PRICE FIVE CENTS

TWINKLES The current legislature ought to go down in history as the "whoopie session." With Jimmy said, it is opening the way to personal liberty liberalism which most dyed-in-the-wool church folk call hell-raisin'.

We are loath to report a rift less to Dan Gribbon at the 19th hole in the Lions-Kiwanis-Rotary tournament. About the only alibi we have is that our caddy was an "enemy" old man, A. L. Patrick, who said "fines" every time we drove into a ditch.

Doc Goldston had it over both of us, but how he can miss 'em when he tries hard enough. What puzzles us is that we lost although we admittedly won more holes than either of them. Anyway, there was fun for all and the scores were so close everybody wants another try.

The difference between Governor Ferguson and Mr. Roosevelt is that Congress don't know what it is going to pass and Mrs. Ferguson has little idea what she is going to sign.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES

A. W. Anderson in Curry County News (Clovis): Movement of unrest and radicalism are not part of the nation's current of thought and feeling, but merely eddies along the edges of the stream, formed by fast moving action. As other markets have improved, the market on confidence is strong in America.

A good meal silences much radicalism, but we are in the midst of a social-political revolution in which radicalism evolved bloodlessly, will be written into permanent institutions.

STUDENT THINKING.

John White in Friona Star: I will have to take "back water" in regard to my guess that the 1933 graduating class was not doing any thinking. Anyone who sat and viewed and listened to the program can have little doubt about these young people doing good, progressive thinking.

You learned a good lesson, John. These young folk have done a lot of thinking, and they are going to think a lot more before they adjust themselves to conditions.

MISPLACED PUNISHMENT

David M. Warren in Panhandle Herald: The latest example of sleight of hand tax shifting is the action of the U. S. house of representatives in voting to shift the present 3 per cent electricity tax from the consumers to the producing companies. On every hand you see the tendency to develop the idea that the man who owns something in the shape of stocks or bonds is a bad citizen; that is, he must have robbed his neighbor or be keeping something away from a needy person. The fact that a man or woman worked and slaved to save the money to put into a share of electric company stock and earn a dividend is seldom given consideration. This is a hypocritical process. It will either confiscate the investment of millions of people from the standpoint of legitimate earnings or it will require higher rates for electricity, which the consumer will pay. But, in the meantime, the politician serves his own purpose of shifting the tax load, but not reducing it one penny.

Utility promoters and expanders won punishment for themselves and more for operating companies than the latter deserved. The problem is one of extremes and excesses.

THOSE FIRE BUGS

Homer Steen in Floydada Hesperian: The American people are paying $200 a minute—$198,000 per day—for arson. In periods of depression it increases amazingly. Home fires have increased 40 per cent in the last 18 months. The professional arsonist has no regard for human or animal life. And he who tries to burn his way out of a financial strait.

WOULD ASSIST IN PUNISHING AN AGGRESSOR

WILL NOT INSIST UPON NEUTRALITY WHEN WAR THREATENS

DAVIS STATES POSITION

AMERICA IS READY TO PARTICIPATE IN DISARMAMENT

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt's peace message was translated into a program of action at the disarmament conference today when the United States virtually offered to abandon its traditional policy of isolation.

Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, told the nations of the world that his government would consult with them when peace is menaced. If the United States agrees with the other countries concerning the identity of an aggressor nation, he promised that Washington will refrain from any action of a nature to hinder collective efforts to restore peace.

This doctrine, considered by League of Nations circles as an abandonment of America's traditional policy of isolation, was announced by Mr. Davis to the disarmament conference in an eagerly-awaited speech at afternoon. The doctrine was taken to mean that when the nations take punitive measures against an aggressor the United States, if it agrees to the identity of the aggressor, will not insist upon the right of neutrality.

Defines Aggressor. Mr. Davis also announced that the United States advocates a system of control and supervision of armaments and said that American readiness to participate in measures for this control would be effective, automatic and permanent.

Inferentially opposing brusque revision of treaties the American ambassador-at-large urged the maintenance of the territorial status quo. He revealed that his country defines an aggressor as one whose armed forces are found upon foreign territory in violation of treaties.

He also announced that the United States is opposed to the resumption of any nation and declared in favor of the abolition of offensive arms. He reiterated American acceptance of Premier Ramsay MacDonald's recent disarmament proposals. "To cut the power of offense and remove the threat of surprise attack would do more than anything else to lessen the danger of war," Mr. Davis said.

If substantial reductions in armaments are agreed upon, he continued, the United States is prepared to contribute in other ways to the organization of peace. "In particular," he explained, "we are willing to consult with other states in case of a threat to peace with the view to averting conflict."

Boys Will Go To Camporal Friday In School Buses

Bus transportation for 200 Pampa Boy Scouts to the camporal at Bear-to-Nature park near Morse May 26-28 has been arranged, it was announced this morning.

The buses will be at the high school gymnasium at 12:30 Friday. Trucks will be used to carry the baggage. Each Scout is required to roll and tie his baggage and have it ready for placing on this truck. The boys may wear old clothes, but must have their uniforms or clean garments along for the reviews.

There will be no costs to the boys except for their food and baggage, and the various troops are organizing to reduce these to a minimum. The baby troop at the camporal will be one from Texhoma, which has just been registered and will have 10 boys in camp.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The Peyster-Wagner bill to set up a national employment service coordinated with state services was reported unanimously today by the house labor committee.

THE LAW AND THE RACKETEERS

THE LAW'S GRIP, tightening up on racketeers, has made their operations more hazardous and less profitable. In Chicago, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney is directing a reform of so-called "outlaw" unions to stop the flow of millions into the hands of gangsters there. In New York, Charley Phil Rosenberg has been sentenced to the penitentiary on charges of racketeering in poultry.

