Musings of the moment: More than one politician is troubled this year in writing his platform. NEA is still too popular to criticize openly and yet codes from a bulwark behind which former favorite marks cannot be hit so easily. High school students worked themselves up to a fever heat in football, so it is not surprising that they find it difficult to sit still at chapel. As we hear it, the students have gained in weight during the recent months while teachers have worked so hard they have lost weight. There is no new deal in the teaching profession, unless you mean the raw deal they have received in many states. Humans, not events, are on trial. There is no condition in life which human wills cannot change. After death is beyond our jurisdiction. Most business men need to look upon eating as a pleasure and an end, rather than a means to sustain life and something to be finished as quickly as possible. After all, "there's no hurry"; we are merely geared up and afraid to slow down.

MISS COOK QUITS

Pampa News: There is a pathetic note in the otherwise amusing announcement of beautiful young Nila Cram Cook that she has resigned from the position of the Mahatma Gandhi, and that henceforth she will seek the freedom and safety of the world. The discordant note rings from the fear that Miss Cook will become just as disappointed, just as disillusioned, in the new life as she had become in the old. This is no sad commentary on life in general. It is based, rather, upon what is known of the Cook temperament and personality, and the rebelliousness that characterized the Cook tradition.

State Press in Dallas News: It should be remembered in Miss Nila's favor that she is only 22 years old and has more money than is good for her. She idealized the dispersed Gandhi, or the cult which he is understood to serve. His shrewdness in publicity no doubt captured her imagination. She joined his flock and slept on a bed of bricks until her back was sore. She drank goat's milk until her stomach revolted. Then she picked up her things and departed into the world. With her fortune she can do all the good she wants to, a thousand times more than she could do by throwing in with a group of grass eaters and pretending to grow holy by continuous meditation combined with mortification of the flesh. Gandhi himself may be altogether sincere. On the other hand, he may be half fanatic and half fraud. But granting his utter sincerity, what does his way of life offer to men and women who don't like goat's milk and hate to sleep on bricks? To worship a god which stands only for negation may suit the Gandhi temperament, and the temperaments of his disciples, but it doesn't suit minds which are appreciative of the

There is a Santa Claus. The NEWS, recipient of beer, cigar, and cakes from readers can testify to it.

Wise we are to feel peaceful toward the world for a few days before we face January 1 bills and the re-birth of Texas' bitter politics.

Texas inventors have taken out more than a thousand patents in the last year, but Ma Ferguson, just retired of her own will and in her own good time.

Louisianians probably feel that it is easier to burn ballots than to cast them intelligently.

Round-the-world flying has been proved possible, but if you're going to rush around the globe and return, why not just stay at home in the first place and save money?

Publicity-hounded gridlers should not worry—in six months the folks will be trying to remember their names.

All the Christmas ties that bind are not hung around the neck.

I HEARD—Harvester Bill Haner deciding that he isn't the ladies' man he thought he was. Leon Noblett had something to do with the decision, it seems.

A local young man asking a new office girl if her eyes ever bothered her. When she asked him why, he remarked that they bothered him.

Another Pampa wonderer wondering whether he should put the present initials on the future initials on the "girl friends' Christmas present.

PAMPA READY TO CELEBRATE YULE SEASON

TREE AND MOVIE FOR CHILDREN; FOOD FOR POOR

CHRISTMAS cheer will be uniformly satisfactory in the Pampa area this year because of the wider spread of employment, arrival of wheat checks, and revival of business optimism. Santa Claus will visit all children of families on the CWA lists Saturday evening in the city hall at 7:30 o'clock. Admission will be only to those having tickets obtained from Mrs. W. H. Davis. Up to last night, 256 tickets had been issued, and children were lining up at the city hall basement this morning. Gandy and fruit for the tree have been bought by the Lions, Kiwanis, and Rotary clubs. The fire department has repaired and painted nearly 500 toys. Dolls have been bought by the Camp Fire Girls. A big tree has been donated by the Pampa American Legion. The Junior chamber of commerce has charge of arrangements, and the program will be given by the band and pupils of the Sam Houston school.

Another event of interest to children will be a free matinee at 10:30 a. m. Saturday at La Nora theater, where a number of comedies will be shown and candy and fruit given to every child present. Only those of 15 years of age or younger may attend. Baum's grocery store is jointly sponsoring the event with the theater.

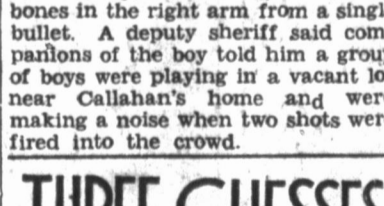

About 10 baskets for the most needy will be distributed by the Elks club. Churches will care for their own needy. The Legion has a small list. Some individuals will, as usual, remember their friends among the unemployed or sick residents. It will be impossible for the CWA office to give out names of needy families tomorrow. Saturday is pay day, with checks totaling about $5,000 to be given out to men who must be individually identified.

Ten "guests" of the county jail will receive their expected "big Christmas" dinner. They may have additional men to share the meal if drunkenness continues. The city jail had only two inmates this morning, but likely will have more for the Christmas dinner. Meanwhile, college students are returning. Pampa schools have recessed for the holidays, county schools are closing today, and teachers are going to their home towns. Pampans daily are leaving for family reunions in other cities, but a greater number of guests are arriving to spend Christmas here. If good weather continues, businessmen will be part of the weekend for outdoor sports, especially golf. Business firms will be generally closed Monday; also the bank, postoffice, CWA office, and public buildings. Desperation for many who have delayed their rounds to the stores. All day and until closing time in the evenings, local stores are filled with residents of this territory. Big stocks, reasonably priced, and courteous employes have made local firms popular with shoppers. The shopping season, officially opened on Santa day, has been much better than last year. Pampa has been even more attractively decorated, both as to streets and show windows.

