BAILEY BEING REMOVED

Furious Atlantic Storm Kills Over A Dozen Persons

CRACK TRAIN THROWN INTO RAGING RIVER

TWO TRAINMEN KILLED AND 13 PERSONS ARE INJURED

By The Associated Press
DEATH, Terror and destruction rode today on the tail of the maddest storm to strike the Atlantic seaboard in many a year. The death toll went well over a dozen with the derailment this morning of the crack Southern Railway train Crescent Limited as it hurled a rain-soaked bridge spanning the Anacostia river just outside of Washington.

The engineer and fireman were killed and at least 13 persons injured. Authorities said the high winds and rain had weakened the structure. The engine and several cars left the track, some of them going into the raging waters.

Other deaths included two on the battered coastal liner Madison, eight in Virginia, the electrocution of a small girl at Sea Cliff, N. Y., and a motorist driving in a heavy rain at Coatesville, Pa.

Damage to property ran into millions. Smashed shore resorts, marooned communities and the wreckage of small craft dotted the coast. At sea shipping shuddered in the grip of tremendous waves.

A partly crippled passenger liner, The Madison, with 109 persons aboard, fought her way into Norfolk, Va., after sounding two S O S calls yesterday. She reported two men missing. At least two other large vessels were missing.

Fear that the death list might mount swiftly grew as calls for aid came from communities beset by raging waves or floods resulting from record-breaking rains. frantic calls for coast guard aid reached Washington from half a dozen Maryland towns where 100 families were marooned and reported in deadly peril.

The hurricane—racing far out of the usual path of such storms—flashed the east from the Carolinas northward, but Virginia was perhaps hardest hit.

Eight persons are known to have died in Virginia alone yesterday and last night as waves like mighty hammers wrecked beach resorts, luxurious homes and cottages.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 24 (AP)—William Hammons, 15, died today from sleeping sickness.

AMARILLO, Aug. 24 (AP)—The town of Claude, 30 miles southeast of here on the Fort Worth and Denver railway, was isolated this afternoon by a storm that tore down communication lines and damaged the rail depot. Repair crews were rushed from here. There was no further report and it was not known if there were casualties. The storm hit about 1 o'clock.

DALLAS, August 24 (AP)—The Shagbush plan playoff in the Texas league will start Wednesday, September 6, between the four clubs finishing in the first division.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 24 (AP)—Fire broke out this afternoon in the Kansas City stockyards where 30,000 pigs were received today for the purchase by the government. The blaze was raging in big hay barns and the quarantine pens and sheds at the west edge of the yards. The fire sent a heavy column of smoke high above the city.

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Aug. 24 (AP)—William South, 30, and Don Williams, 27, were killed and three others were injured today when the boiler of a gin company, 15 miles north of Sulphur Springs exploded.

HOUSTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—Humble Oil and Refining company this afternoon announced a 10-cent increase in the price for crude oil in the fields which it serves. The announcement was made by R. L. Blaffer, president.

WEST TEXAS TO BE CUT OFF IF BONDS GO DOWN

W. T. C. C. Attitude Is Criticized By Strauss

AUSTIN, Aug. 24 (AP)—William Strauss, chairman of the Texas relief bond issue steering committee, said today that unless the $20,000,000 bond issue is approved on Saturday, 94 counties in the region served by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce would have to bear their relief burden alone. He said that "these 94 counties have received up to July 31 federal relief funds to the amount of $2,873,193, while the August allotments requested by the various counties and now being expended amounted to $658,850."

For the entire state, federal funds received for relief purposes up to July 31 was $10,361,279, while August allotments totalled $2,362,820. Strauss stated, "It will be noted that the allotment for the 94 west Texas counties amounting to $658,850 constitutes 27.9 per cent of the total for the state, while the population of these same counties represents only 24.8 per cent of the state's total."

Strauss pointed out that "in view of the fact that the West Texas chamber of commerce has made public a purported poll tending to turn sentiment against the state relief proposal, we are making these figures public for the information of West Texans interested."

"If the bond issue fails, these counties will no longer receive relief and will have to bear the burden alone," he stated.

Dismiss Charge Against Famous Texas Poloist

CHICAGO, Aug. 24 (AP)—Polo again claimed the attention of its second ranking ace, Cecil Smith, San Antonio, Texas, today after an Evanston nurse had dropped charges of criminal assault against him.

In a letter delivered to authorities last night by her father, Dr. R. T. Rose, prominent dentist of Cooperstown, N. D., Miss Eugenia Rose, 23, the complainant, said:

"I do not wish to prosecute Mr. Cecil Smith on the charge of 'I expect to be married and I do not want any more publicity.' I will appear against Mr. Smith and I wish you would therefore dismiss the case at once."

The $5,000 bond of the polo star was cancelled and he left at once for New York to practice for a fortnight next month. He issued a statement reiterating previous declaration that the "claim was preposterous" and that he was "ready to meet it in court at any time."

Rainfall This Month Reaches 2.5 Inch Total

Recurring rains, starting with mere sprinkles in the early part of the month and continuing almost nightly, have raised the total precipitation for the month to almost 2 1/2 inches. The rainfall last night was 41 of an inch. The electrical display again was unusual.

The most general rains for a year have fallen in the Panhandle in the last three days. Only the extreme eastern portion of the plains has failed to receive substantial moisture. Railroads are giving close attention to soft roadbeds.

The rain was much heavier west of Pampa than in the city last night.

STOCKS IMPROVE
NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP)—Although grain sagged under renewed selling pressure today, stocks generally ignored this weakness and moved quietly up to higher levels. Gains in most categories averaged a point or more, with a number of specialties advancing considerably further. The close was steady. The turnover, much smaller than yesterday, approximated 1,750,000 shares.

STARVES SELF TO DEATH IN COUNTY JAIL

MRS. DACH LOSES 100 POUNDS SINCE LAST APRIL

LA GRANGE, Aug. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Anton Dach, who was sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murder of Henry Stoeber, farm hand on her place near Schulenburg, died in Fayette county jail here last night.

Officers said Dach was due to an intermittent fast she imposed on herself when she was arrested last April.

She weighed over 200 pounds when she was placed in a cell here. When she died last night she had lost around 100 pounds.

Officers said that she had been going without food for days. Occasionally she would nibble at the food given her, then turn her face to the wall and read an old German Bible.

She was convicted on May 2 of killing Stoeber. Her attorneys appealed the conviction and she was awaiting the result of the appeal when death came.

Funeral services probably will be held today. She is survived by three brothers and a sister. The buried remains of Stoeber's body were found buried in a pit in Mrs. Dach's back yard by Sheriff Will Loessin on April 16.

At first she maintained that Stoeber killed himself and that she burned and buried the body, but that Stoeber killed himself. Later she altered the confession, claiming that she shot Stoeber with a shotgun as he slept because he had attacked her last December.

Panhandle Band Coming To Play Concert Tonight

Consumer agreement cards, which may be taken to the postmaster and exchanged for consumer stickers, will be distributed at the band concert tonight. If rain interferes with holding the concert cast of the courthouse, program will be presented in the city hall.

Young musicians of far more than ordinary ability will be heard in concert here this evening as the Panhandle high school band plays at 8 o'clock.

The concert, sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce, will be held on the vacant lots just east of the courthouse.

The Panhandle band, which boasts a national champion in cornet solo work and six state champions in directing by E. B. Beebe, Mr. Beebe and his son were heard by the Jaysees in duets last week.

The Panhandle band, composed of 35 pieces, has been heard in many plains cities this summer.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 24 (AP)—The Chesapeake steamship liner City of Norfolk is aground in Pocomoke Sound, one mile east of the north end of Wati's Island. Her passengers are safe.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Aug. 24 (AP)—Without waiting for its enrollment, Governor, J. M. Furell, at 11:13 a. m. today signed the engraved copy of the beer bill making the sale and manufacture of 3.2 beer and light wines legal in Arkansas immediately.

YOUNG DEMOCRATIC CLUB WILL SPONSOR STUDY OF TRENDS IN GOVERNMENT AND OF ECONOMICS

Nunn Is Chairman Of County—Smith Heads Club

FIFTY young Pampans last night formed the Gray County Young Democratic club, which is backed by the Roosevelt administration as a patriotic and worthwhile organization, and made plans to study democratic self-government and current trends in politics and economics.

They elected the following officers: County chairman, Gilmore N. Nunn; club president, W. J. Smith; vice-president, John Osborne; secretary-treasurer, Roy Bourland; directors, Forrest Linquist, LeFors, Claude Williams of McLean, and Julian Barret.

"Opportunities for young men and women are growing fewer as the last frontier—refuge of our liberty-loving fathers and grandfathers—disappears," said Jim Lumppin of the Amarillo club in speaking briefly here last night. He said that a modern government must adjust old principles of democracy to new conditions and open up more opportunities for its citizens. And young folk, he added, must know more about government than ever before. Rather than a "new deal," he called it a "new democracy" but one which is based on old principles.

No rubber stamp organization, the Young Democratic club will mix little in partisan politics but will study all party movements and have debates and lectures on various phases of government and economics. Periodically, public meetings will be held. The membership list is open to all young democrats, men and women, from 18 to 35 years of age.

