Twinkles
Just when we're learning to take our football philosophically, the season ends.

School curriculums are cruel things, bringing the necessity of hard study just as the students have decided that sports is more important.

Life is hard, but Pampa's needy children should not be informed of the fact through having no Christmas tree. This column will accept contributions for a tree for the children of the less fortunate families.

Shopping early, we're beginning to doubt the wisdom of the habit—we have too much time left to think of other things we wish we had bought instead.

Musing of the moment: Our congratulations to the McLean Tigers. Pampan generally have a keen interest in the fortunes of the south county boys. Football has made Gray county one of Pampan's curiosity coaches are having many a session praising the Tigers.

Brevitorials
FRIDAY BRINGS Santa day, which next to Christmas is December's biggest offering. This year there will be no floats of the familiar kind, but instead the children will make up the major part of the parade. With their dolls, pets, and hobbies, the little tots will attract far more attention than would floats.

BASKETBALL IS with us again. And we renew our annual plea for interest in the players, even if the game is not as interesting as football. We mean that a football game is really interested in the boys as boys if he does not watch them in any other sport.

LIQUOR ELECTION ASKED FOR COUNTY

500 Kiddies To Parade Pets, Dolls, Hobbies Friday

TEACHERS ARE HELPING TOTS FIX EXHIBITS

A survey made yesterday of city and county schools indicated that more than 500 school children will take part in the Santa day parade, Friday afternoon. The parade in which children of ward schools will exhibit pets, dolls, hobbies, will be the premier attraction of Santa day here.

350 POUNDS OF CANDY WILL BE GIVEN CHILDREN

Santa day stock took a distinct boost after the survey. Previously it had been announced that 200 children would likely participate in the parade, but investigation revealed intense interest in the celebration—a celebration because the kiddies will be celebrating the arrival in Santa in town. He will come laden with 350 pounds of candy, and accompanied by colorfully dressed gnomes who will shower the kiddies with the sweets after the parade.

Likely as not Santa will ride in the airplane, mounted on a truck, which will bring him from the north pole. Teaching throughout the county are helping their pupils prepare for the parade. Nine prizes, totaling $38 will be given winners in the parade. First prize will be $10, second $7.50 and third prize, $5. Prizes of the same amount and ribbons will be given winners in the merchants window display contest.

Each teacher will march with her room in the parade. The children will march three abreast. Prizes will be given to winners in city school class, the county school class and the out-of-county school class. The prizes will be awarded to the teachers who will use the money for their rooms or for their pupils. It was announced today that all sorts of costumes will come under the term "hobby." Teachers may dress up some or all of their pupils in costumes to carry out a theme or a story. Hobbies will also include arts and crafts, such as miniature ships, planes, houses, or anything that a boy or girl might build, paint, draw, or play.

Poultry Show Plans Brewing

Pampa's annual poultry show will start taking form Thursday afternoon, when the committee will meet at 4 p. m. in the B. C. D. office.

UNKNOWN LAWYER DIES
SAN ANGELO, Dec. 3 (AP)—Efforts are being made here to locate relatives of John R. Haddley, about 70, who died at a local hospital yesterday, after entering there ill and dazed and unable to give any information about himself. Papers in a brief case indicated he had been admitted to the bar in Oklahoma in 1899 and that he has a daughter, Ann, apparently in Oklahoma, but telegrams sent her have been returned unanswered. Mr. Haddley had fallen, this bringing a facial injury from which blood poisoning developed.

TOM HICKMAN MAKES CHARGE AGAINST PHARES

FORT WORTH, Dec. 3 (AP)—Members of a committee of the Texas legislature, sent here to investigate the newly formed Texas department of Public Safety, were told today that L. G. Phares, acting director, had opposed combination of the highway patrol and the state ranger force and once had said he would try to "smother" the rangers.

FARM PRICES VS. CONSUMERS

It is good news to consumers that the AAA hog production program for 1936-37 will be 30 per cent above the current one. While consumers who study the problem wish the farmer to have fair remuneration for his work, the price of food on the tables must not be raised so high that the average working man cannot afford bacon.

Similarly, as the Panhandle begins to have good wheat prospects, sale of the grain is important just as the price is important. According to Consumers' Guide, a federal publication:

"Wheat prices in the United States are, however, considerably above an export basis and this situation is likely to continue during most or all of the 1935-36 season. The millable supplies of hard wheat this year are less than domestic requirements, which will make it necessary for some hard wheat to be imported. When the United States is on an import basis for wheat the price in this country must be maintained at a level higher than that of the important world markets in order to attract imports over the United States tariff. On the other hand when we export wheat from this country the price in the United States must be lower than prices in the world markets in order to cover the cost of transportation from the United States to the foreign markets.

