Old age security remains a national problem, despite the fact that some magazine ads assure you that there's a rich widow or widower just longing to take over your support.

Crime is a national scandal, but the gullibility of the millions who are cheated of billions annually ought to be considered a national disgrace.

Garlic, now claimed to contain vitamins A, B and C, can be obtained in odorless form. But, odor or no odor, we'll continue to get along with spinach and feel something like a martyr in doing even that much as a concession to modern life.

Criticize the younger generation if you like, but the popularity of marble shooting tournaments over the country proves that youngsters are still able to "knuckle down" to their business.

"Heads will roll" is a Hitler motto, and heads have rolled under the merciless fire of executioners. But in this country heads will nod during political speeches, and the statesmen worry about that, too.

Brevitorials
Musings of the moment: Most of us who have lived long in this country remember many things had to be "ordered." And many of us, although we trade at home whenever possible, get a great satisfaction out of opening packages. . . . Although our mail right now is crowded with political thunder, we get a thrill of every visit to the mail box. . . . Many if not most of the pleasures of life are in anticipation. We range high among the anticipators. We would be restless if we did not have "something planned" and something toward which to work all the time. . . . It is possible even to regret complete success, just as many a person who makes a fine sale regrets the parting with what he sold.

VOYING TIME is here. More than a dozen absentee voters have been cast in the state election. The question of the hour is: DO YOU KNOW HOW TO MARK YOUR BALLOT? It is an arbitrary regulation and not one for the exercise of logic. There is one key word to remember — SORTA! Lines must be drawn through the names of all candidates but the ones for whom one desires to vote. Just imagine your mind at all the candidates but one in each place, then scratch through all the names with a pencil excepting your favorite. Don't make a check mark opposite your choices, and don't place Xs after them. In other words, when you mark a Texas, scratch the ballot as Texas do. Otherwise your vote will not be counted.

SENATOR Tom Connally should have a big audience when he speaks at the Gray county courthouse at 3 o'clock tomorrow. A United States senator is a celebrity in any country of the world. Mr. Connally has been one of Mr. Roosevelt's trusted advisers and has rendered brilliant service for the new deal in a number of instances. Next to Marvin Jones, he has been the best friend Pampa and this territory have had in Washington. He has led the friendly arm of the president on his shoulders. He has won the right to another term. We urge everyone to hear his message.

GRAY COUNTY is putting her best foot forward. The way is open for the completion of the Pampa-McLean highway. Uncle Sam is making an outright gift of $36,000 toward the project and lending $84,000 more on easy terms. The Brown-Crummer company is finding other county bonds easy to sell. That means that the county highway system can be completed without further delay, except that occasioned by the weather. . . . Moreover, the work order has been given on the McClellan creek bridge. That does not mean that all the right-of-way difficulties have been removed, but that the bridge itself can be finished in the next two months. By that time, undoubtedly, the rest of the right-of-way easements will be obtained.

OTHER HIGHWAY projects will get under way before fall under state-federal plans, unless unforeseen delays are encountered. Highway 152 should be hard-surfaced all the way to the Oklahoma line. On the west, at least the grade and drainage and part of the hard-surfacing should be completed to Berger Camp on highway 60 (U. S.) between Higgins and Clovis should be closed. Possibly highway 88 south of us will get some attention. There is a good outlook for every important highway except that of highway 88 north across the Canadian river. This is the most vital need to town on both sides of the river but, frankly, there will be a lot more water down the Canadian before the state decides to build that bridge. We hope we're wrong.

L. L. PALMER'S wonderful apple orchard north of Alameda is doing splendidly despite the drought. It is sub-irrigated. The trees, once full of blooms when we photographed them a few weeks ago, now have apples to the top.

TEXAS UTILITY FIRM ACCUSED BY EXAMINER

PURPORTED POLITICAL DEALS AIRED IN LETTERS

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Evidence purporting to show that the West Texas Utilities company, an Insull unit, spent $168,514, and used asserted propaganda and political connections in efforts to acquire municipal plants in West Texas and New Mexico in the period from 1928 to 1930, was offered the federal trade commission today by Examiner Carl H. Dupue.

Dupue listed these aims as having been spent in the campaign, which he said was successful at Texline and Stratford, Texas, adding the expenditures at Clayton, N. M., Vernon and Brady, Texas, "pertained to unsuccessful efforts to acquire those properties."

He listed expenditures as: Clayton, $4,299; Vernon, $3,592; Brady, $5,013; Texline, $47,607; Stratford, $108,004. He placed in the record, extracts from correspondence he asserted bore on the company's various negotiations, in which the term "propaganda" appeared, and in which reference was made to political influence.

Dupue testified the company overstated its income and surplus, and obtained unearned dividends as a result. Dupue said the company registered inter-company profits of $3,193,861, and that the common stock of the company valued on its books at $13,294,243 actually was worth $6,887,195 after deduction of these profits and other items.

The report contained a letter said to have been from Price Campbell, president of the West Texas Utilities company at Abilene to James C. Kennedy, described as Utilities company, relative, the examiner said, to acquisition of the municipal plant at Stratford, which was quoted in part: "I have other information which cannot be put in this letter, that was received from Kansas City by phone. . . . The editor of the newspaper presided as toastmaster. Whenever the occasion requires it, this party is ready to announce that he was offered $1500 for his editorial support by the organization endeavoring to invade Dahlhart."

Also the record quoted from a letter of April 4, 1930, from F. W. Schroeder to Campbell, relating the examiner asserted, to extensions into the Texas Panhandle, in which Schroeder quoted a "Judge Underwood," described by Schroeder as a former Amarillo city attorney: "He (Underwood) feels that the utilities company will eventually reach a point where it will sell these properties to Insull interests, due to not having a franchise, which fact would eventually affect the sale of their bonds. . . . I gathered from Judge Underwood's talk that he could handle the political situation, and knew where to go to get what he wanted any time. Mayor Thompson seems to be more or less obligated to him."

Father of Youth Surrenders Him In Life Theft
Bond of $1,000 was made for Arthur Bell, 23-year-old Crowell youth, when he was surrendered by his father today to answer an indictment for his part in theft of about $1,925 from the Postal Telegraph office here. He was jointly indicted with a former local manager of the telegraph company. His father, S. S. Bell, a prominent banker at Crowell, hunted the youth through several states before he found him in Oklahoma City. Letters sent by the young man to his father had been delayed.

MAN WHO BEAT 2 AGED WOMEN GETS 99 YEARS
Sterne Pleads Guilty And Sobs Openly During Trial

BROWNWOOD, July 11 (AP)—Lester C. Sterne of Abilene was sentenced to 99 years imprisonment today for robbing and beating two aged women whose home he had invaded the night of June 19 near Cross Cut, Texas. Sterne pleaded guilty and sobbed openly as he told the jury he was "sorry" and attempted by evidence to obtain a light sentence.

He told of attempting to chloroform Mrs. DeBusk, so he could get a roll of money hidden under the mattress of her bed, which he believed contained $400. He got only $40 and said he struck the aged woman when she roused and screamed, then struck Mrs. Housh with his fist as she ran into the room.

COOK RELATES TROUBLES OF 2 STUDENTS

BEAUTY TOOK MEDICAL PREPARATION HOURS BEFORE SHE DIED

NORMAN, Okla., July 11 (AP)—Belief that Marian Mills, 20-year-old campus beauty at the University of Oklahoma, died as the result of an attempt to prevent motherhood, was expressed today by County Attorney Paul Updegraff, following an all-night investigation.

He said he based his theory, pending a post mortem report, upon the story of Mrs. Hazel Brown, cook for the Delta Upsilon fraternity, in whose apartment the girl's body was found yesterday afternoon, shortly after Neal Myers, a pharmacy student, had summoned a physician and then disappeared. Mrs. Brown, said Updegraff, admitted that Miss Mills, the daughter of Elbert M. Mills, an associate professor at the university, had been taking a "quack" medical preparation.

Myers Still Hunted. Search was continued for Myers, who had come to the fraternity cook's duplex apartment with the girl Monday, remaining until yesterday afternoon and telling Mrs. Brown that he and Miss Mills were married. At the time, the girl's parents thought she was attending a house party at Tulsa. He believe Mrs. Brown's story, as much as she has told, to be true, said Updegraff, who explained he was detaining the cook for further questioning. "The autopsy report will determine it definitely. "I'm satisfied that death was caused by overdoses of this medicine, whatever it is."

MAN WHO BEAT 2 AGED WOMEN GETS 99 YEARS
Father Defends Son. The father of the 21-year-old student, Dr. P. B. Myers, hurried to Norman and expressed the belief that Neal still is in town and will appear when he recovers from pain. "I don't believe there is anything against my boy," he said. "He always has been a clean, respectable young man." Although relatives of the Mills girl said last night that she was engaged to marry Bernard Doud, university engineering student, who lives in Shreveport, La., friends said she and Myers had been having "dates" for some time. The post mortem report is expected tomorrow or Friday from Dr. Hugh G. Jeter, assistant professor of medical clinical pathology at the university school of medicine in Oklahoma City. He performed the autopsy last night with Doctors Ben Cooke and E. G. Willard, of Norman, and removed vital organs for analysis. Trouble Began in April. The 39-year-old Mrs. Brown told a story of futile attempts to obtain medical aid for the girl, dating from last April, Updegraff said, and of a desperate resort to the preparation.

