DILLINGER IS DEAD, SAYS PAL

Twinkles

Uncle Sam is busily buying up sub-marginal lands and giving them back to the birds and bees. You see, the Indians won't have the land after the white folks slashed it up.

An oil company is launching a campaign to influence motorists to stop their cars for 5 minutes each hour to clear out monoxide gas. That's one gas you can't step on and get away with it.

Regardless of how capable they may be, we aren't going to say many words about the state candidates who fail to include Pampa on their journeys. Our audiences of 30 persons are just as good as 30 voters in East Texas, and sometimes we muster several hundred persons at a time.

We're trying to enjoy green beans from our garden. Our chances to pick more than two messes is rather low, hence, we've got to enjoy each bean separately.

Now is the time to enjoy life all you can—you may be one of those who will not survive the July Fourth holiday activities.

Brevitorials

Musings of the moment: The candidates are beginning to get serious. Many have worried countenances. Many who have been "good sports" up to now are wondering whether it will not require stronger tactics to win. Many are beginning to doubt the efficiency of the system of merely handing out "candidate cards." Talk will be tighter and terser from now on. . . . And rumors will be more carefully fostered by that minority which usually upsets the easy tenor of politics. . . . Wise voters will listen more carefully, believe loose talk less quickly, and sprinkle rumors well with salt.

MARK Husely of Mobeetie, that dear of pioneers of the old fort country, has us on the spot, botanically speaking. He has sent us a sprig of leaves—pretty, green, serrate leaves such as one sees on many shrubs and trees. But these are extraordinary leaves. The ribs, after supporting the lower part of the leaves, abandon this function and form small yellow flowers, half a dozen or more to a leaf. There are four or five flowers in each cluster. As the blooms drop off, small hard pods of five seed each form.

THIS little problem again shows the folly of trying to learn too much detailed information in college. Our course in botany falls utterly to enable us to name the tree or shrub which develops such freak characteristics. But college training should enable one to know where to find such information. . . . Our first step is to appeal to Dr. John M. Hooper, who has the pleasant hobby of collecting and mounting specimens of flowers. Between us, with some flower guides for references, we may solve the mystery.

WE have a hunch that Mr. Husely—an Englishman with a flair for harmless mischief in such matters—knows all about the specimen he has submitted. His letter is a bit flippant, but as we translate it he calls the specimen a Pre-Centennial flower—a coined name, of course. . . . Mr. Husely closes by asking us if we know how the powderpuff ever came to the Panhandle. Maybe that's the name of the flower, or maybe he has changed the subject. At any

Smith's the Name—But Not Local Teacher

A court record item in THE NEWS this week stated that a marriage license had been issued here to Emma C. Smith and Miss Irene McCormick. . . . It was stated in error that Mr. Smith was a high school teacher of the same name. . . . Mr. Smith, the teacher, writes from Canyon, where he is in college, that there was a confusion of names and that he has not applied for a license here. . . . The other Mr. Smith, who was issued the license, could not be located today. THE NEWS offers its apology to all concerned.

TWO BROTHERS IN FLIGHT TO NATIVE LAND

HOP OFF TO POLAND FROM BROOKLYN EARLY TODAY

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—The Adamowicz brothers, Benjamin and Joseph, silent partners in business and in flying, took off at 5:40 (EST) today on a flight to Warsaw, Poland, their ancestral home. . . . Promised fine flying weather for the next 48 hours, they headed for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland; there to refuel and turn out across the Atlantic to their native land. . . . They were accompanied in their red, white and blue monoplane, "Warsaw," by Holger Hoiris, who flew to Copenhagen in 1931 in the same plane—then "Miss Liberty." Hoiris was to leave the brothers at Harbor Grace.

Their great ship rumbled down 3,000 feet of the 4,100-foot runway before finally lifting heavily into the air. After rising to only about 50 feet, it "mushed" down, but then gathered altitude and rose safely. Only about 100 persons were at Floyd Bennett airport when the brothers, prompt in their air appointments as they are in business, arrived from their home at just 5 o'clock (EST).

Their prospective route would carry them to Harbor Grace in ten hours, then over the great circle route to Dublin, Berlin, and Warsaw.

They carried six sandwiches, a dozen hard-boiled eggs and coffee. Hoiris and the brothers would set forth from Harbor Grace "just as soon as they get tanked up." . . . As noncommittal as ever, the chunky Polish-American pilots—perhaps the most inexperienced and the first "brother act" in trans-Atlantic flying—were confident of reaching their goal.

It was a come-back. They started out from Floyd Bennett field once before—a "test flight," they called it—but their ship cracked up while landing last August at Harbor Grace.

With their big ship carrying 400 gallons of gasoline, there was just room enough for the brothers and Hoiris—Benjamin stuffed in the cockpit with the veeran pilot, Joseph, cramped up in a place behind the gasoline tanks.

Benjamin, 36 years old and married, and Joseph, 39, and single, have been flying only since 1927. Then was envy that sent them into the air. . . . They went for their first flight that year with a friend, and when they had landed, Benjamin said: "If he can do that, I can do it, too." . . . On October 16 of that same year, he won his amateur pilot's license. Joseph was licensed soon afterward. . . . The brothers are residents of Brooklyn and partners in a mineral water business.

Mrs. Adamowicz was at the field to see them off, as were J. A. Wasilewski of the Polish consulate in New York City, and Alexander Gawlik, vice director of the Postal Savings bank of Warsaw. . . . If they complete their flight, the brothers will land at Okeniec field, Warsaw's new municipal airport, opened only about three weeks ago and considered one of the world's finest flying fields.

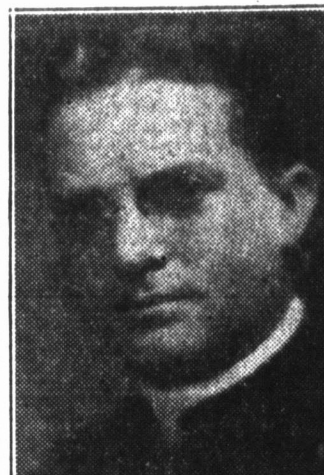

Roosevelt Will Make Report to Nation Tonight

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt will make one of his periodic "reports to the nation" over the radio at 9:30 o'clock Eastern Standard time, tonight. . . . It is expected to deal with events of the last six months and prospects for the future. . . . The president still hopes to get away Saturday to start his Hawaiian cruise, but if there is too much work he will delay until Monday.

I HEARD—

Joe Vincent worrying about how to correct his slice and him on a diet of mostly milk. "And I like 'Fody Sop' so much and they won't let me have any," wailed the elongated left-hander. . . . Eusie Turner and Monty Montgomery telling that they can't get houses in McLean and have to live in Pampa. Also 10 Cargray boys telling about having to live in White Deer because they can't get houses in Pampa.

Coming Sunday

The Most Rev. Robert E. Lucey, bishop of the Amarillo diocese, will preach Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the confirmation services at Holy Souls Catholic church. The class will comprise about 40. Bishop Lucey recently was installed head of this diocese in elaborate ceremonies at Amarillo. He succeeds Archbishop R. A. Gerken of Santa Fe.

J. T. CRAWFORD SEES ONLY ONE REGIMENT PAL

Confederate Veteran Attends Reunion in Tennessee

J. T. Crawford has returned from Chattanooga, Tenn., where he attended the Confederate soldiers' reunion during the early part of the month. Mr. Crawford then went to Dayton, Tenn., his former home.

Of the 600 Confederate survivors attending the reunion, Mr. Crawford met only one survivor of his Tennessee regiment. He was Joe Montgomery, now living in Chattanooga. Wilson Work, of the cavalry division connected with Mr. Crawford's old battalion, was also present.

Mr. Crawford enlisted in 1861 at the age of 17. He served with his regiment under Albert Sidney Johnston and Joseph E. Johnston, and was with Bragg at Chickamauga. He was ahead of Sherman on his march through Georgia and took part in 65 skirmishes in 69 days without being wounded. In fact, Mr. Crawford went through the entire campaign without receiving a wound and was present at the surrender.

The veteran has passed his 80th birthday and is still in good health. Tears came to his eyes this morning as he recounted some of the meetings and programs during the celebration.

Marie Dressler Believed Dying

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 28 (AP)—Marie Dressler's prolonged illness had reached a critical stage today and a nurse was in constant attendance on the 60-year-old actress. . . . "The outcome is dubious," said Dr. P. R. Nuzum, but he promptly qualified his statement by adding: "It is not anticipated that she will pass immediately." . . . The actress, who came to an estate here for a rest a few weeks ago, is suffering from complications including ailments afflicting the kidneys and heart.

At her Hollywood studio it was disclosed Miss Dressler in her latest pictures has been able to work but a few hours daily. . . . W. B. Jackson of Miami was in the city this morning.

BANKER MADE TO DRIVE HIM OUT OF TOWN

STUFFS $1,000 IN HIS POCKETS; CARRIES 2 AUTOMATICS

COVINGTON, June 28 (AP)—A man about 25 years old today held up the Covington State bank, stuffed about $1,000 in his pockets and forced M. T. Davis, president, to drive him to a point ten miles southwest of Covington.

Davis drove back to Covington unarmed and gave officers a report of the looting. . . . He said he, R. C. Smith, cashier, and Loraine Willetts, bookkeeper, were in the bank when the man entered. . . . "I walked up to the window to wait on him," Davis said. "He drew two automatics and asked where the money was. He gathered up all in the tills and then carried me out to the car and down the road. He made me do the driving. I didn't drive very fast."

Davis drove about 15 minutes to the southwest and then the man ordered him to stop, still holding the pistols close to him. The man left the car, ordered Davis to drive back to Covington and then started walking down the road.

