Wide-Flung Downpours and Tornadoes Visit Southwest

TWISTER HITS FARM HOUSE NEAR PAMPA

BUSES CANCELED

Pitiful weather, ranging from a half-inch rain here to deluges elsewhere in the Pampa territory and including a small tornado 13 miles north of the city, turned roads into quagmires last night.

The tornado was north of here about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to spectators. It was a perfect funnel dropping out of a black rain cloud. It followed a northeasterly route, whirling and dipping its slender, thread-like course near the home of C. C. Guether.

Actor Forced Down Wallace Beery, movie actor, landed his plane in a wheat field north of Pampa during the rain last night, hitch-hiked to the Miami highway, and with a companion was brought here.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17. (AP)—Torrential rains accompanied by tornadoes in some sections crisscrossed Oklahoma's drought-breaking deluge overnight.

Wind reaching tornado proportions struck Okemah shortly after midnight, badly damaging several downtown buildings, breaking out hundreds of windows, partly unroofing a number of residences and other buildings and breaking down trees and telephone lines. No one was reported injured.

Storm At Lake A light tornado struck at Lake McAlester, near McAlester, early today, raising small buildings and uprooting trees in a path a mile long and 500 yards wide. No one was reported injured.

Water supplies were replenished, winter grains saved and pasture lands drenched with needed water. At Oklahoma City the rainfall totaled approximately four inches, assuring relief from a threatened water shortage in the city reservoir. Ponca City reported 4.06 inches of rain, the heaviest this year.

McALESTER, Okla., Nov. 17. (AP)—A small tornado dipped close to Lake McAlester during a heavy wind and rain storm which swept this section early today. A number of small buildings were razed, trees uprooted and debris scattered over a path about one mile in length and approximately 200 yards wide. No one was injured.

Dozens Trapped SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17. (AP)—A storm which trapped dozens of persons in the snow-covered mountains of California, among them Nosh Berry, screen actor, held much of the American northwest and the Pacific in its cold grip today. Mountain roads, especially those leading over the Sierra Nevada from California to points east, were closed, due to the heavy snowfall. Dozens of motorists were rescued after having been forced to abandon their automobiles.

With but six exceptions, all those marooned were reported safe last night, including Berry and two companions, who struck out Sunday morning into the snow-clad San Gabriel mountains near Palmdale, Calif., to search for Robert Elliott of Llano, Calif., who was reported lost.

Elliot was found by an Indian and brought to safety by Beery, O. G. Norris, his ranch foreman, and A. L. Hendricks, a real estate man, were themselves lost. Caught in a terrific windstorm which followed a heavy snowfall, the three braved the elements for 36 hours. They found shelter in a deserted cabin Sunday night.

LOCAL PROGRAM

Officials Issue Statement to Explain Significance of Campaign; Rev. Lancaster Directing Drive.

Having today received their assigned territory to canvass, several score solicitors tomorrow morning will launch the annual Red Cross roll call under the direction of the Rev. C. E. Lancaster, chairman of the drive.

The workers will start Wednesday morning and will report to headquarters at the city hall as soon as they have finished their sectors.

Officials of the Pampa chapter issued the following appeal: To the Citizens of Pampa: The annual Red Cross roll call has started. A number of soliciting teams already are at work. The big day of the drive will be tomorrow. We earnestly request all solicitors to report for duty early tomorrow. The board room of the B. C. D. at the city hall will be headquarters.

We urge a hearty response from the citizens in order that the drive may end quickly. The goal is 1,500 members. Memberships are $1 each. Fifty cents goes to national relief but the remainder of each contribution, no matter how great, REMAINS IN PAMPA FOR RELIEF WORK DURING THE COMING YEAR.

The Red Cross already is using its local funds to help the sick, the helpless and the disabled. It has helped more than 30 cases in the last two months. Its territory is in Gray county north of the North fork of the Red river.

Abuse of Privilege Has Brought Withdrawal of Privilege to Trucks.

Delivery trucks will no longer be allowed to park double in the streets of Pampa. Drivers have abused that privilege, given them by the city, until it has been found necessary to stop the practice entirely.

From now on, the alleys will be used for all loading and unloading. Traffic Officer Joe Persky said this morning. He has received orders to arrest all persons found double parking. Recently, delivery trucks would drive up in front of a store and the driver would disappear for as much as 15 minutes, while motorists tried frantically to get out from the curb, the officer said. The city gave permission to park for not more than three minutes while unloading or loading.

GREELEY, Colo., Nov. 17. (AP)—Held prisoner by three bank robbers more than 15 hours, Walter F. Funk, Denver candy salesman, was released on the prairie near here today.

Funk was abducted as he left a store at Bennett, Colo., and forced to remain in his car while the robbers held up the Plattville bank yesterday and escaped with $5,000. While the robbery was in progress, one of the bandits remarked to a bank officer: "Take a good look at that man outside in that automobile! He is an innocent victim and we hi-jacked his car."

The robbers treated me fine and I was not injured," Funk said. "They didn't ask me to drive but just kept me in the car. Early today they let me out on the prairie and said 'So long' and 'thanks for the car.' Then they drove away."

Justice T. J. White rendered a coroner's verdict that the youth came to his death by being run over by a freight train. He was en route to California seeking employment in order to take his sister there for her health. Bollinger said.

