

NEW POLICY TO CREATE CRISIS ON FEBRUARY 1

PLAN OF COOPERATION MUST BE DECIDED, SAYS HE

AUSTIN, Jan. 19 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred took additional steps today in efforts to solve the problem of relief, in his opinion the most pressing one confronting the state.

He announced he soon would call a state-wide conference of city and county officials to meet with him and the board of control to work out a permanent plan of caring for Texas' unemployables.

Coincidentally he dispatched his personal representative, Lieut. Col. Paul Wakefield, to a conference in Nashville Monday and Tuesday between Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and governors of southern states on labor legislation and social rehabilitation.

Anxious to obtain for Texas its full share of federal aid and to cooperate with the national administration's recovery program, Governor Allred stressed the Nashville conference as "most important."

Meanwhile, Claude Teer, chairman of the board of control, administrative agency for state relief, said the relief situation, while "very satisfactory," at present necessitated careful examination because of the federal government's announced policy of turning over to the states after Feb. 1 the care of their unemployables.

Teer explained the purpose of the conference to be called by Governor Allred was to decide on and recommend to the legislature a plan of cooperation between the state, counties and cities in caring permanently for the unemployables, of whom he estimated there were approximately 58,000 cases, or 275,000 persons in Texas.

"No one has a clear conception now as to how the counties and cities would contribute funds," Teer said. "There are certain statutory limitations, tax laws, for example, to be considered. We want to talk it over with the mayors, city managers and other city and county officials."

Preliminary discussion of the conference took place among Governor Allred, Teer, Mayor Oscar E. Holcombe of Houston, Mayor C. K. Quinn of San Antonio and City Attorney W. E. George of Wichita Falls.

There is nothing acute about the situation, Teer said. The last $1,600,000 of state relief bonds already authorized by the legislature will be available for February. Bids have been asked by the Texas bond commission.

Moreover, the legislature has been asked by Governor Allred and the board of control to appropriate the $3,500,000 in state relief bonds remaining of the $20,000,000 authorized by constitutional amendment and bills for such appropriation have been introduced in both houses. This $3,500,000 would be used for relief after March 1 and Teer said, probably would care for the unemployables for about eight months.

Governor Allred announced he would not appear personally before the house state affairs committee Wednesday when it considers a bill creating a state planning board advocated by him to enable the state to cooperate closely in the national recovery program.

Ladder, Letters, Lucre To Feature Hauptmann Trial This Week

HINT 'GOLD CLAUSE' IS SUSTAINED

300 Anti-Long 'Square Dealers' Test Strength As An Army Unit

STATE DUE TO END TESTIMONY IN FIVE DAYS

UNEXPLAINED WEALTH TO BE EXPLAINED BY PROSECUTION

By JOHN FERRIS Associated Press Staff Writer FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 19 (AP)—Ladders, letters and lucre became tonight the crux of the state's case against Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

The ladder, thus far excluded as evidence but promised as an exhibit before the trial is over, is that on which the state contends the kidnaper of the Lindbergh baby descended with the child. Hauptmann, the state will attempt to prove, made it.

The letters are the series of ransom demands. Experts have testified that Hauptmann wrote them. The lucre represents the sudden wealth, the state says. Hauptmann displayed shortly after a $50,000 ransom was paid to a mysterious "John" by Dr. John F. Condon, acting for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Condon and Col. Lindbergh say "John" is Hauptmann.

The prisoner sat tonight in his cell, always under the eyes of guards, and studied photostatic copies of his own brokerage accounts—the accounts by which the state hopes to prove that he came into possession of his unexplained wealth immediately after the ransom was paid.

Defense attorneys had planned to study the accounts today, but instead of going to Trenton where they are held, chief defense counsel Edward J. Reilly obtained copies and sent them to Hauptmann.

The prisoner is expected to familiarize himself with every page and thus be prepared to advise his counsel when the state begins presentation of this testimony.

The state will submit to the jury of eight men and four women that Hauptmann, a carpenter with few jobs to keep him with every day in the depression, managed to have an income of $49,960 between the time of the payment of the ransom, April 2, 1932, and the date of his arrest, Sept. 12 last.

As it progresses through the previous business of revealing Hauptmann's brokerage transactions and showing the amount of his bank accounts, the prosecution will halt this line of testimony occasionally to call witnesses to strengthen the state's contention Hauptmann was in the Hopewell area before and during the day of the kidnaping, March, 1932.

Witnesses Eliminated Federal agents Edward Hill and William Frank and assistant attorney general Richard Stockton went over Hauptmann's bank and brokerage accounts in Trenton today. They eliminated eighteen of the witnesses the state planned to call to testify to the Hauptmann accounts, and will produce only a certified public accountant and a federal agent.

The money angle has been stressed from the beginning by Attorney General David T. Wilentz, chief of the prosecution staff. Hauptmann, he said in his opening to the jury on Jan. 3, planned the kidnaping for money and collected the ransom alone.

Congress Will Apply Gag Rule On Relief Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Democratic leaders today decided to apply an iron-clad "gag" rule on the house to pass the president's $4,880,000,000 relief program by not later than Tuesday.

The strategy was chosen after White House pressure was brought to expedite the program exactly as requested by the chief executive. It is designed to prevent amendments and to limit debate to about four hours.

This drastic move was conceived when it became known a large number of democrats as well as republicans signified they were opposed to voting the huge sum without detailed hearings.

BATTALION IS ORGANIZED AT STATE CAPITAL

ELEMENTS OF MILITARY APPEARANCE ARE FOLLOWED

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 19 (AP)—Marched in military formation under a billowing American flag, 340 East Baton Rouge parish citizens were organized late today into the headquarters "shock troop battalion" of the Square Deal association of Louisiana which is challenging Senator Huey P. Long's dictatorship.

Assembling in a row of "companies" at bugle call, citizens of varying classes—mechanic, laborer and well-dressed business men—fell into battalion line at the parish airport to form the Square Deal association's central "manpower" unit.

There was no actual drilling or military maneuvers. There were no guns carried. But the elements of military organization and appearance were closely followed.

Officers of the unit, designated the "East Baton Rouge Headquarters Battalion" of the citizens organization which has declared for a course of "direct action" as result of Gov. O. K. Allen's having flouted its demand for immediate repeal of dictator laws, were chosen as well as leaders for each company.

Ernest J. Bourgeois, 23-year-old Square Deal president, and other officers of the association's headquarters executive committee were in command.

Bourgeois shouted instructions through a megaphone. In a brief address to the assembled volunteers, he said the formation was to muster manpower and roster organization rather than the execution of physical drill.

"You are here to get into an army," Bourgeois told the men. "That is not the idea. This is just for organization."

"We are not going to be out here every Saturday. This may be our last meeting. We are here for organization only."

Bourgeois said he thought it was a "fine turning out." Square Deal leaders withheld statements as to their next move, but it was understood "local companies" are to be formed elsewhere over the state.

The Square Deal association, at a mass meeting Jan. 6 gave Governor Allen 10 days in which to call a special legislative session to repeal "obnoxious laws" and "dictatorial measures imposed by his political superior, Senator Long."

Asked today at Shreveport what he thought about the association, the governor said: "You notice I am still going about among the people."

COMMISSION IS LOSER IN TENDER SUIT

Huge Amount of Refined Oil Products Will Be Released for Shipment Soon

AUSTIN, Jan. 19 (AP)—Temporary injunctions restraining the railroad commission from requiring tenders for crude oil products in storage prior to Dec. 10 were granted eight days ago and an estimated 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 barrels of refined oil products which had been in storage since Dec. 10.

The plaintiffs were the Tyler Texas Oil and Refining company, William H. McKain, J. M. Bradshaw, Phoenix Refining company, G. H. Burnham, C. D. Arcter, Lizzie Refining company and Primrose Petroleum company.

The court specified commission representatives might have five days in which to inspect inventories.