"He didn't get very much," Davis said, "about $1,000."

Officers of Johnson and Hill county at once began searching the nearby territory for the man. They believed he had confederates.

GRAY COUNTY WILL RECEIVE DROUGHT AID

Gray county has been designated for secondary drought relief, according to a telegram from Senator Tom Connally to Alex Schneider.

This means that Gray county will share in the special appropriations, but to an extent not now known. . . . First consideration will be given those counties, such as Dallas and Hartley, which have been designated for emergency relief. Gray county now takes its place with the average county of the Panhandle which has been recognized as drought-stricken.

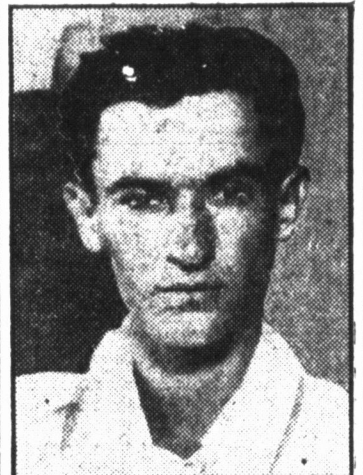

Senator Connally and Congressman Marvin Jones had been working for several weeks to secure drought relief aid for Gray and several other counties omitted in the original list approved by the department of agriculture.

Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Webb Injured in Road Collision

Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Webb are in Worley hospital suffering from injuries received this morning when their car crashed into a wheat truck near White Deer. Dr. Webb received a broken arm and severe bruises. Mrs. Webb was cut and bruised but suffered no broken bones.

The accident happened about 11:30 o'clock. Dr. and Mrs. Webb were returning from Amarillo. They said the wheat truck drove on to the highway from a field and it was impossible to miss the truck, although Dr. Webb almost overturned his car in an attempt to swerve across the road. . . . The name of the truck driver was not known here this afternoon. The Webb car was badly damaged.

Murder Suspects

Fearing that a mob would storm the Muskogee, Okla., jail, where Kenneth Chew, 21, above, and Will Davis, 24, below, were held on a murder charge, authorities rushed the prisoners to state prison at McAlester for safety. The suspects are accused of kidnaping C. N. Nunn, 56, of Porter, Okla., candidate for the presidency of the state board of agriculture, shooting him, tying him to a tree, and leaving him to die as they fled in his car.

LUMBER PRICES TO BE SLASHED TEN PER CENT

Roosevelt Puts His 'John Henry' on Housing Bill

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—A ten per cent reduction in the price of lumber and building material was ordered today by the National Lumber Dealers association to aid the administration's housing program.

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt today signed into law the housing bill intended to aid in reviving industry by increasing home construction and repair.

The legislation is calculated to make available several hundred million for new homes and modernization through government insurance of private loans for this purpose.

Nearing the end of the stack of bills passed in the closing days of congress, Mr. Roosevelt still reserved decision on the farm mortgage moratorium, the railway pension and the Taylor grazing measures.

300 JAPANESE RUSH BRITISH IN SHANGHAI

ENGLISH ATTEMPT TO ARREST 2 JAP SAILORS

SHANGHAI, June 28 (AP)—Street rioting in which Japanese attacked British troops threatened another ugly international incident today on a Far Eastern scene. . . . Shanghai's international settlement, virtually a war zone, was a center of the controversy. . . . Japanese objected angrily when British troops attempted to arrest two Japanese sailors in the territory. . . . Japanese naval officers and representatives of the British police went into a long conference. . . . The Japanese insisted no one but their own patrols had authority to arrest them on shore in Shanghai.

The affair started when British policemen attempted to arrest the two sailors, accusing them of striking a Chinese woman. . . . A number of the British were struck by flying objects. Reinforcements of British and Japanese naval shore patrols halted the outbreak. . . . British police withdrew and the Japanese navy took charge of the two sailors.

THE BULLET THAT DUG 5 MILLION GRAVES

over the earth. Before that flood was stopped November 11, 1918, it had claimed 25 million men—dead, wounded, maimed, broken. . . . War rode the bullet from Gavrillo Principe's gun. . . . Today in Vienna bombs were hurled, damaging government railroads and power plants. It was as though the crack of Principe's pistol 20 years ago had not been loud enough to carry down through the years; as though, new violences were somehow needed to refresh memories quickly dead.

Gavrillo Principe was 19 years old and had a grievance. . . . With the touch of his finger to the trigger of his weapon, Gavrillo Principe: . . . Swept the German throne away; Beckoned the czar of Russia and his family before a blood-lustful firing squad; . . . Remapped Europe; and . . . Dug five million—and more—graves. . . . An Austrian court, which could not see into the future, decided that fit punishment for Principe would be life imprisonment. They sent him to a cell, and there he died. . . . Twenty years after, Sarajevo is much the same, except that it is larger by about ten thousand population, and prospers, in a way, from travelers who would see what kind of a place it is that could send millions of men against each other in combat to the death. . . . Twenty years after, the United States—thousands of miles from Sarajevo and seemingly unconcerned about Gavrillo Principe and his pistol—receives a note from England declining to accept an American suggestion that England do something about paying her war debt. . . . Twenty years after the United States, France, Italy, Japan, and England plan bigger navies; the world disarmament conference is in suspension; France charges Germany is secretly rearming; troops drill. . . . In Germany today, twenty years later, flags fly at half mast, for it is one anniversary, too, of the Versailles treaty signing; and—Saratoga and Verdun—each mark bitter unforgettable, unforgivable defeat.

ASPECTS OF LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Not all has been said about the evils of the liquor traffic that can be said. There are analyses still waiting to be made.

Mississippi is in the midst of a campaign over a proposed liquor control bill. It is a traditional fight.

And this revival of the old type of campaign might be a little reminder that there is one angle of the liquor question to which we have not paid much attention, so far.

Someone once remarked that while drunkenness can cause poverty and misery, poverty and misery can also cause drunkenness; and before our new attitude in respect to the liquor trade gets fixed, it would be worth while to examine that thought a little.

The liquor traffic aroused widespread public indignation in America, roughly speaking, between the time of the Civil War and the enactment of the 18th amendment. It is interesting to note that that was precisely the period in which the great industrial development of the nation took place.

In that era our cities became great. Our industrial towns developed themselves then; the coal belt spawned its endless series of mine towns; the workmen came more and more under the sway of the great corporation.

The pace of life was quickened; simultaneously, the frontier closed, leaving the ordinary man more at the mercy of the outside forces than had been the case before.

All this put a heavy pressure on the individual wage earner. In hundreds of thousands of cases it reduced him to a sad condition; it forced him to live in dreary and unsightly homes, it closed his horizon, and it made him feel that there was very little hope for him.

Is it going too far to suggest that this had much to do with making the liquor problem acute? When the whiskey bottle looks like a man's only escape, it is not surprising if he takes it. Misery led to drink and drink led to more misery—a vicious circle, growing from an environment men felt unable to change.

Gay Summer Porch Frock

By ELLEN WORTH

ONE can't even imagine a summer wardrobe without a supply of cool printed cotton frocks to slip into on sweltering days—gay, colorful and fresh as a daisy. Here's a typical and altogether charming example, with a ruffled collar, the briefest of puff sleeves and simple, flattering lines.

This season offers a greater variety of fabrics than ever for this type of frock. Chiffon voiles, printed batistes, lawns, printed organdies—all are suitable. With any of these, use white organdie for the collar. Eyelet embroidered batiste is another smart fabric choice.

The simplicity of this frock makes it ideal for the home dressmaker. You might make up two or three frocks of the same design, using various color combinations. And this is only one example of the many attractive styles to be found in the Summer Fashion Book.

The New Fashion Book will help you plan your wardrobe. Send 10 cents for book.

Pattern No. 6116 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 bust. (Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36-inch material, 1/2 yard contrasting. Width about 3 yards.)

Send 15 cents in coin or stamps. Mail your order to New York Fashion Bureau, 222 West 39th St., New York. Print your name and address on wrapper and print pattern number, size or bust.

Commission Is Awaiting Stamps To Mail Summary

Shortage of stamps at railroad commission headquarters here will make it impossible to mail the July summary for the Panhandle field. J. M. McDonald, supervisor, announced this morning upon his return from Austin, where he attended a state wide oil hearing. Gene Green, deputy, accompanied Mr. McDonald.

The new schedule will be ready Monday morning and operators in the Panhandle field are urged to call at commission headquarters in the Rose building and secure copies of the summary. Mr. McDonald said this morning that summaries not called for would be mailed when stamps were available, but that he did not know when they would be forthcoming.

A reduction in output is expected soon, Mr. McDonald said. The commission made no statement following the hearing, but it was rumored in Austin that an order reducing the output of nearly every field in the state would be issued.

MILWAUKEE IS IN THROES OF STREET RIOTS

30,000 PERSONS TAKE PART IN RENEWED DISORDERS

MILWAUKEE, June 28 (AP)—Rioting which broke out on four fronts interrupting street car service, gave a more serious aspect today to the walkout of employees of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company.

Some thirty thousand persons—pickets, sympathizers, strikers and hordes of curious—taxed the strength of one-half of Milwaukee's 1,000 police officers last night in renewed disorders.

Fifty-one persons were arrested for partaking in violence to the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company's property. Eleven policemen and 12 others were taken to hospitals with injuries received from flying bricks and glass, tear gas, clubbing, and tramping in the surging masses.

Street car and bus service was suspended. The scene of the first riots Tuesday night, the Kinnickinnic avenue car barns and yards, again was the center of last night's trouble. More than ten thousand persons, police estimated, milled about.

