Young Amarillo Man Leaps to His Death From Office Structure

CROWD HEARS GLASS BREAK FAR OVERHEAD

SEES BODY FALL UPON PAVEMENT THIS MORNING

GEORGE RAMSEY VICTIM

FAILING HEALTH LIKELY MOTIVATES MAD ACTION

PAMPA, May 13. (P)—George F. Ramsey, 26, early today fell of leaped to his death from the seventh floor of a downtown office building here. Death was instantaneous.

The body fell on one of Amarillo's busiest streets. Attracted by the shattering of glass in the seventh story window, crowds of business men and salesmen, hurrying to work, witnessed the fall.

Officers said Ramsey apparently ran some distance down a hallway to hurl himself through the heavy plate glass. The seventh floor of the building is unoccupied, having been vacated recently by a large business concern.

Ramsey was in failing health and had not been employed since last September when he resigned as a drug store clerk. Former employees said he had brooded about his physical condition and about unemployment.

I SAW—

That Mrs. DeLea Vicars peonies are blooming again at the Vicars residence on North Frost. The peonies are late extremely beautiful. Almost every year is a good year for peonies in Pampa.

The Frontier Days exhibit on the display window of the Standard Food Market. Good idea. Mr. F. S. Brown, and Jimmie Manatt, the fellow who painted on the glass is painted a bucking broncho being ridden "sick" by a cowboy. Words painted on it welcome old timers to the celebration here May 26-28.

The bucking fliwer bouncing up and down Foster and Cuyler. Paul Crossman was at the wheel and Buster Strickland was trying to be a passenger. A car will buck when the wheels are set off center—in case you are interested to know and don't know.

BILL BENEFICIAL

AUSTIN, May 13 (AP)—Officials of the Texas department of agriculture believe the law to regulate cotton acreage will have a beneficial effect even though declared unconstitutional and held unenforceable by the courts.

THE WEATHER

OKLAHOMA: Fair, warmer tonight and Saturday.
WEST TEXAS: Generally fair tonight and Saturday; warmer in north portion tonight.

—AND A SMILE

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Because he feels inferior, A. K. Johnson would like to have $65,000, a considerable sum at any time. He sued Mrs. Vera L. Perrin for that amount, alleging she was responsible for an auto mishap that left him with an inferiority complex.

Little Business Men Really Have Big Problems

Pay-days are important in the lives of all business men.

This also is true of the little business men who carry the Pampa Daily News on the routes. They have their own obligations to meet, and their problems are as big to them as are the responsibilities of the great financiers. Some of the boys have bought bicycles, some are buying their own clothing, others are virtually feeding their families.

They will appreciate your having the weekly payment of 15 cents ready when they call Saturday.

COMING

If you haven't already planned to attend the Daily NEWS' FREE Cooking School, don't delay to do so.

Three days of entertainment and fascinating instruction, starting at 2:30 p. m., in the City auditorium, are yours just for the asking.

Mrs. Ihrig, noted economist, who will be in charge, will probably arrive here tomorrow. She declares she expects to bring local housewives a new conception of what the kitchen really should be—a "Happy Kitchen."

Every housewife in Pampa and Gray county is invited.

This paper has spared no trouble or expense in procuring for this City one of the most interesting, authoritative and useful features modern scientific cookery affords. Be early and be sure of a seat!

Expenses Large

The expenses of having a Frontier Days celebration which will attract thousands to this city must necessarily be large. It is to the rodeo that the management looks for the income sufficient to pay expenses. The rodeo performances and contests will provide entertainment of the highest order.

Ideal Arena

Admission at the gate will be 75 cents each performance. Some of the best rodeo stars in the country will contest before each audience. Every seat in the big football stadium will be a good one. It is an ideal rodeo arena. Every person in Pampa should see one performance at least; many will wish to see the matinee or night performance daily. This means that every family will need several tickets.

Cheapest Now

The cheapest way to buy tickets is to buy a book of them NOW. Bought in books, they are 50 cents each or six for $3. No single tickets will be sold at this time. Many of us will have guests coming from other cities. Now is the time to get all the tickets we expect to need. The Junior chamber will set aside 25 per cent of these advance sales for the general expenses of the event.

Need Stability

The success of Frontier Days is going to depend, very largely, upon its financial stability this year. The chambers do not intend to take up subscriptions and donations, as are customary in cities having fairs. The issue is before the citizenship now in the form of the advance ticket sale. There has been universal approval of the idea; not—please—let's have as complete and as concrete a response in buying tickets. Let's put this celebration over in a big way.

Philosophy

It is important, in electing

SWEETWATER, May 14 (P)—Texans at their annual chamber of commerce convention today shifted their attention from local problems to a consideration of the broader fields of commerce and foreign trade.

They heard two speakers, H. G. Smith, president of the National Council of American Shipbuilders, and James S. Carson, vice-president of the American and Foreign Power company, both of New York.

Smith said the American merchant marine had been built up to carry about 40 per cent of the nation's exports to foreign markets, compared with only eight per cent at the outbreak of the world war. He said an inadequate fleet cost the nation millions of dollars during the war, then stressed the importance of a large merchant marine to handle commerce in time of peace and its still greater value during foreign conflicts.

Careful Reading of Ads Obvious

A check of answers turned in to THE NEWS in the missing-letters contest page published yesterday showed a careful reading of the advertisements appearing on the page. Hundreds of answers were turned in, most of which were correct.

The eighteen tickets given through the courtesy of the LaNora Theatre, Thompson Hardware company, Pampa Office Supply company, Gordon Store, The Diamond Shop, Kees & Thomas, Murfee's, Inc., and the Brownbilt Shoe Store will be awarded to the following:

Hazel Christian, first prize, 5 La Nora tickets; Maxine Aggers, second prize, 3 La Nora tickets; Earl Rogers, Josephine Gantz, Jack Foster, Mrs. Chas. E. Davis, and C. S. Boston, 2 tickets each for the next five prizes.

Tickets will be available at The NEWS this afternoon. Winners may get them here after 4 o'clock today or any time Saturday.

Harris Named To College Position

Therman Harris, head of the mathematics department of Pampa high school, has been elected head of the education department of Texas Woman's college, Fort Worth. It was learned here this morning. The Rev. Tom W. Brabham, former pastor of the First Methodist church here, is president of the school.

Mr. Harris is just completing his first year in the local school system. He was coach of the debate team, and the Pampa girls won first place at the district.

Much Alimony Is Asked of Bowers

Suit for a divorce and for $300,000 in alimony was filed this week in district court here by Mrs. Thelma Bowers against her husband, Joe Bowers. Mrs. Bowers asked for division of property and for $300 a month to support her until that time.

The lengthy divorce petition was filed through her attorneys, Cole & Porter of Clarendon. It cites that a divorce petition was filed in April but was later dismissed. Cruelty was charged in the petition.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowers were married in January, 1931.

Carl D. Heldt, of Evansville, Ind., Purdue tackle, was declared the most improved gridman in spring practice.

DRIVER WINS LAP PRIZE

Cupid did some fast flying to overtake Billy Arnold, youthful Chicago automobile racer, who won the 1930 500-mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis and was in a fair way of repeating his victory in 1931 when disaster cheated him. Here you see Billy and his bride, formerly Dorothy Canfield of Detroit, who will spend their honeymoon at Indianapolis where Arnold will prepare for this year's race. He is confident of a comeback.

REICHERS HAS TAKEN OFF ON OCEAN FLIGHT

REPAIRS STABILIZER AT HARBOR GRACE QUICKLY

WILL LAND AT DUBLIN

MAY HALVE TIME MADE BY LINDBERGH ON SAME TRIP

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., May 13 (P)—Lou Reichers hopped off for Dublin, Ireland, at 8:30 a. m., New Foundland daylight time (5:30 a. m. CST), today after effecting repairs to his stabilizer, broken in landing on his hop from Newark, N. J., to Harbor Grace.

Harbor Grace was the Arlington, N. J., speed flier's first scheduled refueling stop on a three-hop flight from Newark, N. J., to Paris. From Harbor Grace he proposed to fly to Dublin, Ireland, to pick up a second supply of fuel and continue to Paris.

It was at first believed repairs to a stabilizer he had broken in landing would hold him here for several hours but mechanics began work on the broken part immediately and repairs were completed within two hours.

The speed flier is attempting to halve the time of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's non-stop flight from New York to Paris in 1927. Reichers expected to make the flight in about 16 hours.

The weather was considered favorable as Reichers headed his plane eastward and began the most perilous part of his journey. The 550 gallons of fuel in the tanks of his machine was believed sufficient for 12 flying hours. The aviator hoped to make 200 miles an hour.

I HEARD--

There was quite a commotion and exclamations of delight from the 40 persons who attended the Junior High Parent-Teacher association meeting yesterday. It was all caused by a glimpse for the first time of the "most distinguished guest," little R. B. Fisher, Jr., tiny son of the superintendent. "A beautiful baby!" it was agreed.

Murray Freundlich asking Red Michael, local wrestler, why he was not getting any matches in Amarillo. Red told his new manager the reason and Murray immediately got into action. The outcome should be interesting.

Hoover Orders Intense Secret Service Probe

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—President Hoover today directed the law enforcement agencies and secret service of the federal government to set out upon a hunt for the murderers of the Lindbergh baby. "Never to be relaxed until those criminals are implacably brought to justice."

The president issued the following statement: "I have directed the law enforcement agencies and the several secret services of the federal government to make the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby a live and never to be forgotten case, never to be relaxed until these criminals are implacably brought to justice. "The federal government does not have police authority in such crimes but its agencies will be unceasingly alert to assist the New Jersey police in every possible way until this end has been accomplished."

Previously it was learned that neither of the baby's parents would view the body, with a view to keep fresh in their memories the picture of the child as they knew him before the kidnaping.

NEW YORK, May 13 (P)—The New York American published today what it said it had learned from a source in the Lindbergh kidnaping case was exemplified by the intense demand for Pampa Daily News "extras," two of which were issued. More than a thousand copies were sold. Although the Associated Press wire had closed for the day before the story was released, it was re-opened immediately for transmission of all the known facts.

MAKE THE PUNISHMENT FIT THE CRIME

A. P. Reporters Always First and Always Trusted

NEW YORK, May 13 (P)—This note in sent in recognition of the reportorial work of Francis A. Jamieson, Samuel G. Blackman, and their associates of the New Jersey staff of the Associated Press, who, through their reportorial efforts first sounded the world wide alarm by bulleting the kidnaping of the Lindbergh child 72 nights ago, and whose untiring work from that hour up to and including last night's development has been trustworthy, energetic, and capable.

It is in fact work that creates an epic in the annals of news reporting. Always have they been first with the news. Never have they given cause for criticism in carrying on with one of the most tragic and most delicate of new stories.

The public seldom hears of the successes and disappointments of the individual reporter, but, as in this instance when their work has brought to the Lindbergh home the sympathy of all the people, the urge to point to their accomplishment with pride, is compelling. Kent Cooper, general manager, The Associated Press.

Hopewell-Mount Rose highway, had halted and Allen had left it to enter the woods.

Brush and undergrowth blocked his path. He stooped and pushed it aside.

Beneath the brush, underneath a layer of rotting leaves, lay the body of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., only child of Anne, daughter of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, and Charles Lindbergh.

Clinging to the decomposed body was weather-worn flannel that had kept the baby warm that night of March 1 when his nurse tucked him into his crib. The shreds of baby clothing were identification enough; these, and the matted, curly blonde hair.

Today, a horror-kindled incentive drove forces of the law to unrestrained hunt for the murderer. The losses of secrecy and of fear for the baby's safety no longer held. It was no longer necessary to exercise extreme care. Murder had been done.

"Terrific Blow"
A compound fracture of the skull caused death. The murder evidently was done very soon after the kidnaping, probably within an hour. A mad mar, apparently, muscled either by an intense hatred or an overpowering fear, struck the child dead. Physicians described it as a "terrific blow."

No weapon has been found. There was added possibility the baby had been hurled violently from a motor-car.

State police of New Jersey who have been in direct charge of the search for the baby made the identification of the body. A physician added confirmation. Later Miss public officials, to get men of the right political philosophy. In our complex civilization, there is no room for experimenters who have no idea where they are going, nor for radicals who would destroy a million dollars worth of property to do a thousand dollars' worth of good.

No Mystery

One of the best things that can be said of John Garner is that there is no mystery about him. He is solid as a rock in fundamentals of government and knows exactly the chances of any piece of legislation to be enacted into law. A student of economics and an authority on government finance, Garner is a happy combination of the politician who knows business.

Futility

Mr. Hoover, as a business man president, has illustrated the futility of trying to run the government as a corporation is managed. Congress is a body of myriad interests and competing points of view. Any president, to put over a constructive program, must be able to fathom the complexities of congress and sense the will of the people's representatives. Too many of the presidential candidates in sight are either totally inexperienced in government or without training in the business of government. Mr. Garner is fortunately a man with the background necessary to bring order out of chaos.

Perishing

Says the Childress IN-DEX:
"Very little of what was here in pioneer days remains now, for the forces of civilization, like time, change everything. Soon all the old-timers will be gone, and those who were once considered the ure house of the world" and said the United States should look to it for the return of its high ranking ports, and the accessibility of this region

to Latin America.

Both speakers attached local interest to their subjects with facts about the long Texas Gulf coast line and its high ranking ports,
and the accessibility of this region
to Latin America.

The general convention passed resolutions today opposing crop production loans, favoring federal regulation of trucks and buses, and commending the directors of Texas Technological college, Lubbock, for their recent action in declining to ask for state appropriations to carry out an expansion program.

Declaring that the emergency which led the regional organization in 1930 to sponsor the fight for federal aid for drought stricken farmers had passed, the convention voted to oppose "crop production loans and any other subsidy of credits not consistent with sound economics, except in grave and proven emergencies."

Three resolutions on bus and truck traffic were recommended, including certificates of convenience, evidence of quality, permanency, and financial responsibility and the publication and adherence to rates. The resolution also favored taxing them heavily for highway upkeep.

ENTERS POLITICS

LULING, May 13. (AP)—Zebulun
Vance, Nixon attorney, today announced his candidacy as a representative to the legislature. He lived formerly at Kingsville and Wichita Falls and at present is judge advocate of the Texas department of the American Legion.
In his race he opposes Maurice Dowd, an ex-service man serving his first term.

olastic swimming meet this year.

young blood of this section will be looked upon as pioneers, not in the sense of opening up new territory for the handiwork of man, but because they carried on the march of civilization which those before them instituted."
And this is all the more reason why the records of frontier days should be assembled and kept in a permanent museum, such as it to be built at Canyon if the necessary funds can be raised. Furthermore, these facts form a background for Pampa's Frontier Days of May 26-28.