Al Capone, listed as Chicago's "public enemy No. 1," is now in federal prison. Larry Fay, whose name has been linked with alleged rackets in New York, has been slain. Murray Humphreys is reported to have succeeded to some of the power formerly attributed to Capone in Chicago. Capone and Fay are listed among gangland's "pioneers." In other parts of the country, the depression and aggressive prosecution are making other changes in the lineup.

NOT A SINGLE BID RECEIVED ON ROAD JOB

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—Racketeers, composing brigand organizations which extort an annual toll estimated in billions from legitimate business in this country, have fallen into sudden chaos.

Frightened by sweeping attacks from federal and state prosecutors and attempting to stave off bankruptcy threatened by a depression in illegal liquor traffic, gang leaders are branching into new fields in a frenzied effort to continue the flow of easy money into their pockets.

Racket Leaders Changing. As the rackets change in character so the racket leaders are giving way to new regiments.

The throne of Al Capone in Chicago is reputed to have been taken over by Murray Humphreys.

With the slaying of Larry Fay and many of his cohorts, the "conspiracy to extort" business in New York has been carried on by younger leaders, typical of whom is former bantamweight champion Charley Phil Rosenberg. He has just received a 3-year sentence for racketeering tactics in the Bronx poultry markets.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings has ordered an inquiry into evidence of racketeering in New York's fish market and trucking industries. These two businesses and the poultry and milk dealers are said to be the chief contributors to the annual bill of more than $300,000,000 which the state crime commission estimates this city pays yearly to gangsters.

Burglars Take 291 Gallons of Continental Oil

Burglars entered the Continental Oil company's wholesale depot on East Tying street last night and removed five and one-half 53-gallon barrels of oil, according to Frank Keim, manager, who made a check of the losses this morning and reported to officers, who started an immediate investigation.

Entry was gained by twisting a large padlock off the front door. The office was not entered and no attempt was made to remove any gasoline.

Officers believe the oil was loaded into a trailer, stolen early last night from D. L. Brown at the corner of Thut and Ballard streets.

Petty thieving broke out again in the north part of the city according to reports received at the police station this morning. DeLea Vicars, 303 North Frost street, reported the loss of 50 feet of hose.

Entry was gained by twisting a large padlock off the front door. The office was not entered and no attempt was made to remove any gasoline.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The Roosevelt bill authorizing reciprocal tariff concessions was practically ready today for submitting to congress, and Secretary Hull expects it to go forward before long.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—A resolution saying "we deeply regret and earnestly deplore the fact the president has used the influence and power of his office for the repeal of the 18th amendment" was circulated today among delegates of the Southern Baptist convention with a view to action tonight.

AUSTIN, May 22 (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today approved the Daniel Hill levying a tax of two cents per barrel on oil and provision for an intangible assets tax on pipelines.

Mother of Five Kills Spouse In Beer Argument

HOUSTON, May 22 (AP)—A domestic quarrel about a husband's late hours led to a shooting today in which Wesley A. Rice, 43, car inspector and sign painter for the Houston Belt and Terminal railroad, was killed by his wife, Mrs. Dora J. Rice, who was charged with murder.

Mrs. Rice, mother of five children, admitted slaying her husband. She told officers she opened fire when he threw a bottle at her through the glass portion of a dining room door and followed that by advancing on her with a hammer.

Mrs. Rice grabbed a single barreled shot gun and fired one time, she told police.

Mrs. Rice said her husband left home Sunday night and came back about 7 a. m. today.

"Instead of eating, he started to drink beer," she said. "We began to argue and I asked him to please stop drinking."

He began throwing bottles at her then, she said, and the shooting followed.

J. M. McDonald and Jim Massa were Amarillo visitors today.

Anti-Trust Law Revision Asked By 'Ma' Ferguson

'Burns' Fears' Action Would Force Abandonment of Allied's Oil Suits.

AUSTIN, May 22 (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today sent the legislature a message proposing revision of the anti-trust laws to give business broader freedom during the existing emergency.

She referred to the legislature a telegram relative to that matter received from United States Senator Morris Sheppard and a resolution bearing on the subject adopted by the East Texas and West Texas chambers of commerce.

Senator Sheppard said he and Lawrence Westbrook, director of unemployment relief in Texas, had conferred with General Hugh Johnson, the president's director under the national industrial recovery act. He said General Johnson suggested the Texas legislature pass an act providing that during the present emergency it shall not be unlawful to sue so-called anti-trust laws to the contrary notwithstanding for any Texas citizen or institution to do those things which may be approved by the president in connection with his national industrial recovery program.

"Mr. Westbrook and I concur with General Johnson and trust our legislature will see fit to exercise wisdom and judgment to take prompt action along this line," Senator Sheppard telegraphed Governor Ferguson and she relayed that word to the legislature.

The governor's message was referred to the committee on judiciary in the house.

Representative Gordon Burns of Huntsville said he feared revision of the anti-trust laws to the extent proposed would force abandonment of a suit filed by James V. Allied, attorney general, against 15 oil companies and two petroleum associations for alleged violation of the statutes against trusts and monopolies.

TAX PLAN FOR PUBLIC WORKS BILL ADOPTED

COMMITTEE APPROVES TAX ON GASOLINE AND INCOME

WOULD RAISE LEVIES CORPORATE DIVIDENDS WOULD ALSO BE TAXED

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The house ways and means committee today adopted that part of the administration's tax increase proposals which provides for increased income and gasoline taxes and a levy on corporate dividends.

It is designed to raise a total of $21,000,000 to meet the interest and sinking fund requirements of the proposed $3,300,000,000 bond issue for public works to put thousands back to employment.

It is program number one of the four suggested to the committee by Lewis W. Douglas, the budget director who appeared again today.

Chairman Doughton announced the vote was 13 to 9.

