NORTH CHINA GIVES UP TO JAP INVADERS

COMPLETE SURRENDER OF TROOPS IS REPORTED

NANKING, June 10 (AP)—The Chinese national government today issued a mandate "forbidding provocative speeches and actions detrimental to the maintenance of friendly relations between China and neighboring countries."

The mandate said that the formation of organization calculated to cultivate ill feeling between China and other countries was forbidden.

The mandate further stated: "Instigating anti-foreignism through literature is also banned."

The national government threatened stern punishment for violators.

PEIPING, June 10 (AP)—The office of the Japanese military attaché issued an official statement tonight that it had received from Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, chairman of the Peiping military council, and the Chinese national government "the acceptance of all Japanese demands concerning North China."

TIENSIN, June 10 (AP)—Japanese troops were dispatched to Yankston today upon reports of the burning of poles of Japanese military telegraph lines, which a Japanese spokesman said was "a provocative incident, warranting our firm action."

One platoon of troops, accompanied by an armored car, was sent to Yangtun, which is 35 miles to the northwest. The development aroused further misgivings here in the Sino-Japanese crisis.

Disturbances which had tended to subside today, was further aroused tonight with reports two Japanese destroyers left Port Arthur for Tientsin. Japanese officers said the craft were being up for repair to protect Japanese lives and property in the event of untoward developments.

TOKYO, June 10 (AP)—Chinese troops were reported in Japanese news dispatches today to have started their evacuation of North China, signaling what the messages described as China's complete surrender to the demands of Japanese military authorities.

These reports said the threat of an occupation by General Hiro Minami's war machine was sufficient to persuade the Chinese national government to capitulate to the Japanese requirements for establishment of a new regime in North China.

As a consequence, the Japanese press said, the Japanese troops concentrated in Hopei province, although ready for action, will not be called on to move southward, at least for the present.

The reports indicated that a precedent has been established conceding the Japanese army the right to dictate who shall administer and what troops shall be stationed in Hopei province.

(This area formed the heart of the old Chinese empire and contains the ancient capital, Peiping, as well as the commercial metropolises of the north, Tientsin.)

Dispatches from Tientsin to the Rengo (Japanese news agency) said the evacuation of Chinese troops from Hopei already was under way in pursuance of the Japanese military demands.

The army commanded by Gen. Minami is expected to arrive in the city today.

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Restoration of the old 4 percent interest rate of PWA loans to states and communities under the $4,000,000,000 work program was announced today by Secretary Ickes, who said the change was designated to attract private capital to finance the expenditures not donated by the federal government.

KIDNAPED BOY'S HIDING PLACE FOUND

Lincoln Cited

With the words of Abraham Lincoln as their inspiration, midwest republicans gathered in Springfield, Ill., in "grass roots" convention, to launch war on the new deal. Here, beneath a picture of the Emancipator, John D. M. Hamilton, Topeka, Kans., permanent chairman, is shown with the grave of black walnut taken from the home where Lincoln courted and married Mary Todd.

OHIO COACHES IMPRESSED BY CITY GRIDDER

Jesse Owens, Famed Negro Track-Field Star, Here For Few Minutes Sunday

The fame of Harvester athletic teams and Pampa athletes is well-known to athletic coaches of Ohio State university, who passed thru here yesterday on board a Santa Fe passenger train. The coaches and 16 members of Ohio State's famed track-field team, including Jesse Owens, sensational negro track and field star who this spring has broken six world records and equalled one, were riding a special car, en route to the Pacific Coast where the team, featuring Owens will compete against Stanford and the University of California at Berkeley.

A group of Pampans, including Dee C. Blythe, Clovis, New Mexico, newspaperman, Archer Fullington of THE NEWS, Frank Monroe, J. R. Green, Troy Payne, and James Todd Jr., visited the track team during the stop here yesterday.

The group had less than five minutes to visit with the Ohioans but in that time J. R. Green made such an impression on the athletic coaches that they followed him to the door and shouted to him to be sure and write them, as the train gathered speed.

Previously, the line coach and the athletic director, had picked up their ears and opened their eyes when Monroe told them that J. R. Green was here.

Many Tots Gather For Play Program

Scores of enthusiastic children turned out this morning when the summer recreation program for the city was launched, most of them with the message, "I know another kid that'll bring tomorrow."

Ward school play programs, boys' softball teams, and a sewing class for girls were the projects started this morning. Other groups of youngsters and adults are to be organized through this week, preparing for the summer program.

At B. M. Baker and Horace Mann schools, the play hour attracted unusually large crowds. Each ward school is open from 8 to 11 a. m. daily for this feature, with a supervisor in charge. Games, handicraft work, and story hours are conducted for children aged 6 to 9.

Softball teams for boys were organized at each ward school, all with enthusiastic candidates meeting in the high school boys who are to be in charge of this activity.

Ben Guill, general supervisor of the recreation program, spent the morning going from one group to another, overseeing the work of his assistants. He is being aided by a large group of volunteer workers in the ambitious summer undertaking.

He invites all parents to send their children to the meetings for their age groups, assuring them that competent supervisors will be in charge of each group and that all activities will be directed. No enrollment time is set in any group, and participation may begin at any time.

Ex-Convict Is Ineligible To Play Baseball

Judge Landis to Have Final Say About Alabama Lad Playing With Albany

ALBANY, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—Edwin C. Pitts, the Alabama lad who made Sing Sing famous on athletic fields, was ruled ineligible today to play baseball in the minor leagues because he is an ex-convict.

The decision was made by the executive committee of the National Association of Minor Leagues, and it means that Kenesaw Mountain Landis will have to make a final decision on the legality of Pitts' contract with the Albany club of the International league.

The committee unanimously upheld the opinion of W. C. Branham, president of the association, who ruled recently that Pitts' appearance on the field with the Albany club would be detrimental to professional baseball.

Pitts joined the Albany club at Syracuse last week on his release from Sing Sing, where he served five years for robbery, but he has not played a game yet. While in prison he became an all-around athlete, gaining a wide following of fans in both football and baseball.

Shortly after the committee's announcement, Johnny Evers, general manager of the Albany club, said that the Albany club would appeal the case.

"We are going as far as we possibly can go," said Evers when he received the committee's decision. "There is not anything in that decision that is fair."

Evers said, however, he did not question the sincerity of the committee.

The committee gave this decision: "While we are in sympathy with a program which gives to parolees an opportunity to rehabilitate themselves in society, we are of the opinion that the interests of the man himself can best be served by offering that opportunity in some field where his activities will not be constantly subjected to public scrutiny and comment as they would be in baseball."

In our opinion, is particularly true where the circumstances of the case are such as to give the appearance that the offer of employment in a greatly publicized field is prompted more by a desire of the employer to capitalize on the name of a paroled convict and the publicity attendant thereto than it is to give an opportunity to capitalize his talents."

As soon as Evers read the opinion he blew up.

"I greatly resent the insinuation that the Albany baseball club or myself ever had any intention of capitalizing on the prison record of this boy. There is not anything in that decision that is fair," he said.

As Evers spoke, Pitts himself stood aside, shifting from one foot to the other, and looking as if he had lost his last friend. Somebody nearby nudged him, and patted him on the back with a whispered bit of advice to "buck up."

