

SUB-MACHINE GUN DISPLAY IS DESCRIBED

EXAMINING TRIAL WILL BE HELD THIS AFTERNOON

POST, Feb. 8. (AP)—Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county is under technical arrest, facing a charge of murder for the machine gun slaying here Thursday of Spencer Stafford, federal narcotics agent of Fort Worth.

At an inquest held by Justice of the Peace W. L. Morris this morning, it was determined the federal agent was killed by gunshot wounds at the hands of W. F. Cato. A formal verdict was expected to be rendered by the justice of the peace this afternoon.

Counsel for Mr. Cato asked for an examining trial to be held at 3 p. m. this afternoon.

Mr. Cato was formally charged with murder last night before County Judge Ira Weekley, presiding magistrate. County Attorney H. G. Smith drew the complaint which was signed by Jack Reeves, highway patrolman from Lubbock. Whether or not a federal warrant for the arrest of Cato for Stafford's murder, said to have been issued in Dallas had been served was not determined here this morning. United States Marshal J. R. Wright and Assistant U. S. District Attorney Jones, both of Dallas, were here for the inquest but neither would say whether the warrant had been served on Cato or not.

Federal authorities here for the inquest and the examining trial this afternoon include, besides Mr. Wright and Mr. Jones, V. C. McCullough of Dallas, companion of Stafford, U. S. Deputy Bill Lampe of Amarillo, U. S. Commission Victor H. Lindsey of Lubbock, H. C. Williams of San Antonio, head of the Texas Narcotic Service, and two informers for the narcotics investigators.

County Attorney Smith, who conducted the inquest before Justice Morris, and District Attorney Jones clashed mildly over testimony, Mr. Smith attempting to gain information other than "cause of the death and by whom."

Mr. Jones contended testimony showing "cause of the death and by whom" sufficient for a verdict on the inquest. Smith argued "anything that pertains to show a motive should be admissible."

"We left our car one of the two people sitting in the car called to me," Mr. McCullough testified at the hearing.

"I was seated in Dr. Kitchen's office. Mr. Stafford went out to the car. In less than a minute I heard Mr. Stafford call for me. I left the office and went out on the porch. The first thing that met my eye was Mr. Cato with a sub-machine gun drawn on Mr. Stafford."

"Mr. Stafford was going from Mr. Cato and around a car. Mr. Cato fired some five or seven shots from a machine gun and Mr. Stafford fell."

The two informers, D. L. Lowery of Waco and Eva Michelle of Pershing, Okla., and Dallas, both corroborated McCullough's testimony. Lowery broke down while testifying.

He said "I called Mr. McC and Mr. Stafford came out and I told him not to let that man kill me. Mr. Stafford pushed the machine gun out of my stomach."

Justice Morris was to render his verdict after scrutinizing a stenographic report of the hearing this afternoon.

District Attorney G. H. Nelson of Tahoka, was expected to arrive after noon today for Cato's examining trial.

Crying Need Of Texas Towns Is Gyms, PWA Says

PORT WORTH, Feb. 8. (AP)—The crying need of most small Texas towns, if the applications they file with the PWA is an indication, is for gymnasiums.

In helping to compile a nationwide public works inventory for the government, the state PWA office here asked Texas towns and cities to name their most desired projects. By far the majority of small towns—many of which limited their requests to one project—have asked for gymnasiums.

When the PWA first began swimming pools were the projects most sought.

Now one small West Texas town has come forward to cap the climax by asking—modestly enough—for "three fishing holes."

Slain Sheriff's Daughter Faints On Leaving Stand

Many Of Spectators Weep In Lubbock's Stalcup Trial

LUBBOCK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Maxing its evidence against the accused murderer, Virgil Stalcup, the state presented the careful testimony of three members of the family of the slain sheriff W. P. Arthur in 99th district court this morning.

As Mrs. Nannie Arthur, widow of the veteran police officer, sobbingly left the stand, the state rested its case.

The defense may or may not present witnesses, it was said. Its course was to be determined when court was reopened by Judge Clark M. Mullican this afternoon.

Weeping, Miss Vesta Arthur told of seeing Stalcup and Clarence Brown leave hurriedly in her father's car, of running after it, of finding her father shot.

Miss Arthur fainted as she left the stand.

Twelve-year-old Creola Arthur, daughter of the sheriff, broke as she said her "daddy did not speak to her after he had been shot."

Many persons in the courtroom, including the defendant's blonde wife and their 5-year-old daughter, were weeping as the case reached its climax directed by George W. Dupree, special prosecutor.

The first of the slain officer's family to testify was Dean (Bub) Arthur. Outwardly disturbed, he did not break.

Previously a bullet which the state charges killed the sheriff was introduced.

D. J. Parsons, of the division of firearms, department of justice, Washington, D. C. said the lead pellet could have been fired through an old .45 caliber "thumbster" purported to be the death weapon.

Two revolvers owned by Sheriff Arthur were eliminated from the case by Parsons. He said a .38 caliber revolver the officer was said to have been wearing the day he was killed, and a .45 caliber weapon he owned could not have fired the bullet he examined.

As exhibit 13, the old-model revolver was presented in evidence yesterday. On cross examination by Hugh Anderson, a defense attorney.

Al Gilliland, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Junior chamber of commerce, will take the Benton Brothers, Dick and Jack, singing cowboys, to provide a short entertainment program.

Dictionary Says It's Ookie Dokie To Get 'Jitters'

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—If you ever get the heebie jeebies, don't let it throw you, it's ookie dokie.

From no less an authority than Charles Funk, who knows something about words and their meanings, comes the opinion that some of America's more fantastic slang words and expressions deserve a place in the dictionaries—they are part of the language and as such should not be ignored.

Funk, whose business it is to publish dictionaries, was moved to make his observation on slang in a discussion with Dr. Frank Vizetely, the noted lexicographer, arising from the brazen use in a Seattle court of the expression, "ookie dokie."

Dr. Vizetely appeared greatly repained over the use of such an expression, and voiced concern over the sanity of a nation in which slang flows so freely.

Such sayings as "ookie dokie," "all right," and "you big palooka," grate harshly on the Bielye's ear. But Funk, while drawing the line at some expressions, thinks "heebie jeebies," "jitters," are "ookie dokie."

Americans, he said, have abandoned "false prudery" and are willing to call "a spade a spade." So, if he has anything to say about it, there'll be some "spiffy" new words in the dictionaries.

PONDS URGED FOR REDUCING DRY SEASONS

POND FOR EVERY 600 ACRES PROPOSED FOR PANHANDLE

AMARILLO, Feb. 8. (AP)—Ways and means of materially checking the effects of future droughts were discussed at a regional meeting sponsored by the Great Plains Farm Pond and Terracing association here today.

About 400 persons from southwestern Kansas, the Oklahoma Panhandle, and the Panhandle-Plains area of Texas heard erosion control specialist advocate general terracing and the construction of small dams and ponds to impound all the moisture that fell.

Purpose of the meeting was to sell farmers and business and civic leaders on the program preparatory to asking for federal aid.

W. H. McPheters, extension engineer of Oklahoma A. & M. college, Stillwater, cited the necessity for a large number of ponds and lakes.

The present drought has exhibited the dire need for conserving moisture and soil," he said "the more ponds we have the better chance we have of receiving adequate moisture. The lakes will cause the atmosphere to contain more moisture, thus tempering the effects of damaging hot winds."

McPheters suggested a pond for an average of every 600 acres of land. C. M. Evans, of Marshall, regional rural rehabilitation advisor for southwestern states, recommended that FERA machinery be utilized in building the proposed ponds.

The fire department made eight runs during January, one of them being a false alarm. The estimated loss for the month was $510 with the insured loss $340.

DEFENSE RESTS!

Vallee Hearing Rests Quickly--Fay Webb III Nabbed

Romantic Telephone Conversations Projected Into Testimony Against Rudy.

By HOMER M'COY Associated Press Staff Writer NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—The illness of Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee today caused her counsel to rest abruptly and prematurely his case against her estranged husband, Rudy Vallee.

The surprise move came after accountants established the net income of Vallee, both personal and corporate at $120,000 to $133,000 annually during the years 1932, 1933 and 1934.

The session opened today with the romantic telephone conversations alleged to have taken place between Mrs. Vallee and "Gary" Leon, adagio dancer, being projected into the testimony.

Questioning Clarence E. Webb, Santa Monica, Calif., police chief and father of Mrs. Vallee, Hyman Bushel, attorney for Vallee, asked him if Benjamin H. Hauptmann, slain last spring, had shown him an affidavit filed by the orchestra leader.

"Did Hartstein tell you that this affidavit told of a telephone conversation your daughter had with 'Gary' Leon on which your daughter said she was 'stealing up' and was ready to go with him on a steamboat?" Bushel asked.

"No," replied the witness. "Were you told that your daughter said to Leon, 'I'm undressed, I'm in the nude... I'm wearing my mules,' and 'I'm ready to hell with the mules. I'll take the body'?"

Webb heededly said he knew nothing about the matter.

The technical and tiring testimony concerning Vallee's financial status was concluded with a seriocomic note.

"If Rudy should die today," exclaimed his attorney, Hyman Bushel, his voice faltering, "he would have to pay $60,000 to $80,000 in taxes to the government."

Thomas I. Sheridan, counsel for Mrs. Vallee, who is seeking maintenance money from the orchestra leader, expressed profound solicitude for Vallee's health.

"We don't want him to die today," Sheridan said.

Then he rested his case, explaining "Mrs. Vallee is confined to her home under medical care and this concludes the plaintiff's case."