TICKETS—

20 members of the Junior chamber of commerce under the direction of George Limerick, met in the chamber of commerce rooms and received their allotments.

Tickets will be sold in books of six for $3. Closing time of the bargain price will be midnight of May 25. After that hour, admission tickets will be 75 cents each instead of 50 cents by books in advance. The Jassey started out to sell 2,000 books of tickets. The organization will receive 25 per cent of all monies received from the advance sale of tickets and 10 per cent of gross receipts at the gate. The money will be used to defray expenses of sponsoring the celebration.

Only Tickets Sold
There will be no begging for money or asking for charity among the merchants and business men of the city. When a man buys his quota of tickets he will have done his share towards sponsoring the greatest celebration in the history of Pampa.

Thousands of visitors will be brought to Pampa during the three days, hence merchants buying from books of tickets up will not be donating but will be investing. They can give the tickets away to their customers and friends or to anyone they desire, and goodwill will be created.

The following men will call on

Re-Financing of Farm Debts Has Favorable Vote

WASHINGTON, May 13. (AP)—The Frazier bill for a bond and treasury note issue to refinance agricultural indebtedness at low interest rates was reported favorably today by the senate agriculture committee without a record vote.

The committee did not act on the McNary resolution to finance foreign sales of farm bonds wheat and cotton with $100,000,000 from the reconstruction corporation or on other farm relief measures.

The Frazier bill, sponsored by the National Farmers' union would permit loans at 1 1/2 per cent interest, to be retired at 1 1/2 per cent yearly.
Loans would be limited to funds for liquidating and refinancing farmers' debts, estimated by various farm organizations to aggregate between $6,000,000,000 and $9,000,000,000.

MILLS OPPOSES BILLS

WASHINGTON, May 13. (AP)—Secretary Mills in a letter to the senate banking committee today opposed as "unjust to the general creditors" the Sheppard bill to make shippers of goods, who collect through national banks, preferred creditors of those institutions in case of receivership. The letter was placed in the record as hearings on the measure sponsored by Senator Sheppard (D., Tex.) began.

Sisters' Record Being Checked

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 13. (AP)—
City detectives, on request of New Jersey state police, today began checking court records of two sisters employed as domestics and arrested here in 1929.

The New Jersey authorities did not say whether the information was wanted in connection with the hunt for the killers of Charles A. Lindbergh. The detectives said, however, the request came from an official who went aboard in the Lindbergh kidnaping investigation.

The telegram to Pittsburgh officers said the sisters were named
"either Tinko or Tinco."

Major Charles Schoeffel, assistant superintendent of the state police, went to England and Scotland in connection with the Lindbergh case.

LOCAL FIGHT FANS BACK JOE VERNON FOR KNOCKOUT

CYCLONE HALL GRADUATES TO HEAVY CLASS

WELTERS ALSO TO GO EIGHT ROUNDS TONIGHT

The second boxing exhibition of the year will be staged at the Pampa auditorium starting at 8:15 o'clock tonight with a battle royal. The main event arranged by Matchmaker C. A. Heath of the American Legion is scheduled for 10 rounds and will bring together Joe Vernon, local middleweight, and Cyclone Hall of Denver.

Vernon took the fans' eye here two weeks ago when he won his bout by the kayo route. He is a boxer of no mean ability and packs an awful wallop. Followers of the fight art have been watching him carefully for the last two weeks and announce themselves well pleased.

Cyclone Hall is the boy who used to appear here in the middleweight class. Since his last appearance he had graduated into the heavier class and has been making a name for himself around the Rocky Mountain regions. He is also a boxer and puncher combined.

Missie McGuire and Fritz Stanke, two welterweights, have been matched for eight rounds. McGuire, a member of the Will Rogers stable at Claremore, is a sweet boxer as fans have learned the past two days. Stanke is well known here as a Safety First Bus driver. He has been getting ready for this big event in Maude and reports in great shape.

Ray Ward, Berger special, and Frankie LaFeaver, the Vernon wonder, have been matched for six rounds. If the match goes that distance fans will be surprised. Ward was seen in action here two weeks ago.

A four round bout between two local boys will follow the battle royal.

Advance sale of tickets has been gratifying, Mr. Heath reports.

JELLYACHERS TOURNAMENT ANNOUNCED BY GOLFERS

Those Who Do 85 or More Will Have Event at Country Club Soon

The Jellyachers golf tournament, open to those who are not satisfied with the way play in the Country Club Handicap tournament was operated, will start May 23 over the Country Club golf course. Ivy E. Duncan is president of the new group. C. T. Hunkapillar is secretary, and Hamp Brown is treasurer.

Registration will start tomorrow morning at Pampa Drug No. 1 and Hamp Brown's barber shop. The tournament will be for the "crabs" who shoot from 85 up for either nine or 18 holes.

Up to the present time such other celebrities have entered the tournament as J. Brumley, Lynn Boyd, Tom Darby, Jack Deever, DeLea Vicars, Odus Mitchell, Lem Soce, and others.

Many of the Jellyachers are practicing for the big event. Some will enter the City Amateur tournament over the Red Deer course to get in shape for a "square tournament."

The winner will be suited from foot to head, according to information received this morning.

Gigantic Air Circus Planned By Elk City

Aviator interest of the Southwest will turn to the air circus to be staged at the opening of the new municipal airport at Elk City, Oklahoma on June 11 and 12. Noted fliers have indicated their intention of attending the show and even Will Rogers may attend if he is not busy making a picture out in Hollywood.

At least two autogiros will be flown at the celebration and sponsors of the show have announced that seven gliders will be displayed. Further attractions for pilots will be races for planes classed according to horse power of their motors, dead stick landing contests, pony express races, "bomb" dropping contests, and stunting exhibitions. Prizes are offered for each event in the two-day schedule.

Best Natural Field
With such a program planned and responses to invitations already pouring in Elk City is preparing to care for a crowd of 40,000 people and more than 100 planes from over Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas. Forecasts are that it will be the largest air show held in the Southwest this season.

Occasion for the circus is the opening of what federal authorities air line officials and transport pilots have termed the "most perfect natural landing field in the nation." A representative of one of the transcontinental lines said that it was a better field with improvements than many fields near large cities after millions of dollars have been spent. A natural slope of the 160-acre field gives it an easy train in all directions.

The new airport is just outside Elk City, only three minutes on U. S. Highway 66 from the business district.

Scouts To Watch Planes
Improvements at the port are being rushed. A hangar has been erected, a pressure water system installed, runways prepared and marked, and general improvements made.

The entire citizenry of Elk City is joining in making preparations to entertain the great crowds expected. Boy Scouts will act as guides, boys will service and guard the ships, others will help in directing traffic to parking places and business men will act as hosts. W. D. Mauk, transport pilot and general manager of the field, and Dr. V. C. Tisdal, aviation committee chairman of the chamber of commerce, are in charge of the show.

Miss Anna Marie Ward of LeFors transacted business in Pampa Thursday.

J. K. Burke of Kingsmill, school teacher there, visited briefly here yesterday.

Maybe Sally Is Not a 'Different Girl' After All

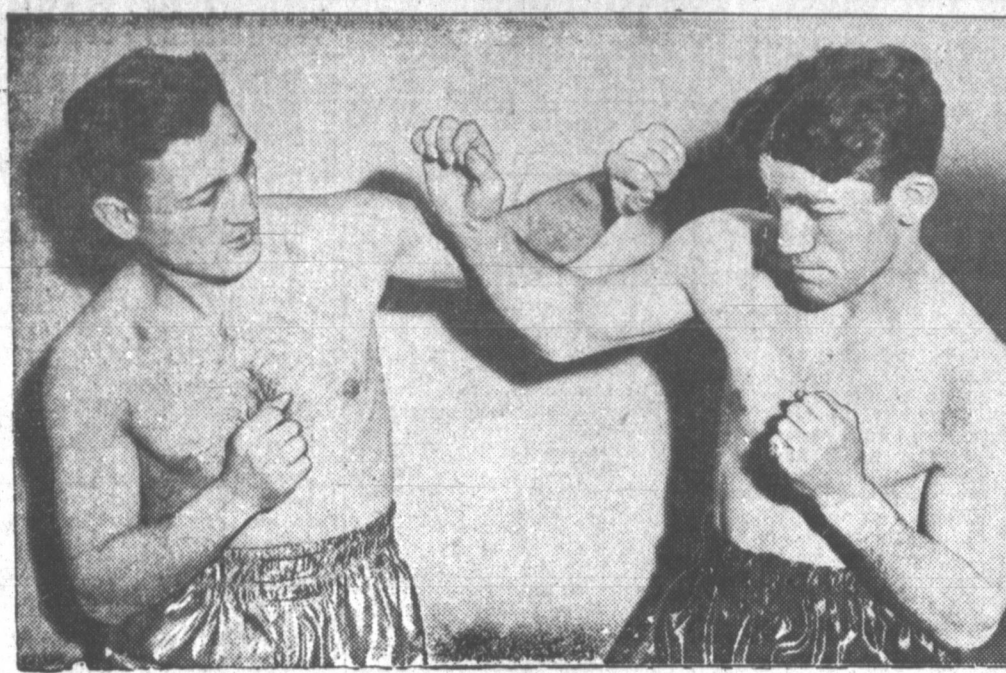

LOS ANGELES, May 13 (AP)—Sally Filers, film actress, and Hoot Gibson, star of western motion pictures, have about decided their separation is all a mistake.

The actress said she would meet with her actor-husband "to talk things over" within a few days.

"We'll reach a decision, but we won't want to be hasty about it," she said.

Miss Filers and her husband have been separated since Saturday. The actress admitted she and her husband had differences and Gibson, in a statement, blamed their professional careers for their unhappiness. He said success had made a "different girl" of Sally.

THREE NINES FOR LEAD NOW IN TEXAS LOOP

AND EACH TEAM HAS MADE NO GREAT SHOWING

By The Associated Press
The Texas League flag chase was anybody's race today with three teams tied for the lead, another only half a game behind, and Galveston, in seventh place, only six games back of the leaders.

None of the pace-setter, Houston, Beaumont, and Dallas, had as high as a 600 percentage. Each had won sixteen games and lost eleven, whereas Port Worth had one more defeat. Wichita Falls and San Antonio were but two games behind Fort Worth.

The schedule called for the four leaders to continue cutting each other's throats today and tonight with Dallas invading Beaumont and the skidding Fort Worth Panthers moving to the Houston flood lights.

Houston last night made a clean sweep of its short series with Dallas by repelling a ninth-inning rally and winning 6 to 4. Holman and Powers hit homers in the final final stanza to account for three runs, but the Steers' bats had been silent too long against Moss' slants.

The downtrodden Shreveport Sports started out ahead of the San Antonio Indians but they could do nothing after Fabian Kowalk mounted the hill and finally lost 4 to 3.

The Spudgers, now from Wichita Falls but perhaps from Longview in the future, had a big eighth inning and beat Galveston 6 to 2.

CHEAP SEATS OFFERED NOW IN 2 LEAGUES

"TWO BITS" MAY FILL UP BLEACHERS VACANT

CHICAGO, May 13 (AP)—If admission prices have been keeping trade away from baseball games, especially in the "big minors", the situation should soon improve—for "two-bit" bleacher seats are coming back in the American association and probably will come back to the Pacific coast leagues.

Harassed by unsuitable weather which has piled up 30 double-headers the first month of the season, American association club owners yesterday voted to install some 25-cent bleacher seats and to admit women and boys under 12 years for 25 cents every day except Sundays and holidays to coax a paying amount of patronage through the gates.

Kansas City, Minneapolis and Indianapolis, with teams up in the running, have done fairly well, but Milwaukee, rated one of the best baseball cities in the country, not so well.

President Hyland Baggerly of the Pacific coast league last night predicted a 25-cent minimum charge for his league, which he said was in better financial shape than "any other of the minor leagues."

The American association discussed salary reductions, but took no action yesterday.

Baton Rouge Is Away From Top

By The Associated Press

Baton Rouge skidded from the top of the Cotton States league to third place yesterday as it lost while the neck and neck Pine Bluff judges and Vicksburg Billies went into a tie for first. Pine Bluff was victor over Baton Rouge while Vicksburg won from Port Arthur.

After soaring along in the van several days, Baton Rouge was stopped with a bang. Pine Bluff blanking them 9 to 0. Galeria held the Baton Rouge batsmen to four hits.

Monroe took an easy one from El Dorado, 8 to 4. Perez weakened in the ninth to allow three runs but his teammates already had piled up a safe margin.

Vicksburg scored early and late to win from Port Arthur 7 to 4. It was the freest hitting game of the day, the Billies netting 17 safeties to 9 for the Texans. Kramer and Belcher got triples for Port Arthur.

Grant Criticizes One-Party Rule

SAN ANGELO, May 13 (AP)—John F. Grant, republican candidate for governor, believes Texas can not expect good government so long as the one-party system exists in the state.

In a speech prepared for delivery today before the state postmasters' convention he said, "just as long as this condition prevails there will be no real contest over issues before the people and we will continue to suffer from mis-government at our state capital."

"The machine influence, so typical of the national democratic party at this time, is now being felt in Texas and the democrats will be forced to submit to 'brass collar' rule, if they remain in their party."

Four Women In Golfing Climax In Fort Worth

By BILL PARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, May 13 (AP)—From the field of 32 qualifiers who started match competition Tuesday in quest of the title, only four remain to contest for the 1932 Texas Woman's Golf association crown.

Semi-finals today of the sixteenth annual tournament found Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, Mrs. Scott Hill of Waco, Miss Anieles Gorczyca of Fort Worth and Mrs. R. R. Fisk of Wichita Falls at the first tee.

It was a four-star event with Mrs. Chandler, the long-hitting Dallas Brook Hollow country club star, and Miss Anieles Gorczyca, Meadowbrook country club's greatest golf pride, ranked as the favorites.

It was the consensus that if Mrs. Chandler and Miss Gorczyca emerged victorious today, tomorrow's 36-hole final championship struggle will be the greatest women's tournament match ever held in the southwest. Both are extremely long hitters; both have putters that seldom fail and both have the spirit of confidence.

But there is a possibility Mrs. Fisk's very steady game will eliminate Mrs. Gorczyca and that Mrs. Hill's game, that of the stylist, will erase current title hopes of Mrs. Chandler.

Yesterday's play saw Mrs. Chandler win a 4 and 3 decision over Mrs. F. C. Roobon of Wichita Falls, who holds the Texas municipal title. Mrs. Hill beat Mrs. E. Winger of Fort Worth, 4 and 2, turning in a mild upset.