LOWDEN ASKS GOP TO 'SAVE CONSTITUTION'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 10 (AP)—A shouting, singing crowd of Prairie state republicans launched the middle-west's pocket national convention—the "grass roots" conference—today to the battle cry of "preserve the constitution."

Gathered in the Illinois state fair auditorium, republicans from 10 states heard Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois and unsuccessful candidate for the republican presidential nomination in 1920 and 1928, and Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa national committee man, level opening shots at the Roosevelt administration.

Officials of the conference said there were 6,000 in the auditorium when the gavel fell.

Both Lowden and Spangler told the assemblage that the issue for 1936 is "the preservation of the constitution" and "liberty against autocracy."

Spangler, speaking at a rostrum above an illuminated portrait of Abraham Lincoln, drew a noisy demonstration which stopped his address when he said:

"The issue today is the philosophies of Lincoln against those of Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Lowden declared the "essential forms of our government are challenged in high places."

For agriculture, he proposed out-and-out government benefits to correspond with industry's advantages from the protective tariff. His former manuscript to take this stand.

"We call upon all Americans to join us in an effort to defend and re-establish American social, economic and political institutions," he said.

"The people have a right to a party which will express the beliefs of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln."

J. E. McCathern, Paul Jones, and Ralph Baxter, other occupants of the car, were treated at Worley hospital for cuts and bruises. Occupants of the other car were not injured. Both cars were damaged.

Adam Richetti Goes To Trial

County Prosecutor W. W. Graves, Jr., said he would ask the death penalty.

Speakers were to be kept from the courtroom until after selection of a jury to try the allegedly surviving member of machine gun trio which mowed down four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, the two others, Floyd and Verne C. Miller, are dead. Floyd was killed by federal agents in Ohio. And Miller was found shot to death near Detroit.

FALL IN LOVE IS RED EDICT TO COMMUNISTS

MOSCOW, June 10 (AP)—The Russian public learned through the columns of the communist newspaper, Comsomol Pravda, today that love has come to play an important role in Bolshevik life and must, hereafter, be considered the foundation of the Soviet social structure.

The former communist theory that the family is of diminishing importance has been abandoned, as evidenced by a whole series of pronouncements and official measures in recent months intended to strengthen fireside influences.

"Never before could man love as freely, fully, and richly as now," said Comsomol Pravda in declaring that equality of sexes has been established, adding that there were no other influences but love to lead to marriage in socialist Russia.

"The financial dependence of woman on man has been abolished," the newspaper said, pointing out that there were no such things as dowries and inheritances to consider.

"Love is the whole foundation of the socialist family," said Comsomol Pravda. "Without it, that family cannot exist. Young communists must be capable of this noble feeling."

"Those who are not as selfless and parasties. We demand that public opinion persecute them and hold them up to contempt."

Everyone connected with the building industry in Pampa is urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Jennings are the parents of a daughter, born yesterday at Pampa-Jarratt hospital.

Road Body 'Blue' Over 'Situation'

AUSTIN, June 10 (AP)—Texas highway commissioners today warned county delegations requesting new roads that, advance information of regulations on federal expenditures jeopardized new construction projects.

"It looks like we may be limited to 'pick and shovel' jobs," said Commissioner D. K. Martin of San Antonio. He explained the commission had a telegram from a federal district engineer stating projects could be prepared by states for use of 90 per cent labor on relief rolls.

The telegram also said projects would be "measured on a rate of $1,400 total expenditure for labor, materials and incidentals per man per year," and would be selected "where relief labor may be used."

It added that the necessity for a "high percentage direct labor suggests first stage construction from relief funds to be followed by surplus as regular federal aid projects."

Martin said a requirement that 25 per cent of the allocation should be spent for secondary projects located off state or federal systems also would jeopardize prospects for completion of main routes.

"It is startling to us," said Chairman Harry Hines of Wichita Falls, "with all the gaps that ought to be filled in." He told a Jefferson county delegation "our hands are tied today," and that "instead of hearing delegations the commission should be preparing for hearings in Washington."

"We must devote ourselves to getting the money without strings," he said. The commission and Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, will go to Washington Saturday in quest of a liberal interpretation of regulations on use of federal funds and of additional grants.

Observing the federal "situation looks bad," Hines said it appeared as if "we can't do much construction except some grading and drainage" which would use a large quantity of relief labor.

The commission gave no assurance to any delegation that requested construction later would be ordered. Under a new policy, the commission deferred to an executive session all requests.

LASKA PLEADS FOR LIFE IN SOONER TRIAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 10 (AP)—A heated clash between Ben B. Laska, Denver attorney, and U. S. District Attorney W. C. Lewis today injected drama into an otherwise dull selection of a jury to try the volatile Laska and a 30-year-old Oklahoma City attorney as conspirators in the $200,000 Charles F. Urschel kidnaping.

"Did you ever engage an attorney?" Laska asked a member of the tentative panel.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Do you believe a man who is accused of a crime has a right to employ an attorney?"

"Yes."

"When you employed an attorney did he ask you if the money was obtained by stealing?"

"Your honor, I object to this line of questioning," Lewis shouted, leading to his feet.

Judge Edgar S. Vaughn, in sustaining Lewis' objection, declared: "There's only one fact at issue in this case and that's whether or not Laska accepted a part of the ransom fund as a fee knowing it to be a part of that fund."

Waving his arms, Laska turned to the bench and in a voice husky with emotion, he pleaded:

"It's my life I'm fighting for, Judge. I want to make sure of a fair trial."

"You'll get one," Judge Vaughn returned.

"I know that, Judge, but I'm still pleading for my life," Laska said, his voice trembling.

The court room was tense as Judge Vaughn declared:

"The jury will be instructed that an attorney has the right to be employed and that he does not have to ask a client where he gets the money for his fee."

"I repeat, the only question is whether an attorney accepts money and knows it is part of a ransom fund."

Laska, standing on his tiptoes and spreading his arms dramatically much like an actor in a "heavy" play, declared:

"Owing to the nature of the case in which I am charged with being such a bad man, a kidnaper—"

The statement was apparently part of new question Laska was intending to direct at the jury but in the middle of it Lewis leaped to his feet, his face flushed, and pleaded to the judge:

"If Mr. Laska wants to make a speech and your honor wants to hear it, I suggest that the jury be excused."

The court will take over the questioning of the jurors itself if you two gentlemen can't do it in the proper manner," Judge Vaughn admonished.

ATTORNEYS CLASH AND JUDGE RULES FOR GOVERNMENT

Midwestern republicans launched a drive today to recapture ten prairie states, with one fifth of the country's population for the G. O. P. in 1936. Frank Lowden, above, 74-year-old "elder statesman" of the party, came out of retirement to sound the battle cry "save the constitution"—before delegates bent on reviving republicanism at one of its shrines, the old home of Abraham Lincoln.

ENGINE CAUSES BATTLE, WRECKS TWO BUILDINGS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—"Old 34," veteran dockyard locomotive, had its fling today. It wrecked two buildings and caused a fist fight and two arrests.

Engineer Louis McClure, stepping into a lunchroom for a cup of coffee, left old 34 parked on Pioneer street. Two jovial fellows who later identified themselves as James Gallo, 21, and Anthony Pardine, 37, came along.

"Come see Brooklyn with me," Pardine said Gallo told him.

