EWING LONDON IS "HOUNDED"

Big Staff Volunteers to Defend Other Officials

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Resignation of Sheriff Ewing London of Carter county, in the face of an impending ouster action, was announced today at the office of Edwin Dabney, Oklahoma attorney-general, who had directed three investigations of London at the instance of Governor Henry S. Johnston.

In his resignation, London announced his intention of running for re-election next fall and charged that he had been "hounded" by the governor and wealthy individuals, against whom he was unable financially to defend himself.

London originally was appointed to succeed Buck Garrett, ousted sheriff who gained the national spotlight several years ago when he returned Clara Smith Hamon from Mexico to face a charge of murdering her husband's uncle, Jake Hamon, Republican national committeeman and millionaire oil man of Ardmore.

Has Stormy Career
London's career has been stormy. He was acquitted in 1926 of a number of ouster accusations brought against him by a grand jury, and returned to the office from which he had been suspended. Three investigations have been launched against him by Governor Johnston in the last year. In the most recent, an open court of inquiry was held at Ardmore, and it was testified by several witnesses that London and Nevins Kirkpatrick, sheriff of Pashmataha county, had maintained a camp with two women, not their wives, in the mountains of McCurtain county last summer. The testimony was denied by London.

Big Defense Forms
BOMAR Okla., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A battery of nine volunteer defense attorneys today was prepared to fight back vigorously against the state's prosecution of James C. Mathers and Wes Croy, county judge and county attorney, respectively, of Love county, who faced preliminary trial on a charge of appropriating $5,600 of the loot stolen from the Love County National bank at Marietta several weeks ago.

The defense staff was headed by James H. Mathers of Oklahoma City, father of Judge Mathers and for 15 years county attorney of Carter county. The elder Mathers several years ago prosecuted Clara Smith Hammons, who was acquitted of a charge of murdering her husband's uncle, Jake Hamon, millionaire Ardmore oil man and Republican national committeeman.

The preliminary trial was brought to Bomar on a charge of venue.
The state charges that Croy and Mathers, who accompanied Claude Andrews, confessed member of the bandit gang, to the spot where at least a portion of the bank loot was buried, appropriated the greater portion of the stolen $9,000 before returning a bag of money to the bank.

The defense attorneys said they would point out that Croy played a leading part in the gun fight with the bandits after the robbery, standing in an exposed place to shoot at the intruders.

Sheriff Sam C. Long was fatally wounded in the fight after he had killed Oscar Harrison, one of the robbers. For seven days, the elder Mathers said, his son and Croy hunted unsuccessfully for the outlaws, never removing their clothes during that time.

Byrd's Polar Plane Tries Its Wings

This is the great tri-motored Fokker biplane which is to be the major flying unit of Commander Richard E. Byrd's forthcoming aerial expedition to the South Pole, photoed upon its first test flight at the Teterboro Airport, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J. It was piloted by Floyd Bennett (left) and Bernt Balchen, Byrd's flying comrades.

BOY ARRESTED AS BANDITS' AIDE

BARRY MILLER NOW GOVERNOR

Moody Conference on Cotton Opens Today in Jackson

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Governor Dan Moody of Texas, who called a cotton acreage reduction conference of southern states, under way here today, was elected permanent chairman of the conference by acclamation.

In his address to the convention, the Texas governor declared the purpose was to deal with a problem affecting 90 per cent of the world's population—to secure for the farmer a return on his crop that is more than the cost of production.

DALLAS, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The Dallas cotton Exchange today sent a telegram to governor Dan Moody of Texas and chief executives of other southern states, in a cotton-acreage reduction conference at Jackson, Miss., urging that the meeting to take all possible steps to have William Jardine, secretary of agriculture, ousted from office.

The telegram declared that "the various statements of Mr. Jardine have cost the producer of cotton hundreds of millions of dollars. We believe Mr. Jardine acted beyond any authority vested in him and warrants immediate dismissal from the influential position he holds, and we earnestly urge you to use every effort to bring this about."

AUSTIN, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Lieut.-Gov. Barry Miller became Acting Governor Monday and will continue to serve until Governor Moody returns from the south-wide acreage reduction conference at Jackson, Miss.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A resolution to control cotton production through state legislation was among proposals advanced here today at the conference of cotton growing states and their representatives on means for decreasing production and insuring the grower a fair return on his investment.

W. B. Roberts, state senator from Bolivar county, Mississippi, who delivered the keynote speech in advancing the proposal for state legislation to govern cotton production without suggesting limitations for crops, declared such a measure a radical one to remedy a radical situation.

"Enactment of such a law by the legislatures of cotton growing states and its enforcement would mean the salvation of the cotton farmer," Senator Robert said. "Too many fruitless resolutions urging reduction of cotton acreage have been adopted and it is now time to take a decisive stand if the cotton grower is to be saved from his own mistakes. Resolutions will not help, but drastic measures, if enforced, will, and it is the duty of responsible state officials to see that such action is taken."

Ten Thousand See That Frog Rip

EASTLAND, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Rip Van Winkle of the toad family, the horned frog, that was walled up in the corner stone of the Eastland county court house for 31 years, sans food, water or air, was alive this morning.

More than 10,000 persons from all parts of this county, yesterday viewed the frog which is on display in the window of a drug store. Aside from being slightly emaciated in a front leg the frog was in normal condition. When the corner stone was broken open Saturday the frog appeared to be dead, except there was slight signs of its breathing. Its mouth was sealed by a film and its eyes were closed. Today the frog appears normal, although it has not been seen to take nourishment. The frog is a typical West Texas specimen.

The frog will be kept in confinement as long as it lives, county officials said.

COURT IN SESSION

The 84th District court is in session at LeFors today with Judge Newton P. Willis presiding. The first case to be tried is that of Todd vs. the City of Pampa, the result of an accident when Mickey Todd was killed.

The prosecution is being represented by Judge Ben S. Baldwin and W. M. Lewright, while Charles C. Cook is representing the city. The jury was being picked at press time.

Judge Willis addressed the grand jury for an hour and a half this morning following before they went into session.

Famous Million-Dollar Tooth Turns Out to Be Molar of Common Peccary

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A much-patched "million dollar tooth," once hailed by the American Museum of Natural History as proof that a forerunner of man lived in Nebraska, has now been identified by the museum as the molar of an extinct species of wild pig.

The retraction has been made by Professor William K. Gregory of the museum after discovery of several similar teeth in the same locality in association with the remains of a prosthennope or extinct peccary.