"The older people have failed, to maintain equal opportunity for the citizens—we should have our chance and prepare for it," declared Herman Wright, young Amarillo orator. He said college men were becoming interested, and pointed out that governments abroad in many countries are being reformed by young men.

Three Sets Of Ballots To Be Cast Saturday

Ballots for Saturday's election in Gray county were being distributed to election judges by the sheriff's department.

There are three sets of ballots—one for the local option election, one for the 21st amendment (repealing the 18th), and one for the four state amendments.

Voting boxes are at the same places as last year, except that in South Pampa the polls will be moved a few doors to a vacant building in the same side of the same block. Voters must vote in the right precinct and must have paid their poll taxes or hold exemption receipts.

Chief local interest appears to be in the proposed relief bond amendment, through which a thousand Gray county jobless men will either receive state and federal work-relief or be left without funds. Very general approval of the amendment is being shown here because of the need and the fact that the bonds, if and when voted, will never raise ad valorem taxes.

Returns on the county and state election will be compiled by the NEWS and posted on a bulletin board inside its building. Because of the frequent night rainstorms, the board will not be placed outside as formerly done.

I SAW—

David Dodge, whose old home town is Claude but who now lives in Pampa, relating how he managed to get through a cordon of cops at Claude the other night when Amarillo officers were hunting for an extortionist.

Accused Poloist

MISS EUGENIA ROSE, above, nurse in Evanston, Ill., hospital, charged that Cecil Smith, Texas polo star, dragged her from an automobile after a two-hour struggle, and attacked her. Smith, who was in Chicago to participate in the east-west polo matches, labeled the accusation a frame-up. Miss Rose has withdrawn the charge.

FT. WORTH SHIP IS SAILING FOR CHICAGO'S FAIR

Boat Will Be Carried Across Parts Of Trinity

FORT WORTH, Aug. 24 (AP)—The good ship "Texas Steer," first boat to sail from "the port of Fort Worth," was gliding down the Trinity river this morning on her way to the Century of Progress exposition at Chicago.

Moorings were cast off at noon yesterday. Aboard were Commodore B. M. Hatfield and a crew of four with a newspaperman taking a short ride to earn the title of "first passenger to sail from Fort Worth."

As the boat pulled out a girls' string band played "Over the Waves," and about 75 persons stood on the bank wishing the boat a successful voyage.

The inside measurements of the craft are 26x5 feet. The "Texas Steer" is constructed with iron rings at the end so that it may be carried across parts of the river that cannot be navigated.

On the first day out the boat got only as far as the First street bridge, to await consignments of freight and a possible sack of souvenir letters. It will be propelled by oars until it reaches Dallas, where a motor will be installed.

Commodore Hatfield estimated it would require 40 days to complete the trip to Chicago. The route will be down the Trinity to the Gulf, along the Gulf coast to the Atchafalaya river, and up this stream to a connection with the Mississippi. Up the "father of waters" the craft will go to the Illinois and the Chicago rivers.

The trip is being made in the interest of the Trinity river canal, Commodore Hatfield said.

In the party besides Hatfield are W. J. West, J. F. Norris, Buddy Cashion and D. E. Bennett.

J. S. Rice and Otto Rice and son, Billie, have returned from El Dorado where they visited relatives.

TO BE TAKEN BEFORE JUDGE IN AFTERNOON

ATTORNEY GENERAL OF U. S. DEFIES PALS OF PRISONER

DALLAS, Aug. 24 (AP)—Handcuffed to a Dallas detective, Harvey Bailey was taken by automobile today to Fort Worth for a hearing before United States Judge James C. Wilson to determine whether he would be transferred immediately to Oklahoma City in connection with the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel. Bailey was handcuffed to Detective Jack Archer and placed in the rear seat of a Dallas police car. Beside him was Detective Captain Will Fritz, holding a machine gun. Bob Jones, another member of the city's homicide squad, was driving. Bailey's automobile was tracked by another driven by E. J. Blake, chief of the federal department of justice. That car was well-manned with machine guns.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 24 (AP)—While officers armed with machine guns, rifles and sawed off shot guns guarded the federal building and the four Shannons held for kidnaping, a heavily guarded automobile was dispatched to bring Harvey Bailey, gangster and kidnaping leader from Dallas to Fort Worth this afternoon.

Walking through rows of officers, machine guns at their sides, the Shannons entered the federal building at 9:30 a. m. they, too, having been ordered brought here for a hearing before District Judge James C. Wilson to determine if their bonds of $50,000 each shall be reduced.

Conferences between attorneys for the government and the defense in which Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general of the United States, assigned to kidnaping cases, took a leading part, consumed the morning.

Keenan insisted that Bailey be brought to Fort Worth. It was stated after the conference, which delayed the habeas corpus hearing that an attempt will be made to remove the Shannons and Bailey to Oklahoma City where they have just been indicted for their purported

The heel industry is said to be enjoying new life. Maybe that's because the democrats have quit kicking out republicans and aiding the toe business.

Actually, heels have been so cheap no one had to be "run down" on them. But it's a good figure of speech, anyway.

Things happen so fast one has to read his paper every day to keep up. The story goes now that an old couple from the country arrived at the world's fair and saw blue eagles everywhere. They asked what it meant and were told that NRA stood for national recovery act. Then they spent half a day trying to find the side show in which the eagle act was featured.

Our New York correspondent says that Fiorella LaGuardia, fusion candidate for mayor, is a diplomat, lawyer, linguist, musician, and excellent cook. New York may be more interested, however, in how he looks in spats and a silk topper.

Hall the Pampa Philharmonic club! A first class civic chorus is a mark of distinction for any city. May it succeed.

Republicans say NRA means "no relief again." To the democrats it means "never retreat again." And though General Johnson is gruff, he is responsible and he doesn't make the initials mean "never retreat anything." He

ENCEPHALITIS DEATH ROSTER GROWS TO 27

Sleeping Sickness Epidemic Spreads To Fourth State; Illinois People Stricken.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24 (AP)—As the toll from the epidemic of "sleeping sickness" reached twenty-seven in this city and its suburban communities, the puzzling disease was reported in another bordering state—Illinois.

Previously cases in Oklahoma and Kansas, as well as other Missouri towns, had been diagnosed as encephalitis, as the disease is known in medical circles, but the ones reported during the last 24 hours at Pekin and Pleasant Hill, Ill., are the first known in that state during the current outbreak.

The deaths of four persons here yesterday was the greatest number to succumb to the disease in one day during the epidemic which took its first victim July 30. It also surpassed the number of fatalities from the disease in the Spokane, Wash., outbreak of 1919-21 when nineteen lost their lives.

Nine new cases have been reported in St. Louis county and four in the city of St. Louis, bringing the total number since the epidemic started to 197.

Meanwhile federal, state and city medical experts are concentrating their investigation in an attempt to find a cause and cure, on the possibility that insects are suspected as being possible carriers of the infection.

A CLEAR-CUT AMENDMENT

Contrary to reports and rumors, it would be difficult to imagine a less ambiguous document than the $20,000,000 relief bond amendment to be voted on August 26.

The wording of the amendment is simple, direct and perfectly lucid. It contains no hidden meanings or ace-up-the-sleeve. It is, indeed, remarkably clear when compared with the other amendments to be voted on at the same time.

Here, in brief, are the provisions of the proposed bond issue amendment:

It absolutely limits the amount of the bonds to $20,000,000, and leaves the legislature free to appropriate any sum less than that amount it may see fit. The power to issue is expressly limited to the amount stated, for the purpose stated.

It limits the time in which such bonds may be issued to two years from day of election.

It limits interest charges to 4 1/2 per cent, and absolutely forbids that any form of commission be paid for their sale.

It says positively that they must be sold for not less than par and accrued interest.

It definitely orders that the bonds be retired within ten years.

The legislature is instructed to provide appropriations necessary to pay interest and principal, but the amendment specifically provides that real estate and personal property shall be exempt from such levy.

The use of such money as may be issued under this amendment is limited to "furnishing relief to needy and distressed people and in relieving the hardships resulting from unemployment," and must be "fairly distributed over the state and upon such terms and conditions as may be provided by law."

Another strong point in its favor: Not only must the legislature provide for interest and principal from some source other than a tax on real property, but the amendment says that such bonds SHALL NEVER "become a charge against or lien upon any property, real or personal, within this state." In other words, nobody's home or personal property is involved in the deal at any point.

Texas pays its fair share of federal taxes. Federal taxes are paid into the national treasury by firms and individuals in the various states. Federal relief funds come from these taxes, including the penny-and-a-half gallonage tax on gasoline levied by Uncle Sam. Texans will go right on paying these federal taxes rain or shine. If it turns down this relief bond issue, it will be cut off from federal relief funds yet will continue to pay taxes to provide funds for spending in other states.

Don't let anybody kid you into believing that the federal funds will keep on coming, whether we vote the bonds or not. They won't. We have had ample warning on that point. Besides, since when have Texans become so lost to pride as to let the federal government feed its own hungry people, without lifting a hand to help?

Whatever reason one may employ for opposing the amendment, one can hardly oppose it on the ground of ambiguity or because it is full of loopholes. It's air-tight and clearcut.

