PRICE FIVE CENTS

TWINKLES
Today's fable: Once there was a man who thought cuts in the price of crude oil would make his gasoline cheaper.

At any rate, crude oil cuts can't affect the high cost of gasoline taxes, state and federal.

Percy, the office mouse, has applied for a diet minus Dr. Worrell's special rat poison. Percy doesn't wish to be a part of the diet of the West Foster white menace—a cat of wide meanderings.

We hope the community garden sponsored by the federal relief committee will be more productive than the Lions club turnip patch was two years ago. C. H. Walker assures us that he will advise the gardeners, that he is a real dirt farmer from Tennessee, and that his shins still bear scars accumulated in grubbing elm sprouts.

Charity is an obsolete word. Relief is getting state. Public support of unemployed seems a dire necessity in many communities. But support at standard wages will never arrive through anything short of communism. Those who expect to live well without working are deluded.

We never before knew so many persons eager to prove good neighbors. Nor, for that matter, so many persons actually hungering for work. The exceptions should not confuse use.

Fred A Story in Clarendon News: We know a father whose daughter is a really brilliant young soprano. But the father has always shown a disposition to discount his daughter's accomplishments in music. He refuses, often, to attend programs on which she is to appear; he makes no comment on her solo work; he affects lack of interest when friends compliment her in his presence. His attitude has always been the greatest disappointment in his daughter's life because, lacking it, she craves his praise more than any other's. Truly a strange father.

(Sounds like another case of a man who is too stubborn to admit he is wrong. Such fellows learn to enjoy misery, but they lose immeasurably—even more than unappreciated sons and daughters. Scientists say it is physically possible to be more related to one's grandparents than to one's parents. And sometimes it seems so.)

NO BANK ROBBERY?
J. M. Noble, Canadian Record: Bank robberies to the north of us, bank robberies to the south of us. Let it stop there. A good deal of caution has been used here to prevent bank robberies and it is the hope of citizens that the precaution will continue to keep those undesirable far away from our door. The first precaution was installation of a burglar alarm system, followed by tear gas. And Canadian also has a good night watchman.

(We hope you're right, J. M. But some bandits rob first and investigate afterward. If you should have a radio, telephone or pronto, will you?)

THOSE EGOTISTS
J. C. Estlack in Donley County Leader: Fortunate for those who see no goodness or greatness in any one but themselves that the good Lord does not photograph the interior of their carcasses and with the great stereoscope of heaven flash it on canvases to the gaze of the public. We are at least spared an awful view.

(And unfortunate is it that the great amount of good there is in the world cannot be known. Littleness abounds in high places and low, but bigness likewise. Recent years have cut down our giants but the intrinsic beauty of a human soul has not diminished.)

FAKE ACCIDENTS
Dave Warren in Panhandle Herald: The New York Herald Tribune magazine recently carried an astounding article on fake automobile accidents. According to the article, these cost the American public about $14,000,000 a year—and to this must be added such indirect

JOBLESS BOND BILL IS READY TO BE SIGNED

AMENDMENT WOULD BE VOTED ON NEXT AUGUST 26

CONCURRENCE IS GIVEN

AD VALOREM TAX SHALL NOT BE LEVIED TO MEET PAYMENTS

AUSTIN, May 15 (P)—A resolution passed by the legislature submitting a $20,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue was ready for Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson's approval today.

The senate concurred in house amendments by a vote of 23 to 5. The governor is expected to approve the resolution as soon as it reached her office.

The governor was advised by officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation that when the legislature authorized submission of the bond issue proposal federal relief money again would be available to the state.

The matter of amending the state constitution to permit issuance of the bonds would be submitted to the electorate in a special election on August 26 next.

The house amended the resolution to provide that at no time should an ad valorem tax be levied to pay interest or principal of the bonds; that they should not be considered as a lien on real or personal property, and that no commission would be paid for their sale in event they are issued.

Three Medical Kits Taken From Physicians' Cars

Churches Filled As Mother's Day Programs Heard

Increased attendance was reported at Pampa churches yesterday when Mother's day was observed in special Sunday school and worship programs.

Churches reported crowds of Easter proportions to hear morning sermons and musical programs which honored mothers. Sunday schools generally showed attendance increases over the preceding week.

Nine hundred were present at First Baptist Sunday school and the attendance at both morning and evening services was the largest since Easter, the pastor, Rev. C. E. Lancaster, said.

Mother's day was observed with nature programs in the Men's Bible class at Junior Christian Endeavor at First Christian church. The morning sermon was directed to the high school seniors who are members of the church. Sunday school had an attendance of 457.

First Methodist church reported 535 at Sunday school and a well-attended Mother's day morning service. No evening service was held, as the commencement vesper program was given in the building late in the afternoon.

I HEARD--

M. K. Brown telling about a terrifier christening the swimming pool yesterday afternoon. A number of children were wading around in the shallow water but the terrifier advanced to the deeper part and went under, to his dismay. The water is being used for cleaning purposes.

S. A. Hayden, teacher at the negro school, excitedly telling about water piped to his school. In the past, the children had to carry water a considerable distance. The piping of the water was made possible by the White Deer Land company and the school board.

Mexican Artist Is "Fired"

TRAIN STRIKES CAR; THREE DIE AT SAN ANGELO

SAN ANGELO, May 15 (P)—Striking of an automobile by a Santa Fe motor train from Alpine at the Washington drive crossing here late Sunday had claimed the lives of three occupants of the car early today, and three others were in hospitals, one possibly fatally injured.

The dead: Mrs. Clarice Pierce, 30; Theodore O. Pierce, 30, engineer for the West Texas Utilities company and driver of the coupe; Miss Gladys Clark, 28, sister of Mrs. Pierce. The injured: Miss Nellie Clark, sister of Mrs. Pierce and Miss Gladys Clark, skull fractured and condition critical; Miss Gussie Ruth Hayden, 23, and the year-old infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierce, neither apparently seriously hurt.