"Net imports of milling wheat in the United States during the crop year 1935-36, it is expected, will be about 35 million bushels. This is about 6 per cent of our normal domestic needs. During July and August imports of wheat for human consumption amount to 1,760,000 bushels."

These paragraphs indicate that the domestic supplies have been carried a bit too fine as to control and a broadening of the base is very essential. Just as some shoe manufacturers export shoes and sell them for less in Europe than they do across the street from the factory—to keep the factory in motion and the payroll intact—so can the government afford to risk the necessity of forced export rather than forced import.

Federal estimates show that: "Supplies of beef cattle will continue relatively small for a long time. Total slaughter of cattle and calves in 1936 may even be smaller than in 1935. The quality of beef, however, is likely to improve. The slaughter supply in 1936 will include a larger proportion of grain-fed cattle and larger proportion of steers and a smaller proportion of cows, heifers and calves.

"Trend in cattle numbers during the next few years will doubtless be upward, with the greatest increases likely to occur in States west of the Mississippi river where the big drop occurred last year. The rate of increase in cattle supplies during the next few years will depend upon feed conditions, crop conditions, and on the level of cattle prices. Larger supplies of feed grains this year and higher cattle prices will tend to encourage the building up of herds.

"Average prices of beef cattle at the farm rose from $6.28 per 100 pounds on August 15 to $6.41 on September 15. A year ago on September 15 the price averaged $4.21. Most of the marked rise which occurred during this period was the result of the drought which greatly reduced supplies of beef in 1935. Although prices of beef cattle rose abruptly in 1935 the September 15 average farm price was still slightly below pre-war parity level."

Indiana Youth Owns 4-H Club Meat Champion

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (AP)—Gilman C. Stewart, 17, of Greensburg, Ind., was National 4-H club meat animal champion today by a decision of the national committee on boys and girls club work.

Stewart, the fifth successive Indiana boy to win the title, H. Clayton Fox, 18, of Imbler, Ore., the runner-up and Charles Vanderwork, 20, of Wakomus, Okla., third place winner, won college scholarships offered by Thomas E. Wilson, sponsor of this year's contest.

The Indiana champion has completed eight years in 4-H club work, using 178 swine, 23 sheep, 10 steers and 200 chicks on 52 acres. His international livestock exhibitions won 14 grand championships, 8 medals and 95 first and other awards, the cash premiums totaling $72. The total sales return of his products was $5,833.

Stewart, a graduate of Greensburg high school, entered Purdue university this fall.

Protestants Get Blow in Germany

BERLIN, Dec. 3 (AP)—Hans Kerl head of the national department of church affairs, dealt a deadly blow to the protestant confessional synod today by depriving it of all authoritative and administrative rights.

Kerl's action followed his application yesterday of a censorship on the congregational synod, preventing pastors from sending communications which have not been approved by him.

Bishop Martin Niemoeller, announcing he had been informed of the censorship, said the church was being placed in "absolute subjugation by the state."

Kerl had warned Nov. 28 that he would dissolve the confessional synod today if it did not cooperate with his church committee. The confessional group asked for eight days in which to answer Kerl's ultimatum.

OUT OUR WAY --- By WILLIAMS

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—It isn't quite true that all the government does is to boost prices, spend profligately, and take away your money in taxes.

Sometimes it carries on activities which actually save your money. Several agencies are engaged in that process to some degree, but if you want to send one of them a Christmas card you'd better address it to the Federal Trade Commission.

No one knows how many millions the FTC has saved us in electricity charges, but its mammoth investigation of public utilities—which has run into 81 volumes since 1929 and exposed no end of "power trust" iniquities—has furnished a plentiful supply of ammunition for the widespread campaign to drive down rates.

Lately it has investigated the textile, milk, and chain store industries and it now has taken up the food industries en masse with a view to finding out why food costs you as a consumer so much more than the farmer receives for it as a producer.

One could go on at length enumerating activities of the FTC which are in the consumer's interest—and if you're interested you might send for the commission's annual report.

For instance, in the last year it has received 439,253 radio advertising continuities for checking as to false and misleading advertising. But perhaps it would interest you most to know about the thousands of actions FTC has taken in cases of "unfair competition" or "unfair practices."

Thus, in the last two or three weeks, the commissions has published notices of actions against:

A maker of beauty preparations who claimed his product gave permanent beauty and was safe and harmless to use.

An aspirin company which claimed its produce was less toxic and more effective than any other aspirin.

A handkerchief manufacturer who mentholated his handkerchiefs and claimed they provided instant relief for colds and hay fever.

That's just a few on the list. Then we have:

A pants agency which claimed to have a pants factory of its own.

A perfume company which indicated its perfumes were made in Paris.

A novelty company which printed photographs of a big warehouse and office building which it said was its own.

