Easter Services Offering Joy and Hope to Universe

HOOVER'S WILL JOIN THROGS AT ARLINGTON

CHORALS AND CHANTS HEARD IN MANY CITIES

MANY EARLY GATHERINGS

JERUSALEM COLORFUL WITH PILGRIMS IN WORSHIP

By The Associated Press
Across a world dark with economic woes and trouble-torn, the Easter message of joy and hope flashed to all christendom at sunrise today, in Cathedrals and cottages of many lands.
Black skies were the predicted greeting in many cities and rain threatened the display of finery. The bells of Rome's 400 churches yesterday at noon pealed the end of Lent.
Striking a spark from a flint, Cardinal Pacelli lit the Easter fire at St. Peter's and blessed the Pope's paschal candle, eight feet tall.
Distribute Blessings
Priests passed from house to house in Italian cities, distributing blessings. In the city square of Florence the sacred cart was ignited, following a custom six centuries old. Fireworks on the cart, ignited by wire from the Cathedral doorway, roared the ancient promise of fine harvests.
President Hoover planned to arise early in Washington for a sunrise service in Arlington National cemetery. Later he and Mrs. Hoover were to go to Quaker services at the New Friends church.
At Winston-Salem, N. C., roving bands were detailed to awaken the citizens with traditional Easter chorals. At the old Moravian church at dawn crowds were to listen for the 20th time to "The Lord is Risen" and following it to the solemn religious chant, "The Lord is Risen Indeed."
Sunrise services on the west coast called many thousands to Al Fresco services at dawn, the crowds in San Francisco to climb Mount Davidson and assemble around a large cross.
Million Gather Early
Nearly a quarter million persons prepared for early gatherings in Southern California. The largest concentrations were slated for the Hollywood bowl, on Mount Rubidoux near Riverside and at Point Firmin on San Pedro bay. Farther south the restored mission at San Diego

Lawn Contest Will Be Based on Improvement

The first judging of Pampa homes in the Lions club's annual lawn contest will be early next month, Carson Loftus, member of the committee in charge said yesterday morning. An effort is being made to secure the services of the Amarillo forester to judge the lawns.
Registration may be made by calling Carson Loftus or Ralph Thomas. The contest is open to everyone in the city. Even the home without a sign of a lawn at the present time will have an equal chance to win the contest.
The first judging will be a survey to note the condition of the entries. The second judging, some time during the summer, will be to see the progress being made. The final judging will be in the fall and the winner will be selected according to the improvements made.
The contest will be divided into three sections:
1. Where the work is all done by the family.
2. Where the work is done by employed men but planned and supervised by the owner.
3. Where all the work is hired.

WEATHER

Oklahoma: Partly cloudy, probably showers in southeast portion colder Sunday; Monday fair.
WEST TEXAS: Generally fair, colder Sunday; Monday fair.

"MAMMY"

She didn't "walk a million miles," but Mrs. Al Tolson, wife of the black-face comedian and "mammy" singer, rode several thousand miles in arriving from the west coast. "This is the Missus" hopping off one of those "midnight choo-choos" at Los Angeles for a visit after the trip from New York.

FELONY CASES UP FOR TRIAL

Liquor Violations Numerous As Criminal Docket Is Ready in Court.

The first week of criminal court of the current term will open in 31st district court here tomorrow. District Attorney Raymond Allred announced yesterday that 13 felony cases are scheduled for trial this week. Most of them are indictments involving violation of the 18th amendment and related laws.
The following cases are set for trial this week:
George Johnson, liquor; James Morgan, negro, possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale; Cap Triplett, forgery; Mabry Geard, burglary; Clarence Davis, negro, possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale; George Richardson, burglary; Orval O'Hair, liquor; Edith Seabright, driving while intoxicated; Clyde Russell, driving while intoxicated; Finn Ingram, liquor; Lee Trimble, liquor; Mike Maladin, possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale.
Two murder trials that of Pat Fisher and J. C. Cozart, both negroes, are set for trial on April 18 and April 20, respectively.

I HEARD--

F. M. Gwin telling a friend that he knew where the lost Jew was—"He was looking for a place to park on Pampa's streets yesterday," the city manager remarked. And he wasn't far wrong. Anyone that found a parking place near the downtown section was lucky. Business is good in Pampa.
Joe Kahl and a fellow named Murphy talking in the bowling alley last night. After a few questions and answers the two men found out that they lived on the same street in Washington, Penn., and went to the same school. Murphy told Joe how he used to call at his dad's grocery store for free candy.
That Warren Cretney shot a par on the Red Deer golf course Friday.

CONVICTION ON FEE CHARGES

S. A. Christian of Hall County Gets Two Years in Extortion Case.

AUSTIN, March 26. (AP)—S. A. Christian, former sheriff of Hall county, was convicted today on a charge of extortion in connection with the collection of fees from the state while he was in office. A Travis county jury fixed his punishment at two years imprisonment. A motion for a new trial was filed.
Three Texas sheriffs previously had been convicted on similar charges. They were Woody Townsend of Bastrop county, given two years; Clint D. Lewis of Burleson county, three years, and N. L. Speer of Walker county, three years. Appeals to the court of criminal appeals were taken in each case.
Three other sheriffs and a former sheriff are awaiting trial on fee extortion charges. They are Sheriffs John J. Burtshell of Lee county, John H. Bigham of Bell county, and A. J. Remmert of Austin county, and former Sheriff H. H. Burns of Shelby county.
The indictment against Christian charged that he received $279 in fees from the state for arresting and transporting a prisoner from Galveston to Memphis, Hall county. The state contended the service was not performed.

Weather History Repeats Itself as Snow Falls Here

Large, wet snowflakes, falling in profusion last night, led The NWS's weather observer to recall that just such a beginning exactly a year ago marked the start of an 8 1/2-inch fall—the last of the season.
One year ago today there was a cold, wet snow falling, which continued through Monday. A hard north wind blew the white covering into drifts several feet high and seriously disrupted traffic. Melting, the snow filled curbs and made walking difficult downtown.
The snow was melting as it fell at 1 p. m., but the flakes were falling in increasing number. This month's weather has been remarkably like that of a year ago.

Woman Is Killed In Thugs' Battle

NEW YORK, March 26. (AP)—An innocent woman was killed today by gangsters' bullets that whizzed through Harlem in what police later called an attempt to kidnap a man. One of the men in the affray was accused of participating in the "baby killing" a few blocks away last summer.
This prisoner, Gerald Conroy, 30, a former convict, was charged with homicide in the police lineup and John Dempsey, 27, was charged with aiding and abetting the escape of Conroy, at whom police asserted the bullets were directed.
Conroy said he was going to Connie's Inn with a man named Billy Thomas, when three men poured more than thirty machine gun or revolver bullets from a blue sedan parked near the inn.
The bullets felled Mrs. Lula Willis, 46, a negro; wounded Conroy in the leg, and grazed the scalp of Frank Burch, 28, a former postal employe.

PERSISTENT DUTCH YOUTH TO WED SIMMONS BEAUTY, WHO WILL SAIL FOR THE HAGUE APRIL 13

ABILENE, March 26. (AP)—Simmons University of Abilene is losing its campus "beauty queen" and class favorite. Announcement from Bogalusa, La., home of Miss Carol Johnson, a senior in Simmons, says she will sail April 13 from New York for the Hague, there to marry a young Hollander, Dr. A. L. Van Assenderp.
Romance of the couple bloomed on the campus two months ago after the Dutch youth, a doctor of ideology from the University of Leiden, had traveled across the sea to this inland city to view the original of a portrait he carried about with him since 1930. The picture was of Miss Johnson, torn from the Sim-

EXULTANT FACES OF CHILDREN ELOQUENTLY PROVE SUCCESS OF KIWANIS EASTER EGG HUNT

THREE THOUSAND TAKE PART IN EVENT SATURDAY

EXTRA PRIZES ARE GIVEN

GRAND RUSH RESULTS WHEN SIGNAL IS SOUNDED

Happy smiles and the clamor of nearly three thousand children under 12 years of age for 12,000 colored eggs repaid the Pampa Kiwanis club for the trouble of holding the second annual—and far the largest—Easter egg hunt just north of the city Saturday.
From all the neighboring towns the came—all sizes, fat and skinny, blonds and brunets, husky boys and slight lads, tots with parents and waifs long unwashed—and mingled in childhood's gayest agent of the year.
The children started gathering on parking space just south of Harvester park soon after 1 o'clock. Many did not wait to be reminded of the event by Stine's orchestra, which paraded the streets then played at the park. By 2:30 o'clock, when Judge Newton P. Willis began his address of welcome and instruction, more than 1,000 cars were parked and the vast throng of children and adults awaited the signal.
Nearly every member of the Kiwanis club, the Boy Scouts, the junior police sponsored by the club, and sheriff's deputies, on horseback were directing the crowd and preserving a semblance of order in the crowd nervous with anticipation.
The section nearest the park was reserved for the tiny tots, and the rest of the young folk were taken to the northwest corner of what once was a golf course.
And then the signal!
The thousands of children stampeded in one grand rush and started across the land designated as rabbit-egg territory. The future harvesters elbowed competitors, as the section nearest the park was reserved for the tiny tots, and the rest of the young folk were taken to the northwest corner of what once was a golf course.

MAN ACCUSED IN BANK CASE

Suspect in Stinnett Looting Found in Oklahoma at Mother's Home.

BORGER, March 26.—H. C. Holder, 37, a workman, was returned here late today from McLeod, Okla., and charged with participation in the looting of the First State bank at Stinnett on March 15. He waived extradition for two Hutchinson county deputies who traced him to his mother's home in the Oklahoma town.
Robbery with firearms was the charge against Holder. He had $420 on him when arrested today, according to Sheriff Jim Crane. A Borger man now in the county jail at Stinnett will be charged in the bank robbery. This man was arrested Monday at Nara, Wis. N. M., on some old indictment warrants. Sheriff Crane expected a third arrest within a few days. Thus far no money has been found that has been positively identified as coming from the Stinnett bank.
Two unshaven, unmasked and ragged men strolled in and escaped after taking the money and locking seven persons in a vault.

Train Robbers Stage Offense in Oldtime Manner

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26. (AP)—Two armed bandits who boarded the train at San Francisco held up the Southern Pacific company's Lark, bound for Los Angeles, at the boundary of the yard here tonight, forced passengers riding in the lounge car to give up their valuables and then leaped from the train.
Officials of the Southern Pacific said the holdup was completed while the train was in motion and that one of the bandits leaped from the lounge car at Bayshore tunnel, only a few miles south of the San Francisco yard limits. The other man was believed to have left the train after it entered the tunnel, they said.
The amount of loot obtained in the holdup was not known.

MAN HURT IN DUEL

EL PASO, March 26. (AP)—Miss Belle Look of El Paso, Alejandro Ravas, 40, former special Mexican officer, and four Juarez children were recovering today from wounds received in a pistol duel in Juarez, Mexico, late last night.
A bullet shattered Miss Look's lip.

ANGRY MAN TURNS KILLER

CAMBAY, Minn., March 26. (AP)—Angry by a family quarrel, Melvin Simonsen, 28, tonight shot and killed his one-year old son and his father-in-law, James Winters, and wounded Mrs. Winters and Carl Meyer, a friend, the former critical. Simonsen then fled. The quarrel was precipitated when Simonsen after whipping the baby because it cried, was ordered from the house by Winters. Instead Simonsen went upstairs, and got a pistol.

STUDENTS ARE TURNED BACK

Will Not Be Allowed to Inspect the Coal Fields of Bloody Kentucky.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., March 26. (AP)—The second "student invasion" of Kentucky coal fields was repulsed today and sent back into Tennessee to join the group routed last night.
While the first bus load of Eastern collegians had come boldly through historical Cumberland gap at twilight yesterday, been examined and ejected, today's group tried to slip in unheralded at Fonde ten miles west.
The "border patrol", led by county Attorney Walter B. Smith of Bell county, had been tipped by friendly Tennessee officers, however, and raced to Fonde in light cars before the lumbering bus reached there. Nearly 100 automobiles carrying Bell county speculators trailed the officers.
Smith did not ask members of today's group to make $1,000 peace bonds as he had done with last night's group, but simply told them, "We know you cannot furnish bonds, so you just leave the state." He questioned some of them as to any communistic antecedents, but got few replies.

ACCUSED MAN SURRENDERS

Joseph Melinger, Accused in Owings Murder, Hides Following Shooting.

BORGER, March 26. (AP)—Joseph Melinger, charged with murder for the shooting of Roy Owings, employe of an automobile concern, on the highway near Borger Tuesday night, surrendered today.
He told Ben H. Stokes, whom he met near Amarillo that he had been hiding in the hills since the killing. He had been without food. Stokes brought him to Borger.
Stokes quoted Melinger as saying Owings and another man stopped him on the highway. He thought they were robbers and fired at Owings. He said he fled because he was "rattled."
Owings and the other man, who was a representative of a finance concern, stopped Melinger to discuss repossessing an automobile, officers were told.

Transient Tells of Attacking and Murdering Co-Ed

EL DORADO, Ark., March 26. (AP)—A confession that the miss Ruth Youngblood, 19, Magnolia A. & M. college student, in front of a train last night after attacking her and striking her over the head with a rock, was obtained today, police said, from a man whom they arrested after finding the girl's purse in a box car.
Chief of Police W. C. Cross quoted Eddington as saying he saw Miss Youngblood sauntering along the tracks near the spot where had made a camp fire. He accosted her, he said, and when she resisted he threw her into a box car and attacked her. Hearing a train approaching, Eddington said he hit the girl with a rock and hurled her onto the track.
She was waiting here for a train to Little Rock when she encountered Eddington.
Bruce L. Parker is recovering from an attack of influenza.

Cron Loans Will Be Radio Subject

On next Monday, March 28, thousands of Texas farmers will have an opportunity to hear an authoritative explanation of the provisions covering crop production loans, and just how these loans may be obtained. At 12:10 p. m. on that date, Owen W. Sherrill, regional manager of the farmers' seed loan office, Dallas, which handles loans for Texas, Arizona, and New Mexico, will broadcast an address over station WFAA.

CITY POLITICS GROWING WARM AS CITY ELECTION APPROACHES WITH SIX MEN FOR COMMISSION

Local politics, long simmering, will enjoy a revival of interest this week as preparations for the municipal election of April 5 are made. The candidates in the race are: For mayor, W. A. Bratton and E. E. Reynolds.
For commissioner No. 1, Clyde Fatheree and W. C. de Cordova.
For commissioner No. 2, Robert Woodward and R. Earl O'Keefe.
Backed by the Citizens League are Reynolds, De Cordova, and Woodward. The other candidates, while without organized sponsors, will have the active backing of large groups of business men and other citizens. Both tickets will be supported by scores of active workers this week. The non-partisan Junior chamber of commerce will have a get-out-the-vote drive as part of a national campaign.
Much of the interest in the election-cooled with the resignation of City Manager F. M. Gwin, and an announcement of all candidates that, in view of differences of opinion, they did not intend to re-employ him.
County politics during the week produced the candidacy of Judge S. D. Stennis for re-election, but nothing more.

"HERB"

He is C. Herbert Walker to most people, but to Pampa Lions he is just President "Herb." And the Lions are backing Mr. Walker for governor of the "T" or West Texas district of the organization.

Officers To Be Chosen By Road Group Tomorrow

Election of officers for the Texas organization of the Highway 60 association will take place at a meeting here tomorrow. The representatives from towns through which the highway passes will gather at the chamber of commerce at 11 o'clock. Lu Swan will be served at the First Presbyterian church.
Delegates to the association meeting in Phoenix, Ariz., April 25 and 26 will be selected. Reports from each county through which the highway passes will be heard. The plans of Deaf Smith and Parmer counties regarding hard surfacing will be told. These two counties are the only ones in the Panhandle that have no paving or that have not voted bonds to pave.
W. M. Williams of Amarillo is the president and George W. Briggs secretary. F. P. Reid is a director from Gray county.

