OLD AGE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT. Human beings have many fears. None of them is more tragic or foolish than the fear of old age.

There died in New York not long ago a veteran actress at the age of 80. Few people knew her real age, before her death; some thought she was 65, some thought she was much younger.

Several years before her death she had had to retire from the stage; but she tried to keep up the fiction of youth to the very last. She passed herself off as the pretty young ingenue.

Her story is almost unbearably pathetic. But it is unusual only in that this woman went a little bit farther in her fear of old age than most of us try to go.

We all share her fear, to a certain extent. We fight the advancing years desperately and futilely, and when wrinkles or gray hairs or bodily weakness at last convince us that we are on the downward slope we feel very sorry for ourselves, and contend that life has played us a scurvy trick.

And there is in all of this a subtle proof that our scheme of living is out of joint somewhere. Old age should be the crown of life—the Indian summer of human existence, a time for peaceful contemplation and reflection. It might be, if we prepared for it.

But we don't. We force ourselves not to think that we shall be old someday; and when that some day comes and we are old, we feel that fate has cheated us most infamously.

It needn't be that way. We all know old people who accept age undisturbed, who don't grope back in vain for the illusion of lost youth, but who accept the quiet and peace of advanced years as a harbor for which they have long been steering.

For many a married man, international diplomacy pales into insignificance beside the strategy displayed by the young Indian who took his bride on a 4,500-mile "hitch-hike honeymoon."

There's a limit to everything—even thermometers. It wasn't the 50-below-zero temperature that annoyed Silver Bow, Mont., but the inability to learn how much colder it got.

Roosevelt's smile has been as broad for the south as for the north. But it remained for Mrs. Roosevelt to achieve the ultimate in impartiality by choosing her inaugural gown in a shade which stylists describe as "just between grayish blue and bluish gray."

Housewives who may be a bit envious of Mrs. Roosevelt's role in capital society high reflect that she will have 500 guests for luncheon, 1,000 for tea and 70 for dinner March 4.

That Nebraskan who's cutting teeth at 88 better hang on to his false ones. At that age one never can tell what another 50 years may bring.

SYNOPSIS: Intense action in the Citadel of Mekazen, near which House Soudous Escoll of the Foreign Legion plots treason to France.

Chapter 16 THE JOLLY KAID. THE KAID Abdallah Karim, seated upon his cushions in the Lady Zainub's chamber, laughed merrily his famous laugh, that hearty, deep chested, full-throated laugh which shook him from head to foot, and which so rarely inspired a sense of amusement and inclination to laughter in the hearer.

"Ha, ha, thou Desired of Emperors, thou Moon of my Delight that know'st no wane, what saith the Prophet Himself (on whom be peace)—and he, Allah witness, knew something of women—what saith he?"

"Well, what does he say?" inquired the Lady Zainub, humoring her lord with smiles, and wondering whether, in the end, he would stick a knife in her, or have her thrown from the battlements in a

Castling herself at his feet, she begged her lord to be seated, promising him amendment, obedience, and great entertainment.

But remarking that, although he had intended to stay for the remainder of the day, he was constrained by her distressing wearisomeness to leave it, the Kaid strode away, for he had an important engagement.

Thus it was a moment not more than an hour later than the time appointed, that he entered his council chamber, attended by his son, Ibraim; his friend and agent, the Señor Pedro Mallig; his agent's son, Mr. Jules Mallig; his confidential scribe and secretary, Abu Talib Zerhoun; mighty Ibrahim the Lion, his gigantic bodyguard; and the stern and stalwart commander-in-chief of the fighting men, Mahommed Ali el Amin, Mahommed the Trustworthy, Mahommed the Reliable.

Seating himself on a handsome if somewhat dirty, divan, the Kaid courteously signified his pleasure that the others should be seated also, and bade Abu Talib, "he scribe go and inform the visitor who had arrived yesterday (on Señor Pedro Mallig's recommendation and personal guarantee), that the Kaid sat in audience, and would receive him

"A little you weary me," said the Kaid.

"To strangers and wayfarers be kind," said the Koran," observed the Kaid, and laughed meaningly.

"He is undoubtedly a stranger—and something of a wayfarer by now," smiled Pedro Mallig, "as he has come deviously hither from Germany by way of Egypt, Tunis and Algeria."