FUMES KILL TWO

FASCIST SALUTE IS GIVEN BY GRANDI

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—Dino Grandi raised his right hand high above his head in the Fascist salute to America's Unknown Soldier today to start the round of ceremonies which will precede his conversations tomorrow with President Hoover.

A veteran of the world war himself, the Italian foreign minister drove through an early morning fog across the Potomac to the hill-top shrine of the American soldier before starting his round of official calls.

Ambassador de Martino of Italy accompanied him. As they entered the gates of Fort Myer the 17-gun salute for a cabinet officer echoed over the military reservation.

The party paused on the steps and stood at salute while the army band played the Royal Italian march, Italy's national anthem.

The minister, bearing a large wreath of red roses and chrysanthemums, inscribed in English "to the American Unknown Soldier — the foreign minister of Italy," moved forward to the tomb. Placing the wreath on it, he stepped back one pace and raised his right hand palm facing forward, fingers together, over his head in the Fascist salute.

He remained thus for more than a minute before he dropped his hand to stand with bowed head for a moment's silent prayer.

Leaving the shrine, Grandi was taken for a drive through Arlington before returning to the Italian embassy for a brief stay before going to the capitol to meet Chief Justice Hughes.

New York Pair Shot to Death

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—Two minutes packed with tragedy left the little court open kitchen in Brooklyn thick with the smoke of guns early today—and two men dead on the floor.

A motorcar drove up in front. Four men got out. They entered the restaurant with pistols in their hands, where sat three men.

The guns blazed in unison. The killers backed out the door, covering their retreat with their smoking weapons, got into the car and were lost in the darkness before pursuit could start.

The two who were slain were Guglielmo Guca, 28, known as a gangster and recently acquitted of a homicide charge; and Geneditto Ruggero, 27, concerning whom police said they had no record.

The third man at the table, who apparently saw the killers as they were entering, dropped under the table and crawled out a kitchen door. None of the restaurant workers knew who he was.

HOPE IS WANING

Counter Demands Are Made by Military Leaders—Manchurian Citizens Are Fearful of Airplanes.

By The Associated Press Reports that the United States was releasing its stand on Japanese exaction in Manchuria and that Soviet Russia was bestirring herself over Japanese military activity in the soviet zone of influence disturbed the league council in Paris today.

A denial that the United States had promised not to bring pressure on Japan and the explanation that Ambassador Dawes was remaining away from the league sessions until the state department decided how far it could go with the league, was issued by Secretary Stimson in Washington.

Gen. Mah Chan-Shan was reported in Tokyo to have submitted counter proposals to General Honjo relative to the Japanese demand that the Chinese forces be withdrawn north of the Chinese Eastern railway, but was standing his ground south an Angranch pending further negotiations.

Tientsin Calm Tientsin was quiet but Chinese citizens flocked from the native city into foreign enclaves while a Sino-Japanese agreement to preserve order was in process.

MUKDEN, Nov. 17. (AP)—Japanese military information said today the Chinese General Mah Chan-Shan had formally demanded withdrawal of Japanese troops from the region of the Nonni river bridge.

Reports that General Mah had accepted Japanese terms for peace were found to be incorrect. These reports had said General Mah had agreed to withdraw to Taitshar and to refrain from coming south of the Chinese Eastern railway.

Citizens Scared LONDON, Nov. 17. (AP)—A dispatch to the London Daily Mail today from its correspondent at Taitshar, Manchuria, said the city was almost completely evacuated last night after Japanese airplanes flew over it at noon.

The planes dropped about 30 bombs on the position of the Chinese troops south of Angranch, it said, but they did little damage.

Two Japanese disappeared from Taitshar after Chinese troops there opened fire on them but the population, recalling that Japanese officials and military officers had left the city, guessed that an air raid was planned.

The people fled immediately and scattered over the countryside. Two foreigners remained in the city, a British officer and the Mail's correspondent, the dispatch said. American newspaper men left after the departure of the Japanese consul Saturday night, it said, and four missionaries were recalled to Harbin by an urgent telegram from the American consulate.

TOKYO, Nov. 17. (AP)—The Japanese war office said today Gen. Mah Chan-Shan's Chinese forces advanced to a point 10 miles from the Japanese position at Taitshar, just north of the Nonni river bridge, and began an attack, threatening to envelop the Japanese right flank.

Dispatches to the Bengo News agency from Harbin, Manchuria, however, said General Mah's army began a retreat northward toward Angranch after General Mah had accepted the truce demands laid down last week by General Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander.

The war office official dispatches said the Chinese cavalry attacked at Shunguan, east of Taitshar, yesterday morning and inflicted ten casualties before they were repulsed.

WANING JAZZ MUSIC

A New York dance orchestra leader complained the other day that present-day jazz music has lost its kick. Predicting that people soon will be sitting down to listen to the music instead of dancing to it, he asked plaintively:

"What's happened to jazz, the music that's supposed to send hot and cold thrills down the spine, get feet to hopping around and get everybody excited?"

Probably a good many things have been happening to it; but quite possibly the chief thing is that the general emotional attitude of the nation at large has moved right out from under it. We are quieter now than we were a few years ago.

Jazz came into its heyday just after the war. The nation then was in an abnormal emotional state. The wild jungle rhythm of the jazz band fitted its mood perfectly.

The years of mushroom prosperity increased this feeling. Somehow, we got the notion that we were moving somewhere at a perfectly prodigious clip. All of the old ways were going to be discarded, and the man who saved his money and took thought for the morrow was simply a dolt.

