Contest Winners To Receive Prizes

Many unusual flowers are to be found in the gardens of Mmes. Glenn Pool, Frank Perry, W. E. Ewing, DeLea Vicars, Walter Purviance, Horace Saunders, W. Wilson, J. Emmitt Dwyer, who grows the only carnations, other than a local greenhouse, in town, and Dr. R. A. Webb, who has three orchids in his greenhouse.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it rude for one person to stare at another if his gaze is only admiring?

2. What is the most important thing to remember when one is asked to make an after-dinner speech?

3. Is it all right for a delegate to a convention to introduce himself to other delegates?

4. Should a guest at a bridge party feel free to leave early if he wishes?

5. Is it impolite for a house guest to say, "No thank you" when his host offers him a cocktail?

You go to a lecture and after a few minutes of the lecturer's talk decide that you are not interested in what he has to say—

(a) Leave as quietly as possible? (b) Sit through the lecture? (c) Talk to your companion in low whispers or if you are alone read a book or magazine?

Answers: 1. Yes. 2. To be brief. 3. Yes. One of the purposes of most conventions is for delegates to get acquainted with each other. 4. No, for he would throw a whole table out. 5. No. Whether or not a person dinks is entirely his own affair. Best "What would you do" solution—(b). (If you are bored you can use the time planning your next day's work or a week-end trip.)

Sweets to Whip Up for Any Meal

Fresh fruits and berries on a handsome tray can be served for breakfast, luncheon or dinner. Melon slices on beds of lettuce, melon balls, with fresh mint, peaches, orange sections, cubes of fresh pineapple—all these and more can become splashes of delicious color for health and taste. Pass a bowl of powdered sugar for the sweet tooth.

Modern Menus

The safest way to prevent overweight is to cultivate sufficient will power to avoid eating too much. The best exercise for reducing is the turning of the head from left to right, saying "no thank you" when you are offered a second helping of fattening food.

These are a few of the sound ideas expressed by Morris Fishbein, M. D., in "Your Diet and Your Health." Dr. Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, is a valiant crusader against whatever seems to him "dunk in medicine and diet."

A Typical, Safe Diet

A few quotations from his carefully written guide are pertinent: "The earliest reduction diets failed to take into account the vitamins and mineral salts. They involved only a count of calories. Many popular reducing diets like the Hollywood 18-day diet, the milk menu, and similar performances, offer from 500 to 800 calories a day instead of the 1100 or 1200, which may, in most instances, be the absolute minimum compatible with health."

Would you like to lose from two to two and a half pounds a week and yet not lose your health and disposition at the same time? Dr. Fishbein has a solution for your problem. "Here is a menu developed by medical authority," he says. "It contains just over 1000 calories and if you eat just these things and no others and carry on your normal work you will lose from two to two and a half pounds per week. If you do extra work or take more exercise, you will lose more," he adds.

Breakfast: Two small oranges or 1 large orange, sliced, 1 egg, 1 slice toasted bread, (1) 1 small square butter, 1 glass skim milk, 1 cup tea or coffee, clear.

Luncheon or Dinner: One cup consommé, 1 medium slice roast beef, 3 heaping tablespoons spinach, 1 salad containing 8 stalks asparagus on 2 lettuce leaves with vinegar, 6 heaping tablespoons sliced peaches, 1 glass skim milk, 1 cup clear tea.

Supper: Three heaping tablespoons cottage cheese, 3 heaping tablespoons cauliflower, 1 baked tomato, 1-3 head lettuce with lemon juice or vinegar, 6 heaping tablespoons red raspberries, 1 glass skim milk, 1 cup clear tea.

You probably are ready to say that such is not a reducing diet, that it contains a lot more food than you normally eat. Listen to Dr. Fishbein: "The observation is false. The list contains a variety of ingredients, but all are chosen with exact knowledge of what they provide in the way of calories and the essential food substances."

FIREWORKS FEARED IN CONVENTION OF AFL

DENVER, Oct. 5 (AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders feared fireworks today when J. Warren Madden, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, addressed the federation's annual convention.

Unless the delegates' good manners prevailed over their real feelings, leaders said privately, Madden might get a taste of old-fashioned platform heckling.

The federation as a whole is extremely angry at the board because of what it calls partiality to John L. Lewis' rebel C. I. O. in labor's big civil war.

The Board and Shoe Workers' Union, in a resolution introduced yesterday, said the board had clearly shown by its general attitude and its defense decisions that it is actively supporting and upholding the C. I. O.

The same resolution called upon President Roosevelt, Congress and Secretary Perkins to disband the board and all its employees since the board's personnel is "selected, dictated, controlled and supervised by the C. I. O."

William Green, A. F. of L. president, climaxed the long speeches against the C. I. O. yesterday by accusing Lewis of using the rebel organization to further his own ambitions to be President of the United States.

FDR TO FIGHT FOR WAGE AND HOUR MEASURE

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO Oct. 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt convinced that the nation wants wage-hour and surplus crop control legislation as replacements for the NRA and AAA killed by the Supreme Court, traveled the last leg of a coast-to-coast tour today which was reported to be another surprise speech.

His last public appearance of an 8,000-mile train boat and motor trip was a date at Chicago. There, he was to dedicate the outer link bridge giving the Windy City a direct, high-speed north-south drive along Lake Michigan.

Speaking at Cleveland, he will pause to speak briefly from his private car over a national radio hookup in the New York Herald-Tribune Forum.

The "fresh" angles for his 31st speech of the trip were promised at Chicago. He was expected to touch on peace either there or at Cleveland.

Upon concluding his address at Chicago he had arranged to have luncheon at the home of Cardinal Mundelein, Catholic archbishop who has frequently called on the chief executive at the White House and at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Speaking before a huge crowd near his train at St. Paul last night, the President left no doubt that he was going to fight for a wage, hour and child-labor bill and a farm surplus regulation measure to take the place of the "cornerstones" he said the Supreme Court had destroyed.

That he may call a special session in November to hasten action was intimated in an earlier address at Grand Forks, N. D., but officials said he still maintained an "open mind" on this.

"As in the case of farm legislation," he asserted at St. Paul, "a wages and hour and child labor law will undoubtedly accomplish two great purposes, first, an increase in employment, and secondly, an increase in the total of the nation's income."

HOUSING OFFICIALS TO WELCOME FORMER KING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Government housing officials, as proud of their low-rent dwellings as any young bride, said today they would welcome a chance to show the Duke of Windsor how the United States has tackled the housing problem.

The Duke, accompanied by his American-born Duchess, is expected to leave Paris soon for a study of housing and labor conditions in Germany and this country.

From Stewart McDonald, federal housing administrator, came a statement that he will give all cooperation and will make available to the Duke and Duchess all facilities of the F.H.A.

McDonald expressed the view Windsor might be interested in seeing several large-scale housing projects in the Washington area. These were financed by private enterprise in conjunction with the F.H.A.

HAY CROP IN TEXAS LARGE

AUSTIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—Farmers made hay while the sun shone in Texas today, nearing the end of a season due to produce one of the largest crops of baled prairie grass, Johnson grass, alfalfa, sorghum and other types of this feed stuff in years.

The creaking presses were making their last journeys, barns were bulging with the trim bales, and only the clean-up—baling the oat and wheat straw and the scattering patches and "second cuttings" remained.

The United States crop reporting board here estimated 948,000 tons of hay would be realized this year, compared to 815,000 produced last season.

The baling of hay in Texas is, generally speaking, a rather obscure industry. As a rule not over two or three "outfits" operate in each county during the season, but they turn out thousands of bales, much of which is fed on the farm where the baling is done and a large portion stored in barns for the higher price that comes with winter.

"The feeders," "tablers," drivers of the cumbersome "bull rakes" and the lighter "buck rakes" that get the straw closest to the ground, and those who have one of the toughest jobs of all—"tying out," which consists of pushing wires through slots in wooden "blocks" and binding up the hay, begin their labors in the summer and work through October—most of them at "two dollars a day on the work's sure hard."