The accident happened within one block of the depot and the automobile was dragged 114 feet before the train was stopped. Pierce was dead when taken from the wreckage. Mrs. Pierce died three hours later and Miss Gladys Clark died early this morning. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

TEXAS DEMOCRATS NAME McDONALD TO HOLD POST OF NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

'MA' SUGGESTS POLL TAX LAW BE APPROVED

WOULD PERMIT VOTERS TO REGISTER FOR AUG. 26 BALLOT

COULD PAY $1.75 FEE

HOUSE REJECTED PLAN TWICE DURING LAST WEEK

AUSTIN, May 15 (P)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today sent a message to the legislature suggesting enactment of a law that would allow those who had not paid a poll tax to vote in the August 26 election by payment of a registration fee.

Legalization of 32 per cent beer and selection of delegates to a national prohibition repeal state convention will be considered at the August 26 election.

The house last week twice refused Pope permission to introduce a bill of that nature.

When the message was read in the senate, Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman raised a point of order against it.

"A bill of that kind would be unconstitutional," he said. "The constitution says very plainly every voter shall pay a poll tax. Also the governor cannot introduce a bill in the senate."

Lieut. Governor Witt said the bill had not been introduced and did not bear the names of any one.

"The governor merely is suggesting legislation of this nature by announcement," Witt said.

Humble Would Pay 20c Barrel For Stored Oil

The local office of the Humble Oil & Refining company received word this morning that effective 7 a. m. May 13 the Humble Oil & Refining company withdrew its order of purchasing 60 per cent of its takings and storing the other 40 per cent, and announced that it would purchase all crude oil in storage at the posted price which is 20 cents a barrel in Gray county and 18 a barrel in Carson and Hutchinson counties.

The order also stated that the Humble Oil & Refining company would pay the gathering charges against the oil which were set by the Humble Pipe Line company, and also would pay one-half the storage charge after the first month at the rate also set by the Humble Pipe Line company.

Humble's takings was set by the railroad commission at 8,000 barrels, but that company could only handle 5,000 barrels, so the order to purchase 60 per cent and store the other 40 per cent was issued several months ago.

RESIGNATION WITHDRAWN BY JED C. ADAMS

FERGUSON AND FRIENDS TRYING TO UNSEAT COMMITTEEMAN

MINORITY IS DEFEATED

FARLEY ASKS HEAD OF TEXAS DEMOCRATS TO HOLD POST

DALLAS, May 15 (P)—The state democratic executive committee today endorsed C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls by a 24 to 7 vote to succeed Jed C. Adams as national committeeman, when and if Adams resigns.

The minority led by Hugh Carney of Atlanta was defeated at every turn in efforts to leave the question of Adams' successor open. Maury Hughes, chairman of the state committee, had called the group together to select a successor after Adams resigned the position to become a member of the federal tax appeals board. Adams last night announced that he had withdrawn his resignation at the request of James A. Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee.

Storm clouds gathered ominously over the session, with a move to replace Jed C. Adams with C. C. McDonald as democratic national committeeman from Texas definitely under way.

The move began after Adams notified the committee that, at the request of James A. Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the national committee, he was withdrawing his resignation as national committeeman and that it was his intention to remain in that post until his term ended in 1936.

Friends of McDonald, however, including James E. Ferguson, former governor, came to Dallas determined to place him in Adams' position and were making a determined effort to do so despite Adams' withdrawal of his resignation.

None would comment officially but a spokesman said they would base their fight on the ground that Adams, as a member of the board of tax appeals, would be holding a semi-judicial position which would disqualify him from holding the national committee seat.

The spokesman said it was his belief that the committee would vote for McDonald in preference to Vice President Garner or Maury Hughes, chairman of the state committee.

Immediately after calling the committee to order Hughes read Adams' letter of withdrawal of the resignation, then called attention to the fact that John Bruner had withdrawn his resignation as committee member from district 25.

Since the filing of those two places constituted the reason for calling the committee together, that body was then left without business to transact.

Before a motion to adjourn could be put, B. Y. Cummins of Wichita Falls, proxy for August Hartman of Cuero, moved that a sub-committee be appointed to consider further procedure.

The following group then was appointed, with instructions to report back to the main body: James E. Ferguson, L. M. Bickett of San Antonio, J. K. Brim of Sulphur Springs, Mrs. Ewell Nail of Austin and C. F. Richards of Lockhart.

NEWS AND THE RADIO

The action of the Associated Press in voting to restrain its membership from supplying news to radio broadcasters is a reminder that news is a valuable and expensive commodity. The reader of any responsible American daily knows that he is safe from "manufactured" news; yet, in a different sense, all news has to be manufactured, and today a heavy investment, elaborate plant and intricate and experienced organization are required for the process. News is not only accurate information—it is information gathered, collated and delivered in a given spot. As far as New Yorkers are concerned, such an event as, say, the outbreak of the war in Jehol would not be news as long as they knew nothing about it. The facts became news when they were ascertained by reporters and correspondents, described in words, brought to the cable offices, transmitted to the United States and made available to the public. News is not something which fills the air like sunshine, the property of everyone; it is something which, like iron ore, has to be dug up, refined, transported and made usable.

In the intricate modern world this is a tremendous undertaking, and the newspapers which perform the task, with the press associations that they jointly own, at least have a right to ask that he results of their labors be not appropriated by another advertising medium in direct competition with them, in order to increase the other medium's ability to compete. A railroad which had mined its fuel and transported it to its storage yards would never think of giving it away to a rival line to improve the quality of the latter's service. The radio, arriving upon the established scene with all the enthusiasm of youth, has had some difficulty in appreciating that art and information alike are hard things to produce as well as to distribute. The American Society of Composers and Publishers had to fight a long and desperate battle before it was able to convince the radio that it ought to pay for the copyrights which it utilized in order to make its advertising time salable; and there is no reason why newspapers should give or sell their news to the radio as long as they themselves keep it always available to the public.—Herald Tribune, New York.