Well, we've grown more sober and more wise in the last couple of years. We aren't all going to become millionaires overnight, perpetually rising stock values aren't going to relieve us of the necessity of being thrifty, and the chief problems of the ages are, after all, mainly unsolved.

So now we feel differently. Red-hot jazz music, hectic and giddy, no longer appeals to us as it used to. We're not quite so ready to kick up our heels as we were a few years ago.

Gems of Peril

HAZEL ROSS HAILEY by NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY Rich Mrs. Jupiter is robbed and murdered during the engagement party. MARY HARKNESS, Mary's stepmother, is the murderer. Eddie is run down and killed as he goes to meet Mary. Inspector Tom is the drop the case believing Eddie the murderer. Mr. Jupiter had DICK believe the same.

HOWEN of the Star discovers a race-track gambler and crook called THE FLY to whom Eddie owed money. Bowen gives Mary a coat he found in the Jupiter house the night of the murder. It is her brother's. The butler recognizes it as having been worn by a "gate-crasher." He ejected that night.

DICK forbids Mary to go or with the investigation because of the notoriety. They quarrel, make up and Mary promises to marry him at once. While shopping for her trousseau, Mary's eye catches into a jewelry store. She later marries Bowen for dinner there. They learn that The Fly is in a backroom.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII "Oh, waiter!" Mike had moved off but Dirk called him back. "Where is he?"

Mike jerked a thumb toward the door at the rear of the room—the one leading into the private dining room through which Mary had passed in leaving the place that afternoon.

"He's the one Jack's been hiding," Mike nodded. "We'll have to work fast," Bowen told Mary. It was plain that he was disconcerted by the news.

"They took me through that room this afternoon," she whispered. "There were some men in there then. How does he look, The Fly?"

Bowen answered absently. "I don't know. God, what I'd give for the nerve to walk through that door and poke him one!" He flicked a match away viciously.

"Oh, don't! He'd kill you," Mary gasped. He withdrew from that glittering day-dream to smile.

"Don't worry. I'm no Jack the Giant-Killer. If he got away, he might go gunning for Jack, as a squelcher. Can't let anything happen to Jack, the Newspaperman's Hope." He gnawed his underlip in a frenzy of concentration.

"You said you had an idea," Mary reminded him timidly. "An idea for flushing him when we didn't know where he was," Bowen replied. "It's not necessary now." He relapsed into discontented abstraction.

"What was it?" she probed. "Why—" he leaned forward and traced a pattern on the tablecloth with his forefinger thoughtfully.

"Simply this: that crook would give his soul for another chance at that necklace. I know it. I'd bet on it. And I'll lay you another bet—I don't know who his playmates are in there, but 10 to one they're hatching some scheme to get that necklace right now!"

"It's locked up!" Mary interposed quickly. "No doubt," he answered dryly. "But there are ways of getting around that. Of course, if it's in a safety deposit box there isn't much to worry about—"

Alarm widened the girl's eyes. "It isn't," she confessed. "It's in Mr. Jupiter's personal safe. He wouldn't take it to the bank. No one looking the door after the horse was stolen, he said, and besides he didn't care what became of the thing anyway. He hates the thought that it was her jewels, you know—the jewels he gave her, that—"

Bowen nodded, understandingly. "But that's no place for it. Somebody will be knocking him off one of these nights."

"I told him. Mr. Ruyther did, too. He just says, 'Let them come. He doesn't care what happens to him now his wife's dead.' Bowen was clicking a thumb-nail against his teeth and staring straight through her with bright, thoughtful eyes.

"Well, they say lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place," he mused. "But just the same he's taking an awful chance."

SUDDENLY he sat up and slapped the table with his hand. "By George!" he said. "Why not? Let him come, and be damned to it. And while he's grabbing the necklace we'll grab him!"

"Oh, no!" Mary cried, in alarm. She shuddered. "Why not arrest him now? Why leave him free to come back again and perhaps kill—"

Patience he explained. "We haven't got anything on the Fly as it is. You and I may be convinced that he is the murderer of Mrs. Jupiter and undoubtedly of your brother as well. But you have me got to put before a jury? Not a scrap of evidence of any kind!"

"Those men at the track—"

"We haven't even got a credible witness," he went on. "Bookies, gamblers, touts. Can you see Mike there going on the witness stand and impressing a jury? They'd vote to hang him instead of the defendant."

"No, we've either got to spend a lot of time and money digging for evidence, finding the jewels, finding the car, and the man who drove it, and maybe not getting anything conclusive after all, or getting him red-handed, if we can. If we get too hot on his trail—hot enough to really get the dope on him—he may skip the county and then where would we be? Tied up with extradition proceedings, and a long drawn-out legal battle. We'd both be old and gray before we got a conviction."

"This trick isn't as dangerous as it sounds, either. And you've got to remember this—if we get him to come to us we can choose the time and be ready for him. If he comes when he pleases, we're stumped."

"But are you sure he'd make another try for it? I should think he'd be too frightened!"

make a fool out of Kane! Give him another chance at that necklace and he'll jump at it. I'd bet my life on it!"

"But how?" Mary was all attention. Bowen's enthusiasm and air of conviction were contagious.