The tooth was found in a riverbed in 1922 by Harold J. Cook, a Nebraska geologist. It was subjected to every test known, the February, 1925, bulletin of the museum said, and "every suggestion made by scientific skeptics was weighed and found wanting."

The tooth which often was thrown up to William Jennings Bryan in the course of the evolution controversy because it came from his home state, got its name "million dollar tooth," from an accident in the laboratory

Officers Believe He Aided Robbery of Bessie Bank

Curtis Simpson, 14 years old, was arrested here last night by Deputy Jim Wallace of Cordell, Okla., and local deputies on a warrant connecting him with the robbery of the Bessie, Okla., State bank Jan. 24, when Ben Kiehm, cashier of the bank, was shot to death. The bandits escaped with $1,000 in currency.

The boy has been living with his mother and step-father here for the past three weeks, coming from Odell, where he had been with his grandmother. The officers also have a warrant for the lad's father, Frank Simpson, wanted in connection with the Bessie bank robbery.

Following his arrest he waived extradition and left with Deputy Wallace yesterday afternoon.

Young Simpson, with another boy of Bessie with a car and after the robbery changed with the bandits decoying the posse with the Dodge sedan used in the robbery.

Before leaving he and his mother protested his innocence, but at the time she agreed to let him return on the assurance that he would be well treated.

Investigation of Dallas Bank Is Asked by Mayfield

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—An investigation of the administration of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas was proposed in a resolution introduced today by Senator Mayfield, Democrat, Texas.

Pampa Is Well Pictured in Film of Panhandle

P. I. Hoefler, independent moving picture director who has been here for the last week taking moving pictures of the city and points of interest in the surrounding territory, completed his work yesterday and will leave today for Denver to prepare his films for shipment to Hollywood.

The picture, a history of the Panhandle, will be shown at the Rex theatre in about six weeks, Mr. Hoefler stated, but by that time he will be on his way to British East Africa to film the greatest picture ever taken in the wilds.

Among the scenes taken in Pampa were the business section, schools, street scenes, and important buildings and views. The Bowers pool made an impressive picture from the hills above, while the gasoline plant in the breaks was the most picturesque Mr. Hoefler had ever seen. He also took views of the booster plant, tank farms, and loading racks.

Pampa, known as the Wheat City of the Plains, was shown from an agricultural view point, with its elevators and farming country. Probably one of the most interesting pictures taken was the Harley A. Talley herd of thoroughbred Hereford cattle, from Anxiety 4th by Prince Domino Jr., one of the best bulls in the state.

The chicken farm owned by I. W. Cole with its 500 white leghorns, was taken, and also the fine horses owned by W. M. Castleberry.

Policies, Not Men, Interest Reed, He Says at Dallas

DALLAS, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A campaign devoted to party interests rather than individual candidates was outlined in an interview with newspapermen here today by Senator Reed of Missouri, Democratic presidential candidate, upon his arrival to open a western speaking tour.

About the first question popped at the Missourian by Dallas newspapermen today was "what about Al Smith?"

"I am a good deal more interested in the principles of the Democratic party," he replied, "than in the candidacy of any man, including myself."

A committee of Texas Democrats wearing large buttons with the words "Reed is Right" welcomed the senator at the station and the morning hours developed the signs of campaign times.

Taken to a hotel on the front of which was a huge sign "Reed for President Headquarters," the Missourian was quickly surrounded by party leaders and newspapermen.

At noon Senator Reed was the guest of the bar association of the city and he had prepared some brief remarks on the subject of law. Tonight he makes the first of a dozen speeches planned for his western campaign.

Senator Reed's speech tonight will be broadcast by two Dallas radio stations, WRR and KRLD on a 660-metre wave length.

5 Flying Crosses for Achievement Are Announced Today

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Award of the distinguished flying cross to five outstanding aviators was announced today by the war department.

The men honored and their deeds follow:
Captain John A. MacReady, Dayton, Ohio, and Lieutenant Oakley G. Kelly, Portland, Oregon for the first transcontinental non-stop flight from New York to San Francisco, May 2-3, 1923.
Lieutenant Arthur C. Goebel, Los Angeles, for his non-stop flight from Oakland, Calif., to Honolulu, August 16-17, 1927.
Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, stationed at Salt Lake City, for his Dawn-to-Dusk flight, New York to San Francisco, June 23, 1924.
Captain Arthur C. Gray, a post-humous award, for his balloon flight in 1927, reaching a record height of 42,470 feet.

FIRE MEETING CALLED
Chief Ben White has called a special meeting of the members of the volunteer fire department for tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the fire hall. Important business will be discussed and a full attendance is requested.

State Physician Dies of Injuries Received in Collision

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Six persons were killed and nine injured in a series of accidents, cuttings and shooting affrays in and near Houston in the past 24 hours, according to a police survey.

Automobile accidents took the lives of Leroy Smith, 4; James Goodpasture, 3, and Robert M. Guinn, 62.

The accidental discharge of a shot gun was responsible for the death of Herman Krone, 25, Ethel Scott, Negro, died from knife wounds after a cutting affray, and Senie Frazier, negro, was clubbed to death in the negro section.

Of the injured on both lists, two were expected to die. Charles Terry, 28, fell in front of a moving tractor and was crushed badly. Hospital attendants said little hope was entertained for his recovery. E. J. Thompson, 75, who was struck on the highway near Pasadena by a hit and run driver was in a hospital with a fractured skull and was not expected to survive.

Injured Doctor Dies

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Dr. G. W. Whiteside, 45, an assistant physician at the State Tuberculosis sanitarium, died there today of injuries received Saturday in an automobile collision at Carlsbad, near the sanitarium. Five others injured in the collision are recovering.

Dr. Whiteside came to the state institution about a year ago from the Woodmen of the World hospital at San Antonio. Funeral arrangements are being withheld pending instructions from his wife and father, who live in Lavonia, Ga.

Col. Lindbergh Is Modern Pied Piper of Air Mail Today

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A flurry of airmail letters poured into postal stations and corner mail boxes today responding to the call for a modern Pied Piper. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, from all kinds of people came the red, white and blue missives in a last minute rush for the one day return of Col. Lindbergh to his old St. Louis-Springfield-Peoria-Chicago airmail route.

