Twinkles

It seems rather evident now that Hauptmann should have seen Lawyer Reilly before getting involved in a kidnaping.

The Centennial half-dollar was a good idea. Now how about a Centennial stamp for the stamp collectors?

Judge Pickens told a grand jury at Panhandle that drinking, gambling, and vice were widespread in his district. It looks like this territory is still on a boom.

We don't make the weather, but if we did we'd sort of prepare the folks for sub-zero weather by sending a few more northers along to herald real winter.

It is a fine idea—that of beautifying Gray county and perhaps building a park. But we think the oil derricks are beautiful too, and we'd like to see them on every quarter section of the county.

Musing of the moment: A newspaper photographer sometimes is a nuisance, at least in the opinion of those in trouble. The Hauptmann trial is "infested" with photographers—more than 50 of them. The federal judge seems tolerant of the camera men. Not all judges are. Some jail photographers for taking pictures in the courtroom. . . . A California judge had the right idea when he said that readers had as much right to see pictures of the scene as spectators did to see it in person.

Brevitorials

IT IS APPROPRIATE that we are planning for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, which will culminate in a great national jamboree here in the nation's capital. . . . I much hope that it will be possible to have every nook and cranny, every section of our nation, represented.—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Thus writes President Roosevelt in the January issue of "Scouting." The president is much interested in meeting the boys including the delegations from the Adobe Walls council, this year.

THERE ARE some things which parents of Scouting are required to know. The jamboree will be from Wednesday, August 21, to Friday, August 30, inclusive. All Scouts seeking registration must agree to remain in camp for the full period of 10 days. The federal government will furnish a camping site. Strict requirements for eligibility will be enforced, with local councils to have the right to decide on exceptional cases involving not more than 10 per cent of their delegations.

CREDENTIALS will be limited to Scouts recommended by the troop committee, scoutmaster and local council authorities. Such Scouts must have been duly awarded the first class rank on or before July 1, 1935, and must have had at least one full year of registered membership and at least ten days of camping experience acceptable to the local council, together with three days of special camp training to be offered this year prior to the date of departure. Physical examinations must be taken by all applicants. Furthermore, a $25 jamboree fee will be charged to defray expenses while in camp in Washington.

THE ADOBE WALLS council will be allowed, as will other councils, one delegate for each active, registered troop. About 55 delegates are therefore to be selected. If that many Scouts finance their way and meet other requirements. Troops will use various methods to assist their delegates. All fees must be paid by July 1. Carefully selected scoutmasters and assistant scoutmasters will be sent with the boys and given right of council concerning activities and conduct. Delegations will be divided into troops of four patrols, each patrol having 8 Scouts, with patrol leaders, a scoutmaster, and two assistant scoutmasters. Regional organization will be perfected. The boys will take their own tents and camping equipment. Only insured carriers may transport the delegations.

IT WILL BE a great trip, with a worthy program arranged by a group which includes the president himself. The purpose of the jamboree is to celebrate the silver jubilee of Scouting in a way that will impress the nation and the world. It will be a vast, patriotic pilgrimage to national shrines and one to which every Scout and Scouter in the Adobe Walls council is looking forward with eagerness. But only those who qualify in every particular may go. No tenderfoot Scouts and no unworthy Scouts are desired.

OUR POLITICAL PRIMER: In the U. S. house of representatives the group which controls the destiny of more proposed legislation than any other is that powerful body known as the rules committee. The chairman of this committee is one of the famed triumvirate which really runs the house. See COLUMN, Page 8.

117 SAVED BY RESCUE SHIPS DURING NIGHT

TWO-MILLION DOLLAR VESSEL GOES TO BOTTOM

BY DALE HARRISON (Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—Fifteen bodies were recovered late today, 14 of them from the sea, giving grim emphasis to the fear that loss of life in last night's sinking of the Ward liner Mohawk off the Jersey coast might reach as many as 47.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—The possibility that 49 persons lost their lives in sinking of the $2,000,000 Ward liner Mohawk grew this afternoon when the freighter Tallman—which rammed the Mohawk off Sea Girt, N. J., last night—imped into port without any signs of survivors. There was no statement from the captain of the vessel, but crew members told newspapermen there were no survivors aboard.

On that basis, one of the last hopes for the safety of the 46 persons listed as missing was dashed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—The liner Mohawk, chartered by the Ward line after two of her passenger ships—the Morro Castle and the Havana—had been wrecked in a 90-day period, may have cost the lives of 47 persons when she collided last night with the freighter Tallman in an arctic sea off Sea Girt, N. J.

The Tallman, South America bound on the heels of the Mohawk when the crash occurred, limped past Sandy Hook at 10 a. m. today, bringing the answer to the question: How many died?

For unless she has the 45 persons unaccounted for aboard her, they probably have perished. A steering gear that went "how-ho" as one member of the Mohawk's crew put it, is believed to have figured in the crash. Visibility was not perfect—"fair," one man said.

Robert Tex Barnett of Houston, Tex., an able seaman on the Mohawk, said:

"I was on the bridge, and knew that the telemotor went haywire, so I went down to see which way she would turn."

"The ship swung hard to port. Men were sent to the engine room to connect the hand steering wheel."

Amarillo's Fat Stock Show Is To Be Earlier

It is announced today by Grover C. Hill, president of the Amarillo Fat Stock show, that the dates for the coming meeting in Amarillo have been changed from March 12, 13, 14 and 15, to March 4, 5, 6, and 7. This is made necessary because of the conflict in the original date with the meeting of the Texas Southwestern Cattle Raisers association at Houston.

Mr. Hill reports great interest in the meeting of the Panhandle Live Stock association, which will be held in conjunction with the Amarillo Fat Stock show and the Hereford Breeders' show and sale. Entries are being received by Mr. Hill and Mr. W. M. Gouldy, the secretary, for the bull sale daily. It is expected that this will be one of the largest held during the past several years.

I Heard . . .

Little Marilyn Mitchell, small daughter of Coach and Mrs. Mitchell, being called "Little Miss Can Take It" this morning. Marilyn fell off the porch at home yesterday afternoon while playing with her brother, Shields. She fractured two bones in her arm. Pluckily she let her mother take her to the doctor and never whimpered, excepting when the bones slipped into place. She contentedly ate an ice cream cone during the procedure.

Paul Simpson talking about Jan. 22 being a mighty unlucky day for him—and with reason. Paul went to the show for the first time in 1935 and upon leaving found his car had been jugged for overtime parking. Enroute home his car was struck by another vehicle and badly damaged. He went to work on a well near Pampa and found a fishing job waiting for him.

JAPS CONTINUE THEIR CONQUEST OF NORTH CHINA

BEIJING, Jan. 25. (AP)—New Japanese air bombing raids into Chahar province bringing death to 44 Chinese were reported today by Chinese sources, indicating apparently a renewal of the Japanese attack.

The cities reported bombed were Tunchetze and Tuhsikou, the two places which suffered most heavily in the fighting of two days ago. Chinese military authorities here stated that the Japanese fliers dropped three bombs into Tunchetze killing Chinese militia men and 5 villagers; while other Japanese airplanes dropped eight bombs into Tuhsikou, killing 21 militiamen and police of that city.

The Chinese further allege that the Japanese air raided Kuyuan, dropping three bombs there but without casualties. Governor Sung Chen-Yuan of Chahar was reported to have telegraphed the national government at Nanking for instructions as to what he should do, but it was said that he had not yet received a reply.

Oil Allowable Of State Hiked

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Texas railroad commission today increased the state oil allowable from 998,612 barrels to 1,010,339 barrels daily, effective February 1. The new allowable was 21,361 barrels under the federal quota of 1,031,700 barrels set for next month by Secretary Ickes.

New allowables and former amounts by districts: Panhandle 58,800; same; Moore county 1,500; and none; North Texas 58,500; same; Foard county, 900 and none; West Central 31,000 and 25,000; East Central 51,295 and 52,002; West Texas 145,955 and 147,407; South-east Texas 38,785 and 36,805; government wells 18,646 and same; and Gulf coast 177,159 and 178,653. The increase in East Texas was due to new completions, as the hourly potential was unchanged.

HOUSE PASSES PLANNING BILL BY HUGE VOTE

GOVERNOR URGES INVESTIGATION OF SCHOOL FUND

AUSTIN, Jan. 25 (AP)—Legislative investigation of the condition of the state permanent school fund was urged by Governor James V. Alford today in a special message to the Texas house of representatives. Representative Alfred Petch of Fredericksburg introduced a resolution Wednesday calling for an inquiry by a house committee into investment of moneys of the permanent school fund in refunding bonds by the board of education. The resolution set out the amounts assertedly invested in refunding bonds and stated "this record on its face suggests that our permanent school fund is being rapidly invested in securities of a questionable nature and many of which may prove absolutely worthless."

AUSTIN, Jan. 25 (AP)—Governor James V. Alford's chief recovery measure—establishment of a state board to plan Texas recovery in cooperation with the federal government—was passed finally today by the Texas house of representatives and dispatched to the senate. The bill mustered an overwhelming majority in the lower branch, being finally passed 117 to 15.

The house passed another phase of Governor Alford's recovery program. With only minor opposition it passed nine senate bills to amend the banking and insurance investment laws to permit Texas financial institutions to invest funds in loans guaranteed under the national housing act. The senate was designed to enable Texas to obtain maximum benefits from the housing construction program. A stubborn minority that sought to cut the appropriation for the proposed board and to make other revisions was brushed aside and the bill rushed to final passage under suspension of the rules. Senate action was expected early next week.

Governor Alford said he believed immediate creation of the agency would enable Texas to begin a public work construction program with prospective federal funds that would assist thousands of persons off relief rolls by early summer and result in construction of badly needed improvements.

