PAMPA TOPICS OF OUR CITY By O.E.H.

TWINKLES

This world needs more bachelors like Dan McGrew. Dan took a 14-pound ham to the Baker school cafeteria. And just to show the children that he wanted to know them better, he stayed and ate lunch with them.

At the same meal were Supt. R. B. Fisher, Fred Thompson, and Pete Post. We assume that they didn't eat all the ham. If they did, we'll invite them to make another trip, and not go empty-handed.

WATCH YOUR STEP

Boy Scouts of Pampa will take over the reins of the city for an hour February 11. That's an opportunity for the lads to turn the tables on anyone who has offended them. Why not, for instance, work fast and arrest a few school teachers who have issued grades of F? Why not get rough with a few policemen who have issued gruff warnings about jay-walking? And, for example, why not issue proclamations against final exams, for longer vacations, and against spankings in school? We hereby offer our services to the boy mayor as official proclamation writer and drafter of resolutions. Let's have a "new deal" for boyhood, if only for an hour!

MOVING DAY SOON

March 1 is the traditional moving day. There is one job of moving in which local citizens and particularly T. D. Hobart will show extraordinary interest. It is the big task of moving accumulated relics, records, and stuffed animals into the new Panhandle-Plains museum at Canyon. This building was erected jointly by the citizens of the Panhandle and the state. Mr. Hobart has been president of the historical society during the campaigns for funds, and it will be a happy day when he can see this fine building completed in February and occupied in March. The annual meeting will be held in April. Scores of old-timers will journey to Canyon to see the building of white Texas stone, with cattle brands carved over the doorway and plains animals cut in stone elsewhere. One room will be called the "Mary E. Hudspeth" in honor of the Teachers college instructor in Spanish, sister of former Congressman Claude Hudspeth of El Paso and one of the most lovable characters we ever met.

UNDING LEGISLATION

The current session of the legislature will undo much that other legislators did in all sincerity. For instance, there is the "gin" marriage law which in this section did nothing more than cause thousands of couples to go to Sayre, Clovis, and other points to be wed. Besides depriving Texas counties and preachers and magistrates of their fees, the law caused huge sums to be spent out of the state. The average couple spends $14 in Sayre or Clovis, according to figures from those points. The same law provided for a physical examination of lovers, males, but not females. This portion of the law has its good points, but it should apply to both sexes alike.

INCOME TAX FACTS

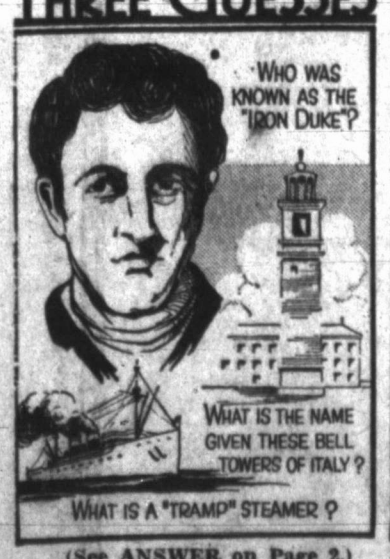

Two of the terms used in the income tax law, namely, "gross income" and "net income," should be noted particularly, inasmuch as they are vitally important to the whole subject of the income tax. Gross income includes in general all income from any source whatever, unless exempt from tax by law. Net income upon which the tax is assessed is gross income less the deductions allowed by law. Such deductions include business and professional expenses, such as salaries, pensions and bonuses to employees, taxes, losses, interest paid, bad debts, depreciation, depletion, contributions, etc. Failure to understand deductions against gross income has resulted in numerous errors on the part of tax payers.

All 'Jar' Pennies Go To Children

Pampa Kiwanians today called attention to the fact that the less fortunate school children obtain all the benefit from the deposit of coins in the hundred or more "penny jars" placed in various stores over the city. The money is given to the cafeterias which are serving free meals to children who would otherwise be undernourished. The jars are placed for the convenience of persons who would willingly give in making change. A few pennies in every jar soon amount to sizeable sums.

FORECLOSURES FORESTALLED IN OKLAHOMA

MOVEMENT SPREADS TO SOUTHWEST AND SOUTH

LEGISLATORS TO ASSIST ABOUT 1,300 FARMERS PREVENT ACTION AT CHEROKEE

By The Associated Press.

FRIENDLY state governments and successful demonstrations to prevent mortgage foreclosure sales were hailed with joy today by farmers in widely scattered sections fighting to save their homes and lands.

In the South the Arkansas legislature prevented foreclosure measures by passing a moratorium suspending jurisdiction of circuit and chancery courts.

The situation has been recognized by the legislatures of Alabama and Georgia and sympathetic statements for the farmer have come from the governors of Texas, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky, and Mississippi.

Georgia Farmers Helped.

Georgia moratoria on all farm mortgages were declared by 18 life insurance companies doing business in the state.

From other states came reports of mortgage sales that did not succeed.

At Cherokee, Okla., such a sale resulted in the organization of a farmers' marketing association with the Rev. Claude B. Hill, the promoter. He obtained a 60-day leave

Examining Trial In Denver Case Set For Today

Two men held in connection with the recent night looting of the Port Wort & Denver station were to be arraigned in Justice James Todd, Jr.'s court at 3 o'clock today.

The constable's department and special officers of the railroad have been working on the case, and several previous arrests were made. The two men held in jail here were arrested in Ranger.