Meanwhile, Col. Lindbergh's plane, assigned for the flight, one of the regular airmail machines, and five others were at Lambert-St. Louis field ready to take on their cargoes. Postal men estimated the number of letters consigned to the flight would be close to 200,000. More than 100,000 pieces of mail had collected last night, and collections were to be continued almost to plane time.

The flight was scheduled to start at the regular airmail time, 4:15 p. m. It was expected the planes would reach Chicago at 7:15 p. m., after stopping at Springfield, and Peoria, Ill., to discharge and load cargoes of souvenir letters and regular mail.

Prominent Cotton Man Is Wounded by Business Rival

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Leroy Springs, millionaire textile manufacturer of Lancaster, S. C., and this city, was shot in the head in a drug store here today by Eldred Griffith, a cotton merchant. An old business feud is said to have been responsible.

Griffith was placed under arrest and taken to the county jail to await the filing of charges.

Mrs. A. Clarke was taken to the Pampa hospital yesterday in a serious condition.

TRAMP TEACHERS — We have known hundreds of tramps, and nearly all of them were teachers.

The average tenure of a teacher in a town is less than three years in the Western states. Teachers are not often thought of as an integral part of a community.

Aggressive teachers and editors of educational journals are trying to change these conditions. Some of the faults they point out will be discussed herein, and it is hoped that the readers will give them thoughtful attention.

Too much moving is a financial burden on the teacher, who has a relatively small salary and must spend his earnings for the higher training he must obtain from time to time. The communities which see their teachers go and come do not regard the profession as highly as they should, and the effect upon the pupils is bad. Teachers naturally cannot give themselves and their earnings wholeheartedly to a community from which they may expect to be severed on short notice.

The National Education association has outlined some principles which should govern employment and safeguard the child's inherent right to have a good teacher. Briefly, some of them are:

1. Definite tenure should be granted upon evidence of satisfactory preliminary training, successful experience, and professional growth, and continue from year to year until the board, upon recommendation of the superintendent, decides the teacher should be removed.

2. Tenure laws should be accompanied by proper legal restrictions governing teaching, certification, remuneration, and retirement allowances. Tenure should be dependent upon efficient service and especially on continued professional growth.

3. Indefinite tenure should be subject to probationary understandings for the first year or more, or until the ability of the teacher is clearly demonstrated. The right of dismissal should be in the hands of the appointing board. Dismissal should be prompt in case of misconduct, incompetence, insubordination, or neglect of duty.

In short, teachers wish more assurance of permanency in their positions if they make good. Moreover, the aim of a good school board is to build up a strong faculty, and this may best be done by keeping proven material and weeding out the inferior.

Communities are losing much by limiting the opportunities of their teachers—well educated, upright men and women—to take part in community life. The college towns are feeling the fine leadership of professors who are retained for a period of years. Other cities may do the same by dignifying the positions of their teachers with more permanency than has hitherto obtained.

A student lamp, made in 1843, has been presented to Yale. Colleges used to be regarded as places to study, you know.

Whither Are We Drifting?

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—There are few men in public life quite so dry as the Hon. Gifford Pinchot, recently governor of Pennsylvania.

Yet in Pinchot's magnificent library your correspondent observed a copy of the Agricultural Year Book for 1904. Pinchot has so many books—including a large number on agriculture—that one should not be surprised to find anything at all among them, but

Every congressional secretary on Capitol Hill knows the 1904 year book. It was in that year that the Department of Agriculture undertook to explain just how one should manufacture wines, brandies and champagnes. Demand for the volume still continues and congressmen get many requests for the information contained, which is why most offices have a copy on hand. One of the safest bets on earth is that that isn't why Pinchot keeps it. Incidentally, Pinchot, for all his uncompromising attitude on prohibition, probably has as many

"wet" friends who admire him for his other phases as anyone we can think of.

Scads of money are sometimes spent to win a senatorial toga, but no senator was ever seen to wear one of the things except in certain fool cartoons. There are, however, other privileges that go with the job. In the Capitol and at the Senate Office Building, when a senator enters an elevator the car goes to his floor regardless of who else may be inside or where who else may want to go.

An ordinary gent may be riding up to the fourth floor and if a senator gets on at the third he goes back down where he started. With enough senatorial traffic and enough bad luck, it is conceivable that an ordinary being might ride for half an hour in a Senate elevator without being able to get off at his floor.

Your correspondent takes this opportunity to make graceful acknowledgment to the few senators who waive this privilege and try not to ride anyone around needlessly. For instance, Senator Tyson, going from Senate floor to subway, the other day ordered a loaded elevator stopped at the main floor and asked if anyone wanted to get out there. Nearly everyone did.

To what is known as the president's room, just off the Senate lobby, the senators come to see newspapermen who send in to the floor asking to see them. A page bears the requests for audiences. The other day they had a new kid who didn't know one senator from another. The result was a procession of senators who came marching out to see reporters who wanted someone else. The regular page, heaven be thanked, is now back on the job.

TWINKLES

Folks, we must have this railroad. It will mean a lot to the future of the city, but the retarding effects of failure would be even more far-reaching.

It begins to look like oil greases not only the wheels of machinery, but political "machines" and about everything else pertaining to the public welfare.

About the greatest tragedy we can think of at this moment would be for the tower of Pisa to fall with no movie photographer around.

While we think of it, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink is coming to the Panhandle Music Festival and it will probably be our last time to hear her on a professional concert tour. Plains people should support the Festival, an effort eminently worthwhile.

BARBS

Senator Boomboom McWhorter isn't interested in the Boulder Dam bill. It's a fine opportunity to carry water on both shoulders, his critics declare, but they add that the senator is all wet now.

ITALY TO GIVE VOTES TO FATHERS OF 18 OR MORE, says a headline. They do have large families.

A sniper in New Jersey drove around in an automobile and shot at more than twenty people. Probably some Ford driver honked behind him in a traffic jam.

While a British impressario was directing an orchestra in this country, his suspenders broke. Probably for once in his life he wished he had specialized in the bass viol.

Two people were put on trial in Turkey on charges of spreading Christianity. You never hear of such trials in this country.

A couple of Canadians crossed the ice bridge in the gorge at Niagara Falls. If Americans had crossed it we could understand.

Stecher-Lewis Match Tonight to Be to Positive End

Championship Event to Draw Gate of $85,000

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20.—(A)—Before the roosters start crowing in the dawn of tomorrow, the world's heavyweight wrestling throne will have a legitimate occupant for the first time in seven years.

