TWINKLES
Connecticut anti-horse thief vigilantes have disbanded after being organized 43 years. Strange it is why so many efforts are dropped just when they are likely to be needed.

Lincoln Ellsworth is planning a polar flight which will, if successful, make the "last geographical explorations possible." Then adventurers will have to sit star-gazing or try to burrow deeper into the center of the earth.

But there are plenty of unexplored frontiers in the sciences of modern sociology and economics—unexplored as to nations, and even as to individuals. The Bible, for instance, reveals types of communism, socialism, and most of the possible types of simple organization of society.

A Berger Scout-preacher rented a farmer's water tank for stock in order to teach his young daughter and son to swim. Hearing Pampa would have a municipal pool, he said he wished to bring his Sunday school classes, one at a time, to teach the youngsters to swim. Inability to swim is common on the plains.

Dentistry for stray dogs has won fame for a Texas dentist. He should call attention to the infinitely more important work done gratis by many dentists—dentistry for underprivileged children.

THAT WORLD'S FAIR
Almost imperceptibly, the century of Progress exposition at Chicago is approaching. The wonders to be awaiting millions of sightseers will include exhibits illustrating the marvelous progress of the last century. How well will things be represented? We can't answer that question yet, but we do know that the dark continent of Africa will be there with miniature jungles, kraals, and villages. Chicago has spent huge sums to erect fine buildings, and it is unfortunate that general conditions will curtail the magnitude of the fair and the crowd.

ON GOIN' TO LAW
Contributed by a friend: "Where's the president of this railroad?" asked the man who called at the general offices. "He's down in Washington, attendin' the session of some kind of an investigation committee," replied the office boy. "Where is the general manager?" "He's appearin' before the Interstate Commerce Commission." "Well, where's the general superintendent?" "He's at the meeting of the legislature fightin' some bum new law." "Where is the head of the legal department?" "He's in court tryin' a suit." "Then where is the general passenger agent?" "He's explainin' to the commercial travelers why we can't reduce the fare." "Where is the general freight agent?" "He's gone out in the country to attend a meeting of the Grange over on the western slope explainin' why the rates on fruit shipments are so high." "Who's runnin' the blamed railroad?" "The newspapers and the legislatures."

STILL IN CAMPAIGN
Among the persons who "do not know the elections are over" is Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, who apparently is not a candidate for governor. If he can hold the strength he showed in the primaries, Hunter will be a hard man to beat, either by the Ferguson or any other candidate. One reliable widely scattered by Hunter from Austin advocates a "blended tax system." The pipeline company does not buy, hence would not be subject to the sales tax. The Wichita Falls man advocates a graduated income tax on the higher brackets for those who would not pay much through a sales tax. GIVE MICHIGAN BANK HOLIDAY

CENTERS of Michigan's eight-day banking moratorium are Gov. William A. Comstock, who ordered the holiday to save a threatened Detroit bank closure, and R. E. Reichert, state banking commissioner, who announced that small withdrawals of cash for necessary business operations will be allowed. Five hundred and forty banks were affected by the governor's order.

ABOLITION OF STATE TEXTBOOK COMMITTEE IS RECOMMENDED BY LEGISLATURE'S ECONOMY GROUP

Consolidation of Two State Libraries Proposed

AUSTIN, Feb. 17. (AP)—Referring to activities of the state board of education, the joint legislative committee on organization and economy in a report to the legislature today recommended abolition of the state textbook committee.

It was also proposed that the Texas state library and the library of the University of Texas be consolidated under auspices of the university.

Discussing the method of apportioning funds for the support of public schools, the report said "the present system does not secure equalization of educational opportunity nor of the tax burden for educational purposes."

"The property in the various school districts is not assessed at the same rate, due to the fact that there is no state system of assessment, which would bring about such uniformity," the report said. "Even in the same town there is usually an assessment of property for schools and one or more other assessments of the same property for city, or state and county purposes. There is great variation in the tax rates imposed in the various districts."

Under the new plan, the board of education would appoint a commissioner of higher education and a commissioner of education, who would carry out policies determined by the board and care for all administrative matters in connection with the public schools and the institutions of higher learning. The present state department of education would be replaced by a bureau of schools.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17. (AP)—The house democrats in caucus today bound themselves to vote for prohibition repeal Monday under a suspension of the house rules. The vote was 115 to 46. This assures more than two-thirds of the democrats will vote for the senate prohibition repeal proposal.

CAST OF 'MOON' DRAMA TO GIVE MANY A THRILL

Players Are Adept In Interpretation Of Difficult Roles

DO you know Neal Bean? If you do, you know he's a good entertainer person-to-person, but he's better in "Children of the Moon" which will be presented by the Pampa Little Theater at the city auditorium Tuesday evening beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Mr. Bean will interpret the role of Walter Higgs, Major Bannister's airplane mechanic. It will be his first appearance on the Little Theater stage.

Mrs. A. B. Goldston will also make her debut on the stage in a leading role. In assuming the role of Jane Atherton, she will be the heroine of the play. The hero is Paul M. LeBeuf who will take the part of Major Bannister, British flier whose plane crashes near the Athertons' lonely home by the sea. Mr. LeBeuf will be remembered for his spectacular acting in "The Trial of Mary Dugan."

One of the most dramatic scenes of the drama occurs at the end of the second act when Laura Atherton, Jane's selfish mother, tells her daughter that she cannot marry the moon-madness which afflicts her grand-father, Judge Atherton, played by I. A. Freeman, and which drove her brother to his death in France during the war. Mrs. E. M. Conley will interpret the role of Laura Atherton.

Another actor new to Pampa audiences but not to Pampa people will be Newt Dilley. He will be Dr. Wetherill in the play, and his sympathetic treatment of the moon-struck judge and his family has been outstanding in rehearsals.

Paul Camp, who has appeared in many plays here promises to give his best performance in the role of an old sea-dog who is half-butler, half-companion to the Athertons. Mr. Earl Powell plays the part of the old grandmother, Madam Atherton with sweet resignation and great emotion.

'Curly' Guy Is Freed in Death Of Wanderwell

LONG BEACH, Calif., Feb. 17. (AP)—The state's explanation of the sensational slaying of "Captain" Walter Wanderwell—a mystery with background and developments rivaling detective fiction—was rejected by a jury.

On the fourth ballot, the jury last night freed 23-year-old William James "Curly" Guy of the charge he slew the leader of an adventure-seeking band of eight young women and seven men the night of last December 5.

HOUSTON, Feb. 17. (AP)—Colonel Ernest O. Thompson's statement from Longview last night that oil prices would soar to $1.50 a barrel in fifty days was received today with uplifted eyebrows by major purchasers of crude oil in Houston.

PANHANDLE GAS PRODUCERS AT SENATE INQUIRY

Small Bill Opposed And Supported In Hearing

AUSTIN, Feb. 17. (AP)—At a hearing in the senate chamber producers of gas in the Panhandle region appeared in support of and opposition to a bill by Senator Clint C. Small of Amarillo that would permit use of gas for the extraction of gasoline and the manufacture of carbon black.

Originally the bill applied only to gas containing such a high content of sulphur as to make it unfit for fuel, but Senator Small said the bill would be amended to bring all kinds of natural gas under its provisions.

Opponents of the bill said the bill would permit the destruction of the gas reserves in the Panhandle field. They claimed the gas would be dissipated within ten or twelve years if its use was permitted for anything except light and fuel.

Those proposing passage of the bill claimed that under the existing statutes they were left without a market for their product and that their only chance of realizing on their property was through sale of gasoline extraction and carbon black plants. They said the major pipe line companies transporting gas from the field would not give them connections.

ATTORNEYS ASK THAT ZANGARA BE EXAMINED

HEARING IS POSTPONED

JUDGE APPOINTS THREE TO REPRESENT DEFENDANT

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17. (AP)—A second blood transfusion was given this afternoon in an attempt to save the life of Mrs. Joe H. Gill of Miami, desperately wounded Wednesday night when Giuseppe Zangara attempted to assassinate President-elect Roosevelt.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17. (AP)—Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago was sleeping and his condition was "very satisfactory," a bulletin issued by his physicians at 12:30 p. m., today said.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17. (AP)—The Dade County Medical association was asked today to appoint physicians on a sanitary commission to examine Giuseppe Zangara, charged with the attempted assassination of President-elect Roosevelt. The request was made by the three attorneys appointed by criminal court Judge E. C. Collins to defend Zangara.

The announcement was made by Lewis Twyman, president of the Dade County Bar association, at conclusion of a lengthy conference by the attorneys with the prisoner. Other attorneys appointed are J. M. McCaskill, past president of the bar association, and Alfred E. Rana.

"We have been appointed by the court to defend this man because of our position as members of the Dade County Bar association," Twyman said. "We feel that a sanitary test should be made, and consequently have asked the Dade County Medical association to do its bit, as we are doing."

Without hearing a single phase of the case, Judge Collins, in a five-minute court session, postponed until tomorrow the arraignment of Zangara.

Price of $1.50 Per Barrel Within Sixty Days Is His Prediction.

AMARILLO, Feb. 17. (AP)—"General favorable conditions" of the oil industry and especially the pledge of the major companies to aid state commissions in a rigid enforcement of proration were cited by Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson today as a basis for his prediction that oil will be selling for $1.50 a barrel within 60 days.

He said the major companies carried out their agreement "to quit drawing on their storage, to check up on producers from whom they buy to see that illegally-produced oil is not run, and to buy at posted prices and not try to cut under each other's throats oil will begin selling for what it is worth."

PERIL IN PRETENSE

One thing, at least, the depression has done for us. It has made it possible for us to mention the word, "revolution," without first pulling down the blinds, peeking under the beds and giving the maid an afternoon off.