Borgan Charged In Shooting Of 13-Year Old Boy

BORGER, Dec. 22 (AP)—Frank Callahan, 65, was charged with assault with intent to kill today after Jack Hubby, 13, suffered two broken bones in the right arm from a single bullet. A deputy sheriff said comparisons of the boy told him a group of boys were playing in a vacant lot near Callahan's home and were making a noise when two shots were fired into the crowd.

French Premier

Flushed with victory on an issue that has caused two preceding governments to fall in two months, Camille Chautemps, newest French premier, shown here in a recent photo, faces a severe test. The entire budget project was approved by the chamber of deputies and Chautemps now takes it before the senate.

'OUJIA BOARD' SHOOTING JAILS MOTHER, GIRL

Daughter Says Board Told Her To Shoot Father

ST. JOHNS, ARIZ., Dec. 22 (AP)—Punishment for a 15-year-old girl who admitted shooting her father at the instigation of her mother's Oujia board was considered by authorities here today. After the girl, Mattie Turley, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted murder, County Attorney J. Smith Gibbons recommended that she be sent to the state industrial school for six years. The mother, Mrs. Dorothea Irene Turley, held as an accomplice, denied the Oujia board seance in which the shooting was allegedly ordered so that she would be free to marry "a young cowboy." Her petition for freedom on a writ of habeas corpus was set for hearing Tuesday.

The victim of the shooting, E. J. Turley, chief gunner's mate of the naval reserve, was in the Navy hospital at San Diego, Calif., to which he was taken by airplane. Physicians said the wound in his hip still was under examination.

Miss Turley testified at her mother's hearing in justice court that she followed her father to the corner of their ranch home and took careful aim at his back with a shotgun. She said she lost her nerve but, after thinking "how much it would mean" to her mother, raised the gun again and fired. "Mother told me that Oujia board could not be denied," she testified, "and that I would not even be arrested for doing it."

Clark Attends Court Of Honor At Whittenburg

Scout Executive C. A. Clark last night attended a court of honor held at Whittenburg for troops of Whittenburg and Borger.

Four Scouts were advanced to second class, two to first class, and six merit badges were awarded. A. W. Nelson, Scout commissioner of the council, presided. Scoutmasters present were Mark Paulain of Whittenburg and H. H. Beavers, Carl Gardner, and Gus Fagin White of Borger. The Whittenburg troop voted to show the Adobe Walls Indian fight in pageantry at the next council round-up.

PRESIDENT IS NOT LIKELY TO GRANT DEMAND

GRAU BEGINS DRIVE ON BOMBERS IN CUBAN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—Indication was given today in authoritative quarters that should Spain make a formal request that the United States intervene in Cuba, President Roosevelt would refuse. Acting Secretary William Phillips and other administration officials refused to make any formal statement on press dispatches from Madrid indicating that some diplomatic overtures concerning intervention by the United States under the Platt amendment might be made by Spain.

Intimations have emanated from administration officials, however, that such request would be flatly rejected. Many officials doubted that the Spanish government will actually make formal protest or bring the plight of Spaniards in Cuba to the attention of the United States.

As generally interpreted in Washington, the Platt amendment gives the United States the right to intervene in Cuba, but does not obligate the United States to such action.

HAVANA, Dec. 22 (AP)—A relentless drive on bombers was launched in Havana today. Soldiers and sailors scoured the streets in a search for terrorists. Every automobile regarded as "suspicious" in any way was halted and searched. Even pedestrians were called upon to submit to examination.

This was the government's answer to long-continued violence emphasized by incendiaries early in the week and followed during the night by four sharp explosions. Last night's bombings occurred in Havana's busiest downtown section. No casualties were reported, but windows were shattered and other damage done by blasts in front of the American club and another near the Spanish casino. Interest was high in a report from Madrid that Spain was considering some action in the Cuban situation, made more acute by recent outbreaks in connection with the new law requiring that 50 per cent of all employes be natives.

Forged Check Is Seized; Man Held In Jail at End

A man arrested Sunday night in Enid, Okla., on a "drunk" charge, had in his possession a cashier's check for $150, made out on the First National bank of Pampa. Becoming suspicious, Enid officers mailed the check to Chief of Police Jno. V. Andrews to see if it was "good." It was dated Pampa, Tex., Nov. 28, 1933.

The check was a forgery, made out G. C. Stevenson and signed by A. P. Rone. The check itself was different from the ones used by the local institution. A. P. Rone is not connected with the local bank and no one of that name is known in Pampa.

The man being held by Enid officers was finger printed and a copy sent to Pampa, but he had no record here. Chief Andrews informed Enid officers of the forgery this morning. The check is the first of its kind received here.

DROUGHT APPOINTED

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 22 (AP)—Henry P. Drought, San Antonio attorney, has been appointed Texas director of the newly created national emergency council to coordinate all emergency relief activities throughout the nation, according to word received here from Washington today. Drought said he had not been officially notified but that he would accept. The post pays $6,000 per year.

Three Occupants Of Car Are Injured In Collision With CWA Truck

AMARILLO, Dec. 22 (AP)—Eighteen persons were injured, one of them probably fatally, early today when a truck taking CWA highway workers to their jobs collided with a car at a road intersection near the city limits. E. A. Hare, of Amarillo, one of the 13 CWA workers injured, sustained a crushed shoulder and neck and was in a critical condition. Steve Hidalgo, another worker, was injured internally. Others suffered broken limbs, bruises and lacerations.

The truck overturned as the light touring car rammed it just back of the cab. The driver and worker riding in the cab with him, escaped injury. The driver of the car, who gave the name of "Bull" Hughes, Mineral Wells, Texas, and his two companions, were injured slightly. Their car was demolished. Among those more seriously injured, all from Amarillo, were H. H. Miller, injured back; M. E. Campbell, injured back; James Padgett, broken arm; T. A. Belcher, injured to head and face; P. E. Bull, shoulder and leg injuries. Listed by hospital attendants as

'Alley Oop' Says 'Merry Xmas' To Three City Boys

"Hi there Leonard, Lawrence, and Denver! Merry Xmas!" This message from Alley Oop came today in Christmas card form to the Pampa Alley Oop club from T. Hamlin, cartoonist of the comic strip. Alley Oop is pictured in a jovial mood, with his left hand raised in greeting. In his right hand is his stone ax. A tropical background was drawn into the card in very neat, fine pen work. The boys are proud of what is probably the most unique Christmas card ever received here.