The crop reporting board reports a good quality of hay is indicated this year, meaning it may reach "four-bits" or more a bale when winter's blasts send the cattlemen to town to replenish feed stock.

Principal types of hay produced in Texas are Johnson grass, prairie grass in the coastal area and alfalfa in the Trans-Pecos region.

captains comprised the court, with a Captain Espinosa acting as prosecutor.

The public was admitted to the courtroom.

As the prisoners sat on a bench in the middle of the courtroom, Dahl's story was read—beginning with his going to Spain where he contends he was promised $1500 monthly to fly for the Madrid-Valencia government and ending with his capture by insurgents.

Dahl related there were never more than five American pilots with the Madrid-Valencia regime, and that there now was none.

He said he flew Russian planes. His part in the trial ended when he was asked if he had anything more to say.

"I came only as instructor, not as pilot," he told the court which then took up the cases of the Russian prisoners.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's military court probably will sentence the 28-year-old American to death but the insurgent leader's previous response to the supplications of Dahl's beautiful wife promised to save him.

Insurgent Spain, Franco said, "does not need" Dahl's life. Mrs. Dahl, waiting for her husband in France, has been assured that efforts would be made to free him in a prisoner exchange with the Valencia government, despite the almost routine formality of a death sentence.

STUDENTS WIN SCRAP AGAINST CENSORSHIP

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5 (AP)—Staff members of the Pitt News, University of Pittsburgh student newspaper, returned to their posts today under an agreement settling temporarily their strike against what they termed "faculty censorship."

Faculty Advisor Robert X. Graham said a proposal for the truce was made at a meeting of the publications committee by Editor Leopold Koerberlein, whose resignation precipitated the strike.

Action on Koerberlein's resignation in protest against faculty supervision of the newspaper was delayed by the committee, Graham added.

RURAL JURORS PICKED IN PRICE CONSPIRACY CASE

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 5 (AP)—Twelve jurymen from rural districts of southern Wisconsin were ready today to hear evidence in the federal government's price-fixing conspiracy case against 23 oil companies, 46 individuals and three trade publications.

Three farmers, two retired farmers, and a group of small town businessmen comprised the jury charged with weighing the fate of companies representing billions in investments.

The government has charged the defendants violated the Sherman anti-trust act. It contended the oil raise and fix gasoline prices in 10

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Fire Prevention Week is here. What are you going to do about it?

If you are short-sighted, you will do nothing. If you have any interest in protecting your property and your family's lives, you will use Fire Prevention Week as an occasion for taking the simple, essential measures that usually suffice to make homes and places of business safe from the most common and dangerous fire hazards.

Fire Prevention Week is not designed to sell anything. It is designed to serve—to conserve—to protect. During the Week insurance companies, civic bodies, fire experts and public officials will use the radio, newspapers, displays and printed literature in an effort to make you think and to make you act.

In the average home grave hazards exist of which the owner knows nothing. Ignorance, as well as carelessness, is a prolific source of destructive fire.

The simplest and most easily corrected causes are responsible for the great bulk of fires in dwellings. A slight fault in a heating plant may devastate a home. Accumulations of papers, clothes, furniture and other odds and ends require only a spark to burst into flame. Improperly stored fluids such as gasoline, benzine and kerosene are a constant menace. Amateur repairs of electric appliances and light cords cause millions of dollars' loss annually. Paint or oil-soaked rags are often the cause of spontaneous combustion. An improperly protected hot electric iron, or cigarette ashes invite fires.

It costs you nothing to eliminate these hazards, and takes little time. That small effort may save you thousands of dollars—and infinitely more important, save a life. Fire Prevention Week was inaugurated to serve you. Make the most of it.

HOME PROBLEM IN CRIME

Juvenile crime is usually blamed on thriller movies, magazines and novels. Usually this sounds a little less than convincing—for millions of boys have been exposed to such influences, year after year, without having their characters undermined.

But there does seem to be something in it, in the case of the 12-year-old Toledo boy who shot his school teacher. According to all accounts this lad was steeped in the gills in the flamboyant lore of the underworld. Notes scribbled before the shooting leave little doubt that the youngster was dramatizing himself as a bold, bad gunman like those of screen, radio and magazine.

This being admitted, what is the answer—to remove all reference to crime from those media of entertainment? Perhaps—though that would be a trifle drastic. Problems like this are, after all, chiefly for individual parents. A father and mother can, if they will, see that their child retains his balance, even if he is getting a strong dose of two-gun melodrama.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—The brilliant, biting style of examination of witnesses that made Hugo Black, the senator, famous and feared, probably will find little outlet in the Supreme Court.

Even before the Klan issue arose, veteran hands around the court predicted that the elder justices would make short work of any efforts by the vigorous ex-senator to tangle attorneys in their own tales.

Black was relentless in examining recalcitrant witnesses before senate committees. Corporation executives who had survived hours of cross-examination in court with superb calm were reduced to wild-eyed bewilderment under the fire of Senator Black and his colleagues on the lobby investigating committee.

In court, witnesses are protected by their counsel and by certain rules of decorum. But in a senate committee all bars are down and the witness is at the mercy of senators who act as judge, prosecuting attorney and jury. They make their own rules of procedure as they go and show little mercy when in pursuit of evidence to support the legislation for which they are drumming.

It was in that field, and in his earlier experience as police judge and prosecuting attorney, that Black learned the art that made him the most savage examiner since the late Senator Walsh of Montana, who conducted the Tea-pot Dome investigation.

Yet when the justice begins his work on the court his field for examination will be hemmed in on a dozen fronts. First off, he won't be examining witnesses. He will be examining skilled attorneys. He will not be searching witnesses for facts, but will be questioning attorneys about points of law. For in the Supreme Court there is little digging out of bare facts. Facts of the case all must have been determined in the lower courts. The Supreme Court, save in rare instances, deals only with how the law applies to the facts.

It is true that attorneys are occasionally subjected to grueling examination by members of the court. But often a member of the court will come to the rescue of an attorney being picked to bits by another member. Justice Brandeis delights in pulling bele-

Tex's Topics

We're planning to take this up with C. P. Buckler, of Pampa, who recently returned from a trip to England. . . . We have just learned that Americans who go to London are forced to change their style of eating—or be stared at as curiosities. . . . For Britons at the dinner table are a nation of southpaws—very energetic southpaws. . . . Everybody eats with his left hand—there's no awkward changing over from left to right after cutting one's meat.

But the first thing goggle-eyed Yankees learn is that the knife is more than an instrument for cutting food. . . . Give an Englishman a knife and fork and you'll see some of the fanciest manipulations ever performed outside of a billiard room. . . . He starts as an American does—fork in left hand, knife in right. But from there on, all rules are off.

Your Englishman firmly stabs the meat with his fork. Then does he lift it to his mouth and start chewing? He does not. He scurries about the plate. No waste action here. It must be a full load—and a varied one—before an Englishman will exert the energy to raise it to his jaws. . . . It's here that his knife gets its extra workout. Around the plate go knife and fork, stopping for a little cabbage here, a few potatoes there, and a bite of whatever else happens to be on the circuit. All of this is firmly mashed on the back of the fork with the aid of the knife. Yes, the back of the fork. It holds more than the front, you know.

So, after meat, cabbage, potatoes and so on have been piled on the fork, the Englishman raises his strong left arm, ducks his head to meet the oncoming shovel—and fills his mouth. . . . A marvelous shortcut. . . . But an Englishman needs a shortcut when you consider the size of his meals. Dinners often consist of separate fish and separate game courses, in addition to the usual soup, meat, potatoes, salad, etc.

A Briton often has finished six courses by the time he gets to coffee or tea—which by the way, costs extra at most public eating places in London. Often extra, too, are bread and butter. The butter comes in either round or scroll-shaped pads—never square as in America. . . . Apparently no one drinks water—or wauwah, as the English say—for it's served only on request. Napkins, too, are a request item in many eateries.

Perhaps Pampa's Mr. Buckler, having just returned with all this fresh in mind, will be kind enough to drop a line and add or subtract to or from what has just been said here. . . . Personally we'd have much trouble with that water service. . . . It has become vitally necessary that we have at least a half-gallon of water to wash down the average-sized meal.