COUNTY SELLS 6,271 CATTLE TO GOVERNMENT

Gray Stockmen Paid $81,287 For Animals

Gray county farmers and stockmen sold a total of 6,271 head of cattle to the government in the buying program recently closed, according to figures in the office County Agent Ralph Thomas.

Of these, 1,269 were condemned and killed as unfit for marketing. The others went to various canneries.

A total of $81,287 was paid out under 571 purchase contracts. Some stockmen sold at different times and therefore received several contracts. The average price for an animal was $11.37. This included calves and condemned stock.

The program effectively ended Gray county dairy and range herds.

BITTER COLD SWEEPS OVER PACIFIC AREA

Temperatures 34 Below at Cannonville, Colo.; Blizzard Is Due in Texas Today

The temperature in Pampa was dropping fast last night. At 10 o'clock the thermometer at the Santa Fe depot read 26 degrees above zero. At the same time the reading at Curtis, near Waynoka, was 16 degrees, the local dispatcher was informed. He received word from Hereford at about the same hour and the reading in that city was 40 degrees, with a cold wind starting to blow.

(By The Associated Press.) Snow and freezing weather were predicted for some parts of Texas Sunday while rains, approaching the flood class at Texarkana and in Concho county, continued in many portions of the state Saturday.

The United States weather bureau at Dallas forecast snow and a cold wave with freezing temperature for that vicinity late Saturday night or Sunday. Amarillo, where it was clear and the minimum temperature was 32 Saturday, reported probable snow and colder weather forecast for Sunday.

A cold wave with a temperature drop to 18 to 26 degrees was predicted for Abilene, and rain in that section was due to turn to snow.

Flood waters of a 4-inch rain swirled about many low-lying homes in Texarkana Saturday. It was reported as the heaviest down-pour in that section in years.

The Eden and Millersview section in Concho county also reported a 4-inch downpour.

Clouds continued to threaten in the San Angelo sector.

Dallas had a 1.53 inch rain during the 24 hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday and more rain was predicted.

Rain continued late Saturday at Fort Worth, where precipitation of 1.19 inches was measured at 4:30 p. m.

FAMOUS FIVE-FOUR DECISION IS POSSIBLE

BELIEVE NINE JUSTICES HAVE MADE UP MINDS

By J. T. SUTER (Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Nine high justices of the supreme court, although guarding their secret closely, left surface signs after a protracted conference today that they had reached a decision in the historic "gold clause" cases.

In their purely physical actions trained observers saw hints of the possibility of another of the famous 5-4 decisions. The justices themselves were silent as always. But of the six who remained closeted together after the conference broke up, five have been labeled as "progressives."

If their actions today were significant, and if the "progressives" follow lines to which they often have held in the past, some observers held it possible the court might divide 5 to 4 to sustain the validity of the act suspending gold payments.

There were signs that after the nine filed into their conference chamber, their discussions became animated. The question before them was one of the most important governmental issues to arise in recent decades.

Directly involved was whether congress acted unconstitutionally in abrogating the clause in many bonds and contracts guaranteeing payment in gold or its equivalent. Should the will of the court cannot become known until Feb. 4 at the earliest, as a recess intervenes.

The first members of the court to withdraw from the conference room today were three so-called "See GOLD CLAUSE, Page 3"

Amarillo Plant Will Can Beef For Half of It

Panhandle farmers and ranchers desiring to have beef canned on a percentage basis can get in touch with A. Meredith, Potter county relief administrator, who will instruct them on time of delivery.

The plan is to can for individuals on the regular percentage basis at the government canning factory in Amarillo, where the Potter county cattle processing has been completed for the time being. The canning plant will furnish equipment, cans and labor for beef processing, 50 per cent going to the producer and 50 per cent to the TRC surplus commodities.

Cattle are to be delivered to Pinkney stockyards, tagged, recorded, killed and chilled, then to the plant for processing and division.

The offer is made only to counties where there is no canning factory.

NORTH DAKOTA GOVERNOR RETAINS OFFICE DESPITE HIS IMPEACHMENT BY OPPONENTS

House Which Suspended Him to Meet Tonight and Appoint Managers.

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 19 (AP)—Dismissing any but peaceful means, Governor Thomas H. McLeode today retained possession of his office in a tense political situation precipitated by his impeachment yesterday by the North Dakota house of representatives.

Ordering withdrawn two national guardsmen who had been on watch against possible attempts to remove him, McLeode declined to give up his office to Lieut. Gov. Walter H. Weiford until the situation was clarified. He said he contemplated legal action.

Opinions differed whether his suspension—provided in the case of impeached officers until their cases are decided by the senate—would take effect immediately. Attorney General P. O. Sathre, affiliated with the Non-Partisan league group which sponsored the impeachment, advised the governor yesterday's action was incomplete.

This opinion led to rumors, quickly denied by leaders, that impeachment of Sathre was planned. Admitting privately such action had been considered, non-partisans declared it would not receive their support.

Weiford, also a non-partisan leader, when he takes over the gov-

CHRIST'S BENEDICTION: Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid—John 14:27.

Rooted in Our Own Culture

It is a fine thing to know and appreciate the culture of all ages. Unfortunately, millions cannot attain such an appreciation and, indeed, are not interested in doing so. But much of the present educational system is based on the theory that the schools should interpret the past and, largely, let the students study the present in their later lives.

We have long believed that this approach to education was wrong, especially in the grades and high schools. It was with much satisfaction, therefore, that we heard Dr. H. B. Bruner of Columbia university, New York, express the same idea here Friday and expand it with the challenging thought of an expert.

Dr. Bruner is not a New York man coming west to tell us how to run our schools. He is a westerner who went east to convince brilliant educators that education needed a revision to meet the demands of today's world. He earned his early reputation no farther away than Okmulgee, Okla., where his work attracted national attention.

Dr. Bruner's method is not haphazard; it is not radical. He never advocates a change without testing it for months on various groups of children, and comparing these pupils with those taught in the old, traditional way. He believes that an understanding of today's problems should be sought in the grades and in the high schools. Studies of the past will, under his plan, be less time-consuming and formal. He would leave to the colleges the task of imparting facts which millions of students never use. He would enable the colleges to teach the past in terms of the present, reversing the present order. Students who never went to college would thereby be graduated with at least an interest in and a working knowledge of such every-day problems as marketing, home-building, taxation, law-enforcement, and job-finding.

Dr. Bruner's classroom is an informal base of operations. Chairs are movable and are placed according to discussion groups and the method of the moment. Excursions are frequent. But all pupils do not go to the same source of information at the same time. All do not use the same textbooks. In this manner, groups report to each other and there is the interest aroused by exchange of information. Good listeners and good talkers are developed. The teacher checks the statements and leads round table discussions.

Admittedly, this method of teaching is difficult. It makes it necessary for teachers to know current events and current problems. Theories are tested against actual working conditions in the community. Problems are based upon local taxation, unemployment, marketing, agriculture, and the like. The psychology of the method is that learning is more than mental—it must be accompanied by emotions, interests, local color, and motivation.

Such education more nearly approaches that perfect teaching relationship—a good pupil and a good teacher exchanging intimately the thoughts which arise from day to day. Such methods will end in the nonsensical system of asking pupils what one textbook writer said about a certain topic, on a certain page.

To see the wisdom of the new education, which in time will change present methods and materials by 50 per cent, it is necessary only to analyze one's own schooling and the sense of shock when the practical problems of life are encountered. But as for radicalism, the Bruner methods are no more strange than the plan of developing "kid" bands in the Pampa schools—an activity highly approved by the New York man and one that is attracting national attention.