The Reporter-News favors the amendment.

An emergency exists. People are hungry and will be hungrier unless Texas votes these bonds and continues to receive federal aid. It is impossible to argue with a condition like that.

This newspaper is against issuance of any bonds by the state on all ordinary occasions, but this is not an ordinary occasion. It is a crisis.—Abilene REPORTER-NEWS.

Keenan Welcomes Attack. Just before noon it was announced that the hearing had been delayed until the afternoon session, scheduled for 2 o'clock.

During the conference between attorneys, something was said against the novel of Bailey to Fort Worth. "What are you afraid of?" asked Keenan, who has defied the kidnapers of the nation. "Are you afraid some one will try to release him?"

"Yes," replied Federal District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus. "Let 'em try it," replied Keenan.

When the car bearing Armon Shannon, 21, and his wife, Oleta, reached the north entrance of the federal building the officers formed lines through which they passed. Machine guns were on the elevator as they were taken to the second floor. Apparently every precaution was taken to prevent anyone from harming the Shannons.

Within two minutes after the young Shannons had entered the building, a car carrying R. G. (Boss) Shannon who is the father of Armon, and the former's wife, Ora L. Shannon, arrived. They too, passed along lines of guards with rifles and machine guns.

knows how to change his mind.

WHY JUNIOR CHAMBERS? Peter Molyneux's famous Texas WEEKLY published at Dallas asks and answers this question in the issue of August 19. It should not be necessary to ask why any chamber of commerce. The old ballyhoo days are gone. Modern chambers are service organizations. They alone can lead a community's helping hand at any time to farmers, business groups, neighboring communities, and at the same time represent their cities in any pertinent matter arising. A city without some kind of chamber of commerce is "blind" to its opportunities and responsibilities and to calls from its neighbors. Chambers are essential to any city which has aspirations of becoming a territorial center. Therefore, when Mr. Molyneux asks why we have Junior chambers, he is not debating the value of chambers in general but that specific young men's chamber in particular.

PAMPA SHOULD KNOW

Pampa has an active Junior chamber of commerce. Its members are young. They are for the most part salaried employees, limited in personal and organization funds. There is a distinct place for them. They are enthusiastic. They are not afraid to unbend, and they fit into community life in a way that should please the older citizens not so much interested in sponsoring sports and entertainment. There is no competition between the two groups, and no discord. It may be expected that the Junior organization will increase its service and influence as better times return. It is significant that it is not waiting for much business improvement. Too many business men seem to think chambers are worthwhile in good times when they are less needed than now.

GROWING LEADERSHIP

The Texas Weekly said in its article that "until the Junior chamber of commerce movement was launched some 15 years ago no intelligent organized effort was made to mobilize the army of young men and to assist them in entering into the business and civic life of their communities. They were left to drift for themselves and to find their places unassisted as best they could. By the time this was accomplished the majority had lost the viewpoint of youth and, as a consequence, the virile, dynamic influence they might have wielded as young men was not felt in the conduct of the business and civic affairs of the country. "It is because its object is to shorten this non-productive period through which the majority of young men must pass before leaving school and gaining a foothold in their chosen occupations, and because it furnishes the medium through which the initiative and daring of youth can make itself felt in the guidance of commerce and industry, that the Junior chamber of commerce is one of the most powerful factors for good in the country today. The three fold object of the movement is: 1. To promote business success; 2. to teach civic responsibility; 3. to express the younger man's viewpoint.

A REAL SERVICE

In the teaching of civic responsibility, the Junior chamber is rendering a service the value of which can hardly be over-estimated. The apathy of the American business man in civic affairs has been responsible more than any other one thing for the evils of incompetence, graft, and corruption which have been allowed to creep into the governmental structure of the nation and its political subdivisions. And a weakening of a keen sense of civic responsibility among the thousands of young business men in the Junior chambers of commerce, together with the intelligent understanding of civic and political affairs to which they are brought, affords the surest hope for the elimination of those evils in the future.

AGE OVERTAKES THEM

It is inevitable, of course, that the membership of a Junior chamber outgrows its age limit. This is in reality fortunate, affording a community a type of trained leadership it has not heretofore had. But Junior chambers should not be considered as "boy" organizations. The age limits for entry are 18 to 25, with members remaining in good standing until they reach the age of 37. Junior chambers have statewide organizations and a state program. They have a national organization and a national program. Promotion of foreign trade is an international objective. Mr. Molyneux adds that "one has ground to hope that through the work of this young men's organization the narrow provincialism which has ruled public opinion in Texas may give way to a broader international outlook and that therefore a better understanding of the real problems affecting the welfare of the state may be spread among its people. For that reason, if for no other, the Junior chamber of commerce can be of inestimable benefit to Texas."

FIFTY THOUSAND SEE TEXANS SING GRAND OPERA AT CHICAGO

Washington, storm-beaten yesterday, set about counting its losses, with no official estimates of damage available, but unofficial guesses running into thousands of dollars from uprooted trees, torn-up power lines and damage to buildings.

Check of the toll of the raging northeaster that raked the Norfolk section of the coast with an 80-mile blast, leaving eight dead and $2,000,000 property damage in its wake revealed Willoughby laid waste, Ocean View Park in ruins, Virginia beach already laying plans for rebuilding of its damaged water front and Cape Henry still practically cut off from all communication with the rest of the area.

At her dock lies the battered steamer Madison of the Old Dominion line, that came in under her own power at two o'clock this morning under the escort of the coast guard destroyer Uphur to report two members of the crew lost in the storm.

During the early part of the storm waves carried overboard 13 young men from North Carolina, the second mate, and Edward Corbett, of New Foundland, quartermaster. The two had gone on deck to investigate the damage done by the first huge wave that struck the ship as she encountered the hurricane.

It was the first storm wave, described by Captain William Heath as being the largest he had ever seen, which tore away the forward house and wrecked much of the superstructure.

AIDA GLIMAXES TEXAS DAY AT WORLD'S FAIR

PERFORMANCE IS EASY AND SMOOTH IN STADIUM

BY RUTH COWAN, Associated Press Staff Writer.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24 (AP)—For many years musically proud Chicago has been sending grand opera down to Texas. Last night the Lone Star state repaid the call—and roped an audience estimated at 50,000 persons to see an outdoor production of "Aida" straight from the Long Horn country.

Proof of its quality was offered by the fact that the audience, which blanketed the side sections of huge Soldier Field stadium and spread out on to the field, stayed until the last brick was placed in the prison-tomb of Aida and her Egyptian lover. It was Texas day at Century of Progress exposition and the presentation by the Texas Grand Opera association concluded the day's program, which brought many thousand Texans here.

The weather was ideal—clear, cool, and still. Huge amplifiers carried the voices of Della Semollo, as "Aida" and others of the cast, to the far recesses of the large bowl. The performance throughout was easy and smooth.

The triumphal scene in the second act, when more than a thousand persons were assembled on a stage so extensive that a horse looked mouse-like from the far sidelines, was spectacular and effective.

The leading roles were sung by stars, many of whom are well known to opera audiences. But with few exceptions they were Texas-born or residents of that state.

Della Semollo, who was one of the youngest prima donnas ever presented by the Chicago Civic Opera company, is well known in Waco, where she lived several years, and in Houston.

Dreda Aves, who sang in the Metropolitan Opera and was "Amneris" last night, was born in Galveston. Other Texans in the leading roles were Maria Pallaria, of Dallas, and George Holleman, of Beaumont.

The large crowd and its appreciative reception made the Texans in the cast and back stage happy.

The opera was presented by the Chicago civic opera orchestra of 100 pieces.

The chorus of 600 voices, Mrs. John Wesley Graham of Houston, said, were all Texans. The Texans likewise brought with them 60 negroes to play the roles of slaves.

The Texas grand opera was assembled as a non-profit group especially for the purpose—to quote Mrs. Graham—"to show Chicago and the world that Texans know their high 'C's' as well as their roping technique."

The HIDDEN DOOR

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: Leaving Germaine Tremblay, whom he loves, writing in a motor boat, Colin Hewitt has crept through the dark woods to the "club," a criminal hangout, to warn Joe Lazzarre that Dollaire's hi-jackers plan a raid. Colin hopes for help against the Mask, New York underworld czar, from Lazzarre, although the Mask operates this same St. Lawrence river "club." Colin is too late; he is shot to a tree; Dollaire's men shoot down the club "members" and blast their way into a secret room. Lazzarre lies wounded on the porch; now Dollaire sets fire to the club.

Chapter 26
DESPERATE ATTEMPT

He stood there watching. The figures ran back to the power house. The flames began to mount skyward. And he could see Lazzarre making desperate efforts, as flames licked along the front wall toward him, to wriggle farther back from the threshold, winning his way only by a hopeless inch or two at a time.

He could see Dollaire's men coming out of the power house with arms full of little packages and bundles that contained he did not know what. And because there wasn't any more firing, he knew that the "members" of the club were penned up somewhere down there on the shore, routed and beaten.