To be sure, nothing in particular is to be gained by mouthing that dread word. But a fair sample of the kind of talk that really needed is furnished in the report of President Hoover's committee on social trends, which asserts flatly that a revolution in this country is by no means impossible, and warns that our greatest danger comes from people who refuse to recognize that fact.

While possible, of course, revolution is not in the least probably. But the president's committee does a fine service by pointing out that the worst error we could commit would be to continue a policy of aimless drifting, hoping, Micawber-like that something will turn up.

That, or something like it, was our policy for quite a while. At first we all tried valiantly to pretend that there really was no such thing as a depression. We pretended that everything would come out right if only we looked on the bright side of things.

In plain English, we drifted. The big development of the past year has been our growing realization that it would be dangerous for us to drift any longer.

That is where the warning of the presidential committee is useful. In trying to fix things up we shall probably make mistakes—but what of it? The one fatal thing would be to do nothing at all.

OTHO: Bombati, a curious wanderer who has money although enlisted in the Foreign Legion, tries to induce Otho Bellme to desert and, failing that, hints of great benefits if he will fall in with the plans of Major Ricoil. Ricoil, his Napoleon ambitions barred by the law of the French Secret Service, has been forced out of the French army, and has risen to the rank of major after enlisting in the Foreign Legion. At his baking post near Mekness Ricoil dreams of raising a Sahara empire. Then a dirty Arab approaches Otho on entry duty, and says to him one word only, "Yelverbury."

Chapter 8 "YES, MY COMMANDANT!"

MECHANICALLY the astounded Otho resumed the position of attention, and then stood himself properly at ease. "Yelverbury," with just that peculiar pronunciation and intonation.

Of course! The interview with the officer... The Parade-ground, at Mellerat... The first day that he was able to go on duty again after his fight with M'Bongu. The messenger who had hidden him come with him forthwith, to where Monsieur le Colonel and a strange officer—another Colonel—demanded his immediate attendance.

He remembered every incident, every word of the interview that had followed. Saluting and standing smartly at attention in that little room... a powerful man, strong-faced and iron-jawed, who sat at the table and stared at him with hard appraising eyes.

"Le Légionnaire Otho Bellme?" "Oul, mon Commandant!" "Your real name?" "Oul, mon Commandant!" "You are English?" "Oul, mon Commandant!" "The name is French."

"Norman. A thousand years in England." The officer smiled. "Educated?" "Oul, mon Commandant!" "Where?" "At home, at Yelverbury Grammar School, and at Oxford."

"Profession?" "Pugilist." The officer raised his eyebrows. "Sir Bqjême, then?" "Sir Otho Robert Mandeville-zellème."

The officer reflected, as he scrutinized Otho's strong and handsome, if somewhat disfigured face. Yes, this was his man... a tool to his hand... Obviously—in view of that awful fight—as brave as a lion, strong as an ox, determined and tenacious as one of his own British bull-dogs.

Well born, too, well educated; probably quite clever; and, by report, amenable to discipline and of excellent character. Character? Then what should such a man be doing in the Foreign Legion? A woman, no doubt. Or perhaps merely one of those mad romantics who live for adventure, warming their brave hearts in the glow of glamorous dreams. Yes, this man would do.

"How would you like to leave the ranks and come with me to the strange Colonel suddenly?" "Pardon, mon Commandant!" replied Otho in some bewilderment. "Do you speak Arabic as well as you do French and English?" "As badly as I do French, mon Commandant," smiled Otho.

"How would you like to be seconded and come with me, study Arabic, become an Arab, in fact; until I can use you as one. How, in short, would you like to join the Secret Service, if you satisfied me during your apprenticeship, and passed my tests? A hard and dangerous life—for a brave man; with a brave man's rewards. If he succeeds."

"I should love it, mon Commandant. Better than anything on earth... But I cannot leave my company." "Why not?" "My friends. They joined the Legion because I did, I couldn't... What type of men are these, your friends? Englishmen? Educated men? Gentlemen?"

"Two of them are pugilists like myself, mon Commandant. All three were sailors." "Not educated?" "No, mon Commandant." "Any of them naturally clever? Good at disguise... good linguists... good actors?"

Otho shook his head. "No, mon Commandant. Splendid! "No, mon Commandant." "And you would not leave them?" Again Otho shook his head. "Well, mon enfant, you are a fool. A silly fool, an Englishman, in fact."

"Oul, mon Commandant." "I'm very fond of the English," said the officer, and rising to his feet, extended a huge hand, the grip of which caused poignant but agreeable pain to Otho's damaged chest.

"Now listen, and pay close attention. Give me some word—we'll have an English word, I think—that will instantly recall me to you should I utter it in your hearing. A kind of password, in effect, that will be private and peculiar to you and me."

"Oh, I should never forget you, mon Commandant, especially after your kindness." "Perhaps not, mon enfant, but I trust that, although you may not forget me, you won't know me the next time we meet... A little humiliating for me, you know, if I accosted you in the guise of a starving leper, and instead of giving me a sou, you saluted me and stood to attention... I sincerely hope a password will be necessary before you recognize me."

Otho smiled. "I beg your pardon, mon Commandant, I did not understand... What about 'Yelverbury' where my home is?" "Excellent. It is hardly likely that any Arab, Moor, Bedouin, Touareg or other Berber will introduce himself to you with that particular word," smiled the officer as, with a friendly hand upon Otho's shoulder, he bade him think well upon what he had heard, while remembering that a still-tongued rug in a wise head.

And now, long after the curious little incident had faded from his mind, a typical hill Arab, bearded, brown and dirty, with turban, sandals, and staff complete, had quietly but distinctly and unmistakably, uttered the word "Yelverbury" as he passed.

That officer! The strange Colonel, disguised as a Moor of the Southern Atlas, and so completely disguised that, but for the password, Otho would never have dreamed that the Arab was other than he seemed. Wheeling about, as though changing his mind and deciding to return to the little extra-mural market, the Arab approached the sentry, confident that the word which he had uttered guaranteed him against prohibitive challenge.

"Yelverbury!" he said again. "I must see Major Ricoil before he leaves this post. Don't recognize me. Know nothing." Yes, this was certainly the Secret Service Colonel, and Otho's superior officer. But what was going to happen to the sentry who allowed an Arab to hang about the gate of the post?

Would the Colonel expel him when he was put under arrest for so grave a dereliction of duty, an action so flatly contravening his clear instructions? Any Arab, attempting to behave like this, would be regarded as a spy, and a compliant sentry as his bribed accomplice.

However, orders were orders and, luckily—any Colonel would certainly senior to Major Ricoil, and was it not French military law that, in any circumstances, any member of the French naval or military forces must obey the order of the senior officer on the spot, no matter to what branch of the Service he might belong?

As those thoughts flashed through Otho's mind the Arab produced from beneath his cloak a folded piece of coarse paper, thumbled and filthy, on which—as he scrawled: "Monsieur le Commandant le Major Ricoil."

"Get this to Major Ricoil somehow," he said. "If the sergeant of the Guard refuses, speak to your Officer yourself. If nothing happens, come and look for me in the market there, selling almonds."

And the speaker, retiring a few paces, squatted beside the road or track that led from the gate of the post.

Otho departed. Clearly he must let Major Ricoil know, as soon as possible, that a tribesman demanded speech with him. Would Sergeant-Major Vittorelli take the message and the scrap of paper, or curse him for a fool and punish him for allowing an Arab to approach so close that he might have stabbed the sentry, snatched his rifle and fled; or have dashed into the fort and died slaying—perhaps succeeding in killing the Commandant himself, or even Sergeant-Major Vittorelli?

Had he better march boldly into the stone hut that was the Commandant's quarters, trusting that the scrap of paper would be his passport to forgiveness for such presumption?

Mrs. Ihrig will conduct the Pampa Daily News cooking school on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of next week in the city auditorium.

The school is for the women of Pampa and Pampa's trade territory, and every woman is invited to be a guest of The NEWS. There is no admission charge.

The well-known visitor was delighted when she learned that the city council of Parent-Teacher associations would sponsor a baking contest in connection with the school. "They handled last year's contest beautifully," she declared.

Favors Cookies
Cookies will be stressed as much as cakes in the contest this year. Mrs. Ihrig said, pointing out that they were more popular and were "so welcome at parties." Pies will be retained, for "pies will be popular as long as there are men in the world."

The baking contest will be on the last day of the school. Each school's Parent-Teacher association will have a representative present to assist with the contest. Regarding this feature of the school Mrs. J. B. Townsend, president of the Parent-Teacher council, said: "The Parent-Teacher associations are encouraging that every parent who has a child in school enter the contest. Every entry will mean financial aid to the associations and to the community."

Only One Rule
There is only one rule in the contest—that either Great West or Amaryllis flour be used.

Prizes in three divisions, shortening cakes, pies, and entries of 36 cookies, will total $21. The awards will be as follows: First prize in each group, $5; second prize in each group, a 24-pound sack of either Amaryllis or Great West flour; fourth prize in each group, a 12-pound sack of flour; fifth prize in each group, a 6-pound sack of flour.

The entries will be sold at the school close of the school, and all of the proceeds will go to the Parent-Teacher associations to be used in any way they see fit. These associations have been mighty factors in child welfare activities in Pampa.

PILGRIM

INTERNATIONAL fame has come to Ann Harding since she left the little Hedgerow Theater at Rose Valley, Pa. But once a year, while vacationing in Hollywood where she achieved stardom, the actress makes a sentimental pilgrimage to the playhouse. Here you see Miss Harding as she arrived the other day, on Hedgerow's twelfth anniversary, to play again the role in which she made her first appearance.

NEW ANTISEPTIC CUTS GARGLING COSTS IN HALF!

Five Million Trial Bottles of Vicks Antiseptic Furnish Proof of Its Quality; and Its Amazing Economy!

