TWINKLES
George Washington was regarded as a Christian, truthful gentleman, showing how styles in politics have changed.

A three-fourth majority of states is necessary to abolish the 18th amendment. Considering how people disagree nowadays, we see hard sledding and possible defeat of the repeal movement.

And man, how those Baptists and Methodists do fight and fight when they are tried! With a lot of bootleggers fearing they can't compete with big-time beer parlors, the dry cause will have potent fighters.

George Washington was the richest president and if living today would be unpopular because of the fact, but he could at least plead that he was a dirt farmer.

Anyone doubting the effects of whisky on the male mind should hear Dr. Wilder sing "Pink Elephants" in the Lions musical revue and minstrel show of March 2 and 3.

HEARD--

The Rev. A. A. Hyde asking Tom Perkins if he was getting in shape for the golf season as Tom industrially washed a window at Pampa Drug No. 2 this morning. Tom was wielding a wicked stick.

Dick Graham inquiring about the "whys and wherefores" of deep sea fishing. Dick intends to go to Galveston next week and do some fishing.

Dick Hughes and Jack Dunn talking playground ball this morning. It sure is getting close to the time for starting the old ball rolling.

MRS. IHRIG WELCOMED BY OLD FRIENDS AND NEW ONES

SCENE of the "Happy Kitchen," the city auditorium was the gathering place for several hundred Pampa women this afternoon at 2 o'clock as Leona Rusk Ihrig opened the Pampa Daily NEWS free cooking school.

Following a few words of introduction by Mrs. Olin E. Hinkle, women's editor of The NEWS, the crowd gave Mrs. Ihrig cheers of welcome which rang with sincerity. Many of the women knew the famous cooking expert personally, and scores of others had heard her during the cooking school last year. So the occasion, despite the many new faces seen, was almost a "home-coming" of those who attended last year's school.

Meeting of Rifle Club Is Announced

An important meeting of the Pampa Rifle club will be held March 1 in the club room at the Schneider hotel. Plans for out-door shooting will be discussed and a drive for members will be arranged. The range will be placed in condition soon.

Only four persons shot for record during the indoor matches at 75 feet in the basement of the Brunow building Monday night. The scores were: H. D. Murray, 82 prone, 65 sitting, 68 standing; S. H. Cheever, 82 prone, 66 sitting, 56 standing; L. D. Blanton, 34 prone, 60 sitting; V. F. Hobart, 94 prone, 68 standing.

NEW CABINET IS COMPLETED

Report Has North Carolina Man, Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Word reached informed quarters in Washington today that President-elect Roosevelt had completed selection of his cabinet, and that the list contains a surprise—Daniel C. Roper of North Carolina for secretary of commerce.

B. C. D. Assists Blaze Victims

Members of the B. C. D. inter-community relations committee today busied themselves in behalf of the family in the oil field which lost everything in a fire Monday.

Citizens who have clothing or furniture they do not need are asked to leave it at the Board of City Development in the city hall, where it will be assembled to avoid needless duplication. Neighbors of the family are doing what they can to raise $75 to buy a small house.

Those present at the meeting called by Roy Bourland, chairman of the B. C. D. committee, included John B. Hessey, Olin E. Hinkle, Guy E. McTaggart, George Briggs, W. V. Murry, Rev. C. E. Lancaster, Fred Poole, and Clarence Kennedy.

Paving of Road To McLean Given Detailed Study

Whether, with a large bonded debt and declining oil valuations, Gray county should now issue $300,000 more to finish the Pampa-McLean road was being discussed in a statistical way here this morning.

There was absolutely no disposition to ignore the obligation of the county to complete the cross-county road, which many think should have been constructed early in the paving program.

Another issue was the fact that the grading contracted and completed a few months ago is being damaged by winds and a big loss will be sustained unless the road is maintained. Some citizens believe that the road should be maintained by common labor to give employment, and that actual paving should await a more favorable outlook. These pointed out that the bonds have about 18 years more to run—those already issued—and that as oil values drop the burden will be increased on real estate and other assessed valuations.

SHOTGUN SHELL, READY TO EXPLODE, FOUND AT POSTOFFICE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Secret service men were off again today on the trail of a man who apparently sought the life of President-elect Roosevelt.

Raise in Price Of Oil Depends On Developments

There were rumblings and rumors of better conditions in the oil field and an increase in the price of crude oil in the near future. Oklahoma's outburst yesterday may delay the expected announcement of a substantial hike in oil prices, but the belief of those who should know is that it will not be long.

The local offices of the railroad commission is scheduled to release a new summary March 1 and there is a chance that a change will take place by that time.

Traveling Salesman Assessed $32 Fine

It cost a traveling salesman $32.00 to get out of county court yesterday after he was charged with driving past a school bus stopped to discharge children.

The fine, imposed by Judge C. E. Cary, was $10 and costs. County Attorney Sherman White has issued a warning that endangering of children's lives must stop.

BURGLARS REPORTED

The Double Dip cone shop at 312 North Cuyler street was entered last night and chewing gum and a baseball glove were stolen. Entry was through a rear window. The burglary was reported to city officers by Ben Wohlgenuth. An investigation is under way.

R. E. Warren of the Phillips Pampa plant reported the loss of a set of 1933 license plates from his car. The numbers were 443-169. They were taken sometime yesterday afternoon or last night from where the car was parked at his home.

AN EARLY AMERICAN SILHOUETTE

BEHIND him lay the army in its huts. Fighting the last great foe—the deadly cold: And freedom was a broken dream, grown old And left to die along the blood-stained ruts That marked the road to Valley Forge. But he, standing alone, could see beyond the night. Past poverty, defeat and British might, The mighty vision of a land set free.

OUT of that camp of death he raised men's eyes To see that vision as he saw it then, Deathless and glowing in the winter skies: And down the ranks of ragged, weary men New hope was born as they looked up to mark His gallant silhouette against the dark.

Japanese Menace Shows Need For Big U. S. Navy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—The threat of increasing Japanese and decreasing American influence in the far west was described to the house today by Chairman Vinson of the naval committee as one reason congress should vote for a bigger navy.

Speaking of the naval supply bill allowing $315,000,000 for the navy during the next fiscal year, the Georgia Democrat said:

DRAMATIC INTERPRETATION OF MOON-MADNESS TRAGEDY GIVEN BY PERCEPTIVE, STRONG CAST

Audience Gives Play An Enthusiastic Reception

MAGNIFICENT—no other word seemed to fit the mood of the big audience which last evening heard and warmly commended the staging of "Children of the Moon" by the Little Theater under the direction of Dick Hughes.

With such a thin line between the dramatic tenseness of many scenes and the possibility of slipping into melodrama of the burlesque type, the cast maintained the spirit of the play with rare skill.

Somehow reminding one of a beautiful white pigeon imprisoned but beating against every window seeking escape was Mrs. A. B. Goldston as Jane Atherton, sheltered daughter of a self-styled "sacrificing" mother, who was Mrs. E. M. Conley. A romance between a wealthy aviator, Major Bamister (Paul M. LeBeuf) and the girl, who hardly thrilled the audience when she constantly stated dread of the return of the girl's mother raised suspense to the point of punishment.

A First Class Villain. Wholly adequate as the highly temperamental mother and a first class villain. Mrs. Conley again demonstrated her dramatic talents in a torrent of highly motivated attempts to break up the match. The reader must know, at this point, that Grandfather Atherton was mentally unbalanced by moon-madness and Judge Atherton, carries this eccentric role with almost devastating

BRITON DRIVES CAR 18 MILES FASTER ON SEA SANDS

NEW SPEED IS ATTAINED MACHINE TRAVELS AT RATE OF 272.108 MILES PER HOUR

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22. (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell famous British race car driver, today cracked the world's automobile speed record wide open in a thrilling, breath-taking dash over the sands of the beach speedway here. In two blistering runs over the hard packed sands, the intrepid 48-year-old race car driver attained the speed of 272.108 miles an hour over an officially measured mile course for a new land speed record.