The move greatly agitated Bushel. After spluttering and prancing about he requested a recess until 2 p. m. during which to prepare a motion. He did not disclose what his motion would be.

ALLRED WARNS CONVICTS NOT TO CONTRACT WITH LAWYERS

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred said today investigation had disclosed certain lawyers contracting with convicts on a contingent basis to obtain clemency.

He displayed correspondence, mainly from the prison system, revealing prison authorities formerly had held escrow money for payment of lawyers upon fulfillment of contracts for pardons.

To quiet convicts, whom he said feared his strict pardon policy, Allred stated he would grant clemency on merit.

He warned however that convicts who made contingent contracts would not obtain clemency. He advised them to apply directly to the board of pardons.

REBUTTAL OF STATE STARTS BEFORE NOON

SENSATIONAL STORY OF LADDER HEARD IN MORNING

BY WILLIAM A. KINNEY Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press. FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 8.—After surprise testimony that the Lindbergh kidnap ladder was on the back of an automobile near Hopewell twenty hours before Baby Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. was kidnapped and slain — and that a man in the auto was not Bruno Richard Hauptmann—the defense rested today in the trial of Hauptmann for murder. The state immediately launched its rebuttal attack on the defense's alibi and other witnesses.

The defense case ended at 12:10 p. m., after sensational testimony designed to place the Lindbergh kidnap ladder in the possession of a man other than Hauptmann.

The defense also used two practical lumber men to dispute the testimony of a state wood expert that part of the kidnap ladder came from Hauptmann's Bronx attic. One of these was the last defense witness.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, waded for the polling of the jury after a brief recess, then announced loudly: "The defense rests!"

The state immediately began rebuttal with James J. Farber, a New York insurance man on the stand. His testimony was sought by refute the "next world" testimony which said he saw the dead Isador Fisch leap over a Bronx cemetery wall where and when the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom was paid.

The defense used, in all, 53 witnesses, many of them alibi witnesses, and required 11 court days to give its answer to the state's charges.

Hauptmann's defense executed a stroke of surprise with a witness who identified the Lindbergh kidnap ladder as one seen on the back of an automobile driven by a man who was not Hauptmann. Brevoort Bolmer, filling station

'Dead' Returns To Life

ARLEY, England, Feb. 8. (AP)—A "dead" man has returned to life and health with a very satisfying impression of the "next world."

John Puckering, a market gardener, was "restored to life" on the operating table. Doctors certify that he was "dead" for four and a half minutes. One of them massaged his heart—"more from a sense of duty than with any hope"—and Puckering is now back at his work, and in apparently normal health.

The old gardener is sorry this surgery worked.

"What I saw during my brief spell of death" he says "was made me realize that I ever came back. I was surrounded by thousands of people, all supremely happy, and among them were three that I knew. They nodded and smiled, so happily that I was overjoyed to be dead."

The grave has no terrors for me now. I realize that earthly life, sorrowful as it can be, is just a training ground for something fuller and better."

Immediately after his revival, Puckering called his daughter's nurse, and told her he had seen her mother who died a year ago.

Elmer Rupp returned yesterday from Indiana where he had been with his mother who has been seriously ill.

Pampans Attend PWA Meeting In Amarillo Today

Delegates from Pampa drove to Amarillo this morning to attend a meeting of county, municipal and school representatives, who were to hear more about public works projects which may be granted this Panhandle.

Among those attending were City Manager C. L. Stine, George W. Briggs, manager of the Board of City Development, R. B. Fisher, superintendent of Pampa schools, and C. P. Buckler and Roger McDonald, members of the school board.

Monday has been the deadline for filing projects and it may be that some projects will be filed in Amarillo today. The local school district has been studying needs and had tentatively prepared a program to be presented either today or to be sent to Fort Worth by Monday. Details of the projects have not been released.

City Manager C. L. Stine was in Fort Worth last week where he presented the needs of the city. Mr. Briggs was expected to present projects for the county schools, handed him by W. B. Westhered, county superintendent, who was unable to attend the meeting because of conferences with state officials.

Organization of a regional planning board to facilitate the handling of PWA projects in this area was to be discussed.

Some of the Pampa men were expected to attend a meeting of the Great Plains Farm Pond and Terracing association which was also in session in Amarillo today.

His widow, Mrs. Gertrude Cousins, who resides in Amarillo is expected to be present for the services Sunday. Other members, who remain are Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Harrah and Lee Harrah.

A suggested program of community recreation for this summer was discussed at the meeting of the Women's Club council at city club rooms yesterday morning.

Such events as community sing-songs, picnics, and open-air programs would be included in the proposed program. No definite action was taken on the plan yesterday.

Presidents of each federated club in the city were asked to send to the district president, Mrs. W. P. Arvlett of Lamesa, lists of the new officers elected last month to serve for the coming season.

Treble club representatives announced the annual open house musicale of that club, scheduled for February 23 at the club rooms with all club members in the council invited.

Other business before the council included repairs for club room furnishings.

GOERING BLIND TO NON-ARYANS IN HIS OPERAS

He Determines Who Is Jewish, And Who Is Not

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—Hermann W. Goering, Germany's record holder of public offices, is not the regular theatergoer these days he is in ordinary times.

The Anglo-French proposal for an air convention is consuming all his time, and as a result Herr Goering is confined for the most part to the air ministry.

Goering is not only director-general of the Prussian theaters and minister of aviation, but is commander of the police, premier of Prussia, president of the Reichstag, chief of the secret service, head forester, and chief game warden besides.

Ordinarily the state theaters and operas require most of his attention.

He has visions of making Prussia's play and opera houses the best in Europe, if not in the world. He will even throw overboard allowed Nazi principles to attain this end.

"In my theaters I determine who is aryan and who is not," he said, unperturbed by Nazi radical theories.

Forthwith he appointed Leo Blech, a Jew, as assistant Kapellmeister of the opera Unter Den Linden at Berlin.

When Wilhelm Furtwaengler resigned in a huff as first kapellmeister, Goering imported Clemens Krauss from Vienna to take his place. That Krauss is a half-Jew did not bother Reichsfuehrer Hitler's right-hand man.

There are limits to Goering's power, however, as the Furtwaengler intermezzo showed. Goering considers him the world's greatest baton wielder, not even excepting Arturo Toscanini.

So, despite his row, he tried to retain the mercurial Furtwaengler. The latter drew up terms under which he would remain, listing them as separate points.

Goering took the list to Adolf Hitler. He got no further than the first point.

"Throw him out," roared the irascible dictator. That ended the argument. Even the mighty Goering is cowed when the Fuehrer flies into a rage.

Still Goering hopes some day to get Furtwaengler back into the fold. Although Alexander Kipnis, a star of the Chicago and Ravenswood operas, is a Jew, he continues to be a member of the State opera's cast since Goering finds he cannot find a bass to equal his.

NRA HITS AT CONDITIONS IN CAR INDUSTRY

MEN FORCED TO QUIT WORK BEFORE AGE OF FORTY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—An NRA report criticizing labor conditions in the automobile industry dropped today into the midst of the controversy over the auto code renewal.

It said the speed-up had raised "production demands beyond human capability to produce day after day," that spies kept watch on workers "day and night" and that men are virtually forced to quit work at the age of 40.

"Labor unrest exists to a higher degree than warranted by the depression," the report prepared by the Blue Eagle research and planning division said. "The unrest flows from insecurity, low annual earnings, inequitable hiring and rehiring methods, espionage, speed up, and displacement of workers at an extremely early age."

The investigation was made at the direction of President Roosevelt. The president, in extending the automobile code until June 16, overruled NRA suggestions on working hours and a labor board. He approved one designed to spread work.

Whether the code should be re-opened in the future for possible insertion of more NRA suggestions was a subject of discussion in official circles today. One source predicted it might be. There was no immediate word from the White House.

The long awaited report, signed by Leon Henderson, recommended a maximum 40-hour week, with a 48-hour maximum permitted for not more than eight weeks in a year, and time-and-a-half pay for all work over 40 hours.

The code, as amended and extended by the president, provides for 48 hours. It retains the clause saying the work week shall average no more than 40 hours through the year.

HARVESTERS READY FOR WESTERNERS TONIGHT AFTER SCOURGING SANDIES

LOCAL GAGERS REAP REVENGE IN 24-11 TILT

LUBBOCK EXPECTED TO PROVIDE TOUGHER OPPOSITION

By ARCHER FULLINGHAM
The Harvesters last night administered a public beating right where it hurts the most—on the backs of Amarillo's Golden Sandies. It was an enjoyable triumph for the Pampa players and fans, and the 24 to 11 score wiped out the six-point defeat suffered by Coach Odus Mitchell's basketball team at Amarillo several weeks ago.

The Harvesters hope to garner a similar victory tonight when they meet Lubbock Westerners at the local gym at 8 o'clock. The popular midgelets of Coach Kelley will play White Deer's Pee Wees in a game beginning at 7 o'clock.

Battle Due Tonight
Coach Mitchell is expecting a much closer game tonight than the yelling fans saw last night. Lubbock whipped the Sandies by a 3-point margin two weeks ago. Last week, Pampa defeated the Westerners at Lubbock by the same number of points, but Lubbock's games since then indicate that the Hub City cagers have improved to the point that a 3-point margin is not expected because many times last night the Pampa boys performed negligently, and they did not look as well as they did in their road trip games last week.

Coach Mitchell believes they will play better basketball tonight than they did last night if they expect to beat Lubbock.

Green Leads Scoring
The Harvesters were masters of their opponents from the opening whistle to the last toot. J. R. Green who was high-point man with 14 tallies, opened the scoring in the second minute of the game with a field goal, and before that minute had ended, Nash, had sunk another basket for a four-point lead for the Pampans.