The board would inquire into feasibility of public works projects. See HOUSE, Page 8

Highway 66 Sign To Benefit City

Plans for routing traffic through Pampa and McLean over the new paved road between the two cities was discussed yesterday afternoon in McLean when George W. Briggs, manager of the Board of City Development, and Harry E. Hoare, chairman of the highway committee of the Junior chamber of commerce, visited with members of the McLean chamber of commerce. It is planned to place a sign in a conspicuous place at the junction of highway 66 and the McLean-Pampa road directing traffic through Pampa to points west; also to place a sign in Pampa directing eastbound traffic over the new paved road and through McLean.

The distance to Oklahoma City from Pampa is shorter over the all-paved road than over other routes at the present time. It is also quicker to Amarillo from McLean via Pampa, than on highway 66, because of detours and the unpaved strip on highway 66.

CLARENDON - TURKEY ROAD DESIGNATED AS EXTENSION OF NO. 88 BY COMMISSION

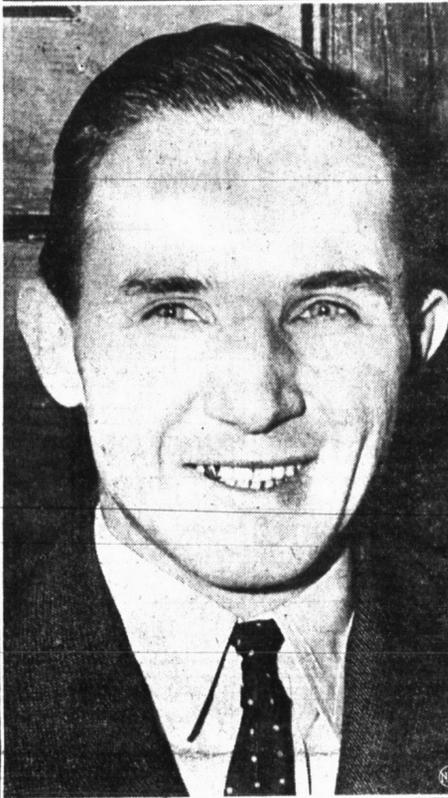

being done on highway 88 near Pampa. It is regarded as very likely by George Briggs, B. C. D. manager, that highway 88 will be re-named as a federal highway within a few years. It is known that the state is interested in a north-south route and that highway 88 from Del Rio through Pampa is a logical route for an international, transcontinental highway.

Topping of highway 33 through South Pampa is expected to be the first state project in the county this year. Highway 88 is expected to be topped as far as the catclaw is placed.

On highway 41 from Pampa to Borger, delay in getting the right-of-way through Carson county is delaying progress. Highway 152 southeast of Pampa will likely involve another 6-mile project of state funds are available, or closing of the gap entirely.

The gap in highway 66 in south Gray county is due to be closed this year. Federal funds will be used to pay part of the cost. State designation of the Pampa-McLean highway is seen as another possibility.

Hauptmann Breaks—Into Smile

Taking his cue from the favorite song of the allied soldier against whom he fought in the World War, Bruno Hauptmann seems to "Pack up his troubles in his old kit bag and smile, smile, smile!" In spite of the mass of evidence with which the state has overwhelmed him in the trial at Flem-

RECORD NUMBER OF DANCERS EXPECTED AT BIRTHDAY BALL

5,600 Parties Are Planned For Roosevelt; New Use Of Funds Is Outlined.

Pampa, known as a "dancing town," is expected to turn out in record numbers for the President's ball next Wednesday night. The opportunity of dancing at three places during the evening has added to the anticipation of the celebrators. The ball will be held at the Southern Club, the Pla-Mor and the Schneider hotel. Tickets to the Southern and the Pla-Mor will be $1—that is, one may dance at both places for $1, and at all three places for $1.50 which is the price of admission to the Schneider. Tickets will be placed on sale at all drug stores in the city immediately.

Proper medical and orthopedic treatment is to be brought to sufferers from infantile paralysis in every state with the proceeds of a series of benefit parties to be held throughout the country in honor of President Roosevelt's next birthday. It was announced yesterday by Henry L. Doherty, chairman of the national committee of the 1935 Birthday Ball for the president. The president's birthday comes on January 30.

More than 5,600 balls have been planned in communities where they were held last year. Mr. Doherty said, and hundreds of new localities are eager to join the fight on the disease. He expressed confidence that this year's results will greatly exceed the $1,000,000 raised.

S. Page of Anson, and former District Judge J. B. Keith of Stephenville to the pardon board to succeed Fred S. Rogers of Bonham. Waters had been assistant district attorney of the Texarkana district and served for a time as assistant attorney general under Alford.

CLAIMS MISSPELLING

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 25. (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, from the witness stand, today charged that New York police officers had "told him to misspell words in his writings taken after his arrest for the Lindbergh kidnaping."

Miss Thelma Berry of Miami was a Pampa shopper yesterday afternoon.

MONEY-MAKING TRANSACTIONS TOLD TO JURY

SAYS HE EARNED HIS WEALTH BEFORE KIDNAPING

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY (Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press) FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 25. (AP)—There will be no court tomorrow in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. As the afternoon session continued with Hauptmann on the stand under direct examination a member of the prosecution staff said "Looks now like we won't have to work tomorrow?"

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 25. (AP)—A guttural, but crisp "I did not!" was hurled today by Bruno Richard Hauptmann to every detail of the state's charge that he kidnaped, murdered and collected ransom for Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

"I never saw the Lindbergh baby alive or dead!" he declared. He denied each and every step of the state's case—the stealing of the child, its murder, the writing of the ransom notes, the construction of the kidnap ladder, the handling of the baby's sleeping suit, or the collection of the ransom from Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon.

He met the one point he could not deny—possession of $14,800 of the $50,000 ransom money in his garage—by saying it was left with him in a shoe box by the dead Isador Fisch, and that it lay in a closet in his home from December, 1933, until August, 1934, before he discovered it contained money.

He had not completed his direct testimony at the luncheon recess, and just before that time he denied that he had paid for a theater ticket with a ransom bill on November 26, 1933—a date prior to the day on which he said Fisch gave him the money.

He had been so identified by Mrs. Cecile Barr, Sheridan theater cashier.

Never In Theater

"I was never in that theater in my life," he said.

He said the box given him by Fisch lay in a closet through which rain leaked, and that it was accidentally "broken apart" when he struck it with a broom. It was then, he said, he discovered it contained money.

"She was practical falling apart," he said. "I guess I was four bundles in there. Denial bundles were mostly mesh up, but must be wrapped in paper, not in thick paper, in thin wrapping paper, brown paper. And there was newspaper in the box, too. I guess they wasn't filled up at all. It was empty space. It took the money out, squeezed the water out."

"All right you took the money into the garage; what did you do with the money?" asked Edward J. Reilly, his chief attorney.

"Put it in a basket, and covered it up. And then I laid the basket up on the ceiling so nobody could see it—not exact lay it on the ceiling."

Music is unique and varied, reading humorous

Unique and varied numbers make up the program announced for 7:30 this evening at McCullough Memorial Methodist church, 2110 Alcock. It will follow a Mexican supper served at 7 o'clock by women of the church.

Three musicians will take part, Miss Elizabeth Jameson, pianist, and Verlon Twaddell, baritone, are both well known to Pampa audiences. The Rev. Lloyd Jones, Methodist pastor at LeFors, has made a reputation wherever he has lived for his ability to produce weird but delightful music from a common hand-saw.

Mrs. Lance Webb, wife of the pastor, will assist with the humorous monologue given in costume. Popular classical and sacred numbers have their place on the following program:

Hands Across the Table; Love in Bloom, Mr. Twaddell.

Happy Hours; In the Garden, Mr. Jones.

An Evening Prayer, Battersby, Mr. Twaddell.

Black Key Etude, Chopin; Barcarolle, Chopin, Miss Jameson.

last year as an endowment for the Warm Springs Foundation for infantile paralysis.

At President Roosevelt's suggestion, and indorsing a recommendation of the trustees of the Warm Springs Foundation, no part of this year's funds will go to the foundation. Seventy cents of every dollar raised is to be used for the rehabilitation of handicapped children within the community raising the fund or within the nearest geographic unit of which the community is a part. The other 30 cents will be turned over to the president to be used by a national commission appointed by him for widening the research efforts aimed at wiping out the disease.

In a statement urging the cooperation of every community in the country to make the campaign a success, Mr. Doherty that the president "has given his fifty-third birthday anniversary in reality to every person in the country, young and old, who has been afflicted with infantile paralysis."

"This dread disease is a constant threat hanging over every home in the land," he said. "It strikes suddenly, irrevocable, of age and leaves each victim suffering for years from its after-effects. It must be eliminated from our national life and I know that every man, woman and child in the United States will want to help in this great humanitarian work."

President to Broadcast Address "Since seventy cents out of every dollar will remain in the community or geographical area wherein the money is raised, and thirty cents will go to the national research fund, every person who attends the ball in his town and has a good time can feel that he is not only helping those in his own community who need help most, but is also joining in a great national service with the president of his country."

William Green, president, and Matthew Wolf, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, are already active as members of the national committee, it was announced. Mr. Green is serving as chairman of the labor division and has pledged the support of labor throughout the nation.

On the night of the celebrations President Roosevelt will make a radio address that will be heard at the various parties. It will be broadcast over the combined networks of the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting System. The program will begin at 11:30 p. m. eastern standard time and continue until 12:30 a. m.

CLASS BAKE SALE Dorcas class of Central Baptist church will conduct a baked food sale at the Piggly Wiggly store tomorrow, beginning at 9 a. m. Mrs. Louis Tarpley is in charge of arrangements for the sale. All women of the city are invited to patronize the class.

At President Roosevelt's suggestion, and indorsing a recommendation of the trustees of the Warm Springs Foundation, no part of this year's funds will go to the foundation. Seventy cents of every dollar raised is to be used for the rehabilitation of handicapped children within the community raising the fund or within the nearest geographic unit of which the community is a part. The other 30 cents will be turned over to the president to be used by a national commission appointed by him for widening the research efforts aimed at wiping out the disease.

In a statement urging the cooperation of every community in the country to make the campaign a success, Mr. Doherty that the president "has given his fifty-third birthday anniversary in reality to every person in the country, young and old, who has been afflicted with infantile paralysis."