On his runs, Campbell exceeded by 18.140 miles an hour his record (See CAMPBELL, Page 5)

ROTARIANS HEAR TALK ON WASHINGTON TODAY. Observing George Washington's birthday Pampa Rotarians today sang patriotic songs under the direction of DeLes Vicars and heard a talk on "Washington, the Man" by the Little Theater under the direction of the NEWS. Visitors were Dick Graham and Mayor W. A. Bratton.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED. Paul P. Harris, founder of Rotary, and Clinton P. Anderson, president of Rotary International, will speak over the radio at 12:30 o'clock C. S. T., tomorrow noon, it was learned this afternoon. The talks will also be over short wave length so that clubs in other parts of the world will be able to tune in on the speeches. Local Rotarians are urged to be at a radio at that time. Closest stations to Pampa over which the broadcast can be heard are Oklahoma City, Dallas, and San Antonio.

'DON'T SELL YOUR SOW'

"Don't sell your sow to buy bacon." So runs an old proverb. Translated differently, it would point out the folly of risking one's health in order to buy luxuries. Those families which are forced to stretch the family purse to buy food, and buy wisely, are better fed than other more able to purchase what they need.

"Each family needs at least milk, bread, cereals, vegetables, and fruit," declares Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, and it is not wise to leave meat out of the diet. The "protective foods"—milk, green vegetables, and fruit—are especially essential to health. To quote Dr. Brown again: "The amount of milk needed each day is one to two pints for each child and at least one-half pint for each adult. For bread and cereals choose whole wheat, rye, and white bread; oatmeal and other dark colored cereals, flour and spaghetti. Vegetables should include potatoes and one other vegetable if possible. Some fruit or tomato 3 or 4 times a week should be eaten, and fats and sweets in moderate amounts, with cheese, eggs, meat, or fish as money permits." And fortunate, indeed, is it that foods may be had so cheaply and in such quality and variety as in Pampa. For money-saving values in foods, READ THE DAILY NEWS BEFORE YOU BUY.

LONG MAY HE LIVE

Twenty years ago the American bison had all but disappeared from the western plains. Men familiar with the situation estimated that the entire country contained hardly more than a thousand of the animals.

Today the bison has so increased in numbers that during the past year more than 1,400 of them were killed on United States and Canadian reservations, the income from hides and meat being used to defray the expenses of caring for the existing herds.

In this field the conservationists have scored a great success. The bison has adapted himself to civilization so well that, as a leading conservationist remarks, the big problem now is to find enough food and space for him.

And while most of us live out our lives without so much as seeing a bison, except perhaps in a zoo, this achievement is a thing in which we can all rejoice. It means that one of the most fundamental features of the old-time west is being preserved. An animal that shaped the primitive civilization of half a continent is not to be allowed to die.

When the first white man got west of the Mississippi they found practically all of the Indian tribes existing in a social organization which had been built up around the bison.

Those were the days when the "buffalo" herds were of simply incredible size. Millions upon millions of the shaggy animals roamed across the western plains. They were literally beyond counting. The earth shook with the thunder of their feet.

To the plains Indians these herds were the very staff of life. They provided the Indians with most of their food, their fuel and their clothing. Their migrations governed the movements of the tribes; their numbers determined the tribes' prosperity. What finally beat the Indians was not so much the guns of the white invaders as the fact that the bison were almost exterminated. The main prop of Indian society was knocked out and the end was inevitable.

And it is good, now, to learn that the bison is not going to disappear entirely. That clumsy-looking, heavy-headed animal is an integral figure of our great west.

City-wide interest is being shown in the baking contest, sponsored in connection with the school by the city council of Parent-Teacher associations. The contest is open to all women. Prizes will go to the individual women who enter the winning cakes, pies, and cookies, and proceeds from the sale of all entries will go to the various Parent-Teacher associations to use for charitable purposes.

All entries must be taken to the city hall by 11 o'clock Friday morning. They will be sold after the lecture, and any remaining entries will be placed on display at C & C System. There is only one requirement in the baking—that either Great West or Amaryllis flour be used. Prizes in three divisions, shorting cakes, pies, and entries of 36 cookies will total $21. The awards will be as follows: First prize in each group, $5; second prize in each group, a 24-pound sack of either Amaryllis or Great West flour; fourth prize in each group, a 12-pound sack of flour; fifth prize in each group, a 6-pound sack of flour.

The Parent-Teacher association of each school will have a representative present to receive the entries and to assist generally with the contest.

When there was no town of Pampa and an organized Gray county had passed on. We are glad that Mrs. Thui lived to be honored at Frontier Days, that she saw the first trains arrive over new railroads, that she saw these plains change from a buffalo country to a land of wheat and oil. As time passes, new faces and leadership must be introduced into public affairs, and the citizens will linger only in the memory and as an inspiration.

GEORGE'S ETIQUETTE
Those who read this column last year will remember that we pointed out how Washington imported the first false teeth and the first mules, invented ice cream, became the nation's first exporter and big business man, and set the pace with Martha's aid for high society entertaining. Among the earliest writings of Washington were his "Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior in Company and Conversation." We present enough of them to show his trends of thought:

Be no flatterer, neither play with any that delights not to be played with.

In the presence of others, sing not to yourself with a humming noise, nor drum with your fingers or feet.

Sleep not when others speak, sit not when others stand, speak not when you should hold your peace, walk not on when others stop.

Put not off your clothes in the presence of others, nor go out of your chamber half dressed.

Turn not your back to others especially in speaking, jog not the table or desk on which another reads or writes, lean not upon any one.

Keep your nails clean and short, also your hands and teeth clean.

Cow-lots Ordered Cleaned By City

Spring is not far away, in the opinion of members of the city health department. Accordingly, Dr. T. J. Worrell, assistant health officer, said today that persons keeping a cow would have to clean up the lots before the arrival of warm weather. Sanitation inspections will increase in number and thoroughness during the coming warm months.

STOLEN GOODS FOUND
Officers of the sheriff's department yesterday arrested a man in connection with theft of household goods in the Talley addition. County Attorney Sherman White said he would file burglary charges during the day. About half the stolen goods was recovered.

yet without shewing any great concern for them.

Superfluous compliments and all affection of ceremony are to be avoided, yet where due they are not to be neglected.

When a man does all he can, though it succeeds not well, blame not him that did it.

Make no show of taking great delight in your victuals, feed not with greediness, cut your bread with a knife, lean not on the table, neither find fault with what you eat.

If you soak bread in the sauce it is no more than what you put in your mouth at a time and bow not your broath at table but stay till cools of itself.

If others talk at table, be attentive but talk not with meat in your mouth.

Let your recreations be manful, not sinful.

INCOME TAX FACTS
To obtain a deduction for traveling expenses, which form an important item in the returns of many taxpayers, certain regulations must be observed. The taxpayer is required to attach to his return a statement showing the nature of business in which engaged, number of days away from home during the taxable year on account of business, total amount of expense incidental to meals and lodging, and total amount of "other expenses" incidental to travel and claimed as a deduction. Among the "other expenses" are tips, provided they are reasonable in amount.

Traveling expenses are deductible only when the trip is on business. They are limited to such expenses as are reasonable and necessary in the conduct of the business and directly attributable to it.

Traveling expenses incurred in connection with a journey to another city to accept or seek employment are not deductible. Suburbanites who commute from their homes to their places of business are not permitted to deduct the cost of transportation, it being a personal expense.

Claims for deduction for traveling expenses must be substantiated, when required by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, showing in detail the amount and nature of the expenses incurred.

Chapter 11
THE LEG-ON MARCHES

HAVING sounded their call in the center of the post, the buglers marched to the gate and again sounded the "assembly," outside the post. They then marched right round the walls sounding their strident urgent call to each of the other three points of the compass.