The Sandies never got a shot at their basket until the first period was almost over. The visitors were stunked in the first quarter. The Harvesters piled up eight points in the first quarter, eight in the second, and six in the third. They continued to increase the lead they established in the opening, and as no time was it menaced.

Dunaway vs. Stidger
The 1934 gridiron rivalry was always obvious. Bill Dunaway got his revenge on Stidger, Sandie football star. Fans had an opportunity to judge the speed of the two athletes, and most believed that Dunaway had him bested. The individual battle they staged was a high light of the game. Dunaway would start a dribble and Stidger would race to break it up, and vice versa. J. R. Green was mighty proud that he kept Bufkin, Amarillo center, scoreless without fouling. First Rose and then Scott held Peterson to one field goal. The Sandie ace backfield star last fall, Harlow, held Nash to four points, only because the flashy Pampa forward failed to sink the many shots that the Sandie allowed him and many of which Nash missed.

Stokes Green passed better than he ever has, and several of his brother's goals were the result of his passing. He and Nash led both teams in tying up the ball. Both J. R. and Stokes and Nash most of the time out-jumped the Sandies.

TH For Tat
If the Sandies were off, then the Harvesters were more than off because time and again, the Pampans missed crisp shots—probably more than a dozen. The Sandies to show they could "take it," did not call a single time out in the first three periods, and the Harvesters didn't either. However, in the fourth period, Amarillo called the first time out. Late in the last quarter, Coach Howard Lynch of the Sandies jerked his first string to give the Seds a chance, and Coach Mitchell followed suit. Rose, Hassell, Irving and Hunter turned into speed demons when they took the floor, and passed rings around the Sandies, but failed to score. Williams, Sandie forward, looped a difficult shot just after the whistle sounded but it did not count.

Officialing Pleases
Referee Frank Monroe called an almost perfect game. The fouls against each team were almost the same number as called in the game. Pampa played at Amarillo while the Sandies won 27 to 21. Last night, Referee Monroe penalized the Sandies with 12 fouls and the Harvesters, seven. In the Amarillo game, Frank Kimbrough assessed the Sandies 15 fouls and the Harvesters seven. Early in the fourth period, Harlow, went out on four personals. At that point Pampa had a 22 to 11 lead. Every foul Monroe called was the kind that is seen by most everyone.

Rose played his best game on the local court this year. He was in the starting lineup. He was replaced by Scott in the second period, and that boy overdid himself. The Amarillians found it difficult to hold the ball after they got it. For Pampa had it in their possession most of the time. The Harvester defense was well-nigh impenetrable, and two of the four field goals made by the Sandies were looped when the over-eager Pampans slipped down.

Crowd Packs House
A huge crowd—by far the biggest of the season—was out to witness the killing. Every seat in the gym was full, and the sidelines were crowded with chairs. The band furnished music before the game. It will perform again tonight.

The visitors placed the Harvesters

BIG NAMES IN TURF MAY NOT RACE IN $100,000 HANDICAP

By ROBERT MYERS, Associated Press Staff Writer.
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8 (AP)—Old Man Jinx seems to be casting his eyes on the richest stake race of the year—the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap.

In gala parade, the big names of turf circles journeyed to California for the inaugural Santa Anita meet, and its $100,000 handicap, Feb. 23. First came Twenty Grand, Kansas' lion of the horse racing world as the Kentucky Derby winner of 1931. Then Cavalcade, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan's big money winner last year; C. V. Whitney's Equipose, A. G. "Free" Postwick's Mate, Mrs. S. B. Mason's Head Play, along with High Chase, statesman Mr. Khayyam, Azucar, and a host of others.

Attention was centered for days on Twenty Grand's first appearance on a track since 1931. His handlers were cautious awaiting the best occasion and condition for his California debut. Again and again Twenty Grand was entered and then scratched.

Finally, three weeks ago, he ran third. Trainer Bill Brennan telegraphed Mrs. Whitney suggesting that she withdraw the Greenree entry from the big race. She did.

Today another titled entry was in trouble. Cavalcade was scratched from tomorrow's $7,500 San Antonio handicap, intended as a test race for the Santa Anita race two weeks away.

Trainer Bob Smith announced that Cavalcade had injured the frog in one of his hoofs.

Cavalcade has not been withdrawn from the $100,000 handicap, but track observers said that unless his injury—the same sort that threw him off in training last year—heals, he may not go to the post February 23. And without Cavalcade, winner of the Kentucky Derby, American Derby, Arlington classic stakes and Lord Derby last year, the race will lose a lot of its glamor.

And with the announcement that one handicap entry, Gay World, owned by the Texas sportsman, J. A. Nix, was being withdrawn to race in Texas, came another reporting the arrival of Morton L. Schwartz, Cuban, from Columbia, S. C., to run February 23.

AGUA CALIENTE FIRST ROUND IS PLAYED IN A SEA OF MUD

at the top of the Panhandle Class A basketball league with Lubbock second and Amarillo third. In the first round of the Agua Caliente tournament, the Harvesters will face their crucial game tomorrow night when they journey to Borger to clash with the Bulldogs. They will clinch the championship if they win that game. Borger has been unbeatable on the Bulldog court, but the Harvesters hope to do the trick.

ABOUT STAMPS

BY QUINTON JAMES.
Return of the Saar to Germany hasn't been overlooked by the stamp makers of the fatherland. They used a special set of four values to depict what happened in last month's plebiscite.

The theme of mother love was taken as the basis for the design, identical on the various denominations. The mother, as representing Germany, is shown clasping her child—the Saar—in close embrace. The faces of both are beaming with joy.

In addition to the usual "German post" at the bottom of the stamp, the top of the frame bears the inscription, "The Saar returns home." The values are 3 pfennig brown, 6 dark green, 12 copper red and 25 dark blue.

This is Germany's second Saar set within a comparatively short time. Several months previous to the plebiscite it issued two stamps, a 6 and a 12-pfennig in urging the return of the Saar to the mother country. The 6-pfennig showed on a dark background two hands holding a lump of earth labeled "Saar" while the 12 had a swastika sun casting its rays on the German eagle over which, in white letters, was "Saar."

In the new issue a sun also can be seen in the background, just peeping over the mother's shoulders.

A Danish Pair.
The overprint, so familiar on the stamps of Europe, has been brought into play again to create a couple of additions to the list of the Free State of Danzig, that section of northern Europe between Poland and Germany under the protection of the League of Nations.

Stamps of the type of 1924 bearing a coat of arms were used. The surcharge made the 7-pfennig yellow green into a 6. The new numeral was placed at the top center of the stamp, with the four "7's" of the original design obliterated with bars. The ink used was red.

ing trio was composed of Wilfred Hiram Cox, defending champion from Brooklyn; Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., pro, and Dr. Cliff Baker, a Vancouver, Wash., dentist who prefers digging divots in an amateur way to drilling molars.

Bogged down in the mud yesterday, some 25 of the late starters were left stranded on the back nine as night closed in and they must finish out their first round today.

Among these were Harold McSpadden, Kansas City, Kan., lead; AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Feb. 8 (AP)—Over fairways that oozed with mud, an army of golfing professionals and a sprinkling of amateurs sallied forth today for the second round of the Agua Caliente sweepstakes and another fling at perfect figures of 71 and $5,000 in added money.

They were paced by three "mud-ders" who plodded ankle deep in the slush of yesterday to match par and gain a one stroke lead after the first 18 holes of play. The leading cash collector to date in the winter tournaments, and Jimmy Thomson, Australian open champion, who needed pars for 72 and a tie for fourth place.

Already bracketed there were Harry Cooper, Chicago; Charles Guest and Bill Jelliffe, Los Angeles; Charley Lacey, Long Island; Ben Loving, Petersburg, Va., and Byron Nelson, Texarkana, Tex.

The heavy going also handicapped the betting premiere on golf with less than a thousand dollars going into the pari-mutuel machines.

shown only eight of the stamps ever have been found.

Italy Starts.
Italy has started the new stamp year by adding 14 regular postage to the recent airmail set issued in connection with the visit of King Emanuel to Italian Somaliland.

The values start with 7½ centesimi and each bears a surtax.

Harvesterettes And Gorillas To Play Canadian
The Harvesterettes and the Gorillas will go to Canadian tonight to play the Crazy Kats and the Wildcats.

In a game here last week, the Pampa girls beat the Canadian lassies and the latter are planning to get revenge tonight.

The Canadian boys won a game here at the same time that the Gorillas felt they should have won. The Pampans led until the last quarter, Coaches Harry Kelley and Kathleen Milam will accompany the teams.

56 ROOKIES TO BE AT MAJORS' SPRING CAMPS

CINCINNATI TO BRING UP 11 YOUNGSTERS, CARDINALS NINE

By EDDIE BREITZ, Associated Press Staff Writer.
NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—Fifty-six green but hopeful rookies, culled from the ivory marts of 13 minor leagues, will be looked over by the 9 National league clubs this spring.

This is slightly more than half the number soon to go on parade in American league camps. Seventeen or one-third of the National league crop were gleaned from the three class AA minors, the American Association, International, and Pacific Coast loops.

The International is sending up nine candidates, mostly to the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds. Six are graduates of the American Association and the Coast contributes two.

The Reds, who have spent $200,000 for talent in a year's time, are bringing up 11 youngsters. Next come the Cardinals and Chicago Cubs with nine each. Philadelphia and Brooklyn bought, drafted or traded for eight apiece. The Giants have five, the Pittsburgh Pirates four and the Boston Braves two.

