ROOSEVELT AND THE BIBLE: "I am glad to include myself among the many who know the peace which comes to those who turn to the Bible for help. It is a fountain of strength—a source from which never ending comfort may be obtained."—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Sept. 18, 1933.

LOVE DEFRAUDS NOT: Owe no man anything, but to love one another. Thou shalt not steal. Thou shalt not covet. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. Romans 13:8, 9.

MANY a man, running for re-election, would like to change his name until after the vote. A lawmaker must stand or fall on his laws. If a law bears his name, he cannot live it down, if it was wrong, because his name constantly recalls the law.

Senator Clint C. Small has no such handicap when the "Small land bills" are mentioned. Not only in West Texas, where the land was situated, but throughout the state are the principles involved regarded as just and right. Small has become a man of statewide stature. Indeed, his following has increased rather than diminished since his last gubernatorial effort.

Making no rash promises, but advocating a reasonable program which reasonably can be enacted—a program devoid of prejudice and trouble-causing hatreds—Senator Small is the man to support if you believe that Texas needs a harmonious, constructive administration. He is not a one-issue man.

Clint Small will not get every vote in West Texas, but he will get a majority of them. Peculiarly, there is always a hero-worshiping crowd which seldom can keep the same hero through two campaigns. Small "wears well" with the great majority of citizens who do not change their minds every week, who are not dominated by some prejudice-of-the-moment.

What commends Clint Small to the people more than anything else is that he has been able to deliver what his people needed. He has been a positive, powerful force not only in the senate but throughout the Texas official family. Making few promises, he keeps them if it is humanly possible and he is alert to do what needs to be done, regardless of promises. He knows when to compromise and when not to yield. But he gets the work done.

This is in vivid contrast with the customary mode of procedure, which is to beat the bushes with impossible promises and then to be unable to deliver. If all the promises of the Fergusons had been kept, every man would have a job, debts would be easy, taxes light, and big business would be run out of Austin. But the governor cannot do these things unless he has the cooperation of the legislature. He cannot do them if he promises the people one thing and favored interests another.

Senator Small is gaining strength so rapidly that the other candidates are beginning to train their guns on him. That is unmistakable evidence that he has a very good chance.

SOMEONE sang out in our hearing that "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon the Railroad Commission." Somewhat lamentably, it is so. The commission has, in the main, been fair enough with this section. But it has long been obvious that members of the commission have too much interest themselves in personal politics. Their employes constitute, in result at least, a political organization which can be called into action prior to every election. No special alarm was felt—except by their political opponents—until internal dissension brought out the facts.

When political favoritism is made the basis of employment, it is natural that each commissioner should think his favorites efficient and others inefficient. The future of the moment, however, reflects more upon members of the commission than upon the plan of operation. It is deplorable that such a storm should break just as many of us favoring the principle of industrial regulation by a state commission rather than a federal commission or dictator. Current developments have not changed our view of federal control, but we do think it is time for the Texas commission to dethrone politics and install a civil service basis for employment. Especially do we believe that salaries of commission employes should be high enough to attract and keep capable men.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, June 23.—With trading for a Saturday session the dustiest in early ten years, stocks made a gesture toward recovery today but failed to match the exuberant rally of the grain market.

After four days of declining prices, the share market met sufficient support at the week-end to lift prices of leading issues fractionally to more than 2 points.

Volume on the stock exchange during the two hours of trading totaled only 233,350 shares, the smallest turnover recorded for a like session since September 13, 1924.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, June 23.—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade at midwestern markets this week was less active, but at most centers the market portion of last week's sharp advance was maintained. Strictly good and choice steers and yearlings held fully steady with instances of 25 upturn. Chicago reported a new high for the season of 10.35 on strong yearlings. The receipts estimated at 213,000 includes 39,500 drought cattle purchased by the government and to be processed by the packers. Around 13,000 calves were also received from drought areas.

Current quotations on hogs although slightly lower than the week's highest, top are 25-50 higher than a week ago. Chicago today had a nominal top of 5.15.

Fat lambs and yearlings at most markets are firm to as much as 50 higher than last Saturday, while aged sheep are unevenly steady to 25 higher.

Political Rally Slayers Indicted

RIO GRANDE CITY, June 23.—(AP)—Bulatio Elizondo and Jose Cantu today were indicted by the 79th district court grand jury for the slayings of Pablo Soils and David Gomez at a bloody political rally held here May 30.

Both Elizondo and Cantu were arrested late today and released shortly afterwards on $1000 bonds, signed by prominent local citizens.

The men will be arraigned before Judge Hood Boone next Monday at which time the cases will be set. It is likely, court officials said, that the trial will be held during the last three weeks of the current court term.

The killings occurred during a political rally held by the forces supporting F. W. Seabury of Brownsville for state senator against Archie Parr—choice of the Guerra faction, long rulers of Starr county politics.

All four of the men involved in the bloodshed were members of related families. A feud had existed for many years and the flame was fanned by political activities. The two slain men sympathized with the Seabury forces while the men named as the slayers are county peace officers.

As more drilling takes place in the area the limits of the productive horizon will be better defined and there is a possibility of the area getting a good pay. The Phillips deep test is not far from the Shamrock well.

WILDCAT WELLS.

Humble's No. 1 Smith in north-west Childress county has finished a Halliburton sand test at 3,780 where it had 14 joints of salt water about 420 feet. This was correlated with the salt water sand in the Anderson well about 15 miles south of the Humble well, drilled several years ago. They plan a Halliburton sand test on every sand that is encountered.

The wildcat well southeast of Amarillo has just set its 6 5/8 pipe at 5,069. The well is now finished to drill to 6,000 or 7,000 feet.

FEAR OF FILIBUSTER KEPT OIL CONTROL BILL COVERED

By HERBERT PLUMMER.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—There's more back of why the seventy-third congress refused to enact the administration-supported oil production control bill than appeared on the surface.

During the latter part of May, President Roosevelt made the direct request that the measure sponsored in the senate by Thomas of Oklahoma and in the house by Disney of the same state be passed.

Mr. Roosevelt was "frankly fearful" of a "collapse of the whole industry" unless the present laws were strengthened. Secretary Ickes, administrator for the petroleum industry, was even more alarmed than the president.

Despite these entreaties, however, after a short-lived flurry of activity the congress adjourned with the proposed legislation buried far down on the calendar.

The truth of the matter is that word was passed around privately that any attempt to force passage of the measure at the session just concluded would precipitate a filibuster in the senate of tremendous proportions.

It was estimated that at least 15 members of the senate were prepared to stage a talkfest in opposition to the bill.

House leaders hearing this decided they might as well put on the brakes on that side of the capital. It would have been futile, they agreed, to go ahead and pass the bill only to have it talked to death later.

At the time pressure was applied in behalf of the measure, the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce which considered the bill was up to its neck in work.

The stock market control act and the far-reaching communications bill—two of the most technical pieces of legislation enacted in the session—were still in the formative stage. This committee, headed by Rayburn of Texas, had the reputation of being perhaps the most thorough in the house.

Getting Together Hard.

It simply refused to report out a bill until it had been explored exhaustively. The result was that it enjoyed the best legislative record in the house. Both the stock market and communications measures went sailing through the house without amendments and with maximum speed.

Inability of representatives of the oil industry to get together on what they wanted also had its effect. What hearings were held made it apparent that everybody was all but ready to fly at each other's throats. Even the oil administration seemed as hazy as to what was actually needed.

So the whole affair was quietly sidetracked. It will be only six months until congress meets again, the congressional bosses decided. Perhaps by that time there can be a meeting of minds.

Ickes Makes Two Moves To Stop Texas Hot Oil

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—Two major moves to stabilize the $12,000,000,000 oil industry were made today by Secretary Ickes.

Seeking to dam the flood of Petroleum produced illegally in the vast East Texas field, Ickes, as oil administrator, approved plans by which major companies will purchase surplus gasoline held in storage by East Texas refiners in return for an agreement by the latter that they will not handle illegal crude.

Ickes shortly afterward signed the Pacific Coast Petroleum agency agreement intended to remedy crude overproduction, reduce surplus gasoline stocks and abolish dumping of gasoline at low prices. This agreement applies to California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Arizona.