German newspaper, in obituaries, are accustomed to printing: "Died with belief in God." But under a new Nazi decree the phrase must read: "Died with belief in Adolf Hitler" or "Died with belief in the future of Germany" or "Died with belief in his fuhrer. . . . The retired dirigible Graf Zeppelin is vastly more profitable as a curiosity than it was in the trans-Atlantic service. On exhibition at Frankfurt-on-the-Main, the huge craft has attracted 200,000 visitors in five weeks. Each visitor pays 20 cents admission fee.

The Italian government has reported 987 of its soldiers killed in the Spanish revolution, with 3,870 wounded and 250 missing in action. . . . Charles Pfeifer, Jr., 20-year-old Wichita Falls newsboy, with his leg in a cast, hitch-hiked 350 miles to Austin, to thank God. agued attorneys out of the claws of some of the conservative members of the court. If he feels that an attorney is being led into an unfair position through questioning by one of the justices, he will say, unhesitatingly: "If I were counsel, I should not answer that question."

Or one justice may take a more direct course by shooting the answer straight back at the justice who asked the question.

Now Black comes to the court skilled as an examiner after facts. But even his best friends would not say he is so quick on the trigger in law as his veteran colleagues. And court observers suspect the elderly justice will be laying for him if he seems to get out of bounds.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Sometimes the thoughts of living in New York can be terrifying. There was that girl on 96th street who found it so, and she took the easiest way out. For two hours, the police worked over her with a pulmotor, but they were too late.

It is not the mere fact of death that is distressing. It is the wholly unwarranted conditions which drove her to it. She was 22 and had dark hair. They found an empty peanut-butter jar in her room, and an empty cracker box. She had two copper pennies in her pocketbook. The coroner said she died by suicide, and that was true enough, but it might just as easily have been hunger and fear. It would have been accurate. It is said that she tried to telephone a friend just an hour or so before she died. The telephone operators traced the call. But the friend wasn't there, so she went back to her room and carefully locked the door.

Later the friend, a young woman whom she had known in her home town, was overwhelmed at the news and collapsed. "Oh, if I had only been here," she moaned over and over. "If I had only been here when she called."

The real irony of the incident was that this young woman had no intentions of being away at all. It just happened that, on impulse, she stepped around the corner to a circulating library. She was only gone a minute. But, as you know, a minute so often can mean an eternity.

New York put a good face on the matter of indulging the Legionnaires. Of course this indulgence wasn't wholly altruistic. Still, there must have been some aggravating times—when the boys got off little playful pranks on the unsuspecting townsfolk. . . . As for instance, that stout fella at the Roosevelt whose room was on the 11th or 12th floor.

Fortified by 20 or 30 bottles of beer (most of it still in the bottle), he had a fine time sitting in the window and calling felicitations to the passerby. "Hi 'ya, Pal, have a little drink?" he'd say. Then, as they looked up, a pitcher of beer would shower down upon them.

It is a fairly easy task to gauge the art mood of New York. One has to stroll by the galleries to see which way the wind is blowing. For a while it was clipper ships, with whole galleries given over to the white blossomed racers of the sea.

Then portraiture had its vogue—hard, severe old gentlemen sitting in tall straight-back oak chairs, and fragile old ladies peeping furtively out from under sunbonnets.

Now landscapes seem to be the world's most light-footed, and most of the Fifth Avenue windows indicate as much. There are ponds with water lilies, and whole fields knee-deep in tangled flowers, and mountain ranges tinted with the faint rays of October suns.

Tomorrow it will be something else, hunting prints perhaps, or may-be scrambled eggs. No one can tell till tomorrow gets here.

CAT-FOOTED
VINCENTNES, Ind. (AP)—Police today nominated yeggs who carried away a 3,200-pound safe as the world's most light-footed burglars. The thieves took the safe, which contained several hundred dollars, from a tire service store a block from police headquarters. The city's telephone exchange is above the store but operators said they heard no suspicious noises.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

In years she has been an old woman for a decade, but she has clung tenaciously to the youthful outlook, the customs and habits of her youth which must have been gay, happy, glorious, and she has always appeared much younger than she really is. She has held her head high and her back straight, and she has few of those gestures which make young people look old, and old people look aged. She has young ideas and she is interested in youth and the doings of youth. She has had certain fixed habits all of her life, and she has religiously followed those customs which which she adopted soon after her marriage, except when highly unusual, tragic or similar circumstances prevailed. . . . Death, disaster, absence from home could disrupt the ordered regime of her life, but few other things. She washed the week's laundry regularly on Friday mornings. She got up at six o'clock and had the washing on the line by eight. Whether there was one or ten for dinner, she cooked dinner, and though she might have been able to hire help, she preferred to do her own work. It was proof of her youth, of her scorn of age.

Well, last week she calmly announced she believed she would not wash on Friday morning, and she waited a full minute before she said, as an afterthought, that she believed she would not cook lunch that day, and that they would eat up town.

Cross-Eyed Superstition

Of course, the common superstition that one cannot trust a cross-eyed individual is sheer nonsense. But why, what gave rise to this superstition?

Two explanations come to mind. One centers around the fact that we often judge the earnestness, intention and truthfulness of an individual by what we gather from his facial expressions.

The eyes are often called the windows of the soul. Looking one in the eye is usually considered a check on an individual's earnestness. Theatrical or fiction villains are frequently one-eyed. The Cyclops were notorious for their malice, as Homer shows in the Odyssey.

Of course, mankind in general distrusts, and in its primitive reactions is antagonistic to, the deviate, the one who diverges from the normal.

The other explanation that comes to mind centers about the psychological reactions of the cross-eyed individual to his disability.

Alfred Adler based much of his individual psychology on what he termed "organ inferiority." He taught, and experience proves his teachings, that individuals defective in some organ or respect, tend to compensate and over-compensate for their disability.

Possibly the marked aggressiveness and the uncommon patterns of attack and defense developed by many cross-eyed individuals, aroused the common man's uncritical suspicion and distrust.

Our studies of cross-eyed children show many of them to be of the nervous, sensitive, shy type. When exposed, as many of them must be, to ridicule, teasing and thoughtless abuse at the hands of their playmates, they are likely to become el-

Around Hollywood

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Those who won't be happy until they decide who's best in "Stage Door"—meaning K. Hepburn or G. Rogers—had better stay away. Likewise, those who insist on literal scene translations of stage hits. But they'll be the losers in entertainment if they do stay away. The new Gregory LaCava-directed film belongs on even the most conservative of "must" lists.

Numerous, dramatic, tragic, satirical, "Stage Door" is a large slice of theatrical boarding house life. Girls from everywhere register there and pursue their nearly hopeless job of crashing the theater. It is futile but inevitable, this life, as long as stage-struck girls continue to grow up and come to the city.

"Stage Door" takes up, specifically, the story of Terry Randall (Miss Hepburn), who is unlike the other victims of footlights fever in that she is wealthy. Her father, to "cure" her, angels a play on condition that she be starred. Innocent of the plot, Terry is rehearsing woodenly and terribly, and Tony Powell (Adolphe Menjou) as the producer is in despair. Opening night, Kay Hamilton (Andrea Leeds), a little actress who might have had the part but for Terry Randall, commits suicide. Jean Maitland (Miss Rogers), a tough little chorine feuding with Terry, brings the news before the opening curtain. Shocked and torn emotionally, Terry goes on for a great performance. And she goes on at the boarding house, the girls wisecracking to hide their economic fears, elating over one-line parts, hoping against hope.

Both Hepburn and Rogers are splendid, the former recapturing the mood of her "Morning Glory," the latter establishing her right to be considered seriously as a dramatic actress. Surprise sensation in the cast is Andrea Leeds, until recently a college girl with minor film work behind her. As the artistic, sensitive Kay, the girl delivers a performance, beauty and personality that stamp her indubitably as star material.