"Through Mike. Or Shay, perhaps. I can do a little discreet talking, after you're gone. It'll go straight to the mark. I suppose you'd call Shay straight but he's heart and soul with these crooks. He couldn't keep a secret."

"Nothing must happen to excite Mr. Jupiter! That's the doctor's orders. Even if he would agree, I don't think it would be wise. It sounds awfully dangerous—"

"With the place surrounded? Don't be silly. They'd probably nab him without a shot being fired. If he came at all. He might smell a trap—that's what we've got to look out for." He was already planning busily and Mary was beginning to doubt the wisdom of telling him the necklace's whereabouts. "When can I see the old man and put it up to him?" he asked briskly. "He'll have to pay the cops. He ought to, anyway."

MARY said, "Listen! Forget all this. It can't be done. Oh, I wouldn't have them know I talked to you about this for anything in the world—I'd no idea that what you had in mind was anything like this!"

Bowen looked dashed. He spread his hands despairingly. "Good Lord! It's safe as a church! Where'd you be if he comes when you're not looking for him? That octogenarian butler'll handle him, I suppose! And he'll come. What's he hanging around New York for? He hasn't been near the track and his horse is racing at Belmont tomorrow. I'm positive he doesn't know he's under suspicion. As a matter of fact he isn't, except by you and me and who else have you told?"

"Mr. Jupiter. And Dick. And Spence. Oh, how stupid of me! I forgot to tell you—" She recounted rapidly the story of the butler's encounter with the mysterious "gate-crasher" stranger that night Mrs. Jupiter was killed, and the strange coincidence of the coat.

Bowen seemed electrified at the news. "There's identification, when we need it!" he exclaimed gleefully. "Of course, it would still be purely circumstantial, but the fact—that the Fly was on the premises that night—will go far toward hanging him. We've almost got a case! Almost!"

Mary's nerves gave way, and she clung to his hands in sudden panic. "Oh, let's call the police! I'd feel better if he was behind bars!"

Bowen looked at her, soberly. He was silent for some time. When he spoke again he had toyed with the idea and rejected it for cause. But perhaps, for her sake, it would be best.

"It wouldn't be easy, though," he said. "There'd be a shoot-out, and somebody would get hurt. Why? Because you can burn in this state for one murder, and he's got two to answer for. Even if they took him, he might stay in jail and he might not. He'd never confess. He'd brazen it out. He knows he can beat the rap if he keeps his mouth shut. And once he knows we're onto him, every other way is closed to us. We'd have to convict him in court, or let him go. If he got off, you'd have to accept the fact—and like it. There wouldn't be anything more you could do."

Mary began reluctantly to feel the strength of his reasoning. "But he may get away anyhow," she faltered.

"Sure. Maybe. But there are more powerful chains than the ones you see sometimes. Pride. Revenge. Cupidity. Rank, stupid vanity. If we try, we can make him want to stick around! He won't run away. On the contrary, we won't be able to shake him. If he acts on his own initiative, he'll have the advantage of us, surprise us. But if he acts when we choose, we'll be ready for him. Ever hear of strategy?" He took a small dog-eared dictionary from his pocket and read: "Strategem: a maneuver designed to deceive or outwit an enemy in war; hence, any device for obtaining advantage."

The girl's eyes were soft, gentle, as they rested on him. There was something endearing about his very earnestness. "You're funny," she said gently. "You sound—wise. I hope you are."

He put the book back in his pocket with a flourish. "I hope to tell you I am! Listen to me, girl, could you beg, borrow or steal that necklace for one evening?"

"It took her breath away. "Oh, I don't think so!" she gasped. "What for, for heaven's sake!"

"I'd like to rub his nose in it. It'd be like a red flag to a bull. He wants it, but we've got to make him want it right now! Tantalize him into action before he has time to plan."

"What do you want me to do?" Mary asked in a small voice. "Wear it where he can see it?"

He nodded. "Let him sniff blood, and then you could run home quick with the necklace, and that would be enough. You'd be protected every step of the way. You'd have as big a bodyguard as Jack Diamond. There'd be plainclothesmen all over the place. In case anybody made a false move—"

"Oh, but that would be insane!" To take such a chance with what many thousands of dollars around my neck! I'd die of worry. And what if I lost it, or it was stolen?"

"I couldn't pay for it, not on my weekly insult," Bowen conceded. "Well, it was just an idea. Maybe there's another way." He clung to it fondly, though. "That would get action. We haven't got all summer to fool with this clutter. You're getting married pretty soon, aren't you?"

"Mary said, 'Heavens, I'd almost forgotten—I'm getting married to-morrow!'"

Bowen sat as if struck. Then "Good God," he burst out, anger and disappointment in his tone. "You can get married any time! This is important. We've only got a few days—hours—minutes, maybe. But hell—if you haven't got the nerve—"

Mary brought her small fist down on the table with a bang. "I've got the nerve for anything that will help get that man!" she cried. "If you'll promise to protect the necklace, I'll get it, somehow!"

A smile of surprise and gratification spread over his face. He looked pleased silly. "You will! Good girl! Then we're all set. It's a go!"

A door opened at the rear of the room and footsteps approached. Bowen's eyes narrowed suddenly; his face became tense and set. Mary did not turn her head, but watched him with dilated eyes.

"All right, Barrymore," he muttered under his breath. "Now's your big moment. Here comes The Fly. Let me see you do your stuff!"

BEARS EAGER TO GET PLACE NEARER TOP

Have Hopes of Defeating Frogs; No Chance at Title Remaining.