The plan for East Texas was worked out by the oil administration. Its proponents hope it will lead to an effective curb on production of "hot oil" throughout the nation.

East Texas production in excess of quotas under the oil code, they say, stimulates a flow of "hot oil" in other states. Recent estimates have placed at around 100,000 barrels daily the amount from the flush East Texas area.

EIGHT AGE OF COUNTRY HAD MANY FEARS

MRS. ROOSEVELT MAKES HELPFUL STUDY OF THE PAST

BY ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

During a political campaign not long ago a candidate read a letter in the course of one of his speeches, without stating to whom it had been written. The audience, of course, inferred that it was addressed to the speaker but when he came to the end of the letter he remarked, "Ladies and gentlemen, this letter—the subject of which is religious tolerance—was written to George Washington!"

As we go back over the history of our Republic we are impressed by the fact that the fears and apprehensions of men in public life have been much the same from the beginning. Opponents were apt to remark that should the other's principles and plans prevail the country would be lost! Over and over again occurred the phrase, "We are in danger of doing away with the Constitution." Hamilton was sure Jefferson would ruin the country and Jefferson was equally certain that Hamilton's theories spelled doom to the youthful nation!

There is just one thing that seems to have changed—our public morals are really better than they were. When Hamilton, seeking to establish the credit of the United States, proposed to buy up all the certificates which had been given to the soldiers who had fought in the Revolution—because the paper was considered more or less worthless, his closest advisers sitting in congress did not hesitate to charter two swift sailing vessels and send their agents down to the Carolinas and Georgia to buy up these certificates from the soldiers. The veterans thought them valueless and they were acquired at a mere percentage of the value set by Hamilton in his government plan, and so the congressional financiers made huge sums of money! Such practices would hardly be tolerated today, though I am not quite sure that this means a fundamental change in human nature. But any gentleman in public life today—even though they might have the same desires as had our Hamiltonian congressmen—would never actually attempt to carry them out because they would know that there are certain things they dare

HOME STUDY FOR LEADERS IS STRESSED

PARENT-TEACHER AIMS INCLUDE COURSES FOR ADULTS

By MRS. JOHN M. FOX
Wichita Falls, State Publicity Director

No organization is any better than its trained leadership.

One of the most important key foundation stones in the educative program of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers is the constant instruction of both lay and leader membership in the ideals, objectives, accomplishments and ethics of the only organization in the world working solely for the manifold betterment of child welfare in all of its phases. A home study course embodying six comprehensive lessons taking up in detail the unique educational program which, in an organized form, is followed by the upward of two thousand units in Texas, is being eagerly absorbed by a membership which desires to be informed and by a leadership which realizes the vital need of training.

A total of 3,209 students, both fathers and mothers, and a great many teachers in the Lone Star state, have taken advantage of this opportunity to learn more about the machinery of parent-teacher work, and the constructive help that is being given in the smallest of the largest communities. Childhood, in its relationship to the man-made world in which it is called upon to live, is being studied intensively more and more.

Mrs. Edgar D. Johnson of San Antonio, chairman of the home study course for Texas, has some interesting data to relate on the growth of this most important part of parent-teacher activities.

"Let's go to school," was the challenge thrown down by Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, then educational secretary of the Texas branch, and later national president of the organization of over a million and a half members, in 1927," says Mrs. Johnson. "The first to register in the state in answer to the call were Mrs. R. W. Robbins of Athens, Mrs. Frank Cox of Houston and Mrs. J. E. Kendrick of Amarillo. Growth was continuous thereafter. A total of 464 members were graduated in the course in 1933 and for the current year of date 675 have completed the work, which has been such a prime factor in the success of the parent-teacher movement in our state."

Lessons are mailed to Mrs. Johnson, 1219 Avant avenue, San Antonio, graded, and marked before they are returned to the student.

McLean Club to Send Delegate To College Soon

McLEAN, June 23.—Mrs. C. E. Hunt was hostess to the Home Demonstration club Wednesday, when Miss Ruby Adams gave a demonstration on bread-making.

"If one will use a piece of ducking on a rolling board and a size six white cotton ribbed sock on the rolling pin the dough is less apt to stick and not nearly so much flour will be worked into the dough," said Miss Adams.

From the plain roll dough recipe were made knots, twists, clover leaves, crescents, braids, butter Scotch rolls, parker house rolls, plain rolls, Swedish tea rings, and cinnamon rolls.

Parker house rolls recipe: One-half cup scalded milk, 2 tablespoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon fat, one-fourth to one-half compressed yeast cake, 1 cup flour. Knead dough quickly and lightly, turning one quarter way around every 30 seconds for about ten minutes, adding a little flour until the dough has become smooth.

Miss Adams was presented the quilt she won June 9. The club made $21.70 on the quilt, and this sum will be used to send a delegate to the short course at Texas A. & M. college in July.

A covered dish luncheon was served at noon to the following members and visitors: Mmes John B. Vannoy, W. R. Wise, A. E. Stafford, J. H. Waite, E. J. Getting, C. M. Eudy, Norman Johnston, C. T. O'Neal, Walter Smith, Leslie Jones, C. C. Dalton, J. C. Payne, N. H. Greer, A. A. Tampie, F. E. Hamberger, Miss Adams and Miss Clara Pearl Gatlin.

TWO HUNDRED WOMEN ENTER DRESS EVENT

WINNERS ANNOUNCED IN ALL DIVISIONS OF CONTEST

Two hundred Home Demonstration club women, 4-H club girls, and guests of Gray county participated in a clothing contest that was held at the First Christian church all day Friday. Miss Ruby Adams, county home demonstrator, was in charge. This was the largest contest ever staged in this county.

The outstanding contest of the day was that conducted for the wardrobe demonstrators. Each entry presented excellent records and made very high grades.

In the first group, those who have kept records of individual expenditures and passed on to others all the clothing information given by the demonstrators and extension service, Mrs. M. B. Cude, Kingmill, won first; Mrs. E. A. Shackleton, Priscilla club, second, and Mrs. J. H. Rickard, Busy Bee club, third.

Other entries in this division were Mmes. Harry Britten, Bluebonnet club; J. H. Wade, McLean; and Miss Faye Davis, Hopkins. In the second division, those who have kept records of each individual in the family throughout a period of years, Mrs. G. P. Bradbury of Bell won first place, Mrs. Ira Spearman, Priscilla club, second, and Mrs. M. L. Roberts, Hopkins, placed third. Mmes. M. G. King, Beck, and W. R. Wise, McLean, were the other entries.

In the girls' dress division, Rita Ruth Davis of the Schaffer club won first, and Helen Morehead, Sunshine club, second in the first-year division. For the second-year division, Margaret and Buri Allison of the Sunshine club placed first and second respectively. Opal Finnell of Hopkins won first in the third-year division. The list for the cooperators division was incomplete.

In individual prizes for the co-operators division were not awarded this year, but ribbons were given for the three best garments in each division. Club prizes were awarded by the number of ribbons each individual club member won, the number of members who came to the contest, and the number who brought non-club women as visitors. The Priscilla club won first place with 3,066 points. Thirteen of their fifteen members were present, nine entered the clothing contest, each woman present brought a guest, and they received four first places in the exhibits, two seconds, and one third. They were awarded $10 in cash by the Pampa Hardware company toward the A. & M. college short course to be held the fourth week in July. The McLean club was awarded 100 tin cans by the Johnson Hardware company for winning second place with 1,900 points. Eight of the ten members were present, six entered the contest, more than eight visitors were present, and won one first, one second, and one third place. The Busy Bee club placed third with 1,677 scored points. All 11 members were present, five entered the contest, there were more than 11 guests present, and they received three third places. A refrigerator set was given them by the Thompson Hardware company.

The morning was spent in scoring the entries. Miss Ruby Mastburn, district home demonstration agent from College Station, scored the wardrobe demonstrators. Mrs. Sadie Oliver, Hemphill county home demonstrator, placed Mrs. Lorne Addison, ex-home demonstrator of Canadian, scored the cooperators and the club girls.

About 200 girls and women attended the banquet at noon. Many of the women who had completed dresses for entry were kept at home because of harvest or illness.