"Do put on a nos record. That one's getting worn out," observed Sailor Harris as he stuffed a small kit into his sack.

"Wore out!" granted William Bossun, rolling spare boots in blanket and yew canvas that he proceeded to slip to his knapsack. "I reckon it's broke." They broke it. Yes, they broke the record, he chuckled. "Flays" it five times round five square yards to five men and a boy."

"El'ast! A Joke!" observed Sailor Harris in an annoying manner.

"You break the record for speed, my leg, or you'll be in for it," urged Joe Munnery, as he spun round and round winding twelve feet of broad woolen belt about his middle...

In the cook-house soup is being hastily prepared and loaves of bread laid out for distribution.

The tightly packed ranks, and the rifles are brought out, and, by each man, laid in the place where he will fall in.

Once again the Legies sound, and almost immediately everybody is in his place, and the roll is called. Cartridges are distributed, the quartermaster and his orderlies issue reserve rations to each man, two tins, a pound of corned beef and a pound of biscuits. Each man also receives a little bag of coffee, one of salt and one of sugar.

Major Ricco mounts his horse. The man stand silent and steady as a rock, buglers ten paces to the right.

The Benegaleses come to attention. Their guard present arms. Forward! March!

The buglers strike up the March of the Legion and once more the Legion marches.

They feel that Major Napoleon Ricco is being a little excessive. They have every intention of marching when on the way to billets in a real town, and all the joys thereof.

If all his men would not follow him to the Gates of Hell and through them, as he is fond of boasting, they will certainly follow him to the Gates of Mekazen and through them.

But it is a weary march across the burning waterless desert that is one of the chief factors in the impregnability of Mekazen: most powerful of the defenses that had kept the country impregnable since the days when the great Sheressian warrior ancestor of the Kald conquered and colonized it, centuries before his descendants conquered and colonized Spain.

A weary march, needing no human enemies (in alliance with those of heat, thirst and sandstorms) to render it almost impossible.

How long ago it seemed to the over-strained, heat-stricken men, since the detachment of Senegalese infantry arrived at the post and took over charge; how long since their own bugles blew the assembly.

"Do you know what we are?" he asked, as the column halted and hung itself down for its ten minutes' rest, at the sound of Major Ricco's whistle.

Sailor Harris's reply is better unrecorded. "Speak for yourself," rebuked Tant de Solf. "I will tell you what we are—as distinguished from your self. We are sheep. Sheep, I say—and I don't like it."

"We are being absolutely shepherded along. There are at least four scouts in touch with us. I don't like it, I say. I have lived for France and desire to go on living for France. I have no wish to die for her.

"Die in the newspapers?" grumbled Père Poussin. "Personally I'd prefer to die in the canteen."

"Live there, you mean?" "What's this about being shepherded along?" asked Joe Munnery.

"Have you seen no cloud of dust on the horizon, every now and then, and from almost every direction?" asked Tant de Solf. "Haven't you seen suspicious-looking riders, in twos and threes, suddenly appear above a sand-dune and quickly disappear? Haven't you seen a solitary scout, sitting like a graven image, on a tall camel, at dawn of every day since we left the post?"

"No, I haven't," stated Père Poussin.

"No? Well, you should march with your eyes open, instead of staggering along half-asleep, bent double and with your eyes on the ground—as though you were looking for your lost innocences."

"Oh, shut up, you old wind-bag," "You leaky wind-skin, be quiet..." "All the same—I don't like it," persisted Tant de Solf.

"Go on! Tell the Major you don't—and let us sleep."

A sudden cry from a sentry who extends a pointing arm. A blast from the whistle... A shouted order...

In less than a minute the straggling, sprawling, recumbent column is in position, prepared to receive cavalry or anything else.

A whirlwind, consisting of buff, white, brown and grey camels ridden by yelling, rife-brandishing men in flowing and fluttering white bayonet-bristling double rank, on the bank of which Major Ricco sits, cool and steady, on his horse.

"Wait for it," he cries, as a few rifles are raised from the "ready" to the "present."

It was a wild fierce charge, and if the tribesmen come on, the men must be swept away, stamped flat.

The strain is terrible. The instinct of self-preservation strong.

A man throws his rifle up to his shoulder—an a sergeant kicks him so violently from behind that he almost falls.

"Steady—you wretched recruit," he growls. "Wait for it."

"This is madness," observes Tant de Solf as the avalanche surges down upon the thin khaki line.

But there is method in Major Ricco's madness.

Suddenly, a man who has through-out kept ahead of the charging horde, throws up his hand, and instantly the company divides and wheels, one half to the left, the other to the right, and instead of overwhelming the soldiers and tramping them into sand, out-thanks them on either wing, surrounds and envelops them.

The leader rides up to Major Ricco, laughs and salutes in semi-military fashion.

"Good morning, Major," says he, in excellent French. "You were expecting us?"

"I was, Prince Ralant," he replies. "My men were not... I see here's that already seen something of their steadiness and discipline."

"Quite good, my dear Major."

"Yes, I am glad that neither you nor any man of yours was shot. One may observe that you took a risk, Prince Ralant."

"Oh, I like taking risks, don't you? I too am glad for all your—our—sakes that no one was shot..."

From that hour the "military mission" was undoubtedly shepherded as Tant de Solf had said, or escorted as Ralant said, on the remainder of its roundabout and terrible journey—roundabout because no one whatsoever was allowed to approach France-dying, Spain-dying, Europe-dying, Mekazen-dying, the direct and secret route through oasis and mountain pass; terrible because of the incredible heat, lack of water and looseness of the soft and shifting sand...

And one morning, a day or two later, the red tired eyes of the weary marchers were gladdened by the sight, upon the far horizon, of the minarets and domes of the city of Mekazen, rising from a sea of palms that appeared in the shimmering light to flow about the base of the mighty cliff of rock, on the summit of which was perched the great citadel Castle of Mekazen, impregnable, inviolate, virgin when to that day.

REBELLION IN CUBA FLARES

Half-Dozen Outbreaks Revolt Long-Predicted Herd Against Machado.

HAVANA, Feb. 22. (AP)—At least half a dozen outbreaks in widely separated parts of the island were reported today, heralding the long-predicted revolt against the Machado rule.

In distant Oriente province, cradle of all Cuban revolutions including the one against Spain, at least one serious clash occurred.

At Santa Clara, in the middle of the island, rebels were reported to have attacked the government's military station, carrying away arms and ammunition.

At the other end of the island, not far west of here, a band of men tried to seize arms and money at a grocery store in the town of Alquizar. They critically wounded the owner.

Reports said two soldiers were slain in a battle at San Antonio, a town near the U. S. navy coaling station, at Guantanamo. A group led by Ex-Senator Gonzalo Perez Andres, former supporter of President Machado, engaged army forces in a battle.

Other small bands were reported active in that section of Oriente province. Government officials disclosed early this month that they learned Cuban exiles planned to land in Oriente to start the revolution.

The exiles, including many who participated in the unsuccessful revolt against President Machado in August, 1931, were expected to reach Cuba from Mexico or Honduras. Exiles in the United States were reported joining them.

Groups of armed men were said to be starting fires in the sugar cane fields and interfering with workers. A storekeeper and two bandits were reported slain at Rancho Veloz.

President Machado a few days ago ordered all police, prison guards and rural guards enrolled in the army in preparation for the threatened uprising.

BOMB

matter to the secret service was taken by officials of the latter organization to indicate the case did not present "an acute danger" to the president-elect.

Since the Miami incident in which five persons were wounded by Giuseppe Zangara in an attempt on the life of the president-elect, the secret service has put on extra precautions against all methods in which attempts might be made on Mr. Roosevelt's life.