"This dread disease is a constant threat hanging over every home in the land," he said. "It strikes suddenly, irrevocable, of age and leaves each victim suffering for years from its after-effects. It must be eliminated from our national life and I know that every man, woman and child in the United States will want to help in this great humanitarian work."

President to Broadcast Address "Since seventy cents out of every dollar will remain in the community or geographical area wherein the money is raised, and thirty cents will go to the national research fund, every person who attends the ball in his town and has a good time can feel that he is not only helping those in his own community who need help most, but is also joining in a great national service with the president of his country."

William Green, president, and Matthew Wolf, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, are already active as members of the national committee, it was announced. Mr. Green is serving as chairman of the labor division and has pledged the support of labor throughout the nation.

On the night of the celebrations President Roosevelt will make a radio address that will be heard at the various parties. It will be broadcast over the combined networks of the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting System. The program will begin at 11:30 p. m. eastern standard time and continue until 12:30 a. m.

SHAMROCK PROMISES DOGGED OPPOSITO AND TIGHT GAME HERE TONIGHT

PLAINVIEW TO FACE PAMPANS SATURDAY EVE

ILLNESS MAY PREVENT EDWARD SCOTT FROM PLAYING TONIGHT

Dogged opposition of a brand that might result in an upset was promised tonight by Coach Freeman of Shamrock at the high school gym where the Irishmen and the Harvesters will meet for the second time this season. Unprecedented improvement of the Shamrock team since the Harvesters tossed them out by four points at the Mobeetie tournament was reported. The Pampa cagers had a hard enough time beating them then. The Irishmen's coach believes they'll have a much harder time tonight.

Coach Odus Mitchell while not exactly pessimistic, is not optimistic. The fact that Edward Scott, stellar Harvesters guard, who has proved an able defensive partner of Bill Dunaway when he was well and full of pep, is still ailing because of an extended bad cold that has almost become chronic, has not helped the Harvesters' prospects. Edward stayed in bed yesterday in an attempt to break the cold. It is likely that he will not play much, if any, tonight.

Girls To Play
However, he expects to be improved sufficiently to enter the fray against Plainview's Bulldogs tomorrow night here at Pampa and tomorrow night will start at the gym promptly at 7:30 o'clock with preliminary games. Tonight the Pampa midgets will face the Panhandle midgets. Tomorrow night the prelim will be a tiff between the LeFors and Pampa girls. The latter will be seeking revenge for a 7 to 6 victory the Pirate lassies inflicted Wednesday afternoon here. It was a desultory game.

The Harvesters were adding, "I told you so" at each other this morning after they learned of Lamesa's rout of the Golden Sandstorm on the cracker-box Lamesa court. The score was 34 to 9 on the basis of that score. Lubbock is favored to give the Sandies another beating tomorrow night when they play the grid champs.

Lamesa Beats Lubbock
Lubbock played the Lamesas a decent game Wednesday night in Lubbock, although the Tornado stormed through for a 32 to 23 victory. The Westerners looked more potent than in any recent games, with three new-comers. Venable, Kerr and Odden, in Lubbock's lineup. In the Amarillo game at Lamesa last night, Peterson whose aggressiveness impressed Pampans, was elected from the game in the first half on personal fouls.

Plainview will hold the edge over the Harvesters when the two teams meet here tomorrow night, by virtue of the Bulldog's record against the Sandies. Amarillo beat Plainview by only two points whereas the Sandies annihilated the Harvesters by six points. Scores were three times during the Plainview-Amarillo battle Wednesday night.

Bulldog Starters
Roy Neal and Mally Chisholm are the only Bulldog starters who made a trip last season with the Bulldog A string. Knowing last year that all of his traveling string would graduate, Coach Lovorn cast about for captain timber and decided to take Neal and Chisholm to the district meet at Lubbock, to give them a little experience. Neal was elected captain of the 1935 squad and is proving outstanding at a guard position. Taliaferro is center, Arthur Porter, Miller and Dean, forwards.

If Scott is not in the starting lineup, Coach Mitchell has Rose, Irving, Hassel, Herring to choose from. The other starters will probably be forwards, Nash and Stokes Green, J. R. Green, center, and Dunaway, guard. The team has Improved much this week. Nash who was certainly nothing but a rookie when practice began this season is fast developing into a veteran. Stokes Green has also improved miraculously. Green and Dunaway are expected to play the best performances of the season tonight—if one may judge by the type of work they have been demonstrating in practice the last few days.

Twelve Members Of McLean Team Given Sweaters

McLEAN, Jan. 25.—Twelve members of the McLean high school football team have been awarded sweaters. Five reserve sweaters were also given during the program.

The McLean team won its conference with one of the smallest high school squads of the year, only 17 boys being out for football and only 12 of them being big enough for steady competition. Coach Garrison Rush played most of his games without substituting or with only one or two replacements.

The following boys were given sweaters and letters: Charles Strickland, George McCarty, Henshal McCarty, Larry Cunningham, Eugene Greer, Louis Tolliver, Paul Dowell, June Woods, Noel Andrews, Horace Johnson, Neil Jackson, and Averill Christian.

Matty Bell Is Likely to Get SMU Grid Job

DALLAS, Jan. 25.—Despite reports that Madison (Matty) Bell, Southern Methodist university line coach, planned to confer today at Athlete with Hardin-Simmons officials concerning the football coaching vacancy there, the belief grew here that he would be appointed head coach at the Methodist school.

Dr. Charles C. Seelman, president of Southern Methodist, said that the list of 30 candidates for Ray Morrison's job, left open when he resigned to accept a similar post with Vanderbilt, would be pruned to "three or four of the outstanding candidates Saturday."

Bell's name headed the list of likely choices, while it was strongly rumored that Cecil Grigg, backfield coach of the power-house Rice Institute eleven, would be named to the staff.

Twenty Grand to Attempt Comeback

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—Twenty Grand steps out in fast company today in an effort to disprove the old sports adage that they never come back.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's 7-year old Kentucky derby winner of 1921, after half a dozen thwarted attempts to get to the post there, will test his legs after almost three years of absence from the turf in the $1,200 Bay City handicap of seven furlongs.

In doing so, he will renew a turf feud now dormant four years with Mate, he like the Greentree stables runner will be making his first venture here in participation of the Santa Anita $100,000 handicap a month away.

It will be a four-horse race, with High Glee, a 4-year-old filly, and Teravice, twice a winner here, filling out the field.

Babe Risko and Vince Dundee to Fight This Eve

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Henry Pylkowski fights Vincenzo Lazzaro in Madison Square garden tonight and that's boxing news.

For Henry Pylkowski is none other than Babe Risko, the Syracuse, N. Y., middleweight sensation, and Vincenzo Lazzaro is better known as Vince Dundee of Newark, not long ago ruler of the 160-pound division.

Risko, who learned to fight while serving a couple of hitchhikes in the Navy, catapulted himself into the public eye on New Year's day when he walked into the ring against Teddy Yarosz of Pittsburgh and proceeded to knock the middleweight champion down six times before winning on a technical knockout in the seventh round.

Yarosz, who had dethroned Dundee three months before, escaped with the title still in his possession only because he had the foresight to force Risko to come in at 162 pounds, two pounds over the class limit.

Whether Risko, despite his inexperience, is championship material possibly will be demonstrated tonight. The betting fraternity has made Dundee an 8 to 5 favorite.

The Garden hopes to match the winner of tonight's ten rounder against Yarosz for the title.

Texan in Second Place in Frisco Open Golf Meet

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25.—Paced by a veteran campaigner of golf's golden trail and a comparatively unknown youngster from the Pacific northwest, more than a hundred fairway trouper set off today in the final round of 36 hole trials to determine 29 qualifying places in the San Francisco match play open tournament.

Johnny Revolta, Milwaukee, and Bob Pinnell, Everett, Wash., held a one-stroke margin over the rest of the field as they teed off at the Presidio club course in the chase that will lead to a total of $4,000 in prizes.

Until Pinnell came booming in during late afternoon, Revolta clung to the leadership with a fine 70, two under par. Pinnell posted similar figures to share top honors.

A stroke behind the leaders as they unlimbered clubs for the dash to qualifying positions were Jimmy Hines, Timber Point, L. I., Byron Nelson, Texarkana, Tex., and two Pennsylvanians, Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh, and Henry Clark of Hershey.

The par 72 division listed Harold McSpaden, Kansas City, Kan., Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., Jim Demaree, Galveston, Texas, Verne Torfin, Texana, Wash., and Joe Nevi, Francisco.

ARCHIVES CONTAIN UNPUBLISHED DOCUMENTS OF AUSTIN; INTIMATE GLIMPSES OF FAMILY REVEALED

Stephen Was Pains-taking Letter Writer

(Note: The following is one of a series of weekly articles taken from the Austin Archives at the University of Texas. This collection contains the greatest single historical treasure on the North American continent, has been catalogued and is being translated by the University of Texas. It consists of 400,000 pages of original Spanish handwritten documents comprising the official archives of the Mexican government for the period from 1763 to 1821. Each letter of the whole of what is now the State of Texas for the period from 1763 to 1821. This series of articles will consist principally of quotations from the documents, many of which have heretofore been unpublished, and will reveal for the first time what actually transpired during the century in which Texas was transformed from a wilderness inhabited only by savage Indian tribes to an independent American republic.)

AUSTIN, Jan. 23.—The history of Texas during the decade and a half from 1821 to 1835, the years which immediately preceded the birth of the Republic of Texas, was the history of Austin's colonies. Small wonder, then, that romance and drama attach themselves to the figure of Texas' first empresario, Stephen Fuller Austin, and small wonder that generations which have followed and will follow him treasure even the smallest fragment of his personal effects, his papers and documents, minute relics which keep alive his memory and the recollection of his accomplishments in the creation of the commonwealth of Texas.