BUFFALOES SOLD

NEWKIRK, Okla., March 26. (AP)—Buffalo, livestock and equipment of the famous "101 ranch" were in the hands of new owners tonight as the receiver for the ranch ended a two and a half day auction sale. Auctioneers estimated the sale had brought no more than $25,000. Representatives of Fred C. Clark, receiver, said they had sold everything they desired to offer now.

ROUT HALTED AS INSURGENT LEADERS HELP

COALITION ADOPTS OIL IMPORT LEVY ON SATURDAY

DEMOCRATS ADD EXCISES

REP. CRISP MOURNS AS PARTY ADDS HIGH DUTIES

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP)—Impotent in their desperate efforts to stop a wild stampede in the house, party leaders were rescued today from complete rout by the instigators of the bi-partisan revolt against the revenue bill.
After a tax had been voted on coal imports, the leaders fought with threats and pleas to stem a flood of tariff proposals. Only when their own chiefs turned to aid the bill's struggling proponents did the sales tax coalition stop the rampage and vote for excise levies carried in the bill.
The house then voted finally, 185 to 14, for the section proposed by acting Chairman Crisp of the ways and means committee including levies on imported lubricating oil, malt, wort, grape concentrates and a coal amendment, expected to yield a total of $83,000,000 in revenue.
Stop in Mid-Afternoon
Although the hot temper of the membership seemed to have abated as the house convened, it flashed anew when the sponsors of the one-cent a gallon tax on oil imports threw their full force behind the amendment offered by Representative Boland (D., Pa.) of a tenths a hundred pounds levy on imported coal and coke. It was adopted, 113 to 67.
Representative Parsons (D., Ill.) offered an amendment for a tax on imported flour and it appeared that it would be adopted. Crisp went to the well of the chamber obviously under great emotion.
"Sad Day For Me"
"This is a sad day for me," he said. "I love my country and I have endeavored to serve her. I also love my party and today I am seeing my party destroy itself.
"I am witnessing my party put on higher tariff rates than even the republicans put on, putting on

I SAW--

The largest Saturday afternoon crowd of the last year in Pampa yesterday. For two hours cars waiting on the signal light stretched from the Foster intersection on Cuyler to Kingsmill. Many of the cars brought children from out of town communities to the Kiwanis Easter egg hunt.
The ditch on south Barnes near where J. H. Blythe used to live where my car was snowed in a year ago last night when the worst blizzard of 1931 struck Pampa: A year ago today there was five feet of snow on some of the leading Pampa streets. The city graders worked all day moving snow off the streets.

New Demands

Easter—the time for discarding the "red woollens" and donning gay new costumes—has arrived. Easter means the real beginning of golf, tennis, picnics, spring gardens, everything that suggests out-of-doors. But spring brings new demands on every woman. She must give added care to her complexion if she would have it remain lovely despite the hard winds and warm sun. She must change the type of menus served. She must change her methods of entertaining. And Pampa merchants are prepared to do their part.

Interesting News!

Miss Helen Waldow, special representative of Richard Hudnut (New York and Paris) and well-known beauty specialist will be at FATHEREE DRUG NO. 4 from March 31 to April 2. Miss Waldow will tell of the exquisite and effective Du Barry beauty treatments—by the new home method. Be sure to go in and learn of the lovely things that the Du Barry treatments will do for your skin.

If your popularity, your social position, and the esteem of others depended entirely upon the texture of your skin, what would your standing be?

The fact is that these things DO depend upon personal appearance more than we are willing to admit. People judge your culture—or lack of it—by whether your skin is smooth and velvety or whether it is covered with blackheads or enlarged pores. To be beautiful takes more than an occasional visit to the beauty parlor. It takes "the beauty habit."

Don't fail to meet Miss Waldow.

An Inspiration

After hearing talks of depression for so many months, it is a real inspiration to visit HELPY-SELFY. That's one store where everything is buzzing. There are no idle clerks at Helpy-Selfy. They have to be busy to accommodate all the customers.

Is such good business just accident or luck? It is not. It is the result of real merit. There is no misrepresentation of products at Helpy-Selfy and for every dollar you spend you will get a full dollar's worth of high grade, fresh merchandise. Prices are the lowest available for the same quality of groceries. And the courtesy on the part of I. Baum and his employes makes buying a real pleasure.

Safety—Comfort, Too

Springtime is playtime. Picnics, fishing trips, and week-end pleasure tours are finding huge popularity these sunny days. A woman always protects her family against minor discomforts of spring. There is a lotion for sunburn, a medicine for insect bites, a first-aid kit to help heal the deep scratch or cut.

BUT... there is danger far greater than sunburn, bites, or cuts. A pleasure trip may be turned into unspeakable tragedy if worn-out tires are used. Be wise by demanding tires you KNOW will not have blow-outs. Insist on JUMBO, the new streamline GENERAL tire.

Just imagine—riding on 12 pounds of air! The tire is wider at the base than at the top, making possible such low air pressure that the car fairly floats over a road.

Clip This Item

Love has a way of making your loved one's likeness, as captured by a skilled photographer, far more precious than the most expensive gift. It is Pampa's good fortune to have a new photographer, one who has had a long and successful career. Mr. Wirsching is more than a photographer. He is a photographic artist. It is that artistic effect that will make your photograph interesting to everyone who sees it.

Mr. Wirsching, as an introductory offer, has promised to give 1-2 dozen of his $8 photos and a beautiful 8x10 gold tone in folder, hand painted in colors for only $3.98. There is only one other requirement—you must take with you this write-up. Without this clipping the work would cost $9. Clip it out today and take it to Wirsching's studio, 119 West Foster.

Real News Here

PAMPA OFFICE SUPPLY store is announcing two new departments of special interest to women.

First there is the party department. You can now buy tallies, score pads, and favors of all kinds. Complete party accessories for both children and grown-ups now can be obtained at prices any hostess can afford.

The other department is a rental library, which will be a real cultural asset to Pampa. The very latest fiction can be had from this library at a charge that is inconsequential.

In this library, 70 books already have been placed. But this is merely a starter. Continual growth is in store for the library.

"Evening in Russia" Is Planned for More Than One Hundred Here

CIVIC LEADERS TO BE GUESTS TUESDAY NIGHT

NATIVE RUSSIAN WILL SPEAK; SURPRISES ARRANGED

Termed "an evening in Russia," the public relations banquet to be sponsored next Tuesday evening by the Business and Professional Women's club, will be both beautiful and highly instructive. The banquet will be held at the Schneider hotel.

Between 100 and 125 persons will be present. All guests are representatives of service clubs, civic organizations, or city officials of Pampa. It is designed to bring together representatives of all local forces working for civic advancement.

Mrs. Sam Kruger, a native Russian woman now living in Wichita Falls, will be guest of honor and principal speaker. She will tell of the conditions in Russia today and will give her opinion of the 5-year plan.

A clever Russian program has been arranged but is being kept as a surprise for the guests. Numerous articles brought from Russia will be on display.

Mrs. Glen Pool, general chairman of the undertaking, is assisted in preparations by a number of other club women.

Easter Hunt Is Gay Event for School Pupils

Every child in Merten school as well as younger children of the district were invited to the Easter egg hunt given by the Merten Parent-Teacher association Friday afternoon at the school.

The children were divided into two groups, the first and second grades hunting in one group and the third and fourth grades in another. Among the younger children, Emory Hall, who found the largest number of eggs, was awarded a prize. He found 21 eggs. The first prize among the older children went to Ralph Barnett, who found 18 eggs.

Libraries Are Improved Through Efforts of Club Women; County Federations Doing Welfare Work

CANYON, March 26.—The Federated clubs of Childress, Clarendon, Hall and Castro counties are all particularly interested in the building up of libraries according to the reports made during last week when these clubs were visited by Mrs. J. A. Hill, district president, Mrs. Clyde W. Warwick, secretary, and other district officers.

At Clarendon where there are but two Federated clubs, the women are working to secure a county library. Clarendon has long had a reputation for its interest in good citizenship and these clubs are carrying on the tradition this year by emphasizing good citizenship through the events suggested by the Washington bicentennial. When the district officers visited Clarendon a number of Quaitake club women came over for the day.

Mrs. H. T. Burton of Clarendon is chairman of the Motion Picture Division for the district and is helping clubs sponsor pictures of high quality.

In Hall county instead of the usual County Federated organization, the clubs have what is called the City Women's Council made up of five federated clubs. From these clubs come two district chairmen, Mrs. R. L. Madden, chairman of the Bible literature, Miss Edna Bryan, chairman of international relations. Miss Bryan will preside at a luncheon at the district meeting at Canadian April 26, 27, and 28.

In Collingsworth county, there is a federation of clubs known as the Wellington City Federation. There are six clubs, five of which are identified with the State. This City Federation, which is headed by Mrs. W. Y. Burden, maintains a loan fund which is used to help people whose circumstance make it impossible for them to secure funds from the usual sources and who do not wish to accept charity.

A new county court house has recently been erected at Wellington and some walnut ballustrades from the old court house stairways were used to make some gavel. One of these was sent to John Garner, speaker of the United States House of Representatives. One was presented to Mrs. J. A. Hill, a third will be placed in the museum of the Pampas-Borger Historical society. Mrs. Glen Templeton presented the gavel to the district president in a beautiful way.

Mrs. Templeton's father, Mr. Small, her husband, Judge R. L. Templeton, and her brother, Senator C. C. Small, have all been officers of Collingsworth county.

Childrens has a unique club organization known as the Childress Department club, made up of 16 women's clubs and 10 girls' clubs. Eleven of these are federated clubs. A large part of the remainder are home demonstration clubs which altogether have 380 members.

The Childrens Department club has relieved the suffering of many unemployed by furnishing food and bedding during the winter for unemployed transients.

Tree planting as a feature of the George Washington bicentennial program is being emphasized by this club.

Children of the first grade at Woodrow Wilson school presented a program in observation of the George Washington bicentennial.

Mrs. R. E. Koiner's room presented a flag drill and a song, "Our Flag." Other numbers included: Reading, "Which General?" A J. Southerland.

Reading, "Something Better," Margie Hill.

Rhythm band, "Klapp Danzen," pupils of the two first grades.

Songs, "America," and "Soldiers March," pupils of Miss Willena May's room.

Reading, "The Minuet," Shirley Jeanne Haupton.

CHURCH SERVICES for EASTER DAY

Local A. A. U. W. To Consider Constitutional Change at Next Meeting

LARGE CROWDS EXPECTED TO ASSEMBLE AT ALL CHURCHES THIS MORNING AND EVENING

SPECIAL SERMONS ARE TO BE PREACHED ON RESURRECTION

Not less than three thousand persons (and the number may far exceed that mark) are expected to gather in the various churches of Pampa for special Easter services this morning, and the same or an even larger crowd also will be much larger than usual because of the observance of Easter.

Reports by the various ministers on today's services have been made as follows:

ST. MATTHEWS EPISCOPAL Church school, 9:45 a. m.
Easter service at 11 a. m. to include holy baptism, sermon, and communion.
Corporate communion for the women's auxiliary and presentation of the "blue boxes" will take place Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the new parish house.
Newton C. Smith, rector

HOLY SOULS CHURCH
This morning the masses will be held at the usual time, 8 and 10 o'clock. There will also be simple distribution of communion at 7 o'clock for the benefit of those unable to receive at the 8 o'clock service and return in time for the later mass. The choir has rehearsed earnestly for this mass.

NAZARENE CHURCH
The Nazarene church will begin a revival today with the pastor L. H. Clegg, doing the preaching. John Gray from Amarillo will have charge of the singing and Mrs. Beulah La Prade will be pianist. There will also be other instrumental music. Welcome, one and all. Sunday school will be held at 9:45.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

The B. T. S. training school will open Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock and continue through Friday.
Two 45-minute classes will be held each evening, with an intermission of 20 minutes, making the time for dismissing 9:20 o'clock. Books suitable to every member of the church will be offered.
Mary Burks, educational Director

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Corner Kingsmill & West Streets
Services begin today with teachers and officers present at 9:30. Sunday school meeting by classes and departments at 10:15. The orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. J. T. Morrow, will play for the closing assembly from 10:50 to 11. At the worship service at 11 the pastor will bring an Easter message, and the choir under the direction of Miss Loma Groom a special Easter anthem, with Mrs. T. E. Rose at the piano. Training service will begin promptly at 6:30 and baptismal service at 7:15. An evangelistic service will follow at 7:45.
A revival spirit has grown throughout the week, and attendance and interest, with eighteen decisions.
Loma Groom, secretary

THE BUSINESS MEN'S BIBLE CLASS
The Men's Bible class will meet at 9:45 at the LaNora Theater with an appropriate program for the season. Men not in a Bible class are welcome.

FIRST METHODIST
Sunday school at 9:45, Philip Wolfe, Supt. At the Sunday school hour there will be given a special Easter program with representatives from all departments of the church. We especially invite visitors to this service.
At 11 o'clock the pastor will bring an Easter message. A large congregation is expected at this service. We invite all those who have laid loved ones tenderly away to share the hope that Easter brings. This hope will feature the morning service.
At the evening hour, 8 o'clock, the choir will render an Easter

THEY KNOW NOT

"Come down from the cross O Christ," they cried;
"No man is 'Son of God' who with a thief in shame hast died,
And Calvary hast trod!
No man is 'Son of God' who bleeds Forsaken, and alone;
Show us thyself in kindly deeds,
And on a kindly throne;
No answer?—yes! one loving cry;
Piercing a whole world through;
"Father forgive them—though I die—
They know not what they do!"
They did not know the Christ they scorn!
Would claim a kindly part;
And, where the flower of faith is born,
Reign in each loving heart!
They did not know that life's impaled
In triumph on a cross;
They did not know that truth is nailed
To grief, and pain, and loss!
They did not know a world is saved
Through blood, and strife, and tears;
And that the name of Christ is graved
On the eternal years!

Mrs. Baker Has Party for Club

Table covers in pastel tints gave added beauty to a party in the home of Mrs. Jack Baker for members of the Linger Longer Bridge club Thursday afternoon. Score pads were in an Easter lily design.
Yellow and white were the colors featured in the angel food cake, ice cream, and orange punch served at the close of the afternoon.
Mrs. E. P. Hollingshead won high score in the games. Others attending were Mesdames Hollis Rabb, Sam Ray, Jimmie Hopkins, Raymond Brunley, Jack Baker, and two guests, Mrs. R. B. Fagans and Mrs. R. A. Eaton.

WILL OBSERVE EASTER

ROME, March 27 (AP)—Thousands will congregate in the immense basilica of St. Peter's at Vatican City tomorrow for Easter day mass.
Cardinal Pacelli, high priest, will conduct the ceremonies, which will centralize the Roman Catholic world's expression of joy for the resurrection of Christ.
The procession of the three Marys depicting the visit of the Virgin Mary, Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James, to Christ's tomb after the resurrection will be held here in the afternoon.

WEBB'S PARENTS HERE

F. W. O'Malley, minister

Many To Honor Risen Lord

In the end of the Sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went to see the sepulchre.
And behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.
His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow:
And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.
And the angel answered and said unto the women.
Fear ye not: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.
He is not here, for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where he lay.
And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and behold he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.
And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word.
And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet and worshipped him.—Matt. 28:1-9.

COLLEGE CLUB MEMBERS MAY BE EXCLUDED

THOSE NOW BELONGING MAY REMAIN AS ASSOCIATES

The luncheon of the Pampa Branch of the A. A. U. W. and College club will be postponed until April 9 on account of the interscholastic League meet which will be held in LeFors on April 3.
This will be an unusually important meeting since in addition to the attractive program there will be the annual spring business meet.

The nomination committee, of which Mrs. C. W. Stowell is chairman, is ready to submit the names of the officers and committee chairmen for the coming year.
An important change in the club constitution will also be brought before the members. This proposed change pertains to the status of College club members. In order to comply with the National A. A. U. W. ruling all present College club members will be accepted as associate A. A. U. W. members on the payment of state dues. Anyone who drops out, however, will not be reinstated as no new College club members will be accepted by the branch if these amendments carry. Every member of the club should be present at the meeting to hear this proposal fully explained before it is voted upon.