By the Associated Press
Encouraged by their showing Saturday against Southern Methodist, the Baylor Bears started bearing down yesterday in preparation for their game Saturday against Texas Christian.

The Bears have high hopes of defeating the Frogs and climbing in the conference race although they have no chance to win the title. Alford and Rannels received slight injuries in the Southern Methodist game but will be ready to play. The Bears spent yesterday drilling of defensive plays.

At Fort Worth, Texas Christian, realizing they must beat Baylor and Southern Methodist to even finish in a tie for the conference championship, snapped into a long practice with their spirits high and their determination bolstered by confidence. The Frogs know they face a hard game and are preparing for the test by polishing the backfield. Both played the backfield in their high school and prep days. Haskell Ross and John Burleson, first string reserves were moved into the line. Bob Gilbert, out several weeks with an infected insect, reported for practice and may play against Navy Saturday at Ann Arbor.

Routine practice sessions were held at Arkansas, Rice and the University of Texas. Arkansas and Rice battle Saturday at Houston. It will be Arkansas' final conference game this season. Arkansas and Rice conference games without a victory. Rice is the favorite Saturday.

Oil Production Is Unchanged for Week

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 17. (AP)—Slight increases in some fields were balanced by small decreases in others to render the daily average oil production of the United States virtually stable the last two weeks, the Oil and Gas Journal estimates show.

Total production the week ending Nov. 14 was 2,462,130 barrels daily, as compared with 2,456,894 barrels the preceding week, or an increase of 5,236 barrels daily.

Oklahoma production was up 9,075 barrels daily to an average of 943,285 daily, while East Texas production was down 8,113 barrels at 411,285 daily.

Kansas produced 102,710 as compared with a previous figure of 106,130, and the total for the entire midcontinent area was down 1,486 barrels at 1,627,952 daily.

Eastern production was 120,000 as compared with a previous reading of 122,700 barrels.

The Rocky Mountain pools produced a daily average of 93,968 barrels, a 233-barrel increase.

California production was up 10,850 barrels at 506,150 daily.

This Game of GOLF

By O.B. KEELER

There were 15 men on a dead man's chest, says Maxwell Stiles, Los Angeles sports writer, but he switched it to 15 men on a dead ball's chest not long ago, according to his own story, which is interesting. It concerns the newest new golf ball—the 1.68-1.62 favored version—which is to become official on or about April 15, 1932.

Mr. Stiles collected 15 golf professionals in his vicinity and cross-examined them carefully. Following are the results: Five had played with the revised version ball; ten had not. Of the five, only one liked it. The other four were against the change; emphatically, says Mr. Stiles.

Considering the matter academically, so that all 15 might vote, nine were against the change; six favored it. Bringing up the moot topic of the original standard ball—the 1.62-1.62—five preferred going back to that, if any further change were made; five voted for the present ball—the 1.68-1.65—and only two favored the change to the big, heavier ball.

Revised Ball Easy
Further, Mr. Stiles says, the three leading tournament professionals in Southern California admittedly are Fred Morrison of Fox Hills, Olin Dutra of Brentwood, and Mortie Dutra of Virginia Country club. Olin favored the newest new ball, Mortie and Fred did not. And there you are—if anywhere.

The unanimous opinion of the professionals was that the revised version would be easier to control in a wind, and that it will be putter off the tee. Also that it will putter better.

Mr. Stiles makes it plain that these findings are not to be considered conclusive. "They are based on opinion rather than experience," he explains. But the five who had tried out the new size were pretty emphatically against it, in the majority of four to one.

How It Started
In case the previous controversy has escaped your attention, it may be explained that the original standard ball, as adopted in 1921 by the Royal and Ancient Golf club of St. Andrews, and the United States Golf association, was 1.62 inches in diameter and 1.62 ounces in weight. The first revised standard, which became official January 1, 1931, and caused all the shooting, is 1.68 inches in diameter, and 1.55 ounces in weight—larger and lighter. It was adopted by the U. S. G. A., but not by the Royal and Ancient, so it is standard only in the United States.

The latest alteration is to a ball the same size as the present standard, 1.68 inches in diameter, but weighing the same as the original ball—1.62 ounces. The same size, and heavier, than the present projectile, this compromise evidently was intended by the U. S. G. A. to quiet the doleful complaints of average players and duffers. The expert, so far as I heard, did not yell much.

Personally, I'm sorry about the latest change. If the present ball is not to be kept, I'd rather see the old standard come back. My interest, I confess, is almost exclusively with the average player and the duffer. The expert can take care of himself. If he can't, he's no expert.

SIMMONS IS NEAR-CHAMP

North Texas Teachers Are Nearer Title Through Yesterday's Win.

By the Associated Press
Two Texas college football machines had negotiated another difficult stretch today in their 1931 campaigns and neared the finish undated and untied the conference play.

Simmons university maintained its lead in the Texas conference by defeating Austin College 20 to 0. The North Texas Teachers triumphed 10 to 0 over Sam Houston, defending champion, and remained tied at the top with Texas A. & I. in the eastern division of the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association.

Cross Country Record Broken

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—Dan Dean of Pennsylvania has dethroned Clark Chamberlain, Michigan state ace, as intercollegiate A. A. A. cross country champion but only by breaking the course record.