The program is as follows: Increase normal income tax rates from 4 to 6 per cent for the first $4,000 net and from 8 to 10 per cent on larger incomes to bring in $46,000,000 in revenue.

To make corporate dividends subject to the income rates, $83,000,000. Additional tax of 3-4 of one cent a gallon on gasoline, $200,000,000.

The committee rejected effort for a 10 per cent on larger incomes to bring in $46,000,000 in revenue.

Welfare Agency Receives Half Of Allotment

A check for $21,098.50, half the amount allowed Gray county for the first 19 days in May from the R. F. C., was received this morning by C. H. Walker, chairman of the Gray county committee. The money was welcome as work during the last two weeks had to be curtailed through lack of funds.

More than 200 Pampa motorists received their last warnings for violation of the light law last night when state highway officers "went into action." The highway officers came to Pampa for the purpose of arresting and fining every motorist driving without two front lights and a tail light. They were "talked out of making arrests" by Chief Jno. V. Andrews.

The officers agreed to give motorists a warning, but in the future drivers of cars with defective lights will be fined in city court. City Officer Nicholson has been authorized by the state officers to make the arrests and file complaints. The highway officers also said they would make regular visits to Pampa and assist in the clean-up.

Three persons paid fines last night for driving their cars without bulbs in the light sockets.

AMARILLO, May 22 (AP)—C. L. Gathright, local cafe proprietor who was arrested Saturday for selling the new 3.2 beer was charged with a second violation today.

His cafe, from which officers removed more than 80 bottles in first raid, yielded only five today. Gathright said yesterday that he began selling the brew immediately after being raided Saturday but that none was sold on Sunday.

Gathright made a second bond of $750 on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquors for sale.

"SPLENDID ISOLATION COMES TO AN END"

When President Roosevelt addressed himself to the people of the world on disarmament, America's famous tradition of "splendid isolation" went toppling over into the dust, and it seems probable that it will stay there.

As a matter of fact, of course, this splendid isolation toppled years ago. But the tradition remained, and was what caused trouble. We had a tradition to which we gave almost unanimous support, and it failed to jibe with the facts. To support it meant that we had to shut our eyes to the realities.

We were fond of talking—and acting—as if the Atlantic ocean was just as wide now as a century ago. We laid our international course on charts drawn up in the days of sailing ships and stage coaches; and when we steered ourselves into trouble we wondered, plaintively, why fate was being so unkind.

Nineteen years ago Europe got into a war, and before it was over we got into it also—although we're still trying to figure out just what we gained by it.

Since the war Europe has packed a century of troubles into a decade and a half; and a good many of them have slopped over the edges and spilled right on us. The Bolshevism of Russia, the rivalry between France and Germany, the tangled finances of Europe as a whole, the trade wars growing out of the post-war mixup, the need of foreign nations for American money and, later, their inability to pay that money back—all of these things have had a tremendous direct effect on the conditions of life for each one of us.

In the face of those uncomfortable facts, our tradition of isolation has had a thin time of it.

We are as close to Europe today as the England of Pitt was to the France of Napoleon. Not only is it impossible for us to remain aloof from European quarrels; we cannot even restore our own internal prosperity as we would wish to until Europe's most pressing problems are settled. We have, when you get right down to it, about as much real isolation as much real isolation as a traffic cop on a busy corner.

Well, then—so what? Won't it be a good thing if at last we accept the realities of the situation and do what we can to set things right? If we must make commitments overseas, let us make them and be done with it. However it turns out, we shall at least be looking the facts in the face.

DYING WORDS OF WIFE TO FORM BASIS OF SHEPARD'S LAST PLEA TO ESCAPE LIFE IMPRISONMENT

DENVER, Colo., May 22 (AP)—The dying words of Mrs. Zanena Shepard, strongest link in the chain of evidence which brought Major Charles E. Shepard, army tuberculosis expert, a life sentence for uricidic, will form the basis of his appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

Over defense objections in the major's trial before a jury in Kansas federal court, a nurse was permitted to testify that Mrs. Shepard declared her husband had poisoned her.

Shepard, free on bond and on active duty at Fitzsimons General hospital here, recently was granted a stay of execution of the high court which would make a rehearing of his case by the circuit court of appeals mandatory.

In one of the west's most sensational trials, a jury found that Shepard administered poison to his wife in the form of medicine, so that he might be free to marry Miss Grace Brandon, young and vivacious army stenographer of San Antonio, Texas.

The nurse who testified regarding Mrs. Shepard's dying accusation also asserted Major Shepard permitted no one save himself to administer to his wife.

Should the supreme court find prejudicial error in admission of the nurse's testimony, the case will be reheard by the tenth circuit court of appeals, and in case of a similar finding by the appellate court, the major's fate would be referred once more to a Kansas federal tribunal.

In the event the supreme court finds no error, Shepard must surrender within 40 days to begin serving his life sentence in a federal penitentiary.

STUDENT DROWNS

GALVESTON, May 22 (AP)—The body of Mack Thomas, 22, sophomore medical student at the University of Texas, was recovered Saturday from the gulf near the spot where he went down yesterday while swimming with friends. Red Cross life savers, aided by an airplane, found the body after a 24-hour search. Thomas was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Thomas of Wichita Falls.

Turf Situation Now In Tangle

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—The three-year-old turf championship, thought to have been at the mercy of Mrs. Sillas B. Mason's Head Play, now is a wide open affair as a result of Head Play's disappointing showing in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday.

The Wood was run over a mile and 70 yards, a much shorter distance than either the Preckness or the Kentucky Derby, with Head Play giving weight to three rivals, but the way he ran either Mrs. James M. Austin's Mr. Khayyam, the winner, or H. C. Phipps' De Valera, the second place horse, could have conceded weight to the Kentucky colt and still led him to the judges' stand. At the finish Head Play was seven lengths back of Mr. Khayyam and trailed De Valera by four.