Qualifying For National Open To Begin Today

NEW YORK, May 15. (AP)—More than 800 professionals and amateurs, swung into action on 20 courses today in the sectional qualifying round for the national open golf championship which will be played at Chicago June 8, 9 and 10.

By nightfall, all of the 116 places in the open still vacant were to be filled. Thirty-five club-wielders already have won their places in the field at Chicago. Thirty-three of them, including most of the country's most famous stars, automatically gained berths by finishing among the first 30 and ties in the 1932 open. The other two, Willie Hunter and Nell White, California state amateur champion, qualified in the Los Angeles sectional qualifying round held last Thursday, four days in advance of the trials in the other 20 districts.

Among the more prominent stars slated for competition in the sectional tests were Horton Smith, Chick Evans, Jack Hutchinson, Jack Westland, Johnny Revolta, George Dawson, Abe Espinosa and Johnny Lehman in the Chicago district; Johnny Farrell, Cyril Walker, Gene Homans, Johnny Golden, Tony Manero, Willie Klein, Joe Turnesa and Walter Kozak in New York; Roland MacKenzie in Denver; Al Espinosa and Maurice McCarthy in Cleveland; Charley Hall, Sam Perry, Ernie Ball and Charley Yates at Atlanta; Roland Hancock at Boston; Gus Moreland at Dallas.

Germany's 'War Spirit' Alarms Great Britain

LONDON, May 15. (AP)—Efforts were made in Downing street today to calm the sensation in the press over the week-end concerning the general European crisis.

It was stated that no anxiety was felt in official circles regarding the week-end developments.

Several morning newspapers spoke of the increased tension in Europe, anxiously discussed what they interpreted as gathering war clouds, and viewed as the main danger the growing war spirit in Germany.

The Daily Times, after commenting on what it called "the incalculable hatred of the foreigner and of militarism in the Hitler regime, called upon Germany 'to disprove, if possible, to disprove—that one of the main objects of Hitlerism is to prepare for a war of revenge."

The cabinet members, including Lord Hallsham, secretary of war, were at No. 10 Downing street early in the morning but it was declared they attended a cabinet sub-committee meeting on the world economic conference.

It again was stated that Lord Hallsham's declaration in the house of lords last Thursday night concerning Germany's disarmament policy was a judicial statement regarding Germany's obligations under the Versailles treaty.

There was no effort in British political circles to disguise the dissatisfaction caused by a speech Saturday night by Franz von Papen, German vice chancellor, in which he compared the present situation in Germany with that which obtained in 1914.

Descendant of Sir Francis Drake Crosses Pacific in One-Man Boat

By H. C. HUNTER

SEATTLE, May 15. (AP)—Philosopher, humorist and lover of the sea is blue-eyed Capt. Thomas Drake, who sat in the cabin of his one-man boat, in which he had just completed a trip across the Pacific from the Hawaiian Islands, and casually spoke of the blood of Sir Francis Drake coursing through his veins.

But ancestors are only "accidental" to the gray-haired little man, as he tells of revolutions, shipwrecks, and happy hours of "sea reading" while his trim little 37-foot vessel, the Progress, nosed her way through the swelling seas.

Shown a newspaper story of 25 years ago, giving an account of the finding of Thomas Drake at Stanwood, Wash., a little village near Puget Sound, Captain Drake's only comment was: "Yes, I'm the man."

The old news story said the Stanwood of his father in England, and wood man ran away from his home in England when but 11 years old, sailed the oceans in old wind-jammer days and finally settled on Puget Sound until found by the executors of his father's estate.

The story told how the family was descended from Sir Francis Drake, to which Captain Drake added: "He was about the great-great-great grandfather—but it doesn't matter."

Money is equally immaterial to the 70-year-old skipper of the "best sea-going boat in these waters."

"All I need is money to buy grub," he explained as his blue eyes twinkled. "It doesn't buy happiness. You see I have no money, don't want any, yet I'm happy. I've got what all these fellows with their big yachts are seeking, yet don't know how to get. I've got contentment, and that's true happiness."

The captain started his lone wanderings about 20 years ago. He made a 53-day trip from Seattle to Kiel, Germany, in the tiny schooner Pilgrim, later wrecked on the coast of Holland.

Two Champ Bouts Set For This Week

NEW YORK, May 15. (AP)—Two championship bouts, one on either side of the coast, top the national boxing schedule this week.

At Los Angeles on Saturday night, Young Corbett, Fresno southpaw, will defend his newly won welterweight title against the Vancouver Irishman, Jimmy McLarnin, over the ten-round route.

In Madison Square Garden Friday night, Kid Chocolate, recognized in New York state as world's featherweight champion, will tackle the British challenger, Seaman Tom Watson, in a 15-round title bout postponed from last week. They were to have clashed last Friday night but Chocolate came down with a severe case of stomach trouble and a week's delay was necessary.

Chocolate continues to rule an 8-5 favorite over Watson and Corbett probably will be the public choice over McLarnin although these welterweight duels may enter the ring at close to even money.

The White Cockatoo

by Mignon G. Eberhart

SYNOPSIS: Jim Sudean has discovered evidence that seems to connect the man known as Esther Robert with the plot to steal the stolen with which Sue Tally must prove her place to a great fortune. Perhaps he also has a connection with the two murders that have horrified the guests of the small French hotel that has been their scene. But when he and Esther Lorn, the detective, are ready to inform the police, they learn that Esther Robert has disappeared. Then there is news.