Trends in teaching have been summarized by the New York State Teachers association committee as follows:

- Trend I: Increased opportunity for social experiences among children—
 1. Tendency to let children express their own individuality in the arrangement and decoration of the classroom.
 2. Tendency toward flexibility in the arrangement and use of furniture.
 3. Tendency toward the ingenious use of materials.
 4. Tendency to encourage informality in social relationships through cooperative room activities.
 5. Tendency to encourage informality in social relationships through cooperative school activities.
 6. Tendency to make the school assembly the outlet for much of the activity work developed in the classrooms.
- Trend II: The increasing emphasis upon economic and social understandings which unite the school more closely to the community—
 1. Tendency to include materials that increase the child's understanding of social and economic life in the local community.
 2. Tendency to replace vicarious with direct experiences in dealing with child's immediate environment.
 3. Tendency for children to use freely the materials and experiences of the community.
 4. Tendency to include children's current interests and experiences as well as planned curriculum materials throughout the elementary school.
- Trend III: Determining the place of drill in the activity program—
 1. Tendency to disregard subject matter divisions in carrying out activities.
 2. Tendency to use classroom activities as a means for motivating, enriching, and reinforcing drill.
 3. Tendency to spend less time on factual drill and to place the drill needed for fixing essential facts into periods separate from the activity periods.
- Trend IV: The selection and organization of content around problems resulting in an integration of learning—
 1. Tendency to use real arithmetical situations existing within classroom, school, and community.
 2. Tendency to use music, fine arts, practical arts, and physical education as inseparable parts of other classroom work.
 3. Tendency to use science materials in the solution of problems and in the satisfaction of interests.
 4. Tendency to recognize English expression as an important phase of all unit teaching.
- Trend V: The development of research attitudes and techniques among children:
 1. Tendency to build up and use libraries as reference rooms.
 2. Tendency to use text books for reference in the solution of problems.
 3. Tendency to use other source materials.

- 4. (Tendency to use community materials).
- Trend VI: Provisions for the development of individual attitudes and interests—
 1. Tendency toward utilizing the creative abilities of individual children in promoting the creative work of the group.
 - Trend VII: The growth of an analytical and critical attitude among teachers toward new technics and methods—
 1. Tendency to analyze critically their work in unit teaching.
 2. Tendency to compile and evaluate materials and supplies for future use.

TEXAS HISTORY You Ought to Recall

D. B. Edwards was almost certain that his school, the Gonzales Seminary, located in the thriving Gonzales settlement, would have many pupils. There had been a noticeable lack of schools in the new communities in Texas, and feeling fully capable through his experience as "sometime principal of the Academy at Alexandria, La.," he had announced the opening of his Seminary. His prices were low, the crops had been good that year in Texas, and mothers and fathers were in a position to send their children to him. Hung on the wall in every room and elaborately embroidered were the words: "Conduct, not person, creates distinction."

Arithmetic, elocution and grammar were to be taught for a tuition of $1.50 per person. "Ethics" and natural and moral philosophy were taught for $3, belles lettres, rhetoric and logic were $4, geography was $2, and writing was only a dollar. The Seminary opened at eight o'clock in the morning, and classes were held until twelve. Work was resumed again at two o'clock, and lasted until dusk at six o'clock. Mr. Edwards had announced that "the WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Jan. 19. (AP)—Baby Christopher Smith Reynolds today replied to Mrs. Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith challenge of his legitimacy and right to a part of the tobacco millions of his father, the late Smith Reynolds, with a scathing attack upon her good faith in raising the questions.

Through his next friend, R. C. Vaughn, the infant son of Libby Holman, former Broadway torch singer and Reynolds' second wife, filed an answer in superior court to Mrs. Smith's effort to bar him from sharing in the estimated $30,000,000 estate.

Christopher's response said that not only did Mrs. Smith know of her own knowledge and through the advice of able counsel that the divorce was valid in every respect, but she has demonstrated that she is aware of, through her various acts and has so acknowledged through sundry papers filed in this and other court litigation.

LONG DISTANCE SHOTS OF BORGANS MAKE TILT CLOSE

By ARCHER FULLINGIM
A bunch of the fighting Harvesters escaped defeat by the skin of their clenched teeth last night in a basketball battle with Borger's able Bulldogs, who scrapped just as hard. Two baskets switched from the field in the final minute by the Harvesters gave the Pampans a 24 to 20 decision.

It was probably the most thrilling game of the season, and the crowd yelled itself hoarse long before the exciting last quarter got underway. The Borgans had the best team the Harvesters have faced this season, despite the 27 to 21 loss suffered at Amarillo last week. Borger should easily take Amarillo when the Sandies invade the Bulldog court.

An unusual feature of the game was that J. R. Green although he did not score a single field goal, for the first time in a game this year—was high point man with seven tallies to his credit. One of them was the result of a foul which Referee Frank Monroe assessed against the Borgans for coaching from the sidelines.

Late in the fourth period, with the Harvesters leading, Dunaway, Borger forward, and White, Borger center, left the battle on personal fouls. Naturally, this cramped the final rally of the visitors. The Bulldogs will be laying for the Harvesters when the latter return the engagement on the Borger court, and they will show no quarter—if the Harvesters need it. Monroe called 10 fouls against each team. Pampa led at the end of every quarter, but was on the short end of the score several times as the Borgans forged ahead.

James led the Borger scoring attack with 7 points. Nash somehow managed to loop three field goals and Steve Green two. Both shown on the offense.

The Pampans' passing worked better in the first half than in the last. Borger exhibited a sometimes-unbeatable passing attack. What field goals the Bulldogs made were long-distance specials. The final field goal game was won by Dunaway and Dunaway. Edward Scott still feeling the effects of his recent illness, played an inspired game as long as he was in, passing profitably, and held his man, possessing Dunaway, handled the ball nicely throughout the game.

The Harvesters were the underdogs, on account of the scores each team amassed against Amarillo. Friday night, the Bulldogs swamped Lubbock at Borger 22 to 11. Lubbock had previously routed Plainview by similar scores.

FRIKA AFTER SMU COACHING JOB; MATTY BELL IN LINE

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, Jan. 19. (AP)—Dr. Charles C. Seelman, president, said today it would be several weeks before Southern Methodist university's new football coach is appointed.

The vacancy was created last night when Ray Morrison resigned to accept a similar position at Vanderbilt university. Morrison returns to his alma mater after 13 consecutive coaching years at Southern Methodist, where his aerial circus amassed 82 victories, 31 defeats and 20 ties.

The first and only applicant to be interviewed today was Coach Henry Frika of the Greenville high school, La. He refused to divulge what transpired.

Frika, who coached at the 1933 Texas interscholastic league championship, and to the semifinals of last year's championship marathon. His name has been linked with the assistant coaching job at Northwestern university under Coach Lynn Waldorf.

Frika ranks as one of the best interscholastic coaches and has the support of a strong North Texas football club.

Atty. Bell, last year's assistant to Morrison and former head coach at Texas A. and M. college, is another in line for the job.

Returning today from an Abilene, Texas, business trip, Dr. Seelman said: "I deeply regret Morrison's resignation to accept a coaching position at Vanderbilt, also that our freshman coach, Russell McIntosh, will go with Morrison to Nashville, Missouri. It is a wonderful coach, a fine man and will be difficult to replace."

"Southern Methodist officials will take plenty of time selecting Morrison's successor. It probably will be two or three weeks before I can announce anything definitely. We probably will name a head coach and then allow him to appoint his assistant. It is going to be pretty hard to find someone the equal of Morrison."

WEATHER

with minimum temperature of 66. Temperature of 57 degrees was reported falling Saturday night at Paris, where a 2-inch rain had been registered in the last two days.

Mercurial winter drove a sharp salient down the frozen Yukon Saturday, bringing the menace of frost to California, new blizzards to the snowing cascades, snafus far south as Texas and bitter sub-zero temperatures far across the states.

The mercury dove to 57 degrees below zero at Endako, B. C., and found new low points for the winter in the region of the Dakotas. Almost a score of persons were dead or missing in the storm that raged down the coast from Alaska to California. Countless others were killed or injured in rail and highway accidents caused by severe cold, ice and snow.