GUARANTEED BY DRUGGISTS

The makers of Vicks VapoRub have produced an antiseptic which does everything that a gargle or mouth-wash can and should do—at half the usual price of other quality antiseptics. The name of this new product is Vicks Vorton Antiseptic. Of course the only real proof of its quality and amazing economy is actual use. To furnish this proof, Vicks Chemists supplied to druggists—at less than cost—5 million special trial bottles at 25c value for 10c. These trial bottles have gone so quickly that this offer is now made.

If your druggist's supply of the trial size is exhausted, get one of the 25c bottles. Use it a week. Then if you are not delighted with its quality, and amazing economy, your money will be refunded.

Wild Enough, Strong Enough. No extravagant claims are made for Vicks Vorton. It is simply the best oral antiseptic Vicks Chemists could produce—and they were aided by the chemists of their allied organizations here and in Europe. They created a balanced antiseptic mild enough to be used day and night without risk to delicate membranes; yet strong enough to do everything that an oral antiseptic can and should do.

For All Customary Uses. You can use Vicks Antiseptic in your customary way, for bad breath (halitosis), as a gargle, as a mouth wash; as an antiseptic lotion; and for all the other customary uses. And Vicks Antiseptic has this additional unique advantage: it is born in a depression year, it is priced accordingly—saving you half! (Adv.)

MERRY, MERRY SAILORS

By NEA Service

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—No two Hollywood stars have the same idea about sailors.

I saw Maureen O'Sullivan, in a brown study (and white linen dress) over her golf the other morning, wearing a narrow brimmed white sailor, with a brown grosgrain banding and a crystal button ornament right in front. The sailor was a mushroom type, of featherweight straw, very summery looking.

Her white linen dress had cute epaulets (of brown linen) and a brown linen collar with flaring points that reached clear to her shoulders. Buttons finished it up brown, in the front!

Tiny Sleeve Fashion
Most of the girls hereabouts are wearing tiny sleeves, even on evening things, including:

Lona Andre, celebrating her 18th birthday with a swell party at her home, wearing a red satin dinner gown with very tiny puff sleeves. The neck was real high in front, buttoned at the back with little crystal buttons and then had an amusing very low triangle cut right out of the back.

Nancy Carroll at the Chinese theater, wearing an evening gown of gold sequins, gold slippers and a mink wrap, with little caps of the sequins out over her top arms.

Veronica Hill and Patricia Farley at a dinner party at Gail Patrick's Verna wearing black lace with crepe sleeves, Patricia black crepe with a white lace top that had full puffed sleeves. Gail's black crepe dress had a white crepe top heavily embroidered with crystals, with pointed epaulets down the shoulders, over the arm.

Cooking Classes To End Saturday

The pressure cooking demonstration that has been interesting Pampa women all week at the Montgomery Ward here comes to an end Saturday night. Through these demonstrations of cooking and canning in the words of a prominent cooking expert, "many women who are thrifty of themselves and the family funds have found pressure cooking an easy way to get the load of 1000 in a year off their backs, at a great saving of time, money and effort. I hope many more will make this discovery during this demonstration." The saving in time alone is equal to 2 full weeks of vacation from cooking duties a year.

RENOVATING IS DEMONSTRATED BY MISS ADAMS

Ada, county home demonstration agent, in a demonstration given for members of the Busy Bee home demonstration club Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. George Berlin.

A coat of commercial polish or enamel remover was applied to the piece of furniture on which Miss Adams demonstrated and was allowed to stand 10 minutes. She also demonstrated other removers, such as starch and lye, benzene, denatured alcohol, and gasoline. Ball Floats IN AIR

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED... IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW!

Another trick is the advertising illusion that one cigarette can be "purer" than another. EXPLANATION: All popular cigarettes are made under sanitary conditions, by modern machinery. All use a good cigarette paper. All are pure. The difference shows up in the quality of tobacco used. Choice, ripe tobaccos are less irritating therefore milder than inferior, raw tobaccos. Camels use the finest, choicest tobaccos, ripe and mellow. In fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos than any other popular brand. Hence the mildness, the flavor, the unflagging pleasure you get from Camels. Kept fresh in the welded Humidor Pack.

IN A MATCHLESS BLEND

EXPLANATION: An adaptation of the "Floating Hat" trick. The ball rolls on an invisible thread net manipulated by assistants in the wings. SOURCE: "Later Magic" by Professor Hoffmann, E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc.

ILLUSION: The magician causes a gaily colored ball to float—up or down, toward him or away from him. It obeys his every command.

WASHINGTON DINNER IS SERVED BRANCH OF A. A. U. W.

PEANUT FRIENDS DISCLOSED AT SCHNEIDER HOTEL EVENT AND GOOD TALKS ARE HEARD

MRS. C. T. HUNKAPILLAR, FIRST PRESIDENT OF LOCAL BRANCH, GIVES HISTORY OF ORGANIZATION'S ACTIVITIES

A miniature cherry tree on the president's table and hand-made mint cups of red, white, and blue paper on hatchets suggested a George Washington theme when the Pampa branch of the American Association of University Women served dinner at the Schneider hotel last evening.

Miss Josephine Carraker played a march as guests from all places, and Miss Josephine Carraker offered invocation. Before the dinner was served, Mrs. Harry Lyman, accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Rose, delighted guests with two vocal numbers.

For several months, A. A. U. W. members have had peanut friends in the club. Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, courtesy chairman, using this idea to get the club members better acquainted. During the dinner hour last evening, she asked guests to tell members of the courtesies which their friends had extended and to try to guess the identity of their peanut friends. These friends were revealed.

Mrs. Will Presides.
Mrs. E. C. Will opened a business session and Mrs. A. M. Teed read the minutes. Committee reports included a splendid report by Mrs. E. Earl O'Keefe, representative to the Council of Clubs. Mrs. Lynn Boyd, chairman of the dance committee, discussed the dance of February 24 at the Schneider hotel, at 9:30 p. m., with Joe Norman's orchestra furnishing the music. Mrs. Paul Kasalsky has charge of the ticket sales, and her committee is composed of Miss Flo Perry, Mrs. A. N. Dilley Jr., and Mrs. O'Keefe.
Mrs. T. F. Morton, accompanied by Mrs. Rose, gave in an artistic manner two pianologues, "Radiance" (Phyllis Ferguson) and "Lil' Ole Brown" (Lytton Cox).

CHINA, SILVER, GLASS MATCH

There's No Monotonous Effect Here

By MARGERY TAYLOR
Copyright, 1933, by the McCall Company THE NEWS
Matching silver and china is by no means an old idea, yet along comes fashion with the further edict that the effect is not exactly right without glassware in the same design.
Nor is the effect monotonous, for there is an infinite number of ways in which the design may be varied as applied to the three uses.
For informal tables china with a little mosaic in the center is excellent, and practical, because it will go with almost any color scheme. More elaborately, the same idea is worked out entirely in silver luster, in which the glassware has a flared shape like the chalice of a flower.

Silver, with a touch of blue, is very good. The goblets in this ensemble have blue stems that are striking against creamy lace or white linen table covers. Blue is, by the way, again in high esteem, and is used for walls, draperies and trimmings as well as table decoration.
A good combination for those who wish to include blue in the scheme of things would be to combine it with white and crystal, the result of which is an air of restfulness and ease.

Scanning New Books

By JOHN SELBY
NEW YORK—The literary prizes, their givers and their recipients together constitute a jolly little puzzle. Particularly in Europe, there are almost as many prizes as authors, if seen in logrolling, for there has arrived "Susanne." "Susanne" is a novel of everyday life in Denmark by a Dane named Johannes Buchholtz. With "Susanne," Buchholtz won the first Danish prize in the "Inter-Scandinavian Novel Contest" the publishers inform us. No dates are given.

It was a happy award. The novel has probably the most title of all the familiar plots: the daughter of the small-town baker who married a rich but unfaithful husband, and managed to keep on loving him. The pace is slow—but never halting—there are no extraneous aids for the consumer as the popular novelists so adeptly furnish.

Good Little Town
But there are several unimportant but fascinating Danes in the book, and a background that has not been done to the death. There also is a very artfully arrived at impression of freshness; one seems to be living for time in a good little town on the Danish coast, in the Drewes' bakery, the salty breeze from the sea. Such a sensation is worth having.

As the impression one gathers from Joseph Hergeshelmer's Palm Beach stories, assembled from the files of a well known weekly publication and published as "Tropical Winter," Hergeshelmer found certain features of the too-rich class which goes to Palm Beach pretty awful. He goes at them unmercifully. Their strange houses, immovable servants, newly rich extravagance and complete lack of intellectual movement annoy him most, he says.

The net impression is discouraging, of course, but that it truly reproduces Hergeshelmer's beliefs cannot be doubted.

Technically, there is achieved a curious effect. After only a few stories (there are ten) the reader's mind is filled with a remarkable collection of objects, like an "abstract composition" by an ultra modern painter. It is the result of taking one after another a series of stories with the same feeling and background, but different characters. Individuals do not intrude; only a crazy pattern of cross purposes.

Queen Elizabeth
Ordinarily it would seem necessary to dig out a considerable mass of new material, or to strike from a curious angle in order to write an important new biography of Queen Elizabeth. But it isn't.

Mona Wilson has produced, in limited space, a first rate biography of Elizabeth, clear, beautifully written and proportioned, and not without its distinctive color. The biog-

"Mind" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, February 19.

The Golden Text is from Isaiah 14: "The Lord of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass; and as I have purposed, so shall it stand."
Passages from the Bible will include this from Isaiah 55: "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; for my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord."