Ed "Strangler" Lewis and Joe Stecher, two of the foremost grapplers of the heavyweight division, each claiming the title, will wrestle to a finish here tonight to settle their dispute over the championship. The prospects are that the match will draw $85,500 to $90,000, a record "gate" for wrestling.

The bout will be staged in the coliseum, which has been used by Billy Sunday for revival meetings. When the Rev. Mr. Sunday's last prayer died away last night, a force of carpenters swarmed into the place to transform the building into an arena.

The match will be to a positive finish, with the winner getting two falls. There will be no time limit or other tricks of the wrestling game imposed. Harry S. Sharpe of St. Louis, a ring official of 25 years experience, will referee.

With three preliminary matches to precede them, Lewis and Stecher are scheduled to settle down to their task about 10 p. m. If the match lasts as long as most contests of major importance, the first rays of tomorrow's sun may be streaking through the windows before either register the required two falls.

They wrestled in Omaha in 1916 for five hours, without a winner being declared, and the bitterness smouldering between them since their last engagement has increased instead of abated. When they last met in New York in 1920, Lewis won the title from Stecher, in a one-fall match. Stecher says he was promised a return match, which Lewis declined to grant. This was responsible for the background of bitterness which makes tonight's match so important.

There has been little or no betting on the outcome of tonight's match, although Stecher, because of his frequent matches in St. Louis, has been installed a slight favorite. Neither will have a weight advantage. Lewis weighs about 226 pounds, while Stecher expects to scale about 225.

Norway's Athletes Repel Challenges in Winter Sports

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 20.—(A)—The rugged athletes of Norway have successfully defended their Olympic winter sports championship. The United States finished second and Sweden third.

On the final day of competition the American contingent won the bobsleigh finals yesterday. William Fiske landing first place and John Heaton second. The sleds hummed over the ice at a sixty-mile an hour clip.

Heaton registered the fastest descent in a glide down the chute with a time of one minute, 38 7-10 seconds which is only ten seconds behind the world's record for the track held by Martineau of England. The others in the bobsleigh event finished as follows: Third, Paul Killian of Germany; fourth, Garamajo of Argentina; fifth, Hope, Argentine; sixth, Ernest Lambert, Belgium.

In the figure skating championship for couples, the American team of Beatrix Loughran and Sherwin Badger placed fourth. The event was won by Mlle. Andree Joly and Pierre Brunet of France.

While the point scoring for teams of the various countries as practiced in the championships at Chamoni in 1924 was not adopted this year, on such a basis Norway would have received credit for 90 1-2 points; United States 50 1-2; Sweden 40; Finland 39 1-2; Austria 22; and Canada 13 1-2. The winter sports consisted of skating, skiing, bobsleigh events and hockey. The United States was not entered in hockey.

Boxing Fans Will See Amarillo Card

Many local boxing fans left early this afternoon for Amarillo to see the big card at the Municipal auditorium tonight, when Wildcat Monte and Eddie Murook meet in one main event and Kid Granite and Buddie Chambers battle in the other. The bout is being sponsored by the Tri-State Fairs association.

Others taking part in the card are Duff Stanley and Kid Vallareal, and probably Country Boy Lantz and Bobby Vincent for the semi-finals.

A DOUBLE HAZARD

Mr. P. G. Hanahan, of the Atlanta Athletic Club, is a square and determined-looking golfer, and his looks do not in any particular belie him. Mr. Hanahan took up the elusive game of golf at—well, call it forty-odd years of age. And in an astonishingly few seasons he became good enough to reach the finals of the Atlanta city championship with no less a personage than Perry Adair.

Mr. Hanahan gave Perry a hard battle, too, for more than half the match at East Lake, and while he ended as runner-up, he won the respect and admiration of a big gallery, and in particular he captured, and retained from this correspondent a genuine esteem based on a golfing incident that I shall always regard as nothing less than heroic.

Playing with his short, compact swing, Mr. Hanahan had held the famous Perry Adair on even terms all through the morning round of a 36-hole match, and the gallery for the afternoon round was hastily augmented by a number of fans who had heard that the "old man" was giving the great Perry a tremendous battle and had a good chance of beating him.

For the first few holes in the afternoon the chance remained, but it was fading. Perry, as game a golfer as ever stepped in a hobnailed shoe, was too good for the gallant old boy who took up the game when his sun was at the zenith. His steady, accurate game gradually began to beat down the man who had come up so far in so short a time. The erstwhile "boy wonder" of Dixie simply was too good for him.

But "P. G." stuck to his guns. He was still sticking to them at the long ninth hole, with a second shot—a brassie—across an arm of the lake. And in the gallery was Mr. Hanahan's family, including his wife and an off-tiny figure in rompers—the Hanahan youngster—and assumed a position in the most damaging place possible, some fifteen yards directly behind the ball and in line with the shot.

Intent upon the play, Hanahan, pere concentrated with all his power; wagspring of about four years, with his negro nurse.

Mr. Hanahan had outdriven Perry slightly from the tee and Perry had laced a perfect wood shot across the lake, up to his own shot with care and great deliberation.

On the hillside, the gallery held its composite breath. And out of the gallery, escaping his nurse, toddled a sled again; waggled yet again; looked at the green, some 250 yards away; waggled one more time; swung—and topped the ball cleanly and decisively into the lake.

Out of a sepulchral silence emerged a small, thin, and excessively penetrating voice:

"Oh, Daddy," it said, "it went right in the water!"

And P. G. Hanahan said:

"I know it, Son!"

And that was all he said, and he said it kindly, and gently.

Now, I maintain there are greater things in golf than championships.

Amarillo Entry in Western League Has Young Blood

AMARILLO, Feb. 20.—(A)—Starting the second year in Class A baseball with a new club president, Bob Ames, and a new manager, Sled Allen, who succeeded Ed Tracy and Joe Kelly, the Amarillo club has a healthy supply of veterans and a large recruit force with which to build the 1928 team.

Lacking only a pitcher as the time for spring training approaches, Allen believes his club will break into the first division this year to better the sixth place ranking of last fall.

Although Allen is shy managerial experience in organized baseball, he has a firm playing foundation which dates back to major league connections, and his success in handling semi-pro teams has instilled confidence in the local fans.

Last year Allen was with the Lubbock team. For years before that he worked behind the plate with Houston, Buffs, and at one time he belonged to the St. Louis Browns.

Likes Young Players

Allen is a firm believer in young blood to keep his team going, and has brought to Amarillo the innovation of keeping a pack of youngsters at hand that can be trained and gradually brought into shape to hold down player berths.