Both Mrs. Mason and trainer Tom Hayes naturally were disappointed at the colt's showing but they announced they would go ahead with the schedule planned. The colt leaves Jamaica for Chicago where he will go into training for the $25,000 American derby at Washington Park, June 3. Other immediate engagements include the Latonia derby by the latter part of June and the $35,000 classic at Arlington Park in July.

SCARLET SLIPPER
LORN and Tally had drifted into the chilly parlor again, and Sue had made some excuse about taking off her coat and was also coming upstairs. I did not wait for her until I had passed beyond the gallery and into the corridor and thus was beyond the range of vision of anyone on the first floor.

When we reached the little niche in the corridor I stopped. There was no one in sight; we were visible from only one or two doors, and they were closed; not even a policeman was to be seen up and down the length of the shadowy deserted corridor.

"Now then," I said, "tell me all about the token."
"But I don't know," said Sue in what was almost a wail. "It is just gone. And I thought it was so safe."
"When did you lose it?"
"Sometime last night."
"You don't mean anyone got into your room during the night?"
I was frightened. I had her by the arm, gripping it so hard that she winced.

"Oh, no, no! The door was locked and bolted all night."
"When, then?" I asked, only a little relieved.
"I don't know. I looked at it—the token, you know—yesterday about noon. Last evening after dinner you told me the priest had been in my room, but the place where I—where I had hidden the token—"
"Your slipper," I said grimly.
"What?"
"Of course. One of your scarlet slippers with the silver heels. It was probably in a hollow in the heel."
"But you—how could you know that?"
I hated taking time, especially when it was so simple.

"Oh, you wore them so much—wore them that first night when you had been out to walk on the bridge—would you wear scarlet evening slippers with narrow high heels for a walk along cobblestones unless there was a reason?" I was impatient.
"But I didn't wear them in the daytime," she protested.
"Naturally not," I said. "But there wasn't so much danger then—or you probably thought there was not. Or perhaps you removed it during the daytime. Or perhaps it was very well hidden. Go on—when did you discover it had been stolen?"
She looked at me a moment before she said: "It was well hidden. I felt safe about it—when I glanced at it (it was in the heel of the right slipper)—it showed no signs of being tampered with. I thought I could have told at once if it had been removed."
"So I said the priest had taken nothing from my room. I only discovered it late last night. I felt I must be sure, of course—and I opened the heel and the token was gone."

"WHAT did you do?"
"Nothing. There was nothing I could do then. Everyone had gone to bed; I—I was afraid to venture out into the black corridors." She shivered, and I said quickly, taking a long breath at the thought of what might have happened had she done so:
"That was right."
I felt rather as if I had walked without knowing it to the very edge of a precipice and only looked down at the last step. Suppose she'd gone out into the corridors—murder-haunted—black—

"That was right!" I repeated inadequately. Then that feeling of urgency, that there was not much time, nudged me, and I went on: "But you should have told us at once this morning."
She hesitated, looking at me with steady but troubled eyes.
"But I couldn't tell Lorn."
"Couldn't—oh—oh, I see. After all, he's in the employ of your brother."

So that was why the priest was murdered. He had had the token, and someone knew he had it and murdered him. A small incident in the list for that waiting gold.
This left three possibilities—that is, if we granted that the priest had stolen the token, and I thought he was safe in doing that—first, the murderer had taken it from the priest, and it was in his possession.
Second, it had been on the body of the priest, and the police now had it; this I thought was highly probable, as the murderer had had hours after the priest's death to search the body unobserved. Parenthetically I thought of the hideously uneasy night I had passed trying to sleep in that death-haunted wing.
The third possibility was that the priest had hidden the token successfully or had passed it immediately to a possible accomplice; this last was, also, unlikely.
"Do you want to tell me what it is?" I asked rather diffidently.
"You mean you want to try to find it again for me?"
She considered this gravely.

"It's rather dangerous knowledge," she said at last. "And I must be able to tell Francis that I have kept it a complete secret. That, of course, is the pressing thing. I didn't intend to ask you to find it for me. I think that's rather a hopeless task now."
"And besides—I have already placed you in too much danger. The thing I wanted to talk to you about is what to do now. What to tell Francis. Oh, it's—it's so dreadfully ironical. If he'd only got here one day sooner. He's waiting now, I suppose. He hinted that when we returned from interviewing the police we would go into what he called the—'formalities.' He means, of course, the token."
It was true that that was the urgent and immediate thing, how to meet Francis' inquiries at that moment. To tell him lamely that the thing had been stolen but that we were searching for it would be to convince Francis once and for all that Sue was only another impostor.
"You'll have to bluff your brother. Get the papers from Lovschien; make him hand them over; give those to your brother to digest. Then refuse to show your own token until he shows you his—I gather they are identical? The chances are he will be reluctant to show his. He'll be afraid it is a trap. However, you'll hold out; you'll say you also are afraid of a trap—or rather you'll indicate it tactfully. Don't hesitate for an instant. Be firm and cool and sure of yourself."
"Yes, I can do that," said Sue.
And it was true; she could—no one better.

"But suppose—suppose he believes me—suppose he is ready to match his token with mine. Suppose, she said with a ghost of a smile which did not lighten the tense look in her eyes and the taut line around her mouth, "suppose he calls my bluff?"
"He won't," I said with more confidence than I felt. "He'll want to think about it a while—talk it over with Lorn. And in the meantime perhaps—"
Her eyes quickened, and she grasped at the hint that I had not intended to convey.
"Do you mean—" she whispered—"that you—that perhaps—that you know something—are on the trail of—"
"No, no," I said at once. "I've only a faint notion. Don't bank on it. Don't hope for anything. I mean it. I'm counting on Lorn and Lorn only. Unless the Paris detectives get here first."
It had not convinced her. I could see by the eager, questioning look in her eyes that it had not. I felt vaguely embarrassed, for I pretended to no ability as a detective.
Still, two and two make four, by whomsoever added. It was the uncertainty of the digits that troubled me. (Copyright 1933 Mignon G. Eberhart)

GREAT POWERS REACH ACCORD IN WAR PACT

NO RECOMMENDATIONS ARE PROVIDED FOR DISARMAMENT

ROME, May 22. (AP)—Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy have swung into line in support of Premier Mussolini's plan for the maintenance of European peace for 10 years, untrammelled by desires to force their will on any other nation.