The shotgun shell was found when the package tumbled from a mail sack and burst open. Of the apparently "live" shotgun shell found here, postoffice officials speculated that the chances of its exploding were "about one in ten," but said its explosion was a certainty if it were dropped "perpendicularly."

Officers of the naval ordnance bureau who are usually charged with the destruction of such explosives, expressed doubt that the shell would have had deadly effect even if exploded at close range.

They said it would take "a genius at explosives" to rig a shotgun shell in such a manner as to inflict fatal injuries.

The contrivance consisted of a wire bent in the form of the letter "J" with the shell up-ended and so fastened to the shaft as to cause the percussion cap to rest against the top of the hook. The shell was loaded with number nine shot.

The package was of flimsy paper, loosely tied with cotton string.

The address was in poor handwriting and the package contained message which postal authorities declined to make public.

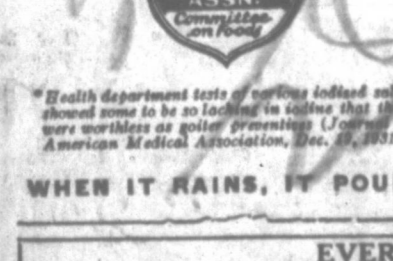

Postal authorities expressed belief that the package was dropped in a box at Watertown. They said the package was in such condition that no clerk would have accepted it.

CAPE SUITS FOR STARS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22.—Short capes are the only ones that seem to be making much headway here right now.

The cape suit is Greta Nissen's idea of how a cape should be used. She has a new gray sheer wool street outfit, of gray dress with gay plaid sleeves and a cape of the gray, edged in dark gray fox and lined with the bright plaid, in blues and gray. The capes ties at the neck with a bow of the plaid, lined with gray.

Karen Morley, dining with her husband, Charles Vidor, at Sardi's, wore an Alice blue evening gown of rough crepe with a short cape of the same material, all bound around with blue fox.

Carole Lombard, lunching at the Ambassador with Wynne Gibson, wore a brown and white checked ensemble of very silk crepe, resembling tweed, and a cape of the same material, lined with brown and fastening on the left side with three buttons forming a triangle. Her dress fastened on the left side with a row of buttons clear to the hemline. Her stitched brown taffeta hat almost hid her right eye.

Wynne was all decked out in blue, dark blue herring-bone wool, tight fitting and a buttons down the front. Also blue fedora, blue kid gloves and shoes, and a blue and scarlet scarf.

Peggy Joyce, recently arrived from New York, has a sweet little chinchilla cape, very short, very smart, which she wears over a gray chiffon evening gown with no back to speak of.

WASHINGTON IS STUDIED HERE

BAKER KIDDIES STUDY PRESIDENT IN ALL CLASSES

GEORGE WASHINGTON—the patriot, the soldier, and the man—is becoming as familiar to pupils of Baker school as are the first lessons in the "three R's."

The fourth and fifth grades are making an intensive study of James Baldwin's book, Life of George Washington.

In the lower grades, each class offers opportunity this month for the study of some phase of the life of Washington. In art, cutwork posters, depicting scenes in the life of the first president and stories based on the same subject are made. Stories are read in language class and the simplest of these are dramatized, one of the favorite stories for dramatization being that of the cherry tree. The citizenship classes are rich in opportunity for the close of the evening. Here the children are taught that a soldier must be honest, straight, courageous, strong, true. They are taught the following meanings of colors in the flag: Red, brave; white, pure; blue, true. In music classes the children are taught the minut and patriotic songs. The writing classes are correlated with language, and facts pertaining to Washington are impressed.

TORNADOS WILL BATTLE HARVESTERS HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

NEXT GAME TO BE PLAYED ON LAMESA COURT

CHAMPIONSHIP OF TWO DISTRICTS WILL BE AT STAKE

Harvester basketball fans had better brace themselves for a stiff wind this week-end because Lamesa's Golden Tornado will blow into Pampa Friday for the first of a series of games to determine the bi-district championship.

The Tornado which swept with devastating fury through the ranks of South Plains basketball teams at the Lubbock tournament, will battle the Pampa boys on their own small gym this Friday night.

It did not take the Lamesa authorities long to make up their minds to accept Pampa's offer. Supr. R. B. Fisher submitted several propositions yesterday, among them the one that was accepted, and this morning a telegram was received which stated the Tornado would meet the Harvesters here Friday night.

Meanwhile, the high school began preparations to provide seats for what will undoubtedly be the largest crowd ever to witness a basketball game in this city.

Frazier was turning over in his mind what music would be most inspiring to the Harvesters. There was a general air of excitement at the high school as both teachers, students and members of the team began to nurture that "conquering psychology."

The news that the game was scheduled made the Harvesters' eyes sparkle in anticipation. They have a good chance of representing both districts at the state tournament and they know it, but they also know that they've a battle ahead.

Berger Sends Telegram

Harvester fans from this territory are expected to pour into the city Friday night. Shortly after the Lamesa telegram was received, a telegraphic message from the Berger Bulldogs was read and appreciated.

"Four it on 'em, Harvesters! Four it on 'em" read the telegram. The Bulldog team was rated the second best in the tournament by the Harvesters. It was the only quarter represented that was not a one-man team. Without Graham, Quitaque was about 40 per cent dead, and Amarillo never had a chance to reach the tournament if it had not been for Corbett. It was learned that the Bulldogs would be on hand Friday night to see the encounter.

When and where the thing game will be played if one is necessary, has not been decided. The Lamesa indicate that the Tornado fully expects to win the first two games, and to eliminate the possibility of a third game. Negotiations for a possible third game will not take place until later, it was said.

ROOSEVELT PICKS HULL AND WOODIN FOR CABINET JOBS

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—His groundwork laid for a world economic revival, President-elect Roosevelt turned today to the task of naming his new cabinet.

His newly announced secretaries of state and treasury—Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee and William H. Woodin of New York, respectively.

These friends were announced last night by Mr. Roosevelt as his two dependables in the negotiations with the world today for world monetary stabilization, tariff reciprocity and war debts relief.

The naming of Hull and Woodin as the premier officers in the Roosevelt cabinet came suddenly at the end of two days of conversation by the president-elect with his official advisers of Great Britain, France, and Canada.

In these conversations, Mr. Roosevelt arranged for an early world economic parity which he intends will carry out his program for international rehabilitation before the subject of war debts relief.

The following are regarded as certain in the Roosevelt cabinet:

Attorney general—Senator Walsh, Foremaster general—James A. Farley of New York

Secretary of navy—Senator Swanson of Virginia.

Secretary of agriculture—Henry Wallace, Jr., of Iowa.

Secretary of labor—Miss Frances Perkins, of New York.

Prater is charged in connection with bombing and attempts to bomb the Lindsay theaters here.

CORBETT WAS RING LAWYER

Gentleman Jim Knew Rules And He Made The Referee Squirm in Questioning

By WILLIAM WARNE, Associated Press Staff Writer. SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 22. (AP)—Two Corbets are remembered by James (Sunny) Jim Corbett—"Gentleman Jim" and "the Marquis of Queensbury lawyer."

Corbett changed from one to the other according to the length of time remaining before a fight.

Corbett, now living in retirement here, promoted Corbett's last fight, the re-match on August 14, 1903, with Jim Jeffries at the Yosemite Athletic club in San Francisco.

"Gentleman Jim" was knocked out in the tenth round of the scheduled 20-round match, but the fight set a world's record for the times, it was the largest gate on record—$62,240.

The promoter dubbed Corbett "the Marquis of Queensbury lawyer" as a result of the fight.

"Corbett knew every rule in the book, although the book was new at that time," Corbett explained. "He would 'be tested' by entering the name of the referee. 'Well,' he would say, 'he is all right, but does he know the rules? I want to question him.'