A company offering a product as a remedy for athlete's foot, sinus trouble, neuralgia, chest congestion and various other diseases.

Correspondence schools implying they could get their pupils government jobs.

In each of these cases, and in hundreds more, the FTC insisted the claims were false. Add 'em all up and FTC saves a lot of people each year from spending money foolishly while at the same time saving business men from "unfair competition."

FTC also protects health by heading off companies selling quack remedies. Probably there isn't a disease known to man for which a fake cure claim hasn't been offered by someone on the long list of those whom the commission has made see the error of their ways.

Throng of 50,000 Greets FDR at Atlanta

This colorful throng of 50,000 assembled at Grant Field, Atlanta, Ga., for the "homecoming" of President Roosevelt, shown at the speaker's stand, with his back to the camera, heard him reply to opponents of his program and declare that the worst of the depression and the peak of federal appropriations had been passed. The celebration was arranged partly to show Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, outspoken foe of the New Deal, the strength of the president in his "adopted" state. The governor was not present at the meeting, leaving the city for his farm before the celebration began.

Why Amos 'n Andy Missed Broadcast

For the first time since they became stars, Amos 'n Andy, famous blackface radio comedians, missed a broadcast, recently. Here is their ally—Freeman Gosden (right) and Charles Correll, their creators, were prevented from reaching the studios when delayed on a hunting trip near Hancock, Md. And it looks as though there'd be plenty of wild turkey on the menus.

Fascist Legions Within Sight of Makale

In pictures rushed to America by Ray Rousseau, NEA Service staff cameraman, is recorded the historic capture of Makale, marking recovery of territory from which Italian forces were driven 40 years before by Ethiopia. Makale looms large as the victorious troops, scattered across the plain, approach it. At right, leading a motley column of followers, is Ras Gugas, perfidious son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie.

In Movie Race

A Drummer-Boy Goes to War

The drummer-boy, whose romantic role was overshadowed by the trench fighting of the World War, again comes into his own in the Ethiopian campaign. His drum lashed to a mule, the bearded drummer is shown on his way to the front, ready to rouse his comrade to fighting frenzy with his martial rhythms.

prosperity and success lie just around the corner for one of these charming young actresses. Helen Wood, Rita Cansino, and Dixie Dunbar, top to bottom, all on contract, are starting in a unique Hollywood race for a movie career, the girl making most progress in the next three months to receive a co-featured role early next year.

Kids Like Mary as Popcorn Lady

Playing the popcorn lady, Mary Pickford is shown as she helped give a day of joy to 56 crippled children from a Los Angeles hospital, carrying on the custom started by the late Will Rogers. The youngsters were taken to the Will Rogers polo field to watch a polo game, feast, and hear stories as told by the film notables.

Bankers' Head

Economy in Space

Built-in furniture, because of its nonportable nature, may be constructed with funds obtained from private financial institutions operating under the Federal Housing Administration's Modernization Credit Plan. Besides taking up a minimum of floor space, in keeping with modern simplicity in room furnishing, built-in beds, as illustrated above, provide sleeping accommodation for two when constructed in "double-decker" fashion. Such improvements may be carried out in bedrooms, remodeled attics, or basements, and the built-in bed fits itself admirably to a room carrying out the idea of a ship's cabin or a log cabin. A built-in bed, as illustrated here, is of great convenience in a boy's room when he has a chum spending the night, or a guest from out of town.

Brazilian Outlaw Marks Victims

The initials on this woman's face aren't worn as beauty marks. They were seared into her skin with a red-hot branding iron by the notorious Brazilian outlaw Jose Bahiano, who thus marks all his victims. He is one of the many bad men who raid communities in the outlying Brazilian provinces.

Too young to fight, having neither gold nor silver to give his country, a little Fascist is pictured contributing his treasured velocipede to Italy's battle against sanctions which cut it off from world supplies of war materials. The iron in the boy's velocipede was added to the scrap iron being collected in every hamlet to provide material for munitions.

KING MIDAS

Pampered Champion Off to Show

It's an aristocratic cow that's sheltered by an umbrella when she goes out for a walk and Northwood Winnie is all of that. She's a champion milking Shorthorn and, as befitting her rank, she was given the best of attention here by Miss Lorraine Kerr, as she was led to the Chicago stockyards amphitheater for the opening of the international livestock show, world's greatest event of its kind, attended by thousands. Three million dollars' worth of stock is on exhibition.

Swinging Field Guns Into Position to Shell Makale

"War is work", to paraphrase the sage General Sherman. If you don't believe it, ask these Italian artillerymen, who strain every muscle to swing their heavy field pieces into position for the bombardment that preceded the attack on Makale. Ray Rousseau, NEA Service staff cameraman, was the man who got this string-line picture.