"And I shall undoubtedly be kind," laughed the Kaid again. A few minutes later the scribe returned, accompanied by a tall, thickset, broad-shouldered man, dressed as an Arab, his bearded face sunburnt and weather-beaten.

In Arab fashion and speech, he saluted and greeted the Kaid and the assembled company.

The Kaid clapped his hands loudly; servants entered at the signal, and were bidden to bring coffee, mint-tea and cigarettes.

"Perhaps, being a foreigner, our guest would prefer strong drink of the foreigners?" inquired the Kaid courteously.

The stranger signified that he would be glad to accept his host's eyes and drink of the forbidden and abhorrent drink.

The Kaid laughed merrily, and the stranger eyed him thoughtfully the while.

"Well," said the Kaid, "as to that, I can bear it, I can bear it. In fact, to speak the truth—which is ever pleasant and natural to my lips—I have tasted it. Yea, sometimes I drink it. . . . And yet, on the other hand, I do not drink it, I never drink it."

"A hard saying, Lord Kaid," mused the stranger. "A riddle, in fact."

"Yes," agreed the Kaid. "The solution of the riddle being that my Holy Mahan, most pious and learned man in Mekazen—yea, in all the country—yea, in all Mogreb—hisses it, and straightaway it turns to milk in my mouth!"

"Let us drink milk," he added. In the ensuing conversation and negotiation, the Kaid showed himself the keen man of business—the business of war—the horridly, training, and environment had made him.

The visitor or emissary, on the other hand, proved less competent and, on the few points upon which they differed, was without great difficulty, outmaneuvered, overborne and defeated.

(Copyright, 1932, P. A. Stokes Co.) Plot and counterplot continue, tomorrow, in the grim Citadel of Mekazen.

Baptist Troop Making Record

Troop No. 3 meets in the Scout hall in the First Baptist church of Pampa on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

The troop in reality is about four years old being organized in November 1928, but the organization was only last June the troop was re-organized.

Residents Register Total of 241 Dogs

There are at least 241 dog owners in the city who believe in tagging and vaccinating dogs. That number of license tags have been issued by the city police department to date.

Troop 20 Has Rapid Growth

Troop 20 of Pampa is 8 months old and has 24 registered members, eight second class with nine merit badges. Four members have enrolled since the first of January and four of the boys registered on their 12th birthday.

Christian Troop Going Strong

Troop Four of Pampa was organized at the First Christian church in December of 1928 with Paul D. Hill as scoutmaster. There were nine registered Scouts in the troop at that time.

In the second year J. W. Hutchins was scoutmaster and there were nine of the Scouts re-registered.

At the end of the third year there were thirteen registered Scouts with J. W. Hutchins still scoutmaster.

In the fourth year Troop Four started with eleven registered Scouts and Paul D. Hill, scoutmaster. In April, H. Earl Goodwin was commissioned as assistant scoutmaster and things started to move.

Troop Four took part in all Anniversary activities and at the Round-up we received the president's award.

At the Jr. Leader's council meeting on February 22, the objectives for the month of March were outlined. They are as follows: (1) all tenderfoot Scouts advance to second class Scouts, (2) two trophies, (3) Parents night on the last Friday, and (4) a full troop of active Scouts.

In talking the objectives over at the meeting, the patrol leaders said the following: Wood Pigeon patrol, "I'll try," Bear patrol, "The whole patrol will be Second Class," Racoon patrol, "Will if possible," Pine Tree patrol, "I'll do my best."

The discussion was held until 10 o'clock and some of the other things brought up were the troop meeting program. The majority voted to have each patrol take up 30 minutes at each meeting and the patrols to hold their meetings thru the week except for 30 minutes they meet during troop meeting for instruction.

The Wood Pigeon patrol will have the first chance on March 3, the Bear Patrol will take its turn on March 10, the Racoon patrol will do its bit on March 17, and the Pine Tree patrol will bring up the rear on March 24. The last meeting of the month will be in charge of the parents. It is rather hard to tell what will happen this month, but it will be good.—Harlan Martin, scribe.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—Hugh R. Baker today resigned as president of the National City company, affiliated of the National City bank.