Payment School Taxes Extended Until April 30

Extension of the deadline for paying school district taxes to April 30 without addition of penalty and interest was announced by Joe Smith, business manager of the district, yesterday afternoon.

Should the taxes not be paid by April 30, however, the penalty will take effect and interest will be calculated as of February 1.

"HANDS OFF" MOTORISTS SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 2. (P)—All officers charged with enforcing traffic laws here were maintaining a "hands off" policy today where automobile owners were operating cars with old 1932 license plates.

Approximately 6,000 owners failed to obtain license plates when the lawful period expired last night. Officers said they will make no arrests pending action of the legislature in extending the payment period.

I HEARD--

That Pampa sports fans will see a boxing exhibition in the near future. Plans are under way to have the first card soon and it is also reported that a well known boxer will be in action.

That C. H. "Bobb" LION Walker left Pampa for Dallas at 6 o'clock Tuesday night, attended a governor's banquet Wednesday and was back in Pampa this morning. "That's speed," said the big Lion.

BAD "GUESTS"

A PRE-WEDDING party for Miss Lily Busch Magnus, above, was being prepared at the home of George S. Tiffany at Chesterfield, Mo., when a dozen bandits, some armed with machine guns, took possession of the house. They terrorized the home for three hours, but were frightened away before the wedding guests arrived. Miss Magnus is the great-granddaughter of the late Adolphus Busch, founder of the brewery bearing his name.

Hiram Lloyd of St. Louis bid $134,165.

Abolition Of Kentucky Feud County Urged

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 2. (P)—A recommendation that the 1934 Kentucky legislature abolish Clay county, which State Inspector and Examiner Nat B. Sewell says has been "notorious for nearly half a century" because of factional violence, is made in a report submitted to Gov. Ruby Laffoon by the examiner.

Abolition of the Kentucky mountain county under the examiner's plan would entail division of its territory and assigning the various sections to adjacent counties.

"That the governmental machinery of the county has failed to function effectively is most clearly evidenced by the history of the county for the past forty years," the examiner's report said.

Two women have been among those killed in recent months in the remote Double Creek section of Clay county in shootings which authorities laid to factional enmities. At Manchester, the county seat, two officials were fatally shot last year.

Mr. Briggs will compile exhaustive data on how the funds have been expended here and will make a trip to LeFors and McLean to secure reports on expenditures in those towns. The next appropriation will be the last, unless congress and the reconstruction finance corporation make additional appropriations.

The old fellow, whose predictions are anxiously awaited by a breathless world from one February to the next, seemed a bit thin and emaciated but he denied that the depression has anything to do with his appearance.

Denver Post's Famous Owner Bonfils, Dies

Stormy Career of Man Who Created New Type Of Journalism Ends.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 2. (P)—Fredrick G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver Post, whose an illustrious career has been linked with many of the spectacular events of the Rocky mountain region for more than a quarter century, died at his home here today.

A dynamic crusader, he built up the Post with his late associate owner, H. H. Tammen, from a small daily which they purchased in 1892 to a newspaper with circulation covering the Rocky mountain region.

Death came unexpectedly, following a brief illness due to a complication of influenza and an ear infection. He underwent a minor operation last Saturday, but not until last night did his condition become serious.

Uncovered Teapot Dome

Bonfils came into the national spotlight ten years ago when the activities of the Denver Post resulted in uncovering the Teapot Dome oil scandal. The Post's investigators uncovered leads which led to congressional investigations and court action.

Bonfils' career was as varied and exciting as the lives of his Napoleonic ancestors. He became known throughout the country by his militant tactics and attacked at will the problems he thought needed a champion.

Born in Troy, Mo., Dec. 31, 1860, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Napoleon Bonfils, the publisher when he was 16 years old was appointed to West Point, entering the academy in 1878. There he met Miss Belle Barton of Peekskill, N. Y., resigned from the academy before graduation and married her. Among his classmates were general John J. Pershing and General Crowder.

Bonfils, for a time was employed in the Chemical National bank at New York City, and then traveled westward, settling in Kansas City. In 1880 when the Indian territory was opened Bonfils joined the rush for new lands and became interest-

Prisoner Kidnaps Deputy Sheriff

TEXARKANA, Tex., Feb. 2. (P)—Kidnaped by an escaping prisoner, Deputy Sheriff E. A. Jones of Paul's Valley, Okla., was forced to drive the fugitive to Texarkana last night at the point of a pistol.

Deputy Jones said the prisoner, Homer Bramblet, put him out of the car on a downtown Texarkana street and continued his flight in the car. Bramblet was suspected of complicity in the robbery last December of the First National bank of Lindsay, Okla.

It was while Deputy Jones was doing a favor for the prisoner that he was overpowered. Yesterday afternoon the 29-year-old officers accompanied Bramblet to a community near Paul's Valley so that the prisoner could dispose of some property.

While returning to Paul's Valley, Bramblet drew a pistol from his pocket and disarmed Deputy Jones. He also took his badge. At the time, Deputy Jones was ordered to take the wheel and drive to Texarkana. The prisoner had obtained the pistol while in jail. Officers had received information that a firearm had been smuggled into jail but a search failed to locate it.

J. D. Copper, driver of the automobile which crashed into the Milson car, was charged with failing to stop and render aid. He was arraigned before a justice of the peace yesterday and his bond set at $2,000. Officers said he was driving a borrowed car.

Milson's mother, Mrs. W. T. Milson of Nocona, was still confined to a hospital because of injuries received in the smashup.