The Austin papers, comprised of materials accumulated by Moses and Stephen P. Austin in the progress of their busy enterprises from Virginia through Missouri and Arkansas to Texas, form the keystone of the invaluable Texas collection in the University of Texas library. Hundreds of other pioneer Texas families have now added their family archives to the rich Texas history section of the library, and additional material is constantly being deposited of given outright.

Formerly a private collection, the Austin papers have been presented to the university library by Dr. Austin heirs. As early as 1902, a description of the papers was made and published by Dr. B. G. Barker, Paper Inspector.

equal in clearness, accuracy, or authoritativeness.

"Considering his many harassing duties, Stephen F. Austin was a voluminous and remarkably painstaking letter writer. Of most of his official papers he apparently preserved copies, and we frequently find several drafts of a document, interlined and deleted, almost beyond decipherment before it reached the copy-book stage."

Moses Austin was born October 4, 1768, in Durham, Conn., the youngest son of Elias Austin, according to the genealogical record of the Austin family in the university collection of Austin papers. In 1783 he became a dry goods merchant in Philadelphia and a year later entered the import trade and shortly thereafter the wholesale business. In August, 1784, he extended his business to Richmond, Va., and a month later took charge of the establishment in that city. On September 29, 1785 he married Maria Brown, daughter of Abie Brown of New Jersey. Two daughters were born, but both died in infancy. Stephen Fuller Austin was the first son of the couple, born November 3, 1793, at Austinville, Va. Moses and Maria Austin had moved to the Lead Mines in Wythe county, Va., in 1791 where, together with Stephen Austin, Moses' brother, they purchased an estate and established the village of Austinville. In 1797 Moses Austin obtained a grant of land, three miles square, in Louisiana from the Spanish government, and removed his family to Mine a Burton, on this property. In 1816, Moses Austin gave up his Mine a Burton property to his son, Stephen, and moved his family to Missouri.

The family record shows that Stephen Fuller Austin and his younger sister, Emily Margaret Brown Austin, were well educated in the best southern tradition. Stephen spent three years in Colchester academy and two in the academy at Lexington, Ky., while Emily, as her name was later spelled, attended Mrs. Beck's boarding school in Lexington for four years, and later spent more than a year at the Hermitage academy in New York. James Elijah Brown Austin, a much younger brother, born in 1803, was educated under the tutelage of the Rev. Whiteley of Washington, New York, and under other tutors.

The following excerpt from the family record briefly tells the story of the share Moses Austin had in paving the way for the colonizing of Texas:

"April 29, 1816, Moses Austin and family removed from Mine a Burton and gave up Durham Hall negroes and plantation together with lead mines and furnaces to his son, Stephen F. Austin. In 1816 James Elijah Brown, son of Moses Austin, returned from Connecticut, remained at home until June, 1819, when he went to Kentucky near Nicholasville to finish his education under a Mr. Wilson.

"In 1819 Stephen F. Austin left the Territory of Missouri and went to reside in the Territory of Arkansas, Red River at Long Branch. Moses Austin left Missouri about the first of May, 1820, and went to the Little Rock in the Territory of Arkansas, where he remained some months after which he proceeded on to San Antonio where he arrived (after a journey through a perfect wilderness and attended with much fatigue) about the tenth of December, same year, here there petitioned the supreme authorities of New Spain, through his Excellency Don Antonio Martinez (then governor and political chief of this province of Texas) for a grant of land and permission to settle 300 American families in that province. The petition was forwarded on to his Excellency Don Arredondo then governor general of the Internal Eastern Provinces of New Spain who confirmed the grant after a previous decree of the provincial deputacion (then assembled at the City of Monterrey) to that effect, and the necessary papers were forwarded on to San Antonio immediately. Moses Austin left San Antonio on the 29th of December (previous to the confirmation of the grant) and after a tedious and distressing journey he reached the settlements on the Sabine river not having tasted a kind of nourishment for eight days. Their provisions having failed and the powder they supplied themselves with proved to be so damaged they could not kill any game, although the country abounded in game of all kinds. His hardships were so severe that he was taken with the fever and confined to his bed three weeks at the house of Mr. Hugh McCuffey, 20 miles west of Natchitoches. At this place he was met by his nephew Elias Bates who had left Houston, Mo., some time in December in pursuit of him. As soon as he could travel they started together, descended Red river to the Mississippi and arrived at Herculaneum some time in March, 1821. The journey proved to great for his constitution which was much impaired, nevertheless he commenced settling his affairs in Missouri with the intention of returning to Texas in August following, but unfortunately he took a cold when at the Mine a Burton, and reached his daughter's, Mrs. Emily M. Brown, on Hazel Run in a few days the cold terminated in an inflammation of the lungs, and after lingering in much pain for ten days which he bore with Christian fortitude, he resigned his soul to his maker without a groan on the tenth of June, 1821, in the 57 year of his age."

The second article of this series will trace Stephen F. Austin's activities in Texas.

KENNAMER TO GO TO TRIAL IN FEBRUARY

CHANGE OF VENUE IS GRANTED; MOTHER MAY TESTIFY

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 25. (AP)—The invalid mother of 19-year-old Phil Kennamer may testify for him when his trial for the murder of John Gorrell is held next month at Pawnee.

Defense attorneys, who yesterday succeeded in obtaining a change of venue, disclosed today that Mrs. Franklin K. Kennamer, wife of Federal Judge Kennamer, had been asked to appear in behalf of her son.

The mother of the defendant has been ill for six months, but C. A. Conkley, a defense attorney, said her physician would permit her to testify if her health is improved by the trial date.

The defendant told police he shot the 23-year-old dental student in self-defense in an attempt to thwart an alleged extortion plot.

An angle—all but forgotten in frequent clashes between attorneys over points in yesterday's hearing—was revived today with reports that the father of the late Sidney Born, Jr., an important witness, had employed a private investigator to determine whether the youth was murdered or committed suicide. The father, Dr. Sidney Born, would neither affirm nor deny the report.

Young Born, a friend of both Kennamer and Gorrell, was found fatally shot 10 days after the shooting of the dental student. Officials have not been able to determine who fired the fatal shot.

The defense motion for a transfer of the case, on grounds that the defendant could not obtain a fair and impartial trial here, was granted by District Judge Thurman Hurst. He will set a date for the trial today.

SUNNY LIVING starts at the table

How you feel and how you look depend largely on the foods you eat. The balanced menu provides the "bulk" to prevent common constipation—caused by lack of this essential fiber.

Common constipation frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet, in most cases, it can be overcome pleasantly and safely by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a natural food for normal individuals. It furnishes "bulk" in convenient and concentrated form. ALL-BRAN also provides vitamin B and iron.

Isn't this sunny way better than taking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If relief is not obtained, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

BY ROBBIN COONS.

HOLLYWOOD—For a long time Hollywood has gone to the stage to cast its pictures.

Now more and more the stage is coming to Hollywood to cast its plays.

And the time is here, says Director Clarence Brown, when something must be done about the diminishing supply of trained actors. Between Hollywood and Broadway, in other words, the candle of talent is being burned at both ends, and pretty soon the candle is going to be too short.

"The answer? No, I don't see it in the dramatic schools. Most of them teach elocution, and the average product of such a school causes a director to throw up his hands," says Brown, whose casting problems now are centered on players for the stage success, "Ah, Wilderness!"

Silent Talent Plentiful.

"The Little theaters, perhaps?" it was suggested.

"A few of the Little theaters, yes."

If silent films had continued, Brown reasons, there would be no talent shortage. A director could go to a dime store, pick up a pretty girl from behind the counter, and by endless work on the set secure pictures of her in this pose and that, registering one emotion or another, and the result might be a new find.

"But as soon as such a girl opened her mouth to speak, the illusion would be gone," he says. "It is the question of trained speaking voices now, and learning to use the voice is not a matter of months or a year. It takes years of training, and nowhere is that training better had than on the stage. Fifty per cent of Hollywood's silent stars are out of the picture now, because they cannot talk."

And today, he says, production costs and responsibilities are too great, shooting schedules necessarily too limited, to justify the training on the set of neophytes who cannot speak properly. A director with a definite budget must know in advance that his players will come through, fully prepared and trained. In self-protection he cannot take chances.

Stage Is Better Off.

The stage, however, is better off than the screen in casting matters. Brown tells of testing a stage "juvenile" for the same role he had done in a play.

"He gave a great performance in the play," he says. "On the screen, his characterization vanished. He was obviously a man of 30, not the boy in his teens he had seemed to be behind the footlights, aided by distance from the audience."

The stage can draw on experience to create the illusion of youth. The camera demands youth and yet wants experience also.

HELD IN SLAYING

IDABEL, Okla., Jan. 25. (AP)—Guy Dilhanty was held in the county jail here for trial on charges of slaying Constable Fletcher Rodgers in a gun duel Dec. 28, 10 miles east of here.

Dilhanty was returned to Idabel Tuesday from a hospital in Paris, Texas, where he was treated for wounds suffered in the encounter.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Ives said he was not sure what caused the shooting, but understood there had been ill-feeling between the men.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: At last Nicholas Trench knows who killed John Osborne, the man Nick was acquitted of having killed himself. It was the husband of Mrs. Gowland, and the husband just has shot himself, but still Nick, with his partners, Molly O'Brien, Jerry Mordant, and Jimmy Fox, do not know where the valuable formula Osborne had stolen is hidden. Mrs. Gowland confesses that her husband shot Osborne because Osborne and she were lovers.

Chapter 44

THE FORMULA

"I don't know how my husband knew about Osborne and me," Mrs. Gowland went on, "unless he may have found a letter which came for me after—after Jack went away. Perhaps he had been watching us all the time."

By a desperate effort she managed to moisten her lips. "My husband went up to London—went up by the train. He was there for two days and when he came back he told me what he had done. At first I didn't believe him, but it was true—oh, my God, it was quite true! I thought he would kill me too."

"Sometimes"—once more she buried her face and sobbed brokenly—"sometimes I wish he had. 'You poor soul!' Molly bent over her and softly touched her hair. 'I am so terribly sorry for you. It's dreadful to think what you must have been through.'"