ARKANSAS GIRL ESCAPES PEN FOURTH TIME
The quiet prisoner was serving a 10-year sentence for her second killing when she escaped by feigning illness. She took a guard's pistol in her flight and officials feared trouble in returning her this time. Her fourth escape came a year to the day after she was paroled by Governor Futrell from a two-year sentence for the courtroom slaying of Jack Worls, alleged killer of her father. The shooting brought a dramatic climax to Worls' trial as the jury had just started to leave the room to consider the case. Helen arose from her courtroom chair and fired a bullet into Worls' head. After much delay she was sentenced to prison, and escaped one time before her parole was granted. Coming here where she obtained new clothing and employment in a cafe, she worked less than a week when she entered the police headquarters and admitted the slaying of Jim Bohots, a cafe operator at Dewitt, Ark. A troubled conscience, she said, caused her to confess the crime which had been dismissed as unsolved by officers. She blamed her unwelcome advances for the slaying. Working in a strawberry patch with other inmates yesterday, she complained to the superintendent of feeling ill and gained permission to go to the hospital room for medicine. Instead, she walked around the main farm building and disappeared after stopping in the night watchman's room to take his revolver. She was clad in men's clothing. Officials say the girl slayed probably headed for her beloved White river country—which is

'TARZAN' MADE DEFENDANT IN DIVORCE SUIT

LUPE VELFZ CHARGES WEISSMULLER WITH CRUELTY

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP)—Love fled Tarzan's nest today as dark-eyed Lupe Velfz, Mexican peppercorn of the films, filed suit for divorce in superior court, charging her husband, Johnny Weissmuller, screen actor and Olympic swimming champion, with cruelty. The Tarzan of the movies may be inarticulate on the screen, the voluble Lupe stated in her complaint, but in his home he "cursed, swore, and threatened his wife." In Weissmuller's pictures he portrays an "ape man" who swings from tree to tree and races to the rescue of his "Jane," who is Maureen O'Sullivan. Lupe's complaint, filed by Attorney Neil S. McCarthy, said that Johnny "broke an destroyed furniture in the home and some of the articles struck the plaintiff and caused severe cuts and lacerations." "The conduct of the defendant in the presence of strangers and friends made the plaintiff ill and nervous," the complaint added. "This conduct caused great grief and mental suffering." The actress stated she was unable to perform in the films in the manner required by her employers. Lupe and Johnny were married in Las Vegas, Nev., October 8, 1933.

near a post on a highway near Pampa. The letter explained that a "friend" held in jail on a charge of robbing Sanford, could be freed for $125. The letter threatened that failure to comply with the request "would be too bad." The brothers admitted in court, however, that they did not know the man in jail and wanted the money to send J. W. and J. D. Tarter, and the case had been transferred here from the Amarillo district. They admitted that they had written a letter to Robert H. Sanford of Pampa, their brother-in-law, demanding that he place $125

Wheat Quickly Rises Limit Allowed By Government
CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—A spectacular wave of buying, greeting the government's unexpected low forecast of the smallest 1934 United States grain crop in 33 years, swept the La Salle street trading pits today whipping prices for wheat and corn up five and four cents, respectively, the allowable limits under trading rules. Wheat and corn prices were pushed to peak limits permitted as soon as the opening gong sounded and the terraced trading pits became a bedlam as brokers sought to execute the flood of buying orders. There were a few reactions as holders realized profits, but at the close quotations were at the ceiling and trading was virtually at a standstill, all offerings having been absorbed. Brokers in their light jackets sat in the pits waiting to snap up selling offers. Every grain on the board was (brought up to the permissible limits before the close. September wheat closed at 93 1/2, corn at 62, oats 45 1/2, up three cents from yesterday's finish, rye at 70 1/2, up five cents and barley at 56 1/2, almost a five cents gain. Maximum prices that trade rules would tolerate for today were reached and maintained owing to what was generally regarded as the most sensational government crop loss report ever issued from Washington. For a while oats, rye and barley afforded a refuge for traders who were stuck with wheat and corn, but finally every grain on the list was up to the utmost limit possible until tomorrow. Wheat and all other grains closed strong, wheat up 5 cents, corn 4 cents, and oats 3 cents. September wheat closed at 93 1/2. Provisions closed unchanged to 17 cents higher.

CZECH URGES ADOLF HITLER 'BE REMOVED'

CURT PROTEST AGAINST UTTERANCE MADE BY MINISTER

—Praha, Czechoslovakia, July 11 (AP)—The German minister to Czechoslovakia delivered a sharp protest to the foreign office over utterances of a socialist deputy named Numelians, which was said to be interpreted as a direct suggestion that Chancellor Hitler should be killed in the best interests of Germany. The protest was made in the interest of "continued good relations" between the two countries. The deputy in question, addressing a meeting of international workers, declared: "It is high time the Reich's chancellor and his comrades should be removed if the culture of the German people is to be saved." The German minister was reported to be particularly perturbed, inasmuch as the utterance was made in the presence of government representatives and foreign diplomats and broadcast throughout the country.

There was a lengthy discussion of a fall program which will be announced in more detail later.

Allison Bank Robbers Slain
ERICK, Okla., July 11 (AP)—Two bank robbers who asked for $1,000, got $200, and death to boot, lay in a morgue here today. They were identified as W. H. Ortag, 38, a farmer near Sweetwater, Okla., and Buster Orr. They were slain near Sweetwater by Texas officers after the robbery of the First National Bank of Allison, Tex., a wild chase, and a bloody gun battle. Sheriff Walter Jones of Hemphill county, Texas, said the fugitives fired six times before he fired a return. The two men, mortally wounded, died en route to a hospital here. NO WHEAT OFFERED In Pampa the top offering for wheat today was 72 cents but farmers were not offering any to local elevators. Cutting has been completed and what grain has not been sold is being kept in farm storage.

I SAW--
Tom Braly and he said he knew a girl who had started reading Anthony Adverse and had actually finished it. Miss Irene Irvine and Bill Harwell at the JA ranch chuck wagon Sunday afternoon. Miss Irvine, carrying painted paraphernalia asked permission to sketch the scene. It was granted. She began working a short distance from the wagon when a fellow dressed like the other cowhands, came out and suggested that she might get a better view farther back. She said she thought the view from where she was sitting was okay. After considerable discussion about the distance, the "cowhand" introduced himself as Harold D. Bugbee, noted painter of JA ranch and Palo Duro canyon scenes.

A PECULIAR CAMPAIGN

Attorney General James V. Allred is waging a peculiar campaign for the governorship. In a good many years of observing politics we have seen nothing like it.

He is asking to be elected governor on issues which condemn his own administration as attorney general? Mr. Allred cites the evils of lobbying, misconduct by public utilities contrary to the people's interest, and monopolistic tendencies in general.

There is not a candidate in the field but would curb these evils, and they can be curbed. But the curbing cannot be done by the governor, and any candidate who says he will stop them if elected to the executive chair is deluding either himself or the voters.

The matter is one of law enforcement only. The attorney general's office is the law enforcement arm of the state government. If the evils cited by Mr. Allred still continue—and, of course, they do, especially lobbying by oil, public utility and other large interests—that very fact is an indictment of Attorney General Allred for having failed in his duty as chief law enforcement officer of the state.

If he contends that present laws are inadequate, he again indicts himself. The legislature has been in session numerous times since Mr. Allred became attorney general. Never once, to our knowledge has he called the attention of the legislature to defects in the law against lobbying, for instance, which render it unenforceable. We may draw the conclusion, then either that the defects do not exist or that the attorney general was not sufficiently interested to ask the legislature to correct them.

If the defects do not exist, Mr. Allred has raised a straw man in order to knock it down; fabricated an issue in order to catch the popular ear and get elected governor. If they do exist and Mr. Allred was not sufficiently interested before this campaign to ask the legislature to correct them, what reason have we to suppose that he would undertake their revision and enforcement when once he had been elected governor?—El Paso Times.

SENATOR BORAH IS HELPFUL

Senator Borah may be a very annoying man, especially to politicians, but now and then he is a very useful one.

Conducting a single-handed campaign in opposition to both democratic and republican policies is an idea that would occur to few people but the senator from Idaho. Even fewer people, having conceived the idea, could do anything with it. But Senator Borah is in a class by himself.

No one can foretell the effect of his campaign. The country may yawn and look the other way, or it may greet him with loud cheers; but, whatever happens, the senator will be useful, just as a bit of string tied about one's finger is useful.

He will keep us from forgetting something that might otherwise, in the flurry of a campaign year, get overlooked. One of our biggest problems today is that while we are pretty well agreed on the goal we want to reach, we are not at all agreed on the route we want to use in getting there.

Mr. Roosevelt has one route, or a blend of routes, all mapped out; Mr. Fletcher, announcing that this route leads only to destruction, is working on another.

Mr. Borah's function right now seems to be to remind us that neither route will prove satisfactory unless we make dead certain that the little man—the ordinary, undistinguished citizen who works when he can get work, pays his taxes and never gets into the headlines—gets protected from the danger of falling into the cog-wheels.

For Mr. Borah sees one fact very clearly. Our emergence from the depression will mean very little unless we find some way of checking the great trend toward monopoly which has been a prime development of the last generation.

It may be that Mr. Borah is utterly mistaken in his belief that the New Deal program does not constitute an effective check on that trend. Fine words have been said to the little man by the administration, in the last year. It would be strange indeed if those fine words were not accompanied by protective action.

NORTH AMERICAN GIRLS CAGE CHAMPS TO PLAY PAMPA BOYS FRIDAY EVE

CARDINALS OF OKLAHOMA TO GO TO EUROPE

HARVESTERS AND EXES WILL PRACTICE TONIGHT

Basketball will be brought to Pampa in a big way Friday night when the Oklahoma City Cardinals, North American girls' championship basketball team, will meet the Pampa Harvesters at the high school gymnasium. The game will be called at 8 o'clock. Boys' rules will be used.

The famous girls' basketball team will embark for Europe July 27, and will represent the North American hemisphere in the Women's Olympics to be staged in London. The Oklahoma team will also play two exhibition games in Paris before returning home.