Miss Gorczyca almost slipped out of the running yesterday in her match against Mrs. Ralph Randolph of the Dallas country club, as Gorczyca was breezing along on the back nine with a three-up lead when suddenly Mrs. Randolph shot a score of 5-2.5 to win three consecutive holes and square the match. They reached the 18th all square where Mrs. Randolph missed a 7 foot putt for a win. On the extra hole Miss Gorczyca shot a par four against Mrs. Randolph's five.

Mrs. Fisk defeated Mrs. E. R. Lederer of Fort Worth, former state champion, 2 and 1.

"They're not going to beat her," was the verdict of many who followed Mrs. Fisk.

BRAVES DOING GREAT HARM TO OPPOSITION

BY GAYLE TALBOT Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill McKechnie's Boston Braves may not win the National League flag this year but they promise to establish a lasting record for demoralizing the opposition.

In 22 games the battling Bostonians have been helped along by 48 opponents' errors. The Giants have suffered most from the jinx and now come the Chicago Cubs. Facing Boston for the first time yesterday, the managed to compile seven errors, more than sufficient to give the Braves an 8 to 3 victory behind Ed Brandt.

The Cubs' young infielders, Bill Herman and Bill Jurgens, divided most of the hard luck with four errors, Herman with four bobbles and Jurgens with two.

Brooklyn won first blood in the series with Cincinnati, 5 to 2, as Babe Phelps hurled scoreless ball after the first inning.

Jess Haines made his initial start of the year for the St. Louis Cardinals and beat the Phillies, 8 to 2.

The Giants' opener at Pittsburgh was rained out, and only one American League engagement escaped the elements. Cleveland nosed out the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 4, when Dick Porter's double scored Cissell after two were out in the ninth.

High Cost Of Ailing Hits London Society Doctors

LONDON, (AP)—Nearly sixty houses, flats and maisonettes at Harley street, traditional center of Britain's medical and surgical profession, are for rent.

Doctors explain that people can no longer afford to be expensively ill and that many specialists are contemplating return to general practice.

In other days it was considered almost a breach of etiquette for any medical man to announce that he had rooms for rent. Such transfers as were made were without the aid of real estate dealers' signs.

Mrs. Thomas H. Park of Canadiana made a trip to the city yesterday.

J. L. Coffee of Miami drove to Pampa on business Thursday.

Vicars Declared Tourney Winner After Play-Off

The high score won the Country Club handicap golf tournament yesterday in the three-corner play-off between Edwin Vicars, Odus Mitchell and Skeet Stewart.

The high score won the Country Club handicap golf tournament yesterday in the three-corner play-off between Edwin Vicars, Odus Mitchell and Skeet Stewart. Vicars, with a 90 for the 18 holes, was declared winner after cards had been checked against handicaps. Mitchell shot an 87 and Stewart an 84.

The three golfers had tied for first honors when the tournament closed Sunday afternoon. Three golfers also tied for second place and that tie has yet to be played off.

Vicars was 'hot' yesterday afternoon and the other boys couldn't get him rattled. His driving was decidedly "on" and his putting sure.

MORNING COFFEE IS ARTISTIC EVENT FOR STUDY CLUB

Two Hundred Attend Party Given for Entire Christian Church Here

OPEN HOUSE IS HELD BY GROUP HERE THURSDAY

LOVELY DECORATIONS ARE IN PINK AND GREEN THEME

Morning coffee was served by Child Study club members for their friends and for presidents of other federated clubs yesterday at 10 o'clock in the home of Mrs. D. E. Finley.

The home was beautiful in decorations of pink and green, roses and sweet peas being the flowers. A charming May queen doll centered the dining table. It held a corsage of sweet peas tied with pink and green tulle. To each arm was tied a ribbon, from which extended smaller ribbons bearing gaily dressed dolls as favors. One end of the table was adorned with a silver cardelabrum, bearing pink and green tapers, and with a bowl of pink sweet peas. At the other end was the coffee urn with accessories. The table was covered with lace over green.

Caviar sandwiches were served with angel food cake, mints, and coffee, the featured color scheme being evident in the menu.

As guests arrived they registered and were given printed programs. After they were served they assembled in the living room for a program, which proceeded as follows: Club collect by the entire group; greetings, Mrs. A. H. Doucette; response, Mrs. F. Ewing Leech; violin solo, Intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana, Mrs. J. T. Morrow; musical reading, The Youngest in the Family, Mrs. Raymond W. Harrah; talk on the pleasure of sharing the mind's best with others, Mrs. W. H. Johnson; who also gave a short sketch of the last year's work; duet, Drowsy Baby (J. Will Callahan), Mrs. A. H. Doucette and Mrs. A. W. Mann; reading, Pink Domino (Kipling), Mrs. Robert Gilchrist.

Introduction of each guest was given in rhyme by the club member who invited her, and Mrs. Doucette likewise introduced the presidents of all the federated clubs.

Members of the house party were Mesdames Floyd McConnell, Roger McConnell, A. H. Doucette, Frank McAfee, C. G. Malone, and B. E. Finley. Others attending were Mesdames W. H. Jones, H. T. Wohlge-muth, Horace McBea, A. W. Mann, Joe E. Smith, R. W. Tinsley, J. Powell Wehrung, Katie Vincent, J. T. Morrow, Lee Harrah, J. H. Dewe, Albert Wood, Joe Shelton, Joe Tyler, F. M. Culbertson, F. Ewing Leech, L. N. McCullough, Tom E. Rose, W. Purviance, Joe K. Sweet, Robert Gilchrist, C. P. Buckler, Dick Walker, J. Wynne Fitzgerald, Raymond W. Harrah, C. M. Barrier, C. S. Barrett, C. L. Mullen and Emma LeFors.

Baptist Church To Have Usual Service Sunday

Services will be held as usual at the First Baptist church Sunday evening. The church will be represented, however, by parents, seniors, and faculty members at vesper service to be held for the high school graduating class at the First Christian church.

"For any church to have a service at the hour when the graduating sermon is being preached is to break a precedent," said the Rev. C. E. Lancaster, Baptist pastor. "Last year when the service was conducted at the Baptist church the building proved inadequate for all who came. It will be true this year. The growth of a community necessitates many changes, and breaking of traditional precedents. Our churches are to always provide services for those who desire an hour of worship."

Many Teachers Plan to Study in Summer Period

Supt. R. B. Fisher and most of the principals of the various schools will take graduate work at colleges and universities this summer, they said this morning.

Supt. R. B. Fisher will attend Columbia university this summer completing work on his master of arts degree. He will leave soon after local schools close for the term.

Principal L. L. Sorce of the high school will attend the University of Southern California at Los Angeles. Mrs. Sgno and daughter, Shirley Mae, are visiting relatives in California at the present.

Principal R. A. Selby of Junior high school will complete work on his master of arts degree at the University of Oklahoma. Mr. Selby's thesis is a history of Hutchinson county; this includes accounts of the skirmishes and battle at Adobe Wall.

A. L. Patrick will attend summer school at West Texas State Teachers college.

Brilliant Young Wife of Soviet Ambassador Has Many Interests; Was a Newspaper Correspondent

BY EDWARDS STANLEY

LONDON, (AP)—Halina Sokolnikoff gives you an idea of Russia's post-revolution woman.

She is the wife of the Soviet ambassador to Great Britain and her third book, "Nine Women," has just been published in English. Another book is to appear this fall.

Only 26 years old, she has been married nine years, and has a daughter 2 years old. "That would seem enough to keep most young women busy. But not this brilliant young communist."

Besides that, she has been a newspaper correspondent abroad. She went through the university in Moscow, specializing in economics. She has written books and short stories. She learned French and English to supplement her native Russian. She helps her husband in his work here.

She found time to read such American writers as Whitman, Dreiser, Longfellow, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Sandburg, Upton Sinclair, Jack London and Sinclair Lewis.

And she found more time to study music and cultivate her voice. She goes to symphonies and opera, but doesn't like jazz.

Born in Kiev, daughter of a professor of economics, Mme. Sokolnikoff is almost altogether "post-revolution." She went to the civil war with her father, and served a year in the Red army. Her work was in soldiers' cultural clubs, lecturing and directing reading.

Then she went to Moscow to finish her education and meet her husband, who was a professor of public finance in Moscow university. "No, I wasn't his pupil," she smiles.

Not very tall, she has a handsome intelligent face, very white teeth which flash often in contrast to her dark eyes and black, wavy bobbed hair.

What she wants to do now is to visit the United States from end to end—"to see capitalism at its climax"—to say nothing of her newspaper itch to see people and places.

Writes of Women Her new book sketches briefly the careers of nine women who took part in the French revolt. It is written from the soviet point of view. She lived in Paris while making her research, and found that women of the French and Russian revolutions had little in common.

"Women who became known during the French revolution were notorious mainly not by their assistance, but rather by their resistance to the revolution," she explains.

"The French revolution passed without giving women political equality. Even now the French woman remains without electoral rights, and is relegated by the French civil code to an humiliating position."

Equality Secured "The Russian revolution, on the contrary, established women's political, civic and economic equality with men, and reconstructed family relations on the basis of full equality of rights."

"Within recent years women have made their mark not only in the affairs of the government, but in actual constructive work, the arts and sciences, and many of them are genuine heroines of the civil war, the reconstruction and the five year plan."

"And how have you found time for all this?" was asked. "Oh, in Russia now we do in one year what others need five for," she replied.

RETURN TO KANSAS

SKELLYTOWN, May 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harter have returned to their home in El Dorado, Kan., after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lee of the Skelly Oil company. Mrs. Harter is a sister of Mrs. Lee.

'TRACK MEET' GIVES START TO FUNCTION

PROGRAM OF READING AND MUSIC HELDS INTEREST

A "track meet," including the very liveliest of competitive indoor games, furnished a rollicking beginning for the all-church party held at the First Christian church basement last evening. Two hundred persons joined in the merriment, which was directed by Mrs. C. W. Stowell.

The following program then proved to be of exceptional interest: Reading, Mildred Fahy Patton; dialogue, Betty and George Cree; women's quartet selection, Mrs. W. A. Bratton, Mrs. Earl Thomason, Mrs. Charlie Thut, and Miss Josephine Thomas; short dialogue, Joyce Turner and Kirk Duncan; violin duet, Dorothy Meers and H. E. Kreiger, accompanied by Miss Iva June Willis; reading, Mrs. Robert Gilchrist; male quartet, and Dick and Jack Benton, Joe Kahl, and James Groom; negro dialogue, Mrs. Helen Turner and Mrs. F. H. Meskimen. Those on the program committee were Mesdames C. W. Stowell, Elbert Thomas, Robert Gilchrist, Robert Wilson, and B. C. Fahy.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, coffee, and punch were served from one large table, centered with an attractive floral arrangement. Mrs. Mel Davis, who presided at the table, was assisted by Mrs. John Sturgeon, Mrs. H. H. Isbell, and Mrs. P. H. Meskimen. Mrs. Harry Marbaugh supervised games for the children.

Outing Is Held For Small Group

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Barrett of the Danciger gasoline plant entertained friends Wednesday night with a wintery roast four miles west of LeFors.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Raikly, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mazy, Miss Madeline Kearney, Miss Ann Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McIntyre.

PERSONALS

E. Berg of LeFors attended to personal affairs here Thursday.

Mrs. Bob McNeely of White Deer was in Pampa yesterday.

Mrs. V. Dowell of LeFors transacted business in the city yesterday.

W. G. Dunivan of Miami made a business trip to the city yesterday.

Miss Velma Cook of White Deer visited briefly here yesterday.

COMING EVENTS

SATURDAY

The Pampa branch of the A. A. U. W. has been invited to have luncheon with the Amarillo branch at El Taos, Amarillo.

Treble Clef club will meet at 4 o'clock at the Methodist church.

Mrs. Purviance, President, and Other Parent-Teacher Officials Are Installed by Mrs. E. C. Will

In the presence of forty members and visitors, Mrs. E. C. Will installed new officers of the Junior high school Parent-Teacher association yesterday afternoon at the school.

Mrs. W. Purviance took her oath as president; Mrs. E. Bass Clay, vice-president; Mrs. Albert Wood, corresponding secretary; Miss Marguerite Terrell, recording secretary; Mrs. Willis Price, treasurer; Mrs. H. L. Ledrick, historian, Mrs. Will, retiring president, expressed her gratitude for splendid cooperation.

A program was opened with invocation by Mrs. Purviance, and all joined in singing America. Principal R. A. Selby expressed his appreciation for the support of the Parent-Teacher association as well as of various clubs in caring for under-privileged children.

The association was delighted when it was noted little R. B. Fisher, Jr., baby son of the school superintendent, was among those present.

LeFors Pupils Are Examined

Thirty-six first grade and 17 kindergarten children were examined at the summer round-up clinic held in LeFors Wednesday. Ten of the first grade and four of the kindergarten were found to be seemingly normal. They are: John Allen Jones, Loyd Frank Reed, Mary Ellen Johnson, Evelyn Marie Blackwell, Odessa Kendrick, Evonne Tubbs, Lemmy Lyons, Opola McCubbin, Wanda Joe Henry, Imogene Dickerson, Bernadine Breiring, Chrylene Mashburn, C. G. Gentry, and Imogene Roll.

Miss Celia Moore, state health nurse, had charge of the round-up. She was assisted by Dr. C. D. Hunter, Mrs. M. P. Downs, Mrs. W. I. Gilbert, Mrs. W. B. Murphy, Mrs. Roy Arb, Mrs. Charles Meyers, and the local Parent-Teacher members.

The clinic workers were guests of the LeFors Parent-Teacher association for luncheon at the Tulsa cafe.

Party Is Held on Seventh Birthday

Mrs. E. H. Mazy entertained a group of children Wednesday afternoon in her home, 222 N. Banks, honoring her son, Billy, on his seventh birthday. Many gifts were received by the honoree.

Various games were played and a birthday cake topped with seven candles was cut and served with ice cream.

Those attending were: Betty Hunter, Joyce Laine Turner, Gladys Duvall, Pauline Keith, Mary Lou Mazy, Barbara Jean Crossman, Bural Hortense Barrett, Patsy Ann Kelley, Billy Jean Gregory, Helen Mazy, Guy Veryl Barritt, Robert Duvall, Billie Hunter, Darrell Johns, Bobby Smith, Billy Priest, Teddy Paul Godwin, Lewis Duvall, Fredric Thornburg, Charles D. Riggan, Bobby McBride, Billy Mazy.

Mrs. E. R. Sunkel of Kingsmill was a Pampa shopper on Thursday.