Canadian Child Dies of Injuries

CANADIAN, Feb. 2. (P)—Injuries received in a car accident early Sunday in which D. E. Milson was killed resulted in the death of a 6 a. m. today of Milson's six-year-old son, Billy Frank. The boy's father was buried yesterday.

Diversion of Gas Tax Is Protested

Vigorous protests against diversion of the 3-cent gasoline tax used to build and maintain Texas highways are being made by divisions of the Texas Good Roads association, which had a district meeting in Amarillo yesterday.

With 2 cents of the 4-cent tax already diverted to other purposes, it is regarded that the road building program is at stake. Texas highway bills are being made by divisions of the Texas Good Roads association, which had a district meeting in Amarillo yesterday.

TWO CUNNING YOUNG WOMEN LEAD BANDITS

PAIR CHARGED WITH 4 JAIL BREAKS, 12 BANK ROBBERIES

OPERATED IN 2 STATES CAPTURE WOULD SOLVE 'JOBS' IN TEXAS AND LOUISIANA

LIBERTY, Tex., Feb. 2. (P)—Seven men and two women were under arrest today as suspected members of a Texas and Louisiana bank robbers' gang, and two other suspects, a man and a woman, were sought.

The seven men held were indicted yesterday by the Liberty county grand jury in connection with two robberies of the First National bank of Cleveland, Texas. The two young women, Private Investigator Norman York said, were considered the actual "brains" of the organization. "They do the planning," he said.

York said the arrest of the man and woman still sought would "clean up the situation."

More than a dozen bank "jobs," as well as four jail breaks in Louisiana, were said to have been directed by the two women.

According to Norman York, private investigator who revealed that the pretty desperadoes were linked with the robberies, they are unusually smart and wary for women of that type. The two women, he asserted, were the one that planned the robberies and assisted their male confederates in carrying them out. He said they scouted the banks.

Information gathered by the women was given to the men, who, heavily armed, looted the banks and later picked up the women. York said the woman usually drove the "getaway" cars and arranged for disposal of loot. They were the ones who changed large bank notes into money that could be handled more easily.

Rangers To Hunt 2 Slayers Until They Find Them

DALLAS, Feb. 2. (P)—Bert Whisnand, ranger sergeant announced today that he had assigned Rangers Sid Kelso and Asbury Craven to work exclusively on investigations of the slaying of two Texas deputy sheriffs.

Kelso and Craven left the courtroom today for an unannounced destination with Mrs. Ida Hunsucker, 38, charged with murder after her pocket and disarmed Deputy Jones. He also took his badge. At the time, Deputy Jones was ordered to take the wheel and drive to Texarkana. The prisoner had obtained the pistol while in jail. Officers had received information that a firearm had been smuggled into jail but a search failed to locate it.

AN ODD "BIRTHDAY"

A short time ago one of the strangest of all birthday anniversaries was celebrated—the 21st anniversary of a bit of muscle from an embryo chick's heart, which has gone on beating and living and growing in a test tube ever since 1912.

This is the famous bit of tissue kept alive by Dr. Alexis Carrel at the Rockefeller Institute. It lives in a specially prepared culture, and every now and then Dr. Carrel has to snip little bits off of it to keep it from growing too big. It has lived four times as long as the life-span of an ordinary chicken and there seems to be no good reason why it should not go on indefinitely.

It gives us a creepy feeling, somehow, the thought of this blind, mutilated and soulless bit of animal matter pulsing its way through a seemingly endless existence. What is life, anyway, that a scientist can so casually imprison a fragment of it in a little glass tube? What is death, that it can be defeated so easily?

As you might expect, Dr. Carrel's studies of this curiosity have led him to make some odd speculations. He has suggested, for instance, that the only reason why men and women cannot live forever, without bodily deterioration, is the fact that they have brain cells. Cells in ordinary tissue can multiply and replace themselves indefinitely; brain cells cannot; hence we are mortal and not deathless.

Future generations may look back on this whole experiment as one of the most important of all of mankind's undertakings. Who knows what discoveries may come from it; what new understanding of the secret of longevity and disease; what new theories by which men can assure themselves longer lives and more complete growth?

But it is futile to speculate about these things. They are topics for the specialists; they are beyond our understanding. We can only gaze at the experiment itself and indulge in those queer spinal shivers that come when we are confronted with a mystery that is utterly beyond our understanding.

Dollar bills wear out in eight or nine months, says the U. S. Treasury Department. It's a wonder they last that long, considering how fast they go.

Sir Hubert Wilkins plans another attempt to reach the North Pole. Of wider interest, however, in the field of polar exploration seems to be the search of neighbors' refrigerators for more ice cubes.

Now that technocracy is being made the theme of a dance tune, the term needs only be applied to a Pullman car, a sandwich and a collar to become firmly entrenched in the English language.

Down in the Congo, they've discovered a tribe of natives who can leap to a height of over seven feet. If loyal alumni groups are up to their stuff we should see these dark boys in college football lineups next fall.

Golf widows' worries are never over. Just now they are trying to restrain their mates from digging divots in the living room rug.

Before laying barber shop blasts to racketeers someone should examine the razors.

Buying Barbara

by Julia Cleft-Addams • Author of "YOU CAN'T HARRY"

SYNOPSIS: Lella Cane learns that Mark Lodely, whom she has loved secretly for years, is cured of his lameness. Barbara Quentin has broken her engagement to Mark; Farrell Armitage, who has devoted much money and time to curing Mark and launching him as an artist, hopes in the end to win Barbara's love. Mark, still in the hospital, is his old arrogant self.