A nightmare? It was no nightmare! It was real enough. It was only his brain that was reeling with the horror of it. To stand here and watch! In another five minutes—less than that—the flames would reach that open doorway—that dark object lying there still barely beyond the threshold. Why didn't he azzarre move faster? The man was wounded, of course, but he wasn't dead like Kenniston. Why didn't he—

A low, startled cry came suddenly from behind him. He jerked his head around. Someone was standing there on the path within a yard of him—a girl—shadowy—His mind snapped back into action.

"Germaine!" he said hoarsely.

"Colin!" She was beside him now. "What is it? What has happened? I heard a lot of shots being fired and then an explosion. And—and you didn't come back. I couldn't stay there and longer."

"My wrists!" he broke in tensely. "Undo them, dear—as quickly as you can."

"Oh!" she cried in a low shocked voice. "I didn't see, Colin, they're bleeding."

"It's nothing serious. Can you manage it?"

"Yes, in just a minute. Tell me—"

"Not now! There isn't any time." His words were coming in fast, jerky sentences. "You shouldn't have come, but thank God you did. You must go back to the launch the instant I'm free. Before you are seen. Don't leave it again. Wait for me there."

"Wait for you!" A sudden fear was in her voice. "Colin, what do you mean? What are you going to do?"

"The fire, Lazzarre's over there in the club house—wounded." He was still jerking out his words. "The flames aren't far from the doorway now. That's where he is. Just in-the short circuit of the clearing. Lazzarre! No, it wasn't just Lazzarre. Any man! He would have done it for any man who was trapped there as Lazzarre was. There was nothing heroic about it—just to get in through the back of the clubhouse. Germaine! God, her courage . . .!

And so he ran, keeping close to the outer edge of the trees, flames and the moonlight helping him to pick his way. It was not far. He was at the rear of the clubhouse now. There was a back veranda—steps—close to the trees—not much clearing had been done here.

He broke through the trees and ran up the veranda steps. The back door was unlocked. He flung it open and stepped inside. A glare of light from the front of the bungalow showed him the way. He raced forward. A swirl of smoke choked him—stopped him.

The smoke cleared away. He went on again. Leaping shadows caricatured a radio, lounging chairs, a table, and a settee fantastically. This was the living room. There, beyond, was the front door, open, that gave on the veranda—and, just inside the doorway, a dark shape huddled on the floor.

Lazzarre! That was Lazzarre, of course! He lunged forward. A wave of heat that scorched his lungs, robbing him of his breath, drove him back. Queer that he could see out through that open door! No one seemed to be coming and going in and out of the power house any more. He lunged forward again—reached the huddled form on the floor.

"Lazzarre!" he called out. "Lazzarre!"

There was no reply. He dragged the man's foot or two back into the room and bent down to pick him up in his arms.

He cursed his wrists again. His hands seemed to be detached from his arms. Lifting the man in his arms, he staggered across the living room and out onto the rear veranda. He sucked in the fresh air avidly as he staggered down the steps—numbed deliciously.

The man in his arms stirred—mumbled deliriously.

"W. F. W. P. Tell the Wine Press to get Dollaire, Tell the Wine Press—d'ye hear? Tell 'em! It's Dollaire—damned scum—tell 'em . . .!"

The words were thudding at Colin's brain as he reached the bottom of the steps and laid the other on the ground. W. F. Yes, that stood for Wine Press—but what was the Wine Press? What did that mean? But that could wait. Where was the man wounded? How badly was he hurt? The flames from the side of the clubhouse threw into fitful relief a white, ashen face, a blood-scaked shirt—and the man was still murmuring in delirium, but Colin could not catch the words now.

He tore the shirt open. Of course it was Lazzarre. Bouchard had said so. And there was the scar on the right shoulder to which Reddy had referred—a long jagged scar, running parallel with the shoulder blade. But he had not torn the man's shirt open to look for that scar. He had not thought of the scar, or had any doubt in his mind but that it was Lazzarre; but he had torn the shirt open to look for Lazzarre's wound.

And now his lips tightened. Shotgun wounds. Lazzarre's body was peppered with them. He did not know how serious they were. What was he to do? If Lazzarre—

He rose suddenly to his feet. From the back of the clubhouse here he could not see the power house; but shouts reached him now, volleying English oaths—coming nearer. That answered his question. There was nothing more that he could do for Lazzarre now—except leave him to his friends.

Yes, and—he smiled grimly—it would be just as well, not only for the sake of Lazzarre, but for Germaine's and his own, if he were not called upon now to explain his presence here!

He stepped quickly back in among the trees that were only a few yards off, and waited. They would salvage what they could, no doubt, and the only way they could get into the club at all now was by way of the back door, so they were bound to see Lazzarre lying there. But he must at least make sure of that, for the fire would—His mind swerved off at a tangent. Dollaire must have collected his loot and escaped.

Chapter 27
COLIN ESCAPES

Figures came running round the side of the clubhouse—and, halting abruptly, gathered around Lazzarre. There came then a medley of voices raised in exclamation and blasphemy. They all talked at once. The crowd reached Colin in disjointed snatches:

"Kenniston's croaked out there him. That makes two with Greg. . . . The cover's blown off the works. . . . Ten spaces, maybe twenty, if we're caught. . . . We got to beat it out of here before anyone comes along. . . . Get Lazzarre down to the boat. . . . Better save some of our clothes in there if we can. . . . Wise up W. F. . . . There'll be a glass wagon and no flowers coming to Dollaire for this. . . . If we work fast enough we can get Lazzarre across the border before the cops get their ear muffers off. . . . Maybe he won't live. . . . Aw, he ain't so bad. . . . We got to give him a break anyhow. . . . Maybe Dollaire and his schooner are still in the river. . . . He didn't come that way, he went off through the woods toward Cap a l'Orange. . . . That sneaking rat of a spy . . ."

Colin edged deeper in among the trees; then, moving cautiously, began to make his way back around the clearing. A hundred yards away, satisfied that between the crackling of the flames and the constant roar of the falls no sound could be heard, he quickened his pace, breaking into a run wherever it was possible to do so.

His one object now was to reach Germaine and get away before the power boat started down the river—far, dark as the shadows were, close in there against the bank, there was always the risk of the launch being seen. He did not want Germaine to be seen. It would take fifteen minutes at the very least, he was certain, for the "members" to salvage what they could of their personal belongings, carry Lazzarre down to the power boat, and get the power boat under way. Surely he could make the launch in much less time than.

He made it in five.

Germaine had evidently heard him coming. She was standing up in the launch. The engine was running.

"Let's go!" he spoke nonchalantly—or thought he did—as he jumped in beside her.

She leaned forward and peered for an instant into his face.

"Sit down!" she commanded. "You look like a ghost. I'll handle the boat."

He did not protest. He had for-

TO KILL MACHADO

NASSAU, N. P., Aug. 24 (AP)—Reports that an airplane carrying men determined to assassinate Gerardo Machado, exiled president of Cuba, had left for this city today caused placing of guards armed with rifles about the hotel where Machado is living. Police generally do not carry firearms and the issue of rifles indicated the gravity with which colonial government officials regarded the report.

John O'Keefe of Panhandle spent the day in the city.

SLAIN GIRL'S MOTHER ASSERTS BRYAN STUDENT IS INNOCENT

STATE NOT TO OPPOSE ERVIN CONWAY BOND

MOTHER DID NOT GIVE AUTHORITY TO EX-HUME BODY

BRYAN, Aug. 24. (P)—District Attorney John R. Grace of Robertson county has decided not to oppose the setting of a "reasonable" bond for the release of Ervin Conway, 23, charged with murder for the slaying of his fiancée, Miss Elizabeth Ladelle Hammond, 20.

The decision was announced after District Attorney Grace had studied an application for a writ of habeas corpus filed yesterday by counsel for Conway.

Although the date for Conway's preliminary hearing had not been set, there was a possibility it would be held tomorrow afternoon in Justice J. E. Mooney's court at Hearne.

Both Conway and Miss Hammond were students of Baylor university at Waco. She was shot the night of June 16 while riding to Bryan with Conway, who told authorities they had planned to announce their engagement. He said robbers accosted them on the highway north of Bryan, fatally wounding Miss Hammond.

Conway, in the county jail at Franklin last night, was visited by Mrs. Raymond Hammond, mother of the slain co-ed, who left the jail professing her belief in his innocence.

"I believe that Ervin is as innocent of that crime as he can be," Mrs. Hammond said. "Ervin has always been a perfect gentleman and has never given me reason to think otherwise."

Mrs. Hammond said she had given no one authority to examine her daughter's body and conduct a post-mortem examination. It was after such an examination that the charge was filed against Conway.

"The first I knew of the body being removed was Wednesday morning when I went to the cemetery in Kosse to place flowers on her grave."

--HIDDEN DOOR

gotten about his head. Rather queer that it should suddenly start throbbing again! He felt almost giddy.

"All right!" he said. "But step on it. The power boat will be along shortly—and it's moonlight."

"We'll keep out of the moon path. If they haven't started yet, we'll be so far away they'll never see us."

The launch spurted out from the bank. Colin dragged his hand in the water, and at moments surreptitiously bathed his head. There was no sign of the power boat. She had nursed the engine to top speed. The launch was cleaving the smooth water like an arrow.