And did Corbett make a referee sweat with his cross examination? California boxing laws required two inches of felt under the canvas, and when Corbett tried out the ring before the Jeffries fight he insisted the soft footing would slow him up. Corbett had laid a stiff carpet that cost $150 under the canvas. Corbett drew a "be tested" by entering one of the regular doors, so Corbett had the carpenters cut a new door in the side of the club house for him.

"Jim and I were friends from boyhood," Corbett said, "and I never knew him to be anything but a gentleman." The Marquis of Queensbury lawyer was a product of the strain of training and Gentleman Jim took his place after a fight.

HITLER ENTERS Church Row—5 More Are Slain

BERLIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—Campaign against the "Godless Movement" and an appeal for Catholic support were launched today by Chancellor Adolf Hitler's forces. They struck at two of his formidable opponents in the March elections, the first at communists and the latter a he allied Catholic parties.

Meanwhile, five more persons were killed and scores more were injured last night in the incipient civil war which has been waging since Hitler's rise to power. This brought the number of deaths in political clashes since the first of the year, when Hitler began negotiations for the chancellorship, to about 70.

A campaign against the "Godless movement" was announced by Bernard Rust, Nazi commissioner for education and culture in Prussia, in an address before students at the technical university here. He said the details would be revealed in the next few days. In his speech opening the campaign for the election and Prussian diet elections, Hitler attacked communists for the spread of atheism.

An appeal to Catholic Nazis was printed in Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter, assailing the Catholic center and populist parties. I recalled the papal encyclical of January 9, 1928, which admonished priests to serve the religious interests of the nation and not to affiliate with political parties. Hitler, himself, is a Catholic.

FUTTRALL FOES BEATEN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 22. (AP)—The Arkansas senate today defeated, 19 to 7, a house bill by Rep. Roger Williams to reconstitute the board of trustees of the University of Arkansas, which opponents of the measure charged was aimed at deposing President John C. Futtrall of the university. Williams, discharged as English instructor by the university in 1928, denied he sponsored the bill to "get back" at Futtrall.

READY FOR WAR

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 22. (AP)—Congress will meet Friday to formally declare war against Bolivia. For eight months the two nations have battled for possession of the Gran Chaco border territory, in their latest renewal of a 50-year dispute over it. Hundreds have been killed in many battles, but neither country thus far has given the conflict the official status of war.

MORELAND IN FOURTH PLACE IN GOLF MEET

TEXAS GOLFING ACE IS DANGEROUSLY WEAK AT PUTTING

By BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer. HOUSTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Some of Texas' finest golfers had opportunity today to prove just how they could shoot to qualify in the annual Houston Country club invitation tournament. Play started yesterday with the first 18 of the 36 holes medal test.

Such stars as Charles Dexter, Reynolds Smith, Franklin Baker, O'Hara Watta, Jack Daid, Jack Summer and many others were ready to attempt the final 18 holes today to win entry in the championship flight.

Only one of the players who probably did not worry about qualifying was husky Tammie Cochran, who paced the field yesterday with a 38-35-73, two over par. Texas amateur champion in 1924 and 1925, Cochran had slipped from stardom for several years.

Cochran's 73 paced yesterday's field by one stroke. Willie Maguire, Jr., of Houston and Fred Odum of New Orleans each scored a 74. Maguire clicked with a 38-36-74. Odum had a 37-37-74.

The end of play yesterday found Gus Moreland, Texas amateur champion and defending champion in the invitation, in a five way tie for fourth place. Inability to drop putts held Moreland to a 39-37-76. The best part of his game, putting, betrayed him.

In front of Moreland and in a three way tie for third place today when the final round started were Ken Penner of Louisville, Ky., Ossie Carlton of Houston, and Edwin McClure of Shreveport, each with a 75.

David Goldman of Dallas, finalist in last year's trans-Mississippi and who has defeated Moreland four out of six tries, had putting troubles yesterday and finished with a 39-37-76, the same score Moreland had. Johnnie Dawson, finalist in last year's invitation, tied with Goldman and Moreland with a 39-39-78.

LAMESA'S TALL CENTER HAS HAD MONOPOLY ON TIP-OFF

Pampa Has a Good Chance To Beat Lamesa As She Had To Win District

Lamesa's Golden Tornado basketball team has something none of the Pampa Harvesters' fans in this district had, according to reports which have come from the Lubbock tournament where the Dawson county boys who entered the fray as a dark horse, licked the socks of Plainview and Ropesville after Lubbock and Shallowater had been eliminated.

The Tornado has some tall lads in its line-up and an exceedingly tall center. In fact, he's six feet two in his stocking feet and he isn't thin either. He's the youth who scored 13 points in the final game with Ropesville. The Lamesa boys first eliminated Plainview and by eight points. In that game, that big Plainview center never got the tip-off one time. He got the tip-off in Pampa, but since the Hale county boys played here Christmas Pullingim has learned to jump high. Maguire clicked with a 38-36-74. Odum had a 37-37-74.

The end of play yesterday found Gus Moreland, Texas amateur champion and defending champion in the invitation, in a five way tie for fourth place. Inability to drop putts held Moreland to a 39-37-76. The best part of his game, putting, betrayed him.

In front of Moreland and in a three way tie for third place today when the final round started were Ken Penner of Louisville, Ky., Ossie Carlton of Houston, and Edwin McClure of Shreveport, each with a 75.

SEVENTY-FIVE BOYS REPORT FOR PRACTICE

COACH SWAMPED WITH LADS WHO WANT TO PLAY FOOTBALL

If football depends on numbers Pampa high school should have a state championship team next fall. Yesterday afternoon when Assistant Coach Argus Fox arrived at the Sam Houston grounds to conduct opening practice for boys who have had no previous high school football experience, he was amazed to see no less than 75 youngsters instead of the 56 who the previous day said they desired to learn something about football.

Harry Kelley was out of uniforms when he reached 75 and there were a number of boys still in line. An effort will be made to suit them up this afternoon. There were little boys, big boys, thin boys, and fat boys. Most of them didn't even know how to get into their uniforms. They tried to put kidney pads over their shoulders and knee pads on their elbows. The Harvesters kindly showed them how the "gadgets" worked.

Setting-up exercises, position on the offensive, and pivoting to run interference were on the program and the youngsters went through their work with a will. Coach Fox lined the boys across the field and didn't have enough room so he had to form two lines. He plans to work with the new lads for about two weeks before issuing a call for the rest of the squad. By that time he will have an idea how many boys will have a chance to make teams and the rest will be allowed to go until next year.

Among the boys out for football is Wa Him Quam, little Chinese boy who was such a sensation with the Junior high team. He is fast and tricky and might develop into a star player. If C. A. Clark Jr. grows up to be anything like his father, he will be another valuable man and he has all the appearance of one in a football uniform. Many other boys should "come through" this year.

Rennie's testimony was unequivocal. "He was knocked out and he was knocked out cold," said the New York writer. "I could see his eyes—nothing left but the whites. Also I could see that he was going long effect, to judge by the expressions on the faces of many in the audience. He was bent, doddering, and raspy in voice, as also was the retired sea-dog served by Thomas (Paul Camp), who had only lines giving a semblance of comic relief.

These two characters bore the unmistakable evidence of Hugh's direction, since Mr. Hughes excels in such parts and likes to stress them.

Paul LeBeuf, restrained by his troubled part in the midst of a meandering indecision and moon-madness, deserves extraordinary commendation. Much of his work was virtually pantomime, and tragic pantomime at that.

The role called for restrained dramatic force, as contrasted with the privilege of relating into outbursts which greatly relieved Dr. Wetberell (New Dille), as well as the audience. Mr. Dille was an impressive doctor, with a good voice and stage presence.

The Little Theater's prestige and success in attracting business men to the stage as well as students, evidence enough of the high standards.

Bean Was a Relief. In bold relief against a house full of nerve-wrecked individuals was Nell Bean, excellently cast as the aviator-mechanic, husky, big-voiced, efficient.