SHORT TO THE GREEN

Here's a new hazard in golf, displayed by two charming University of Missouri co-ed's playing at Columbia, Mo. They are, left to right, Cordelia Schroeder of Wichita, Kan., and Jessie Lou McGraw, El Dorado, Ark. Makes a pretty fair way to play around, eh?

NOVELTY REVUE PRESENTED AS BENEFIT EVENT

COLORFUL COSTUMES ADD BEAUTY TO PROGRAM

Colorful costumes appropriate for all dances had a large part in making the novelty revue given at the city auditorium last evening one of real beauty. The entertainment was directed by Miss Kathryn Vincent and was sponsored by the A. A. U. W. for the benefit of the scholarship fund.

Some of the costumes were unusual indeed. One was a convincing imitation of a snake, worn by Lela Pearl Baldwin. A beautiful Russian costume was worn by Joyce Smith when she danced a Russian number which has won several prizes when presented at meetings of the dancing masters of America. Some of the children were dressed as bums, others as dolls, and all of the tap dance costumes were lovely.

A girls' chorus of high school students had part in the entertainment, as did most of Miss Kathryn Vincent's dance pupils. A number of local musicians assisted.

The dancers performed with remarkable ease and grace throughout the ten acts, which were closed with an impressive finale by the complete cast.

Hugh L. Johnson of LeFors was looking after interests here yesterday.

Mr. Brashears Complimented

R. S. (Bob) Brashears was honored with a surprise birthday party by Mrs. Brashears and friends last night at the Brashears home, 437 Yeager.

Brashears was played at four tables throughout the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Brashears won high scores, and Mrs. H. L. Polley won the cut. Refreshments included a sandwich-salad course, strawberries and cake.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brashears, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Polley, Mr. and Mrs. George Lamerick, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Collins, Miss Eutha Henry, Miss Ruth Brittain, Miss Clarence Bennett, Archer Fullingim and L. R. Bruner.

Every Child Has Playground Duty During Last Term

Every child in the fourth and fifth grades of Woodrow Wilson school has served as policeman at some time during this last term, it was announced this morning by Mrs. Annie Daniels, principal.

The boys and girls are not allowed to loiter, and they settle all disputes peacefully, Mrs. Daniels said. They direct the crossing of the streets in order to prevent accidents, supervise the play of the younger children, and aid generally in promoting orderly, constructive play and safety on or near the school ground.

Miss Imogene Wood of LeFors was a Pampa shopping visitor Thursday.

Senior Class Is In Caps, Gowns and High Humor

Seniors of Pampa high school celebrated the fact that they will soon graduate in number of noticeable ways today.

First thing, they ran up the flag on the high school flag pole, discarding any superstition connected with Friday the thirteenth. They are appearing only in caps and gowns.

A chapel program at the gym this morning was given exclusively by seniors. Tonight, the senior class may will be climaxed in the annual junior-senior banquet at the Schneid-ler hotel. This is to be an elaborate affair. The circus motif will be followed in the entertainment program and in the table decorations. Practically every member of the junior class and all the seniors will be present. The junior class members will be hosts and the seniors the guests. About 95 boys and girls will receive diplomas at the commencement exercises this month. The chapel program this morning included orchestra selections: "A reunion of the 1932 senior class at a Montmartre cafe, Paris, 10 years from today," Ray McNeill, conductor; more orchestra numbers, presentation of the Twentieth Century club essay award, a $250 gold piece to Miss Bessie Stein; numbers by the boys' quartet composed of Jack and Dick Benton, Joe Kahl and James Groom; greetings and congratulations from Mrs. Frank McNeill. The final event of the program was the initiation of students into the National Honor Society with H. L. Ledrick in charge. Gold pins were awarded the new members. Many patrons and friends of the school were present at the program.

HENRY BETTER TODAY

John Henry who has been ill for four days at his home on Beryl street east of the city was improving today, his physician said. Mr. Henry was ill at a local hospital for several weeks last winter.

Man Injured By Fire Is Able To Leave Hospital

L. C. Lafferty, one of the men burned in the Wilcox Refinery fire March 12, was able to leave Worley hospital this morning. He had been in the hospital since the afternoon of the fire. Lyle Owen, chemist, is still in the hospital but he is improving rapidly, attending physicians report. Six men were badly burned in the explosion and fire which followed. One man lost his life. The refinery was completely destroyed at a loss of approximately $125,000.

TEST SUIT IN COURT

AUSTIN, May 13 (AP)—A suit to determine right of the Texas democratic state executive committee to require candidates for congressman-at-large to file for numbered places on the party primary ballots reached the supreme court today.

Bowers' Horse Is Believed Stolen

The favorite cow horse of Aurba Bowers was reported stolen to Sheriff Lon L. Blanscet by Mr. Bowers at noon. The owner had brought the horse to Pampa to ride during the Frontier Days celebration. The horse was taken from a pasture near Pampa, Bowers said.

Sheriff Blanscet and deputies were tracking the animal this afternoon. The horse was a sorrel, big-boned and tall. He was valued highly by Mr. Bowers.

URGES DEBT PLAN

AMARILLO, May 13 (AP)—Before America should cancel the European debts, some plan should be formulated whereby the debt could absorb this nation's raw materials, said Frank M. Butler, vice-president of the American State Bank of Amarillo, in addressing delegates today at the opening session of the Pampa Handmade Grain Dealers association convention.

More than 150 grain men attended the first session of the two-day meeting. The attendance was expected to reach 200 by this afternoon.

Minority Favors Bonus Payments

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Ten members of the ways and means committee told the house today in a minority report on the Patman bill for redeeming the soldiers bonus certificates by the issuance of new money that the greatest need of the country was for more money in circulation.

The report, favoring the cash payment plan which was rejected by committee majority, was signed by Representative Ragon of Arkansas.

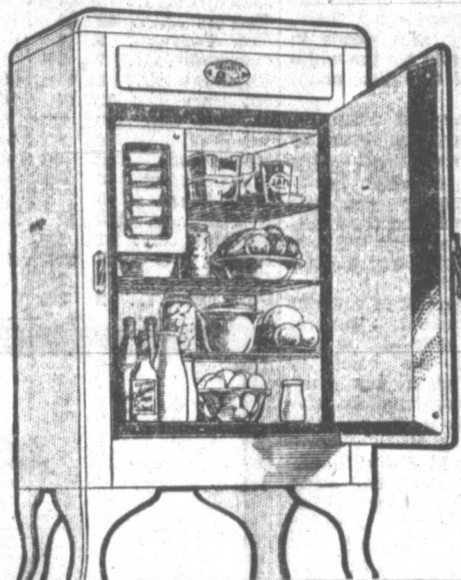

Kiwanians Work For Celebration

More new members were added to Canfield of Indiana, McCormack of Massachusetts, Vison of Kentucky, Hill of Washington, Cullen and Sullivan of New York, Dickson of Missouri, Eslick of Tennessee and Sanders of Texas, all democrats.

Next Tuesday the rules committee will hear bonus sponsors on a resolution to permit the house to consider the Patman bill despite the adverse revenue committee report.

the Kiwanis club today. They are Ollie Doak, Paul LeBeuf, Reno Etinson, and J.D. Cobb. The club now has a total membership of fifty-three. Johnson Bros., champion trick and fancy ropers, entertained with their act. The program was in charge of Frank Carter. Mrs. Howard Buckingham sang several songs. She was accompanied by the club pianist, Miss Inez Barrett. Thirty or forty members are planning on going to Amarillo Monday and "take the Amarillo club by storm." They will advertise the Frontier Days.

You Can't Marry

by Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: Jenny Revell persuades Eddie Townsend not to tell anyone he has married her cousin George, for if George's employer learned of it he would discharge her. George's plan of saying that Jenny has married Eddie is endangered by a doctor who attended Eddie after an automobile accident.

Chapter 23

DAINGEROUS INVESTIGATIONS

MISS JENNY!
She turned, gasping, her hand on her heart; but it was only Ryder Vale.

"Started you nearly out of your skin!" he remarked cheerfully, his funny smile puckering up his cheeks. "I was just going round to your place. Get in?"

Jenny declined politely. "I'm afraid George isn't at home," she explained. "Mr. Matching whisked her off with him on some business expedition."

"You've got an inferiority complex," Vale told her. "Always think George is the magnet, don't you? Hop in, there's a good girl. I've got a lot of little questions to ask you. The first is—what did you want to go and get married for without asking Uncle Ryder's blessing?"

"I suppose," said Jenny, after a cautious pause, "that you read

"He has a terror of seeing any one for the time being and so he has gone into hiding, as you might call it." She laughed, a pleasant, firm laugh. "I shan't let him out until he is absolutely himself again."

"I see. Very wise! Good job he has got you to look after him." But Vale sounded dubious. "Do you know a man called Tallias, a doctor?"

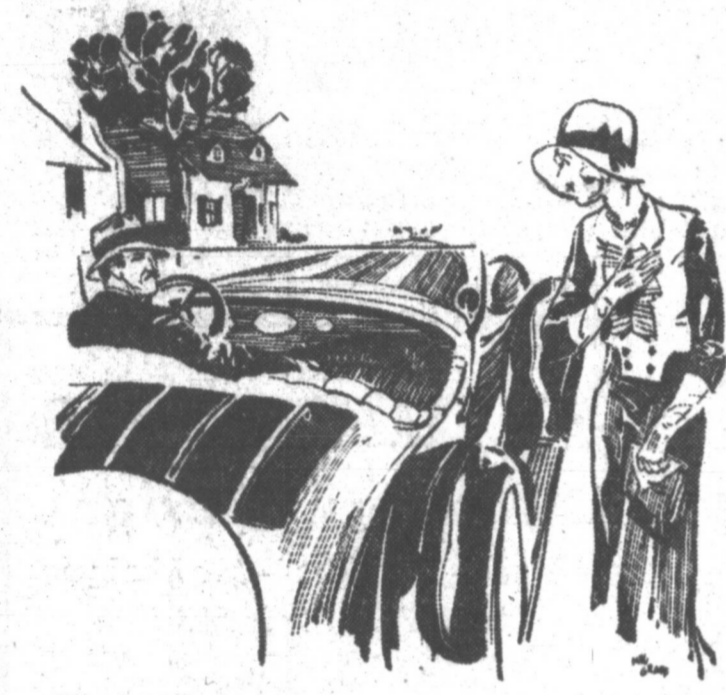

"He gave Eddie first-aid just after the accident. And he brought him up from the hospital today. Why do you ask?"

"Oh, well, I know him slightly. As a matter of fact, I came across him an hour or so ago, and he stopped me. Apparently he's heard I knew you and George. He talked a bit—he's an odd sort of fellow. Bit of a gossip. Inquisitive, I should say."

Jenny considered this in silence. Was it a warning?

If Ryder Vale were warning her, what could she do to avert the danger of Tallias' investigations? She decided that she could do nothing, but she felt grateful to Vale for his hint, and grateful to him, too, for accepting a version of the facts which, as she instinctively felt, he did not believe. She sighed.

Apparently it was not nearly so simple as it had seemed, this making people think you had married

"Miss Jenny!" She turned gasping, her hand on her heart.

about our accident in the paper?" "You suppose quite rightly. And you may further suppose that when I read that Townsend had just married a Miss Revell of Eyle Street, I said to myself—'That must be our Jenny, for the reason that never in this world could it be our George! No, no, never would our George chuck that job of hers for the sake of any little house of dreams! ... Well, any flaw in the argument?"

She had got in beside him and he was driving very slowly along, his face still amusingly puckered but something shrewd behind the smile. Jenny had the impression that he was feeling his way; it occurred to her also that, like the Old Man, he might not believe the tale she told, but that he would be satisfied if the telling bore scrutiny.

"No flaw at all," she answered as casually as she could. "Perhaps you remember I told you that George wasn't specially interested in Eddie. And you're quite right about the job, George is determined to keep it at any cost."

The last was so true that she had uttered it almost vehemently and she felt him shoot a quick glance at her. She added, somewhat hastily:

"What other questions do you want to ask?"

"Where—and how—poor old Townsend is? I hear he went through the windshield."

"That didn't really matter," said Jenny with unconscious humor. "The real damage was done to his nerves. He has quite broken down and it's doubtful whether he will ever be a 'bird-man' again. At any rate, he will have to have a long holiday."

Vale seemed sincerely concerned. He drove easily along, talking as easily of cures, and treatments, and cases he had known, where recovery had been miraculously prompt and even more miraculously permanent.

"Er—where did you say he was now?" he interjected.

"He made me promise not to tell any one," answered Jenny firmly. She had been prepared for this.

Eddie Townsend when you hadn't! "You're all alone in that apartment?" queried Vale, cocking an eyebrow at it as he drew up gently before its door.

"Yes," Jenny hoped that he would not suggest coming up. Her head was beginning to ache.

"Then why not come for a run?" he invited. "Come and have a saucer of cream somewhere. It'll take your mind off—things."

She had fully meant to decline when he began to speak but his voice sounded genuinely friendly and she wavered. The empty apartment, with its unfinished chores, suddenly repelled her.

"I—I should like it. But I must be back by—well, quite by six."

"Six it shall be. Any place you'd like to go to? No? What about an inn at a little place up the river? It's what they call an old-world place. Like old-world places."

Yes, Jenny liked them. She liked, also, settling back in this jolly little car and not having to make conversation. It rather surprised her Ryder Vale did not want her to talk to him. He had struck her as a man who would prefer a ripple of absurdities to nothing at all. However, he appeared to be preoccupied, and she could rest. She watched the traffic idly and idly looked for the first gleam of the river.

"'Fraid I'm a dull dog today," he said finally. "Must be the heat; can't remember a hotter August. There's the inn."

Jenny descended into a courtyard full of white geraniums and cool green smilax trails. All along one side ran a tea-room with windows thrown wide to the air and electric fans humming. It looked cool and attractive and there was a table vacant near a window. She walked in and took possession. Slipping the little coat from her shoulders on to the back of the chair, she glanced round.

Facing her, directly in line with another window at the opposite end of the room, sat Garth Avenue.

(Copyright, Julia Cleft-Addams)

Avenue is with a woman. Will he speak to Jenny, tomorrow?

COTTON DULL, STEADY

NEW ORLEANS, May 13 (AP)—Cotton opened rather dull but steady. Liverpool cables were better than due but sterling exchange was easier. The market here opened unchanged but owing to lack of support and some opening easiness in stocks, prices gradually eased off after the start, until July trade down to 5.57 and October to 5.79, or 4 to 5 points under the previous close.

Near the end of the first hour, the market showed a downward tendency and was at the lows.