Trains battled mountain snowdrifts and ran five hours late in the northwest. Temperatures plunged to 50 below at Battle Mountain, 46 at Sasketoon, 48 at Prince Albert, 42 at Edmonton, 31 at Winnipeg.

TELL WHIPPED IN SURPRISING 27 TO 14 BOUT

HARVESTERS WHITTLE VISITORS DOWN TO OWN SIZE

The Harvesters eagres might not have won the game with Tell here Friday night (as they did), but they still would have played good basketball. They whittled down the "bumm telephone boys" from Childress county to their own size in the last half and emerged with a 27 to 14 victory.

The triumph was unexpected because Tell had previously defeated Turkey 14 to 25, after the Turks triumphed over the Harvesters 26 to 29. That the score Friday night was 6-6 at the half indicated that the Harvesters sometimes play bad basketball when they win and good basketball when they lose.

Had the Pampans mixed it with Amarillo as they did with the tall boys from Tell, the result of the Sandle game might have been different. With the exception of several wild passes from one end of the court to the other, the Harvesters played an admirable game. The long fellows made the mistake of playing low instead of among the treets, and the Harvesters made their extra height look superfluous.

It was the first defeat of the season for Tell. The elongated trio of Osborn, brother's had previously led the team to eleven consecutive victories.

However, something must have gone haywire with the Tellites' equilibrium or system, because they even had no success in grabbing rebounds. The big fellows had previously playing low instead of among the treets, and the Harvesters made their extra height look superfluous.

Follett Quint Beats Gorillas 22 to 11 Friday

Follett missed 22 set-up shots under the baskets, and the Gorillas missed 11 in an unpollished affair Friday night when the Lipscomb county boys routed the charges of Coach Harry Kelley, as was expected 22 to 11.

The Follett boys won by main strength and height three were over six feet and correspondingly beefy, while the others were even smaller than the Gorillas. Jones, the red-headed hope of the Gorillas left the game in the first half on three personals. He had led the attack up to the time he was jerked. Brown a midget and Haralson, big guard, starred for Follett.

Hoppe Thrills Billiard Fans

A veteran of veterans, Willie Hoppe gave Pampa billiard followers a thrilling exhibition of how the game should be played and a lesson in fundamentals, at the Pampa Athletic club on West Kingsmill avenue last night. The ballroom was packed with interested spectators.

Hoppe is present holder of two world's titles and is known as the "King of the Ivorys. Hoppe started playing when he was 2 years old. Ten years later he won his first world's title. Since then his name has been synonymous with billiards all over the world.

The quiet spoken veteran made a real hit with Pampa fans. He is 42 years old but does not appear to be that age. He loves the game and that is why he is still king. The veteran did not appear tired although he gave an exhibition in Amarillo in the afternoon and drove here from Borger after playing at 7:30 o'clock.

Harry Davis attended the presentation of Don Cossack and his Russian chorus in Amarillo Friday night.

FACULTY FIVE BEATS GROOM CAGERS 30-25

ROPEVILLE CLUB WILL PROBABLY PLAY HERE SOON

The Faculty basketball team composed of coaches who receive their practice when their teams work out, went to Groom Friday night and defeated the Groom Independents 30 to 25 in a rough and tumble game.

The Groom team which includes on its lineup members of Groom's excellent basketball teams of 1930 and 1932, will play a return engagement in Pampa soon. Townsend, Groom forward, was high point man of the melee, scoring 15 points. Townsend was a star on the Groom team several years ago.

A Groom high school student who refereed removed Frank Monroe as a scoring threat by calling four personal fouls on him, but not until Monroe had scored 8 points. The odd thing about the officiating was that no fouls were assessed against Groom players. Only two were called against the other, both Pampa and Groom.

All the players on the Faculty team, except one, Francis Smith of LeFors, formerly played at WTSTC. Smith, LeFors football line coach, played basketball and football at McMurry college.

The lineups and points scored: Pampa—
Forwards: Kelly 2, Smith 4, Monroe 8; center, Irving 2; guards, Savage 4, Richards 10; Anderson, Guy Richards is teaching at Skellytown, Groom—
Forwards, Townsend 15, Kuehler; center, Kendrick 2; Carlson 8; guards, Newton and Sankey.

The Ropesville team which went to the state finals as a high school team several years ago and which is still intact, will probably play the faculty in the near future here, it was announced.

Miss Myrtle Reeves of Hedley is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pirie, 704 North Somerville street, and other friends here.

Mrs. Ben Williams of LeFors shipped here yesterday afternoon.

NEW YORK CURRICULUM DIRECTOR HITS AT TODAY'S CLASS METHODS

Teachers, parents, and visiting school men heard with obviously keen interest a lecture on curriculum revision by Dr. H. B. Bruner, of Columbia university, at the Methodist church auditorium Friday.

Dr. Bruner was introduced and highly praised by Supt. E. B. Fisher, a former pupil.

The speaker made a strong plea for adapting school work and methods to the problems of each community affected. He told of experiments which proved the efficiency of the method. He denied that there would be any loss in discipline.

Dr. Bruner is studying methods in Fort Worth for a time and advising teachers and the board of education there. A more detailed explanation of his ideas appears in today's editorial.

of the plaintiffs as of Dec. 10. It stated further that it issued no other injunctions in similar cases unless plaintiffs showed they had filed inventories with the commission and had been refused tenders.

Attorneys for the state and the plaintiffs conferred briefly with Ernest C. Thompson, chairman of the railroad commission, relative to the terms of the final order, which may be signed Monday. Later Thompson said the amount of oil products involved was too small to affect the price structure.

KILGORE, Jan. 19. (AP)—A member of the Texas railroad commission refinery and pipe line department estimated tonight that 900,000 barrels of petroleum products refined prior to the Dec. 10 tender order were stored in the East Texas field.

The department announced a check would start tomorrow on stored products of plaintiff companies which won a court decision today denying the railroad commission's power to prohibit movement of such products. It was estimated the check would require two or three days.

Fletcher Funeral Scheduled Today

Funeral services for A. D. Fletcher, 44, who was killed in an automobile accident near Pampa on Thursday night, will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of the G. C. Malone Funeral home. Burial will follow in Fairview cemetery.

Mr. Fletcher had been a resident of Pampa only a few months, coming here from Oklahoma City to be connected with the mechanical department of the Tom Rose company.

PAMPANS ASKED TO DECIDE ON DISSOLUTION OR CONTINUANCE OF RIFLE CLUB—INTEREST LAGS

Among the several hundred civilian rifle clubs formed in the United States, about 150 have no government equipment, since only a limited amount of equipment—rifles, target carriers, targets, etc. is available.

The Pampa Rifle club has this equipment. Interest in shooting, however, has decreased to such an extent in Pampa that the club is contemplating returning the equipment to the government for resale to the next club on its list, and disbarring the Pampa club.

Borger's Girls Defeat Pampa's 28-17 in Tilt

Borger's red and white clad basketball team swamped the Pampa Harvestettes 27 to 17 in the opening game. The Pampa guards were unable to stop Pitts who looped 14 points. She was followed by Everett with 10 points.

Shields led the Pampa attack with seven points, with Williams and Haskell following with four points each. Wild passing and poor shooting marked the game.

Harvestettes playing were Feltner, Williams, Shields, Haskell, Jeffries, Grey, Summerville, Perkins, Blythe, Hunkapillar, O'Hara. Borger players in action were Pitts, Edwards, Everett, Wilson, Melton, Holmes, Nichols, Sampson, Coffey.

together. They remained closeted for some time.
No explanation was available for the early withdrawal of Justice Brandeis except that it is known that he is conserving his strength. Nor would anyone venture why Sutherland remained after his old associates, Justices Vandevanter, McReynolds and Butler, withdrew.