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following from the citations to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The categories of metaphysics rest on one basis, the divine Mind. Metaphysics resolves things into thoughts, and exchanges the objects of sense for the ideas of Soul."
"These ideas are perfectly real and tangible to spiritual consciousness, and they have this advantage over the objects and thoughts of material sense, they are good and eternal."
"The testimony of the material senses is neither absolute nor divine. I therefore plant myself unreservedly on the teachings of Jesus, of his apostles, of the prophets, and on the testimony of the Science of Mind. Other foundations there are none. All other systems—systems based wholly or partly on knowledge gained through the material senses—are reeds shaken by the wind, not houses built on the rock."

Little Theater Hears Stewart Play His Violin

Duncan Stewart, Pampa violinist and teacher, entertained members of the Little Theater and their guests for almost an hour at the regular meeting of the organization in the club room of the city hall last night.

Mr. Stewart gave two concerts. The first was given at the request of the program committee, and the second at the request of members after the regular meeting had adjourned. Compositions of several composers of modern music including the Spaniard, De Falla, were played in the significant manner which Leopold Auer helped his pupils develop, for Mr. Stewart, as well as Heifetz and Zimbalist, was also a worthy pupil of Mr. Auer.

The second group of numbers was requested by the audience, and included individual favorites. Mr. Stewart played without an accompanist, and without music, and in competition with the rehearsal of the Lions club minstrel next door.

At a brief business session before the program, Mrs. Raymond Harrah was elected secretary of the Little Theater, succeeding Mrs. W. F. Cretney who tendered her resignation last night.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer.

Perhaps one of the most economical methods of cooking is "en casserole." The thrifty housewife has used this type of cooking ever since man decided the world rather than his feet cooked than raw and the crude clay pot with its cover to conserve heat was the first casserole. As other materials were discovered that would withstand heat, casseroles or closely covered pots were made of each in turn, until today they are available in several makes of vitrified pottery and china glass, iron, enamel and aluminum.

There are many points in favor of casserole cooking in addition to its merit as a means to economy. Foods cooked "en casserole" are delicious, for their full flavor is developed and the toughest portions are made tender. There is no loss of food value since very little water is needed and the material cooks in the steam of its own juice.

Aside from this true economy, the casserole has these merits, which should endear it to the up-to-date housewife: It goes straight to the table, saving last minute "dishing up" and future dishwashing. It can be used for meats, vegetables and desserts, is a perfect medium for "one dish" meals, is an excellent means for camouflaging left-overs and it keeps a delayed meal hot and inviting.

Any food which can be boiled, steamed or baked can be cooked in a casserole. In preparing it first cut the food into pieces for serving. In the case of meat, richness of color is gained in it browned over the fire in a frying pan before putting in the casserole. After putting meat in casserole add water to frying and bring to the boiling point. Pour over contents in casserole and season well, allowing 1 teaspoon salt and one-fourth spoon pepper for each cup of water. Cover and put in a slow oven to simmer for several hours. Cook foods twice as long.

Tomorrow's Menu.
BREAKFAST: Baked rhubarb cereal, cream bread crumb griddle, sirup, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Bean and carrot stew, toasted crackers, brown Betty, milk, tea.

DINNER: Casserole of mutton, scalloped tomatoes, beet and cucumber salad, Indian pudding, milk, coffee.

In the oven as on top of the stove. Vegetables cooked en casserole require a hot oven.

If vegetables are to be combined with meat and the whole served from the casserole, it's a good idea to cook the meat until almost tender before adding the vegetables. The long, slow cooking necessary to bring out the flavor of the meat and make it tender overcooks the vegetables if they are allowed to remain for the entire cooking period.

A set of two or three casseroles makes it possible to prepare an entire dinner in the oven at the minimum expense of time and fuel.

New Mascot Of Fire Department To Have Party

The Pampa fire department has a new mascot. It is two months old today and the boys plan to "throw" a birthday party tonight. The new jet is a full blooded Pit bulldog, given the department by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gerhard of the Gray County creamery.