To begin the afternoon program Mrs. Layne Addison conducted a sing-song. Mrs. Irving Cole favored the group with several piano selections. Mrs. Philip Wolfe sang two vocal solos. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips' two small boys played guitar selections and Mrs. Weekley gave a reading. Miss Ruby Mastburn announced the demonstrators results. Mrs. Addison reported the cooperators scores, and Miss Ruby Adams awarded the club prizes.

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

Chapter 50
DESPERATE WOMAN

Harper was asking himself how it was possible that this modish beauty could be thrice a murderer—Aline Croymen was asking herself how much of her story this Sergeant of Detectives had guessed.

"I have been eavesdropping, Mr. Harper," she announced simply, as one who puts Q. E. D. at the end of a demonstration in geometry.

Harper relaxed, the tenseness easing from muscles instinctively braced against the possible impact of flying steel. The woman was sane and collected, at all events. But her right hand was still invisible, and there was no sign of wavering in the set lines of her mouth or the look in her eyes.

Aline Croymen noticed this fugitive lapse of attention. "Please don't try anything heroic," she spoke through tight lips. "Sit down—over there."

Harper, with an air of casualness, took the chair she indicated. "This is very dramatic, but quite useless, you know," he objected.

Her eyes burned at him, suddenly alive. "I had to be sure," she shivered a little. "As soon as I saw your face—"

The detective leaned forward. "Mrs. Croymen, let us talk this situation over quietly between ourselves. Gun-waving is out of place at this stage. There must have been some terrible driving power that forced you to such lengths. Only you can state what that is. Joseph Donaghy's part in it I can guess, but the other—"

"I did not come here to talk. I felt you getting closer to the solution, and I had to see if you really knew. You forced my hand by going after my sister and Pierre. They have nothing to do with this matter, and at least I can have the final decency to shoulder my own burdens. And for your own safety let me repeat your warning to Joseph Donaghy—you can have a person only once. Remember that and act accordingly."

"Have you a gun in your pocket?"

Harper shook his head. "I carry one only on special occasions. You may search me if you like," he added, half rising from the chair.

"Sit still! If you move or make a noise I'll shoot!" There was no mistaking the steely ring of that voice.

"Come, now," Harper protested. "Even if I had a gun in my pocket I wouldn't try to beat you to the draw. That isn't necessary. You can't bluff me, Mrs. Croymen. You're the one in the dangerous spot, and you can't shoot your way out of it this time. My advice is to give in gracefully."

"I shall escape," she replied confidently. "Do you suppose I would plan everything else and not arrange for that? Everything is ready."

Harper shook his head again. "You can't get away. If you shoot at me you'll not get out of this house, perhaps not out of this room. And suppose you did escape temporarily? Where could you go? To whom could you turn?"

"The full machinery of the law would be turned to tracking you down. You would be a marked woman wherever you went. You couldn't even find a refuge in the lowest slums or the underworld. They'd give you up in a minute. At most, a few days of terror and flight, and you'd be run down like a rabbit hunted by dogs."

"We'll not argue that point," the mask-like face turned to him, with its set lines, the shadows un-found Donaghy, and there was the same kind of mark.

"That labeled it at once as another murder, in spite of the typed confession, the nature of the wound and the recovered articles. That ingenious excuse for the absence of the blackmail money Donaghy had was suspicious too, for we know he had not been away from his room last night."

"Thanks for the advice." She drew herself together, slowly pulled the ring from her finger, and deliberately placed it on the table. "This has betrayed me once, it would be dangerous to wear it any longer, wouldn't it? See that it gets back safely to my husband," she said steadily, and tell him I'm sorry for all the trouble I've caused."

"But, Mrs. Croymen, you can't go away like this, simply saying nothing in your own defense. There must be reasons, explanations, you can give. You owe it to yourself to present your side of the story. Surely Officer Hamill had done nothing to warrant his death?"

Aline Croymen winced from that name as from a blow. "That is the real burden on my conscience," she whispered. "I lost my head—I went crazy—I saw the whole perfect plan I had designed destroyed by that one blind chance. That was murder, but those other two, they flashed with sudden anger blinding in her shadowed eyes. That was only justice. I have not a single regret. I had to use what weapons I could against them."

Harper lowered his voice. "Mrs. Croymen, who was H.D. really?"

"Neither you, nor any one, shall ever know that," she answered bitterly. "Let him lie in the morgue. Let him go to a Potters' Field. I'll never tell. It's the best he deserves. No one will ever come forward to claim him, alive or dead!"

"I am not prying. I'm merely trying to understand your story, Mrs. Croymen." Sergeant Harper said with simple dignity.

"Then I'll help you to understand," she flamed. "I have never been happy in my marriage. It is true that I had an affair with that man. As I look back now, I hardly know how it began, except that I met him at a time when I was unhappy and starved for excitement." She stopped, staring blankly at the detective. "I soon found I had fallen into the hands of a beast. I came to hate him. I tried to break away."

The case, tomorrow, takes a startling turn.

not get caught doing, or the people would not return them to office.

During a political campaign such as this, today as were said in the early days and even the personal things which have so little bearing on the real issues are still whispered if not stated openly. The opposition conducted a personal campaign against Washington and against Jefferson and, of course, we all know that Lincoln had around him as his closest advisers men who, both behind his back and to his face, made fun of him and often tried to prevent the fruition of his plans. As for Johnson, nothing better than the following quotation can describe the attitude of Congress toward him— "A few days before the opening of congress the opposition began pouring into Washington. Schuyler, Colfax, speaker of the house, addressed the crowd gathered in front of his lodgings. Roundly scoring the administration for its entire program, he served notice that henceforth congress and not the white house would formulate policies."

I think, on the whole, our public servants and officials of today try to live up to a standard of ethics which requires them to fulfill their pledges they have made and if they have endorsed certain party measures it goes hard with them if they repudiate them unless they can prove to their constituents that they have acted in their interests.

Such occurrences as the summoning by a member of the cabinet of a representative, warning him against the president and then proposing a law to deprive the president of his power as commander in chief, as was once done in our history, seems incredible today and certainly no senator who went back on his pledged vote could face his constituents on his next visit home. While I can imagine many diaries of today containing unkind things about lobbyists and picking out some vulnerable spots amongst certain characters in Washington at present, I doubt if anywhere there could be found such entries as the following: "The house of Jay Cooke in Washington in 1865-6 and the signs of bribery were indeed disquieting."

It is indeed amusing that as far back as 1866 we can find a cry raised against radicals, speculators and lobbyists and John Bigelow records his utter astonishment at the insatiation of certain congressmen of opposite political faith when a message from the president was read to congress. I feel sure that many of the frequenters of the galleries today are shocked by the insatiation of members of congress to the most urgent order of business and to the speeches of their friends on vitally interesting subjects.

Over and over again, in the days before we had begun to toddle, it was said that the country was going to the devil and periodically ever since it has been going to the devil, according to someone's idea. There has never been a time when there was not some scandal about public men and the same fears about too great an aristocrat or too great a radical.

The gist of all this is that when you sit down and read some of the most depressing statements of today, just remember that it has all been said before and that somehow or other these leaders of ours have brought us through one crisis after another, discredited though they were in their own generation. We think of them now as pretty fine people and therefore let us hope that we may pull through our present difficulties and the record of history may not be as bad as our daily readings might lead us to believe.

PARKER GETS POSITION ON OIL COUNCIL

OUSTED OFFICIAL WILL WORK FOR FOES OF HOT OIL

AUSTIN, June 23. (AP)—R. D. Parker, for years chief of the oil and gas division of the Texas railroad commission, has re-entered the oil proration enforcement field as advisor of the Texas petroleum council, a volunteer organization working to curb hot oil production.

Parker recently severed his connection with the state conservation agency following a controversy with the commission. Shortly after Parker resigned, as chief of the east Texas staff, Commissioners E. O. Thompson and C. V. Terrell signed an order dismissing him from the commission's service.

John E. Kilgore, general attorney for the Texas petroleum council, and Parker were en route to Washington today for a series of conferences with federal officials to discuss regulations to govern collection of the federal production tax or one-tenth of a cent per barrel on oil.

Farms for collection of the tax were expected to provide another method by which authorities hoped to maintain a more complete check on the production, transportation and sale of oil.