Suppose Lazare lived? Suppose Lazare died? In either case Lazare would no longer be here—on the north shore—What was he to do? A thought flashed through his mind—startling him. He pondered it a moment. The germ of it grew—flourished. Like the next chapter! That ubiquitous analogy!

"Colin," she questioned anxiously, "I was heart-broken when I found the body had been disturbed," Mrs. Hammond said.

ly, "are you all right?" "Absolutely," he lied convincingly. "My wrists were a bit numb at first, of course, but they're as good as ever now. I'm perfectly fit, dear—but just lazy, willing to let you do the work."

"Did—she hesitated—"Lazare—did you?"

"Yes," he answered. "I got him out without much difficulty, but I'm afraid he's in rather bad shape—which isn't so good."

"Tell me about it," she said, "tell me everything—when you feel like talking."

"I'll tell you now," he said. He told her in detail—except that he made no mention of a gun butt that had crashed against his skull and it took a long time. They had rounded the point, and were heading for Cap a l'Orange when he had made an end of it.

"We needn't worry about the power boat any more, no matter where it is," she said irrelevantly. "They'll head straight across for the Caspe shore." Then, pertinently: "But what was it that has been going on down there underneath the power house? What was in those bundles you saw Dolaire's men carrying away?"

He shook his head. "I wish I did; but after all, no matter what it was, it doesn't alter things one iota so far as you and I are concerned."

cerned," his lips drew into a straight line. "The Mask still for bids our banners."

"What are you going to do now, Colin? What are we going to do?"

He sat motionless for a moment, then struck a match and looked at his watch.

"You'll be back home and in bed at half-past three—not later anyway than four. No one will know, no one is to know, that you've been near the club. That's the first thing. If you get pulled into this, so do I—in which case if I know the Mask at all you'll mourn a husband-to-be!"

"Colin!" she cried out poignantly. "Don't say that!" "It's absolutely true," he said: "but it isn't as cowardly as it sounds. If the Mask doesn't get a look at my cards, I think I've got more than a fair chance of winning the last hand—and that means our happiness, dear.

"Ethically, perhaps, we may be momentarily compounding a felony by not speaking right out in meeting, but that does not mean that Dolaire will not get his deserts in due course—or the others either. I promised you that the other night. But the Mask is at the bottom of all this, and he comes first. Do you agree?"

Her hand closed over his. "Yes," she said, "but what are you going to do, Colin?"

"I'm going back by the Bonaventure tomorrow!" "Colin!" "If Lazare lives, he'll eventually land up in New York. And meanwhile there's—the Wine Press."

"But you do not know anything about it, where it is, or anything." "I know it is in New York; and that, if it isn't actually the Mask's headquarters, it's at least where his orders come from. I'll find it."

"But, Colin," her voice was breaking—"he knows you. You said so yourself. You'll be recognized and

"Not this time," said Colin quietly. "I'll see to that."

"I don't know yet. But don't worry dear—there are four days in which to figure that out before I even reach Quebec."

She nestled close to him.

"Oh, Colin," she whispered, "I'm terribly, terribly afraid. Isn't— isn't there some other way?"

His arms were around her. "It's the one chance—for both of us," he answered buoyantly. "We will win. You'll see."

It was four o'clock in the morning when they reached Cap a l'Orange. There were no lights in the village. No one was astir. (Copyright 1933, Frank Packard)

WEST IS SLIGHT FAVORITE TO DEFEAT EAST IN FOOTBALL'S 'DREAM GAME'

ALL-STARS TO PLAY AT FAIR THIS EVENING

SEVEN TROJANS WILL WORK FOR COACH JONES

CHICAGO, Aug. 24. (AP)—Marshaled by two of the college gridiron's craftiest strategists, the all-stars of East and West clash in football's dream game under the arc lights of Soldier Field tonight.

Coach Howard Jones of Southern California will lead the forces of the West, recruited entirely from the Pacific coast stars of the past two years, while Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern, employing the Warner system of attack with football acies of the Midwest and the South, guides the destinies of the East.

Upwards of 35,000 spectators, many of whom already witnessed dream games in baseball and polo this summer around Chicago, are expected to watch the duel of the stars.

On the basis of past reputations, Coach Hanley probably had an edge in first ranking stars for the battle but the Westerners were slight favorites to win. Listed on the probable starting lineup of the West were seven former stars of Southern California football fame, all well versed and schooled in the celebrated Jones system of manufacturing touchdowns. Five former Trojans were posted along the front line and two more in the backfield to carry on for their old master, insuring the West a great amount of team play so sorely missed in all-star games.

Coach Hanley built his team—and hopes—almost entirely around Harry Newman, Michigan's all-American star and one of the deadliest passers the game has ever known. Aided by a special ruling, permitting forward passes from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage, Coach Hanley flanked Newman with several exceptional pass receivers, among them Fug Rutherford and Frank Baker, both of Northwestern. In addition Coach Hanley had Roy Horstmann of Purdue at fullback, Don Zimmerman of Tulane at left half and a line of stalwarts from Notre Dame, Northwestern, Minnesota, Nebraska and Ohio State.

BARNEY ROSS TO FIGHT TONY CANZONERI ON SEPTEMBER 12

Boxer Visits New York Tenement Where He Was Born 21 Years Ago

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP)—A youngster stood deep in New York's ghetto, peering through the slanting rain across a littered street.

"That's the place," he said. "252 Rivington street. It doesn't look like much."
It didn't look like much. It was a four story tenement house in the heart of the East Side. But it was the first thing Barney Ross, nee Barnett Rosofsky, lightweight champion of the world, wanted to see of all the sights New York held open to him on his first visit here since his parents took him to Chicago, a two-year-old baby, 21 years ago. It was his birthplace.

Much water has flowed under Barney's bridge since his parents moved away from Rivington street to Jefferson Place in Chicago. Barney's father started a little grocery store, was shot down by gunmen. Barney started boxing. He became Chicago's amateur champion, then the golden gloves champion of New York and Chicago. Two months ago he won the lightweight championship of the world from Tony Canzoneri.

He's back today to start training to defend that title against Canzoneri in a 15-round bout at the Polo Grounds, September 12.

"It's funny," said Barney. "When we left New York the last time, my mother told me we all piled into one upper berth. Now I come back in a drawing room."

"Like all kids," says Barney. "Dempsey was my first idol. Then came Canzoneri. I saw him knock out Jackie Kid Berg in Chicago—I fought a preliminary on the same card—and I thought then he was the greatest fighter I had ever seen in action, a puncher, boxer, ring general, everything."

"I never thought I'd be able to beat a fellow as good as that. But I wasn't afraid to try. And when we fought it was so close for seven rounds you could have tossed a coin between us. But after that I could feel him weaken. I know I won those last three rounds no matter how close the judges thought it was. "That's why I'm not afraid to tackle him on his home grounds for 15 rounds. I'll come on the farther the fight goes. He won't. It's too late about idols. They all have to

Red Cross Flour Taken at LeFors But Is Recovered

Nine sacks of Red Cross flour were removed from the LeFors headquarters last night and this morning county officers are looking for a man who left that town. The flour was recovered this morning.

Mrs. Davis, county Red Cross representative, accompanied officers to LeFors this morning and learned that the man had received a check yesterday morning for work done through the R. P. C. and that he was told he was not eligible to receive flour until next week.

In investigation showed that the family was not in need. The man had made nine trips between the building where the flour was kept and his home before neighbors stopped him. Entry was made by breaking the glass in the front door of the storeroom.

Frank Eichler of LeFors visited here last night.

TULSA WHIPS HOUSTON AND HURLER GREER

OKLAHOMA CITY TEAM BEATS GALVESTON 4 TO 1

BY BILL PARKER.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Ed Greer, tall right-hander of the league leading Houston Buffaloes, stepped to the mound Wednesday night in search of his twenty-second victory of this season. His mates spotted him to a three-run lead in the third inning. It looked like a breeze for the almost unbeatable "caveman."

After the third, fury broke loose in the ranks of the Tulsa Oilers. They clouted Greer all over and out of the lot to come from behind and win, 4 to 3. The Oilers opened the fifth with three singles and fielder's choice that gave them two runs. Two more were added in the seventh and eight to clinch the game. Bill Posseld relieved Jim Bivin and in six and two-thirds innings limited the Buffaloes to one hit.

It was just as bad for the second place Galveston Buccaneers. They dropped a 4 to 1 affair to the Oklahoma City Indians. It was the Indians' second straight win over the Buccaneers.

Matusak allowed Galveston eight well scattered hits. The Indian brought out their war clubs and pounded Frank Tubbs for eleven timely blows. Willingham, Windle and Langford were the batsmen to drive across Oklahoma City's four runs.

The Dallas Steers gained undisputed right to third place by knocking down the San Antonio Missions, 8 to 1. It was a listless affair except for the cross-fire pitching of Stely, who limited the Missions to six hits. "Pid" Purdy, San Antonio middle pasture guardian and the league's leading hitter, went hitless in four trips up. Lou Brower's two hits batted in three of Dallas' runs. Fred Bennett led the attack with three hits.