HOW CHRISTMAS WILL BE SPENT BY BIG 'NAMES'

Clarence Darrow To Read Book; Smith To Be Santa

By The Associated Press. How will they celebrate Christmas? President Roosevelt, in a holiday-festooned White House, will be the center of a four-generation celebration.

In New York, the president's erstwhile "Happy Warrior," Alfred E. Smith, will be Santa Claus to three generations. Clarence Darrow will spend the day reading a book. Gov. Johnson of Colorado is going to hang up a sock in the legislature, hopeful of getting "successful relief legislation for Colorado."

Some of the country's prominent citizens will observe Christmas in the following manner: President Roosevelt: At the White House, with four generations of the Roosevelt family. In the family group will be the president mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, his wife, their daughter, Mrs. Anna Dell, the president's wife, his five children, and the president's sons. The president will read Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," an annual Roosevelt custom.

Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York, quietly at his lower Fifth Avenue, New York, home with his wife, his five children, and eight grandchildren, after attending Christmas services up the avenue at St. Patrick's cathedral. He will be the family Santa, distributing gifts from the tree. General Charles G. Dawes, former vice president: With the family in Evanston, Ill.—especially the three grandchildren.

County Arranges For Paving Fund

Gray county commissioners yesterday completed an agreement with the Brown-Crummer company under which money for use on the Pampa-McLean paving project will be obtained to the extent of $30,000. Gray county bonds were sold at par and secured interest for that amount, while the county agreed to buy back $16,000 of its bonds maturing in 1937-38, paying the same price. Interest on these bonds will therefore be saved. Under no other arrangement could money for the paving project be obtained immediately.

The commissioners will meet again Saturday at 2 p. m. to examine the completed application for a 70-30 federal loan on the same project. Enough money will be sought to top the caliche next spring. Three alternative bids for asphalt topping will be asked.

TEXAS RELIEF BONDS TO BE READVERTISED

SHEPARD HOPES FULL AMOUNT WILL BE SOLD SOON

AUSTIN, Dec. 22 (AP)—George H. Sheppard, state comptroller and member of the Texas bond commission charged with the duty of selling state relief bonds, said today he was hopeful that the full amount of the authorized $2,750,000 issue would be sold on readvertisement. The commission yesterday received bids totalling only $1,017,500. Additional offers were coming in today in the mail and Sheppard said he expected the total of the bids would reach $1,250,000. The state legislature authorized the issuance of $5,000,000 in state bonds and the commission offered half that amount to bidders yesterday. The amount remaining from yesterday's bidding and the second block will be readvertised immediately. Sheppard expressed belief that yesterday's sale would be an incentive to purchase additional bonds on readvertisement. He pointed out that most of the bids were for small amounts and said he believed larger buyers would come in on the next issue offered. Sheppard said he believed the bonds could have been sold without difficulty at private sale. The purpose of the public sale was to obtain the best bids. All of the offers to buy tendered par and accrued interest, specifically demanded by the statute. He said that since there apparently was no competition in the bidding the commission would accept offers received after the specified time.

Caliche Being Laid on Pampa-McLean Highway

Two crews of men were placed at work on the LePors-McLean CWA program this morning. The first crew worked from 7:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and the second crew went to work at 12:30 p. m. and was to work until 5:30 p. m. Spreading of caliche at the McLean end of the project started yesterday. Top soil has been cleared from the Saunders pit where caliche will be taken for this end of the work. Spreading should start early next week. The crusher has been placed. Work on Highway 33 through the city and on Highway 152 is progressing rapidly. Nearly two miles of first coat caliche has been laid on Highway 152.

WHEAT ADVANCE IS ALMOST 5 CENTS

Mining Shares Up $1 To Around $6 In Rally

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (AP)—Stocks and commodities rallied enthusiastically for a time today on news of President Roosevelt's silver program, but speculative ardor subsided later and prices reacted. Brisk profit-taking followed an opening upsurge of $1 to $10 in shares. Mining issues, which led the rally, held up fairly well and by afternoon were up $1 to around $6. However, weakness in American Telephone and a few other utility issues brought some unsettlement elsewhere.

Silver futures, after opening 2 to 3 cents an ounce higher in wild trading, yielded roughly half their gains. Cotton and grains also fell back from early highs. On the stock exchange, U. S. Smelting which opened $10 higher at $99 receded to around $95 and American Smelting whose $12,000 share block was the largest initial transaction, sagged to $44 where it was up about $4. It had touched $45. American Telephone, rallying in the first burst of buying, dropped around $3 to approximately $106. Consolidated Gas of New York dropped $1 under Thursday's close. By afternoon advances except in metals, ranged from a few cents to around $3. Dollar exchange declined. Sterling rose 4 cents in New York $5.11 1/2 and French francs improved .07 cent to 6.12 cents.

The unexpected news regarding silver gave a sharp flip to grain prices on the Chicago board of trade. July wheat almost made the maximum advance of 5 cents a bushel allowed under the exchange regulations and corn at the best was up more than two cents. Some reaction followed. The flood of buying orders in the market at the outset made it difficult for the traders to establish close markets. Spreads between bid and asked prices were unusually wide amounting from two to four cents and it was some time before actual sales could be recorded.

The general impression in the financial community was that the inclusion of silver in the administration's monetary policy constituted another link in the chain which Washington has been endeavoring to forge for the lifting of home prices.

RUBBER CODE OKAYED

JUDGE GRANTS INJUNCTION TO CUT OIL FLOW

COURT UPHOLDS ORDER OF COMMISSION AS OF NOV. 28.