Chapter 43 MARK AS PATIENT

THE house in which Mark Lodely lay strapped immovably into a plaster cast was as little like a hospital as one could expect. Its facade was cheerful and inside it was reasonably quiet.

Mark's room was on the ground floor so that when the weather and his mood permitted he could be wheeled on to a covered porch at the back. Mrs. Lodely visited him daily, Armitage dropped in as seemed necessary, and Kenneth Poole came when he was sent for.

"The sight of me gives him a bad night," Poole had explained solemnly to Armitage. "Fact. One of his nurses told me so. It's far better I should keep away and give the dear fellow every chance of recovery."

"Nevertheless, you must be there this afternoon at half-past four. I've asked Lella Cane, too. See she's punctual, will you?"

Armitage entered the building on this foggy day at four o'clock precisely and stood for a moment in the outer hall, taking off his overcoat. The house-doctor, passing on the other side of the glass swing-doors, pulled them open and called a cheery greeting. At his request Armitage followed him into his office.

"How's the patient?" he asked. "The patient, Mr. Armitage, has reduced two nurses to tears, given me more lip than I've stood from anyone in my life, and thrown a water-jug at his mother. But I understand that's more or less his usual frame of mind."

Armitage grinned. "He has always had a vicious temper. I'm not an admirer of his character, you know, only of his talent."

"The nurses always report him more cheerful after he has made someone thoroughly wretched," the doctor added. "It's the people whose heart he can't break that depress him so."

Armitage thought it wiser not to reveal that one of these harder-hearted callers was expected punctually at four. He listened attentively while the doctor became lyrical in Sir Robert Phillip's praise, agreed for the twentieth time that the cure was well-nigh miraculous, and made his way to Mark's room and Mark's inevitable impertinences.

As he entered Mark's room he heard Mark's voice, thin and dry with temper. "How can you possibly write my letters for me when you misspell every other word? And how do you know I have any to write unless you've been reading my correspondence?"

"That's a downright wicked thing to say, Mark! You know I'd never do such a thing. I have my faults but spyn' and ferretin' is not amongst them. Hullo, here's Farrell! Do you—?" Mrs. Lodely looked doubtfully from the visitor to the patient—"do you feel like seein' Farrell?"

Mark's head turned on its one flat pillow. "My dear Judy, if it weren't for Armitage's bounty I shouldn't be here at all." He smiled, the smile that slightly showed his teeth and narrowed his eyes. "The question of whether I want to see you or not, Armitage, doesn't really arise. Does it?"

"Mark! You know, Farrell, he's had a bad night, that's all it is. He doesn't mean half he says." Armitage sat down by the wheeled couch. His aversion was for the moment more from the mother than from the son. How unpleasing she was in appearance, so slovenly and down at heel! She wore an ill-made grey suit, a brown blouse under it and a tie that matched neither. Her hat looked as though it were too small for her.

"As you see, my mother brings a breath of dear old Kings Mallard into all this luxurious monotony," murmured Mark and not for the first time Armitage uncomfortably contemplated the fact that his thoughts had been read.

"The monotony of an none of us lighten, I'm afraid, Lodely. You must just count the days. Look on them as an investment."

"That's what I'm always tellin' him," burst in Mrs. Lodely. "I don't believe he realizes yet what you've done for him, Farrell, I don't really. After all, it takes a bit of thinkin' about when you're born a cripple all your life, to imagine yourself walkin' easily. Like explainin' sight to a blind man; it can't be done."

Mark had shut his eyes when this torrent began and did not open them as he addressed Armitage. "I think I should be able to express my gratitude better if I could get some idea of your motive. Not personal liking; I am sure I may still take it that your motive is not personal liking. And not the desire to be a patron-saint. No. It is the old puzzle, I suppose it will never be solved."

"I'm ready to solve it now, as it happens."

Mrs. Lodely gaped from one man to the other in a vague alarm, Mark's eyes flew open. Yes, there was fear in them. Poor devil. "Some other time!" he suggested, waving a hand. "Unless you feel that you absolutely cannot wait for that gratitude of mine any longer!"

"Now, Mark, you're just rilin' Farrell for no reason whatever. You—"

"It's all right, Mrs. Lodely. I take a lot of riling. And your son is perfectly right in requiring some kind of statement from me. He has asked for it often enough and it's only fair that at last he should have it."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
G. C. Stark found these statements in his reading and liked them:
"A million men and women have repeated the words that 'we cannot have any activity until the farmer gets a price for his products.' But, gentlemen, prosperity will start exactly one step back of that. Prosperity will start in the East, when men are called into the factories to make the goods that the retailer does not now have in stock. And that prosperity will gradually move westward, until we do get a real price for our farm products, and then it will have reached you implement dealers. For, bear in mind that depressions start in the industrial East, and crawl out to the West. They had tens of thousands in the soup lines in the East before our farmers knew there was such a thing as a depression. They will have hundreds of thousands back on the payroll in the eastern manufacturing centers a good many months before we of the West begin to feel the market rise due to the spending."
"Yes, indeed, we will come out of this, just as we always have, despite of the loudest wail of the pessimist. I cannot say just how soon. No man can tell that. But it is not so far away as some of you suspect. Somewhere in the next five or ten years we will be at the very height

Carson County Sells Bonds For 95c On Dollar

PANHANDLE, Feb. 2.—Carson county turned over $116,000 worth of highway bonds for $110,000 on a loan made the county some time ago by the D. E. Dunn company of Wichita, Kan. With bonds selling at 85 cents on the dollar in most parts of the country, the settlement with the company for 95 cents on the dollar is considered a remarkable sale.