The Beaumont Exporters won from Fort Worth, 8 to 4. They took a three-run lead in the second inning, sending Davis to the showers, and scored four runs off Rip Collins in the ninth.

BRAVES CHALK UP THEIR 5TH STRAIGHT WIN

WASHINGTON BOOSTS LEAD OVER YANKS TO 8 GAMES

BY ORLO ROBERTSON.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Rapidly getting into a position where their six-game series to be played in four days with the New York Giants a week hence can rightfully be called "crucial," the Boston Braves today trailed the league leaders by only six and one-half games.

While the Giants, together with other teams of the National League, were being rained out for the third straight day, the Braves yesterday chalked up their fifth successive victory at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals, winning 4 to 3.

Wally Berger, 28-year-old outfielder, was the big noise. He blasted out two circuit blows, his 23rd and 24th of the season, and they accounted for all the Braves' runs. They also sent him one up on Chuck Klein in the battle for home run honors in the National League.

In the American league, the Washington Senators gained a half-game on the New York Yankees, increasing their margin to eight full games. While the Senators were dividing a doubleheader with the Detroit Tigers, the world champions dropped a close decision to the Cleveland Indians.

Tommy Bridges, the Tigers' brilliant right-hander, pitched and batted Detroit to a 2 to 1 decision in the first game but in the nightcap, the Senators slugged Fred Marberry, and his successors, often and hard to win, 9 to 5. While holding the league leaders to seven scattered blows, Bridges drove in the first run with a single and then with the score tied in the ninth connected with a triple that led to the deciding tally. Gen. Alvin Crowder opposed Bridges.

Clint Brown outpitched Charlie Ruffing to give the Indians their 2 to 1 victory over the Yankees. He scattered the Yanks' six hits over five innings while his mates got to Ruffing for two runs in the fourth, putting them together with two bases on balls and a double by Milton Galatzer and Harley Boss' single.

Two great pitching performances on the part of Sam Jones and Ed Durham gave the White Sox two victories over the Red Sox and extended Boston's losing streak to nine games. Jones held the Sox to three hits in the opener, while Durham pitched four-hit ball in the second affair. He was deprived of a shut-out only when Red Kross and Al Simmons, who got only one hit in seven times at bat, erred after two were out in the ninth.

Ex-Gorillas Are Working Hard To Become Regulars

Fifty enthusiastic Harvester prospects went through nearly two hours of practice yesterday evening at Harvester park. The boys showed an enthusiasm seldom seen this early in training. Every boy tried hard regardless of the assignment, even though it was to run around the field a few times.

Coach Odus Mitchell added side stepping to the program yesterday, after the boys had passed, kicked, and handled the ball for some time. A few members of the squad have not reported but will be here during the week. J. R. Green, big tackle, will not arrive in the city until Friday. Leslie Sartin is expected back the first of next week.

Ex-Gorillas are the surprise of the early training period. A number of the boys have added much weight and show by their performance they have been handling a football during the summer months.

The showing being made by a few ex-Gorillas reveals that the letter-men from last year have by no means enched places on the team. There are only eight letter men available and one or two of them

The Danciger Roadrunners won a 13 to 7 game from the Texas Theater Lions of Amarillo yesterday afternoon in the Berger tournament and after the Berger tournament but a loss was suffered that marred the game. Johnson, one of the leading pitchers on the Pampa staff, was hit on the arm during batting practice and physicians said he would be unable to pitch any more this season and maybe never again.

Johnson was pitching to Amarillo batters during batting practice when he was struck on the elbow. The pick of the prospects will go to camp Monday for nearly two

The Roadrunners will meet Berger-Alamo '66' team under the lights at 8 o'clock tonight. The Pampans were sure that they would not get Berger in the daytime and have been remaining in Berger to try and get used to the lights which have handicapped them in their two previous games with Berger.

Lefty George Bula will start the game against Berger tonight. Manager Ike Lister announced this morning. Lefty Blair will be kept in reserve for the Wilcox Oilers of Oklahoma City, the team the Roadrunners will probably draw tomorrow.

POTTS, McSKIMMING DEFEAT DILLMAN, CHRISTOPHER

Finals in all divisions of the City tennis tournament will be played next week. With the exception of the top half of the senior doubles bracket, all divisions are down to the finals. That bracket will be finished.

Yesterday afternoon Potts and McSkimming, Cities Service remaining senior doubles team, took three straight sets from Dillman and Christopher to go into the finals. Sets were 6-0, 6-1, 9-7. The winners played a steady placement game with a chop stroke that kept the ball from bouncing high and the elongated city team couldn't keep their returns in the court. The games were played on the Cabot court.

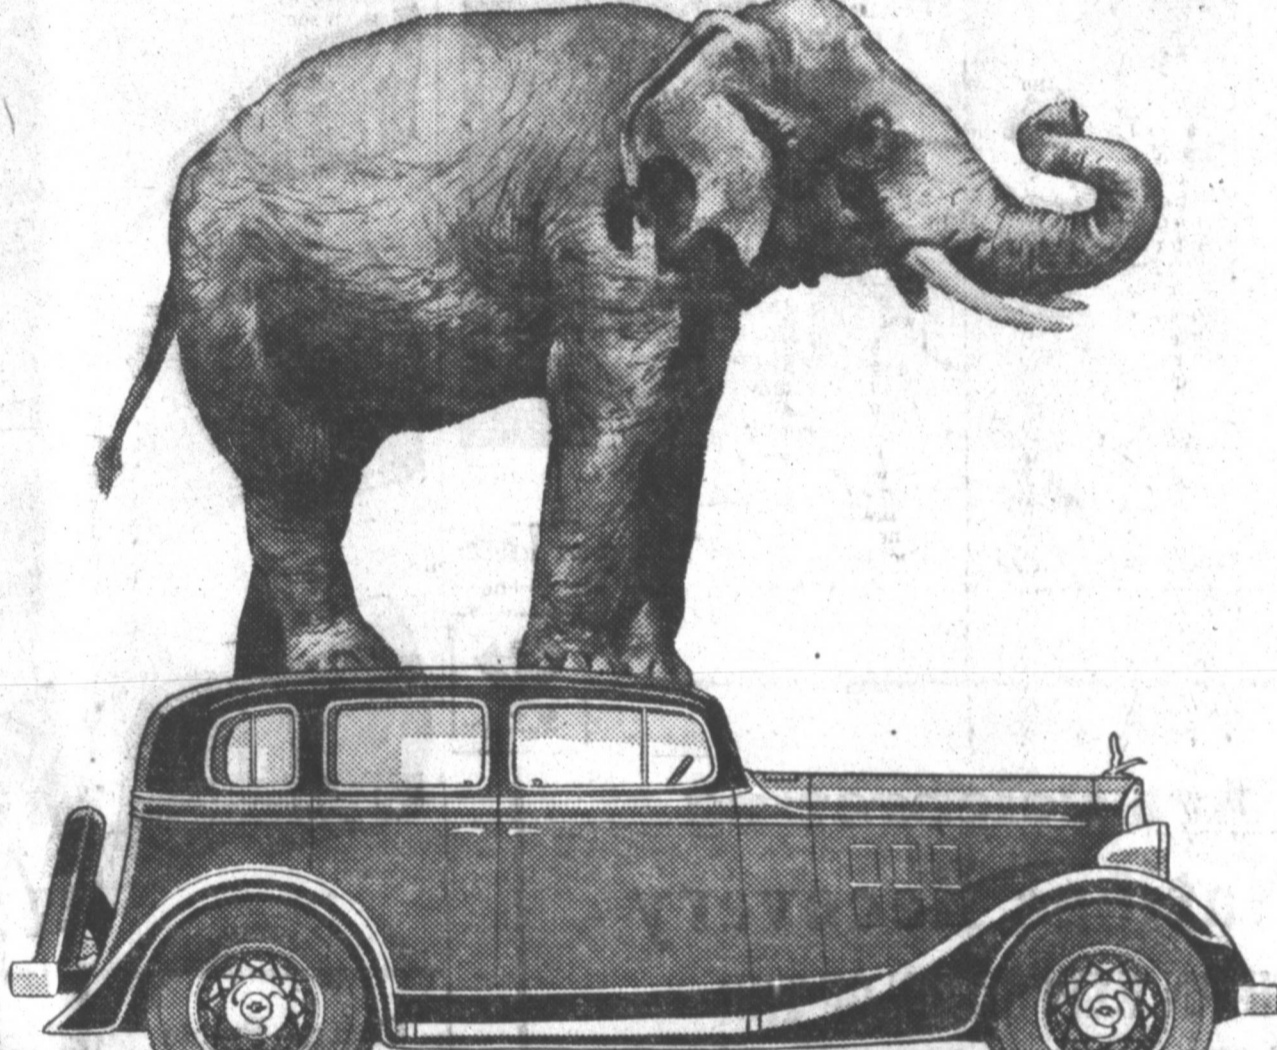

Late yesterday evening Hatfield and Roerts took 3 straight sets from Ketter and Webb. Cabot entries in the junior doubles. Games were 6-3, 6-2, 6-0. The winners used a hard serve with nice placement returns to defeat the Cabot boys who were badly off their game. Rev. Wondert is out of the city but should return tomorrow when he will team with Edwin Vicars to meet Hicks and Johnson to see which team will go into the finals in the senior division against Potts and McSkimming.