Trouble started when the rioters began battering two street cars. Motor men were dragged from the cars and beaten before police could interfere. Officers won little respect: Uniforms were ripped and their owners kicked and stoned.

One officer was stabbed in the back with an ice pick. In West Allis, a suburb, 8,000 persons swooped upon the car barns, smashed windows, ripped doors from their hinges and then bombarded the station windows with rocks. Almost simultaneously a throng of 5,000 surged upon a lone street

Overnight — Goodyear's "G-3" became the fastest-selling tire in the world!

HERE'S the tire everyone is talking about! It took Goodyear over 24 months to perfect it—but it took only 24 hours for it to become a nationwide sensation.

"G-3" is its name. Just the factory symbol for the tread that stood out in every test—kept its grip 43% longer than former All-Weathers—twice as long as other tires tested against it.

What a tire! Its tread is wider—flatter—has more rubber in it—more grip because there are 16% more non-skid blocks in the center of the tread. And beneath this huskier, handsomer, tougher tread is the only ply material able to stand the strain—Goodyear Supertwist!

Why should you get less safety for your money—when the "G-3" All-Weather costs no more!

Sure, we have a GUARANTEE—a guarantee against road hazards—a lifetime guarantee against defects of material and workmanship. With the quality of Goodyear Tires where it is today—you can be sure of satisfaction. Come in and see us about it.

ERICK'S CLUB ONE OF BEST IN OKLAHOMA

MEMPHIS TEAM IS IN BEST FORM THIS SEASON

Two crack baseball teams will be in Pampa Sunday afternoon to play a doubleheader with the Pampa Roadrunners. The first game will be called at 2 o'clock, with the second game scheduled to get underway about 4 o'clock.

Erick, Okla., will provide the opposition in the opening game, with the Memphis Owls being the second team to meet the Roadrunners. No increase in admission will be made for the doubleheader.

The Oklahoma team will be making its first appearance of the year in this section. Although practically unknown to Pampa baseball fans, Erick has been playing fast teams throughout Oklahoma. A good pitching staff is backed by some stellar fielders and heavy hitters. It is reported from the Oklahoma city.

Memphis has the club that led the Pampa team until the seventh inning in a recent encounter in Memphis. The Roadrunners put on a scoring spree in the eighth inning to win 5 to 3. Since that game, Memphis has been strengthened by the signing of an infielder and a gardener who will assist the Marcum brothers in patrolling the outfield.

Manager George Bulla has been working his Roadrunners at top speed during practice sessions. He was unable to secure opposition for them last Sunday. His pitchers need action and plenty of it, which is one of the reasons the doubleheader was scheduled.

The Roadrunners have entered the Berger invitation tournament and will probably play Saturday. The games however, will not come close enough at the opening of the tournament to give all the pitchers the work they need. Bulla, Stewart, Skuman, Hardin, Marbaum, and Tate will be available for mound duty over the week-end.

The Roadrunners are hoping that they will not be scheduled to play July 4 in a tournament fixture. Should they have an off day, a good team will be brought to Pampa for a game.

El Reno, Okla., has promised to come to Pampa for a series but a date has not been set. The Halliburton Oil company team of Oklahoma is also a prospect for a series.

Roadrunner cripples have so suddenly recovered to work out. With the exception of Freddy Brickell, the players are in tip-top shape. Brickell's sprained ankle is still sore but he can get around nicely.

Soft Ball Game Won by Skelly From Barbers

Interest in playground ball is rising again. Last night the Court House Barber shop team went to Skellytown and played the Schafer No. 1 team under the lights. The oil men were victorious, 20 to 13, in a game of base hits.

The Schafer batters hopped on Koimer for 24 hits. The barbers, also hitting the ball, collected 17 safe bingles. The hitting of Earl Smith and Barnes Samuel was outstanding for the barbers. Hitting honors for the oilmen went to Worth and Anderson.

The Pampa fielders were erratic under the lights, especially the first few innings, when Skelly made most of its runs. Samuel's fielding was considered brilliant. He made only "unpleasant" errors.

Opposition will be welcomed by the Skelly Schafer plant No. 1. Borger will send a team to Skellytown soon for a game.

The barbers also are looking for games—or rather they were before last night's encounter. They were so stiff and sore this morning that they did not know whether they wished to play any more.

The barber lineup was: Abernathy, 1s; Crowson, 3b; Kennedy, 1b; Stranges, es; H. B. Sickle, 2b; A. L. Smith, 1f; Bob Sickle, cf; Samuel, rf; Earl Smith, cf; Koimer, p. Schukey, substitute.

The oil men used: Worth, 1s; Anderson, 3b; Scott, 1b; Lampkin, rs; Hays, p; Dyer, c; Davis, sb; Stine, cf; Price, 1f; McAllister, rf; Carlson and W. Hays, substitutes.

STEER LOSING STREAK ENDS

Dallas Defeats Indians 4 to 3; San Antonio Loses to Beaumont Club 4 to 3.

By The Associated Press. All losing streaks must end. The Dallas Steers terminated theirs last night at twelve straight by beating Oklahoma City, 4 to 3. Heroes were Fred Steley and Sal Gilatto, Dallas hurlers, who held Oklahoma City to five hits.

The Fort Worth Cats pounded Posedel for nine hits to take a 6 to 2 game from Tulsa. The Cats, trailing 1 to 2 in the last of the eighth put on a five run rally to clinch the game. Art Shires and Fred Tauby each batted in two runs for Fort Worth. Each also got two hits.

The league leading San Antonio Missions took one on the chin from the Beaumont Exporters who clouted Hill for sixteen hits to win, 6 to 3. Hare was in great form and held the Missions to four hits. He got away bad by allowing three runs the first inning but afterward it was whitewash for the Alamo city tribe.

Bivin, recently sold by Tulsa to Galveston, hurled a seven-hit game to give the Buccaneers a 5 to 2 victory over Houston. Bivin out-hurled Mike Cavanaugh, one of the league's best southpaws.

CHICAGO CUBS TAKE SEVENTH STRAIGHT TILT

DIZZY DEAN WINS 12TH PITCHING VICTORY OF SEASON

BY ORLO ROBERTSON, Associated Press Sports Writer. The Chicago Cubs' latest winning streak had tied today the season's record of seven consecutive victories and made the National League pennant race a little more uncomfortable for the peacocking New York Giants.

Charley Grimm's men opened the season with seven straight triumphs and that record was unequalled until the Braves went on a winning spree May 27. The Cubs opened their current drive June 21 in the second game of the series with the Giants and since then have beaten the world champions three times and the Dodgers in for games, limiting the metropolitan teams to the low total of 10 runs.

With Guy Bush showing a return to his early season form, the Cubs turned back the Dodgers 5 to 1 yesterday to shave the Giants' lead to one and one-half games with the help of the St. Louis Cardinals, who defeated the champions 8 to 7 and advanced within two games of the leaders.

The Cardinals gained an even split in the 4-game series with the Giants and gave Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean credit for his twelfth pitching victory of the year. The game was decided in the ninth when young Bill de Lancy hit a home run. The triumph was Dizzy's second of the day as earlier he received notice he had been credited with winning Saturday game over the Dodgers, a victory originally awarded Bill Hallahan.

The Pittsburgh Pirates with Larry French looking more like the French of 1933, made it four out of five from the Phillies with a 4 to 1 triumph. The Boston Braves licked the Cincinnati Reds 8 to 4 as Wally Berger hit his eleventh home run. In the American league the New York Yankees gained a half-game on the idle Detroit Tigers as they won their fifth straight victory on the strength of Ben Chapman's eleventh inning homer and some fine relief pitching by "Fordham" Johnny Murphy. The score was 8 to 7 with the Chicago White Sox the losers.

The Boston Red Sox, with Henry Johnson pitching, scored their first shutout of the season in beating the Cleveland Indians 6 to 0. The Tigers Athletics and Browns-Senators game were rained out.

Banks was matched with White, Yates with Dear, and Ridley with Pehlgr. Four semi-finalists will play another 36 holes of match play at Country club tomorrow, with the finals over the same distance Saturday.

GUS MORELAND IS ELIMINATED IN QUALIFYING

LAWSON LITTLE HOLDS SLIGHT EDGE OVER CLASSY FIELD

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT, Associated Press Staff Writer. DALLAS, June 28 (AP)—Out on Brook Hollow's tricky course they started a scrap today for a Trans-Mississippi golf title left temporarily without an owner after Gus Moreland, champion the past two years failed to qualify.

Candidates for Moreland's vacant throne included the British Amateur champion, a former national titleholder, the southern links king, and the current rulers of amateur golf in Texas, Louisiana, and New Mexico.

W. Lawson Little, San Francisco's long swatting giant who holds the British amateur title, attaining top speed in a fast 70 round yesterday, was given the fraction of an edge over a classy field.

However, two natives of Dallas who led the pack in the qualifying round—David Goldman and Harry Todd—had their backers after two fine rounds that netted them 144 for the 36 holes.

And then there was Johnny Goodman, 1933 national open champion, now playing brilliantly; Johnny Dawson of Chicago; Reynolds Smith of Dallas, Texas amateur champion; Edwin McClure of Shreveport, four times Louisiana state champion; Fred Hass of New Orleans, 17-year-old southern amateur champion, and Verne Speck Stewart of Albuquerque, New Mexico champion.

Zell Eaton, Oklahoma City's ace who recently finished as second low amateur in the national open, crushed his chances for medal honors by taking an 82 to a first round 71, but he prepared to atone for the relapse in his match with Little, the outstanding duel of the first round.

Johnny Dawson also had serious business on his hands in the youthful Haas, who astounded critics with his smashing victory over the veteran, Sam Perry, in the southern finals at New Orleans last week.