Throughout the play was heard the swish of waves and falling spray. Later in the picture there were sound effects—airplane motor and fog-horn—with the recurring flash of the light-house beams.

These effects were by R. G. Allen, Art Swanson, E. H. Damon, and G. L. Austin of the Cabot Shops, Inc.

Spectators were tense with excitement in the climatic scene at the end of the second act when Laura Atherton told her daughter that she could never marry Marjor Bannister because she inherited the Atherton tendency toward moon-madness.

Mrs. Conley not only acted but looked her role. She was mercilessly cruel. The daughter accepted the blow as she might have done in a personal experience. Her moon-madness was terrifying and convincing, and Major Bannister's grief and disappointment were real.

The audience was prepared for the end of the play when it came.

The Tragic Ends, and feeling as he did, there was nothing Major Bannister could do but take Jane and set out for the moon in an airplane that contained only enough fuel to last less than an hour.

There was no hope that the two could escape death after they took off in a thick fog over a rough sea in a futile flight for the moon.

The last the audience saw was Major Bannister, tender but resigned, and Jane rapidly losing her awareness in her rhapsodies about the moon.

FEELING. Feb. 22. (AP)—The Chinese commander at Chaoyang, Jehol, reported tonight that Japanese in fantry had attacked the town of Nanking, a few miles west of there, after a bomb attack from the air.

AFTER FATAL BURNING

CONVINCED that only a bomb could have brought about the destruction pictured here, Philadelphia police sought clues to an "inspector" believed to have planted an explosive in the home of John M. di Silvestro, banker and national head of the Sons of Italy. Di Silvestro's wife was killed and sixteen persons were injured in the wreckage of the three-story house.

Japs Hint They May Take Whole Of China Empire

TOKYO, Feb. 22. (AP)—The United States and other governments which maintain military forces and "spheres of interest" in the Peiping-Tientsin area will be informed that Japan may be "compelled" to extend military operations to those cities.

The foreign office announced today that ambassadors of the principal powers will be told the Japanese army has no intention of carrying its campaign in Jehol province south of the great wall of China unless Chinese reprisals force such action.

"There is a real danger of backsliding from the Jehol campaign resulting in a Chinese attack on our garrison at Tientsin or in the massacre of Japanese at Peiping," said a foreign office spokesman.

"In this event, our army will be compelled to move to protect them. Barring such unfortunate developments, fighting will be confined to Jehol," he added.

The United States has a small military force in the area, along with other powers which participated in the Boxer protocol of September, 1901. This document provided for punishment of China after the Boxer uprising in Peiping, the maintenance by foreign troops of communication between Peiping and the sea and the fortification and policing of legation quarters.

Text includes: 'GEORGE WASHINGTON'S INAUGURATION SUIT', 'WAS OF HOMESPIN, MADE BY HIS WIFE/MARTHA WASHINGTON KEPT IN SPINNING WHEELS BUSY AT MOUNT VERNON.', 'MAYFLIES LIVE ONLY A FEW HOURS IN THE ADULT STAGE.', 'Mescal-buiton, A SMALL CACTUS PLANT OF SOUTH-WESTERN U.S. AND MEXICO.', 'IS TREATED AS A DIVINE BEING BY THE INDIANS OF CHIHUAHUA, AND THEY MAKE THE SIGN OF THE CROSS IN ITS PRESENCE.'

WHEN made into a drink, mescal-buiton has a narcotic effect, in some respects resembling opium, but it is regarded by the Indians as a safeguard against witches and ill fortune. The plant resembles a carrot, and only a small part of it grows above the ground. In some localities it goes by the name of sacred mushroom.

Pitiable Plight Of Girls Cited By 2 Officials

The government plans to set aside $88,000,000 for needy boys between the ages of 15 and 21 that are tramping the country, but what about the girls? asks Mrs. W. H. Davis, manager of the Pampa Welfare board and local Red Cross representative, and Chief of Police John V. Andrews. "And especially the girls right here at home," they cite.

The attention of Mrs. Davis and Chief Andrews to the need of action at home has been called recently as girls were arrested—young girls—and charged with vagrancy, disturbing the peace, and drunkenness. One girl, 18 years old, was arrested for vagrancy Sunday for the third time this year.

Chief Andrews took her to Mrs. Davis and asked the welfare worker to talk to the girl who poured out a story which was not new. A large family at home, getting nowhere, and at the age of 15 the girl started out "on her own." She has seen her mistake and wants to make a "come back."

"But what chance has she?" Another young girl is in the hospital critically ill from neglect and lack of care.

"I am going to try and do something for these girls," Mrs. Davis said this morning. "The city has agreed to assist and I know there are several organizations which will help in this great reclamation work."

Mrs. Davis admitted that some of the girls assisted will "double cross" their benefactors, but she believes that most of them will "play square if treated square." Chief Andrews is of the same opinion.

Although the chief talks harshly and acts that way sometimes, there is a kindly spot in his heart and only a few of his friends know of the acts of kindness he does.

OIL PRICE

since the big companies have decided to "play ball" with the commission and quiet taking "hot oil." The other cause has yet to be controlled—bootlegging of gasoline. It is going to be a job but it is the belief of local experts that the practice will be at least curbed in the near future.

The method being used is for a truck to drive up to a refinery and purchase a truck load of gasoline and have it billed for some nearby state. By that method the gasoline is tax free as far as the state is concerned and only the federal tax is collected. He may drive to a town or city 50 miles away and sell the gasoline to an unscrupulous filling station operator for a split of the state money. The filling station man then sell the gas at the market price or cut a cent or two and still make more money than the ordinary retailer.

All eyes are on Oklahoma. Governor William Murray said he will either "take off the lid" or "shut 'er down tight." Is he bluffing or is he not? Everyone knows "Alfalfa Bill" is in a tough spot and he has to do something and until some definite action is taken, the oil business is going to be in a turmoil.

WOODIN LIKE MELLON WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Representative Horr (R., Wash.) told the house today that William H. Japs' Conquest Of Jehol Adds Mining Center

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Feb. 22. (AP)—General Suzuki's Japanese army, headed for Jehol City, 200 miles from here, has captured its first important objective, the rail head at Peipiao in Jehol's coal mining center.

When they marched in yesterday they found the city deserted. The Chinese inhabitants, forewarned of the advance, had partially destroyed the railroad tunnel from Nanking, a few miles to the east, and had attempted to blow up a bridge to check the Japanese march.

There will be only a brief halt at Peipiao. From there the advance will move across the province to Jehol city. The army people here speak of the operations thus far as merely a preliminary to a major offensive scheduled to open on Friday.

Meantime, there have been operations in other sectors. Two thousand mounted Chinese and Mongolians were threatening the town of Tungliao, in Manchuria, 200 miles north of here and close to the Jehol border. There was more fighting at Kailu, an important town of Jehol on the winding Liao Ho river 20 miles southwest of Tungliao.

Last night a force of Chinese irregulars attacked a Japanese column near Koupanzui, also in Manchuria. There were numerous casualties on both sides.

Japanese planes flew across the Tungliao area bombing Chinese irregulars to clear the way for troops which will advance into Jehol from the north.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Feb. 22. The Japanese asserted he commands a force of 15,000 troops in the Lueph area, 70 miles north of Kailu.

Jimmie Mattern On 'Limbering Up' Flight To Texas

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Jimmie Mattern, birdman who nurses an undying ambition to whirl around the globe in record time, took off from Floyd Bennett airfield at 4:49 a. m. Eastern Standard Time on a non-stop "limbering up" hop to San Angelo, Tex.

The jaunt, a 1,650-mile one, was the first big test for Mattern's rebuilt plane "The Century of Progress." The craft carries some original parts of the old "Century of Progress" which smashed up in Russia last summer on an unsuccessful world flight which Mattern attempted with Bennett Griffin.