SHERMAN, Dec. 22 (AP)—Randolph Bryant, federal judge, today signed orders granting the application of the United States for an injunction to restrain the McLean and Tom Potter, East Texas oil operators, from producing more oil than the railroad commission allowable of Nov. 28.

In granting the injunctions, Judge Bryant pointed out that a decision in the suit of the Amazon Petroleum company and others, heard at Houston by a three-judge federal court was pending. The original bill of complaint sought to restrain the two companies from producing more oil until the decision was handed down. In a statement he made at the time the order was released, Judge Bryant said: "While I entertain great doubt as to the validity of the claim of the government presented in this matter, yet I think that the balance of convenience will best be served by granting the order to be effective until the questions involved are determined by the three-judge court to which they have already been presented. The order is accordingly granted."

PARCELS PLACED IN WRONG CAR

Two women who live south of Pampa placed two packages of wearing apparel and a small Christmas tree in the wrong car last night and the mistake was not known until the other car had been driven away. Chief of Police John V. Andrews asks that the person in whose car the packages were placed to return them to him and he will give them to the owners.

"The persons who lost the parcels cannot very well afford to lose their purchases and I would appreciate their return," Chief Andrews said this morning. "It will be a slim Christmas for them unless the packages are recovered."

Kiwanis Program Reflects Spirit Of Yule Season

A program with the "Christmas spirit" was given today at the Kiwanis club. Robert Selby made an interesting talk on the spirit of Christmas and what it meant to older persons. Jim Collins, chairman of the program committee for the first half of 1934, introduced Kiwanians as "imaginary guests" from various states. Each gave a report of some Kiwanis club's activity around Christmas time.

Dan McGrew, retiring president, was given a souvenir as a token of appreciation for his work. Visitors today included Gilmore N. Nunn, Bonnie Rose, Dan Gribben, Jake Cannon, and Mr. Smith.

UPLIFTERS NOW WORRY ABOUT OUR LEISURE

Just as if we didn't have plenty of other things to think about, some of our most notable uplifters are beginning to worry over the way in which John Citizen is likely to use the extra leisure time which the New Deal is supposed to bring him.

The whole tendency these days is to shorten the hours of labor, and it is a pretty good bet that this tendency will go a good deal farther before it gets through.

The five-day week already is becoming fairly common; glimmering on the horizon is that dream of the technocrats of a society in which two or three hours' work a day will be all that will be required of any man.

It happens that well-intended people are wondering if this won't be a very bad thing for the ordinary man. He will have more spare time than ordinary men ever had before anywhere—except, possibly, on some of the more idyllic South Sea islands—and the general idea seems to be that this is apt to be a very bad thing for him.

So, sandwiched in between discussions of the monetary policy and dissertations of the new economic era, come solemn warnings that people must be "educated to use their leisure wisely," and somehow it all seems more than slightly ridiculous.

"Recreation," the magazine published by the National Recreation Association, has an interesting little anecdote in its current issue. An investigator went about asking working people how they were using the extra spare time which the shorter working week has brought them.

She found one working woman sitting on a porch and shot the question at her.

"I just set," said the woman. "When I get tired settin' here, I go inside and set."

And that seems to say it very well. Probably it would be a fine thing if ordinary folk flocked to symphony concerts and art museums en masse, or took up painting as a hobby, or attended all available lectures, or devoted themselves to good works.

But they don't. They'll patronize amusement parks and ball games and movies, they'll use their autos more, they'll stay home and putter around the house and many of them will be content to "just set."

And most of them, "just setting," will contrive to be happy, which is after all the important thing.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (AP)—Led by the silver issues, which spurred following announcement of the president's new plans for the metal, stocks rallied briskly today. The close was strong despite some scattered soft spots. Gains of 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 points predominated, with U. S. smelting up about 10. Transfers approximated 2,500,000 shares.

achievement and make due acknowledgment to those pioneers to whom the state is indebted for all that its people now enjoy. If Texas are worthy descendants of a renowned ancestry, or appreciative recipients of a glorious heritage, they will not hesitate to render the homage that is due the founders of their great state.

By their votes the people of the state have asked that the events of 1836 be appropriately commemorated and have placed the responsibility for such action upon the legislature. Unless the spirit of 1836 is dead, unless the progressive spirit of the past century is now dormant, unless its faith failures, Texas will unite in reverence for its founders, its pride in its progress, and its reasons for confidence in its future.

Insull Is Guilty Of Collusion, Judge Decides

CHICAGO, Dec. 22. (AP)—Federal Judge Evan A. Evans held today that Samuel Insull, Sr., and his bankers were guilty of collusion in bringing about the receivership of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., his $238,000,000 investment house.

The court sustained the charges brought by Samuel A. Etelson, an attorney, and refused to pay any additional fees to Calvin Fentress, former receiver and bankruptcy trustee, and to the receiver's attorneys.

Judge Evans described the Insull investment trust as it operated in 1929 as "nothing but a glorified gambling institution" with little justification for legal existence. The presence of such an institution, the court asserted, was "due to the desire of states to secure revenue and the fact of the states' being one of laxity and not one of diligence."

"There was no collusion in naming of counsel," the court ruled. Each of two law firms has been paid $12,500. The court denied petitions for further payment of $5,000 and $9,000 to the lawyers.

HALF OF TILTS SCHEDULED TO BE IN PAMPA

BOYS TO OPEN SEASON TONIGHT AGAINST HEDLEY FIVE

Coach Odus Mitchell of the Harvesters completed his basketball schedule, up to the bi-county play-off date, yesterday afternoon. Eighteen games will be played between tonight and February 3.

Because of the lateness of the season, it was necessary to crowd the games into the above period. The Harvesters have had only three practice sessions, hence Coach Mitchell believes the games will do the team more good than practice sessions. Half the scheduled games will be played in Pampa.

The schedule includes many exhibition games besides round robin encounters with teams in this county and teams in the Class A, district 1, football section.

The Harvesters will officially open the season tonight with a game with the Hedley Owls.