Mounting to the cab they opened the throttle on the 75-ton iron horse. McClure, abandoning his coffee, started pursuit, jumped to his cab and a three-cornered fist fight began as the locomotive continued towards the waters of the Atlantic basin three blocks ahead.

"Old 34" then went wild, jumped the tracks and plowed straight thru a one-story building as the battle royal went on in the cab.

Emerging from the brick building, old 34 shoved through a frame building, causing a bad case of stitches for two vagrants sleeping there.

"Old 34," with the frame building still draped around its boiler, was brought to a stop just 20 feet from the water.

Gallo and Pardine were held on a charge of malicious mischief.

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP) J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, said today his agents had ascertained that George Weyerhaeuser Jr., nine-year-old kidnaped, Tacoma, Washington, youth, had been hidden at 1609 West Eleventh Street in Spokane, Washington.

"We have just definitely located the hideout where the Weyerhaeuser boy was held" Hoover told newsmen, after a telephone communication with his agents at Spokane.

The hideout contained a cupboard in which Hoover said, "the little boy was kept." It was in a house.

This was announced after federal agents had captured two persons—Harmon M. Waley, Washington state convict, and his brother, William Mahan, and sought a third, William Mahan.

Hoover described the hideout angle as "important to the investigation."

He also revealed that Mr. and Mrs. Waley, whose arrest and conviction at Salt Lake City, Utah, was announced last night, were being grilled continually by the "G-men" in an effort to clear up all details in the case.

A warning was issued that anyone giving assistance to Mahan would be prosecuted "under the harboring statute." He escaped police at Butte, Mont., Sunday morning, abandoning his car containing in excess of $15,000 of the ransom money Hoover said.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 10 (AP)—Announcement that the death penalty would be demanded for the kidnapers of George Weyerhaeuser was made today as "G" men and local authorities pushed the West's greatest manhunt for William Mahan, named as a principal in the abduction, and made preparations to return to Tacoma two alleged confessed members of the gang captured here.

Officers of the Salt Lake City police department who declined to be quoted in view of the secrecy ordered by the department of justice said federal agents planned to arraign Harmon M. Waley, 24-year-old convict, and his 19-year-old wife, here today and leave with the prisoners by plane for the northwest immediately.

Department of justice men said Waley and his wife, taken into custody after the woman attempted to pass a five-dollar bill identified as part of the $200,000 ransom, were released of the 9-year-old Weyerhaeuser ransom fortune heir, had confessed their part in the kidnaping and implicated Mahan, former Idaho and Montana convict.

The Hunt for Mahan centered at Butte, Mont., where he fled yesterday after deserting a motor car in which police said they found $15,155 of the ransom money.

"The law says death and it is death we will demand," Prosecuting Attorney Harry H. Johnson of Pierce county declared today at Tacoma.

Johnson said the trial probably would be held in Tacoma in September and he declared there would be no compromise on lesser sentence in exchange for guilty pleas.

"G" men under the direction of J. Edgar Hoover, in charge of the case at Washington, expressed confidence Mahan would not elude them long.

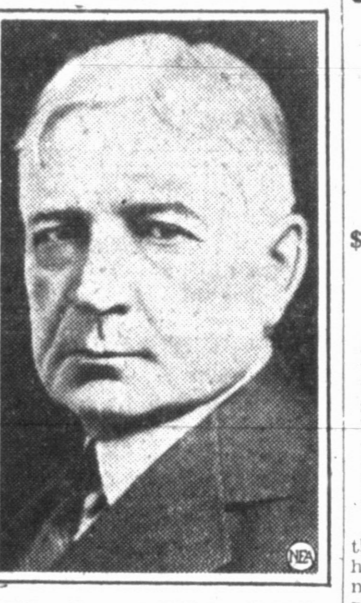

Hoover declined information as to whether the trio were the only ones involved.

Despite reports of police officers regarding the Waley confession, it became known today that a search for other possible members of the "mob" was continuing throughout the West.

WE HONOR THE FINEST IN MEN AND MACHINES

In the last decade New York City has held two of those hysterical, ear-shattering receptions which set a high-water mark for the outburst of popular enthusiasm.

One was to celebrate the return of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh after his great flight to Paris.

The other, held just the other day, marked the arrival in New York harbor of the French ocean liner Normandie.

By contrasting the two events which were able to summon forth this melange of screaming whistles, swirling storms of ticker tape and cheering of massed thousands of people, you can get a pretty fair line on the kind of things which really touch off our enthusiasm these days.

In its greeting to the Normandie New York was paying homage that we all feel to a great mechanical triumph.

This is an age of machinery, as some thousands of solemn commentators (including this one) have frequently remarked. It is a machine age, that is, not merely because it has a great many intricate and ingenious machines, but because it lives through them and by them. New York itself, for instance, could not survive a fortnight if it had to return to the horse and buggy age.

So it is only natural that the Normandie's arrival should provoke a storm of cheers and a deep intensity of interest. A great ship of this kind sums up the mechanical age as well as any contrivance ever built. In the mere details of its construction there is a series of near-miracles; and the final fitting touch is supplied by the fact that for all its size and perfection of detail, the big ship probably will never pay.

So much for the Normandie. Now for the other demonstration—the one held some eight years ago in honor of Col. Lindbergh.

That, too, was part of our mechanical age, inasmuch as the airplane itself is one of the most characteristic bits of machinery of this generation. But the celebration honored the man, not the machine. It was a people's instinctive tribute to a demonstration of man's power to confront danger, hardship and fear, single-handed, without faltering.

And when you contrast that feat with the one represented by the liner Normandie you can draw a little moral for yourself.

Two things are able to touch off our enthusiasm these days; fine machines—and fine men. Everything considered, we seem to be able to produce about as many of one as of the other. And we have the saving grace to realize that the machines are the less important of the two.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — President Roosevelt didn't have enough faith in NRA to fight for it in the face of considerable opposition of long standing, a stunning U. S. Supreme Court decision, and public apathy.

His decision to abandon NRA and forsake the old code plan for a new skeletonized program was a decision not to make NRA symbolic of the whole New Deal and stake the fate of his administration on the least popular of the New Deal agencies.

In all probability, the president will yet go to bat on the supreme court issue. But he listened to a large group of advisers who told him he needed a sturdier steed to ride to that war than the critter reared by Gen. Hugh Johnson and Donald Richberg.

There were many who urged him to "go out and fight." Richberg and Johnson pleaded with him to ask Congress for a new recovery act which would give the narrowest possible construction to the court's dicta on interstate commerce powers in the Schechter decision.

That would have meant a new network of codes, omitting only such obviously local enterprises as cleaning and dyeing shops, restaurants, retail stores, slaughter houses and barber shops.

It would have left the great bulk of business under NRA.

Legally and technically, there could be little valid objection, once the new act was revamped to meet the court's opinion as to delegations of power.

The decision leaves many doors ajar. The New Deal had every right to take such a course and bring up a test case under the new law to try to find out just when the court felt interstate commerce had a "direct" effect on interstate commerce as distinguished from "indirect" effect, which, under the Schechter decision, provides no ground for federal regulation.

So few understood the limits of the decision, however, that any such course surely would have been popularly regarded as open defiance of the court.

Nevertheless, the night before the press conference at which Roosevelt disclosed his intention, Richberg, Johnson, and General Counsel Blackwell Smith of NRA were all sure that Roosevelt would revive the code structure for most of industry.