It was suggested as possible that Sutherland, although normally a conservative, may find himself aligned with the four who remained. He was senator from Utah before going on the bench and it was further advanced tonight that because of his long congressional experience his views may be the same as those who remained in the conference room with him.

Claim Operator To Purchase All Untendered Gas

DALLAS, Jan. 19. (AP)—The Dallas News says a large East Texas oil operator has started negotiations for purchase of all untendered gasoline in East Texas—between 300,000 and 350,000 barrels—to save the refined market from the effect of dumping this material at once.

The News says the negotiations were stated today after a district court at Austin granted temporary injunctions restraining the Texas railroad commission from requiring tenders for crude oil products in storage prior to Dec. 10, date of the issuance of the commission order.

The operator, with offices in Dallas, was quoted by the newspaper as saying "If this untendered gasoline can be held off the market, the price will be saved but otherwise chaos is due."

The operator said his plan included buying up all material available, representing 1,500 or more cars, with the privilege of taking it over within six months. By spreading it over this period, the untendered fuel will not ruin the still weak gasoline market, the operator told The News.

Negotiations with some of the latest owners of such gasoline were under way tonight with prospects that most, if not all, will be taken off the market, the operator said.

CLASS PLAN DEBATED CANYON, Jan. 19.—Students of the West Texas State Teachers college are objecting to the present schedule which calls for six days a week of classes.

Possible adoption of the Five Day Plan was the main topic considered at the Student Council meeting held last Monday afternoon. The question is even being debated. On Tuesday morning, January 15, G. L. Stanley of Amarillo upheld the affirmative, and Garland Martin of Pampa spoke for the negative on the debate. "Resolved that the Five Day Plan should and could be used at the West Texas State Teachers college." This debate was heard by the student body during the assembly period.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Duncan of LeFors were Pampa visitors yesterday.

Child Labor Day To Be Observed By National P-T-A

By MRS. JOHN M. FOX, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers State Publicity Chairman Wichita Falls

For thirty years, the national child labor committee has named the last of January, (namely January 26th to 28th) as child labor day.

This year special emphasis will be laid upon the ratification of the federal child labor amendment which will be discussed at the present session of the Texas legislature.

Universal approval has been voiced in the matter of emergency codes for the temporary abolition of child labor in the major industries of the country. At the expiration of these codes child welfare exponents are faced with legislation which will make permanent this abolition of child exploitation all over the nation. Material may be secured from National Child Labor Committee, 419 4th St., New York.

Conference on Child Health This conference is scheduled for February 21, 22, and 23, and will take place at Austin. Four phases will be represented, namely, education, medicine, social service and public health. Able state and national speakers have been selected to give special interpretation to selected problems. A program has been arranged which can be taken back to each county and adequately presented to the citizens of that community. It can also be used effectively and profitably by local doctors, public health officials, educators and social service workers in their individual work.

All new agencies that have been organized this year are invited to send representatives. This conference affords the only opportunity during the year for all of these workers to come together to pool their experiences and to unite their efforts in behalf of a more serviceable program for the health and protection of the children of Texas and the world.

National Parent-Teacher Texas has not as yet reached its quota of subscriptions for this national and official organ of the national congress. The classification of Texas has undergone a change this year because of the notable increase in membership for 1932-33. Article in the January number of the National Parent-Teacher magazine describes how Alice McLellan Birney was led to call the first congress of mothers and how she enlisted the aid of Phoebe Apperson Hurst and how the congress was received by the public and the press. Good founders day material may be secured through this article alone.

MEAL PLANNING IN WINTER HAS ITS PROBLEMS

School Children Are Due Particular Consideration

Menus and Recipes Prepared by Texas State College for Women (CIA), Department of Home Economics. DENVER, Jan. 19.—There are many things to consider in making any menu, but in planning a meal for a cold day, one must be very careful. If there are school children in the family, see to it that they have plenty of warm energy-giving food. Milk is necessary any time, but it is particularly important in the winter.

Hot cereals are desired at this time of the year and only a few minutes are necessary to give the family a hot breakfast. Do not let the members of the family rush off to work or to school with only a piece of toast to protect them from the cold and to give them energy for the morning's work.

January Menus.

Breakfast: Orange juice, oatmeal, cream, bacon, toast, cocoa.

Dinner: Broiled steak, boiled rice, creamed peas, prune salad, biscuit, butter, apple pie, coffee.

Supper: Cheese souffle, creamed potatoes, graham bread, pineapple salad, cookies.

Breakfast: Cream of wheat with date, poached egg, toast, apricot conserve, cocoa.

Dinner: Cream of tomato soup, salmon croquettes, lima beans, bread, butter, apple and celery salad, gingerbread, whipped cream.

Supper: Macaroni, ham and cheese, muffins, butter, fruit jello, salad, sponge cake.

Recipes.

Cheese Souffle—Melt two tablespoons of butter, add four tablespoons of flour, when well-mixed, gradually add one cup scalded milk; then add one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains of cayenne pepper, and one-fourth cup grated cheese. Remove from fire and add the yolks of three eggs beaten. Cool the mixture and cut and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake 20 minutes in a slow oven.

Macaroni, Ham and Cheese (casserole)—Mix cooked macaroni, chopped boiled ham, diced cheese. Season with salt and pepper, put in greased casserole and cover with medium white sauce. Bake 30 minutes in a hot oven.

Gingerbread—Mix and sift two and one-half cups wheat flour, 1 t soda, 1 t ginger, 1/2 t salt, 1-4 t cloves, 1/2 t cinnamon. Cream 1/2 c sugar and 1/2 c fat. Add egg yolk and mix thoroughly. Mix 1/2 c molasses and 1/2 c sour milk. Add alternately with dry ingredients to butter, sugar, and egg yolk. Add beaten white of egg. Bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

BEXAR ARCHIVES TRANSLATED -- HISTORY OF TEXAS CHANGED

THE DETAILS OF TEXAS UP TO 1835 TOLD

RE-WRITING OF STATE HISTORY MAY BE NECESSITATED

(Note: The following is the first of a series of weekly articles taken from the Bexar Archives at the University of Texas. This column, considered the greatest single historical treasure of the North American continent, has been catalogued and is now being translated by the University of Texas. It consists of 400,000 pages of original Spanish handwritten documents and is the official archives of the Mexican government for the Department of Bexar, which covered almost the whole of Texas, from 1731, soon after Texas became a separate province of Mexico, to 1824, to the Battle of San Jacinto. This series of articles will consist principally of quotations from the documents, many of which have heretofore been unpublished, and will reveal for the first time what actually transpired during the century in which Texas was transferred from a Spanish province to an independent American republic.)

SERIES I, NO. 1. AUSTIN, Jan. 18.—Generations ago it was predicted that the translation of the documents in the Bexar Archives might necessitate the re-writing of many portions of Texas history. For years it was the dream of historians that these valuable records should be transcribed and translated. That vision is at least on the way to being realized.

When Texas won its independence, and an Anglo-American state of government was set up within the new republic, the Mexican capital of San Antonio was abandoned. During the century that Mexico ruled over Texas, the city of San Antonio was the official seat of government of the department of Bexar and from San Antonio all of Texas was governed. The capital of Texas as a republic was never the city of San Antonio, and consequently the official archives of Bexar did not become a part of the archives of the republic, but fell into the possession of Bexar county.

Far-sighted historians realized the importance of having the records translated, but lack of interest on the part of competent persons blocked the project. Legislative appropriation was eventually made for the task, and a translator appointed. Little progress was made. Funds were finally dissipated.

In 1898, an agreement was reached between the officials of Bexar county and the University of Texas, whereby these rare documents, in their original and translated form, were to be deposited in the university library. The materials were to be arranged, no semblance of chronological or other order having existed previously, and translations were to be made. Copies of the original documents were to be furnished to the commissioners' court of Bexar county.