Stormy Davis, fiery heavy hitter of a number of leagues, was sold last year to Knoxville, and Anderson, a semi-pro last year, will replace him in the outer garden. The outfield will be completed with Gunther and Connelly, veterans, unless Seeds, released last year by the Oklahoma City Indians, gets into shape. Seeds tried out for the infield with the Indians, and showed some promise.

Swansboro again will cover the initial sack for Amarillo, with Nuffer the mainstay at second base. Fielder, veteran, will be back on third base.

Carroll at Short

Carroll, who came here in a trade with Omaha for Fred Newton, pitcher is expected to take charge of the short stop position, unless Wright, formerly of Reading, crowds him out of the regular lineup. Wright batted .258 in the International league his last season though he was idle last year.

The Texans' pitching staff will be led by Sanders, who won ten games and lost three in 23 starts last season. His hurling mates will include Morgan, Lyons, Joe Newton, all veterans, with Ponken and Stockton, semi-pro youngsters, trying out for positions.

The catching staff again will be headed by Jack Adams, supported by Mandino, veteran, and Price and Wiley youngsters.

Storti, pitcher, who plugged the third base gap at the end of last season, and Harding, outfield tryout, will complete the roster as utility men.

Amarillo will train at home this spring, passing up El Paso as a development ground. Three sets of exhibition games, with St. Paul, Omaha, and Wichita Falls, have been booked for the conditioning series. Texas Park is being painted and a grass field is promised before the curtain is rung up on the season in April.

Kopecky Makes Guarantee to Meet Hays Here Tonight

Joe Kopecky, king of the maulers, is certain to meet Cyclone Hays at the Pampa Athletic club tonight, because he has posted a forfeit to appear.

The two were supposed to meet last Wednesday night but on account of Kopecky getting stalled in the mud the match was postponed. In a statement to the News, Hays states that Kopecky got stuck in the mud so that the two wouldn't have to meet but the Bohemian says he is going to prove tonight that he is not afraid of Hays or any other man in his class.

The Bohemian Mauler further states that he is going to get rid of Hays in a few minutes, but the wise birds think it is going to be a different story.

A good preliminary by local boys will head the card.

McGraw Defends His Trades—Wants Wins in the Early Months

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(A)—John McGraw has arrived at the Giants camp at Hot Springs, Ark., and promptly defended the trades which sent Rogers Hornsby to the Braves and Burleigh Grimes to the Pirates.

He said the youngsters received in the deal for Hornsby, catcher Frank Hogan and outfielder Jim Welsh, were very promising. But the Giants' manager was very reticent in regards to why the Rajah was let go.

As to the swap which brought Civ Aldridge from Pittsburgh in exchange for Grimes, McGraw said that he wanted a hurler to win games in April and May. Grimes did not get started until late last season.

Travis Jackson is expected at the training quarters shortly. McGraw said Jackson could have the capability if he so desired, filling the position created by the transfer of Hornsby.

Horse Shoe Tossers Open Tourney Today

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 20.—(A)—Some three dozen of the country's most talented tossers are here to seek the honors now held by C. C. Davis, of Columbus, O., defending his title as champion in the National Horse Shoe tournament beginning today.

While Davis' incumbent installs him as favorite, there are many who look for a Herculean battle from Jimmy Risk, Indiana school boy, who threatens along with a troupe in which Butt Mossman, former champion, Frank Jackson, first champion in 1909 and others are potential winners.

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case in the apartment of the murdered woman had been hidden in a closet after a little battering with a poker. This leads Vance to the theory that Skell did not commit the murder, but was hidden in the closet while the stranger did his work. Vance traces a picture to Mrs. La Fosse, who informs him Mannix was with her the evening of the murder. Cleaver also has an alibi, but Vance shatters this. Spotswoode, who had gone out with the girl the evening she was murdered, asks to be allowed to visit her apartment again.

CHAPTER XXX

"I think it's easily understandable, don't you know," remarked Vance, with a sympathy I had rarely seen him manifest. "Your attitude needs no apology. History and fable are filled with the same situation, and the protagonists have always exhibited sentiments similar to yours. Your most famous prototype, of course, was Odysseus on the citron-scented isle of Ogygia with the fascinating Calypso. The soft arms of sirens, have gone snaking round men's necks ever since the red-haired Lilith worked her devastating wiles on the impressionable Adam. We're all sons of that racy old boy."

Spotswoode smiled.

"You at least give me an historic background," he said. Then he turned to Markham. "What will become of Miss Odell's possessions—her furniture and so forth?"

"Sergeant Heath heard from an aunt of hers in Seattle," Markham told him. "She's on her way to New York. I believe, to take over what there is of the estate."

"And everything will be kept intact until then?"

"Probably longer, unless something unexpected happens. Anyway, until then."

"There are one or two little trinkets I'd like to keep," Spotswoode confessed, a bit shamefacedly, I thought.

After a few more minutes of desultory talk he rose, and, pleading an engagement, bade us good afternoon.

"I hope I can keep his name clear of the case," said Markham, when he had gone.

"Yes; his situation is not an enviable one," occurred Vance. "It's always sad to be found out. The moralist would set it down to retribution."

"In this instance chance was certainly on the side of righteousness. If he hadn't chosen Monday night for the Winter Garden, he might now be in the bosom of his family, with nothing more troublesome to bother him than a guilty conscience."

"It certainly looks that way," Vance glanced at his watch. "And your mention of the Winter Garden reminds me. Do you mind if we dine early? Frivolity beckons me tonight. I'm going to the 'Scandals.'"

We both looked at him as though he had taken leave of his senses.

"Don't be so horrified, my Markham. Why should I not indulge an impulse? . . . And, incidentally, I hope to have glad tidings for you by lunch-time tomorrow."

(Friday, September 14, noon)

Vance slept late the following day I had accompanied him to the "Scandals" the night before, utterly at a loss to understand his strange desire to attend a type of entertainment which I knew he detested. At noon he ordered his car, and instructed the chauffeur to drive to the Belafield Hotel.

"We are about to call again on the allusion Alys," he said. "I'd bring poses to lay at her shrine, but I fear dear Mannix might question her unduly about them."

Miss La Fosse received us with an air of crestfallen resentment.