With an impulsive gesture Mrs. Gowland caught hold of her hands. "Oh, you're good—I don't know who you are, but you're good and kind. No one has ever been kind to me—except him."

"I understand, too," I said, "and I don't blame you in the least. I am only grateful to you for telling us the truth now."

Jerry stepped forward. "You have gathered up one great injustice," Mrs. Gowland, he said quietly, "but there's someone else you've wronged besides Mrs. Trench."

She stared up at him. "Someone else?" she whispered.

He pointed to Molly. "There were some papers which belong to Miss O'Brien in Osborne's safe. He stole them from her father when he was in America. They were taken out of the house on the night that he was murdered."

"Papers?" she sat up with a quick gasp. "Yes—there were papers—a whole packet of them. He took them away to make it look like a robbery."

"What did he do with them?" Jerry tapped out the question like a pistol shot.

"He brought them back here to show me. There was blood on them—Jack's blood. He wanted me to see it."

She rose instead, holding on to the back of the chair. "They're over there, in the bottom drawer of the big chest. He used to take them out every night and look at them. He was mad, I tell you, mad—mad."

Grossing the room in a couple of swift strides, Jerry gave an ineffectual tug at the two handles.

"It's locked!" he exclaimed. "Where's the key?"

"She moved slowly towards the sofa, turning back the blanket, bent down over the stiff, sprawling object beneath."

"Here it is," she said.

We watched breathlessly while Jerry wrenched open the drawer. For a moment he knelt there, fumbling amongst its contents; then, suddenly jumping to his feet, he swung round toward us.

In his hand was a loosely wrapped brown paper packet.

"Take a look through these, Molly," he said quietly.

He slipped off the covering as he spoke, and half a dozen stained and crumpled documents tumbled out on to the table. The largest and most conspicuous of them consisted of two sheets of blue paper fastened together by a brass clip, and with a quick movement Molly snatched it up from amongst the others.

"This is it! This is the formula!" Father described it to me. He said:

"A low startled cry rang out through the room, and we all three turned sharply towards the sofa. Mrs. Gowland was standing there, pale and rigid—one hand stretched out towards the open window.

"A face—" she gasped, "out there in the bushes! Look—look!"

I spun round in a flash, but I was just too late. There was a quiver of branches, followed by a scuffling rust amongst the undergrowth, and at the same moment Jerry fired. In the low-ceilinged room the noise of the report was deafening.

"Did you see him, Nick? It was that swine from the Milan."

Springing towards the hearth, I grabbed up Gowland's gun and jerked open the breech. There was an unused cartridge in the left barrel.

"Are you sure?" I demanded.

"Quite. I'd know him again anywhere."

I stared out into the shrubbery. "Pity you missed him," I said. "He is off now to tell the others. We shall have the whole gang here in a minute."

"Looks that way," Jerry glanced round calmly, and then walking up to the table, stuffed the remaining papers into his pocket. "Only one thing to do," he continued, "we must make a run for the boat, and trust to luck."

Molly stepped forward. "Can't we take Mrs. Gowland with us?"

The white-faced woman shook her head.

"I shall stay here," she said stonily.

Jerry held out the still smoking revolver. "You take this, Nick, and give me the gun. It's no use to you with that shoulder of yours." He flung open the door. "Come along, children—time we were off."

With Molly between us, we hurried along the dark passage and out into the narrow porch. It was only a short distance to the beginning of the path and, clicking forward the catch of his gun, Jerry, who had paused one moment for a quick look up and down, led the way forward across the gravel.

If I live to be a hundred I shall never forget that stretch of moonlit path, or our stumbling run thru the muddy and silent farmyard.

All my senses were keyed up to their highest pitch by the deadly and imminent danger that surrounded us, but at the same time, as I gripped my revolver and peered anxiously into the shadows, a wild and uncontrollable elation was throbbing through my heart.

At last the truth was out—at last the black and white had hung over me so long was shattered and dispersed. I was free now—free to look the world in the face—free to marry Molly and take up my life and work where it had been broken off all the time.

President's Mother 'Joins Up'

While little Sally Cotillo, aged 6, does the sales work, Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, contributes the first quarter for a birthday greeting to her famous son.

The greeting, the world's largest anniversary message, will bear the names of those who, unable to attend the 1935 Birthday Ball for the President on Jan. 30th, nevertheless want to join in the nation-wide celebration and at the same time contribute to a national fund for war on infantile paralysis. Through an arrangement made with Clarence H. Mackay, chairman of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company, the birthday greeting will be delivered with all names to the President. Postal offices throughout the nation will accept names at twenty-five cents each. All money raised will go to the infantile paralysis fund, 70 cents of every dollar being used for local rehabilitation of paralysis victims in the community in which the contributions are made, and the remaining 30 per cent for the President's Birthday Ball Commission for Infantile Paralysis Research, of which Col. Henry L. Doherty is chairman.

Both Sally and Mrs. Roosevelt are active workers in the campaign. Besides making the first birthday greeting sale to the President's mother, Sally is the little girl who posed for Howard Chandler Christy's, 1935 Birthday Ball poster. She is the daughter of Supreme Court Justice Salvatore Cotillo of New York City.

Mrs. Roosevelt is not only the first to contribute to the birthday greeting, but is also honorary chairman of the Birthday Ball for the President at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, at which she will have the box of honor.

Other committees have only a few served voluntarily and its was hand-icapped through lack of finances.

Rep. George Moffett, of Chillicothe is one of the chief agitators for the board.

"The spending of vast sums of public money makes careful planning an economic necessity," Moffett wrote members of the house. "Expenditures based on needs and merit in lieu of pork barrel awards are highly desired. Long range planning can and should point out public improvements that are badly needed and that will make the largest use of labor for the smallest amount of money spent. An outstanding example of the national planning board's activity is the decision to eliminate grade crossings. Local influence can play no part in this work because the grade crossings are already located."

Other two are the speaker and the majority floor leader.

The rules committee is the body so often accused of "gagging" the house.

Only bills from the ways and means and appropriations committees have the right-of-way in the house and always can be brought up for consideration.

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Jan. 25 (AP)—Gov. James V. Allred plans to exert his utmost influence to obtain speedy passage of his bill to establish a state planning board to lead Texas to a recovery but, the proposal may meet some smooth sailing as many administration leaders expect.

The opposition is not to the idea advanced by the governor but to the mode. Legislators always keep in mind that primary elections roll around with regularity and that most of them campaign on platforms calling for consolidation of governmental bureaus rather than establishment of others.

They don't like having their records show they voted for another branch on the top heavy tree of government. In conversation several members lauded the idea of a board to devote its entire efforts to formulating a recovery program for Texas but others somewhat chary of setting up another unit. They were speculating upon ways to attach the proposed bureau to one row in existence.

This, they pointed out, would accomplish the end desired and leave their records in good shape for the next election.

Sponsors of the legislation, however, are prepared to meet this argument. They will point to the Texas railroad commission as an example of a board to which responsibility on one department.

A few sessions back when ouster of the railroad commission as the oil and gas conservation agency was being agitated, certain members contended the legislature was expecting too much of one board to handle the multiple duties heaped on the commission. Much of the dissatisfaction with commission's early efforts at proration enforcement originated in the number of activities over which the commission had supervision.

Administration floor leaders have started efforts to convince the doubting members of the legislature that establishment of the board is vitally necessary to the recovery program and that the end justifies the means.

The position of the bill has been strengthened considerably through production of correspondence between Governor Allred and Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior and chief of the public works administration. Ickes not only endorsed the idea but actively urged its support.

During the past year, Ickes stated in a letter to Governor Allred, the governors of 42 states had set up planning boards and six states set up statutory entities. In Texas a board was organized by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson that worked effectively although the personnel calendar days in any one session. Many bills reported out of these committees haven't a ghost of a chance of being considered.

The rules committee, therefore, exercises the power of selection.

It can report a rule for consideration of a bill any day. It can bring in a rule for the consideration of any bill that has been reported out of any committee any time.

In the last congress these special rules were fired out onto the floor of the house perhaps more frequently than ever before. Members kicked, but the leaders, declaring that the country was in a state of emergency, kept steadily on.

The same disposition to carry on in the present session is in evidence.

STERN TRAFFIC COP

SEATTLE (AP)—A bassinet, presented to Andrew J. Sedlacek and his wife for their new baby girl, was parked next to a fire hydrant in front of his office by a deliveryman.

Traffic Officer Fred J. McCall tagged it for "over-parking, no license, no tail light, and parking by a fire plug." Now Sedlacek must appear in police court.

RESOLUTION TO AIR FEES IRES, SOME SENATORS

Senate Delays Voting On Action Okayed By House

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (AP)—Sponsors of Governor James V. Allred's bill to establish a state planning board to direct recovery activities hoped to obtain approval of the proposal today by the Texas house of representatives.

There were only three dissenting votes yesterday as rules were suspended to permit the start of discussion of the bill. A short time later a motion to postpone further consideration until Monday was defeated overwhelmingly.

Senators meanwhile engaged in another sharp debate over a resolution calling upon legislators to list corporations from which they receive retainers if any.

The paragraph of the proposal which aroused the resentment of some of the senators was that stating that "it is commonly believed and talked throughout the state that members of the legislature are representing interests that are antagonistic to, and conflicting with, the interests of the masses of the people by whom the members of the legislature are elected."

Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth said he intended to ask that the scope of the resolution be broadened to provide for an investigation. He stated he did not object to disclosing his employment, "but I do resent this indictment of senators and legislators."

"If they have information to sustain the indictment, then let 'em bring it in here," he said. After considerable discussion action on the proposal was postponed until next Thursday.

Senator Gordon M. Burns of Huntsville, who had called it up, argued that the democratic party platform demanded publicity on employment.

"It is a state-wide matter," he said, "and the citizens are entitled to know if senators or representatives are on pay rolls of any corporations. Anyway, all ought to be willing to tell who are paying them retainers."