The money due the company was past due and suit was threatened unless settlement was made. The county had pledged $120,000 worth of bonds for the loan three years ago. Senator C. C. Small represented the county.

Firemen of White Deer To Present Comedy, 'Sonny'

WHITE DEER, Feb. 2.—The White Deer Volunteer Fire department will present the play "Sonny" in the high school auditorium next Monday night. The play is based on life on the Mexican border. Beauford Moss will take the lead and act as Bud, the Christy ranch foreman. Sonny will be played by Mrs. Reid Taylor. Excitement will be supplied by A. A. Croft as Tucker, ranch hand with his trusty gun. Other members of the cast will be L. N. Brashears, Morrie White, Miss Claudia Everly, and Miss Irene Knight. The play is being directed by Mrs. Neal Edwards.

Because of the interest being taken in the play, advance sale of tickets has started. Reserve seats will be 25 cents and general admission 15 cents.

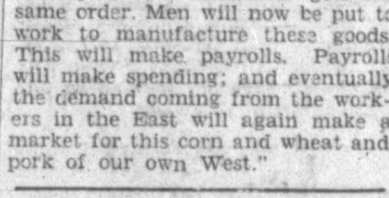

Miss Ruth Grant Hene of Casper, Wyo., is visiting in the city for a few days.

of another boom, and likewise will be headed for another crash. "That circle can gyrate only so far downward, until it begins to slow up, finally stops a moment, and then begins to gyrate the other way, and we have the gradual expansion of business again. The thing that stops its destructive cycle downward is the depletion of retail stocks, while retail dealers are not replacing their stocks. For three years retailers in all lines have been selling out their stock and replacing next to nothing. They have been tapping these hundreds of thousands of little retail reservoirs all over the country, and meantime the manufacturers and wholesalers have had little or no retailing business. It is that lack of business in the factories and wholesale houses, during this retail reservoir-draining process that has thrown the millions out of work in the factories and wholesale houses. But from now on, the retail reservoirs are so nearly dry that, figuratively speaking, every time the retailer gets an order the factory or the wholesaler gets the same order. Men will now be put to work to manufacture these goods. This will make payrolls. Payrolls will make spending; and eventually the demand coming from the workers in the East will again make a market for this corn and wheat and pork of our own West."

CINCHING SUB-SECTION TITLE

MIAMI TEAMS COMING HERE THIS EVENING

CAGERS EASILY TAKE SKIRMISH BY 40 TO 14 SCORE

Pampa's Harvesters cinched their sub-section title in the Panhandle basketball league last night in Allison with a 40 to 14 win. The Allison ladies served lunch to the Harvesters and fans upon their arrival in the little city on the C. & O. W., which is noted for its hospitality.

Wayne Kelley, Harvester guard, led the assault on the Allison goalies to score 12 points, four in the first half and the rest in the closing half of the game. "Gomez" Marbaugh added seven points to the score. The Harvesters broke nice and played smoothly from the first.

Leon Hays and his brother, Joe, went point scorers for Allison with six points each. Jones, center, added the other two points on free throws. The team played hard and never let up, but was unable to break through the Harvester defense, which was at its best. Even the Pampa substitutes played airtight ball while in the game.

The Harvesters and Harvesterettes will meet teams from Miami in the local gymnasium tonight.

Daily News Run Shee LEAGUE COMMITTEE OVERRIDES TEACHERS' RECOMMENDATIONS

Obnoxious Rules Will Not Be Given Referendum, Henderson Says.

Supt. William A. McIntosh of the Amarillo schools, newly elected president of the District 1, Class A Athletic association which met in Plainview last month, upon instructions from the members wrote Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the Texas Interscholastic league, asking him when the question of a change in the eight-semester rule would be presented to the committee.

The answer received from Mr. Henderson stated very plainly that the state executive committee would not order another referendum at this time. This was according to statements made in a letter from the district president to R. B. Fisher, superintendent of Pampa schools.

At a meeting of teachers in Fort Worth, it was voted to ask the state executive committee to re-submit both the eight-semester and one-year transfer rules to member schools for another vote. Mr. Henderson writes: "Those in attendance at the Fort Worth meeting did not have the responsibility of deciding whether the question should be re-submitted. While the committee has not passed formally on this request, it has been discussed, and I should be very much surprised if the committee orders another referendum on the question. The transfer rule has been in effect a year, successfully, I believe. I think they will feel the same way about the eight-semester rule after it has been tried."

Watson Defeat Sends LaBarba Back to School

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. (AP)—From champion to freshman, from little contender to sophomore—that is the course of Fidel LaBarba, who sticks to his idea of getting a college education through the ups and downs of being one of the nation's outstanding boxers.

Fidel, who retired once before to enter Stanford university, has decided to give up the ring again and return to his studies with the ultimate object of becoming a writer. The cause for his decision was his failure to whip Seamon Tom Watson, British featherweight champion.

In 1927, when he still held the flyweight championship, LaBarba retired and began his college career. His intention then was to enter the brokerage business. But after finishing one year in good style, he succumbed to the lure of big purses and came back for shots at the bantamweight title and more recently the featherweight championship, now held by Kid Chocolate.

Before his recent bout with Chocolate, LaBarba decided to go back to college if he lost. The decision was so close, however, that he gave himself another test against Watson and the way he fared out in the closing rounds settled the matter for him.