The group of advisers whose viewpoint Roosevelt finally accepted was headed by Prof. Felix Frankfurter, close friend of Justice Brandeis and of many prominent young New Deal lawyers. The essence of their plea may be paraphrased as follows:

"Junk the whole works and build up substitutes that can be enforced and will achieve the objectives originally sought by NRA.

"The only way labor standards can be enforced is by the labor movement itself, which can be strengthened through the Wagner bill.

"The supreme court decision leaves plenty of room for regulation of industry. But it would be foolish to jump into another far-reaching experiment without first taking a breathing spell, assaying the situation, and determining need and extent of public demand for it.

"To stake everything on NRA now is to imperil most of the rest of the New Deal, for which you can make a much stronger and more popular case."

The radio priest should know that Soldier Field cannot be used as a forum for the debating of any controversial subjects—except, possibly, the one: "Who's de champ?"

Now that business men are acting in partnership to preserve certain NRA principles, let's hope none of them

DENY REPORT

ADDIS ABABA, June 10 (AP)—The Ethiopian government denied today a report published in an Italian newspaper that some 2,000 wild Danakil tribesmen had attempted to wreck the train in which Emperor Haile Selassie was traveling near Aden. The report, carried by the Milan newspaper, Corriere Della Sera, said the tribesmen finally were driven off by machine-gun fire.

Il Duce Orders Newspapers To Lay Off Britain

ROME, June 10 (AP)—Premier Mussolini ordered Italian newspapers today to moderate the bitterness of their attacks on Great Britain in connection with Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

Although he did not command the press to suspend its anti-British comment entirely, the premier, acting through his son-in-law, Count Ciano, undersecretary of state for press and propaganda, enjoined publications to keep the tone of their campaign within certain limitations.

The torrent of denunciation of Great Britain's attitude toward the East African crisis culminated in a front page editorial in the super-fact daily, Ostebre, in which the British were warned that if they wanted war, they might have it.

The British embassy has been in frequent contact with the government and has informally expressed its surprise at the repeated attacks. The British also are known to have contested the accuracy of the statements on which the comment was based.

(The U. S. Coast Guard sailed last night from Naples with 600 additional troops assigned to East African service and 50 aeronautical engineers who are to make surveys in Eritrea preparatory to establishing an air line between Italy and her East African colonies.)

Agents Abandon Hope For Couples

EL PASO, June 10. (AP)—Department of justice agents today abandoned hope for the safety of the two Illinois couples missing since May 21.

Officers said they had settled down to a methodical search for the missing tourists—Mr. and Mrs. George M. Lorus of East St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer of Duquoin—and to continue their efforts to track down a man who left a trail of forged travelers' checks from El Paso to Dallas.

The tourists were last seen in Albuquerque, N. M., and the forged checks led officers to believe the two couples had been slain and robbed, possibly in the desert regions of West Texas or New Mexico.

Pampans Pelt Phillips 66 In 15 to 4 Tilt At Borger

Road Runners Get 20 Hits Off 3 Pitchers

Getting back their hitting eye, the Pampa Road Runners yesterday afternoon peppered every section of Phillips diamond with base hits to take a 15 to 4 game from the Phillips 66 Oilers in Borger.

Behind the 10-hit pitching of Bill Hardin, the Road Runners gathered 20 hits to make up for a couple of four-hit performances. The Pampa guns were trained on Mulrooney at the opening of the game. He gave way to Richardson, but he received the same treatment as his mate and retired in favor of Savage, who finished the game.

Dallas Patton led the Road Runners attack with five hits out of six trips to the plate. He hit a home run in the first inning with two men on board. Then followed four singles. Hank Horton contributed a home run inside the park and two singles. Sam Sealing also hit for the circuit. Grover Seitz landed on two for doubles. McLaughlin, playing first base, got a double and single. Al Summers, Freddy Brickell and Vic George collected two singles each, and Summers got two walks.

The Road Runners presented George at shortstop for the first time and he showed up well, despite the fact that he had driven nearly all night to reach Pampa in time to play the game. Besides handling himself well in the field, George got on base five times out of his six trips to the plate. He walked once, was hit once, got two singles, and was safe on a fielders choice.

Cowboy Frances did the big stick work for Phillips with a double and two singles. Bates connected for a pair of doubles and Johnson hit for two bases. The Phillips hits were well scattered, excepting in the seventh when a double and a couple of singles accounted for two runs.

The Road Runners played great baseball. They showed more life than in previous games and the fans who saw the game, left Phillips park with a grin on their faces and joy in their hearts.

The Huber Carbon Blackfaces of Borger will be here tonight for a game. Tiger Joe Berry will take the mound for the road Runners with Lefty Blair scheduled for mound duty for the Blackfaces.

Huber has strengthened considerably and the Pampa nine is expecting stiff opposition. The birds will be out for blood, getting ready for a trip to Elgin, Okla., this week. A few fans tossed lemons at Dean when he came to bat in the first time yesterday but that bothered him not at all as he banged out three hits, running second in the day's clouting only to Gelbert and Jack Rothrock.

The Cards needed the victory to hold their place in the pennant struggle, as the third-place Pirates hammered out a 7 to 4 triumph behind Cy Blanton, who pitched 5-hit ball for his ninth victory and was troubled only by Ernie Lombard's pair of homers.

The league-leading Giants took a close one from Boston's tall center fielder, as the third-place Pirates hammered out a 7 to 4 triumph behind Cy Blanton, who pitched 5-hit ball for his ninth victory and was troubled only by Ernie Lombard's pair of homers.

DEAN-MEDWICK FLARE-UP HAS GOOD EFFECT

CARDINALS HAVE WON THREE STRAIGHT VICTORIES

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer.

The great Cardinal battle between Dizzy Dean and Joe (Ducky Wuckey) Medwick, instead of leading to discord and defeat in the St. Louis club, apparently has been having a good effect.

Judging by results since the flare-up at Pittsburgh last week, Dizzy and Joe are out to "show" each other on the ball field. Their work plus a strategic shakeup by Manager Frankie Frisch has brought the Cards three straight victories over the challenging Cubs, enabling them to hold second place safe from Pittsburgh's threats.

Since the "scrap," Medwick has driven out seven hits in 17 times up while Diz, after doing some relief work Wednesday, pitched a neat 6-hit game yesterday while the Cards hammered out a 13 to 2 decision over Chicago.

Some of the added punch which enabled the Cardinals to score in every inning and collect 21 hits came from the Saturday shake-up which shifted Pepper Martin to center field, where he promptly ceased his hitting, put Burgess Whitehead at third and Frisch at second. It returned Charley Gelbert to the regular short stop berth for the first time in two years.

A few fans tossed lemons at Dean when he came to bat in the first time yesterday but that bothered him not at all as he banged out three hits, running second in the day's clouting only to Gelbert and Jack Rothrock.

Grant And Bell Are Favorites

LARGE SCORES FEATURE TILTS IN TWO I LOOP

ALL PUTOUTS HANDLED BY TWO PLAYERS AT LAKETON

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 10. (AP)—Bryan M. (Bisby) Grant of Atlanta, ranking southern net star, and Berkeley Bell of New York, chief contender for the crown held by the diminutive Georgian for the last two years, were co-favorites today in the golden jubilee tournament of the Southern Lawn Tennis association.

