FARM BILL WINS IN FIRST VOTE

County Relief Fund To Be Received Tomorrow

The Chicago Tribune calls high taxes "muscling in" by governmental agencies. And who and what is the government except an extension of the voters' will and desire?

BEST TEN PICTURES

- This writer and several hundred others picked the best motion pictures of 1932. Maybe you will like our choices, but here they are: 1. Grand Hotel, M.-G.-M. 2. The Champ, M.-G.-M. 3. Arrowsmith, United Artists. 4. The Guardsman, M.-G.-M. 5. Smilin' Through, M.-G.-M. 6. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, Paramount. 7. Emma, M.-G.-M. 8. Bill of Divorcement, RKO. 9. Back Street, Universal. 10. Scarface, United Artists.

NO TWO SIMILAR

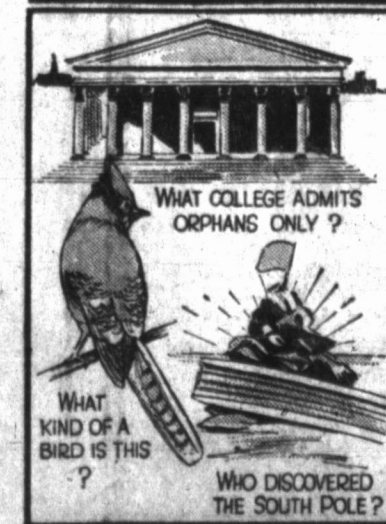

No two of these pictures is similar in type, although the stories of two, The Champ and Emma, were written by Frances Marion. Grand Hotel featured the greatest all-star cast, but extra heavy publicity helped to put it over in No. 1 position. Arrowsmith was a doctor's devotion to duty. Smilin' Through a sentimental romance. The Guardsman a smartly acted high comedy. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde a horror picture with Fredric March. Bill of Divorcement a vehicle for John Barrymore. Back Street a tear-jerker love tale, while Scarface was the best of the gangster thrillers. The honor roll for 1932 included Shanghai Express, Broken Lullaby, Man Who Played God, Blessed Event, Love Me Tonight, Washington Merry-Go-Round, Trouble in Paradise, Bring 'Em Back Alive, Washington Masquerade, Arsenic Lupin, As You Desire Me, Congress Dances, Hell Divers, American Madness, Private Lives, Movie Crazy, One Hour With You, Farewell to Arms, Life Begins, Phantom President, Matt Hari, Once in a Lifetime, Wet Parade, and Frankenstein.

WHAT ABOUT STERLING?

Now that Ross Sterling is on the shelf politically, many of his former avowed enemies are easing up on their utterances about him. Mr. Sterling has not been the worst governor by a large margin. Most people credit him with sincerity, even if with misplaced confidence in some of his friends. His enmity of Fergusonism continues. Concerning his place in Texas history, the Texas Weekly says: "Paradoxically, the true measure of his worth will not be ascertained by the success or failure of his own administration but by the fate of the forthcoming Ferguson reign. If first, Ferguson succeeds in serving well, Ross Sterling, because he predicted the contrary would occur, may play

JAP SOLDIERS FLOOD NORTH CHINA

FORCE TAKES ANOTHER PASS IN GREAT WALL

CHINESE DEFENDERS IN ROUT BEFORE ARMY OF 10,000

TO KEEP GATE CLOSED

GENERAL DECLARES HE WILL NOT ADVANCE INTO JEHOL

By The Associated Press. Ten thousand Japanese soldiers were reported marching into Jehol today from Shanhaikwan, the city in North China captured by the Japanese last week. This information was contained in Chinese dispatches which said also that a Japanese force had landed at the port of Chinwangtao and was patrolling that vicinity. The Japanese legation at Peiping said General Miyake, commanding the Japanese army at Shanhaikwan, had captured Chiumenkow, a pass through the great wall into Jehol.

Foreign military observers here were inclined to regard this action as less decisive than it appeared. They interpreted it as a purely defensive measure designed to protect the Japanese force which occupied Shanhaikwan last week from a possible flank attack. The Chiumenkow pass is 12 miles north of Shanhaikwan.

Also, these observers said, it is only one of a number of passes leading into Jehol with which Chang Hsiao-Liang, the North China commander, still can maintain contact.

General Miyake announced through the Japanese press that he intends to keep the pass closed but that he does not intend to advance inside the wall into China proper.

From Nanking word came that the Chinese government will reject Japan's proposal that the Shanhaikwan affair be considered as a local incident. This, the government contends, must be a part of the whole problem awaiting settlement by the League of Nations.

In Tokyo Japan answered a Chinese protest against the capture of Shanhaikwan with the assertion that the Japanese government reserves the right "to make demands" in connection with any settlement.

Presumably these demands would be based on the Boxer protocol of 30 years ago by which foreign powers were given permission to place troops in North China.

Trotzky Daughter Commits Suicide

BERLIN, Jan. 11. (AP)—Sinaida Trotzky, daughter of Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian revolutionary, committed suicide last week "on account of illness," a note she left on her dresser disclosed today.

The woman, whose identification was made public yesterday, was reported to have lost her passport when Soviet citizenship was withdrawn from Trotzky and his family. The only message she left said: "Be good to my boy. I have taken my life on account of illness."

She died of gas asphyxiation. Her six-year-old son survives. The mother had been suffering from tuberculosis a long time.

An Istanbul, Turkey, dispatch said Trotzky was reported seriously ill Monday at his exile residence on Prinkipo Island and that his secretary had gone to Europe to bring back a foreign specialist.

LIBBY'S BABY BOY KEPT IN AN INCUBATOR

Infant Weighed 3 1/2 Pounds When Born Last Night

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11. (AP)—Libby Holman Reynolds' new baby boy, Dr. Norris W. Vaux said today, weighed three and one-half pounds at birth and is being kept in an incubator.

Both mother and child, said Dr. Vaux, the obstetrician who attended Mrs. Reynolds, are doing "very well."

The child heir to a large share of his father's tobacco fortune, was born at 6:48 o'clock last night in the Pennsylvania hospital. Previous announcements from the actress' home had said the baby was expected early in February.

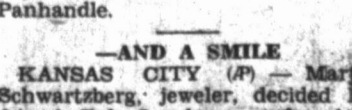

Arrival of the much-discussed infant recalled the death of his father, Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir to one-fourth of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco fortune. He was found fatally shot at Reynolds, his family's palatial home at Winston-Salem, N. C., last July 6 after a birthday party.

A coroner's jury found that he came to his death at the hands of "a person or persons unknown," and his 26-year-old widow and Albert Walker, 19-year-old Winston-Salem resident, were indicted early in August on charges of murder.

Last November, however, the prosecution was dropped when Solicitor Carlisle Higgins announced there was insufficient evidence to warrant a trial.