Several members of the versatile team will compete in the Olympic field events throughout the Olympics. Nine girls will make the trip abroad. They will be accompanied by Coach and Mrs. Sam F. Babb and Will C. Jones. Mr. Jones is manager of the team. He spent yesterday and today in Pampa making arrangements for the game.

Members of the team are: Lahoma Lassiter and Coral Worley, all-American forwards; Vera Dunford, center; Lucille Thurman, center; Hazel Vickers, guard; Frances Williams, guard; Lera Dunford, forward; and Effie Lassiter, forward. The Dunford girls are twins and are often used to confuse the opposition.

Miss Lassiter is a sister of Mrs. Lawrence Spencer of Pampa. Miss Vickers also has relatives in Pampa but they were unknown to Mr. Jones. The girls will visit with their relatives while in Pampa.

The Cardinals are twice national champions as well as North American champions, crowned by winning three games from the Edmonton Grads, champions of Canada.

Coach Odus Mitchell of the Harvesters had not decided on a starting lineup this morning. He will have available J. E. Green, Bill Dunaway, Miles Maribagh, Hoot Fullingim, Roscoe Pinnell, Wayne Kelley, Jess Patton, Orville Heiskell, and a number of 1934 prospects.

The Harvesters will work out every evening until game time. The boys are in fair condition. Most of them are working during the holidays and thinking about football this fall.

A guess about the starting lineup would be Green and Maribagh or Dunaway, forwards; Fullingim, center; Kelley and Patton, or Heiskell, guards.

Mary Lorraine Gibbs, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gibbs of Chickasha, Okla., has returned to her home after spending a month with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Walker.

ZELL EATON AND BOB CONLIFF LEAD IN WESTERN GOLF MEET

DALLAS WINS FROM CATS IN 5 TO 4 GAME

Leland Hammon, Rodney Bliss Are Stroke Behind; Ed White Is Fifth.

TWIN HILLS COUNTRY CLUB, Oklahoma City, July 11 (AP)—A pair of local stars who crept within two strokes of par 70 on this difficult course after 18 holes, pointed the way for the field starting the second qualifying round of the thirty-sixth Western Amateur Golf tournament here today.

They were Zell Eaton, who will be 21 years old Sunday and who was 1933 medalist in three tournaments, the Western, Trans-Mississippi, and Oklahoma Amateur, and Bob Conliff Jr., 27-year-old Oklahoma City lad who is unknown outside Oklahoma but has been knocking for years at the doors of state championships.

They headed a field of 33 players who had 79s or better and were a stroke in front of two of the most formidable of the visitors, Rodney Bliss of Omaha, a Walker cupper, and Leland Hammon of Waco, Tex., newly crowned Trans-Mississippi head 73s.

A stroke behind and tied for fifth place with 74s were Ed White of Bonham, Tex., runnerup in the 1934 National Intercollegiate, and an other unknown local, 17-year-old Lucien (Red) McLaughlin.

Paul Kiebler Jr. of St. Louis had a 75. He was followed by six players with 76s, including E. J. Rogers, former Oklahoma Open and Amateur champion from Oklahoma City; Walter Emery of the Oklahoma City Intercollegiate in 1933; Verne (Spec) Stewart of Albuquerque, N. M.; Grable Duval of Kansas City, and Maurice Hankinson of Oklahoma City.

The golfers with 77s were Arthur St. John, a (Jack) Oklahoma City product; Jack Malloy of Tulsa, member of the Princeton golf team; and Dorris Day and C. E. (Ernie) Flood of Oklahoma City.

Scores indicated that the outside limit to enter the match play which begins Wednesday night range between 155 and 159.

Such golfers as Charles (Chick) Evans Jr. of Chicago, who held the title eight times, and Johnny Lehman of Chicago, 1930 champion, were forced to bow to the course with 81 and 80 respectively, and were given only outside chances to come through the second round.

Here are the others under 80: With 78s: Earl Thompson of Tulsa, Paul Leslie of Jefferson City, Mo., Charles Kistenmacher of Paris, Texas; L. P. Jones of Memphis, Tenn., veteran; Billy Lee Craig of Seminole, Okla., and Harry Douglas and R. A. Owens, both of Oklahoma City.

With 79s: Spec Goldman of Dallas, Oscar Weichon and J. D. Cole of Kansas City, Sonny Manarchy, the Rockford, Ill., hitch-hiking golfer; Charley Yates, the Atlanta who won the 1934 Intercollegiate; Jess Fronterhouse of Duncan, the Oklahoma interscholastic and amateur champion; "Little" Jack Hoerner of Hastings, Neb., giant, and Curtis Collier of Fort Smith, Ar.

TOURNAMENT'S RULES LISTED BY SPONSORS

AMARILLO GLOBE-NEWS SENDS REGULATIONS TO TEAMS

Rules for the Amarillo Globe-News baseball tournament have been adopted and are being sent to teams throughout the southwest. The ninth Amarillo tournament will open August 27.

The Pampa Roadrunners, defending champions and the fourth Pampa baseball team to win the Amarillo event in eight years, have been invited to defend their title. The invitation will probably be accepted.

The list of rules follows:

1. Any baseball team outside of professional leagues is eligible to compete in the 1934 Globe-News tournament which will be held in Amarillo at Metro Park July 27 to August 5, both dates inclusive.
2. Each team will be allowed to certify a playing roster of 16 men. If the manager is a player, he will be included in the 16; if a bench manager, 16 other players will be allowed.
3. Each team must go through the tournament with the original list of 16 players as approved by the tournament manager.
4. Each team's application for entry must be accompanied by a certified check for $100 which will be posted as forfeit money. This $100 will be returned as teams are eliminated or play out their schedule. This forfeit check is by no means an entry fee; the purpose of the posting of it merely being to guarantee appearance and the playing out of the schedule.
5. All entries, with forfeit check and player roster, must be in the hands of the Globe-News sports department not later than midnight, July 25.
6. The sports editor of the Globe-News will sponsor the tournament. All gate receipts, expenses are deducted, will be divided among the first three clubs on the following basis: Championship team—50 per cent; runner-up 30 per cent; and third place 20 per cent. In case of ties, pots will be split on a 50-50 basis. All money will be handled by the auditor of the Globe-News. Clubs not finishing in the money will receive $10.00 for each game they win.
7. At least two umpires will work each game. Play will be in accordance with the Professional Association of Baseball Players' rules and regulations. Umpires' decisions will be final in all cases.
8. Two losses will eliminate a team from the tournament.
9. The tournament manager reserves the right to refuse entry to any team. Records for this summer will be used as a basis by the tournament manager in selecting the teams to compete.

PAMPANS WIN AND PHILLIPS IS DEFEATED

WICHITA FALLS LOSES TO PAMPA, BEATS BORGANS

Two more wild baseball games were staged in Borger yesterday as part of the Borger invitation baseball tournament. Last night the Pampa Roadrunners scored a 23 to 15 victory over the Wichita Falls team. In the afternoon contest, Wichita Falls defeated the Phillips 66" of Borger 18 to 15 in an uphill fight.

The Roadrunners last night collected 20 hits off Nichols and Hillin. Wichita Falls moundsman, Carl Stewart of the Roadrunners was nipped for 14 hits during the affair. He was wild too, allowing nine walks, three of which sent runs across the plate. Wichita Falls scored four runs without registering a hit in the sixth inning.

Ben McHenry and Poindexter, LeFors catcher recruited by the Roadrunners with the consent of the tournament committee and other teams when injuries and illness shattered the Roadrunner lineup, led the Roadrunner attack with four hits in five trips to the plate. McHenry hit for the circuit in the second inning. Grover Seitz gathered four hits on six trips to bat and on top of that stole home in the sixth inning.

Horsley, batting sensation of the tournament, collected three hits for Wichita Falls. In the afternoon game he had perfect day with six hits and Monday the batter gathered five for five. One of Horsley's hits was a homer. Christian, Wichita Falls first baseman, hit two home runs but was called back to second on his late attempt when the umpires ruled that the ball bounced over the fence.

The Roadrunners and Wichita Falls were to meet this afternoon with Borger getting the winner tonight.

DAN MCGSHAIN MEETS FENTON MONDAY NIGHT

Pampa will be the scene of the roughest, bloodiest brawl in wrestling history Monday night when Danny McShain, wild Irishman from Seattle, Wash., meets Lightning Rod Fenton, Canadian masher, in the main event.

The two wildmen have been snapping and snarling at each other for months but have wanted too much money to settle it. The spark of hatred has finally been fanned into flame and the two can wait no longer to get at each other throat. They accepted the proposition of local promoters yesterday afternoon and signed contracts.

No loss terrible will be the semifinal. Pat Garrison, local Irishman, will battle Rob Roy, Goodnight Scotchman, in the 30-minute affair. Garrison is making no secret of his intentions. He intends to show the Goodnight chicken-raiser something new in the way of roughness. Garrison was suspended for roughing the last time he met Roy, and it hurt his Irish pride.

"That Scotch powder puff can't take it," roared Garrison yesterday. "I was just getting ready to treat him to some real punishment the last time we met when he started yelling and squealing and had the suspended. He is going to think a couple of bears are after him when we get together Monday night."

The Scotchman has had the mumps and they made him weak, or so he says. Roy spent two months on the Pacific coast this spring and if reports are true, he learned things about the wrestling game new to these parts. The Scotchman gave Fenton one of the worst evenings he has had in this country last winter.

A referee will probably be useless in the main event but Andy Gump, cocky youngster who traded blows with McShain Monday night, has asked to be the third man in the ring. Both grapplers like the ropes with Fenton having the honors in that respect. The battle should develop into a contest between Fenton's feet and McShain's fists.