"I might've known it!" She nodded her head with sneering perception. "I suppose you've come to tell me the cops found out about me without the slightest assistance from you." Her disdain was almost magnificent. "Did you bring 'em with you? . . . A swell guy you are!—But it's my own fault for being a damn fool."

Vance waited unmoved until she had finished her intemperate tirade. Then he bowed pleasantly.

"Really, you know, I merely dropped in to pay you my respects, and to tell you that the police have turned in their report of Miss Odell's acquaintances, and that your name was not mentioned in it. You seemed a little worried yesterday on that score, and it occurred to me I could set your mind wholly at ease."

The vigilance of her attitude relaxed.

"Is that straight? . . . My God! I don't know what would happen if Louey'd find out I'd been blabbing."

"I'm sure he won't find out, unless you choose to tell him. . . . Won't you be generous and ask me to sit down a moment?"

"Of course—I'm so sorry. I'm just having my coffee. Please join me." She rang for two extra services.

Vance had drunk two cups of coffee less than half an hour before, and I marveled at his enthusiasm for this atrocious hotel beverage.

"I was a belated spectator of the 'Scandals' last night," he remarked in a negligent, conversational tone. "I missed the revue earlier in the season—How is it you yourself were so late in seeing it?"

"I've been so busy," she confided. "I was rehearsing for 'A Pair of Queens'; but the production's been postponed. Louey couldn't get the theatre he wanted."

"Do you like revues?" asked Vance. "I should think they'd be more difficult for the principals than the ordinary musical comedy."

"They are," Miss La Fosse adopted a professional air. "And they're unsatisfactory. The individual is lost in them. There's no real scope for one's talent. They're breathless, if you know what I mean."

"I should imagine so." Vance sipped his coffee. "And yet, there were several numbers in the 'Scandals' that you could have done charmingly; they seemed particularly designed for you. I thought of you doing them, and—d'ye know?—the thought rather spoiled my enjoyment of the young lady who appeared in them."

"You flatter me, Mr. Vance. But really, I have a good voice. I've studied very hard. And I learned dancing with Professor Markoff."

"Indeed!" (I'm sure Vance had never heard the name before, but his exclamation seemed to imply that he regarded Professor Markoff as one of the world's most renowned ballet-masters.) "Then you certainly should have been starred in the 'Scandals.' The young lady I have in mind sang rather indifferently, and her dancing was most inadequate. Moreover, she was many degrees your inferior in personality and attractiveness. . . . Confess: didn't you have just a little desire last Monday night to be singing the 'Chinese Lullaby' song?"

"Oh, I don't know," Miss La Fosse carefully considered the suggestion. "They kept the lights awfully low; and I don't look so well in cerise. But the costumes were adorable, weren't they?"

"On you they certainly would have been adorable. . . . What color are you partial to?"

"I love the orchid shades," she told him enthusiastically; "though I don't look bad in turquoise blue. But an artist once told me I should always wear white. He wanted to paint my portrait, but the gentleman I was engaged to then didn't like him."

Vance regarded her appraisingly.

"I think your artist friend was right. And, you know, the St. Moritz scene in the 'Scandals' would have suited you perfectly. The little brunette who sang the snow song, all in white, was delightful; but really, now, she should have had golden hair. Dusky beauties belong to the southern climes. And she impressed me as lacking the sparks and vitality of a Swiss resort in mid-winter. You could have supplied those qualities admirably."

"Yes; I'd have liked that better than the Chinese number, I think. White fox is my favorite fur, too. But, even so, in a revue you're on in one number and off in another. When it's all over, you're forgotten." She sighed unhappily.

Vance set down his cup and looked at her with whimsically reproachful eyes. After a moment he said:

"My dear, why did you fib to me about the time Mr. Mannix returned to you last Monday night? It wasn't a bit nice of you."

"What do you mean!" Miss La Fosse exclaimed in frightened indignation, drawing herself up into an attitude of withering hauteur.

"You see," explained Vance, "the St. Moritz scene of the 'Scandals' doesn't go on until nearly eleven, and is close to the bill. So you couldn't possibly have seen it and also received Mr. day night?"

The girl flushed angrily.

"You're pretty slick, aren't you? You shoulda been a cop. . . . Well, what if I didn't get home till after the show? Any crime in that?"

"None whatever," answered Vance mildly. "Only a little breach of good faith in telling me you came home early." He bent forward earnestly. "I'm not here to make you trouble. On the contrary, I'd like to protect you from any distress or bother. You see, if the police go nosing round, they may run on to you. But if I'm able to give the district attorney accurate information about certain things connected with Monday night, there'll be no danger of the police being sent to look for you."

"Listen! I haven't got anything to hide, and neither has Louey. But if Louey asks me to say he's somewhere at half past ten, I'm going to say it—see. That's my idea of friendship. Louey had some good reason to ask it, too, or he wouldn't have done it."

"However, since you're so smart, and have accused me of playing unfair, I'm going to tell you that he didn't get in till after midnight. But if anybody else asks me about it, I'll see 'em in hell before I tell 'em anything but the half-past-ten story. Get that?"

Vance bowed.

"I get it; and I like you for it."

"But don't go away with the wrong idea," she hurried on, her eyes sparkling with fervor. "Louey may not have got here till after midnight, but if you think he knows anything about Margy's death, you're crazy. He was through with Margy a year ago. Why, he hardly knew she was on earth. And if any fool cop gets the notion in his head that Louey was mixed up in the affair, I'll alibi him—so help me God—if it's the last thing I do in this world."

Baker School Notes

The High First Grade pupils on the last leg of their world tour where they have learned how to make Palmolive soap. This week the pupils visited a big soap factory in Chicago and saw the finished soap being crated and labeled to be sent to all parts of the world.

The first grade featured a good time Tuesday afternoon with their valentine box.

Mrs. Cockerill's third grade have been very busy all week helping Saint Valentine. They have each made a valentine for Daddy and Mother in their seat work period. They are looking forward eagerly to the Valentine box and party.

The Second grade pupils of Miss Beeler's room are working on a silent reading project which has lately been purchased for that grade. They are deriving great benefit from this study as well as much pleasure. They are also working on some patriotic story booklets. They are enthusiastic about this work.

The fifth grade English classes wrote and sent letters to the English class at Lamar.

All the children are greatly excited about the valentine boxes in their rooms.

The school nurse weighed, measured, and examined the fifth grade students last Friday.

The fifth grade in Miss Talley's room had a lunch sale Wednesday. The proceeds which amounted to $9.14 were given to the P. T. A. of the Baker School. This sale was accomplished through the cooperation of the parents with the pupils.