POST ELECTED PRESIDENT OF SCOUT COUNCIL

REPORTS SHOW 1932 GOAL OF ENLISTED SCOUTS PASSED

ENROLMENT INCREASES

FORTY-SEVEN MEN GET SCOUT TRAINING DIPLOMAS

Scout adult leaders of the Adobe Walls council met at a banquet in the dining room of the First Presbyterian church last night, praised the movement to which they are giving a portion of their time, and elected A. G. (Pete) Post of Pampa as president to succeed the Rev. A. A. Hyde.

Other officers elected were: First vice-president, H. W. Price of Borger; second vice-president, Sam Lanning of Panhandle; third vice-president, Gilmore N. Nunn of Pampa; treasurer, J. O. Gillham of Pampa; scout commissioner, A. W. Nelson of Borger; national representative, M. K. Brown of Pampa.

Executive Praised. The program included violin solos by Miss Eleanor Frey, accompanied by Mrs. May Foreman Carr; presentation of Eagle rank badge to Clifford Cox of Borger's troop 10; presentation of a five-year certificate to Carl Gardner of the same troop; greetings from Mrs. J. H. Donette in behalf of Scout mothers; and a talk by President Hyde on the Scout 10-year program, which is to enlist one of every four boys reaching the age of 12 and to keep them in the movement 4 years.

Other talks were made by the Rev. James Todd Jr., Mr. Gillham, Mr. Post, Mr. Nunn, Mr. Price, Mr. Nelson, C. A. Clark, Chris Martin, J. M. Dodson, Mr. Lanning, and several others. Supt. R. B. Fisher directed the singing of popular songs.

Work of Executive Clark and President Hyde drew special praise. The 1932 goal of 750 enlisted Scouts was passed with a total of 709, compared with 685 as of December, 1931. There are 410 Scouts of tenderfoot rank, 174 second class Scouts, and 92 who have reached first class rating. First class Scouts of high rank include 33 Star Scouts, 21 Life Scouts, and 13 Eagle Scouts.

Training Schools Held. In six training schools held for adult leaders, 188 men were registered and 47 received training certificates. Eighteen Scouters were in the summer training camp for 10 days, along with 77 boys of 16 troops. Three hundred and sixty-one merit badges were awarded boys in 1932. It is expected that one-fourth of all Scouts registered will reach first class rank in the coming year. It was pointed out that it is important to register boys at 12 years of age, in order that they may have four years of training by the time they reach the age of 16, when other interests of the adolescent period begin to receive their attention.

Financially, the council showed the small sum of $1,481 for council support, raised as follows: Pampa, $444.23; Borger, $547.20; Panhandle, $28; Whittenburg, $25; Spearman, $20; Guymon, $20. The current bank balance was given as $213.

Against this small support, the national cost for crime—13 billions—was contrasted with the statement that Scouting is the best answer yet devised for the "boy problem."

The group stood a moment honoring the memory of the Scout who accidentally was killed while returning from summer camp. A letter expressing the hope that Dr. Warner of Claude, pioneer Scout leader who is ill in Oklahoma, will speedily return. (SEE POST PAGE 6)

INDICTMENT RETURNED

HENDERSON, Jan. 11. (AP)—The Rank county grand jury returned an indictment last night against William McDonnell, 43, in connection with the killing of Ralph Russell, 42, Russell's body was found in Graham Lake, 12 miles from Henderson, last week. District Attorney H. H. Wellborn planned to confer with District Judge R. T. Brown to arrange an early date for the trial.

GIRL SLAIN

Jealousy was considered a possible motive for the slaying of Rose McCloskey (above) whose badly battered body was found in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia. She had gone there to meet Dennis Boyle, who was found in a semiconscious condition from a beating about an hour after the girl's body was located.

COMMISSIONERS RAISE AND CUT GRAY SALARIES

County Agents' Jobs An Issue Before Board

Most salaries of county officials were set for 1933 yesterday by the commissioners, but the question of setting aside funds to match the state salaries for the home demonstration agent and agricultural agent was deferred until Thursday.

It was suggested by one commissioner that an economy could be effected by discontinuing the services of the two agents until conditions improve. There were differences of opinion as to the extent of the need for the work and as to the desire of the people. A delay in voting on the question was agreed in order that the commissioners might talk to citizens about the subject.

Citizens questioned by THE NEWS today were practically unanimous for continuance of the two agents. It was pointed out that the programs are more important in times of distress than in better times, and reports of activities of the two departments aroused much favorable comment. If taxes are paid reasonably well in 1933 and budgeting (See COUNTY, Page 6.)

McLean Judges Win Clarendon Poultry Event

McLEAN, Jan. 11. (Special)—McLean high school's vocational agriculture students coached by Prof. A. A. Tample have added to their long list of awards by winning first place and a beautiful trophy at the Clarendon poultry judging contest.

Wilburn Lynch and A. L. Howard of McLean were first and second high scorers at the event with 420 and 404 points, respectively, out of a possible 450. Lynch also scored a perfect 150 on one of the hardest standard of perfection examinations ever given Panhandle students.

Claude's team was second and Panhandle third among the 20 students competing. Prof. Tample and Dr. George F. Groust of Panhandle were judges of the poultry entries, and Mr. Braun of Clarendon and J. M. Hill of Claude had charge of the judging contest. G. L. Boykin, central manager of the Clarendon chamber of commerce, was general manager of the show and contests.

Prof. Tample has been selected as official judge of the Chillicothe Poultry show which will be held January 30, 21.

MULLEN RESIGNS JOB

APPLICATION FOR NEW ALLOTMENTS TO BE MADE

Members of what is now called the Gray county federal relief committee will go to Amarillo tomorrow to receive the county allotment of $11,450 for January and February and to make application for the March and April allowance.

A telegram was received from D. A. Bendene, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, today announcing the time of handing out checks to Panhandle counties.

In a session this morning, the relief committee accepted the resignation of C. L. Mullen, who has been placing unemployed men but who will soon be connected with county tax assessing. Effective Monday, the relief work will be handled through the Welfare Board, with Mrs. W. H. Davis, manager, in charge.

To assist Mrs. Davis in these added duties, the committee employed J. P. Brown, who has been familiarizing himself with the work for several days. The new arrangement will be more economical, it was pointed out, and placing of jobs men has been necessarily closely allied to welfare work.

STAMFORD, Jan. 11. (AP)—The West Texas chamber of commerce was preparing today to distribute checks totaling $753,708 of Reconstruction Finance Corporation relief funds to 114 counties in West Texas for allotments covering January and February relief work.

Three regional conferences have been arranged, the first tomorrow at Amarillo, the second Friday, at Fort Worth, and the last, Saturday at Sweetwater. Committees at those meetings will receive their checks for the two months, together with application blanks for March and April allotments, will execute bonds and sign receipts.