Now Mother Eats With the Rest of the Family

Mother isn't tied to the kitchen range any longer when there are hot cakes for breakfast. Thanks to her electrical appliances she can do much of the breakfast cooking at the table. And every member of the family will testify that the food is much better than before.

Her electric grill will do more than cook hot cakes. It toasts crisp, delicious sandwiches, broils steaks and chops, and fried ham and eggs—right at the table too, she can serve the food piping hot. It makes impromptu meals especially easy to prepare.

Plan a visit to your electric appliance dealer's very soon to see not only the electric grill but also the other table cookery appliances on display there.

Huge Dog Puts 2 Men to Rout

When a dog bites a man, it is not usually news, but here is an exception. The dog, a German police dog about the size of a young heifer, yesterday bit a solicitor to ra local furniture store and then chased him half a block until he took refuge in a residence. Police were called and the dog catcher was sent to the rescue.

Apparently dog catchers mean nothing to that particular dog, because he put that individual to rout. The catcher returned to the city hall for a sawed-off shotgun and Chief Art Hurst. The dog headed for home at the appearance of the gun and the trapped salesman was taken to a physician.

Chief Hurst warned the owner of the dog that another complaint would automatically call for death of the dog. It had previously bitten a mail carrier.

Pampa Boys To Be in Broadcast From Michigan

PAMPA, July 11.—The National Music camp at Interlochen, Mich., will begin a series of five Monday evening broadcasts over the NBC network on July 16 at 10 o'clock, E. D. S. T.

Pampa will be represented by George Cree Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cree, 1120 East Francis street, and Paul Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schneider, of the Schneider hotel. George and Paul will participate as members of the National high school orchestra and band.

Both of the boys were members of the local high school band and orchestra during the past year and are spending their summer studying under the direction of the national outstanding teachers and musical directors at Interlochen.

Foremost among these teachers is Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, professor of music of the University of Michigan, who organized the National Music Camp in 1928. His purpose is to further music education in America and to provide both outlet and stimulus for musical talent in the youth of this country.

He is assisted by a highly capable faculty and efficient staff. The experience of participating in a nation-wide broadcast as a member of a great orchestra under the direction of a world famous conductor is one of great value to any boy or girl with musical interests.

Lupe Velez Says She'll Divorce J. Weissmuller

HOLLYWOOD, July 11. (AP)—The tempestuous romance of Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller, riddled with quarrels, separations and reconciliations, appears to be on the skids that lead to the divorce courts.

The fiery Mexican actress, who has talked of divorce before during separations from her athletic actor-husband, said she would file proceedings for a divorce today.

Her statement was made a short time after she visited Neil S. McCarthy, prominent civil lawyer. She said she would charge mental cruelty.

The couple separated Monday, Weissmuller going to his club. The parting was caused by a clash of temperament, just like their previous separations, Miss Velez said.

"We just didn't get along," she said in reviewing the romance which was sealed in a courthouse at Las Vegas, Nevada, 10 months ago. "This will be best for both of us. Our temperaments are not suited to each other."

Court OK's Donkey 'Make-Up' CORK (AP)—When a young man was haled into court at Bantry charged with cruelty to animals because he painted "Up O'Duffy" on one side of a donkey and "Down de Valera" on the other, the judge ruled that in view of the modern craze for cosmetics paint on a donkey could hardly be called cruel.

New Laxative Does 6 Things

Doctors know a good laxative should have the six features which Fleet's mint has. The only one you will never get off taking is the rough, mucous, watery action. 1. Nausea forming. 2. Safe for children. 3. No risk to speed diet or appetite. 4. Gentle placement of laxative in minutes. Doctors regularly prescribe the laxative ingredient in Fleet's-mint. Delay is dangerous so today safely get back on schedule and stay there. Clear Fleet's-mint.

MISSISSIPPI REMAINS PROHIBITION STATE BY TWO TO ONE VOTE

PEOPLE DEFY LEGISLATURE IN ELECTION

BEER AUTHORIZED BY SOLONS IN LAST SESSION

JACKSON, Miss., July 11 (AP)—Mississippi held its place among the dry states today by a vote of approximately 2 to 1.

Incomplete, unofficial returns from yesterday's prohibition referendum showed defeat of the hard liquor bill by a vote of 47,275 to 25,246 in 658 of the 1,596 precincts of the state.

The wets conceded defeat. Senator W. B. Roberts of Rosedale, co-author of the Roberts-May compromise hard liquor legalization bill, said the result was a "mandate to the governor, sheriffs, and other peace officers to make a determined effort to enforce the present laws and end the present unspeakable conditions."

By voting dry the people rebuked their legislature. The last legislature authorized beer at the same time it put the liquor issue before the voters and four per cent beer was just as far as Mississippians chose to go in the legalization of alcoholic beverages.

The victory of the dries in retaining their 25-year-old state prohibition law barring hard liquors was hailed as a signal triumph for the prohibition forces of which Gov. Bennett Conner is a leader.

Nazis Threaten To Expel Foreign Correspondents

BERLIN, July 11 (AP)—Germany threatened today to expel foreign correspondents whose accounts of the bloody "second revolution" aroused Nazi ire.

Adolf Hitler's own newspaper, the Volksische Beobachter, editorially underscored a warning given the journalists by Paul Joseph Goebbels, sharp tongued minister of propaganda, in an address last night.

"We wish to emphasize the minister's frank warning that the German government is no longer inclined to tolerate foreign correspondents inciting nations against each other," said the newspaper.

Germany otherwise was comparatively quiet, following days of bullets and then of oratory.

It awaited an account of his stewardship from the lips of "der fuhrer," Hitler himself, who has called the puppet reichstag to meet Friday night. Hitler is expected to explain his "ruthless suppression of the Roehm revolt" of June 30.

Foreign correspondents, many of them angered by Goebbels' bitter attack, considered the possibility of making formal demonstrations.

They pointed to the difficulty of getting confirmation of reports and rumors.

Bolivians Are Now Surrounded, Say Paraguayans

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 11 (AP)—Advices from the Chaco front today said the death struggle over Fort Ballivan was proceeding, with Paraguayan forces gradually approaching the stronghold.

Fort Ballivan, held by the Bolivians, is the best entrenched fort in the Chaco area.

Observers here do not predict immediate capture of the fort, but it is said to be completely surrounded, leaving the Pico-Mayo river the only remaining route of communication with the outside.

WHAT KIND OF A DRIVER ARE YOU—TEST YOURSELF

On the road, are you one of morning's strong, silent men and women alert, confident and courteous—or do you belong to the Little Lord Fauntleroy school—a timid, nervous wheel-strangler, indecisive and far too much the lady or gentleman? Or do you fall between? Do you make your plans for the evening while driving home, in a pleasant haze of introspection, and awake amid the fumes of ether?

What is your type, and as a driver, are you a disciple of Socrates? Do you "know thyself"?

Some clue to the driver-in-himself can now be obtained. Those who are about to take a driver's license test can, if they wish, estimate their respective ability privately and in advance, sometimes eradicating bad habits, says the National Safety Council, or those who for conscientious sake wish to improve their driving, now have a tutor in pamphlet. Prepared as a definite step toward uniformity in examining applicants for drivers licenses, the Council recently has issued a manual, "Examining Applicants for Drivers Licenses." While prepared for officials' use, it nevertheless affords a simple, concrete method by which the layman can judge himself.

The manual is the first generally published scoring system, and was compiled under the supervision of the Council's Committee on the Driver.

No Terrorism Shown

Those who may shiver at the mental image of a formidable array of technical bug-bears, will find solace in the homeliness of this outline of the seven basic tests which an examination should establish. Practically and without a touch of terrorism, they line up:

1. Does he (the driver) know the road rules and understand said driving practices?
2. Can he tell what road signs mean?
3. Is his body sound enough and strong enough to handle the car well?
4. How good is his eye sight?
5. Is he deaf or hard of hearing?
6. Is he old enough to be allowed to drive?
7. Just how well has he learned to handle the car?

In the driving test presented by the manual, the stages roughly are these: At the start, the driver tries hand and foot brakes. Then, as he proceeds, the examiner watches his reactions to signs. Does he see and does he heed them? How does he behave on a hill? Is he a backslider? Can he stop and start on a hill without trundling backward? Does he salute a stop light by blindly ignoring it? How skillfully can he maneuver his car in reverse for 50 feet? Does he give a corner a tailored cut or does he skirt it with a sweeping hem? What sort of turn does he make, backing between curbs? In parking between two cars, does he joggle or does he slip into the space easily?

Some other matters also come under the scrutiny of the official. The motorist who uses his horn in the traditional English fox-hunt fashion, it would seem, is to receive an official gaze askance, for one of the points to be checked is, "Uses horn too much." Similarly, riding the clutch while driving and failing to keep in the right lane may invite a glance down the nose, among other things.

MAURY HUGHES SEES DEFEAT FOR FERGUSON

PREDICTS ALLRED WILL GO INTO SECOND PRIMARY

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 11 (AP)—Maury Hughes, candidate for governor, told a Waco audience last night that should C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, the Ferguson preferred candidate, get into the runoff he would be "snowed under."

The Dallas aspirant deduced that Attorney General James V. Allred would go into the August 25 contest, because, he said, "veteran prohibitionists, along with the anti-saloon league, are putting their concentrated strength" behind Allred "in the hope of electing him and retaining prohibition in Texas."

"Nothing would suit them better than for the liberals to put Charlie McDonald in the runoff," Hughes said. "They know that Allred would know him under, because McDonald is dominated by Ferguson and is a marked man."

Against Race Betting
Clint C. Small of Amarillo, speaking at Granbury, against horse racing on his opposition to horse racing. He said the race tracks are taking the payrolls from American business and retarding recovery in Texas. He advocated repeal of the law which legalized pari-mutuel betting on the ponies.

