Texas has special session-itis. If we are going to make law-drafting a full-time job, let's cut down the number and raise the pay.

It seems a little contradictory for this county to have a Missouri law to break out with Mr. Ferguson preparing to take office.

After all is said and done about prohibition, a drunk man will be just as despicable—a human being staggering around like a ship without a rudder. When alcohol is substituted for reason, individual chaos results.

The happiest forgotten man these days is the one the tax assessor overlooks.

Borger has painted her name in big letters at her airport. That's better than big type in the headlines.

"Vote intelligently" said many a newspaper the day before election. Now will someone tell us what constituted an intelligent vote on the amendments?

Only God can make a tree, but the planting thereof is dependent more on human effort than these plants than by chance. . . . More than a score years ago this writer, then a small child, planted a Missouri black walnut in Glazier, Hamphill county. He had hopes that the symbol of his native Missouri would rise out of Texas soil, and after many months the tiny germ of life sprang into activity, parted the hard shell, and peeped into the sunlight.

We guarded that sprout jealously, fearing even the curious gaze of neighbors. Old residents we had not seen in a decade Sunday reminded the Pampan of his boyish love for that walnut seedling. But as we stood under the tree Sunday, it needed no protection; rather, it was able to offer it. The trunk is a foot thick, the branches symmetrical and towering more than 20 feet in the air. Its majesty had a silent message of dignity—the spark of life which not even the greatest scientists can explain had brought the tiny tree out of an ordinary black walnut grown in Missouri, planted in good Texas soil.

From that tree recently were gathered more than 2,000 large walnuts, snugly encased in their outer covering, black and forbidding outside, but how delicious within! Round about were the smaller walnut trees, grown from walnuts from the parent tree. Trees will grow on the plains, but they require the care which they merit because of their beauty. That old walnut is not yet in its prime. For many years it will bear prolifically, for its fruit escapes the late freezes, then in extreme old age its wood will take the form of beautiful furniture. As near as it is possible for inanimate things, it will achieve immortality.

Nature in her various manifestations has pointed the way to production sufficient to feed and clothe the world. It is man's inefficiency, despite his production records, which places a stigma upon nature's productivity. Back to the soil would man go if he were declimated and restored to the necessities of the pastoral period. When civilization puts such a burden upon nature that men avoid the soil, the result is evils even when a few millions of men, with machinery, can fill the granaries to bursting. But the sturdy tree, producing its fruit and its wood with magnificent regular growth, recalls to mind the man of the soil, must live by the soil, and ultimately return to it.

Better make a good thing better than a bad thing. Self-respect forbids that you hate a fellow and then weep at his bier. When you quit thinking, it is well to stop talking. Expect no special reward for not doing what you shouldn't. No one has a right to a luxury.

Four Miles of Pipe To Be Laid in Talley

Bids will be opened by the city November 28 on more than 4 miles of water pipe to be placed in the Talley addition. The pipe will range from 3-4 inch to 2 inches in size. ## A. P. I. to Have Banquet Dec. 13

The Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute will hold a business meeting and banquet December 13. It was decided at a meeting of the advisory committee and nominating committee following a noon luncheon at the Schneider hotel dining room.

The business session will be in the city hall auditorium at 7 o'clock and the banquet will follow in the clubroom hotel dining room. During yesterday's session, a committee nominated officers for the next year and they will be voted at the next meeting. Several men, prominent in the oil industry will be invited to attend the banquet and make addresses. Tickets will be placed on sale the week before the banquet. The tables will seat about 250 persons.

Those attending the meeting were Ed. Warren, president, and H. E. Rogers, secretary, both of Borger, Frank Berry, and Clyde Shields of Borger, Dan Gribbin, Dan McGrew, Dan McIntosh, Jack Davis, Ed Bissett, Jack Meyer, and Max Mahaffey, all of Pampa.

Ducks Expected In This Section

Pampa hunters were looking longingly at the skies this morning in hope of seeing flocks of ducks getting tired and looking as if they wanted to light, even though there is no water in this section of the Panhandle. The weather today should bring flights into the Panhandle. The hirundo were also hoping that rain would follow this visit of winter so that it wouldn't be necessary to drive to the south plains to do their hunting. A few mallards, canvas backs, and butterballs have been sighted and hopes of some good hunting is still expected.

I HEARD--

A local jurymen wondering when the time would come that good, old-fashioned beer would be served during trial time. That was yesterday—wonder what he thinks today? Miss Dorothy Doucette and Miss Jackie Jones making Red Cross sales talks in the lobby of the Schneider hotel—and were they getting results. Almost 100 per cent perfect! Judge Newton Willis saying in court—"Your Honor, before I was so rudely interrupted—"

Typhoon Hits Tokyo District; Many Are Dead

HUNDRED PERSONS ARE REPORTED DEAD OR MISSING

TOKYO, Nov. 15. (AP)—More than 100 persons were reported dead or missing today in the wake of a 12-hour typhoon that scourged land and sea in the Tokyo district with torrential rains and a 100-mile-an-hour gale.

The fishing villages of Fukushima prefecture reported 12 motor boats with more than 100 fishermen aboard as missing. Three bodies have already been washed ashore. The freighter Unkai Maru, earlier reported in distress went aground on Oshima Island at the mouth of Tokyo Bay. Fishermen rescued nine members of the crew, but the 22 remaining aboard were feared lost.

The navy sent destroyers to Oshima to give any assistance possible. The home office early tonight announced total casualties ashore were 26 dead, 25 seriously injured and 26 missing. This did not include the loss of life at sea. The total number of houses destroyed including those burned to rubble 4,413, according to the home office figures. Landslides claimed most of the victims. More than 760 houses were destroyed and 2,000 badly damaged in Tokyo prefecture, and in the capital itself 40,000 houses were partially and temporarily flooded as the downpour inundated lowlying river-front streets.

The main strength of the Japanese navy anchored off Yokosuka felt the fury of the gale, which lasted through all of last night. The air carrier, Hoshio, and the destroyer Asagiri broke their anchor chains and collided. Both were damaged slightly in the crash. The destroyer Ikazuchi was blown ashore but was refloated later with only minor damage. The cruiser Nishin drifted into contact with the unfinished aircraft carrier Ryujō. The Ryujō was damaged.

Several launches and other small craft at the naval base were swamped and foundered, and the aviation and other naval establishments nearby did not escape unscathed. The battleship Nagato and other capital ships were so buffeted that they threatened to break their anchor chains. They prepared to steam to sea but found it would be unnecessary.