After removal of the priceless archives to the university library, there was still a need for their support. Mrs. Mattie Austin Hatcher, university archivist, among a multitude of other duties, had charge of the Bexar collection. Handicapped by the lack of even a filing clerk, she worked alone. Each day she managed to retrieve a few minutes of her time to spend on the Bexar archives. Without assistance, she has assorted the hundreds of thousands of documents, has catalogued them chronologically and according to subject matter. That calendar, or index, is now complete, and the archives are in order for systematic translation.

It was in the spring of 1934, just as Mrs. Hatcher was in the last stages of making the calendar, that support from the university historians. Federal funds were allotted to the university for student relief work, and a corps of university students were set to work checking and re-checking each document and making copies of each index card. The university board of regents then appointed an official translator for the Bexar archives, Juan Haggard-Villasana, a graduate of the university and a Spanish scholar.

In former years, translations have been made of certain documents in the Bexar archives recognized as unusually important, but the first orderly translation of the whole collection was not made until this period from 1803 to 1821 was recognized as the most significant one in the history of early Texas, and the documents covering this era are the ones first to be translated. It was in 1803 that the sale of Louisiana made Texas a frontier province and a bone of contention between the United States and Spain. It was in 1821 that Mexican independence was established, opening the way for American immigration to Texas.

CLASSIFIED SECTION

was again an uncivilized wilderness. Then Louisiana fell under the control of a commercial company that was more interested in opening a contraband trade with Mexico than in defending its sovereignty's title to the vast wilderness to the west; under the auspices of this company, and their Frenchman whom we know in Texas history as Saint-Denis, aroused Spanish jealousy by penetrating the forbidden country. But he told such tales of the willingness of the French to cede the disputed territory and their desire to open trade with Mexico, that the Spanish authorities resolved to seize the opportunity to take possession; and thus it was that, under the guidance of Saint-Denis, and with the consent of his superiors in Louisiana, the missions and forts around Nacogoches and San Antonio came into existence during the years immediately following 1716. This was the beginning of the permanent occupation of Texas.

"The French soon became hostile again, and from this time to 1763 the theme of greatest interest in Texas history is the attempt of the French to drive out the Spanish, and, on the other hand, the preserving endeavors of the Spanish to hold the country by civilizing and Christianizing the native tribes. Such was the political and humanitarian use made of the mission system."

"A frontier settlement which joined an unfriendly neighbor needed a government of its own, so that in 1727 Texas was constituted a separate province. San Antonio was made the capital, but for one or two brief intervals, remained so until Texas became a republic. All the official business of the few settlements was managed by the governor of the province, who was also military commandant, and thus began the accumulation of papers which we now call the archives of Bexar.

"When Mexico gained its independence the province of Texas was divided into three districts, one of which still included nearly all the territory of the present state, and was at that time one of the administrative units of the state of Coahuila and Texas. The size of this department was not diminished until a few years before our revolution, the district of Nacogoches being set off in 1831 and that of Brazos in 1834. So we can say with a near approach to the truth that all the business of the present state relative to Texas between the dates of 1727 and 1835 was carried on from San Antonio and is recorded in these papers.

"It would be an endless task, even if one possessed the information, to enumerate the events and subjects mentioned in the papers. Here repeats the history of Texas to 1835—the complete story of the rise, rule and fall of the Spanish power between the Sabine and the Gulf, and the voluminous details of the ceaseless war against hostile tribes, with innumerable tales of thrilling incident and tragic horror; the Spanish account of the long struggle with the French; and Long's reports from the patient missionaries; the Spanish version of the quarrel between the United States and Spain; the wild story of the Mexican revolution, so intimately connected with the Sabine and Long's reports from the neutral ground of the gathering of turbulent crowds around Nacogoches; and finally, the coming of the Anglo-American, the building up of the settlements, and the revolution.

CHICAGO GRAIN CHICAGO, Jan. 19. (AP)—Flourish buying of grains today apparently resulted more or less from recent speculative sellers' fears that gold case cases would be decided on Monday. Forecasts of much below normal temperatures the greater part of next week were also effective in bringing about materially higher prices for grains. In addition, mill purchasing of wheat was again reported, and sharp notice was taken that the mercury was down today to 14 below zero at places in Nebraska, a circumstance implying likelihood of damage to winter wheat crops. Wheat closed firm at virtually the day's top figures, 1-1/4 cents above yesterday's finish. May 98 1/2, corn 9-1/4, up, May 87 1/2, oats 1-1/4, advanced, and provisions at a rise of 5 to 17 cents. Paralleling the wheat price behavior, the corn and oats markets were responsive to belief that abnormal cold will make large inroads on scanty stocks of feedstuffs.

MARKET BRIEFS NEW YORK, Jan. 19. (AP)—The action of security markets today suggested that Wall Street had regained further balance after yesterday's week-end liquidation and selling on fears that the approaching supreme court decision in the gold case.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet most of today's short, Saturday session, but became active in the late trading. After a firm opening and a gain of 4 to 6 points the market eased off on week-end liquidation and selling on fears that the approaching supreme court decision in the gold case. In the final trading prices rallied 4 to 6 points on covering. March closed at 12.42, up 2 points net for the day. May at 12.56, net unchanged, July at 12.52, 1 point net up, Oct. at 12.41, up 2 net and December at 12.50, up 6 net.

HAUPTMANN (Continued from page 1.) Ed Isador Fisch, his German furrier friend, $7,500. Ransom money turned up before his arrest totalled more than $5,000 and when he was seized the authorities recovered $44,600, bringing the general total to $49,900.

The defense will try to offset this evidence by showing that none of the ransom money turned up in Hauptmann's bank accounts or brokerage transactions. Reilly also has pointed out the carpenter and his wife were frugal and had sizeable bank accounts before the kidnaping.

The state will call Arthur Koehler, federal forestry products expert, to trace the wood used to attempt to prove Hauptmann made the ladder. The tools, found in his Bronx garage, including a plane, have been accepted as evidence and the state will try to show the plane was used in the ladder's construction. One of the state's witnesses, Orestrian Amandus Hockmuth, testified last week he saw Hauptmann in the vicinity of the Lindbergh estate near Hopewell on the day of the kidnaping, and that a ladder was in his car.

The full list of the state's witnesses who will be called to place Hauptmann in New Jersey on the day of the kidnaping or shortly before has not been announced. Millard Whited, Sourlands Mountains lumberjack and neighbor of the Lindberghs at that time, will testify he saw Hauptmann—proving around the woods in the district a few days before the kidnaping.

The defense, it is known, will try to impeach Whited's credibility. Other state witnesses will be Ben Lupica, Princeton University student, and Frank Rosstier, theatrical booking agent, who will identify Hauptmann as the man they saw near the Sourland Mountain estate.

WOOD TRIM PANEL Of greater worry to the defense is the evidence of the wood trim panel, found in a closet of Hauptmann's home, and bearing the Bronx address of Dr. John F. Condon, ransom money intermediary and Condon's telephone number. Condon, one of the state's principal witnesses, identified Hauptmann in court last week as the man "John" to whom he paid the ransom in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx.

An outstanding completion in the plains district is the Alma Oil company's No. 1 Jones in section 171, block 3-7, Moore county. It averaged 4,800 barrels daily on test from one foot of pay from 3,384 to 3,385. The Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Jones, an offset well recently deepened, has not been tested but was reported to flow over 100 barrels an hour, for a 5-day test.

Of the seventeen wells completed in the Texas Panhandle, 10 were completed for producers, adding 6,000 barrels of oil to the potential of the field. Two wells were abandoned because of crooked holes and two others were abandoned as dry holes. Three wells brought in as gushers added a volume of 66,300,000 cubic feet of gas to the daily potential of the field.

There were 20 new locations, eight of which were in Gray county and five in Wheeler county, Carson and Hutchinson counties having two each. Others were scattered widely.

The daily average production for the Panhandle for the week ending Jan. 10 was 57,409 barrels, an increase of 1,485 barrels over the preceding week.

