Independents Walk Out Of Washington Oil Meet

The Amarillo Sandies appear all too well named, and seem always accompanied by sandstorms at meets lately. We'd like to see them on a still day just once—we fig we they wouldn't be the same.

Mrs. Gushaway is contemptuous of bending exercises by radio or otherwise. She says she does enough of it just picking up the things Junior and Pa leave scattered about the house.

If we Americans knew how to drink liquors, opinions of a local officer, abandonment of prohibition wouldn't be so bad. He dreads an epidemic of disgraceful happenings when every damphule can buy intoxicants anytime and most any place desired. "Hogs," do no worse at the trough than many Americans gurgling raw liquor out of bottles and fruit jars.

Greivous times, these. Some folks we meet wish to secede from Texas and some, because of federal proration decisions, would like to secede from the United States.

A new electric lamp gives daylight indoors. And if mortgage foreclosures hadn't been stopped such a light would not have been needed by many families.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES

E. W. Sprows in Happy Herald: Texas is the oil producing and refining center of the world, supplying the dominating portion of both the crude and finished petroleum products being consumed in all the nations. Of the vast flow of crude from the state's more than 44,000 oil wells, the greater part in turned into useable, refined commodities within the state, the refineries consuming one of Texas' greatest industries, an industry bringing many millions of dollars into the state. Of these enormous quantities of refined products, a scant 15 per cent is consumed within Texas, the remainder being diverted to trade channels which carry them even to the far corners of the earth. These facts are indicative of the importance of oil to the average Texan.

(Very true. The oil industry is of tremendous importance to this section and to Texas as a whole. That is one reason for the huge state expenditures in trying to keep the price of oil at a figure which will yield substantial taxes and royalties. Collapse of the market structure for oil means, inevitably, collapse of the taxable valuations. Without oil wealth and taxes from the industry, Texas would feel much more depressed than now. Indeed, taxation of gasoline has become so severe that losses are apt to result if there is any further increase, because of sheer over-burden of the retail gasoline business.)

TIME TO BUY

H. B. Hilburn in Plainview News: There are splendid opportunities nowadays to acquire homes at much under the cost of building them. It is indeed unfortunate that so many people the country over have not seen the wisdom of holding on to their homes, or have been forced through unemployment or otherwise to relinquish them.

What has been one person's misfortune may become another's good fortune. That is not the way that we would have it, of course, but since that condition exists it appears wise that those who can do so should take advantage of the low market.

Some places that have been homes are now houses on the market. Many of these are bargains at the price they can be acquired. They are

CALIFORNIAN FLAYS MAJORS IN CONFERENCE

ALL DAY SESSIONS ARE HELD BY BOTH SIDES OF INDUSTRY

U. S. CONTROL IS HINTED

ALL MEMBERS OF RAIL COMMISSION CONCUR IN NEW ORDER

WASHINGTON, March 27. (P)—Measures to protect their respective interests were taken today by both sides of the oil industry here to attend the governors' petroleum regulation conference called by Secretary Ickes.

The major companies as well as the independent producers from various parts of the country held all day meetings to consider steps to be taken as the conference gets under full swing.

Though no statement was made, representatives of some companies detailed what they termed their "plight" at today's meeting because of fears, it was contended, of "complete chaos" in the oil business unless some kind of regulation is brought about in the near future.

AUSTIN, March 27. (P)—Lon A. Smith, chairman of the Texas railroad commission, said today that an order opening the East Texas oil field to full flow for test purposes would be concurred in by all members of the commission.

Gangsters Kill Prosecutor Of Charity Frauds

BENTON, Ill., March 27. (P)—John Ward, member of the West Frankfort relief committee who has been active in prosecuting 25 persons receiving public aid while they had bank balances, was shot and killed at West Frankfort today by several men who fired at him from an automobile and drove away.

EROSION AND ITS CURE
DRAINAGE WEARS AWAY SURFACE
TREES RETAIN TOP SOIL
SOIL EROSION AREAS

The administration's project for erosion prevention and flood control through reforestation is directed at providing unemployment relief on a large scale. Erosion, the wearing away of the top soil through drainage, has rendered 34,000,000 acres of land unfit for agriculture. Approval of the project would result in such a call for men as that suggested above.