Cincinnati is going to depend almost entirely on new faces to get out of the cellar this year and at least four of their recruits, and maybe more, are pretty sure to stick.

This list includes Johnny Mize, $50,000 first sacker who hit .339 for Rochester last year; Billy Myers, shortstop from Columbus; Richard Goodman, outfielder and demon slugger from Rochester, and Henry Erickson, a likely catching prospect from Louisville. Goodman hit .331 for Rochester.

The Cardinals, with a team of seasoned veterans ready to go, will be satisfied if they can harvest two or three good reserves from their freshmen.

Good prospects are Don Guttridge, third sacker from Houston, who jumped from a class D league to a major tryout in two and a half years; Fred Ankenman, shortstop, also from Houston, who batted .408 to lead Southwest conference hitters while at the University of Texas and also topped the conference in runs scored and stolen bases; and Norbert Kleinke and Henry Pippen, right-handers from Rochester and Houston.

Manager Bill Terry of the Giants is proud of three young pitchers—Clyde Castleman and Frank Gabler, both right-handers from Nashville, and Herbert Masters, a south-paw from Crookston, Minn., Northern league strike-out king and said to be the highest-priced player yet produced by that league.

Pampa Midgets Wallop LeFors
Coach Harry Kelley's Pee Wees went to LeFors last night and walloped the LeFors midgets 25 to 17 in a game that was more one-sided than the score indicates. At the half the Pampa small boys led 16 to 2.

The lineups and scores: Pampa: Heiskell f, 12; Kilgore f, 6; Buckingham f, 2; McKay c; Hamilton g, 2; Morrow g, 1. LeFors: Johnson f, 2; Wolfe f, 3; Ellington c, 4; Louis c, 2; Blake g, 5; Cheelse and McKay, g.

Stratford Loses 28 to 23 Battle To Channing Club

CHANNING, Feb. 7 (AP)—Stratford's undefeated girls' basketball team met its Waterloo last night when they lost a 28 to 23 battle to the Channing girls. Stratford won from Channing last week in Stratford.

Miss Hester, Stratford's scoring machine, was held to three field goals instead of having a field day as was the case during the last meeting of the two teams. The entire Channing forward wall played great basketball with the scoring about equal.

The two teams will meet again in the Stratford tournament, the Tri-State tournament, and possibly in the district playoff. Both teams boast some of the members of the Conlon championship team of last year.

115-3 VICTORY!
ABILENE, Feb. 8 (AP)—The cagers of Wylie high school stayed up late last night's game, thumping basketball records in an effort to find something that would equal their 115-3 victory over Hamby high in the opening game of Taylor county's annual tournament. C. R. Waldrop, Wylie forward, counted 58 points, 56 of them on field goals. Hamby failed to score from scrimmage, and at the half was trailing 51 to 1.

'DIZZY' DEAN SIGNS UP FOR ABOUT $19,000

PREDICTS 'ME'N PAUL' WILL WIN 45 VICTORIES

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 8 (AP)—Dizzy Dean's sporadic contract war with the St. Louis Cardinals is over for the year but the fans don't know who won.

Dizzy walked into the office of Sam Brendon, the Cardinal president, late yesterday proclaiming himself a $25,000 holdout. An hour later he was posing for pictures, pen poised over an already-signed contract, and the battle was at an end.

The peace treaty was for an unannounced sum but common conjecture said it probably would assure the right-handed exponent of the personal pronoun, a 1935 baseball income of something between $17,500 and $19,000. Only a few weeks ago Dizzy scored a $17,500 offer.

With the contract problem finally settled, Dizzy turned to the coming season and calmly predicted 25 victories for himself and 45 for "me'n Paul." Paul, the 17 brother who joined with Dizzy in winning all the Cardinal's games in the last world series, has not yet returned his 1935 contract but has expressed satisfaction with it.

"I think everything is all right between Paul and the Cardinals," Dizzy said of reports Paul would hold out for more dollars.

MONTGOMERY WARD

GAS HEARING TAKES RECESS UNTIL MONDAY

SARAH HUGHES APPOINTMENT WILL BE DECIDED SOON

AUSTIN, Feb. 8 (AP)—A spirited controversy regarding Governor James V. Allred's proposed state planning board was in prospect today in the senate.

The planning board bill was passed by the house some time ago. Certain senators were reported ready to seek to amend it to deprive the governor of the privilege of appointing a majority of the members. Their amendment would call for the governor, lieutenant governor, and speaker of the house each to choose two members with the secretary of state to be the seventh.

A bill to aid the railroad commission to check illegal oil production was pending in the house. It would forbid issuance of temporary restraining orders against the commission without a hearing.

There was a possibility the senate would go into executive session to consider confirmation of the appointment of Rep. Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas as the state's first woman district judge. The committee on governor's nominations voted 8 to 1 to recommend confirmation.

Senators studied a report of their crime investigating committee, whose members found "a general revolt against governmental authority" and recommended drastic legislation to stamp it out.

The committee reported widespread liquor selling and gambling. It described the slot machine "racket" as of "confluent malignant epidemic form," and said operation of horse race bookies was "most flagrant, indeed, and scores of counties suffer from the tentacles of this octopus."

Legislation to create a modern state police system and to provide for summary removal of officers who would not enforce the law was urged.

Bills to provide for licensing of automobile drivers and to reduce the poll tax from $1.50 to $1.00 were given favorable reports by house committees. The senate public health committee approved a bill to require finger and foot printing of all babies.

The house oil and gas committee held another long hearing on legislation to reduce gas wastage in the Permian basin, then recessed until Monday night. Indications were that the hearings would last until late next week.

Mayor Ross Rogers of Amarillo, E. W. Hardin, president of the Amarillo chamber of commerce, and F. L. Chase of Dallas, vice president of the Lone Star Gas company, were among those urging immediate repeal of the law permitting operation of stripping plants even though the residue is wasted.

After having worked together in a circus for 40 years, Victor F. Anderson, 70, and Elizabeth N. Pew, 73, have married. Each had taken two previous trips to the altar.

"FELT MISERABLE MOST OF THE TIME"

Then Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Checked Her Constipation*

Read Mrs. Marsden's letter: "I have been a subject of constipation for the last 11 years. I felt miserable and irritable most of the time. My husband is a manager of a chain store. He said 'Why don't you try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN?'"

"ALL-BRAN helped me right away. I have taken it now for the past 3 months, and I am as regular as a clock. My health is fine, and I am 'full of pep.'"—Mrs. Charles Marsden, 681 Merrick St., Detroit, Mich.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two table-spoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this food much pleasanter and safer than risking patent medicines? Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

POST SHERIFF DUE TO PLEAD SELF-DEFENSE

DETAILS OF FEDERAL AGENT'S SLAYING ARE TOLD

POST, Tex., Feb. 8. (AP)—Sheriff W. F. Cato, veteran West Texas officer, today faced federal murder charges as he planned to plead self-defense at an inquest for the "regrettable" slaying yesterday of Spencer Stafford, 40, federal narcotic agent.

Federal authorities, armed with a murder warrant, came here to investigate the slaying, determining if it would come under the new federal law concerning the slaying of federal officers in performance of their duty. The Kansas City union station massacre precipitated the law.

The death of Stafford, felled by machine gun bullets in front of a veterinary's office where he had gone to inspect narcotic records, was described as "strictly self-defense" by N. C. Outlaw, Sheriff Cato's attorney.

"We regret exceedingly that it had to happen," he added.

V. C. McCullough, Dallas narcotic agent, accompanied Stafford to the veterinary's office. He declined to comment on the slaying.

Joe H. Jones, assistant United States attorney, and Marshal J. R. Wright, both of Dallas, and H. G. Williams, head of the Texas Narcotic service, came here to confer with United States Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey concerning the murder charge. Jones brought a warrant from Dallas.

First hand versions of the slaying were not available. A source, who would not be quoted, told of the details.

Sheriff Cato, reports said, went to the veterinary's office upon reports that two men "wearing guns" had been seen there. He deputized a farmer, Tom Morgan, to go with him.

A man and woman, who had been serving as government informers, were seated in the narcotic agent's automobile when the sheriff and Morgan arrived, the informant said. Sheriff Cato, the informant said, questioned the man and woman. They told him they were with federal agents who were inside the building. The man alighted from the car and was searched by Sheriff Cato, holding a machine gun.

The man informant shouted to the federal agents, the witness said. McCullough remained inside the building and Stafford stepped to the street.

"Don't do that, we're officers," the agent was quoted as telling the sheriff.

The version continued that Stafford seized the barrel of the machine gun and started to pull his own pistol. He was disarmed as McCullough emerged from the door. Stafford ran between two automobiles.

"My God, man, don't do that—we're officers," McCullough shouted to Sheriff Cato, the witness said. McCullough made no move to draw his own pistol.

The machine gun rattled for a few seconds and Stafford fell dead. His "federal" badge clutched in his hand, fell in the dust.

Sheriff Cato accepted McCullough's statement several minutes later that they were officers. Stafford's body was placed in the sheriff's automobile and taken to an undertaking establishment.

The body will be taken to Fort Worth Saturday. Mrs. Stafford will accompany the body to Hudson, N. Y., for burial.

SNOW REMOVAL MADE EASY

NEW YORK—For removing snow and ice from in front of your house there's nothing like a VapoRub. Mrs. Laura Bassewitz was summoned to court for failure to clear away the ice and snow at her home, but she was given a suspended sentence when a policeman testified he saw her husband clear the pavement with a blowtorch. "Every home should have a blowtorch," said Magistrate Mark Rudich.