The Baker P.-T. A. met Friday evening February 10, in the Baker school building. There was an excellent attendance of fathers and mothers.

After the business meeting a tall on Arbor Day and the need of trees for the school grounds was made by Mrs. V. E. Pathere.

The motion was made and carried that the Baker P. T. A. take the scholastic census of the district.

Famous Studebaker Car Here This Week

to-Los Angeles trip in 87 hours and 27 minutes, made in 1926. The fastest trans-continental train time is 96 hours and 20 minutes. This Floro, while not beating the record, took a Studebaker that had run the equivalent of eight times around the earth and beat the fastest train time by four hours. He encountered heavy rain and fog in the East and a 12-hour sandstorm between Albuquerque and Kingman, Ariz. He is now on his way to New York and probably will make another run September 1 in an effort to drive the 3,303 miles in 80 hours. Back in 1924 he drove the car from Los Angeles to New York, carrying his wife and daughter and 1,000 pounds of baggage, in nine days. Other trips include one in 1923, from Seattle to San Diego, 1,570 miles in three days, driving alone; 1926, South Bend, Ind., to Portland, Ore., 103 hours and 3 minutes; 1926, South Bend, Ind., to Jacksonville, Fla., 1,205 miles in 48 hours and 20 minutes over the Dixie highway, beating the best previous record by one hour and 22 minutes. The old Studebaker holds five official world's records. Mr. Floro is the guest this week of the local dealers, and during his stay will give free road information and advice to any asking it. He tells some interesting tales of the days when Henry Ford built his first car—the old 999—and when Barney Oldfield made the phenomenal speed of 42.3 miles per hour with the machine.

Miss Fern Hughey Is Hostess Saturday in Entertaining at Bridge

Miss Fern Hughey was hostess Saturday evening in entertaining a number of friends. The earlier hours of the evening were spent in playing bridge, with Miss Gertrude Cooke holding high score for the ladies. Ted Spencer received high score for the gentlemen. Both were presented with attractive prizes. Cut flowers were given as favors in carrying out a bright color scheme symbolic of the Spring season.

Dancing and music were enjoyed until a late hour. A delightful plate luncheon was served the following guests: Miss Gertrude Cooke, Miss Doris Hollingsworth, Miss Virginia Faulkner, Miss Leora May, Miss Claudine Epe, and Emory Witt, Ted Spencer, Guy Lynch, Carl McLynn, Frank Hill and Charlie Lovelace.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiskey Are Honored Saturday in McNamara Home

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hiskey were honored Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McNamara. Washington decorations, using a color scheme of red, white and blue, made an attractive setting for the bridge games that held the attentions of the guests during the evening.

High prize for the ladies went to Mrs. Paul Shepherd, while F. W. Byrd received high prize for the gentlemen. The honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Hiskey, were presented lovely gifts, and those winning high prizes in the bridge games in turn presented them to the guests of honor. A delicious plate luncheon, decorated with favors of tiny flags was served the following guests:

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Byrd, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Simmons, Miss Ruth Ann Mitchell, Mrs. A. B. Zahn, F. F. Kennedy, Martin Muench, and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hiskey.

Darlington Home Is Scene of Lovely Washington Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Darlington, Jr., in the Channing addition was the scene of a very attractive George Washington party Saturday evening. Mrs. Darlington and Mrs. H. W. Hickman were joint hostesses to six tables of bridge and a very enjoyable and interesting evening was spent over the tables.

Mrs. Darlington's lovely home was effusively decorated with flags and a red, white and blue color scheme used in the table appointments, with the motif also carried out in the delicious two-course supper served at the end of the evening, small silken flags being given each guest as favors.

Mrs. W. F. Clausing won high score for the ladies and Edwin Vicars for the men, consolation being awarded C. M. Bryson.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. DeLea Vicars; Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Walters; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Vicars; Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bryson; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Clausing; Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hampton; Mrs. T. K. Underwood; Mrs. John Wood; Mrs. W. P. Clark; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hughes; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marbaugh; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Humphrie, and Mr. H. W. Hickman.

Bit o' Verse

"THE LAST OF LIFE FOR WHICH THE FIRST WAS MADE"

What though the swift years fly, What though thou canst decry Yon in the east the shades of twilight gray?

Let pile each year on year— Old age can hold no fear For thee if death holds not the power to dismay.

From youth's present delight Enticing future bright In dazzling flight fast lures the years away:

At last the sun sinks low, And as the late hours go And golden afternoon for twilight slow gives away.

Oh age on looking back Along the swift run track May find a pleasure record made. He looks down on his vantage place Looks down upon the race And smiles to see how grimly the age-long game is played.

The scheme to win the race, The zest of strife for place Stirs him no more; unselfish friendships live

Live and twine around his breast, Old age by love is blest And loving gives and giving learns how blest to give.

In younger lives again He lives, has pleasures when His heart and brain are spent to dry the tears

Of younger hearts in pain. And, prove his efforts vain. He conquers grief by wisdom developed through the years.

By STROTHER HYNES.

"Old Broadgauge" Floro, professional driver, and Old Maude, his famous 1919 model Special Six Studebaker touring car, are now in Pampa, with the speedometer showing 216,380 miles. Floro is showing the car for the Thut-Saunders Motor company.

It was Old Maude which, emulating the modern "Commander," stepped across America in the fast time of 92 hours and 21 minutes, an average of more than 37 miles per hour for every hour of the time from the moment the car left New York until it arrived in front of the Los Angeles Examiner building. The car was more than eight years old and had 196,840 miles on its speedometer when it started the run. Floro was checked by the Western Union.

Modes of the Moment!

Stitched bands of self material are the only trimming Lucien Lejong puts on a pale blue jersey sport dress. The straight sleeves are cut in one with the blouse, which puffs out quite noticeably above the narrow buckled belt. The straight skirt is a wrap-around with a closing in the exact center. The square neck is softened by an attached scarf of the material.

Speed Crown Is Passed to Another Englishman Today

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The figurative laurel which signifies attainment of the highest speed at which an automobile has yet been driven had been lifted today from the brow of one Englishman to rest on that of another.

Captain Malcolm Campbell of London yesterday flung his huge Napier Blue Bird Special over the hard-packed sands of the beach here at the rate of 206.95602 miles per hour, eclipsing by more than three miles an hour the mark established on the same sands last year by Major H. O. D. Seagrave, likewise of England.