Baskets of Food To Be Given Out To Selected List

Alex Schneider was re-elected chairman of the Welfare Board at a meeting of members this morning. Lynn Boyd was made vice-chairman.

Members of the board retained for another year were Mr. Schneider, Travis Lively, W. R. Campbell, Siler Faulkner, and W. H. Curry. New members are Mr. Boyd, J. E. Cunningham, and V. E. Pathersee. It was emphasized that in giving out Thanksgiving baskets of food there should be no duplication this year. Various churches which prepare baskets are asked to give the Welfare Board names of needy persons served so that the Board can give its attention to others. It is hoped that the churches will continue their custom of giving such baskets of food.

The Board will know Thursday how much federal aid will be received from the reconstruction fund.

SIX WELLS CLOSED

LONGVIEW, Nov. 15. (AP)—Six East Texas oil wells were closed today under temporary injunctions granted late yesterday by District Judge W. C. Hurst, pending hearings on petitions filed by Attorney General James V. Alfred alleging the wells were producing more than the legal allowance.

CITIZENS JOIN RED CROSS WITH RIGHT GOOD WILL AS ROLL CALL FOR FUNDS STARTS HERE TODAY

EXCELLENT PROGRESS was reported at noon by solicitors who were canvassing the business district for membership in the Pampa Red Cross chapter. The annual roll call also was being extended into the residential and oil field districts. The first report of having gone 100 per cent came from the teachers and employees of the Woodrow Wilson school. The Sam Houston school was virtually 100 per cent with two teachers not yet seen. While Roll Call Chairman Farris Oden said some solicitors had not

UNCOVER PLOT TO SLAY MAN FOR INSURANCE

HOUNDS TRAIL SLAYER

AGED MAN SHOT TWICE IN BACK OF HEAD WITH SHOTGUN

LIBERTY, Texas, Nov. 15. (AP)—A conspiracy to kill to collect $5,000 insurance today had landed a man in the jail here, both charged with murder in connection with the shooting of D. W. Browney, 62, veteran night watchman for the Texas Gulf Sulphur company.

The plan, both confessed to officers, according to investigators, was hatched by Mrs. Browney, a bride of some two months. Formerly she was the common law wife of B. Darrow, woodcutter and auto mechanic at Anahuac, the man who admitted he did the killing. Browney was slain as he sat in his automobile in a pasture near Moss Bluff. Barrow slipped out from behind and fired twice with a shotgun, he told officers. Both shots took effect in Browney's head, killing him instantly. Bloodhounds were taken to the scene of the killing. They followed a trail for about two miles, where a car had been parked. Partly on it was found that a ferry on a by-road had been used. It was discovered that Barrow had borrowed a shotgun from a friend at Anahuac, saying he was going squirrel hunting.

Taking two shells found at the scene of the shooting, officers found that they fit the gun, which Barrow had borrowed, and that the gun had been fired at least twice. Anderson and Constable J. H. Gilmore then went on to Anahuac, and arrested Barrow.

Farrington Gives No Vote to Hoover

The official Gray county vote in the general election, canvassed today by the commissioners, was substantially as reported to The NEWS November 8.

The Roosevelt electors of the democratic party received 3,447 votes for the Hoover electors, 1 for the C. M. munist, and one for the Liberty party. The Farrington community did not vote the republican nominee a single vote.

Deer Season in Texas to Open Tomorrow Morn

The deer season in Texas opens tomorrow morning. Many Pampan hunters are making trips and a few have already gone to be on hand for the opening day of the season.

The season on the white tail deer is from November 16 to December 31, and on the red tail or mule deer east of the Pecos river on the same dates. But west of the Pecos river the season closes November 30 on the latter deer. The game laws give the counties which are closed for the season but do not include Gray county, so that deer must take their chance at home, if there are any. However, it names Hutchinson, Hemp-hill, and Roberts counties as being closed.

Library to Spend $50 For New Books

Authority to purchase $50 worth of books was given the book committee of the Pampa Public Library yesterday by the members. The number of patrons of the library has increased to more than 1,400, and more than 1,000 books are constantly checked out of the institution.

This being book week, citizens are urged to give a good book to the library. The board is buying new books as rapidly as funds derived from taxes are received, but the demand is unusually large for a city of this size and gifts are welcomed. All over the nation, give-a-book campaigns are being held in behalf of public libraries. Members of the board present at the monthly meeting yesterday were Mrs. C. P. Buckler, chairman, D. E. Cecil, A. M. Teed, Mrs. B. E. Finley, Mrs. A. A. Hyde, and Olin E. Hinkle.

Coldest Wind of Season Lowers Mercury to 19

For once the weather man was right—it did turn cold last night. A temperature of 80 degrees at 5 p. m. reminded Pampan of summer, but soon after dark the predicted cold breath of winter arrived. By midnight the thermometer had dropped 60 degrees. The forecast for today is a minimum of 19 degrees at 5 a. m.

The icy blast continued to sweep over the plains today, carrying the freezing temperature far south, but the sun broke through heavy clouds this morning. The outlook indicated continued cold, cloudy weather for a few days.

Santa Day Will Be Sponsored by Jaysees Again

A committee to make plans for Santa day, originated here last year by the Junior chamber of commerce was appointed by President Jim Collins today, composed of H. L. Polley, Gilmore N. Nunn, and R. A. Watson.

This committee will make its report at next Tuesday's luncheon. December 6 has been selected as charter night, when the new directors and officers of the Jaysees will be installed. The meeting will be the form of a banquet at the Schneider hotel with ladies invited. Members will send a delegation to a regional conference of the national organization in Dallas February 24, 25. Notice that the charter of the Pampa chamber is being prepared has been received from national headquarters.