The calendar of the local branch for April and May is a full one. Invitations are being mailed for the annual spring dance for the benefit of the scholarship fund, which will be given at the Schneider hotel on April 7. Members who have not received their invitations are asked to notify Mrs. Arthur M. Teed, phone 87-W. As this is the first Joe Norman dance after the Lenten season, a large crowd is expected.
On April 12 Mrs. Harry Marbaugh's division of the scholarship committee will sponsor an elaborate Japanese bridge festival at the Schneider hotel. Miss Kathryn Vincent and Mrs. Earl O'Keefe will announce the plans of their division soon.

Winsome Class Meets to Pray

The Winsome class of the First Baptist church met Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock for a special prayer service before church. Then all attended church in a body.
Those present were Mesdames Paul Crossman, A. D. Bourland, Allen Williams, H. N. Clay, W. E. Jordan, N. B. Cota, V. A. Howell, Nolan Hawkins, M. F. Potts, H. H. Threatt, Gustly Kelley, Hedges, and the teacher, Mrs. T. F. Morton.

Mrs. F. L. Hill Is Visiting in City

Mrs. F. L. Hill, formerly of Pampa but now living in Waco, is spending a few days with her friends in this city. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. V. A. Hargett of Dallas, and the latter's little daughter, Clara Jean. They arrived here Friday night.
Mrs. Hill's sister, Mrs. C. E. Slaton of Lubbock, and Mr. Slaton are expected to spend today in Pampa.

Church, School, and Home Given Responsibility

Responsibility for a child's ethical character rests in about equal proportion on the home, the church, and the school, according to the opinion of Principal O. L. Mize of the LeFors Parent-Teacher association Thursday evening.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. G. O. Caruth, with Mrs. E. Bacchus acting as secretary. Led by Mr. Mize, the assembly sang "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and Mr. Graves led in prayer. Miss Miller's room was announced as winner of a half-holiday, the reward for having the largest number of parents present. Miss Mattison's room had the second largest attendance and was presented a picture.

Supt. E. G. Sanders, Miriam Wilson, and Mrs. J. C. Williams were appointed as a nominating committee.

A well-rendered program proceeded as follows: Violin solo, Doyle Auld; playlet, "Mother's Remembrance of Her Dancing Days," a group of pupils who gave graceful waltzes, scottishes, and square dances; song, "Old Black Joe," and a clog dance, a group of negroes;

FIFTY-TWO ARE GUESTS AT GAY MUSICAL EVENING

Fifty-two persons gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Haney for a musicale Friday evening. The event was strictly informal in nature, and there were several musical instruments in addition to the piano.
Familiar popular, religious, and folk songs were enjoyed throughout the evening, and instrumental solos were played.
Some of the guests played forty-two and other games.

Baby Boy Is Born to Former Pampan

Telegraphic report was received by Mrs. V. E. Fatheree yesterday morning telling of the birth of a 7 3/4 pound boy to Mr. and Mrs. John O. Harris.
Mrs. Harris is the former Miss Addie Lee Smith, who taught Spanish and English in the Pampa high school for five years.
vicin solo, William Roach; talk on ethical character; Principal Mize, piano duet, Ellen Keough and Joe Gourley Jr.; two skiffull drills by Miss Miller's pupils, the boys wearing white suits and the girls in dainty dresses.
Officers will be elected at the next meeting, which will be held April 14 at 8 o'clock.

PAMPA SCHOOL TEAMS DO WELL AT LEAGUE CONTESTS

BALL PLAYERS WIN CUP WITH THIRD VICTORY

FINALS WILL BE NEXT TUESDAY AT LEFORS

Pampa teams got away to a good start in the Gray county Inter-scholastic meet in LeFors yesterday, the boys' singles tennis player, the junior playground baseball team from the high school, and the junior high volleyball teams were the only entries eliminated.

Finals will be played Tuesday afternoon.

The junior high playground ball team coached by W. B. Weather, led won the cup for the second consecutive year by winning three straight games. The nine scored 62 runs to their opponents' 10. They started the day by defeating Hopkins 29 to 2. The next team to fall was the McLean junior high by a score of 13 to 3. The locals won the cup with a 20 to 5 win over the McLean grammar school. Steve Goodwin is captain of the team.

The girls' team from junior high defeated Alnreed and then drew a bye to go into the finals Tuesday. The team from the high school won over Eldridge and then defeated LeFors to enter the finals with McLean.

McLean Wins
Coach Harry Kealey's boys from the high school failed to get a player on first base as McLean won 7 to 0. The McLean hurler pitched a no-run, no-hit game, did not walk a player, and there were no errors behind him. McLean scored all her runs in the second inning. The game was played in the record time of 22 minutes. McLean then defeated LeFors 22 to 0 in another errorless game.

Brown and Kitchens, Pampa's doubles tennis team, defeated the McLean entry in sets of 6-0, 6-0 and will meet LeFors Tuesday in the finals. Schofield in the singles fell before the Alnreed entry 4.6, 4-6.

Girls in Victory
Louise Walstad and Eura Rose had little difficulty defeating LeFors 6-3, 6-0 and will meet McLean in the finals. Mable Coleman defeated her opponent from LeFors 6-0, 6-0 and will meet McLean in the finals.

The girls' volleyball team from the high school went into the finals with LeFors last night. The team is coached by Prof. J. L. Lester. A win over LeFors would give Pampa the cup, the team having won the last two years.

Seven automobiles and six school trucks took the 200 students and coaches to LeFors—where nearly 1,000 students and Gray county schools competed in various events, athletic and literary.

The senior track and field meet will be held next Saturday at LeFors.

Amarillo Golf Team Is Winner

Wind and rain failed to stop the Amarillo high school golf team yesterday afternoon in a game with a team from Pampa high school on the municipal course. The Amarillo boys won eight out of the ten matches. Parks Brumley and Ray McNeil were the only Pampans to come out victorious.

It took McNeil 19 holes to defeat his opponent. Brumley won his match 1 up. A return match will be played here soon. The Pampa boys have had very little practice, but will devote the next few weeks to it.

Johnnie Mann shot a 75 to turn in low score. The Amarillo youth ranking No. 1 caddy and number 1 player on the high school squad.

Gar Wood Now Is Speed Boat Champ

DETROIT, March 26. (P)—Gar Wood, Detroit speedboat wizard, is now officially the world's powerboat champion. Wood was received by the Yachtmen's association of America here today his speed of 111.712 miles per hour on Indian river, Miami Beach, Fla., February 5, has been accepted by the International Motor Yachting union as a world's record.

The previous mark was 110.223 miles per hour, made by Kaye Don, English speed king, with his Miss England II on lake Garda, Italy, last July.

TILDEN STILL WINS

HOUSTON, March 26. (P)—Before packed stands at the River Oaks country club here today, Bill Tilden, world's professional tennis champion, trounced Hanz Nusslein, German professional titleholder, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2. Roman Najuch, German pro, beat Bruce Barnes, former Texas university star 6-1, 3-6, 7-5. Both are members of Tilden's Coupe. In the doubles, Tilden and Barnes beat Nusslein and Najuch, 6-4, 6-2.

JACKIE FIELDS SIGNS

BOSTON, March 26. (P)—Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, today agreed to take on Leslie Baker, remaining Watertown slugger, in the Boston garden's 10-round feature next Friday night. This contest, a non-title affair, replaces the Maxie Rosenbloom-Adolph Heuser bout which cancelled several days ago when Heuser injured his ear in a gymnasium.

Spees Is Winner In Rifle Shoot

Alden E. Spees won the oil and grease kit donated by the Thompson Hardware company in the Pampa Rifle club's shoot in the Brown building Friday night. Mr. Spees shot a score of 246 out of a possible 300 at 75 feet. V. Hobart won the cash prize with a score of 242 points.

The next match will be tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Two more prizes will be given for high scores. Eight men shot Friday night.

This Game of GOLF

By O. B. KEELER

Denny Shute, who used to be Densmore Shute in the days when his name was prefixed by "Mr." in the open tournaments, got into the winter tournament spin a bit late, but in the last few weeks he has been making up for lost time.

With half as many medal rounds in the book as Sarazen and a third as many as Harry Cooper, Denny at the last available reports was leading the list in medal averages—his figure was just under an average of 72; to be exact, 71 12-13, for 13 rounds.

Horton Smith, with an average based on the two rounds played before his accident, was leading with 71 1/2, but, as in baseball batting averages, the actual leader really has to show sufficient reliability over a properly long route.

Shute, runner-up in the national professional championship last year, is far ahead of Tom Creavy, his conqueror. Tom had played in about half as many medal rounds as Denny, and his average was exactly 75 strokes, his best round, of 73, being more than a stroke worse than Denny's average.

Burke Spurts

Billie Burke, the national open champion, played well in the Florida West Coast open, and with a score of 288, or an average of 72, he worked his average up from about 20th to 10th place, and brought his grand average for 15 rounds down close to 72.

Willie Macfarlane, playing more golf than usual this winter, brought five consecutive medal rounds together in a spurt which left him after the St. Petersburg affair, just under 73 for 17 rounds and ahead of Sir Walter Hagen's 27-round average of 73 -19 strokes. Sir Walter has not been winning tournaments, but he has been playing consistently better golf, or at least better scoring golf than ever before in the winter season.

To cards of 69 and 67 in the Gasparilla open match-play tournament, Willie added three more scores in the sum of 209 in winning the 54-hole medal competition at St. Pete, immediately following. This is an average of exactly 69 strokes a round, and shows that Willie's average came down in the totals and up in the list of scorers.

Wiffy Has Best Round
Wiffy Cox, who has played 31 rounds with an average of 73 7-10 strokes, has turned in the lowest single round to this writing; a 66 at Palma Cels in the qualifying round of the Gasparilla affair, for a course record.

Shute, Cooper, Macfarlane, Clarence Clark, who replaced Shute on account of the latter's injured foot in the international fourball matches at Miami; Ray Mangrum and Dick Metz, all have done at least one 67 apiece.

The newest new ball seems to suit everybody. At least I have not heard one howl about it. And if a ball does not suit a golfer, he usually howls a bit.

Tennis Squad Is Not Yet Certain

NEW YORK, March 26. (P)—All reports to the contrary, the United States lawn tennis association insists it has not yet decided what players will represent this country in Davis cup warfare this summer, either in the American zone play or in Europe.

While it is the prevailing opinion that Ellsworth Vines, Jr., and Frank Shields are certain to be delegated to play the singles and George Lott Jr., and Johnny Van Ryn the doubles when the going gets rough, the tennis fathers at a meeting here this week end declared there still is a wide-open race for places on the team.

Bernon S. Prentice of New York, chairman of the selection committee of seven, declared time and playing form alone would sway the committee.

POISONED GRAIN READY

County Agent Ralph R. Thomas has a supply of poisoned grain ready for distribution to farmers at 5 cents per pound. Results obtained from poisoning prairie dogs here have been excellent. J. M. Hill Jr., of the U. S. Department of agriculture, is here to assist in the eradication of rodents. The grain will kill all types of rodents.

TEXAS LONGHORNS STRONG IN BEATING ABILENE WILDCATS

But A. C. C. Sprinters Beat Rivals in Relay When Gray Bests Schiller.

AUSTIN, March 26. (P)—Showing unexpected strength, the University of Texas track team overwhelmed the Abilene Christian college Wildcats in a dual meet at Texas Memorial stadium today, 81-41. The Longhorns took ten first places to six from Coach Eddie Weems' boys from Abilene.

Ed Myer, blond Texas sprinter, captured first in the hundred and two-twenty, and ran anchor on the winning 440-yard relay team to earn high scoring honors. Myer's best time was in the 220 which he stepped in 21.2 seconds.

The feature race was the mile relay, with Bulldog Gray of A. C. C. nosing out Adolph Schiller of Texas in the final lap. The time was 3:21.9.

Wichita Falls Defeats Frogs in Tight Contest

WICHITA FALLS, March 26. (P)—Slim Kinsey, ace of the Texas Christian University staff, pitched four perfect innings against the Spudders here today, but they came after six runs had been scored off his delivery in the first four, and the Texas leaguers won by a score of 6 to 3.

The Frogs could not hit successfully the offerings of Tom Conlan and Rebel Bryan, but managed to score three runs with the aid of glaring misplays in the Wichita outfield.

Ollie Bejma, Wichita Falls second baseman, produced the longest wallop of the day, a home run over the center field fence with one on in the fourth for the last hit off Kinsey.

OLIVER HITS WELL
MACON, Ga., March 26. (P)—Tom Oliver banged out three doubles as the Boston Red Sox overwhelmed Hartford by a 10 to 1 score today in the Eastern Leaguers' training diamond.

TIGERS BUNCH HITS
LOS ANGELES, March 26. (P)—The Detroit Tigers bunched nine hits off Steve Swetonic and downed the Pittsburgh Pirates today, 6 to 4.

FACULTY ACTION DELAYED
PORT WORTH, March 26. (P)—No action will be taken by the faculty committee of Texas Christian university on the petition of Adolph Dietzel for reinstatement until Monday night at the earliest. It was indicated here tonight. Several members of the committee are out of town because of the Easter holidays.

Governor Inspects Davis Scenic Highway

Here is shown Governor Ross Sterling on a trip with other state officers in West Texas, inspecting the work on the 75-mile Davis Mountains State park highway, which will traverse a vast recreational area 6,000 feet above the sea level in the Big Bend country. "We are building a playground in the mountains of West Texas that will be second to none," said Sterling. He is shown on the right, standing with a highway employee on one of the steam shovels used to build the road.

BETTER BALL DISPLAYED IN GAME FRIDAY

CAPTAIN KAHL LEADS WAY TO 19 TO 6 VICTORY

A much improved bunch of football players handed fans a thrill Friday afternoon at Harvester Park when Captain Joe Kahl's little backfield and big line defeated Captain Jim Pool's big backfield and little line, 19 to 6. The game developed into a battle of captains with Kahl spilling Pool and Pool spilling Kahl.

The Harvesters may not have a world-beater of a football team next season but they won't have to take a back seat to any eleven in the state if practice games mean anything. The Harvesters have plenty of material from which to select a team. Coaches Odus Mitchell and Argus Fox are satisfied.

Sam Turner tore through the line for the first Mitchell touchdown in the first quarter. Kahl tossed a pass to Turner for the extra point. It was Kahl who sidestepped and squirmed his way through for the second quarter in the second quarter. The third touchdown also went to the Mitchellmen in the third quarter when Lloyd Hamilton bucked the line for a counter. Jack Benton skirted end for the Foxmen's six points after Pool, Walker and Ledrick had carried the ball close. Ed Robinson and Preston Owens gave a good account of themselves.

Linemen are Backs

Three former linemen played in the backfield of the Fox squad and every one of them showed up well. Captain Pool hit the line hard but it was his vicious tackling that stood out. Rufus Walker probably has more power than any man on the team and with a little form would be hard to stop. Gerdis Schmidt, the other man in a new position, played the short position well and blocked sensationally. H. L. Ledrick was the fourth man in the backfield and his heavy work, ball carrying and blocking could not be improved. Ledrick is "there."

Captain Kahl starred for the Mitchell eleven. His side stepping and speed were dazzling, while his tackling was greater than ever. Dick Sullins did most of the blocking and did it well. He also took the ball

LOOKS FAIRLY GOOD

BILOXI, Miss., March 26. (P)—Lloyd Brown, upon whom Washington Senators are depending for a lot of victories this season, made his debut today against the Baltimore Orioles and with the aid of Carl Fischer, another southpaw, won 3-2.

MORE COTTON GINNED

There were 8,269 bales of cotton, counting round bales as half bales, ginned and to be ginned in Gray county, from the crop of 1931, as compared with 6,938 bales from the crop of 1930. These figures were supplied by B. Lewis Webb, special census agent for Gray county.

Bowling Scores

Blair Motor company took two games from the Supply boys while the Texas company were taking the same number from the Kiwanis club Friday night in a City Bowling league fixture. The Texas company and Kiwanis club tied in the opening and hit Texas team won the second which took the first.

places. Sam Turner supplied plenty of power despite his small size. He also did some fine side stepping. Lloyd Hamilton, Bert Stevens, Ernest McDuffie and Leon Robinson alternated in backfield positions and none of them weakened the team. Hamilton was effective on power plays. Faulkner was strong on the end position.