ALLRED WINS FIGHT TO SAVE MAN IN MEXICO

Death Sentence of Meers Commuted To 7 Years

AUSTIN, Jan. 11. (AP)—James V. Allred, Texas attorney general, said today that he and Ballard Caldwell, district judge at El Paso, had succeeded in having the Mexican government commute a death sentence against W. J. Meers, an American, to seven years imprisonment.

Governor R. S. Sterling and others also had worked on the case. Meers was held for a firing squad after he shot a man in Juarez believed to be the slayer of his father. Later it developed he had mistaken the man's identity. He was held in prison at Chihuahua City, Chihuahua, for several years, while Americans tried to intercede.

Governor Sterling had considerable correspondence with the governor of Chihuahua with reference to the case and at one time had about consummated a trade for Meers' delivery to the American side when the plan suddenly went awry.

The Mexican governor wanted a man held in the Texas prison—a one-legged Mexican, Governor Sterling said, and promised to trade Meers for the Texas convict. The Texas governor agreed to have his man at the international boundary on a certain day, and to get him there at the appointed hour ranged traveled continuously day and night in a automobile from a prison farm on the Brazos river to the Rio Grande at El Paso. There was a hitch, however, and Meers was not delivered.

JONES FORCES A SHOW-DOWN IN TEST VOTE

REPUBLICAN PREDICTS PASSAGE OF LAW BY HOUSE

SENTIMENT IS FOR BILL

MOTION TO KILL MAIN CLAUSE DEFEATED 161 TO 100

By WILLIAM E. BEALE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (AP)—The house showed in large majorities today an overwhelming sentiment against killing the emergency farm bill.

It rejected, 161 to 100, a motion to strike out the measure's enacting clause which, if carried, would have ended the bill.

Then quickly after a plea from Chairman Jones not to further add or subtract from the commodities in the plan, house members divided 189 to 88 against eliminating hogs.

The vote on the enactment clause was forced by Jones himself who said "we might as well have a show-down on this bill."

Goss, Connecticut republican who originally sought to force the ballot, had expressed a willingness to forego it.

Earlier, Senator Dickinson (R., Iowa) had told President Hoover the bill was "dead."

But one of the chief republican foes at the capital, Clarke of New York, predicted its passage by the house and the vote on the enacting clause seemed to bear him out.

Baker Cafeteria in Need of Donations

Unless more donations are received at once, the Baker school cafeteria in South Pampa will be compelled to "prorate" the free meals served to the less fortunate children at noon.

Gifts of cash and food sustained the cafeteria, along with civic club help, for several months, but the cost of feeding nearly 50 hungry children has exhausted the reserve funds, according to Principal J. A. Meek.

The children have shown marked improvement in health and school work since the free noon meals were started for those poorly fed at home. The "proration" plan will limit these children to fewer meals per week, although they actually need the food for their physical welfare.

Hopkins Will Give Scouting Program

Parents and friends of Scouting will hear a program at the Hopkins community hall Thursday at 7:30 o'clock, presented by Hopkins troop No. 18, of which John E. Shannon is scoutmaster.

There will be no admission and everyone is invited. W. R. Barrett, troop committee chairman, will speak on Scouting and boys of the troop will demonstrate signalling, first aid to the injured, and Scout badge history, besides presenting a stunt or two.

Parents with sons old enough, or nearly old enough to join are especially urged to be present to learn what Scouting offers their boys.

MIND'S MYSTERY

Darkest of all puzzles is the mystery of what goes on sometimes in the tissues of the human brain. A few weeks ago an Ohio farmer, 79 years old, shot himself through the head with a small-caliber rifle in an attempt to commit suicide.

And somehow, because of what the little pellet of lead did to his brain cells, he was living in the world of his youth half a century ago. He did not know that he had tried to kill himself, didn't know that he was in bed. He felt that he was at work, a young man, on a farm—driving a team of horses, plowing a field and so on.

Now there is something eerie and fascinating about this tragic picture. Any man, in the fever of a severe illness, is apt to lapse into delirium. But this was something different.

A few mysterious bits of gray matter are destroyed or displaced, and an old man sloughed off half a century, left his sick bed and roamed the fields of his youth—what are we to make of it? What mysterious, untraceable threads in the network of the brain were at work here? What became of the man himself; where was he, the man and not his physical shadow, while all of this was going on?

These are questions, of course, either for a great brain specialist or for a metaphysician; and perhaps even they could only give us guesses. But the questions provide a fascination that comes only when one feels himself standing on the edge of a profound and significant puzzle. Are we utterly at the mercy of the rounded convulsions of our brain furrows? Are we essentially those furrows and nothing more? Or do we live beyond them, conditioned by them but ultimately independent of them?

The thought of this man, bed-ridden but free to relive his youth, is a thing that provokes long and solemn speculation.

Those cosmopolitan souls with broad interests who like a bit of everything should be having a great time right now with pumpkin pie.

Disintegration of the atom was reported as one of the leading scientific accomplishments of 1932. Perfectly natural in a year like the last for the atom to go broke.

an ignominious role in history; but if her term of office results in the failure he prophesied, he may yet attain a pedestal as a martyr to the cause of good government. It is an unusual psychological trait in the public mind which ennobles a man when he wins and dishonors him when he loses, regardless of the merit of his principles or the sincerity of his beliefs. Ross Sterling, to date, has neither won nor lost. Time alone can render the verdict.

THE SALES TAX

Approval of Mrs. Ferguson's proposed sales tax still appears in doubt, but there is a supple for it in quarters where none was expected. On the theory that many buyers of luxuries are better able to pay taxes than are merchants and property owners, the Houston Chronicle is supporting the sales tax plan. It is believed that not all articles which are bought and sold will be taxed. The inevitable inequities of such a system are obvious, but advocates of the plan urge it as a dependable substitute in the transition period between abandonment of the ad valorem system—in whole or part—and adoption of some other method.

MATTER OF SERVICE

It is idle to imagine, however, that governmental costs can be drastically and permanently reduced unless the people are willing to quit making demands upon the government. These demands include such things as oil and gas prorations. Legislation to protect the "little fellow," the individual pool, the royalty less lease owners, the landowners, and many others is demanded. The supreme court and the federal courts are the bulwark of the bigger interests. But our point is that both small and large interests demand costly governmental intervention in their behalf.

Ultra-Stream-Line 'Study In Tan' One Extreme at National Car Show

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. (AP)—The 27 doors of Grand Central Palace were thrown open today on a scintillating display of automobiles which the manufacturers hope will bring millions of dollars out of hiding and help return America to economic normality.

It is the thirty-third National Automobile show, and the thousands who swarmed through the doors saw, for the first time, an exhibition that has many aspects of a three-ring circus.

Instead of the usual assortment of motionless cars, they looked on acres of whirling, noise-making, spinning, attention-compelling contraptions.

And it was like a circus because there is so much to see—our floors filled with displays, along a route that lot minutes to cover at a normal walking pace, even if you don't stop.

Twenty-eight domestic names of passenger cars, one foreign car, and nine trucks are represented.