Case Against Walker Also Is Dismissed

NOT ENOUGH EVIDENCE TO CONVICT, SAYS SOLICITOR

HINTS JURORS ERRED

UNCLE ASKS CHARGES AGAINST PAIR BE DROPPED

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Nov. 15. (AP)—Murder charges which have been hanging over the head of Libby H. man Reynolds, one-time toast of Broadway, were dropped today by the state of North Carolina. Solicitor Carlisle Higgins went before Judge A. M. Stack in Forsyth county superior court and asked that a nolle prosequi be entered in the case charging Libby and Ab Walker of Winston-Salem, with slaying young Smith Reynolds, her millionaire husband, last July. Higgins based his request on the grounds of insufficient evidence. Judge Stack concurred and at 12:20 p. m. directed that the motion be formally recorded. Higgins' statement follows: "After a careful investigation in this case in which the state attorneys are under indictment for murder, I am thoroughly satisfied that we have not sufficient evidence to justify the case going to trial. I am authorized to say that Sheriff Sranson Scott and Assistant Solicitor Eric McMillan, both of whom have made careful investigations, concur in this opinion. It is therefore, because my duty is to determine what course the state will pursue and likewise any other question which the state might be an error of judgment. If I proceed to trial without sufficient testimony any discoveries of additional evidence hereafter would be of no avail. Jury Had No Witness. "If the defendants are not guilty, in the least the state can do now is to stop the prosecution. If they are guilty, then the door should not be closed to a prosecution should sufficient evidence to justify it be available at any time hereafter. "It is recalled that practically all of the evidence which is now available was presented to the coroner's jury which heard the testimony and so far as I know, all of the witnesses who attended the party. Likewise the evidence of all persons who were in the house at the time of the killing as well as the evidence of the physician who made the post-mortem examination and found the evidence insufficient to justify a charge against any person and while the grand jury was presented such a charge, and while I have no criticism to make of their action, for I know that it was honest and sincere, yet the grand jury did not have the benefit of the evidence of any witness who was present at the party or who was in the house at the time of the shooting. For these reasons, I request that a nolle prosequi be entered in this case. "W. N. Reynolds, uncle of the dead youth, who requested that the charges be dropped, was present, accompanied by his attorney, Reynolds said the solicitor's course was satisfactory.

Choc Beer Seized In Police Raid

City officers raided a negro quarters in the up town district last night and confiscated 12½ gallons of choc beer. Ten gallons of the sickening beverage was at work in an open earthenware jar where it was exposed to flies and dust, and the remainder was hidden under the floor in a closet.

One negro woman was arrested in connection with the raid. The choc in the making was poured out and the manufactured beverage taken to the police station where it was displayed this morning. It was a repulsive looking cream-brown mess, bordering on the thick. "How any human can drink that stuff is beyond me," Chief John V. Andrews remarked while looking at the jars.

Romance Broken In Quarrel After Wedding To Be Mended By Cupid—And Postal Cards

Two penny postal cards met at a local address this week but the senders were still looking for each other. And thereon hangs a tale of young love, a marriage quarrel, separation, and a search. A young husband, who gave his age as 22 years, was recently wed in California to a girl of 18. They quarreled, not seriously at first, but enough to cause the girl to leave home and start aimlessly eastward. "She'll be back," the husband, still smarting from the snafu, probably said, but after waiting a few days he became anxious, forgot the issues of the quarrel, started eastward "on the rods" in search of her. Recently the girl was here. But she was missing when the husband arrived from St. Louis, where he had gone in his hunt, then turned back westward again. He was near broke, dirty as any tramp, tearful as he sobbed, "She needs me so much." He learned she had 40 cents when he arrived here. His description of her was endearing—she was beautiful, with soft brown eyes, curly hair, perfect teeth, etc., etc. He left a touching note—a postal card—hoping the young wife would send her address here, as suggested by a citizen. She did—on a postal card—writing from Roswell, where she had obtained temporary work in a cafe. Meantime, the husband had gone to Phoenix, Ariz. Each is looking for the other, each regretful each eager to forgive. They will probably meet soon, through the medium of a couple of penny post cards.

Little Theater to Meet Thursday Eve

After the meeting members present will be guests of George Limbrick at the La Nora theater. Plans regarding the next play will be announced, and business will be transacted. The second play of the Little Theater is scheduled to be presented in December. Name of the play and production date have not been definitely determined. Mrs. E. M. Conley is president of the Little Theater.

I SAW--

J. W. Garman and many another Pampan lustrely walking down the street yesterday, coolies. How varied is the Panhandle climate! Coach Arzus Fox was not the only one caught away from home last night without hat and overcoat. Tommy White and he was enthusiastic about a plan that, if adopted would result in the loss of only five 1932 Harvesters next year.

WEST TEXAS: Fair, colder in south portion, cold wave in south-east portion with freezing; Wednesday fair, continued cold. MILWAUKEE—The State Medical society is trying to reduce baby crying in Wisconsin. "Bad temper and sullen behavior cost many people their places in the world of affairs and their esteem in society despite all their brilliance and learning," says a bulletin issued by the society. "Mothers should correct two habits of children—crying in order to get their own way and sulking until requests are granted."

A COMFORTING MYSTERY

Not the least entertaining bit of recent news, surely, is the revelation that Sarah Ann island has vanished from its accustomed place in the Pacific ocean.

To begin with, it is nice to know that there is, or was, an island with such a name. Sarah Ann island—what sentimental captain of what 18th century whaling bark or down-east trading brig first ran across that dot of coral, sand and palm trees, and what girl was he thinking of when he gave it that name? There is a fine little story there, somewhere, hidden under that name on the charts.

But the real news of the whole business, of course, is that Sarah Ann has vanished; and an ocean in which solid, long-established islands can disappear from the sight and knowledge of men is an ocean from which the old-time mystery and wonder have not yet departed.

The far seas do tricks like that, now and then, and provide master mariners with tales that landlubbers do not usually believe. A skipper will be driving his ship along in waters where, according to the charts, he has nothing at all to fear; and suddenly an island will loom up in his path, and an outlying reef will open his ship's bottom, and all hands will make for the boats. And then, later, when he reports the accident, a warship will cruise to the spot indicated and will find a hundred fathoms or so of water where the skipper's island was; and the skipper will get credit for having been drunk.

And we stay-at-homes, reading of such marvels, conclude usually that the verdict against the luckless skipper was quite proper; and it is not until we pore over the old books which the daring navigators of long ago wrote for us that we realize that the wide eastern seas are indeed places where peculiar things can happen.

So now comes this story of Sarah Ann island, to indicate that the old-timers were right; and it is comforting, somehow, to know that the storied queerness of the Pacific is still what it used to be. Sarah Ann will very likely pop up again some day, a few hundred miles out of its location. Meanwhile its disappearance has made a good story for us.

What this country needs is the sort of resourcefulness shown by the Altoona Tribune which offers the news item that bustles are coming back and that "old papers are for sale at this office at 10 cents per bundle."

Some of the economic observers are saying that the worst part of the depression is over. We are waiting to hear the barber's viewpoint before deciding.

It probably won't be necessary this year to notify the Democratic candidate that he has been elected president.

The new contract bridge rules remind us that we hadn't known just exactly what the old ones were.