Sturdy Lines

Both lines were strong despite the difference in weight and experience. Fowell was about the toughest proposition in both lines but he was not far ahead of Ivy Berry. Clovis Green did some mighty fine defensive work as did Fullington, Martin and "Blimp" Hollenbeck. Walker went into the line on defense and nothing went his way. Wayne Kelley held down his old end position in spectacular fashion.

A newcomer to the ranks of the Harvesters showed up like a find. Fennell, formerly of Hopkins, played in the line and at end and his charging and tackling were deadly. He is fast and a real prospect. Mackie, also from Hopkins, appears to be another comer.

Members of the 1931 Gorilla squad failed to take any back seat during the day. Eldridge, Carl Smith, McKensie, Sartin, Monroe, Owens, Reynolds, Fribble, and other handled themselves well.

Both teams kept to the ground during the entire game. End runs spin plays, and line bucks were in order. Even the little fellows hit the line repeatedly. Kahl from a triple threat position ran in all directions. Ledrick pulled a combination spinner and delayed but that was particularly effective. Benton, if he would concentrate, would be hard to keep off the team. He hits hard and can punt.

Movie Stars Gorgeous in White Costumes for Easter Occasions

BY HUBBARD KEAVY
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 26. (AP)—Movieland is having a white Easter.

The beauties of Hollywood, in selecting their Easter wardrobes, mostly chose white suits, frocks and ensembles being particularly becoming, in keeping with spirit of the season, and also in anticipation of a long, hot summer.

Materials vary, in a long array from sheer silks and fine crepes to rubby weaves, most of which are in the more light weight wool.

A white ribbed wool coat with puff sleeves and high collar of chocolate brown comprises the startling costume selected by Adolena Ames. A brown and white felt hat, brown and white shoes and natural doekin gloves are worn with the coat.

Loretta Young has a two-piece ensemble consisting of a simple white silk dress with box pleated skirt and high collar, tying in a low under the chin, and short jacket of rough white wool with wide cuffs and lapels of finer wool crepe. Accessories included white straw, kid pumps and gloves.

Kay Francis, who is spending the holiday aboard her yacht, wore a nautical costume, the white jacket of flannel trousers and white sweater set off by appliqued white, ing flags and in red and blue felt. The new ghillie oxfords, in black and white, and a white beret completed her costume.

Constance Bennett chose a simple tailored suit featuring the very high empire waist line for the skirt and abbreviated jacket. Jacket and skirt are of black silk in rough weave, while the short waisted blouse is of flat crepe. There is a circular trimming of silver which gives the jacket a cape effect. Her hat is a black chip straw, slightly tilted on the left side.

Gray with touches of bright blue is the color chart of Sylvia Sydney's Easter suit, made along mannish lines. A scarf of diagonal red, white and blue stripes is worn fashion, while a sailor hat of bright blue introduces the newest mill, luery white.

Ice Company in Its Annual Offer

The Pampa Ice Manufacturing company announces that effective immediately to April 15, inclusive, their annual special ice coupon book sale will be held. The saving is ten per cent on all coupon books bought before April 15th.

Both of this company's Pampa plants are being improved and set in order for the heavy summer trade, according to W. E. Liebman, local manager.

BANKER IS SENTENCED

SAN ANTONIO, March 26 (AP)—C. Gilbert Coleworthy, former cashier of the National bank of Fort San Houston, was sentenced to five years in the federal industrial reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio, by United States District Judge R. J. McMillan today on a plea of guilty to making six false entries in the bank's records in connection with alleged shortages in the bank's funds.

TAKE OVER CHURCH

DALLAS, March 26. (AP)—St. Louis bondholders today offered to let the Tyler Street Methodist church of Dallas use its church building for Easter worship but the proposal came too late. Plans already had been made to conduct morning services in a theater and evening services in another church. The bondholders took possession of the church yesterday.

CLARENCE DARROW ILL

HONOLULU, March 26 (AP)—Clarence Darrow, 75-year-old criminal lawyer, is ill after several meetings of counsel for the defense of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, New York society woman, were worried tonight for fear his long trip from Chicago will avail their case little.

embargoes and then going out and criticizing the bill.

"Consistency, thou art a jewel." "I am going to express myself when I say to you that, as far as I am concerned if these amendments and other things continue to be added to the bill, I shall myself vote against it," the Georgian asserted.

Representative Hawley of Oregon, ranking republican on the ways and means committee, followed Crisp and spoke against tariff amendments.

Unmoved by these leaders, the insurgents cried for a vote. It was then that the leaders of the revolt came to the assistance of the house leaders.

Calms Followers Representative La Guardia (R., N. Y.), an independent, said: "We've got to stand by the committee and bring out a bill to raise revenue."

"It is impossible to write a tariff law at this time on the floor of the house, and I appeal to my friends on both sides who joined in defeating the sales tax to show now that we can rise to the occasion and the committee bring out a sensible bill."

Representative Rankin (R., Miss.), an anti-sales tax leader, told his colleagues "embarrasses you are proposing are worse than a sales tax."

Another anti-sales tax leader, Representative Rankin (R., Miss.), said: "I regret exceedingly the speech made by the gentleman from Georgia. He whom the gods would destroy they first make mad. My friend from Georgia has never been mad until this morning. The democratic party is stronger now in the nation than it has ever been since the beginning of Congress."

And as the republicans joined in a loud "boon" Blankin added: "The people of the country have confidence in the democrats of the house."

"Then I'm Through" After adjournment, Crisp said: "We brought out this bill as a non-partisan measure. If the republicans can't cooperate and help pass a revenue bill to eliminate the republican deficit, then I'm through."

The oil and coal vote, he said, was "just like a log-rolling tariff bill."

Representative La Guardia served notice in the house he would offer a bill of one-fourth of one percent on the value of all stock transactions and a half of one per cent levy on all short sales.

MEETS FATHER FIRST TIME

Here is the climax to a modern fairy tale. On the rain-swept deck of a newly arrived liner in New York, Louis Rousseau, noted French tenor, and Louise Rousseau, his 21-year-old American-born daughter, had just met for the first time. Rousseau and his American wife separated before the birth of their child, he to go to France to pursue his art. Last year the daughter found her father's name in a Paris opera directory, wrote to him, and he hastened to America only to march in vain for her address. He returned to France, and it was months before communication between them was re-established. But now they're happily united, as you see them in this picture.

Oldest Track Record Broken by Stanford Ace

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., March 26. (AP)—The oldest track record of them all, Ted Meredith's mark of 47.4 seconds for the 440-yard dash, which had stood since 1916, was bettered by "Blazing" Ben Eastman, bespectacled Stanford runner as his teammates lost a dual meet to the Los Angeles Athletic club 80 to 51 here today.

Eastman strode through the one-lap distance in 46.4 seconds, one full second under the time Meredith set 16 years ago while wearing the colors of the University of Pennsylvania.

Later Eastman, running anchor lap in the mile relay, negotiated the quarter in 46.6 with a running start.

WASHINGTON—If there was any doubt in the mind of Speaker Jack Garner, Democratic Leader Rainey and the other "bosses" of the Democratic forces in the house as to the gravity of their decision that the budget must be balanced at all costs, then it must be dispelled entirely now.

The wave of criticism and indignation which swept the house when the sales tax was included in the so-called budget-balancing tax bill must have brought the fact very close home to them.

And it hasn't been only republicans who have led the howling and threatening. Good, staid, old solid democrats have been as vociferous as any of the others.

There's John Rankin of Mississippi, for example. Mr. Rankin has been in congress for something like 12 years. A courageous and outspoken sort of an individual, he had come to be so highly regarded that when it looked last fall as if the democrats would control the house in this congress, his name was frequently mentioned for the post of floor leader.

No One Spared

The necessity, in interest of party harmony, of dividing the honors with other sections of the country, of course eliminated him. But the fact that he was mentioned would seem to indicate that as far as the party is concerned, he was right in line.

But Rankin let out a yell when the democratic controlled ways and means committee brought out a tax bill with a sales levy that fairly rocked "the hill."

He spared no one in his thrusts. Here's an example: "The sales tax violates every principle of democracy. Someone asked me why it wasn't brought in here when we were in control of the house years ago. I'll tell you why."

"In those days there were giants in the house. There was an old Roman, Champ Clark. . . . Before they could get such a measure before this house, they would have to bring it in, politically speaking, over his dead body."

Comparing The "Giants"

There was a giant from North Carolina, Claude Kitchin, who was not only the democratic leader, but chairman of the ways and means committee. If he were even alive today, you could not get this thing on to capitol hill, much less into the house.

"Then there was Finis J. Garrett . . . and Cordell Hull (now senator). . . . If they were members of the house now we would not be confronted with this measure, because it would never have come out of the committee. . . ."

The speaker was within earshot of these remarks and so was Rainey. Crisp, acting chairman of ways and means, was sitting within a few feet of him. Bankhead was presiding.

It would be rather interesting to know how they felt in the comparison with the "giants" of another day.

NEW YORK—Advance reports say that girl barkers will be still more in evidence in front of Coney Island concessions this year. Last season some of the stands trying the experiment found that more men—and they are the ones who spend—were attracted by them than by the male spiliers.

Forty-second street recently has seen girl ballyhoo artists in front of a burlesque house.

MANY VIEWPOINTS ON DEFLATION OF GOVERNMENT expenses and governmental services have been discussed in this department in recent weeks. In continuing today, we call attention to the action of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in testifying before congressional committees opposing wage reductions for government employees. He said further reductions would prolong the depression and endanger the wage schedule of the entire country.

There you have the viewpoint that, although governmental costs should be reduced, this reduction should not be at the expense of wages. Other speakers, not so much interested in labor, have advocated salary cuts in lieu of a reduction in governmental functions. Economy which means elimination of jobs has labor's energetic opposition.

We call attention to these viewpoints to show that economies are not reached as easily as might be imagined. Deflation can be carried too far, and in the wrong channels. And did you ever stop to think how modern complexities add to the cost of self-government? When people lived on farms and in small towns, the family cow was an institution. But today the milk supply is beyond family control. Since good, clean milk is one of the most important foods, it is vital that the conditions under which distributed milk is produced be controlled, tested for contamination and regulated by law. This, of course, entails cost. Moreover, it entails a cost which the general public should share, for producers and dispensers go to much expense to meet requirements and should not, in our opinion, have to pay an additional cost for inspections by outside, public authorities.

To carry the illustration further, we might mention the development of buses and trucks. These vehicles have grown so numerous that regulation is necessary. The state government has placed the responsibility on the railroad commission, and the cost has mounted. Oil production has made necessary proration, martial law, litigation, all of which necessitates additional government expense. The airplane, the radio have likewise brought demands for governmental control.

Mounting governmental cost is not as alarming as it may seem when the comparisons are first noted. Great though spending—usually publicly condoned in its initial phases—has been, it has been paralleled by a huge increase in the number and scope of official functions. It is the price of advancing civilization, and it inevitably leads to modified socialism, or at least to regulation far beyond our conception of things now. But while the necessary regulations are many, the unnecessary ones are legion. Unless there is drastic pruning, the extent of governmental activity will be enormous, expensive, and stifling to prosperity.

The West Texas chamber of commerce has the right idea with regard to government economy. Its plan is to have permanent committees to work out economies gradually rather than to permit radicals and politicians to organize for disastrous raids. The chamber has asked several such bodies to disband.

It may be that we have a "surplus of government." By this we mean that, in times of economic stress, the people cannot well afford to buy all the social services which they desire in normal times. Government should be responsive to the ability as well as the desires of citizens. Yet voters who cry for tax reductions in the abstract often call for services in the concrete. The demands for roads, street paving, libraries, parks, swimming pools, prohibition, world's fairs, centennials, come from every class—farmers, laborers, business men, and the professions. The government must control the Mississippi, guard the seals in distant islands, patrol the forests, feed and nurse the Indians when crops fail, carry the mails by air, pay for past, present and future war preparations. In short, the governments of this country are doing many things in addition to providing the minimum of services and protection which the founders envisioned.

Many of those who are now howling for retrenchment were advocating expansion of public building—public expense—a few months ago. The activities which were to end the depression are being condemned now. It sounds contradictory, but the truth is that the public goes from one extreme to another at random, while along the middle ground will be found the proper course. Think it over—have you the logic to keep a clear head and avoid these extremes? And do not forget that the public has asked the governments to do many things that the ordinary man cannot get in any other way. Do not forget that property owners pay for public improvements according to their holdings, and that the so-called common people get more through taxation than they could possibly get through private enterprises and organizations. Cheer up, there's a lot to be said, thought, and recognized that will make the situation seem better than now appears in this nation of ours.

Those who wonder why students become so incensed that they shoot each other as those University of Missouri students did, fail to recognize that youth's problems are just as serious—to them—as are adults' dilemmas. The law student knew he faced a terrific beating. He armed himself. In the course of a nencounter, he fired. . . . The Pampan on one occasion was in a reading party of sophomores who tried to shoot a freshman flag off a campus pole—while the freshmen guards were on duty. We sophs used ammonia gas, but too much diluted. The entire freshman class left class rooms and rushed to the rescue and against the fifteen sophs armed with shotguns and sprays. Only a few cracked ribs resulted, and when the excitement died down we all wondered why we had taken such an enormous risk. The first time we recall having met Dick Hughes was in rolling around on the ground struggling for possession of an ammonia gun. And the freshman flag, punctured but little damaged, still fluttered on the pole at West Texas Teachers college!

Dr. Walter Williams, president of Missouri university, will "deal summarily" with the students who kidnaped the Engineering school's "St. Pat's queen" and precipitated the shooting. We can imagine his wrath. On one occasion he was going to make the Pampan "an example" for the terrible offense of crawling through an open window to the typewriter room 15 minutes before the building was to be opened for the (then) journalism dean's address. But his scowl had melted by 10 o'clock next day, and he concluded an office interview by suggesting that this Texan take a job with David Lawrence's UNITED STATES DAILY at Washington, D. C. Boys will be boys, but the venerable dean has never entirely grown up, himself.

City's Library Has Many Patrons

BEST BOOKS IN REACH OF ALL LOCAL PEOPLE

TOTAL OF 578 ACTIVE PATRONS SERVED REGULARLY

By MRS. JAMES TODD JR. The librarian of a few generations ago was a mere keeper of books, but today the librarian has become a business manager. There are five distinct departments, and the librarian must be able to carry on the duties under these heads.

1. The present-day library is a business institution, with business organization, business problems, and business outlook, and it must be carried on by business methods. As the success of any organization depends upon its service to the public, just so does the success of the library rest upon its service to the public, and this service implies possession of materials, knowledge of how they work, knowing how to use them, and command of resources.

It implies also that the thing to be given first be possessed by the giver, the power behind the throne, "the soul of the library," the librarian.

Knowledge of library technique is necessary. A feeling and love of books brings happiness to the librarian, but that is not enough for the success of the library. A librarian must have a thorough knowledge of her subject. Yet library technique is not the sole prerequisite. The ability to put into action one's knowledge, accuracy, resourcefulness, good judgment, and common sense is also necessary. The efficiency of the librarian's control, and the value of her services as guide and adviser, depend very much on her manners and personality. Courtesy, patience, tact, good temper should be the motto of every librarian.

Efficient management is vital. Centuries ago, a very learned man said that a general who could not control himself would in no wise be able to control an army. A librarian must be able to organize and manage her own workshop. A librarian must have the ability to work happily with others and to subordinate personal interests to the public service, doing what she is expected to do and a hundred times more.

The attitude toward the public is important. There are not many greater services than to bring the gifts of books to men and women. The librarian's attitude must never be superior, nor patronizing, but always receptive. There must always be a smile, a pleasant word, a kind remark. These are gifts without cost, yet priceless which no one can give. There must always be the right book for the right person at the right time. The librarian should begin the morning by saying, like Marcus Aurelius, "I shall meet this day with the busy body, the ungrateful, the arrogant, the deceitful, the envious, the unsocial, but I can not be harmed by an act or word of theirs, so shall I look only for the beautiful!"