Its main points: (1) Collaboration among the four powers to preserve peace for 10 years, without intention to impose any solution on any smaller nations. (2) The statement that post-war treaties revision is a possibility, but only under article 16 of the covenant of the League of Nations.

The preamble stated the pact was based on the League covenant, the Briand-Kellogg pact and the four-power "no force" agreement of last December which guaranteed German arms equality after a serious misunderstanding in the disarmament conference.

Forest Ignited By Burning and Crumbling Peak

DURANGO, Colo., May 22. (AP)—Carbon mountain, Colorado's pseudo volcano has ignited a forest.

Belching flames and gas, the Rocky mountain peak, which has attracted both curious and scientific by its disintegrating over a period of months, covered the countryside under a heavy blanket of smoke.

The pyrotechnical display of the peak started last night after rumblings and a loud explosion were heard.

Soon after the explosion the gas started issuing from a fissure 315 feet wide near the top of the peak and flames were seen. The nearby forest quickly caught fire.

The blast also started new avalanches and thousands of tons of dirt and boulders crashed down the peak into the valley. Persons who attempted to approach the fissure were driven back by the avalanches.

The fire, which was high up on the mountain, could not be seen from the highway which skirts the base of the peak.

The timber fire was on private ground and authorities said they did not believe it would cause extensive damage.

Carbon mountain's peak started breaking apart last December. Huge cracks appeared first and then avalanches started. One side of the mountain fell away and the cracks widened. Several weeks ago explosions and rumblings were heard and gas came from the fissures but last night was the first time flames were seen.

Geologists said the mountain probably is resting on a huge bed of coal which caught fire and that the entire mountain eventually may crumble and burn.

RACKETS

to eliminate the $180,000,000 which the Chicago Employers' association estimates will go into the hands of gangsters of that city this year.

Federal authorities have moved in full force into New Jersey to examine evidence that many 32 beer breweries are controlled by "public enemies."

The situation has reached the attention of congress, with Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York introducing a resolution before the commerce committee to inquire into racketeering in beer, milk and other fields, recommending legislation to eradicate the evil.

Detroit Inquiry Started. Detroit has an inquiry under way following reports that rum runners are trying to move in on the legal beer business, but officials report that the city is more free of gangdom influence than it has been in six years.

Federal authorities, among whom was Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, gave the racketeer machine a severe setback when they obtained conviction to break up the notorious Purple Gang three years ago.

Federal authorities have been and are achieving results with their four way attack against "public enemies" for income tax evasion, kidnaping crimes, interstate commerce violations and abuses of the 32 beer law.

The chief income of racketeers until this year was derived from illegal traffic in beer and spirits. The Wickersham report estimated that gangsters were receiving between 2 and 3 billion dollars a year from this source.

Turn To Other Fields. When the depression stopped much of this illegal liquor income, there was a search for other fields.

came an increase of reports of racketeering in other fields, such as kidnaping and extortion from industries and coercion of labor organizations to levy dues on individual workers.

Prosecutors found themselves against a terrific problem in attempting to forestall this new and growing form of racketeering. With their mobs of bombers, acid tossers, strong arm sluggers and machine gunners the gang leaders employed weapons of strikes, boycotts and violence to frighten their victims into submission.

In several instances lately victims have been persuaded to come forward and give evidence. Harassed by threats and financially unable to any longer to pay tribute to racketeers, their indignation is overcoming their fear so that more and more they are cooperating with prosecutors.

THE factory that makes millions of tires for America's leading cars. The only important difference between Riversides and other famous tires is price. Ward's prices are 10% lower. What's more, Riversides are guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction. When I heard that, I put them on my Lincoln and I've been using them ever since. ONLY THREE POINTS SEPARATE WINNERS FROM LOSERS IN CLUB GOLF MEET

KIWANIS CLUB IS VICTOR IN MERRY EVENT

LIONS AND ROTARIANS TIE, EACH MAKING 17 POINTS

CIVIC club golf supremacy was in the hands of Pampa Kiwanis today after yesterday's three-way tournament over the 18 holes of the Country club course.

Kiwanians amassed 20 points, counting each player's victory over another clubman as one point, while the Lions and Rotarians were tied at 17 points each.

The clubmen made it a gala occasion, with non-players caddyding for members of opposing clubs and giving helpful (?) suggestions. But so close was the play that the outcome was uncertain until the final threesome had reported. Another tournament to afford a greater margin of victory for some club will doubtless be announced soon.

The point winners follow: KIWANIS—E. M. Conley 1, R. M. Johnson 1, J. H. Buckingham 1, Dan McGraw 1, E. S. Vickers 1, Fred Thompson 2, Max Mahaffey 2, Ben Reno 1, Frank Carter 1, E. W. Voss 2, Jack Goldstein 1, A. B. Goldstein 2, G. L. Stine 2, E. C. Sidwell 2, total 20.

ROTARY—Tom Perkins 2, Tom Rose 2, Odus Mitchell 2, Hamp Brown 2, Philip Pond 1, Delea Vickers 1, C. T. Hunkapillar 1, A. H. Doucette 2, Dan Gibbons 1, Farris Olsen 1, H. D. Keys 1, Earl O'Keefe 1, total 17.