INDUSTRY ON THE FARM

SALT LAKE CITY—Utah may soon be the home of several hundred thousand new "factories." State Rep. Joseph W. Jensen has introduced a bill designed to prevent a double levy of the sales tax on farm products by classifying all farm animals the produce available goods as "manufacturing plants."

OWEN ANSWERS SENATOR GLASS IN BANK FIGHT

Ex-Oklahoma Hits Back At Charges Of Virginian

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—An attack by Senator Carter Glass, an unnamed critic and a reply by former Senator Robert L. Owen served today to keep the debate over the treasury's banking bill to the forefront.

Glass, who had said earlier in the week that a promise was broken when the bill was offered on Capitol Hill without his seeing a copy first, issued a statement last night saying he resented being classed as a "foe" of the bill before he had an opportunity to read it.

He opened fire on a critic who, he said, had charged him with proceeding on "undeserved prestige." Without mentioning any names, the Virginian declared: "I may say that whatever prestige, if any, I may have was not gotten by using my position as a member of the banking and currency committee of either house of congress to gamble in foreign exchange with prison-convict partner nor in any attempt to influence the action of the federal reserve authorities for my own pecuniary benefit."

Former Senator Owen, now president of the national monetary conference, had made a statement on Tuesday saying Glass was "using an undeserved prestige as an expert in monetary science against the public interest."

Last night, after the Glass attack, Owen issued a further statement saying: "Of course I would not charge Carter Glass with the undeserved prestige of 'gambling' with a 'prison-convict partner,' or, for that matter, of compounding with the two thieves upon the cross, to sup with them in paradise; but, however, that paradise will be his, using the term. There may be left some shred of charity in his heart."

"But if I have attempted to influence the action of the federal reserve authorities for the restoration of property values... it was in behalf of the property of the people of the United States. No one will accuse Mr. Glass of such advocacy."

Owen was a Senator from Oklahoma from 1907 to 1925 and during part of that period served as chairman of the senate banking and currency committee.

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday school Lesson for February 10. General Topic: Peter Preaches at Pentecost. Scripture Lesson: Acts 2:22-28, 36-41.

22. Ye men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God unto you by mighty works and wonders and signs which God did him in the midst of you, even as ye yourselves know.

23. Him, being delivered up by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye by the hand of lawless men did crucify and slay: 24. Whom God raised up, having loosed the pangs of death; because it was not possible that he should be holden of it.

25. For David saith concerning him, I beheld the Lord always before my face; for he is on my right hand, that I should not be moved: 26. Therefore my heart was glad, and my tongue rejoiced; moreover my flesh also shall dwell in hope:

27. Because thou wilt not leave my soul unto Hades, neither wilt thou give thy Holy One to see corruption. 28. Thou madest known unto me the ways of life; thou shalt make me full of gladness with thy countenance.

29. For to you is the promise, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call unto him. 30. And with many other words he testified and exhorted them, saying, Save yourselves from this crooked generation.

31. They then that received his word were baptized; and there were added unto them in that day about three thousand souls. Golden Text: And Peter said unto them, Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.—Acts 2:38.

Introduction. Immediately preceding his final departure from this earth in bodily form, our Lord said to his disciples, "Ye are witnesses of these things. And behold I send forth the promise of my Father upon you; but tarry ye in the city, until ye be clothed with power from on high" (Luke 24:48, 49). This at once explains why, in the first chapter of Acts, there is no record of preaching the gospel during the ten days following the resurrection of Christ; the disciples were conscious of their inability to adequately proclaim such a divine message, and were waiting together for that endowment which the Saviour had promised they would receive. The events of the entire second chapter of Acts fall upon the Day of Pentecost. "Pentecost" is a Greek word meaning "fiftieth." In New Testament times it was used to designate that great Jewish feast, spoken of in the Old Testament as the Feast of Harvest (Ex. 23:16), the Feast of Weeks (Ex. 34:22; Deut. 16:9, 10), and the Day of the First Fruits (Numbers 28:26). It was called Pentecost because it always occurred fifty days after the day following the Passover Sabbath (Lev. 23:16, 16).

The Descent of the Holy Spirit. vs. 1-13. Many believe the disciples were gathered together in the Upper Room where the Last Supper was held, but this cannot be dogmatically asserted. On that memorable day, in this holy place, in the midst of this separated company of Christ's followers, there was a dual manifestation of an extraordinary event about to take place—one appealing to the ear, the other to the eye. There was a "sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind," not a mighty wind, but something sounding like it. Then there were sent tongues, as of fire, parting and sitting upon each of the gathered company. "The fire-like appearance presented itself at first as it were, in a single body, and then suddenly parted in its direction and that so that a portion of it rested on each of those present."—H. E. Hackett.

The immediate consequences of this miraculous manifestation was that the Apostles "were all filled with the Holy Spirit." This particular infilling was followed that day by the giving of miraculous gifts to the Apostles, by which they uttered "not of their own minds, but as mouthpieces of the Spirit, the praises of God in various languages hitherto unknown to them."

The Result of Peter's Sermon. "They then that received his word were baptized," v. 41. To receive is to accept with all its implications. To receive what Peter said was to acknowledge the truthfulness of his statements, and a submission to what such truth demanded (Matthew 10:40, 41; James 1:21). "And there were added unto them in that day about three thousand souls."

The picture of the Church as it was formed and functioned immediately after the great Pentecostal sermon of the Apostle Peter, as recorded in the last six verses of this wonderful chapter, reveals a situation which could almost be called a miracle in itself. Apparently, without being so directed by any outside human power or person, we find these early Christians in a society by four characteristics. They "gave constant attention to the teaching of the Apostles (see Matt. 28:20), in the fellowship which belongs to Christian believers (see 1 John 1:7), in the frequent celebration of breaking bread, which is a synonym for the Lord's Supper (see Acts 20:7 and 1 Corinthians 10:16), and in prayer.

Testament name for the abode of the spirits of the dead, and is often used as a synonym for the grave. "Neither wilt thou give thy Holy One to see corruption." Christ's body saw no corruption, for he was raised before such could take place. The fact that the Holy One was in Hades proved he had died; the promise that he would not be left there was a prediction that he would be raised from the dead.

Texas Ranger Losing Honor Senators Say

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—The name "Texas Ranger" is losing its once fine reputation, much to the chagrin of senate crime investigators, because its identity "is being swamped by a horde of 'special' Rangers." Regular Texas Ranger rolls carry 36 names, and "traditionally, one Ranger is enough to quell a riot."

Yet the committee complained, on the roll of "special" Rangers are the names of 1,620 persons, most of whom must fall into the category of official gun toters.

The committee said the use of special commissions was not apparent, "but our own investigators found special Rangers at the roadside speed traps, as bouncers in night clubs, as officers in gambling houses, as traffic officers and guards at horse and dog race tracks."

It incorporated in its official report the prayer of the Rangers, written by the Rev. Pierre Bernier, Hill of San Antonio, Ranger chaplain, and opined: "It is beyond our imagination to picture a 'special' Ranger uttering that prayer to his Maker after a night spent policing a gambling house or a night club."

 Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. . . For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God. . . The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God." (Romans 8:1, 14, 16).
 The lesson-sermon includes also the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit is God, and man is His image and likeness. Therefore man is not material; he is spiritual. . . All the varied expressions of God reflect health, holiness, immortality-infinite Life, Truth, and Love. . . The divine Principle, or Spirit, comprehends and expresses all, and all must therefore be as perfect as the divine Principle is perfect." (page 518).

SHOWDOWN ON PUBLIC WORKS WAGES SOUGHT

AFL AND FDR AGAIN ARRAYED AGAINST EACH OTHER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP) — The Roosevelt forces in the senate sought another showdown today on future public works wages, an issue which finds administration and the A. F. of L. leadership arrayed against each other.
 Senator Byrns (D., S. C.) who is seeking to steer the $4,880,000,000 work and relief bill through the appropriations committee, said he expected to rally enough strength to delete the "prevailing wages" amendment the committee tacked to the bill yesterday, by a 12 to 8 vote.
 Treasury experts had contended the amendment, calling for at least "prevailing wages" for 3,500,000 "employables" the administration has announced it will put to work, would "defeat the very purpose of the bill itself." They contend it would cost six or seven billion dollars instead of $4,880,000,000.
 The president has taken the stand wages should be higher than the dole, but lower than the pay in private industry so workers would not be discouraged from taking private jobs. Its plan is to pay an average of $50 a month.

Backers of the fight for prevailing wages, which was led yesterday by Senator McCarran (D., Nev.), reply that to pay less would wear down the wage scale in private industry. The American Federation of Labor is insisting on prevailing scales.

Despite the onslaughts by critics seeking to change major features of the bill, Senator Robinson, democratic leader, expressed the belief the measure would be ready to be taken up in the senate Monday.

FRECHETTE IS GLAD HE SLEW HIS EMPLOYER

'FLYING BANDIT' WOULD HAVE DONE IT 'AGAIN'

NEVADA CITY, Calif., Feb. 8 (AP)—Clarence Frechette, who admitted killing a man in Michigan and carried the body to California by motor car, insisted he was not sorry for what he had done as he awaited the arrival of authorities from the eastern state.

"I'd have done it again," said the 25-year-old "flying bandit" as he told of the flight that led to the death of Robert Brown, 24, of Kalamazoo, "and if I hadn't, somebody else would have."

Frechette, who told Capt. Joseph Blake of the state highway patrol Brown had boasted of intimacies with many women, including the accused slayer's "girl," apparently suffered no nervousness at any time after the shooting.

He even went to a dance at Salt Lake City, leaving the machine with its cargo of death on the street nearby. He told of holding up two drug stores and a restaurant in Denver for "expense money."