Development of a library is necessary. A building is stronger than its foundation. We must look out into the future and build for tomorrow, not be satisfied with today. The fatal things is to look just one way—either forward or backward. We must survey yesterday's experiences and glean therefrom important clues for the betterment of the library for the tomorrow. The library's place in a community is to serve everyone. There are many people who cannot afford to read good literature, but as they have free access to a library they come and read and get the best. Many men who are out of work are using the library as a research laboratory, getting ready for the morrow. The receipt for making a library useful and a success:

"Two ounces of talent, common sense the size of an egg, one ounce of knowledge of human nature. Put all into the mortar of experience and pound well with the pestle of discretion. Add a pint of sentiment, a gill of wit, and a shake of sadness. Strain again six months later and distill your wisdom. Season, garnish and serve immediately. If the public likes it, it will be eaten at once."

The public seems to appreciate the Pampa public library's value very much, since so far this year we have 578 active patrons. This figure does not include people coming in to use the reading room. This shows that the Pampa City library is serving the public.

Re-Districting of County Proposed

A proposal to re-district Gray county is being advocated by Thomas O. Kirby, candidate for commissioner of precinct 3.

Mr. Kirby said his plan was intended to give a fairer distribution of the taxable values of the county and to afford voters more practical handling of elections and other affairs. He pointed out that precinct 3 now has taxable values of only $1,180,000. He would re-arrange precinct 2 so as to place in precinct 3 all of the property lying within the Hopkins school district, increasing the value of precinct 3 by four millions of dollars.

He believes that this plan would make unnecessary the 15-cent special road tax now levied in precinct 3.

Strawberries of Valley Are Fine

BROWNSVILLE, March 26. (AP)—The Valley is producing the finest strawberries in the United States this season and the deal is very satisfactory in this section although the yield has not been good from plants which were put out late.

Prices received by growers in this section have topped those given for berries grown elsewhere, the returns having held steadily at about $3.00 a crate f.o.b. the Valley or about 12 cents a quart. Berries in many sections have not been the best quality, having too much sand in them.

Because strawberries were the only commodity last year to pay off in a big way to growers, there is a much increased acreage this season, and this is having some effect on the market.

The strawberry deal will probably not reach carlot proportions this year. Most of the berries are going out in "pony" refrigerators.

Motor Magnate Dies at Detroit

DETROIT, March 26. (AP)—Henry M. Leland, one of the automobile industry's immortals, died at Grace hospital today, a little more than a month after he had observed his 85th birthday.

Leland's place in the automobile industry was alongside Apperson, Buick, Benz, Daimler, Duryea, Haynes, Seiden, Ford, Stearns, Winion and a host of others whose faith brought the making of automobiles through the creative years to rank as the world's first industry.

"I love it! It's as good as my hilltop!" And David's silence, his smile of appreciation that was partly for what he saw and partly for her delight, was good to her.

The sun lay warm on them. David sat down beside her. Jan reluctantly curled at his master's feet. "David, I'm glad you brought me here. I can rather guess what it means to you. It's—it's so safe!"

He nodded his head. "I've wanted to bring you here, Kitty," he said simply. "She had a pleasant sense of sharing with David something so intimately a part of him that he had no words for it. She recalled the look on his face when he told her that his forebears had owned most of this valley—a fine proud respecting look, a look of belonging."

She was shyly conscious of depths in David which she never had suspected. She'd not known them because always when she'd been with him she'd been so wrapped in her own plight. "David," how old was your mother when she went away?" "Twenty. She went to Winton to teach school. She'd graduated from Cornell, you see, the year before. She met my father that winter. They were married in the spring. Kitty's brows drew together. What had Gar said? That his father had married out of his class, something like that—

"How old were you when she died, David?" "Four."

"And you don't remember her?" "More, now, than I did. This place has helped me. She used to come here with me, summers, I suppose. Her father was living, then. I can remember her playing with me in the brook."

Kitty was silent, held in deep compassion. She divined swiftly how much David needed that sense of love. She remembered how he'd had to go to his father's house, an intruder.

"David, tell me more—about yourself," she said at length, softly. He gave a short laugh. "Not particularly pretty talk, Kitty. I guess I wasn't much more as a kid than I am a man, now." Then a sudden anger seized him. "I was ready to adore her—that woman who took my mother's place. She was the kind a kid would like, lovely looking and all that. But she shut me out, right from the first. I wasn't hers. She was poison, slow, sweet, deadly poison. She's worked it on my father. She's made him susceptible to all but the need of making money. She's worked it on poor old Carol—"

"But Carol's hers!" "Not a son. She isn't Gar. It's Gar she wanted. Well, she has him."

An involuntary shiver went over Kitty. David said it. "She'd send me out of the room when anyone came in. I thought there was something about me that was queer—I'd listen through the door while she showed off Gar's baby tricks. Probably Carol felt the same way I did. That's the kind of thing that leaves scars, Kitty—"

Jan had snuggled closer to his master. David's hands caught the shaggy fur, dug deep into it. "I told you it wasn't pretty talk, Kitty. You can't get it, perhaps—you haven't run up against hatred, the kind that's put into a child's heart, that eats into the soul. I've been afraid of it for you."

"I'm not going to let it touch me!" Kitty cried on a sharply drawn breath. "Or Gar." She squared her shoulders with a valiant little air of strength. "Why don't you forget it, David? You could."

"I was too sensitive, more introspective than a kid ought to be. Well, I walked out when I was eighteen. She'd framed some petty things against me and I wouldn't deny it. It came to me all at once that I didn't have to deny it to her—that she didn't need to count. I got a job pasting advertising stuff on billboards. I wanted to write—I used to grind out staff nights with a blanket wrapped around me because my room was so damn cold. I didn't sell any of it—guess it was pretty bad. But it kept me out of mischief. After a couple of years I got a chance on the Times, reporting—"

"And then you met Dorcas!" Kitty broke in, involuntarily. David nodded. "Yes, I met Dorcas."

Chapter 22 SWEET DEADLY POISON JAN had no reverence for these dear things of his master's; he wanted a run out of doors. He made his impatience so plain that David and Kitty laughed and yielded to it. They left the house by the woodshed door.

The yards, the empty weathered barns and outsheds, seemed to swim in a soft haze. Fat pigeons sunned themselves on the barn roof. Outside, as in the house, everything was meticulously clean, orderly. A path of old flagstones led to a strip of garden where still bloomed a few ragged chrysanthemums.

"Oh," cried Kitty, lifting her hand, "I hear it! The brook!" "Of course—it's there, just beyond those willows."

They left the brook to climb the hillside through old oak trees and maples and firs. When, presently, they came out on the top Kitty dropped to the ground, a little breathless.

"I love it! It's as good as my hilltop!" And David's silence, his smile of appreciation that was partly for what he saw and partly for her delight, was good to her.

The sun lay warm on them. David sat down beside her. Jan reluctantly curled at his master's feet. "David, I'm glad you brought me here. I can rather guess what it means to you. It's—it's so safe!"

After a couple of years I got a chance on the Times, reporting—"

"And then you met Dorcas!" Kitty broke in, involuntarily. David nodded. "Yes, I met Dorcas."

"I've kept in touch with my father at his office. I used to drop around there late in the afternoon to have a little talk with him. One night he took me home to dinner with him. I didn't want to put a foot into that house but I sort of got it that he was lonely. After that I went there to eat with him, now and then, just as I did that night I met you. He's talked about my mother. Two years ago he gave me this place. It's taken every cent I can scrape together to keep it up but it's worth it to me. It's safe—just as you said. I get a feeling when I'm here of belonging to my mother's people. It squares me up."

He lapsed into a deep silence, then, which Kitty would not break though she loved to tell him how grateful she was that he had let her into his confidence. Her heart brimmed with tender, wordless affection.

He roused after a little with a laugh. "I haven't spilled as much as this to anyone, Kitty. I guess it's because you're you. But what say to opening some of those cans?" He sprang to his feet. He took Kitty's hands to help her to hers. He kept his hold of them as she stood, slim and straight, before him, for a moment.

"I've never brought anyone else here, Kitty. I've never wanted to—before."

"Thanks, David."

They went down the trail through the woods, gray now, for the sun was slipping over the hilltop. David built a fire on the living-room hearth, drew a low table to it and spread a cloth over the table-top.

It was when they had finished their meal, a cozy meal before the crackling flames, that he turned to Kitty with a smile.

"You've forgotten, you were going to tell me something."

She related every detail of her luncheon with Miss Lee and that Miss Lee had said to her. A little excited tone colored her voice. "And I shall go on working even after—"

"She stopped, coloring. "Oh, David, don't look like that! I make me feel like a fool. I have to believe that Gar will find me, don't you understand that? If I didn't I wouldn't have anything. Even my love for Gar wouldn't be worth anything." Her voice sank to a whisper.

"Go on," he commanded brusque.

"It's easier now for married women to work—housework's different and allows more leisure. And it must give a woman a splendid feeling of partnership."

"It's a fine sounding plan. It goes—with some. But what if Gar won't see it the way you do? What then? Reconciliation at any price?" His question had a brittle edge.

"I'm afraid, Kitty shut her lips on any answer."

Suddenly David swung round to her. He stood over her, his face stern. "Kitty, can't you see, yet? That woman owes Gar body and soul—she'll give him so much rope, and no more. You haven't a chance against her. You can't make Gar over—he's a spoiled, selfish, easy-going lazy fellow. The most you can do is compromise and you'll give up all that's fine in you and you won't be anywhere. Call it a bad business, a mistake—go back to Bridgewater—"

"Kitty had risen to her feet so that she faced him. She was shrinking back from him, her eyes fixed in horror on his face, her lips trembling.

STORM PATH

Circling through four southern states and striking in widely scattered sections of Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee and eastern Mississippi, a tornado demolished homes and buildings and left a death toll estimated at 300 killed. More than 400 were reported injured.

The sketch map shows the path of the tornado, which struck first in Alabama and bored through a score of towns and rural communities, hurling houses high in the air, in its northward path.

Twisting eddies from the main storms funneled down in spots far from the tornado center.

The storm gradually lifted as it roared into Kentucky.

Shouse Hits at Hoover's "Bias"

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—President Hoover was accused of injecting partisan bias into the tax dispute tonight by J. J. Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee.

Speaking by radio, Shouse asserted that after claiming credit for economic reconstruction measures supported alike by democrats and republicans, Mr. Hoover had termed the tax bill now under consideration a democratic measure. Any tax bill is bound to be unpopular, he said.

Referring to the president's statement of yesterday in which he expressed a plea for a balanced budget, Shouse criticized the chief executive for delaying its issuance until after the house had eliminated the sales tax provision from the revenue bill.

"If his statement had come two weeks ago, before action had been taken by the house of representatives upon the bill it would have helped those who were trying to fight the battle for a balanced budget," Shouse said. "Now it is issued after the house has wrecked the committee bill and after the legislative situation has been thrown into a state of such confusion and even chaos that the outcome is difficult to predict."

He quoted Elias Strawn as saying after a conference with Mr. Hoover that the president was "quietly disappointed" at the sales tax action and pointed out many republicans in the house had "gone along" on the sales tax despite its being a democratic measure.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Delicious cakes with fresh or canned fruits always make popular desserts for early spring menus. Butter cakes of fine, even texture that "melt in your mouth" are suitable while the weather is still cool and foods may be chosen without thought of their heating calories.

The secret of perfect butter cakes lies in the thorough creaming of the shortening and sugar. This must be done, for unless the sugar is dissolved in the fat a velvety, fine-grained cake cannot be assured.

The following rule for spice cake can be used to make a satisfactory dessert, without fruit. Served with a bland fruit such as pears, however, the cake is delectable.

Spice Cake

Four eggs, 1-2 cups light brown sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 1/2 cups flour, 1-2 cup shortening, 1 cup sweet milk, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-8 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Roll sugar on molding board. Cream shortening and beat in sugar. Save whites of three eggs for frosting. Beat one whole egg and yolks of three eggs until very light. Sift one half cup of flour into creamed sugar and shortening and mix well.

Add beaten eggs. Mix and stir remaining flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Add alternately with milk to first mixture. Turn into an oiled and pan and cook thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Cool slightly, and cover with following frosting:

Frosting

Whites 3 eggs, 1 1/2 cups brown sugar.
Roll sugar on molding board. Beat whites of eggs until stiff. Beat in sugar. Pile on cake and put in a cool oven for fifteen minutes to puff and brown the meringue.

Black Walnut Cake

Black walnuts have a distinctive flavor and when added to a fluffy cake the result is sure to please all who taste it.
One-third cup shortening, 1 cup granulated sugar, 3 eggs, 1 3/4 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking

Monday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Stewed dried scalloped tomatoes, banana and sausage, creamed potatoes, crisp toast, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Dress and potato soup with grated cheese, toast sticks, pineapple and carrot salad, ginger cookies, lemonade.
DINNER: Casserole of mutton, apricots, cereal, cream, country peanut salad, spice cake, milk coffee.

Capone Sentence Will Be Studied

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—The circumstances under which Al Capone was tried and sentenced for income tax evasion will be investigated next week by a senate committee.

Particular study will be made of the arrangement which was overthrown by Judge James H. Wilkerson for Capone to plead guilty and receive a short sentence.

The committee was told by Frank J. Lorsch, president of the Chicago crime commission that Johnson made and agreement with Capone under which he was to plead guilty and be sentenced to two and a half years.

Penitentes Beat Trinidad Youths

TRINIDAD, Colo., March 26 (AP)—Blundering into a good Friday secret ritual of the Penitentes, strange half pagan religious cult, two Trinidad youths were severely beaten.

The youths, invited by two Mexican boys to attend a Penitente memorial service for their father, became confused in the darkness and followed a group into an isolated cemetery where the Penitentes began to scourge themselves to accompaniment of weird chants.

As the Penitentes began to dance in a circle, lashing themselves, they noticed the boys were not of the cult. The youths were set upon, beaten and then carried back to Trinidad, the boys said. The Penitentes, mostly Indians and Mexicans, believe that by self punishment they drive out their sins.

Japanese Are More Lenient in Peace Demands

SHANGHAI, (Sunday) Mar. 27 (AP)—Japanese army authorities have tempered their "minimum" armistice demands it was learned today, reviving hope for a successful outcome of the truce negotiations which have been dragging along here for many days.

It was understood that the military sub-committee of the group negotiating the terms of peace would inform the main committee when it meets on Monday that Japan no longer will insist upon gradual withdrawal of her troops from their present positions. Instead, they are willing to evacuate all the outlying districts immediately, except the nearby roads into the international settlement and the vicinity of Kiangwan where they want to maintain a patrol.

Before this development it appeared that the peace negotiations were very close to a breakdown, for the Japanese and Chinese were deadlocked over the method of troop withdrawal. The Chinese wanted the enemy to get out immediately, but the Japanese were insisting upon a gradual withdrawal over a period of six weeks.

Peace in India Now More Likely

NEW DELHI, India, March 26 (AP)—It appeared today that events were moving to clear the path to peace between India's nationalists and the British government.

Both sides are eager to end the conflict which has crippled British and Indian business life and has put nearly forty thousand nationalist leaders in jail.

Hope for restoration of normal conditions was revived suddenly when it was learned that Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, now the president of the nationalist congress, had had a long conference yesterday with Viceroy Lord Willingdon after which she hurried to Benares for a talk with Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya who next to Gandhi is the most influential nationalist leader.

Roosevelt Has Basket of Votes

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—An Easter lull in presidential delegate picking by the voters finds Franklin D. Roosevelt carrying by far the largest basket of votes for the democratic nomination and President Hoover rolling along toward renomination with only two out of 93 delegates opposed to him.

The past week saw Governor Roosevelt score heavily in the south's first presidential primary, his ten to one vote in Georgia assuring him of that state's 28 convention votes to bring his total delegates to 85.

President Hoover picked up 25 more in the Iowa convention and now has 91, all but 11 being instructed or pledged. New York's 11 delegates at large are uninstructed, but are claimed for the president.