Mr. Hoover apparently sees no need to ask for a recount.

Bank employes are not worrying about their vacations these days.

TURKEY PLACES COFFEE ON STRICT BARTER BASIS
 ISTANBUL (AP)—Millions of Turks got a bad shock when, sipping their traditional cups of black syrupy coffee, they read in the papers: "Millions of figs for coffee but not one cent in cash."
 The new minister of economy, Djelal Bey, announced that unless coffee exporting nations—chiefly Brazil—buy Turkish figs, olives and rugs, the 13,500,000 Turks (even babies drink it) will have to find a new national beverage.
 "I will not allow one centime to be sent out of this country in payment for coffee," Djelal Bey said.

Magnetic Storm May Accompany Meteor Shower

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—Man's first opportunity to discover whether electrical storms accompany showers of meteors may come the night of November 18, when the Leonid meteors are expected to reappear for one of their rare visits to earth.

The idea that the bombardment of a large number of these meteors may cause a magnetic storm is advanced by A. M. Skellett, of the Bell laboratories. He has published a suggestion to scientists generally to set up the instruments which record magnetic disturbances.

Magnetic storms ordinarily come in the form of intense electrical radiation from sun spots. The electronic rays "ionize" the upper atmosphere, by breaking up atoms so that they are electrically charged. Skellett says the impact of a meteor smashing through the air probably breaks it up sufficiently to cause ionization.

Usually there are too few meteors to make a test possible. A great shower might electrically enough atmosphere to affect instruments, but the testing devices did not exist the last time there was a meteoric storm, which was the Leonid display of 1866.

"The Leonids," Skellett says, "are the swiftest of the recurring meteors and therefore have the most energy for ionization." They strike the upper atmosphere at average speeds of 44 miles a second. The Leonids apparently do all

State-Wide Car Theft Ring Is Being Broken Up

DALLAS, Nov. 15. (AP)—Three men were under arrest here tonight as police moved to break up what they asserted was an automobile theft ring whose activities extended all over Texas. Nine of them were arrested when stolen automobiles had been recovered and detectives expected to return to the owners at least fifteen other stolen vehicles.

Detective Lieut. C. C. Rader, head of the automobile theft division in Dallas, announced the breaking up of the ring with the arrest today of the third man, a 21-year old Dallas youth. The leader, described as a 30-year old paroled convict, was arrested more than a week ago at Abilene by state highway patrolmen.

Investigators said the Abilene man, taken to San Antonio in connection with a car theft, made a statement to two Dallas detectives revealing the operations of the ring and giving information as to where the stolen automobiles could be found. The two detectives recovered four of the cars today at Brady, Cars stolen in Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene, San Antonio, Longview and other cities, officers said, were taken to the East Texas oil fields for distribution, but three of them were driven to Louisiana for sale. Detectives said federal charges of interstate transfer of stolen cars would be filed, in addition to charges in the state courts.

Garner Is Still Taking It Easy

UVALDE, Tex., Nov. 15. (AP)—John Garner, vice-president-elect, spent today at his home here, looking through a mass of telegrams and letters and just resting.

It was an interlude between a series of fishing and hunting expeditions, which have netted the speaker of the house, fish, squirrels and doves in plenty, and more of the same to come. Garner appeared much refreshed by a long trek through the woods yesterday. Ross Brumfield, a friend who accompanied Garner, said the latter bagged four squirrels and 15 doves, the limit. Garner cooked both squirrels and doves to his own taste in a camp as he had said previously he would do.

Garner and Brumfield also looked about for a location for a deer hunt. The deer season opens Wednesday. They have planned to leave Tuesday afternoon and spend the night in the open in order to get an early start. Brumfield said "Johnnie" among the first to get a buck. Scores of letters and telegrams are arriving daily for Garner, but only the most important matters are being attended to now. Garner wants all the rest possible before leaving the latter part of this month for Washington.

Four Halls in Gray County Restrained

Of five amusement halls in Gray county against which injunctions have been asked, only one had not been restrained by district court order Saturday. The one was at LeFors, and it was to be considered soon.

The injunctions order the managers and operators to "desist and refrain from using said room, hall, building, and premises or any part thereof" as a "pool hall or place where pool and billiards or similar games can be played with balls and cues as such pool hall is defined by the laws of the State of Texas." The temporary injunctions were granted by Judge W. R. Ewing. They affect only use of the buildings as prohibited by state laws.

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE.
 Not the least notable feature of the great democratic hurricane of November 8 was the manner in which it wrecked finally and completely some of the pet theories on which political planning has been based for many years.

What becomes of the long-accepted notion that in this country there are two parties fairly evenly matched, with a comparatively small group of independent voters holding the balance of power? Or the tradition, established in Lincoln's time and reaffirmed in Wilson's, that the country will hesitate to change presidents in a time of great national stress?

Or the idea that in a two-candidate contest for the highest office, the man who is in will necessarily be hard to beat because of the favor he has done and the organization he has builded during four years of power? Or the old conviction that the respective interests of the states have grown so diverse that never again will all sections unite in finding any one candidate preferable?

The answer is that all these assumptions are as dead as last summer's flower-garden. Everyone of them was nurtured hopefully by the supporters of Mr. Hoover, yet he was the worst defeated candidate of any major party in history.

An About Face.
 The election returns are much more decisive on that point when they are compared, detail for detail with the figures for 1928.

It is in itself an astounding contradiction of the old political theories, that the two greatest landslides of all time could have taken place at two succeeding elections, and operated in exactly opposite directions.

Mr. Roosevelt's popular plurality approximates that by which Mr. Hoover won four years ago—something above six millions. In other words, more than six million voters, not simply a minor group of independents, changed tickets between one election and the next. And that figure, it should be remembered, is net. It takes no account of the undeterminable number who changed the other way—that is, those who voted against Mr. Hoover last time, and supported him this time.

To put in terms of state majorities, 34 states or more than two-thirds the whole number, went republican in 1928 and switched to democratic in 1932.

Considered along with the breaking up of the solid south in the last election, the statistics mean that the bloc of independent voters has been increasing by leaps and bounds in recent times, and that an almost negligible number of states can be set down at the start of future campaigns as "safe" for either party.

Voting Habits Changing.
 Of course it would be a mistake to draw too broad conclusions from two such extraordinary years as these of 1928 and 1932.

Each of these campaigns involved certain elements not usually present, and allowance should be made accordingly.

But certainly political axioms can be regarded no longer as axioms when they have been overturned twice in so short a time. The evidence is ample that voting habits are changing, and that the politicians hereafter must stop, look and listen, instead of taking too much for granted.