The cheapest automobile in the show is one of four cylinders at $275. The other extreme is a 12-cylinder car marked $10,000. "A study in tan" they call it—a vast ultra-stream-line creation resembling a cross between a giant beetle, a millionaire's yacht, and an armored war machine. It represents what its designer says the car of 1943 will look like.

Prices Cut

As the show opened many manufacturers announced they had cut last year's prices from $200 to $400.

The six cylinder cars start at $490 and the eight at $645.

The color trend is toward black, with few two-toned exhibits.

The new radiators are unusual in shape and design, many resembling grotesque bugs.

Some of the features of the new cars are less:

Better control of the temperature of oil and water.

Lower center of gravity and longer wheelbases.

Improved ventilation, with an ingenious "waterspout" carrying rain from around ventilators.

Screens to keep out insects.

A reduction in manual operation, through easily-working steering wheels, automatic clutches and power brakes.

Epare tires, in many cases, back at the rear.

The trend in body design is toward simulation of the shape of a tear drop, thereby removing air pockets, forcing the car to hug the ground, cutting down wind resistance and adding from five to seven miles per hour to the speed.

Old Times There.

It's a great show for those who like to "see things go." There are cars that whirl in the air; turbines that spin around; turntables that revolve, and a miniature factory with cranes moving, trucks speeding back and forth, presses drilling holes in metal, and robot men going thru the motions of making automobiles.

For those who forget the improvement man has made in the machine, one exhibitor has set up, close to his $6,900 car, its 1902 one-cylinder ancestor.

As it was a figure in goggles, duster, and sweeping mustaches cranks the contrivance—which sold for $850 including an extra rear seat in case the original one bounced off—three wax passengers fan themselves and bounce up and down in dismay.

SYNOPSIS: Mark Lodely arranges to faint just as he arrives at Farrell Armitage's house. He and an actress, Patsy Raoul, quarrel vehemently, and then Mark, again faints, appropriates Farrell's own bedroom. Farrell endures all, having promised to establish Mark as an artist. Barbara Quentin, Mark's fiancée, will postpone their wedding a year. Farrell hopes to win Barbara's love. Lella Cane and Patsy have a plan of their own—as yet a mystery.

Chapter 23 UNPREDICTABLE PATSY MISS RAOUL'S fury was short-lived. Before she had crossed Brandish Place she was laughing. "Whose fur flew first?" she demanded in perfectly easy English. "His, I think, but I can't be sure. The chattering little ape!"

"Mark—or you?" "Mark, of course! I may have the face of a monkey but he has the soul of one and it was our souls we were discussing."

"I heard you." "It is a great pity I lost my temper in front of the other man."

"But I'm not paying you to work up an affair with him," pointed out Lella sweetly. "In any case—he wants to marry someone who doesn't want to marry him and nothing makes a man more blind and deaf to every other specimen of exquisite young womanhood. . . . No, not meaning me. I intended to marry him; but I never thought I cared about him. Neither did he. So we're friends, instead."

"What is this girl of his like? Beautiful?" "Yes," admitted Lella. "She's the most beautiful girl I've ever seen. And clever. And good. And a fool."

"Any clever woman is a fool to be good," declared Miss Raoul, turning briskly into the Park. "Why won't she take Armitage?" "She loves Mark Lodely."

Miss Raoul emitted a screech of laughter. "And whom does Mark love?" "Mark."

"Hurry up! commanded Miss Raoul. "I have to go to Malavie's before the theatre. I hope he has finished your Mark's studio because my place must be re-done at once. I've just decided it."

"That day we first met, in New York, you told me it was perfect." "That was because I was in New York. I was homesick. I was in a condition to say anything. The moment I got back I saw that the whole atmosphere is wrong. It tries to tone me down. It almost apologises for me. That's fatal. I want a setting that will make the most of my ugliness. They say Malavie's might be able to do it."

"I don't think so. His studio for Mark was not particularly inspired. Divans, screens, all the usual clutter. Patsy, I wish you'd try this girl instead."

"Which girl?" Lella tried to recapture discretion.

"The girl who decorated and furnished my home in the country. It's been enormously admired. And she did our flat here in Town or some of it. She's the cleverest kid—she designs my clothes, too."

"I wondered where you got them; I felt sure you couldn't afford them from the big shops and you need a lot of dressing." Miss Raoul tossed her pockets into the air and caught it again. "I an sea-spectation here, as I so quaintly say in my jargon. The money you're paying me to vamp Mark is just about what Malavie's will ask for doing the whole of my house. Pay me half and the girl's fee, instead. What's her name?"

"Barbara Quentin." "Is that her real name?" To her own surprise Lella threw up her head.

"Quentin has been a west-country name for centuries. So has Lodely. They don't need to assume them."

The next instant she regretted the flash of spirit. "Well now, my name isn't Raoul. It isn't even Patsy. I long for London when I'm in New York and for Paris when I'm in Berlin—I'm at home nowhere except on the boards and I've been pelted off them, twice, and shall be again."

Miss Raoul seized the door of a taxi which happened to be cruising past, and hurled herself inside. Before Lella could move away, her scarlet-helmeted head was thrust out again.

"Don't forget to write to that girl!" "Patsy, I didn't mean—"

But the taxi swung off and Lella had to walk on alone. Odd—odd—odd—clicked her heels on the pavement. She envied Patsy, and Patsy, or a part of Patsy—envied her. Envied her security. Security!

Lella wondered whether Miss Raoul considered the friendship at an end. Probably, so Lella would have to move. "Well, now Mrs. Lodely's there, I can stay at Farrell's."

She turned and retraced her steps, telling herself that she would phone Farrell. Though she needn't do that, either; she could just stroll in, Better return to Patsy's house, first.

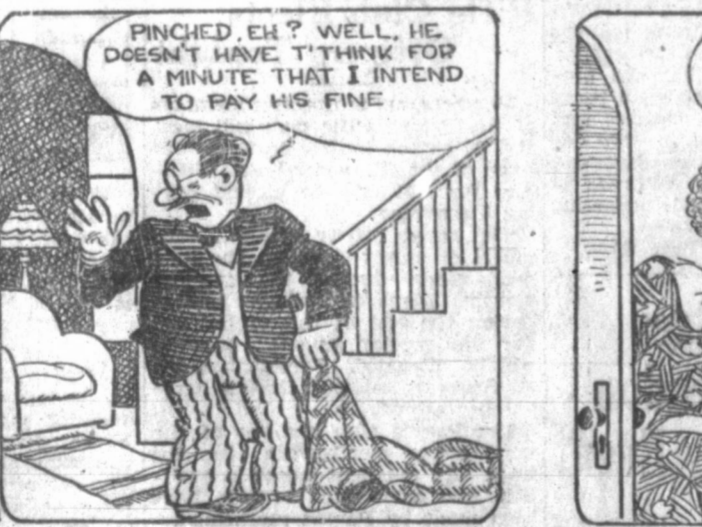

"I may have the face of a monkey but he has the soul of one and it was our souls we were discussing."