Along with Bell he was favored with a bye in the initial round. The opening round was featured by tilts involving Martin Busby of Austin, Texas, seeded No. 6, and Hal Surface of Kansas City, No. 8. Busby faced Frank Pitman of Nashville, and Surface engaged Robert Alexander, Jr., also of Nashville.

Bell will appear Tuesday against the winner of the Hernandez-Morrell-Carl Smalley match. Grant will oppose the victor of an all-Nashville match, Pollard Persons vs. James Bass.

Large scores featured games in the newly organized Two I league yesterday afternoon. A strong wind handicapped some of the teams that have not been playing long enough to get used to conditions in this country.

The Pampa-Busby Indians won a double-header yesterday afternoon at Harvester diamond when they defeated Hoover 2 to 8 in a scheduled game and then took the Pampa Advertisers 17 to 11 in an exhibition tussle.

Barham went the route for the Indians against Hoover. Feltner was on the mound against the Advertisers. Glen Moore caught both games. "Fuzzy" Feltner was the hitting sensation of the day when he hit safely on his first nine trips to the plate. Feltner connected for six hits in the first game and three in the second.

Silvers, Bowden, and Talley divided mound duty for the Advertisers, with Lefty Harvey receiving. Cole and Hoover performed on the mound for Hoover, with Dick Benton receiving.

Shell Swamps Blackfaces. The Shell team won a 20 to 7 victory over the Texas Elf Carbon nine. Keeling pitched the first 8 innings for Shell with Larry Trigg on the mound the last inning. Oiler did the receiving. Trenary, here from Texas Tech where he played great ball, hit a home run in the fourth inning.

Troy and Theson did mound work for the last. The last Amarillo run came in the ninth when Shinski dropped McMahon's fly and Gaitner tripped. Chamberlain and Polgovt each got two hits to lead the Coltexpo attack. Pitcher Smith watched Nell closely and he was credited with only two trips to the plate. One of them proved disastrous, when he doubled for his only hit of the game.

Braddock Must Survive First Savage Rounds

NEW YORK, June 10. (AP)—With depression's challenger, big Jim Braddock, back in town after two rough months in the Catskills, and Champion Max Baer finished with his heavy chores at Asbury Park, N. J., the annual hullabaloo of a world's heavyweight championship prize fight was right back in father Knickerbocker's lap today.

Until Thursday night, when Baer defends his title in a 16-round duel in Madison Square Garden's giant bowl on Long Island, the warriors step aside somewhat as active individuals, giving the experts the field for their predictions, and the customers the best fight of all—for reasonably good tickets.

The chances are that some 35,000 will gather in the bowl, with the receipts around $250,000.

"I'm in the best shape of my life," Braddock said. "I'm ready for 45 minutes of bruising fighting and Baer had better be ready too. I only hope Max takes a little time out from fighting to do some clowning for the audience. If he does I'll just him plumb out of the ring."

It is generally agreed that if Braddock survives Baer's first savage onslaught—the hurricane attack that maimed both Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera for the night in the opening rounds—his methodical jabbing and right hand sharp

Revival Starts at Central Church of Christ Yesterday

OTHER CHURCHES ARE WELL ATTENDED SUNDAY

Revival services that began at Central Church of Christ yesterday will continue through the week, with sermons by R. E. Price of Childers. Four additions to membership were reported at the Sunday evening service.

A baptismal service is announced for this evening at the close of the 10:30 hour. Morning meetings begin at 10 o'clock daily. Sermons in the evening will deal with The Bible church, while morning lessons will be concerned with Christian living.

The evangelist has conducted revivals here in the past. He announced that his sermons will offer no book but the Bible, no creed but the Christ, no name but the divine, no plea but the gospel.

Other churches of the city heard sermons by regular ministers yesterday, and reported good summer attendance. The Rev. L. Burney of the Presbyterian church continued a series of evening sermons based on the sermon on the Mount, and at First Methodist church the Rev. Gaston Foote gave the second in a series on The Whole of Family. His topic was Lot in City Politics.

Five additions to membership were reported at First Baptist church, two each at Francis Avenue Church of Christ and First Methodist, and one at First Christian.

Sunday school attendance was as follows: First Christian, 356; Francis Avenue church, 175; First Methodist, 477; McChoughlin Methodist, 0; Harrah chapel, 97; First Baptist, 71.

The outing Friday evening will be a weiner roast. Members and guests will meet at the church at 6:30, and go in a body to the picnic ground.

Other class business was discussed in the session yesterday.

Vacation Bible Schools Are Under Way in 3 Churches

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer
The most successful kitchen shower for a bride that I ever heard of was preceded by a merger of finances, and the purchase of an electrical combination toaster, griddle and waffle maker, which this bride particularly wanted.

Naturally the refreshments for the shower are of utmost importance to the hostess. She wants something to reflect the spirit of the occasion—not elaborate nor fussy but delicious.

If you want to carry out a pink and white idea, why not have tiny cup cakes with strawberry icing and vanilla ice cream? Make the cup cakes tiny, a mouthful each one.

Here is your ice cream made either by freezer or automatic refrigerator method.
Freezer Method
One and one-third cups sweetened condensed milk, 2 cups thin cream, 1 cup cold water, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 1/2 cup grains salt.

Thoroughly blend all the ingredients before turning into dasher freezer. Turn until frozen. Remove dasher, repack in six parts ice to one part ice cream salt and let stand one hour at least before serving.

Vanilla Ice Cream
Automatic Refrigerator Method
Two-thirds cup sweetened condensed milk, 1-2 cup water, 1-2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 cup whipping cream, few grains salt.

Blend milk, water and vanilla. Chill. Add salt to whipping cream and whip until firm. Fold into first mixture and turn into freezing tray. Freeze in automatic refrigerator until a mush. Remove from refrigerator and scrape from bottom and sides of pan and beat until smooth. Even off top and replace in freezing unit until frozen for serving.

Tiny Cup Cakes
Two eggs, 2-3 cup sweetened condensed milk, 3-4 cup flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon almond extract, few grains salt.

Beat egg yolks with a Dover beater until thick and lemon colored. Add milk and continue beating until thoroughly blended. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again.

CLASSES START TODAY AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Another vacation Bible school started this morning, while two others began the second week of busy terms. Enrollment started yesterday for the new school at First Christian church. First Baptist and First Methodist churches both invited other boys and girls to join classes already started.

At First Christian church, classes will meet from 9 to 11:30 each morning. The school is organized in three departments with John S. Mullen, minister, as general director.

Mrs. W. G. Kinser is superintendent of juniors, with Misses J. I. Lester, C. A. Clark, W. E. Nobilit, and J. B. Townsend as her assistants.

Mrs. Floyd Coffin, primary superintendent, has Miss Maudine Woodworth and Mrs. Burt Graham as helpers. Mrs. Mullen heads the beginners department, with Mrs. C. W. Stowell, Misses Hazel Bath and Marilyn McClements as assistants.

The other two schools have been in progress the past week, and are now preparing to close with public exhibitions of handwork and programs next Sunday.

Average attendance at First Baptist church has been 128, and a total of 173 are enrolled.

Dress and Sun-Suit Panties

Cunning — Practical Little Rig for Small Girl for Playtime

Plaits provide sufficient interest for the dress with brief French bodice.