From the pound Thursday night. Two men are spending all their time catching dogs that have not been tagged. They have nearly 90 in the pound now. Owners may claim their dogs by having them vaccinated and buying tags. Otherwise the dogs will be killed at the end of three days.

BANKER

1929 he sold 18,000 shares of the bank stock to a relative at a loss of nearly $2,800,000 and later bought it back at the price he had received for it.

Mitchell also testified that directors of the bank had lent bank funds totalling $2,400,000 to officers of the bank to protect their stock holdings in the market crash of 1929. These loans, lawyers for the senate committee brought out, were made without interest and, in most cases, without security.

Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the investigating committee, brought out that lesser employees of the bank who had bought stock at $2,200 and $220 a share in 1929 were still paying installments at those prices. The present price is under $40. The employees, he was informed, could relieve themselves of the obligation only by resigning their jobs.

(Continued from Page 5) where the Chinese were putting up a vigorous fight. Chinese dispatches reported a 24-hour engagement near the village of Naimanwangfu in which Japanese cavalry lost 400 horses which they abandoned to perish in the mud. This was in the Chaoyang sector where a Chinese counter-attack was reported to have met with a measure of success.

Incomplete casualty lists compiled by the Chinese said the defenders had lost 1,000 men in that sector and the Japanese 600 in a single battle near Lingyuan.

The Hattori brigade was halted at Shamooshan, about 100 miles east of Jehol City and only 15 miles inside the border. Marshal Chang's regulars held their ground despite repeated attacks.

Marshall Chang's 19 brigade made Shamooshan, on the route to Wukunfu, southern mountain passage to Jehol City, a key point. Emplacements of artillery and machine guns in the hills held off the Japanese.

"Gun-fire is rocking the mountains," said Japanese correspondents in the area. For a second time, Maj. Gen. Hattori was forced to call on the air force from this base to bomb the Chinese defenders. It was disclosed that one of Lieut. Gen. Yoshimichi Suzuki's regiments were swinging southwestward from Chaoyang and menacing the Chinese left flank in this area.

Japanese aviators claimed they were eager to oust Marshal Chang's air force in the first air combats. Japanese assert Americans, Russians, and other occidentals are plotting a portion of the 34 Chinese planes sent into Jehol.

SCOPE OF CLUB ACTIVITIES IN COUNTY IS ENLARGED

HELP IS GIVEN TO WOMEN NOT IN CLUB WORK

DEMONSTRATIONS ARE GIVEN IN OTHER COUNTIES

THE County Council of Home Demonstration clubs of Gray county set as one of the goals for the county the reaching of more than 85 per cent of the farm and ranch families. This has caused an enlargement in the scope of club activities for the women of the county.

Mrs. G. B. Bradbury of the Bell club scored ten beams in Carson county prior to the beginning of improvements. She made helpful suggestions while visiting each club demonstrator. The latter part of May she will return to each home to score the improvements made.

Mrs. P. B. Farley of Bluebonnet club gave a demonstration on the making of American cheese to the adult class of home economics of the Groom high school. Mrs. Farley has a good market started for her surplus America cheese.

Mrs. C. T. O'Neal of McLean recently gave a beef canning demonstration to a club in Donley county who does not now have an agent.

Mrs. J. H. Smith of Merien club have given three beef canning demonstrations for non-club people. Mrs. W. A. Glass of Alameda has given meat canning demonstrations for farm people near her.

Many are not able to attend an organized club but are interested in gaining information through extension service and in order to reach as many as possible the club women are responding to the challenge most loyally by assisting others as soon after the demonstrations are given as a time for meeting can be arranged. In order that it be a call demonstration there must be at least five farm or ranch families present and as many others as may desire to come.

SPRINGLIKE TOUCH IN RUFFLES

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Modified Letty Lynton ruffles and plain necklines give a light, springlike look to new evening things the stars are wearing.

At the Mayfair club party at the Hotel Biltmore in Los Angeles the other night, Lois Wilson wore a very becoming white dress, with triple ruffles around the armholes, giving a dressy look to her shoulders, and no jewelry except a handsome little circular diamond clip right in front. It was the new off-the-floor length, a favorite for dancing.