Dean shaved 22 seconds off the old mark for the six-mile course in Van Cortlandt park yesterday to beat Chamberlain, by 25 yards with George Barker of New York university third, Bill McKinnif of Penn fourth and Joe McCluskey of Fordham fifth.

Dean was timed in 29:23 2-5 as compared with the record of 30:06 set jointly by Francis Lindsey and Harry Richardson of Maine two years ago. Harvard carried off team honors with the excellent low total of 44 points, placing five men in the first thirteen. Pennsylvania was second.

Feminine Racers Win First Honors

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17. (AP)—Feminine entrants had it all their own way in junior division competition of the $10,000 stake for five-gaited saddle horses at the American Royal Stock show last night.

Three dapper mares got the ribbons, first honors and a $125 prize going to Belle Le Rose, a bay mount owned by Herbert M. Woolf, of Kansas City. Geldings and stallions failed to place in the competition.

Judges' decision, a chestnut mare from Anacacho ranch, Spofford, Cal., won second, and Lady Lou, a chestnut mare from the Carnation Farm stables, Pomona, Cal., won third.

Chief of Longview, the chestnut stallion for which Mrs. W. P. Rorth, San Francisco, paid $25,000, came through with first prize for his owner in the $500 fine harness horse event.

COMISKY IN TRAINING

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. (AP)—Louis Comiskey, heir to the White Sox fortunes, is getting ready for the baseball trading season by taking health treatments in a Chicago hospital.

Excessive weight is the White Sox chief's ailment as he tips the scales well over 240 pounds. He expects to join the new White Sox manager, Louis Fonseca, for the major league meeting here in December.

President Hickey Has Old Menace To His Position

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. (AP)—President Thomas J. Hickey of the American association, today faced what seemed to be an annual campaign to unseat him but apparently with the advantage on his side.

Club owners of the association were here for the annual meeting and the big item on the business schedule concerned Hickey's tenure of office. The Hickey forces claimed four votes as certain, which would be sufficient to keep him in the office he has held for 18 years. His principal opposition was expected to come from backers of George Belden, president of the Minneapolis club.

It was hinted that Hickey, if ousted from his present position, might become a candidate for the presidency of the national association of minor leagues.

The American association also had the problem of doing something about its Toledo franchise. The Toledo club finished the season in deep financial trouble and the franchise might be moved.

Prohibition War Is Growing Tense

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—Anticipating renewed hostilities this session, citizens organizations for and against prohibition are piling up ammunition for their campaigns in congress.

Anti-prohibition attacks are foreseen in three directions: Modification moves, constitutional convention proposals and efforts to defeat enforcement appropriations.

Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the national prohibition board of strategy announced today his forces were ready.

In the same building with the prohibitionists—the national press building—the association against the 18th amendment is gathering figures to promote repeal. It has adopted submission to constitutional conventions as the stepping stone to the goal and expects to work for it in this session of congress as well as in both Democratic and Republican conventions.

Modifications likewise are prepared to plead their cause through publicity while exercising the prerogative of keeping congress informed directly of the organized sentiment they represent.

Dinwiddie has issued a preliminary call for the yearly national conference of organizations supporting the 18th amendment—about 33 of them in all. This gathering early next month will outline a legislative program.

Tense of existing laws is No. 1 on the board's plans for using the $100,000 or more it expects to collect in dimes at the end of this month.

American Girls to Meet English

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—International team competition between women players of the United States and Great Britain probably will receive official sanction by the executive committee of the United States Golf association at its meeting Thursday.

Present plans call for a bi-annual competition along the lines of the Walker cup matches except that the women's teams possibly will be limited to six players. Walker cup teams consist of eight players and two alternates.

Glenna Collett led a team of American women against a British squad at Forby last year in an informal test designed to prove to U. S. G. A. officials that such competition would not be lacking in interest. Indications are that golf's rulers were convinced.

Schmeling Will Stage Tour for His Conditioning

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—Max Schmeling has arranged another exhibition tour of the country to put himself in condition for his expected heavyweight title defense against Mickey Walker in Los Angeles Feb. 22.

The German slugger will open his tour at Boston Dec. 14 and wind up Jan. 16 at Oakland, Calif. He will carry two sparring partners with him on the trip and will box two rounds against each man in 23 cities.

Conches at Nebraska and State set out yesterday to put their teams in an attempt to fit the Big Six schedule underdefeat. Both have been victorious in conference starts.

Under the leadership of Mrs. J. P. Catrell, mothers of children in the fifth grade room, taught by Mrs. Edna Underwood are sponsoring a library for the room.

Mothers also are providing libraries for the first grade pupils of Miss Clarice Fuller and Mrs. John G. Cant.

NEARLY 1,000 VISIT SCHOOL DURING WEEK

Nearly 1,000 persons visited the local schools during the last week, observed as American Education week, according to reports submitted to Supt. R. B. Fisher by the various principals.

In connection with Education week, the principal said: "I want to take this opportunity of thanking every one who so graciously gave their time and talent toward making American Education week a success. Nearly 1,000 parents and patrons visited the schools, principals, teachers, and pupils kept up their regular work and helped get visitors out to attend classes and chapels. The NEWS-POST aided by giving daily publicity to school activities.

"We celebrate Christmas because it gave us a great religion. We observe the Fourth of July because it gave us a free nation. American Education week is a permanent institution. The effort to make the observance of such a week worldwide should be encouraged. Religion, politics, and commerce may divide, but love of childhood expressed in education is a mighty force for unity. What greater contribution could America make to the world than the ideal—a fair start in life for every boy and girl."