Frechette's need for money led to his arrest at Elko, Nevada, where he sent a telegram to Brown's father, Roy Brown, in Kalamazoo, Mich., signing it "Robert" and asking him to forward $50. The father turned the message over to police, who notified California authorities.

When Frechette drove up to the California state line checking station Wednesday midnight, an officer discovered Brown's body in the trunk.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—Led by rails and industrials, stock market prices again moved into higher territory today. The pace was still slow, however, as many traders waited for further confirmation of the upturn. The closing tone was firm and transfers approximated $70,000 shares.

HAUPTMANN

owner and graduate civil engineer, testified he saw and examined the ladder at 1:15 a. m., March 1, 1932—about twenty hours before Baby Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. was kidnapped and its occupants were a man and woman.

The state contends Hauptmann, alone, kidnaped, killed and collected ransom for the Lindbergh baby.

Bolmer's sensational recital followed the defense's attack on the state's wood evidence against Hauptmann, Charles J. DeBisshop leaving the stand after giving several reasons for his opinion that "Rail 16" of the ladder was not sawed from a floor board of Hauptmann's attic as charged by the state.

Hauptmann's attorney heightened the drama of their surprise by calling upon the defendant to assist.

"Stand up, Mr. Hauptmann," cried Frederick A. Pope of defense counsel.

Hauptmann came to his feet.

"Is that the man?" Pope swept his hand toward the waiting defendant.

"Positively not," said Bolmer.

His answer to a request to describe the ladder, was a gesture toward the kidnap ladder in court.

"Why describe it," he asked, "I saw that ladder there."

A man and a woman were in the car, he said. Also, he testified, the same car had visited his station several times before. His station is near Hopewell.

Bolmer, a middle-aged, red-faced man, could not identify a picture of the dead Isador Fisch as the man in the car. He said he saw only a part of the woman's face.

"Now, while the car was there with the ladder did you actually, physically touch the ladder yourself?" he was asked.

"I did, three times," he said.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz asked only one cross-examination question.

"Did you ever report the matter to the state police?"

"I did not," he said.

Hauptmann's attorneys then brought out that the reason he had not reported the matter was because the pictures of the ladder he saw in the newspapers depicted it as extended and he could not be sure. He added that he did not want "to make a fool of myself."

He described the man in the auto this way:

"His hair was dark. He had a smooth face, no mustache or beard.

He later added the man weighed 130 or 140 pounds, and was about 5 feet, 10 or 11 inches tall and thin-faced.

He said he thought he had seen a picture of the man some place. He couldn't recall where.

Charles J. DeBisshop, contractor of Waterbury, Conn., who gave his opinion late yesterday that the famed "rail 16" of the ladder and a floor board from the attic had no relation—an opinion that discredited with one given by a state expert—produced a yellow pine sapling in court to show, he said, that such trees have more knots near the base than above.

It was his contention that the attic floor board, from which the state charged rail 16 had been sawn, had fewer knots than the rail. The rail was used as an upright in one of the three sections of the ladder.

James J. Farber, a New York insurance man, was called by the state in rebuttal.

Auto Accident Described

He told of his automobile being in collision with that of Benjamin Heter, defense witness.

Heter had testified that he saw Isador Fisch leap from a wall of St. Raymond's cemetery the night of April 2, 1932 at the time the ransom payment was made by Dr. John F. Condon.

Q. Now on the night of April 2, 1932, where were you?

A. I was on the premises at 1250 Sixth Avenue, Manhattan. It is a delicatessen and lunch room.

Q. Did you have your car with you?

A. I did.

Q. Did you have an automobile accident that night?

A. I did not.

Q. With what?

A. With a car driven by Benjamin Heter.

Buy your made-to-measure suit at Kees & Thomas. (Adv.)

Farber said the collision occurred on the easterly side of Sixth Avenue, between 54th and 56th streets, Manhattan.

The scene of the accident, he said, was 8 1/2 miles from St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx.

Wilentz released Farber to Reilly for cross-examination and the defense attorney adduced that the witness had not measured the distance to the cemetery "with a tape measure."

Wilentz asked one question.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of a crime?

A. No.

Larson Testifies

"Mr. Arthur Larson," Wilentz called and a quiet little man stepped up to be sworn.

Last week when Elvert Carlstrom, defense alibi witness, testified, Larson was identified as the man who lived with Carlstrom in a new house at Dunellen at the time of the kidnaping.

Q. In 1932 what did you do?

A. I was a painter.

Q. Did you work in Dunellen at some time in that year?

A. Yes.

Q. In February and March 1932, did you work there?

A. I did.

Q. Now on the night of the kidnaping were you in Dunellen?

A. Yes.

Larson said he and Carlstrom occupied the new house while doing work there.

Q. Where was Carlstrom on the night of March 1, 1932?

A. In the house where I slept.

Q. What was the last time you saw Carlstrom that night?

A. Between 9:30 and 10:00 before I went to bed.

This was about the time Carlstrom said he saw Hauptmann in a Bronx restaurant.

He was turned over for cross-examination.

Reilly led the witness through a recital of his maintenance by the state authorities while waiting to testify.

Q. Did you know March 1, was Carlstrom's birthday?

A. I don't know.

Q. Tell me what you were doing at 9 o'clock the night of February 29, 1932?

A. I think I was working.

He corrected his answer to say "I think I was sitting around."

Certain Revival Of Business Is Shown By Review

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—The advancement recorded for practically all branches of trade since the turn of the year is carrying with it each week more convincing proofs of a general definite revival, Dun & Bradstreet's weekly trade review says.

After a brief interruption attributed entirely to the severe weather conditions prevailing in many parts of the country, "there now is more uniformity to the rising trend," the review says, with production and distribution about at an even pace, "and the favor still leans towards the former."

"With current developments revealing no indications of a letup in the improving conditions in agricultural communities or in the constant enlargement of factory and mercantile pay-rolls," the review said, "preliminary estimates on the volume of spring trade are ranging from 10 to 25 per cent in excess of the 1934 figures, when the selling season was curtailed by the early date on which Easter fell."

Dun & Bradstreet's business activity barometer for the first week in February stood at 73.6, or 17.2 per cent higher than in the same week last year.

Hauptmann's Car Caps Are Stolen

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Daily News says that Bruno Hauptmann, on trial for the kidnap-killing of the Lindbergh baby at Flemington, N. J., told Sheriff John H. Curtiss yesterday:

"I want to put a charge of stealing against someone."

"Why?" asked Curtiss.

"Somebody stole my radiator cap and gasoline tank cap from my automobile while you got it parked here."

Souvenir hunters had taken them, but the sheriff told Hauptmann that he was lucky the car was kept in the jail enclosure rent-free, that the warden complained he was unable to park his own car with Hauptmann's there.

"Well, Mr. Curtiss," said Hauptmann, "just give me a chance and I will move it for you."

A ROMANTIC FOOTNOTE TO WAR'S MYSTERIES

History would be a great deal more interesting if we could get at its insignificant footnotes. It is forever hinting at absorbing little stories that would make much better reading than the really important things which get all the space—but in most cases it does no more than hint. The anecdotes and romances which would make history real to us get lost in the shuffle.

Here's a sample. A few days ago some relief workers were excavating Indian mounds on the edge of the famous battlefield of Shiloh, in Tennessee. They accidentally drove their picks into a grave in which had been buried nine unknown Union soldiers killed in that battle. And one of the skeletons turned out to be that of a girl!

Skeletons, of course, were about all that remained. Each was encased in the remnants of a blue uniform, clearly identifiable as such by the tarnished brass buttons. The girl had apparently been some 17 or 18 years of age. The Confederate bullet which killed her was found inside her skeleton.

And that's all there is to the story—just that tantalizing little fragment, which tells us almost nothing, but which sets the imagination to work frantically.

Where did this girl come from? How did she get there, on one of the bloodiest battlefields of all the bloody wars?

Was she one of the luckless girls who wish they were boys, and masquerade as boys whenever possible? If so, how did she get in the army, in view of the fact that Civil War recruits had to undergo physical examinations just as present-day soldiers do?

Or was she, perhaps, the sweetheart of one of the soldiers, who had obtained a uniform in some manner, disguised herself in it, crept into camp by some hook or crook to be near her lover, and had been caught with him when the unexpected swirl of battle broke over Grant's army?

Was he one of the eight who were buried with her. Or did they get separated in the heat of battle, so that he never knew what happened to her?

These are questions that cannot possibly be answered; but who can read the little story without wishing earnestly that they could be?

These relief workers dug up one of history's most fascinating fragments—but it can never be anything more than a fragment, a footnote to a tale of battle, hinting at much that we would like to see revealed.

The nine skeletons have been buried in a new grave in Shiloh Cemetery, now. The only marker is a tablet, inscribed "Nine Unknown Union Soldiers."

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Critics of the administration's five billion-dollar work-relief bill are considering a proposal that will strike terror into the hearts of many New Dealers.

The idea is to bring administrators and cabinet members to the Senate floor, where they can be questioned in detail as to administration measures—somewhat after the manner of the British Parliament.

A simple change in Senate rules would permit the invitation of high officials to the chamber for questioning. And it would be difficult for an invited official to refuse with dignity.

The chief reason for hesitation in proposing such a rule has been the certainty that administration forces would combine to bury the resolution in committee. But you're likely to hear from it.

Telegraph company officials place the number of World Court telegrams received by senators after Father Coughlin's radio speech at about 60,000.

That doesn't come up to the wild tales you've heard of hundreds of thousands, but it's more telegrams than ever landed here before at one time and enough to scare a Senate—especially since most of the messages were signed by from two to a dozen names.