The internal revenue bureau probably will send a force of men into the east Texas field to enforce the tax, the council announced. Both the state and federal oil administrators maintain sizeable staffs in the area.

HAIR DYEING

EL PASO, June 23. (P)—Mrs. Sibyl Fidanque, who disappeared from her San Jose, Calif., home June 16 and was found here today, may be detained while officers investigate further her story of being kidnaped, Sheriff Chris F. Fox said today.

Jack Fidanque, 19, the woman's son, who arrived here this afternoon, asked Sheriff Fox that he be allowed to return his mother to their home tonight, but definite permission was refused.

Fox was to confer with J. A. Street, department of justice agent, before releasing Mrs. Fidanque.

Young Fidanque, a musician, was questioned by Fox this afternoon. Mrs. Fidanque drew $30 from their bank the morning she disappeared, he said.

"I know my mother would not run away with anyone," he asserted. "She and my father always get along perfectly. They never have heard them quarrel. They became separated only because it was necessary that she go to a colder climate for her health."

The family had no financial worries, said young Fidanque. His father, a steamship agent in the Canal zone, always had been generous to furnishing them with all the cash they needed, he declared.

Mrs. Fidanque, returned to the El Paso county jail after having spent last night in the home of Chief Deputy Sheriff Harry Wiley, of having been kidnaped, came to a beauty parlor here last Monday unaccompanied and had her jet-black hair dyed red.

Police Chief Clarence Webb said Eva Schurr, operator in a beauty parlor, identified photographs of Mrs. Fidanque as those of the woman whose hair she dyed. Then Basil Maduro of Los Angeles, who police said was a brother of Mrs. Fidanque, talked to Miss Schurr and said he was convinced the woman she described was his sister, Chief Webb said.

Mrs. S. V. Altman of Kansas City, Mo., is visiting her twin sister, Mrs. A. L. McLaurine, of 219 North Ballou street. Mrs. Altman and Mrs. McLaurine were married in a double ceremony in 1911. This is Mrs. Altman's first trip to Texas since 1919. Her daughter, Mrs. Harry Parker, and Mrs. Lovell Campbell, also of Kansas City, are guests here.

ces and costs plus a reasonable return. There will then be far less profit in war than in peace.

"By parallel planning, there must be control over all prices, goods, foods, rents, wages, services; in short, of all activities that yield a profit. All must be denied in the right to enjoy a joy-ride at the expense of the nation. Control of dollars must be made applicable to the entire citizenship regardless of their classification."

Economic War on New
Baruch emphasized that he thought the last war was profitable to no individuals and no nations. He said the war's aftermath had revealed that conquered and conquerors have all lost through the economic upheaval it caused.

"It is not generally realized," Baruch said, "how embattled the world is except for men under arms and their respective holdings. Armaments of the world is as great an armed camp as it was in the world war. Each government site behind a bristling fortress equipped with terrible economic weapons of destruction, instead of mere guns.

"National economies are more highly organized than ever before, they have their tariffs; their quotas of imports and exports; capital limited in its operations; currencies debilitated; exchange controlled; debts repudiated; agricultural production restricted; business methods organized under governmental sanction.

"Airplanes and navies are being increased and from some far distant places we can fairly hear the tramp of increasingly greater masses of men under arms. We must be ready when that dreaded day comes to meet it."

Today's action was a climax to a series of events which began last March when opponents of Langer engineered a split in the Non-Partisan league, a republican faction.

Langer's conviction with four others a week ago in the foreground of the developments which came at the height of the campaign for the state primary election Wednesday, two days before the chief executive state board is to appear for sentence. He faced a sentence ranging up to two years imprisonment on $10,000 fine or both.

In a statement announcing their position, the revolting officers, several of them serving with Langer on the chief executive state board, said they believed the governor's conviction automatically disqualified him from holding office. His opponents were Lieutenant Governor Olson, John Husby, commissioner of Agriculture and labor; Robert Byrne, secretary of state; Alfred Dale, state treasurer; S. C. Okoniewski, state insurance commissioner; and Fay Harding and C. W. McDonnell, members of the state railroad commission.

In a statement the six expressed fear that acts performed in conjunction with Langer might be illegal and declined to "endorse" in any of his executive acts in which he is a party until the courts have clarified "the question of his right to hold office."

Hedley Man, 73, And Woman Wed After 53 Years

MONETT, Mo., June 23. (AP)—A man and woman who wed after 53 years of marriage today were engaged to be married fifty-three years ago but drifted apart, saw their youthful dreams come true when they were married Thursday evening at Purdy.

They were W. J. O'Neil, 73 years old, of Hedley, Tex., and Mrs. J. W. Henderson, 72, living on a farm southeast of here.

When a young man, O'Neil became engaged to Mary Marbut and went to Texas to make a home for his intended bride. Scarcity of work and small wages made the quest a futile one, and after several months of waiting the couple broke their engagement.

For many years the couple became lost to each other. During those years both had married and their respective mates had died. Miss Marbut became the wife of Mr. Henderson, who died ten years ago. O'Neil's wife died two years ago.

The former sweethearts were brought together by friends and relatives. O'Neil came to Monett about two months ago to visit relatives, en route to Arizona to visit his children. While here he heard that his former sweetheart was a widow.

The couple were married by the brother of Mrs. O'Neil's first husband, the Rev. Calvin Henderson of Purdy.

Old, but still sweethearts, the couple will make their home on Mrs. O'Neil's farm. They were both reared in the Monett community and it was here the romance of a half a century ago was begun as was the one which culminated in their marriage fifty-three years later.

General Business Level Is Higher

NEW YORK, June 23. (P)—Business continues to show a trend toward recovery in spite of seasonal influences, Dun & Bradstreet said today in their weekly trade review.

The review asserted that the slow broadening process in evidence since the first of the year has removed the isolated peaks that left the general level higher than it was at that time.

"Early estimates of fall distribution," said the agency, "are running from 15 to 25 per cent above the 1933 figures, as the government seemed determined to permit no relapse in trade movements, and few plans are to be disclosed shortly may result in a more liberal upward revision of this percentage."

Both from an industrial and commercial standpoint the reports received from all parts of the country this week depict the situation as continuing favorable, with only minor seasonal declines noticeable as yet.

"If anything the contrary prevails, and improvement would be more general, if it were not for labor difficulties, both actual and threatening in a number of districts."

HOME RULE IN TEXAS FIELD IS ANNOUNCED

THOMPSON OUTLINES A PLAN TO CURB HOT OIL

DALLAS, June 23. (P)—E. O. Thompson, member of the state railroad commission, announced tonight that home rule of the East Texas oil field had been instituted by the appointment of three bankers of that area to assist in control of "hot oil."

He said Tucker Royall of Palestine, R. W. Fair of Tyler and Walter P. Moore of Overton had been designated as a "tender committee" to sit with Capt. E. N. Stanley, chief proration enforcement officer in the field, and inspect records and other data.

The committee will have the power, he said, to refuse the right of pipeline companies to move any oil out of the field without its approval and may refuse admission of oil to any East Texas or other refinery, which it considers illegal.

In addition, the group of bankers was authorized to report for dismissal any inefficient or dishonest employee of the state railroad commission in the area, to act as independent investigators of the cause and remedy for hot oil and to make broad recommendations to the commission concerning ways of conserving the field in the interest of producers.

Thompson said the commission had made no plans for a shutdown of the giant producing area but said that for some months the body was planning for a "voluntary test" for the thousands of wells, "at a time when it will cause the least inconvenience."

Thompson expressed optimism over the outlook for the East Texas industry in the future and said that for the first time federal and state forces, as well as elements of the field interested in conservation, had started working together.

"I desire all Texas and the national oil administration to watch the bi-monthly figures from Texas," he said. "I am asking for 50 federal inspectors to assist us because of our small operating fund and because the federal government through direct taxes on oil is taking from Texas three times as much to police and supervise the oil business as our own commission is getting in revenue for the same job. The least I can expect is 50 part federal employes to help us out."

Police Study Plan To Kidnap New Mexico Boy

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 23. (P)—A reported plot to kidnap Bruno Hebenstreit, 16-year-old son of A. R. Hebenstreit, wealthy president of the New Mexico Construction company, for $50,000 ransom was being studied Saturday by police and department of justice officials.