"Music for Madame" is another pleasant outgrowth of the association of Jesse Lasky, producer, and Nino Martini, singing star. The story brings Martini to Hollywood seeking fame as a singer, with Joan Fontaine cast as an extra girl striving for recognition as a composer. There's a jewel robbery, which leads to romantic complications for Nino and Joan, but the happy ending is on tap.

Joan, in her first big lead, again indicates that sister Olivia de Havilland may have trouble keeping the first movie honors to herself in the family.

"This Way Please" belongs in the take-it-or-leave-it department. It isn't very good but it isn't very bad. It has Buddy Rogers playing an orchestra leader in a movie house, with Betty Grable very nice as the usherette who falls in love with him. Also present and contributing are Mary Livingston (Mrs. Jack Benny), Ned Sparks, Jim and Marian Jordan (Fibber McGee and Molly), and, most effectively, Rufe Davis.

Overly aggressive, or withdrawn and morbid personalities. The most unfortunate aspect of this problem is that many children who could be spared all these hardships are allowed to grow up cross-eyed. Their parents either do not know that in many instances the condition can be treated effectively, or they labor under the false belief that the child will outgrow its eye condition.

In such misunderstanding, they allow the time to pass in which corrective treatment can most effectively be given.

Popular Referendum On War Declaration To be Congress Issue

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa Daily News
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The question whether a popular referendum shall be required to take this country into war will almost certainly be a major issue on the floors of Congress within the next few months.

Last May, as reported in these dispatches, Congressman Louis Ludlow of Indiana had gathered 100 signatures for a petition to discharge from the House Judiciary committee his resolution for a constitutional amendment which would require that the people vote on any proposed declaration of war.

Today he has 185 such signatures. This means that the proposed amendment, assuming Ludlow is correct in his assurance that he has sight to make up the necessary 218, will come before the House by February or March.

Subsequent processes of adding it to the Constitution would include passage by two-thirds vote in Senate and House and ratification by three-fourths of the States. House passage would require 290 votes if all members were on hand.

Heavy drive will be placed behind the proposal. A national committee of veteran, church, farmer, labor, war mother and other leaders is being formed to lend weight. Proponents think they can meet down opposition by insisting that America must not be asked to "save the world for democracy" again without some democratic process for deciding whether the American section of democracy is interested.

Ludlow's amendment would apply in case the United States or its territory were invaded and any of its citizens killed. But otherwise, in case of threatened trouble, no war could be declared unless a majority of citizens voted aye on the question: "Shall the United States declare war on—?"

WPA Lists Increasing
WPA rolls have hit bottom for the current year and are now expected to increase from month to month. Number of persons employed shrank from this year's peak of 2,145,000 in February to 1,455,000 in mid-September. There were still 2,000,000 WPA workers at the end of

May and most of those dropped that date were taken off by Congress limited WPA appropriations to $1,500,000,000.

The extent to which persons be added to the rolls as cold weather goes on is uncertain and depends according to unofficial advice, largely on the extent to which business continues to recover and expand private employment.

Congress provided that the appropriation be divided in twelve but gave no directions as to much money should be spent in given month. The drastic slash in the rolls was meant to save enough funds for winter and spring assuming business continued to prove. WPA may or may not be at Capitol Hill for more before fiscal year is out.

Book A Day

—By BRUCE CATTON

Charlie May Simon makes no pretense that her novel, "The Share-Cropper" (Dutton; $2.50), is the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" of the modern South; but certainly here is one of the most penetrating pictures of the exploited worker to come from any writer.

The story of Bill Bradley, share-cropper, with its backdrop of heartache, social injustice and 40 per cent interest will not read well, perhaps, below the Mason and Dixon line, but Mrs. Simon has endeavored to hold the middle course.

Simply, effectively, Bill Bradley trudges through her story, going behind a little this year, making a very few dollars next, subsisting for the most part on cornmeal and sorghum when the days are leanest. Most of the time he's in debt to the commissary and somehow the landlord outfigures Bill every time.

Yet the tragedy of Bradley and his family repeats itself year after year. And somehow you feel there are a great many Bill Bradleys in the land. Who is to blame for this vicious system, Mrs. Simon does not indicate. Neither does she defend Bill. You recognize that there are good landlords and bad, poor share-croppers and good.

The point is that here is a vicious system to which whole families are born and from which anything on which to escape.

So you lay down "The Share-Cropper" finally with a feeling commingled of regret and depression.

SEWER LINE TO BE BUILT IN CITY AREA

Authorization was granted Mayor W. A. Bratton to sign a contract for the city to purchase a sewer line that is to be constructed in the alley between Wells and Dwight street, in an order passed at the meeting of the city commission last night.

The order was subject to a half-dozen conditions: the sewer line which is to be built by the John E. Hill Lumber company, is to be constructed under the supervision of the city engineer.

The sewer line is to have sewer connections each 100 lineal feet; the job is to be approved by the city; purchase price is not to exceed $800; the city is to furnish labor to lay the line, and other expenses in connection therewith as to the mayor shall seem necessary and proper.

When the sewer line has been constructed under the specified conditions, and approved by the city, the obligation of the city as contracted by the mayor, ceases, the order states.

The regular monthly bills were approved at the meeting last night. The total was $4,000, this sum including $1,800 for power for fire station, lights, and pumps, and a $600 payment on the street sweeper.

To the Board of City Development and the Pampa library was appropriated their quarterly allotments.

Applications of nine taxicab drivers for licenses were approved.

Present at last night's meeting were City Manager C. L. Stine, Mayor W. A. Bratton, Secretary W. M. Craven, and Commissioner William T. Fraser. Commissioner Marvin Lewis was not present, being out of town on a business trip.

WEST TEXAS COTTON LOANS GIVEN APPROVAL

Congressman Marvin Jones of Amarillo, chairman of the House Committee on agriculture, was notified yesterday of the success of his plea that government loans on cotton be granted on all West Texas cotton tenderable as to grade and staple.

The Department of Agriculture in Washington notified Mr. Jones provisions had been changed to make loans possible on all West Texas and Panhandle cotton.

Loans on the lower grades will be slightly under the nine-cent figure on cotton included in original provisions but the new regulation meets the request of hundreds of West Texas farmers who could not obtain loans on their cotton.

Loans on the lower grades will be as follows:

Eight and one-half cents a pound on cotton 7-8 inch, strict low middling or equivalent in grade; 7 cents on cotton shorter than 7-8 inch, strict low middling or equivalent in grade; 6 cents on cotton shorter than 7-8, low middling or equivalent in grade.

Mr. Jones explained that these provisions would make all tenderable cotton in Texas eligible for the loans.

At the request of farmers in widely separated sections, Mr. Jones worked out the new provisions and submitted them to the department at Washington with his recommendations. Work of changing the regulations has been going on in Washington for more than a week.

The report from Washington came while Mr. Jones was conferring with farmers.

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—It is all a false alarm, this rumor that a member of the Texas legislature may become a movie actor.

The report spread after Senator J. Mantel Head of Stephenville, went to California for a vacation, was "made up" by a friend and had his photograph made.

"We were just playing," Head said. "I have no ambitions to be an actor, and I can say I will never be one. The report is grossly exaggerated."

Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston already has outscored Gov. James V. Allred in one phase of the contest over taxes.

The senator received much more applause when, speaking in the senate, he replied to the governor's appeal for more revenue made in the House of Representatives opening day.

The governor received a round of hand-clapping when he walked on the Rostrum and warm applause when he concluded his speech, while Holbrook, whose theme was new taxes were not needed, was applauded throughout.

Some said the cheering for the senator came chiefly from the galleries where the lobbyists sit. The lobbyists represent business interests likely to be taxed.

Just what is luxury?

The question is of interest now because some say Gov. Allred might approve a "luxury" sales tax if one was enacted. This is by no means certain or even probable.

It has been settled, however, that in the governor's opinion a tax on articles over $2.00 in value would not be a "luxury" levy. Such a tax is favored by Senator John S. Redditt of Lufkin, chairman of the Senate finance committee.

Asked if he thought everything over $2.00 was a luxury, the governor said flatly:

"No."

The message of Governor Allred to the current session of the legislature was one of the shortest he has written on an important subject. It totaled about 1,500 words.