The Harvester schedule up to the bi-county play-off is as follows:

- December 22—Hedley here.
- December 23—West Texas Freshmen here.
- December 26—Panhandle here.
- December 30—At Panhandle.
- January 6—At Hedley.
- January 12—At Amarillo.
- January 13—Hedley here.
- January 16—Borger here.
- January 19—Amarillo here.
- January 20—At LeFors.
- January 23—At Borger.
- January 25—At McLean.
- January 26—Lubbock here.
- January 27—Plainview here.
- January 30—McLean here.
- February 1—LeFors here.
- February 2—At Lubbock.
- February 3—At Plainview.
- x—Conference games.

1933 GRIDIRON 'TAKE' SHOWS BIG INCREASE

LIBERALIZATION IN ALL ATHLETICS IS MARKED TREND

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (AP)—The rapid growth of professional sports, especially tennis and football, together with a striking trend toward a policy of "liberalization" in all athletics, were no less significant to the country's observers this year than the rise of gridiron attendance, hailed as a "knockout blow for old man depression."

Sports editors and writers, in their response to the Associated Press inquiry on the outstanding trends of 1933, appeared much impressed by the return of what to many must seem like the "good old days."

This was manifest, they pointed out, not alone by the repeal of Pennsylvania's old blue laws against Sunday sports, but also by the spread of legalized horse-racing with wagering system and the renewed popularity of many professional sports, but also by the end of the so-called "reform wave" in college sports.

"The resumption of proselyting among major college football and a complete indifference to it, despite general knowledge, is a startling situation when you consider the trembling and indignation that followed the famous bulletin 23 of the Carnegie foundation, issued Sunday sport, 1933, appeared much impressed by the return of what to many must seem like the "good old days."

HEDLEY'S BASKETBALL TEAM AVERAGES 6 FEET 3 INCHES

78-Inch Center Will Lead Attack on Harvesters At City Gym Tonight

The Harvesters, fresh from football conquests and not yet acquainted with the hardest floor, will meet a team that has won nine consecutive victories when they play the Hedley Owls of Coach "Dumb" Newman tonight. The Hedley girls will play the Harvestettes before the boys' game.

The first game will be called at 7:15 o'clock. Admission will be 15 cents for students and 25 cents for adults. The girls' teams will play on double courts. In past years, three-way courts have been used, but now the center plays tip-off and then goes to a forward position, giving each team three forwards and three guards. The new type of play speeds up the game considerably.

The Owls team averages about 6 feet 3 inches in height and is fast along with its size. The Owls have defeated Estelita team three forwards and three guards. The new type of play speeds up the game considerably.

Port Arthur Is Favored Today At Greenville

GREENVILLE, Dec. 22 (AP)—Two tentatively powerful schoolboy teams—the Port Arthur Yellow Jackets and the Greenville Lions—fought here this afternoon in a game that will send one of them into the finals of the Texas interscholastic League chase.

The largest crowd in Greenville grid history, 45 expected for the semi-final battle between the two clubs, both masters of the defense. The Yellow Jackets, carrying a weight advantage and boasting four pile-driving backs, took the role of slight favorites before game time.

However, Greenville's light club, using strategy and almost forgotten trick plays, had knocked down stern opposition all season.

The winner of this game will meet the victor in the Dallas Tech-San Angelo tilt, scheduled for San Antonio Saturday afternoon, for the Texas schoolboy championship.

SECOND PERFORMANCE OF SENIOR PLAY EVEN BETTER THAN FIRST

When the kid sister in anybody's family goes through the sudden metamorphosis of "growing up"—as young ladies will, you know—there are sure to be smiles and tears.

And when so charming an innocent as Jobyna Loomis combines the native wiles of women with the frankness of the uninitiated, her entrance into the social whirl may be expected to be rather upsetting. To be wholly true to life, of course there must be an older brother like John Loomis, who "takes" after Mother, and another brother like Gary Loomis, who resembles Father to a degree somewhat vexing to the whole family.

Villains there must be in every such plot, minor and major, and for the role of villain-to-be-reformed who could be better than Nick Cromwell, who really looks like a very tired lady-killer just aching to shed his reputation? But the name not lose his character too quickly, and there must be a lady-killer to accentuate the sweetness of Jobyna. So the author of "Jobyna Steps Out," presented by the senior class of Pampa high again last night at the city hall, created the alcewhish Lucy Stevens, the blond in the case who clings and clings and clings but, when riled, can stand on her feet very well, although usually using one foot to stomp angrily.

So far, so good—but every swirling plot must have a balance wheel or two. For one, we have the very modern, withal wholesome and straight-shooting Gln Bradley, who would be very acceptable in any plot. For another, we have patient, mild Mrs. Loomis, typical of those very wise mothers who keep temperamental older fathers and touchy young moderns from breaking off diplomatic relations permanently.

Mr. Loomis may be a bit overdrawn, but he is toned down a bit by an equally violent cook, Della, who holds the spotlight for a dramatic moment in the midst of a very dramatic half hour. The plot must have a turning point toward a logical conclusion, however, and in this play the pivot man is Tony Crandall—the wretch—who wanted to do wrong by our Jobyna, but "We have received a better response to our advertising in THE NEWS this year than ever before," says W. F. Cretny, manager of the City Drug Store, whose firm has used the advertising columns this month to tell the thousands of readers in the Pampa territory about the variety of new and seasonal merchandise which it had to offer for Christmas.

The store was decorated early for the Christmas season and a larger stock than usual was on the shelves for Christmas shoppers.

Erwin Rudolph Is Cue Champ

CHICAGO, Dec. 22. (AP)—Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland, who gave up the study of the violin to concentrate on billiards, today was back as ruler of pocket billiard players for the fourth time.

The Cleveland, who decided between music and billiards at the age of 15, last night regained the title he last won in 1931, by defeating Andrew Ponzl of Philadelphia, 125 to 113 in 18 innings. With the title went $1,600 in prize money, a diamond studded medal and a share of the receipts. Rudolph also won the 1927 and 1930 tournaments.