Lillian Harvey, British star, recently arrived, wore a white crepe dress with beaded bodice and a single, flaring, graduated ruffle of the beaded crepe over each shoulder. It had a deep V in the back, and also in the front.

Seeing Stars.
Other smart evening dresses seen on stars recently include:

Joan Crawford, dancing with Doug Fairbanks Jr., at the Cocomar Grove, wearing a white tulle dress with light bow, of the same material around its shoulders and armholes, and down the skirt, too.

Anita Louise, dancing at the Cocomar Grove with John Farrow, wearing a hyacinth blue taffeta gown. The skirt flared at the bottom, and below a molded hipline, and was decorated with swirls of blistered silk ribbon of the same shade. For a wrap she wore an old rose cape which was quite short.

Sandra Shaw, dining at the Brown Derby with Bruce Cabot, wearing a white evening gown, high in front and cut to the waist in the back, and topped by a very short white coat that had enormous leg-omutton sleeves.

ECONOMY AGENCY RECOMMENDS COMPLETION OF PRIMARY ROADS REGARDLESS OF LOCAL WANTS

Satisfying Counties Halted Progress, Group Claims

AUSTIN, Feb. 27. (AP)—The legislative committee on organization and economy recommended today that state highways be classified and that the primary traffic arteries be completed first without regard to local influences.

Construction funds of the state highway department should be budgeted, the report said, through the preparation of annual work programs, keyed into the major plan of the highway system and limited in total cost by the amount of estimated revenues.

The committee said there should be annual appropriations of funds to complete these yearly programs "so that the larger plan may be carried forward in logical sequence."

"At present this budgeting is not done," said the report. "Economy has been sacrificed for the sake of keeping contracts small. Real progress has been held back for the sake of satisfying the 254 counties of the state as to the distribution of expended funds."

Construction activities have been scattered over roads without regard for their importance to the state as a whole, or their place in any general plan, with the result that the main traffic arteries of the state highway system are as yet largely undetermined and undeveloped.

"Lack of planning and budgeting might have had other more noticeable results except for the existence of the large cash reserve, which has made possible the award of contracts month by month, thus satisfying the public that highway work has been regularly in progress."

"But this is an expensive method of financing an expensive insurance against complaint and criticism for unbusinesslike management. A shortage of funds, resulting from a lack of large cash reserves, might have been productive of a more progressive policy."

Regarding employees of the highway department, the committee said: "It is believed that the department is fortunate in having, under existing conditions, an organization which gives such a general impression of competence, alertness, and loyalty."

The committee stated that road maintenance was not as good as it should be, "due partly to the fact that the department inherited a system of highways poorly designed, constructed and maintained."

The report recommended that the department undertake to acquire highway rights of way by purchase or condemnation instead of returning them to be donated by the counties, "so that arterial highways can be located on the basis of established economic principles, without regard for local influences."

It was recommended that the automobile license division of the highway department be made a part of a proposed state department of taxation and revenue and that the motor patrol become a part of a proposed department of public safety.

Other recommendations of the committee included: A scientific and uniform classification and compensation plan for employees to correct unfair rates of pay between positions.

A law to empower the highway department to do its own purchasing independent of the board of control.

one? All right but where? Scouts have been combing the bushes for guys like the Bam for years. They aren't there. Furthermore there aren't as many bushes to comb. The reason for that is that smaller towns have lost interest in local baseball. How are you going to restore the flaming rooting of 20 years ago? I don't know. I don't know what's the matter with baseball. I don't even know what's the matter with the cranberry business.

An Easy One Another analyst urges that the American League be balanced better. It's topheavy with the Yanks, Senators, Athletics. There's only one answer to that one. Give Bob Quinn part of Colonel Ruppert's players and pry off a section of the colonel's bankroll so that Bobby can buy some more stars. This is something for you yourself to do, however. I'm very busy today. While you're about it, tell Jake that he has no business trying to have a winning team all the time, and that he should be a good boy and play around in the second division for a while so the St. Louis Browns can fill Sportmen's park. He'll be crazy about the idea. One of the more optimistic analysts proposes that the morale of the National League contestants should be raised to the point where at least the pennant winner would make a respectable showing against the American League in that old blue ribbon classic.