Chapter 33 THE COFFIN

THE police had discovered the owner of the gun. It was a man by the name of Michael Stravsky. And a photograph of the dead man had been mailed to the gunsmith, and he had said that without a doubt it was a picture of the man who bought the gun.

"That must be the murdered man, then," I said. "Michael Stravsky."

Lorn nodded. His face was impassive as ever, but I think he was actually as excited over the development as I was.

"And it was a bullet from that gun that killed Marcel?"

"Yes. They extracted two bullets, and it was that gun."

"But the man was dead long before that gun was used to kill Marcel. If the murdered man was Stravsky that very fact links the murderer of Marcel and the murderer of Marcel. Stravsky's murderer searched his pockets, took the dead man's gun, among other things, and later used the gun on little Marcel."

"Perhaps," said Lorn. "He would feel safe in getting rid of it as he did. Simply tossing it to the lounge floor, knowing that, even if it were traced, it could do him no damage. I tell you, Sudean, this is an exceptional criminal. It took nerve to do that."

"It took," I said hotly, thinking of Marcel, "a devil. I thought the gun would eventually prove to belong to the priest."

"I thought so myself," said Lorn. He pulled his coat tighter about him. We were talking in the courtyard, inside in the little lobby were several policemen with Lovschien, fat and Protestant and lighted in the midst of them, and Madame Grethe listening coldly at one side.

"Why are they questioning Lovschien now? Trying to discover if he knew the man?"

"I suppose so," said Lorn without much interest.

"Do you think he did?"

"I don't know. It's possible."

"Stravsky—he might have been in cahoots with the priest."

Lorn nodded impatiently, as if I were very slow at arriving at the conclusion.

"There's another thing," he said. "The poison was a compound of nicotine. No, no—he forestalled my inquiries quickly—that's all I know now. I'm off to the police station. Perhaps I'll know more when I get back. Ah-h—"

He hesitated and looked a little embarrassed, as if he had just remembered his more pressing duty, and then said: "You don't mind just keeping an eye on Miss Tally, do you?"

I didn't mind. But I believe I managed to say so without undue warmth.

In the hall upstairs I met Sue. She looked tired and pale even in that dim light, and hadn't she told me, slept well.

"I felt—haunted," she said, and then laughed a little tremulously.

"Well, I had felt that way myself. I said, 'I'm delegated to keep an eye on you this morning. Lorn wants to hobnob with the police.'"

"The police? Have they made any discoveries?"

Briefly I told her what they were, and she listened thoughtfully. After a moment she shrugged her shoulders.

"There's nothing we can do, I suppose, but wait," she said. "But the inactivity is rather bad—Come," she said suddenly. "You must see the show piece. I'll show you the famous Pope's piano."

I followed her through the dim corridor, admiring as I went her graceful smooth carriage, the slope of her shoulders, the proud way her head bent on her slender neck. It was just at the turn from the middle corridor into the north wing that an unexpected thing occurred.

She was wearing again the gray tweed suit and crimson scarf at her throat, and as she entered the main wing door the scarf flung back, caught on a projecting ledge.

Caught and held and all in a second whirled her around sharply against me and into my arms.

It was very sudden, and it caught me off my guard, and there was no one near, and the corridor was dark and empty and still, and my arms were tight around her and holding her close to me, and her hair brushed my face.

And immediately the empty corridors and the hotel and the world ceased to exist, and there was nothing but darkness and warmth and Sue in my arms with my mouth against her mouth.

Then Sue was a small figure in the darkness apart from me, her face a white blur. And I was trying to steady my voice so I could speak, and my heart was pounding as if I'd been running a race, and I wanted her in my arms again, and I dreaded what she might say. It's true that a kiss is only a kiss. But the girl was Sue. It made such a difference.

"I'm sorry."

"I waited. I thought of trying further apology."

"Then all at once Sue spoke. She spoke in a breathless little voice that I'd never heard before. But she said coolly enough:

"Weren't we going to look at the Pope's piano?"

I OPENED the door and then paused.

"It's dark in here," I said, with perhaps a note of warning in my voice.

"Well," said Sue, and there was just a spark of laughter in her eyes. "Well—open the shutters."

As she followed me into the large, empty, furnished room the laughter fled.

"How cold it is!" she said with a shiver. "And how musty!" She followed me to the window and held back the curtain while I flung back the window, which let in a breath of crisp fresh air, opened the shutters, and as the gray light crept in closed the window again.

The light did nothing to remove the gloom that hung over the old room. Even the flowered carpet and the gilt emblems on the mantel mirror looked garish and desolate and ugly. The color had gone from Sue's face.

"It isn't exactly lively in here," I said, "in spite of the frivolous furniture."

"The furniture makes it worse," said Sue with a shudder. "However, there's the piano."

It loomed up in the shadowy corner—enormous, dark, long, like a great black coffin on legs. Neither of us was in a hurry to approach it.

Sue looked about her, walked over to a lone, white table with a faded pink velvet cover, which stood under the dead chandelier, and peered there meditatively.

"Dust," she said, drawing a slim forefinger across it.

Her voice broke off and changed, and she said with sharp impatience: "What is the matter with this room!"

"It's been closed too long," I said prosaically, though I knew what she felt. "And it's cold."

The room had all at once become intolerable. Its silence brooded; the cold was musty; the shadows dim; there was an intangible feeling of menace hanging over it and us. Instinct bade me get Sue out of the place.

But in that little moment of silence between us came a very strange and startling thing.

"Someone—somewhere near us—sighed heavily."

It was a long sigh—long and struggling and inexpressibly weary. It was distinct and unmistakable and dreadful in that chill, breathless silence.

Our eyes leaped to meet. I was on my feet. So was Sue. Neither of us spoke.