Welfare Chief Visits in City

Mrs. Violet Greenhill of Austin, chief of the child welfare organizations of the state, paid her first visit to Pampa yesterday to investigate some cases that have been reported to her department. She was accompanied by Mrs. Ray Callahan of Panhandle, chairman of the Carson County Child Welfare League.

Gray county does not have such an organization, but the Pampa Welfare Board does as much child welfare work as possible outside of its regular duties. Such an organization is being contemplated in this county.

Finals are urged to get together as soon as possible and set the hour and day next week they desire to play finals and where they wish to play. They should then notify The NEWS so that pairings can be published Sunday.

If your elephant wants to ride on top IT'S ALL RIGHT WITH A CHEVROLET

What a relief that sturdy body and those oversize brakes are. I won't have to worry a minute while you're on the way.

What gives you the biggest kick—its Starterator, Cushion-Balancing, Octane Selector, or its comfort and style?

Economy is first with me. Here's every-thing I want at a lower cost-per mile.

John, why bother with fixing that old car any more? I've just figured out how easy it is to meet the payments on a smart new Chevrolet.

WE didn't actually plan on elephants when we built the new Chevrolet. But we did choose bodies strong enough to support six tons of elephant, or anything else you can name... Fisher bodies... steel bodies plus a hardwood frame... the same type used on all 12 and 16-cylinder cars. Steel alone, is not enough to make you as safe as we want you to be in a Chevrolet. A steel body, welded into a solid wall of protection plus resilient hardwood reinforcing the steel from following its natural tendency to buckle under pressure, makes the sturdiest body of all—the kind used on the Chevrolet, and on no other low-priced car. Get all you pay for when you buy a car. Demand the super-safety of Fisher steel-plus-wood bodies.

MOST VALUABLE COLLECTION OF CONFEDERATE PAPERS OBTAINED BY TEXAS UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

AUSTIN, Aug. 24. (P)—By the action of the board of regents of the university of Texas has come into possession of what is regarded by private collectors and historical students as probably the richest collection of confederate papers.

The purchase was made from Dr. Friedrich Von David Antonio. The contract price was $1,000. Through this transaction, the regents scored a success over the library of congress and several private collectors who were ready to buy the papers if the university failed to take up the option previously secured by Regent H. J. Lutzer Stark.

150 Davis Telegrams The basis of the collection is a group of 150 or more telegrams and letters written and received by President Jefferson Davis in the course of the civil war; the majority bearing his endorsements and notations.

Among papers in the collection is a letter with pen and ink sketches describing a sub-water gun designed for the defense of the Mississippi against union gun boats with notations by Jefferson Davis and Secretary Mallon.

New Mexico-Texas War A large part of the documents have a direct bearing upon the part taken by Texas in the Civil War. A letter from President Davis dated June 7, 1862, to General Sibley, commander at San Antonio, refers to the assistance and bravery of Texas troops, and another from Davis to W. Porcher Miles, chairman of the military committee, house of representatives, C. S. A., requests an appropriation to build a railroad from Orange, Texas, to New Iberia, La. A printed broadside from the legislative assembly of New Mexico declaring war between that territory and the state of Texas, giving as a reason for hostilities the action of "Texas" in the confederacy is another document of historical value in the collection. It is the only copy of the broadside known to exist.

Enemy Alien Book Probably the most historically important document in the lot is the alien enemy book for twenty-one Texas counties compiled in the course of the civil war under the direction of John H. Reagan, postmaster-general of the confederacy. This "book" contains the names of "alien enemies" within the state with an ink drawing of the land they owned and abstract of the land from the original grant to the time of the writing, together with orders for confiscation of the land.

The collection contains also a group of biographies and autobiographies of confederate generals; a biography of Robert E. Lee written by his son, Robert E. Lee, Jr., together with many original letters from the Lee family; the galley proof of the biography of General Joseph Wheeler, corrected in red ink by General Wheeler himself; the manuscript biography of General S. M. Mosby, corrected by Mosby; the autobiography of General Samuel Gibbs French; a biography of J. E. B. Stuart, corrected by his wife; and a great many letters concerning these manuscripts, included in which are seven from the widow of Stonewall Jackson concerning the biography of her husband.

The Davis papers were found in the attic of a deserted farm house near a remote Mississippi village. Almost as interesting as their contents is the story of how these papers were located in a small trunk sealed and directed to Jefferson Davis.

Government To Balance Prices Paid For Milk

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24. (P)—The government is about to fix the price paid for the milk that is set on nearly every door-sill or porch in the country.

The plan so far is just tentative as to details and is being written by farm administration officials and dairymen. At most, the officials feel, the result should be an average increase in cost to the consumer of one cent a quart.

It would work this way: For the country as a whole, there would be a central milk agreement, covering all fluid milk and outlining policies and fair trade practices. Codes then would be drawn for each milk shed, each area producing and consuming its own milk. These would fix the farm, wholesale, and retail prices of milk.

If a majority of fluid milk producers and handlers accepted the blanket agreement, it and its supplementary codes would be effective on all. Individual areas, however, which held price adjustments necessary because of special conditions, would be allowed appeals.

If their appeals were convincing, the prices could be changed. Also included in the plan is the idea of limiting to 5 or 6 cents the difference between what the cow owner gets for his milk and what the drinker pays for it, thus restricting the middleman's profit, the "spread."

Some of the smallest communities, where the producer also distributes his milk, would be excluded. There is involved, likewise, a plan for controlling the amount of milk produced and sold. Without that, farm administrators say, the blanket and supplementary agreements would be no good, for the tendency toward over-supply, with consequent low prices, would be unchecked.

Tomlinson Dies While Working On Oil Lease

The body of P. H. Tomlinson, 44, will be taken overland to Era for burial at 10 o'clock Saturday morning after services in the chapel of the Stephenson Mortuary at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. C. A. Long, pastor of the First Methodist church, will conduct services here.

Mr. Tomlinson died yesterday morning a few minutes after he collapsed while at work on a Phillips Petroleum company well on the Joe Dan lease west of LeFors. Mr. Tomlinson had been with the company in this field since 1929. He came here first time in 1926 but was transferred the next year.

RUSSIAN WHEAT FIELDS POLICED BY HUNDRED THOUSAND CHILDREN

MOSCOW, Aug. 24. (P)—Approximately 100,000 children, ranging from kindergarten age to sixteen years, are being used for the harvest in North Caucasus, Ukraine and mid-Volga regions to "protect the socialist group."

The children, a Kharkov dispatch said today, are being organized by the communist political sections, which now exercise rigid control over all agriculture, into "light cavalry detachments."

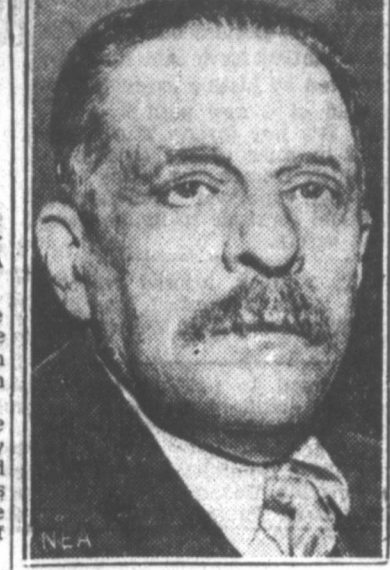

Both boys and girls are called on to watch sharply to prevent grain thefts and other depredations in these troublesome areas and also to retrieve grain left in the fields by the harvesters.

Thousands of them have built huts in which they live in the fields of the collective farms. They are fed by the government.

Virtually all of them are children of collective farmers belonging either to the old collective farms, the young pioneers or the young communists.

Twelve-year-old Dmitry Gordenko is credited with trapping three grain thieves in a collective field, and an eight-year-old girl, Anastasia Omelchenko, caused the arrest of a supposed kulak woman and whose home she saw a bucketful of grain.

Bradford May Be Victim No. 10 in Search For Mine

GLOBE, ARIZ., Aug. 24. (P)—J. A. Bradford may be victim No. 10 in the vain search of the wealth hungry for the lost Dutchman mine from which Jacob Walsz used to tote gold into Phoenix.

Bradford, former electrician for a copper company, went into the wasteland of rock nine months ago to search for the mine. At that time he wrote his daughter, Miss Merrill Bradford of Del Rio, Tex., of his plans for the trip. It was the last word she received from him.

Acting on her request, Lee Gilgore, Globe police chief, has inquired in vain for Bradford's whereabouts over a period of months. The Indians avoid the Superstition range, in which the mine is reported to be located, as though it were a pestilence. Two years ago Adolph Ruth, ninth listed victim of attempts to loot the Lost Dutchman of its treasure, was found dead of a bullet wound. He was a pensioned government employe from Washington.

When Walsz died the secret of his wealth died with him.