Problems Must Be Met
 Vastly important problems, both domestic and foreign, have been shouldered aside for campaign purposes. Now they must be met.

A new deficit is gouging its way deeper and deeper every day into the fiscal policy of the national government. There is a growing undecurrent of conviction that new taxes must be provided with a minimum of delay. It would be hard to find any subject more heavily loaded with political dynamite.

New appropriation bills must be passed between now and July. Practically every member of house and senate, of whatever party, has told his constituents to expect reductions in government spending. How and where to prune must be fought out all over again.

Both the great parties are newly pledged to do something about prohibition. Democrats and republicans alike, but with varying purposes, are examining whether something should not be done about the tariff. A few congressional investigations, growing directly out of the incidents of the campaign, already appear probable.

THE BATTLE OF HASTINGS—1066 A. D.

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by J. Scott Williams... inspired by the surging fury of the Norman hordes under William the Conqueror, in their merciless onslaught against the English in the Battle of Hastings, October 14, 1066.

"Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

"Nature in the Raw is Seldom MILD"

No raw tobaccos in Luckies—that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette.

The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted".

That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

A COMFORTING MYSTERY

Not the least entertaining bit of recent news, surely, is the revelation that Sarah Ann island has vanished from its accustomed place in the Pacific ocean.

To begin with, it is nice to know that there is, or was, an island with such a name. Sarah Ann island—what sentimental captain of what 18th century whaling bark or down-east trading brig first ran across that dot of coral, sand and palm trees, and what girl was he thinking of when he gave it that name?

But the real news of the whole business, of course, is that Sarah Ann has vanished; and an ocean in which solid, long-established islands can disappear from the sight and knowledge of men is an ocean from which the old-time mystery and wonder have not yet departed.

The far seas do tricks like that, now and then, and provide master mariners with tales that landlubbers do not usually believe. A skipper will be driving his ship along in waters where, according to the charts, he has nothing at all to fear; and suddenly an island will loom up in his path, and an outlying reef will open his ship's bottom, and all hands will make for the boats.

And we stay-at-homes, reading of such marvels, conclude usually that the verdict against the luckless skipper was quite proper; and it is not until we pore over the old books which the daring navigators of long ago wrote for us that we realize that the wide eastern seas are indeed places where peculiar things can happen.

So now comes this story of Sarah Ann island, to indicate that the old-timers were right; and it is comforting, somehow, to know that the storied queerness of the Pacific is still what it used to be. Sarah Ann will very likely pop up again some day, a few hundred miles out of its location. Meanwhile its disappearance has made a good story for us.

What this country needs is the sort of resourcefulness shown by the Altoona Tribune which offers the news item that bustles are coming back and that "old papers are for sale at this office at 10 cents per bundle."

Some of the economic observers are saying that the worst part of the depression is over. We are waiting to hear the barber's viewpoint before deciding.

It probably won't be necessary this year to notify the Democratic candidate that he has been elected president.

The new contract bridge rules remind us that we hadn't known just exactly what the old ones were.

Mr. Hoover apparently sees no need to ask for a recount.

Bank employes are not worrying about their vacations these days.

TURKEY PLACES COFFEE ON STRICT BARIER BASIS ISTANBUL (AP)—Millions of Turks got a bad shock when, slipping their traditional cups of black syrupy coffee, they read in the papers: "Millions of figs for coffee but not one cent in cash."

The new minister of economy, Djelal Bey, announced that unless coffee exporting nations—chiefly Brazil—buy Turkish figs, olives and rugs, the 13,500,000 Turks (even babies drink it) will have to find a new national beverage.

"I will not allow one centime to be sent out of this country in payment for coffee," Djelal Bey said.

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE. Not the least notable feature of the great democratic hurricane of November 8 was the manner in which it wrecked finally and completely some of the pet theories on which political planning has been based for many years.

What becomes of the long-accepted notion that in this country there are two parties fairly evenly matched, with a comparatively small group of independents holding the balance of power?

Or the tradition, established in Lincoln's time and reaffirmed in Wilson's, that the country will hesitate to change presidents in a time of great national stress?

Or the idea that in a two-candidate contest for the highest office, the man who is in will necessarily be hard to beat because of the favors he has done and the organization he has built during four years of power?

Or the old conviction that the respective interests of the states have grown so diverse that never again will all sections unite in finding any one candidate preferable?

The answer is that all these assumptions are as dead as last summer's flower-garden. Everyone of them was nurtured hopefully by the supporters of Mr. Hoover, yet he was the worst defeated candidate of any major party in history.

An About Face. The election returns are much more decisive on that point when they are compared, detail for detail with the figures for 1928.

It is in itself an astounding contradiction of the old political theories of all time could have taken place at two successive elections, and operated in exactly opposite directions.

Mr. Roosevelt's popular plurality approximates that by which Mr. Hoover won four years ago—something above six millions. In other words, more than six million voters, not simply a minor group of independents, changed tickets between one election and the next.

And that figure, it should be remembered, is net. It takes no account of the undeterminable number who changed the other way—that is, those who voted against Mr. Hoover last time, and supported him this time.

To put in terms of state majorities, 34 states or more than two-thirds the whole number, went republican in 1928 and switched to democratic in 1932.

Considered along with the breaking up of the solid south in the last election, the statistics mean that the bloc of independent voters has been increasing by leaps and bounds in recent times, and that an almost negligible number of states can be set down at the start of future campaigns as "safe" for either party.

Voting Habits Changing. Of course it would be a mistake to draw too broad conclusions from two such extraordinary years as those of 1928 and 1932.

Each of these campaigns involved certain elements not usually present, and allowance should be made accordingly.

But certainly political axioms can be regarded no longer as axioms when they have been overturned twice in so short a time.

The evidence is ample that voting habits are changing, and that the politicians hereafter must stop, look and listen, instead of taking too much for granted.

Problems Must Be Met. Vastly important problems, both domestic and foreign, have been shouldered aside for campaign purposes. Now they must be met.

A new deficit is gouging its way deeper and deeper every day into the fiscal policy of the national government. There is a growing uncertainty of conviction that new taxes cannot be provided with a minimum of delay.

It would be hard to find any subject more heavily loaded with political dynamite.

New appropriation bills must be passed between now and July. Practically every member of house and senate, of whatever party, has told his constituents to expect reductions in government spending.

How and where to prune must be fought out all over again.