Accountant to Explain How Oil Form Is Filed

The Petroleum Administrative board is to have its chief accountant, Kenneth L. Stone, visit Fort Worth for the purpose of explaining to oil operators of West Texas and the Panhandle the instruction sheet and information sheet which are to be filled out by all operators reporting their data pertaining to the cost of producing crude petroleum in the year of 1934.

Results of such reports will be used for many purposes affecting production in this country.

The Texas, the only meetings are at San Antonio and at Fort Worth. A meeting will be held at the latter place at the Fort Worth chamber of commerce at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, January 22.

The meeting will be in charge of R. A. Westbrook, a vice-president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, which is assisting the government in collecting statistics.

Idid not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Molly O'Brien, Nick Trench, Jerry Mordant and Jimmy Fox have come down to Hambridge on Jerry's car to try for some information about John Osborne. Osborne stole a valuable formula belonging to Molly, worked a while in a deserted factory at Hambridge, and then was murdered. The formula disappeared, and Paul O'Brien also searching for it. Now Molly and Nick are going to examine Osborne's workshop, further a step to extract some information from the people with whom Osborne boarded at Hambridge.

Chapter 39.
THE TRAP
It was the first time Molly and I had been alone together since I had said good night to her in the bedroom at the flat. The memory of that moment had been constantly with me, but in the unromantic atmosphere of a small boat, and the tense excitement of our joint enterprise, it had gradually come to appear like some remote dream.

Whether she even remembered the kiss she had given me I was at a loss to tell. Tired out and half drugged, as she had been, it was quite possible that she had acted merely from an instinctive feeling of gratitude, and that when she had awakened next morning the whole incident had been entirely forgotten.

She had certainly greeted me without the smallest trace of embarrassment, and ever since then she seemed to have included both Jerry and myself in a kind of frank and affectionate comradeship, which, as far as appeared on the surface, made no distinction between the pair of us.

All the same, as we walked along the uneven shore, I found it a trifle difficult to preserve that detached and alert frame of mind which the occasion obviously demanded.

She had slipped her arm through mine, and the soft pressure induced such a pleasant thrill that the machinations of Mr. Orloff and his friends seemed for the moment to be comparatively unimportant.

I felt an almost overmastering longing to tell her how much I loved her. I wanted to sit down beside her and then on the wet grass and say, "What are you thinking about, Nick?"

With a guilty start, I came back suddenly out of my dream. "Lots of things," I prevaricated. "Jerry chiefly. I wonder if we were right in letting him go up there alone?"

"I didn't altogether like it," she admitted. "Still, we've got to do something. And on the whole it seemed to be the best plan. I'm sure he'll bully Mrs. Gowellard a lot better than you could."

"You don't know all my accomplishments," I protested. "I can be a perfect friend with women when I'm in the right mood."

She laughed softly. "That's just your conceit, Nick dear. Why, I wouldn't trust you to dismiss a housemaid—not if she was pretty."

I produced the keys which Jerry had returned to me, and opening the iron gate, held it back for Molly to pass. It swung to behind us, and, having tested it to make sure that it was properly closed, I followed her up the rough easeway and unlocked the big front door.

Thanks to Jerry's previous investigations, we were more or less prepared for what awaited us. On stepping inside, we found ourselves in an empty circular-shaped hall, lit by a couple of long, grimy windows.

Out of this ran a broad corridor leading to what had evidently been the principal manufacturing room, a large, barn-like structure with a domed glass roof, where rows of stout wooden trestles and piles of stacked benches could be dimly discerned in the grey light that filtered down from above.

On either side of the corridor ran a number of smaller rooms or offices.

"That must be Osborne's workshop," I said, "that first opening on the right. Let's start there and look over the rest of the place after."

A few paces brought us to the head of another and narrower passage, at the farther end of which we could see through an open doorway into the curious apartment that Jerry had already described to us.

Like the sense in murdering us? she asked calmly. "We haven't got the formula."

"My dear young lady, I am afraid you are under a misapprehension. I am quite aware that my original assumption was wrong, but unfortunately you and your friends have become a little too well acquainted with my private affairs. There are interests at stake compared with which your lives do not matter the snap of a finger."

Tomorrow, Jimmy Fox takes a hand once more.

STATES ASKED TO HELP RAISE PENSION FUND

PROPOSAL IS MADE BY CO-AUTHOR OF MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—A proposal that the states raise their share of the money to finance old age pensions through income and inheritance taxes was made today by Representative Lewis (D-Md.), co-author of the bill to carry out the administration plan.

Lewis made his proposal in a radio speech at about the same time some other congressmen were expressing concern for the plight of the man between 40 and 65 and arrangements were being made for hearings next week.

These matters while declining for the present to be quoted, said they were endeavoring to work out modifications to the program of President Roosevelt which would aid the unemployed person who was more than 40 and less than 65. These members pointed out that most business organizations had a maximum age at which they employed persons, some establishments hiring no one over 35. For the person between 40 and 65, they said it was extremely difficult to obtain employment.

The old age pension plan of President Roosevelt contemplates giving pensions to persons who have reached 65.

Some of those who aided in working out the pension system said that while the person between 40 and 65 would not be eligible for old age pensions, he would not be barred from employment in the public works program to be hurried through congress.

A close scrutiny of the presidential program was planned by the committee of congress that will handle the plan. The ways and means committee prepared to hear on Monday Dr. Edwin S. Witte, who headed the committee of experts that did the groundwork for the cabinet security committee.

The following day, the ways and means committee will hear Secretary Perkins and the senate finance committee will open hearings by listening to Senator Wagner (D-N. Y.), the administration stalwart who introduced the bill.

Speaker Byrnes said the house would send the bill through as rapidly as possible in response to the president's request for speed. In the same breath, he said the am quite aware that my original assumption was wrong, but unfortunately you and your friends have become a little too well acquainted with my private affairs. There are interests at stake compared with which your lives do not matter the snap of a finger."

"There was the ghost of a laugh. "I keep my word, as you will shortly find out."

"The voice seemed to come from somewhere over my head, and, looking up, I caught sight of a narrow iron grating let into the brick wall above the top of the door.

"Very interesting," I replied, "but I take it that you haven't shut us up in here in order to discuss your own psychology?"

"That was not my principal objective. The fact is, that you have become a nuisance, so much so that I find it necessary to put an end to your activities. In a few minutes from now you will both be dead."

"Molly stepped forward noiselessly and slipped her hand into mine.

"What the sense in murdering us?" she asked calmly. "We haven't got the formula."

"My dear young lady, I am afraid you are under a misapprehension. I

SAAR 'PURGE' UNDER WAY BY HITLER CREW

Anti-Nazis Told To Leave Till Things 'Blow Over'

SAARBUECKEN, Saar Basin territory, Jan. 19. (AP)—A virtual Nazi "revolution" in the Saar, effecting changes similar in many respects to the January, 1933, upheaval in Germany proper, tonight saw the basin's League of Nations government almost completely effaced.

Speed also was promised by Chairman Doughton of the ways and means committee, but there were certain physical deterrents to the man between 40 and 65 and arrangements were being made for hearings next week.

Women and children were told they might remain, however, since feeling in the basin appeared to be directly at the men.

Three thousand, it is estimated, already have gone and anti-Nazi sources say the trek has just begun.

Public officials who backed the losing "status quo" cause were claimed they also had been "victimized," losing their jobs to those who voted for Germany.

Amid reports that Hitler's opponents had been threatened by neighbors of business rivals, the socialists told the men in their ranks they would be wise to leave for the present.

WATER'S ROLE NOT SO EASY AND SIMPLE!

BING CROSBY HAS THIS PART IN LATEST RELEASE

Radio crooning is one form of art; motion picture comedy another. But, declares Bing Crosby, currently featured with Kitty Carlisle in Paramount's "Here Is My Heart," now at La Nora theater, the little esteemed business of waiting on table tops them all for the exactness of technique, difficulty in performance, and the fiery devotion of its disciples.