He devoted only one paragraph of 100 words to how the money he asked the legislature to provide should be raised and the gist of the paragraph was presented in less than fifty words.

He said simply the revenue should come from increased taxes on natural resources, corporation franchises, pipelines and utilities, that more than 30 states had an income tax and a general sales tax was not needed.

The Senate is encroaching on the governor's prerogative, but the latter doesn't mind.

When Governor Allred asked permission of approximately 50 persons he had appointed since the legislature's last session, he left a blank space in his message to the Senate where names of notaries public were to be inserted.

The notaries theoretically are appointed by the governor, but actually the appointments are by the Senate. The governor is quite willing to leave the filling of such district positions to the Senate.

Occasionally he has sent up one name supplied him, as a matter of form, but this time he did not even do that.

JAILBREAKERS BACK IN BASTILE AT DECATUR

DECATUR, Oct. 5 (AP)—William Jarvis and E. C. (Blackie) Duff were back in Wise county jail today, but Carl Oldham, third of the trio who broke away Sunday, was still at large. The two were captured in the Trinity river bot, tons yesterday.

The three escaped after stabbing and slugging Deputy Sheriff C. O. Shaw, when he brought them food.

EPISCOPALIANS WILL DECIDE ON ARCHBISHOP

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5 (AP)—

The Protestant Episcopal church in the United States approached today an important decision on the creation of an archbishop, comparable to the Archbishop of Canterbury in the Parent Church of England.

This proposal, promoted largely by dissatisfaction over the overlapping of duties in the present dual church leadership, developed as perhaps the most vital business of its 52nd triennial general convention, opening tomorrow.

At the same time an authoritative source said that reelection of the Rt. Rev. James Dewolf Perry, presiding bishop for the last seven years, may hinge upon the convention's verdict on the proposal to set up a primate, or archbishop.

If the convention, which is the church's supreme legislative body, sets up the office of archbishop, several members of the house of bishops may seek the position. If the presiding bishop's status is not changed, Bishop Perry, who also heads the Diocese of Rhode Island, is considered likely to be re-elected for another six-year term, this source declared.

OUTPUT OF CRUDE OIL SHOWS ANOTHER DROP

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 5 (AP)—A decrease of 21,625 barrels daily in the United States' output of crude oil during the week ending Oct. 2 was reported today by the Oil and Gas Journal. It brought the daily average down to 3,645,476 barrels daily.

Oklahoma production declined 19,275 barrels daily to 581,375. East Texas was up 1,200 to 483,200.

The state of Texas was down to 1,497,922.

Louisiana increased 418 to 264,310. California increased 2,500 to 689,750. Kansas declined 8,525 barrels daily to 184,500.

Eastern states including Michigan increased 712 barrels daily to 192,219 and the Rocky Mountain area increased 4,160 to 82,270.

HIGHER TAXES ON OIL, CARBON BLACK STUDIED

AUSTIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—The House faced a many-sided attack today on proposed new taxes.

An omnibus bill increasing several existing levies, was in its hands and opponents of each tax had been allotted 45 minutes of argument at a public hearing.

The product of a sub-committee, the bill was sent to the main group yesterday but a majority of members blocked an immediate hearing so that all opponents desiring could come to Austin.

Aimed to produce about $9,800,000 more revenue annually, the measure contemplated a 46 per cent increase in oil, sulphur and carbon black levies, a 10 per cent tax on admissions to motion picture theaters of more than 40 cents, and higher taxes on cement and utilities, except telegraph companies.

Some believed the committee would sift the arguments and make a decision tonight while others thought action would not come before tomorrow.

THIRD TERM ISSUE IS DEBATED IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, Texas, (AP)—Texas, which never has elected anyone to a third term as governor, may have two third-term candidates in the Democratic primary next summer.

Gov. James V. Allred so far has declined to squelch talk that he perhaps will seek renomination.

Former Governor James E. Ferguson says that his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, who was chief executive in 1925-26 and again in 1933-34, possibly could be persuaded to run again.

Texas chooses its governor every two years. Elisha M. Pease was in office three terms but received the third appointment under martial law in Reconstruction days.

Ferguson sought the Democratic nomination in 1918 after being impeached early in his second term but was overwhelmingly defeated.

Markets

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—Leading stocks topped a new record for the year or longer in today's market, many losing 1 to 7 points and a few as much as 15 or so at the close.

Brokers pointed to a combination of depressing influences as contributing to the fresh relapse.

The list broke early following rumors the President's final important speech on his western tour at Chicago would sound a world warning against violation of international treaties and stress the dangers to the United States of foreign wars of aggression.

The reports were confirmed later when the chief executive bitterly arraigned the nations and called for peace-loving countries to join in a "combined" effort to restore tranquility. It was noted that the "United States" and "international lawlessness" and "war" were determined to stay out of war, it will not remain aloof" from efforts to oppose treaty violations.

Steels led the backslide, with coppers and miscellaneous issues in the van. Such support as appeared brought a showing of the ticker tape. Quotations were not far from their lows of the session at the close.

Transfers approximated 1,750,000 shares.

Approximately 3,000 inmates were locked in their cells "until the strike ends." Others—about 400—were permitted out of cells to do necessary tasks.

A QUESTION PEOPLE OFTEN ASK:

Is Camel justified in Spending Extra Millions for Costlier Tobaccos?

THE ANSWER IS THIS

CAMELS ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

WHY THE NEW National Open Golf Champion, Ralph Guldahl (right), prefers Camels. In his own words: "Camels are different from other cigarettes. You see, playing against an all-star field, my nerves run the gamut. Camels don't jangle my nerves."

GIRL RODEO CHAMPION. Rose Davis (left) says: "Camels always appeal to me, but I think that the Camels at mealtimes are the most enjoyable of all. They help keep my digestion working smoothly in spite of the jolting I take from bucking broncos."

SPEAKING OF DIGESTION and smoking, Dorothy Malone, food editor (right), says: "Many comments from my women readers show that they find smoking Camels a pleasant way to encourage good digestion. I myself smoke Camels."

"I'VE BEEN A FIRE FIGHTER for 11 years," says Frank Gilliar (left). "Smoke? You bet I do. And I'm particular about my brand. It's Camels. There's the cigarette, if you want mildness! They're the last word in flavor."

"FIND THE RIGHT CIGARETTE and stick to it," is my motto," says "Duke" Krantz, veteran airplane pilot (right). "I was thoroughly sold on Camels right from the first pack I smoked 15 years ago."

It is homespun fact that nothing man does to tobacco can take the place of what Nature does. Camels are made of finer tobaccos into which Nature put extra goodness.

THERE'S only one way to get the best tobaccos. That's to pay more for them. It has been a well-known fact for years that Camel pays millions more, year in and year out, for finer tobaccos. It's the natural way to put more enjoyment into smoking.

People have confidence in the mildness and goodness of the finer tobaccos in Camels. More and more smokers turn to Camels. They find that Camels are naturally milder and that the full, natural flavor of the costlier tobaccos is brought to perfection in the Camel blend. If you are not smoking Camels, try them now. And see if you, too, don't find that Camels mean unflinching pleasure!

"CAMELS go on my shopping list regularly," says Mrs. Richard Heggway, New York matron. "I never want to be without Camels. When I feel tired, I smoke a Camel and get the grandest 'lift.'"

"I'VE GOT to have a cigarette that's mild," says Uva Kimmy, girl parachute jumper. "So I'm a Camel smoker. I find Camels so mild I can smoke as much as I wish without jangled nerves."

WORLD SERIES TO OPEN TOMORROW WITH GOMEZ AND HUBBELL PITCHING

MELTON WILL BE KEY MAN IF HE WINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Giants and the Yankees, both confident and both confident they hold a fistful of aces, hold their final workouts this afternoon, and at 12:30 p. m. (CST) tomorrow they smack into each other in the second straight "subway series."

Two more substantial, complacent ball clubs probably never met in a world series since the annual fall follies were inaugurated in 1903. Neither appears to be unduly excited nor awed, but, just the same, the series promises to be hard-fought and exciting every foot of the way.