LIONS—Mack Graham 1, Dr. H. H. Hicks 2, R. G. Allen 1, Clarence Barrett 2, Clyde Fatheree 2, Gilmore N. Gunn 2, J. E. Duncan 2, Charlie Thut 2, Ramon Wilson 1, Roy Wight 2, total 17.

The event was notable for the large number of new combinations in golfing, with many men playing for the first time this year. Unfamiliarity with the back nine of the course was a deciding factor in a number of matches.

Crowning of the caddies for opposing clubmen caused much merriment. Rufe Thompson went so far as to use grease paint.

While there were many scores in the upper 90s and below, several players were "hot". Dr. H. H. Hicks had a 75, Hamp Brown and 80, Tom Perkins 76, Clyde Fatheree 79, R. M. Johnson 83, E. G. Allen 83, Fred Thompson 82, Clarence Barrett 86, Jess Brunley 88, J. H. Buckingham 85, and Odus Mitchell 87.

Frank Sullivan had his tonsils removed yesterday at Pampa hospital.

Qualifying For Tournament To Begin Wednesday

HOUSTON, May 22. (AP)—Texas golfers, all the best ones, have heard that Gus Moreland is off his game. The rumor promises them a new deal, and they trekked into Houston to compete in the 27th annual tournament of the Texas Golf association.

The qualifying round starts Wednesday with the low 32 in the championship flight. Two 18-hole matches will be played each day until the finals Saturday over 36 holes.

Moreland, the uncanny, who has ruled Texas golfers for two years, is sure to find the competition tough. Last year at Texarkana, the defending champion was the whole show. He was medalist and beat W. E. "Shorty" Long of Austin, 10 and 9, in the finals.

If Moreland arrives on the scene with his golf swing intact and his game sound, there will be nothing other entrants to do but shoot their best and trust to luck.

Many arrived yesterday, many played, but none could equal the sub-par 33-34-67 turned in by Willie Maguire, Jr., of Houston, who has enjoyed a dozen or more sub-par rounds the last two weeks. His best was last week's 65. Par on the Houston Country club course is 36-35-71.

Reynolds Smith, diminutive Dallas Lakewood Country club ace, who two weeks ago beat out Moreland, Dennis Lavender, David Goldman, Louis Nowlin and Gordon Young for the Dallas championship, was ready. He toured the layout in 72 strokes, one over par and was the picture of confidence when he walked off the 18th green.

Woman Branded On Arms, Back

DALLAS, May 22. (AP)—Police believe another woman's jealousy motivated the attack on Mrs. Lois Anderson, 18, in which she was rendered unconscious and huge initials, "M. E.," were burned on her back and arms with acid.

According to the story she told police, Mrs. Anderson was walking near the midway in Fair Park Saturday night when she was seized from behind and a moist cloth, presumably saturated with an anesthetic, was forced over her face.

When she regained consciousness, she said she found herself on a bench about 100 yards from the scene of the attack. Her clothes were disarrayed and swollen, red welts marked the places where the acid had burned the letters on her body. The letters on her back were about six inches high, those on her arms four inches.

Mrs. Anderson went directly to her home, near the park, and was brought to Emergency hospital by her husband, E. C. Anderson, 24. Police began search for a woman Anderson said had on several former occasions threatened him.

(No one need fear where people live close to the soil and do their duty as neighbors. But when artificiality prevails, and everybody wants work for everybody else, yet be responsible for nobody but themselves, "man's inhumanity to man" makes countless thousands mourn.)

CARDS' SPURT IS THREAT TO LEADING CLUBS

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer
The St. Louis Cardinals appear to have found a bunch of easy victims in the eastern clubs of the National League or they must be regarded as the up and coming club of the circuit.

It may be the acquisition of Leo Durocher to plug a weak spot in the Cardinals' lineup and the start of Pepper Martin's great hitting streak was just what the cards needed to send them off on the victorious path. The fact remains that since they began playing in the National League last year, they have won 12 games, lost six and have risen from seventh place in the standing to third.

A double triumph over the New York Giants yesterday, 2 to 1 and 6 to 4, left them just a half game behind the second place New York Yankees and 3 1/2 behind the pace setting Pittsburgh Pirates. Pittsburgh, coupled with Boston, had an off day.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, recent holders of third, dropped to fifth place by the sudden comeback of the Chicago Cubs, who beat them twice, 7-6 and 6-3 to run their string to four straight victories.

Cincinnati's Reds gained the fourth spot by splitting a bargain bill with the Phillies. They bunched five hits off Snipe Hansen in the fifth to win 4-2 after bowing to Jim Elliott's six-hit huriling as the Phis took the opener 3-1.

The Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns, leaders of the current western invasion in the American league, staged simultaneous advances in the standings on the fourth spot by expert pitching and some heavy hitting to go with it.

Chicago moved to third place, a few points ahead of the Cleveland Indians, who were idle at Philadelphia, when Walter Miller, veteran flinger, made his first start of the season and set the Washington Senators down with two singles to win 6-0. Al Simmons crashed out two doubles that drove in four Chicago runs. Bumps Easley's fourth hit flung sent the Browns into sixth place as they made it two straight over the New York Yankees 8 to 4.

The Boston Red Sox, scrappy tall center of the circuit, aided the Browns' advance when a former St. Louis flinger, Lloyd Brown, gave them their second straight triumph over Detroit, 2 to 0. Brown pitched six-hit ball and pulled himself out of trouble by brilliant fielding.

SHIPPERS BEAT BUFFS 2 TO 1 IN 11 INNINGS

By GENE SARAZEN
World Champion Golfer
(As Told To Alan Gould)
I go on a diet about two weeks before playing in a national championship, but when the big tournament is on I eat a hearty breakfast, a light lunch and top off the day with a good steak dinner.