Ponzl slipped to a tie with the two other Philadelphia entrants, Willie Mosconi and George Kelly, and James Caras of Wilmington, Del., making necessary a playoff for the position and its $1,000 in prize money. Caras and Mosconi were opposed in the first match, with Kelly and Ponzl tangling in the second this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill and son left this morning for Paris where they will spend the Christmas holidays.

Forbidden Valley

By WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

SYNOPSIS: Curt Tennyson repulses the friendly advances of Sonya, whom he has befriended in the Canadian wilderness, because he knows that the girl is planning to desert his party and to join Igor Karakhan, the millionaire crook whom Curt is tracking down. Curt and his partner, Paul, know that as soon as Sonya leaves with LeNoir, Karakhan's contact man, LeNoir will send the remorseless Kioshebe Indians to destroy them.

CHAPTER 35. DEPARTURE.

Curt stood up and gave Sonya his hand to rise. As his glance met hers he saw tears in her eyes, saw her lips trembling. "All right, Curt," she said, quietly, with a humility that, spangled with a smile, glowed down at the ground, started to say something more, checked herself and turned away to her tent.

He thrust the clips into his pocket and walked up to the little stone fort which he and Paul had rolled together. Paul was carefully inspecting it and plunging sticks so that no arrows could sift through. They did not count on having to use the defense; but their situation was delicate, and LeNoir was a crafty fellow, and it was wise to guard against the unforeseen.

At the upper tip of the island Ralph was sitting at the water edge occasionally drawing in a fish on the hand-line he was holding. He looked lonely and disconsolate. Curt wondered whether Sonya had really told him the truth about her trip. Ralph was an unselfish soul, but to bring the girl he loved into that country and help her join another man seemed a bit too self-effacing even for him. Probably she had spun him some lie.

As he brought Paul an extra rock he was startled by the low quavering call of an owl 600 yards out upon the lake. He dropped the rock, stood listening. LeNoir? It couldn't be; the red star was nearly two hours high. But then the call came again, no nearer but louder; and he distinctly caught the falsetto quality of it.

"Hell! It is LeNoir, Paul! He's come early for her!"

Paul nodded. "Yes, it's he. Siam-Rade and he must want to get the whole business over with tonight."

They crouched down behind the rocks and waited. Curt's eyes were upon the tent, where Sonya would come out. He had not imagined that her going would be an ordeal, a savage pleasure in being free of her for good; but now when she actually was leaving, it seemed impossible to let her go.

When she stepped outside the tent and looked around cautiously to see where Paul and he were, he rose up, overwhelmed by the impulse to go down there and keep her from leaving. Paul checked him, took a part of the burden of decision upon himself.

"Don't, partner! You'd be sorry. Let her leave. She'll be in no danger. Remember, we are following her and can see that she gets safely out."

Sonya hurried on down the island. In the owl dusk her slender form grew fainter and fainter till Curt no longer saw her. A canoe grazed on the peat-gravel as she tugged at the craft to get it afloat. A dark blur moved away from the shore. Curt covered his face with his hands to shut out the sight of it. When he looked up again, the blur was gone.

Paul touched his arm, moments afterward.

"We'd better be somewhere else in an hour from now. This island is going to have visitors."

Curt pulled himself together. "Yes, we'd better go," he said jerkily. "We'll take what we need of our outfit and get away to one of these other islands, and then split up."

"Francis and Jocku haven't come back."

Curt turned toward the caribou island, barely visible in the deep dusk. It just then occurred to him that he had not heard the guides shoot. Their silence was strange; they had been gone long enough to make two such trips.

He hurried to the lower end, launched the remaining canoe and darted down lake. A few rods offshore he called in a guarded voice: "Jocku! You and Francis get out of there. Come alive! We haven't any time to waste."

No answer came back. His voice sent the little band of caribou tearing through the swamp birth to the other side of the island, but neither Francis nor Jocku answered.

The explanation dawned on him.

with a crash. He remembered, too late, that the guides had sat off by themselves all day, talking in low tones; and that Jocku had acted queerly when he came to make his request. Now he saw through the whole ruse. Their trips after a caribou had been a scheme to secure a canoe and get away. Those two had deserted!

He whirled the canoe around and started back to camp, swearing at the evil luck that dogged every step he took. The teachery of those natives was little short of disaster. He had counted heavily on them to take Ralph back south; and now they had sneaked away, the pair of cowards, and Nichols was left on his hands. If he and Paul were encumbered with Ralph on their swift shadowy trip, they would not stand a ghost of a chance.

Before he had gone very far he heard a rifle shot down stream. He stopped short, listened. A mile south, down where the river narrowed to a bottle neck, a flurry of shots sounded. The dull thud of the guns was unmistakable—the heavy bear Winchester of Jocku and Francis. Those two guides were in trouble; they'd run into an ambush!

One of the Winchester suddenly stopped. The other shot four times more. Then, faintly in the last silence, a long-drawn yell wailed up the river, more a scream than any articulate word. Piercing, vibrant with terror, it sent shivers through Curt. It was a man's death cry.

All his anger changed to heartfelt pity. "Poor devils!" he said softly. "They got it. The Kioshebes had a party at that narrows, to cut us off if we tried to break away."

He rowed on ashore, goaded by the memory of that cry. Paul had heard it too, and knew what it meant. Working swiftly, they made ready to leave. They left the tents standing, abandoned most of the supplies and all the heavier things; took nothing but guns, blankets and food for a few days.

"Carry this stuff to the canoe," Curt directed. "I'll go get Ralph."

As he hurried up the island he tried to figure how he might salvage something out of the wreckage of his plans. Perhaps they could take Ralph several miles up some tributary river where the Kioshebes were not likely to come, and secrete him in some cave, with food and camp necessities, to be picked up later when they had finished with Karakhan. It was possible.

"Ralph! Come along with me. We're pitching away from this place on the jump."

Ralph got up quickly. "Why, what's the matter?"

"I'll tell you later. Let's get into the canoe and put distance between us."