Then I went to the piano. It was dark in that corner. I held the revolver in my hand.

There was no one there.

I lifted the lid of the huge shape.

After a moment my fingers dropped the revolver into my pocket again, and I touched cautiously something inside.

"What—?" whispered Sue.

I closed the lid. It was, then, in very truth a coffin.

"Please leave. Leave at once."

Sue did not move. I was thinking that the crowded thing under that lid couldn't possibly have uttered that heavy, struggling sigh. It was too long dead.

MILLIONS IN CASH FOUND AS POLICE PROBE RIDLEY'S DEATH

Reds Work For Big Wheat Crop

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Far ahead in its wheat planting program, Russia is moving steadily nearer its goal of becoming once again a major wheat exporting nation.

Its progress this year comes at a time when the four major wheat exporting nations—Canada, Argentina, Australia and the United States—through representatives at Geneva, are seeking a preliminary agreement on plans to control their output, stabilize international wheat trade, and bring better prices to growers long depressed.

The bureau of agricultural economics reported today that on April 25, the last date for which official Russian planting statistics are available, Russians had planted 46,138,000 acres of spring wheat. This is far ahead of the progress made last year when 24,695,000 acres had been sown on the same date, and 1931, when only 16,793,000 acres had been planted.

POLICE SCAN DEBTOR LIST IN 3 DIARIES

BELIEVE KILLER SLEW EX-SECRETARY OF AGED MAN

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—A cache of $1,000,000 in cash popped into the Edward Ridley murder enigma today as 50 detectives sought to learn who slew the rich eccentric and his secretary in their dim sanctum 40 feet below the East Side's pavements.

The cash—hitherto unreckoned in computing the mortgage king's wealth—was discovered yesterday in vaults and accounts at a Broadway bank.

Code entries in three diaries—wherein Ridley and his secretary, Lee Weinstein, recorded a long list of secret debtors—were conned by police.

They sought to learn if it was one of the debtors who stole down to the sub-cellar office, shot Weinstein and battered Ridley to death with an antique stool amid his piles of musty records, mortgages and securities. They clung to the belief that the same killer may have been guilty of the murder months ago of Herman Moech, Weinstein's predecessor as secretary. He also was slain in the office.

A ton and a half of documents were carted from the office for study. Police said they would seek for more Ridley wealth in many banks. They asked police at Norfolk and Richmond, Va., to search there to determine if Ridley had deposited money in those cities thru Weinstein, his secretary. Weinstein formerly lived in Virginia.

Police announced a theory that Weinstein died before Ridley. This question has an important bearing on the disposition of Ridley's fortune, for the bewhiskered, 88-year-old millionaire left a will bequeathing $200,000 to Weinstein, provided he outlived Ridley.

Tear Gas Bombs Scatter Farmers In Milk Strike

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 15 (AP)—Tear gas bombs were flown into Waukesha county by airplane to reinforce deputy sheriffs who were forced to use their old supply to break up a fight of 400 farmers in the Wisconsin milk strike.

The outbreak occurred Sunday just inside the Walworth county line, about 25 miles southwest of Milwaukee after the farmers had stopped six trucks bound for Chicago and dumped 30,000 pounds of milk.

Only 35 deputies were on duty at the time to disperse the battling crowd they said they had to resort to tear gas. Later in the day a force of Walworth county deputies arrived and escorted trucks over highways deserted by them, of pickets. Otto Marquette chairman of the East Troy Milk Pool was knocked unconscious.

Winnebago, Sheboygan, Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha county deputies also were poised for action as city health commissioners sent trucks designated with Red Crosses into the country to get milk for children and the sick.

Funeral services were to be conducted in the chapel of the G. C. Malone Funeral home at 2 o'clock this afternoon with the Rev. James Todd, Jr., officiating. Burial was to follow in Fairview cemetery.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Boswell is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Clara Goldsmith of Cold Spring, Okla., and Mrs. Aba Beason of Claude, Okla., and two sons, J. H. Beach of Pampa and D. S. Beach of Ruthven, N. M.

WOMAN TEACHER AT CANYON GETS PH. D.

CANYON, May 15—Miss Angie Debo of the history department of the West Texas State Teachers college is the first woman on the faculty to receive a Ph. D. degree. Miss Debo has done her work at the University of Oklahoma, under the direction of Dr. E. S. Dale. As her dissertation subject she chose "A History of the Choctaw Nation."

According to Dr. Dale, Miss Debo passed a brilliant examination. Her degree will be formally conferred at the morning and there was also liberal buying by commission houses. This caused a good rally which carried July up to $8.67, October to $8.92, and December to $9.07, or 17 to 19 points up from the early lows. At this level, prices were still 9 to 14 points under Saturday's close.

Near mid-session the market was quieter and 1 to 2 points under the best of the morning.

Markets New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Stocks generally displayed lagging tendencies today, along with speculative bonds and the grain markets. Some of the specialties, notably the so-called "wet" equities, developed a lively demand at one time, but most of the leaders did little or nothing. The close was irregularly lower. Transfers approximately 3,000,000 shares.

VESPER SERVICE STARTS HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT WEEK

Business And Professional Women Honor Mothers With Annual Breakfast

CLASS SERMON DELIVERED BY C. E. LANCASTER

CHURCH FILLED FOR PROGRAM MUSIC AND TALK

COMMENCEMENT week started officially for high school seniors here with a vesper service at First Methodist church yesterday afternoon. Friends of the graduates crowded the auditorium and were turned away.

"Shepherds and Kings" was the subject chosen by Rev. C. E. Lancaster, First Baptist minister, for his address to the class.

Graduation is not a change, but a continuation of life, he said. It means going to a new place, but not necessarily from a pleasant to an unpleasant place. If a successful basis has been laid during school days, the graduate is likely to find the world a place for the realization of his ambitions, the speaker stressed.