Suspender straps seem to be a very modish way of harnessing the sun-suit panties of self-material that match the dress.

For the warm part of the day, the dress is discarded. It's easily slipped into again when cool breezes blow.

Cotton crepe print (that needs no ironing) in blue and white with blue binds is fetching as sketched.

Red and white checked gingham, yellow pique, pink and white candy striped percale, etc., are other cute schemes.

Style No. 698 is designed for sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1 1/4 yards of 35-inch material for sleeveless dress and 3/4 yard of 35-inch material for sun-suit.

OLD QUILTS TO BE SEEN WITH NEW AT SHOW

County Exhibit To Be at McLean on July 9-10

Old-time patchwork quilts and their modern counterparts will be an important part of the county quilt and linen show sponsored by home demonstration clubs at McLean on July 9 and 10.

Club women recognize the ever-increasing interest in making patchwork quilts. The modern method of making these quilts, of new and attractive material, makes them artistic and practical, in harmony with decoration of the modern bedroom.

Old quilts were often three yards square, with borders on two sides or on one side and one end, club women have found as they prepared for the show. In log-cabin days there was no room for a bed except to be pushed into a corner, so borders all around were not necessary. Being made to cover feather beds and sometimes a trundle-bed, the quilt had to be larger. Two by two-and-a-half yards is large enough for the ordinary bed today.

In cutting blocks for either pieced or appliqued quilts, club women have found it best to transfer the pattern to cardboard, lay the cardboard pattern on the material and trace around it. The pieces will be more uniform than if they are cut around a paper pattern, as there is a tendency to shave the edges and by the time all pieces are cut, they sometimes vary in size.

The quilt and linen show will be open to all women in the county. Entries are invited, and may be made by calling Miss Ruby Adams, county home demonstration agent, at her office at the courthouse; Mrs. Ira Spearman, or Mrs. Glyde King at Groom.

Cash prizes of $2, $1.50, and $1 are offered in each of the following divisions: pieced quilts, appliqued quilts, crocheted bedspreads, oldest quilts.

Entries will be judged by Mrs. Bernice Claylor, state specialist in home improvement, and Miss Ruby Mashburn, district home demonstration agent.

Home demonstration club women are planning a picnic lunch for the first day of the show. A large number of visitors are expected in McLean both days.

CHAPTER XIV

KATHARINE said miserably, "I don't know what to do."

The enormity of her offense in helping Zoe make a rendezvous now struck her with full force. But she couldn't tattle, even if she had unwillingly overheard Zoe's plot to elope with Gibbs Larkin. There's just nothing we can do, I suppose," she said to Dr. John Kaye. "But I feel—oh, terrible about it all!"

"Bad business," he commented quietly.

"You think so, too, Johnny?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "I've known Larkin for quite a while."

"He's such a rotter," Katharine burst out angrily. "And Zoe's honestly the sweetest thing."

"But she's grown up," the man reminded her. "I really don't see how you can interfere. You didn't eavesdrop intentionally."

"Oh, of course not," Katharine flamed in some indignation.

"What we might do," pursued John Kaye quietly, "is to find them and stick to them like limpets all evening, not let them out of our sight. And perhaps balk it this time anyhow."

"John, you're marvelous."

"But would it do any good?" demanded the man. "Wouldn't she dash off at the very first chance and marry him?"

Katharine shook her head despairingly. "I suppose so."

"Well to ease your conscience, I'll see what I can do to help you tonight, at least," said Dr. Kaye gently.

"John, you're an angel! I'll dash in and dress now and see if I can catch Zoe. Maybe I can talk some sense into her."

"Don't do that," the man warned. "That would be fatal."

Katharine blew him a kiss as she ran toward the house. How understanding he was! There was something she told herself, awfully sweet about John. She was glad he knew about the other night. She had hated letting him go away, thinking she was conducting a flirtation of which she was ashamed.

The sun was slipping slowly down toward the brassy horizon when she came out again. She was in white, a favorite last year frock of white silk, cleverly and simply cut. Her hair shone like a gilded cascade. She was smiling with satisfaction as she saw that the telephone had sounded exceedingly gay, had consented to come over for an aperitif before dinner.

Katharine had rather admired her own nonchalance, asking Zoe. In the face of her own guilty knowledge of Zoe's plans, she had tried to steady her voice, a trifle and strive for casualness.

"John Kaye's here. Won't you drop in for a minute for some sherry? Even John thinks a debutante may have sherry and live."

"Oh, darling, I'd love to," Zoe voice, utterly care-free, had trilled.

"And how about staying on for dinner?" Katharine had pursued.

"We could pick up someone at the Club and go somewhere to dance. Zoe sounded regretful. "Darling, I can't. Have a musical comedy set."

"Well then, come over early anyhow."

"I'll be there before 7," Zoe promised.

It was 6:30. Katharine felt the tangling of nervousness in her finger ends, as soon as dinner was over, she would rush off to keep that "date" of her, perhaps the most portentous one she had ever made in all her life.

Of course Zoe didn't know what Gibbs really was. She wouldn't believe it if anyone told her. For all her appearance and pretense of sophistication, Zoe was pretty much of a child.

There was that night club girl he'd been mixed up with in New York, last year, for instance. There had been the most unsavory stories. Some people actually said the girl had supported him. The girl lived on the fringe of the half-world; people who made their livings by their wits and who were, sometimes, struck at in the dark—"rubbed out," as the gangsters said. No, Gibbs was definitely solid. Zoe was not his kind.

Katharine strolled up and down sniffing the garden's scents, wishing John would come down so that she could talk to him before Zoe arrived.

Bertine swept out, significant with her clipped silver hair and printed frock, and proved to be in better humor than she had been for days. Katharine was abstracted and polite to her. Tonight she had really no time to think of her stepmother's sagacity.

When Bertine went down to look at the foxgloves, her special pride, John Kaye appeared on the veranda. He looked cool and meticulously groomed in his dinner clothes.

"She's coming over directly," Katharine whispered, with the air of a conspirator.

"Good."

"What shall we do?" She looked furtively over her shoulder, to see if Bertine were returning. Bertine resented any conversation which did not include her.

John smiled. There was a flash of yellow at the garden gate, and the sound of Zoe's light laughter. "Leave it," said John Kaye, "to me."

Ellen came out with the decanter and a tray of glasses. The little group in the deep wicker chairs was very gay. Bertine joined them and presently Victor Stryker burst very imposing in blue coat and white flannels, came out.

"You're sure you can't stay for dinner, Zoe? Too bad," purred Bertine hospitably. "Ellen can easily lay another place."

Zoe dimpled. "No, I can't."

"Your mother and father are at the Willises tonight, aren't they?"

"I think that's what Mummy said. Bridge afterward. How could anyone," cried Zoe, "consider bridge on such a night as this!"

He seemed so calm, so gay and charmingly resting lightly on the brink of danger; not to be able to stretch out one's hand to help her.

Katharine looked at Dr. Kaye despairingly. Was he going to fall for her? He seemed so calm.

"Is dinner imminent, Bertine?" he asked lightly.

"Not terribly. Seven-thirty. Why?"

"I had a fancy to take a little run in the car. Will you drive me, Katharine? We'll take Zoe along."

Zoe glanced consciously at the tiny diamond-studded wrist watch she wore. "I have to be back by 8."