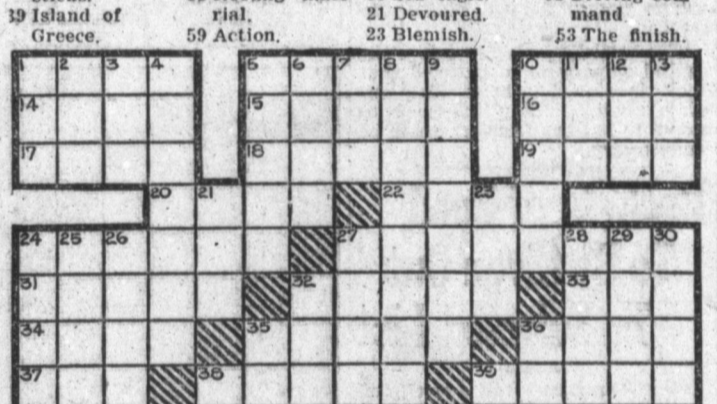

Both the great parties are newly pledged to do something about prohibition. Democrats and republicans alike, but with varying purposes, are examining whether some-thing should not be done about the tariff.

A few congressional investigations, growing directly out of the incidents of the campaign, already appear probable.

Magnetic Storm May Accompany Meteor Shower

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—Man's first opportunity to discover whether electrical storms accompany showers of meteors may come the night of November 16, when the Leonid meteors are expected to reappear for one of their rare visits to earth.

The idea that the bombardment of a large number of these meteors may cause a magnetic storm is advanced by A. M. Skellett, of the Bell laboratories. He has published a suggestion to scientists generally to set up the instruments which record magnetic disturbances.

Magnetic storms ordinarily come in the form of intense electrical radiation from sun spots. The electronic rays "ionize" the upper atmosphere, by breaking up atoms so that they are electrically charged. Skellett says the impact of a meteor smashing through the air probably breaks it up sufficiently to cause ionization.

Usually there are too few meteors to make a test possible. A great shower might electrically enough atmosphere to affect instruments, but the testing devices did not exist the last time there was a meteoric storm, which was the Leonid display of 1866.

"The Leonids," Skellett says, "are the swiftest of the recurring meteors and therefore have the most energy for ionization." They strike the upper atmosphere at average speeds of 44 miles a second.

The Leonids apparently do all

State-Wide Car Theft Ring Is Being Broken Up

DALLAS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Three men were under arrest here tonight as police moved to break up what they asserted was an automobile theft ring whose activities extended all over Texas. Nine stolen automobiles had been recovered and detectives expected to return to the owners at least fifteen other stolen vehicles.

Detective Lieut. C. C. Rader, head of the automobile theft division in Dallas, announced the breaking up of the ring with the arrest today of the third man, a 21-year old Dallas youth. The leader, described as a 30-year old paroled convict, was arrested more than a week ago at Abilene by state highway patrolmen, on information furnished by Dallas detectives. The second man was arrested at Longview several days ago.

Investigators said the Abilene man, taken to San Antonio in connection with a car theft, made a statement to two Dallas detectives revealing the operations of the ring and giving information as to where the stolen automobiles could be found. The two detectives recovered four of the cars today at Brady.

Cars stolen in Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene, San Antonio, Longview and other cities, officers said, were taken to the East Texas oil fields for distribution, but three of them were driven to Louisiana for sale. Detectives said federal charges of interstate transfer of stolen cars would be filed, in addition to charges in the state courts.

Garner Is Still Taking It Easy. UVALDE, Tex., Nov. 15. (AP)—John Garner, vice-president-elect, spent today at his home here, looking through a mass of telegrams and letters and just resting.

It was an interlude between a series of fishing and hunting expeditions, which have kept the speaker of the house, fish, quail and doves in plenty, and more of the same to come.

Garner appeared much refreshed by a long trek through the woods yesterday. Ross Brumfield, a friend who accompanied Garner, said the latter bagged four squirrels and 15 doves, the limit. Garner cooked both squirrels and doves to his own taste in a camp as he had said previously he would do.

Garner and Brumfield also looked about for a location for a deer hunt. The deer season opens Wednesday. They have planned to leave Tuesday afternoon and spend the night in the open in order to get an early start. Brumfield said he wouldn't be surprised to get a "Johnnie" among the first to get a buck.

Scores of letters and telegrams are arriving daily for Garner, but only the most important matters are being attended to now. Garner wants all the rest possible before leaving the latter part of this month for Washington.

Mrs. Garner took a brief vacation from home duties, spending the day in San Antonio, accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Tully Garner.

Four Halls in Gray County Restrained

Of five amusement halls in Gray county against which injunctions have been asked, only one had not been restrained by district court order Saturday. The one was at LeFors, and it was to be considered soon.

The injunctions order the managers and operators to "desist and refrain from using said room, hall, building, and premises or any part thereof" as a "pool hall or place where pool and billiards or similar games can be played with balls and cues as said pool hall is defined by the laws of the State of Texas."

The temporary injunctions were granted by Judge W. R. Ewing. They affect only use of the buildings as prohibited by state laws.

DENTON, Nov. 15.—The acceptance of jazz music by noted classical piano artists came rather as a surprise to students of Texas State College for Women (CIA) when they recently interviewed Rosina and Josef Lewyng.

"The definite melody and rhythm of jazz has its place in American music if played as it should be," the artist told the girls. "However," they continued, "after a good many years of quick synopated rhythm, the people are again beginning to appreciate the simple classical melodies."

FOR TALK AT LOCAL CHURCH

MISSION IS CONDUCTED BY RECTOR FROM ABILENE

"Triple Tests of Love" was the theme of Rev. W. F. Gerhart's sermon at the Episcopal church last evening. The church was well filled and the sermon was listened to with great interest.

The visitor said in part: "After his resurrection Christ appeared to Peter and asked him three things, 'Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because it reminded him that he had professed that he would go with the Lord even to death. Instead he denied him three times. He had been ill proficient in his love. So have we. Our Lord conveyed this to Peter, now it is time for you really to love me. Love demands all of a man's energies and faculties. Our Lord who is risen and alive stands and asks us, 'Lovest thou me?' He addresses us three times. Do you love him with all your heart, with all your mind, and with all your will? It is the love displayed on the cross that stirs the inner life to a free movement toward Christ."

Jazz Acceptance Surprises Students

DENTON, Nov. 15.—The acceptance of jazz music by noted classical piano artists came rather as a surprise to students of Texas State College for Women (CIA) when they recently interviewed Rosina and Josef Lewyng.