Goldman, after a title he barely missed in 1932 at Oklahoma City when Moreland duffed him in the finals, encountered the hard-hitting Verne Stewart in another match that the gallery chose.

McClure, who came back beautifully to clinch a championship flight berth after a tough first 18-hole struggle, drew Leland Humman of Waco, recent runner-up for the Texas title and a renowned "giant killer."

Two little men, the long-driving Reuben Albaugh of Dallas, and Reynolds Smith, squared off for a match that had them guessing as to the winner.

Johnny Goodman had the veteran Happ Massingill of Fort Worth to oppose in the first round. Massingill, long a figure in southwestern golf, is one of the outstanding match players of Texas.

Charlie Kocsis Is Marked Man In Golf Meet

CLEVELAND, June 28 (AP)—The marked man as the national intercollegiate golf championship entered the 36-hole quarter-finals Friday with the Philadelphia of the University of Michigan.

Big Ten champion and tournament medalist, Kocsis survived the two 18-hole rounds of "Black Wednesday" with a teammate he opposed today, Woodrow Malloy.

Johnny Banks and Captain Bincent Felbig of Notre Dame strengthened the charge of the midwest by holding approach shots at the crucial moments to survive the test.

Georgia Tech's Charlie Yates and Frank Ridley, Ed White of Texas, and Bill Dear of Brown, the East's sole survivor, filled out the roster of quarter-finalists, leaving Walter Emery of Oklahoma, the defending champion, and other favorites in the lurch.

Banks was matched with White, Yates with Dear, and Ridley with Pehlgr. Four semi-finalists will play another 36 holes of match play at Country club tomorrow, with the finals over the same distance Saturday.

Three Men Lose Lives at Well

BRECKENRIDGE, June 28 (AP)—Three men lost their lives today when gas fumes overcame them at the Baker Parquet oil well 15 miles north of Breckenridge.

Richard Price, 34, and Waddell Greenstreet, 25, died shortly after the fumes attacked them and Joe Williams, 26, died later.

S. A. Fry, 40, was brought to a hospital here but was expected to recover.

The young men and Fry had been working under the well in a pit 7 feet deep trying to adjust a braided head for some time when Fry said he saw the others stagger.

"I saw the boys were too far gone and I decided I'd get out of there," he said. He climbed to safety but fell unconscious as he reached the ground level.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, June 28 (AP)—Under the leadership of metal and sugar issues, stocks displayed an improved tone in today's quiet session.

Except for a moderate buying flurry in the last hour, dullness was the rule. Although there were a few soft spots, gains of fractions to a point or more predominated.

The close was firm. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

EDMONTON, Alta., June 28 (AP)—The defense offered its side of the story today in the seduction suit against Premier John E. Brownlee of Alberta.

"Surprise" witnesses were called in an effort to tear down the claim of Miss Vivian MacMillan, pretty 22-year-old stenographer that Brownlee brought her to Edmonton by giving her a government job, seduced her and wrecked her health.

Brownlee in a counter-suit asks $10,000 damages, charging he is the object of a political conspiracy. He named Miss MacMillan and John Caldwell, young medical student to whom she was once engaged, as defendants.

Testimony for the plaintiff was closed after Mrs. Maud MacMillan, 67-year-old mother of Vivian, said Brownlee and his wife visited the MacMillan home when notified of the court action.

Brownlee asked her, she said, if she realized Vivian's name would be "ruined" by the action. Mrs. MacMillan stated she told Brownlee his own name would suffer also.

CLAUDE HIPPS and his 8-piece orchestra will play for the firemen's annual ball at the Pita-Mor auditorium on the evening of July 3.

This is a local organization of increasing popularity. Proceeds of the ball will be added to the firemen's local fund.

A marriage license has been issued here to Raymond Kirbie and Miss Mable Young.

Out-of-town attorneys in 31st district court today included L. M. Fischer, Cleo Clayton, H. C. Cooper, and Will R. Saunders of Anamillo and Judge E. F. Ritchey of Miami.

ADOLF HITLER UNDECIDED ON NEXT ACTION

BY LOUIS F. LOCHNER. BERLIN, June 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler stood today at a crossroad marked "right" and "left."

Germany seethed while he debated his choice.

The chancellor came back to Berlin after several days of quiet reflection in his mountain home—reflection following growing outbursts against radical Nazi policies.

Two groups began powerful efforts to have him take their side. It is a struggle for the capture of the soul of Hitler—one cabinet minister said.

On the one hand there was the radical young wing of impetuous revolutionaries, typified by Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, and Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, philosophic dictator of the third reich, whose books on religion have been proscribed by the Vatican.

They insist the Nazi revolution has just begun and that no loyal German can be satisfied until the Nazis exclusively control every phase of German life and endeavor, including religion.

This group was credited with bringing the arrest by secret police of Edgar Jung, publicist who gathered material for the speech of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen which touched off the battle between conservatives and radicals.

It was this faction that Hitler rebuked yesterday by refusing to dissolve the steel helmet war veterans' organization, "backbone" of the conservative movement.

On the other side, bidding for Hitler's backing, was an older group of realistic sub-leaders, like Rudolph Hess, minister without portfolio; Wilhelm Frick, minister of interior, and Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of aviation, who believe it is not wise to regiment people strictly.

They want a social state in which private initiative and property are recognized—not a quasi-communist one.

Rail Commission Candidate Here

James McNeese of Dallas county was here today in the interest of his candidacy for state railroad commissioner.

Very tall and slender, Mr. McNeese was born 48 years ago. He attended school in Merkel and Abilene, and later attended Dallas Law school. Later he became credit manager for a large firm and lived for a time in Quannah and Oklahoma City.

Now he is senior partner in the law firm of McNeese & Roberts. He has been endorsed by a large number of Dallas business and professional men.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ravin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks bleak, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or anything else and expect them to make you suddenly sweet like a boy and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

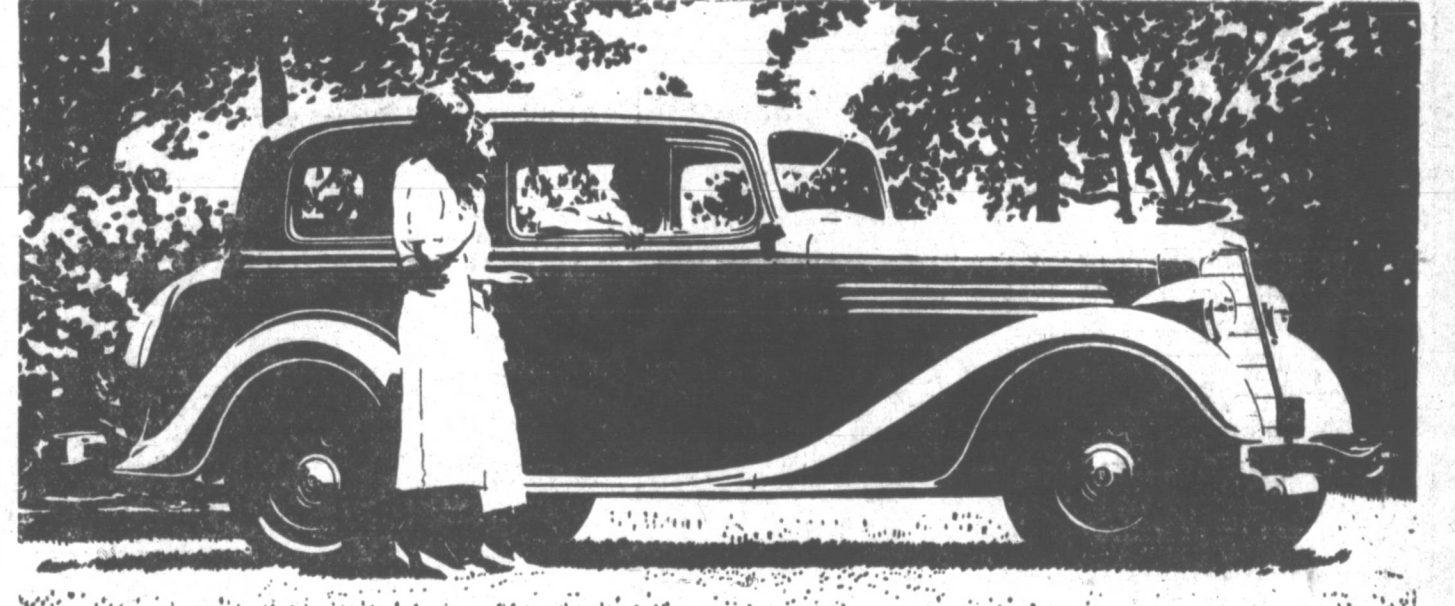

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food won't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a headache, bad taste and your health is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."

They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amping when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Read a substance. 25¢ per bottle. ©1931 C. M. Co.

WARDROBE HAS BIG PLACE IN EVERY HOME

AND HERE IS HOW ONE WOMAN SOLVED ROBLEM

(Editor's note: Mrs. Ira Spearman, member of the Priscilla home demonstration club, recently took second place in the county wardrobe demonstration contest, Class II. The following paper describes her experiences.)

BY MRS. IRA SPEARMAN of Priscilla Club.

When I took the inventory of the clothing for all my family, I was horror stricken, and decided right there I needed to do something about it, for we just didn't have anything to speak of and what we had was in poor state of repair. I found I had plenty of dresses either out of style or worn out in places and some beyond repairing for myself that could be used in making clothes for the children. They were all just hanging in the closet taking the dust, then too, I had some new material on hand, but had not done a thing with any of it. Somehow, when I decided to be the wardrobe demonstrator in Class 2 it kinda revived me, so I got busy.