PAMPA READY TO GET EVEN WITH LUBBOCK

WESTERNERS VANQUISH PLAINVIEW AGAIN 47 TO 26

"With Stone swishing the ball through the hoop from all angles and Snodgrass using his famous overhand shot, and his shoulder special, the Lubbock Westerners downed the Plainview Bulldogs 47 to 26 last night," thus said the Lubbock AVALANCHE-JOURNAL yesterday in recounting the game between the two rivals. It marked the second time the Bulldogs fell before the Westerners by the same score within five days.

Stone accounted for 16 points and Snodgrass for 13 points. Not to be overlooked in the scoring was Hale, little guard, who helped himself to 10 points. Plainview's tall center, Mabry, was ill and unable to play. His loss took the heart out of Plainview.

The Westerners invade Pampa tomorrow night for one of the most important games of the season. The Harvesters lost a 29 to 23 game in TmnoeaTmfitsapoeth.

Lubbock and will be fighting to avenge the defeat. Lubbock has been hitting at top speed while the Harvesters have been erratic during the past few games.

The game will start at 7:30 o'clock and will be the only game of the night. Coach Odus Mitchell has been drilling his quintet towards the big game for the past two weeks and is expecting his boys to be clicking for the Westerners.

Using an offense that has baffled most of the opposition this season, the Westerners rely on it more than a strong defense. They have won most of their games by large margins.

Admission will be by season ticket or 10 cents for students and 25 cents for adults.

Giants Have 21 Players Under Terry Contract

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. (AP)—With 21 players under contract and Manager Bill Terry due to reach town today, the New York Giants are expecting to hear of something happening soon.

Terry, who first set the pace in trading during the major league meetings in December and then led the way in getting players' names on contracts, has the annual baseball writers' dinner as the principal purpose of his visit with some discussion of the situation with club officials on the side but Giant fans will be rather disappointed if he returns to Memphis without doing any dickering for new players. It is known that he is looking for another good outfielder and a starting pitcher, perhaps Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn.

Three more signed contracts reached the Giant office yesterday to make up the 21 total. They bore the names of Gilbert English and Arthur McClary, young infielders, and Harry Danning, who caught for the Giants' Winston-Salem farm last season.

Streets Are Being Paved In Panhandle

A portion of the Reconstruction Finance corporation money for Carson county is being used to pave several city blocks in Panhandle. Construction was started early this week. Excavation of dirt in front of the high school was the first work undertaken.

Mike Purvins, Fred Surratt, and J. G. Wadsworth are members of the committee in charge. Jim Harrison is supervising the work. Caliche will be used on the street. It is believed that the school will top their block later. About 40 men are at work in the project.

Two additional paving projects will be undertaken if sufficient funds are available.

The one-a-day system of the Brooklyn Dodgers was continued today with the word that Clyde Sukeforth, reserve catcher who did comparatively little work for the Dodgers last season, had sent in his contract with signature affixed.

The Boston Red Sox reported the signing of two important members of their prospective 1933 cast. They were Dale Alexander, slugging first baseman who led the American league batters after coming from Detroit last year, and Bob Seeds, outfielder, obtained in a trade with the Chicago White Sox.

Metcalf Keeps Sports Writers 'In Hot Water'

By PAUL MICKELSON Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Feb. 2. (AP)—Sports writers, who are accustomed to digging up important scoops on the news happenings of the Big Ten Athletic conference season after season, were just about ready to toss away their pencils and pads today after almost four months of skrimishing with Thomas Nelson Metcalf.

The tight lipped successor to the veteran Amos Alonzo Stagg as director of athletics at the University of Chicago still had them guessing over his choice of the next football coach at the midway. The only thing he has told them or even hinted at since he was asked to get a new coach last October was that the man would not be Stagg.

Metcalf, however, was expected to make the long awaited announcement within a few days. He conferred with President Robert M. Hutchins of the university yesterday while the latest rumor, which had Dr. John W. Wilce, former GARY, Ind. (AP)—Gary's board of works is puzzled by George Filgitt's thoroughness as a mover. He moved his family and furniture to Chicago. Then his four-room cottage was jacked and trundled down the street. Next he came back for the concrete block foundation, and finally he ended by removing the sidewalk slabs. The board of works, which claims Filgitt owes for special assessments, wonders what to do about it.

Clever Chapel Program Given At Junior High

Greatly puzzled, a boy scratched his head as he stood on the platform yesterday at the opening of the Junior high school chapel period. He was surrounded by nine other boys and girls.

"I've got to be chairman for the chapel service next week," he said, "and I simply don't know what to do." Then someone had an idea.

This was the month of February, a month of many great men's birthdays, and a month of many important happenings in history. Why not base the chapel program on that month, bringing out the interesting facts connected with it. That decided upon, a rehearsal was held.

Turning to the audience, the boy said: "The joke is on you this time. Today is my time to have charge of chapel, not next week."

Those taking part in the stunt were Carroll Haines, Bernice McDaniel, Junior Garner, Lois Walter, W. M. Mumford, Hazel Bath, Leona Hurst, J. C. Alexander, Catha Mae Hays, Edwina Gilbert.

A play, "Three Laughs," was read by Jennette Cole and enacted by Ava Nell Mathes, Charlotte Malone, and Dorothy Burton.

Fascal Massey and John Archer entertained with a dialogue, "Johnny Gets Back From the Grocery," and another play, "Mr. Spooner Proposes," was given by Frances Coffee, Garland Pearce, and Clarence Cunningham.

