Kakawate Road Construction Expected To Be Finished Soon

For the past couple of months, Kakawate Road, otherwise known as 'The Portales Cutoff' has been closed to through traffic as the road has been undergoing a thorough re-working on the New Mexico side of the line.

The following story about re-construction of the highway was in the Tuesday, May 28, edition of the Portales News-Tribune:

"With the first overlay course nearly completed, the repaving of Kakawate Road could be completed within three weeks, barring bad weather and mechanical breakdown.

Lorenzo Barela, field inspector for the New Mexico State Highway Department on the project, told County Commissioners Jim Parrish and Steve Howl today that the K. Barnett and Sons crews began the morning with 1.6 miles remaining to receive the first overlay course on the south side of the road and about 2 miles on the north side.

"K. Barnett and Sons, based in Clovis, have averaged almost two and a half miles per day since beginning the project on May 12, with a peak day of 3.3 miles on the first course.

"After the road was closed in early May to begin the work, the crews patched and filled holes with hot mix and packed it so that the overlay work could be done.

"After the first 1 1/2-inch course of hot-mix asphalt overlay is completed, the K. Barnett crews will add another 1 1/2 course and finish with some shoulder work and painting. After the project is finished, the road will be traded to the state and become a part of its regular maintenance schedule.

"We're extremely pleased with the way the work is going," Howl, the District 1 commissioner, said. Kakawate road is in District 1.

"Parrish, the County Commission chairman, warned that the road remains closed to through traffic until work is completed and that drivers who chose to ignore warning signs will be stopped and given citations.

"Sheriff Sonny Carter said his department has been keeping watch on the road and will post units there periodically to stop traffic violating the controlled access statutes. The citation carries a fine of up to $50.

Water-vital and precious-occupies the thoughts of most people on the South Plains, as well as all of West Texas these days. Without adequate water, crops cannot be grown, communities cannot flourish and this great South Plains could be going back to rangeland. The Ogallala Aquifer, the huge water supply beneath the Texas Panhandle and South Plains, extending into West Texas, is slowly being depleted.

However, it is predicated that the Aquifer will survive-if farmers who depend on it for irrigation go out of business or take up dryland farming, according to a Department of Interior official from Washington.

Robert Broadbent, assistant interior secretary for water and science said during a news conference that the lower the level of the High Plains Aquifer, the higher the cost of pumping water to the surface.

"I think agriculture is going to be subject to the same economics that anybody else is. If you can no longer afford to buy the products you need to make agriculture productive, you're going to go out of business or go into dryland farming," he said. "I think you're going to see some changes."

Interior Secretary Donald Hodel was also present at the conference as the department released a new report on U.S. underground water supplies.

Hodel said water is plentiful nationwide and that the federal government should stay out of managing underground water resources.

The Texas Legislature has approved a $1.4 billion water package that must be approved by voters in a referendum. It includes a provision for voluntary local regulation of underground water.

Wheat Rust May Prevent Grain Heads

Most wheat farmers throughout the Panhandle, South Plains and Rolling Plains have missed their opportunity to use fungicide to combat the worst outbreak of leaf rust to strike the region in many years, says a plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

But a few may still be able to obtain some advantage from treating their crop, said Dr. Robert Berry, who sounded the alarm for area producers two months ago.

County Extension agents in the northern tier of Panhandle counties echoed the view that producers need to take a very close look at their crop to decide if it is economically feasible to apply fungicide. "This is especially true from Interstate 40 north," said Fred Smith, Hutchinson County agent.

"Most producers made their decision a month ago, with many feeling the rust wasn't serious enough to justify the treatment," Berry said. "But changing weather conditions have provided warmth and moisture which have aggravated the situation."

Producers who have wheat already blooming, or in later stages of development, with rust already evident on the flag leaves will find it is too late to expect satisfactory results from fungicide application, the Extension specialist said.

"Those plants will continue to decline and results of fungicide application will probably be disappointing, although there might be some yield enhancement," Berry said.

Fields which are in the flag stage of early heading, but without rust damage to the upper leaves, can still be treated with an expectation of good results, the pathologist said.

Berry described the Rolling Plains wheat crop as a "complete disaster" from the rust. "Many early fields are in the milk stage with absolutely no green leaves to fill the grain, he said. He added, "late fields are blooming and many have good color, but rust infestation is heavy and will probably kill the leaves before the grain is filled."

Berry said some fields in the Rolling Plains which were probably treated with fungicide are not showing rust. But he said it appears the two weeks of protection provided by the fungicide may be enough to yield a fair crop in these fields.

grades according to achievement test scores. In the junior division, Johnny Jaquess received a ribbon for highest PACE average (98), while Justin Bradley received a ribbon for most PACE's.

Diabetic Retinopathy Listed Major Cause Of All Blindness

The leading cause of blindness in people ages 20 to 64 is a disorder that strikes diabetics.

Diabetic retinopathy robs the sight of about 5,000 Americans a year, says the Texas Medical Association.

The loss of sight results from the death or leakage of small blood vessels of the retina, the inner lining for the back of the eye where visual images are formed. The leaking blood reduces vision and can produce scar tissue on the retina, leading to permanent loss of vision.

But if the disorder is diagnosed early, laser treatment can reduce the risk of severe visual loss, says the American Academy of Ophthalmology, whose members are medical doctors specializing in eye care.

Treatment is usually effective in controlling retinopathy. Although the disorder tends to recur, repeated treatments can maintain existing vision.

As many as half of the 7 million diagnosed diabetic Americans are at risk of forming these abnormal blood vessels, the academy says. But a recent study shows that about a third of all diabetics have had their eyes examined by an ophthalmologist.