The new record for earthbound vehicles came while two others also awaited an opportunity to test their machines against time—Frank Lockhart of Indianapolis with a Stutz Blackhawk Special and J. M. White of Philadelphia with a 36-cylindered Triplex which had not yet been accorded official sanction for the try, because of mechanical discrepancies.

LeFors Boy Dies of Pneumonia Friday

Paul Palmer, 22 years old, of LeFors, was buried at Fairview cemetery yesterday afternoon following services at the Christian church. He was confined to his home last Monday suffering with a cold, which developed into pneumonia. He died Friday afternoon.

Coming here with his parents ten years ago from Ellis county, Okla., he was well known here. He worked on his father's farm two miles west of LeFors until a short time ago, when he became connected with the Wilcox Oil and Gas company.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Palmer, he leaves three sisters and two brothers.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. James Todd, Jr.

Malone Buys Much Stock for Stores

G. C. Malone, of the Malone Furniture company, returned this morning from an extensive buying trip in Kansas City and Wichita. Mr. Malone reports the purchase of considerable house furnishings and floor coverings which will arrive soon.

He also visited the Kansas City Automobile show while there, and was much impressed with the display of cars and trucks.

"Why, it was nearly as good as the Pama Automobile show," Mr. Malone declared this morning.

Big Trials Start in Two Cities

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20.—(AP)—After both sides had announced ready a jury was being selected today in criminal court here to try Robert McKinley, 18, charged with the murder of his stepfather, William Lewis Holloway, on the night of August 5, 1927, near Mansfield.

The stepson claimed he shot Holloway to defend himself and his mother. She is a witness for McKinley.

EASTLAND, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Henry Helms, charged with robbery by firearms, December 23, of the First National bank of Cisco, was brought to trial here today in the auditorium of the city hall.

Although there was a special venire of 250 men on hand with the prospect that calling the list would consume most of the morning, a large crowd sifted into the building.

Foodstuff Shortage Is Acute Problem in Soviet Russia

MOSCOW, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Confronted by a shortage of foodstuffs and textiles, the authorities today were determined upon vigorous measures to remedy the situation.

Alexander Petrovitch Smyrnoff, commissar for agriculture, resigned because of failure to manage the grain storing campaign. The grain in storage fell 2,000,000 tons short of the previous year despite an increased harvest.

There has been a slight improvement in the grain situation. This is attributed in part to a visit of Joseph Stalin, iron man of Russia, to Siberia. While there he issued new instructions to officials with the intent of persuading the peasant farmers to send their grain to the markets. Butter, eggs and soap are also affected by the shortage, which recalls the days of a famine.

The commodities are scarce in government cooperative stores and bring exorbitant prices in private markets. In several instances the cooperatives have had to cease sales to the public in general being able to supply only a small ration to their members. Lack of supplies has forced other government stores to limit their sales.

Long lines of customers form and wait for hours to make limited purchases of necessities. Sometimes before all their needs have been fulfilled the stock has run out.

Part of Jewelry Taken in Trunk Exchange Is Found

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Finding of gold wrist watch bands valued at $150 near Handley gave impetus today to the hunt for three young men who it is believed switched trunks and robbed Joe Optican, New York jewelry salesman, of unmounted gems and jewelry valued at approximately $60,000. The trunks were switched somewhere between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth Friday night, or Saturday.

The jewelry yesterday was found by the small boy of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Webb at the side of the road near Handley, where it evidently had been thrown out of an automobile in which the thieves were riding. About $3,000 worth of jewelry and two jewel cases were recovered in a Dallas hotel Saturday. Two men who had registered in the room in which it was located failed to return.

NEW PHILIPPINE HEAD.

TOKYO, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Henry L. Stimson arrived here on board the President McKinley enroute to Manila to assume the governor-generalship of the Philippines. He called on Ambassador MacVegh and lunched with Premier Tanaka. Mr. Stimson declined to discuss his policies and plans for the Philippines. He left later for Manila.

Opposition to Bill for Flood Control Is Voiced

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The action of a group of sixty or more Republican and Democratic members of the House in organizing opposition to the flood control bill as reported recently by the House flood committee was laid before President Coolidge today by Representative Strong of Kansas, who was designated chairman of the unofficial organization.

Strong said chief objection to the bill was the provision to exempt local communities from hearing any part of the cost of flood control work.

The Kansas said he had been informed by the president that Major General Jadwin, chief of army engineers probably would bring forth a new proposal on behalf of Mr. Coolidge.

TREES GIVEN BLAME

CISCO, Feb. 20.—(AP)—H. T. Trees and his estranged wife "came to their deaths from pistol shots fired by Trees," was the verdict of Justice of the Peace J. A. Steele of Eastland, who held the inquest after the two bodies were found in a locked room here yesterday.

The door was broken down by officers summoned by the proprietor of the rooming house. Each had a bullet wound in the head.

Two Men Hurt as Derrick Burns

Raymond and O. A. Davis were seriously burned last night when the Phillips Petroleum company's No. 4 Davis in the northwest corner of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 88, block 3, caught fire, burning the derrick to the ground.

The two men were rushed to the Pampa hospital following the accident and are reported to be resting well today.

At the time the fire started the well was swabbing 350 barrels a day. The fire was put out by means of steam this morning and the derrick will be rebuilt immediately.

Sam Valentiné underwent an operation at the hospital this morning.

Mayor Walker to See New Orleans as Land Desired

ENROUTE TO NEW ORLEANS WITH MAYOR WALKER, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker was wondering today, as his private car was being carried through Georgia and into Alabama on its way to New Orleans and its Mardi Gras, if the next two days will bring fulfillment of a desire almost as old as is the New York Mayor himself.

Ever since he was a boy he has wanted to see New Orleans. Long ago he was told one must see three cities in the United States, New York, San Francisco and New Orleans. New York was easy and San Francisco came in due course, and now he is on his way to New Orleans with anticipation added to the expectation.

"I wish I could stay a week," said the mayor today, "but as we have only the two days we will have to see all we can in the time we have"

ANSON MAN APPOINTED INSURANCE COMMISSIONER

AUSTIN, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Governor Moody's appointment of W. S. Pope, Anson, as casualty insurance commissioner, succeeding G. N. Holton, whose term expired February 1, was announced Monday by the secretary of state.

Pope will take office March 1, under an agreement of those interested, Holton holding until that time, F. H. Dougherty, the governor's private secretary, said.