Leona Hurst played a piano solo, after which a little play, "The Dumb Janitor," was presented by the following characters: Janitor, Pascal Massey, housewife, Helen Draper, small boy, George Brewer.

Closing the program was a clothes race in which Harry Clay and Pauline Stapp participated.

Tallies, Balloons Hang From Ceiling At Party for Club

Awards were presented as follows: High club, Mrs. Dewey Voyles; second high, Mrs. L. Dyer; 80 honors, Mrs. R. A. Hankhouse; high guest, Mrs. Roy Kilgore; low, Mrs. Croft of White Deer.

Fruit cake, whipped cream, and coffee were served at the close of the afternoon.

Special guests were Mrs. Roy Kilgore, Mrs. Grover Rittenhouse, Mrs. Croft of White Deer and Mrs. Jim White of White Deer. Members were Mesdames W. Wilkes, George Aldren, L. A. Featherston, R. A. Hankhouse, W. M. Murphy, Peter Beck, Dewey Voyles, and L. Dyer.

Groups of University Women Oppose Reorganization of Texas Colleges; Resolutions Are Sent to Law-Makers

CANYON, Feb. 1.—The Canyon branch of the American Association of University Women has joined eleven other branches of the same organization in protesting the proposed reorganization of higher education in Texas.

There are 27 branches of this organization and more than one half of the state membership has already communicated with members of the legislature to express their sentiments regarding the committee's report.

News has come to the local chapter, which has 35 members, that the chapters at Waco, San Marcos, Kingsville, Amarillo, Elginville, San Antonio, Pampa, Mission, Nacogdoches, Denton, and Commerce, with a combined membership of more than 575, have expressed themselves against a policy which would lessen the educational opportunities of the young people of Texas.

The following resolutions are typical of those used throughout the state. These were addressed to senators, representatives, and other persons selected by the individual branches.

"Whereas, according to a press dispatch from Austin dated December 3, the joint legislative committee on organization and economy has recommended the withdrawal of state support from several teacher training institutions or their reduction to junior rank, and the curtailment of the services of certain other state colleges, and

"Whereas, the American Association of University Women is actively interested in the promotion of higher education; and

"Whereas, the common people of the United States established a system of public education only after a long and bitter fight against a privileged aristocracy; and

"Whereas, public education is again under attack by predatory special interests, which in this time of economic suffering are attempting to trick the people into surrendering their own institutions by appealing to their desire to escape taxation; and

"Whereas, state support of higher education is the only guarantee of equal rights to all the children of all the people, and the only guarantee that the state shall not be deprived of its potential leadership in high and low places alike; and

"Whereas, the accessibility to state colleges has created a general appreciation of cultural values, and has furnished an incentive to the youth of each section to seek higher education for themselves; and

"Whereas, the development of the science of teacher training throughout the country, and particularly in

Texas, has challenged the respect of educational leaders—as evidenced by the favorable recognition of teachers' colleges; and

"Whereas, these recent achievements are bringing dignity, efficiency, and wholesome self-respect into the profession of teaching, with a resulting benefit to the children of the state; and

Evils of Child Labor Seen By P-TA Worker

By MRS. J. M. CRAIN, Claude, State Publicity Director.

The annual observance of Child Labor day (January 28-30) raised the question as to the effect of the depression on the employment of children. With 2,000,000 boys and girls gainfully employed, while millions of adult breadwinners are out of work, there is an urgent necessity this year for focusing public attention upon the evils of child labor.

The bureau of census reports that in the last ten years the decrease of Texas child labor between the ages of 10 and 15 years was about 75 per cent, although the percentage of those gainfully employed was still higher than the national average. In Texas 10 per cent of the 383,058 boys at work and 44 per cent of the 354,773 girls, while 34 per cent of the boys at 16 and 17 years of age have jobs and 15.1 per cent of the girls of 16 and 17 are toiling.

A special plea by many of the state leaders has been made that children under 16 years of age should be kept in school and out of industry. Saturday was designated for the observance of Child Labor day for those of Jewish faith, Sunday for those of other faiths, and Monday for schools, parent-teacher associations, and clubs.

Every member of a congress unit should study carefully the leaflet, Child Labor and Education in Texas, which was included in the local unit package. If the local units would arrange child labor talks or programs or present child labor plays or tableaux, much authoritative information concerning the exploitation of children might be gleaned and much might be done to carry out the sixteenth article of the Children's Charter, which reads as follows:

"For every child protection against labor that stunts growth either physical or mental, that limits education, that deprives children of the right of comradeship, of play, and of joy."

As early as 1897 the National Congress of Parents and Teachers adopted a resolution at its annual convention urging "state branches to work for the ratification of the proposed child labor amendment for better laws within the state that children may be protected from exploitation." Similar resolutions have been passed each year since that time.

President Hoover and recently elected Roosevelt have both called attention to the necessity for eliminating children from the labor market, and providing a suitable type of education for them. Legislatures in 44 states are in session this winter. Public sentiment should request the legislature to strengthen child labor and school attendance regulations.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 2. (AP)—Cotton opened steady today despite the fact that Liverpool cables were much lower than due. March opened one point up and the later months were unchanged. As there were fair trade buying orders on the market at the start, prices improved in the early trading. March trading at 5.20, May at 5.92 and July to 6.03, or one to two points above yesterday's close.

There was a fair business in cotton contracts during the entire morning, but prices gradually eased off in sympathy with weakness in stocks which brought out additional liquidation. There was also some hedge selling. March dropped to 5.72, May to 5.88 and July to 5.97, or 8 to 8 points down from the earlier highs and 5 to 6 points below yesterday's close.