MANY PUPILS USE LIBRARY

After school hours each afternoon children are the most numerous visitors at the Pampa library. More emphasis than ever is being placed on good reading in the Pampa school. Every school pupil from the second grade up is required to read and to report on their reading, said Mrs. James Todd Jr., librarian, yesterday.

In view of the fact that reading is compulsory, and because of the present financial stress, Mrs. Todd is granting free use of books to school from now until Jan. 1. The privilege granted by Mrs. Todd is placing added work and responsibility on both herself and the local teachers. Mrs. Todd and the instructors are familiarizing the children with the rules of the library and emphasizing that good care be taken of the books.

Mrs. Todd also is supplying lists of books to the schools, dividing them according to their suitability for the various grades. Pupils are required, after reading the books, to make some sort of report, these reports varying from the simple stories told by the second-graders, to the more scholarly criticisms of high school students.

Winnie Lightner Finally Gets Her Handsome Man

Winnie Lightner, who will be seen at the La Nora theater tomorrow in "Side Show," the Warner Bros. production—found out years ago that it is hard for a red-headed tomboy to be taken seriously. She has stuck grimly to comedy ever since the night she stepped on a stage and found that the audience would laugh, but not cry with her.

"One of these fine days—I have often said—I'm going to surprise the folks by showing them that I can be the most serious person in the world. My day came when Warner Bros. handed me the script of 'Side Show.'"

"I still had in mind that night many years ago when I appeared in Shay's in Buffalo as an amateur performer. I had come in a pouring rain, and despite my muddy shoes and wind-blown hair, I was sure that the way of putting on a show for weeks would make strong men break down and weep."

I Get My Man
"They didn't. They howled with laughter. My first and only attempt to tragedy, or whatever you wish to call it, was a dismal failure. But it showed me that I could make folks guffaw! But like everybody who can do that, I wanted to make 'em gulp!"

On the stage and screen Miss Lightner's flaming mop of hair, her brittle way of putting on a show, cracks and her natural vivacity precluded any possibility of making a tragedienne out of her.

She never got her man. If there was to be love interest in the story, they usually cast a couple of juveniles with her and let them do the petting.

All that Winnie ever rated in the way of love interest were affairs that never materialized or a leading man like Joe E. Brown or Claude Gillingwater.

She was never allowed to sway any audience in her favor when it came to competing for the love of a man with a decent amount of good looks and seriousness.

Those days are gone. She has landed her man at last, and that in competition with no less a fair charmer than Evelyn Knapp.

The man is the handsome Donald Cook, who plays the part of the Barker in "Side Show."

Taxpayers Must Give More Soon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—It is now a practical certainty that the individual taxpayer must dig deeper next year for his contribution to the upkeep of government.

Just which section of the population shall bear the brunt of the increase, in what form it shall be raised and how much it will total have become commanding questions on capitol hill.

The administration is going to ask congress to raise more revenue. Reluctantly, the republican leaders on the hill have resigned themselves to the unpleasant task of boosting levies on the eve of a presidential campaign. The democrats, uncommitted as yet, are expected to sanction some form of new revenue.

With another billion dollar deficit to balance off, Secretary Mellon has nearly finished drafting the plan President Hoover will send to congress in his annual budget message.

Mexico Blames American Fliers

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17. (AP)—The war department today charged that American aviators from Arizona and Texas have been over Mexican towns and "bombing" them with rocks.

The charge was made in connection with orders which were sent to all commanders at border points to enforce a regulation which forbids foreign airplanes from flying over Mexico without permission.

Aviators who violate this regulation are subject to arrest, the department said, and military authorities have been instructed to forcibly ground planes which refuse to obey the order.

Insult Sees Signs Of Better Business

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. (AP)—Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities system, said today authentic evidence of business revival was being found at a much earlier stage of the upswing of the business cycle than was possible in final stages of earlier depressions.

"As a result of our investigations, we have established that in most areas served by our system, small-unit industries are using more electric energy than last year," President Insull said.

The investigations referred to were conducted by Middle West Utilities operating executives in 31 states extending from Maine to Texas and from Florida to North Dakota.

Indictments Made In Child Beating

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—A father and step-mother were indicted Monday on charges they "tormented and cruelly beat" 12-year-old Edith Riley.

At liberty on bail since their arrest two weeks ago after Edith was found imprisoned in a windowless closet, Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Riley have denied the charges.

They told police the little girl was mentally abnormal and it was necessary to confine her at times. Both said they had refused to send her to an institution in order that they might care for her at home.

In contrast, the girl's brother, Francis, 15, said Edith had been a prisoner in the closet for most of four years. He said she had been beaten time and time again during this period and charged his father and step-mother with other cruelties.

Edith was sent to a hospital and will be kept there for six months. Psychiatrists and psychologists are studying her. The outcome of the trial may depend upon their report.

Conviction on the charges against Mr. and Mrs. Riley carries a prison sentence of two to five years for each, a $250 fine, or both penalties.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Newman and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie R. Rack of McLean visited in Pampa last week. J. W. Barnes of Pampa was a recent visitor in McLean.

Male Proves No Good Keeping His Home, Wife Says

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. (AP)—Judge Joseph Sabath was told yesterday it's discouraging for a young woman to come home after a hard day at the office and find that her husband hasn't dusted the radio or washed the dishes.