STRANGE INTERLUDE

Serial story of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Strange Interlude," starring Norma Shearer and Clark Gable, adapted from the play by Eugene O'Neill and directed by Robert Z. Leonard.

INSTALLMENT THREE Nina Leeds cannot forget her lover, Gordon, who was killed in the war. In order to be as near him as possible in spirit, she becomes a nurse in a veteran's hospital.

"Why have you always been so timid, Charlie? Why are you always afraid? What are you afraid of?"

"I'm afraid of life, Nina." "Who isn't? Oh, Charlie I want to believe in something. I want to believe so I can feel. I want to feel that he is dead, my father. And I can't feel anything, Charlie. I can't feel anything at all."

She threw herself, on her knees beside him and hid her face in his lap. Then she began to sob, stifled, torn, sounds.

Marsden bent down and patted her head with trembling hands. "There — there — don't, Nina, please — don't cry — you'll make yourself sick. Come now — get up — do!"

His hands grasping her arms, he half raised her to her feet, but her face still hidden in his hands, sobbing, she slid onto his lap like a little girl and hid her face on his shoulder.

"This will never do, Cara Nina — never, never do, you know — I can't permit it."

In a muffled voice she answered him: "Oh, Charlie, you're so kind and comforting! I've wanted to run home and fess up tell how bad I've been and be punished."

"What do you want to be punished for?" "For playing the fool, Charlie, with men. Ugh!"

A shiver ran through her body. "Why did you do this, Nina?" "Perhaps I knew at the time, Charlie, but I've forgotten. It's all mixed up. I knew it was a morbid business — yet I kept on!"

"The most desirable course is for you to marry that young Evans," Marsden said, after a pause. "Sam is a nice boy," Nina said drowsily, worn out with emotion, "perhaps the feeling I have for him is love — a normal, healthy love — healing rather than destructive — to be a wife — to have children — perhaps that is what I've been seeking, Charlie."

"Then it's all settled?" "Yes," Nina said drowsily. "Thank you, father. You've been so kind. I don't feel as if you'd punished me harshly at all. But I'll never, never do it again, I promise — never, never!"

laugh. Evans, startled, looked after him, puzzled—from the hall, where he had gone, came back Marsden's bitter laughter.

Three months later — Nina seemed much more contented and happy. Her whole personality seemed changed, her face had a contented expression, there was an inner calm about her.

"It's been a divine honeymoon, Sam," Nina said to Evans as she reached above her head, pulling down one of the apple blossoms.

"They're all white and pinkish and beautiful —"

"Like you, Nina."

"I'm glad you mother insisted on our coming here."

"She must be terribly lonely all by herself in this big house — I guess that's why her invitation was more like a command —"

"You think she minded because old Charlie drove us down?" "Why should she?"

"I thought she was rather upset when he decided to remain overnight — she acted so queerly — she seemed anxious to get me alone —"

"Well, he's such a fussy old woman, she probably felt he'd criticize the bed sheets."

"He probably did."

They came to the farm house. Nina looked at it thoughtfully as they paused.

"This is a queer old house, Sam. It has voices — old voices — I could hear them last night. Sam, plainly — tired whispers and high, meaningless laughter. No, Sam, I'm not morbid again — have never been more contented."

BOSTON'S WEATHER MAN ON DUTY AFTER HALF A CENTURY

BOSTON, Jan. 11. (INS)—Every day for 50 years, George A. Loveland has been writing "front page stuff."

He is the official weather fore-caster at the Boston weather bureau. After half a century of climatic prognostication, Loveland still finds his work is interesting and it's a steady job.

His first weather assignment came on July 6, 1882, after he was graduated from New Hampshire University and Dartmouth college. He was sent to Fort Myers, Fla. From there he went to the bureau at Washington. He was sent to New York, then to Lincoln, Nebraska, and eight years ago he came to Boston.

Revolts Seethe In Six Nations, Including Cuba

By The Associated Press. Military measures were invoked today in four out of six countries disturbed this week by rioting or open revolt. In one of the others — the Irish Free State — military action was threatened to quell political fighting.

Revolts continued today in Spain and Alwar, India, and disturbances which took a heavy toll in casualties also occurred yesterday in Germany, Argentina, and Cuba. The situation in Argentina continued doubtful.

The Spanish republican government ordered martial law for provinces where further outbreaks were attempted. Since Sunday, 40 have been killed and more than 100 injured in the revolt of Spanish syndicalists and communists.

One thousand British soldiers arrived in Alwar, native state of northern India, where Moslems were in revolt. The rebels were holding a district against native state troops.

President Augustin Justo adjourned the Argentine congress for the duration of internal disorders. The government retained extraordinary powers under a state of siege decree, similar to martial law except that civil courts function. Reports relayed through Santiago, Chile, listed eight persons killed in clashes yesterday and Sunday in Argentina.

Seven persons were wounded in five cities in Cuba yesterday before military forces took over control. Outbreaks occurred at Havana, Santiago, Santa Clara, and Matanzas on the occasions of celebrations of the so-called "Martyrdom" of Julio Antonio Mella, student communist. It was the third anniversary of his slaying.

His career has taken him into many court cases.

Loveland told of a famous murder case in which a woman told of a thunderstorm at the time of the murder. His records showed the night was fair and clear and his testimony broke a deadlocked jury.

In another murder case, a man testified to wheel tracks on the frosty ground. Loveland brought his records to court and proved the temperature had not been below 60 degrees and there couldn't have been any frost.

George Nichols, architect of the James Gamble Rogers company, and designer of the room, said it was fashioned under personal direction of John M. Wheeler, M. D. Dr. Wheeler is the ophthalmologist who operated for cataract on the eye of King Prajadhipok of Siam.

"We were faced," said Mr. Nichols, "with the difficult problem of providing a thoroughly modern eye operating room combined with an observation gallery in which the students could sit and witness the work as well as hear the lecture and comments by the operating surgeon."

The room is part of the equipment of the Institute of Ophthalmology. Rising out of its hermetically sealed roof is a glass dome, projecting into the middle of an upper story, which is a "lecture room" for students who can look through the dome at the operation below them.

There are seats for 16 students around this dome, and loud speakers to amplify soft spoken words of the surgeon whose work they are watching.

Russia To Increase Production and Build up Army During Next 5 Years

By STANLEY P. RICHARDSON, Associated Press Correspondent. MOSCOW, Jan. 11. (AP)—A challenge was cast to "the capitalist world" today by Joseph V. Stalin in the industrial program he has mapped out for Russia for the next five years.

The Bolshevik chieftain announced a 16 per cent increase in general production over last year as this year's goal of the socialist nation. The annual average increase for the second five-year plan, now being inaugurated, must be 13 or 14 per cent, he said.