And how does Crosby suddenly become interested in this little esteemed art? Well, it seems that he acts a waiter who aspires to a princess in his newest film. And because Crosby believes in making all his roles ring true he decided to confer with a couple of virtuosos in the art of shuffling dishes.

"In order that I might bring the utmost in conviction to the role," explains Crosby, "I hid me over to Hollywood's famous Brown Derby, had a chat with Chillo, the head waiter, and Frank F. Brownhofer, the chief steward.

"That Mustache—Mr. Crosby." "As I talked with these men I looked up at the shelves behind them and saw such esoteric elements of their art as Olio D'Oltra, Baby Clams, Clam Juice, and Clams in Juice.

"But Chillo's halted my wandering eye by remarking: "That mustache, Mr. Crosby—are you going to wear that on the screen?"

"There was a questioning, plaintive note in his voice.

"Why, yes," I replied, "What's wrong with that?"

"Why, it is all right, of course," he answered, "but you will have to have it fumigated and made sanitary every day. The time has come when it is convenient for a waiter to have a flowing mustache, such as you are wearing. You see, cleanliness; that is the keynote today of all smart restaurants, both here and on the continent."

"I sighed.

"As though it weren't enough trouble to get in and out of that waiter's uniform without having my mustache fumigated every day. But Mr. Chillo was still talking—a very modern exponent of the art of waiting on tables.

Manicure Every Day.

"In addition to your mustache, Mr. Crosby, you will have to take meticulous care of your fingernails."

"The maitre d'hotel illustrated by making a pincer-like gesture with his thumb and forefinger.

"You will have to have a manicure every day. And then not more than three days must go by without having your hair clipped. Every morning your shoes must be shined, your trousers pressed and your linen changed. That is a fundamental routine of our art."

"Mr. Brownhofer took up the subject at that point. He was interested in the psychology required for the successful student of the waiter's art.

"A waiter, Mr. Crosby, must be an expert dissemler, the steward declared. "He may despise a customer for smoking a 50-cent pipe a week before, but he must be none-the-less gracious."

Thumb Broken By Boettiger Ex-Wife Says

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP)—Few Washington newspaper men took more thrusts at the Roosevelt administration than the 34-year-old Chicagoan who married the president's daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, today.

Until he resigned from the Washington staff of the Chicago Tribune a few weeks ago, John Boettiger, the bridegroom of the white house romance, wrote with high scorn of the Roosevelt recovery program in general, calling the president's advisors "The Pro-fessoriat" and attacking their plans as "visionary."

Boettiger himself is divorced. Mrs. Alice Boettiger was granted a decree Nov. 7, 1933, on allegations of cruelty. She charged that Boettiger struck her, once breaking her thumb, 1931. He has been with two children by an earlier marriage, now lives in suburban Glencoe.

Curtis B. Dall, former husband of Mrs. Dall Boettiger, thinks Boettiger is a "very nice chap." He sent the couple a telegram of congratulations.

Dall, here to attend the national conference of state liquor administrators, was nervous as he discussed his former wife's marriage.

Fossil Bed of Value Found by College Expert

CANYON, Jan. 19.—A fossil bed thought to be the largest yet discovered in the Panhandle of Texas has been found in Palo Duro park. Prof. C. S. Johnston of the geology department of the West Texas State Teachers college and E. G. Dieux of Ertis, Fla., discovered the great bone bed while seeking geological specimens in the state park.

Fossilized bones of a horse, rhinos, camels, giant dogs, mastodons, and several different kinds of turtles have been unearthed. According to Prof. Johnston, the bones are probably 5,000,000 years old. Dieux, a professional collector of biological specimens, was visiting the park to collect specimens but became so interested in the fossil bed that he remained for 10 days' work.

The fossil bed is to be the laboratory for a class of 19 college students who are studying paleontology.

ROBERT LIGHT WINS ACCLAIM IN NEW FILM

HERE IN "MURDER IN THE CLOUDS" AT THE REX

Robert Light, who has one of the leading roles in the First National picture, "Murder in the Clouds," which comes to the Rex theater today, had planned a journalistic career, but now, instead of writing about other people, he is being written about as one of Hollywood's newest and most promising young actors.

Porn Merwin Light, in Denver, Colo., he attended the local schools and graduated from the East Denver high school, going later to attend the Hamilton Institute in New York City.

He didn't fare especially well as a member of the fourth estate, and having always had a fondness for the theater, decided to seek a stage career. He walked into the office of the manager of the Theater Guild, asked for work, and was promptly handed a role in "Marco Millions."

Light registered well with the audience and engagements followed in the Guild productions "Volpone," "Guest Room" and "Thoroughbred."

In the last named play he won special attention for his brilliant characterization as Florence Reed's son.

Then came seasons of stock company work in Pedham Manor, Mount Vernon and Summit, New Jersey, after which he returned to Broadway to win further attention as a radio entertainer.

Warner Bros.-First National offered him a motion picture contract and brought him to Hollywood, where his name was changed from Merwin Light to Robert Light. He is still secretly fond of writing, indulging in it as an avocation when he has time free from the movie cameras.

Six feet tall, weighing 165, brown hair and brown eyes. Light possesses, in addition to his good looks, fine theatrical capabilities. He is expected to go far on the screen.

He is fond of literature. He picks Kenyon Nicholson as his favorite playwright and Gershwin's music plays his heart. The young actor has traveled extensively throughout the United States, but has not yet had the opportunity to travel abroad. That will come, he plans, after he has made a success of his career.

Three new songs were composed especially for them by Robin and Ringer, authors of "Love in Bloom." The new songs are "June in January," "With Every Breath I Take," and "Love Is Just Around the Corner."

SOUTHWESTERN LIFE'S GROWTH PARALLELS STAT'S EXPANSION

Of all the indices of Texas business conditions, perhaps none offers more definite and specific proof of progress than the annual statement of a large life insurance company which for thirty-two years has done business in every nook and corner of Texas, but which writes no insurance outside of Texas.

Such a company is the Southwestern Life of Dallas, the only one of the large Texas companies which does not go outside the state for business. It is by far the largest United States company operating in only one state. By reporting an increase of more than fifteen million dollars in force during 1934, the first substantial gain since 1930, this Texas institution offers significant evidence of business improvement in Texas.

A record of the company's size for the last five years writes the history of the depression. Up to the end of 1929, the Southwestern had made large gains annually for many years, having doubled in size during the previous six years.

Early in 1930 lapses and surrenders began to be felt and the gain during that year was small—approximately one-third of that for 1929. On December 31, 1931, the company had less insurance in force than it had at the beginning of the year. The next year, 1932, generally conceded to be the worst for nearly all lines of business, proved the most difficult for Texas policyholders. Notwithstanding the production of thirty-seven millions of new insurance by the company's agents, the total volume in force fell off more than fourteen millions.

Recovery commenced in 1933 when a gain of about one and a half millions was recorded. The gain of fifteen millions for 1934 has just been announced in the annual report to policyholders of President C. F. O'Donnell.

A comparison of the annual statements for 1929 and 1934 reveals some interesting changes in the company's investment practice, due to the introduction by the New Deal of its Government lending agencies. Prior to 1930 the Southwestern Life found a ready outlet for its reserves and surplus funds in the mortgage loan field, and 55 per cent of its assets were invested in loans on Texas farms and city property. At the end of 1934 and only 36 per cent of its assets were in mortgages.

States government bonds, now more than five millions, or approximately 12 per cent of all assets, as compared to 8 per cent at the end of 1929. While the normal income of a legal reserve life insurance company far exceeds its normal disbursements, the companies have been called upon in recent years to meet heavy withdrawals of policy reserves or "cash values." Many millions of dollars have been loaned to Texas citizens on the security of their policies, and doubtless many a business and family budget has been saved by these emergency funds.