MOVE TO TABLE BILL PROVIDING ELECTIVE UTILITY COMMISSION FAILS BY HOUSE VOTE OF 67-66

Proposed Body Is To Regulate Oil and Gas Production

AUSTIN, March 27. (P)—Proponents of a bill in the house of representatives to establish a combination public utilities and natural resource regulation commission succeeded today in preventing delay in consideration of the proposal, but a move was initiated immediately to reconsider the vote by which the house refused to lay the bill on the table subject to call.

Meteor Fell In New Mexico, Says Museum Curator

DENVER, Colo., March 27. (P)—H. H. Nininger, curator of meteors for the Colorado Museum of Natural History, is convinced a blazing meteor that traced a fiery path across the dawn in three states Friday came to rest in northeastern New Mexico.

PRESIDENT AND THE MASSES

If the passage of the Roosevelt economy measure by Congress did nothing else, it at least gave us a new education about the place of the lobby in democratic government.

When you get right down to it, there is not necessarily anything fundamentally wrong with the lobby scheme. A minority, in a democracy, has got to have some way of reaching the ear of the government.

Nor is there, fundamentally, anything wrong with the notion that a congressman or a senator should listen to a lobby. The minority has a right to be heard; it is only fair that its pleas should be considered.

The trouble comes when a minority, because of its compactness, its determination and the skill of its agents, gets an influence greater than it deserves.

It is right at this point that President Roosevelt's action in regard to the economy bill because an important departure from the ordinary routine.

That he did so—that he had to do so if the vast majority was to be protected—does not necessarily reflect on Congress. It is Congress's business to listen to organized minorities.

But that, in turn, means that if the president himself does not make it his business to represent the majority, nobody will.

This conception of the president's job is a profoundly important one. One of the heartening things about the present situation is that Mr. Roosevelt has grasped it so firmly.

DIRECT ATTACK ON IDLENESS

President Roosevelt's scheme for enrolling 250,000 men in a peace-time army for a direct attack on unemployment is about as complete a departure from accepted traditions in America as could be imagined.

And yet—such is the temper of the country today—that very fact is helping to win public support for the measure.

So far, in our fight with unemployment, we have followed the old traditions and they haven't worked. Merely to see the problem tackled from an entirely new angle is encouraging.

The industrious and energetic citizen who is unemployed through no fault of his own and who subsists on charity because he has to and not because he wants to—this chap can be expected to jump at the chance to join the army without guns.

Looks like March is going out like a lion. It came in a jam.

Fingerprints claimed by a Boston medium to have been made by a ghost have been proved to be those of a living man.

No reason to be surprised because Roosevelt made Congress do the goose-step. The very month was March.

Engleman in Tulsa Herald: A dollar spent now for construction or maintenance of property is in for a very busy time.

GOOD LAND DECREASING

Erosion is steadily decreasing the amount of good farm land, says Bennett, and represents a permanent loss to the farmer. Low prices for farm products may some day rise, but rich soil washed from fields never can be replaced.

FORESTS RETAIN WATER

Forests on the steeper slopes of ridges help retain water in the soil and prevent erosion of the more level slopes where crops are planted. Their steep slopes are cultivated the topsoil is quickly washed away, making the land unfit for further use, or at best, capable of growing only small crops.

Japan Withdraws From League; Keeps Mandate Islands

MESSAGE DOES NOT MENTION PACIFIC GROUP

JAPANESE DETERMINED TO HOLD FORMER GERMAN LANDS

TOKYO, March 27. (AP) — Japan formally ended today a membership of more than 13 years in the League of Nations.

The final action was taken by the privy council, meeting in the imperial palace, and the long-awaited decision was transmitted to Geneva with the approval of Emperor Hirohito.

The emperor, in a rescript issued to his subjects, said "his majesty has been pleased to command his government to secede from the League of Nations" following a disagreement in the empire's policy in support of Manchukuo and opinions of the League.

The rescript adds that despite secession, Japan intends to continue cooperation in the League efforts to assure peace and maintain friendly relations with other powers.