This, he declared, "would be impossible in capitalist countries."

Stalin announced his plans in a speech before a joint meeting of the communist party central committee and the general control committee. It was made public three days later—his first speech made public in more than a year.

Claiming "the successful fulfillment of the (first) five-year plan," he declared its aim was "to change the country from one with the technique of the middle ages to one of contemporary technique—to make the nation independent of the whims of capitalism."

He admitted the program was actually only 93.7 per cent fulfilled. "But we did it in four years and three months," he added, recalling the program was cut short for the beginning of the new schedule this year.

Stalin declared the last plan had to be altered to build up the national defense because of "the failure of neighboring countries to sign guarantee pacts with us and because of complications in the Far East."

The main role of the second five-year plan will be played by "new plants" and not the "old factories," he said.

Silencing those within the party who advocated a return to private farming, Stalin flatly asserted that collectivization in agriculture must be continued throughout the whole country. The spread of state and collective farms has exceeded the original program by three times, he declared, and must be carried on.

Fire Writes End For 'Wandering' Hotel of Pecos

PECOS, Jan. 11. (AP)—"Finis" at last has been written for the wandering hotel of the oil fields. The old Rig hotel was burned down at Hobbs, N. M., recently.

This old board structure, which was generally known as the "Texas" came into being during a land boom at Fort Stockton years ago. Then it was a gray stucco affair with 90 rooms. From Stockton it wandered to Big Lake when the oil boom struck there. Another move was made and it became known as the wandering hotel of the permian basin.

Following booms in each instance it was moved successively to Girvin, then to Pyote, then to Wink, and to Hobbs where fire ended it finally.

"WHEN I work hard, I usually smoke more; and when I smoke more, I usually work harder—and that's why I want a cigarette that's milder."

We use in Chesterfield Cigarettes mild, ripe Domestic and Turkish tobaccos which have been aged and re-aged.

These good tobaccos in Chesterfield are used in the right proportions—that's a very important matter.

These good tobaccos in Chesterfield are blended and cross-blended—welded together; that, too, helps to make a milder cigarette with better taste.

WOMEN OF COUNTY FIND WELCOME USE FOR OLD SOCKS

MAKING OF HOOKED RUGS-- AN OLD ART--REVIVED WITH ENTHUSIASM BY CLUB FOLK

SUCH RUGS WERE USED OFTEN IN COLONIAL HOMES--NOW EMPLOYED HARMONIOUSLY IN FURNISHING ANY ROOM

What to do with men's worn out socks and razor blades have long been puzzling problems, but women of Gray county have solved the former by making the socks into attractive rugs. Making of hooked rugs, an old art, is being revived and stressed by home demonstration clubs of this county.

RUG RUG

I put you in a corner where folks never work
But where all eyes can see
And no one knows the story
Of your brown and blue and orange--
No one but me.

How many old wool shirts
Made that wide brown stripe?
Wool shirts . . . I wonder whose?
And how many dresses and aprons
Made those circles of blended
Golds and blues?

The scalloped edges of brilliant brick and orange . . .
Somebody's hunting packet.

Somebody's . . . whose?
Somebody tramping around in the timber.
Rifle over an orange-clad shoulder, carelessly swung:
"What did you bring me from the woods, dear?
A pine cone, a spray of spring's first arbutus,
Wintergreen berries, cluster of hazel nuts,
Draped in a little packet of colored leaves.
There must be something, there always is,
In the pocket of somebody's black and orange hunting packet.

None can step, all can see . . . Do you think that I would tell
A beautiful story, no one knows but me?
Brown shirts, blue dresses orange jacket,
Round and round in the gay rag rug.

Husband's socks, old suits, women's hose, knitted and rayon underwear, cotton blankets, and miscellaneous clean rags are being cut into narrow strips and hooked into pretty mats and rugs upon a foundation of burlap from round bale gins.

In Bedroom Project

Demonstrating the rug-making art, Miss Ruby Adams, demonstration agent, has a "county rug" upon which various women are working for practice. It is in Miss Adams' office on a large frame. It may not be the best rug made here, but in the making of it skill will be developed for a rug-making program which will be concluded in June. Demonstrations, however, will be finished this month. Making of the rugs is part of the bedroom work of the club women.

Men's silk and rayon socks are particularly useful because in many designs they do not have to be dyed. Dyeing is taught along with rug hooking. When finished, the rugs are geometrically symmetrical, half an inch thick, attractive, serviceable, and "nice to step upon on a cold morning." Quite a number of Texas women have attained the standard of quality prescribed by the A. & M. extension service and have sold their products at a good profit. Most of the Gray county women, however, will use their rugs to beautify their bedrooms.

Must Harmonize
Braided and hooked rugs were much used in the old colonial homes. The rugs may be properly used in any room in which they harmonize with other furnishings. Several small hooked rugs are particularly attractive in bedrooms.

Such rugs should be made out of clean, serviceable materials, but hooked rugs do not demand the same hard weave as do the braided variety. Flimsy, open mesh cotton materials, however, should not be used in either type of floor covering. Old faded overalls, blue and grey shirts, and good quality of children's cotton hose and underwear can be used with pleasing effects in hooked rugs. Old silks are not durable enough to justify the time of using them.

A few colors may wisely be used in a single rug, especially by beginners and floral designs should be avoided. Patterns for use in this county are being procured by Miss Adams, who exchanges them with agents of other counties. Soft colors endure and please the eye longer than stronger ones which may seem more attractive at first glance. Dyeing is very important, both as to color and permanency. Fast colors, not tints, are needed.

Much Individuality
No two hooked rugs are alike even though the same pattern is used more than once. Individuality of the workmanship is pronounced. For hooking, the material is torn into strips about one quarter inch wide and with a specially designed hooked pulled through the marked foundation burlap, leaving loops of loops one quarter inch long. The rug maker works from the outside toward the center. Outlines are made first, then solid effects are built. When completed, the rug is removed from the frame and a hem is turned down around all edges and finished about 1/4 inches wide. Some makers prefer to line the rugs for home use. The cost is negligible, since old rags and socks just will accumulate.

Gray county women are very enthusiastic in their rug making activities.

LEAD-PREVENTING BIDS

Some psychic bidders are prone to offer a suit with the sole purpose of scaring the opponents from leading that suit. They do this on fair hands which apparently will not suit in question is opened by the adversaries.

Once against the same opponent ought to be enough for success with such a bid, but the psychic addict likes to repeat. Sometimes an advantage in points he has attained by his deception is more than offset by an attempt is made to hoodwink the enemy in a subsequent hand.