Around noon the market was a shade steadier on some short covering and prices recovered one to two points from the lows.

Bozeman Back In Tournery Running

CHICAGO, Feb. 2. (AP)—Back in the contention after the best game of the tournament, young Jack Bozeman, of Vallejo, Calif., tonight will attempt to throw the battle of the World's three cushion billiard championship into a three-way deadlock by defeating Welker Cochran of San Francisco.

Bozeman, standing on the verge of elimination from the major portion of the $20,000 prize money, last night survived by defeating Augie Kieckhefer, Chicago's deposed champion, 50 to 30, in a near record-breaking match that lasted only 25 innings. If Cochran defeats Bozeman and Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., the crown is all his. But if Bozeman hands Cochran a setback all three will be tied.

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

One of the oldest questions of statecraft—how far a responsible government can afford to go against the prevailing winds of popular opinion—is destined to present itself with singular acuteness in the impending negotiation over war debts.

No one should suppose it merely will be a matter of statesmen trying to get down together and making an agreement which to them, as reasonable men, seems just. Instead, they must forever ask themselves, with respect to every proposition that is presented "Will the people at home stand for this?"

Even under normal conditions this situation would be a difficult one for negotiators who were striving for a solution both sides could accept. It is rendered even more difficult in the present instance by the world unrest, when many millions are disposed on general grounds to distrust and repudiate public men and all their works.

An Ominous Note

Some public men, on both sides of the Atlantic, have even found it advisable to preface the negotiations by a reaffirmation of the most extreme viewpoints.

Speeches at Leeds, the British chancellor of the exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, inferred that so far as the British government was concerned, the starting point of the discussions would be a request for outright cancellation.

On the following day, at Washington, the democratic leader of the House, Representative Rainey, predicted there would be "no reduction" of the debts and that the conference "won't amounting to anything."

Chamberlain is a member of a government of none too secure tenure, although it commands a strong majority in the House of Commons. Rainey is a candidate for speaker of the house. However much you discount their remarks, though, on the score that they were saying privately for a long time "an ominous note." They do not indicate a narrowing of the gap.

Popular Sentiment Feared

Not one, but several, of President Hoover's cabinet officers have been saying privately for a long time that radical adjustments would be advisable. So have many members of congress, although they voted otherwise.

Mr. Hoover himself, after congress refused to recreate the debt commission late in 1931, was in a mood to wash his hands of the whole problem. He expressed to friends the feeling that if Europe hoped for relief she now must do something to convince, not public officials who needed no convincing, but the people of the United States.

In France, more recently, popular resentment overthrew a government of unquestioned ability and experience, just because it refused to yield to the extreme viewpoint and countenance the default of December 15.

Depends On The Public

The real question is not the readiness of statesmen, whatever they may say for publication. It is whether the people of the nations concerned—who in the end must bear the burdens of debts and of cancellation—will listen to a settlement.

It did not take Mr. Woodchuck long to chuck back into his hole here this morning. It was a little cloudy when the sun rose but never to such an extent that the little beast couldn't spy his shadow.

Officials of the Wilcox Oil and Refining company at Tulsa and Bristow, Okla., flew to Pampa yesterday and remained over the night. They inspected the Wilcox Refinery west of Pampa, burned last year following an explosion. The officials said they did not know whether the refinery would be rebuilt, but local observers were optimistic.

They left during the morning after a visit through the South Pampa field. Those making the trip were Frank H. Dunn, vice-president, W. R. Bingham, and C. F. Gilchrist, all of Tulsa, and W. W. Foster, of Bristow.

Woman Held In Suit Case Theft

City officers are holding a local woman in connection with the theft of a suit case of clothing during November, 1931. She will be turned over to the county, Chief John V. Andrews said this morning.

She was arrested yesterday after a girl had been caught who was wearing clothing which had been claimed by another. The girl informed officers that she had been given the clothing for doing some work for the woman being held.

Some of the articles of clothing were recovered, Chief Andrews said.

The treasury announced these bids as apparent lows after hastily figuring various deductions for changes in the building as compared with original specifications, but until treasury experts complete their checking of bids they will not be final. Apparent low bids, however, generally agree with the final checkup.

The bill was passed in the house under suspension of all the rules. The bill had arrived from the senate only a short while before noon and the house stayed in session to allow its highways and motor traffic committee meet, report the bill favorably and then suspended the rules to permit its immediate consideration.

Under existing law, persons who operated their automobiles after February 1 with old license plates were subject to arrest, and penalties when they did pay their registration fees. The extension was advocated as a relief measure for persons unable to meet payments at this time.

The bill will not get to the governor before tomorrow. It must be signed in presence of the house and senate members by the speaker and lieutenant governor. Both branches had adjourned until tomorrow.

COTTON STATISTICS

There were 5,184 bales of cotton, counting round as half-bales, ginned in Gray county from the crop of 1932 prior to January 16, 1932, as compared with 7,147 bales ginned to January 16, 1932, according to B. L. Webb, special census agent for Gray county.

In December, 1899, Tammen and Bonfil were shown and discussed seriously by W. W. Anderson, an attorney, who was tried three times but never convicted. Tammen and Bonfil accused Anderson of taking advantage of Alfred Packer, known then as the "Maneater" who had been arrested a year before when he battled his way through snow drifts from the snow bound mining camp of Lake City, Colo., and told of being forced to subsist on the flesh of his fellow prospectors.