Music By Club

Music for the vesper service was under direction of the Treble Clef club. It included two choral numbers, Sweet Is Thy Mercy (Barnby) and A Vesper Hymn (Prothers) by club members with Mrs. W. A. Bratton as director, and an organ solo, Finale from Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, by Mrs. May Foreman Carr. In addition to the professional and recreational numbers to which the class entered and left the section reserved for it.

The invocation was given by Rev. Newton C. Smith, the scripture reading by Rev. James Todd, and the benediction by Rev. John S. Mullen.

Graduation activities will be climaxed with the final program Thursday evening, when diplomas will be presented in an exercise at First Baptist church. Members of the class and the high school quartet will give the program, while school officials will present the diplomas and award honors.

Longer Life For House Plants Is Result Watering

since a large amount of water is lost by evaporation through the pot. This is an advantage rather than a disadvantage, for air also passes through the pot if it is an unglazed one and is of great benefit to the roots. When using saucers under the pots, be careful that they do not become filled with water. Plants must never stand for long periods in stagnant water. This danger can easily be overcome by using a saucer two sizes larger than the pot and filling it half full of small pebbles.

Most important of these rules is watering. Without doubt, most every indoor plant illness can be traced to improper watering. Some people water their plants every day, regardless of the weather, hot or cold, and give them the same haphazard quantity every time. This is a serious mistake. In hot weather, evaporation of moisture from the soil is much more rapid than in cold weather.

Naturally, then, the amount of water should be regulated to meet the atmospheric conditions. Otherwise the soil will become muddy or parched, as the case may be, and the plants cannot possibly thrive under such conditions.

When Ginger Rogers Goes Tragic It'll Be News, Even in Hollywood

GINGER ROGERS says she won't go in for heavy acting as a steady diet, despite a tryout in that line given her by a Hollywood studio. She prefers the type of comedy roles that have made her well known in the films.

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—We'll believe it when we see it—that Ginger Rogers is too woo that tragic muse and surprise us with some heavy drama.

Stranger things have happened in Hollywood, but it wouldn't seem to be in the cards that a flaming-haired lassie like Ginger, peppy as her name, would suddenly do an about-face and turn the tear-spigots on the camera.

There is, of course, always Joan Crawford, who gained fame by pulling her career in reverse, leaving the clapping to others while she climbed the hills of emotion.

Tripping Along

Ginger, who would be Virginia if she liked her own name, danced to victory in a Charleston contest down in Fort Worth, Tex., which dates her professional debut about 1926. She tripped into vaudeville and musical comedy and thence into films in "Young Man of Manhattan." She has been a comedienne, occasionally a romantic lead, ever since.

Nobody took her seriously, Ginger says, when she tried for heavier roles, until one studio tested her for emotional ability. When she signed at another plant she displayed the test reel, and they're giving her a chance.

But it's certain Ginger isn't going to put on the glamour act. "I'd like to play one of those roles now and then," she says, "but not as a steady diet. People want a laugh."

Here And There

There are all sorts of clubs in Hollywood, but there's one which will never be duplicated here. It's down in New Orleans, and its rule is that within its portals there shall be no discussion on business. If Hollywood couldn't talk pictures, Hollywood wouldn't talk!

They wasted no time getting out a screen biography of Wilson Mizner, picturesque adventurer, raconteur, and writer. It's to be made on the lot where Mizner himself worked, and William Powell is the probable star.

Henry Ford Dearborn, Mich.

May 9, 1933

A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years---1929 to 1932---we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward---through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method---new political and financial machinery---to pull us out the way we are going---forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only---the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.

And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

MAGNOLIA OPENS LEAGUE SEASON WITH 11 TO 4 VICTORY OVER SHAMROCK

FINE SUPPORT GIVEN PITCHER RABURN BURKE

IRISH SCORE THREE IN NINTH AND ONE IN THE EIGHTH

The Magnolia "Mags" hit the ball hard behind the steady hurling of Rayburn Burke yesterday afternoon at Magnolia park. The Shamrock Irishmen 11 to 4 in the opening game of the Cotton-Oil league. The "Mags" were led in their slashing attack by Freddy Newsome, who hit two home runs, a double and a triple in five trips to the plate.

Burke, pitching his first game this season, went the distance and didn't allow a run to cross the plate until the eighth inning when Catcher Hoffman of the Irish hit a home run. The Irishmen added their other three runs in the last inning when big "Bromo" Seitzler hit a home run with two men on the paths.

All the home runs were not made by Shamrock. In the third inning Warren hit one to left field for four bases to score Jimmie Baldwin ahead of him. Rusty "Pop" Cahill also connected for the distance in the seventh to score Warren and Newsome ahead of him. Cahill was crossing the home plate before the left fielder reached the ball.

Baldwin and Warren each crossed the plate three times for the "Mags" while Newsome scored twice. The other Pampa rime went to Cahill Flynn, and Burke who got two walks. Warren and "Hoss" Wagner getting his two out of three trips to the plate and one of them went for two bases. Odus Mitchell also hit a double.

The "Mags" gathered 12 hits off Pete Hanley while Shamrock got Burke for eight scattered bingles. Burke struck out five while Hanley whiffed four. Both teams made four errors but only one of the Magnolia errors proved costly. The "Mags" scored four runs on Shamrock errors.

Shamrock pulled the headiest baseball of the game in the fourth inning when Hanley walked. Baldwin to fill the bases and only one out. Coburn forced Wagner at the plate and Warren fled out to center to retire the side without a counter.