Once was enough for Norris A. Huse to be fooled in the same rubber. He sat north in the following:

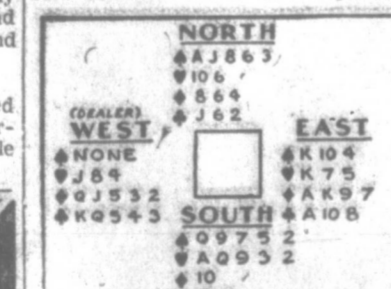

East had a desire to try for a game in no trump in case his partner should have hearts and the adversaries should not think enough of their clubs to be aggressive with them. And so he bid one club. South passed, West much to east's joy bid hearts. North passed and east went to three no trump.

South disliked the idea of opening clubs, since he assumed it might be up to a suit headed by the king queen in the east hand. He wanted his own clubs led up to through the ace. So he opened his short heart suit, hoping to put north in. A low card was played from dummy and north's king took the trick.

If north had then led his queen of clubs, the declarer would have been set plenty, but north picked the weak suit, dummy's diamonds to lead instead. He underled the ace of diamonds and the declarer was home with his game with the aid of a spade finesse.

Right on top of that west had the nerve to try a psychic of a different sort and the result was a penalty.

West and north passed, east offered one no trump, south passed, west bid two diamonds, north two spades, east three diamonds, south three spades and west four spades. West here supported no less than spades and showed up for diamonds. North passed, east went to five diamonds and south passed. Came the psychic. West had visions of a slam if hearts should not be opened. Seeking to discourage a heart lead, he bid five hearts and east went to six diamonds, which West took with the club. He looked to him as if the heart bid was deceptive, especially since he had a doubleton. His partner had assisted spades, and there obviously was some strength south.

North opened a heart. After taking the first five tricks, south promptly returned a low heart which Huse gleefully trumped.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11. (AP)—This is going to be a black and blue spring. The fashion for women's shoes are concerned. But gray, beige in neutral shades for the temperate zone and sand tones for southern wear, and brown, especially cocoa-brown, are well represented. Turkish red is showing promise.

White will be the leading shoe color for summer and followed by beige and dusty pastels. Varicolored molres and the more vibrant solid colored leathers will be present.

Piece by piece, the chemical laboratory is coming into our homes—not being content with providing new materials and new colors. Decorators have discovered that the glass vessels in which the chemist makes his magic brews are not only useful, but highly ornamental.

The ware has a further advantage in that it is necessarily of high quality, clear, tough, simple in design and practical in all respects. Because of its simplicity, it lends itself to grouping in the house un-

Star Players To Get Salary Hike

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. (AP)—Major league magnates definitely are committed to a program of economy but deserving ball players will be rewarded in the usual fashion just the same.

With the possible exception of the St. Louis Cardinals, clubs in both the American and National leagues already have boosted, or will do so, the salaries of star performers of the 1932 campaign.

WOOD OFF TO OLD MEXICO

Agua Caliente Open Is Next Ambition of West Coast Winner.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 11. (AP)—Craig Wood, leading money winner of the California golf championship, admitted today for another assault on par and puff.

Most of the field of more than 180 players, who have bowed to the Deal, N. J., professional in the three major winter tournaments of the west coast, admitted Wood was the man to beat the annual Agua Caliente open, with $7,500 American money as stakes.

The absence of Gene Sarazen, national open champion of two nations, took a great deal of the color from the 4-day test of 72 holes. The New Yorker was counted out by influenza.

But there were many of the nation's leading golfers entered. Not the least of these was Clint Ditra, Santa Monica, national P. G. A. titleholder, who has not shown the form in the winter wars that he displayed last summer.

Then there was Fred Morrison, defending champion, from Pasadena; Leo Diegel, home pro and former P. G. A. champion; George Von Elm, Los Angeles, joint winner in 1931; Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn; Harry Cooper, Chicago; MacDonald Smith, New York; Willie Hunter, Los Angeles, and a host of young stars.

The long, tough course, with its powalling winds which always have worked havoc on the scoring, favors the long hitters such as Wood, Ditra and Morrison.

Mrs. R. G. Hughes was to undergo a minor operation this afternoon, at Pampa hospital.

Allison Reported To Have One of Strongest Clubs in Sub-Section.

Tomorrow night will see both the Harvesters and Harvestettes in action for the last time in two weeks. They will play the fast Allison teams at the high school gymnasium. The girls' teams will play at 7:30 o'clock and the boys' teams immediately after.

Friday night both teams will be in Miami for important league games. The Harvesters will go to Canadian Saturday night for a return game. The Harvestettes will make the trip later. The next home game will be January 28 with LeFors.

Both teams went through unsatisfactory practices yesterday afternoon. They failed to handle the ball and passing was below par. Another session this afternoon was set to finish training for the Allison games.

Friday has a smooth-working combination that should give the Harvesters plenty of trouble. Assistant Coach Argus Fox reported after seeing Allison play in LeFors. He said the girls' team is also one of the best he has seen in action this year.

Both Pampa teams are taking the game seriously, knowing what a "small-town" team can do. Admission will be 10 cents for students and 25 cents for adults or by season ticket. Tickets to the remaining home games are still available for $1.

Man Fires First Shot to Thwart Hold-up of Bus

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 11. (AP)—A man who never before had fired a pistol was credited today with thwarting a robbery aboard a Pickwick bus which had been commandeered by two holdup men.

The novice was David Taylor of Denver, who with his wife and three children had boarded the vehicle last night and short time before the passengers were started by the command, "This is a holdup." A fellow passenger slipped an automatic pistol to Taylor, who with his first and only shot killed one of the robbers. His companion ordered the driver to stop, leaped out and escaped.

The dead man was identified as Herman Lee Fuller, Heavener, Okla. A few minutes after the bus, bound for Salina, Kansas, left the Kansas City, Mo., terminal of the company the robbers took up position in front and rear. Passengers screamed as the two men flourished pistols and with oaths directed them to raise their hands. John Donzell, Chicago, lunged at the robber in front, but was struck on the head and fell to the floor. The companion drew the other holdup man to the front.

B. F. Day, who was sitting in a rear seat, then gave his pistol to Taylor and told him to use it for he was in a more advantageous position. Taylor fired, and one of the robbers fell clutching at his heart. The second robber, whirled and fired, one of two bullets striking Taylor in the left foot. At 13th and Minnesota in Kansas City, Kansas, he ordered the driver to stop and escaped.

WINN STATES 1933 WILL BE RACING YEAR

SEES CONFIDENCE AND COURAGE GIVING GOOD RESULTS

By COL. MATT J. WINN, President of the American Turf Association; Managing Director of the Latonia, and Churchill Downs Race Courses in Kentucky, and Lincoln Fields in Chicago.

(Written for the Associated Press.) CHICAGO, Jan. 11. (AP)—The year 1933 as regards racing will be what we make it.

America with 120,000,000 people will face the future with a determination that must be rewarded. I look forward to a splendid year on the American turf.

Let us talk and think about the future. We must meet the situation with courage and confidence and in my opinion that spirit of optimism will be rewarded by public support.