The reason our wardrobes had run down so I had a baby one year old so had not needed anything much except a few house dresses. Also I had had so much sorrow in our family I just gave up in despair and thought I had rather stay home than tackle repairing all of them, but soon as I finished the inventory I began to study just how to do and what to do with so little money to spend.

I kept a record of everything in order to find just where my money was going. I found that helps to correct haphazard buying. Of course we must know how to buy. To do this, one must buy and select garments suited to the individual person and not because it is a fad. Then, too, we must look for quality, for as I found during these years of depression, we were all trying to get a lot for our money, and we got just what we paid for and after a few laundry tubings we had shabby and faded materials. Yet our money was spent with little to show for it. I studied and planned our clothing to suit each individual member of the family and to have them harmonize, keeping in mind all the time the quality, and I am sure this will be benefited in years to come, with my children growing older I shall pass these records on to them. This work has taught me that it is not just what we spend but how it is spent.

Another way this work has helped me is, I had never sewed any at all for small girls like mine, and at first, it was such a dread, but now it is a pleasure and I have many pretty little garments for her that I prize and have had so many compliments about them. Then my little boys' suits are well fitted also. My dresses were all made from my foundation pattern and every one says my clothes look so much better than they did before I made my foundation pattern, and with help I got from Miss Adams, our home demonstration agent, I have made over four (4) old dresses and ten (10) new ones, all a different style. I also made my children clothes from some of my old ones that were so worn and beyond repair for myself.

The first thing I did was to clean all our clothes and I found it much easier using the method Miss Adams gave to us than the old way I had, besides such a saving. I figure I saved several dollars on that. After they were cleaned I started to work. First, I made a black and white two-piece dress from a maternity dress. This is real pretty. Then in my brown two-piece dress I put a piece of material under the arm in the side seam that was a hole and ripped place. This was under the jacket so that no one there would see a hole in the jacket on one shoulder. After studying I put a strip of material coming to a point from the shoulder seams, thus covering the hole. Then I remodeled a black and gray print to wear when it was cool without a coat. This is an old ensemble as I needed something for knock-about wear. I had my wedding skirt, eleven years old, so made a blouse to go with it. In buying my new wardrobe I must be careful in selecting them, so I chose brown as my main color. I made a brown jacket of pique to wear with summer clothes on cool days and nights. I bought a brown and white stripe pique for dress when worn with jacket is very pretty as well as practical. Then I got a brown, yellow, and white stripe seersucker trimmed with brown buttons, also to be worn with jacket when needed. I had some print with brown as main color so made this, also to wear with jacket if I so needed. That way the jacket is a three-in-one. I made an embroidered batiste dress (bought on sale) to wear to church and afternoon. I made some prints to wear to club and places when I did not care to wear my best, later to be used as house dresses.

My little boy had a seersucker coat, so I bought two remnants of seersucker, one to match the coat and the other blends. I made a white linen with red trimming and made two suits of seersucker for 25 cents. I made a blue linen suit with print shirt I already had.

My baby going from babyhood to a little girl needed a change all the way around, so I used her diapers for material for bloomers, also some sugar sacks for pants and waists. I made her one dress from her baby dress, one from a scrap of voile I found in the quilt scraps with the addition of a faceted yoke which made it very pretty. In all I made her twenty-five (25) dresses and plenty of underwear.

My husband was more fortunate than the rest, so with some repairing and very little expense I had him all fixed up. Our entire expense was $58.99 and we are all well dressed for this year as well as the future. In all I have made 71 garments, all different styles.

As I am moving after harvest I had to think of storage space. The closet had shelves but that was all. So removing the bottom shelf I put a rod under the next one for the longer clothes and put a rod cross-ways for the smaller clothes so the children can hang them themselves. I put in a shoe board, handkerchief bag, an dte rack, with shelves for linens an dthe top one for traveling bags. I papered it to make it lighter and help keep out the dust. When the door is open the light shines direct on the clothes. I also have an ironing board, a small one for sleeves.

I have helped others as well. I helped others plan made-over clothes for 31 families, designed 34 dresses and cut 126 patterns for 70 different families. I demonstrated new styles and different help to 80, drafted 13 patterns, made foundation patterns to all who wanted them in our district. I made 10 foundation patterns for those out of district, non-club members, and I made a special effort to have a demonstration of value either made over garments or new ones, with style at every club meeting with visitors present in most every instance.

FACTOR ORDERED FREED
CHICAGO, June 28 (AP)—Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States circuit court of appeals has ordered the release of John Factor, wealthy speculator, from the Sycamore, Ill. jail where he had been held pending the issuance of a final order for his extradition to England on charges of defrauding investors of $7,000,000.

NO CAUSE TO WORRY
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Investigators decided that the culprit in a burglary case was an agile second story man who climbed a "two-by-four" and entered a narrow window from a shed roof. So they asked that the indictment against their prisoner, Welton Niles, be quashed. Judge King Swope took one look and freed the negro. Welton weighs 499 pounds. He picked up nine of them while in jail.

Youngsters Adore Prints

By ELLEN WORTH

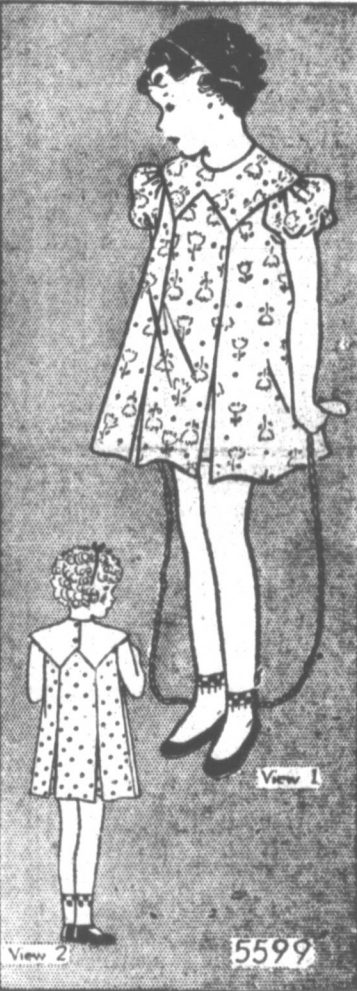

PRINTS and lots of them, in cottons, both sturdy and sheer. These go far in making up a smart wardrobe for the knee-high-to-a-grasshopper age. Prints in piques, linens, batistes, dimities and organdies will do much to make a youngster's summer a success.

Here's an easy-to-make frock that was just meant for prints, for there's not a speck of trimming to detract from its simplicity. The yoke has points which top the inverted pleats of the little skirt, front and back, and the sleeves are brief puffs, although these may be omitted altogether.

The small sketch shows how smartly you can combine a print with a plain material, if you prefer. Mothers will find this a simple design to sew, and the Summer Fashion Book will show you many, many more.

The New Fashion Book will help you plan your wardrobe. Send 10 cents for book. Pattern No. 5599 is designed for sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. (Size 4 requires 1 1/2 yard 36-inch printed material.) Send 15 cents in coin or stamps. Mail your order to New York Fashion Bureau, 222 West 39th St., New York. Print your name and address clearly and print pattern number, size or bust.

TEN WORKERS ARE KILLED IN POWDER PLANT

SEVEN SURVIVORS ARE IN CRITICAL STATE IN HOSPITAL

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 28 (AP)—Victims of a terrific explosion which blew a powder factory at Hawks Prairie, near here, to bits, ten workers lay dead today.

Seven survivors were in a hospital, three in critical condition. Seven were killed outright in the blast which shook the countryside and was heard as far as ten miles away. Fire following the explosion hampered parties searching for the injured.

The dead: Ches Carpenter, 55, married and the father of seven children. Mrs. Hazel Eppley, 37. H. J. Denn, 67, father of the plant owner, who was out of town. Alvin Smith, 23, married. Andrew Hayden, married. J. O. Adams, married and father of one son. Clarence E. Uery, married and father of seven children. Mrs. Pearl Uery, his wife. Oliver Wilson, 12, stepson of Henry Denn Jr.

Plant officials said the exact cause of the blast might never be known. A minor explosion and a fire, however, preceded it. The company's main storage magazine, containing several tons of powder and situated about 200 yards away, escaped destruction. The plant was owned by J. A. Denn of Portland, Ore. Loss was estimated at $75,000.

MODERN PECAN DEVELOPED BY SAN SABA MAN

NATIVE OF ENGLAND IS HONORED BY TEXAS GROWERS

SAN SABA, June 28. (P)—When a frisky squirrel seeks shade on a swinging branch and watches green pecans take shape it owes thanks for the prospect of a winter's food supply to a Texas pecan wizard—the old man at San Saba who is known as the father of pecan culture.

E. E. Rislen, 81-year-old native of England, was the first man ever to top work a pecan tree and from this experiment pecan experts say this soft-shelled pecan wizard—his life-time of an 81-year-old man—pecans were knotty, hard-shelled nuts that tested even the sharp-teeth of a squirrel.

Behind the change is a story of hard work, laborious experimentation, loss of money, dismal failure—and finally success.

Mr. Rislen, however, does not look upon it as success. He and his wife, also a native of England and his faithful helper in all of his work, still devote their full time to pecan improvement and the latest creation, the John Garner pecan, is being heralded by experts as the outstanding accomplishment in the pecan industry in recent years.

Born in 1853 at Deal, Kent, England, Mr. Rislen came to the United States before he was 21 years old. He settled at San Saba in 1876, and immediately became interested in pecan work. In a letter written 20 years after he left England to a customer in New South Wales, Mr. Rislen told why he became interested in pecans.

"When I saw the luxuriant growth of pecan trees near San Saba I knew that some day when the country settled up it would be a big thing to take in hand. I am now beginning to realize my ideals. Instead of people destroying the pecan trees as they used to they are taking care of them in their primitive way."