He said he loved a horse race as much as anybody, but that the pari-mutuel machines are taking money from the poor people and causing bills to go unpaid.

Allred asked a Gainesville audience who should rule Texas, "the people who ought to rule, or the special interests that have been ruling?"

He continued his attack on lobbyists, with the declaration that "selfish, privileged interests, maintaining their high powered lobbies in Austin and retaining members of the legislature as their attorneys, have been directing the destiny of Texas."

At Fort Arthur Lieutenant Governor Edgar E. Witt reiterated his promise that if chosen governor he would "put a stop" to the illicit production of oil in violation of the conservation laws.

Witt's Oil Promise
Witt said it was regrettable that "one barrel of oil goes out of the state to be processed."

"The jobs that would be provided in Texas in processing of oil and a dozen other Texas products would take care of our jobless and put a stop to our spending millions to maintain soup lines," he said.

C. C. McDonald explained his platform plank dealing with home ownership, old age pensions, labor problems and repeal of the Deam law in an address at Mineral Wells.

He said the "great concentration of wealth during the last decade in combines, mergers and monopolies has rendered individual action by workers futile."

"Only by organization, mass action and by the ballot can they secure just rights of the fair division of the profits of industry or a reasonable wage for their toil," he said.

He said he would not make any "hotel room" promises.

"When I take the oath of office I will not have made any promises to any one except from the platform, where everyone can hear, and those promises will not be to any one person or special group," Hunter said.

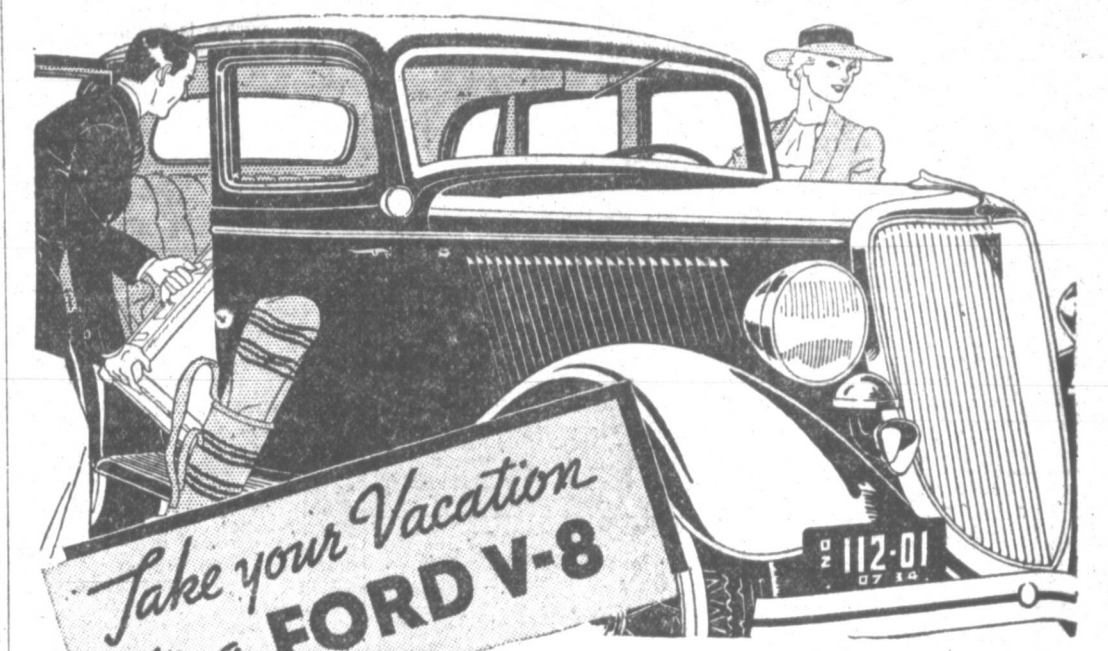

Russell at Lubbock
Edward K. Russell took his plea for votes to Abilene and Lubbock, diverting somewhat from his prohibition peroration to tell his auditors that "the people of Texas are not going to support any candidate for governor who has not been big enough to visualize the need of, and the courage to offer, a program of action."

In the three-cornered contest for attorney general, state Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, William McCraw of Dallas and Clyde E. Smith of Woodville, expected crowds in widely separated sections.

Woodward, speaking at Yoakum, said he would do everything within his power to safeguard Texas oil fields and conserve the natural resources. He said he had a part in writing every conservation law now on the books and promised to see that they are respected if placed in office.

At Amarillo Smith promised his audience that if placed in the office.

MEET GUY BUSH...star pitcher for the Chicago Cubs! Guy won 20 games last year...pitched in all 264 innings...and he's pitching at an .800 clip this year. Like many athletes, Guy has found that at the end of a gruelling match, nothing brings back his energy and vitality like a Camel.

YOU TOO can increase Vim and Energy...quickly!

When you feel "used up"—smoke a Camel! Fatigue and irritability fade away. Your flow of natural energy snaps back to a higher level in a few minutes. This experience is well known to millions of Camel smokers. It has been confirmed by a famous New York research laboratory. Take for example Guy Bush. There's a lesson in what Guy has to say about the "energizing effect" in Camels. "Bases full, one out, and a strike. I'm watching the bases and the batter, too. Now I've got to pitch. The pitch—and it's two strikes! Will he strike out? You think so...and yet you can't tell. Baseball is full of tough spots that make it out of a pitcher who works his regular turn and stands up to the grind for seven long months. Like most of the big-league pitchers, I smoke Camels. And when I come out of a game after nine hard innings there's nothing that lifts up my energy the way a Camel does. I feel freshened up in no time at all. I smoke a lot. Camels never interfere with my nerves!" Learn to "get a lift with a Camel" whenever your energy runs low. Smoke as constantly as you like. The finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS in Camels never upset the nerves.

CAMEL'S Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS - Turkish and Domestic - than any other popular brand.

WHEAT YIELD IS LOWEST IN THIRTY YEARS

ACREAGE PRODUCTION TO BE UNCHANGED NEXT YEAR

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—The law of weather averages and a generous carryover from the nation's granary probably will enable the Secretary of Agriculture to announce production unchanged for next year.

This was made clear by high agriculture department officials today after they had studied figures of the crop reporting board that showed an estimated production for 1934 lower than any in the past 30 years.

The output of all wheat was estimated by the board at 483,620,000 bushels, a cut of 18,000,000 bushels during the month of June, and approximately half of the normal production of 886,358,000 bushels.

Secretary Wallace announced Monday that the present reduction of 15 per cent under the average 1928-32 production would be continued through next year unless it develops before planting begins next month that other nations do intend to live up to the international wheat agreement. In that event, he intimated, the United States would expand production and go into the export business on a subsidized basis.

The administration in drafting this year's program holds to the belief that normal weather will prevail after two unprecedented years of drought. They expect nature to boost wheat production above the 625,000,000 bushel level of domestic consumption. It was also believed that, if wheat prices go up, wheat farmers will cut acreage, thus increasing production.

Officials pointed out that even though this year's wheat production should fall below the estimated figure the present carryover would assure a net surplus on July 1, 1935, of approximately 115,000,000 bushels.

MARKET BARRETS

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—Stocks generally failed to follow the lead of soaring cereals today and trading after an early expansion of activity, turned dull. Some specialties advanced substantially and several new year's tops were recorded, but the heaviness of alcohol was a retarding element. The close was irregular, transfers approximately 650,000 shares.

TOM MIX AGAIN ESCAPES DEATH AS STORM WRECKS CIRCUS TENT

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., July 11. (AP)—A furious onslaught by the triple forces of hail, rain and tornado wind left Jacksonville strewn today with the bitter wreckage of homes and garages, uprooted trees and a snarl of broken communication lines.

Sweeping down on the city and neighboring farms last night, the storm caused property damage unofficially estimated at $750,000 and injured a score of persons, three seriously.

The most seriously hurt were: Edward Perry, Inlay City, Michigan, an employe of the Sam B. Dill circus; possible skull fracture, broken shoulder, leg injury.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, Jacksonville, hurt when a tree fell on their automobile. Mrs. Hamilton's skull was fractured, both were severely cut.

Throughout the city roofs were ripped off, and small garages dashed down in splinters. Lightning flashed on the darkened city but started no fires—good fortune for the city, since and fire department could not have moved through the tangle of fallen trees that blocked many avenues.

The circus was in town, and it was another lucky break that the night's show was over and the audience had poured out of the big tent, a few moments before the blast came. The wind flattened the tent and sent a pole down on Perry, injuring him severely but not dangerously. Physicians said he would live.

The circus was damaged to the extent of $40,000. A carnival also was wrecked.

Tom Mix, movie cowboy who is featured by the show, escaped injury.

tion when the couple became frightened.

Medicine associated with such cases was found in Mrs. Brown's home, the county attorney added.

"When did Myers first tell you of her condition?" Updegraff said he asked the cook.

"It was in the spring, in April," he quoted her as replying. "He came to me and said he was in trouble about a girl. He wanted to know the name of a doctor. I suggested one in Oklahoma City. He came back in a day or two and said he had seen this doctor, but the doctor wanted $75 and he could not raise the money.

"I tried then and several times later to get him to go to his father. He said he would rather die.

"After that he just worried me to death about it."

Obtained Prescription.

On Monday, she said, according to Updegraff, Myers came to her, told her he had obtained a prescription from a Chickasha doctor and asked for a place to stay while the preparation was being taken. She agreed, and according to the story, the girl began taking the medicine Monday afternoon, continuing at intervals until the time of her death.

Mrs. Brown insisted she took no part in the arrangement other than to provide the couple with a place to stay. Until 2:25 p. m. yesterday, when she last saw the girl, Miss Mills did not see him, she said.