By "light" lunch I mean some cold cut and a bottle of beer. One of the things I enjoy most is a cold bottle of beer, between rounds, which reminds me of a story about my last day's play in the 1932 American Open championship.

"Just About Right"
Between the third and fourth rounds I drank two bottles of beer. Bob Jones, a spectator at the tournament, sat at my table. We were discussing the afternoon's chances, and I said to him "If I had another bottle of that I could go around this course 34, but I think 68 will be just about right."

I had to grin at myself for that crack, but, as you will recall, I shot Fresh Meadow that afternoon in exactly 68 strokes, the lowest round in the history of the United States Open, and won the championship.

Avoid Drinking Water
I have always had to take some systematic exercises—at intervals, aside from golf, to keep from taking on extra weight. That tendency is a handicap to many players, especially after the winter months if they have been consistently indoors.

My best tournament weight is around 185 pounds, but I was up around 165 this spring. My good friend, Artie McGovern, the trainer, says I eat too much spaghetti.

I would advise most men to avoid drinking water during a round of golf. It's a temptation to stop at every ice cooler, but it is bad for the body condition. In addition I have found that a big glass of water may add as much as a pound to my weight and make me feel "loggy."

BUCKS' THIRD PLACE IS THREATENED BY MISSIONS

By The Associated Press
The winning streak of the league-leading Houston Buffaloes was broken Sunday when they were defeated, 2 to 1, in an eleven-inning slugfest at Beaumont.

Exporters scored a run in the first inning and Houston tied the count in the second. Then Joe Sullivan, hurrying for Beaumont, and Greer, on the hill for Houston, engaged in a tight pitching duel that ran the game into extra innings.

Sullivan contributed to his opponent's downfall by slapping a clean hit past third to open the winning eleventh inning. Clinton hurled him to second and was safe himself when Greer fumbled the roller.

Fritz also attempted to sacrifice and his greener went for a hit when Greer fielded it slowly. It was Fritz's fourth hit of the day.

With the bases full, Chet Morgan stepped up and drove a single past Stebbins to end the game.

Disaster also struck Galveston Sunday, endangering that club's second place standing in the league. The third place San Antonio Missions took the Buccaneers into camp, 3 to 2, in a game that broke badly for the losers in the ninth inning.

In that inning the Buccaneers hit three times to bring in a score that would have tied the game if it had counted. But it was found that both Tubbs and Governor had batted out of turn. Umpire Ballantyne ruled Governor out for the third down and the run was voided.

Fort Worth split a double-header with Tulsa at Cowtown, winning the first game 3 to 1 and losing the other to the Oilers, 5 to 1.

At Dallas the Steers had one of their batting sprints against the lowly Oklahoma City Indians, winning 6 to 0. The Steers picked out 16 safe hits from the offerings of Gobo Nicholas and Don King, who shared a bad afternoon on the mound for the Indians.

Oliver Elliot of Mobeetie underwent an operation at Pampa hospital last night.

The blouse has the cutest little puffed sleeves and the new bag neckling that pulls up and then the string ties in a bow. TASTE FOR SPINACH TO GO ON INDIVIDUAL RECORDS MADE IN COUNTY CHILD HEALTH ROUNDUP

Dorothy Nell Dean Is Complimented at Party on Birthday

If Junior eats his spinach without dawdling and enjoys having his ears washed, he is partly ready to enter kindergarten or first grade next fall.

These are among the habits to be checked by parents of pre-school children in Gray county as a part of the annual health roundup being conducted this week under the supervision of Miss Olga Buresh, state itinerant nurse, and county Parent-Teacher associations.

Moreover, the six-year-old child should be able to dress himself completely in a short time, be orderly with his clothes, toys, and books, respect the property rights of others, share willingly, take and wait his turn, ask questions frequently to obtain information, and normally tell the truth.

List of Habits.

These are only a few of the habits listed for parents to check. Sixteen on the list concern habits important in physical, and 22 relate to the attitude for social and emotional welfare.

After teachers of beginners in school must take time to train children in habits that should have been formed in pre-school years, Miss Buresh says, and a check shows the parents what is still lacking in their child's training.

Failures in life are due probably as often to mental ill health as to physical, she continues, so the list includes mental and emotional habits as well as physical.

Physical Examinations.

Physical examinations will be given to pre-school children in all school districts of the county, by Miss Buresh and local doctors and nurses. A report on physical defects will be made to parents in the same folder that contains the habit list.

Not only children's habits, but those of the parents are under scrutiny, and 30 questions are included in the check list of parental attitude and technique.

These include such questions as: Are we consistently truthful with the child? Do we refrain from nagging? Do father and mother cooperate and support each other when disciplining the child? Do we falsely blame heredity for most of the child's traits?

Purposes of Roundup.

Purposes of the roundup and the parental questionnaire are listed: To point out remediable defects; to

Girl Quadruplets Are Now "Sweet Girl Graduates"

HOLLIS, Okla., May 22 (AP)—And now the famous Keys quadruplets of Hollis are "sweet girl graduates."

The Keys "babies"—Mary, Leota, Roberta, and Mona—have really grown up. They will celebrate their eighteenth birthday on June 4, just two weeks after their graduation.

More than their share of honors went to the Keys girls in high school days. Roberta was valedictorian of her class, with an average grade of more than 97. Leota was the school's outstanding debater in her junior and senior years. Mary was more than an average student, but she is the "clown" of the quartet, and refuses to be bothered with such uninteresting routine as preparing lessons, while her three sisters all made the honor roll.

Even the graduation exercises were centered about the four girls. Besides the valedictory address by Roberta, they appeared in both vocal and saxophone quartets.

Leading colleges and universities throughout the country have offered the girls scholarships. It has not been decided where they will attend.