Mattern was alone in the big ship as she shot away from the Brooklyn airport. Griffin, who plans to go along on the second globe-girdling ventures this spring or summer, is in the west.

Mattern said he hoped to reach San Angelo, his home town, in about 12 hours, flying by way of Pittsburgh, Louisville, Little Rock and Fort Worth. Head winds were reported along the route.

"The Century of Progress" is a red, white and blue plane with a globe and Mattern's name painted on the side. Its license number is NR-869-E.

After spending some time in San Angelo, Mattern said he would fly to Oklahoma City, Chicago and Dayton, Ohio, for visits. At Dayton he planned to do some scientific work in preparation for the world-flight this spring.

Texas Week Set Aside By 'Ma'

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today issued proclamations calling on Texans to observe Washington's birthday, Arbor day and Texas week, the latter in commemoration of Texas independence.

The Washington's birthday and Arbor day proclamations were combined. Each falls on Wednesday, February 23 to March 4 was set aside as Texas week.

"Inasmuch as the birthday of George Washington is widely known as Arbor day and since the planting of trees seems a fitting tribute to this great American, I urge that special attention be given on that day to the planting of trees and to the intelligent care and protection of trees," the governor said.

It was suggested that all native Texans during Texas week "shall make an especial effort to welcome those of our citizens who have come to us from other states and countries and that unusual effort be made to acquaint them with the historical background of our state."

Amateur Sights His 4th Comet

LIMA, O., Feb. 22. (AP)—A 30-year-old self-taught astronomer, who works at selling automobile accessories by day, has sighted his fourth new comet in recent years.

Leslie C. Pettier, of near Delphos, bought his first telescope in 1918 for $15 with money he earned at odd jobs. He then was a high school student. The knowledge of the stars he since has acquired largely by home study has made him outstanding in the field and he reports regularly to Harvard, Princeton, and Yerkes observatories.

His latest discovery, made from an observatory he constructed near his farm home, was recognized by Harvard scientists to whom he first reported it recently.

"The new comet," he said today, "is in the constellation of Cepheus, one of the Polar constellations. It is moving toward the southwest, but cannot be seen with the naked eye."

"Its size I estimated to be about eight and one-half magnitudes. A comet of sixth magnitude is visible to person with normal eyesight."

Gambling Losses Probed As Cline In Denver Crime

DENVER, Feb. 22. (AP)—In the reported gambling activities of Charles Boettcher II, police sought today a clue to the identity of kidnapers of the 31-year-old heir to a fortune, abducted from the door of his home garage nine days ago and held for $60,000 ransom.

O. E. Stevens, alias Charles Belmont, said by police to be the operator of two gambling resorts near Colorado Springs, was arrested last night. Police Chief Albert T. Clark described Stevens' arrest as an important step in the solution of the abduction.

"We do not think Stevens took part in the actual kidnaping," Clark said, "but we feel he has valuable information as to the identity of the kidnapers."

Detective Captain William J. Armstrong said Stevens had admitted young Boettcher was a frequent visitor at one of his gambling resorts and that he had lost a considerable sum of money.

The detective said Stevens informed him Boettcher had given him $10,000 for $1,200 to cover gambling losses and that the money was not all repaid until nearly a year later. Armstrong said he had information leading him to believe the amount lost was close to $20,000.

"Stevens and his associates were in a position to know the financial status of the Boettcher family and to keep in fairly close touch with his movements without attracting too much attention," Armstrong said. "We feel that arrest of Stevens is a long step in solving this crime."

ROBBERS SOUGHT FORT WORTH, Feb. 22. (AP)—That the masked trio who robbed a mail clerk and railway employe of seven pouches of mail received their "tip-off" from Dallas and probably returned to that city after the holdup was the theory upon which detectives were working here today.

Baseball Goods Too Expensive, Says Mr. Morse

By BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer, Manager Happ Morse of the Dallas Steers suggests a measure he believes will aid in restoring baseball to popularity with young Americans.

"It seems," said Morse, "that each person has a guaranteed cure for the ailments of baseball but when tried these remedies fail. My suggestion may not be worth the words, but I firmly believe one reason young Americans today fail to go in for baseball is because equipment is entirely too expensive for them. Kids simply can't afford to pay $2.25 for an official league ball that once could be bought for $1.25. They can't walk into a store and pay $2 for a good bat that once sold for 75 cents and retain the spirit of the game."

"Athletic goods, particularly in baseball, are no cheaper today than eight years ago. There was a time when the kids could purchase a baseball, bat and cap for a small outlay. Today, it takes a lot of cash for such a small quantity of equipment."

"Reduce prices on baseball equipment. Give the kids a real official league baseball and real bats for smaller prices. The popularity of the game has always been fostered among the kids on the corner lots, not the filling stations now on the corner lots. I believe more firms would organize and back amateur baseball teams if athletic goods were cheaper."

Wheat Crop About Half at Crowell

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 22. (AP)—The wheat crop in San Angelo, Hamlin, Crowell, and Chillicothe territory is about 50 per cent of normal, estimates Ralph Trolinger of the Panhandle & Santa Fe railroad. Little or no damage was done the crop by the freeze but lack of rain in the fall caused much of it to die. Hence, there will be a larger cotton acreage.

Farmers made money on cotton last year. They made little or nothing on feed, it is said.

About 95 per cent of the cotton crop has been moved out and it will be gone by March 1. There is yet some scattered picking.

Amarillo Now Has 2 Texas Rangers

AMARILLO, Feb. 22. (AP)—Two Texas rangers have been stationed in Amarillo under the new administration. Both are Amarillo men.

John T. Graves and C. T. Vanderpool, both former deputy sheriffs in Potter county, have opened an office and installed equipment for fingerprinting and photographing criminals. The identification bureau will be the only one in this section since the city of Amarillo recently discontinued this department of its law enforcement organization.

Graves and Vanderpool are members of the headquarters company, under Captin R. W. Aldrich, Austin.

'Unite and Fight' Says Dry Poling

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the World Christian Endeavor Union, said today that dry strategy now is "unite and fight."