Senator Wagner of New York seems to hold the record, with approximately 10,000 telegrams received. But he stuck by the administration and voted against the court.

World Court letters at least equaled the telegrams in number.

Progressives in Congress profess to see the hand of Gerard Swope, General Electric magnate, behind the administration's social insurance measures—which they regard as conservative.

Although they consider Swope a relatively enlightened industrialist, his influence in forming the legislation is supposed to have been greater than they think any industrialist should have been allowed to exert. Swope was on the presidential security committee.

Nevertheless, insiders know that the most important influence behind the Wagner-Lewis unemployment insurance bill—whose principles are preserved in the administration proposal to foster state systems—was that of Justice Louis Dembitz Brandeis.

The justice, whose disciples here are legion, prefers small units to big units and wanted to be sure the measure would be constitutional.

Unmistakable signs come from Capitol Hill that the stock of Secretary Ickes, who took such a wicked lambasting from members who sought to keep him from administering the work relief program, is booming again.

After Speaker Byrns had assured congressmen that Ickes wouldn't boss the entire program, word went quietly around that Ickes still rated high at the White House and would certainly have a sayso about a portion of the funds.

Members were also reminded that Ickes was still able to rescind many existing public works associations and to expose politicians who hadn't kept their noses shiny clean in the past scramble for funds.

Thus no one was surprised when Cox of Georgia, who had said on the floor that Ickes had so extensively insulted members that he was "the most thoroughly hated man connected with the government at the present time," back-tracked abjectly by announcing to the house that his remarks had been both unkind and mistaken.

TEXAS HISTORY Brushing Up on Facts You Ought to Recall

News circulated over the colonies about the declaration of independence that Major Ira Ingram and Captain Philip Dimmitt and other citizens of Goliad had signed and adopted. Ninety-two had signed it; thirty-one of them lived in San Antonio and Refugio.

Col. Francis W. Johnson and Col. J. W. Fannin, after a long conference, had come to definite conclusions about what to do with their restless soldiers. It was difficult to keep them under hand when they wanted to have action—to do something desperate—to justify their existence in the army. The two colonels proposed to General Houston and Governor Smith that the army make an attempt to capture Matamoros. It would give the soldiers good occupation, and besides Dr. James Grant's valuable estates in Northern Mexico should be protected by all means from the dangerous enemies. Flat refusal came from Houston and Smith. The governor's council agreed thoroughly to the idea; so disregarding everything else, elaborate plans were laid for the capture of the city.

The Matamoros expedition did not turn out well, for there was constant conflict between troops and separate chiefs, and the lack of one definite commander was their downfall. Santa Anna had prepared for the Texans, and in January, 1836, he was stationed in Saltillo. February 1 he took 6,000 men and set out to meet Johnson and Fannin. Gen. Jose Urrea and 700 men were sent to attack Johnson and Grant at San Antonio. On the twenty-third day, Santa Anna reached San Antonio. The Mexicans had come with patriotism and determined effort to recapture Bexar.

The Texans were not entirely prepared for the coming conflict. The impending attack was taken lightly by most people, who very calmly believed that right would triumph, and that all their men would come through alive.

In the meanwhile, Texas was in a terrible financial condition. A public loan from the United States was the only hope of salvation, and the commissioners were having fair success. With all the enthusiasm and honest loyalty to Texas that he had, Austin addressed the people in Louisville. Col. William Christy of New Orleans, a friend of the commissioners and of Texas, secured a loan of $200,000, with 10 per cent cash, as well as another loan of $50,000.

Members had been elected to the conference to be held in the spring. Trouble that had been brooding for months was about to come to a head. The story of the Alamo and Goliad was about to be written.

These stirring events are to be recalled in connection with the Texas Centennial celebrations planned for 1936.

both the postmaster generalship and the chairmanship of the democratic national committee, months after the president himself publicly condemned the practice of party officials being also public officers. Now that Norris of Nebraska, one of the most interpid of the Roosevelt republicans, has begun to complain against what he calls "Party-ing" the government, Washington is on the lookout for some real excitement.

Moffett Disappointed?
Friends of James A. Moffett, the housing administrator, have heard without surprise that he plans soon to return to private life.

When he took charge of the housing campaign last summer, Moffett was one of the most optimistic of the "new deal" enthusiasts. He predicted a great outpouring of capital and credit for home construction, and talked of putting 5,000,000 men to work. That would have meant the end of the unemployment crisis, possibly the end of federal relief.

Employment has increased somewhat since the building trades, and some new money has been put into construction. No exact figures are available, but no one contends the results have come up to Moffett's predictions.

Big business still hesitates, and the government is turning to new methods of stimulating recovery. The housing administration came in with a great burst of publicity; not so much is heard about it now.

CCC Escapes Criticism.
The story is quite different down the street where Robert Fechner presides over the civilian conservation corps.

That was one "new deal" agency which made no appeal to private capital, and was in no wise dependent on popular support. Some time ago accompanied its inauguration, and there have been a few troubles with local authorities here and there, but in the main it would be hard to think of any of the Roosevelt projects which has escaped with less open criticism.

TEXAS OPERATORS PLAN TO TAKE OIL CONTROL PLEA TO CONGRESS

DALLAS, Feb. 8 (AP)—Fifteen Texas oil operators, business men and bankers planned to embark on a Washington today to plead for federal regulation of the oil industry in a resolution which would sweep East Texas oil field.

Appointed at a mass meeting here yesterday, the committee plans to appear before the house committee on foreign and interstate commerce with a resolution which would require a resolution in regulating a trouble-swept East Texas oil field.

A strong plea for passage of the Connally bill for interstate control of excess oil will be made by the delegation. The resolution will inform house committee members that excess oil production could be handled at $200,000 annually thru control of interstate shipments, "not much more than the value of 'hot' oil produced in one day during the worst days of overproduction in the East Texas field."

"Re-establishment of the federal tender board, given major credit for reducing 'hot' oil to a minimum in the past, and enactment of the Connally bill would not interfere with the state compact plan, and interstate control is essential to the pact plan," the resolution read.

Leaders agreed the Connally bill should be passed first with the state compact plan, backed by Governor E. W. Mansfield of Oklahoma, to follow. The resolution said "hot oil" would be eliminated by the simple method of eliminating it from commerce.

W. Fred Weeks of Tyler, attorney for the Texas Petroleum Council and framer of the resolution, warned "if the courts render an adverse decision regarding control of railroad shipments by the state and if the Connally bill were not enacted within a week, the entire East Texas field would be opened."

A resolution presented by Carl Estes of Longview, urging immediate passage of the Connally bill, was telegraphed to President Roosevelt and Congressman Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Reference to Secretary Ickes as being desirous of establishing himself as "dictator of the oil industry in the event it is taken over by the federal government," was stricken out after a lively discussion over the resolution sent to Washington by telegraph.

"Ickes will stick his foot in, and then he'll stick his leg in and pretty soon he'll have both legs in the oil industry," Estes said.

A quiet suggestion from Nathan Adams, Dallas banker, "not to incur the ill will of Mr. Ickes," was generally agreed to and the reference to Ickes deleted.

The committee named to make the Washington trip included Adams, Weeks, Rade W. Kangra of Henderson, Paul Mader of San Antonio, George A. Hill Jr. of Houston, Jake Smedfer of Breckenridge, John Kilgore of Wichita Falls, Freeman W. Burford of Dallas, E. L. Smith of Mexia, Joe R. Pearson of Corsicana, Cecil Storey of Longview, Fred Horton of Greenville, Sam Ross of Kilgore, W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls, and Maxy Wilson of Overton.

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Feb. 8 (AP)—Dr. R. H. Montgomery, economics professor at the University of Texas has won the right to the title of "Texas brain trustee No. 1."

Dr. Montgomery is the author of the administration-endorsed public utility regulation bill offered recently in the Texas house of representatives. It was 61 legal-size pages long and is the Alpha and Omega on public utility regulation. It covered every subject relating to public utilities from organization to operation and dissolution.

If anything was left out it would require an expert to find the omission.

Dr. Montgomery was selected by Governor James V. Allred to prepare a bill embracing the governor's ideas. The professor has been interested for years in public utility regulation, particularly as it should be applied in Texas and has conducted extensive research into the question.

He is a familiar figure in legislative halls. Most of his appearances have been on utility matters but he also has appeared at request of committees to discuss other economic problems of government.

To Dr. Montgomery the preparation of the administration bill was one of his crowning achievements. In private discussions he revealed he had been an ambition for 15 years to write a regulatory measure.

The bill, according to its author, represents the best thought in America on the controversial question of utility legislation. He spent weeks reading reports on the federal trade commission and other special boards established to inquire into different phases of utility operations.

Several sections were written into the bill after lengthy consultation with government experts at Washington. One feature which attracted wide interest was the section devoted to state control over out-of-state holding companies operating in Texas through subsidiaries. The bill would declare subject to state regulation any foreign corporation that rendered legal, managerial, engineering or financial services to a Texas chartered company.

Members agreed the bill was one of the most far reaching ever introduced in the legislature on any subject and certainly the most voluminous measure on public utility regulation.

That Governor Allred intends to throw the full weight of his administration behind the bill in conformity with his campaign pledge to regulate public utilities, is clearly indicated. A few nights before the bill was introduced Governor Allred invited a group of members to the mansion to hear an explanation of the measure by Mr. Montgomery. He continued this procedure until virtually every member of the house had been contacted.