The battle lines are definitely drawn, pending a last-minute change by manager Bill Terry of the Giants or Joe McCarthy of the Yankees. Carl Hubbell, the Oklahoma farmer, will try to win his third straight series opener for the Giants, and Vernon (Ee Goofy) Gomez, another leftist, will toil for the Yankees.

They are perhaps the leading southpaws in the game, and the prospect of a thrilling duel between them has led optimistic club officials to hope to break the world series attendance record of 66,666 set at the stadium a year ago. Indications today, however, were that the opening day attendance would not be much more than 50,000.

The Yankees' lineup is settled for the series with the same array that swamped the American league under a deluge of base-hits, except that hard-hitting George Selkirk has recovered from a mid-season hurt just in time to take over his right field post. He, with Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey, comprise the backbone of the Yankees' devastating attack.

The Giants, who are the weaker-hitting outfit and therefore compelled to consider every possible angle in their struggle for runs, do considerable shifting about. Against Gomez tomorrow they will have big Hank Leiber, right-handed power hitter, playing center field and batting clean-up. When Red Ruffing, a right hander, takes the hill for the Yankees in the second tussle, Lou Chiozza will be in the middle pasture for the Giants, with Jimmy Riddle batting fourth.

Terry, who has so far recovered from his influenza that he took a few cuts at the plate in yesterday's practice, has delegated the veteran Gus Mancuso to catch both Hubbell in tomorrow's game and Bill Melton in the second game. Harry Danning is slated to catch Hal Schumacher in the third.

All of which indicates the essential difference between the two New York teams. The Yankees are set to slug it out on their customary lines. The Giants are going to play it "cute" and fight for a run at a time, placing their trust in Hubbell, Melton and Schumacher to curb the enemy.

The key man of the series, with all due respect to Hubbell, is very likely to be Melton. If Melton, a 20-game winner in his first season, throttles the Yankee batters in the second game, then it's anybody's series, and probably the Giants'.

Those who watched the rival teams in batting practice were struck by the obvious disparity in power. The Yankees, one after the other, rattled balls against the farm boards and the stadium echoed with the vigor of their blows. Their rivals, on the other hand, seldom dashed one solidly. Their looks looked like singles. But the Giants' infield displayed more zip and sparkle than the Yankees'.

Reports have it that there has been an unusual amount of betting on the series, with the Yankees steady 2 to 5 choices. Those seem very attractive odds to the Giants' admirers, considering the pace their club has set in the past month.

A Yank fan, though, explained it all very succinctly: "Odds don't mean nothing when that DiMaggio and Gehrig and Dickey get up there. It's just 'pop-pop-pop,' and what difference does the odds make?"

1937 Guerrillas Show Plenty of Fight and Spirit

This year's Guerrilla football team has been hailed by some fans as one of the best, as far as spirit and determination to fight are concerned, in years. Later on in the season they will play Miami, Plainview and other Class B teams. Members of the squad are as follows:

Greenville Star Will Play in Game Friday

The up-and-down Greenville Lions are not being taken lightly by the Harvesters who felt the Lion's claws last year down at Greenville. Yesterday afternoon the Mitchellmen went through a stiff workout, smoothing out plays and tightening up defense that at times slipped against the Panhandle Panthers.

Greenville, although the scene of a strike last fall when their coach resigned, have united into a strong conference contender. The team is built around a 160-pound piece of dynamite named Franks. He has been on the sidelines the last two games because of injuries and as a result his team lost to Sherman and Tyler after defeating Dallas Tech and Denison earlier. He will be ready for the battle here Friday night at 8 o'clock.

A scrimmage session was in order for this afternoon or tomorrow afternoon. Coaches were not certain after yesterday's long workout. "We are not satisfied with our passing attack or the pass defense," declared Coaches Mitchell and Pre-jan. "Blocking also has to be a little smoother and timing of plays needs tuning up before Friday night."

On Oct. 15 the Harvesters will be in Port Arthur for a game, at night. The team will leave Glendora at noon on Oct. 14, arriving in Beaumont early the following morning. They will go by bus to Port Arthur, returning to Beaumont after the game. On the Saturday following the game, the Harvesters will see the game between Rice Institute and University of Tulsa. They will return to Pampa on Sunday night.

HOLD THAT LINE
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A baseball game in which players ran bases and balls on motorcycles worked very nicely until Catcher Charles Pickney tried to tag a runner coming in from third at 35 miles an hour.

Hospital attendants said Pickney would recover from severe arm and leg cuts.

WOLFF ROUTS LIPSCOMB IN ROUGH MATCH

The mighty Buck Lipscomb bit the dust, or rather chewed the resin last night at the Pampa Athletic arena when he lost his first local wrestling match to Frank Wolff. The big, bad Wolff took the last two falls in mastery fashion.

Tesuro Higami reported injured in a car accident last week, failed to arrive for the semi-final with Star Moran so Don Rainey dealt the cocky sailor plenty of trouble for 22 minutes before collapsing before a series of rights to the head and a smother. It was a lightning-fast bout with both wrestling. Rainey stayed clean all the way while Moran resorted to knees and punches to win.

The Little Jap wired Promoter Cliff Chambers, as follows: "Me in auto wreck, me hurt, not bad, car bust, Tesuro." The little fellow was expected to be able to make it here last night but apparently his injuries were more serious than at first believed.

Bill Cazzell and Bob Cummings staged another of their fierce battles with Cazzell again going rougher when he got in a tight spot. Cummings dealt him plenty of misery with arm and leg holds and Cazzell had to use his fists to come out. The hard-breathing Cummings stuck out one of Cazzell's famous headlocks for four minutes before breaking loose. The bout was a draw.

Lipscomb used his one and only hold to beat Wolff in the opening fall after he had blinded him and choked him into submission. The only hold Lipscomb has ever used to win, other than a smother when he had his victim unconscious, is a half Japanese crab. To use it he has to have his opponent out on his feet and helpless to protect himself.

Undaunted, Wolff came back for the second fall with blood in his eyes. He threw Lipscomb around the ring and did a little eye work himself. He used Lipscomb's grab for a battering ram against the corner post after Lipscomb had failed in a similar attempt. At the end of 11 minutes, Wolff picked Lipscomb up in an airplane spin, slammed him, and then rolled him over and held him until Lipscomb hollered calf rope.

The final fall of the night was lightning fast. There were several wrestling holds used and on several occasions each had appeared to have won. Lipscomb knocked Wolff groggy and applied a full Japanese grab but the Dutchman had enough power in his legs to throw Lipscomb over with his shoulders to the mat in a leg pin. Lipscomb came out and the battle went on. Finally Lipscomb flipped the Dutchman, who wouldn't let go, and a crowd came up with a back body drop which put Lipscomb's shoulders to the mat.

Lipscomb protested long and loud that his shoulders hadn't hit the mat but Referee Ray Clements decided otherwise. Lipscomb wanted to show fight but Wolff started after him and he ran to the dressing room, parting the crowd filing from the arena.

Panthers Need to Win One Game to Cop Series

Back in Swing

A happy smile brightens the poker face of Helen Willis Moody as she examines the trophy she won for capturing the Pacific Southwest, doubles championship at Los Angeles with Baron Gottfried von Cramm. The victory sent the former Queen of the Courts off to a good start along the comeback trail.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—The shakeup that Andy Kerr made in his Colgate team following Saturday's 40-7 licking by Cornell may not be so hard on the veterans as it looked at first. A leg injury kept Tommy Eck from playing center.

Pete Ritchie was busy with a class while Red Chesbro and Eddie Lator were given a day's rest yesterday. The chances are they'll be back in there Saturday.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — If Francis Schmidt is going to teach his Ohio State players any new tricks this week, he'll have to do it in a hurry. The Bucks play Southern California this week and are scheduled to leave for Los Angeles tomorrow morning.