HUNT FOR KIDNAPERS MUCH MORE EXTENSIVE FOLLOWING DISCOVERY OF BABE'S BODY

Babe's Stoical Parents Order Cremation and Choose to Remember Him as Laughing Boy

Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, said she was "quite certain" the body was that of the Lindbergh child.

The parents themselves remained completely in the background while their greatest tragedy was being written in black headlines around the world.

Mrs. Lindbergh and her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, were at the Hopewell estate. Col. Lindbergh was absent, engaged in the baby hunt with Curtis, the Norfolk "intermediary." He returned early this morning.

Anne Is Calm
Close friends said Mrs. Lindbergh, who is preparing for another baby in the late summer, had accepted the news with her "usual equanimity."

One of the strange, weird jests of the horror that for 73 days had turned the Sourland estate of the

who found the Lindbergh baby's body, doesn't care so much about a cash reward, but he would like a better job than helper on a truck.

"I feel I'm entitled to some money," he said, "but if Col. Lindbergh has none, but can find me a job, I'll be satisfied. I just hope that police catch the man who killed the baby. He must be a devil."

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 13 (AP)—From Mount Rose, near where the Lindbergh child was found slain, one can gaze over wild woods in which foxes prowl and see the white Sourland estate of the filer, about 5 miles away.

The thicket near the roadside, where the tiny body was tossed by murderers, never was touched by the widespread search, in which hundreds of state troopers beat the brush about Hopewell and the Lindbergh estate. Apparently the isolated spot was considered too far away to yield any clue.

Mount Rose, a hamlet of a dozen houses clustering about a general store, is about a mile and a half from Hopewell on the road to Princeton. When his mountain estate was under construction, Col. Lindbergh lived in a Mount Rose house for a time.

Coming from the Lindbergh home, the kidnapers could have fled along a dirt road leading from the house across a paved highway running through Hopewell. The road then leads to Mount Rose. There they could have branched on to an improved highway and sped to Princeton, about 7 miles away.

The body was found a short dis-

TWO MEN HELD IN KIDNAPING PLOT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., May 13 (AP)—Two men were imprisoned today and search was being made for three others who police say shared in a plot to kidnap the six-year-old daughter of Rev. David M. Gardner of St. Petersburg, general manager in charge of arrangements for the Southern Baptist convention now in session here.

The authorities said they have learned the conspiracy involved a plan to demand $50,000 ransom from delegates to the convention in event the kidnaping was accomplished.

Names of the prisoners and those sought were not revealed but it was said one man was in jail here and the other at Clearwater.

Deputy sheriffs of St. Petersburg said they learned of the plot and made the arrests before it could be executed.

Lindberghs into a tragic heartbreak house was the discovery of the body virtually at its doorstep.

Running through the brush-grown land, and passing within 75 feet of the baby's burial place is a telephone wire. It was strung hurriedly, to carry to the world news of the baby hunt—and his excited messages of hope, of new clues, of imminent discoveries passed hardly more than whisper distance from the object of the hunt.

Authorities understood that at the moment the body was discovered, the aviator was seeking to contact the kidnapers somewhere off Long Island.

Neither parent had viewed the body up to an early hour today, so far as could be learned; however, an automobile having Col. Lindbergh as one of its passengers, arrived at the Hopewell estate at 3 a. m. The filer was ready to tend his active support to the hunt for the murderer of his child.

No announcement was made of burial plans.

THE LINDBERGH CASE IN BRIEF
By The Associated Press
Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., 20 months old, was kidnaped from the nursery of his parent's Sourland Hills home the night of March 1.

He was killed probably immediately afterward.

The body was buried hurriedly just off the Hopewell-Mount Rose road, within 5 miles of the Lindbergh estate.

Two truckmen, entering the wooded terrain, found the body, a virtual skeleton, at 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 72 days after the kidnaping.

Several hundred thousand dollars was estimated to have been spent in fruitless hunt for the infant.

Col. Lindbergh himself paid a $50,000 ransom.

Mrs. Edward B. McLean of Washington, owner of the ill-fated Hope diamond, paid $100,000.

The mystery of the kidnaping and of the murder remains unsolved.

FACETS OF THE LINDBERGH MURDER
By The Associated Press
HOPEWELL, N. J.—A characteristic twisting of the toes provided a final means of identifying murdered Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., Dr. Philip Van Inglen, who was present at the child's birth, examined the body and found it also had the same skull formation.

MEXICO CITY.—"What infamy!" exclaimed Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles when news of the discovery of the body reached Mexico. Gen. Calles, former president of Mexico, was a friend of the baby's late grandfather, Dwight W. Morrow, who was once ambassador to Mexico.

MOUNT ROSE, N. J.—Wild animals roam the woods where the body was found. At night foxes and skunks can be seen crossing the road in the glare of headlights.

NEW YORK.—Headlines were blacker than almost ever before. One newspaper here devoted its entire first page to two words: "baby dead."

HOPEWELL.—This village experienced its second flitting boom since the child was kidnaped. From all points of the compass curious folk flocked. The town's only hotel became the center of the excitement.

Grains Lower

CHICAGO, May 13. (AP)—Paralleling reduction of the stock market, grain prices tended downward early today. Relative firmness of Liverpool wheat quotations failed to act as a counterbalance. Opening unchanged to 3-8 to 1-2 lower, wheat afterward sagged all around. Corn started unchanged to 1-4 off and subsequently held near the initial limits.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: JACOB AT BETHEL.

Scripture Lesson: Gen. 28:10-17. Gen. 28:10. And Jacob went out from Beersheba, and went toward Haran.

11. And he lighted upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, because the sun was set; and he took one of the stones of the place, and put it under his head, and lay down in that place to sleep.

12. And he dreamed: and, behold, a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven; and, behold, the angels of God ascending and descending on it.

13. And, behold, Jehovah stood above it, and said, I am Jehovah, the God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac: the land whereon thou liest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed.

14. And thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south: and in thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed.

15. And, behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land; for I will not leave thee, until I have done to thee that which I have spoken to thee of.

16. And Jacob awoke out of his sleep, and he said, Surely Jehovah is in this place; and I knew it not.

17. And he was afraid, and said, How dreadful is this place! this is none other than the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven.

Golden Text: I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest.—Gen. 28:15.

Time:—E. C. 1784 (Becher). Place: Beersheba, in the extreme south of Palestine. Bethel, west of Al and south of Shiloh, twelve miles north of Jerusalem.

Introduction. "At the time of which we write Isaac was one hundred and thirty-seven years old; and though he was destined to live yet forty-three years longer, the day of his death, and other infirmities, brought the thought of death very near to him. Under these circumstances he resolved formally to bestow the privileges naturally belonging to the first-born upon Esau. With this, however, he coupled, as a sort of preliminary condition, that Esau should bring and prepare for him some venison. Possibly he regarded the finding of the game as a sort of providential sign, and the parables of it as a token of affection."—Aifer Ederheim, Ph. D.

Rebekah's ears were quick, and she overheard Isaac's request of Esau. With characteristic promptness and energy this born schemer formed a plan to obtain by trickery the first-born's blessing for Jacob, her favorite son. Shamefully leading him in the path of deceit, she bade him kill two goats which she would cook so as to imitate venison. Then she had Jacob clothe himself in the skins of the kids on his hands and on his neck, to imitate Esau's hairy skin, and so she sent him in to impersonate Esau to the blind and feeble old man.

Esau's Unavailing Grief. One of the saddest passages of the Bible is the account of Esau's return from the chase only to find that it is too late, and the blessing of the first-born has gone from him forever. He has met with justice. In answer to Esau's despairing cry, "Bless me, even me also, O my father," Isaac does once more lift up his shaking voice in prophecy, but it is the foretelling of the future subservience of Edom to Judah, even though in the future the yoke may be shaken off; it is the prophecy of a life of the sword, such as was the existence of that warlike and uneasy tribe. It was the best blessing that god, answering Esau's character, could bestow upon him.

Esau Threatens to Kill Jacob. 28:41 Esau's anger was hot against Jacob, and he vowed that he would kill him as soon as Isaac should die; he would not blast with fratricide the old man's last days. By killing his brother, Esau would regain the stolen birthright. Rebekah heard of this vow, and believed it to be no idle threat. The tragedy of Cain and Abel seemed about to be repeated in her family. The only way to avert this disaster appeared to be to send Jacob off, and the most natural place to which to send him was Rebekah's old home in Haran, in Mesopotamia (Paddan-aram). There he might live with Rebekah's brother Laban, Jacob's uncle, and find a wife among his daughters. This Rebekah sent away her beloved son, alleging not the real reason, but her fear that Jacob might marry some heathen woman if he did not go to Haran. So Jacob went away, with Isaac's renewed blessing ringing in his ears.

Jacob Flees From Esau. v. 10 "And Jacob went out from Beersheba. Beersheba, in the extreme south of Palestine (From Dan to Beersheba) was a proverb for the whole country, was Abraham's home for many years, before he went to Hebron and later to Beersheba. When Isaac came to the headship of the family, he settled down in Beersheba, opening up the well which Abraham had dug. Notable wells have been discovered on this site in modern days. "And went toward Haran." Haran, where Terah died and from which his son Abraham had set out for Canaan or his great pilgrimage of faith, was a city on a tributary of the Euphrates, about 280 miles northeast of Damascus. Jacob had before him a journey of about 450 miles, which he must make on foot, carrying what goods he possessed, and getting his food where and by what means he could. Only a hardy and resourceful man could have done this.

Jacob at Bethel. v. 11 "And he lighted upon a certain place." Named Luz at the time, but called Bethel, or "House of God," by Jacob (verse 19). "And tarried there all night, because the sun was set." As Bethel was about fifty miles north of Beersheba, this was the second or third night of his journey. "And he took one of the stones of the place." Jacob was traveling along the rocky backbone of Palestine, where flat stones are very abundant. "Bethel is the stoniest spot in all this stony land." "Upon that hard bed was given to Jacob a revelation which powerfully influenced his future conduct."—Rev. D. Rowlands.

The Heavenly Stairway. v. 12 "And he dreamed." The dreams and visions of the Bible furnish some of its most notable and meaningful passages. The student will at once think of Joseph's boyhood dreams, of Solomon's dream in Gibeon, of Isaiah's vision in the temple, Nebuchadnezzar's dream interpreted by Daniel, Ezekiel's marvelous visions, the dream of Pilate's wife, Stephen's vision of Christ, Pete's vision at Joppa, Paul's vision of the man of Macedonia and his vision on shipboard, and John's vision of the New Jerusalem. But of them all, probably none is so famous as Jacob's dream of the angels' ladder. "And, behold, a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven." "Every man should stand upon the ground. The ground is a very good place to start from, but a very poor place to stop on. Woe be to him who lays out a plan which has nothing in it but this world. This world and the other must be consciously connected in every true man's life."—Henry Ward Beecher.

The Divine Promise. v. 13 "And, behold, Jehovah stood above it." From that time Jacob felt more deeply the presence of God in his life. He had learned that Jehovah was not only in Beersheba, but was with him wherever he went. "How happy are they who, through all the events and vicissitudes of chequered life, have been able to keep the eye of faith firmly fixed on this God above the ladder—God at the summit of his own creation, directing and controlling all that befalls both his church collectively and believers individually."—Rev. J. R. Macduff, D. D.

"And, behold, I am with thee." That was why the ladder reached from heaven to earth, to show that God was ready to come all the way down to our common human needs. "That is the meaning of the God-man, Jesus Christ. Jacob must have been very lonely, more lonely than ever in his life before, and this knowledge of God's presence with him was just what he needed; it is just what we all need, and

Christ alone can get it to us. "And will keep thee whithersoever thou goest." That keeping would mean safety wherever Jacob might go, and it means safety for us of today. A Life Changed by a Single Event. "In the night something took place which made a difference in the whole life of Jacob, a thing never to be completely forgotten. God came in the night; the angels and the stairway were present realities. And on the spot which Jacob had thought to be only a good spot to spend the night was the shrine of Jehovah, God of heaven and earth—the very house of God."

How often in human experience that takes place which never was in the remotest dream of the one who experienced it. A young reporter walked down the streets of Greensboro, N. C. years ago with never a thought of God. He heard singing, and through curiosity strode into the meeting house. He was won for God that night and became one of the most useful Baptist ministers for years.—Rev. C. E. W. Dobbs. Charles Haddon Spurgeon had a similar experience in a small Methodist meeting house in London.

"The House of God." v. 17 "This is none other than the house of God." That is why Jacob named it Bethel, which means "the House of God," the earlier name being Luz. "It was really the house of God; for the entire world belongs to him, and he inhabits every portion of it. It is only one of the rooms, and a comparatively small one in our Father's house of many mansions; but it is actually one of them, and a very important one."—Rev. Edwin C. Sweetser, D. D.

"And this is the gate of heaven." "We need a meeting place where the soul can stand face to face with God, and receive from the vision of what life means, of the power that links the possibilities of life with the armies and the chariots of heaven."—Rev. Clarence E. Eberman.

Jacob's Response to God's Goodness vs. 18-22 In return for God's wonderful promise Jacob did two things, and in doing them showed his fundamentally religious nature, so different from Esau's. He rose early; and it is well worth while to note of how many of the Bible's great characters it is said that they rose early in the morning. Taking the stone which he had used as a pillow, he set it up as a memorial pillar, consecrating it by pouring on top of it some of the oil which every Eastern traveller carried. In the second place, Jacob made a grateful vow to God, promising that if (we may well read it) since for the "if" implies no doubt) God would be with him, provide for him, and restore him to Isaac's home again, Jehovah should be his God, that pillar should be God's sanctuary, and of all that God should give he would surely give back a tenth to God.

No one can imagine the power and joy that would come to the church of God if Christians everywhere would give at least one-tenth of their income to the Lord's work. "The church's means in the day of the reestablished title will be so abundant that she will never halt in victorious march."—Rev. Arthur V. Babbs.

You Can't Marry

SYNOPSIS: Jenny Revell persuades Eddie Townsend not to tell anyone he has married her cousin George, for if George's employer learned of it he would discharge her. George's plan of saying that Jenny has married Eddie is endangered by a doctor who attended Eddie after an automobile accident.

"He has a terror of seeing any one for the time being and so he has gone into hiding, as you might call it." She laughed, a pleasant, calm laugh. "I shan't let him out until he is absolutely himself again."

"I see. Very wise! Good job he has got you to look after him." But Vale sounded dubious. "D'you know a man called Tallas, a doctor?"

"He gave Eddie first-aid just after the accident. And he brought him up from the hospital today. Why do you ask?"

"Oh, well, I know him slightly. As a matter of fact, I came across him an hour or so ago, and he stopped me. Apparently he's heard I knew you and George. He talked a bit—he's an odd sort of fellow. Bit of a gossip. Inquisitive, I should say."