The resignation was telegraphed to Geneva after Premier Makoto Saito had obtained the emperor's sanction.

The communication to the League declared the League assembly's report last month, condemning Japan's actions, "but attempting to challenge the position taken by Japan in recognizing Manchukuo, cuts away the ground for stabilization of the far western question."

The message did not mention the south Pacific islands lying between the Philippines and Hawaii, former German possessions over which Japan was given mandates by the League. It was stated officially that Japan is determined to hold the islands and will continue to make the required annual reports to the League mandates commission.

Premier Saito issued a statement saying that despite withdrawal "Japan will continue to participate in such international enterprises as will be inaugurated for the purposes of furthering the welfare of mankind."

"This country does not propose to shut itself up in the Far East but will endeavor to strengthen its ties of friendship with other powers," he said.

The notice of resignation is in accordance with paragraph three, article one, of the League covenant, providing "any member of the League may, after two years' notice of its intention so to do, withdraw from the League, provided that all its international obligations and all its obligations under this covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of its withdrawal."

The privy council's action came five weeks after the cabinet voted to withdraw if the League adopted the report on Manchuria which it was then considering. The report censuring Japan for its seizure of Chinese territory in the name of the state of Manchukuo and urging nations of the world to refuse recognition to the Manchukuoan government was adopted unanimously Feb. 24.

Skellytown Men In Critical Condition

A. L. Reamsnyder of Skellytown is still in a critical condition in an Amarillo hospital where he was taken Saturday after being burned about the face and neck. Mr. Reamsnyder, working for the Empire Oil & Gas company on the Heathholt lease west of Pampa, was removing the valve from a supposedly empty caustic solution drum when burned by the contents.

The valve was corroded and when it came loose the solution blew into Mr. Reamsnyder's face inflicting deep burns.

Health of Jobless Families Is Good

Health of Pampa's unemployed families is, fortunately, very good, according to records of the labor registration office.

Sixty-five men were given work today by the federal relief committee, and the number will be increased tomorrow.

The Red Cross has much clothing in stock and more cloth coming from the federal government.

Re-registration of the unemployed to conform to new requirements will start about April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barnhart spent the week-end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ermen E. Smith in Amarillo.

used for a windbreak, a clipped hedge or as a lovely specimen bush. Its light green feathery foliage, its delicate pink or rose plummy flower racemes, cannot be praised too highly. It is drought resistant and winter hardy. We all know and love the old fashioned spirea, bridal wreath, it is well suited for foundation plantings or for hedges, for outlining drives or making garden boundaries. Its glory, of course is its almost unbelievable mass of snow white bloom in the spring, but its full leaved branches make a lovely graceful plant all summer. It is of course a deciduous shrub and for that reason does not give the all year round beauty that some of the other shrubs do. We all know that the sheela daisy does especially well here and also as the chrysanthemums and one of the chief cut flowers of the whole summer is the gallardia or blanket flower which grows wild all over the plains. The cultivated varieties making a gorgeous display. A bouquet of them with sprays of baby's breath makes as lovely a decoration as you could possibly want. The little native lobelia, when brought into our gardens give a continuous mass of blue, as well as the spiderwort and beards tongue. I have brought all of these into my garden and they are all well established and like the little extra water and attention that they receive. Giving results in exact proportion to the care they have. Last year I found some beautiful little pink flowers, and transplanted a few of them and also scattered seeds but do not know as yet if I will have any results. The blue bonnets are of course annuals, and require little care, they want poor soil and will in fact move on to the poor soil, leaving the place where they have grown enriched for their more fastidious neighbors to come into. I sowed the seed in February last year and had a lovely patch in the bare vacant lot on the north of my house. They did not grow so tall nor so luxuriantly as they do further to the south, but they were well worth while. During the spring and late fall roses will give a pleasure that no other flower can quite fill and the more rugged types of the hybrid teas do very well here. They are of course the most beautiful but the old fashioned June varieties are beautiful while they last and should be in every garden. The rose has more romantic associations for the human race than most any other flower and we all love them. Some prefer red, some yellow, and some white, possibly, but I don't believe anyone can look on a rose in the bud without just a little stir of emotion for the perfume and beauty found in its heart.