"I had to try to protect this girl's reputation," she said in explaining why she did not tell all that she knew at first, Updegraff recounted.

Fraternity brothers of Myers were questioned in an attempt to learn his whereabouts.

Chosen in 1930 by Fredric March, movie star, as the university's "most beautiful" girl, Miss Mills also was elected "most popular," and in 1931 was named engineer's queen. She was graduated last month, and was engaged to marry Bernard Doud, University of Oklahoma engineering student, who lives in Shreveport, La.

Miss Mills' parents believed she had gone to Tulsa to attend a house party. Friends there knew of none.

They remained at her home Tuesday, Mrs. Brown said, both seemingly in high spirits. Shortly before 3 p. m. Tuesday, Myers told

CARL HUBBELL STEALS SHOW IN BIG GAME

BY ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—Back in the trenches for pennant warfare today after giving nearly 50,000 howling fans the greatest combined one-day baseball and vaudeville show in the history of the sport, American leaguers can thank their lucky stars that Carl Owen Hubbell, the Oklahoma master of the "screw ball" and ace of National league pitchers, buried no more than three of the nine spectacular innings in the now historic battle of the Polo Grounds.

Hubbell's dazzling performance in blanketing the Americans for the first three frames and striking out five of the game's greatest batters in succession—Ruth, Gehrig, Fox, Simmons, and Cronin—absolutely stole the second annual all-star show yesterday. This dramatic achievement not only set Hubbell apart for the day as the star of stars but overshadowed the subsequent proceedings, during which the Americans wiped out a four-run deficit by shellingacking Lon Warneke and Van Mungo, took the lead with a 6-run outburst in the fifth inning and then coasted to a 9 to 7 victory over the Nationals behind the effective relief pitching of young Melvin Leroy Harder of Omaha, Neb., and the Cleveland Indians. Harder held the Nationals to one hit in the last five innings.

Roosevelt Sails Through Canal

CRISTOBAL, C. Z., July 11. (AP)—President Roosevelt's cruiser, the U. S. S. Houston, dropped anchor in the harbor here at 8:30 a. m. today and received aboard Secretary of War George H. Dern, preparatory to a trip of inspection through the Panama canal.

The war secretary, who is in charge of the canal zone, described the canal as not only a vital factor in national defense but also as "the greatest of non-military activities."

The president came on deck early to witness the trip through the gigantic canal connecting two oceans.

by ALAN J. GOULD

There's the merriest kind of an argument around the baseball ball-walkers over the fact that Messrs. Walter Harwood Terry and Joseph Edward Cronin abruptly disregarded the verdict of the nation's fans in making up their squads for the all-star major league battle.

One New York paper, in the enterprising role of pick-taker, found the reaction of the fan in the streets to be severely critical of the rival major league pilots.

"Where would these fellows Cronin and Terry be without the fans?" demanded the bystanders, in chorus effect, "and why should they be so high-handed on the occasion when the voice of the people can express its desires?"

The big leagues voluntarily asked the fans to pick the all star lineups, by popular ballot throughout the country. It wasn't our idea, but we liked it. Then, after we do our part, what happens? Many of our selections are totally disregarded and the managers do as they please.

There's some justice to this consensus squawk, at that. The trouble is that the major leagues take it seriously. Consequently, when his year's all-star game was planned, it was agreed that the popular vote would serve only as a "guide" to the managers, who would have the final authority in making selections. At that, only about a half dozen of the 40 players finally selected were picked without regard to the nation-wide balloting.

The Fans Missed a Few

Cronin frankly told newspapermen he was reluctant to go against the expressed wishes of the fans. Joe, like many others, looks upon the game as the fulfillment of every fan's dream but from the practical standpoint, he hardly could abide by a popular vote that would give him Lefty Grove for pitching duty this year instead of Charley (Red) Ruffing of the Yankees.

Grove, if he is not entirely through, is definitely on the shelf with a lame arm and would be nothing but a name in any all-star lineup, whereas Ruffing has suddenly become just about the "hottest" pitching proposition in either league. Three straight shutouts by the Yankee right-hander in June did not give the fans much chance to take him out of consideration.

Presumably, too, the fans did not have all the inside facts when they voted a preference for Willis Huggins of the Indians over his teammate, Mel Harder, who was the choice of Cronin and Walter Johnson.

Cronin, on the other hand, had every reason to be critical of the fans for not including Al Simmons among the top three outfielders. Al, with a tremendous mid-western vote last year, topped even Babe Ruth in the 1933 contest but he ran fourth this year to Heinie Manush, Ruth and Earl Averill of the Indians. An all-star outfield without Simmons would be like Hamlet without the Dane.

Similarly even Jimmy Dykes, the White Sox manager, concedes that his successor with the Athletics, Pinky Higgins, is a better third baseman than Dykes, but the fans gave Jimmy more than 10 votes to every one for Higgins.

So what? There's an argument from either angle, and it would

It seems that the baseball leaders themselves are in the best position, after a final analysis, to make the selections for all-star battle.

A Knickerbocker Voter

One of my esteemed associates suggests, with a bit of sarcasm, that while Cronin was about the job of making wholesale revisions in the fans' lineup he might have gone a bit further by substituting Knickerbocker, the sensational young Cleveland shortstop, for himself.

Cronin, he avers, has been off-form and well behind Knickerbocker in batting but I know of no baseball men who would hesitate if given the choice of Cronin or Knickerbocker for a single game. The Washington manager is still the more dangerous man at the bat when a hit means a run and he yields to no one on the defense.

By the same reasoning, Bob Johnson of the Athletics, as the current home-run leader with an output double that of Ruth, would be entitled to the right field all-star assignment for the Americans but I find none regretting the fact that the Babe will be "in there" when the curtain unfolds on baseball's newest drama.

ROCKEFELLER SEEKS QUIET IN TWILIGHT OF HIS FULL CAREER

John D. Rockefeller, once known as America's richest man, was 89 years old on July 8. His private life has been shielded from public attention, and few know this one-time giant of finance. Here is an intimate glimpse of Rockefeller, written by an Associated Press writer who became acquainted with him during Rockefeller's trips south each winter.

BY BENTON E. JACOBS
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Hard work, eager play, refusal to worry and an infinite trust in his God—this simple philosophy has helped John Davison Rockefeller Sr. through his 95 years.

There probably is no better expression of his philosophy than this brief verse he composed a few years ago, had printed on small, white cards and distributed to friends:

"I was early taught to work as well as play;
"My life has been one long, happy holiday—
"Full of work, and full of play—
"I dropped the worry on the way—
"And God was good to me every day."

Now, at 95, this one-time colossus of finance and philanthropy has sought quiet seclusion where he may spend his declining years in cheerful tranquility.

His Morning Meditation

No more does he take an active interest in the affairs of the day, although he keeps informed in detail of the doings of his fellow man.

Until last winter when illness prevented, John D. Rockefeller for several years received an Associated Press representative as his train hauled briefly in Jacksonville, Fla., en route to his sunny estate at Ormond Beach.

Always these interviews came just as the first, fresh rays of morning sun filtered through the open windows of his compartment. It was time for the morning meal.

The breakfast board in the Rockefeller household is always the scene of a quiet meditation—an hour for prayer and review.

Sometimes there was a poem—a timely bit of philosophy, always a prayer. The interviews usually got into reverse with Mr. Rockefeller asking many of the questions, chatting of 99th of the sunshine or making some other small talk. Never could there be questions about weighty topics of the day unless he himself brought up the subject.

Always the poem or prayer or philosophical excerpt was timely. Near Thanksgiving the theme would be appropriate to the season. Once there was the general idea of the "golden rule."

Most times breakfast sat before him—a baked apple, cereal and weak tea. There was only slight variation from this morning meal.

All his meals while traveling were prepared in his special car by a servant well acquainted with his needs.

Occasionally one or two of the ladies of his household, or his secretary, would sit down for the morning meditation.

ROCKEFELLER RULES

(By The Associated Press)

Some 20 years ago, John D. Rockefeller's personal physician outlined five simple rules for healthful living. The aged financier's friends report that he still observes them.

1. Don't worry.
2. Don't acquire overweight.
3. Drink three quarts of water a day.
4. Exercise daily.
5. Sleep in fresh air.

"... A Beautiful Thought"

Hand-shaking and felicitations exchanged, Mr. Rockefeller would smilingly hand over the selections for the reporter to read.

"If you please," he always said, adding, "Read it slowly, it's a beautiful thought we have today."

The breakfast could wait. The nervous valet might fidget, but the morning devotional came first.

Once when the sentiment particularly appealed to Mr. Rockefeller's mood, a tear slipped all but unobserved down his cheek. Unostentatiously he wiped it away.

Golf was his greatest hobby until recently. He did not play at all last winter, but walked among the flowers in the sunshine at the Casement, his winter home, for exercise.

For many years he took great delight in distributing the famous Rockefeller dime. He always remembered the reporter and each member of his family with these "tokens," as he called them.

"Are you married?" he would ask. "That's splendid, and have you any children? And are your parents living, and your wife's parents?"

There would be a shiny new dime for each. And as he placed them separately into the reporter's hand Mr. Rockefeller would say:

"Bless him," or "Bless her."
"Do you think," he'd ask as the reporter started away, that someone else might get some good from these if you published them?" He handed over copies of what had been read at the morning meditation.

Call Him "Mr. R."
"Mr. R."—his household staff addresses him thus—particularly loves poetry. Often if a poem appeals to him he has it reproduced on small cards to give to friends and acquaintances. One called "The Best Memory System," runs:

"Forget each kindness that you do as soon as you have done it;
"Remember praise by others now and pass it on with pleasure;
"Remember every promise made and keep it to the letter;
"Remember those who had you aid and be a grateful debtor;
"Remember all the happiness that comes your way in living;
"Remember each sorrow, distress, be hopeful and forgiving;
"Remember good, remember truth, remember justice, above you;
"And you will find, through age and youth, that many hearts will love you."