The senate still was working under rules prohibiting committee hearings on ordinary bills until February 7. A motion to permit committee work at any time carried 19 to 10 but a four-fifths vote would have been necessary to set aside the constitutional provision restricting the first 30 days of the session to introduction of bills. Indications were that a compromise might yet be worked out.

The house committee on oil, gas and mining last night heard arguments for a bill by Representative Charles Tenneyson of Wichita Falls to make gas pipe lines common carriers. Opponents will be heard Tuesday night.

Tenneyson said the bill would enable cities to construct distributing systems, purchase their gas in the field and have it transported to city gates through existing pipe lines. The transportation lines would be limited to a six per cent return.

176th Birthday Of Robert Burns Observed Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—The immortal songs of Robert Burns will ring out tonight as Scottish organizations throughout the United States observe the 176th anniversary of the birth of the famous bard.

"Auld Lang Syne" will echo from many a hall where Burns will be honored at dinners, concerts and dances.

In New York members of the Burns society will gather at a dinner, the main course of which will be "Haggis," Scotland's national dish. It is a succulent meat pudding, served piping hot and generally eaten with an accompaniment of music from a bagpipe. Tonight a piper will lead the diners to their places and will serenade them with Scottish airs.

"Haggis" will be served at most of the dinners as part of the birthday observance, but in Spokane, Wash., the Burns club will forego eating for the first time in the history of their celebrations. The members decided to cut down on expenses, so that only a meeting will be held.

Galesburg, Wis. Scots will continue a 75-year tradition with a city-wide fete, climaxed by the finish of a three-day curling competition. At Omatia, the clan Gordon will gather for its annual "poem fest."

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Peter's Denial. Scripture Lesson: Mark 14: 27-31, 54, 66-72.

Mark 14:27. And Jesus saith unto them, All ye shall be offended for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered abroad.

28. Howbeit, after I am raised up, I will go before you into Galilee.

29. But Peter said unto him, Although all shall be offended, yet will not I.

30. And Jesus saith unto him, Verily I say unto thee, that thou today, even this night, before the cock crow twice, shalt deny me three times.

31. But he spake exceedingly vehemently, I will not deny thee, and like unto him said they all.

67. And seeing Peter warming himself, he looked upon him, and saith, Thou also wast with the Nazarene, even Jesus, the Galilean?

68. But he denied, saying, I neither know, nor understand what thou sayest; and he went out into the porch; and the cock crew.

69. And the maid saw him, and began to say to them that stood by, This one of them, too, stood by this one of them.

70. But he again denied it. And after a little while again they that stood by said to Peter, Of a truth thou art one of them; for thou art a Galilean.

71. But he began to curse, and to swear, I know not this man of whom ye speak.

72. And straightway the second time the cock crew. And Peter called to mind the word, how that Jesus said unto him, Before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And when he thought thereon, he wept.

Golden Text: Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.—1 Corinthians 10:12.

Time: Thursday evening, April 6th, and early Friday morning, April 7th, A. D. 30.

Place: Mark 14:12-31, in the Upper Room in Jerusalem, where the Last Supper was held.

Introduction: Our lesson today records one of the most painful incidents in the New Testament. It is the story of Peter's denial. We could wish such a lesson were not in the Bible; but it is a most important experience in the development of the character of Simon Peter and as such deserves our careful study. We will keep in mind that Peter had no intention of denying Jesus; in fact, we will remember that he protested vigorously that he would not deny his Lord. We shall be interested, therefore, to follow the circumstances that contributed to his failure to keep his vows and brought about his unhappy undoing. The lesson carries much of caution, of admonition, of warning for modern Christian living. Denial of Christ did not by any means end with Simon Peter. The modern Christian must be constantly on his guard lest he fall into the same tragic situation in which Peter found himself, and with no less distressing consequences.

The Last Supper, Mark 14:12-31. "The entire lesson of last week took place on Thursday evening of Passion Week, the evening before our Lord's Crucifixion. The lesson for this week begins on the afternoon of that same day, and terminates late in the night of Thursday, probably continuing over into the early morning of Friday. Throughout Mark's entire passage dealing with these tremendous events, Mark 14:12-72, the Apostle Peter plays a far more important role than any of the other disciples. The two disciples whom the Saviour sent to make ready the passover chamber were, Luke tells us (22:8), Peter and John. It was almost invariably the custom then for water to be carried by the women; the fact that Christ knew it would be a man they would meet, not a woman, is one of those small but significant touches in the Gospel story revealing his omniscience.—Luke 22:10.

All the Twelve Were Warned 14:27. "And Jesus saith unto them, All ye shall be offended." The verb means "to put a stumbling-block or impediment in the way, upon which another may trip and fall," and, in the New Testament, always means to cause or make to stumble, hence, to offend. Christ had frequently warned his hearers of this danger before (Mark 4:17; 9:42 ff.), but now he tells the disciples themselves that they will thus sin that very night. "For it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered abroad." The quotation is from Zechariah 13:7. Of course the Shepherd here is the Lord Jesus. The one who smites the Shepherd is none other than God himself. "It pleased Jehovah to bruise him" (Isaiah 53). "The envy and hatred of Satan, the blind fury of the chief priests, the contempt of Herod, the guilty cowardice of Pilate, freely accomplished that death which God had before decreed for the salvation of the world."—E. B. Pusey.

Peter's Self-Confidence, v. 31. Perhaps Peter's greatest weakness was his blustering overconfidence. Even after Jesus had predicted that all of his disciples would be caused to stumble (ASV), Peter declined to be included in the group that should so behave. Putting himself in a class by himself he declared that although all should be caused to stumble he would not. Even after Jesus had reiterated his prediction, intensifying this time with more specific details, Peter "spoke exceedingly vehemently, 'If I must die with thee, I will not deny thee.' Yet we must not be unfair to Peter, especially by going so far as to refer to his words as having "the air of grand-stand heroics. There is no reason to believe that Peter was insincere, or that he was playing a part. He was impulsive, ever quick to speak, always ready to act; but he was unquestionably loyal, brave and honest. The only trouble was that Peter did not know his weakness; he was overconfident. So were the other disciples — another reason why we should deal charitably with Peter.

Rash and Impulsive, 14:33-35. When deep into the night the officers and curiosity-seekers who accompanied them came to arrest Jesus, Peter drew his sword to protect his Lord. He was trying to be true to his profession of loyalty, and, incidentally, was acting quite naturally. If he had taken time to think before he acted he might have known how powerless was a single sword against a multitude determined to take Jesus. But it was Peter's nature, not unlike many of us, to act first and to think second. He did it in a moment of ecstasy in the Mount of Transfiguration. He did it in a moment of courage when he desired to walk upon the waters.

"Peter Followed Afar Off," v. 54. The arrest completed, all the disciples forsook Jesus and fled. Peter had the courage to follow him "afar off." Where were the other disciples? John followed him, too, but the others forsook him and fled.—Matt. 26:56. At the court of the high priest, at night, surrounded by his enemies, feeling the sense of the futility of all that he had hoped for, Peter had to face the greatest crisis of his life. And against what odds did he have to face it! Bewildered and fearful he acted as he had always acted: hastily, thoughtlessly, impulsively. When asked concerning his relationship to Jesus, he gradually lapsed and he shamefully denied his Lord. Three times he denied.

Peter Denied Knowing Jesus, v. 71. The light of the fire shone in his face and upon his raiment, so that everybody could eye him accurately and identify him. His speech in tone and accent and very provincialism showed him to be a Galilean. Several bystanders therefore joined in asserting that he was a Galilean, some talking directly to him. They also declared to him that his Galilean dialect betrayed him. In the midst of it all, a kinsman of Malchus, whom Peter had wounded in Gethsemane, accosted Peter with the bitter query: "Did I not see thee in the garden with him?" Under the charge Peter winced and shivered and with blustering caught at last shrieked his last bitter denial, "I know not this man of whom ye speak!"

Peter's Repentance, v. 72. "And when he thought thereon, he wept." The curses were still hot upon the lips of Peter and even echoing through the court when the cock crew exactly as Jesus had predicted. As those shrill notes rang out on the chilly night air, they fell upon the ears of Peter and went like darts into his very soul. At that same moment, the Lord looked on Peter, and that wordless look winked it way into the marrow of his being. Forth into the night he rushed and bitter were the tears that flowed fast and hot down his face. Yet in those bitter, burning, blessed tears, Peter found his soul.

Anna Sorry Her Husband Missed Cooking, Sunlight. FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 25. (AP)—Anna Hauptmann was proud of her husband during his first hour on the stand, but she felt he could have done even better had not imprisonment deprived him of sunlight and her cooking. "I say him for ten minutes in the jail," she said, "and I told him I was proud."

"Everyone was more nervous than I." COLD-HEARTED. CHICAGO (AP)—Two "patients, one complaining of an aching tongue, the other of a sore finger, gave Dr. J. A. Bergen chills and fever yesterday. The fever came first, when the patient suddenly produced revolvers, loaded him in a closet. The chills followed soon after when he released himself and discovered that the summer took his $60 overcoat with the mercury near zero.

STRIFE AND PROGRESS ALLIED

Nationalism and wars have always been closely related. Nationalism, although often narrow, prejudiced, and egotistic, is nevertheless a driving force in the progress of a nation. Reasonable national pride is necessarily and easily justified; carried to extremes it is dynamite.

A feeling of national unity was slow to develop in the American colonies despite abuses. Colonial peoples were closely bound by blood and habits with the mother country. Early troubles in the Colonies gradually disappeared as a national feeling developed.

Similarly, Texas was born as a republic. Mexico revolted against Spain. Canada, on the other hand, had maintained an affection for the empire, a form of nationalism which holds the British colonies in closely knit unity.

Rise of nationalism in Europe caused many decades of wars and paved the way for the world war. Russia, while throwing off the oppressive monarchy, was quick to raise a war scare and to develop a feeling of nationalism and a class feeling on which to base war revolution. While sneering at nationalism in other countries, Russia poses as the mother and seat of world revolution.