The purported plot, also involving that of a plan to establish a racketeering system in Albuquerque with professional men and business concerns as prospective victims, was barred to police Friday by Arthur Beardsley, proprietor of the Albuquerque dental laboratory, who said an effort was made to force him into acting as intermediary in the proposed kidnaping.

Threats against Beardsley's son, a classmate of young Hebenstreit at the New Mexico Military Institute, were reportedly used against the dental technician, but he notified police and a secret investigation was started which led to the arrival here today of R. H. Colvin, special agent in charge of the department of justice branch at El Paso, Texas.

Two racketeers, whose descriptions were withheld by authorities, were said by Beardsley to have taken him out on the TWA air port road in his car Thursday night and to have terrorized him so badly he had to receive medical attention after returning home.

SHOCKLEY

Hudgins home put poison in that flour and poisoned themselves, go out and turn this man loose," Goodrich said. "The responsibility is yours, not mine."

Clem Calhoun, chief of defense counsel, described the minister as "an humble, uneducated preacher, the Good Samaritan, always thinking of others and never thinking of himself." He said Shockley's life paralleled that of Christ as he went "into the byways carrying the gospel, taking no worldly goods with him, but living with his friends and church members."

Calhoun, in shirt-sleeves and with tie removed, was often bitter in his criticism of state witnesses and state procedure. He raged up and down before the jury in the style typical of him, using all the persuasion, contempt, sarcasm, for which he became noted during the troublesome days of martial law in Berger.

"It is highly probable," said John Sturgeon, special prosecutor, in closing for the state, "that this case will be recorded in the state's annals as unsolved. It is probable that the guilty party will go unpunished. But the state has presented its case. It is for you to decide if the evidence is convincing. The state does not render verdicts."

Although testimony showed that every Gray county grand jury for more than three years had investigated the mysterious deaths in the Hudgins family, Shockley was not indicted until last January. He was arrested a month later in Missouri. He was extradited, returned here for trial, and was released on bond.

Highlights of the circumstances which the state sought to weave against the preacher was the testimony that he rode to the ranch on a wagon containing the sack of flour in which poison was found, that he refused to eat biscuits for breakfast, and that a bucket of home-made syrup which he gave Mrs. Erwin a year later contained a small amount of arsenic when analyzed by W. B. Wardlow, chief state chemist.

Poison also was found in the

'All Is Well,' Says Stanley Of Oil Field

KILGORE, June 23. (P)—Capt. E. N. Stanley, administrator of proration enforcement in East Texas, said today "all is well" in the giant field and added that he had not heard of any movement to shut in the vast pool.

Stanley came here from Sherman, where he conferred with Judge Randolph Bryant of the United States district court on oil cases, then left in a few hours for Austin.

Meanwhile, there was no let-up in activities. The highways were just as congested as ever and the boys from the fields were spending their Saturday night money as usual. They did not know that R. D. Parker, until recently in charge of conservation, had been replaced. They left those worries, if any, to the producers.

There still was speculation whether Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson would take an executive hand in the oil administration in view of her recent declaration that the whole thing bordered on a "volcano" and that should the "lid blow off" most anything might happen.

UPSETS ARE SENSATIONAL. RECORDS BROKEN AS STANFORD WINS N.C.A.A.

BONTHRON IS WINNER OVER KANSAS MILER

LOUISIANA STATE WINS THIRD PLACE IN MEET

By BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

MEMORIAL STADIUM, Los Angeles, June 23 (AP)—The race was not to the swift but to the strong as Stanford University won the 13th annual national collegiate track and field meet today.

The Indians scored an amazing total of 63 points to 54 7-20ths for the University of Southern California in the place position and 47 for Louisiana State University.

Stanford picked up 28 points in the weights, 6 in the discus and 12 in the shot put. The winners won only one first place, the discus by Gordon (Slinger) Dunn, but John Lyman was second in the shot put and third in the discus and the Indians picked up 35 points here and there, second in the pole vault and javelin, adding vital counters.

Louisiana: Four Firsts

Southern California, too, had to be content with one first place, on Al Obou's big broad jump, while Louisiana State, the defending champion, although it could do no better than show, grabbed off four firsts, the sensational Glenn Hardin winning two, the 220-yard hurdles in record time and the 440-yard dash in faster time than it has been run in the 12 previous N. C. A. A. meets.

The other two firsts from Louisiana were scored by Jack Torrance, the man mountain, in the shot put with a performance better than any world mark but not so good as a previous effort of his waiting to be recognized. George Fisher won the 120-yard high hurdles to give the

GEORGE LIGOSKY

HE'S MADE QUITE A REPUTATION WITH HIS SOUGH TACTICS

GEORGE LIGOSKY of the best welterweights in the country, will give away weight when he meets Pat Garrison in the semi-final. The Ring magazine boosts Franks as the logical contender for a crack at Jack Reynolds' crown. Garrison has been resting for several weeks and is ready to go again.

Two heavyweights, John Pafford, 216, and Claude Hailey, 206, will meet in the preliminary which will be called at 8:30 o'clock. The new cooling system will be in full operation and the Pla-Mor should be cool.

AMARILLOANS WILL PLAY AT L'FORS TODAY

AMALIE OILERS WILL MEET COLTEXO'S GASOLINERS

The Amalie Oilers, Amarillo's No. 1 baseball team, will invade LeFors this afternoon for a game with the Coltexo gasoline division team. Game time will be 3 o'clock.

Coltexo won a 7 to 5 contest from Texola-Willow Friday afternoon in LeFors. Hailey was on the mound for the gasoliners and pitched good ball. Catcher Poindexter, besides doing a good job of receiving, hit two triples and two doubles to lead the Coltexo attack. Fredy Newsome was the fielding star of the game.

The veteran Ace Masterson was on the mound for the Texola-Willow aggregation with the ancient Sam Douglas on the receiving end. Douglas hit three singles that would have been easy doubles for a fast base runner.

Croft, Warner, and Armstrong will be ready for mound duty against the Amalie Oilers this afternoon. Croft lost a 6 to 1 contest to the Oilers in Amarillo last Sunday and may get the nod to start this afternoon.

Warner was unable to get going against Berger Thursday night and Armstrong wasn't effective against the Roadrunners a week ago so Croft appears the best bet. Warner, however, defeated Miller Pharmacy of Amarillo 13 to 1 in his first appearance in a Coltexo uniform.

The Coltexo Black Cats, carbon black division team, will be in McLean for a game this afternoon. The pitching selection will be between White and Clemmons with Burgess behind the bat.

Chris Jordan of Davenport, Iowa, known as the unbeatable welterweight of the day, Ed Bradley of Dallas, Billy Romanoff of Kansas City, Chis Nelson, of the Gus Sonenberg stable, and many others. Most of the grapplers in these parts are heavier than Lewis, but the former Pampa preliminary boy says that he will concede weight to let Pampa fans know that he has improved since his last appearance on a Pampa mat nearly two years ago.

SHIPPERS WIN FROM OILERS OFF HUBBELL

BEAUMONT TAKES THE SERIES FINAL 5 TO 2

BEAUMONT, June 23. (AP)—Beaumont made it two out of three over Tulsa by taking the series final, 5-2, this afternoon with Joe Hare outpitching three oiler flingers. The exporters won the game in the first inning off Hubbell with three runs, on a walk to Shelley, doubles by Vincent and Ross and Stebbins' single. Hubbell was relieved with one out by Contrell who gave way to a pinch hitter in the seventh. Cap Davis hurled for the third game in three days, blanking the home club in the last two innings.

Ross and Patchett led the Exporter attack with the former getting two doubles against the left field fence and the latter a double and a triple.

SAN ANTONIO, June 23. (AP)—The Missions had two big obstacles to overcome here tonight, hurled both of them and won the final of the Fort Worth series, 4 to 2. One stumbling block was Harry Davis, who held the Padres to seven hits. Another was the fact that J. Alvin Gardner officially presented the 1933 pennant to the Missions, with L. C. McEvoy accepting the bunting, and it was raised in center field. A club generally loses on such occasions.