Custer Battle Site Might Be Bottom of Lake

CHEYENNE, Okla., Aug. 24. (P)—The site of General George A. Custer's victory over Chief Black Kettle, the first successful attempt to subdue the warlike Cheyenne, Arapaho and Sioux Indians, will be sunk beneath the waters of a 5,200-acre tract lake if the proposed Washita dam is built two and one-half miles west of here as part of the federal conservation and flood control program.

General Custer upset precedent by conducting a winter campaign against the Indians. A heavy snow storm was blowing from the north Nov. 27, 1868, as Custer's troops surprised and routed the Indian band. More than 100 warriors were killed and 53 squaws and children were taken captive. Eight hundred horses were killed. The bones of the animals later were hauled to Canadian, Texas, and sold for conversion into fertilizer.

Major Elliott and fifteen men were cut off from the main body of troops and killed. Black Kettle soon was reinforced and repulsed Custer's forces but Black Kettle himself was killed. Custer then withdrew to Fort Supply.

The Ladies Platoon club of Cheyenne last year placed a marble slab at the site of Custer's victory. The monument stands a few yards below the site of the proposed dam, which would flood the great salt plains and prove a bird and game refuge as well as flood control.

F. D. R. JUNIOR LIKES SPAIN'S BULL FIGHTS

BULL IS DEDICATED TO YOUNGEST SON OF PRESIDENT

(Editorial Note: Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., on a tour of Europe, spent two weeks in Spain. He was feted by governmental officials, saw several bull fights, and at two of them he was honored by having bulls dedicated to him. He records his impressions herewith for The Associated Press.)

BY FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT JR. (Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.) SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 24. (P)—I came to Spain with high expectations for a country whose history is so close to that of the United States, and especially Florida, California, and the border states. These expectations have been far more than realized.

I have been delighted with the charm and color of the Spanish country, and fascinated by the ancient cities. And I am more grateful than I can say for the uniform courtesy and kindness shown me here.

I am leaving with real regret, and my hope is to return next summer. I have known something of the customs and spectacles of the people, and have found them highly interesting and exciting.

From the magnificent history of the nation to its own particular spectacles, such as bull fighting, I have found myself completely enthralled. I consider the Spanish people my true friends, because I have found that their interests and mine have much in common.

Young Roosevelt talked with his father by telephone and was asked if he had fought many bulls in Spain. He replied, "No, only one—a little one."

Young Roosevelt returned to San Sebastian yesterday from Bilbao where he was the guest of honor at a bull fight in which some of Spain's most famous matadors took part. When a bull was dedicated to him, he rose to acknowledge the courtesy—considered a high honor in Spain—and the crowd cheered him heartily.

WASHINGTON WILL STOP TEXAS AID UNLESS BONDS ARE VOTED

PERSONS BEING GIVEN RELIEF TOTAL 750,000

FEDERAL RELIEF CHIEF URGES BOND BE APPROVED

AUSTIN, Aug. 24. (AP)—Addressing Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and others interested in the relief problem here last night, Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, said that unless Texas authorizes the issuance of bonds to augment government funds the state cannot expect a continuance of aid from Washington.

Explaining that there were approximately 150,000 families, or 750,000 persons, in Texas at this time receiving relief from the federal government, he declared that the government does not propose to let these persons "even half starve to death."

"We are prepared to see Texas through up to the date of the election next Saturday on a proposed $20,000,000 relief bond issue, but we do not have any intention of paying 95 per cent of the relief bill in Texas after that date," he said.

He explained that the government was willing to match Texas dollars on a basis of one-third of the amount necessary to tide the needy over the emergency period. He added that 25 states are now paying two-thirds of the relief bill.

The work of Lawrence Westbrook, director of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission, was complicated, and Hopkins said the government was willing to back him up to the limit. He said the relief administration in Texas "stacks up" with any in the United States.

Several hundred business men and county administrators from all parts of the state heard Hopkins outline the government's attitude toward the relief problem.

Sleeping Sickness Hits Miami, Okla.

MIAMI, OKLA., Aug. 24. (AP)—Two cases of encephalitis, sleeping sickness, were reported at Cardin, near the Oklahoma-Kansas line north of here, by Dr. J. C. Jacobs of Miami today.

Betty Jane Dye, one-year-old daughter of Floyd Dye, was reported in a coma after two weeks of illness. Dr. Jacobs was called and treatment began last Sunday.

Eye told Dr. Jacobs another child in the same neighborhood is similarly afflicted.

Physicians recalled several cases of encephalitis were found here following the influenza epidemic of world war days.

PATTON BELIEVES HE WILL BE ELECTED CONGRESSMAN IN '34

AUSTIN, Aug. 24. (AP)—State Senator Nat Patton is not downhearted over his defeat for congress in the seventh district recently when Clark W. Thompson of Galveston was chosen to fill the unexpired term of the late Clay Stone Briggs.

"I'll be elected for the long term next year sure as shooting," and the senator from Houston county, "eliminate the Galveston county vote and I would have been in for that unexpired term."

He pointed out that the congressional redistricting sanctioned by the legislature, placed Galveston county in the ninth district, now represented by Congressman J. J. Mansfield of Columbus, effective with the 1934 election.

Senator Patton believes that in the new district he will have easy sailing.

However, he is apt to meet some strong opposition in the person of George B. Terrell of Alto, one of three congressmen-at-large elected last year. Terrell's home is in the new seventh district. He either will be a candidate for congress from that district or quit Washington. No one believes he has tired of life at the national capitol. Political observers are speculating whether Terrell is as good a vote-gatherer in a congressional district as in the state at large. He was elected to the office of state commissioner of agriculture for several terms before he decided to ask for one of the three at-large seats in the national house.

William Strauss of Houston, chairman of the steering committee that seeks endorsement by the electorate of the $20,000,000 relief bond issue, boasts of his cotton-picking proclivities. He said he was almost a grown man before he laid aside the cotton-picking sack and deserted the farms in Austin county, his home section. He recalls, also, that once he was in the saloon business at Bellville. His business career has been varied. He never has been idle; always finding much to keep him busy.

A BIG PROBLEM
HOUSTON—Where elephants go when they die is no concern of Dr. J. Herbert Page, county health officer. What to do with their bodies is his problem.

"Come to south Houston and pick up a couple of elephants," a voice pleaded over the telephone.

"Are they pink?" queried the doctor.

"No, they're dead," the voice responded. So the doctor, perturbed no little, went to the suburb and found two dead elephants near the winter home of a circus.

Princess For a Week Now Seeks Marriage Voided

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP)—Dark-eyed Janet Snowden, heiress to oil millions, tearfully looked to the law today to undo her six-day marriage to an Italian prince—a marriage she calls "a mistake."

Less than a week after a whirlwind courtship culminated in the 19-year-old society girl's elopement and marriage to Prince Di Sirignano Don Francesco Caravita, the romance came to a sudden end yesterday.

Lugging their baggage, she and her maid went to Bachelor Girls' quarters in a hotel. She said, weeping:

"I admit it was all a mistake. I have left the prince and I shall not go back."

She said she would seek an annulment or, failing that, a divorce from her young husband, a noted Italian sportsman.

The separation resulted, the princess said, from her discovery that she did not love the prince; that theirs was not a "marriage for love."

MR. RAT—HIS MARK

NEW YORK—The rat that emerged from his hole in the Eighth avenue subway one night while the line was being constructed and scurried 51 feet along the platform didn't realize it, but he was leaving his footprints to posterity.

For the cement of the platform was newly-laid, and now scientists of the American Museum of natural history have prepared, more or less for fun, an article about this pseudo-geological record.

They found that the footprints, now hardened and immortal, are those of the ratus norvegicus—or just plain rat.

And from there he went over the Legion to Offer Special Train To World's Fair

AMARILLO, Aug. 24. (AP)—A trip to Chicago and return at an expense of only $5 a day is in prospect for American Legion members and their friends, as a result of arrangements made by Legionnaires who have the project in charge for the 18th District of Texas. New Mexico and Oklahoma Legionnaires are heartily invited to join the excursion and take advantage of the low rates secured.

The plans call for a special train at the time of the national convention, Oct. 1 to 3. The trip will last eight days, seven days and six nights of which will be spent in Chicago. This allows ample time for the Century of Progress exposition, Oct. 1 and 3. The trip will last as attendance at the convention entertainments. Railroad fare; hotel bill in Chicago, except meals and incidentals, steamer cruise on Lake Michigan and scores of entertainment events are included in the round trip price of $40.85 from Amarillo. Passengers boarding the train north of this city will pay slightly less. Those living south and west on the Santa Fe pay but slightly more, ride the regular trains into Amarillo and join the special here.

The advantages of this low price all-expense tour are open to the general public, except for the Legion convention entertainments, which are restricted to paid-up Legionnaires and auxiliary members.

Full information concerning the trip may be obtained by writing the Legion Train Committee, P. O. Box 1472, Amarillo, Texas. (Rate from Pampa, $39.80.)

NEW DANGER IN KISSES
CHICAGO—Besides all the germs which scientists have said may be transmitted by kissing, cosmeticians were told of a new peril in osculation. It's hay fever. The danger lies in some of the face powders which women use. But the belief was expressed that strong men would continue to ignore danger—as before.

W. T. Moseley, injured recently when a truck overturned, was dismissed Wednesday from Worley hospital.