Japan finds her greatest strength in nationalism. China, on the other hand, lacks nationalism and lacks strength. Yet the Chinese have been called, by Will Rogers and others, the smartest race on earth in philosophy and wisdom. One Chinese father, skilled in the wisdom of his ageless civilization, is said to be the smartest of men. Two Chinese are only half as smart, and a meeting of Chinese develops such a surplus of opinion and conflicts that nothing is accomplished.

One Japanese, on the other hand, is not so smart. Two Japanese are twice as smart as one. A room full of Japanese can do most anything—they know how to cooperate.

As the world grows older and knowledge is diffused among the people, we must take care lest our attitudes grow too much like the Chinese. But we must not allow any foolish national pride to cause us to leap into a war because we imagine ourselves insulted.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The senate committee investigating the munitions trust may be incubating the Republican party's team of 1936 candidates for president and vice president.

As good a bet as any in Washington is that Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, 50-year-old Grand Rapids lawyer, and Gerald P. Nye, 42-year-old North Dakota editor, will carry the tattered banner of the Grand Old Party to the next battlefield.

Both are able and ambitious. Michigan's Vandenberg is one of the party's "Young Turks;" North Dakota's Nye a lusty Son of the Wild Jackass.

Vandenberg is eloquent, and is something of a statesman. He has written books on Alexander Hamilton, and is a student of government. He is as good presidential as the party seems to have.

Nye is a hard-bitten young agrarian and rebel. With this team, the liberals of the party are arguing, the last vestiges of the Old Guard would be cast away and the way cleared for a New Deal for Republicans.

Here is a man from the industrial near east and one from the great open west.

A series of hefty tomes have been issuing from the Interior Department's National Resources Board on land, minerals, water, power, and other wealth. The prologues to these reports had a singing literary quality, and people wondered if the department harbored some unsung Milton.

It has just been discovered they were written by a well-known New York newspaper man.

There's something funny about the "fight" to unseat Progressive Republican Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico. After loud heraldings from the Sunshine State, Dennis Chavez, defeated Democratic ex-congressman, finally got his protest to the Senate.

Instead of filing a bill of particulars charging fraud in the late election, Chavez sent only a notice of intention to contest the Cutting seat.

Washingtonians are wondering whether Chavez did this only to save his face or whether he means business.

Postmaster General Farley, credited with having put Chavez up to run against Cutting and to contest afterward, is becoming more and more bashful about the affair.

Farley's confidant on Capitol Hill is Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming. Joe said the other day he saw no great excitement over a contest among senators. "There are so many Democrats now," he said, "that there's no political issue in it."

Another valuable New Dealer has been enticed from the government's employ to a sheltered campus life. He is Dr. Winfield Riefler, unofficially known as the "president's economic adviser," and he's just accepted what may be a life position with the famous Flexner Institute of Advanced Study at Princeton.

Riefler, as Federal Reserve Board economist, head of the Central Statistical Board, and economic adviser to the National Emergency Council, has been one of the government's most effective young brain trusters.

Only 38, he will join Dr. Einstein and other grayheads in searching out abstract truth. Of late the campuses have been enticing back a number of bright young men loaned to the New Deal.

If the administration doesn't want a majority vote on the veterans' bonus, it should favor all 25 of the bonus bills now before Congress.

The World War cost us nearly $42,000,000,000, and the world has still to be saved for democracy.

It is said you need a vocabulary of 10,000 words to understand the day's news, unless you confine your reading to the funnies, of course.

Nowadays a college is rated by the number of professors it has on President Roosevelt's brain trust.

An Iowa professor has discovered five types of dumbness, although there are more students than that in his class.

TEXAS HISTORY Brushing Up on Facts You Ought to Recall

General Manuel Mier y Teran was dead! It was sad, indeed, that, in a fit of despondency he had fallen on his own sword. But it was not the first time that "caras and troubles had caused a leader to lose faith in himself and in his people."

Stephen F. Austin was the only man left who understood thoroughly the affairs of Texas and what Texans needed. General Teran had written him June 23, 1832, a week before his death, stating that only he and Austin knew the meaning of events in Texas. Both men looked on the Anahuac trouble as a personal demonstration against Bradburn.

Austin urged the people to stay out of Mexico's civil war. In the same letter to them, he told of the evacuation of Matamoros by Colonel J. M. Guerra and the immediate occupation by Colonel Jose Antonio Mexia with Santa Anna's forces. The first week in July, Mexia and Guerra signed an agreement to suppress the insurgent movement in Texas, and asked Austin to accompany the expedition. Austin assured them that the revolt was not disloyalty to Mexico, but personal resentment.

About New York

NEW YORK.—One of the most flagrant and audacious film-flam games on Broadway at the moment is the "celebrity card" ruse, practiced by salesmen or by anybody wishing to gain audience with some inaccessible higher-up.

Wishing, for instance, to interest a steel czar in some new knick-knacks, the obscure salesman will arm himself with personal cards bearing the name of some well-known celebrity. Upon being received he brazenly states that the name is his own and then launches into his song and dance. In the meantime, the unknown fellow emblazoned his cards with the name of George Arliss. He even took the precaution of addressing letters to himself by that name.

Armed with these, he boldly sent in his "card" to a famous theatrical impresario who, upon seeing the name, dismissed the office boy and rushed out to greet the actor in person.

Was He Surprised? His bewilderment was complete when the dapper salesman seized his hand and pumped it vigorously. "I am George Arliss," he stated, "and I am happy to have this honor. Now if you will be good enough to grant me five minutes..."

"But I thought you were the actor George Arliss," grumbled the showman.

"I am unfortunate in that my name coincides with a great person's," shrugged the impostor. "Perhaps my father and mother didn't realize what they were foisting upon me. But as I was saying..."

There wasn't anything the showman could do but listen. He was trapped and he knew it. To accuse the fellow might be to lay himself open to a libel suit, and so he made the best of a bad bargain by listening to what the glib salesman had to say. To his own amazement, he allowed the salesman to talk him into a sizable order.

You're Telling Me The psychoanalyst who told me this explained that such practices were often resorted to as a morale stimulant, a hypo to the ego, as it were, by men who had an inferiority complex but who otherwise led respectable lives.

He related also an account of probably as cheeky an outrageous impersonation as there is on record. In a chance conversation aboard a train, a wealthy young university graduate attempted to pass himself off as a medic.

"Yes," he said expansively, "I am a surgeon. Right now I am doing a lot of brain surgery, and let me tell you how fascinating the work is."

"I am delighted to hear you say so," his new-found friend said. "Where do you practice?"

"In Grace Memorial hospital."

This bland statement precipitated a volcanic explosion. "What!" demanded the stranger. "What! I happen to be CHIEF of STAFF at Grace Memorial and I never heard of you!"

There probably would have been more of same—but the young man fled.

Lane Maintains Innocence Until End; Dies Today

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 25. (AP)—La Roy Lane, 24-year-old Denton county farmhand, went to death in the state's electric chair early today, denying to the last the slaying of a Dallas county deputy sheriff.

Lane laughed aloud in his cell shortly before the execution as Warden W. W. Waid read the death warrant.

The youth told Warden Waid to "tell the world I didn't fire the shot that killed Cecil Chapman." He smiled and waved to Dallas officers as he sat in the chair.

Chapman, Dallas deputy, was slain in a gun fight near Dallas Sept. 8 in which Lane's brother, also was killed.

Yesterday, Ora Lee Hood, 18-year-old Denton county girl, told Dallas officers it was she who killed Chapman and not the condemned youth. She had hitch-hiked to Dallas to tell her story, arriving at daybreak.

Finally, she admitted her story was untrue, explaining "I am in love with La Roy Lane and hoped to be able to save his life, or at least get a stay of execution."

The McAllen plant now cans more grapefruit juice than any other in the world, according to J. D. Nagel Jr., citrus authority of Texas, Florida, and California.

JAP INVASION LEAVES TRAIL OF MANY DEAD

AERIAL BOMBING STILL IN PROGRESS ALONG CHINESE BORDER

PEIPING, Jan. 25. (AP)—The blood of Chinese, Japanese and Manchoukuan soldiers stained the frozen wastes of eastern Chahar province today because of a dispute over a strip of territory ten miles wide. Japanese casualties in the clashes of the last four days along the Chahar-Jehol frontier were placed in reports received here at 162 killed and nearly 200 wounded.

Japanese military authorities in Peiping, however, insisted their losses were only two dead and 6 injured. The extent of Chinese casualties was estimated at no less than 50. Simultaneously with the bloodshed, negotiations proceeded between Chinese and Japanese representatives for a diplomatic settlement of the boundary controversy. Chinese sources said an agreement had been reached regarding divergent claims over the frontier's proper location. Some Japanese circles, however, insisted that Japanese troops were being moved up to the border to re-inforce the 2,000 men now stationed there.

Cold Appears To Be Breaking in Many Sections

(By The Associated Press.) The cold wave appeared to be breaking for the time being today, but the death list mounted steadily as the storm swept its fury along the Atlantic seaboard, and southern flood waters swirled destructively. At least 25 of the dead perished in the southern flood-forest which embraced parts of Mississippi, Tennessee and Arkansas. Twenty of the fatalities occurred in Mississippi, four in Tennessee and one in Arkansas. Red Cross officials feared an even larger loss of life would be disclosed later. Exposed and homeless at approximately 18,000 persons.

Bitter cold still prevailed in the snow-bound east and New England but the weather man saw indications of some moderation. It had warmed up the middle-west, although there were predictions that the temperatures were ready to sag again tomorrow.

Of more than 170 deaths attributed directly or indirectly to the storm's fury, a dozen were reported in the nation's metropolises, where 30,000 men were put to work to dig the city out of a snowfall of 17.5 inches.

The S. S. Mohawk, under charter of the Ward Line and the Norwegian freight, Tallman of the Wilhelmsen Line collided off the New Jersey coast while a heavy wind was blowing in zero weather.