"The definite melody and rhythm of jazz has its place in American music if played as it should be," the artist told the girls. "However," they continued, "after a good many years of quick synopated rhythm, the people are again beginning to appreciate the simple classical melodies."

THE BATTLE OF HASTINGS—1066 A. D.
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by J. Scott Williams... inspired by the surging fury of the Norman hordes under William the Conqueror, in their merciless onslaught against the English in the Battle of Hastings, October 14, 1066. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

"Nature in the Raw" is seldom MILD

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE BOYS HAVE STRAWBERRY PLANTS, PIGS AND COWS FOR THEIR PROJECTS

The vocational agriculture boys are taking a great interest in their projects and are working very hard. These boys have reported a great many projects.

Many of the boys have chosen strawberry projects for the coming year. Three of the boys have already reported putting out a total of 700 plants this year, with several boys intending to put out some more.

Some of the boys have chosen pig projects, including pigs and cows. Among the boys who have pig projects are Allen Huddlestone, Lester McKnight, Paul Minner, and others.

Some of the boys decided on sheep projects. These boys seem to be learning how to take the lambs and make for them have just completed a newspaper rack for the high school library.

The agriculture club regrets very much to report the loss of Chester Vanke, who has moved from this community.

Book Week to Be Celebrated November 14-19

"Could we give one gift to every child, we should choose the love of books,"—William Frederick Bigelow.

Book Week was inaugurated in 1919 as a manifestation of the growing spirit of sympathy with childhood needs and the desire to give boys and girls their full heritage. The first observance of Book Week was planned by the American Library Association, the Boy Scouts of America, the American Book-sellers' association, and a group of publishers. Now practically every national organization takes part in the annual celebration of Book Week.

The aim of Book Week is to bring boys and girls into the delights of the companionship of books. Never before has there been a greater need for emphasis on worth while reading. Every home should recognize books among the best friends for growing human beings. There is no better way to foster ambition in children, to stimulate the imagination, to cultivate an inquiring mind, to give them tools for continuing their education than through good books.

Children need and appreciate guidance in reading. The following criteria should be kept in mind in the selection of books for children:

1. What is the character and content of the book?
2. Is it adapted to the child's understanding and interest?
3. Is there originality in content and manner of presentation?
4. Has it educational value—social, intellectual, humor, adventure, heroism, romance?
5. Is the style clear and intelligent with suitability of diction and vocabulary?
6. Is it concrete, vivid, dynamic, appealing?
7. Are the illustrations adequate, and have they artistic value? Do they enhance the appeal of the text?
8. What is the size of the book and is it convenient for handling?
9. Is the paper durable? Is the binding attractive?
10. Is the type standard size?

READING MAKETH A FULL MAN
Speak to me not of travel, I have seen
The white whale cross the line,
Wallow in Indian mud, and Arctic snows,
The Libyan plain and English pastures green.
On the divan of Hafiz I have been,
And plucked from Omar's garden many a rose.
Seer Don Quixote dealing mighty blows
And mourned the death of Egypt's fated queen.
Does travel broaden? Never more than this—
To mark the manners, yet perceive the man;
To mark the false, and yet perceive the true,
To weep with sorrow and to smile with bliss;
To see the deed and understand the plan—
Enlarge the inner, not the outer view.

Journalism Club Makes New Rules

At the regular meeting of the Journalism club last Thursday morning some new rules regarding the attendance at meetings were made, and plans for a party were discussed.

The new rules regarding attendance are as follows: Anyone absent for two times in succession without a good excuse will be fined ten cents before being admitted to good standing in the club. All members are urged to attend the next meeting, Thursday morning at 8:35 o'clock.

A committee, composed of David Whittenberg, Myrtle Faye Gilbert, and Dorothy Brunley, was appointed to work up a party for the club. The party will probably be held the night before Thanksgiving.

Girls Organize Beautification Club at School

Two groups of girls of the vocational home economics departments have just organized a Beautification club. These girls are planning to re-decorate the laboratory and to give it a home-like atmosphere.

The chairman of the first group is Frances Chappell. Members of the group were divided into committees according to their interests. The different committees are as follows: Flower committee, Elizabeth McAfee. Curtain committee, Hazel Gray, Barbara Downs, and Hazel Martin. Picture committee, Alene Gregory, Mary Parker, and Frances Campbell.

Zelma Cannon was elected chairman of the second group. These girls divided into two sections. Section I is composed of Jessie Marie Gilbert, Zelma Cannon, and Katherine Ward. Their aim is to take charge of the windows. Mr. Lester, head of vocational agriculture department, and his boys are helping the girls by building flower boxes. Section II will have charge of flower vases and pots. The members of this group are Elsie Johnson, Cleo Lee, and Beulah Mae Ford.

The club will meet again on Wednesday, and a larger number is expected, as this meeting was held on short notice.

IN MEMORIAM

Maribelle Gray, who graduated from Pampa high school in the class of '22, died of heart failure last Friday night at Clarendon, where she was attending college. Maribelle was known and loved by many students of the high school. She attended school here for two years, graduating last year.

Former classmates were chosen to act as pallbearers and flower girls, and many others went to Clarendon to attend the funeral, which was held yesterday afternoon.

The student body and faculty extended their sympathy to the bereaved family, and particularly to Fred Johnson, a cousin, now a senior.

LIMERICK IS HOST

The Junior Police, who directed the traffic at Harvester park last Friday, were invited to a free show that night at the LaNora theater by the manager, George Limerick. Some were not present, as they were too excited and worn out after the Pampa-Lubbock football game. The Junior Police wish to take this means of thanking Mr. Limerick for this courtesy.

WHICH ARE YOU?

You had rather be a "could be" if you could not be an "are," for a "could be" is a "maybe" which has a chance of reaching par.

You had rather be a "has-been" than "might have been" by far, for a "might have been" has never been.

But a "has been" was once an "are."

SCHOOL HAS ACQUARIUM

A balanced aquarium is the chief aim of the biology classes of Pampa high school. The aquarium now contains tadpoles, turtles, snails, goldfish, and one very small catfish. Various water plants are growing there. The aquarium, which is located in room 308, is worth dropping by to see.

HI-Y TO MEET

A regular meeting of the Hi-Y club will be held in the library at 7:30 o'clock tonight, at which time initiations of new members will take place.

The names of nominees for new officers will be read to the club. Elections are planned to be held the following meeting unless the meeting is held in the gym. All members and any who wish to join the club are urged to be present.