Kingsmill Will Play Consumers This Afternoon

Kingsmill's fast ball club will come to Pampa this afternoon to meet the Consumers Oilers. The game will be played at 3 o'clock on the South Pampa diamond.

The Oilers, who have added strength, last Sunday held the fast Hopkins team to a 3 to 2 score. Steel will probably be sent to the mound with Whitworth behind the bat.

Kingsmill defeated the Pampa Advertisers in Kingsmill last Sunday and then and there decided to step into fast company. The Kingsmill battery has not been released. No admission will be charged and there will be plenty of parking space.

Mutiny On Cuban Gunboat 'Flops'; Commander Held

HAVANA, June 23. (AP)—A mutiny on the gunboat Cuba, largest unit of the Cuban navy, was suppressed quickly and bloodlessly late today, and the Cuba's commander, Capt. Evaristo Ulloa, was placed under arrest.

Capt. Ulloa had sent a message to the new chief of the navy, Angel Gonzalez, stating that he did not recognize the chief's authority.

Within three hours the secretary of the Navy Felix Grandox, announced that new officers sent to Antilla, where the Cuba lay, had taken charge and that the mutiny was over.

The crew of the Cuba, after their captain was arrested, chief Gonzalez said, sent him a message congratulating him on his appointment as chief.

Capt. Ulloa, a member of the old Havana aristocracy, was taken into custody by two army officers who flew to the scene, and it was announced that he was being brought to Havana by airplane.

INDIANS AND STANOLIND TO PLAY IN CITY

ROADRUNNER PARK TO BE SCENE OF GAME

Although the Roadrunners will not play this afternoon, Roadrunner park will be the scene of a game of much interest. The Pampa Indians will return to the baseball wars, meeting of the Stanolind Oilers. The game will be called at 3 o'clock, with admission 25 cents.

The Indians have been inactive for several weeks, but have re-organized and will be heard from often in the future. C. O. Busby, sponsor and manager of the team, will probably present some new faces and a changed lineup this afternoon.

Busby announced yesterday afternoon that Larry Trenary will be on the mound for the Indians and that Allie Barnett will do the receiving. Wayne Kelley being sent to third to replace Harold Gregory, who is in Virginia for the summer. The rest of the lineup has not been announced.

The Stanolind team has been organized only two weeks but in that time has won three out of four games. The Oilers lost a close decision to Skellytown last week. The Stanolind lineup was not available yesterday but it was reported that several well known players will be seen this afternoon.

It's FUN to cook electrically, right at the table

Everybody likes the gay informality of electric table cookery. Men who wouldn't find a kitchen any fun at all, preside gleefully over an Electric Toaster, or guard the Percolator tenderly. Women who are a little stale on housework discover a new thrill in the depths of a Chaffing Dish... find themselves loving an electric Waffle Iron.

You hear the percolator's happy little gurgles over its rich amber brew. You see the creamy ivory waffle batter pouring lazily. You smell crisp toast and a savory Newburg sauce. How good such food tastes!

The appliances themselves are getting cleverer and cleverer. They think nothing at all of being handsome and practical and easy to care for. They go further—and are automatic, completely taking the guess-work out of cookery.

Your dealer has a fascinating array of small cooking appliances to show you, in every size and style you could possibly want. At almost any price, too.

TEACHERS WIN FIGHT TO TEACH IN TEXAS WITHOUT DEGREES

EXPERIENCE IS ENOUGH RULES SCHOOL GROUP

NEW PLAN IS WORKED OUT TO KEEP TEACHERS

AUSTIN, June 23. (AP)—Teachers today won their contest for modification of regulations of the committee on classified and accredited high schools that would have required all instructors in the public school system to obtain college degrees regardless of teaching experience.

Teachers, principals and superintendents with more than 15 years experience will not be forced to take additional college work toward a degree, the committee voted. Those having less than 15 years experience will be required to take a minimum of 12 semester hours of work every three years in a recognized college.

Teachers entering the profession must hold a degree from a standard college or university.

In exempting experienced teachers, principals and superintendents the committee said they would be expected to be "reasonably progressive" through occasional college work, travel or other activity.

Britain Loses Debt Argument With Germany

BERLIN, June 23. (AP)—Distinctly encouraged by the British invitation to talk over the problem of foreign debts, German government officials, led by Chancellor Hitler himself, devoted their attention today to a series of conferences on the problem.

The chancellor was understood to be taking an active part in the deliberations, and it was evident that eventually Germany will accept the British proposal, after a policy has been decided upon and negotiations named.

The British invitation, coming in the midst of threats to collect interest on the Dawes and Young loans by impounding German commercial accounts, was regarded in banking circles as a distinct victory for Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank.

Graduation classes from Iowa colleges numbered 2,900 men and women this year.

FINEST STARS IN DALLAS FOR GOLF TOURNEY

MORELAND MUST MEET LITTLE, GOODMAN, AND EMERY

DALLAS, June 23. (AP)—Bunkered fairways and treacherous greens of the Brook Hollow golf club, freshly manicured, today doted the nation's finest amateur links warriors to solve their mysteries as a sparkling field gathered for the thirty-fourth annual Trans-Mississippi championship, starting Tuesday.

Gus Turner Moreland, Texas' slender Walker cup hero, returned to his own "backyard" to defend his title against a galaxy of stars that included two more Walker cup players, one of the current British amateur champion, and another former national open title-holder.

Both Lawson Little of San Francisco, recent winner of the British amateur, and Johnny Goodman, the 1933 open champion of Omaha, were ready to fire a volley at "King" Moreland's crown.

Britain Loses Debt Argument With Germany

In fact, a glance over the entry list revealed an animated version of "who's who in amateur golf." Tournament officials were hoping for a last minute entry from Jack Westland of Chicago, another Walker cup team member.

And there was Zell Eaton, the Oklahoma City ace; Rodney Bliss, fellow townsman of Goodman; Charlie Watts, the Atlanta protégé of Bobby Jones, and Walter Emery, national intercollegiate champion of Oklahoma, for Moreland to consider.

Johnny Dawson, the genial Chicago sharpshooter, and his brother George, who is quite a par-snobber, were rated among the favorites.

But Moreland, knowing his Texans, watched three or four of his native state's ace in practice rounds.

Reynolds Smith, the diminutive little Texas amateur champion, who has long been a hard nut to crack, Moreland to brush aside, is on the great. He played one of the greatest competitive rounds of golf in the history of the state to beat David (Spec) Goldman, 1 up in 19 holes, in the semi-finals of the recent Texas amateur meet. Smith has his backers, and a plenty, while Goldman, runner-up for the Trans-Mississippi title in 1932, is at the peak of a beautiful golf game.

Leland Hamman, runner-up for the state title and recent winner of the River Crest invitation at Fort Worth, displaced Moreland in the Western amateur last year. He is hitting the ball in his best form.

And for the tournament's "dark horse" role, Lieut. Bernhard Schriever, of the United States flying corps of March Field, Calif., has been nominated. He is expected to rush in at the last minute for participation in the tournament, but his entry had not yet been received. If a furlough was granted, Schriever said he would compete. Three years ago he carried Moreland to the extreme in three meets losing one up each time. He is a former San Antonian.

Tournament officials were expecting a huge entry of possibly 350 players. The outstanding feature of the entertainment will be a banquet and Calcutta pool on Wednesday, June 27.

Frances Schriever, professional, and J. W. Bostwick, chairman of the tournament committee, pronounced the course in perfect condition for the attack on par.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Taylor Cole and son, Jerry, of LeFors were Pampa visitors yesterday.

N. C. A. A.

Tiger hit the best performance of the day in first place.

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette, repeated his feat of winning both the 100 and 220 a year ago, and the 20 points scored for the Wisconsin institution gave it a tie with Indiana University for fourth place with 20 points. Indiana scored when Charley Hornbostel won the half mile and Ivan Fuqua finished second in the quarter with Wes Busbee adding two more in the discus.

Listed records went by the board all afternoon as almost perfect weather conditions made other performers to put forth their best efforts. Four world's records were smashed and five N. C. A. A. marks were bettered and one tied.

To Ask One Record
Application for only one world's record will be made as a result of the meet since the other performances were not up to applications already on file.