THE LINDBERGH CASE IN BRIEF
By The Associated Press
Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., 20 months old, was kidnaped from the nursery of his parent's Sourland Hills home the night of March 1.

He was killed probably immediately afterward.

The body was buried hurriedly just off the Hopewell-Mount Rose road, within 5 miles of the Lindbergh estate.

Two truckmen, entering the wooded terrain, found the body, a virtual skeleton, at 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 72 days after the kidnaping.

Several hundred thousand dollars was estimated to have been spent in fruitless hunt for the infant.

Col. Lindbergh himself paid a $50,000 ransom.

Mrs. Lindbergh and her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, were at the Hopewell estate. Col. Lindbergh was absent, engaged in the baby hunt with Curtis, the Norfolk "inquirer." He returned early this morning.

Ann is calm. Close friends said Mrs. Lindbergh, who is preparing for another baby in the late summer, had accepted the news with her "usual equanimity."

One of the strange, weird jests of the horror that for 73 days had turned the Sourland estate of the

TWO MEN HELD IN KIDNAPING PLOT
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., May 13. (AP)—Two men were imprisoned today and search was being made for three others who police say shared in a plot to kidnap the six-year-old daughter of Rev. David M. Gardner of St. Petersburg, general manager in charge of arrangements for the Southern Baptist convention now in session here.

The authorities said they have learned the conspiracy involved a plan to demand $30,000 ransom from delegates to the convention in event the kidnaping was accomplished.

Names of the prisoners and those sought were not revealed but it was said one man was in jail here and the other at Clearwater.

Deputy sheriffs of St. Petersburg said they learned of the plot and made the arrests before it could be executed.

Lindberghs into a tragic heartbreak house was the discovery of the body virtually at its doorstep.

Running through the brush-grown land, and passing within 75 feet of the baby's burial place is a telephone wire. It was strung hurriedly, to carry to the world news of the baby hunt—and its excited messages of hope, of new clues, of imminent discoveries passed hardly more than whisper distance from the object of the hunt.

Authorities understood that at the moment the body was discovered, the aviator was seeking to contact the kidnapers somewhere off Long Island.

Neither parent had viewed the body up to an early hour today, so far as could be learned; however, an automobile having Col. Lindbergh as one of its passengers, arrived at the Hopewell estate at 3 a. m. The flier was ready to lend his active support to the hunt for the murderer of his child.

No announcement was made of burial plans.

THE LINDBERGH CASE IN BRIEF
By The Associated Press
Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., 20 months old, was kidnaped from the nursery of his parent's Sourland Hills home the night of March 1.

He was killed probably immediately afterward.

The body was buried hurriedly just off the Hopewell-Mount Rose road, within 5 miles of the Lindbergh estate.

Two truckmen, entering the wooded terrain, found the body, a virtual skeleton, at 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 72 days after the kidnaping.

Several hundred thousand dollars was estimated to have been spent in fruitless hunt for the infant.

Col. Lindbergh himself paid a $50,000 ransom.

who found the Lindbergh baby's body, doesn't care so much about a cash reward, but he would like a better job than helper on a truck.

"I feel I'm entitled to some money," he said, "but if Col. Lindbergh has none, but can find me a job, I'll be satisfied. I just hope that police catch the man who killed the baby. He must be a devil."

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 13. (AP)—From Mount Rose, near where the Lindbergh child was found slain, one can gaze over wild woods in which foxes prowl and see the white Sourland estate of the flier, about 5 miles away.

The thickets near the roadside, where the tiny body was tossed by murderers, never was touched by the widespread search, in which hundreds of state troopers beat the brush about Hopewell and the Lindbergh estate. Apparently the isolated spot was considered too far away to yield any clue.

Mount Rose, a hamlet of a dozen houses clustering about a general store, is about a mile and a half from Hopewell on the road to Princeton. When his mountain estate was under construction, Col. Lindbergh lived in a Mount Rose house for a time.

Coming from the Lindbergh home, the kidnapers could have fled along a dirt road leading from the house across a paved highway running through Hopewell. The road then leads to Mount Rose. There they could have branched on to an improved highway and sped to Princeton, about 7 miles away.

The body was found a short dis-

GRAINS LOWER

CHICAGO, May 13. (AP)—Paralleling reduction of the stock market, grain prices tumbled downward early today. Relative firmness of Liverpool wheat quotations failed to act as a counterbalance. Opening unchanged to 3-8 to 1-2 lower, wheat afterward sagged all around. Corn started unchanged to 1-4 off and subsequently held near the initial limits.

"Miss Jenny!"
She turned gasping, her hand on her heart.

about our accident in the paper?"
"You suppose quite rightly. And you may further suppose that when I read that Townsend had just married a Miss Revell of Eyle Street, I said to myself—That must be our Jenny, for the reason that never in this world could it be our George! No, no, never would our George chuck that job of hers for the sake of any little house of dreams! Well, any flaw in the argument?"

She had got in beside him and he was driving very slowly along, his face still amusingly puckered but something shrewd behind the smile. Jenny had the impression that he was feeling his way; it occurred to her also that, like the Old Man, he might not believe the tale she told, but that he would be satisfied if the telling bore scrutiny.

"No flaw at all," she answered as casually as she could. "Perhaps you remember I told you that George wasn't specially interested in Eddie. And you're quite right about the job. George is determined to keep it at any cost."

"The last was so true that she had uttered it almost vehemently and she felt him shoot a quick glance at her. She added, somewhat hastily:

"What other questions do you want to ask?"

"Where — and how — poor old Townsend is? I hear he went through the windshield."

"That didn't really matter," said Jenny with unconscious humor. "The real damage was done to his nerves. He has quite broken down and it's doubtful whether he will ever be a 'bird-man' again. At any rate, he will have to have a long holiday."

Vale seemed sincerely concerned. He drove easily along, talking as easily of cures, and treatments, and cases he had known, where recovery had been miraculously prompt and even more miraculously permanent.

"Er—where did you say he was now?" he interjected.

"He made me promise not to tell any one," answered Jenny firmly. She had been prepared for this.

Eddie Townsend when you hadn't! "You're all alone in that apartment?" queried Vale, cocking an eyebrow at it as he drew up gently before its door.

"Yes," Jenny hoped that he would not suggest coming up. Her head was beginning to ache.

"Then why not come for a run?" he invited. "Come and have a saucer of cream somewhere. It'll take your mind off—things."

She had fully meant to decline when he began to speak but his voice sounded genuinely friendly and she wavered. The empty apartment, with its unfinished chores, suddenly repelled her.

"I—I should like it. But I must be back by—well, quite by six."

"Six it shall be. Any place you'd like to go to? No? What about an inn at a little place up the river? It's what they call an old-world place. Like old-world places!"

Yes, Jenny liked them. She liked, also, settling back in this jolly little car and not having to make conversation. It rather surprised her Ryder Vale did not want her to talk to him. He had struck her as a man who would prefer a ripple of absurdities to nothing at all. However, he appeared to be preoccupied, and she could rest. She watched the traffic idly and idly looked for the first gleam of the river.

"Fraid I'm a dull dog today," he said finally. "Must be the heat; I can't remember a hotter August. There's the inn."

Jenny descended into a courtyard full of white geraniums and cool green smilax trails. All along one side ran a tea-room with windows thrown wide to the air and electric fans humming. It looked cool and attractive and there was a table vacant near a window. She walked in and took possession. Slipping the little coat from her shoulders on to the back of the chair, she glanced round.

Facing her, directly in line with another window at the opposite end of the room, sat Garth Aveney.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: JACOB AT BETHEL.

Scripture Lesson: Gen. 28:10-17. Gen. 28:10. And Jacob went out from Beersheba, and went toward Haran.

11. And he lighted upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, because the sun was set; and he took one of the stones of the place, and put it under his head, and lay down in that place to sleep.

12. And he dreamed: and, behold, a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven; and, behold, the angels of God ascending and descending on it:

13. And, behold, Jehovah stood above it, and said, I am Jehovah, the God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac: the land wherein thou livest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed:

14. And thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south; and in thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed:

15. And, behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land; for I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of.

16. And Jacob awakened out of his sleep, and he said, Surely Jehovah is in this place; and I knew it not.

17. And he was afraid, and said, How dreadful is this place! this is none other than the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven.

Golden Text: I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest.—Gen. 28:15.

Time:—B. C. 1784 (Becher).

Place:—Beersheba, in the extreme south of Palestine. Bethel, west of Ai and south of Shiloh, twelve miles north of Jerusalem.

Introduction
"At the time of which we write Isaac was one hundred and thirty-seven years old, and though he was destined to live yet forty-three years longer, the decay of his sight, and other infirmities, brought the thought of death very near to him. Under these circumstances he resolved formally to bestow the grivileges naturally belonging to the first-born upon Esau. With this, however, he coupled, as a sort of preliminary condition, that Esau should bring and prepare for him some venison. Possibly he regarded the finding of the goats as a sort of providential sign, and the preparations of it as a token of affection."—Alfer Ederheim, Ph. D.

Rebekah's ears were quick, and she overheard Isaac's request of Esau. With characteristic promptness and energy, she had schemed a plan to obtain by trickery the first-born's blessing for Jacob, her favorite son. Shamefully leading him in the path of deceit, she made him kill two goats' kids which she would cook so as to imitate venison. Then she had Jacob clothe himself in Esau's best clothes and she put the skins of the kids on his hands and on his neck, to imitate Esau's hairy skin, and so she sent him to impersonate Esau to the blind and feeble old man.

Esau's Unavailing Grief
One of the saddest passages of the Bible is the account of Esau's return from the chase only to find that it is too late, and the blessing of the first-born has gone from him forever. He has met with justice. In answer to Esau's despairing cry, "Bless me, even me also, O my father," Isaac does once more lift up his shaking voice in prophecy, but it is the foretelling of the future subservience of Edom to Judah, even though in the future that yoke may be taken off; it is the prophecy of a life of the sword, such as was the existence of that warlike and uneasy tribe. It was the best blessing that god, answering Esau's character, could bestow upon him.

Esau Threatens to Kill Jacob. 28:41
Esau's anger was hot against Jacob, and he vowed that he would kill him as soon as Isaac should die; he would not blast with fratricide the old man's last days. By killing his brother, Esau would regain the stolen birthright. Rebekah heard of this vow, and believed it to be no idle threat. The tragedy of Cain and Abel seemed about to be repeated in her family. The only way to avert the disaster appeared to her to be to send Jacob off, and the most natural place to which to send him was Rebekah's old home in Haran, in Mesopotamia (Paddan-aram). There he might live with Rebekah's brother Laban, Jacob's uncle, and find a wife among his daughters. This Rebekah sent away her beloved son, alleging not the real reason, but her fear that Jacob might marry some heathen woman if he did not go to Haran. So Jacob went away, with Isaac's renewed blessing ringing in his ears.

Jacob Flees From Esau. v. 10
"And Jacob went out from Beersheba." Beersheba, in the extreme south of Palestine ("From Dan to Beersheba" was a proverb for the whole country), was Abraham's home for many years, before he went to Hebron and later to Beerlahairol. When Isaac came to the headship of the family, he settled down in Beersheba, opening up the well which Abraham had dug. Notable wells have been discovered on this site in modern days. "And went toward Haran." Haran, where Terah died and from which his son Abraham had set out for Canaan on his great pilgrimage of faith, was a city on a tributary of the Euphrates, about 280 miles northeast of Damascus. Jacob had before him a journey of about 450 miles, which he must make on foot, carrying what goods he possessed, and getting his food where and by what means he could. Only a hardy and resourceful man could have done this.

Jacob at Bethel. v. 11
"And he lighted upon a certain place." Named Luz at the time, but called Bethel, or "House of God," by Jacob (verse 19). "And tarried there all night, because the sun was set." As Bethel was about fifty miles north of Beersheba, this was the second or third night of his journey. "And he took one of the stones of the place." Jacob was travelling along the rocky backbone of Palestine, where flat stones are very abundant. "Bethel is the stoniest spot in all this stony land." "Upon that hard bed was given to Jacob a revelation which powerfully influenced his future conduct."—Rev. D. Rowlands.

The Heavenly Stairway. v. 12
"And he dreamed." The dreams and visions of the Bible furnish some of its most notable and meaningful passages. The student will at once think of Joseph's boyhood dreams, of Solomon's dream in Gibeon, Isalah's vision in the temple, Nebuchadnezzar's dream interpreted by Daniel, Ezekiel's marvelous visions, the dream of Pilate's wife, Stephen's vision of Christ, Peter's vision at Joppa, Paul's vision of the man of Macedonia and his vision on shipboard, and John's vision of the New Jerusalem. But of them all, probably none is so famous as Jacob's dream of the angels' ladder. "And, behold, a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven." "Every ladder should stand upon the ground. The ground is a very good place to start from, but a very poor place to stop on. We be to him who lays out a plan which has nothing in it but this world. This world and the other must be consciously connected in every true man's life."—Henry Ward Beecher.

The Divine Promise. v. 13
"And, behold, Jehovah stood above it." From that time Jacob felt more deeply the presence of God in his life. He had learned that Jehovah was not only in Beersheba, but was with him wherever he went. "How happy are they who, through all the events and vicissitudes of chequered life, have been able to keep the eye of faith firmly fixed on this God above the ladder—God at the summit of his own creation, directing and controlling all that befalls both his church collectively and believers individually."—Rev. J. R. Macduff, D. D.

"And, behold, I am with thee." That was why the ladder reached from heaven to earth, to show that God was ready to come all the way down to our common human needs. That is the meaning of the God-man, Jesus Christ. Jacob must have been very lonely, more lonely than ever in his life before, and this knowledge of God's presence with him was just what he needed: it is just what we all need, and

Christ alone can get it to us. "And will keep thee whithersoever thou goest." That keeping would mean safety wherever Jacob might go, and it means safety for us of today. A Life Changed by a Single Event

In the night something took place which made a difference in the whole life of Jacob, a thing never to be completely forgotten. God came in the night; the angels and the stairway were present realities. And on the spot which Jacob had thought to be only a good spot to spend the night was the shrine of Jehovah, God of heaven and earth—the very house of God.

How often in human experience that takes place which never was in the remotest dream of the one who experienced it. A young reporter walked down the streets of Greensboro, N. C., years ago with never a thought of God. He heard singing, and through curiosity strolled into the meeting house. He was won for God that night and became one of the most useful Baptist ministers in the South—Rev. C. E. W. Dobbs. Charles Haddon Spurgeon had similar experience in a small Methodist meeting house in London.