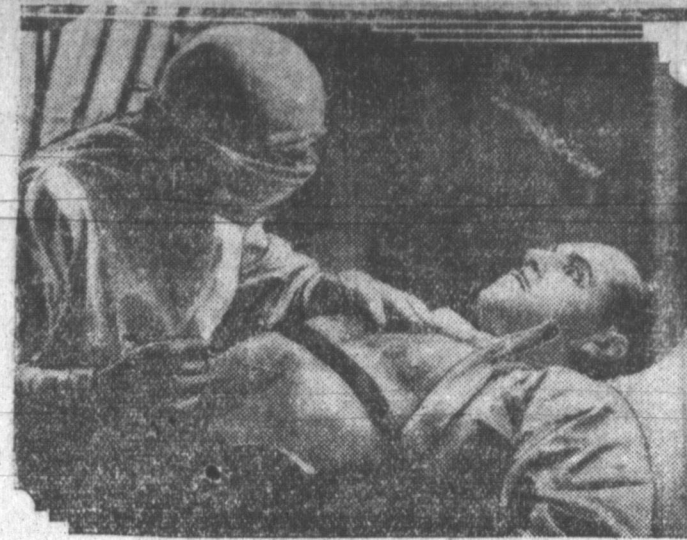

Now that Roosevelt has demonstrated a vote-getting ability in the north, west and south, politicians are wondering about his second choice strength in the states with favorite sons and where uninstructed delegates are in the making. This is highly important in a convention where the two-thirds rule prevails.

Oil Production in New Mexico Big

MIDLAND, March 26 (AP)—The total production of crude oil in southwestern New Mexico from discovery of the pools until the survey in February was 26,838,371 barrels, a report received here shows. The Hobbs pool led the state with total recovery of 19,493,076 barrels.

Other pools, in the order of production, included: Lea, 3,921,361; Artesia, 3,439,127; Jal, 1,200,165; Eunice, 539,892; Getty, 140,509; Jackson, 468,420; Empire, 217,574; Cooper, 172,987.

OPENS AT REX TODAY

"Behind the Mask", the Columbia film that will shock, thrill and mystify Rex Theater audiences, opens its engagement today.

It tells a mystery story of horror about a man, who had a soul of a fiend—a veritable human monster. Anyone who interferes with his diabolical plans is destroyed. He is the leader of a notorious dope ring, but no one, not even his loyal co-workers, know his identity. Not until the mask is torn from his satanic features, is he revealed as he actually is.

But that is after a series of adventures in which this phenomenal person performs many fiendish brutalities. Leading roles are played by Jack Holt, hero of a score of successes including "Dirigible," "Flight" and "The Last Parade," Boris Karloff, horrible monster in "Frankenstein" and Constance Cummings, who performed so ably in "The Criminal Code." Supporting parts are handled by Claude King, Bertha Mann, Edward Van Sloan and Willard Ross.

Schaffer Given Backing As Next G. O. P. Official

Henry Schaffer of the east part of Carson county, and chairman of the Republican committee of that county, was endorsed as a member of the Texas republican state executive committee to succeed W. H. Holmes, by republicans of this section yesterday. A telegram favoring the appointment of Mr. Schaffer was sent to E. B. Creager, state republican chairman, by Dr. V. E. von Brunow, Gray county chairman.

Mr. Holmes died at Los Angeles, Calif., Friday. Mr. Schaffer is the owner of a large ranch in eastern Carson county. A number of oil and gas wells have been completed on his property. He is well known in Pampa and Amarillo. One of Mr. Schaffer's sons recently returned from a big game hunt in Africa. Another son is attending a medical college in Vienna and a third son is at Harvard university.

CASE IS QUARANTINED
The first case of scarlet fever of this year was discovered at Sam Houston school on Friday. The child was immediately placed under quarantine. The Hopkins school was recently closed for several days on account of scarlet fever. Two children in as many homes contracted the disease.

Miss Florence Jackson of Farrington was a courthouse visitor yesterday.

Mrs. H. H. Isbell was in Amarillo Friday for a meeting of the Allied Forces of Prohibition.

For further public service as a member of President Hoover's committee on unemployment and as president of the Associated General Contractors of America, to which office he was elected only recently.

EGG HUNT--

ide and were first to reach the choicest "pickings" and if we are to judge by results, there will be some feminine Harvesters in coming years. Adults and police were shoved aside relentlessly, and Sheriff Lon Blansett, striving to hold his feet without stepping on a child, remarked:

"I'd rather face a stampede of cattle than to try to stop the rush of these children to that egg country."

Every clump of grass and weeds held one or more brightly-hued eggs, and many eggs bore notations of special prizes offered by merchants. Some of the tiniest folk, shoved aside in the rush, found prizes enough overlooked by the over-eager youngsters.

Within an hour, nearly all the land had been thoroughly combed. Pockets, hats, caps, baskets, shirts and chubby hands held the pretty eggs and exultant faces told of pleasure of the youngsters. A few, not so fortunate, were encouraged to try again, and at length all went home happy. But some lingered for hours in the expectation of finding eggs overlooked in the rush. Downtown, the children called for their added prizes.

The mammoth hunt was held by the Pampa Kiwanis club, with M. P. Downe as general chairman. The eggs were purchased in this community and were dyed and boiled in vats at the Pampa Packing company plant.

Pete Post, president of the club, issued blanket thanks after the hunt to all who helped make it a success. And the children, who will talk about the event a long time, wish they could revise the calendar to provide an Easter every month.

TAX IS HELPFUL

FORT WORTH, March 26—The cigarette tax has made it possible for the state to pay its per capita apportionment of $17.50 to exas schools this year, State Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs told executive committee of the Texas state teachers association this afternoon. The per capita quota next year probably will be $16 he said.

The meeting of the Allied Forces of Prohibition in Amarillo Friday was attended by Mrs. Raymond Wilson.

JERUSALEM, March 27, (Sun. day), (AP)—Christians of Jerusalem, augmented by thousands of pilgrims from abroad, commemorated Easter Sunday with moving and colorful ceremony.

The city which nearly two thousand years ago witnessed the agony and triumph of the Christ's last days was peculiarly alive from long before dawn in observance of the event, which coincides with the Jewish passover and an important muslim feast.

Most services of commemoration were over before the arrival of the heat of midday and the Holy City resumed somewhat its usual air of Sabbath calm.

The earliest service today was a picturesque ceremony at the so-called garden tomb where tradition says the body of Christ was laid after being taken from the cross.

This ceremony, held at 5 a. m., was attended principally by Anglican communicants. A service from the American chapel attached to St. George's cathedral, and at 8 a. m. there was another service in accordance with the English prayerbook.

As in former years the curious custom of Americans attending the English service and English the American service prevailed.

Easter services climaxed the holy week celebrations.

CROSSVILLE, Tenn., March 26—

Two-year-old Bill Robert Reed, Jr., almost a perfect double of the kid-napped Lindbergh baby, now has a mother of his own.

Mrs. Virginia Hashagen, a waitress of Kalamazoo, Mich., hitch-hiked all the way to Crossville to claim the child. She fainted with joy when she saw him.

But when a photographer tried to get a picture of Billy in her arms, Billy, bewildered, absolutely refused to pose. Mrs. Hashagen gave Billy was carried away seven months ago by her mother, Mrs. Daisy Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mitchell, who were arrested here with the child.

Moreover, it developed that in addition to a mother and a grandmother, Billy also has a great-grandmother. The latter is Mrs. W. P. Ross of Paris, la., mother of Mrs. Jones, and she sent along a photograph of Billy taken at the age of three weeks, to prove the family identity.

For a time Billy and Crossville authorities — and the world at large — a fever heat, after they found him in custody of two strange couples stopping over here. Then Correll Lindbergh said the baby was not his and the children were quickly down.

Ever since then, little Billy, afflicted with new rompers given him by admirers here, has won the love of everyone.

Making Sound Conditions Known:

"FEAR, the monster."

On April 16th, 1917, President Woodrow Wilson issued a proclamation. In this proclamation, our beloved-war-time President touched upon the evils that be-set, not only the United State of America, but all of the civilized nations of the world as well. He urged that we rise as a unit and suppress the great wave of German culture that threatened to engulf the whole of humanity. This occasion is now a matter of history and all of us know how this obstacle of Fear was met and overcome.

On February 3rd, 1932, our present President, Herbert Hoover, issued a proclamation and an appeal to the citizens of the United States. In this appeal President Hoover touched upon the evils that confronts our nation at present unless we again rise as a unit and crush "FEAR, the monster," under the iron heel of assurance, loyalty, confidence and patriotism.

In this proclamation Mr. Hoover said in part:

"During the great war our people gave their undivided energies to the nation's purpose. Today we are again engaged in a war of depression. If our people will give now the same service and the same confidence to our Government and to our institutions, the unity and solidity of courageous action which they gave during the great war we can overcome the situation."

The crisis that faced our citizenry fifteen years ago is as nothing compared with the crisis that we are facing at the present time. The enemy then was the Hun and his atrocities. Something tangible, a thing that could be met and destroyed by gun-powder, efficient armies, aeroplanes and war-ships. The present enemy is not a tangible thing outside of us, but the intangibles within our own thinking—a thing that must be met and destroyed, here and now in our own thoughts.

Starting with the stock market crash in 1929, "Fear, the monster," taking us unawares slipped into our consciousness and began its dastardly work. Like a microbe it has multiplied and multiplied until it has builded such a stronghold in the consciousness of all of us that it threatens not only our economical stability but the very basis of civilization.

Intangibles must be fought with intangibles. Confidence, optimism, fortitude and loyalty must route out and replace the thoughts of Fear, lack, unemployment and depression. We must realize that there is as much money now as there ever was in the past, that the scale of living in the United States is higher than ever before. Never before was there such an abundance of the essentials as today. We have only to realize this and know that no sense of Fear, no matter how acute, has the power to deprive us of the pleasure and achievement that is ours for the taking.

Through their aggressiveness, fortitude and industry, the citizens of the United States of America have made their nation the leader of the world. Again as in 1917, the other civilized nations of the world are looking to us as their savior. They are depending upon this glorious United States to lead them out of the morass of depression that is world wide. We did not fail them then nor will we fail them now.

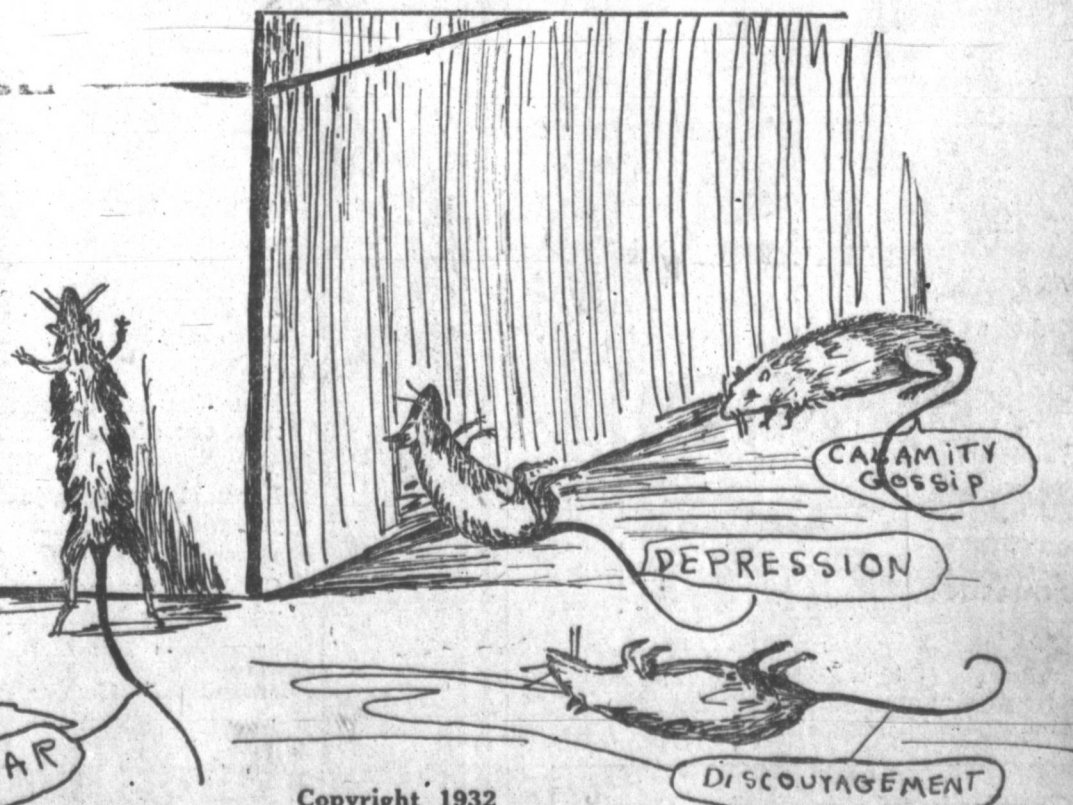

Just as soon as we as United States citizens route out "FEAR, the monster," from our consciousness, the remainder of the civilized nations of the world will follow in our foot-steps and the international economic situation will be back to normalcy.

This normalizing process is a process that must be started by all of us here at home. Just as soon as we as citizens not only of the United States, but of the towns and cities where we live and conduct our various businesses, begin to realize that the whole situation has come about through "FEAR, the monster," and begin to combat him by flaunting our independence in the face of him by putting to work those idle dollars that we have stored away, doing no good whatever; and put them to work for businesses, our families and ourselves. Just so soon will the monster be routed from our consciousness and we will be well on the way to the recovery of world economic stability.

Distinct Optimism in Local Retail Trade Circles Evident Here

UNIT GAINS OVER LAST YEAR REPORTED BY PRACTICALLY ALL MERCHANTS OF THE CITY

NEVER BEFORE COULD CUSTOMERS BUY SO WELL

Retail trade in Pampa during the past six weeks has been satisfactory to such an extent that the optimism of local merchants regarding future business conditions in the city is increasing daily. Conversation with business men during the last month has reflected this optimism.

Practically every clothing and dry goods merchant in the city reported a unit gain in the sale of merchandise during February over the same last year. E. M. Conley, manager of the Montgomery Ward store, said customer traffic had been heavier this year than last. H. D. Seys, manager of the J. C. Penney store, said the Penney store had a dollar and cent gain last month over the same period last year of sixty-three hundredths of one percent, and a unit gain of about 25 percent. "We are not complaining one bit—business is good," Mr. Seys said.

More Pulling Power

"Pampa has a better pulling power than last year," Mr. Conley declared. "Of course, we will always use customers to Amarillo, and Amarillo will lose them to Fort Worth and Fort Worth to Dallas and Dallas to Chicago and Chicago to New York and New York to Paris—the point is, Pampa has quality as a trade center."

Local grocers said they were not making as much money as last year because groceries were cheaper, but they were selling as many groceries, and perhaps more. The Robinsons at the Oil Belt, Carl Boston of the Biggy Wiggy, Robert Woodward of the Jitney Jungle, L. Baum of the Helpy Selly and others reported an increasing out-of-town business. The fact that residents of communities in adjoining and nearby counties are coming to Pampa to trade would not be so impressive if the population of Pampa had not increased in the last year. Everyone knows it has, no one disputes it. It is the general belief among merchants that this decrease in population has been offset by the increase in territorial trade.

Buying during the last year has been characterized by a search for values. People have shopped for their dollar's worth. They have bought more articles of merchandise but they have not paid as much for them as they did last year.

Prices Stabilized

Mr. Keys and H. L. Polley, the latter manager of Murfee's Inc., believe that wholesale prices have become practically stabilized during the last 90 days, and that there is now a tendency to hold on to this stabilization or to increase. The reason for this belief is that the manufacturers now left in the picture are staple, conservative, and will not operate at a loss.

W. C. Mitchell of Mitchell's, said the trade-at-home campaign has resulted in better brand of loyalty to Pampa merchants. Retail merchants have been treading precarious ground on account of the instability of the wholesale market, but the present tendency for an in-

Amarillo Buyers Praise Pampa as Shopping Center

Pampa merchants have turned the tables on Amarillo merchants in bigger Panhandle cities this year as far as women's apparel is concerned, and the women of both cities are authority for the statement. Heretofore, many Pampa women have come to other Panhandle towns to do their Easter shopping, but this year many Amarillo women came to Pampa to buy their Easter bonnets and outfits. Leading dealers of women's apparel in Pampa reported yesterday that they not only had the Pampa trade but some from Amarillo.