The general idea was to get house members thoroughly acquainted with the measure so that its bulk would not be confusing when offered on the floor. The administration apparently did not want any delay in the house to endanger arrival of the bill in the senate in time for action before the closing rush.

Montana Rides Again

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

Chapter Seven
WEDDING DAY

Sunday morning on the Lavery ranch found the Montana Kid yawning about in his room with a slight limp, but whistling at the work of increasing his long body and his strong shoulders in white shirt and collar, in socks of black silk, and in a fine blue-black serge, at last.

Even as he knotted his necktie on his wedding day, he kept flexing his feet a little in the softness of his fine calf boots because he could not tell what gods might look at him before this day was ended. It was what he most disliked—an advertised appearance; and there were plenty of men in the world who might want to take advantage of it.

He would need three pairs of eyes with which to keep on guard this day; but that was what he had needed a great part of his life, and perhaps it was why he was whistling now.

His stay on the Lavery ranch had been a quiet back-water, a pause in the hurry of the current that was headed towards some wild and unknown sea. Now that he was dressed, he looked quizzically at the brown face in the mirror and found that the blue-bright eyes

With cooperation of the American Legion, the Junior chamber of commerce, various service clubs and patriotic organizations, the citizens of each community will be afforded the opportunity of signing, thus indicating to their congressman and senators the conviction that the time is at hand to enact such legislative measures as will permanently remove the menace of those who seek the overthrow of the government by force or violence.

The petitions from all communities will be assembled at the Elks National Memorial building in Chicago on February 22, Washington's birthday, and there grouped by con-

Ailing Juror Aided To Court

Most closely watched in the Hauptmann trial these days is the health of Juror Liscom, who suffered a mild heart attack. The retired 60-year-old carpenter is pictured above at left, being assisted from the hotel in Flemington, N. J., to the Hunterdon County Courthouse by a court attaché. Were he to become seriously ill or die, a mistrial would result.

Montana Rides Again

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

SYNOPSIS: In order to force Montana, called El Keed in Mexico, to flee into Mexico with him, Mateo Rubiz plans to run him foul of the law. Mateo wants Montana to help him recover the emerald crown of Our Lady, stolen by the governor of his province. Montana, after various postponements, plans to marry Ruth Lavery, daughter of a wealthy ranch owner. But Ruth's father, after Montana breaks his promise not to ride the wild mare, Sally, has no faith in his prospective son-in-law.

Chapter Seven
WEDDING DAY

Sunday morning on the Lavery ranch found the Montana Kid yawning about in his room with a slight limp, but whistling at the work of increasing his long body and his strong shoulders in white shirt and collar, in socks of black silk, and in a fine blue-black serge, at last.

Even as he knotted his necktie on his wedding day, he kept flexing his feet a little in the softness of his fine calf boots because he could not tell what gods might look at him before this day was ended. It was what he most disliked—an advertised appearance; and there were plenty of men in the world who might want to take advantage of it.

He would need three pairs of eyes with which to keep on guard this day; but that was what he had needed a great part of his life, and perhaps it was why he was whistling now.

His stay on the Lavery ranch had been a quiet back-water, a pause in the hurry of the current that was headed towards some wild and unknown sea. Now that he was dressed, he looked quizzically at the brown face in the mirror and found that the blue-bright eyes were alert for danger rather than for happiness.

Gray-headed Ransome, the foreman, poured tight and helpless into Sunday clothes, smoked a cigaret and watched his friend. "It'll be a great day," said Ransome.

"A long day," corrected the Kid.

"Any boy might think," suggested Ransome, "that you wasn't gonna step out with a beauty that had a couple millions to float her."

"Might any boy think that?" murmured Montana.

"Any boy might think," went on Ransome, heavily frowning, "that you didn't give much of a damn about one of the prettiest girls in the world."

The kid, instead of answering, looked at Ransome with eyes that had become the color of slate; then he picked up that pair of Colts with the extra long barrels and made them disappear inside his clothes with one of those swift, easy gestures which the eye could not follow very well. After that he went to Ransome and laid a light touch on his shoulder.

"Old Ransome!" he said.

"Yeah, old Ransome be damned," said the foreman. "What about old Montana, I'm asking?"

Many other things were going on at the same time about the big Lavery house. There was Ruth Lavery in her room, being draped in films of white. She smiled a good deal until the girl who was the best of her friends said to her, suddenly, whispering: "Ruth, are you smiling because you're happy, or just to please me?"

"I'm happy, of course," answered Ruth Lavery. "But I'm frightened. Something is going to happen!"

And in front of that house Richard Lavery senior was walking restlessly up and down, up and down, scanning the horizon from time to time as though he expected a sign of changing weather to roll darkly up on the edge of the world.

He turned almost expectantly towards a sudden rattle of hoofs that beat on the lower trail and then revealed a rider on a sweating mustang. It was a young fellow with a look of anxiety, as though wild Indians might be behind him. He threw himself out of the saddle and ran to Lavery.

"D'you know what's happened?" he gasped. "Jack Lascar—that yaller-faced feller called Lascar that showed up in town the other day—he's gone and nailed a notice on the bulletin-board in front of the post-office. I've copied it down."

He pulled out a piece of paper and read aloud. Half the words were a gasping whisper and half were almost shouted.

Everybody notice that wants to: Me, that is Jack Lascar, is going to stand out in the middle of the street in front of H-B-Bailey's blacksmith shop at ten-thirty this same morning and wait for the low yaller hound by name of Montana Kid.

If he don't show up then and there, you all know what kind of a skunk he is.

Jack Lascar.

"Wait a moment," exclaimed Lavery. "Where's the sheriff? What does he mean by permitting open challenges in a place like Bentonville?"

"The sheriff's out of town," said the messenger. "Some of the boys have sent for him. He ought to be back by about ten-thirty. But I thought that you might want to know."

"Get off the ranch!" cried Lavery. "Don't let Montana see you. If he should find out—"

He found that the rounded eyes of the messenger were peering straight past him and, turning, Richard Lavery saw Montana standing in the open door of the house. Above the white of the stiff collar his face looked browner and younger than ever. Montana was rolling a cigaret, letting his fingers see their own way, while he said:

"You ride back and tell Jack Lascar that it's a little late for me to get his message, but I'm coming down there as fast as a good horse will take me. Tell him that I'll finish the job I left half done a while back."

He scratched the match, touched the flame to the crimped end of the wheat-straw paper, and took in a good, deep breath of the smoke. His eyes had an absent look, as though he were considering a further answer. But the messenger jerked his head in understanding and ran back to his pony. It was something worth remembering during a life to be the connecting link between a Jack Lascar and a Montana.

When Montana got into the saddle and jogged around the corner of the barn he saw that he would have to face all the music in one great burst.

For on the veranda stood the assembled family down to the one-legged cook, with a shimmer of white for Ruth Lavery in the center of the group, and her father tall and straight and forbidding beside her.

Montana rode straight up to them and pulled off his hat.

Maureen Orcutt Again Favored To Win Golf Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 8 (AP)—Two seasoned campaigners, Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., winner last year, and Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., this year's medalist, were gallery choices today in the semifinals of the Miami Biltmore amateur women's golf tournament.

Miss Orcutt faced Mrs. Joe Bydolek of Buffalo, while Miss Bauer was paired with Mrs. Lillian Zech of Chicago.

Mrs. Zech tied her match with Patty Berg, 16-year-old Minneapolis city champion, at the eighteenth, after trailing, and took the nineteenth with a par five.

Mrs. Bydolek was three down to Ellamae Williams of Chicago, who is also 16, at the end of the tenth, but tier her up at the 17th, halved the eighteenth and grabbed the nineteenth.

Miss Bauer disposed of Mrs. William Hockenjos, Jr., of Mount Arlington, N. J., seven and five.

Miss Grace Amory of Palm Beach carried Miss Orcutt to the fifteenth before losing 4 and 3.

STUDENTS ACT AS PALLBEARERS TO EARN WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

BY J. A. RAWLINGS, Associated Press Staff Writer, CHICAGO, Feb. 8 (AP)—Where there's a will there's a way to get a college education.

College boys these days are doing everything from catching bullfrogs to acting as professional pallbearers to earn their way through the colleges and universities.

The monthly or weekly check from back home is still mighty important in some instances, but a survey disclosed today that in some schools as many as 70 per cent of the students are working all or part time to earn the funds to finance their schooling. Many are "making the grade" with the assistance of the federal emergency relief administration.

Working on tables for their board and lodging and stocking furnaces in the wee small hours of the morning remain among the most popular methods, but the survey brought to light many others.

At the University of North Carolina some of the students help finance their purses by catching bullfrogs and insects for experimental purposes.

Of 3,400 students at Washington university, St. Louis, where one-third are working their way thru, several were found to be professional pallbearers. One man was found earning money by sitting daily on a piano bench beside a boy—to inspire him to practice his lessons!

The feeding of white rats in the university laboratory means money for some of the University of Iowa.

Of 3,000 at Harvard 800 were found to be doing part time jobs, ranging all the way from shoveling snow to taking care of babies.

Is This Too Good For Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief, for safety.

Most coughs often yield to lesser helps. But you can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough, so careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

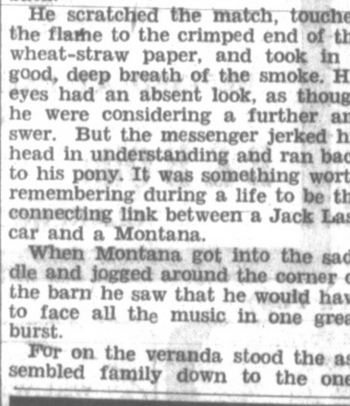

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to dispense it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are dangerous signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)