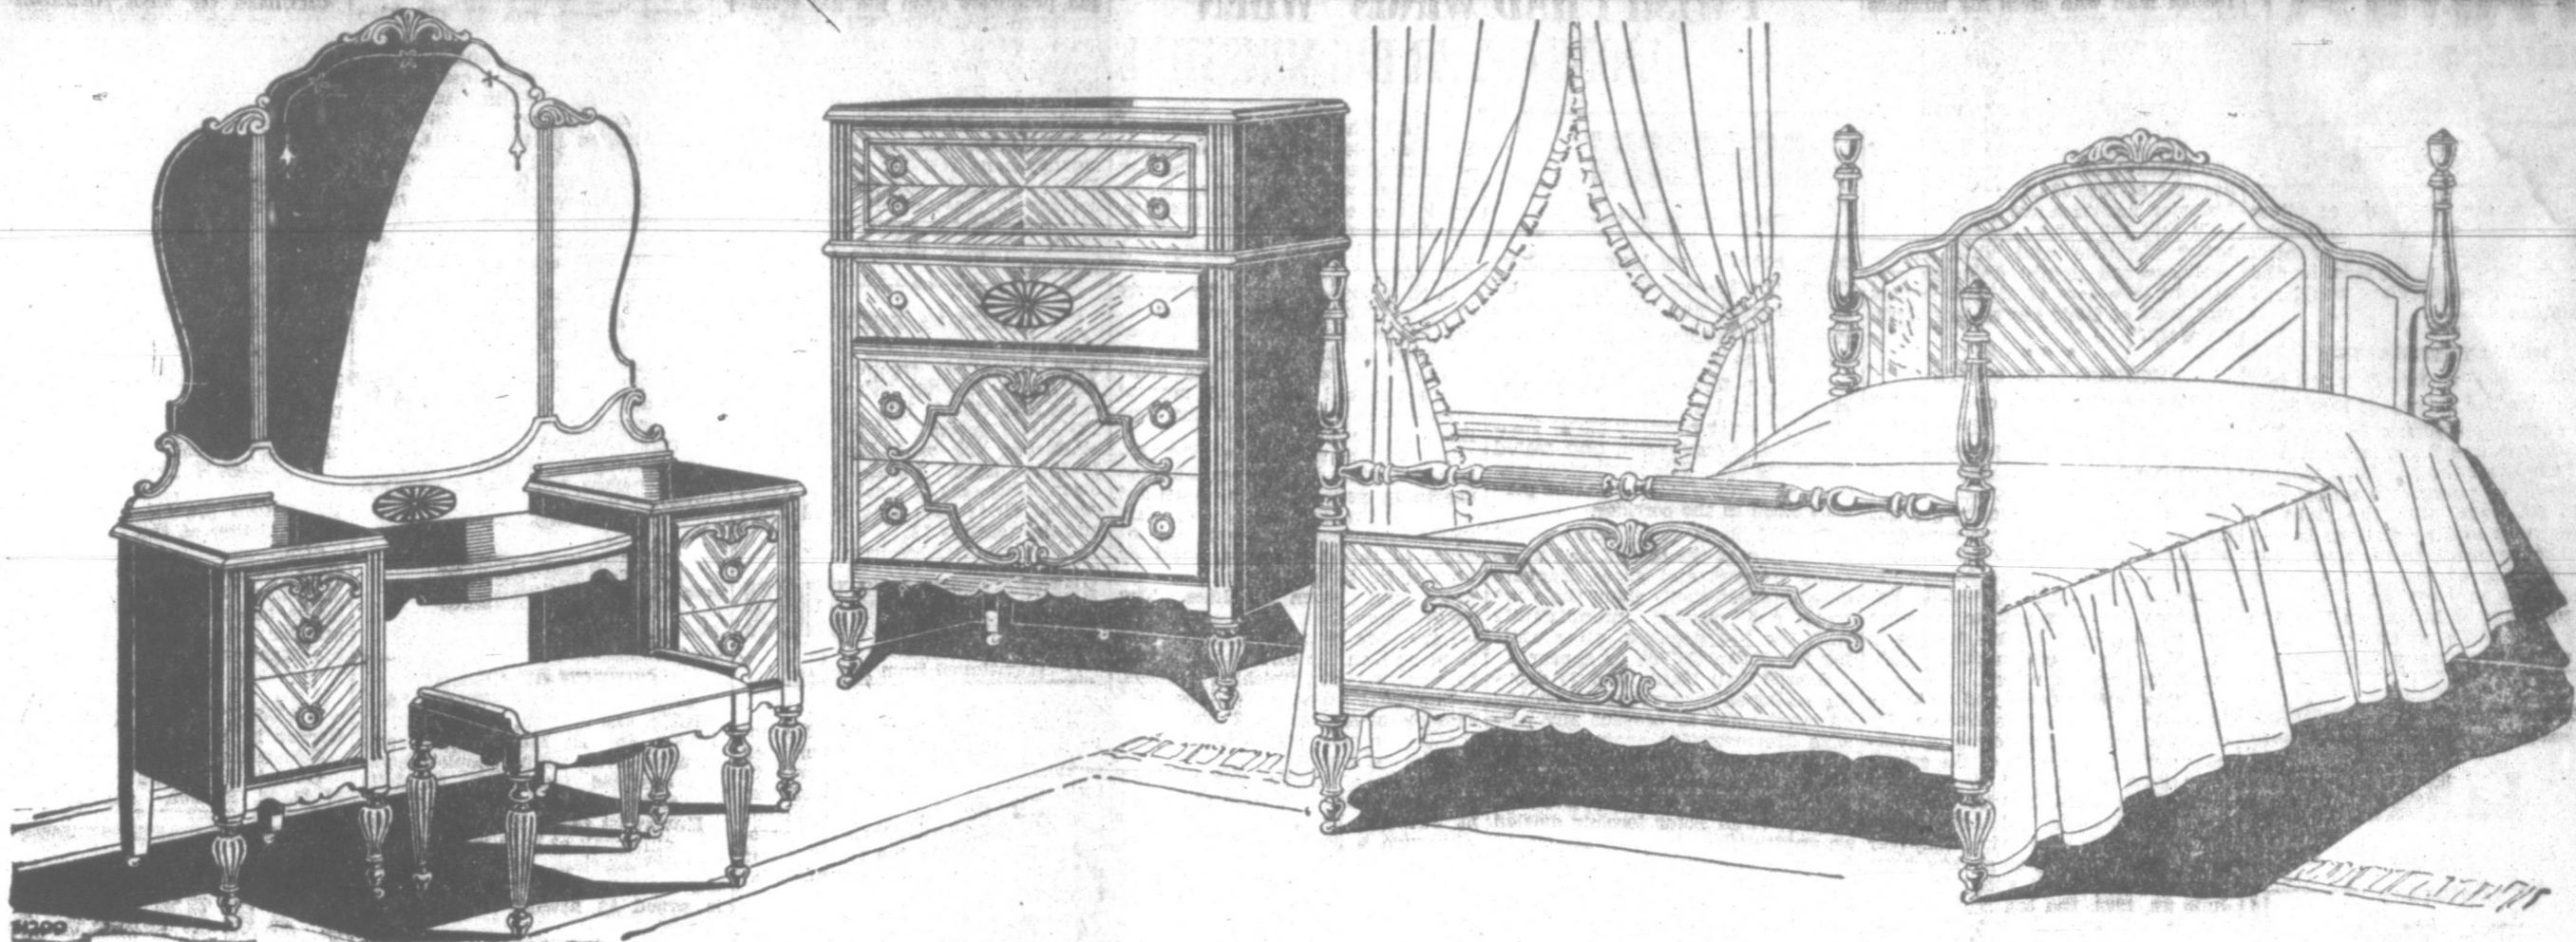

"Dutch" has been the name assigned to the new mascot. He is black with four white paws and a white "tummy." He has yet to make his first fire, but is beginning to take an interest in the trucks and knows to get out of the way when the engines are started.

The pup likes everyone and has not attached his affections to any one fireman yet.

STUDY LEGISLATION

Pampa citizens and Gray county public officers are talking much of legislation being proposed at Austin. Nearly every official has a pocket full of matter bearing on bills just introduced or about to be introduced.

REALLY MENACING

"Interesting if true," is an old saying, but the expose of New York city graft by Collier's is certainly "startling if true." Collier's declares that "whatever the city buys, whether a room of paper or a school site, yields its 'take off' the right to violate rules and regulations is sold over the counter; there is virtually a fixed scale of rates for lowering assessments and set sums for having an army of inspectors look the other way while contractors scamp the work. Tammany favorites sell life insurance, fire insurance, surety bonds, automobiles, and electric light fixtures—almost everything but teddy bears—and woe to the foolish man who gives his business elsewhere. Nothing is safer than the assertion that no city contract ever goes to any but one "right" man. It is impossible to make any exact estimate of Tammany's annual "take." On the city's payroll, for instance, are about 148,000 of the faithful, drawing salaries to the amount of $365,534,388. All but the humbler positions are grossly overpaid and fully three-fourths of the many "deputies" and "chief clerks" positions are simply sinecures created to take care of district leaders and such of their kin as look down on work."

pointment of three lawyers to represent the 33-year-old Italian, and then ordered him returned to the county jail pending formal arraignment at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Shortly before noon, Zangara, unshackled and nonchalant, was led into the court room by Chief Deputy O. J. Augenbaugh, and seated inside the rail. The court room was filled and more than a hundred persons stood in the corridor.

Dressed in a light blue spotted shirt, open at the throat, and white sport trousers and shoes, Zangara gazed uninterestedly about the court room and chatted intermittently with the two deputies, while waiting for Judge Collins to appear.

Six deputies surrounded Zangara, Sheriff Dan Harde had 20 deputies stationed throughout the crowded court room to prevent any possible demonstration against the assassin. There was no disturbance, but as the crowd was filling out of the door after the adjournment, Deputy Virgil Ector forcibly ejected an unidentified man who attempted to loiter near the prison. He was not arrested.

Judge Collins conferred briefly with the attorneys and then deputies escorted Zangara over to them for a conference.

Six deputies surrounded Zangara as the spectators, craning necks for a good glimpse of the prisoner, filed out of the room. Zangara seemed uninterested in the crowd or the short proceedings.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17. (AP)—State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne today called the Dade county grand jury into special session to demand immediate indictment of Giuseppe Zangara, who attempted to shoot President-elect Roosevelt, should either Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, or Mrs. Joe H. Gill of Miami, two of his victims, succumb.

NEGLECT OF COMMON CONSTIPATION IS A SERIOUS MATTER

Prevent This Condition With Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

The first question your doctor asks is whether you are constipated or not. He knows that this condition may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. It is often the starting point of serious disease.

You can prevent and relieve common constipation so easily. Just eat a delicious cereal once a day. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this "cereal way" safer and far more pleasant than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

INVESTIGATION

(Continued from Page 1) consideration. Senator Clint C. Small of Amarillo, president of the committee, overruled a point of order brought by Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth that the Martin motion could not be considered because the resolution authorizing the investigation did not provide for a recommendation of that kind.

Senator Frank H. Rawlings of Fort Worth raised a point of order that discussion whether to proceed was out of order and that the committee was powerless to proceed unless one side or the other was ready to offer testimony. Members of the board of managers previously announced there was no evidence available.

Rawlings said the committee could do nothing but report progress to the senate. The point had not been acted on by Senator Clint C. Small, president of the committee, at the noon recess.

Senator Martin, in moving to shift the inquiry to the other side of the capital, said that the governor had made no specific charge against anybody and pointed out that she prefaced her allegations with the phrase "to the best of my information."

Prior to Senator Martin's motion, Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, a member of the board of managers, told the senators, sitting as a committee of the whole to consider the allegations, that after "diligent search for evidence" he could find nothing that would sustain the charges made by the governor.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Bronchial troubles may lead to something serious. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery which softens and soothes the inflamed membranes and helps germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17. (AP)—Cotton had a firmer opening today and prices continued to advance after the action of the prohibition repeal amendment in the senate being described by traders as "highly constructive."

The market quieted down after the first hour and prices fluctuated narrowly within the earlier range. March contracts dropped to 5.27, May to 6.12 and July to 6.24, at these levels showing net gains over the previous close of 6 to 7 points. The reaction followed some recession in stocks and selling by ring traders.

Report Battles In Leticia War

PARA, Brazil, Feb. 17. (AP)—Two more battles between Colombian and Peruvian naval and military forces struggling for possession of the border city of Leticia have been reported in dispatches from the upper Amazon jungle regions.

The clashes were said to have occurred at points 200 miles apart on the Putumayo river. Peruvians were reported to have made a counter-attack at Tarapaca, where the first real engagement in the border warfare occurred Tuesday, and another battle was reported at Esenato, a Colombian base.

(Bogota, Colombia, officials declared they were in constant communication with their frontier forces and that no new encounters were reported. Colombia claimed to have occupied Tarapaca Tuesday, although this was denied by the Peruvians, who had a garrison stationed there.)

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Jesus Teaching by Parables—The Growth of the Kingdom.

Scripture Lesson: Mark 4:21-34.

31. And he said unto them, Is the lamp brought to be put under the bushel, or under the bed, and not to be put on the stand?

32. For there is nothing hid, which shall not be manifested; neither was anything made secret, but that it should come to light.

33. If any man hath ears to hear, let him hear.

34. And he said unto them, Take heed what ye hear: with what measure ye mete it shall be measured unto you; and more shall be given unto you.

35. For he that hath, to him shall be given; and he that hath not, from him shall be taken away even that which he hath.

36. And he said, So is the kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed upon the earth:

37. And should sleep and rise night and day, and the seed should spring up and grow, he knoweth not how.

38. The earth beareth fruit of herself: first the blade, then the ear, then the full grain in the ear.

39. But when the fruit is ripe, straightway he putteth forth the sickle, because the harvest is come.

40. And he said, How shall we liken the kingdom of God? or in what parable shall we set it forth?

41. It is like a grain of mustard seed, which when it is sown upon the earth, though it be less than all the seeds that are upon the earth,

42. Yet when it is sown, groweth up, and becometh greater than all the herbs, and putteth out great branches; so that the birds of the heaven can lodge under the shadow thereof.

43. And with many such parables spake he unto them; but privately to his own disciples he expounded all things.

Golden Text: The earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah, as the waters cover the sea.—Isa. 11:9.

Time: Autumn, A. D. 28, in the second year of Christ's ministry.

Place: By the Sea of Galilee.

Introduction

Our lesson today is the continuation of that great day on the seashore at Capernaum, when our Lord inaugurated with the parable of the sower his wise plan of teaching by means of those wonderful little stories. His purpose, as in the last lesson, is to teach and inspire his disciples, and especially to encourage them with a view of the great things that may be accomplished by the weak and lowly, such as his followers would seem to themselves to be, if they were obeying the commands of their omnipotent Lord.

that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven." We are not to let this light shine in order that we may be praised, for it is not our light, but Christ's light placed in our charge. Just as the lantern carried at night does not reveal itself but the objects about it, so also the shining life.

"There Is Nothing Hid"

"For there is nothing hid, save that it should be manifested." "You fancy that a secret is kept closely enough, if no one knows it but yourself, and God. But can it be that a day is coming which will do away with all concealment whatsoever; which will let the wide universe into the knowledge of the most treasured and the most guilty secret of every heart; which will be identical in content and in syllable and yet how diverse their interpretation in the selective power of the soul? It is not really by the eye we see. It is really by the ear we hear. It is indeed by the character we hear. By all we love, by all we have made ourselves, by all we have striven for or justed after, do we take the words which fall on every ear—and color them with heaven or with hell. Take heed what you hear, my brother. It is a revelation of your personality."—Rev. George H. Morrison, D. D.