"Good. We'll just have time, then."

Katharine, her head whirling, brought the car around. John Kaye helped Zoe in, climbed in after her.

"Where to?" Katharine asked. She had to steady her knees, they were trembling so. What was his plan?

"Would you mind running past that new night club that's been imported from the city?" Dr. Kaye asked smoothly.

"Oh, I've heard it's a slick place," Zoe cried. "It's just opened last month. No one has taken me there."

"I have a card for it," Dr. Kaye said lightly. "One of my patients thrust it on me. Want to go in?"

Zoe looked doubtful. "Would it take very long? I really have to be back."

"Don't worry," the man soothed. "I only want to see what the inside of the place looks like. This fellow who gave me the card roused my curiosity."

Katharine gave him a sidewise glance. His face was impassive. There was no telling what went on behind that polite mask.

She turned in at the imposing pillars marking the entrance to the Blug Sky Bath Club. A man in uniform ran out and Dr. Kaye produced a card which evidently satisfied him as to their credentials.

"Ooh, what a slick pool!" Zoe cried. The long rectangle of aquamarine tile was lined with little tables, with gay lanterns and striped awnings.

"It's like a musical comedy set," Katharine said.

There was an exotic flowering of characters in this musical comedy set: woman glittering with jewels; hard, bright eyes set in enameled faces. Men with jowls, with perfectly manicured, cruel hands; playboys who lisped elegantly.

"Something decadent about it," whispered Katharine to her escort. Zoe, powdering her nose, did not see the sudden, significant glance she shot at her as two people sauntered toward them.

The man was Gibbs Larkin. He was talking absently with the stunning woman at his side. He had not seen Zoe.

Fine Piece Of Work, Declares George's Father

TACOMA, Wash., June 10. (AP)—Jubilant at the capture of two of his son's alleged kidnapers in Salt Lake City, John Philip Weyerhaeuser complimented authorities today for a "damned fine piece of work."

In marked contrast to the long nights two weeks ago when nine-year-old George was held for $200,000 ransom, the entire family retired peacefully by 10 o'clock last night.

As he heard the story of the capture and purported confession of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Wasley of Puyallup, Wash., Mr. Weyerhaeuser commented "fine" and "great" and "that's good news."

He said "good!" when he learned $15,175 of the ransom money had been recovered in Butte, Mont., from a motor car abandoned by William Mahan, a much-sought suspect.

The young and wealthy member of the St. Paul and Tacoma Lumber dynasty declined to make formal comment or permit any of his family to express an opinion on the capture and the announced confession that involved Mahan.

Little George obeyed department of justice agents' admonitions that he talk to no one about the kidnaping.

CABOT OFFERS $10,000 PRIZE TO ELIMINATE FOG FLYING HAZARDS

A $10,000 cash prize for the perfection of a device which will eliminate the air hazards of flying in fog was announced today by the National Aeronautic Association.

Godfrey Cabot of Boston, Mass., vice-president of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, is the donor of the prize and he has stipulated that all designs entered in the competition must be submitted to the N. A. A. The personal of the committee which is to select the winning design will be announced within a few days.

Regulations for the competition specify that the solution must be one which will enable an airplane pilot, independent of any radio station on the ground and independent of any assistance from ground personnel or equipment, to land his plane safely through 100 feet of fog in any part of the world, where in the absence of fog it could ordinarily be landed with safety. It is not required that human vision be enabled to penetrate through 100 feet of fog, but only that a device be created whereby an impression of the earth may be conveyed to the pilot's senses by some apparatus contained entirely within the airplane.

WHOSE WORD WILL YOU TAKE FOR BLOWOUT PROTECTION?

Low wheels, larger tires, and the high speeds of today make blowout protection in your tires vital to your safety as never before. Are you accepting exaggerated and unsupported advertising and sales claims—or are you accepting the judgment of men who risk their lives on their tires and know from experience the tire that gives them the greatest blowout protection?

Thirty-three race drivers and their mechanics lined up for the dangerous, gruelling grind of the 500-Mile Race at the Indianapolis Speedway May 30th. Firestone Tires were purchased and used on every one of the thirty-three cars.

Kelly Petillo won the race at an average speed of 106 miles per hour. Wilbur Shaw was second, flashing across the finish line just behind the winner. Both drivers broke the track record without tire trouble. In fact, not one of the thirty-three drivers had tire trouble of any kind.

For sixteen consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car. The race this year simply emphasizes again the undisputed evidence that Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the greatest stamina and blowout protection.

Gum-Dipping is one of the outstanding reasons why Firestone Tires give such amazing performance. By this process every cotton cord is soaked and every strand is insulated with pure liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat, the main cause of blowouts. Gum-Dipping is a patented extra process not used in any other make of tire.

When you consider that there were 882,000 automobile accidents in the United States last year, and of these, 43,000 were caused by blowouts, punctures, and skidding, you will more fully realize how very important it is for you to protect your life and the lives of others by equipping your car with Firestone Gum-Dipped High Speed Tires—the safest tires built.

It will be worth your time to read these three questions and their answers:

QUESTION 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

ANSWER—Leading university tests show Firestone High Speed Tires stop your car 15% quicker than the best of other popular makes of tires.

QUESTION 2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"

ANSWER—Unequaled performance records for sixteen consecutive years prove that Gum-Dipping gives you the greatest blowout protection ever known.

QUESTION 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

ANSWER—Thousands of car owners report unequaled mileage records—evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

Volume—Direct Purchasing—Straight Line Manufacturing and Efficient and Economical System of Distributing to 500 Stores and to 30,000 Dealers, enables Firestone to give greater values at lowest prices

1 Leading University tests show Firestone Tires stop your car 15 to 25% quicker.

2 Gum-Dipped cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in any other make of tire.

3 More and tougher rubber in a wider and flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear

Feared Kidnaped by Mistake

Frantle parents of chubby, brown-eyed John Kaul, Jr., 5, above, feared he was the victim of a kidnaper's mistake, as U. S. agents pressed the hunt for the lad, who vanished from a New York playground.

The parents, in only moderate circumstances, live in an exclusive section and believed John was mistaken for one of the children of wealth with whom he often played.

San Angelo Boy Is Engineer For Day On Santa Fe

SAN ANGELO, June 10. (AP)—Kenneth Dabbs, 11, frustrated in an ambition to become a locomotive engineer by injury five years ago, was engineer for a day and the envy of all his playmates here as railroad week was inaugurated. He had his hand on the throttle and the bell cord of old 77 at 8:30 on time, on the Santa Fe this morning.

Railroad officials forgot stern reality when they heard of the boy, and let him sit with the regular engineer in the cab of the incoming passenger train from Miles, 18 miles east of here.

Stepping on a needle five years ago and having a bone infection dwarfed Dabbs' foot and leg so he can never pass the physical examination required for train service. He is a son of W. W. Dabbs, retired Santa Fe engineer here.

About 300 boys were in the crowd that saw Dabbs bring the train in. His biggest thrill, he said, was in "pulling the whistle cord at crossings, and coming into town."

TEXAS IN WASHINGTON

By DONALD YOUNG WASHINGTON, June 10. (AP)—Texas members of the house had their honor, dignity and position of respect recently and they were quick to express veiled resentment.