Great Fielding

Newsome of the "Mags" and Close of Shamrock had a gala day in the field. Newsome caught five hard flies while Close took four, two bordering on the sensational. Jimmie Baldwin and Rusty Cahill played outstanding games at short and third respectively. Baldwin accepted six chances without an error, while Cahill handled five perfectly. Coburn also looked good at second. Mitchell and Flynn divided first base duties. Wagner handled the receiving for six innings without a flaw, and Schroeder finished the game. Warren and Shriver patrolled the other field positions, but Shriver failed to have a ball hit his way.

Head Play Will Enter Wood Race

NEW YORK, May 15. (AP)—Having proved his right to rule the turf's three-year-old division, Mrs. Elias B. Mason's Head Play, winner of the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday, after barely losing the Kentucky Derby, today started training for the Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday.

The mile and 70-yard race over the Long Island course should be nothing more than a gallop for the big chestnut from Dodd county, Kentucky. He met the best of his age in the Kentucky and Maryland classics and although defeated by Broke's Tip in the derby, his victory in the Preakness was convincing.

INDIANS AND GIANTS LEAD MAJOR CLUBS

FAVORITES SHOVED OUT IN SHOCKING STYLE DURING MONTH

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.

One month of campaigning in the major leagues has produced opposition from unexpected sources for teams selected to head the pennant races. The favorites were the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates but the Pittsburghers for the National league lead and the Cleveland Indians are out in front of the Yanks.

The Giants, "doped" as a second division club, smashed their way in, to a tie with Pittsburgh in an impressive fashion just about the time the boys were ready to decide the Bucs might make a runaway race of it. After losing the first game of the series to the Pirates, they won three in a row, winding up yesterday with a smart 5 to 1 triumph.

Cleveland gained a lead of a full game by beating the Philadelphia Athletics twice while the world's champions were splitting a bargain bill with the seventh-place St. Louis Browns. Oral Hildebrand allowed the A's only four hits to win the first game, 3-0, ringing up his fifth victory and his third shutout. Clint Brown gave only six to gain a 5-3 decision.

Another "dark horse," the Cincinnati Reds, climbed into third place in the National with a double victory over the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 3 and 1 to 0. Exercising their former "league lead," the Cubs, they made nine hits good for the six runs behind the brilliant hurling of Red Lucas and St. Johnsson.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who could get no better than an even break with Boston, slipped a few points into fourth. They won the opener, 4-0, on Texas Carleton's four-hit fling but lost the second game, 8-4, when the Braves blasted Dizzy Dean from the hill with seven runs in the fourth.

Brooklyn won the other National league contest in surprising style, turning back the Phillies, 8 to 6, when Hack Wilson hit a pinch home run with the bases full in the ninth inning.

SINKING 'EM

By GENE SARAZEN, World Golf Champion (As Told To Alan Gould)

Many golfers suffer from the bad habit of using a club that is "too long" for them; trying to reach the green with a No. 4 or 5 iron when what they need is a No. 2 or perhaps a spoon, depending on the distance they are accustomed to get.

With some it is a matter of pride to use the doubtful club or to take what the caddy hands them, even though knowing the odds are about 10 to 1 against their getting the desired results.

Depends Upon Player's Ability

In urging average golfers to use the proper club, I would qualify my recommendation to the extent of allowing for the individual player's ability. Some are longer hitters than others, no matter what club is used. They must adjust themselves to their capabilities.

I would have no qualms, myself, about using a spoon to get home from about the same spot my opponent used a No. 2 iron if I felt convinced my chances of success were better with the wood.

I prefer the spoon to the No. 1, or driving iron, and believe most players should do so. It takes an expert to master the use of the No. 1 iron. Tommy Armour is one of the few who can use this club to advantage, either off the tee or thru the fairway, on a long shot.

Use The Spoon Instead

It is generally a liability to even the better-than-average players, for the reason that there is very little "feel" and consequently a thin margin of safety.

It is a good idea to leave the No. 1 iron out of the bag altogether, using a spoon instead.

I have seen Bob Jones, on a number of occasions, use a spoon off the first few tees, until he got warmed up and felt convinced he had the "feel" of his longer woods. He used the spoon to great advantage, otherwise, and furnished a good tip to the ordinary player.

SINKING 'EM

Tommy Armour, former national open champion, is one of the few players in the world who can use a No. 1, or driving iron, to advantage, says Gene Sarazen. It offers a thin margin of safety, even to experts. Gene suggests you carry a good spoon, instead.

CHARLIE BIGGS TRANSFERRED FROM FORT WORTH TO WACO

Lavender, His Back Wrenched, Shoots 68, to Qualify in Dallas City Meet.

By BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

The transfer of Charlie Biggs from the Fort Worth Cats to the Waco Cubs of the Dixie league removed a pitcher from the Texas league who once was trailed by scouts because he possessed natural major league ability.

Biggs was counted on to win many games this season for Fort Worth. He won 14 and lost 16 last year for the Shreveport-Tyler combination which was regarded as one of the poorest in the league.

He was something of a pride to Walter Morris, business manager of the Cats and president of the Tyler team last year, who brought Charlie along when he accepted a position with Fort Worth. Morris had a lot of faith in Biggs' ability. He believed Charlie was good enough to bring a fancy major league price. It must have been a blow to Morris when Charlie was shipped down the Brazos river to Waco.

Golf Remedy

If your golf game is bad, try wrenching your back; then go out and shoot a sub-par round.

Such a thing happened to Dennis Lavender in the Dallas city championship tournament. Lavender, defending champion, tried to leap over a sandtrap in a practice round, fell and wrenched his back. This occurred a week before the tournament. He was carried off the course and advised he would not be in condition to defend his title. Lavender did not even try to play until the starting tee and announced himself ready to defend his title.

He had plenty of sympathy when he left the first tee. Poor Lavender, the best he could do was shoot a sizzling 68 to tie Reynolds Smith for the medal. David Goldman looked at Lavender's card and said: "If that guy had smashed his legs and broken an arm, he probably would have shot a 50."