"For he that hath, to him shall be given; and he that hath not, from him shall be taken away even that which he hath." Christ illustrated this truth in the conclusion of the parable of the talents, Matt. 25:29. "Upon use depends existence. The fish of the Mammoth Cave are in no way different from their brethren in open waters, except that they live in darkness and have therefore lost the power of vision. The Hindoo takes his arm out until it is atrophied and his ability to move and use it as an arm is gone. Men upon desert islands or in prisons for years alone have lost the power of speech. And above all is this law of the kingdom and religious field. You cannot be a moral man unless you exercise your moral faculties. You cannot be a religious man unless you exercise your religious faculties."

"The Growing Plant"

"The expanding kingdom is first the blade, then the ear, then the full grain in the ear." If this advance referred to individual progress in spiritual life, its several stages would answer to 'growing in grace,' to 'forgiving,' to 'giving,' to 'winning' the mind and religious forward to the things which are before; but the grainfield, first brown, then green, then yellow, sets forth the whole movement of human salvation from beginning to consummation. At first the growth of the kingdom is invisible as seed in the ground; it makes subjects, that is the blade; they increase, and the grain is in ear; they form Christian societies and create a Christian atmosphere, that is harvest. All this was potentially in the seed; the multitudes which no man can number were present by prophecy and purpose in the incarnation.—James Stirling.

"Parable of Mustard Seed"

A note of joy and triumph sounds through all of Christ's story. One of the happiest of his sayings is this little parable of the mustard seed, a parable which speaks of progress from even the most insignificant beginnings, and of great achievement with even the slightest of powers.

"How small are the forces that oftentimes determine character! One brief sentence of Scripture meeting the eye of a German monk was the mustard-seed; the character of Martin Luther, the great reformer, was the tree that grew therefrom. A single kind word from an unknown friend, the mustard-seed; the tree, John B. Gough, rescued from a drunkard's grave to become the greatest apostle of temperance in the nineteenth century. Thomas a Kempis' imitation of Christ read in idle moments on shipboard, the mustard seed; the heart of John Newton, a reckless, immoral young man, an infidel and a slave-trader, the soil into which it fell; the tree, a saintly character that embodied itself in some of the sweetest hymns of the church." "Think of Charles and John Wesley, with their fellow students following their 'method' of life at Oxford; and remember what great developments grew from such small beginnings."—Archbishop Lang.

Canyon College Is Twenty-Four Years Old Today

CANYON, Feb. 17. (SP)—Twenty-four years ago today the West Texas State Teachers college was born in the legislature of Texas.

It was not located in Canyon at that time, but awarded to this city after dozens of West Texas towns had made bids for it, on September 3, 1909. Canyon's cash bid was $100,000, and a 40-acre campus was thrown in for good measure.

The custom of giving gifts to the college was continued through the years, over $65,000 having been added by citizens of the Panhandle and Canyon.

This college first had a birthday party when it was two years old, February 1911. Four walnut trees were planted on the campus at that time, the one planted by the faculty failing to survive the rigors of winter and the winds of summer. The three planted by classes are now the most beautiful trees on the campus, which has several hundred.

Since its founding more than 10,000 different persons have been enrolled in the college.

Four members of the first faculty are still on the campus. They are Dr. J. A. Hill, president; L. G. Allen, dean emeritus; Miss Mary E. Hutchins, and Miss Jennie C. Ritchie.

At present, the college has the largest enrollment of students of college rank that it has had in its entire existence.

Texans Recommended to Roosevelt; Carving on Memorial Gets Underway

By CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Feb. 17. (AP)—If the Texas legislature's recommendations are accepted by President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, the incoming national administration will be liberally sprinkled with Texans in important posts.

The house and senate have passed resolutions recommending many prominent citizens of the state to Roosevelt's consideration for cabinet and other administrative positions. The recommendations ranged from Dr. T. O. Walton, president of Texas A. & M., for secretary of agriculture to Hal Sevier of Corpus Christi as ambassador to Chile.

There was little opposition to the resolutions, most members feeling pride in the part Texans played in the cabinet and administration of Woodrow Wilson. The number included Thomas Watt Gregory who served as attorney general and Albert Sidney Burleson, postmaster general.

Vandalism at the University of Texas, especially marring the almost completed Littlefield Memorial gateway, has been severely censured.

The vandalism has been confined mainly to scratching initials into the soft limestone blocks of which the memorial is constructed and using the memorial balustrade as a race track.

The practice was condemned editorially in the student publication, which pointed out that the gateway is a thing of beauty that should not be disfigured by students desiring the doubtful distinction of leaving their initials in the great limestone blocks for posterity. It also was brought to the attention that defacing of the blocks was a little premature since the memorial had not been delivered to the university by the contractors and all defaced stones must be replaced and the memorial turned over in first class condition.

The editorial asked that the practice cease and the student body be permitted to observe the gateway and fountain for a few weeks before further whitening and carving got under way.

Tucker Company Enjoys Largest Business in '32

Mrs. Tucker's shortening, manufactured by the Interstate Cotton Oil Refining company at Sherman, Texas, enjoyed during 1932 the largest volume of business in any year in its history, was the announcement made last Saturday at a meeting of the Interstate salesmen in Sherman. W. S. Dorset, vice-president and salesmanager of the company, presided at the meeting, and outlined plans for 1933 which bid fair to make this an even greater year.

A three-fold advertising campaign was outlined at the meeting. Sixty-seven newspapers all over the southwest will be used for a year-round newspaper schedule which will reach practically all the readers in the territory where Mrs. Tucker's Shortening is available. A radio campaign started over station WFAA on Monday, Feb. 13. "Mrs. Tucker's Smile" program is broadcast every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:45 a. m. The third phase is a newspaper called "Mrs. Tucker's Family News" which Mrs. Tucker is publishing twice a month for all the jobbers, grocers, and their employees—members of her distributing family. A successful year is expected by the Mrs. Tucker's representatives as they go out their various territories.

Pampa Daily NEWS Reel Shows Waves Pulling Many Fine Homes Into Sea

Impressive scenes of a terrific ocean storm that lashed the New England coast, demolishing thousands of fine homes along the shore front, an exciting onboard-motorboat race in which the contestants drive through fire and other hazards, and a thrilling skijoring competition around dangerous mountain roads in Austria, are among the highlights of the current issue of the Pampa Daily NEWS-Universal Newsreel, with vivid descriptions of these events by the screen's Talking Reporter, Graham McNamee, noted radio announcer. The reel is at La Nora theater.

Ancient Remedies

Sir Walter Scott has left many graphic descriptions of the ailments from which he suffered and of the treatments given to him by his physicians.

Justly did he write that "A doctor is like Ajax—give him light and he may make battle with disease; but, no disparagement to the Esculapian art, they are bad guessers." In the days of Scott, the hundredth anniversary of whose death we celebrate this year, physicians were without benefit of modern knowledge and were obliged to do a great deal of guessing.

At the age of 38 months Scott suffered an attack of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), which left him lame for life. Scott reports: "Among the odd remedies resorted to aid my lameness, someone had recommended that so often as I sleep I should be rubbed with the oil of the family. I should be stripped and swathed up in the skin, warm as it was flayed from the carcass of the animal."

"In this Tartar-like habitment, I well remember lying upon the floor of the little parlor in the farmhouse, while my grandfather, a venerable old man with white hair, used every excitement to make me try to crawl."

Sir Walter Scott also suffered from gallestones. The treatment he received called forth the following vigorous protest which he wrote in a letter to Southey:

"If I had not the strength of a team of horses I could never have fought through it, and through the heavy fire of medical artillery, scarce less exhausting—for bleeding, blistering, calomel and ipecacuanha have gone on without in-

REPORT BIG STORE VOLUME

L. W. Hardcastle, manager of Furr Food Store No. 2, formerly known as M-System store No. 2, announces that last week showed the greatest volume of business for the two local Furr Food Stores in their history.

"We knew that our exceptionally attractive prices on highest quality food stuffs and other grocery items were bound to attract a heavy patronage last week; but the results we achieved were beyond our fondest expectations"—thus does Mr. Hardcastle sum up their record breaking business volume last week. He said that he regarded Pampa Daily NEWS advertising as a contributing factor to giving thorough publicity to the values offered.

Mr. Hardcastle has been manager of Furr Food Store No. 2 for the last four years. He is among the best known Pampa business men, is married, and owns his own home in Pampa.

HARVESTERS DRAW AMARILLO'S SANDIES FOR FIRST FOE

BATTLE FIXED FOR TODAY AT 2:30 O'CLOCK

PAMPA IS FAVORED TO BEAT TEAM THEY'VE DEFEATED TWICE

Pampa's Harvesters were to meet the Amarillo Sandies at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the first game of the district 1 championship series at Canyon, Berger and Quique were scheduled to meet at 3:30 o'clock. At 8 o'clock tonight, the two winners of games played this afternoon will meet. The losers will play at 9 o'clock.

The team that wins two games today will go into the finals tomorrow night without further competition.

Coach Odus Mitchell and 12 Harvesters left for Canyon at 10 o'clock this morning to compete for district 1 basketball honors. The team was considerably worried yesterday about "Jess" Patton, star guard, who had a slight cold. However, Patton was much better this morning.

Bill Kelley, substitute forward, was confined to his bed yesterday but made the trip today. Other members of the team were feeling ready for the hard grind today and tomorrow. Woodward's two "charlie horses" had nearly cleared up yesterday and he was in excellent condition.

Coach Mitchell put the boys thru a light practice followed by a scrimmage with the "Jes" squad yesterday afternoon and pronounced the boys ready for the conference battle.

Amarillo's Corbett, Berger's Conley, and Quique's elongated center, will be among the barriers to be hurdled in the race for a district championship. It is the belief of local fans that Captain Woodward will be assigned the job of guarding both Corbett and Conley. Pulling him will be able to guard the big Quique but will probably lose the tip-off.