"From the fact that I had never seen two pecan nuts alike was a distinct proof that there was a lifetime of profitable study for any one who had a turn to develop this branch of horticulture among the thousands of trees here."

On a spot of land near San Saba where the San Saba and Colorado rivers unite, stands a massive pecan tree more than 200 years old. It is the mother tree of all the Rislen pecan creations. Mr. Rislen top-worked the tree in 1881, taking buds from it and grafting them on two other native trees. So far as is known this was the first top work on a pecan tree.

In order to preserve this mother tree, Mr. Rislen bought the 320-acre tract on which it stands.

The pecan industry started with civilization in the western part of Texas. When the veteran pecan man started climbing trees near San Saba the country was wild. He said there were no barbed-wire fences in that section, no telegraph or telegraph or no railroads. Pecans were taken to town in ox wagons. Frequently deer, turkey and buffalo meat were taken along and peddled in town. A fanch deer ham sometimes sold for 50 cents.

Planting, budding and breeding were pursued patiently by the pioneer experimenter but development was slow. Notwithstanding, he saw knotty hard-shelled pecans gradually turn into something else.

Still Answering Call of Duty

"Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth on the wire"—but the "Little Mother of Prisons" to thousands of convicts who have benefited by her philanthropic activities as head of the Volunteers of America. Mrs. Booth, 69, and smiling at the years, is pictured as she visited Los Angeles a few days ago.

In 1893, Mr. Rislen prepared a number of "grape nuts," large bunches of pecans growing together like bunches of grapes, and placed them on exhibit at the world's fair in Chicago. During the fair someone forged Mr. Rislen's name and took the "grape nuts." They have never been recovered.

Work of the pecan wizard, though the 81-year-old man says it is not finished, has not gone without recognition. He has sold pecans in practically every nation of the world. In March, 1931, the Texas legislature passed a resolution honoring Mr. Rislen for his work.

In July, 1932, the Texas Pecan Growers' association awarded him the gold medal for his creations and in December on the same year, a variety of the Rislen pecans won the John N. Garner prize for the finest unnamed nut in Texas. This pecan bears the name of the vice-president.

Buxby and Hess Of Texas Are in Quarter Finals

PHILADELPHIA, June 28. (P)—The defending champion from California Jack Tidball, and Gene Mako, his west coast threat, remained favorites to win the 1934 National Intercollegiate tennis crown as the tourney entered the quarter-final phase today.

Two Pacific stars swept victoriously thru yesterday's matches with four other seeded men and two more aces in a day of play that rubbed Canada's ranking, netmen from the lists at Merion Cricket club in suburban Haverford.

Laird Watt, Canadian Davis cup star who played so well against Frank Shields in the American-Canadian cup play, lost to Georgia Tech's Bill Reese, fifth seeded, in an upset hit: 6-2, 3-6, 6-0. Bob Murray, Waits' McGill college mate, bowed to Wilbur Hess, Rice Institute, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3.

Tidball, who meets 18-year-old Gilbert Hunt, from M. I. T., eased through a straight-set match with Gene Smith, University of California, 6-4, 6-4. Mako drubbed George Stevens, Yale, 6-2, 6-3.

Filling out the quarter-final bracket are Martin Buxby, Texas, winner over Leonard S. Patterson, California Tech, 7-5, 6-4; E. Ramey Donovan, Fordham, who defeated Carl Holmes, university of California, 5-4, 8-6, and Kendall Crum, Tulane, victor over Egbert Miles, Yale, 6-2, 6-2.

Pension Sought For Needy Blind

AUSTIN, June 28. (P)—Former students of the Texas school for the blind have planned a campaign to secure a state pension system for needy blind.

The school's ex-student association in annual session here appointed a committee to draft a pension bill for presentation to the next legislature which meets in January. An active campaign was planned.

Other legislation affecting the blind, which was endorsed by the ex-students included two bills offered at the recent session of congress. One would create a federal board to aid in alleviating unemployment among the blind.

UNION LEADER IS GIVEN WILD RIDE BY MOBS

BLAMED FOR CLOSING DOWN OF HOSIERY FACTORY

By The Associated Press. Milwaukee, Wis., where tear gas and riot clubs drove several thousand demonstrators to union, and Harriman, Tenn., where a union executive was abducted, flamed with labor unrest today.

Elsewhere throughout the nation the strike situation seemed to be growing calmer.

Violence continued yesterday in the prolonged strike of 27,000 Pacific coast longshoremen, but Edward F. O'Grady, assistant secretary of labor and member of the board named by President Roosevelt to deal with the strike, described the situation as "very favorable."

In Birmingham, Ala., the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company and representatives of its 3,500 ore miners reached an agreement to end a seven-week strike which has been accompanied by more than 100 bombings.

Michael P. Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, predicted in Pittsburgh that there would be no steel strike.

Fred Held, vice president of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, was taken from a train at Harriman and given a wild ride by a crowd which blamed the closing of the Harriman Hosiery company on the union. It meant the suspension of their jobs.

Several fights occurred, but state officials decided there was no need for intervention.

NRA officials planned a conference today with Arthur Besse, chairman of the wool textile code authority, in an effort to avert a strike which has been called for Monday in that industry.

Trails in Palo Duro Are Named

CANYON, June 28.—Palo Duro State Park is no longer a region of unnamed interesting points. The State Park Board, headed by D. E. Colp of San Antonio, has accepted and approved a series of names suggested by a naming committee of which Mrs. J. A. Hill of Canyon is chairman.

Trails in the canyon have been named, Kiowa, Quanah Parker, Coronado, McKenzie, and Harrell trails. The first four commemorate the Indians, Spanish, and American military periods of the canyon's history. The Harrell trail is to reach from the bottom of the canyon to the rim and finally to the Harrell ranch headquarters, its named for E. D. Harrell, prominent ranchman of Randall county who was much interested in the establishment of the park. Mr. Harrell died about 18 months ago. Other names officially approved include Goodnight Lookout, Fortress Cliffs, The Capitol, The Cathedral, Devil's Tombstone, and Chief Satanta.

Chief Satanta was an Indian known as the orator of the Plains. He fought the battles of his fellowmen in the council and legislative halls of the whites.

When, at last, "white Indians" were found, their home was in Darlen, part of the Republic of Panama.

Subsistence Project for Shallow Water Belt in Dallam Advocated

DALLHART, June 28. (P)—Encouragement for a Texas rural community in the shallow water belt in Dallam county, 30 miles northwest of Dalhart, was seen in a letter from C. B. Braun, assistant director of the Texas relief commission to A. M. James, Dallam county rancher and land owner, who has been urging the project.

Plans called for a subsistence project but inasmuch as industrial payrolls in near proximity are a necessary element in subsistence programs Mr. Braun suggests that the rural community plan, based entirely on agriculture, was more feasible. Mr. James originally planned for one family on each 20 acres, half to be irrigated and cultivated and half for pasture. Even under the rural community plan he believes that acreage would be sufficient. Development plans call for an expenditure of approximately $1,500,000.

Mr. Braun said, "We have had the matter referred to Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, several times and are hopeful that when things look like there will be a continuity of program in Texas we can arrange for a grant that will enable us to set up a number of rural communities." Mr. James said he had communications from other Texas relief authorities indicating their faith in the practicability of the project.

Between 20,000 and 50,000 acres are embraced in the choicest part of the belt which covers, according to estimates of the late Johnson Allen of Dalhart, at least 100,000 acres. Mr. Allen, an engineer, sank the first well in the belt in 1910, and got a flow of 2,000 gallons per minute with an old-time gasoline engine. Other engineers estimated that with lateral pipes feeding by gravity in a ten-inch main, the flow could be increased to 3,500 or 4,000 gallons per minute.

Several miles south of this well another was sunk in 1912. At fifty feet the water spuried through a six-inch pipe by natural flow. Throttled down to a one-inch pipe it has continued the artesian flow. Two years ago another test well was sunk in the belt. It went 110 feet but at 60 feet would have been ample, engineers claimed. Production was limited by the equipment to 1,200 gallons per minute. George Smetzer who drove it raised crops when land around him was barren from wind and drought.

A rich sandy loam, the soil in the belt is well-adapted to irrigation, experts claim. It is underlaid at two and one-half to three feet by a clay subsoil so that no moisture escapes downward. Minimum cultivation keeps the top mulched so that moisture does not evaporate.

Tests have proved the belt will yield from a ton to a ton and a half to the acre of alfalfa and give four cuttings annually. It also will raise all kinds of truck, including sugar beets, pulp of which is one of the finest finishing feeds known for cattle. To assure complete realization of the belt's possibilities a utilities company has agreed to build electric transmission lines into it when development is started.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Woolley have as their guest Mrs. Woolley's mother, Mrs. Sophie Morrison of Burlington, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Woolley will leave in the morning to take Mrs. Morrison home and they will visit in Chicago two weeks before returning.

1,286 Youths to Report to CMTC Camps in July

SAN ANTONIO, June 28. (P)—Orders for 1,286 youths to report for training at the C. M. T. C. camps opening in the eighth corps area in July are being sent out from corps area headquarters at Fort Sam Houston.

The quota for the corps area was originally set at 1,178 trainees but decision to train an additional 108 students was reached by corps area officials after instructions from Washington to train the maximum number possible with available funds.

The revised quota gives the Camp Bullis camp near this city 538 trainees; Fort Sill, Okla. 478; Fort Logan, Col. 144; Fort Bliss, El Paso, 70; and Fort Huachuca, Ariz. 56.

The Camp Bullis camp will open July 3; Fort Sill, July 6; Fort Logan, July 6; Fort Bliss, July 5, and Fort Huachuca, July 20.