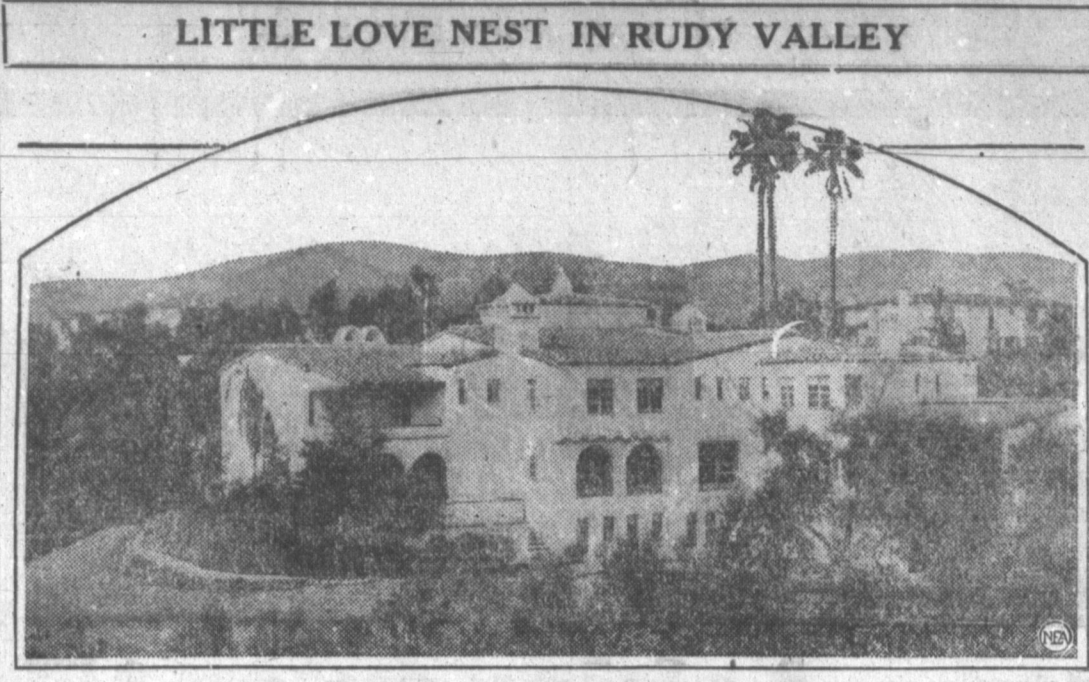

Most of the women who went to Amarillo to do their shopping returned to Pampa with no packages and ended by buying at local stores. For ten days it has been common talk among Pampa women that this year local stores carried more chic, stylish, up-to-date and inexpensive garments than could be found in any city in the entire Panhandle or South Plains. An Amarillo woman in a local store was heard to say to a Pampa woman, "Well, if you're going to buy any Easter clothes this year you'd better get them here—I just came from Amarillo and you've got more here than we have over there."

Every store in Pampa carrying women's apparel reported a good pre-Easter business. Crease should place the retail business on a firmer footing. Losses this year have been due to decrease in price of merchandise and not in number of sales.

"Business during the last six weeks reminded me of old times," Mr. Conley said. The local Montgomery Ward store ranked second in the state of Texas in dollar and cents during the company's recent Jubilee sale. Mr. Conley pointed out as another indication for better business in this locality the fact that the per cent of delinquent accounts due his store is very low. All stores reported a recent increase in demand for more units of merchandise.

A close check on out of town visitors since the first of the year has revealed that Pampa has definitely become the trade center for residents of Canadian, Miami, Wheeler, Snamrock, Mobeetie, White Deer, Groom, the east part of Carson county. Much trade also comes from Berger, Perryton, and Panhandle.

"People like to be invited to Pampa to trade," says Murray Freundlich, manager of Levine's store, "but it takes more than an invitation to get them here. People are looking for values and when we send our message to them they are quick to respond. The prices in Pampa are in line with other cities, and the quality is as good or better than they expect elsewhere."

Here's the little cottage where Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Vallee will croon love's old sweet song. It is one of the show places of the extensive Beverly Hills district near Hollywood and surmounts a knoll overlooking a pleasant valley dotted with homes tenanted by famous movie stars. Rudy just completed arrangements to purchase the place and paid more than $100,000 for it. He and his bride, the former Fay Webb of Santa Monica, Calif., will move in as soon as they can pick up a little furniture somewhere.

Tom Hunter Hits Money and 'Isms' in Mineola Talk

MINEOLA, March 26 (AP)—The largest crowd that ever attended a political meeting in Mineola heard Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls speak here today in behalf of his candidacy for the democratic nomination for governor. The crowd braved a light rain which started falling shortly before the address.

Henry C. Fuller, editor of the Nacogdoches Daily SENTINEL, said if other districts of the state follow the lead of the third senatorial district, Hunter will be the next governor of Texas.

Fuller then introduced Hunter, who opened his speech by paying tribute to Jim Hogg, one of Wood county's pioneer citizens. He followed this with a discussion of the meaning of political platforms.

"This is fight of man-power against money power," he said, "I intend to carry it to every part of Texas. We have allowed ourselves to be divided on 'isms' and prejudices until the enemies of good government for the plain people have installed themselves in the state capital and have taken charge."

Aged Negro Freed After 25 Years

AUSTIN, March 26 (AP)—H. Williams, negro who served 25 years in the penitentiary, will spend Easter a free man, Governor R. S. Sterling having issued a general pardon for him today.

Fifteen other clemencies were authorized by the governor from Houston after an inspection trip of prison system yesterday. The clemencies will come as Easter surprises to men picked personally by the governor during his tour.

Negro Bandit Is Shot to Death

HOUSTON, March 26 (AP)—Albert Johnson, negro, who robbed a drug store and without provocation shot a pedestrian last night, was found dead today in a brushy section of a city park.

Detectives who investigated concluded the immediate cause of his death was a pistol wound, supposedly inflicted by the occupant of some parked automobile on which the negro apparently had been creeping with the view of committing further violence.

In addition to the pistol wound, however, the body was marked with shotgun slugs fired at Johnson by D. G. Eckholm as the negro fled from the drug store.

Girl Radical Is Leader of Group

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Led by a red-headed, high tempered girl, a group of radicals gave police a vigorous battle for a few minutes today in front of the Japanese embassy before the struggle ended in the usual call for patrol wagons.

Several of the demonstrators were bleeding after the tumult was over and one patrolman, H. L. Morton went to a hospital where surgeons took five stitches in a cut over his eye. He was not seriously hurt. The girl leader of the radicals, who said she was Joan Hardy of Baltimore, was on the pavement unconscious as the fight ended.

Altar Members Hold Gathering

Altar society of the Holy Souls church held its last regular meeting during Lent last Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. William Cunningham.

Those attending were Mesdames Mary Conley, H. B. Carlson, William Dee, Lewis Eckert, J. A. Garman, F. J. Gill, Beesie Grady, A. M. Moore, L. H. Sullins, H. Waddell, and the hostess.

"My Home Town" Contest Will Be at Sweetwater

STAMFORD, March 26 (AP)—The "My Home Town" contest, feature of the annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce, will be held again this year. Notices that have gone out from headquarters offices here advise school officials. The convention will be held May 12, 13 and 14 at Sweetwater.

The Thomas Etheridge Jr., loving cup will be awarded the winner, together with cash prizes and scholarships to leading schools in Texas. C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, one of the donors of cash prizes, will direct the event.

Fred Stone Will Draw Big Crowd

The briskest mail-order sale of the season is underway at the auditorium at Amarillo for the engagement of America's favorite musical comedy star, Fred Stone, Saturday matinee and evening—Saturday, April 16, in his latest and biggest success, entitled, "Smiling Faces."

With him in chief support, is his own talented and fascinating daughter, Paula Stone, and in addition, the renowned Viennese motion picture star, Lotli Loder, who contributes several novel and intriguing specialties.

The Messrs. Shubert have provided, in addition to the artists named, such well known musical comedy favorite as Roy Royston, Billy Taylor, Hope Emerson, Doris Paterson, Isabel O'Madigan, Adnora Andrews, Eddie Garvie and Boyd Da-

CONSTRUCTION OF SCENIC ROAD IN DAVIS MOUNTAINS STARTED

BEAUTIES OF AREA TO BE STRIKINGLY SHOWN

PECOS, March 26 (AP)—Actual construction of the long-delayed 75-mile scenic highway through the green Davis mountains of the Big Bend country has started.

A steam shovel is at work on the first section of the highway, at the outskirts of the historic town of Fort Davis.

Grading on about three miles of the route has been completed and preliminary work has been done on other parts of the route.

The scenic highway will traverse the most beautiful part of the Davis range from Fort Davis to Kent, on the Bankhead highway. Most of it will be over a mile in altitude and some parts will skirt the pine-clad slopes of the mountains at a height of 6,000 feet or more.

Young Man Is Charged in Looting

BERNHAM, March 26 (AP)—Clayton Carter, 24, was charged today with the $1,705 robbery of the Burton, Washington county, state bank of March 3.

Sheriff H. Reese, in announcing that the robbery by firearms complaint had been lodged, said the county grand jury would begin an investigation of the case Monday.

Carter, arrested by Officer of Police T. A. Dreyer of Nacogdoches last Wednesday night, signed a statement after being taken before Sheriff R. D. Holliday of Polk county, Sheriff Holliday said at the time.

Kidnaping Clue Is That Babe Kept on Board Boat

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 26 (AP)—The nationwide hunt for Harry Fleischer and Able Wagner, "known kidnapers," was intensified today after a rum-runner told a representative of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh he thought they were the men he saw March on a boat on which a baby also was a passenger.

The unidentified man appeared at the famous flier's estate early today, refused to talk to state police, and said he would give his information only to Colonel Lindbergh or his representatives.

He told those who talked to him he was sure the two men on the boat were Fleischer and Wagner. He said he identified them after being shown pictures of the pair being sought.

It was not until late today that Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, announced the rum-runner's visit.

He said the man imparted his information "without any member of the police department being present," but that the official investigators later were given the substance of his remarks.

The rum runner is the same man who early this month told the Coast Guard of his encounter with the mysterious boat 25 miles at sea the day after the infant Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., was stolen from his home here.

The men asked for a compass, he explained, but when a baby who was below decks cried, the craft sped away.

It was virtually same story Colonel Schwarzkopf quoted him as telling early today, except that he added the possible identification of the two men.

SO THE PEOPLE MAY KNOW

Spike Those Malicious Rumors!

Rumors are being circulated, in connection with the coming city election of April 5, by "patriots" whose interest in Pampa affairs exists chiefly just before each election.

One of these tales concerns the selection of the next city manager. The present city manager has resigned and his resignation has been accepted. The undersigned candidates, if elected, will replace him by choosing his successor as soon as audits can be completed and details of the new administration arranged. We have made no promises to anyone concerning any public office. If elected, we will exercise our best judgment to the advantage of Pampa citizens.

The most dangerous enemy to civic well-being is he who would split a city wide open to satisfy his personal vanity and prejudices. Certainly Pampa at the present time, with a good future ahead if the citizenship pulls and works together, cannot afford to risk two years of strife. It would be our intention as public officials to serve every part of the city and every citizen alike, making economies which we think possible, and avoiding every semblance of factionalism.

We are impelled to make this statement because the above-mentioned rumors, by their very nature, tend to disrupt cooperation in other than civic affairs and work to the detriment of Pampa.

We pledge, without reservation, a sensible, economical, business administration and promise further that we will be responsive to the wishes of Pampa citizens as a whole and not to any individual, firm, corporation, division or league.

We ask your vote for the above reasons.

Terrible Ride Through Indian Country Is Described In Old Letter

HOW SMALL PARTY DASHED THROUGH ENEMY'S LINES AND OUTWITTED RED MEN RELATED

PANHANDLE'S DANGERS IN 1874 VIVIDLY TOLD

Through the courtesy of T. D. Hobart, The NEWS presents a hitherto unpublished letter by Major Frank D. Baldwin, famous Indian fighter of the Panhandle's frontier days, to his wife. Mr. Hobart obtained the letter, describing a remarkable ride and continuous fighting by Major Baldwin and three scouts, from General W. C. Brown, retired, of Denver. The intimate revelation of dangers long vanished from this section should be of exceptional local interest.

The letter, with deletions, follows: Fort Dodge, Kansas, Sept. 17, 1874.

My Darling Wife:

I wish I could have gone east when I was at Leavenworth. You don't know how badly I had to turn my back to the east when I was so near you. . . but General Pope told me yesterday that I should go east when we get through and stay as long as I wanted to, and you will not have me even ask to go during such times as these and especially as I have such a conspicuous position, I could not leave without incurring very much trouble. . . I think I have made a start and with my usual good luck at Indian fighting will make something of a reputation.

"Never Again"

I think my trip has been a good thing though I never want to try it again. You will see an account of it in the paper I sent you today; this was put in by Hathaway. I believe.

I never was treated more politely or with more consideration than by General Pope himself and all his staff. I was with him fully three hours relating incidents of my previous ride, as he called it, and his last words were: "Baldwin, you have done well and I don't want to lose such an officer by his running any unnecessary risk and very much to attempt to make the return trip to your command without a good escort." I will not, and never again will I make such a trip without I am ordered, but I felt that my scouts needed an example so I went as they were a little backward about going on such trips. I have made it, and the most perilous journey it was.

Worthy Example

Their chief has set them an example and one worthy for them to emulate (if I do say it) and in the future not one of them must ever fail to attempt at least to go wherever ordered, and I don't think they will.

I have had to answer more questions and repeat my story so often to the people I have met, that I shall be glad to get back, everybody on the train knew me and were asking all kinds of questions. I left off with my last narrative on the 31st of August, the next day after the big fight at Red river. That battle is to be known as the "Battle of Red River."

Scouted on Plains

On the first day of September, also on the second and third I lay in camp way up toward the head of Pleasant valley; that is, my command was up there. I stayed down at headquarters, so I enjoyed the rest very much. On the fourth, I scouted on the east side of the plains all day and at 2 o'clock on the morning of the fifth started on the main trail across the staked plains, the command following about 5 a. m. We marched out on this barren level about 35 miles when we came to good water and halted to rest, the main column not moving out seven miles as far as I had gone. Here I received orders to return to the command which I did, rejoining it at six in the evening. After a short rest of an hour, the General, Baird, Wetmore, and myself with two scouts and five orderlies started back to the camp we had left in the morning where we arrived at 2 o'clock in the morning of the 6th.

Good Breakfast

Here Major Biddle (6th cavalry) provided us a good place to sleep. . . After taking breakfast consisting of ham, bacon and coffee and bread without sugar, at 8 o'clock we started for the main supply camp where Colonel Bristow (captain 5th infantry) and Captain Ewers were in camp. We reached the place at 1 p. m., so you see from 2 a. m. on the 5th to 1 p. m. on the 6th I had ridden about 90 miles and all on one poor horse. At 4 this p. m. the General intimated that he wanted some of us to go to Supply with important dispatches and asked me if I did not want to go. I, of course, could not say no and at 8 p. m. my orders were handed to me and to my surprise I was ordered into Leavenworth with not only written but verbal messages for General Pope in person.

Takes Three Men

At 8:30 p. m. I was ready, had chosen three of my best men who had proven the bravest of my scouts and we started off with light hearts although not without some doubt of a perfectly safe journey. The entire night was spent on the road and not until 4:30 a. m. of the 7th did we pull our rein. We had made over 40 miles from the command, and tired and hungry we sought to find a place where we would be secured from our wily enemy that we might have a day of quiet which both man and beast required before continuing our journey; in fact we did not intend traveling during the day at all.

"They Are Coming!"