Let me cite as an illustration the action of Churchill Downs which I am an executive director, in maintaining the value of the Kentucky Derby at $50,000 added. This is the first and most historic of the stakes for three-year-olds to be decided in the spring. A reduction in its value at this time would have effected every breeder and owner of a thoroughbred, every race course in America, and would have surprised and discouraged every lover of high class racing.

We felt that we owed a special duty to the public which for 58 years has given the derby enthusiastic and generous support.

Now for the psychological effect. The response was immediate. Although the Kentucky Derby will not be run until May 6. We have already sold more than 500 boxes and there is every assurance that Churchill Downs will have one of the best race meetings in its history.

This interest will increase and is certain to find expression in Chicago which now has become the turf center of America. The Century of Progress exposition which will open its doors on June 1 will surpass in beauty, originality and completeness in all other similar enterprises. Every hotel and business house in Chicago will profit by the millions who will come to Chicago to see this marvelous exposition, and the race courses with other sports and amusements will receive their share.

TEMPLE'S FOREHAND BOOMED AS ONE OF LEADING COACHES

Writer Believes Temple Had Better Football Team Than Corsicana.

By BILL PARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

Edgar McClelland, sports editor of the Temple Telegram sends in the following about the work of Coach G. W. "Red" Forehand of Temple high school.

This new-comer to class A high school athletics has begun to put Temple on the athletic map. In his first year here, his football team made the best showing of any Temple eleven in five years, and his first basketball season was successful enough for him to win the state championship.

Quail Season To Close on Monday

Monday night at sundown will see the close of the quail season in Texas, and many Pampa nimrods are making use of the few remaining days to roam the country in search of a few missing covers.

Hunting within easy driving distance of Pampa has been exceptionally good this year.

However, the weather has been against the hunter. There was a long dry spell followed by snow and extreme cold that made hunting unsatisfactory. Most of the big bags were made in the McLean and Alameda sections of Gray county, in Wheeler county, and around the Canadian river area in Roberts and Hemphill counties.

The duck and goose season which closed December 31 was not successful in this section of the Panhandle. There was little or no water in the North Plains. Many ardent hunters drove into the Plainview and Muleshoe country for their hunting.

Generous were numerous along the Canadian river but changed locations so often that it was necessary to send out scouts before each trip.

Reg. Noble, hockey star from 16 years, was released the other day by the Detroit Red Wings. Noble is 39. He was 20 pounds too heavy. . . . Next year Babe Ruth?

Mr. di Benedetto, who has been investigating the charges of professionalism against Babe Didrikson, wanted camera men away when they wanted to take his picture posing with the Babe. . . . he said it wouldn't look right.

During the Trojan-Notre Dame game, Nick Lukats suddenly was parted from his pants by a ripping old Trojan tackle. . . . in which he has something in common, at least, with those who wagged on Notre Dame. . . . they only lost their shirts.

Prof. Frank G. Dickinson of the University of Illinois, father of the rating system that bears his name, places Michigan 1.66 points ahead of Southern California as national champion. . . . it seems to this writer that the professor has his logarithms mixed up. . . . but that wouldn't be a very kind thing to say. . . . now, would it?

If this writer were a promoter and had the chance to buy any college football team of 1932 for professional competition, he would purchase Purdue. . . . when Dickinson rated fourth, behind Michigan, El Trojan and Pitt. . . . that's a matter of personal preference, of course, after watching the team play.

The Quick Kick

Southern California, whose great advantage over Notre Dame was the surprise element of quick kicks, had better go easy on those kicks against Pitt. . . . or get 'em off very quickly. . . . and, by the way, the Trojan safety man had better be on his toes whenever Hogan reveals a desire to put foot to the ovoid. (And speaking of quick kicks, you should hear those Notre Dame Alumni!)

It might be easier for Kid Chocolate to find a steady job as champion of the featherweights if it were not for LaBarba coming over now and then and messing things up. . . . By the law of averages the Fidel ought to win the next one.

Gusto On Hop

There undoubtedly will be a spirited argument through the winter as the champion three-year-old of 1932, Gusto won the most money but Faireno defeated Gusto on a dry track in the Belmont. The important handicaps and cups at Belmont and Saratoga next year may help to settle the issue, but in most of the big fixtures, Gusto and Faireno will have Equippoise to beat.

CORNELL SPORTS PROGRAM IS SLASHED AS ECONOMY MOVE

Cancel All Schedules With Single Exception of Basketball.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 11. (AP)—For economy, Cornell university has cancelled its entire winter and spring intercollegiate sports program with the single exception of basketball.

This drastic action, taken by the athletic council last night, carries with it abandonment of all schedules, varsity and freshman, in crew, wrestling, ice hockey, fencing, indoor and outdoor track, baseball and lacrosse, and means that Cornell will not be represented in the intercollegiate rowing association's annual regatta at Poughkeepsie nor in championships in any other sport for the rest of the sch. term.

The council, at the same time, asked its policy and finance committees to work out a scheme for the "promotion and encouragement of the greatest amount of athletic competition not inconsistent with the terms of its earlier action." This was interpreted to mean that intra-mural sports would be further encouraged and that some informal meets might be held.

Abandonment of the winter and spring sports schedules will have no effect upon the coaching staffs, members of which will be available to athletes for training and instruction although facilities will be greatly curtailed.

The council also laid the groundwork for further economies in athletic operations, announcing a three-point program to be put into effect later. The program included: 1—Reduction of the athletic association staff as far as possible, after further study.

2—Salary cuts to those employees retained.

3—Maintenance of the athletic plant to the extent of preventing "uneconomic deterioration."

Tom Morris of the postoffice staff is ill today.

Bill Terry isn't such a bad trader, if you judge by the recent three-cornered swap by which he got Glenn Spenter from the Pirates and George Davis from the Phils. In George Davis, the Giants will have a fine young ball player, and a great fly-hawk.

'Pee-wee' Reeves Rolls 289 Pins And Ties Record

Garland "Pee-wee" Reeves, pin boy at the Pampa Bowling Alley, tied the all-time single record at the Pampa alleys last night when he rolled 289 pins in a game with Ben Robinson of the Blair Motor company. The little bowling star had 10 consecutive strikes, a spare and nine pins on his last ball.

He now holds the single record with Tom Darty who set up the high game Christmas week last year. The veteran rolled a spare in his first frame, then followed with 10 consecutive strikes and nine pins on his last ball.

"Pee-wee" has been bowling consistently in the 200 class during the past few months. His ball "carries" well and he gets very few splits.

V. D. Prewitt held the previous high single game with 233 pins.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 11. (AP)—Grain prices tended upward early today after an irregular start. Cold territory with domestic winter wheat production was more than an offset for a lagging response which the Liverpool wheat market made to this side of the Atlantic. Heavy profit-taking sales howed wheat back almost 2 cents from the day's high point. Wheat closed unsettled, 1/4-1/2 under yesterday's 1/4 down, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 10 cents advance.
