightened. So the woman going to punish her. She leaned more heavily against him. Through the great white lights of Broadway they sped in silence. At Columbus Circle the chauffeur glanced back for instructions. Dicky signed to him to enter the Park.

Feverishness was left behind. Shadowy vistas. Black ramparts filled with stary loop-holes. He scooped his lips to her wavy hair.

"Don't tell anything, unless—"
"Dicky," she protested, "it concerns you: I even promised to follow him."

He laughed quietly.
"You haven't."
"You don't realize." She wrung her hands. "I'm asking your advice. I'm in a most frightful mood."
"You're asking whether you should jack me in favor of Clive. The answer depends on your happiness."

"But I'm considering your happiness."
"There's only one person to consider—yourself. Let's be terrifically honest. What are Clive's superior attractions, in spite of which you chose me?"

"I chose you," she stared into the darkness, "because I was sick of boys. They're so bossy—must have everything their own way. They get sore. Take Clive. If I'd done to him what I've done to you, he'd have sulked and made me miserable. Certainly he wouldn't have been driving me around the Park all friendly and comfortable."

"But Clive, since he's your example, must have his good points."
"Heaps," she granted enthusiastically. "I'm his only girl. He adores me."

"And now for my qualities. Let's start with the good ones."
"You're friends with so many people. You take me places," she faltered.

"Losing your nerve?" he challenged.
"I'm proud to be seen with you." Her voice strengthened. "You're so blond and handsome. You speak languages like a foreigner. It's fun to chatter with wavers in queer little restaurants. Life with you becomes an adventure. And then you're so well groomed—so absolutely right for every occasion. You mayn't know it, but you give me confidence. Clive's sometimes a little shabby and not quite sure of himself. And then again, you're agreeable—always the same. Not indelicately demonstrative one moment and all bottled up the next. What I mean is, you don't upset me—don't expect me to be perfect."

"Can't you state something positively to my credit?"
"She thought deeply."
"Yes. Because I'm young, you're flattered. When I'm prettier than usual, you notice. And then on my side, because you're older, I'm flattered, too."

"Fourteen years older," he reminded. "You've said nothing about being fond of me or the way I feel toward you."

"Who's Lou-Lou?" she asked quietly.
"How should I know, darling? I expect she's a name you've invented."

"She isn't." Santa shook her curly head. "She's a woman whom you loved before me."

"I never pretended there weren't women I loved before you," he owned gravely. "I jessed up that evening when you planned to run off with Clive."

"Dicky, dear, by loved I thought you meant liked."
"I'm not to blame for what you thought. I told you."

"So there were other women," tears filled her eyes, "whom you loved in the same way that you loved Lou-Lou?"

"Regular detective, aren't you?" she chaffed her. "What do you suppose I was doing all those years till I met you? I'm human."

"One more question, Dicky. I'm not the third or even the fourth—just the end of a procession? You couldn't get me cheaply—so you made me your wife."

"That is what comes of playing poker." He assumed a mock injured expression. "Who said anything about a procession?"

"Do you get drunk often?" she insisted. "This is only our honeymoon. I know nothing about you."
He attempted to fold her in his arms. She turned her face aside.

"My getting drunk was an accident. The other women meant nothing."
"Don't lie, Dicky. They're all memorized there." She touched his forehead. "My place is a long way down the line."