Hollis and its high school are going to miss the "Keys quadruplets," as everyone knows them. Besides being popular among fellow-students, they have occupied a central position in the community's entertainment. All of the girls are talented and have had considerable training as public entertainers. Their parents, wanting them to grow up under normal conditions, have objected to long-time contracts.

TWO FAMILIES

THE ARENS FAMILY, 7125 N. PAULINA ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

THINGS are looking up for the Arens family. Mr. Arens' new bottle-cap is selling fast. And out at the curb is the new Standard Plymouth.

Is there a thrill in that? The boys and Mrs. Arens are both keen as they can be about it.

Drive the Standard Plymouth awhile and you forget it is priced as low as the lowest.

Patented Floating Power engine mountings and vibration absorber. Hydraulic brakes are sure.

safe. Bodies are big and roomy with Rigid-X, double-drop frames and safety-steel construction.

See the Standard Plymouth. See how Plymouth matches competition on price and beats them on value. And remember... Standard Plymouth 4-door sedan is the lowest-priced 4-door six.

STANDARD PLYMOUTH SIX $445 AND UP
F. O. B. DETROIT slight extra cost.

THE OAKES FAMILY, 9 W. MELROSE ST., CHEVY CHASE, MD.

MARGARET OAKES is learning to drive. She'll want Plymouth. The heavy car makes Mrs. Oakes nervous. She likes Plymouth, too. But Mr. Oakes drives to his office. Plymouth gets him around faster and easier.

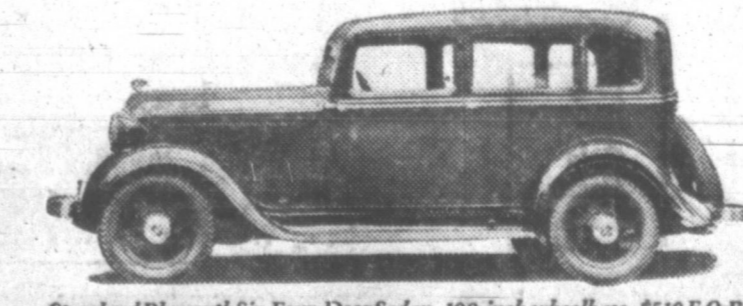

Question: Who gets the car?

It doesn't take long to convert a "heavy car" owner to the De Luxe Plymouth. It's the biggest six in the low-priced field.

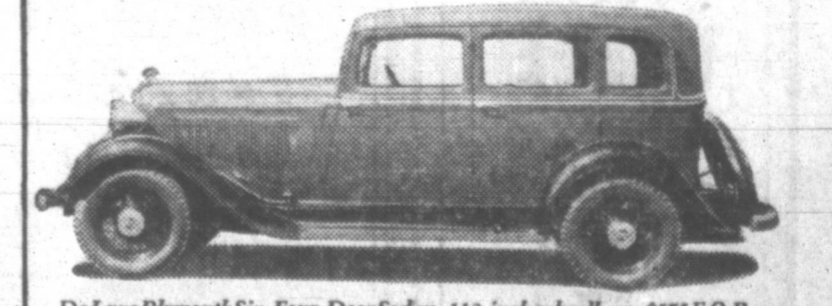

Free Wheeling is one thrill. Floating Power smoothness is another. Transmission is all silent and automatic clutch is only $8 extra. Springs never need oiling... valves go 30,000 miles without grinding... windshields are Duplate Safety plate glass.

Plymouth has the edge on other sixes in 30 places! It would be smart to see it today!

ABDUCTORS ARE SOUGHT AFTER SCREAMS THWART KIDNAPING

UNGLAD PAIR ABANDON GIRL AS BOY YELLS

WOMAN MIGHT BE THE LEADER OF NUDIST
CULT

DENVER, May 22. (AP)—Piercing screams of a brother thwarted the kidnaping of 8-year-old Lee O'Dell by a woman described by the children as nearly nude and a man entirely unclad.

Continuing their investigation of the abduction reported attempted early Sunday morning while the parents of the children were assertedly away at a party, officers said they believed the woman was mentally unbalanced or the leader of a nudist cult.

Elwood, 14, told police he was awakened by someone tearing a screen from a window. He arose and went into a hallway where he said he saw a woman, clad only in bloomers and with black hair in disorder hanging about her shoulders, creeping toward his sister's room.

Too frightened to cry aloud, he said, he watched until the woman's with the child clasped to her breast, leave by a rear door. Then he screamed.

As he ran to the door, he reported he saw the woman, and a nude man, flee down an alley, leaving the girl on the ground. Police summoned by neighbors aroused by the youth's cries, found no trace of the pair but reported finding prints of bare feet in the yard. The girl has a bruise on her neck where someone apparently had clutched her.

A 1-months-old sister, Betty and Elwood, and another child, a friend of Betty, were in the R. L. O'Dell home at the time of the attempted abduction.

Action Stressed By Show Coming To Pampa Friday

"Show of Shows" coming to Pampa this week, is fast moving entertainment. Lillian McCardell, producer of "Hi Society Revue" continues her successful endeavors. As in the former revues, dancing is the main feature with a good stage band and plenty of attractive costuming in addition.

La Fon and La Fon, an adagio team recently with Dan Fitch's show, will go over in a big way. A clever opening-acrobatic number is followed by a suave adagio which gets the applause.

Another popular pair is Olga Gish and Athea Anders, who have appeared with the "Bathing Beauties." They interpret the rhythmic rumba, of Cuban origin, and give a collegiate selection.

Jan Dean, with perhaps the most appropriate of the costumes, gives a dance "straight from Harlem." She is late of Billie Doss' "Monkeying Around."

Among the others are Carrie Belle, featured in "Hi Society Revue," Don Shields of the R. K. O. vaudeville, and Willie Smith from Carr's Melody Maids.

The Show of Shows will be seen on the stage of the La Nora Friday and Saturday.