Perk Up, Men! It seems to me this is a little bit cracked. Don't you suppose Charley Root had every incentive in the world to win when he had two strikes on the Babe in that last world series? How are inferior players going to be made into superior ones? The National League obviously does not play ball as well as the American. Can you make the National League players better by saying, "Come on, now, fellows, show some more pep."

As for that part about making the incentive greater than the mere what form is that incentive to take? Money? The player has to fight for every cent he gets now. Beautiful spiritual friendship? Look at the beautiful spiritual friendship between Clark Griffith and Walter Johnson. Of course, I do not know what's wrong with baseball. But then I do not know what's the matter with the peanut little truing, either.

PAMPA CAGERS RESOLVE TO REAP REVENGE AT LAMESA

LOSS OF FIRST GAME AROUSES TEAM'S 'IRISH'

BOYS INFLAMED WITH DETERMINATION AS PRACTICE BEGINS

There was no bragging, no threats, when members of the Harvester basketball team paused in the hall to greet Coach Odus Mitchell between periods this morning, but there were ominous looks in the boys' eyes—expressions that did not bode well for Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes Friday night.

The battle here last Friday night, and its heart-breaking climax, proved to the boys that they can beat Lamesa when they are at their best, and they have determined to be at their best when they play the Tornadoes a second time this weekend.

The boys admitted that they did not display top form in the first game, although they out-played the Tornadoes every minute of the fight. It makes no difference to the team that the game will be played on Lamesa's small court. They recalled that several times this season they piled up bigger scores against opponents on the latter's small court than on the Pampa floor—the game at Hedley for instance.

There is not due to be any monkey-business when the squad begins practice this afternoon. The team believes it can beat the Tornado on its own court, and practice this week will be to that end. There were several things the Harvesters might have done Friday night, despite the referee, to win the game, and they will keep these in mind. For one thing they'll be playing the ball until the whistle blows, regardless of whether it's out of bounds or who has it. The two winning baskets made by the Lamesans were executed when the Harvesters misunderstood the intentions of the referee.

The basketball squad was to start practice on a small playing space in preparation for the important game. Coach Odus Mitchell planned to mark off a space about 35 by 70 feet to get his team used to working their plays on the smaller surface.

Since Lamesa won a much-disputed encounter here last Friday night, all the Harvesters have

DOWN THE GANGPLANK CAME

RECENT incoming liners to New York brought a group of people seeking something from the United States. There was the British women's golf team (top to bottom), Dina Fishwick, Kathleen Garnham, Gwen Hartopp, Barbara Fyman, Bee Brindle and Betty Dix Perkins, after American golfing laurels, There was Benjamin Connors (lower left), former president of the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris who has an invitation from the French people for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to visit France. And also came Henry Garat (upper right) seeking America's plaudits, for he is enroute to Hollywood to act opposite Janet Gaynor.

FROG COACH PREDICTS HUGE FUTURE FOR EX-HARVESTER

Paul Hill 'Gonna Be One Of Greatest Linesmen You or Anyone' Ever Saw.

A flat prediction that Paul Hill, former Harvester, is "gonna be one of the greatest linesmen you or anyone else ever looked at on a football field," was made recently by Coach Francis Schmidt of Texas Christian University, Ft. Worth, who last year turned out the Southwest conference championship team and one of the best eleven in the nation.

This cheerful forecast was published yesterday in the Star-Telegram. A photograph of Hill accompanied the story. Everybody remembers Paul Hill in Pampa. He was the husky giant who gained in "Looke," at least, everytime he carried the ball. The Star-Telegram article about Hill, follows:

"Looke," characteristically commanded Francis Alber Schmidt a few days as we stood on the T. C. U. campus and watched a group of boys playing around in front of their dormitory. "Looke, see that big guy with the striped overalls and bald head?" he said and then, without waiting for an answer, continued. "Well, he's gonna be one of the greatest linesmen you or anyone else ever looked at on a football field."

The "big guy with the striped overalls" was Paul Hill, a freshman who weighs 245 pounds, bathtub side, and we don't mean wringing wet. Although about half bald, Paul isn't old, only 21 in fact, and in spite of his size, he's fast. He played fullback on the Pampa high school team in 1931, and he could outrun most of the backs on Dutch Meyer's freshman squad last Fall. Hill is one of those fellows whose figure will fool your eyes. You never hear him to weigh 245 pounds, nor 220. He isn't especially tall (just over six feet) and he isn't fat or bulky. He's simply big in all departments and as hard as taxes.