W. W. Wannamaker, seed specialist of Calhoun county, South Carolina, is credited with producing three new types of improved cotton.

Texas' Freedom Struggle Began 100 Years Ago

Hawaii Bids for Statehood as Lone Star State Celebrates—Parallel History Noted

ONE HUNDRED years ago, Texas began the march toward full statehood, which, in the space of eleven years, brought her into the Union. Observing last year the meeting of October 5, 1834, Texans looked back with pride upon a long record of illustrious progress and achievement. The history of the Lone Star State, studded with great names and great deeds, is a record which epitomizes the growth of American institutions and ideals from the earliest days to the most recent times.

Political astronomers now predict that Hawaii will emerge the 49th state of the Union. As Pampans plan the second Pre-Centennial, it is noted that Texas shares with Hawaii, and only with Hawaii, the distinction of having been an absolute independent and sovereign nation at the time of admission to the Union. An attitude of courageous self-sufficiency actuated both through the calm and troubled periods of Texas history. In Texas, this spirit displayed itself as an offshoot of the early Colonial spirit of America which adopted as a symbol the coiled rattlesnake, and the slogan "Don't Tread on Me!"

Comparing With Hawaii
Few more than 400 years there have been certain significant and deeply interesting historical parallels between the Lone Star state and Hawaii, which thanks to New England missionary zeal, first turned in friendship toward the United States in 1820. Both were discovered by Spain.

Early Days in Texas
Then, for more than two hundred years, the history of Texas is a record of the struggle for independence, while Texas slowly and faithfully—under Spanish rule—becomes dotted with missions, presidios and pueblos. But twenty-five years before the Louisiana Purchase brought Texas into geographical contact with the United States—in 1778 to be exact—the empire-

David Kalakaua, the last Hawaiian king, elected by the legislature, died in 1891 and his sister, Queen Liliuokalani, assumed the crown. She tried to put through the legislature a new constitution which would re-instate an absolute monarchy. Her cabinet refused to ratify it. In the meantime, a "Committee of Safety" was organized and led by Americans. They decided that the only solution for existing evils was to annex the islands to the United States. It became a contest between the Committee of Safety and supporters of the queen. The committee became the aggressor, took possession of the government executive building and proclaimed the abolition of the monarchy. Our Texas Navy remaining in power "until terms of union with the United States of America shall have been negotiated and agreed upon." How closely this procedure followed—probably without deliberate design—the Texas precedent is well known to every student of Lone Star history. The long struggle made by Texas to join the Union came to a focus in 1845 with the passage of a joint Congressional resolution on February 23, promptly approved by President Polk the next day. On October 13 it was ratified by a Texan general convention, and with the President's signature on December 29, the brave and venturesome republic yielded her sovereignty to become the Lone Star State.

The glory of the Lone Star State is reflected in the beauty and stability of the Capitol at Austin.

Only 97 years spans the gap between Texas' first capital and her present one.

and supporters of the queen. The committee became the aggressor, took possession of the government executive building and proclaimed the abolition of the monarchy. Our Texas Navy
Turning back the calendar fifty years, we find again close parallels between the Hawaiian struggle for independence and the example which Texas set in the forties of the last century. While never a serious threat to the navies of the major powers—the Hawaiian monarchy early realized the need of armed vessels to patrol her waters, and after the Alamo, Texas saw that control of the Gulf of Mexico would prove intensely irritating to Santa Anna. Any vessel carrying supplies to Mexico was legitimate prey for Texas' young, small and aggressive navy.

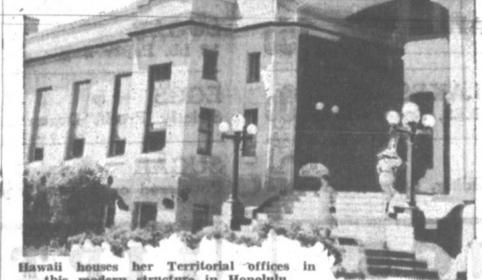

As the American brig, Procket, exactly fitted into this classification, she was captured en route from New Orleans to Matamoros and brought into Galveston as a prize, her cargo of munitions proving of the greatest value to the Texas forces. American public opinion was quickly established and the seizure was generally approved. But the munition makers, then as now thoroughly dollar-minded, protested to high heaven. Almost at once impudent invincibles were captured by a United States frigate off the mouth of the Mississippi, brought to New Orleans and the captain and crew put on trial for piracy. But the legality of Texas' position under international law was quickly established and the invincible sailed proudly back to her home port, Galveston, to be welcomed by officers March 6 while resisting arrest after he had shot R. W. Brown.

As in the case of Texas, it required war with a foreign power to bring two American communities under the same flag. When the United States became embroiled in the war with Spain, Hawaii rendered service to this country by furnishing supplies and rest for the fleet en route to the Philippines. Negotiations proceeded rapidly, and on August 12, 1898, the Hawaiian Republic was formally annexed to the United States. Two years later, Congress passed the act which made the Hawaiian Islands a Territory. This act went into effect on July 14, 1900.

It should be noted that Hawaii became an integral part of the United States by the free will of both contracting parties. It must be remembered that Hawaii was an independent republic, not a spoil of war. She was an American community in spirit long before she was a part of this country by technical treaty. Hawaii is strategically the most important single unit in the entire United States. Schofield Barracks is the largest Army post. Diamond Head is a modern Gibraltar. Pearl Harbor is the focus of the Navy's operations in the Pacific. Hawaii, by the treaty of annexation is an integral part of the United States, and thus claims domestic consideration and treatment.

Hawaii houses her Territorial offices in this modern structure in Honolulu. United States Navy. And now once more we pick up parallel trends in the histories of Texas and Hawaii. The provisional government of Hawaii followed the precedent of Texas. Sanford B. Dole, "Hawaii's Grand Old Man," was proclaimed President of the new government, with John H. Soper as general of the provisional armed forces, on January 17, 1893. The Queen immediately surrendered under protest the other branches and property of the government. The provisional government stated its purpose of

POLITICS at Random

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)
In spite of all the talk about the world court, the bonus, the social program and the problem of relief, it is the money question which now occupies the undisputed pinnacle of Washington concern and speculation.

Six months ago, three principal things were troubling those business and industrial interests who can do most, if they will, to help recovery. Business men complained that from these three causes arose nearly all of the suspicious hesitancy and lack of confidence which stood in the way of a really convincing upturn.

One thing was the prospect of another unbalanced budget. One was the dispute over the future of NRA. The third was uncertainty over the currency situation.

Recently two of these factors have lost much of their potency. Business in general has accepted the new unbalanced budget without great protest, generally conceding it to be inevitable. Further concessions have relieved concern in many quarters over the remaking of NRA, and business seems to have greater confidence it will get something like what it wants.

The third of the three problems—the money problem—alone remains critical, and it has grown worse, rather than better. Money Nervousness Supreme court consideration of the gold clause, while it greatly increased interest and speculation on this subject, by no means was the only factor in that new period of money nervousness which gripped the capital and many of the world's principal market places soon after the opening of the new year. The gold litigation involved directly only that section of the law making it no longer necessary for the government and private debtors to pay off gold bonds in gold.

rency, which he might regret a few months hence when conditions are changed. Then, on the practical side, the administration men argue that the situation in congress makes a commitment unwise.

They depend on the President's silence, on his assurance, he will exercise his inflationary powers "as, if and when necessary," to keep the congressional inflationists in check. They assert that if he tied himself to any fixed value for the dollar now, his discretionary powers would be taken away, and a law passed making inflation mandatory.

That, in brief, is the money question, stripped of technicalities and stated in the broad terms in which Washington is considering it.

35 Persons Meet Violent Death in Amarillo in 1934

AMARILLO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Thirty-five persons, including 12 suicides, met violent deaths at Amarillo last year, five more than in 1933. Eleven were taken by shootings and eight persons died as a result of traffic accidents.

Two members of the police department were among those slain and officers participated in three other fatal shootings. Police Captain Pres Burnham was shot to death January 5 by Frank Crutchfield, who now is serving a life term in the penitentiary.

Policeman Chester Grounds was slain February 14 by Clarence Hammond, who was fatally wounded by other officers when he resisted arrest. George Louis Patton was killed by officers March 6 while resisting arrest after he had shot R. W. Brown. Ed Fitzgerald was slain August 26 by police after he had fatally wounded Mrs. Elizabeth Cooper. Irvin (Blackie) Thompson, southwestern desperado, was shot down in a gun battle with officers December 6.

THOUSANDS IN RIVER DELTAS ARE MAROONED

25 PERSONS REPORTED DEAD IN MISSISSIPPI LOWLANDS

BE J. B. CROSSLEY, Associated Press Staff Writer. (Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press) MARKS, Miss., Jan. 25. (AP)—With at least 25 persons reported dead and approximately 18,000 others marooned, icy floodwaters raced madly with famine and disease through the rich delta lowlands in northwest Mississippi today.

Marks felt the brunt of the flood surge as the overflow waters from the rain-swollen Coldwater river rose steadily in the town, which has a population of 1,200. Volunteers and a hundred convicts gave up a three-day battle to save the levees last night after the water plunged through.

As the water retreated from Tunica and Tate counties, it struck Sledge and Darling in Quitman county and then rushed headlong upon Marks, threatening further destruction in the rich Tillahatchie basin below. The overflow section varies in width from 5 to 15 miles. The damage has already been estimated at more than $1,500,000 while railroads expect a loss of more than $1,000,000 through washed out tracks and damaged bridges in Mississippi and lower Tennessee.

Fear was expressed by Mayor C. P. Smith of Marks, for some 5,000 inhabitants in the path of the overflow in the Quitman-Panola basin south of here. Many in that section have already come here or gone to Crowder.

Schools, churches, the railroad station and box cars were pressed into service to house the refugees from the flood. There was intense suffering in Tate, Tunica, Panola, and Quitman counties as shivering refugees trekked into the little "cotton country" towns by the hundreds and sought any available sort of shelter.