"Where's Sonya?" Ralph queried, winding up his fish line.

"Don't ask any questions now, man, for Lord's sake! And let that line go. Some on, we're leaving here—"

He hit the sentence off. Out upon the lake to the west a "merganser" called. From north and south came two sharp gr-ack-ack. Curt saw nothing. Then his eyes picked up five blurred mottles, out at the limit of vision. He peered sharply at them. Canoes; five Kioshebe canoes!

He spun around with Ralph and ran down toward Paul. If only they could get out upon the lake, they might make a running battle of it and lose themselves in a maze of reedy islets half a mile east.

At the lower tip of the island his partner's gun ripped the night silence with a sharp gr-ack-ack. When he reached Paul, the latter was kneeling down and clipping a fresh magazine into his smoking rifle.

"Look! Paul grabbed his arm. "Six of them! Coming in at us!"

Curt looked where he pointed. Three hundred yards offshore half a dozen sinister shadows were loomed out of the dusk. Paul's volley had checked their heading dash, they had scattered to make the target harder; but they were coming straight on, aiming for that lower tip.

"Lord—they've got us!" Curt gasped. Before they could possibly get their canoe launched and out of the shallows, those dancing shadows would be upon them. By a margin of minutes, the precious minutes lost in hunting for Jocku and Francis, they had failed to get away.

A few stray arrows, already swishing in the sand around them, emphasized the point.

"Let's get back to our rocks," he ordered. "Nothing to do now but shoot it out."

They turned and ran for the shelter.

Tomorrow tragedy darkens the island fort.

FEAST FOR THE DOGS
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Because life is not as lonely as it was for Manuel Silva and Martinez, the dogs at the Oakland pound will have roast duck for Christmas dinner.

Silva came to the pound from Martinez a few days ago and obtained a fox terrier that no one else wanted. In a message accompanying the ducks, he explained both he and the terrier were happy in their new companionship. He requested the ducks should be roasted for the dogs remaining at the pound.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: A Vision of World Peace.

Scripture Lesson: Isaiah 11:1-9.

1. And there shall come forth a shoot out of the stock of Jesse, and a branch out of his roots shall bear fruit.

2. And the Spirit of Jehovah shall rest upon him: the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of the knowledge and of the fear of Jehovah.

3. And his delight shall be in the fear of Jehovah; and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes, neither decide after the hearing of his ears:

4. But with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and decide the equity for the meek of the earth; and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth; and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked.

5. And righteousness shall be the girdle of his waist, and faithfulness the girdle of his loins.

6. And the wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the gazelle, and the calf and the young lion and the fatted together; and a little child shall lead them.

7. And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox.

8. And the sucking child shall play on the pole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the adder's den.

9. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain; for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah, as the waters cover the sea.

Golden Text: The earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah, as the waters cover the sea.—Isa. 11:9.

Time: Isaiah's early prophecies (Beecher), B. C. 766. Death of Isaiah, B. C. 679.

Place: Jerusalem.

Introduction
The chief topic of international interest is the abolition of the spirit of war and the establishment of permanent world peace. This last is the most appropriate of all themes for Christmas, the birthday of the Prince of Peace, at whose coming the angels sang "Peace on earth, good will to men."

As we begin next year with the account of the birth of Christ, we take for our Christmas lesson this Messianic prophecy of the great evangelical prophet, Isaiah.

Isaiah, universally reckoned the greatest of the Hebrew prophets, preached in Jerusalem during the reigns of four kings—Uzziah, Ahaz, Jotham, and Hezekiah. He was a man of affairs, intimate with monarchs, well known and influential in the court, and that in spite of the terrible moral decadence of the time. His supremacy among the Hebrew prophets is due, in the first place, to the magnitude of his literary style, reaching the most sublime heights, and excelling in almost every form of prose and poetry. But also in the second place, and chiefly, it is due to the fact that he most clearly visioned the future, and prayed most clearly the character of the coming Messiah.

Wisdom and Understanding
"And there shall come forth a shoot out of the stock of Jesse, the father of David, and the ancestor of the royal line of Judah, the ancestor also of our Lord, 'the Lion of the tribe of Judah.' The reference to the 'shoot' out of the 'stock' or 'stump' of Jesse 'means simply that the future King is to be of the house and lineage of David' (Luke 2:4). The comparison of the dynasty to a stump, however, indicates that Isaiah expected it to lose the remnant of its glory preserved by Ahaz, perhaps to be as nearly destroyed as it was by the wicked Queen Athaliah (2 King 11:1 ff.)."

Prof. H. G. Mitchell. This came to pass in the days of Christ, when the Jewish people were forced to submit to the rule of Rome. "And a branch out of his roots shall bear fruit." Of lowly origin, springing from the base of a stump, yet the kingdom which Isaiah foresaw, the Kingdom of God which the Son of God came to establish, was to be a fruitful kingdom. It was to restore the ancient glory of David's kingdom, and to bring about a new era of peace and blessing, a new era of righteousness and justice.

The Fear of Jehovah
"And his delight shall be in the fear of Jehovah." The word translated "delight," in the original Hebrew properly means "scenting with satisfaction," and hence "taking pleasure in." Our Lord, quoting in the synagogue of Nazareth from Isa. 61:1, 2, said that he came to earth, among other things, "to preach good tidings to the poor." His heart was always open to the needs of the sick, the impoverished, the down-trodden, the suffering. He rebuked most sternly the cruel rich, and the hypocrites who "devoured widows' houses." In proportion as Christ's teachings reach the hearts of men, poverty is less prevalent, comfort and good cheer are more common, and the lot of piteous humanity is ameliorated. Our courts appoint lawyers to give their services freely to the poor, so that none shall be oppressed; and the welfare of the poor is Christian lands is one of the noblest evidences of the truth of Christianity.