To fill the quotas of the five camps the C. M. T. C. office at Fort Sam Houston has on file double the required number of qualified applicants.

In the face of the biggest demand in years, right when the trend toward Chevrolet is at its peak, Chevrolet reduces prices! 100-MILE BELT OF TREES FROM CANADA TO TEXAS PLANNED

FOREST WOULD EXTEND CLEAR TO PANHANDLE

ROOSEVELT CONSIDERS PLAN TO MINIMIZE DROUGHTS, WINDS

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt is considering a proposal to plant a "shelter belt" of trees 100 miles wide and stretching from Canada to the Texas Panhandle.

This gigantic program, which would require 10 to 12 years to complete, would aim to minimize drought and help recent winds from stripping farmhands of their choice soil.

The plan was announced today by the American Tree association, F. A. Silcox, chief forester of the United States forest service, acknowledged it was under consideration.

The president may make his decision before he leaves Saturday for Hawaii. The plan is being studied by the budget bureau, Attorney General Cummings, and other officials.

The planting in the 100-mile wide area would be in strips, running north and south. First there would be a strip of trees, perhaps 7 1/2 rods across, in a strip of land which would remain devoted to its present use, such as farming; then another strip of trees, and so on alternately.

There would be 100 strips of trees, or one to a mile, and thus most of the 100-mile wide area would remain unforested. The shelter belt would stretch 1,300 miles through North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma to the Texas border.

The cost was estimated at $75,000,000. At least part of this would come out of drought funds to start the program this year by collecting seed, establishing nurseries, and organizing the work.

"The magnitude of this 10 to 12-year program and its effect upon the dust storm area and the nation is greater than anyone can realize at this time," said Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the Tree association.

The immediate result will be the employment of thousands of men living in the drought-stricken areas and the expenditure of millions of dollars for leasing or buying farm and other lands for planting trees.

He declared the United States forest service should have charge of the program.

Details of the plan as announced by the association included:

1. Both sides of each strip would be fenced to prevent grazing.
2. The civilian conservation corps would cut fence posts.
3. Thousands of young farmers would be hired to plant the strips, erect fences, and plant trees, which would be cottonwood, green ash and other varieties adaptable to the soil and climate.
4. The area around which would be only small strips of each farm, would be purchased or leased.
5. Fencing would continue in the area between strips.

Strikers Threaten Onion Area War

With violence threatened that may bring a troop call, 750 unionized Ohio onion field workers are on strike in the Seoto marshes near McGuffey, O., demanding 35 cents an hour for an 8-hour day, instead of 10 and 15 cents an hour for a 10-hour day. Pickets have halted all work. In the top photo, a

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep... Vigor... Vitality
Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging headache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 2 plus every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS... the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

SPITE MARRIAGE

by Katharine Hailand Taylor

Chapter One COLLECTOR OF MEN

That hour when Miss Gertrude Moore was thirty, she looked a stern-lipped, puritan fifty-five; and she prided herself upon the fact that she had "never evaded a duty!" Was seen by her as some disagreeable truth that she must tell, or as a gesture she must make near the particular apple cart which the gesture would upset.

And, since age increases flavor and bouquet, Miss Gertrude, at a frost-bitten forty, was as welcome to any convivial group as would be a case of swamp fever to the tropics; and, although the general public took no measure to stamp her out, their collective fading at her approach suggested that she was highly contagious.

Occasionally when gentler souls considered Miss Gertrude Moore, they murmured that perhaps, after all, it was no wonder that her niece, Marsha Moore, was "a trifle fast"; but these gentler souls have weak lungs and their voices cannot penetrate into the wall of a heart that has lost a love.

Marsha Moore collected men, both single and ostensibly attached, as sundry old maids of both sexes collect Spode, Ming, Wedgewood, Canton, Servos or Willow wares, and having collected them, she held them against the light to see through them and then she set them upon her shelf to laugh a little and mirthlessly, or to raise her quizzical brows.

When Marsha was sixteen and Miss Gertrude thirty, Miss Gertrude had seen Marsha upon the horizon as "a duty."

Miss Moore told Rector about it, and when he called on the day after, "the tragic news" reached him, he had foregone his golf, knowing that Miss Gertrude Moore was not a person who "forgives undue delay."

"And you say you are going to give a home to your niece?" asked the Rector, who was pleasantly round and to whom shyness drew near easily, and of whose "levity" Miss Gertrude disapproved.

"I can do no less," responded Miss Moore after which she tightened her lips to look like one of the avenging fates, but—rather more so.

"The child is sixteen?" asked the Rector.

"Sixteen and unfortunately like her mother, of whom I have never approved."

"God help her!" thought the Rector and with full piety. He said, "It was a tragic affair!"

He was speaking of a large group of humans, for the most part comfortable and happy and content with life, who, on a huge and proud ship's maiden voyage, had found the way to Davy Jones' Locker... had learned, too, something of how heroic the simplest souls may be... and how "God Save the King" may sound, played gallantly by men who thought of home and the women at home, as a deck carted and sank and the water rose.

"One of the teachers is bringing her here to-morrow," said Miss Gertrude; "she has been at a school in Connecticut."

"I see—" said the Rector as he stared at Miss Gertrude. And he did see.

He hoped the child would have some resource, some inner light, that would brighten the gray level way upon which Miss Moore would insist that she walk. But he feared she might be of the group who must skim sustenance from the surface.

Miss Moore had told him of her brother, Admiral Moore, and of the unfortunate latitude among "persons of the Navy" and of the Admiral's wife and her flirtations; and of this child who had been reared in hotels and schools and who knew nothing of that solace which comes from a solidly planted unmovable home, but who knew everything of petty and bold intrigue.

"Poor child!" thought the round Rector. "Poor child!" And he sighed. Life, he found, was frequently too difficult!

"I shall enter her in the Church School here," said Miss Gertrude Moore. Yet again the Rector sighed. He considered the Church School to be one of the most distinguished institutions he had ever been so unfortunate as to see; and he suspected that the breakfast porridge was extremely thin and that boiled rice made a dinner finish at least three times each week.

"I shall come to see your niece," Marsha who, the day before, had been summoned to the school office to be told that her mother and father no longer existed in any form that she could recognize, was, as the Rector gained the New York street, again asked to come down to talk with Miss Fringle.

She hadn't cried at all. The news had made her feel only stupid, and as if she had been very ill for a considerable time. She had strange flashes of her mother, pink-lined parasol canting over a shoulder and in a riksha in Shanghai... Colonel Duveen had always been by her that season. Marsha had considered him "quite a rotten sort of cad—" not be that way, he had chosen "He had dreamed, young, that life might be "rather splendid," and when he found that it could "It smashes your heart to nothing; but looking on Marsha he remembered women cried easily.

Miss Fringle was behind her desk. "My dear, dear child!" she said as Marsha entered. Marsha bobbed as she had been taught and quite properly, but a muscle at the corner of her lovely lips twitched a trifle.

"I have a message from your aunt," Miss Fringle continued; Miss Fringle hoped the aunt was a person of "character"; Marsha was not easy to deal with and men were too attracted to her. The Latin teacher for instance, Miss Fringle reached for her smelling salts. That affair had close to upset the whole school!

"Sit down, dear," said Miss Fringle. Marsha sat.

Miss Fringle stared at her for a moment. Even women sometimes had to stare at Marsha, who made the dullest witted soul think of Spain, its language, hot passions, sweet scents; its drugging, enervating loveliness.

And while Miss Fringle stared at the flower which was Marsha's face, Marsha thought, "I shall have to live with Aunt Gertrude—the dullest witted soul think of Spain, its language, hot passions, sweet scents; its drugging, enervating loveliness.

She heard the news stolidly. Then she rose; "I'll go back my things—" she said dully. Miss Fringle saw her sway. "A moment, dear!" she said, and ringing for Alice she ordered a small glass of port. Marsha drank it and then she went back to her room which she had shared with the romantic Clarabelle.

Here she packed methodically, as Clarabelle went for her. And as she packed she forecast the measure of her new life.

"If your aunt kind?" Clarabelle asked after a deep sob. "She means to be," Marsha answered as she folded her party dress, "and it makes her quite unbearable at moments. Will you look on the cupboard shelves, Clarabelle? I sometimes stick stuff up there—"

Clarabelle looked to bring forth a packet of violet-scented cigarettes. "I hope it won't be starkly and perfectly tragic for you!" moaned Clarabelle.

"I shall manage," said Marsha. "I'll have to—" she looked around the room—"I think I have everything now," she ended, "that belongs to me—" and again she saw her mother in a riksha, and her father telling her not to care too deeply lest she smash her heart.

Yes, everything that belonged to her could not be packed in a suit case and a trunk, and was. Marsha's farewells at school were not prolonged. Clarabelle flung her arms about Marsha, wept and then accepted the remains of her packet of cigarettes. Marsha could spare them, for she had another box.

The other girls did not really expect for the departing one, and what farewells there were seemed as perfunctory as they were. Miss Fringle herself came down in the midst of her most grand, seething-grief-stricken-student-of-all things, playing the scene for all it was worth, and perhaps a little more.

Marsha still was too dulled to care, and too absorbed in her own thoughts to do much more than nod in the approved style at the end of the standard Fringle departure speech. Only Alice, Miss Fringle's maid, seemed to sense that underneath Marsha's dulled behavior, and behind Miss Fringle's schoolmistress crust, there existed a truly dramatic situation.

Alice wept. (Copyright, 1934, by K. Haviland-Taylor)

Tomorrow, more of Marsha's future becomes her "past."