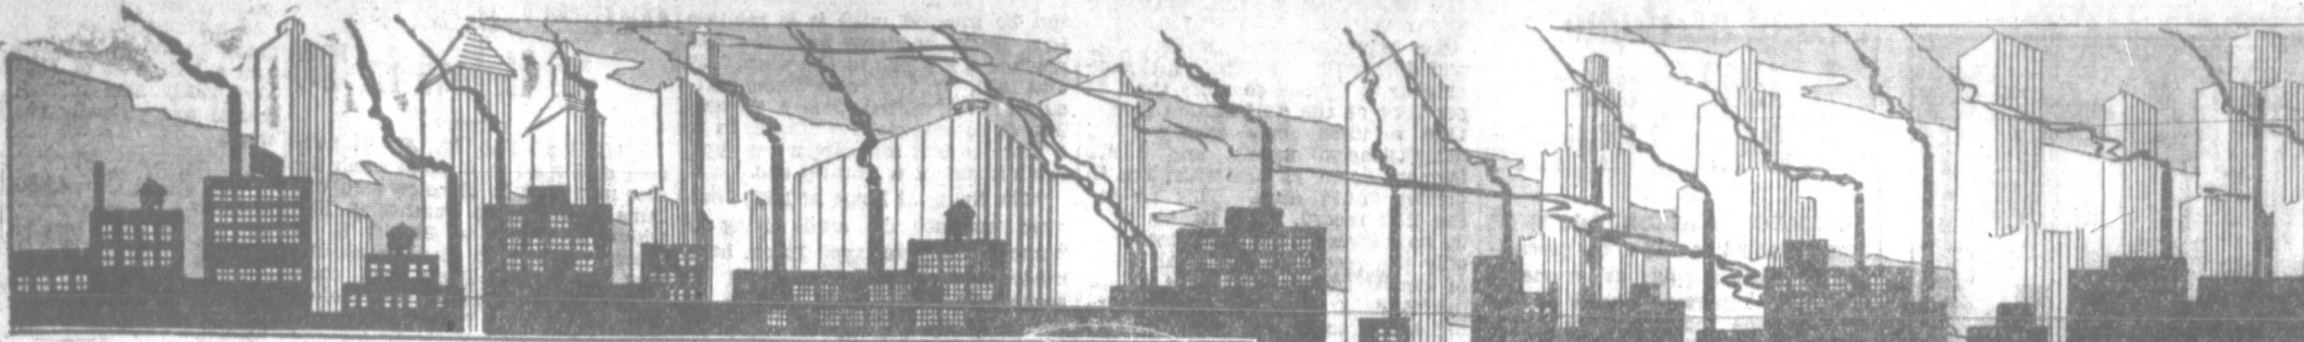

"The wets have made the issue naked repeal with no alternative," he said in a statement. "Overconfident from victories, real and fancied, they have thrown down their hands. Time will show. There will be more dries in the United States two years from now than there are today, and still more dries four years from now."

"Whatever the mistake of dry strategy in the past—and I am one who believes that the present situation could have been avoided—make no mistake about dry strategy now. It is fight. Fight in 48 states, fight in 13 states. Fight in one state, but fight. Unite and fight. Fight all the time. Fight everywhere."

Brass Cooking Vessel Plowed Up By Farmer

LUBBOCK, Feb. 22. (AP)—An ancient brass cooking vessel, believed to be of Spanish, or possibly Aztec, origin, was exhibited in Lubbock by C. R. Moore, Hale county resident, who plowed it up on his farm about 10 miles northwest of Plainview. The vessel is about 10 inches in diameter at the top and 12 at the bottom with legs about 15 inches high.

Moore brought it here to show to Dr. W. C. Holden of Texas Tech for his opinion on its origin and possible age. The latter said he thought it probably was of Spanish design, and might have been lost by one of the Spanish expeditions that crossed the Panhandle plains in the 16th or 18th centuries.

The pot is of brass in two sections hammered together. At several places it is possible to see how the upper and lower parts were joined.

"The lower section is much heavier metal than the upper," Moore said. "You can see where it was notched and then hammered together until it is one solid piece."

Hot Coals Used To Torture Man

CLOVIS, N. M., Feb. 22. (AP)—Two bandits who burned Lee Marshall, 50-year-old homesteader, to death, tortured him with hot coals before they saturated his clothing with gasoline and set it afire. Everett M. Grantham, district attorney, said today.

Grantham said his investigation showed that the bandits tied Marshall by his feet to a raft in his dugout near Logan and placed hot coals on the floor a few inches from his head. They tried, Grantham said, to "sweat" the homesteader into telling where his money was hidden.

When their first effort failed, the men strung Marshall by his hands and put his feet in hot coals. After several minutes they took him down and then set him afire with gasoline. The fire blazed high enough to singe the frayed ends of a cotton rope that was over one raft and drew the raft to the upright post several feet from where the homesteader lay.

Grantham returned to Quay county this morning to continue his investigation. He planned to search for finger prints in the dugout.

HOGS GET MILK IN STRIKE

AS ONE WISCONSIN dairyman reported he was shot at by strikers as he was trucking his products to market, thousands of others in Wisconsin and Illinois are adhering to the strike decree and keeping their milk from midwest distributors. Many are pouring milk down sewers and feeding it to hogs, as shown in the picture, above, taken on a Wisconsin farm. Below are a group of dairy-men near Milwaukee playing cards to pass the time, while their trucks and separators stand idle. The strike was called for a general increase in price of their products.

FIFTEEN STATES START ACTION TO CALL REPEAL CONVENTIONS; FIVE STATES CALLED 'HOPELESS'

By JAMES P. SELVAGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Fifteen states, spurred on by a desire to be first, today definitely had out on the road toward repeal on the prohibition amendment a few hours after congress put the question before them.

Franklin D. Roosevelt gave his encouragement within a few moments after the house had spoken with a fifteen vote margin to let the people decide whether prohibition should prevail as the law of the land after 13 years of trial and controversy.

But with his expressed gratification at the action of the house in concurring with the senate, the president-elect interpolated a further hope that the present congress in its dying days would fulfill another democratic platform pledge by legalizing beer.

Enough legislatures are in session now to set up the conventions necessary to strip all liquor legislation from the constitution except that provided for in the new amendment — protection for dry states against importation of intoxicants.

Forty-two legislatures are now meeting and two more—California and Florida—convene in the spring. Only four—Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia and Kentucky—will not meet for a year or more.

Wyoming was away out ahead for its legislature has already

PARISH A FUGITIVE

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Frank P. Parish, once head of the $35,000,000 Missouri-Kansas Pipeline company, became a fugitive from justice today. U. S. District Judge John P. Barnes ordered a $5,000 bond forfeited when Parish failed to appear to answer a government motion for an increase in bond and the defendant's attorney repeated to the court his information that Parish, rather than face a trial for mail fraud, had gone into "voluntary exile."

passed and the governor has signed a bill to provide for the constitutional convention.

Other states in which action was begun in some quarter yesterday are Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Wisconsin, Georgia, New Jersey, West Virginia, Arizona, Missouri, Delaware, California, Michigan, Iowa, and Pennsylvania.

Rufus S. Lusk, legislative representative of the crusaders, a wet organization, said it would "be easier to name the dry states than the wet states."

He named as "almost hopeless for the wets" Kansas, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Nebraska. He described as "doubtful" Alabama, Vermont, Maine and Idaho, but claimed all other states for the wet column.

Living at Home In 1932 Reached Record Figures

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 22. (AP)—Home production and home processing of meat stands out as one of the most important phases of the live-at-home movement on Texas farms, Roy W. Snyder, meat specialist of the Texas A. & M. college extension service, points out in a report on the growth of this work in Texas for 1932.

In 1930 Texas had considerably less than a million hogs, Mr. Snyder's survey sets forth. In 1932 there were approximately 1,500,000 hogs and during this same interval home butchering spread to more than 75 per cent of the half-million farms. One hundred forty county farm demonstration agents and 18,875 farmers acted as demonstrators in curing 53,044 hogs. This trebled the 1931 record. The figures cited do not represent the grand total but only the record of the small army of demonstrators who have shown the "A. & M. way" of home butchering and processing.

"Not in 50 years," says Mr. Snyder in his report, "have so many Texas farms produced and processed so much food for home consumption as in 1932. Striking as this statement may sound, its full significance cannot be grasped until it is realized that living at home activities had reached a low ebb in the years 1929 and 1930. In two years Texas agriculture has shifted from a specialized or commercial farming basis to a more or less self-supporting type, reminiscent of a century ago.

"The living at home of 1932, however, was not the crude living at home of 100 years ago. It has been modernized, planned, widened in scope and variety, and speeded up to staggering proportions. In this fundamental shift of a great basic industry, the revival of home production and home processing of meat stands out as one of the most interesting and important phases, the report stated.

Dalhart Mercury 26 Below in '98

DALHART, Feb. 22. (AP)—The recent cold spell in Dalhart when the mercury went to 26 below zero was tame compared to weather in 1898 when, according to Sheriff R. L. Queen, Channing, the temperature was 26 below. Queen had come to the north plains the year before with the Capital Syndicate. Cattle then could drift into the brakes and losses were high, but now, fenced onto the high plains, they would have little chance to survive, he believes.

Old-timers in Dalhart recollect the coldest weather immediately prior to this year being in 1911 when the mercury dropped to 18 below. Snow on the Rock Island cut a mile and a half west of Dalhart was 30 feet deep and pioneers say rail traffic was virtually paralyzed for a week.