Schmidt is careful about his predictions on players. In all the time he has been at T. C. U. we've heard him only once before come out flat-footed for a freshman. The other time was in the Fall of 1929. The freshmen were frolicking around the practice field, one of the first days of the season.

"Looke," Schmidt suddenly blurted out, "See that guy? I don't know who he is but he'll do. He'll make a great back. He's got this," and he flipped his hips to express natural running evasiveness.

The young man to whom the coach had reference was Blarnd Spearman.

It looks pretty good for Hill with Schmidt thinking enough of him to make a prediction he'll be "one of the greatest linesmen."

been able to think of is revenge. Coach Mitchell and the team will leave here Thursday morning and will practice on the Lamesa floor that afternoon and night.

Crowell and Wichita Falls will meet this week to decide the championship of districts 3 and 4. Crowell won the Children's tournament over Turkey by a large score to cop district 3 honors while Wichita Falls defeated Vernon for the district 4 title. Crowell is hoped to win and also to go far in the state race this year.

Weather Delays Track Practice

Track and field practice should have been under way some time ago but shortage of coaches and lack of suits has caused starting to be delayed. Coach Odus Mitchell, head coach, is busy with his basketball team, while Assistant Coach Argus Fox is looking after spring football.

Weather has also been against practice, but the boys must get under way soon if they are to be in condition for the opening meet which is less than a month away. Pampa should have a strong team this year, especially in track events. Several "heavies" have been working at home. It is several years since Pampa has been prominent in the field events.

Several lettermen will be back this season and when Coach Mitchell is free to devote his time to the outdoor sport, he should find a promising group of athletes. The coach couldn't remember this morning how many lettermen he will have back.

It is expected that training will start this week. Weather permitting.

TWELVE ARRESTS MADE

City officers made 12 arrests during the week-end and investigated two burglaries. Six pleas of guilty to disturbing the peace charges were heard by Judge J. H. Blythe yesterday morning. Two of the parties paid their fines and were released, but the other four were still in the city jail this morning.

Other arrests included one vagrant, one "drunk," and four traffic violators.

Texans Defeat Pacific Coast Team For Title

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27. (AP)—The Pacific coast polo championship has been won by a skillful group of aces from Texas. They wore down the best of the west coast teams here Sunday.

Cecil Smith's Austin, Texas, club romped away with the title by whipping the famous big four of the Midwest country club, 14 to 8.

The desperate efforts of Midwest to catch the Texans proved the margin of victory. Smith, the country's only nine-goal rider, and his mates converted five fouls into goals, while the purple could do no better than one goal out of the four shots awarded it.

Eric Pedley and Elmer J. Boeseke Jr., Midwest's two 8-goal aces, both had off days, missing many shots. Smith, playing the best game he has shown since his arrival here shortly after the first of the year, scored six goals.

AGGIES AND FROGS TO FIGHT IT OUT FOR SECOND PLACE

By The Associated Press.

The Southwest conference basketball race comes to an end Saturday night. Five games will be played this week although the University of Texas Longhorns have the 1933 championship sewed up, replacing the Baylor Bears as conference champions.

The best fight probably will be between Texas Christian and Texas A. & M. for second place. These two teams were tied for the runner-up position with 7 wins and 3 defeats each. Both play two games this week but not against each other.

Southern Methodist and Texas A. & M. will play Monday night at Collee Station to start the final conference week, Tuesday night, Southern Methodist battles Rice at Houston. Wednesday night, Baylor and Texas Christian play at Fort Worth. Saturday night, Texas A. & M. and the champion Longhorns play at Austin, and Southern Methodist invades Fort Worth to battle the Texas Christian Frogs.

HE FORGOT SOMETHING

CHICAGO—When George Graham's automobile stalled on a railroad right-of-way he was, naturally, concerned because a train was coming. The train was on another track but he wasn't sure that it would clear so he got out and gave the old bus's horn a crank. It leaped out in front of the train. He surveyed the wreckage and said:

"I should have remembered that I had left it in reserve."