The complainant was Mrs. Elizabeth Didier, who asked for a divorce charging cruelty.

She alleged that when she and Didier were married last spring a contract was drawn up whereby she was to keep the wolf from the door while he did the housework. He fulfilled part of the contract, she said, in that he turned out some mighty fine meals, but the trouble started when she came home from a trying day at the office to find there was dust on the chairs and other housework was left undone.

When she complained about it he beat her, she alleged.

Armament Truce Goes Into Effect

GENEVA, Nov. 17. (AP)—A one-year truce in armament construction, dating from Nov. 1, went into international effect Monday on the authority of Chairman Aristide Briand of the league council.

An announcement from the league secretariat under M. Briand's signature said that some 50 governments had declared their willingness to accept, and consequently the truce had become an established fact.

A number of governments made their acceptance condition on reciprocity, it was pointed out, and such reciprocity had been achieved. Many replies were said to have contained interpretations and observations but all appeared to be in keeping with the spirit of the league's resolution.

The leading powers participating are the United States, France, Italy, Germany, Japan, Great Britain and Russia. Others are Argentina, Uruguay, Peru, Finland, Bolivia, Belgium, Denmark, Chile and Poland.

Bonds for Young Slayers Doubtful

CROSBYTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—Bonds for three white youths charged in the fatal shooting Saturday night of T. C. Jackson, Negro, during an attempted holdup of district Attorney Durwood Bradley and Crosby county officials.

Three masked men, armed with shotguns, attempted to holdup a negro game in progress in a tent five miles northwest of Crosbyton at about 9 o'clock. Jackson died in Lubbock 24 hours after he was shot and another negro is being treated at the farm for wounds not believed to be serious.

Sheriff Elmer Reed of Crosby county said charges of robbery with firearms possibly would be entered against the youths, who, he said, had confessed shooting Jackson and the other negro after Jackson refused to raise his hands and started toward the youths.

Two of the suspects, J. D. (Shorty) Boswell, about 18, of Paris, Texas, and Earle Dyess, about 19, were arrested by Sheriff Reed shortly after midnight Saturday at the home of Dyess' father, J. P. Dyess, eight miles north of Crosbyton, Onnie Graham, not yet 17, was taken into custody by the sheriff at 2 a. m. Sunday at the home of the youth's father, R. B. Graham, about 10 miles north of here.

District Attorney Bradley, who investigated the shooting Sunday, today said he probably will oppose bonds for the trio. No date has been set for an arraignment.

Cleveland will have a new $3,000,000 postoffice building, which will perch over the railroad tracks behind the Terminal Tower.

Confessed Slayer To Battle Chair

IDABEL, Okla., Nov. 17. (AP)—Charles Draper, who confessed he killed three men in a robbery to provide funds for his family, will wage a fight against the state's efforts to send him to the electric chair.

Before the birth of his son two days ago, Draper had appeared resigned to his fate, agreeing to confess if disposition of his case were delayed until after the birth of the child.

True to the bargain, County Attorney L. E. Mifflin delayed announcement of the date for arraignment until after the infant's birth. Draper said he would ask that counsel be appointed to represent him at his arraignment Friday in district court.

Girl Has Change of Heart in Slaying

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 17. (AP) Rose Allen, 18-year-old debutante, Monday law her brother, Edwin, for the first time since he shot to death her friend, Francis A. Donaldson, 34. They met and talked for 15 minutes in the Montgomery county jail, where Allen is held on a charge of murder. Pale and sobbing, she emerged from the prison and said: "I am here because I love my brother."

Her visit and her profession of love indicated she had become reconciled with her father and brother, whom she had accused of being responsible for Donaldson's death.

When Allen killed Donaldson a week ago tonight, Miss Allen said she never wanted to see her brother again. She said her father and brother had driven her from home because of objections to Donaldson's attentions and declared she held them to blame for his death.

Miss Louis Leach and Miss Amalia Guenther of Berger spent Saturday in Pampa.

Women Officials Do Most Talking

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. (AP)—Once again the woman has had the last word.

This female prerogative was brought into prominence yesterday when a stopwatch was used to record the length of time each member of the board of county commissioners talked during a one-hour session at routine committee meetings.

And three of the four women members out-talked their 10 male associates, 3 to 2.

The test was made at the suggestion of a male commissioner who begged that his name be withheld from publication for obvious reasons.

The three leading women contributed 3,162 seconds against 2,085 for the 10 men. The fourth woman, however, talked but 57 seconds and was just ahead of the last man on the list. He talked for 15 seconds, his remarks including one in which he asked if he could "get a word in."

Poor Woman to Take Over Care Of Drink Addict

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—They made a deal, these three.

Said Mary Bracken, 65 years old, homeless and friendless: "Judge, I am old. I have nothing. Please send me to jail. There at least I will be sure of food and shelter—and it will be warm there."

Said Nellie Kennedy, 50 years old, in court for the sixty-third time on a charge of intoxication: "Judge, I know you're going to send me to jail. While I'm away, let this poor old lady stay in my home."

Said Magistrate Sabatino: "Mary Bracken, take charge of Nellie Kennedy's home. And take care, too, of Nellie Kennedy." The two women, flung together in a magistrate's courtroom—one poor, one weak—walked out side by side, headed home.