Oddly enough the record for which world recognition will be asked only tied a previous N. C. A. A. record for which no application had been made. Glenn Hardin ran the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.7. This equaled a performance by Jack Keller of Ohio State in 1932 but bettered the mark of 23 seconds set by Charles E. Brookings of Iowa in 1924.

Cunningham Beaten
The fleet Hardin ran the 440-yard dash in 47 seconds, clipping a tenth of a second from his own N. C. A. A. record made last year.

Bell Bonthorn's defeat of Glenn Cunningham in the mile was one of the most sensational episodes of the day.

COMMUNITY FARM PROJECT IN EAST TEXAS WOODS SEEN AS INDICATIVE OF FEDERAL AIMS

BY HARRELL E. LEE.
WOODLAKE, Trinity County (AP)—Here in the piney woods of "deep cuts" Texas the federal government is launching a community farm experiment which officials hold may revolutionize the relief policy for hundreds of thousands of depression victims.

Houses are now being completed, will care for 100 families whose heads were stranded in Texas cities with little hope of being re-employed by industry. The government helps these families will become self-supporting again, through cultivation of the 1,500 acres it has purchased for them by the start of winter.

Each family will have a three-acre home plot for a garden, orchard, pigs, and poultry.

The remaining 1,200 acres will be worked by all the residents, and the income pro-rated according to the amount of work done by each. This acreage will be cultivated with community animals and implements.

In addition there will be a community dairy, community bakery, machine and work shops, trading post, 10-room school, church, water system, community center, and athletic field.

Expenses Pro-Rated.
The expense of these projects, and the income from them, will be pro-rated.

While chief attention will be paid to agricultural work, with cotton and tomatoes probably the principal money crops, articles will be fashioned from fabrics, wood, iron, and steel in the community work room.

The houses are from three to five rooms each and have modern conveniences. No two are alike. Some are one-story, some one and one-half, and some two, designed in eight distinct types of architecture, with many variations.

May Be Tried Elsewhere.
Officials say that if the scheme succeeds, thousands of families will be financed on several hundred similar community farms scattered throughout the 48 states, under present plans. They believe the families can repay the government for the cost of their homes in 15 to 20 years.

The total cost of the Woodlake experiment has been estimated at about $250,000, or $2,500 for each family. It is believed each will be able to contribute an average of $18 monthly toward paying off its obligation.

The 100 families here were selected from about 5,000 destitute unemployed applicants who had previously lived on farms. Preference was given those whose heads were more than 40 years old, on the theory that they stood less chance of being reabsorbed in industry.

DAVIES' PORTRAIT IS MOVED FROM VENICE GALLERY

VENICE, Italy, June 23. (AP)—A tempest in an art gallery came to a peaceful end today as Marion Davies' portrait without a country" was pulled out of the pavilion of the American exhibit at the Venice biennial exhibit.

The removal satisfied the objections of Mrs. Juliana Force, director of the Whitney museum of art, who had ordered the American paintings withdrawn because of the unauthorized hanging of the portrait.

In London Mrs. Force said that she was "happy to hear" of the action of the Italian officials, although she added she "wouldn't believe it" until officially notified.

The Italian officials in charge of the exhibition, who earlier had indicated they could do nothing until next week, moved speedily today in the face of a firm stand on the part of Mrs. Force.

LONDON, June 23. (AP)—Marion Davies' "just isn't interested," a spokesman of the American film actress said tonight when informed that her portrait had been moved from the American to the Italian pavilion of the Venice biennial art exhibition.

TWO MEN KILLED AND TEN INJURED IN KILGORE EXPLOSION

LAMESA YOUTH DIES OF BURNS IN A HOSPITAL

6 FIREMEN OVERCOME BY HEAT BUT WILL RECOVER

KILGORE, June 23 (AP)—Two men were dead and ten injured as a result of flames which swept the Southport Petroleum company refinery here today, after two explosions. The greater portion of the fire had been brought under control late today. Damage was estimated by the owners at more than $100,000.

The charred body of George Travis, nephew of M. M. Travis, vice-president of the company, was removed from ruins of the refinery building itself. Ray Roe, insulator for the Dallas firm, died in a hospital late today from burns. His family lives in Lamesa, Tex.

Six firemen were overcome by heat and one of the group suffered injury to his eyes, but all were expected to recover, others who suffered burns were W. W. Lundy, N. S. Easley, S. P. Anderson and Troy McCann, 8, son of a refinery employe.

An employe of the company said tonight he believed the first explosion resulted from two great pressure on a tank in the refinery due to an outlet not having been opened. He said oil was being pumped into the tank under great pressure and when the tank blew out, oil was sprayed on hot boilers.

A second explosion rocked the countryside and residents hastily moved away from the danger area. The company office was threatened by the second detonation.

Company officials were high in praise of the bravery of employes who went into the plant and shut off the valves to tanks of fuel oil and gasoline.

S. T. Anderson, a pump mechanic, said he was near a pump when he heard the first explosion and saw a wall of flame, apparently springing from inside one of three "bubble" towers, which sat close together and held gasoline, distillate and kerosene.

Burke O'Donovan, captain of a fire company here, carried two men out of the blazing refinery but could not reach Travis.

A west wind blew the flames away from tanks containing 25,000 barrels of fuel oil and the flames were confined to six tanks which held only 5,000 barrels of refined products, including gasoline, distillate and kerosene.

AMARILOAN ATTAINS BEAUTY IN WEAVING UNUSUAL HOOKED RUGS

AMARILLO, June 23 (AP)—Fred Welpion is weaving the romance of almost three-score years into hooked rugs and wall hangings. Welpion, who has mused across the snows of the northland, filed a gold claim on the Yukon, worked as a lumberjack in the Pacific northwest and served as a federal prohibition enforcement officer now spends from six to 10 hours daily hooking rugs and decorative hangings.

"The largest of his rugs is 9 1/2 x 7 1/2 feet. He claims it is the largest ever hooked by hand. It contains almost 100 pounds of rags and Welpion spent 14 months making it.

"This work is more fascinating than any adventure I ever had," Welpion said. "I have made three fortunes and lost them. I am now gathering up the loose ends and weaving them into something that will serve me as long as I live and my heirs after me."

Welpion first began hooking rugs as an antidote for the depression. He then discovered that rags could be woven into beautiful pictures and designs. He started by copying magazine covers and other designs for small rugs and hangings. He found he had a gift for choosing and matching colors. "Now I am unable to give it up," he said. "I expect to spend the rest of my life at this sort of thing. It is a creative art so old it is new. There is practically no expense attached to it yet its possibilities are unlimited. It doesn't grow monotonous because every pattern—almost every stitch—is different. It is impossible to make two rugs alike and they are serviceable, therefore valuable."

There is some sentiment attached to most of the material Welpion has used. A heavy blanket, which served him in the cold north, was used as a base for one of his larger hangings. Articles of clothing formerly worn by his mother, wife, sister, or close friends are hooked into the various designs. He uses all kinds of fabrics, weaving them in together. Sometimes he dyes them to get the finer shadings necessary.

Welpion spent only 57 cents for the Southport company's plant, situated two miles east of the Kilgore business district, was one of the oldest in the east Texas field. Its plant had a capacity of approximately 3,000 barrels of oil daily. Cracking equipment was installed only recently.

The fire departments from Overton and Henderson aided Kilgore fire fighters in bringing the flames under control.

material for his biggest rug. It contains two dozen or more colorful designs depicting early American history. Homes, furnishings, industries, transportation, recreation and education of the period are represented. The small designs are grouped about a large centerpiece into which is woven a picture of Old Ironsides. All the designs are taken from authentic creations.

"It is an inexpensive way to spend idle hours," Welpion said.

Admiral Argues Japanese Navy Is Big Enough

TOKYO, June 23 (AP)—Continued anxiety lest Anglo-American conversations in London result in a common front against Japan at the 1935 naval conference was the dominant reaction of the government and newspapers to discussions held yesterday.

The meeting here of Tameo Matsudaira, Tokyo's ambassador, with Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, and Premier MacDonald of Great Britain was reported prominently in newspapers. Sharing the headlines was a report from New York on the article of Rear Admiral William V. Pratt advancing reasons why Japan should remain at the bottom of the present 5-5-3 ratio.