To help prevent blindness and minimize vision loss due to diabetic retinopathy, the academy says:

--All diabetics, including children, should have regular eye exams.

--Diabetic women should have eye exams particularly during pregnancy.

according to the Interior Department report, which was compiled by the U.S. Geological Survey.

"Unless effective conservation measures are implemented, the irrigated acreage will be decreased by slightly more than one-half of the present acreage by the year 2030," it said.

The report included a case study of Floyd County (located some 65 miles east of Bailey County) in the Texas Panhandle, showing how increases in electricity and decreases in the underground water level can make irrigation economically unfeasible.

Between 1952 and 1981, the cost of pumping water in Floyd County increased 594 percent, without adjusting for inflation, the report said. Meanwhile, the index of prices received by farmers fell 116 percent.

In 1958, the annual irrigation withdrawal in Floyd County was 61.5 billion gallons. By 1969, it had increased to 103.5 billion gallons. But by 1979, withdrawals decreased to 57.7 billion gallons.

From 1945 to 1984, the water level in one Floyd County test well dropped from 60 feet below the land surface to 245 feet below it, the report indicated.

According to the report, more than 80 percent of the fresh ground water pumped in Texas in 1984 was used for irrigation. About 10 percent was used for public drinking water and less than 10 percent for industrial use.

"I think economics is going to take care of it a lot (the depletion)," Broadbent said. "If you can't afford to pump it, then you're not going to pump the ground water, and the ground water is going to stabilize and may even come up."

If West Texas farmers cannot irrigate, they have to give up crops like corn and cotton in favor of non-irrigated crops such as grain sorghum and wheat.

The report said the Houston area is also rapidly drawing water from the coastal quifer system, which is causing land to sink.

Sudan Girls Make AAU Basketball Team

By Evelyn Ritchie
Several Sudan girls traveled to Farwell to try out for two different area wide AAU Basketball teams. The two teams which are affiliated with the Amateur Athletic Union that sponsors athletic events for young ladies were for 13 and 14 year olds and 11 & 12 year olds. Girls from Sudan making the older group were Krista Kirkland and Teena Newman with Tanya Fisher, Nichole Maxfield and Gayla Rasco making the younger team. Kendra Fisher was also named alternate of the 11 & 12 year old team.

As a result of being named to the team, the girls will get to compete in the New Mexico State Tournament which will be held on May 31 and June 1 & 2nd in Albuquerque.

If they win this tournament, they will then get to travel to Kansas City Missouri in July to compete in the National tournament. The girls will be coached by Larry Gregory.

To make the team, the Sudan girls had to try out against other girls from surrounding communities. After a three hour try out, the 29 older girls and 27 younger girls were narrowed down to two teams which will consist of twelve members and three alternates. Other members of the teams come from Muleshoe, Lazbuddie, Nazareth, Farwell and Texico. N.M. Other participants came from Friona, Bovina and other town in New Mexico. Sudan was the only team to place four members on one team. Also trying out for Sudan in the 11-12 year old division were Teresa Zapata and Suzanne Reid. Reid was named the fourth alternate.

Sudan Hornet Bzzz

The Sudan girls finished their season this past week with scrimmages against each other. In the Minor League, Team I once again prevailed over Team II by a score of 31-21. Team I jumped out to a quick lead, but had to overcome a fourth quarter comeback by Team II. Elena Apodaca led team I by scoring 13 points. She received help from Teresa Williams with 9; Jill Reid with 6 and Roxanne Gunn with 2. Team II was led by Rondra Tamplin and Terri Ray with 6 each followed by Kaylenn Nix with 5 and Heather Harrison with 4.

In the Major league game, Team I also won. They were able to get a quick lead and maintain it throughout the game. Although Team 2 made a rally in the 3rd quarter, Team I was able to hold on for a 16-13 victory. TRERC research shows home buyers make over $40,000

COLLEGE STATION — Most Texans who purchase a home are young marrieds, have no children and make more than twice the median income for all Texans. That profile of state homebuyers was released by the Texas Real Estate Research Center (TRERC) at Texas A&M University. Half of the homebuyers made at least $40,000, compared to the $19,618 median income for the state as a whole, said Don E. Albrecht, a research scientist for TRERC and the Department of Rural Sociology at Texas A&M. The majority had incomes of more than $25,000, and nearly two-thirds had incomes of $35,000 or more.

We Americans are entirely too careless and we pay for it with human lives.

From Your Ambulance Service

Summer is the most beautiful time of the year. All the fresh, brightly colored flowers and green grass. But with all the beauty comes lots of hard work. There is trimming of trees and bushes, planting flowers and mowing grass, just to name a few. All of these things have a factor of risk involved. While performing these tasks you should keep a few safety rules in mind.

1. Never mow the lawn or operate any machinery without shoes. Always wear protective clothing. Tough shoes, jeans and a shirt. A lawn mower or chainsaw can throw debris out and if you are unprotected some debris may become a dangerous if not a deadly weapon.
  2. Make sure children are not close by in case some debris is thrown off by the machinery.
  3. Do not pour gasoline into a hot lawn-mower. If the gasoline hits the hot engine it may start a fire.
  4. When trimming trees or cutting a hedge use protective gloves to keep from cutting your hands.
  5. If you have to use a ladder to trim tree limbs, make sure all ladders are in good condition and are secured good so it won't slip out from under you.
  6. Make extra sure that all electrical cords are not lying in water while in use or storage.
  7. Do not use defective equipment. Make sure to keep all machinery in good working condition to prevent malfunction that could cause an injury.
- Please follow these few simple rules for safety, it may save your life or someone else's life.