Before leaving, Coach Mitchell said that he would bring the boys home tonight if they were successful in winning both games today. He believes that a night at home does more good than all the away from home. Two wins today would send the Harvesters into the finals Saturday night. A loss would make them play tomorrow afternoon and maybe at night.

The team was anything but over-confident when they left for Canyon. Although they hold two victories over Amarillo and Berger, neither were of the sensational type. They know nothing about Quique but realize that the team that defeated Happy twice is no weakling.

YOUTH DIES DURING GAME

Heart Attack Fatal To Captain of Mercedes Cage Team on the Court.

EDINBURG, Tex., Feb. 17. (AP)—A heart attack was blamed for the death of Keith Ewing, 19, in a basketball game here last night between Mercedes and Edinburg high school teams. Ewing was captain of the Mercedes team.

He called time out near the end of the first quarter and tottered the length of the court to his teammates, falling dead at their feet.

Ewing was a senior at Mercedes high school and was an all-around athlete. He lettered two years in football and was named on the official all-valley eleven last fall. He also was a track man.

The Hidalgo county interscholastic league basketball tournament in which he was playing was abruptly halted as a result of his death. The tournament would have been concluded tonight. L. E. Chandler of Edinburg, county league athletic director, announced the remaining matches were postponed indefinitely.

Ewing was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ewing, farmers. Beside his parents, he was survived by three brothers and two sisters.

Hollywood Sights

By ROBERT COONS
HOLLYWOOD—As long as cameras turn in this colony, where a face is a fortune only if the figure is if the right proportions; there will be Spartan measures taken for molding the form closer to lenses' desire.

In the cinema green the beanstalk is out but the pumpkin is not yet in. Lettuce-leaf diets have gone with the vogue for extremely boyish figures, but actresses prone to unpleasing plumpness still have their problems.

The latest to mount the bandwagon of self-imposed discipline for the movies' sake is Marie Prevost, whose best friends agreed with her that a few pounds less would mean many jobs more.

For a while Marie tried to buck the excess poundage by capitalizing on it in character roles. At that she did fairly well. But her plumpness almost cost her a part she wanted in "Parole Girl."

She Makes the Weight.
"Give me two weeks," she said, "and I'll be down to whatever weight you say. Lose 15 pounds? All right!"

In two weeks she came back, took a test, and the part was hers. She earned it, as you'll agree. The Pacific in January, even in these parts, is no pleasant pond, but Marie swam a mile in it every day. She came out, raced another mile up and down the beach, the rest of the day she exercised strenuously, ate lightly.

For the breakfasts she ate—and she still follows the routine—she ranks just a shade ahead of the women of Sparta, in my opinion. Skimmed milk, followed by orange juice!

FORT WORTH HAS NO LEADING AMATEUR IN SIGHT FOR YEAR

Byron Nelson Has Turned Pro; Smith of Houston Plays Good Game.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Fort Worth, city of many golf courses, probably will be without an outstanding amateur golfer in last year's Texas Golf association state championship at Texarkana was Byron Nelson with 74-76-150. Nelson has turned professional, tossing the amateur sardom back to Massingill.

Fort Worth probably is the only large city in Texas without at least three outstanding amateur golfers who have won their spurs in major tournament competition. Several youngsters like Nelson and the long hitting Ben Hogan, have been developed at Fort Worth but they soon passed from the amateur to the professional ranks.

With the Houston Country club invitation, the Texas Golf association state championship, the Dallas Country club invitation, River Crest invitation, Glen Garden invitation, and the Southwestern event billed for early showings, Fort Worth's man of the hour appears to be Massingill. He is a veteran of many years but fascination of competition can lure Joe Ballard, former Fort Worth champion, back into the picture. Ballard still is a long hitter and fine golfer, but passed up the tournaments last

Smith's Game
A golf game, that eluded in time with pars has been taken apart, flaws ironed out and re-assembled, and will be uncovered at the starting tee of the Houston Country club invitation.

The game belongs to Reynolds Smith who once played Gus Moreland a 36-hole match, shot three under par and suffered a 6 and 5 licking. He played Moreland again, shot four under par and lost 4 and 2.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald (above) of Great Britain has been selected to head the debt delegation which will come to the United States to talk war debt revisions with United States officials.

What if the U. S. L. T. A. did have a rule forbidding a player in any tournament writing for publication about it, in other words "covering" the event?
Did that mean anything to Bill Tilden, many times the champion, and the man who has done more than the U. S. L. T. A. to build up the game in the United States throughout the last decade?
It did not. Bill usually sat and wrote whatever he pleased, and they had to like it, because Tilden for ever so many years was all there was in tennis—and don't be too sure when the date for that open rolls around that he isn't in there yet, taking his cut.

Hated and Applauded
Tilden has been as great a champion at his own game as Dempsey at fighting, Jones at golf, Grange at football—yes, even Babe Ruth at baseball. There were times in his career when the public hated him for snobby showmanship that seemed to be carried too far. But there were more frequent occasions when the world applauded him for his defiance of the very peculiar by-laws of the U. S. L. T. A.

HOOKS and SLIDES

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

The Last Laugh
The setting would be perfect for one of those last laugh episodes—and an ironic and mocking laugh at that—at the expense of Bill Tilden, if it were not for Mr. Tilden himself.

PRIME MINISTER RAMSAY MACDONALD (above) of Great Britain has been selected to head the debt delegation which will come to the United States to talk war debt revisions with United States officials.

When the U. S. L. T. A. finally announced the other day that, after all these years, its august self would sanction an open tennis championship, in which amateurs would meet the pros, as in golf, it appeared that the laugh was on Big Bill. For only the other day in Chicago Tilden mournfully declared himself out of the picture.

Big Bill was 40 years old Feb. 10. It seems a pretty good age at which to retire from such a back-breaking sport as tennis. Tilden has seen all there is to see, has won everything there is to win in tennis.

Quit Now?
But when the amateurs and pro-gather at the Germantown Crickets Club in Philadelphia in summer, don't be too sure that Bill will not be there. His sudden appearance would be altogether in keeping with his life, a career of surprises.

Why, those lads are still mad at me. They wait until I have announced my retirement and then they decide to have an open championship. Maybe they want to have the last laugh. Well, let's see now who really will have the last laugh. I feel great. I'll play. I'll fool them.

Time after time, Big Bill has sat down before his portable typewriter not only to doobey the U. S. L. T. A. but to criticize the dear old organization.

TRACK TEAM IS SELECTED

Seven Best Runners in U. S. Named to Compete in Europe in Summer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17. (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union has selected a powerful seven-man track team to compete in Europe next summer.

Invitations to join the squad definitely have been accepted by Bill Carr, Olympic 400 meter champion, and Gene Zenke, world's indoor record holder at the mile, both of the University of Pennsylvania; Ben Eastman of Stamford; Jim Bausch, Olympic decathlon champion; Ralph Metcalfe, crack negro sprinter; and George Spitz, world's indoor high jump record holder. The seventh member of the team probably will be George Salin, Olympic high hurdles champion.

The team will leave for Europe immediately after the national championships at Chicago, and compete in Stockholm and probably in Germany, France, and Italy as well.

'Golden Boy' To Be Buried Today

WRENTHAM, Mass., Feb. 17. (AP)—Friends gathered today at the little white home Ernie SchAAF built with his fists. They came to pay parting homage to the sailor whose struggle toward the pugilistic heights ended in death after a bout with Primo Carnera last Friday.

At 10 o'clock they planned to take him to St. Mary's church with six of his old pals walking beside the hearse. There a solemn high mass was to be sung for the youth, they said once wanted to be a priest.

Among the pall bearers selected were Jerry Buckley, brother of the fighter's manager. Another was Jack McCarthy, a stablemate, and heavyweight of considerable note.

The three managers who guided boxing's "Golden Boy" were to be among the mourners, Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion and co-manager who carried the inert form from the ring of Madison Square Garden in New York; John Buckley, co-manager with Sharkey; Phil Schlossberg, old time fighter who took Ernie in charge when they were shipmates on the U. S. S. Denver.

The outlook for the others, however, was not so rosy. Complete information is not available in view of the fact that a number of clubs, the Phillies, Athletics, Browns, Cardinals, Tigers, Braves, and Reds, decline to confess which players are signed and which are not.

However, there is enough data on hand to indicate a serious situation which probably will clarify itself in time.

The Yankees have 11 unsigned players, including Ruth, Gehrig, Dickey, Tony Lazzeri, Earle Combs, Charley Ruffing, Ben Chapman, Herb Pennock, and Frank Crosetti. The Cleveland Indians still are arguing with Ferrell, Kamm, Hudlin, Dick Porter, Roy Spencer, and three others of lesser importance while the Chicago White Sox, so far as public announcement goes, have not yet succeeded in getting Eval Swanson, Chad Kimsey, Sam Jones, Luke Appling, Billy Sullivan, and a couple of others to sign.

If the Athletics have any real salary problems they probably will center about George Earnshaw for it is understood that virtually all the others are under contract. The St. Louis Browns are known to have signed only six players including Sam Jones, Jim Levey, Bruce Campbell, Muddy Ruel, Wally Hebert, and one rookie. No information at all

HOLDOUTS ARE NUMEROUS AND TRAINING NEAR

SITUATION REMAINS A SERIOUS PROBLEM TO MAGNATES

NEW YORK, Feb. 17. (AP)—Spring and the training camps are just around the corner but for some major league clubs the holdout situation remains a serious problem.

The magnates when they adopted a general policy of retrenchment and cut deeply into salaries, were prepared for a somewhat larger quota of indignant players than star performers than customary but probably not even they expected so heavy a list of dissatisfied players.

Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Red Lucas, Ernie Lombardi, Hack Wilson, Joe Stripp, Wes Ferrell, Willie Kamm, Willis Hudlin, Frank Frisch, and Heinie Manush are just a few of the headliners who have balked at terms.

There are striking exceptions of course. The Pittsburgh Pirates, who surprised the National league by finishing second last season with inexperienced men at both shortstop and second base, have signed every player on the 1933 roster.

The Boston Red Sox likewise have all their men under contract and the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs each have only one player outside the fold. The Giants have yet to snare outfielder Len Koeckee and the Cubs are still awaiting outfielder Vince Barton's contract.

Barton, however, usually says postage and appears at training camp with his contract signed and sealed. The Washington Senators, hoping to give the New York Yankees or anybody else a battle for the American league flag, have only four unsigned players—Manush, Moe Berg, Bob Burke, and Bob Freidrich.

The outlook for the others, however, is not so rosy. Complete information is not available in view of the fact that a number of clubs, the Phillies, Athletics, Browns, Cardinals, Tigers, Braves, and Reds, decline to confess which players are signed and which are not.

However, there is enough data on hand to indicate a serious situation which probably will clarify itself in time.

The Yankees have 11 unsigned players, including Ruth, Gehrig, Dickey, Tony Lazzeri, Earle Combs, Charley Ruffing, Ben Chapman, Herb Pennock, and Frank Crosetti. The Cleveland Indians still are arguing with Ferrell, Kamm, Hudlin, Dick Porter, Roy Spencer, and three others of lesser importance while the Chicago White Sox, so far as public announcement goes, have not yet succeeded in getting Eval Swanson, Chad Kimsey, Sam Jones, Luke Appling, Billy Sullivan, and a couple of others to sign.

Schaaf Died Of Natural Causes Is New Opinion

NEW YORK, Feb. 17. (AP)—Preliminary examination of the outer surfaces of the brain of Ernie SchAAF, heavyweight boxer who died Tuesday following a bout with Primo Carnera, have strengthened the belief of the medical examiner's office that death was due entirely to natural causes, and not the result of blows from the huge Italian's fists, the Associated Press learned from a reliable source today.

Although announcement scheduled yesterday by Dr. Charles W. Norris, chief medical examiner, was postponed, it was learned that preliminary examination showed diffuse swelling of the brain, due to encephalitis, a condition which occurs occasionally following influenza.

This conclusion, which is non-technical in terms, means that swelling of the brain, considerable in degree, was caused by inflammation of the entire brain surface that could have been caused by influenza, opposes the diagnosis of operating surgeons who said SchAAF died of hemorrhage and intra-cranial pressure, brought on by Carnera's blows.

ZANGARA IS TYPE OF IMMIGRANT WHO WAS DANGEROUS ANARCHIST BEFORE HE CAME TO THE U. S. A.

By DALE HARRISON.
NEW YORK, Feb. 17. (AP)—He was the kind of fellow who cursed government and then ran to the government's postal savings bank with his money for safekeeping.

That was the philosophy—if it be philosophy—of Giuseppe Zangara, who from a cheap pistol fired at Miami Wednesday night five shots that threatened to write red pages of American history.

He came to America, an immigrant, in 1923, from Italy. Many years before another immigrant had come from Bohemia. That was Anton Cermak. He elected to write his life's destiny in the golden sands of the new world which another Bohemian, also with the given name Anton, had apostrophized in a great symphony.

The one, hating government and hating rulers, ranted from soap boxes in broken English or, if his audience could understand, in his native Italian. The other became mayor of Chicago.

Their paths met Wednesday night in Miami. In the hands of one was an eight-dollar pistol. In his heart, by his own words, was the assassination of the president-elect of the United States.

Sent Money To Father.
Back in Calabria, Italy, the father of Giuseppe Zangara has been wondering for several weeks what has become of his son in America. The money which Giuseppe had been sending home was much appreciated by the father, the step-mother and the step-sisters there.

Only a day or two ago a letter came from the elder Zangara to Vincent Cafasco of Jatorson, N. J., an uncle of Giuseppe, asking where the son was.

"The money has stopped," wrote the father. "Where is Giuseppe? He was always so prompt with the money."

Cafasco didn't know. But he knows now. Giuseppe tried to shoot down the president-to-be.

In Calabria, probably under the guidance of his father, the young Giuseppe became a stonemason and bricklayer. When he reached America through the port of Philadelphia ten years ago he soon found that he could make good money here at his trade.

He took out papers of naturalization. He put his savings in the postal savings bank; and he began to talk from soap boxes.

To those who like to toy with thoughts, it may be set down that in the Alexander Hamilton hotel in Paterson, N. J.—a hotel named for a great American who died from a pistol bullet's wound—are bricks laid by Giuseppe Zangara.

Zangara always indicated definite political ideas, yet federal agents seeking to trace his career in America have failed to find any connection between him and any anarchic or anti-government group. He was a lone wolf of the soap box. He registered once as a republican, and that is the only evidence so far uncovered to indicate a political leaning.

Yet when they seized him at Miami, he said his first intention was to kill the republican President Hoover; and that "personally" he liked Mr. Roosevelt "very much."

His pastime was checkers. His uncle Vincent Cafasco recalled that today. It was a major interest.

Saved His Money.
Zangara laid his bricks well. His account in the postal savings bank was said to be more than $800, and there were balances in excess of $2,000 in New Jersey banks.

In mid-August of 1931 Zangara withdrew his money from the banks. What he did with it has not been determined. The assumption is that he preferred to guard it himself, for there has been no evidence of any extravagance. His monthly rent for a considerable part of his time was around $20.

Once in Italy Zangara said he made an attempt upon the life of the king, so his hatred of rulers traces beyond his arrival in America; but the attempt, if indeed there were an attempt, is not recalled in Rome.

Pain Bothered Him.
Last summer Zangara spent about two months with his uncle in Towson, New Jersey. That was after he had been absent for some time. It is believed part of 1931 was spent in California. A Los Angeles tailor identified pictures of Zangara yesterday as those of a man who roomed with him there. The man, said the tailor, tried to get in the fire department and spent some time in night school. He complained often of a "pain in his chest," and talked quite a bit "about government."

In April, 1932, a Joseph Zangara registered at a Miami hotel, and clerks there said he was the same man now held. He appeared to have plenty of money. Frequent packages and letters arrived for him. He said they were special treatments for a stomach disorder which seems to have given him much trouble for several years.

"Sometimes," he repeated last night before falling off into an easy sleep in the Miami jail, "I get big pain in the stomach. Then I want to kill these presidents who oppress the working man."

A good bricklayer, he turned his trowel to assassination, and builded himself a cell.

NEEDY UNDER 40
NEW YORK (INS)—According to emergency workers, 63 per cent of men and women in need of relief here are under 40 years old.

COMBATANTS BARRED
LIMA, Peru, Feb. 16. (AP)—Brazil barred upper Amazon channels today to Colombia and Peru, who began an undeclared border war Tuesday in Brazilian territory. Gen. Motta, commander of Brazilian demarcation forces, informed his government that the channels of Aramazas, Cieto, and Eperanza had been closed to the two combatant nations.

William Hall of Nolette is a Pampa visitor today.

Warrants Are Held For Petty Thieving

Officers of the sheriff's department were working on solution of petty thieving today and had several warrants for arrest of suspects.

Four persons were in jail to be arraigned on charges of vagrancy. The peace and dignity of the county was, on the whole, in good condition.

COMMISSIONERS MEETING
Gray county commissioners were assembling this morning for discussions of unfinished business, selection of a county depository, and other business.

PRESIDENT-ELECT ROOSEVELT TELLS STORY OF ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION AS HE SAW IT

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT-ELECT ROOSEVELT TO NEW YORK, Feb. 17. (AP)—Relaxing on the train carrying him to New York, President-elect Roosevelt today told the story of the attempted assassination of himself.

He was persuaded by newspapermen to permit it to be published. Here it is:

"I have heard so many accounts myself that I have been trying to think what really happened as I saw it.

"After I had finished speaking, someone from the talking picture people climbed on the back of the car and said you must repeat that speech for us. I said I would not. He said 'we have come 1,000 miles for this.' I said 'I am very sorry but I can't do it.'

"Having said that, I slid off the back of the car into my seat.

"Firecracker Explosion
"Just then Mayor Cermak came forward and I talked with him about a minute about Chicago in general. Then he moved off behind the car. Bob Clark (one of the secret service men) was standing right by him. As he moved away, a man came forward with a long telegram and started telling me what it contained. While he was talking I leaned forward. Just then I heard what I thought was a firecracker, then several more. The man talking with me pulled back and the chauffeur started the car.

"I looked around and saw Mayor

Cermak doubled up with Mrs. Gill collapsing. I told the chauffeur to stop. He did. About 15 feet from where we started. The secret service men shouted to him 'get out of the crowd.' The chauffeur started again and I stopped him again, this time at the corner of the bandstand.

"Looking back I saw Cermak being carried along and we put him in our car. He was alive but I was afraid he wouldn't last. I got my hand on his pulse and found none. He was on the seat with me and I had my left arm around him. He slumped forward. A detective from Miami, on the running board on that side of the car was leaning over him. He said after we had gone a couple of blocks he was afraid Cermak would not last. "I, too, was fearful. Just then Cermak straightened up and got his pulse. That was surprising. For three blocks I actually believe his heart had stopped.

"I held him all the way to the hospital, and his pulse constantly improved. It seemed like 25 miles to the hospital. I talked to him all the way. I remember I said, 'Tony don't move—keep quiet—it won't hurt if you keep quiet and remain perfectly still.'

"You know I knew Bill Snott. I kidded him at the hospital this morning and told him they couldn't hurt him with a bullet in the head. It would just bounce off. I left orders for them to starve him and take off at least 20 pounds."