Bodies of Storm Victims Burned

CAMAGUEY, Cuba, Nov. 15. (AP)—The town of Santa Cruz Del Sur became a gigantic funeral pyre today on the order of military authorities.

The destruction of wind and water that also took the lives of probably 2,500 Cubans last week, was thus completed for the sake of sanitation.

This action made it probable that the exact number of lives taken by the hurricanes of last Wednesday will never be known.

Meanwhile, President Gerardo Machado was ready to leave the capital to inspect the hurricane tern areas, and governmental agencies: sped up the task of relief rehabilitation.

Dr. Octavio Zubizarreta, minister of the interior, who estimated the dead at 2,500, traversed much of the 100-mile wide path of the hurricane during the night with military authorities.

His train carried 350 sacks of rice, 6,000 pounds of lard and 20,000 sacks of beans and other rations for temporary relief of the thousands of homeless in Camaguey province.

W. H. Fenix, attorney of Wichita Falls, is here today.

D. A. Upham of McLean is here on business.

The plays and the student directors are as follows: (1) The Finger of God, a serious comedy—Clinton Evans; (2) Two Cricks and a Lady—Jim Stone; (3) "Thursday Evening," a comedy of young married life—Louise Walstad.

Meet THE NEW PRESIDENT!

Determination, one of Franklin D. Roosevelt's traits of character, stands out in this interesting camera study of the president-elect.

EDITOR'S NOTE: What type of man is Franklin D. Roosevelt, newly-elected President of the United States? What are his traits of character, his philosophies, his interests? Following is the first of six articles which answer those questions by revealing little incidents in the life of the new chief executive.

By WALTER T. BROWN
(Associated Press Staff Writer Who Accompanied Roosevelt on His Campaign)

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—There is a streak of determination in President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt that might be called stubbornness.

Early in the presidential campaign virtually all of his advisers tried to persuade him to make few trips and none of them long. He listened and went ahead studying times tables. In the face of circulated stories that candidates who made long trips seldom won the governor continued to arrange schedules.

He eventually went on one of the longest trips any candidate ever took.

Discussing the efforts to dissuade

him from making extended journeys, he said:

"They forget I am Dutch and stubborn, and besides I like to travel."

The same was true of the airplane journey to Chicago to accept the nomination. Mr. Roosevelt had had such a trip in mind for months. He saw that such a journey would get the campaign away to a running start; would give his candidacy a dramatic aspect at once and would counteract any comment regarding his physical condition.

The Roosevelt leaders at Chicago made the wires hum trying to discourage the trip. Curtis Dall, his son-in-law, advised him the sentiment was against it.

When all efforts to halt him failed, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., one of his closest friends, succeeded in effecting a compromise. Mr. Roosevelt agreed to go to Chicago by train if he were nominated early enough in the afternoon to enable him to reach Chicago the next morning.

But, as his nomination came after the dinner hour and after the last fast train had left Albany, he had to fly to the convention city.

Armistice Day Observed With Program at Gym

Last Thursday morning the high school had a special Armistice day program. Mr. Stone opened the chapel and introduced Mr. Fisher, who had charge of the exercises. After a few words of introduction, Mr. Fisher presented the speaker of the day.

Mr. C. A. Clarke, Scout executive for this council, made a talk upon the meaning of the American coat of arms and the spirit of Armistice day.

Mr. J. M. Dodson said a few kind words about the school, the football team, and the faculty. The coaches explained the condition of the teams, and Dr. H. H. Hicks then made a short talk about the team and ended by having each member of the team say a few words about the coming game. The team and pep squad cheered each other; the team also gave the band a big hand. Intervals were filled with band music and the cheers of the pep squad. The chapel ended with the singing of the school song.

FEWER SCHOOL DAYS, LOST DUE TO COLDS

Remarkable Results of New Colds-Control Plan of Special Interest to Mothers and Teachers

Last winter, comparative tests of Vicks Plan for better control of Colds were made among 862 children in nine schools. A group of 429 did not follow the Plan—and lost a total of 501 days on account of colds. The other group of 433 followed the Plan—and lost a total of only 173 days on account of colds. A saving of practically two-thirds in school time!

Each Vicks package contains full details of this unique Vicks Colds-Control Plan.

A PATH TO PARADISE

SYNOPSIS: It is less than three weeks since Clive and Santa were married, and only a few days longer since Santa obtained her divorce from Dicky.

THE MONEY FLIES

BUT in marriage, as Clive was to learn, there are no closed chapters.

Perhaps wives with incomes are naturally sensitive. Santa was a former the habit though living with Dicky. What the rent of their apartment was Clive discovered from the janitor.

Her extravagance in clothes was terrifying. Every day she raided Fifth Avenue. The result was a avalanche of boxes. She hung away dollars where he would have considered cents.

Illogically, despite her independence, her pretence was that she was utterly his possession. Never more so than when she paraded before him, courting his approval of the latest addition to her wardrobe.

"It's stunning. But there aren't enough days in the year to wear the frocks you already own."

"So that's the idea! But aren't you setting the pace a trifle fast? What I mean is—"

"I'm your slave and you're my sultan. I don't buy them to please myself. I dress for you only."

At the end of the first month when he inquired what he owed, she replied, "Whatever you choose."

"But won't you show me the accounts?"

"They aren't made up. You earn how much? About four hundred a month. Give me half of it."

That two hundred wasn't his share, he was certain. When he wrote out his check for three hundred, she tore it up. The second time she accepted it, but omitted to cash it.

He took her to task. She placed him under a crushing obligation.

"As your husband I'm legally responsible for your debts. What a fast I'd look in a bankruptcy court if I couldn't state—"

She burst out laughing.

It was during these first weeks that he arrived home to find her reading a newspaper. The sight was unusual; she rarely read anything. She was so intent on its contents that she didn't hear his approach.

"Something interesting?" He perched on the arm of her chair. "Let's squint at it."

The paragraph was marked. It contained the news that old Mr. Dak was dead and that his only son, Richard, had fallen heir to his millions.

"Dicky must have sent it," Santa commented. "As you see, it's a Chicago paper."

Clive rose.

"I'm off to doll myself up." He glanced back from the doorway. "If he really did send it, he had his nerve."

Would he never be rid of that fellow? While he tubed, and during dinner he brooded over the incident.

When the maid had departed and lunacy was permissible, Santa leaned against his knees, squatted on the floor tailor-fashion.

Stretching back, she coaxed him. "What's troubling the old head?"

"If you'd been his wife when all this money blew in, would you have divorced him?"