Occasionally one or two of the ladies of his household, or his secretary, would sit down for the morning meditation.

SPITE MARRIAGE

By Katherine Harland Taylor

SYNOPSIS: The death of Marsha Moore's parents has sent her to live with her spinster aunt Gertrude. Ten years with Aunt Gertrude and her harsh restraints have made Marsha into a hard, pleasure-loving young woman who has grown up with her feet on a pedestal. When Bob Powers comes, from Marsha and Marsha finds her own life, she goes to college. Unable to live with the old-fashioned, charming mother.

Chapter Nine

PASSAGE AT ARMS

"I WISH," said Marsha "that I were nice enough to belong in this house." She realized it had been long since she had done more than to laugh at the word "nice," and now she had said it seriously and her eyes had brimmed.

"But, dear, you do belong in this house and to us!" Bob's mother assured her. She added in an aside to Bob, "A little nervous," and she added to that, and more loudly, "Bob," will you be so good as to ring for tea?"

Marsha had caught it all. Bob laid a hand on her shoulder as he moved toward the bell. They were both anxious that she should be happily at ease with them and beyond feeling nervous within their reach.

"Oh, don't!" she thought "don't be so kind!"

The tea was, patently, a gala affair; the best of all the good porcelain was upon a huge, gleaming silver tray which Bartholomew brought to set on a solid table before Mrs. Powers. Mrs. Powers measured from a caddy tea that had come from China. Bob sat staring at Marsha. Marsha tried to speak easily, naturally, but she could not.

As dinner that night Miss Gertrude was rarely loquacious. She had the customs that drive in persons without imagination, to reveal spiritual loss upon which questions may be asked.

"I am, frankly, eager," she admitted with an acid smile, "to hear of your adventure of this afternoon; I could not conceive it—let us say—melange."

"It was a bit strange," Marsha answered. She stared a little tragically at the silver which, having come from such a prominent ancestor, had never made her feel more than ever the Parish she knew she was.

"How did Mrs. Powers impress you?" Miss Gertrude probed on.

"She impressed me as a woman who had some brains," at twenty seven," Marsha answered pertly, "and I know she knits those scratchy washcloths that are wrapped around the soap that smells like a dog being treated for mange, and I could see her giving the amalgamation to the servants—with advice. Is my description adequate, or do you require more?"

"That was Marsha's old manner, but she had lost her key to the music and she could not chant the words with a young girl's pithy pen. Miss Gertrude saw little beside her own righteousness, noticed the change.

"I presume you will break it off," she queried.

"I presume I shall," Marsha agreed. She added, "It has been done before."

"I think perhaps," Miss Gertrude commented, "that it will be the most heartless and wicked thing that even you have ever done."

"We'll not quarrel about that," Marsha stated. "I feel as do you. No, thank you, Alice, I don't care for any sweet."

"She rose then, 'it could be good enough to exempt me, what?'"

"WELL!" Miss Gertrude murmured as Marsha left the room. She had never thought anything could touch Marsha and Marsha was obviously touched. "But it won't last," she thought triumphantly.

Marsha, nervous in the drawing room, wanting to move that, that, knowing she dared not at each object had its sacred spot—wondered whether Geoffrey had telephoned while she was out, perhaps.

She wanted to see him, needed to see him.

"She wanted to be taken back by him, to the ground where she stood, careless of others' hurts, to the ground where one thought only of 'kissing' one's own dearly stretched time.

She moved toward the dining room. "Alice," she said, her voice quick and sharpened by strain, "did Mr. Tarleton telephone this afternoon?"

Alice answered with, "No, Miss Marsha."

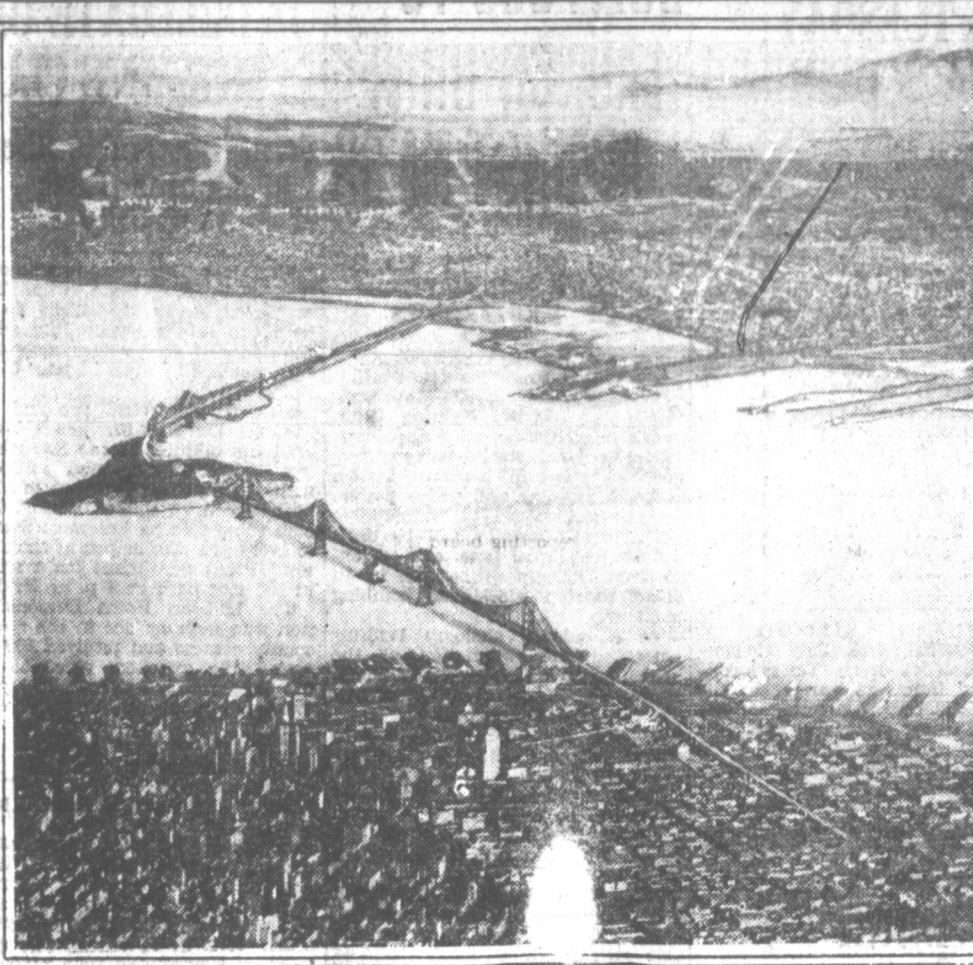

Miss Gertrude smiled without raising her eyes from her plate; her smugness sang, "The way of the transgressor is hard," and Marsha saw, through her, that Pharisae who

BOOM TOWN EXPIRES

RUSK, July 11 (AP)—It was all over but the reminiscing for this little town today. Six weeks ago the streets were crowded with excited oil prospectors. Prices shot sky high and the boom was apparently on. The court house lawn was clogged with prospectors dickered with small land owners. Today it was a ghost town. The fuming of salt water in the "last hope," the Crawford and Germany test, definitely ended the excitement. It was the same fate the "discovery" well suffered. Cattle can be permanently branded with a chemical preparation that removes their hair and turns the skin where it is applied white.

Three Meals a Day
TO KEEP Energy Up
Dr. Pepper Proposes This New System Of Bodily Nourishment For HEALTH, ENERGY, and WEIGHT CONTROL

If all the meals were one meal, what a great meal that would be! We'd try to eat enough for a twenty-four-hour stretch. Our immediate present would be a feast; our immediate future a famine. The human machine isn't built that way, so we've adopted the three-a-day habit.

If three meals a day are better than one, then six should be better than three. Three of the six should be table meals; good, wholesome, solid "fuel." The other three should be "snacks," light "fuel" (preferably liquid) that burns, quickly; and is completely used in doing a temporary job.

Dr. Pepper, being liquid, is ideal. Its calories are partially digested. Quickly they turn into motive power. At these hours, the system consumes them greedily, completely, leaving no surplus to store as excess fat. Within three days, the human body, by this system, usually perfects a balance in energy control. Drink-a-bite between meals and let your appetite at table adjust itself to your needs.

YOUR ENERGY CURVE
How to Keep It More Constant
Note above chart. Solid line is characteristic of rise and decline of bodily energy when dependent upon only the customary three meals a day. Dotted line is characteristic of the trend when the intake is better regulated, by small "snacks" of quick-energy food, at the mid-meal hours of 10, 2 and 4 o'clock.

TRY THIS 3-DAY TEST
Results Will Surprise You

Midway between breakfast and lunch, drink-a-bite-to-eat. Repeat between lunch and dinner at 2 and 4 P.M. After three days, appetite usually becomes an automatic regulator of the calorie intake, not only of the number, but of the use the body makes of them.

SUPPORTERS OF SENATOR WILL MAKE GOOD WILL TUESDAY - STOP AT PAMPA SCHEDULED

AMARILLO, July 1.—The "big punch" in the final drive to secure votes for Senator Clint C. Small, Panhandle gubernatorial candidate, started in the Panhandle this week. An intensive campaign to cover the entire 31st senatorial district is being inaugurated.

Motor caravans of Small supporters will visit every city, town and hamlet in the district between now and the date of the election, July 28.