ATHENS, Ga.—Warning to Alabama and other opponents of South Carolina this season: those same-socks are tough. They lost to Georgia last Saturday by a touchdown, but the victors lost Jimmy Fordham, Sphomore fullback, with a back injury. Three others were hurt slightly.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—Capt. John Stoke, who coaches the Mississippi State line, isn't worried about what his guards will do against Texas A. and M. next Saturday. "We don't have many of them—there are just six," he commented. "But if

POP DIMAGGIO IN NEW YORK TO SEE SERIES

By PAUL MICKELSON.
NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The proudest and most excited man in this big city today was an old, weather beaten salt who traveled across the continent to see a guy named Joe play in the world series.

His suitcase crammed with mama's famous cookies, cake and several bottles of wine, Joseph DiMaggio Sr. made his first trip to New York in 41 years, with only one bit of sight-seeing on his mind. "That," he said, "is to see the first and only Giuseppe, hit a home run against the Giants."

If you've ever seen an aged father glow over the exploits of a son, then you've got the picture of Papa DiMaggio. In more than 25 years of fishing off San Francisco Bay, he's had more than his share of thrills but to come to New York, all expenses paid, to see Giuseppe strut his stuff before thousands of cheering fans tops papa's wildest dreams.

Papa arrived yesterday accompanied by his third son, Dominic, star outfielder of the San Francisco Seals who hopes to emulate his more famous brothers, Yankee Joe and Vincent, who did a fine job his first year up with the Boston Bees this season. Joe met them at the station, dined himself on the cookies and cake, and they took them out to Yankee stadium for the series practice.

"This," said the amazed Papa DiMaggio as he entered Yankee stadium, "is a great park. And a big one, too. Giuseppe, how can you hit home runs in a place like this?"

"I just swing, Pop," laughed Joe. "C'mon, the boys want to take your picture."

A score of cameras clicked as the old fisherman posed with his two sons.

After the practice, Joe took his father to what he thought was the swankiest Italian restaurant in town. But Papa refused to eat.

"I darned near forgot," said Joe. "Pop won't eat restaurant food of any kind. Went even eat the good stuff I have in my own restaurant back home. He'll come in but he won't eat. He doesn't like hotels either. I wanted to put him up in style but he looked up one of his old pals where he's staying and eating home cooked food."

BONNEVILLE SALT PLATS, Utah, Oct. 5 (AP)—British George Eveston left his "speed of the wind" automobile in a repair shop today and turned to the unpacking of his huge six-cylinder car, "Thunderbolt," newly arrived from London.

Eveston said he may test the "Thunderbolt" out next week and in two or three weeks may be ready to attempt to better Sir Malcolm Campbell's one-mile record of 301.2 miles an hour, the fastest man has traveled on wheels.

He set out in "Speed of the Wind" yesterday to surpass the 12-hour record of 160.17 miles an hour and the 24-hour mark of 157.27, but a burned-out universal joint forced him to abandon the run after completing but 15 laps of the 11-mile salt beds course.

The quantity element is lacking, certainly the same cannot be said of quality.

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT. FORT WORTH, Oct. 5 (AP)—Big Ed Selway, the stingy Fort Worth right hander who has allowed one earned run in his last 30 innings, faces Little Rock's Travelers tonight in the game needed to clinch the Dixie series pennant for his Texas league champions.

Selway, who shut out the Travelers, 3-0, in an Arkansas appearance last week, watched his mates pull out with a 10-inning, 3-2 victory last night that gave them a decisive three-to-one edge in the series.

Manager Doc Prothro of Little Rock definitely announced that Lee Rogers, who pitched the deciding game against New Orleans and Atlanta that eased the Travelers into the series, would be his mound choice.

Last night's extra-inning thriller was climaxed when Joe Greenberg, struck out by Rogers, lashed a line single into center field with the bases loaded, two out and the score tied.

Greenberg, playing in the outfield for the first time when Manager Homer Peel pulled himself out of the lineup after the first inning, edged the Panthers closer towards their first Dixie pennant in seven years.

Pitcher Byron Humphreys, who had twirled a masterful game for the Arkansas, intentionally walked Lee Selbins, Fort Worth first sacker, to get to Greenberg, an easy victim in prior appearances at the plate.

Southpaw Clyde Smoll, despite five walks that got him in trouble, and some ragged fielding on Griffin, averted a sacrifice and allowed only four hits. The Travelers caught on to his fielding weakness early and attempted bunts throughout the ten frames.

Fort Worth tallied first in the fourth on McDowell's tie on Griff, fifth error, sacrifice and Moore's double. The Travelers tied the score in the fifth when Niemiec reached first on Smoll's had throw on his bunt, stole second and raced to third on Catcher Jackson's wild throw, and scored after Greenberg struck out McDowell to temporarily stem the Panther surge—but then came Stebbins' walk and Greenberg's blow to center.

Jackson led off the Fort Worth tenth with a single and went to second on a fielder's choice, beating out O'Neill's throw after Smoll's but downed the first base line. Shelley forced Jackson at third, Humphreys to Tabor, and Humphreys tossed out McDowell to temporarily stem the Panther surge—but then came Stebbins' walk and Greenberg's blow to center.

DONALD BUDGE TURNS BACK BOBBY RIGGS

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 5 (AP)—Donald Budge is still the world's greatest amateur tennis player.

The Oakland, Calif., red-head turned back a stirring challenge by young Robert Riggs of Los Angeles yesterday to retain his men's singles crown in the Pacific Coast championships here. The scores were 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Budge later paired with Mrs. Helen Willis Moody to win the mixed doubles with a hardfought 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 triumph over Kay Stammers of England and Gerald Stratford of San Francisco.

Chapter XVIII

"C'mon, baby! One more I'll drink with papa!"

Tom Corbett swayed as he hung over Lizzie. Would he never let her go? She'd been there half an hour, and one by one the lights across the street were going out. If she stayed much longer, there would be nothing to see from the roof.

Across the room, Mrs. Corbett was beginning to nod in her chair. Her words, as she babbled on, were thick, and every few minutes they trailed off to a vague nothingness.

"No, no more, really!" Cilly insisted. She still sipped the first drink he had made for her.

She stood up abruptly. She'd made a mistake coming here, all right, but she didn't have to stay. One didn't compromise with drunks. Quickly she walked to the door.

Quickly, but not quite fast enough. Sensing her action, Corbett was there first, arms outstretched, blocking the way.

"So! You wanna run out on me, eh?" He enfolded her in his enormous arms. "Oh, no you don't." Cilly struggled to free herself. "Mr. Corbett!" she shouted.

Back in the living room, his wife opened half an eye.

"Whatzat, deary?" she inquired sleepily. "Whajju say?"

Mr. Corbett let Cilly go. "Scuse me," he pleaded. "Scuse me. But don't try to go yet. It's early. Lemme fix that drink."

Thoroughly annoyed now, Cilly went back to the living room. Here was a nice predicament, she thought. Whatever possessed her to ring the Corbetts' doorbell? She might have waited downstairs until someone from the apartment came along, and then explain that she'd forgotten her key.

She sat down beside Mrs. Corbett. The woman was not going to sleep, not if she could help it.

"Mrs. Corbett," she said. "I wanted to ask you something about Sunday night."

"Sun-day night? Oh, my Gawd!" She straightened, shuddered. "Don't remim' me. Sunday night. Tom was out west. Tom's always out west. Travelin' man, that's my Tom." She giggled foolishly now. "Travelin' man, Tom, tell her 'bout that time that time out west—tell her, Tom—, that time you—, tell her."

"Shut up! Keep your mouth still!" Tom, standing in the kitchen doorway, looked menacingly at his wife. Mrs. Corbett waved her arms in a pathetically dramatic expression of submission.

Mrs. Corbett waved her arms in a pathetically dramatic expression of submission.

"O. K.," she grinned fatuously, but with condescension. "If you won't tell her, I will. I'll tell about that time you were out west—way, way out west. In . . . in . . . where was it, darlin'? Where were you that time . . ."

In three quick strides her husband was at her side. "Shut up, I told you!" he shouted. "Shut up! You talk too much. Why don'tcha go to bed? Go to bed!"

"No! I'm gonna tell . . ."