You know that when I am in an Indian country I am always on the look out and I was not napping this morning. As soon as I had got into camp, I sent a man to a high point nearby while the balance of the party unsaddled. I got a cup of coffee. This man had not been on post more than half an hour before the alarm of "They are coming!" was given by him in a low tone of voice. This was enough; we all knew what was coming. Each of us grasped his rifle, clambered up the almost precipitate bank, got into a good position, and then only had to wait a few minutes before twenty-six (counted by myself) came dashing over the hill and within 50 yards of us. I cannot describe my feelings. There were 26 Indians at least, and there was many another not far away, to my little band of four, including myself, but braver and more determined men than those three who were with me never leveled a rifle on an enemy as they came over the hill and got in full view.

Three Indians Fall

Each man singled out his Indian and three of the red devils fell from their horses never again to rise; two of us had fired at the same Indian, which accounts for there not having been four killed. My men are all good shots and you know I can do that kind of work very well but this was what they did not expect—the Indians thought to make easy prey of us and without loss to themselves. They fell back out of sight and gathered around us, occupying all of the bluff within range but very careful not to expose their worthless carcasses to the unerring aim of my party. We remained here for an hour after the first volley, and finding that we were surrounded and our enemy was in such cramped places, I gave the order to saddle up and get out. This was

Easter Bridge Party Is Given

A basket of yellow Easter lilies centered each table, and a small basket filled with Easter eggs was given as a favor to each guest at the party given for the Happy-Go-Lucky Bridge club in the home of Mrs. Rural Casey, near Skellytown, Friday afternoon. The Easter season was suggested, throughout the party.

At the close of five games of bridge, awards for high cut and high score were given Mrs. Betty Weeks, and another cut prize was given Mrs. Thelma Fletcher.

Mrs. Casey was assisted by Mrs. Burtz in serving delicious refreshments. Those attending were Mesdames Nell Brown, Edie Scott, Betty Weeks, Zelda Stafford, Mazie Burtz, Thelma Fletcher, Jessie Clifford, and the hostess.

Mrs. Burtz will entertain the club next Friday afternoon in her home at Shell camp.

MAN HUNT FOR M'GANEGAL IN DALHART COUNTRY RECALLED

REVENGE ROBBERY LED TO MURDER THEN PRISON

DALHART, March 26. (AP)—Trial of Barney McGanegal, accused slayer of John Cherris at Houston recalled to many oldtimers of Dalhart and Texline the beginning of his criminal career in this section 20 years ago.

One of these is Deputy Sheriff Ed Reeves, who also was a deputy under former Sheriff John E. McGanless when McGanegal was first sentenced to the penitentiary for burglary in 1912 and three years later for murder. He was sentenced both times under the name of Mackley.

The first time McGanegal, or Mackley, was sentenced to the penitentiary, he was found guilty of the burglary of Dr. Bingham's hardware store at Texline. A second attempt to rob the same store for "revenge" three years later resulted in his killing R. C. Brownlee, who with two other Texline citizens surprised McGanegal and his companion leaving the store.

McGanegal and John McCoy were sentenced to serve from five to 50 years in the penitentiary for the Brownlee murder. McGanegal left the penitentiary on parole last April 4, after serving 15 years.

Deputy Sheriff Reeves described the manhunt that led to the arrest of McGanegal and McCoy as the most colorful this section has known. They became friends in the penitentiary and agreed to meet at Trinidad, Colo., when both had served their sentences. At Trinidad they stole a horse and hack from a peddler and started back to Texas.

At Texline, McCoy quoted McGanegal as saying: "I was sent up for robbing old man Bingham's store here, and I'm going back to get even, I'm going to rob it again." Just as they left the store Brownlee and his hunting companions, W. L. Burns, John Garvey and George Henderson, returned from a hunting trip to Buffalo Spring. One of the group, some said Brownlee, fired at the men with a shotgun. McGanegal and McCoy returned the fire and Brownlee was fatally wounded. He died on a locomotive as it rushed him toward a Dalhart hospital.

Sheriff McCanless quickly organized a posse to give chase. Beneath a window of the hardware store they found the tracks of two men. The sole of the right shoe of one of the men was worn to leave an imprint of half-moon shape. The posse followed these tracks, the

Cameron County Boasts of Paving

BROWNSVILLE, March 26. (AP)—When the present program of concrete paving of highways in Cameron county is completed, this county will have a total of 300 miles of concrete roads.

This was revealed recently by County Judge Oscar C. Dancy, after a check of paving records in other counties and of the work in this county.

The county now has approximately 254 miles of concrete highway, with about 15 miles more under construction. Part of the $7,000,000 bond issue voted in 1927 still has not been sold, a sufficient amount to finance paving to complete the 300-mile program of the county, Judge Dancy said.

All of the hard surfacing in the county is concrete. Cameron county was one of the first counties in Texas to put down concrete highways, and the first concrete roads put down, in 1920, are still in good shape except for waves, caused by the concrete's buckling. The county plans to alter this soon.

PIONEER VERY TIRED OF TALE

WELLINGTON MAN SAYS THE MAILS NEVER BOTHERED

WELLINGTON, March 26. (AP)—Emphatically denying any basis for modern fiction and motion pictures which depict the stage coaches and mail carriers of the early Texas days as victims of Panhandle bandits during the lawless 80's, Judge I. W. Myers, second postmaster in this section and the oldest living pioneer in Collingsworth county, said that during the half century he had lived in the Panhandle no attempt has been made to interfere with the United States mails.

Judge Myers came to the Panhandle in 1882 and organized the second postoffice in this section, which he named Fresno. In 1902 he assisted in organizing Collingsworth county, which was known as "Killingsworth county" for 25 years because the cowboys were killed on the slightest pretext. "It is ridiculous the way this portion of the world has been played up through modern literature and

RISE IN PRICE OF CRUDE IS SEEN AS CONSTRUCTIVE STEP IN BOLSTERING WORK

Larger Production Will Be Possible As Income Is Improved in Area.

The 1932 offensive toward restoring the oil price structure to a profitable level, opened Thursday with the Continental Oil company setting $1 a barrel as top price for oil in the Midcontinent field. It is expected here that the increased price will spread into Texas, especially the Panhandle.

The price hike in Oklahoma and Kansas was 15 cents a barrel. A similar raise in the Panhandle would bring peak price to 88 cents a barrel. It is estimated that if the price raise will be general throughout Texas, it will raise the oil return of the state approximately $3,750,000.

Three out of the last four price raises have been started by the Continental Oil company. The company was the first to hike oil from 22 cents a barrel. Continental also instituted the last raise.

Pampa oil men are practically unanimous in characterization of the increase as a constructive move. They feel that oil products will never move back to the old base. In addition to direct benefit to landowners, all increases in the price structure from this point on are expected to give the producing departments of the oil companies a margin for the acquisition of leases and moderate development which they have not had since oil prices collapsed last year.

In varying from the usual practice of announcing the price cut retroactive to the morning of the day when it is made public, Continental in this instance makes the effective date of the price raise a week in advance. This is done in order that the refining and marketing division will have time to adjust its operations to the new crude level, without the dislocation and shock which has marked crude changes in the past.

An increase in the price of crude will mean an increase in production and more money will be put in circulation through hiring of men. Local business men who see a bright future. Although the Panhandle allowable is 55,000 barrels, not more than 47,000 barrels are being produced at the present time.

Many producers have been waiting for the price to raise before drilling additional wells. Several Gray county wells are at various stages of completion. The Danciger Oil company has two wells in the pay. The company's No. 2 Wright in the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of section 13, block 3, is deepening at 2,805 feet after finding a pay which started out at 100 barrels an hour but dropped to 20 barrels an hour last week. The first pay was encountered about 2,775 feet.

The same company's No. 3 Byrum in the northeast corner of the east half of the northeast quarter of section 18, block 3, West Pampa pool, is making 125 barrels a day natural but will be shot, according to company officials. Pay was encountered at 3,250 feet.

The Skelly Oil company's No. 25 Schafer in the southeast corner of section 18, block 3, has encountered a heavy flow of gas for that territory and is making some oil. The test will be completed immediately. The same company's No. 26 in the southwest corner of section 17, block 3, has also topped the pay and is being completed.

OLD LETTER

come with promptness then we had to lead the horses out as the banks were so precipitous to ride up and all must be done under very heavy, but I am glad to say we were directed fire. When we gained the crest of the hill we were fully exposed to the concentrated fire.

Charge - Fight Them
We mounted and I gave the order to draw pistols and charge through their line, which was done and it will seem like egotism for me to say this, but it was done as only brave men can do such desperate acts.

After we had finally cleared ourselves from them we brought our horses down to a trot and did not increase this gait, rather trusting to our rifles to keep our already pursuing friends at proper distance than to tire our horses out on the start. After going about two miles, keeping up a brisk fire from on horseback they had so gained on us that we were compelled to dismount and again try them on foot, which was done and successfully, for we drove them back to our rear over a mile.

Indians in Ruse
But while they were retreating at our immediate rear, another party got in our front again. We mounted and charged through the screeching hounds, killing two or three on this charge with revolvers. Again we galloped off for two miles or more when they came up with us but more cautiously than before; they had learned the almost deadly results of shots from our rifles. Here we made another stand, dismounted. This was the last, for after we emptied more saddles they would not venture nearer than 1,500 yards. After we mounted again they continued to follow us but at such a distance that their shots fell short every time.

We made for the level plain and when I found a good place where they could not come nearer than 200 yards without exposing themselves, halted and secured our horses, determined to remain there and fight until darkness could cover our retreat, but after remaining in the place for an hour and our friends not coming to accept our challenge (but keeping in sight all the time),

LAND TERRACED

Terracing lines were constructed during the last week of the farms of Charles Gatlin and W. R. Campbell by County Agent Ralph R. Thomas. Mr. Gatlin lives east of Webb school house. Mr. Campbell's farm is east of town.

We concluded that in-as-much as the plain was about dead level and there would be no chance for them to ambush us, and having every confidence in my men and their trusty rifles, I started taking a course due north over a barren, trackless country.

Heavy Rain Falls

To add to our discomfort it was raining as only it can when it gets started on the western deserts, and during the fight we had lost everything in the shape of wrappings and all we did save was our rifles, ammunition and six pieces of hard bread each which was reduced to a dough by the rain, and for two days and nights we were without a mouthful of anything but grapes and acorns. Not for one minute did it stop raining. I can't give any idea about the journey. The Indians were on our trail and all around us constantly. I trust I shall never be called on to perform another such journey, but this was not the end.

On the morning of the 8th, as we neared the banks of the dry Washita, I ran into a camp of Comanches, numbering about one hundred, and we had got within three quarters of a mile and had been discovered by their outpost, but this time we were up to snuff. As we all had blankets on, we looked more like Indians than white men, and taking it regular Indian style, lay down on our horses and galloped right ahead. We had not gone very far before we ran onto their picket, who had two horses, both of which we captured, and the Indian too, and turned them off into the timber which was about half a mile away.

Were Desperate

This was the climax. The idea of four men on worn out horses, dashing through a camp of 100 wild Indians, capturing, and carrying off one of their men and two Indian ponies! But we had all grown desperate, and not having any thought of being able to get through, we were bound to put on a bold front and sell out for all we were worth after gaining timber before doing which we had to swim the river three times. All felt relieved, for in the timber we could defend ourselves against their camp until dark.

We continued our journey down the Washita for about fifteen miles, or until dark, being careful not to leave the timber, and after dark crossed over the divide onto the Canadian, striking it about sixteen miles west of Antelope hills.

Indian Was White

Here I found Major Lyman (Captain, 5th U. S. infantry) in camp with the supply train for General Mille's command. Here I got fresh horses, and turned my Indian (who proved to be a white man who had lived with the Indians since he was 6 years old) over to Major Lyman, and increasing my number by two men, making five scouts and myself.

We dug holes in the sand and lay there all day waiting for night to come. Major Lyman had gone on and left us early in the morning. Nothing of interest happened during the day of the 9th, and as soon as it was dark, I started on for Supply, a distance of 75 miles, where I arrived next morning at 10 a. m.

Terrible Ride

I have made some terribly hard rides in my life but never did I make one that could in any way compare with this one. I rode from 8 o'clock on the evening of the 6th until 10 a. m. on the 10th with only about fourteen hours rest, and that was after the first 60 hours, riding a distance not far from 400 miles. I hope I shall never have another such ride to make and not only the ride but we had to fight our way through for two days.

I left Camp Supply on the morn-

AN EASTER OUTLINE OF HISTORY

Potter Paving Is in Rough Country

AMARILLO, March 26. (P)—The seven-mile stretch of paving immediately south of the Canadian river bridge, on state highway 8, in Potter county, is being cited by state engineers as a model bit of difficult highway construction.

Built across one of the roughest sections of the Panhandle, the road now has but one curve, and that a mile long. The new route crosses the route of the old highway 17 times in the seven miles.

Engineers describe the road through the brakes near the Canadian river as the most difficult piece of construction in the Panhandle. W. J. Van London, state construction engineer in Amarillo, expressed the belief that it would compare favorably with any highway construction in the southwest. Oscar Seward, resident engineer, supervised the construction. The paving has been open to traffic only a few days.

ing of the 11th and am writing here (Pt. Dodge, Kans.) at 12 m. on the 12th; remained here until 4 p. m. of the 13th, proceeded to Leavenworth by rail, where I arrived on the 14th at 3 p. m. and was received with hearty welcomes from all. I have already quoted the general (Pope) and what he said about being careful. I shall not go any place again without a strong escort.

More Trouble

You can realize without anticipating all the danger in the world that we will have lots of hard work to do yet and you must not expect that I shall be clear from joining it as a matter of duty, if nothing more. . . . On the 16th I started to dodge where I arrived today (17th). Tomorrow I start for Supply with a good strong escort.

The reports from the front this morning are that Major Lyman's train was surrounded by 400 Indians and he could not get out for four days. He lost one killed and three wounded. Lt. Lewis of our regiment was shot through the knee and will lose his leg. You had better retain my letters, as I keep a limited diary, and on my up-trip lost it. So what I have written contains all of my diary.

Yours truly and forever,
Frank (D. Baldwin).

Penney Sales in February Show Month's Gains

Gross sales of the J. C. Penney company for the month ending February 29, 1932 were $9,586,397.90 compared with gross sales for the same period of 1931 of $9,528,559.27. This reveals a comparative gain for the month of $57,838.63, equivalent to .63 percent.

Commenting on the gain registered for the month of February, E. C. Sams, president, said: "This is the first time we have been able to show a comparative gain in twenty-one months. Directly following the holiday activities, there were rather definite indications that people were buying more readily than they have been for several months.

"The comparative gain of .63 per cent is of significance when it is taken into consideration as to what it must mean in terms of gains in the number of items of merchandise sold."

picture shows," Judge Myers said. "I will admit that we had a shooting scrape every week when there were only 176 men in the county and for over 25 years a feud flourished between the factions, but never to my recollection did the mail ever fail to go though. Government regulations were just about as strict then as they are now—and besides there never was anything in the mails much except personal letters.

"I have the highest respect for literature and feel that it does much toward the development of civilization, but it gives me pain to read a story, based on the 'lawless 90's' of the Panhandle and find that a bold, bad bandit has taken thousands of dollars from the stage or mail coach.

"I came to the Panhandle in the Pony Express days and ran a postoffice when mail coaches were in their prime, but never in my life did I hear of the mails being robbed in this section.

"Occasionally I have seen a bad hombre shot in church and there are six bullet holes in the courthouse representing shooting scrapes there, but I never did hear of any gun play in a postoffice or of a stage coach being held up in this section."

half-moon always visible. The tracks ended abruptly at Perico creek, south of Texline a few miles, but the tracks of a wagon or hack led away to the southeast.

They were overtaken in the vehicle drawn by a single horse about sunup the following morning. In the wagon was a piece of strap iron that corresponded with marks on the window frame at the hardware store. McGanegal's right shoe made the queer half-moon impressions.

Brownlee's widow, now Mrs. W. L. Burns, and his son, R. C. Brownlee, still live in Texline. McCanness, whose exploits, as "Scan'lous John" are known throughout the Panhandle, is a cattle inspector at Clayton, N. M.