The first motorcade of Small forces, composed of citizens from several Panhandle towns will leave Amarillo, Thursday morning, July 12, for a trip to the north plains, carrying the message of Senator Small's increasing strength in East Texas, South Texas, and Central Texas.

In addition an appeal will be made to voters to cast their ballots for Senator Small as he is the home man and that he deserves at least a vote of gratitude for his past services to this section.

DOLLFUSS TO LAUNCH DRIVE AGAINST NAZIS

DEATH PENALTY TO BE DEALT POSSESSORS OF EXPLOSIVES

BY WADE WERNER. Associated Press Foreign Staff. VIENNA, July 11 (AP)—Engelbert Dollfuss, Austria's fighting little chancellor, announced a huge new drive against Nazis today after concentrating in his own hands all the military and police power of the nation.

The death penalty will be dealt out for the mere possession of explosives. Dollfuss announced, in an effort to stop widespread bombing outrages. In a cabinet shakeup Dollfuss presented the resignation of the whole group to President Wilhelm Miklas and then submitted a new list for Miklas' approval.

Dollfuss appeared determined to stamp out the whole Nazi movement in Austria. He will be chancellor, foreign minister, minister of defense, public security and agriculture. All military and police power in Austria will be concentrated in his hands through the defense and security posts.

A communique asserted the step was necessary for peace and order and to wipe out "the last vestiges of treasonable movement." Almost daily bombings and other acts of terrorism have kept the government nervous for months. Austrian Nazis were blamed by Dollfuss supporters. They are bitter foes because of the chancellor's unrelenting opposition to a union with Germany.

In remaking the government Dollfuss crippled the power of the fascist Heimwehr, or home guard, which was government favor by yeoman work during the bloody socialist revolution in February, although previously no great lover of Dollfuss.

The Heimwehr leaders, Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, vice chancellor, and Major Emil Fey, minister of public security, will remain in the government but Fey will surrender power.

A Washington Daybook

BY KIRKE SIMPSON. WASHINGTON—Various explanations have been offered unofficially for the unprecedented demand on the mints for subsidiary coinage disclosed by Secretary Morgenthau. The outpouring of pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars, the secretary said, was out of all proportion to any previous experience at this season of the year, but he made no attempt to explain it. He just pressed it along to the public as "interesting information."

Laid To Rest. To come the answer promptly occurred that it was a recovery sign; that folks generally were buying more and retail demands for change currency was taxing the mints. A roaming friend suggests a different explanation after wandering through many states.

Morgenthau ought to do a little roaming," he writes. "This unusual demand for small change is due to state sales taxes which require a couple of pennies for every purchase, including eating. Quite a few states have such laws. 'I know. I was in California six weeks and my pants still sag from carrying coppers.'"

And in the memory of Californians still living a quarter, "two bits," was the smallest coin usable in small buying and a fifty dollar gold "slug" necessary to supplement change in times when prices were quoted in "ounces" of placed gold.

The formerly loquacious Senator Neely of West Virginia, notably silent in the senate since he did a comeback with the aid of the Roosevelt tidal wave, contributed his own sparkling bit to the Tugwell nomination debate. He listened two days, then broke in with this: "If the doctrine preached by some of those who oppose Dr. Tugwell's confirmation should generally prevail, only a crawfish or a lightning bug could ever hope for senatorial approval. The first is a slimy-pure reactionary which travels backwardly, habitually, heedless of necessity and regardless of destination. The second systematically illuminates that which is past and reveals in the darkness of the future with its headlight on behind."

Not to be outdone, Senator Fess of Ohio contributed an estimate of "professors of the inexact sciences" from his long experience with "the general attitude of college professors." It is not their business to instruct but to make their pupils think, he said, and the more "unsound" a classroom theory might be, the more it served that purpose.

"That is the reason so few professional men in the universities ever keep their feet on the ground," added the one-time college president and professor of history.

POLITICS at random

BY BYRON PRICE (Chief Of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington) September 11 now is talked of among higher-ups in Washington as the probable date of General Johnson's retirement from NRA.

A plan to install W. Averell Harriman, of the celebrated Harriman railroad family, as his successor apparently has fallen through.

Current talk revolves around Donald Richberg and S. Clay Williams as the leading possibilities. Both already are in the NRA setup. They represent two separate stragings of NRA enthusiasts. Should either be chosen to succeed Johnson it might stir criticism that one particular school of thought was being favored too much.

For that reason a compromise excluding both may be the final solution. Richberg is general counsel of NRA. His background is largely a labor background. He is rated an outstanding liberal, and was for years attorney for the Standard Railways unions.

Williams, also a lawyer, is a special assistant to Johnson. He is a tobacco company official, and hails from the non-union belt of the south.

Richberg has many friends among industrialists, and Williams among labor men, but in either instance there doubtless would be protests.

Organizing NRA Johnson wants to get out for personal and financial reasons. He wants to stay for reasons of pride. When he took the job it was with the distinct understanding that he was to give his services merely as an organizer; that when NRA got on its feet he would turn it over to someone else.

Two distinct considerations were involved. One was that Johnson felt he could afford to give up only for a limited period the much more remunerative work he was doing in private industry. The other was that he himself recognized his chief ability was along the organization rather than the administrative line.

He fully intended to quit by January 1, last. He stayed because he recognized that important revisions must be made before he could consider the organization job complete. It is hoped in Washington now that these revisions can be completed by early fall. They may take longer; if they do, Johnson probably will stay on in spite of the bitter criticism of him which frequently is carried all the way to the president himself.

Johnson Rumors With great regularity these criticisms have come from the industrialists, often between-times from the labor people. Every few weeks industrial leaders have whispered tips to newspapermen that Johnson would begin that his resignation was in immediate prospect. Such a report was widely distributed after the recent meeting of business men at Hot Springs, Va. The reply was an announcement that should Johnson would begin a western speaking tour to resell NRA. From other sources the reporters were tipped off, after Johnson had offended the steel labor leaders, that he had been reprimanded by the president. The reply was a formal White House denial—incidentally the first of the Roosevelt administration.

INVESTIGATORS DRAW OILMEN LIKE MAGNETS

WHY INDUSTRY WASN'T RUINED, IS POINT RAISED BY COLE

BY WILLIAM VOIGHT JR., Associated Press Staff Writer. TULSA, Okla., July 11 (AP)—While the five members of the congressional oil investigating committee have protested vehemently that their present tour of the midcontinent area is wholly informal and unofficial, they have drawn the executives and others interested in the welfare of the industry to them like magnets.

This was shown when the five, headed by William P. Cole of Maryland, was in Tulsa. A veritable stream of oil men paraded to the suite occupied by the investigators, each with his own story of what was wrong with the industry.

The five constitute only a part of the committee, but they are gathering preliminary information on which will be based their open hearings in September, when they will summon witnesses and ask questions seeking definite data on which to base recommendations to the new congress next winter.

Chairman Cole showed a lively interest in one specific point, the question of why, as he put it, the industry was not ruined. "Everybody who the Thomas and Disney bills this spring told us that time and again, 'I want to know why it has not happened,'" he said. "These bills would have provided for 'quotas in commerce' of crude oil to be produced from individual wells, and would have limited the quantity of crude which might have been produced both in intrastate and interstate commerce. At this time a stop-gap new section of the oil code following the lines of the two bills is in process of formation and may be introduced any time by the petroleum administrator, Secretary Ickes.

Another movement under way to halt the production of crude oil beyond federal and state quotas is understood to be nearing success in East Texas.

Howard Bennette, the national refinery coordinator, has been almost constantly in Tyler and nearby East Texas points for weeks lining up under contracts to major oil operators who have agreed to supply them with legitimately produced crude sufficient for daily needs and purchase their surplus gasoline.

With him has been his close associate for many years in the western petroleum refiners association, A. V. Bourque, and the representatives of almost a score of the larger companies.

As a result of the campaign, local oil men contend the oil market has been prevented from cascading and causing the virtual chaos which Secretary Ickes and others speaking for the oil bills declared would follow their failure of passage at the last session.

The gasoline market is firm, and crude oil has not yet receded from its base of around $1 a barrel established last fall in the midcontinent.

Depression Aids Herb Gatherers In South's Hills

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July. (AP)—The depression, which brought lower prices and a slump in trade, was a blessing in disguise for the plant-gathering industry in the North Carolina mountains. Valuable wild plants, medicinal and decorative, would be on the verge of extinction, say foresters and herb dealers, were it not that the unfavorable economic trend gave nature a chance to replenish her supplies.

The industry is important back in the coves. The picking of galax leaves has been known to net North Carolina mountaineers $50,000 a year. Of the 250 botanical plants manufactured in the United States, about 200 draw their basic ingredients from plants and roots that grow in this section.

Entire Family 'Digs' Knowledge of the trade was inherited from the Indians by pioneer settlers and passed from father to son through generations. Other industries change with the times, but not the herb and root business. Generally it operates something like this: Mother, dad and all the children who are big enough to tote a hemp sack and a maddock set out in a body but separate when the choice "digging" grounds are reached in the coves and on the mountain sides.

All work they dig or pick the various roots and herbs that have monetary value. When Saturday comes they go to the nearest cross-road store and dispose of them for a little cash and the rest "in trade," flour, corn meal, coffee, sugar or tobacco.

merchant loads his accumulated supply in a covered wagon or truck and drives 20, 30, 40 or maybe 50 miles to one of the big root and herb shipping centers—Asheville, North Wilkesboro, Statesville or West Jefferson.

Two classes of wholesale buyers, many of whom represent both domestic and foreign drug manufacturers, are found in those towns. One class deals in the hardy commodities the mountaineers need in their daily life—plows, harness, steel traps, axes, livestock feed—which are bartered to the country merchant in exchange for his herbs. The other, largely composed of the manufacturers' resident agents buys for cash at the market price.