Arguments presented here for an increased Japanese ratio include: 1. Japan is confident of a sufficiency of national resources and is not afraid of the prospects of competition in the event the 1935 conference fails.

2. A tremendous advance by the Japanese empire since 1922 justifies a bigger navy.

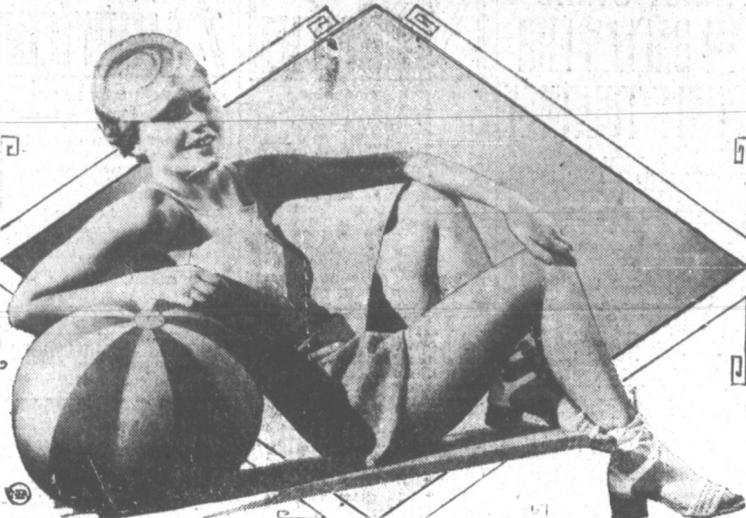

3. The fact that in recent years the United States fleet has been concentrated in the Pacific menaces Japanese security.

4. The birth of the "independent" state of Manchukuo increased Japan's naval responsibilities.

'ALL NOT GOLD THAT GLITTERS' IN HOLLYWOOD

Movie City Seems To Be 'Boulevard of Broken Dreams'

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 23 (AP)—The grist of the mills in Hollywood ground out proof today of that old axiom—"all is not gold that glitters."

Youth's dreams of big salaries, fame, headlines, fortune, acclaim, status, flashy automobiles, fine clothes and big shot friends—all possibilities in the movies fairyland of Hollywood—may have their counterpart in less attractive realities. As witness—

June DeLong, an actress, testifying before the county grand jury in a case in which the former manager of a film casting agency was indicted, said she and other girls seeking careers in movieland had been forced to compromise themselves to get work.

Hazel Forbes, actress and heiress to a dentifrice fortune, spent months by train while authorities looked into the delivery to her of several letters attempting to extort money from her.

In the courts which adjudicate the troubles of married couples case cases involving Terlor Fair, Lucy Dornain, and Marjorie DeHaven Lockwood.

In another court, the Mdivani prices, Serge, and Davis, matched wits with a lawyer over legal fees. In still another action a widower, Charles M. Blanchard, sought to quiet title to the $30,000 estate of Evelyn Blanchard, a dramatic coach, who died a few weeks ago.

All this in a day in Hollywood. But misfortune has a silver lining. Mrs. Virginia Corbin, anxious over her daughter, Virginia Lee Corbin Kroll, former child actress, from whom she had not heard for seven months, located her daughter in New York, and a mother was made happy. The actress had only recently returned from Europe with her husband, Theodore Kroll, a broker.

For pure sensation, the DeLong testimony hogged the spotlight. The indicted former casting director, Dave Allen, was accused of violation of a morals law. Miss DeLong told the grand jury that having "affairs with other men" was "about the only way you can get work" in pictures.

Asked if she had heard of Allen involved in "affairs with other women," she replied: "Oh, yes, hundreds of them." Allen claimed it was all a "diabolical plot" designed to cost him his job. Indicted with him was an actress, Gloria Marsh.

In the divorce actions, Thomas W. Daniels, stunt flier, won an annulment, charging that Elinor Fair married him to spite another man. He said they never lived together and that upon their return from an airplane elopement to Yuma, Ariz., she left him, telling him their marriage was "all a big mistake" and she married him to show Frank Clark, another flier to whom she was engaged, a thing or two.

A court appointed a physician to examine Marjorie DeHaven Lockwood, daughter of the DeHavens of vaudeville fame, to ascertain whether she was too ill to appear at trial of a contested divorce suit. Her lawyer said she was too sick. Her husband's lawyer question the extent of the illness.

Lucy Dornain won a divorce from Jorgen von Dietz, chemist, who gained fame sometime ago by suing Douglas Fairbanks Jr. on charges of alienating the affections of von Dietz's first wife, Lailou, Danish writer. The suit was dropped. The second wife said the chemist made her nervous.

Municipal court ruled that the Mdivani prices do not have to pay D. Chase Rich, a lawyer, $1,000 for legal services during their first trial on grand theft charges. The jury disagreed and the brothers face a retrial.

Dresden May Be Deposed as Head Of State Relief

AUSTIN, June 23 (AP)—The interior of the capital is being brightened. Workmen are revarnishing the wood work and going over the plastering. The results are pleasing.

A couple of statues on the first floor at the front entrance, however, are put to a disadvantage by the "brighten up" brushes. They are two of the most important personages in Texas history—Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston. Those pieces of sculpture are brown with age. There is no way to rejuvenate them.

There is talk of removing headquarters of the Texas relief commission from Austin. M. N. Chestman of Dallas, a member of the commission, said he believed his home city would provide rent-free space for the commission employes. Under an agreement the commission occupies a large portion of an Austin office building, paying only for lights, elevator service and other incidental expenses. In return the office building's taxes are remitted.

Houston and other cities were reported to be considering offers to get the headquarters. However, it is not likely that the change will be made since the governor is ex-officio member and chairman of the commission. It is more convenient for the chief executive to have the relief administrative offices in the capital.

With R. L. Holliday of El Paso given his old place on the relief commission by a supreme court decision, there is a probability of the commission undoing at least one action taken soon after Holliday was "removed" by Speaker of the House Coke Stevenson and Julius Dorenfield of Amarillo, put in his place. That was the election of Miss Marie Dresden as relief director to replace Adam R. Johnson of Austin, who had a comparatively brief tenure.

VICIOUS STEERS ARE BROUGHT TO CANADIAN FOR ANVIL PARK RODEO

CANADIAN, June 23—With the opening date of the Anvil Park Rodeo only a few weeks off, expert riders, ropers, and bulldozers are gathering at Canadian for their competition in the twelfth annual show to be held July 3-4-5.

The management guarantees that it will be the wildest and wickedest rodeo ever put on in the Panhandle. Scouts have been busy securing long horned bulldozing steers from East Texas, and the southwest for Brahma bulls to be used in the riding contest.

A number of these cattle have never before been used in rodeo work. They are plenty wild and fierce. A high fence surrounds the arena, so these wild cattle will not break through. Everybody will be safe on the outside of the arena and in the seats. The pick-up man and judges and contestants are going to have to be well mounted to keep out of the way of these steers.

The Anvil Park Rodeo is not a wild west show, but a real contest rodeo, where no one but real cowhands fresh from the range compete. Contestants come here from all states of the southwest, pay their entrance fees and compete for the handsome prizes awarded in each event. The rodeo is the only sport today that is the outgrowth of an industry.

Marion F. McLain of Sun City, Kansas, producer of annual Labor day rodeo of that vicinity, has been secured to direct the arena. He has had years of experience, assembled some outstanding strings of bucking horses, and promises a fast, speedy program.

The bucking horses for this show are owned by the directors of the association, and it has taken years to select them. They have been selected from the worst pitching horses in this section of the Panhandle and they are given more care and attention than a fancy five-gaited riding horse. Champion riders of range and rodeo world will be here to see whether they can stay on top of these buckers till the gun is fired, which will be after only 10 seconds, but which will seem like an hour to some of the cowboys.

The fun will start when the Brahma steer riding contest is on. This is where the bronco Texas Zebras will be let loose. Cowboy and Brahma steers will be scattered all over the arena. When a cowboy hits the ground after one of those unattended pieces of dynamite falls to pieces under him, he had better play dead unless some good pick-up man has been able to stick around in the arena, or else there will be an exhibition of a big yellow steer running off with a range athlete sticking to his horns.

The accepted standard of time measurement is the period of the earth's rotation on its axis.