"The House of God." v. 17
"This is none other than the house of God." That is why Jacob named it Bethel, which means "the House of God," the earlier name being Luz. "It was really the house of God; for the entire world belongs to him, and he inhabits every portion of it. It is only one of the rooms, and a comparatively small one in our Father's house of many mansions; but it is actually one of them, and a very important one."—Rev. Edwin C. Sweetser, D. D.

"And this is the gate of heaven." "We need a meeting place where the soul can stand face to face with God, and receive from the vision of what life means, of the power that links the possibilities of life with the armies and the chariots of heaven."—Rev. Clarence E. Eberman.

Jacob's Response to God's Goodness vs. 18-22

In return for God's wonderful promise Jacob did two things, and in doing them showed his fundamentally religious nature, so different from Esau's. He rose early; and it is well worth while to note of how many of the Bible's great characters it is said that they rose early in the morning. Taking the stone which he had used as a pillow, he set it up as a memorial pillar, consecrating it by pouring on top of it some of the oil which every Eastern traveller carried. In the second place, Jacob made a grateful vow to God, promising that if (we may well read it since) for the "if" implies no doubt) God would be with him, provide for him, and restore him to Isaac's home again, Jehovah should be his God, that pillar should be God's sanctuary, and of all that God should give he would surely give back a tenth to God.

No one can imagine the power and joy that would come to the church of God if Christians everywhere would give at least one-tenth of their income to the Lord's work. "The church's means in the day of the reestablished tithes will be so abundant that she will never halt in victorious march."—Rev. Arthur V. Babbs.

BROWNSVILLE, May 13. (AP)—N. R. Quinn, 62, plumber, G. W. Johnston, Jr., 25, singer and entertainer, and Rosendo de La Santos, 28, plumber's assistant, all of Brownsville were electrocuted here yesterday. They came in contact with an 11,000-volt electric wire while erecting a steel pole for a radio aerial.

SLASHES SALARIES

SAN ANTONIO, May 13. (AP)—County Attorney D. F. Davis, effective this month, has reduced the salaries of all of his employees 10 per cent, effecting a saving of $3,000 annually on 15 affected employees. The cut was agreed to by all employees.

Akron Moored To Its Pacific Base

SUNNYVALE, Calif., May 13. (AP)—The navy dirigible Akron was today moored at its Pacific coast base to day after a transcontinental flight that extended two days longer than estimated and cost two lives.

Here, at the southern tip of San Francisco bay, a red light on a 77-foot temporary mooring marked the goal for which it set out from Lakehurst, N. J., May 8.

After a 13-hour flight from San Diego, where the world's largest airship stopped to replenish a fuel supply depleted in battling storms over Southwest Texas, the Akron arrived at San Francisco shortly after midnight (P. S. T.). It prepared to remain aloft until daylight.

NEW YORKER TO SPEAK

HUNTSVILLE, May 13. (AP)—Dr. Kirby Page of New York will deliver the commencement address at Sam Houston State Teachers' college here on May 30.

The institution, incidentally, has set a new record in the matter of enrollment. President H. F. Estill announced. Registrations totaled 986, 34 more than last year.

Actors Welcome Eggs In Hungarian Theater

SZAJOL, Hungary (AP)—Eggs are no insult to actors in this section of Hungary, provided they are offered gently in the box office.

At a recent performance here most of the night's receipts were in the form of dairy produce. The "take" totalled 14 pengos, or about $2.50, in cash, and 130 eggs.

Latin America Is Best Market

SWEETWATER, May 13. (AP)—James S. Carson, vice-president of the American and Foreign Power company, told the West Texas Chamber of Commerce today that the future of American foreign trade lies in Latin America rather than in Europe.

He said long term investment of American capital was already larger in Latin America than in all of Europe, about $5,350,000,000 as against $4,900,000,000. There is a wide difference, he said, in the character of the investments. About two thirds of the investment in Europe is in the form of securities, while barely one-third of the investment in Latin America is of that type. The rest is a direct investment in properties.

The preponderance of investment in properties is much larger in some countries than in others, Carson said. The proportion is especially high in Venezuela, where there is a great petroleum industry and where there is no external debt of any kind. Chile, Bolivia, Peru, and Venezuela, all great mining countries, have huge investments of American capital, while Brazil and Argentina, being largely agricultural, have proportionately less.

Carson explained the present financial difficulties of several Latin American countries as being due largely to shrinkage in commodity prices. For generations, he said, most of the countries had raised revenue chiefly by ad valorem customs duties.

A decrease in foreign trade thus greatly lessened governmental revenues. Simultaneously, the prices of Latin American exports—such as minerals, coffee, and sugar—decreased as much as 50 to seventy-five per cent, with a corresponding decline in exports. Thus at one time, both paying and collecting processes were crippled.

MAKE MONEY EASY

TROUP, May 13. (AP)—Truck farmers hereabouts have discovered one sure way of making money.

About half a dozen of them have sold their crops as they stood in the field. They were bought by oil companies, insistent on drilling immediately.

BELIEVES IN PRISONER

SAN ANGELO, May 13. (AP)—Sheriff W. P. Rooney of Pecca county has faith in Selestino Rodriguez, Pecca county convict, Rodriguez appeared at the Tom Green county jail the other day and informed Sheriff J. R. Hewitt that he had been convicted "of killing a beef" at Fort Stockton and was to serve two years in the penitentiary.

A note from Sheriff Rooney to Sheriff Hewitt carried the request that Rodriguez be placed in jail to await "Bud Russell, penitentiary agent. It added:

"Tell the agent if he wants a good man he may use this one and have confidence in his choice. He is all right and can be depended upon in any way for anything."

RANCH VALUE SET

SAN ANTONIO, May 13. (AP)—An appraisal of between $1,500 and $20,000 will be placed on the Neutze ranch of about 1,000 acres, needed by the government to enlarge the military reservation at Camp Bullis. Appraisers who visited the land refused to name a definite price, but said it would be between the two figures. The land has been condemned by the government.

TEACHER RETURNING

CANYON, May 13. (AP)—Miss Ruth Cross, head of the department of physical education of the West Texas State Teachers college, is expected to arrive in Canyon about June 1. During the past season, Miss Cross has had leave of absence and has been taking special work at Columbia university, New York.

CLUB HELPS MUSEUM

CANYON, May 13. (AP)—The Merry Men and Matrons, a society club of Canyon, have made a donation of $10.00 to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society building fund. Mrs. Charles Fisher is president and Mrs. Harry A. Brown is secretary of this club.

Merchants May Decorate Windows In Frontier Motif

In order to constantly remind Pampans and visitors to the city that the first annual Frontier Days celebration will be held here May 26-28, Lon L. Blansett, chairman of arrangements, suggested to merchants that they obtain old-time pictures and photographs and exhibit them in their display windows.

The first to follow the suggestion was Mrs. M. E. Fenberg at the Diamond shop. She has on display a picture of an old-time cowboy.

Any scene depicting pioneer life, such as scenes around the chuck wagon, pictures of cattle herds, branding, roundups or of Pampa during the early days would be appropriate to display in the windows, Mr. Blansett said.

It was learned that many old timers here have pictures of Pampa persons and scenes taken many years ago. These might be obtained for display if their return were guaranteed, Mr. Blansett said. Such pictures would not only remind citizens of the celebration but would call attention to the merchandise on display in the windows, it was said.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

Rhubarb is invaluable as a fruit extender, a "stretcher," so to speak. Strange as it may seem, this common garden plant with its characteristic tartness has the peculiar quality of increasing the bulk of jams and preserves made of delicately flavored fruits without materially changing the flavor.

Strawberry and rhubarb jam is delicious and hard to distinguish from all-strawberry jam but the rhubarb increases the quantity and makes for economy.

Strawberry and Rhubarb Jam
One pound rhubarb, 2 pounds strawberries, 2 pounds granulated sugar.

Wash and skin rhubarb. Wash and hull berries. Put rhubarb thru the food chopper, catching the juice that drips from the crank case. Combine rhubarb juice and sugar. Add berries and let stand until sugar is dissolved. Stir frequently to prevent sticking and to crush the fruit. Cook until a spoonful tried on a cold plate jellies. Turn into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffine when cold.

Rhubarb and Pineapple Marmalade
Two cups finely chopped rhubarb, 2 cups shredded pineapple, 3 cups granulated sugar, 1-2 cup water.

Cook pineapple in water for 20 minutes. Add rhubarb and cook until very soft. Add sugar, stirring it in slowly, and cook until thick. It will take about 20 minutes. Turn into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffine when cold.

Rhubarb combined with raisins, dates and spiced vinegar makes a delicious relish to serve with meats.

Rhubarb Relish
Two pounds rhubarb, 1-4 pound seeded and chopped raisins, 1-2 pound stoned and chopped dates, 3 cups vinegar, 2 pounds light brown sugar, 1 tablespoon chili peppers, 1 1-2 tablespoons salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 cup chopped English walnut meats.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Grape fruit, asparagus omelet, whole wheat and raisin muffins, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Tomato succotash with bacon, baking powder biscuits, pineapple and rhubarb jam, milk, tea.
DINNER: Chicken fricassee, new potatoes in cream, savory wax beans, spring salad, old-fashioned strawberry shortcake, milk, coffee.

BANTAM BLOOMS ON BOTTLE

Here's the first picture of Master Charles Bernard St. John, Kansas City's famous bantamweight baby, after his coming out party. Charles weighed but one pound at birth, April 3. Until recently he lived in the seclusion of an incubator. He was fed from an eye-dropper. When this picture was taken he weighed 2 pounds 14 ounces, and his mother, Mrs. William St. John, is shown feeding him from a "man-sized" baby bottle.

Combine raisins and dates and let stand in vinegar for one hour. Skin rhubarb and cut in half-inch pieces. Add to first mixture with all the remaining ingredients except the nuts. Cook slowly, stirring frequently for two hours. Add nuts and cook ten minutes longer. Turn into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffine when cold.

Rhubarb and Strawberry Conserve
Two cups finely chopped rhubarb, 2 cups shredded pineapple, 4 cups hulled strawberries, 6 cups sugar, 1-2 cup blanched and shredded almonds.

Cook in pebble in its own juice for ten minutes. Add strawberries cut in small pieces and prepared rhubarb. Bring to the boiling point and sift in sugar. Cook, stirring to prevent sticking, for about 40 minutes. Add nuts and cook ten minutes longer. Turn into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffine when cold.

A few glasses of these preserves will help to replenish the store left from last autumn's work. Served with tea and toast or hot rolls, they will add new interest to plain meals.

This Game of Golf

Leon Diegel did a pitch-hole in one stroke in the 1931 National open championship at Faversham, but as he did not go ahead and win the competition by one stroke a great many persons were spared the exhaustive calculation that a par 3 on that hole would have lost him the championship—by one stroke.

Chasteen Harris, however, in the qualifying round of the Southern amateur championship at the Belle Meade Country club, Nashville, holed the 250-yard fifteenth in one stroke; and, as things turned out, if he had taken as many as two on that hole, he would not have qualified.

Which recalls a number of episodes, one of them narrated not long ago by Mr. Bernard Darwin the great English writer of golf, concerning old Jamie Anderson, in the British open of 1878, which was before I was born, though not long.

Fate
Jamie was playing his last round, and at the seventeenth, a one-holer, he inadvertently teed the ball ahead of the markers—a mistake that subjects the competitor to disqualification in a medal competition. A young lad in the gallery called Jamie's attention to the matter. He thanked her, re-teed the ball back of the line—and holed out.

It is safe to assume that, played from the other position (even without disqualification) the shot would not have stopped in the same place. And, to make the story better, Jamie won the championship, by one stroke.

Corrected Firing
Dr. Darwin has even a better one than that, however.

It seems that an English amateur named Palmer—the same C. A. Palmer who beat Jerry Travers in the first round of the British amateur at Sandwich in 1914—was playing at a French course, Le Touquet, and after his first round registered a complaint at the clubhouse with the manager, that the direction flag on a certain short hole—a blind one-shooter over a hill—was off the proper line.

Mr. Palmer was instructed that he was at liberty to replace the direction flag, and he was meticulous enough to go right out and do it.

In the afternoon round, Mr. Palmer came to that hole, shot directly over the corrected flag—and holed out for an ace!

Hole That Vanished
Alex Ross, at Pinehurst, told me

Students To See Modern Telegraph

School children of the city have been invited to visit the local Postal Telegraph office to inspect modern apparatus on this the hundredth anniversary of the invention of the telegraph.

O. L. Wilson, local manager, will explain the apparatus, Morse, inventor of the instruments, conceived the idea while returning on May 14, 1832, from a vacation journey to Europe. From that crude beginning in 1832, the science has become almost automatic and as simple as using a typewriter. The business world depends much upon wire service.

He was playing with another man named Ross at a Detroit course; Red Run, I think it was. Anyway, it was early in the morning, and they came to the tee of a short hole, an iron shot, while the greenkeeper was changing the position of the pin.
Mr. Ross—the other Mr. Ross—hit a good shot, and the ball rolled into the original hole, from which the flag and the "can" had been removed, the other hole having been cut already in another part of the green.
The flag and the can were not in either hole when the shot was struck. If you can figure out whether that was a hole-in-one, or what, you might write to Alex Ross about it, at Pinehurst, and he might inform the other Ross. Nobody seems to know just what happened.

MOUNTAINEERS CLASH

In the heart of the Cumberland mountains, at Pikeville, Tenn., mountaineers held a match with the famous "long rifles" used by their grandpappies in settling the wild country. Gilbert Angel, above, rated one of the best shots of the district, cracked 47 out of a possible 50 at a range of 50 yards with the huge rifle, 100 years old, he is seen holding. The target was a cross cut on a blackened plank and molded bullets and black powder were used as in the old days.

Gaston B. Means Jailed as Drunk

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Gaston B. Means today had a double account to square with the law.

While the world mourned at news that the Lindbergh baby was dead, Means was called before the bar of justice to answer charges that he used the child's kidnapping to embezzle $104,000 of intended ransom money from Mrs. Edward B. McLean, who had employed him as an intermediary.

But even before this arraignment in District of Columbia supreme court had to face a police judge on charges of being drunk and disorderly. He was placed in jail for two hours yesterday, to "sober up," police said, after he had been seized in a downtown drugstore where he allegedly manhandled a reporter who had come to interview him.

Huey Long Draws Wrath of Curtis

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—A renewal yesterday of Huey Long's harsh attack on Senator Robinson's democratic leadership brought the ebullient Louisiana his first touch of senate discipline.