Cabot Nine Wins Qualifying For Texas Women's Tourney Begins

By BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer

GALVESTON, May 15. (AP)—Some where between dawn and dusk today, 65 stout golfing hearts will be sad and weary and 32 will have a bit of hope and gladness. For today started the terrific 18 holes qualifying round of the seventeenth annual women's Texas golf association state championship tournament over the Galveston Country club course with its par 37-38-75 for women.

From out of the starting field of 97 that faced the first tee, the 32 low will compose the championship flight, while those outside the title bracket will make up other flights.

Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, champion, was favored to retain her crown in spite of such opposition as Anella Gorczyca of Fort Worth, Mrs. R. R. Fisk and Mrs. F. C. Rochoon of Wichita Falls, Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth, Mrs. Scott Hill of Waco and Miss Betty Jameson of Dallas.

Swept by a strong breeze off the Gulf, the Galveston Country club course greeted the players in sub par condition. The putting carpets were tip top and the fairways had very few blemishes.

The gallery threesome boasted Mrs. Chandler, Miss Gorczyca and Mrs. Rochoon. Another included Miss Jameson, Mrs. Will Looney of Dallas and Mrs. Scott Hill of Waco. Mrs. Hill was the sensation of last year's tournament.

Bill McArthur, small son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. McArthur of the Sun camp, was admitted to Worley hospital in a serious condition last night.

George Arliss' Director Dies On Grizzly Hunt

HOLLYWOOD, May 15. (AP)—Stricken by a cerebral hemorrhage while hunting grizzly bears, John G. Adolf, director of the motion pictures of George Arliss, died last Thursday in the British Columbia wilds.

So far from civilization was the party of which the 52-year-old film veteran was a member, that not until Sunday did the group reach communication channels by which they could report his death. Adolf died in a camp on Canoe river, 102 miles north of Revelstoke, B. C.

His widow heard over a long distance telephone the tragic word of the death of her husband almost on the eve of their silver wedding anniversary. Next July 1, as they had planned before he went away on the hunt, they would celebrate 25 years of married life. She also was informed his remains had been brought here for the last services and burial.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Henson of Denver were week-end visitors in Pampa.

THREE GREAT POWERS WILL FACE GERMANY

U. S., FRANCE, BRITAIN UNITE TO CALM HITLER

PARIS, May 15 (AP)—A three-power united front of the United States, Great Britain, and France, virtually has been achieved to face Germany at the Geneva disarmament conference Thursday, it was learned today.

Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, asked Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour at a fifty-minute talk to take a mild stand toward Chancellor Hitler's expected disarmament pronouncement before the Reichstag on Wednesday, it was authoritatively said, in order that the United States and Great Britain might be able to follow him.

The three powers through diplomatic channels were understood to be urging the German chancellor to moderate in his Reichstag speech.

They were trying to keep the situation from boiling over, said an American spokesman, "so that a skillful bridge may be constructed from the Isle of Elba, where Hitler has placed himself, back to the mainland."

It was insisted that Mr. Davis and M. Paul-Boncour had no discussion of sanctions which might be invoked to coerce Germany, and the international tariff truce was merely given finishing touches.

French concern about Chancellor Hitler's message to the Reichstag is unabated, but a government spokesman said France "does not expect Hitler to declare only that the treaty of Versailles is another scrap of paper."

Instead, the French believe Germany intends to "rearm quietly," announcing simply that France's failure to disarm has violated the treaty and that therefore Germany is a free agent.

This quiet re-arming, a French spokesman said, already has commenced in German factories which are building tanks, big guns, and military airplanes.

SCHOOL EVENTS HOLD SPOTLIGHT IN McLEAN WEEK-END ACTIVITIES

SENIORS PRESENT PLAY
"Depend On Me" was the title of the play given by the seniors of McLean high school Friday evening, May 12, to a large and appreciative audience.

Miss Lorena Ashby, senior sponsor, coached the play in which the following were cast: Forrest Switzer, Ruth Hess, Beth Word, Allison Cash, Lavern Pettit, Lucile Morse, Lavelle Christian, Maxine Fowler, Woodrow Wilkerson, Brady McCoy, and Y. E. McAdams.

Hear Commencement Sermon.
Appearing for the first time in caps and gowns, the seniors of McLean high school heard their commencement sermon Sunday evening at the high school auditorium. Rev. Irwin delivered the address; Rev. Cecil E. Goff offered the invocation; Rev. Jno. H. Crow pronounced the benediction. Music for the evening was furnished by Mrs. Willie Boyett and by a male quartet composed of Messrs. Shelbourne, Wharton, Sitter, and Wilson.

W. B. Andrews Returns.
Eld. W. B. Andrews has returned to McLean to be pastor of the Church of Christ. Eld. Andrews was here several years ago, and a large audience greeted him as he returned from Okmulgee, Okla., where he has been serving the church for the last two years.

Mrs. Andrews was formerly Miss Johnie Newman, daughter of M. M. Newman of this place. She has a host of friends who welcome her return.

McLean School Music.
The entire elementary student body, the faculty, and many parents enjoyed an all-day picnic on McClellan creek last Friday.

Groundball, picnicking, and wading furnished amusement for both old and young. Under the supervision of the room-mothers, a bounteous feast was served under the shade of the cottonwood trees.

The same afternoon the seventh and eighth grades, sponsored by Miss Aline McCarty and Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, motored to the Fowler ranch for a picnic. Plenty of good "eats" and lively games were enjoyed by over 60 students and parents.

Music between acts was furnished by Luella Jones, Dorothy Jean St. Clair, and Hobby Appling.

During 1932 the total length of telephone line in the London area, for subscribers' lines and junctions, increased by 347,063 to 3,572,662 miles.

Mrs. J. D. Wilson and son were dismissed from Worley hospital yesterday.