First it was Harry Hopkins, relief administrator and one of the chiefs in the work-relief administration. Without advising the congressmen, he announced that 20 work areas had been created in Texas on a basis of unemployment and geographical locations.

One of the house members accidentally learned of the setup and wired a constituent about it. The man had read about it several days before.

The delegation sent Representatives Milton West, chairman, and Sam Rayburn and James Buchanan to see Hopkins and they reported the districts may be changed. The representatives would like to see these areas confined more to their congressional districts and would like to have something about which is going to be in charge of each.

The second "poison" to the 21 lower house members came when Hopkins' office announced casually that the government would send $2,500,000 to Texas rural school districts which had run short of funds and had borrowed on the strength of an announcement from the Texas relief administration that assistance would be forthcoming.

The notice stated that Hopkins had so decided since Senators Gurnally and Sheppard had convinced him the need did exist. On two previous days Representatives Summers, Patton and South, duly-constituted sub-committee appointed by Representative Lanham of Fort Worth, chairman of the delegation, had spent several hours arguing with Hopkins and presenting sheets of telegrams from needy school districts. The delegation thought its threesome should have had some recognition.

So, the members called a special executive session the next day to thank formally these three men. Their resolution, of course, did not mention the names of the two senators.

As all Lone Star states know, their state is divided theoretically into North Texas, East Texas, South Texas and West Texas. Some Washingtonians are not familiar with these territories and their confusion is not helped by the names of two representatives.

When one talks of Representative South of West Texas and Representative West of South Texas they begin to ask details.

Representative Richard Kleberg lost part of his campaign on behalf of the Texas cotton ginners when a bill was passed allowing them only 25 cents a bale for assisting in administering the AAA but he has not given up asserting the average bale cost is near 50 cents, he told Chairman Marvin Jones of the house agriculture committee over to the White House recently and "went to bat," as Kleberg put it, for a more just reimbursement.

Secretary Wallace also attended the conference and something may be worked out to increase the adjustment designed to inform the public that the railroads again are out to set the pace in transportation.

Originally planned by the Western Association of Railway Executives as the climax of an eight-week campaign to publicize recent advances in railroading, the observance became national in scope yesterday when it was announced eastern roads would take part.

CARELESS BUT STILL CAREFUL BUTLER, Pa. (AP)—Frank Rusniak, a persistent burglar who insists on leaving no clues behind him. The robber awakened Rusniak, who was knocked unconscious by a pistol butt in the struggle which followed. Reviving, Rusniak went to a neighbor's house for help.

Returning, he found the intruder had come back, smashed a window and retrieved his coat. Frank and the neighbor went to find police. They reached home to find the burglar had made a third trip, to pick up a pencil and some loose change he had dropped.

NEW YORK, June 10. (AP)—A last-hour rally gave the stock market a much-needed boost today after dull irregularly had prevailed most of the session. Specialties led the upturn. Many earlier declines were cancelled or replaced by moderate advances. The close was rather firm. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

NORTH CHINA

The second and 25th divisions, troops of the Chinese nationalist government which the Japanese ordered withdrawn from Hopei, also were reported to be packing their equipment for removal to the south.

As successor to the departing forces, the 32nd army commanded by General Shang Chen, began grouping into Tientsin to take up its duties as the new North China garrison.

General Shang Chen, former governor of Hopei and a former governor of Shensi province, is regarded as independent of the Nanking government of General Chiang Kai-Shek and therefore far more acceptable to the Japanese than his predecessor.

One of the general's first official acts was to visit Umezu and promise his full cooperation to the Japanese army. These latest developments were reported to the Japanese foreign office by Lt. Gen. Hashimoto, vice minister of war, who conferred today with Mamoru Shigenetsumi, vice minister for foreign affairs.

KIDNAPERS (Continued from page 1) disclosed today that Waley was the son of a foreman in one of the Weyerhaeuser lumber mills in the Pacific Northwest.

Daughter of Old Family Mrs. Waley, who was taken into custody when she allegedly attempted to pass a five-dollar bill which was identified as part of the ransom money, is the daughter of George Thulin, member of an old Salt Lake City family.

Two Salt Lake City policemen were credited with the first break in the kidnaper hunt since the release of the nine-year-old lumber heir near Tacoma a week ago Saturday morning. They were W. M. Rogers, a detective, and Patrolman L. B. Gifford.

Following the discovery here Friday night of 20 ransom bills of various denominations in the receipts of the Walker Bank and Trust company, detectives were placed in various chain stores of the city. Federal officers and the police banked on the theory that whoever was passing the bills would attempt to change them in low-priced stores.

At 11 o'clock Saturday morning a blond woman who "had on a house dress such as any housewife might wear," offered a $5 bill in payment for a small purchase. The clerk called the cash girl, who took the currency to the cashier where it was hurriedly checked and found to agree with a ransom number.

Mrs. Waley was arrested by Rogers and Gifford and taken to the federal building, where after a grilling, she was reported to have confessed to telling officers where they might find Waley. Waley was picked up at a house where the couple had been living.

OHIO COACHES

(Continued from page 1) was a star tackle on the Harvester team. "Yes, we've heard of Green—that's the boy we've heard of!" said the director. The fine coach was frankly enthusiastic.

The rural coaches quit their bridge game when the Pampans entered the car. Somehow they at first got the impression that the Pampa visitors, four of whom were over six feet, three inches, were candidates for athletic teams, and they were obviously enthusiastic.

The Pampans had entered the train to see Owens who is expected to smash the world's record in the 100-yard dash in the Pacific coast track meet. He broke three world records in one day this spring, and tied the century mark. He told the Pampans he hoped to break the record.

Owens was the only member of the party who was looking at Pampa when the local group entered. Naive curiosity was written on his intelligent face. He was standing at the door but went quickly to his seat when the Pampans entered. He came forward, smiling and with outstretched hand when the coach called his name and then introduced him to the visitors.

Owens is a small man—about five feet and 8 or 9 inches tall, and his figure is rather slight when one considers the number of track and field records he has broken. His weights not more than 150 pounds, perhaps. His manner is unusually courteous, and gentility was evident in his accent which was far superior to that of the coaches in the car.

Undoubtedly, he represents a type of negro with which the south is not familiar. His choice of words, his educated accent, his intelligent face and reserved manner, gave on the impression that he has a far above the average personality. He showed not the least hesitancy in expressing his interest in Pampa. He was modest and naively curious at the same time.

Owens and the other members of the track team worked out yesterday afternoon in Clovis. The coach said that he wanted to have the team work out here but that the short stop would not permit it.

Frog Leg Industry Now Big Business

NEW ORLEANS, June 10. (AP)—Out of the bayous and marshes of Louisiana a new and unique industry has emerged, a quarter-million dollar business devoted to the merchandising of frogs legs.

In less than five years the business has grown from a casual enterprise on the part of local fishermen to a point where one large company in New Orleans alone kills, packs and ships more than 5000 pounds of the succulent delicacy every day.

At first the spotted amphibians were secured from the low marshy lands in and around the Gulf coast. But later the supply became restricted and the breeding of frogs for food purposes began.

Largest purchasers at present are the big specialty grocery stores and department stores in New York, Chicago and other cities. The price—approximately 50 cents for 5 ounces.

The depression—frog breeders haven't heard of it. Business has increased 100 per cent in the past year; the demand is still far above the supply.