He was ordered to cease talking and take his seat by none other than Vice-President Curtis because his remarks were held beyond all the bounds set for senatorial property. His words carried the clear statement that Robinson's law firm represented "disparaging" interests and a broad implication that his votes were influenced by the wishes of client corporations.

F. P. Reid transacted business in Skellytown yesterday.

A treat which you should not miss..

THE KITCHEN CHAUTAUQUA

NOW and again some particularly fine feature or program of entertainment is available to you. It may be a lecture or a play, an Uncle Tom's Cabin show or grand opera.

One of the finest of such programs—and a feature that comes for your enjoyment but once a year—is the Kitchen Chautauqua. The Kitchen Chautauqua is a cooking school—but what a cooking school.

Whether you're a bride of a month or a grandmother, you'll enjoy these sparkling programs with the age-old theme of cookery. There are many short-cuts and many roads leading to culinary success and perfection—the Kitchen Chautauqua gathers them all up and shows them to you, right before your very eyes.

Every recipe and every kitchen suggestion that has a part in this cooking school—the theme of which is "the happy kitchen"—has been tried and tested by a whole staff of practical housewives. Don't come expecting to see nothing but a batch of party dishes—they'll have their part, of course, but the main things you'll see and hear at the Kitchen Chautauqua will be the simple, easy, little workaday hints and time-savers that make cooking a real pleasure. And without these hints and time-savers, your three-meals-a-day are likely to become a drudge.

Cooking can so easily be turned into romance—the thrill of discovery and the satisfaction of seeing a thing well done. Attend the Kitchen Chautauqua—then try the frying-pan recipe on the family's grouches!

Wool Harvest Time Is Here

SAN ANGELO, May 13. (P)—It's wool harvest time in Texas. Removal of an estimated 53 million pounds of spring fleeces from the backs of more than six million sheep is nearing its peak, while buyers who trek to this region each spring and fall are visiting the warehouses and the ranches to bid on clips for their clients, the Eastern mills. The price is off this year, but it will bring a lot of money into this part of the Southwest, and the ranchman's worries will be over for a time.

More than 150 shearing machines have put at least 2,000 idle men to work in 25 counties of the sheep belt, and the average wage is $4 a day.

And the light breezes of these mornings carry the odor of frying bacon and stirring stiffs from coffee pots. Some one is singing a song. It's in Spanish, and the singer, bareheaded, intermittently makes a purring sound—for he is washing his face for the morning meal of bacon, beans and coffee. His clothing is of khaki.

It is a Mexican shearing crew getting ready to shear the wool from the sheep that nearby are bleating in the pens, ready to give up about 7 1/2 pounds of wool each.

There is a sort of race to see who will finish the first sheep, and in about three to five minutes the first one is released. The ranchman who owns it places some paint on its almost naked body, counts it, and the sheep has nothing to do for another year but grow wool. Another boy hands the shearer a check, the shearer places this in his pocket, gets another sheep and continues on all day. At night the checks are totaled.

A good shearer can shear 125 to 150 sheep in a day, while the West Texas record is 205 sheep. The shearers are hired by the shearing captains, who get eight to nine cents a head for sheep, six to seven cents for goats and 20 to 30 cents for bucks. The shearer gets half of the sum which is paid the captains, who own the machines. The machines run all the way from a capacity of two sheep at one time to 16 at one time, with the average around ten.

JOBLESS/ATTEMPT "PANNING"

today in America's record of the yellow metal, which has been bound up in devious ways with the history of the United States.

The Colorado plan for relief of the unemployed is unique among the many schemes being developed throughout the country on behalf of jobless workers.

Mayor George Begole of Denver announced formation of the first class in gold panning methods.

The scheme was developed under the direction of Professor E. I. Watson, state superintendent of industrial education.

Under his tutelage jobless men were taught how to "pan" the banks of streams where gold was to be found. Scores of Colorado rivers are fairly rich with fine gold washings. Hardly worth working in commercial quantities, the deposits still offer a fair income to industrious and determined unemployed.

Nearly all the larger cities in Colorado formed classes running from 200 to 400 men each. Within a short time 1300 amateur gold panners were reported at work and the number is increasing constantly.

The trick is to wash away the lighter gravel and sand in the pan without letting the gold escape. Meanwhile West Virginia is stirred by the discovery of gold not far from Parsons in Tucker county.

The first strike was made by Coyton Phillips of Parsons within the boundaries of the Monongahela forest. The vein, a ledge, is being traced to areas outside the forest of considerable magnitude has been discovered.

At $156.80 a ton the ore is nearly a third more valuable than any hitherto discovered in the east, according to mining engineers at the scene of the strike.

Commercial operation has started.

Here are two unique and modern "gold rush" scenes. In the top picture a group of Colorado's unemployed are learning how to pan gold from the banks of a stream under the instruction of Professor E. I. Watson, state superintendent of industrial education. Nearly 2000 are working streams in all parts of the state for small but profitable gold deposits. Lower picture shows Coyton Phillips of Parsons, West Virginia, who struck gold ore assaying $156.80 a ton, the richest ever found in the east, near his home.

Colorado's unemployed are being taught how to pan gold and nearly 200 are at work on streams all over the state.

In West Virginia the richest strike ever made in the east has been reported, with ore assaying $156.80.

"One of the things that brings us back to a wholesome balance is a winning ball team. It's Casey at the bat again! Detroit always was a great baseball town."

"Now the Tigers are gripping the imagination again. They have a going team. It is fresh. There is Davis at first base and Rhlei at third, for example, to stimulate interest. They are beginning to bring the same color to the game that Ty Cobb brought in the old days."

Beer, or Water?

"And if we had a glass of beer to go with it, because baseball and beer went together, that would get everybody off their nerves."

And Councilman Smith: "Now they're predicting a pennant for Detroit. I haven't heard so much baseball discussion in 10 years—everywhere I go. It's like a drink of cool water after a long march."

Then spoke Councilman Lodge: "The fact that they are up there fighting for the top is one of the most helpful things in the economic condition we now find ourselves in. The psychological effect of a winning team is wonderful."

MISSIS HIS LINIMENT
EDINBURG, May 13. (P)—An Edinburg mule is going to miss his liniment.

The basic ingredient in this medicine was a fluid which federal officers assert was Mexican alcohol, and the owner of the mule and the "liniment" were bound over to the federal grand jury on a charge of smuggling liquor across the border.

Two gallons of the alcohol, 26 bottles of home brew, and equipment for making home brew were seized. The man arrested claimed that he mixed the alcohol with coal oil and rubbed it on an ailing mule.

He waived examining trial before U. S. Commissioner H. V. Watts here.

WILL REPLACE FUND
RAYMONDVILLE, May 13. (P)—After cutting off this county's appropriation in the four-county Valley Health unit several weeks ago, the Willacy county commissioners' court has decided to appropriate the money again, because of the value of the health unit as a buffer against bringing in diseases from Mexico.

Petitions were presented to the court by a number of citizens after the appropriation was dropped.

Turkey Cuts Red Tape
GALLIPLI, Turkey (P)—Turkey raised her restrictions on imports sufficiently to admit stone markers for the graves of allied soldiers killed in the fierce Gallipoli campaign of the world war and buried in British and French cemeteries here.

STERLING IS INVITED
HOUSTON, May 13. (P)—Governor Ross S. Sterling and Railroad Commissioner Pat M. Neff, have been invited to attend a barbecue at Humble on May 28 in celebration of the completion of a 23-mile concrete section of the Humble highway from Houston to the Montgomery county line.

There will be an all-day program. The cost of the road, as estimated by contractors, was $1,250,000.

D. L. Lunn, general chairman of the celebration, said there probably would be speeches.

Congo High In Diamonds
LEOPOLDVILLE (P)—The Belgian Congo now is second among world diamond producers, latest statistics giving the output of the Kasai district as 1,900,000 carats. Congolese diamonds are found in open mines.

HAVE CHILD HEALTH DAY
VERNON, May 13. (P)—Approximately 4,000 people of this section attended the Child Health Day and May Day program held here recently. Almost 1,500 students of Willbarger county schools received health awards. Willbarger county led all other counties in Texas in the number of five-point health awards with 816.

Russia Speeds India Mail
MOSCOW (P)—A postal convention between the soviet union and Afghanistan, providing for transportation of mail through the two countries and thus speeding postal service between India and Europe, has been signed at Kabul.

Turkey Stops Building
ANGORA (P)—Turkey has called off all government construction work for 1932, so no new buildings will be erected in this capital nor at Yalova, the summer capital. The savings will lower by $8,000,000 the government deficit of $17,000,000.

King Fuad Joins Rotary
CAIRO (P)—King Fuad has become an honorary Rotarian and honorary governor of the Rotary clubs of Egypt, taking rank with the king of Italy, the king of Belgium and the president of the United States.

French Births Decrease
PARIS (P)—There was a slight decrease in the French birth rate in 1931, it being 17.4 a thousand as against 18 in 1930. Excess of births over deaths dropped from 99,785 to 49,539.

Hooks and Slides

Baseball and Hard Times

Detroit reports that complete accord has been reached between Mayor Murphy, Councilman Smith and Councilman Lodge. The reason is baseball.

Washington is viewing the spectacle of the lamb and the lion not lying down together, but standing right up and roaring as Whittier Johnson's Senators struggle to keep the place near the top of the American League. Republicans and Democrats have forgotten petty differences and sit side by side in the grandstand, united by a common interest in a fighting team.

Detroit Awakens

Detroit for several years has been in the second division. The Tigers under Bucky Harris have been slowly and patiently rebuilding, a painful process in which the fans are not greatly interested. Year after year the breaks have gone against the team.

Last year Charley Gehringer's arm went lame, and other injuries hindered the team. The year before that, the club fell into a batting slump at the very outset of the season, and Detroit, though a good baseball town under normal conditions, became disgusted with the outfit.

During this period of ill-fortune, and patient, painful building, Bucky Harris came in for his share of recriminations from the fans.

"What's the Score?"

Now, all is forgiven. Councilmen who have vied with the mayor on questions of municipal finance, salary reduction and other civic affairs, sit down together with a box score. The question has become "What's the score?"

The other day Mayor Murphy sat at his desk, with a delegation waiting to confer with him at the long conference table in his office. The subject of the ball team was introduced.

"It's just the thing for Detroit right now," said His Honor. "Detroit has got a case of nerves. If we had not been careful we would have pulled some awful boners, like

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

As various foods come under the scientist's thorough investigation, it's decidedly gratifying to know that some of our favorites are actually "good for us" and that we may enjoy a feeling of virtue as well as pleasure when we indulge in certain fruits and vegetables. Strawberries are one of these fruits that food chemists have studied, and according to reports the luscious red berry has many points in its favor. As a mineral substitute for oranges, strawberries stand remarkably high. Although slightly lower in lime, they are four times higher in iron content per unit of weight than oranges. The lime content is of comparatively little importance since milk is the cheapest source of this mineral constituent. It takes ten large oranges to furnish the same amount of lime found in one quart of milk. In food or fuel values, too, oranges and strawberries parallel each other in many respects. Strawberries are richer in protein than oranges, but a pound of berries, which is about a quart as purchased, supplies approximately the same number of calories as a pound of oranges.

C Vitamins Are Many
It is also interesting to know that vitamin C, the scurvy preventive, rates about as high in berries as it does in oranges. Vitamins A and B, the growing and building substances, are lower in berries than in the citrus fruit. The strawberry holds only half the A value and one-third the B value of the orange.

Canned strawberries are so widely used that they also have come under the scientist's eye. Comprehensive research has revealed that commercially canned and home-canned berries by the hot pack or pressure methods lose practically no vitamin C through the canning process. Berries canned by the open kettle method do lose their vitamin C content since the vitamin is primarily destroyed by air. Heat hastens the destruction when air is present, but in the absence of air has little effect. This explains why commercially canned strawberries retain vitamin C.

There is also reason to believe that berries like the other fruits actually help the body to make use of other elements in the diet. They are not only valuable in themselves, but they increase the value of accompanying foods in daily menus. Naturally, if you want to use strawberries as a substitute for oranges and gain the same benefits, the fruit must be perfectly ripe and not deluged with sugar. Keep in mind, too, that oranges have been found experimentally to be very efficient in reducing body acidity, while we are still in the dark regarding strawberries on this point.

Many housekeepers must face the problem of buying fruit and canning product. If a comparatively high price must be paid for fresh berries plus labor, fuel and equipment, it may be found cheaper to invest in the commercially canned product. Of course the woman who lives in a small town or in a community easily accessible to berry markets may find it profitable to do her own canning. The hot-water bath, steam pressure cooker and

By O.B. KEELER

I got this one from my son George, who lately has gone quite mad on the subject of golf. He was told the story by a friend named Bruce Hanby, at the Coosa Country club, Rome, Ga. Mr. Hanby got the story in Birmingham. Indeed, it happened to him. He professes himself to be still uncertain what to do about it, or, rather, what he should have done about it, since it is now quite too late to do anything.

It seems Mr. Hanby was an ardent golfer, and an acquaintance—the acquaintance being of a business nature—was in Birmingham briefly, and Mr. Hanby invited him to play golf.

"I don't play much," said the visitor, in the deprecating tone which suggests he played pretty darned well, when he did play. "And I haven't got my clubs with me."

"That's all right," said Mr. Hanby. "I've got two sets. Just changing over to some new ones, you know. The old ones are pretty good clubs, though. I haven't made up my mind yet which I will play with, permanently."

So they went out to the club and got some caddies and started.

Clubs Didn't Suit
The visitor did not look as if he were going to bust any course records. He did an uncertain sort of 8 on the first hole, and on the second tee he topped his drive badly. He looked at the ball until it stopped hopping along. He looked at the club. Then he wrapped it around one leg of the tee-box, and went on.

"He didn't say a word," said Mr.

Hanby. "He didn't even swear. And it was my club. But I didn't know exactly what to do, so I didn't do anything."

The next hole had a lot of water in front of the tee. The visitor topped his first drive into the water. He teed another ball and topped that in. He teed a third and topped that one in, also.

Then he took all the remaining balls out of Mr. Hanby's second-string golf bag and threw them into the lake. Then he took the bag of clubs—Mr. Hanby's clubs—and threw the whole works into the lake.

Mr. Hanby Knows
"And then," said Mr. Hanby, "he dusted his hands together with the air of a man who has got a mean job finished, and said: 'Well, that's over with!'"

As Mr. Hanby told George, he didn't know at the time what to do about it, and has not decided since.

"One thing," said Mr. Hanby, "it certainly got that round of golf over with, in short order. And that was a good break, the way he was going."

And another thing. It settled Mr. Hanby's mind as to which set of clubs he was to use permanently. He uses the new clubs.