HAMER HAS RECEIVED HUNDREDS OF LETTERS ON BARROW KILLING

AUSTIN, June 28. (AP)—Frank Hamer's mail has increased a hundred-fold since he laid the trap that resulted in the deaths of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, outlaws who roamed the southwest in a speedy automobile and eluded nets spread for them by an army of law enforcement officers.

Letters have come from all parts of the country but the writers are doomed to disappointment if they expect answers. Hamer has answered none and has disregarded even urgent telegrams.

Many writers sought interview with the former captain of the Texas Rangers, who is one of the most widely known officers in the border country. A writer on a New York paper asked Hamer to meet him as near Texarkana as he could.

"If I answered all the letters I have received I never would get the job done," Hamer said. "I'm not much of a hand at writing letters anyhow."

The veteran officer recalled that during his service with the Texas Rangers he made only about six written reports. "That was one thing headquarters always hopped on me about," he said. "I hate to write letters or write anything else. If they wanted to know anything I'd come to headquarters and tell them."

Hamer has endeavored to dodge interviewers and said he had refused handsome offers for his life's story since the sensational capture of the noted desperadoes.

Hamer, in a mellow mood, and L. G. Phares, chief of the Texas highway patrol, recently were holding a post mortem on the Barrow case in Phares' office. Some criticism had been made that Barrow and Parker weren't given a "chance."

"We gave them one chance," Hamer said, "and that was to throw up their hands. What we wouldn't give them a chance to do was to grab a machine gun and start shooting. It would have been foolish to have done otherwise."

Hamer said about the only offer he hasn't received is one to enter vaudeville.

CONVICTION IN DEVIL SLAYING IS NOT UPHELD

STATE REVERSES CASE AGAINST SHERMAN CLAYTON

AUSTIN, June 28 (AP)—The Texas court of criminal appeals Wednesday reversed and remanded the conviction of Sherman Clayton, convicted in Cass county of murder in the "prayer healing" death of his daughter, Bernice, three and one half years old.

Clayton was sentenced to eight years imprisonment. Reversal was ordered because of improper argument of the district attorney to the jury which the trial court refused to instruct the jury to disregard.

The case was a companion to that of Paul Oakley, convicted of murder in the child's death and sentenced to 30 years. Oakley's conviction also was reversed.

The girl died December 19, 1932 after three days and three nights of prayer service in the backwoods home of the Claytons.

Paul Oakley, according to state witnesses acted as the "minister" in the ceremony. Paul Oakley's brother, Coy Oakley, also was involved in the case.

State witnesses quoted Paul Oakley as saying after the girl's death that he had "choked Bernice to death" and that "he thought at first God told him to do it, but that it had been revealed to him later that it was the devil."

Improper admission of testimony caused the court to reverse and remand the conviction of Joe Williams in Wilbarger county on a charge of attempting to aid a felon to escape. Williams allegedly was apprehended in the entrance to the jail with six hack saw blades attached to his back with adhesive tape. The appeals court ruled Williams was taken before the grand jury without warning and that evidence developed there could not be used in the trial.

Restaranteurs Evade Beer Law

AUSTIN, June 28 (AP)—There does not seem to be anything in Texas' 3.2 beer law to prevent a restaurateur from evading the license fee by depending on his business neighbor for the beverage when a customer orders it.

Some Austin restaurant keepers who started out with legalization of 3.2 beer to keep a stock on hand have dropped their licenses. The waiters step next door and bring in a bottle when someone wants one. The profit in this proceeding goes to the beer depository "down the street" but the restaurant keeper does not have to pay a license.

That's a little loophole the next legislature may look into if it considers patches for the new beer law.

Mrs. Roy Sewell underwent an appendectomy operation in Pampa hospital Tuesday afternoon. Her condition was favorable this morning.

Old Adam 'Dyed Of Gowte', Says Ancient Record

LONDON, June 28 (AP)—Adam and Eve had a lot of trouble over an apple, but evidence came forward today that it was gout that finally put the first man in his grave.

This theory was advanced by an ancient manuscript put on display in London's Historic College of Arms. The exhibition was opened in celebration of the 450th anniversary of the association, known as the Kings, Heralds and Pursuivants of Arms organization.

It dabbles in coats of arms, genealogy, ancient manuscripts and such. The low down on Adam was offered in an ancient vellum pedigree of a Saxon King, who proudly traced his family tree back to Adam.

The manuscript was illustrated by picturesque drawings of Adam and Eve—an apple in their hands—surrounded by an assortment of animals.

Marginal Lands Being Purchased
WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—The purchase of hundreds of thousands of acres of marginal farm land in the midwest and north central states was in full swing today with government agents pushing purchases of land homesteaded by settlers a half-century ago.

Urged on by the devastating effects of drought with its consequent blight on crops and vanished water supplies the government has begun retiring farmers from what it considers "sub-marginal" acres and returning those acres to the use of birds and other wild game.

Secretary Wallace announced yesterday that $8,500,000 has been set aside from drought relief and forest purchase funds to begin the retirement program which has been in prospect for two years.

J. N. Darling, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey, said simultaneously that 179,000 acres were in the process of being purchased and others would be added to the list as rapidly as possible.

FLIGHT ENDS
MERIDIAN, Miss., June 28 (AP)—A broken cylinder early today ended the attempt of the Key brothers to set a new endurance flight record after they had spent 123 hours in the air. The brothers, Al and Fred Key, said they had not given up hope of breaking the present record and announced they would make another attempt as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.

104-YEAR OLD MEXICAN TRAINS GYM CLASS OF 22 LAREDO MEN

Galveston Will Open 28-Day Race Meet On June 28

LAREDO, June 28 (AP)—Laredo has, perhaps, the oldest athletic director in the world in Píoquinto Sanchez, 104, who is training a class of 22 young men in Laredo. He is athletic director for the "association cultural de Jovenes Mexicanas," which meets every Friday night under the direction of the centenarian director.

The class of young men was started four months ago and their work in acrobatics, tumbling, trapeze, rings, bars, and other gymnasium work speaks well for the aged coach.

Píoquinto Sanchez says he was born at Zacatecas, Mexico, May 5, 1830, and passed his 104th birthday in May. He is about 5.2 feet in height but has a quick eye and buoyant step for one of his years. He began his athletic career at 12 years of age while attending school in his native town and was in circus work several years. He also served in the Mexican army during the capture of San Luis Potosi and the battle of Pueblo in 1862, and is a great admirer of Porfirio Diaz.

Sanchez moved to Laredo with his bride of four days in 1880 and has since made his home here. He is the father of ten children, seven of whom are living. Besides being an athletic trainer and director of the aged man is a sign painter and general painter.

His memory is clear. He relates many interesting incidents of his youth in Mexico and events that took place nearly a century ago.

Dallas Sheriff Fined by Judge

ABILENE, June 28 (AP)—Several persons who learned that District Judge Billburn S. Long was in a fine-assessing mood today also learned that they are in official company.

The court slapped a $100 fine on Sheriff R. A. (Smoot) Schmidt of Dallas county for alleged failure of Schmidt's office to make a return on subpoenas issued from the court here for Dallas county witnesses. The subpoenas assertedly were mailed from here some time ago for service on witnesses wanted in state cases today.

The court was advised there had been no return on the papers. Several persons who failed to appear as witnesses were fined by Judge Long. Some of them later hastened into court and may be shown leniency.

Tiny Tot Revue To Be Sponsored By Firms Friday

Tiny Tots of Pampa are to have a merry time on the stage of the La Nora theater when they appear in the Tiny Tot Bathing Revue to be held Friday night at 9 o'clock.

Nineteen Pampa business firms have entered contestants in the stage revue, which will be mixed with music and novelty by Claude Hipps and his eight-piece orchestra, and with the screen attraction "Stingaree" starring Richard Dix and Irene Dunne.

Two winners will be declared in the revue, and a genuine engraved silver loving cup will be awarded the winners in each division, ages 2 to 7 and 7 to 10. A few children are still needed for the age group from 7 to 10.

The revue is declared to be one of Pampa's finest. Contestants are being sponsored by the following merchants: Hill's, De Luxe Cleaners, M. P. Downs Agency, Dilley Bakeries, Courthouse Barber Shop, The Diamond Shop, Baum's, Voss Cleaners, Murfee's, Standard Food Store, Eagle Buffet, Schuhart Frock & Bonnet Shop, Tarpley Music Store, Southwest Public Service, Pampa Paint & Glass Co., Your Laundry & Dry Cleaners, Pampa Motor Company, Joe Burrow Tire Co., and Gray County Creamery.

Several of the above merchants have entered contestants in each of the two groups, and the stage revue has promises of being one of the most interesting ever held in Pampa.

SOMETHING TO CROW ABOUT
TROCHU, Alta.—Fred Goodsell's hen has stopped laying eggs and gradually turned into a rooster. The comb grew longer; the wattles increased in length, and finally a lusty cock-a-doodle-doo burst forth from his (or her) throat.

Game wardens of Santa Barbara county, Cal., seized several creeks of 2,120 young steelhead trout and transferred them to deeper streams as they were about to be landlocked owing to low water.

— what it means

—to blend and cross-blend mild ripe tobaccos to "weld" them together

THERE are a great many different kinds of tobacco grown in this country and abroad. No two kinds are quite alike. Every variety has a different taste and other different qualities all its own. Some have more natural sweetness than others—some add a rare spice and a rich aroma—some burn more freely than others. To get Chesterfield's milder better taste we take the right amounts of the right kinds of home-grown tobaccos, then add aromatic Turkish. When these tobaccos are blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way—balanced—each kind of tobacco helps to bring out the best smoking qualities of the others. That's what blending and cross-blending means to Chesterfield—milder better taste. And that's why They Satisfy.