Cilly jumped to her feet. In another second, she could see. Corbett might strike his wife. She wanted to escape and now, "Mr. Corbett," she said with determination, "I'm going home, and if you try to stop me, I'm going to screech until every policeman in Brooklyn gets here. And there have been altogether too many policemen around here lately."

The man's mouth dropped in sulky displeasure. He slumped into a chair, waved his drink in the air.

"Gwan home," he said gruffly. "Who asked you over anyway? Gwan home. Who cares?"

Cilly breathed a deep sigh of relief as she closed the Corbett door behind her. What people! And what a curious contradiction—Mrs. Corbett was a mild, nervous little woman one day; coarsely drunk the next.

She wondered what the story was that the woman had tried to tell her—the story of Mr. Corbett's experiences out west—"way, way out west." And why was he so intensely set on not having it told?

She unstepped the door to the roof and stepped out. Slowly she closed it behind her careful lest it slam. She took a deep breath, before she stepped forward toward the edge.

It was dark as pitch; there were no stars in the sky, and no lights from ships in the bay. Two nights before, Amy had stepped forward like this, gay and confident; but it was this eternal darkness into which Amy had stepped. Cilly trembled inwardly; her feet refused to move. She swallowed hard, then she forced herself forward, step by step.

Suddenly, as she stood beside the three-foot wall enclosing the roof, she wondered just what she expected to discover. Now that she was here, the whole trip seemed utterly folly.

Nevertheless, she brought forth the opera glasses and adjusted them to her vision. First, she focussed them upon the empty apartment 5-B. This was where she really hoped to find something. A flash of light, perhaps, or the flicker of a candle . . . anything to indicate that someone might be using the apartment as a hideout. But there was nothing. The windows of both empty apartments—5-B and 3-B—loomed black and vacant.

Down she looked into the living room of 2-B. Mr. and Mrs. Smith sat at opposite ends of the divan, Mr. Smith reading a magazine, Mrs. Smith knitting. Next door, Mrs. Elliott's apartment was dark. The light from a street lamp showed nothing unusual here. Mrs. Elliott was still in Connecticut, visiting her daughter.

Above, in 3-A, there were no lights. That was the Carruthers' apartment; they were in Bermuda.

In 4-A, Cilly saw the Downeys, mother and daughter, getting ready for bed. Trusting souls, they did not draw the shades. They appeared to be arguing, but what mother and daughter do not argue?

No murder clues in that homely scene. Cilly shifted the glasses to the apartment above, the Hunters. Here was another intimate bedroom scene, with the shades up. Did nobody pull down the bedroom shades any more?

Perhaps it was only necessary for those like her, Cilly thought, who lived on the first floor. Honest people did not consider the fact that visiting neighbors might peer into their lives through opera glasses.

There were twin beds in the Hunter boudoir. Mrs. Hunter turned down one, then she disappeared into the hallway. Mr. Hunter sat dreamily on the foot of his bed, running his fingers through his hair. Soon his wife returned, placed a thermos jug on the night table between the beds and kissed him good-night. She climbed into her own bed. Then Mr. Hunter rose, walked over to the hall and disappeared. Cilly stared in wonderment. Mr. Hunter, paralyzed from the waist down, was walking about his own bedroom!

Eagerly she watched for him to return. In a moment, he was back, walking erect and firm. He crossed the room to a bureau, picked up an alarm clock and wound it. Then once more, he walked over to the doorway and switched off the light. Cilly saw no more.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

A PHOTOMETER, RECENTLY INSTALLED IN THE STEWARD OBSERVATORY, AT TUCSON, ARIZONA, IS CAPABLE OF DETECTING LIGHT FROM A 100-WATT ELECTRIC LIGHT BULB, PLACED AS FAR AWAY AS NEW YORK CITY.

THE WHISTLE WAS THE FIRST NATIONAL FLOWER! SCOTLAND ADOPTED IT DURING THE REIGN OF KING JAMES II.

COBWEBS WERE USED AT ONE TIME AS A CURE FOR ASTHMA.

THE photometer at the University of Arizona is used for measuring the light from distant stars. Equipped with photographic plates, the instrument could record the light of a 100-watt bulb placed in New Zealand, if only it were possible to see around the curve of the earth.

SIGNATORIES OF TREATY TO CONVENE SOON

GENEVA, Oct. 5 (AP) — The drafting committee of the League advisory group on the Sino-Japanese conflict agreed today that signatories of the nine-power treaty, including the United States, should be "invited" to meet at the earliest possible moment to examine, the Far Eastern situation.

It was understood also that concessions were made to a Chinese demand that the nine-power conference invitation should not be the only action taken. The Chinese representatives insisted the League also should recognize its obligation to act.

A draft of the proposals is to be submitted late to the sub-committee of thirteen and if approved there to be then presented to the full advisory committee which in turn would report to the League assembly.

The effort to call together the nine powers earlier had been snagged by determined Chinese and Russian opposition to a nine-power conference on the conflict.

Russia Supports China The Chinese delegation, solidly supported by their Russian allies, was learned to have opposed the British project for convocation of the signatories of the Washington treaty guaranteeing China's territorial integrity, unless the League of Nations continues its study of charges accusing Japan as an aggressor nation.

The position taken by China and Russia was based on the hope of ultimate League measures to aid China as a victim of aggression. The particular articles invoked by China 5 her charge against Japan, were ten and eleven of the League covenant which bind the League to take measures to preserve the territorial integrity of members against aggression.

Until the opposition developed, forcing postponement of its meeting today, the advisory sub-committee on Sino-Japanese affairs, with the United States sitting in consultation, was believed to have accepted the British proposal and agreed to recommend convocation of the nine powers at a late meeting last night.

Secret Studies (Dispatches from Washington for some time have indicated the United States was engaged in secret studies with other powers to see if the nine-power pact could not be used to restore peace in China.)

(The United States and Great Britain were known to have previously begun exchanging information on their views and diplomatic maneuvers in the Far Eastern crisis, a move, which might have strengthened the British decision to invoke the terms of the pact.)

The factual investigation by the great powers at Geneva, was said to have resulted in a impression that Japan's military action in China was "unjustified" by the incidents leading up to it.

MAN, 88, CAN PICK 119 POUNDS COTTON

CLARENDON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Taylor Lovelace, a strapping 88-year-old man who can pick 119 pounds of cotton an average day, is afraid he has roamed around too much lately to settle down into the placidity of married life again.

He relates that recently a 77-year-old Wichita Falls widow suggested, via correspondence, that they marry. He had to turn it down, however, because a "man loves only once" and he was too used to the life of a wanderer.

His wanderings brought him last month to the cotton fields of Delta county, Picking—not pulling—119 pounds of cotton a day didn't tire him much, just "made me hungry" and ready for sound sleep.

Sickness never made him miss a meal, he says. "The only ones I ever missed are those I postponed during the Civil War and a few others I was unable to get to on time."

He will be 100 next March 24.

Flyer's Target

His camera slung over his shoulder, a cigarette in his hand, Rudolph Brandt, NEA Service cameraman, grins cheerfully, above, in Shanghai where he is covering the Chinese war—and grins just as cheerfully a few days ago when he was caught in a Japanese air attack and narrowly escaped death.

The raiders bombed Brandt and three other American photographers en route to the front in an auto. They escaped by fleeing under fire to a dugout.

JAPS BAN IMPORTATION OF 300 COMMODITIES

TOKYO, Oct. 5 (AP)—In a despatch move to gain economic self-sufficiency for the war with China, the Japanese trade commission today decreed that importation of more than 300 commodities must be prohibited or reduced to a minimum.

The ministry of commerce was expected to have the gigantic list of prohibitions in effect by Oct. 10.

The move was designed to concentrate Japan's financial resources behind its war machine in China. Japan's total adverse trade balance for 1937 is $217,000,000.

With only a few exceptions, the articles listed will be admitted only by permission. They are divided roughly into "urgent and not urgent" types.

Importation of cotton, lumber and wool will be authorized only carried by cargo, no shipments requiring a separate permit.

Louis Elshemius, famous American painter, calls himself "The Transcendent Eagle of American Art."