The Need for World Peace
"The Great War demonstrated that something was wrong. The Christian church did not prevent that war. The question is, 'Why did it not?' That war started in Europe, the oldest of the Christian continents. The church is mighty in Europe. There are 375,000,000 professing Christians on that continent, and 90,000,000 of those are Protestants. There are three great hierarchies of ministers and priests: the Roman hierarchy, the Greek Catholic hierarchy and the Protestant hierarchy, thousands and tens of thousands of ministers and priests, all of them educated, all of them consecrated to the Prince of Peace, and yet in the presence of this mighty host dedicated to love, a whole continent slips down into hell!"

The World War cost 26 million lives, 337 billion dollars, the moral deterioration of whole nations, spiritual tragedies beyond computation, and the sowing of the seeds of future wars.—Kirby Page. Already we are talking about the possibility of another World War. Already the expenditures in preparation for it are mounting above our war expenditures before the World War. An explosion almost anywhere may set on foot a war that would wipe out civilization. The people that should fall out the thought and prayers and active effort of Christians above all other topics is that of world peace.

The Way To World Peace
"It has been said that if the children were taught the ideals of peace for two generations, peace would prevail in the world. This is because the youth of today will become the men and women and rulers of tomorrow."—Harry P. Gibson.

The real significance of the League of Nations that fifty-four nations, including all major powers except the United States and Russia have solemnly signed a short, simple, agreement, first, not to go to war without arbitration or conciliation, and second, to work together for the general betterment of world relations.—Kirby Page. The World Court consists of all the nations of the world except nine, these being small nations with the exception of the United States and Russia. Its judges decide all questions submitted to it by the nations. The Kellogg-Briand Pact, originated by the United States and France, is a solemn agreement entered into by the nations of the world renouncing war as a means of settling international disputes, and promising henceforth to settle them by peaceful relations.—The peace of Christ must be taught in our homes, our Sunday schools, and our churches.

A Christmas Prayer
"Others, Lord, yes, others, Let this my motto be, Help me to live for others, That I may live like Thee."

GOVERNMENT DECIDES TO BUY DOMESTIC SILVER UNTIL 1938

$15,000,000 TO BE PUT IN CIRCULATION

PRICE OF NEW-MINED METAL RAISED 21 CENTS AN OUNCE

By WILLIAM L. BEALE

Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. (AP)—Silver coinage today was commanded by President Roosevelt in a sudden expansion of his monetary plans for lifting commodity prices.

By proclamation, he opened federal mints to newly-mined silver in a program estimated to push the metal's price from around 43 to 64½ cents an ounce, add millions to the nation's mining wealth and spur exports to silver-using countries.

Later, he announced he had ascertained that the Eskimos originally were Indians who had wandered east and west from the coast.

Warren's Ideas
The argument ranges from absolute denial that silver remonetization will affect prices for more than a few days to the statements of men such as Prof. G. F. Warren, one of the major influences back of present money policies, that by altering silver along with gold prices any desired commodity price level may be attained.

Simultaneously with promulgation of silver coinage, the administration evidenced anew its intention to continue gold buying. The DPC increased funds set aside for such purchases from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 and disclosed that 507,485 ounces had been acquired domestically for $16,976,000.

By law, it takes about sixteen silver dollars to buy one gold dollar. In fact, however, it would take about 50 ounces of silver to buy one ounce of gold. The price of silver on the new government market at 64.5 cents an ounce is but one-fiftieth of the government's $34 gold price.

A silver dollar will buy considerably more than a dollar's worth of silver, even with silver priced at 64.5 cent, which is about 20 cents above the current open market price. A silver dollar, in effect, is worth a dollar because it is made so by law.

Thus the current actual intrinsic relationship between gold and silver is 50 to 1. Warren has suggested a ratio of something like 20 to 1.

Danish Arctic Explorer Dies

COPENHAGEN, Denmark Dec. 22. (AP)—Dr. Knud Rasmussen, Danish arctic explorer, died here today after a long illness brought on by food poisoning contracted on his last expedition to Greenland. He was 54 years old.

Dr. Rasmussen was seriously ill when he was brought home November 3. He was removed from the ship to his residence in an ambulance.

It was said at that time that only a transfusion aboard ship had saved his life.

Dr. Rasmussen was born at Jakobshavn, Greenland, June 7, 1879. His ancestors on the maternal side were Eskimos.

After making his first expedition to Greenland in 1902, he visited all of the known Eskimo tribes between 1908 and 1924, studying their customs.

Later, he announced he had ascertained that the Eskimos originally were Indians who had wandered east and west from the coast.

Fire In White House Put Out

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. (AP)—A fire broke out in the waste-paper room in the White House executive office today but was quickly extinguished without any damage.

It is an inside room, without light, in the cellar of the executive offices—which were gutted by flames several years ago at Christmas time.

A fire detector system started today's alarm and a White House policeman put out the blaze without the necessity of calling fire apparatus.

Smoke fumes from the fire, however, spread throughout the executive office.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE THE CHAMPION TRAP SHOOTER

SHOOTING FROM SCRATCH, 25 yards behind the traps, Walter Beaver pulled out of an exciting tie to win the 34th Grand American—the first time it has been won by a limit contestant! He has been a steady smoker of Camels for years, and says: "I like their taste and mildness...they never jangle my nerves."

HOW ARE YOUR NERVES? If you smoke a lot...inside...outdoors...wherever you are...Join the swing to Camels. You'll like those costlier tobaccos in Camels. You'll find them milder, better tasting, and they never get on your nerves.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

WALTER BEAVER, holder of the coveted Grand American Handicap, says:
"Winning a trap-shooting championship is partly a matter of luck, partly the result of practice and partly healthy nerves. I'm a steady smoker. People kid me about it at the tournaments. They say I never have a cigarette out of my mouth. During all these years I've been smoking Camels, not only because I like their taste and their mildness, but also because they never jangle my nerves."
It's no fun to feel that your nerves are ragged—and to wonder why. Check up on your eating...your sleep...your cigarettes. Get a fresh slant on your smoking. Switch to Camels. Your nerves and your taste will tell you that Camels are a more likable cigarette—and that they don't upset your nerves.

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.
